GOSSIP OF THE BRITISH CAPITAL

London Tailor's Opinion of the American Army

MAGNIFICENT LOT OF MEN

Experiments on Hereditary Cancer—One Hundred Thousand Mice Inoculated With the Disease.

New York, July 29.—In a special from London to-day the New York Herald has the following:—In twelve months from now the American army will be the best dressed body of men in the world. This statement was made by Geo. B. Winter, the London military tailor, who has just returned from America. His opinion of the American army is also complimentary.
"It contains," he says, "the pick of American manhood. The soldiers are hard as nails, a magnificent lot of athletes, capable of standing any amount of hardships. It was a pleasure to design clothes for them, particularly as those they were wearing were ill-fitting and uncomfortable and without gracefulness. In future, however, the American soldier will be the best dressed fighting man in the world. The cloth used is a great deal better than that in British uniforms."

The London tailor is very satirical about the American tailors. They make a lot of money inventing fad clothes, he says. The result, so far as the customer is concerned, is judicious.

"Young men of the smart set in New York are the most foolish looking brides I have ever seen. The smart youth wears, as a rule, a coat that might belong to a giant. As for the trousers, they only fit where they touch. They look as if they had been made in a hurry by the young man's women folk. Yet the American pays enormous prices for these awful clothes and imagines he is dressed like an Englishman."

As the result of the inoculation of 100,000 mice, scientists, it is said, are now able to produce at will in mice all the features of spontaneous cancer and to protect healthy mice from all the consequences of inoculating them with experimental cancer. This having been achieved, Dr. Bashford, who has conducted the experiments, adds that it is not too much to hope that further development of experimental study of cancer will yield results having direct bearing on the nature and treatment of the disease. After evacuated failures during the 30 years the imperial cancer research has been able to obtain offspring from mice suffering naturally from the disease, and in the near future it may in consequence be possible to conclude whether cancer in man is or is not hereditary. Sixty per cent of the spontaneous cancers which Dr. Bashford referred to had been got to grow in mice previously healthy, and in the view of scientists this points to the conclusion that all malignant growths are transplantable "protection." Experiments were so successful that whereas of a hundred ordinary mice ninety developed tumors after inoculation none of the protected animals developed the disease. At the same time Dr. Bashford added a note of warning in case the results might give rise to exaggerated expectations. It was not yet possible, he said, to arrest progress of experimental tumors, much less to effect a cure of the disease occurring naturally.

ATTACKED A MONASTERY.

Yekaterinolek, July 29.—While a train was passing the great monastery located near Bokaye by Alexandre III., firing and cries of help were heard. The train was stopped and a monk said the peasantry were attacking the monastery and that the monks were defending it. He had managed to escape to summon help.
He telegraphed the governor of Kharkov, asking that troops be sent to the monastery. The peasantry apparently have seized the telegraph lines.

RUSSIAN MUTINEERS SENTENCED.

Sebastopol, July 29.—A naval court mart passed sentence upon the seamen who were arrested for complicity in the mutiny of the Black Sea fleet of November, 1905. Four men were condemned to death, one to life servitude, 22 to varying terms of penal servitude and 50 to imprisonment. Six were acquitted. A man named Samenkoff, who was charged with complicity in the attempt with a bomb upon the life of General Neufeldt, at Sebastopol, May 27th, escaped from jail to-day.
He was assisted by a volunteer, who disappeared.

BIG TRAIN ROBBERY.

Warsaw, July 29.—The postal car robbed on the Warsaw-Vienna railroad, near this city, Saturday night, contained a package of $60,000 in cash from abroad and at least $10, 000 additional funds. The actual amount taken by the robbers can not as yet be definitely stated. The officers and the entire crew of the Volga steamer Kurjer, have been arrested on suspicion of placing the steamer at the disposal of the band that held up a train last Thursday.

EIGHT FISHERMEN VICTIMS OF THE SEA

Wreck of Two Fishing Schooners

A TERRIBLE DISASTER

Which Took Place on the Coast of New Jersey Yesterday.

Angelsea, N.J., July 29.—Two yachts coming in from the fishing banks capsized on Herford Inlet Bar off here to-day and so far as can be ascertained to-night eight persons lost their lives. There were 32 persons in one yacht, of whom seven were lost, and 12 of the other, all of whom but one were saved. That not more fell victims to the rough sea was due to the heroism of Capt. Henry S. Ludlam, of the Herford Inlet life saving station, and a crew of five men. The list of dead is as follows:—Bodies recovered, Frederick Fisher, 38, Philadelphia; Herbert Hammell, Landsdale, Pa.; Walter Strider, Philadelphia; John Fogarty, Haverford, Pa.; C. Starkey, Philadelphia; Jerry Donohue, Philadelphia; unknown man. Missing, Samuel Lodger, Woodbury, N.J. Angelsea is one of the favorite fishing places along the southern New Jersey coast.
Every excursion train from Philadelphia and other nearby points, came down crowded with visitors. The weather in the morning was ideal and all the fishing boats took out large crowds to the banks. In the afternoon, however, a brisk breeze sprung up and the captains of the smaller craft hoisted sail and started for home. Most of the fleet got in without mishap, although some of them had great difficulty in clearing the Herford Bar. The two that got into trouble were the sloop yacht Nora, with Captain Herbert Shivers, his mate and thirty passengers, and the sloop Alvin B., with a party of 12.
The Nora had gone to the fishing banks at Five Fathom Bank about 10 miles out to sea early in the day.
When the wind began to freshen Captain Shivers decided to make port.
As the sloop bowled along the wind was getting stiffer and the sea rougher. Captain Shivers, from long experience, knew how treacherous is the Herford bar and approached it with his usual caution. The sand obstruction is about a mile from shore.
Just as he was about to go over the bar a heavy squall struck the Nora and as the craft heeled over she was hit by a huge wave and turned completely, overthrowing the 32 occupants into the sea. As the yacht turned turtle there was a cry and then nearly all the victims disappeared beneath the water. The heavy sea, however, probably was responsible for the saving of most of the survivors, the waves uncovering the struggling victims who were caught in a tangle of fishing nets and sail.
After the survivors had hung to the yacht for nearly an hour, the life-boat commanded by Captain Henry S. Lud-lam, hove in sight. He was not a moment too soon, for as he came within a boat's length of the Nora four men weakened from exhaustion and let go their hold. Captain Lud-lam threw his boat around and the four half-drowned men were drawn out of the water. Though at the risks of their lives the rescuers went after the other men and pulled them into their boat. The rescue was most perilous as the rough sea was constantly pounding the life-boat against the keel of the yacht. A few minutes after the last man was taken from the wreck the sloop yacht, Violet, Captain Lilly, came up and the rescued were transferred to the shore. Captain Ludlam remained in the vicinity in the hope of finding the bodies of some of the victims but found none. All of the rescued were able to leave for their homes to-night. Shortly after the survivors of the Nora were brought ashore the Alvin B. was seen to capsize near where the Nora went over. There were several boats in the vicinity at the time and all but one person was saved. The Alvin B. was owned by E. L. Hallman, a lawyer of Pottsville, Pa. He and a party of friends were on board at the time.
One of the survivors to-night said that had it not been for the prompt assistance of Capt. Ludlam and his crew every person on board would probably have been drowned. Captain Ludlam is the hero of the five-mile beach to-night.

POLITICAL LABOR MOV.

Montreal, July 28.—Alphonse Verville, M.P., president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, conferred with local labor leaders and prominent members of the labor party all day Saturday, with reference to the political labor movement. The conference was held at the headquarters of the Montreal Labor Party, at St. Joseph's Hall. Mr. Verville told the press that the present political movement is the most extensive ever known in this country. He said it was the intention to make a very extensive and aggressive campaign. He declared that the movement is the result of the neglect of labor's interests by the local and federal governments of Canada. Mr. Verville will start the ball rolling at Quebec on Monday night. He will be assisted by Mr. N.
Arcand, of the Carpenters' Union.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Port Hope, Ont., July 29.—J. Mc-Mahon's launch, while on the way to Cobourg this afternoon with a party of eighteen aboard, got caught in a severe electric storm and put into Gull Light for shelter. Shortly after they had taken shelter within the light-house, a lightning bolt struck the tower, passing down through the floor to the second story, where the men were seated, striking "General" Welsh on the upper portion of the body, tearing the clothing off and passing down his right leg, severing the second and third toes. R. Mc-Mahon, Harry Jordan and a brother of Welsh's were also more or less injured by the shock and flying timbers.
McMahon's nose is split, Jordan has a severe wound on the temple and arm badly cut, and S. Welsh's heel is badly injured and will lose a portion of it.
The entire party felt the shock more or less severely and it was some little time before they could realize what had happened. At present "General" Welsh's condition is considered very serious. On the back of his leg appears the perfect brand of a tree.

INSANE MAN SHOOTS MOTHER

Shocking Tragedy Reported From Montreal

ANOTHER FATAL AFFRAY

Young Man Shoots a Companion Dead Near Huntingdon While Under the Influence of Liquor.

Montreal, July 29.—Michael Gagnon, 34 years of age, living with his mother and two sisters at 227 Papineau road, shot and killed his mother and then killed himself this morning at their home. Gagnon had been of unbalanced mind for a long while, but showed no evidence of violence until this morning, when in a drunken frenzy he committed his double crime.
Huntingdon, P.Q., July 29.—Saturday night at 10:30 o'clock a shooting affray took place at the little hamlet of Cazaville, 14 miles west of this village, in the parish of St. Apicet. It seems that some thirty farmers and laborers, mostly young fellows, had gathered in and about the hotel and the bar was busy. Among them was Ernest Lee, son of the late Patrick Lee, of Lee's Corners, and Jean B.
Leroi, or King, as he was commonly called, who had been working at Athelstan and came home to stay over Sunday with his parents, who live in a house on the corner of Dr.
Stewart's farm, about four miles from Cazaville. These two with a number of others were in the gallery in front of Delorme's hotel, when a slight disturbance arose. Lee, who had the insane habit of carrying a revolver, drew his weapon and after firing two shots diagonally across the road, turned and deliberately levelled it at the breast of Roi, who was within five feet of him, and fired, the bullet passing through the left side of Roi's heart. Roi immediately turned and went into the hotel, falling on his face in the passageway and dying three minutes afterwards. Lee then flourished his revolver, and threatening to shoot any one who dared to interfere with him, made his escape.
A warrant was at once issued by D.
Yass, J.P., of Cazaville, for the arrest of Ernest Lee on the charge of murder. At daylight Sunday morning, Dale Laurin, bailiff, went to Lee's home, where he found him in bed asleep, quite oblivious of the fact that any harm had been done.
He was placed under arrest and brought to Cazaville, where he will be held for examination. Coroner J.
R. Clouston, M.D., of Huntingdon, was at once notified, and went to the scene of the tragedy, and made all necessary arrangements for the inquest, which will be held Monday at 10 o'clock. Young Roi was 21 years of age. Lee was about the same age and heretofore bore a good character, being of a quiet inoffensive disposition. He comes of a good family and had it not been for the drink which has again made itself manifest would never have committed such a crime.
He spent Saturday afternoon in Huntingdon and ended the day at Caza-ville.

ASHORE IN MUD CHANNEL.

Montreal, July 29.—The ss. Nyassa, of the McLean-Kennedy Co., while outward bound to-day from this port, ran aground at Vercheres, some distance below Montreal, and is hard and fast, but it is believed the vessel will be got off without much damage.

RAILWAY SMASH.

Poughkeepsie, July 29.—A wreck occurred at what is known as Narts Siding. A train appeared to have plunged into a landslide, the engine and car going into the river. The engineer, fireman and baggage men are reported drowned and many passengers hurt. A second special train containing a second consignment of Poughkeepsie physicians, have gone to the scene.

A POSTMASTER DROWNED.

Ottawa, July 29.—Isaac Daoust, aged 35 years, Postmaster at Tetreauville, a suburb of Hull, was drowned at noon to-day while in bathing in the Ottawa river at Pine Point, near the Ottawa Golf Club links. He was not much of a swimmer, and having got out of his depth, his heart failed, he having been a victim of heart trouble.
The body was recovered in twenty minutes. He leaves a widow and four children.

ABOUT WATCH REPAIRING.

During Mr. Seifert's last visit to Europe he made careful enquiries among the Watch Manufacturers for a skilled Horologist and was fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Hoffiger, a native of Switzerland, an expert watchmaker, to take charge of our watch repair department.

Mr. Hoffiger comes highly recommended, and has credentials to prove that he is reliable, thoroughly trustworthy and exceptionally well qualified to fill the important position of foreman of horological work in our establishment.

Mr. Hoffiger has had charge of our watch and clock work since the early part of June, and the results are eminently satisfactory to our patrons. We would request our customers and the public to consult our specialist about any defects or troubles that they may experience with their clocks or watches, and we are confident that he will be found, courteous, obliging and thoroughly competent.

STICK BY THE HOME MARKET.

The head of the State of Missouri, Governor Folk, while zealously discharging the larger and more important duties of his onerous office does not disdain to consider the smaller ones, and has recently been favoring the public with his views on the relations which the retail dealer and the general public bear each to the other, and the respective obligations issuing therefrom. We should be rather surprised if a Lieutenant-Governor of a province thought that it came within the scope of his office to discourse on the propriety, and even desirability of every citizen making his purchases of goods in the market at home instead of doing so at outside shops, yet this is just what Governor Folk has done, and has done it well, backing up his appeal by strong arguments, one of the most conclusive of which is that if a town is good enough to live in and to make his money in, it is also good enough for a man to spend his money in.

That is a good general principle, which, we fancy, nobody will think it worth his while to attempt to controvert, and it may be applied more broadly than Governor Folk has seen fit to apply it; it covers the case of those who, for instance, send away for their goods to Simpson's or Eaton's, to Toronto, or Montreal, but it also covers the case of the local capitalists, who use their money, or part of it, in nourishing outside industries, and call on outsiders in their turn to start up businesses here, instead of doing it themselves; but this latter deviation from true economic principles is not so important, and does not so immediately concern the local prosperity, as the former; the retail-dealers are in fact the foundation on which the trade of town or city is built up, and where they do not prosper, the whole superstructure is more or less weakened. Of course, it is not contended that people should make no purchases outside of the local shops, but only that in the purchase of such things as are for sale in the home stores, the local merchants should have the patronage. It is true that in small towns and cities the merchants do not keep as large a variety of goods as may be found in more flourishing places, and their prices may be somewhat higher than elsewhere, but they would be able to keep a larger stock, and sell at a lower rate, if they could be assured of the patronage of the whole community in which they carry on their business, and if, as is often the case, the merchant in his endeavors to obviate these objections carries a larger and better stock, he becomes a loser thereby so long as the community persists in seeking to purchase in outside markets, and is compelled to relinquish the attempt, or go into bankruptcy. Thus the local trade is crippled in energy and resources, and the buyer abroad is enriching men whom he will never see, and helping to build up some city which does not return to him a cent of revenue.

The Watertown Times has some very opposite and forcible remarks on this topic. It says:—"The merchants are tax-payers, and they cannot readily escape paying their full share; they cannot hide their property. They help to support the schools and all the departments which are necessary for the protection and convenience of all citizens alike. They are entitled to the trade of those who are engaged in other employment, or business in the same town, as each is in a large degree dependent upon the others. The growth and prosperity of a town bring a benefit to everybody who lives in that town; certainly to every taxpayer. If all share in it, then all should contribute to it rather than to receive their portion of the benefit created by others minus that which they have contributed to some other town."

The Watertown Times then goes on to give some advice to the local merchants in their turn. "Of course, the home merchant should do his part. Besides keeping the right kind of goods he should, as Governor Folk said, apply the rule to himself and advertise in the home papers. Some merchants wonder why the mail order business takes so much trade away from them. One reason is that the mail order concerns expend more money and brains in advertising in his own local territory than that merchant does. They have not only a way of telling the prospective customer of what they have for sale, but of convincing him that it is a superior article and that the price is all right. They make it easy for the buyer; just as easy as it is possible to make a transaction by mail, but their advertising helps the buyer to determine what he wants. Many local merchants have learned that secret, and are using it to their profit."

AGE AND AESTHETICS.

At Columbus, Ohio, a woman went to jail rather than tell her age. "It is none of your business," she replied when asked by a lawyer in court the number of her summers, and even the Judge's order that she should solve the mystery was defied. To the male intellect there is something incomprehensible in this determined secrecy in respect to age. It is only a matter of figures. The Columbus woman was unmarried. This fact incites superficial male reasoners to say—"Oh, she conceals her age merely to appear younger than she is and thus get a husband." But such a conclusion only reveals the shallowness of the male intellect. Married women also refuse to tell their age, and widows and single women keep the secret till long after hopes of marriage have absolutely vanished. It isn't, in fact, the possible husband that is had in view. Man has nothing to do with it. Only his vanity and crude imagination could lead him to think so. The reason why women conceal their age is less gross and more esoteric. It is a matter of psychology.

A woman is no older than she looks. To question her age is to question her looks—which is an unpardonable affront. The resources of the toilet are infinite, and every woman can look young and therefore be young as long as she is willing to make the effort. When she ceases, if ever, to be willing to make the effort, then she tells her age freely, but not before. Her make-up is her own affair, and no judge, in Columbus or elsewhere, has the right to consider it. The question of a woman's age is, in fact, but part of the question of her dressing. Her problem is to please; not to say-deaf, all, be- holders—not men, as some suppose, but aesthetic experts of her own sex. Anthropologists will tell us that women dress to catch beaux, and Darwin gives long pages to prove that the pretty colors, stripes, spots and forms of animals originated in the superior luck of individuals endowed by chance with attractive variations. Selection of mates went by beauty, and pretty feathers made the pretty bird. But as respects human kind that play of evolution is obsolete. Among wild animals and primitive races it may still hold good, but everybody that knows anything knows that now-days in cultured communities women dress for other women, not for men.

Men are incapable of comprehending and appreciating the niceties and refinements of feminine dress. For whose adornment, for example, is the bride's train created? It is evidently and confessedly beyond the bridegroom's powers, and he ignores it—stupid thing that he is! Dress, in short, is a fine art which women pursue in and for itself, and the educated taste they bring to bear upon it lifts it above all other decorative arts. A pretty woman is an aesthetic whole, made up of various elements—balanced masses, fine textures, complementary tints and entrancing outlines, which, if successfully put together, captivate the eye and defy the critic. And beauty is always young. "Old" and "ugly" go together in aesthetics. Hence the outrageousness of the question put to the Columbus woman. The Court should have seen at a glance that she was pretty; that is to say, about 16. Youth, after all, is a mere convention; why insist on it? Some persons are never young and some are never old. If customary speech persistently associates the idea of beauty with youth, that is a fault of speech which the ladies are fast educating us to abandon.

PRESS OPINIONS.

NO SUDDEN REVOLUTION.—Each day makes it more probable that the great French publicist, Leroy-Beaulieu, was right when a few weeks ago he predicted, after a prolonged sojourn in Russia, that there would be "no sudden revolution" to add to the woes of that unhappy country. The most recent incident corroborative of this view is the address prepared and published by three moderate members of the Constitutional party in the late popular chamber of the Russian Parliament. They appeal to their fellow-countrymen to refrain from violence and prepare for the coming election of another Duma, as announced contemporaneously with the dissolution of the former one. They call attention to the fact that they were and are opposed to the policy of the Government on several questions, but also to the fact that the Emperor was acting within his legal and constitutional right in dissolving Parliament for the purpose of appealing to the people on the issue between him and the chamber he had called into existence.

On the other hand, the address issued by the majority of the members calls attention to the fact that the Nervous?

There are many causes of nervousness, but poor blood heads the list. The doctors call it anemia. The blood lacks red corpuscles. At your first opportunity, consult your doctor about taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Ask him if he has anything better for weakness, debility, nervousness. If he has, take it. If not, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Get well, that's what you are after. We have no secrets! We publish the formulae of all our medicines. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

very document which reserves to the Emperor the legal right to dissolve the Duma also confers on that chamber the right to criticize the "departmental, ministerial, and national budgets." The majority of the Duma had gone no further than this when it was dissolved. The implication of the constitutional provision is that the right to criticize involves the right to refuse, and eventually this will have to be conceded, but too much impatience would spoil all by giving the Czar's advisers more absolute control over his weak disposition.

Their purpose obviously is to so manipulate the next election that the outcome will be a chamber favorable to their views, and their hope is that they may be able to effect this by means of the army. Once more, therefore, it is evident that the troops hold the key of the political situation. If their fidelity to the Emperor remains virtually unshaken the autocracy may snatch a temporary and nominal victory at the polls; if it is true as affirmed by the revolutionists that the army is honeycombed with radicalism, then not merely the autocracy but the throne will be endangered. From this point of view the more protracted the struggle the more complete the popular victory is likely to be when it takes place. All humane observers will cherish the hope that the victory will be a bloodless one, and that the Government will have no cause to keep the troops long concentrated in a few great centres, more especially St. Petersburg and Moscow. As the Russian army changes entirely in its personnel every three years, or so, and as it is known beforehand who in each locality are to be called out for military training, it seems probable that the best strategy for the revolutionists to adopt will be to carry on their missionary propaganda among the recruits before they begin their period of service. Meanwhile the work of assassination goes on apace, and most of the assassins escape. This of itself argues that the existence of disaffection is not merely widespread but intense.—Toronto Globe.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.—Consult the record. The Intercolonial was supposed to be completed in 1876. For a few years there were huge deficits which seemed natural to a new road. Then in 1881 and 1882 the deficits got down to nominally $74,000 and $71,000 and though in addition a few hundred thousands were being spent "on capital account" the fond hope was entertained that soon the Intercolonial would pay. Well—in 1883 came a total deficit on current account and capital account combined of nearly two millions. By and by, deficits came down again, and anew fond hope was entertained. In 1893 deficit was announced as only $26,000 (although a couple of hundred thousand also went on "capital account") and in 1894, only $47,000. Rapidly these deficits increase, until in 1899 a million and a half is the figure; three millions and a half in 1900—and the awful figure of five and a half millions in 1902. Some of this went for purchase of additional railway from a certain Liberal politician, but as about four times as much was paid for that piece of road as it was worth, it fits exactly our moral.

Following this another shortage (or "capital account" blow in) of three millions in 1903 and two and a half millions in 1904, help explain the present rosy glow which the road wears in the eyes of Mr. Emmerson. So much money was slathered on the Intercolonial during these two years that it is no wonder the road is not soaking money in at present as fast as usual. The rest will be explained by a call for a few millions extra in about two years from now. Or at least, just after the next general election, Parliament will be informed that the money was needed and spent.

The Intercolonial year in year out will never get within an average of a million dollars a year of paying until it ceases to be run by cabinet ministers.—Ottawa Journal.

GRAND TUG OF WAR

Between the Exploring Steamer Arctic and the Tide of the St. Lawrence.

A large crowd assembled on the King's wharf on Saturday morning to witness the departure of the C. G. S. Arctic, Capt. J. E. Bernier, for a two years' cruise among the ice floes and bergs of Hudson Bay. Of course the man with a kodak was there, and the Arctic was "taken" from every conceivable point of view. Nine o'clock was the officially named hour for her departure, but it was fully an hour later when the last mooring rope was cast off and the Arctic left the wharf. The bystanders cheered the captain and crew as the ship's propeller began to move. Then commenced a veritable tug-of-war. The tide was running up and the Arctic was bound down. When she got clear of the dock she made a desperate effort to go through the water, but the tide also meant business and held her fast, occasionally forcing her back a bit. The steamer's propeller was revolving as hard as it could go, and after a space some headway was gained. Then the tide won a little. It was nearing high water, and the tide was losing some of its strength. This was the Arctic's chance, and her commander, skillful seaman as he is, took advantage of it. All steam was put on and as there was no wind, the famous Arctic forced her way inch by inch down to the mouth of the River St. Charles. Here, between two opposing currents, she was able to hold her own with some ease until the tide turned, when she steamed steadily away with the falling water and soon disappeared from view around the point at Indian Cove. Although the spectators did not think much of her steaming power, they could not but admire the pluck she displayed in fighting her way through the rising tide, although she went for only about a mile against it. While the contest between ship and tide was going on a Government despatch boat, in the shape of a harbor tug, was continuously going to and fro from the King's wharf to the exploring ship, no doubt carrying special instructions from the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa to Capt. Bernier with regard to stemming the tide.

NEGROES AS SOLDIERS

It can be safely said of most of the West African tribes recruited in the British service that they are a splendid body of men, who take fighting as they take their binchi (Hausa for food). In fact the only time they are ever known to really grumble is when provisions are hard to obtain. The ration allowance on service is one or two yams per diem, according to size. This dietary is, however, regulated by circumstances, and not infrequently they are left to their own resources to find food when it is not possible to obtain supplies at friendly villages. The native will never admit having eaten sufficient, and will, when questioned after a hearty meal, invariably place his hand on a hugely extended stomach, and, with a smile on his face, say, "Babu binchi" (No food).

The bases from which the expeditions are fitted out and start are at Sierra Leone, Accra, Axim, Gold Coast, with its military headquarters at Comassie; Lagos and northern Nigeria, with their respective bases at Lokoja and Calabar the whole comprising the West Frontier Force, under the Colonial Office, and officered by officers second from their respective regiments from all parts of the British Empire.

ACTIVE SERVICE KIT. The fitting up of an expedition is by no means such a long and difficult undertaking as the uninitiated would suppose, for the active service kit of the West African native soldier is by no means a large or luxurious one. It consists of:

1 blanket and cloth waterproof sheet is now often carried instead of one or both of the articles.)

1 khaki shirt.

1 pair of khaki knickers.

1 pair sandals.

1 pair puttees.

Rifle and bayonet, belt, haversack etc.

The officer himself is at the most allowed only seven carriers; the load that each carries may not exceed 50 pounds. This total of 350 pounds embraces, provisions for perhaps two months camp equipment, such as bed, bath, cooking utensils, etc., and does not permit as can be readily imagined, of the inclusion of any unnecessary articles. No more odd specifics can be imagined than to see a column of these fine swarthy negroes marching along in Indian file, as most of the paths are not broad enough for any other way, each carrying, in most cases, his rifle and perhaps a yam or two balanced on his head. It matters not whether the load is of sixty pounds or a box of matches, for preference he will carry it on his head.

Naturally, in a country such as this, where the rainy season is of such long duration, expeditions into the interior can only be undertaken between the months of December and May, which is the dry season.

TRIBES CHIEFLY ENLISTED.

So many tribes are recruited from it, would be too great a task to enumerate the various types fully. In northern Nigeria the Hausa is chiefly enlisted. He is a Mohammedan and is a born fighter. The battalion of Hausa is also mainly composed of Hausa, who have come down from Kano, Sokoto, Zaria and other up-country places. There is also the Fulani, who is though not so ardent a soldier as the Hausa, being usually engaged in cattle raising in features and color quite different from the Hausa.

The Yombi, who comes from the Lagos Hinterland, is inclined to be of a more cheerful disposition than the Hausa, and is a much cleaner soldier, enjoying when possible a daily wash, to which the Hausa, like most other natives, has usually no great affinity. Though it cannot be said that the Hausa is the very desirable qualification of remaining steady under fire, so that it is best when possible to operate with a mixed body of Hausa and Yombi. The maintenance of order and discipline is a difficult task with such bodies of men, and it needs one possessing a good temper, patience and tact at the head of affairs.

DOES NOT BEAR MALICE.

One strong point in favor of the West African soldier is that he does not bear malice for any punishment inflicted upon him. His confidence in the justice and impartiality of the Baturi (white man) is so strong as to obliterate any feelings of resentment. The usual answer given to the question, "Are you 'fit' to do" a certain thing, put to a soldier, is, "Supposin' you tell me make I go do so."

Taking into consideration the fact that the West African soldier receives the same pay as the British Imperial soldier, i. e., 1 shilling per diem, with 1 shilling per diem good conduct pay, and is really more generously treated in the way of pay, this lot is by no means a poor one, and he can support himself and his family on about 3 pence per diem. Nothing could better illustrate the unhealthiness of the climate in these parts as the granting of the Colonial Office of four months leave, not counting the voyage to and from, after every twelve months residential service put there on full pay, and is a hard matter to not remain in a place while over time. A medical examination is held and it costs entirely

A native employed on the Chautha-balai estate was returning one recent night from a shooting excursion, and saw what he thought was a jackal. He shot and wounded the animal, which made off into the jungle. Early the next morning, while proceeding for another shoot, the man suddenly came across a wounded tiger lying in a patch of jungle.

Presumably it was this beast, and not a jackal which had been hit the previous night. The tiger immediately made for the man, who had no time to reload his rifle. Finding no other way out of his difficulty, the man threw down his rifle and resolved to fight it out with the tiger. The tiger opened its jaws to seize the man, when the latter shaved his arm right into the tiger's mouth. With his disengaged arm he levelled blow after blow at the tiger with all his might, and at the same time yelled for help.

Hearing the man's cries, a Paniyan, who was on a neighboring hill, hurried down, and, taking in the situation, went and fetched an expert writer, Mr. Ladwin.

The latter came with a gun, but could do nothing for fear of hitting the native. However, the latter managed by a powerful effort to throw down the tiger, whereupon, Mr. Ladwin put in a shot. The shot was not fatal and the tiger made another rush at its victim, who was able this time to dodge away. Mr. Ladwin now fired again, and the tiger dropped dead. The wounded man was conveyed to the estate, where the hospital assistant in charge attended to him, and it is satisfactory to report that the man is progressing toward recovery, in spite of his wounds and his terrible experience.

ST. ANNE'S SHRINE RECENT TRAGEDY

Invaded Yesterday by Over Six Thousand Pilgrims.

Over six thousand pilgrims from all parts of the country, including over one thousand from Montreal, one thousand from the parish of Jacques Cartier, even hundred from St. Hyacinthe, and the balance from all parts of Canada and the United States invaded St. Anne de Beaupre yesterday to invoke the intercession of St. Anne for favors. The Basilica was crowded from early morning to the last mass celebrated at 9 o'clock, and the many priests in attendance were called upon to perform much increased labor. The Bishop of Savannah, Ga., who came all the way from his diocese to make a pilgrimage to the shrine, celebrated mass at 7 o'clock, and the number of visiting priests was so large, that masses were celebrated at all the altars in the various chapels for several hours. The sight was truly wonderful to witness, especially the order preserved in the overcrowded village by such a vast crowd that severely taxed the capabilities of the numerous boarding houses. The Q. R., L. & P. Co. handled the immense number with remarkable facility, which reflects great credit on the Superintendent, Mr.
Evegil, and his assistants in the employ of the company.

AUGUST FISHING FOR OUA-

SAILORS' SOCIAL.

Another of the cozy informal socials at the Sailors' Institute took place Saturday evening. Mr. Cottrell played a number of selections while the sailors from the various vessels in port were enjoying a feast of cake and lemonade. An elegant sufficiency having been established, an informal concert followed, a number of seamen enjoying their own and friends' favorite songs. "Oh Hear Me Gently Singing" by a man who never had sung in his life before, and who never could if he lived till the close of this or the next millennium, was a taking item. Mr.
Cottrell's genius was evident from the manner in which he accompanied this selection. "Miss Flannigan's Pudding Cake," by a sailor of the Manchester Engineer, was irresistibly comic. Two of the sailors signed the pledge during the Evening.

HERMAN HAD FUN

Gave the Occupants of Market Startling Surprises.

The following paragraph was clipped from the St. John's Globe:—The country market has a rather exciting visitor this morning, who broke the even-tenor of its way very effectively, and aroused a wide gamut of emotions in the breasts of those he encountered.
This was none other than Hermann the magician, who is now going his remarkable entertainments at the Opera House, who took occasion to stroll through the market aisles while the day's chaffering was at its height. His progress was attended by some startling surprises, and those who were involuntary participants in these did not always know how to take them.
A rubicund butcher was the first approached, and from his garments Hermann extracted a small fortune of silver coin whose presence had never been suspected. Several gentlemen who were never suspected for anything underhand were shown up most effectively by the magician, who pulled fine hands and even a whole deck of cards from the inside pockets of several.

A great crowd was attracted by the startling developments of the visitor, and Mr. Hermann finally found himself face to face with the authority in the person of market clerk in Dunham, who declared the wonder worker must pass on, on account of the crowd he was drawing. While the riddle was very questionable, Mr. Hermann gracefully yielded the point and left the building and its habitues to regain their usual balance as best they could. Hermann performs at the Auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday, and Wednesday Matinee.

A CANOEING MISHAP.

A young man had a narrow escape from drowning in Lake St. Joseph yesterday afternoon, and but for the prompt assistance rendered him might have met with a watery grave. While Mr. Ed. Poston was sailing his canoe on the lake, the craft was upset by the wind while he was coming out. He managed, however, to grasp hold of the overturned vessel. The mishap took place in the middle of the lake, and was witnessed from shore. As may be imagined, the occurrence created a great amount of excitement among those at the Lake who saw the occurrence. Mr. Fred Hill, who was among others who had seen the upset, promptly jumped into a boat and speedily made his way to the scene of the occurrence, where he managed to pick up young Poston and conveyed him safely to land. Other boats had in the meantime gone to the rescue, including the steam launch, but fortunately the energy and promptness of Mr. Hill had made their assistance unnecessary, as after a long and arduous row, he had managed to reach the spot in time to rescue the victim of the accident.

A Heavy Load to Carry.

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness and general ill-health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be properly digested, and its products assimilated by the system.
The blood is checked and poisons which come from this disordered digestion, and in turn the nerves are not fed on good, red blood, and we see symptoms of nervousness, sleeplessness and general breakdown. It is not head work, nor over physical exertion that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor, thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip, bronchitis and consumption. Fortify the body at once with Dr.
Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—a rare combination of native medicinal roots without a particle of alcohol or dangerous habit-forming drugs.

A little book of extracts, from prominent medical authorities extolling every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will be mailed free to any address on request by postal card or letter. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Many years of active practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many native roots as medicinal agents and he went to great expense, both in time and in money, to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both efficient and safe for tonic, alterative and rebuilding agents.

The enormous popularity of "Golden Medical Discovery" is due both to its scientific compounding and to the actual medicinal value of its ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle sold gives full assurance of its non-alcoholic character and removes all objection to the use of an unknown or secret remedy.
It is not a patent medicine nor a secret one either. This fact puts it in a class all by itself, bearing as it does upon every bottle wrapper The Badge of Honesty, in the full list of its ingredients.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures, weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver and biliousness, ulceration of stomach and bowels and all catarrhal affections no matter what parts or organs may be affected with it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original liver pill, first put up 20 years ago. They regulate and invigorate, stomach, liver and bowels. Much imitated but never equalled. Sugar-coated and easy to take at any time. One to three a dose.

THE BEST TEAM WON MONTREAL BEATEN

Shamrocks II Defeated Quebec on Q.A.A. Grounds Saturday.

Shamrock II. defeated Quebec on the Q.A.A. grounds on Saturday afternoon and well deserved their victory, for they played a better game all round than the locals and their work as a team was superior. The locals, however, did not go down without a desperate struggle and the visitors had their work cut out to win. The Shamrocks have a well-balanced team, every department being strong, and it will surprise a good many people if any of the other intermediate teams manage to beat them out for the championship.

The Quebec team played good lacrosse, but the home were up against it in the strong Shamrock defence. The latter held the attacking division out very effectively, forcing them to shoot almost always at long range, and when the locals did get in on the poles, Brennan proved himself amply able to take care of everything that came his way. The local home also developed a strange inclination to carry the ball away from the poles instead of toward them and this did not improve their chances of scoring. The Quebec defence worked hard, and that they held the fast scoring home of the Shamrocks down to five tallies speaks well for the effectiveness of their endeavors. Roberts and Hogan were a dangerous pair on the visitors' home, and Tracy was another man who took a lot of watching.

Shamrocks opened up the match by securing the first game, Roberts putting the ball into the net. They repeated the trick again later, and then Quebec came back and scored. Jeff Malone doing the trick. In the second quarter Quebec made a desperate effort to even the score, Jeff Malone Jack McCormack and Joe Power, who covered a great amount of territory, repeatedly brought the ball up to the home, but though Webster, Laliberte, Finet and Murphy shot repeatedly they could not find the nets. Finally Shamrocks got away with a rush and on a long shot scored. This was the only tally in the second period. In the third Shamrocks scored twice, Hennessy and Hogan doing the needful. In the fourth quarter Shamrocks with the score five to two in their favor, kept more or less on the defensive, but with an occasional dash on the Quebec poles. During one of these there was a shot which looked like a game for Shamrocks, but as the umpire did not put up his hand the game went on, and Quebec scored almost immediately afterwards, Jack McCormack doing the shooting. This ended the scoring, leaving the Shamrocks winners of the first game they had ever won in Quebec under the present intermediate series arrangement.

The game was a clean one, and the mishaps were few. Mike Murphy got a clip across the cheek early in the game, but continued to play. In a hot attack on the Quebec goals, Dave Power and Roberts came into collision, which put both to the bad for a short period. There were only two penalties for minor offences, both Shamrock men. The teams lined up as follows:

Quebec—Goal, Power; point, H. Copeman; cover-point, Early; defence field, Doyle, Metivier, J. Power; centre, Jeff Malone; home field, Jack McCormack, A. Laliberte, F. Webster; outside, L. Finet; inside, M. Murphy, Captain, C. Nolan.

Referee—Tom Potter, M.A.A.
Between the quarters there was a hundred yard race in heats between Dave Beland, of this city, and Picard, of Lorette, the former conceding the latter a start of five yards. Picard won the first heat and Beland the second and third.

The bulletin service by the C. P. R. Telegraph Co. of the games in progress elsewhere was a big feature and greatly appreciated. The service was prompt and accurate and was under the direct superintendence of Mr. F. J. Mahon, local manager of the C.P. R. Telegraph Co.

Levis Put it Over the Visitors Yesterday Afternoon.

The Montreal baseball team had a spoke put in its onward sweep of victory by Levis on the Q. A. A. grounds yesterday afternoon. The game was witnessed by a large crowd, and the defeat of the League leaders proved very popular. The game was a pretty close one, the Levis winning out by a score of 6 to 4 after a game, which, barring some doze fielding, which cost runs on either side, was an interesting one to watch.

Levis got one man as far as second in the first, but there was nothing doing afterward. In the Montreal half the visitors got on man home, but a neat double play Aubertin to Gervais to Martin, and a nice catch by Labrecque settled things. Both teams drew goose eggs in the next two innings, nice catches by Deschamps, White and Desrochers contributing to heading off run-getting. In the fourth Levis had things doing. With a man on first and second, Gervais hit the ball over the fence for a home run, accumulating three tallies. In Montreal's half, Rivers struck out. Aubertin missed a hot grass-cutter and Deschamps got to first, but was cut off at second by a pretty throw from Miron to Gervais. Another miss by Aubertin allowed Granary to get first, but sharp fielding settled the next man up. In the fifth, it was one-two-three for Levis. A neat catch by Cote in deep field, Labrecque to 1st and a very pretty catch by Desrocher retired the first three men up for Montreal, each of whom laid out the first ball given them. In the 6th Labrecque went to first, on a nice hit, Miron advancing him to second on a well placed hit, and a two-bagger by Aubertin brought in the two men. Montreal scored a man in this inning also, a wild pitch allowing Rivest to get a home run when he should have been out at first. There was again nothing doing in the next, a brilliant one-handed catch by Desrocher away out in deep field being a feature. There was scoring again in the 8th. The first man up for Levis—Aubertin drew a pass, a wild throw by Rivest spoiling a pretty double play and allowing Aubertin to come in. Gervais, going to first, was later caught stealing second. Champagne laced out a nice batter, but Cote died at the plate. In the Montreal half, Moore and White brought in runs. This ended the scoring, both sides getting blanks in the ninth.

The game was umpired by "Joe" Page, who kept things running smoothly and expeditiously. The score follows:

BRITISH BOWLERS WON.
Montreal, July 28.—The British bowlers played their first game this afternoon with Westmount. There were six rinks aside, each rink played 21 ends. From the very outset it was apparent that the local club would have to go "all they knew" to beat their opponents. The visitors, without exception, showed that they were thoroughly proficient exponents of the game, and gradually, but surely, the disparity in the aggregate scores increased in the British team's favor. It was after the second half of the contest had been commenced that the superiority of the visitors became unquestionable. The local men bowled well, but their antagonists bowled better and the result of the match was soon placed beyond doubt. The first rink to finish was Captain Fingland's side having achieved the victory by a margin of 25 points to 9. The other rinks quickly followed suit, the aggregate scores at the finish being in favor of the Britons by a majority of 36. They won 4 rinks (and lost 2).

SATURDAY'S GAMES

Home Teams in Senior League All Won Their Games.

Toronto, July 28.—The uncertainties of lacrosse were once again illustrated here to-day. Montreal, after playing hard and well for an hour, faded away in the last twenty minutes of their match with Tecumseh and lost by a score of 6 to 3 against them. During the eighty minutes' play they took and gave many hard knocks, but it is a long time ago since they have been so heartily abused as they were by the Tecumseh sympathizers during the last quarter of the match. They came to Toronto confident of victory. The inability of Dade to play at the last moment shook that confidence somewhat, but even then they hardly expected to have the score doubled against them. But when they left Hanlan's Island with the jeers of the crowd still ringing in their ears, they left with the avowed intention of retrieving the day's loss when the team would be intact again and of still landing the championship, if conscientious training can do it.

Fully 7,000 people witnessed the game. The teams:— Montreal.—Muir, Neville, Haynes, Strachan, McKerraw, Angus, Nolan, Finlayson, Wells, Hamilton, McLachlan, Seaton.
Tecumseh.—Clark, Pitcher, Davidson, Stewart, Graydon, Pickering, Rountree, Querrie, Merton, Whitehead, Durkin, Adams.

Officials.—Percy Quinn, Referee. (No judge of play).
Summary:—1st—Montreal, 4.30; Tecumseh, 6.10. 2nd—Tecumseh, 17.20; Montreal, 1.45; Tecumseh, 1.30; Montreal, 3.30. 3rd—Montreal, 16.55; 4th—Tecumseh, 11.15; Tecumseh, 4.

Cornwall, July 28.—In a match pronounced by all the experts as the best and most exciting seen on the Cornwall grounds for many years, the Cornwall defeated the Capitals of Ottawa to-day by the close score of 5 goals to 4, and thereby ascended another rung of the ladder leading to the championship of the National Lacrosse Union and possession of the Minto Cup. There was an attendance of about 4,000, and so great was the interest in the match that excursions came in from north, south, east and west. The Capitals brought with them about 750 from Ottawa, while the Emmett Lacrosse Club's excursion from Montreal brought over 250. Every town, village and hamlet in the surrounding country added their quota and, taken all in all, it was a great day for Cornwall. The locals had not only to play the twelve Capital men, but they had Assistant Referee Brennan against them. His rulings were certainly peculiar on several occasions, and for fully 12 minutes in the second quarter, the Cornwalls played 10 men to 12, as a result of his rulings. Cornwall, however, won this game and finished the quarter with the score 4 to 3, in their favor. The game throughout was lightning fast.

The teams:—
Cornwall.—Lalonde, Burns, D. Cameron, T. Cummins, W. Broderick, O. Degan, John White, McTeer, Smith, McMillan, J. Broderick, F. Degan, Capital.—Hutton, Eagan, Ralph, Pringle, Shea, Stairs, Ashfield, Butterworth, Eastwood, Allen, Gaul, E. Murphy.
Referee—F. Murphy. Judge of play, J. Brennan.

Summary:—1st—Capital, 2.00; Cornwall, 13.45. 2nd—Cornwall, 3.10; Capital, 30 secs.; Cornwall, 35 secs.; Cornwall, 6.25; Capital, 6.40. 3rd—Cornwall, 11.10; Capital, 20 secs. 4th—No score.

Montreal, July 28.—The Nationals won out Saturday, and they deserved to win. From the start they were in to win the game, and they kept their pace up with the result that they scared Toronto out of their boots. But it must be said to the credit of the visiting team that they were game to the end, and even when they saw they were beaten, they played the game to the end, and all the time played fine lacrosse. To begin with, Toronto after a few minutes' play, seemed as if they were afraid of their opponents. It is true that they went in pretty hard on the start, but it was at once noticed by followers of the game that the pace set could not be kept up. Nationals, who have secured the services of L'Heureux, "Eddie L'Heureux," the man who played and won many games for them, and who was thrown down a couple of years ago, was in the game Saturday, and it could easily be seen that the hearts of the Nationals, especially the defence, was restored by the appearance of the man they so much needed. He certainly made a change on the defence. The game was fast and, although National had the best of it throughout, the struggle was interesting. The final score was 8 to 4 in the Nationals favor. The teams:—

Nationals.—L'Heureux, Valois, Blanchard, Decarrie, Clement, Lachapelle, Lacours, Cattarinich, Pitre, Dulude, Lacomere, Laderoute.
Toronto.—Regan, Francis, Menary, Hamburg, Richardson, Lambe, McKenzie, Taylor, Carmichael, Lowe, Cameron, Kells.
Bowery Robertson, referee. Judge of play, J. R. Hill.
Montreal, July 28.—Playing against Sherbrooke to-day, Montreal beat the visitors by a score of four against two. Both teams were represented as below:

Montreal.—Pierce, Johnson, Thompson, Havrin, Kenna, Neville, Miller, Runn, McNew, Powers, Currie and Coenen. T. Browne, captain.
Sherbrooke.—Carroll, McGinnis, Labers, Dunmore, Southwood, McGuire, Povey, Parsons, Humphreys, Roques, Ross, Dillon, and O. McGuire, captain.

Railroaders Play Baseball at Outing on Saturday.

The annual field day of the mechanical department of the Quebec & Lake St. John Railway took place at St. Catherine's Grove on Saturday and was a very successful outing, some 300 being present. In the morning there were races for the children, but the star attraction was the baseball match in the afternoon between teams representing the mechanical and traffic departments. This was so hotly contested that it almost melted the rubber arms of some of the players. There were home runs, three base hits and two-baggers galore, and the winners were each presented with a pair of gold cuff links for covering so much ground. The umpire also came in for a share in this award. The score is appended:—

Scotch (Hard) Anthracite Coal ALL SIZES IN BAGS.
Thirty thousand tons received in St. John each year, and is claimed to be superior to all other Anthracite Coal. Here is what the St. John Public Hospital, says about it:
St. John N.B., August 7th, 1906.
"In accordance with the authority of the Commissioners of this Hospital, I have much pleasure in certifying as follows:
"The Hospital was heated with Scotch Anthracite Coal for the first time, during the winter season of 1904-5, and the result was so very satisfactory that the Commissioners have just recently given it the preference over all other kinds, and contracted for the entire supply required for next winter; viz., 350 tons.
"The Scotch Anthracite not only gives out great heat, but it produces very little ash, and no clinkers, and there is therefore, the least possible labor or trouble connected with burning it." (Signed) I. OLIVE THOMAS, Secretary.

Orders for this coal is now booked at reasonable price for next summer delivery.

PEOPLE IGNORANT OF WHAT GOES ON

French Press is Disinclined to Reveal True State of Affairs

DECLARES MR. BERGERON

Consequently There is Opportunity for Conservatives to Campaign Among the Rural Sections.

Montreal, July 28.—"I have, as you know, attended many sessions of the Canadian House of Commons, but I have never seen any other man obtain such a mastery of that body as the leader of the Conservative party. Mr. Borden made a truly wonderful session. He is universally respected for his sound judgment and great ability. In fact, the leader of the Opposition commands the House of Commons."

This was the summing up yesterday of Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, M.P., as he discussed at the Lafontaine Club the events of the past session.

The members for Beauharnois then referred to the strong desire expressed by Mr. Borden recently to see a campaign organized in the near future and especially in the province of Quebec, where, as the leader says, little platform work has been done since 1904.

Mr. Bergeron agrees with Mr. Borden and says that early in the fall steps will be taken to carry out the leader's wishes in this province.

"In no part of the Canadian Confederation," he added, "can such good platform work be accomplished as here in this French Province. This is a fact because there is at present a disinclination on the part of the large French dailies of this city to present matters in their true light as far as public affairs at Ottawa are concerned, hence the ignorance of a large section of our people as to the astounding manner in which the administration of the country is being carried on. There the fact remains that the rural sections of the province are particularly partial to public speaking, and the habitant will go miles to hear the question of the day discussed from the platform. I have, therefore, every hope that a great deal of good will be accomplished in this way before the next general election."

"What chances are there for a French newspaper in this district representing the Conservative side of public opinion."

"I have good reasons for believing," replied Mr. Bergeron, "that a vigorous organ of Conservative opinion will be established in this district long before the elections are called."

Mr. Bergeron is one of those who believe that the Laurier Government has lost prestige all over the country, and he by no means expects the province of Quebec. Sir Wilfrid, he believes, has adopted the policy of drift. If the ship rides the storm all right and if she founders it will also be all right.

The member for Beauharnois considers the appointment of Mr. Camille Piche, M.P., for St. Mary's, as judge of the Court of Sessions, that gentleman still holding his mandate as member of the House of Commons, as an act hitherto unheard of and one that merits the strongest censure.

Mr. Bergeron is thinking of spending the greater part of the month of August in visiting the provinces of Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. "I am ashamed to state," he said, "that I have not yet been west of Port Arthur."

WELSH SUPERSTITIONS.
One of the many curious superstitions of the Welsh peasantry is that of "Cron Annwn," or "the spirit hounds of the air." When a storm rages over the mountains of Wales the peasant will tell you that his ear can discern the howl of the Cron Annwn mingled with that of the wind, but authentically and distinct to admit of no mistake of what it is.
These "spirit hounds," he tells you, are the spectral dogs which hunt the souls of the dead, or the approaching death of some person of evil deeds. Few of those who pretend that they can so readily distinguish the city of the soul that have ever living to admit that they have ever actually seen a Cron Annwn, "for," they say, "I would never until such specters appeared upon the night!"
They are described by Falest and also in the "Mabinogion," where it is said that they are of a clear, scintillating white, with red ears. The above seems to be the universal description, and on that account the author of "Mythology of the Ancient Druids" gives it as his opinion that they are really "mystical transformations of dream-land priests, with their white robes and red tiaras."
In the popular superstitions of Ireland, where a similar belief in spectral hounds, exists, they are said to be "jet black," with eyes and teeth of fire." Old Con McMichael, who murdered twenty persons in the early part of the fifteenth century and who got rid of his victims by burning their bodies, is said to have been often by spectral dogs "that could be seen high in the air awfully howling and tearing his flesh."

THE NEW CONSTITUTION FOR THE TRANSVAAL COLONY

Kipling Writes a Poem About It—Dread of Boer Recrudescence—Government Plan Not Divulged.

SUBJECT OF A STRONG APPEAL IN LONDON

London, July 28.—The Transvaal progressive delegates now in England have issued an appeal to fellow colonists in other British Colonies.

The appeal calls this "the most critical moment in history, so far as South Africa as well as Great Britain is concerned. It has come after great loss of money, human life, disturbance of trade, industry and commerce, consequent upon the long war.
 Great Britain has more at stake now in the subcontinent than in the whole course of past history or at such a critical period as the retrocession of Transvaal in 1881."

Then we had not territory reaching from Zambesi to Table Bay. Orange Free State was an independent republic and our interests were more uncertain. To-day any peril to the permanence of British institutions in South Africa means the dismemberment of the Empire if through mistaken magnanimity on the part of the British Government the Transvaal should have Dutch administration and the Orange River Colony be given practical independence. The future of the flag and all that British civilization means would be the merest gamble. Every colony in the empire must be awaiting with intense anxiety the announcement which the Prime Minister will make next Tuesday in the House of Commons as to the details of the new constitution for responsible government to be given the Transvaal. There is reason for belief that the safeguards which the government will include in the constitution may not be sufficient to prevent the first representative and responsible administration in a country lately won by the sword from being controlled by the same ministers who acted for Kruger in one of the most reactionary administrations of modern times and who denied equal rights to white men.

"It is impossible to believe that any colony in the Empire would not insist so far as it could influence the British Government on making absolutely secure to the crown, our new colonies through administration in the hands of British men. The voice of the colonists now, even more than during the war, can assist in bringing about a decision on the part of this government in keeping with such liberal traditions as were included in Lord Durham's report which, while establishing equal rights in Canada, demanded British government.

A poem by Rudyard Kipling on the Government's haste to frame new constitutions for South African colonies by which Boer ascendancy may again be established in the Transvaal appears in to-day's Standard.

By the courtesy of the editor the Canadian Associated Press is permitted to quote it in full.

The shame of Majuba Hill Lies heavy on our line, But here is shame complete still,
 And England makes no sign.
 Unchallenged, in the market place,
 Of freedom chosen land,
 Our rulers pass our rule and race,
 Into the stranger's hand.

At a great price you loosed the yoke, 'Neath which our brethren lay, Your dead that perished ere 'twas broke,
 Are scarcely dust to-day.
 Think you ye freed them at that price?

Wake, or your toil is vain, Our rulers jugglingly devise,
 To sell them back again.

Back to the ancient bitterness, Ye ended once for all,
 Back to oppression none may guess,
 Who have put borne its thrall, Back to the slough of their despond, Helots anew, field fast,
 By England's seal upon the bond, As helots to the last.

What is their sin that they are made,
 Of rebellion lawful prey?
 This is their sin, that oft betrayed, They did not off betray, That to their hurt they kept their vows.

That for their faith they died:
 God help the children of our house, Whom England hath denied.

But we — what God shall turn our doom.

What blessing dare we claim,
 Who slay a nation in the womb,
 To crown a trickster's game;
 Who come before amazed mankind, Forsworn in party feud,
 And search the forms of law to bind Our blood to servitude?

Now, even now, before men learn How near we broke our trust, Now, even now, ere we return Dominion to the dust, Now, ere the gates of mercy close, Forever 'gainst the line That tells its sons to serve its foes, Will England make no sign?

The Standard offsets the poem by printing conspicuously its own information that the government's scheme which has not yet been divulged, secures a majority of British representatives in the proposed Transvaal Legislative Assembly.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Insane Man Murders Wife with Hatchet and Commits Suicide.

Halifax, N.S., July 28.—Bear River is in a great state of excitement over a terrible murder and suicide which occurred in that village this morning.

Edward Morine, who, it is thought, must have gone insane, went upstairs in his home at 5.30 this morning and murdered his wife, who was in bed, with a hatchet, by striking her on the head and striking her about the throat.

 A five or six-year-old son managed to get the hatchet away from his father.

The murderer then, cut his own throat, and, running to the river, jumped in and was drowned or died from the effects of his wounds.

The woman lived long enough to come downstairs and speak a few words to her mother-in-law, Mrs. John Moine.

Edward Morine, a brother of the deceased, saw him run to the river and immediately followed, but too late to save his life. Morine had had typhoid fever last winter, and it is thought it left him slightly mentally unbalanced.

The day before the tragedy he did a hard day's work, sawing wood and picking cherries, and probably could not sleep well during the night. He was about 45 years of age.

Morine had always been considered a respectable citizen. He was a member of the Salvation Army. Mrs.
 Freeman Hardspiker, of Digby, is a sister of the murdered woman.

Mrs. Morine was 40 years of age, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whitman Peck, of Bear River. She was a very handsome woman, was married at the age of 17 years, and was almost worshipped by her husband, who was always a very talkative person until he had typhoid fever.

GLIDDEN TOUR ENDS

Thirteen Tourists Finished Long Run with Clear Scores.

Bretton Woods, N.H., July 28.—The thirteen automobile tourists who today finished the 1,134 mile run through New York, Canada, Maine and New Hampshire, without penalties during the ten days' test over a great variety of roads for the second trophy offered by Chas. J. Glidden, of Lowell, Mass., probably will draw lots for the prize.

Sixty-three cars started from Buffalo on July 11, and made runs averaging about 130 miles a day, with three stops at Saratoga, Quebec and Rangleley. When the tourists left the latter place this morning for the final 135 mile run to this place, 14 had clean scores. No penalties were inflicted until the cars were within six miles of Bretton Woods, when Thos.
 Raekirk, of Buffalo, slipped a chain, and lost two minutes. There were two other accidents to cars which were not in the hunt for the trophy. At Dix-field, Me., a steam car owned by Walter White, of Cleveland, Ohio, caught fire, and was destroyed. A few minutes later the car of A. K.
 Grant, of Tarrytown, N.Y., ran into a ditch, and was drawn out later, disabled. It was thought that many of the cars would suffer while climbing Cherry Mountain, in Jefferson, near the finish, but fourteen accomplished the feat without penalty, the Kirk car having its accident some distance further on.

THE CLEAN SCORES.

The following finished with clean scores:—

P. S. Flinn, Pittsburgh; G. W. Davis, Buffalo; W. T. Wright, Springfield; W.
 C. Walker, Hartford; E. Keeler, Lansing, Mich.; Chas. B. Burman, Cleveland; Geo. Soules, Toledo; F. E.
 Wing, Boston; G. G. Buss, Buffalo; L.
 A. Petre, Cleveland; C. F. Barrett, Hartford; Percy Pierce, Buffalo; A. E.
 Hughes, Philadelphia.

For the Demming Trophy, C. W.
 Kelsey and A. A. Post will also have to draw, as both finished without penalties.

The participants in the Glidden tour, while weary from the long trip's almost continuous strain of flying up to the arduous conditions, were enthu-sastic over the run.

Bretton Woods, N.H., July 28.—C.
 W. Kelsey, of Tarrytown, N.Y., was to-day awarded the Deming trophy for the automobile tour of 1,100 miles, which ended last night. A. A. Post, of New York, who finished at the same time as Mr. Kelsey and who also had a clean score, resigned in favor of the Tarrytown automobilist. The chief trophy that offered by Chas. J. Glidden, of Lowell, Mass., the organizer and sponsor of the tour, has not yet been awarded. Guy Vaughan, a New York automobilist, narrowly escaped sudden death to-day, while driving his big car through the Crawford Notch.
 The car struck a big water bar in the road, bounded into the air, then turned turtle and landed on the rocks at the side of the road. The car was demolished. Mr. Vaughan escaped without serious injury. Forty-eight cars have been entered in the hill climbing contest, which begins at 8.30 to-morrow. The course will be to the Crawford House from a point about two miles below. Most of the Buffalo tourists spent to-day in looking backward over the rugged road and recounting the pleasant incidents and dangerous moments of the 1,100 mile run for the Glidden trophy of 1906.
 The run practically began in Chicago three weeks ago, from which city a dozen cars started over the well worn road along the lakes for Buffalo. As an incentive to the Chicago cars who wished to join the trip east of Buffalo a valuable trophy was offered by Paul Demming for the best work over the 1,600 miles, including the Glidden route. At Buffalo the Chicago cars found more than three score of automobiles waiting the start of the 1,100 mile run through New York, Canada, Maine and New Hampshire for the second trophy offered by Chas. J. Glidden, and at once the two bodies joined forces. Although two scores were kept each day by reason of the greater number of cars that started from Buffalo the run during the last 17 days was known as the Glidden tour.
 The party left Buffalo on the morning of July 12th, and finished here yesterday. At the conclusion of each day's run all the cars were turned over to the custody of the committee and night repairs permitted. Furniture had to be repaired, fuel replenished and screws tightened while on the road between the controls. The route of the tour included Auburn, New York, Montreal and Quebec, the Rangely Lake region of Maine and the White Mountains of New Hampshire. Thirteen contestants finished with clean records.

FIREBALL IN CHURCH.

As the congregation at Woakey church near Wells, England, one evening recently were singing the hymn, "Oh, what the joy and the glory must be," a fireball split the steeple in two, and passed through the roof. Explosions followed in the church, and the congregation panic-stricken, rushed to the doors. Several persons were slightly injured, and in response to an appeal by the vicar the congregation afterwards returned and offered special prayers for their marvelous escape.
 The congregation was a small one, owing to the inclemency of the weather.

There was no lightning conductor to the tower, which was 90 feet high, and the electrical discharge first struck the weather cock. Several gasping holes were made in the roof by the falling of blocks of freestone. Within the belfry the wire which connected the clock with the big bell was fused, and the reservoir of the para-fin lamp in the ringing loft was pierced, and the oil spread about the floor.

A huge block of freestone was prevented by a lead-covering and two pillars from crashing through the roof on to the heads of persons in the church.

A ball of fire travelled diagonally across the church. The small of sulphur was intense, and several ladies among the congregation fainted.

One lady states that she saw several small balls of fire "playing" quite close to her, and a male member of the congregation saw a ball of fire, after traversing the church, disappear through the south door. Three persons had their legs burnt.

to Bring Elementary Schools Before the Public.

The successful working of free institutions is so largely dependent upon the intelligence of the people that an efficient system of public schools is generally recognized as an essential feature of all self-governing communities.

It is of supreme importance to the position and influence of the minority in this province necessarily subject to special difficulties and disadvantages, that every family should have access to an efficient school for the education of its children.

The elementary school provides the education of the majority of the population, and it is evident, therefore, that these schools which are not only the most important, but which present the greatest difficulties, should receive first consideration in any plans for the improvement of our educational conditions.

As the work of these elementary schools not only concerns the entire population, but also forms the foundation of education, the systems of public schools which have been established in the cities and towns of the province provide excellent educational facilities which compare favorably with the systems of other cities on this continent.

Our graded academies and model schools in the new thickly settled sections of the province are doing good work.

But the rural elementary schools, which provide educational facilities for the farming population, are surrounded with difficulties and limitations which seriously impair their efficiency.

The recent discussion of the educational affairs of this province was not above criticism; but it has served to direct public attention to some of the more important problems presented by educational work among the minority in this province. One result of these discussions has been to develop in the minds of the more thoughtful members of the community, the firm conviction that while conscientious differences of opinion must be recognized, more controversy is to be discouraged, in order that all classes of the community may be stimulated to united action upon well considered plans for the improvement of rural schools. While the existing school laws and regulations of the province may be capable of improvement, it is confidently believed that if the existing provisions were more generally understood and more carefully observed, our educational conditions would be vastly improved.

With this object in view, a number of representative men who are thoroughly conversant with our present educational conditions, have held several informal conferences, and their deliberations have resulted in the formation of the undersigned committee, under whose auspices the following series of public meetings has been arranged, for the purpose of giving clear and full information concerning our existing educational system and the respective duties and responsibilities of those charged with its administration; and of discussing all phases of our educational work, with the special object of stimulating the interest of the rate-payers of our rural municipalities under whose direct control and management the rural elementary schools are organized and maintained.

ARRESTED A NURSEConstable Took Young Woman Who Was Seeking Lost Medal.

Montreal, July 29.—A respectable-looking young woman named Elizabeth Harrison, who had served as an army nurse during the South African war, figured in a remarkable case heard at the Recorder's Court on Saturday. She was charged with having loitered on Windsor street between one and two o'clock in the morning.

Her defence was that she had left friends some time previous, and while on the way home had discovered the loss of a medal awarded to her after the conclusion of the Boer war for her services as nurse on the field.

This medal she always wore at her breast and she took great pride in it. Alarmed at its disappearance, she turned and went back the road she came in the hope of finding it. While searching, a constable spoke to her. She told him about the loss of the medal, but he seemed to doubt the story and arrested her. The medal had not been recovered. The constable, in his evidence, stated that the prisoner told him the story of the medal, but it was such an unusual hour of the morning for a respectable woman to be wandering about that he had felt justified in placing the accused under arrest. Mr. Recorder Weir asked if anyone in court could testify as to the character of the young woman, and Constable Miller said that he knew her and a sister of hers—they were respectable people.

POISONED BY CANDYAlarming Discovery Which May Explain High Death Rate.

Montreal, July 29.—Thousands of little tots in Canada are being poisoned, according to several of the leading medical men of the city, by eating candy containing sulphurous acid. It appears that glucose, preserved in the acid, has been discovered, and, as a result, the nation's candy supply is being poisoned by this stuff, which is said to be manufactured in the United States. Just how many children have been killed by the stuff in all parts of the Dominion could not be ascertained from the Montreal food inspectors. It is understood that the attention of Dr. Laberge, medical health officer, is to be immediately called to this alarming state of affairs, and it is more than likely that a thorough investigation will be made. The matter is also to be reported to the Government officials at Ottawa. "Those who have made the discovery are emphatic in their statement that fully 70 per cent. of the children who are now in their last resting-place have been slowly poisoned to death by eating impure candy and drinking adulterated milk. The 'doctored' meats and extracts from the Chicago markets, it was stated, have also been systematically slaughtering the youth of this country."
