White wine still good bet for dieters

While scanning a magazine recently I was struck by a rather interesting advertisement. The company in question, was a well-known purveyor of white rum and the ad was aimed at that increasingly numerous mob of health-conscious Canadians who prefer jogging and quiche to idleness and red meat.

The claim was made, despite opinions to the contrary, that a drink composed of one and a half ounces of white rum and three and a half ounces of tonic contains fewer calories than a five ounce glass of dry white wine.

The obvious implication here is that calorie-conscious Canadians can have their cocktail and drink it too.

Advertising hype aside, the contention that white wine is not necessarily the best drink for the modern generation is an interesting one and obviously bears a little further scrutiny. And, as luck would have it, Grossman's Guide to Wines Beer and Spirits, a reasonably well accepted authority on the subject of alcohol in all its many forms, contains a breakdown of caloric values for alcoholic beverages.

Admittedly the figures are only approximations but such as they are, they appear to deny the advertisements claims. For instance.

A four ounce serving of dry white table wine contains 80 calories while a one and a half ounce serving of vodka, gin, whiskey etc. contains between 97 and 120 calories. If you add any mix other than soda water to the cocktail, as most individuals do, you also add calories.

Wine Bits

By TIMOTHY BELFORD

Thus, despite what our rum producing friends claim, drinking a cocktail, according to Grossman's, would increase caloric intake by anywhere from 20 to 30 per cent.

As a matter of fact, once again according to the scale, anyone watching their weight closely would almost be better off drinking beer since an eight-ounce glass contains approximately 100 calories. Ale drinkers however, take in an extra 20 calories for an equivalent glass.

Grossman's also puts lie to the myth that white wine is better for you than red since a four ounce glass of red wine contains only 72 calories. But vermouth drinkers beware. That half and half you consume prior to dinner contains 142 calories for each four ounce serving — and that doesn't include the slice of lemon.

For the diet conscious, liqueurs are completely off limits since Drambuie, Benedictine et al contain 150 to 180 calories a throw even if you disguise it by drowning the alcohol in coffee.

Conclusion. Don't believe everything you read in an advertisement. Cheers!

LA MIRADA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Cary Grant's humor and philosophy delighted an appreciative audience during an appearance at a shopping-mall theatre.

With 72 movies to his credit during his 81 years, Grant told an enthralled throng Friday his secret to longevity has been to "do everything in moderation — except making love."

He said he gets "a kick" out of his occasional appearances such as Friday night's one-man show at the 1,264-seat La Mirada Civic Theatre. He called them "ego fodder."

Sitting on a high wooden bar stool, Grant said he has a terrific relationship with his daughter Jennifer, by his fourth wife, Dyan Cannon.

Definitive issues and Irish stamps

To continue with the 1967 — 1973 definitive issue, you will recall that, with the increase in the postal rate from five cents to six cents, BABNC was awarded the contract of printing the first class rate. This is the manner in which they were produced.

6 cent orange, transportation, dex. gum, perf. 10 x 10 — Nov. 1, 1968

This brings to an end the first class rate low value portion of singles from sheets of one hundred.

The medium values of this issue, consisting of, the eight cent violet brown, Alaska Highway, 10 cent olive green, Jack Pine, 15 cent purple, Bylot Island, 20 cent blue, Quebec Ferry, and the 25 cent slate green, Solemn Land, were issued February 8th, 1967.

Produced by CBNC on plain paper, using dextrine gum and perforated 12 x 12, all except the eight cent Alaska Highway were also released tagged Winnipeg two bar on December 8th, 1969. In addition the eight cent was released printed on Hi Brite paper in July of 1971.

The high values, fifty cent orange, Summer stores and the one dollar carmine, Oilfield, were released on February 8th, 1967. Printed on plain paper using dextrine gum, perforated 12 x 12 and produced by CBNC. Both issues were also printed on Hi Brite paper in March of 1971 and, on Fluorescent paper using polyvinyl alcohol gum in December of

On February 8th 1967, coil stamps were released in the three, four and five cent denominations in rolls of five hundred, printed by CBNC and perforated 9½ horizontally. The six, seven and eight cent coils were issued in rolls of one hundred. These were also printed by CBNC and perforated ten horizontally. These last three denominations are all printed on Hi Brite paper. In addition, the six cent orange is printed on plain paper and, the eight cent slate is also printed on fluorescent paper using polyvinyl gum. It is also found general tagged.

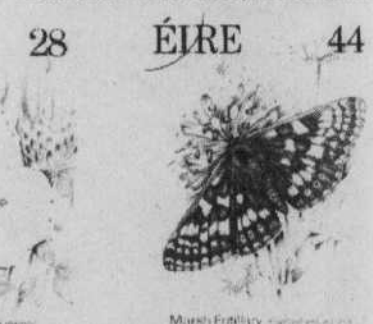

Why buying coils, try and buy in pairs. It improves the quality of your album.

This covers the very basics of this issue. If you thought by having one of each denomination completed the series, the above will show you otherwise. From time to time we'll be looking at different varieties and flaws.

mond, Que., J0B 2H0, or directly to the Record, care of the editor.

The Irish post office announced the release of the following four stamps on March 14, 1985 22p Dunsink Observatory, 200th anniversary of the founding of Dunsink observatory: 26p Cork 800, the 800th anniversary of the city's first charter: 37p Royal Irish Academy, 200th anniversary of the founding of the Royal Irish Academy: 44p First Flight by an Irishman, the 200th anniversary of the first aeronautic flight by an Irishman.

On April 11th, 1985 the Irish Post Office will issue four stamps depicting Irish Butterflies in the following denominations: 22p Common Blue, 26p Red Admiral, 28p Brimstone, 44p Marsh Fritillary.

All these stamps and more information are available by writing to the Controller, Philatelic Bureau, G.P.O., Dublin 1, Ireland.

Bishop's University art exhibit: A wide selection of styles, media

LENNOXVILLE (LL) — If the latest art gallery exhibit is any indication, there are a wide range of fresh ideas in the Bishop's University Fine Arts Department.

The more than 30 works on display at the Bishop's-Champlain Art Gallery make up the annual student-organized, student-featured show.

Both full and part-time students submitted works to a 3-person selection jury which in turn chose the best works to go into the exhibit.

"There is no theme to the show," says Jason MacCallum, jury member and fourth year fine arts student. "So we have a really wide range of styles and media."

MacCallum explained that he and jury members Michlyne Caoutte, Sherbrooke University professor, and Bishop's teacher and well-known artist and David Sorenson went through each piece and selected them on "individual merit."

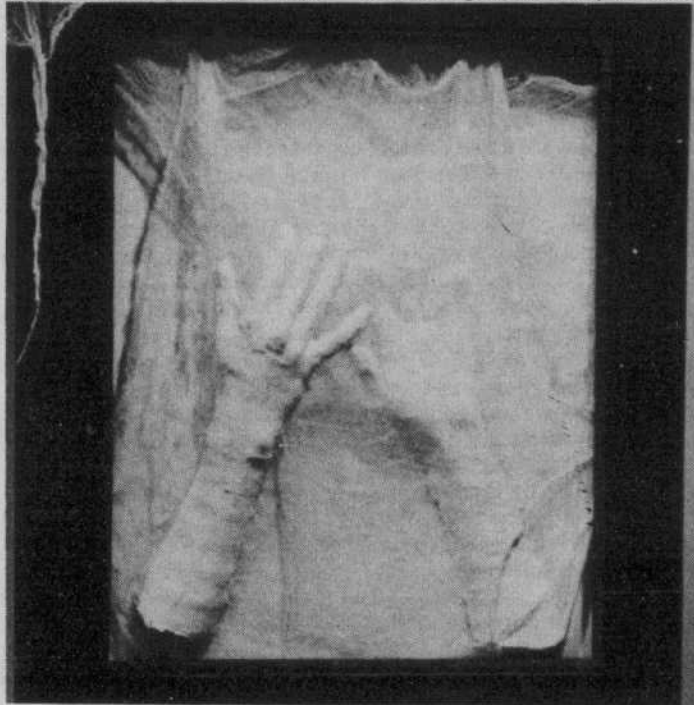

"We only turned down five to ten per cent of the works," he said. "There was a lot of good stuff. People are going a little further than last year's show. We had more contributions and there are more works of major sub-tance."

The turnout for Monday night's vernissage showed that many people were curious about the show. Says MacCallum: "I've heard a varied reaction. The works are strong enough to provoke a reaction, whether good or bad. But there is such variety that everyone is going to like something."

The show goes on until March 29. Gallery hours are from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Linda Freese, uses mixed media to create an eerie vision of mummy-like arms.

Jasmine Lagacé shows a three-dimensional piece made of tinted rice paper, featuring an arrangement of flat surfaces, and a cement sculpture.

Bernard Latendresse and Jason MacCallum display charcoal sketches.

Chet Atkins mixes jazz and rock into new LP

BOOK REVIEW:

One Police Plaza by William J. Caunitz (BANTAM): $4.95, 371 pp.

What Joseph Wambaugh did for the kinky cops of Los Angeles and their on-the-beat lifestyles, a New York City lieutenant, William J. Caunitz does for the Big Apple's often maligned police force. The book's title refers to the central cop shop, but the fast-moving adventure ranges over a broad area of the sprawling city, revealing police procedures both on duty, or when they are engaged in a 10:85, which apparently denotes that a cop is otherwise engaged in "interrogating" a lady friend.

Caunitz uses a particularly gruesome crime being investigated by Lieutenant Daniel Malone to hold his novel together. Sara Eisinger, a beautiful and mysterious travel agency employee is brutally murdered, and found in a pool of blood in her bathtub, having been violated in a sadistic fashion—the police refer to this one as the Curtain Rod Caper. This homicide draws "Lou" (as N.Y.C. lieutenants are designated) Malone into an intrigue that involves an after-hours sex club, an address book connecting Sara to the CIA, and a train of circumstances which keeps pointing to the police force itself as being strangely implicated in a wide-ranging conspiracy.

Add in the Israeli Mossad, Moslem extremists, the U.S. Army and the interesting parade of concurrent crimes that Malone must sift through, and One Police Plaza begins to have much broader appeal than the usual cops and robbers shoot-em-up. The novel is a hard-hitting, honest look at the police department of New York City, an often stark and raw bit of urban rococo that draws the reader into the lives of Dan Malone and his assistants. Sprinkled into the Eisinger investigation are enough of the comical absurdities about officers caught in embarrassing or compromising situations while on duty, and Casanova exploits to make the reader wonder "Who's watching the cops?" The finale, on a span of bridge between the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn and Long Island City, has enough pyrotechnics, played out in a classic gun-fighters' showdown that is conducted with Uzi machine guns and portable rocket launchers, to satisfy any action fan.

Add William J. Caunitz's new voice to those of Wambaugh or Dorothy Uhnak, as a practitioner of the specialized branch of crime fiction known as the police procedural—he will certainly be heard from in the future.

RECORD REVIEWS:

Jason & The Scorchers LOST &

FOUND (EMI-AMERICA)

To get some idea of the country fever that is represented by Jason & The Scorchers, imagine taking a country cross-over hit by a group such as Alabama or Exile, at a long-playing 33½ speed and cranking the song up to 45 r.p.m. The resulting intensity would approach the kind of excitement Jason Ringenberg and his three Scorchers jam into their first full-fledged album release. Following up on their mini-LP debut of a few months back, Jason & The Scorchers have beefed up their sound but they still have to smooth down some of the rough edges on LOST & FOUND.

Quite appropriately, the blazing rockers on the album get high marks for their raucous, abandoned refusal to compromise with country purity, but much of the stuff done here was superbly handled by the Scruggs Review in the early 70's. And when the tempo slackens off a bit and Jason attempts some crooning he should do a bit more listening to the Memphis singer he slams with a line in "Broken Whiskey Glass", about "white soul heroes can't escape / Legend's trashy dreams". Elvis, in even his most abandoned, early concert recordings, even on raw bootlegs, never sang as blatantly flat and off-key as Ringberg does on "Far Behind" and too many other tracks on this record. How this mournful, fingernails-on-a-blackboard ear-paining vocalizing ever made it past producer Terry Manning probably says more for the artistic control the Scorchers have over their material than it does about the musical integrity of certain country artists.

Jason & The Scorchers have a bold country sound, lashed with just enough of a rock influence to make them stand out. Maybe they had better take some of those Alabama & Exile records, slow them back down to elpee speed and take a long, strong listen to the impeccable vocalizing thereon—it's quite a contrast to some of the awkward vocal stabs on LOST & FOUND.

ting rhythms in a lilting, free-flowing melody, while the second lets Knopfler doodle around Chet's steady country pattern. George Benson and Earl Klugh, respected guitarists in another musical vein, share the idea that it is an "honor" and a "pleasure" to pick with Chet. And pick they do; Benson is a clear influence on "Sunrise", a moody, Latin-beat piece filled with incredibly deft arpeggios, and on "A Mouse In The House"—both of which tunes gain from the keyboards fills by Randy Goodrum, the bass playing of David Hungate who also produces the album, and the string arrangements of Bergen White.

Producer Hungate, better known as the bottom end man of

Chet Atkins STAY TUNED (CBS-COLUMBIA)

Although he calls himself just a "C.G.P."—a country guitar player, Chet Atkins is certainly a legend in his own time, respected by guitarists in jazz, rock and his home genre, country. The mere fact that Atkins played with recording artists that represent a veritable pantheon of pop music greats -- Hank Williams, the Everly Brothers, Elvis Presley, Paul McCartney -- is some indication of the credentials of the former A&R man and resident genius at RCA RECORDS in Nashville.

On his first album for CBS-COLUMBIA (he's had a career total of 115 albums!) Atkins rallies together a formidable assembly of the top names in both jazz and rock for STAY TUNED. For artists such as Mark Knopfler, the brilliant, innovative guitarist from Dire Straits, to play with Chet Atkins is a rare learning experience—"I'd have been happy to hang around and learn guitar from Chet for the next five years". Mark and Chet join forces on two songs—"Some Leather and Lace", and "Cosmic Square Dance". The first explores shif-rock's glitzy L.A. crew that uses the name Toto, is joined by that band's guitarist Steve Lukather, who duets with Chester on "Please Stay Tuned", and by Jeff Pocaro, the Toto drummer, on two tracks. But the contributing musicians make it clear that the real star of this album is the amazing Chet Atkins and his original style of plectrum/finger picking, that he developed by listening to Les Paul, George Barnes and the seminal picker Merle Travis, on the airwaves in the Dirty Thirties. The music is at times bouncy, smooth as molasses, or progressively pop as Chet Atkins turns these ten songs into the easy listening experience that has always been associated with Mr. Nashville's golden-toned guitar.

Director Tuck, cast of 14 take on brand new play

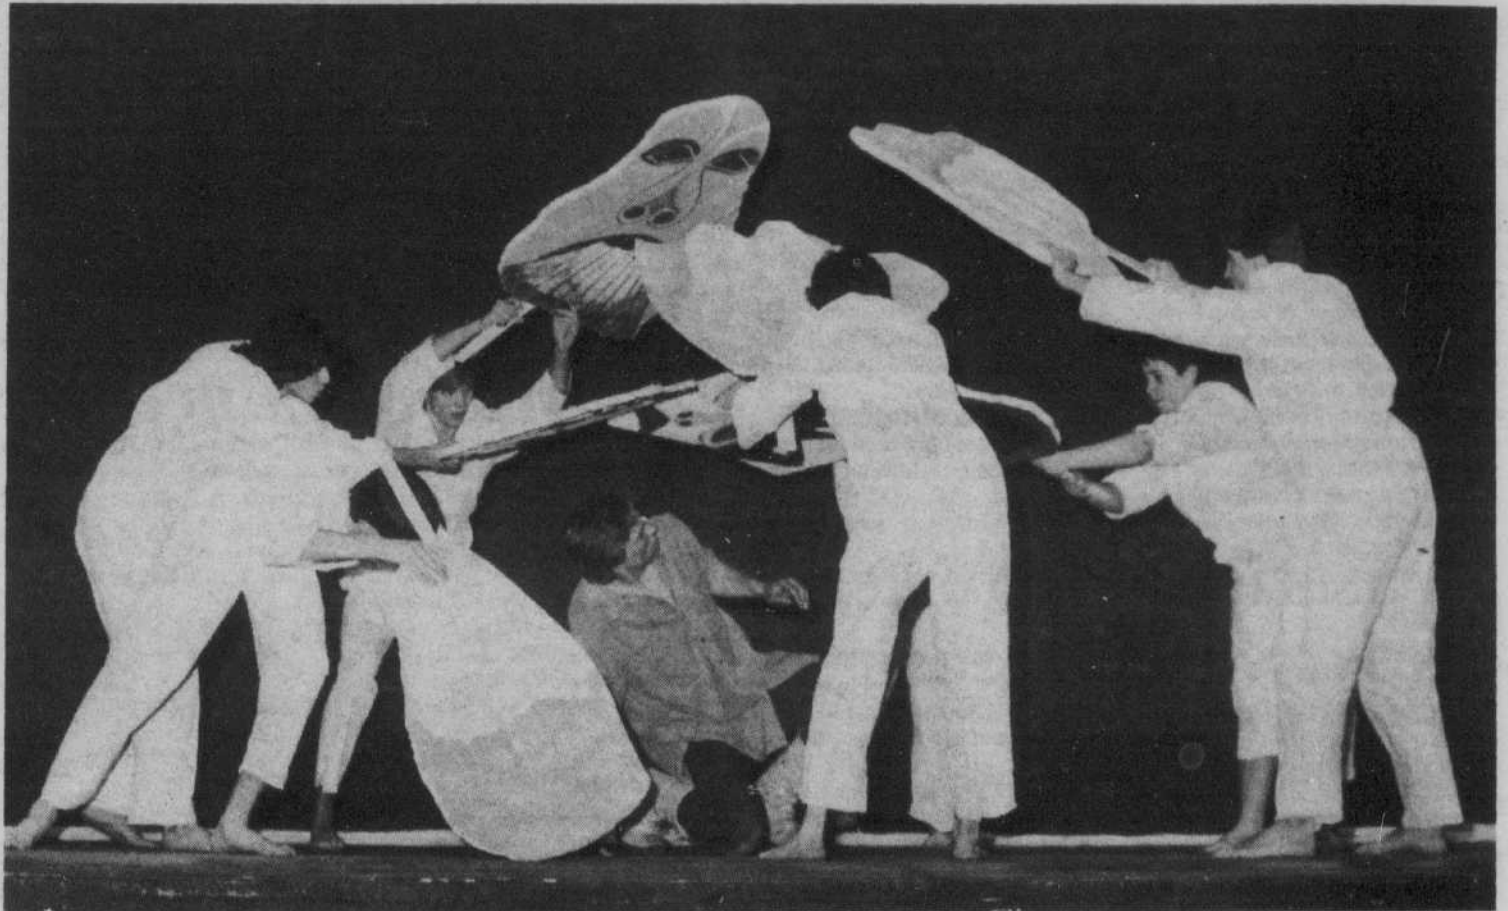

By Michael McDevitt

LENNOXVILLE — For those who may have wondered how theatre production works — how ideas are translated into a stage performance — the Bishop's University Drama Department's workshop production this weekend is an excellent opportunity to see an original production at the end of the long creative process.

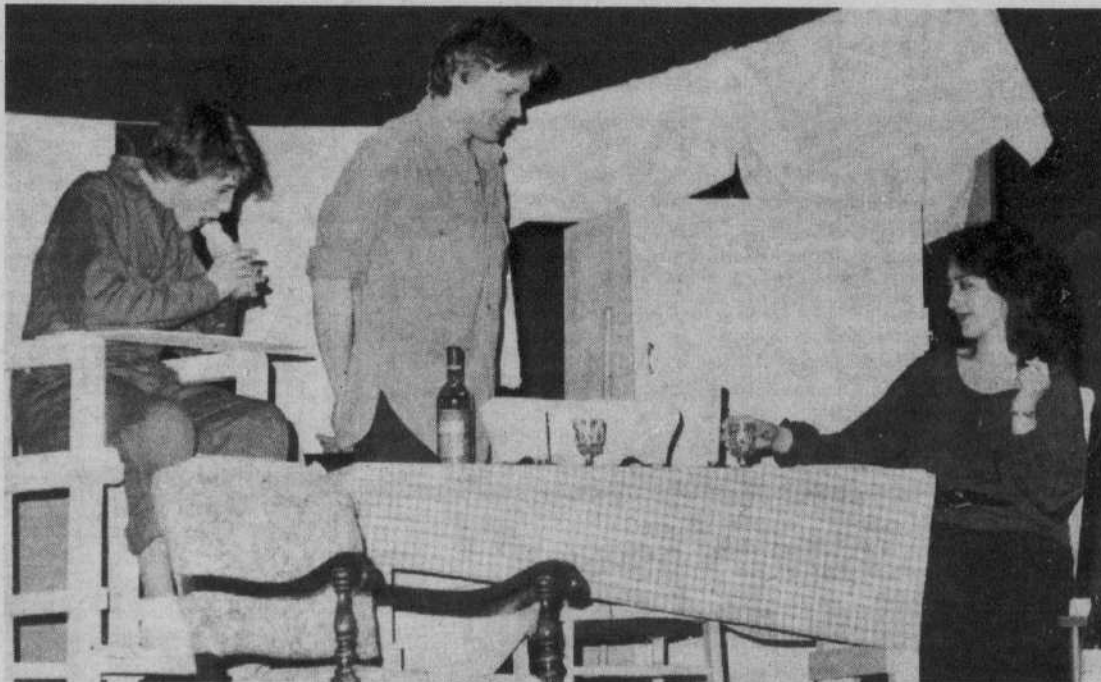

Northern Affairs, a brand-new play written especially for the department by musician-composer-playwright Ian Tamblyn, is a challenging effort for the students and involves some considerable risk-taking, but director Greg Tuck believes this is what workshops are all about.

"This is an experimental instrument," Tuck says, "and it gives a good example for everybody involved of the purpose of theatre. Theatre is in the service of the playwright so he can see, actually visualize, what he's done. In workshops, the important thing is the creative input, so you don't spend all kinds of time looking for the perfect lamp, you just take a lamp and paint it."

For a workshop, Northern Affairs is an ambitious project involving 14 actors and two complete sets. It's the story of a 35-year-old Canadian singer, Peter, his live-in 'companion' Kathleen and their two-year-old daughter Jenny, forced to come to terms with Peter's rapidly-approaching mid-life crisis.

"It's basically a day in the life of this guy who has all kinds of stuff coming down on him," says Tuck, "and about how he deals with it. There's a mystery woman, of course, a younger woman whom Peter is ready to risk his relationship for."

The character Peter is also infatuated with the far north. Seeing this vast and almost empty world as a place of intense beauty and mystery, he believes it to be of pristine simplicity.

"This is where it gets dramatically interesting," says Tuck, "because while he's on stage and performing he experiences a vision of awakening in which he is transformed up north, where he attempts to deal with his problems. There are spirits to help him, of course."

The play marks an interesting milestone for the drama department in that it represents the first time it has commissioned a play especially for production here, and the department will be taking it to Montreal for the University Drama Festival next week.

"It's been a Herculean undertaking," Tuck says. "We began working on it in mid-December when we got the first draft. Since then we have seen it through its entire development and shaping and everybody has been able to kick in.

"It's Star Trek theatre," he adds. "We've boldly gone where no man has gone before and I think the process has been wonderful."

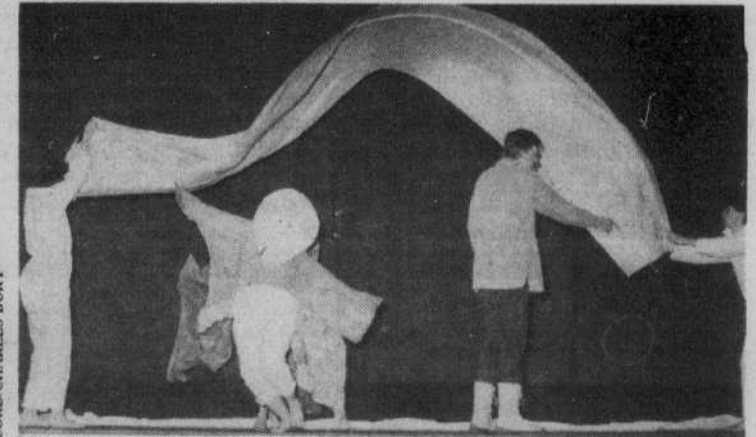

"I'm excited about the fact that we commissioned a play, too," he says. "The whole premise of a commission is something that the university might just really get into. It sets up a feedback process that writers don't usually get and allows the students to better understand what the theatre is all about."

Tuck is directing the production with the assistance of 'guest' Hamish Boyd, who shares the former's enthusiasm. "It really has been open season creatively," Boyd says, "with everybody pitching in to help it grow. This whole process helps everybody understand the development of dialogue and what will work . . .

should enjoy it," Tuck says, "but I'm also really interested in having people know what a workshop is, how theatre is done."

The play is appearing at Bishop's University's Centennial Theatre tonight (Friday) and tomorrow and curtain time is 8 p.m. Admission is free.

Northern Affairs represents a bold new direction for the drama department — the first time the department has commissioned an original piece. Ian Tamblyn combined his dramatic and musical talents in writing the play.

as well as what won't."

The cast includes Bruce Spinney as the central character, Peter, Elizabeth Goodyear as Kathleen and Carrie Lawrence as the eye-opening two-year-old Jenny. Chris McGregor plays the antagonistic rock critic Chris Knob, who contributes to the hero's problems. Also included are James Jewett as Peter's friend Manny and Kate Robertson as the dedicated activist Janice Turwerle. Lighting is by Chris Green, set design by Peter McHugh and Craig Lindsay and the music is an original score by Ian Tamblyn.

List of Oscar nominees promises interesting outcome

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's Oscar time, and rarely has the list of nominees for the film industry's golden statuettes been more diverse.

As in recent years, the best-picture Oscar for 1984 may well go to a film outside the Hollywood mainstream when the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences dispenses its awards for the 57th time on Monday night.

Nominees in the various categories range from the late Ralph Richardson to Prince, from Peggy Ashcroft to Stevie Wonder. Also contending are Woody Allen, John Williams, a Swiss-made movie, a Russian documentary and the makers of monkey suits for Greystoke? The Legend of Tarzan, Lord of the Apes.

Two of the last three winners have been films that could not find sponsorship among the major studios: Chariots of Fire and Gandhi. The same is true of one of this year's major contenders, A Passage to India.

"We tried every studio in town and were turned down," says co-producer Richard Goodwin. "Nobody was willing to take a chance on David Lean" who hadn't made a film in 13 years.

RESTRAINS BUDGET

Another contender for best picture of 1984 is A Soldier's Story. Based on a Pulitzer Prize-winning play, the project was dropped by one studio and picked up by Columbia Pictures on the proviso of a $6-million budget, minuscule by today's standards.

Amadeus, a hit play based on the life of Mozart, was acquired by producer Saul Zaentz who bypassed the Hollywood studios and financed the film himself. The Killing Fields, the story of an American reporter in war-torn Cambodia, was produced and directed by David Puttham and Roland Joffe.

Places in the Heart, Robert Benton's reminiscence of his Texas boyhood, found backing from Tri-Star Pictures, a new company in need of a product.

None of the five nominated films was originated, financed and produced by a major Hollywood company. This is further evidence, some observers believe, of a "quality crisis" in an industry that is hellbent on attracting the young movie-going audience with fantasy, horror and sex comedies.

The nominees for best actor also represent a trend.

At least four are stage-trained performers who shun the glamor trappings of traditional stars: F. Murray Abraham and Tom Hulce of Amadeus, Albert Finney of Under the Volcano and Sam Waterston of The Killing Fields.

CREATES CAREER

Jeff Bridges, nominated for his space visitor in Starman, is a child of Hollywood who has created a career as a respected film actor.

Four of the nominees for best actress have already collected Oscars: Sally Field (Places in the Heart), Jessica Lange (Country), Vanessa Redgrave (The Bostonians), Sissy Spacek (The River). The other contender is the Australian newcomer Judy Davis (A Passage to India).

Artists invited to enter Paris, New York contest

QUEBEC CITY — The cultural affairs minister Clement Richard is inviting Quebec's professional artists to apply for the competition "Studios du Quebec a Paris et a New York". Applications must be submitted between March 18 and April 30.

Under this program, professional artists may occupy one of Quebec's studios in Paris or in New York City. The artists selected will also receive a travelling bursary for not more than one year. This program is intended to help Quebec's artists in prove their knowledge, it is also intended to encourage their creative ability and make them known abroad. This competition has been made possible through and agreement with the minister of international relations.

The Paris studio is available to artists in the visual arts and in music, and is located in the Cite Internationale des Arts. The person selected will also be allowed access to a workshop, and granted financial assistance of $13 000 dollars.

The New York Studio is for artists in the visual arts, the interpretative arts, crafts, literary creation and cinema. The person selected will occupy a studio in Soho and will receive a $12 000 bursary. Two artists may share this amount equally between them, however, and each may occupy the premises for six months.

To qualify, a professional artist must have worked for a number of years in an appropriate discipline, and have produced some major works. He or she must have taken part in international events in Quebec or abroad, or have represented Quebec abroad. Candidates must send their curriculum vitae, a portfolio, a description of the project on which they intend to work during their stay abroad, and documents describing their recent works, too.

Oscar Nominees

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Here is a list of nominees for the 57th annual Academy Awards to be presented Monday night:

Close behind Pelletier is Cecil 'I'm here forever' Dougherty

Who's who

By TADEUSZ LETARTE

People Magazine, that eminently intellectual hot-bed of investigative journalism, has done it again. In last week's issue they gave a run-down of the obscenely inflated salaries that major Hollywood personalities earn. This startling exposé was of such importance that Quebec's other English-language daily did a story all about People Magazine's story. Not to be outdone, or run the risk of being labelled a copycat, I decided to do a little digging of my own and come up with salary figures for the Townships' very own Glitterati:

Topping the list should have been 'Senator-in-waiting' Gentleman George MacLaren, however his accountant assures me The Record's publisher and driving force is in the same financial boat as the owners of most major-league baseball teams — and will only reveal his financial records when my contract is up for renewal.

I do know for a fact that Editor Charles 'I-keep-it-under-my-mattress' Bury takes home a salary in the six-figure range. Unfortunately two of the six figures follow a decimal point. Living Page Editor Bobby Fisher, on the other hand, says he has nothing to hide and freely admits to taking home $155.32 per week. Worth every penny I might add.

As far as local politicians go, Sherbrooke Mayor Jean-Paul (II) Pelletier recently leapt to the top of the list when he demanded parity with the inside postal workers. Council balked however, when he insisted on the same job security clause. Close behind Pelletier was the Mayor of all the Lennoxvillains, Cecil 'I'm here forever' Dougherty, who did get the security clause.

Sherbrooke MP Jean-James Charest, Fourth Deputy Assistant Under-Speaker of the House Commons, didn't want anyone to know how much he makes so I'll only say it's in the $60,999 to $61,001 range. It should be pointed out however, that Charest also has to deal with the added expense of living in Ottawa. Then again, nobody asked him to apply for the job.

When asked about teaching salaries at Bishop's University, administration officials referred me to the salary scale for union members which, believe it or not, is better than an inside postal worker. Professors do not, however, have a job security clause. Instead they work under something called "tenure" which means they can be fired if they are appointed to the Senate or attempt to teach while legally dead.

As for myself, in case you were wondering, or pondering, as to the level of my own salary, so to speak, you have probably surmised, or at least may have developed a vague suspicion at this point, that I am, in fact, you might say, paid by the word, or, in the event of a disagreement, by the part-of-a-word, which I write for this rag, when I'm not off on a global tangent somewhere, although I might add that I am not, repeat NOT, paid for the hours of intense thought, or the years of world-wide experience, that go into making this one of the best-read scandal sheets anywhere.

Speaking of our much esteemed and outrageously generous editor, COMMA-KILLER allowed this week as how his love affair with Stompin' Ronnie Reagan came suddenly to an end in Kweebek Cidy at the Shamrock Summit. Seems the dusty village scribe can't stand older men who put their pink pancake makeup on with a glue spreader.

The CBC's Bernie 'Those-guys-are-giving the rest of us Irish-a-bad-name' St-Laurent came up with the best line of the summit after suffering through another hotel meal while watching the leaders munch together: "You can call it Beef Wellington, frogs legs or Canard à l'orange if you want," quoth Bern, "but it still tastes like rubber."

I'm happy to report that a new political party has been launched. A party, I might add, that appears to have something for everyone. The name of this new political force is The Humanist Party. According to party press secretary Donna Zuckerbrot (never mind the smart remarks), the Humanist platform revolves essentially around five major points: Active Non-violence, Non Discrimination, The Human Being as a Central Value, Co-operativism and The Principle of Options and Non-Monopoly. This as opposed to the Liberals, PQ, Tories and Union Nationale who, as we all know, are dead set against any of these old-fashioned virtues.

The party intends to run at least 10 candidates in the next provincial election and is in the process of sending a letter to the Baritone that runs Canada denouncing "unemployment and dishonesty in politics".

Funny, I always thought that politics was the one place never affected by unemployment.

I'm sure you will all want to run out and buy a new book by former Toronto mayor John Sewell entitled Police. Sewell, you will no doubt recall, is the man who angered everyone in Hog Town while he was mayor by being openly friendly with homosexuals, blacks, orientals and members of the city's other minorities while suggesting that there just might be a tiny little bit of prejudice lingering in a town where exotic food is anything with barbecue sauce. Some of the questions Sewell explores: "What does the police officer on the beat actually do?"; "Are the police as productive as they could be?"; and "Are we safe?". The answers to the above could be interesting especially the one about being safe, which as you know is the number-one concern to most Canadians as opposed to the Americans with their childish insistence upon freedom.

Music

Well it turned out ol' Calvin lined up a pretty hot little band for his FL Hideaway this time in the form of a four-person group called Glare. This is a hard-rock outfit composed of Diane Badder, Joey Badder, James Tautau and Peter Wade and they don't mess around. Solid musicianship combines with some good strong vocals to form a first-rate club act. While the music may not be everybody's cup of tea, the band has selected a good repertoire which they deliver straightforwardly and well. A good breath of fresh air.

Also pleasing are Idle Hands at the Georgian in Lennoxville for their second week. There's a switch in the scheduling this weekend as the boys will be performing tonight as usual and Sunday afternoon and evening from 4 until 9. No music Saturday night. This gives us late Sunday risers something to look forward to. The band is made up of Shawn Renaud, Danny Renaud, Peter Jenks and Bob Boisclair with the able assistance of guitar player Alain Simard. Good lively rock and roll.

This is the weekend for the annual March Birthday Party out at Gord McDonald's Motel Bretagne on route 143 in Waterville. Each year, Gord who celebrates his 74th b-day in this month, throws a bash for everybody who has a birthday in March and it generally turns out to be a good one. The music this weekend (Friday and Saturday) is by the Carrousel Country Riders and the party itself is Sunday afternoon. There'll be free cocktails, music, refreshments and door prizes so it's kind of hard to lose.

The Cookshire Hotel continues its quest for rock and roll fans this week with the lively sounds of Fast Eddy. The music lasts through Sunday.

The Salle Jean-Paul out in Bury plays host to Weekend Express this Saturday night and next, and next week they'll be having a First Anniversary bash. Weekend Express is good country and western music, stylishly performed. A good time.

Some of you may want to test your eardrums out down at Sherbrooke's Rock Palace this weekend hearing a band called Banshee Horde but not this kid. Mikey fears that the name of this outfit might be descriptive and wants no part of it. On the plus side, my heavy metal sources insist that this club brings in consistently good (if loud) bands, so who am I to question. The music continues through Sunday.

For jazz folks, the increasingly sublime Jazz on Jazz happy hours continue down at Sherbrooke's Café du Palais on Whiting Alley across from the Sherbrooke Courthouse off Wellington. This is a very pleasant spot to spend a few inexpensive hours enjoying some great jam sessions led by pianist Jean-Jacques Beauchamp and stand-up bassist Normand Bouchard. Music starts at 5 and continues to 7 p.m. each weekday.

More jazz happens at Chez René on Sunday evenings and this week legendary player Tiger Okoshi and his band are back for their second week.

In Magog at Le Vieux Clocher, it's jazz again with Jacques Jobin and Marc Bolduc playing a variety of different instruments for a very pleasant end result. Admission is free, shows are Friday and Saturday nights.

The Brome Hotel is featuring the retro band Sunrise tomorrow night and again next week. This is a fun show outfit specializing in rock and country hits from the 50s and 60s so if you don't feel old enough already, this can be a pretty good time.

At the Hut, Lennoxville's own Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Unit Saturday night, the music of the ever-popular Rod Bray and The Countrymen provides the entertainment again this week and next. Good times and cheap prices makes this a regularly enjoyable event.

For something completely different you might want to check out the debut concert of the brand new Ensemble Vocal de Sherbrooke a choral outfit specializing in the baroque. The concert takes place at the St-Jean-Baptiste church on Conseil Street in Sherbrooke tomorrow (Saturday) beginning at 8:30 and features selections by Handel and J.S. Bach. The group is directed by Jean-François Séart and is accompanied on the organ by the gifted Hélène Panneton.

Theatre

If you get a chance this weekend, pop over to Bishop's University and catch a performance of the Bishop's University Drama Department workshop production of Northern Affairs either tonight or tomorrow. This is blood and guts theatre where everybody takes a little bit of a chance and they'll be attempting a world-premier run of a piece commissioned from musician-singer-songwriter-playwright Iam Tamblyn, one of the solid figures in Canadian contemporary music. The show appears to be an autobiographically-inspired tale of an aging 60s folk singer who faces serious personal and professional questions as he stares into the jaws of a rapidly approaching dawn of middle age. An obsession with the pristine purity of Canada's Great White North serves as a key to the unwinding of the story and includes mystic and spiritual characters from aboriginal myth and legend. This is an ambitious project, launched by director Greg Tuck and featuring the collaboration of guest Hamish Boyd. There's a cast of some 14 characters including a rare cameo appearance by faculty director Jonathan Rittenhouse. The show begins at 8 p.m. at Centennial Theatre, is free and is a very good chance for those of you who are unfamiliar with the workings of theatre productions to become acquainted with this wonderfully exciting craft. Workshops are designed to extract the utmost from artists and the process is often a creatively intense experience.

French Canada's most vibrant literary voice, (boy am I ever gonna hear about it for that statement!) Michel Tremblay's novella C't à ton Tour Laura Cadieux is being presented in stage form by Manon Gauthier at Le Pigeonnier at 138 Wellington North this weekend and next with shows beginning at 8:30. Gauthier adapted this one-woman social commentary and has received rave reviews both in Quebec and Ontario for her efforts. Tonight and tomorrow and from Wednesday until next Saturday.

Finally, tomorrow night at the Knights of Columbus hall in Waterloo at 8:30, the folk dance troupe Les Arlequins are performing another of their fun shows. Including numbers from Quebec, Mexico and Israel (now ain't that a combination) the group presents a lot of lively music and dance. Tickets are $5.

Exhibitions/events

The local arts scene is holding its own this week with the Bishop's Fine Arts Students exhibit up at the Bishop's Champlain Arts Gallery in Lennoxville continuing through the week until March 29.

This is the annual students' exhibit and as usual contains a wide variety of media, styles, attitudes and ability. It's a good way to get a peek at some of the directions young artists are heading these days. The show runs weekdays from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the gallery, located in the Marjorie Donald House on campus.

Something just a little bit more off the wall, the HORACE gallery is continuing its members' exhibition until the end of the month. Contributing artists include Diane Boudreault, Sylvie Couture, Olaf Hanel, Gilles Larivière, Kevin McKenna, Hervé Philippe, Yvon Proulx, Suzanne Fortin, and Hélène Richard in a show entitled Mur et Plancher. Another versatile and imaginative exhibition.

At the Léon Marcotte Centre on Frontenac Street in Sherbrooke, the exhibition of tapestry art from The Right Bank of the Nile continues right through to the middle of April. Containing antique and contemporary examples of a craft that has been practiced in the Egyptian village of Akhmim for thousands of years, the show also demonstrates how one area has managed to turn a particular activity into a commercially viable industry.

In the Galerie Canard de Bois on Alexandre Street, the show De Couleur à Noir-noir Pâle continues just until Sunday, and is worth a look. Artist Gaëtan Pilon has experimented with strikingly different color and contrast schemes over the last few years and the show reflects this transition with style and insight.

Up at the Point de Vue gallery at the Collège de Sherbrooke on Terrill Street the newest efforts by young Sherbrooke artist Denyse Lamontagne are on display until April 5. This show, Lamontagne's fourth, includes ink drawings as well as watercolors and prints.

This coming Thursday at the Galerie d'art of the University of Sherbrooke, the opening of the exhibit Entre-acte by Rose-Marie Goulet and of Rubis sur l'ongle by Manon Thibault will be accompanied by a performance of Madone des Sleepings by Manon Thibault and Ginette Prince. Activities begin at 5 and continue to 7 p.m.

Next week, Arts Sutton presents a two-weekend exhibit by Gordon Ladd entitled The Townships' Many Moods. A sappy title, no doubt, but Ladd remains one of the region's finest landscape artists. The show will be on view from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday, March 30 and on Sunday. It will return the following weekend for a three-day showing.

In the continuing series of Events for Women at Bishop's University this week, on Monday, March 25 the National Film Board's newly released and highly socially unsettling film Abortion: Stories from North and South keeps the fire cooking under this devastatingly contentious social issue. It will be screened in the Johnson 20 science auditorium at 7 p.m.

On Wednesday, Liberal Senator Lorna Marsden visits the campus and will deliver an enlightening lecture on What women can do. Now despite the fact that a few of my less-than-liberated acquaintances have already come up with several suggestions pertinent to that rhetorical question, Senator Marsden is in a position to inform, being a graduate of the Trudeau years. She is presently a Senior Fellow at U of T's Massey College

Also good for a laugh is Ed Broadbent who will be extolling the virtues of the Great Canadian Noiseless Social Reform brand of socialism to the Law Society of the University of Sherbrooke. Following this encounter he will be conferring with the Sherbrooke NDP riding association.

This weekend, for those concerned about the turmoil in Central America a joint effort will produce a Vigil for Peace in Central America remembering the 5th anniversary of the murder of Oscar Romero, archbishop of San Salvador. The event is taking place at the Plymouth-Trinity Church on Dufferin Street and begins tomorrow at 10 a.m. with a presentation on Central America: People in Liberation. There are also conferences on various Central American themes, including the crisis in Nicaragua and on Romero himself. On Sunday, a conference on Liberation Theology will be presented by theologian Yvonne Bergeron. Sketches, films and other activities are also planned. Movies

Sherbrooke has two amazing pieces of film-making this week, most noteworthy being Fantasia starting tonight at the Cinémas Carrefour. Fantasia has to be the greatest animated film of all time, demonstrating most strikingly the amazing talent that gushed from the Walt Disney studios in their heyday. For artistry, imagination and technical expertise, this ranks as one of the most visually successful movies ever. This one's a treat.

At the Capitol the beautiful A Passage to India is back for a third week, and it too is a gem. I've already gotten grief from a lot of people who told me they were bored stiff through this one, but I still maintain it's worth seeing. Having been a student back in the days when reading was compulsory, Mikey read E.M. Forester's beautiful novel several times. It seems this helps. True, the plot will not have you on the edge of your seat, but the magnificent setting for a touching story of self-enlightenment is masterfully handled here and the film is again a visual masterpiece.

The Cinéma Princesse has an unusual line-up this week with Eating Raoul and Porky's Revenge. Now Eating Raoul is one of the strangest movies Mikey's ever seen. Low budget, high on satire, this thing earned a rather ashamed cult-following on its release a few years back and I have to admit I'm a part of it. No apologies, mind you, but I know that there are a lot of folks out there who are seriously going to wonder what kind of sicko person could possibly admit to liking this thing, but there you have it. The main feature on the bill, of course, is third in the Canadian-made Porky's films, and I gather that this time they really go for it directly. T and A and plenty of it, but precious little else.

South of the border the Merrill's Showplace Cinemas in Newport have The Killing Fields each evening at 6:30 and 9. This is a shocker. It's the powerful true story of an American journalist and his Khmer assistant in the last days of the Khmer Rouge victory in Cambodia. Gruesome and intense, the movie is not a lot of fun, but it is well worth seeing and is a major contender for several key Oscars.

Also on the bill are Night Patrol at 6:45 and Beverly Hills Cop at 8:30. Weekend matinee performance are also being scheduled for The Last Dragon Saturday and Sunday at 1:45.

The Bishop's University Film Society is back and it has a couple of things for us this week including, on Sunday evening at 7 The Adventures of Buckaroo Banzai. Now, everybody I've talked to that has seen this (and there aren't that many of them) says that this is a great movie. I have to believe them.

On Wednesday, Splash, the story of a man and his mermaid. This is also a pretty okay movie with an excellent performance by the lovely Darryl Hannah as the piscine parcel of pulchritudinal plenty. And that's that.

Oh yeah, I almost forgot. Just in case some of you out there missed this little news item, kids can now safely disregard the little '14' on movie posters that used to serve as a warning that children under the age of 14 would not be allowed in to see a particular film. The government has decided it isn't going to care anymore so if you don't want your 12 year-old watching a particular film it's up to you to stop her. On the other hand, if you're the 12 year-old you can watch just about any damn movie you want provided it isn't restricted to over 18. That law is still in effect.

Television

Well, despite the fact that it's about to be Academy Awards week, there still seems to be enough room left over for some pretty good television.

First of all, on CTV at 7:30 tonight, there'll be a special Academy Awards Preview, designed to give us a little hint as to what to expect from the big night itself.

For all you snowbird fans that didn't get a chance to see it the first time around, Anne Murray at the Quebec Winter Carnival returns for a second airing on CBC at 9. On hand to help Canada's favorite songstress through this one are country singer-guitarist Glen Campbell, the wonderful Dionne Warwick and baby brother Bruce Murray, who really should get a job.

At 11 on Front Row Feature on Vermont ETV, Laurence Olivier and Marilyn Monroe star in the great comedy-romance classic The Prince and the Showgirl. The Prince Regent of Carpathia takes a warm liking to a flashy American showgirl during the London coronation of King George V in 1911. This is a goodie.

At 1 on Channel 12, Potpourri brings back the 1959 Hallmark Hall of Fame Presentation of Ibsen's A Doll's House starring Julie Christie, Christopher Plummer and Jason Robards in the now-classic story of a young woman's struggle for liberation.

On Saturday at 1 p.m. Channel 12 offers Mikey's favourite twosome John Revolta and Olivia Newton-Fig in Grease, the surprisingly reasonable adaptation of the Broadway musical about growing up in the oh-so-cool 50s.

When you've had enough of that, Vermont ETV presents a real classic at 2 with The Mouse That Roared in the hilarious story of the fictitious Duchy of Grand Fenwick which declares war on the United States so that it can lose and receive Marshall Plan foreign aid. The whole thing backfires, however, when one young militia man takes the whole thing seriously and sets out to conquer New York. Peter Sellers (in three different roles) and Jean Seberg star.

At 7, Vermont ETV keeps up the pressure with a double-feature of excellent films beginning with William Holden's Oscar-winning performance in Stalag 17 about life in a German PoW camp. This is followed at 9:30 by The Spy Who Came in From the Cold. Richard Burton is perfect as an embittered spy in the adaptation of the John Le Carré thriller.

On Channel 12 at 8, Jacqueline Bisset and Christopher Reeve star in Leo Tolstoy's tragic masterpiece Anna Karenina. This sounds a little unlikely but, both are competent actors if the scriptwriters did a half decent job for this made-for-T.V. adaptation.

CBC's remarkable Lost Kingdoms returns Sunday at 5:30 with a portrait of Tuanku Ja'Alfar, viceroy of Malaysia, a modern man of business, philanthropy and education who also enjoys complete judicial immunity as well as the power of life and death over his subjects in the State of Sembilan. Damn good work, if you can get it.

At 6, Vermont ETV's Great Performances presents Judy Garland: The Concert Years highlighting Garland during the peak of her success.

At midnight on Channel 12, William Holden and Nancy Kwan star in the 1960 romance drama The World of Suzie Wong. An American artist in Hong Kong falls for a local yum-yum girl and discovers that cross-cultural flings (international affairs) can be difficult and confusing.

On Monday at 9 on CTV it's The Academy Awards where the best of the 1984 cinematic world are chosen.

Two years ago the CBC purchased a package of old MGM movies and has been running them over and over again in different "theme" combinations that boggle the mind with their ingenuity. This week is easy and the CBC late movies are The Academy Award Winners. Monday's offering is the great Casablanca starring Humphrey Bogart, Ingrid Bergman, Paul Henreid and Claude Rains. I can't believe there's anybody out there allowed to stay up that late that hasn't seen this one at least half-a-dozen times, but this is a film with devoted fans so here it is again.

On Tuesday evening on Radio-Quebec at 8:30, a truly remarkable film is being shown in translation for those who may not have seen it before. It's called Taxi Driver and it's the powerful Martin Scorsese story of an alienated city cab driver disgusted by the world around him who becomes involved with a beautiful political campaign worker and a 12-year-old prostitute. Robert De Niro, Cybill Shepherd and Jodie Foster head an excellent cast.

Tuesday at midnight, Channel 12 keeps up its weekly James Bond series with Goldfinger, one of the better of the early Bond films. Mikey has a very hard time sitting through these movies, largely because they are so dated both technologically and sociologically but he is aware that Bond fans are just as dedicated as Phoebe Cates fans, so I guess they deserve equal time. Chaque un à son goût!

On Wednesday at 8, David Suzuki's compelling CBC series A Planet for the Taking concludes with The Runaway Brain and examines some of the key issues raised by this brilliant television effort. Suzuki believes that man must stop regarding himself as master of the planet and must seriously try to live in harmony with it if we are going to be able to preserve the whole shebang.

Also at 8, on Vermont ETV Puccini's tragic Tosca starring Hildegard Behrens and Plácido Domingo.

On Thursday at 8, Vermont ETV begins again the Mystery series productions of The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes. In this first episode, A Scandal in Bohemia recreates the first case in which Holmes and Dr. Watson collaborate when a mysterious nobleman asks them to help save the royal houses of Europe. This is the story where Holmes meets Irene Adler, who will be ever after referred to as 'the woman'. At 9, this is followed by another great Holmes story The Speckled Band. Jeremy Brett and David Burke star.

Manon Gauthier plays the obsessive lead in her one-woman production of Michel Tremblay's C't à ton tour, Laura Cadieux all this week at Le Pigeonnier Theatre on Sherbrooke's Wellington Street.

chairman of JAMFEST's international film jury which will view international entries including 10 from Canada.

Sen. Olivia Grange, executive producer of JAMFEST explains the selections: "The festival is designed to highlight the creativity of youth and will feature international artists who have demonstrated an understanding of the concerns of youth around the world."

Over 100 performers, displays and seminars will cover virtually all art forms including theatre, dance, poetry, painting, prose and music.

Other confirmed performers include Musical Youth, Steel Pulse and U2.

Vacationers may choose from a number of event ticket combinations and specialized itineraries, many of which include stays in Kingston and the Island's popular resort areas of Ocho Rios and Port Antonio.

Accommodations during the Festival range from the moderately-priced Turtle Beach Apartment Hotel in Ocho Rios to Kingston's classic Pegasus Hotel, as well as Port Antonio's luxurious Marbella Club at Dragon Bay.

In addition, there is an official World Youth Festival Campsite 16 miles from Kingston at the Foster College for Physical Education. Transfers to Kingston will be by rail throughout JAMFEST. Dormitory or tent facilities and a canteen will be available starting at $9.00 per night, excluding food.

Further information on JAMFEST '85 may be obtained from the Jamaica Tourist Board in Toronto (482-7850) or Montreal (849-6386).

To get best view of Haley's comet, head far south

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — Star-gazers interested in taking in the appearance of Halley's Comet next year will have to journey to equatorial regions or the Southern Hemisphere for a really good look at it.

In fact, the farther south you go, the better, says Ted Pedas, university lecturer, science writer, and astronomer.

Pedas has been working with Sun Line Cruises organizing six special comet sailings next year — up the Amazon and Orinoco rivers and to such places as Belem and Rio de Janeiro.

The very best time to see this once-in-every-76-years phenomenon will be the first week in April, 1986, according to the British Interplanetary Society, which is sponsoring a tour from London to South Africa at that time to take in the event.

Australia, New Zealand, Brazil and Argentina are also expected to see invasions of star-gazing tourists, which means that anyone who is interested in getting a good view of the comet should book accommodation as early as possible, meaning now is not too soon.

NOT UNTIL 2061

The comet, first sighted in 240

B.C. by the Chinese, was last seen from earth in 1910. It will not reappear again, after next year, until 2061/62.

Of the six comet cruises organized by Sun Line, three have already been solidly booked. In addition to Halley-watching, passengers will get to see the world's largest radio-radar telescope in Puerto Rico and visit observatories in Barbados and Trinidad.

Named after the British astronomer, Sir Edmund Halley (1656-1742), who was co-founder of Greenwich Observatory, because he correctly predicted its return to earth in 1759, 1835 and 1910, Halley's Comet will actually start to be visible from earth in December of this year. Although it won't come as close to earth this time as last time around, it will still be a spectacular sight - a tail of more than 100 million miles long and moving at a rate of some 52,000 kilometers an hour. That's nine miles a second - fast enough to go around the earth at the equator in 45 minutes.

One of the most famous of Halley's Comet buffs was the American humorist, Mark Twain, who was born when the comet made its appearance in 1835. His hope was that he would die when it appeared again in 1910. He got his wish.

Travel agents should have details on the Sun Line comet cruises, or contact Sun Line Cruises, One Rockefeller Plaza (Suite 315), New York, N.Y. 10020, telephone (212) 397-6400.

For aficionados who would rather watch the phenomenon from land, the best bet is to contact the tourist boards of some of the equatorial or "down under" countries, among them Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Chile, New Zealand, Singapore and South Africa.

Tributes to Bach to continue throughout 1985

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Germans on both sides of the wall are joining to celebrate the genius of Johann Sebastian Bach, whose music long ago conquered the world.

The 300th anniversary of his birth is being remembered with new recordings and biographies, while concert after concert explores his demanding but sublimely beautiful works for orchestra, organ and chorus.

In his lifetime, Bach's music enjoyed only regional fame and was forgotten for a time after his death. But not for long.

To Mozart, Bach's organ fugues created the "fullest and most beautiful" tonal art. Beethoven called him the "forefather of harmony," and Brahms rated the publication of Bach's complete works as one of the greatest events of his lifetime.

Although many concerts in West Germany and East Germany are pegged to the 300th anniversary of Bach's birthday March 21, tributes will continue throughout 1985 in connection with the European Year of Music.

FETES AROUND

This is not only Bach's year: It is the 300th birthday of George Frideric Handel and the Italian keyboard master Domenico Scarlatti, and the 400th birthday of Heinrich Schuetz, a German master of church music.

In Leipzig, where Bach scored many of his greatest works while serving as cantor of the Thomaskirche (St. Thomas Church), more than 50 choral, orchestral and chamber music concerts featuring 90 of his compositions will be presented in a nine-day spree.

The United States will be represented by the Washington Bach Consort, which will be performing March 24. The consort's program includes the Santus from the B minor mass, a violin concerto, a motet and a cantata.

West German television devoted six hours to a Bach After Eight spectacular March 16 in West Berlin, with live, uninterrupted Bach from the philharmonic, a music museum, a downtown square and the city convention center.

Bach festivals in Frankfurt, Stuttgart, Wuerzburg, Darmstadt, Kassel and other West German cities underline the shared cultural heritage of the musical genius, who was born in Eisenach in 1685 and died in Leipzig in 1750 — both cities now in East Germany.

While acknowledging Bach's profound religiousness, the East German government has sought to portray him as an early model of "humanistic-progressive development" in the best Communist tradition.

REPUTATION SANK

During his lifetime, Bach was better known as a virtuoso organist than as a composer; his reputation sank after his death and many of his compositions were lost. But his genius was recognized in the 19th century.

Born into a prominent musical family, Bach made his first public performances as a chorister at St. Michael's Church in Luneberg and at age 18, he went to work as organist in a church in Arnstadt.

There Bach irritated his employers by insulting a student as a "nanny-goat bassoonist" and getting into a fight, by taking one month's leave and staying away three months, and for taking a "strange maiden" into the organ loft.

Much of his major organ music was written at Weimar, where he was court organist from 1708 to 1717. That happy situation became unbearable when the duke who hired Bach began feuding with his brother. When Bach resigned, the latter duke tossed Bach in jail for a month.

His next post was at the court of Prince Leopold in Coethen, where his compositions included the renowned Brandenburg Concertos.

In Leipzig after 1720, Bach perfected the art of polyphony that carried baroque music to its culmination in the St. John Passion, the St. Matthew Passion and the Mass in B minor.

Besides being a prolific composer, Bach fathered 20 children by two wives. Four sons — Carl Philip Emanuel, Wilhelm Friedemann, Johann Christoph Friedrich and Johann Christian — became famous composers in their own right.

The Bach tricentennial has prompted a rash of popular bio-ographies in West Germany and picture books about the baroque era. The classical record company, Deutsche Grammophon Gesellschaft, has released a new set of Bach's works on 130 long-playing records.

Youths get opportunity to go on Peace Journey

MONTREAL— Within the framework of the International Year of Youth, CLUBTOUR has launched an initiative which will take 20 youths between 18 and 29 years old to travel on a Peace Journey from August 1 to September 5, 1985.

The participants will travel to the capitals of the five nuclear powers which are permanent members of the United Nations Security Council: Moscow, Peking, London, Paris and Washington D.C.

The 20 contenders will be selected by a jury consisting of five people. The deadline for submitting candidatures is set for March 31, 1985.

The main objective of the contest is to promote peace and international development by allowing twenty young people chosen according to the criteria outlined in the rules, to become part of the tour. Their mission will be to pass their message of peace to the youth of Moscow, Peking, London, Paris and Washington, capitals of the five nuclear powers which are permanent members of the United Nations Security Council.

GIVE SPEECH

Contestants will be required to submit an essay which will serve as a speech which he or she would like to address to the youth of all nations on the general themes of youth and peace. They will be asked to give this speech at least once during their peace mission to an audience mainly of young people.

The other major objective of the project will be to take advantage of the enthusiasm generated by the contest to raise enough funds to not only pay for the tour but also make an additional donation to non-profit associations contributing to the fight against famine in Africa. This fundraising goal of the contest will serve as a concrete way to promote the cause of peace and international development.

RULES OF THE CONTEST

Participants in the contest should be interested in the goals of the project and must be 18 to 29 years of age, inclusively, as of January 1st, 1985. Participants must also be free to travel beginning August 1 through September 6. CLUBTOUR employees, jury members, and relatives of employees and jury members are not eligible.

Contestants are also required to prepare a file that includes the following:

- A birth certificate, curriculum vitae, reference letter, and a letter written by the contestant explaining his or her reasons for wanting to participate in this project.
- An essay either in French or English, or a maximum length of 250 words on the general subject of peace addressed to the youth of all nations and world leaders. The essay must also cover the three priorities set out by the United Nations: PARTICIPATION, INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT and PEACE.

- A certified cheque of $10 made out to: LES VOYAGEURS-VOYAGEUSES DE LA PAIX INC. This amount will serve as a primary source of financing for the project.

All documents in the file should be either in English or French. They should be typewritten; handwritten letters and essays will not be accepted. The deadline for all entries is midnight, March 31, 1985. Entries postmarked after this date will not be accepted.

Entry forms are available at any of the 36 OTEQ travel bureaus. The offices are principally located at francophone Cegeps and Universities. Forms may also be found at McGill, Concordia, Bishop and Ottawa Universities and finally at:

Canada anniversaries happening in 1985

Fredericton, the capital of New Brunswick, was founded on February 22, 1785. Also at Fredericton, the University of New Brunswick marks its 200th birthday.

Saint John, the largest city in New Brunswick, celebrates the bicentennial of its incorporation as a city by royal charter from King George III. It was the first Canadian city to be incorporated.

Cape Breton was created as a separate province in 1784 and annexed to Nova Scotia in 1820. On Cape Breton, Sydney, North Sydney and Cheticamp are also 200 years old.

In Quebec City, the Jesuit College celebrates its 350th anniversary while the town of Mont-Laurier, 240 km north of Montreal, is 100 years old.

Fifty years ago, in Oshawa, Ontario, the McLaughlin Motor Company was founded. Later, it became General Motors of Canada.

The School of Mounted Infantry, in Winnipeg, turns 100 this year.

Saskatchewan honours the centennial of the Northwest Rebellion. The province itself is 80 years old this year.

Lethbridge, Alberta, celebrates its centennial.

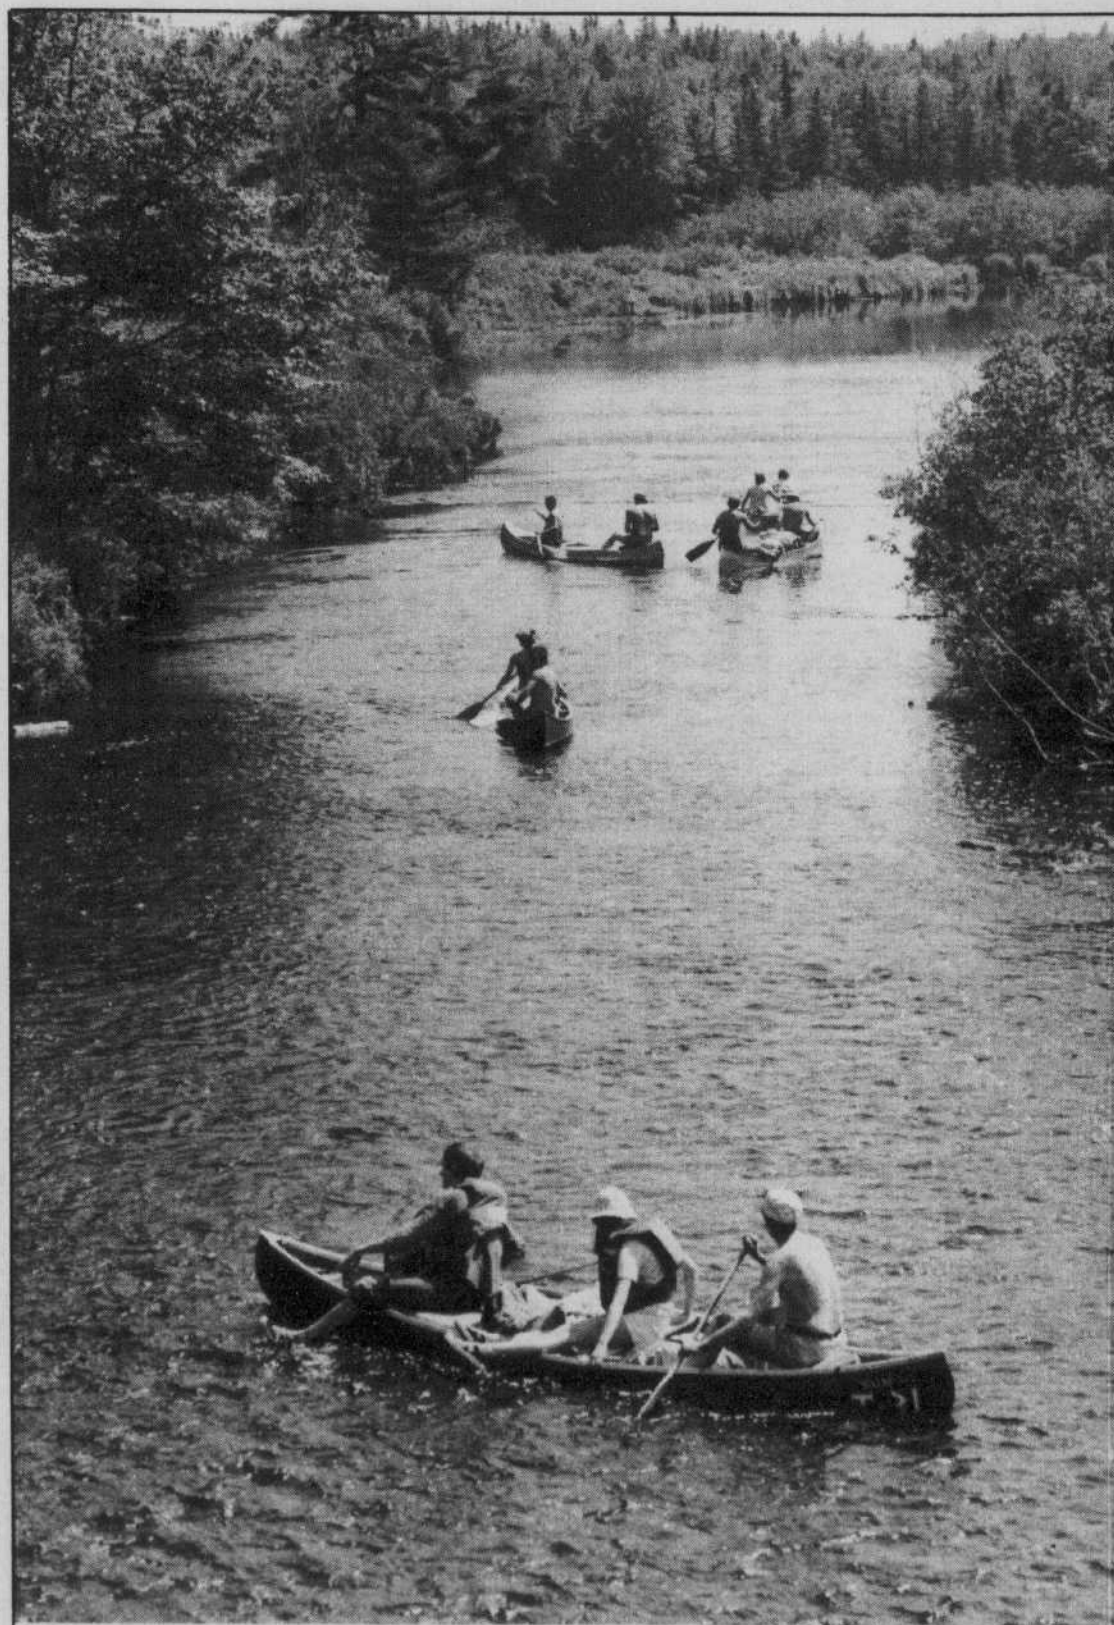

On November 7, 1885, the Last Spike was driven by Sir Donald Alexander Smith so this year marks the 100th anniversary of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Hudson Bay was discovered by Henry Hudson 375 years ago. He was looking for a Northwest Passage to India.

Her Majesty's Chapel of the Mohawks, on the banks of the Grand River near Brantford, Ontario, was the first Protestant church in Ontario. It is now 200 years old.

Parks Canada celebrates 100 years of conservation of heritage places in Canada. It started with Banff National Park in 1885. There are now 31 national parks and over 1,000 historic parks, sites and monuments under Parks Canada administration.

The CPR telegram system is also 100 years old, the Royal Canadian Navy marks its diamond jubilee and so do the Canadian Girl Guides.

Coastline canoeing

From May to October canoeing is a challenging outdoor activity in Nova Scotia, where ocean canoeing around the province's 4,625-mile-long coastline has recently increased in popularity.

Yvette McKenna and Doreen Farrell: Sherbrooke — A Good Town for Good Living

"We like the pace of life in Sherbrooke, and there are so many interesting people to meet. It doesn't matter if you're English - or French - speaking; everyone gets along well together. We have a lot of good times with the neighbors, who are our friends."

"After living in Ontario for twelve years, I decided to come back to Sherbrooke, and I'm glad I did. You could offer me anywhere, but for me there's no better place to live. Sherbrooke-this time for good!"
