

PM Hints At Second Sitting

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament got a hint from Prime Minister Diefenbaker Friday that it may be in for a second sitting later this year unless the Commons speeds up the handling of government business.

Opposition spokesmen, commenting outside the House, promptly hit at him.

"Repulsive," said CCF House Leader Hazen Argue.

"Wielding his influence to curtail discussion," said Lionel Chevrier, Liberal floor leader.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested a second sitting for this year when Liberal Leader Pearson asked in the House when there might be an opportunity for a defence debate.

DEPENDS ON PROGRAM

That, the prime minister indicated, will depend on how the legislative program gets along. It has been going at a snail's pace up to now.

"Over the years, I have been opposed to holding two sessions a year," he added, "and I hope that we shall be able to advance this legislative program."

"Otherwise—and there is no criticism in this whatsoever—at the rate that progress is being made I would think that my views expressed in the past against two sessions a year may have to be changed."

The order paper—business before the House—did not seem to be diminishing at any great rate.

Later, outside the House, Mr. Diefenbaker indicated that when he referred to "sessions" he was thinking of a second sitting in the fall of the current session that began Jan. 14, with a summer recess intervening.

US Satellite A Success

Instruments Work Perfectly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pioneer V hurtled on through the silent reaches of space today, heading for its destined place as a tiny new sister planet between earth and Venus.

By 8 a.m., 24 hours after launching, it was estimated to be about 187,150 miles from earth. By this afternoon it should cross the moon's orbit around the earth, about 232,000 miles out. Then it will plunge onward in its five-months trip to an orbit around the sun.

The sphere, 26 inches in diameter, is packed with cunningly miniaturized scientific instruments, already sending to earth a wealth of important new information. On command from stations on earth, one of the satellite's two radio switches on and sends back a loud clear signal until switched off to conserve the sun-powered batteries.

Pioneer V is the third man-made thing to be hurled into a planet-like orbit around the sun. The brilliant success of its Thor-Able launching rocket and the evidence that everything aboard is in perfect working order gave the beleaguered American space scientists a tremendous boost in self-esteem after watching Russia's successes.

311-DAY YEAR

Pioneer V is the first satellite to be fired towards an orbit inside the earth's. After it falls into its endless race around the sun, its orbit will touch the earth's and swing to within about 7,000,000 miles of Venus's smaller orbit. It's "year" around the sun will be about 311 days.

Lanza's Widow Is Found Dead

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Mrs. Betty Lanza, the widow of the late singer Mario Lanza, was found dead in bed Friday at her home, police reported.

Police Capt. Paul Smith said a maid found the body in late afternoon. Mrs. Lanza was dressed in a negligee, Smith said. There was no sign of foul play.

Smith said cause of the death of the 37-year-old widow of the stormy tenor still was under investigation.

Lanza died of a heart attack in Rome last Oct. 7.

No Ottawa Approach On Bourque Proposal

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

The suggestion advanced by Finance Minister Bourque last Saturday before the Sherbrooke Richelieu Club that a system of seasonal military service be instituted for university students appears to have been nothing more than that — a suggestion.

In any event, the Quebec Minister apparently has made no approach to the federal authorities on his proposal.

Replying to a question from Liberal Marcel Boivin asking whether the federal government had received any communication on this subject and whether he had any comment to make, Associate Defence Minister Pierre Sevigny told the Commons Thursday that personally he had received no communication on this matter but that he would inquire from department officials whether the suggestion had been presented formally.

When he advanced his scheme, Mr. Bourque insisted it was something that deserved study, although he admitted there might be many disadvantages to the idea.

WINTER WORKS — At least two Eastern Townships municipalities, Cowansville and Farnham, have taken advantage of the federal government offer to pay half the labor cost involved in carrying out municipal public works during the winter months.

As a result of this drive to ease the impact of seasonal unemployment on the Canadian economy, 51 men were given a total of 2,104 days of work on six projects undertaken by the two towns, according to information provided by Howard Gaffney, Member of Parliament for Brome-Missisquoi.

Prepare 'Package' Offering

PARIS (AP)—The United States has agreed to reduce its armed forces to 2,100,000 men if Russia does the same, informed sources said today.

The Western Allies were meeting again today to put the final touches to a package plan they will present to the Soviet Union when the 10-power disarmament talks open in Geneva Tuesday.

Informed sources said the manpower ceiling would be a highlight of a three-part scheme proposed to the Communist block for reducing military forces and ending the nuclear weapons race.

The U.S., Britain, France, Canada and Italy have been working out differences to present a united front at Geneva.

THREE-POINT PLAN

The Western plan calls for three main stages:

1. Establishment of an international disarmament agency to centralize all records of armaments and troops maintained by all powers.
2. Agreement by all powers involved to stop producing nuclear weapons and to convert materials on hand to "atoms for peace" programs; reduce the armed forces of Russia and the U.S.
3. End of production of nuclear weapons and ballistic missiles with a military use; and eventually reduction of all arms to the lowest level needed for security.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev wants total disarmament, with the first stage limiting U.S., Russian and Red China forces to 1,700,000 each and Britain and France to 650,000 each.

Freack Collision In Mid-Air

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—An aerial collision with a fellow parachutist saved the life of a Swedish soldier whose parachute failed to open in a jump from 1,200 feet. About 500 feet from the ground, Rolf Johansson hit the parachute of one of his comrades. His own parachute was ripped open by the impact. A few seconds later, both jumpers landed safely.

2 Firemen Hurt At The Rand

Two firemen, Lucien Lachance and Gilbert Lavoie, were slightly injured in a fire which broke out in a section of the roof of the Canadian Ingersoll Rand Co. Ltd. here last night. The blaze was quickly brought under control.

Early this morning, firemen fought a stubborn blaze that broke out among bales of cotton in a freight car on a siding near the CPR station. Water was still being poured on the smoldering bales six hours after the outbreak was spotted at 4 a.m.

U.S. Snaps At Cuba

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUICK LOOK: U.S. turns angry on Cuba. New storms bring hardship and death. Royal wedding date announced. Beate and Gina to live in Canada.

President Eisenhower arrived home from his four-nation visit to South America with warm words about hemispheric friendship. But a quarrel became hotter and hotter between the United States and Cuba.

State Secretary Christian Herter denounced as "baseless, erroneous and misleading" Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's implied charge that the U.S. was responsible for the fatal explosion of a munitions ship in Havana harbor last week.

Cuba rejected this as "insulting" and demanded "absolute respect" from Washington. Relations between the two countries became steadily colder amid speculation that the U.S. may amend its Sugar Act, which now favors Cuba.

KHRUSHCHEV'S PROMISE
Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, home from a South Asian tour, was reported as saying the Russians are ready to enter into a worldwide pact to destroy all nuclear weapons "under proper surveillance."

In Paris, meanwhile, five Western nations—the U.S., Britain, France, Canada and Italy—reached a agreement on a "common plan" on disarmament to present to Russia and four other Communist countries next week in Geneva. The plan outlines inspection and control proposals considered necessary for real disarmament.

DE GAULLE'S STAND

President Charles de Gaulle, also home from a tour—this one in Algeria—had some blunt words to say about that war-torn territory.

The French president said total Algerian independence would lead to partitioning of the colony into French and Moslem areas. He added that refusal by the Moslem nationalists to enter into negotiations for a cease-fire leaves France with no choice but to crush the rebellion, now in its sixth year, by military force.

His views, expressed in a communique, presaged a harder line in the brutal conflict.

MARGARET AND BEAU

From London came news that Princess Margaret will marry Antony Armstrong-Jones May 6. Travel agents predict the wedding will draw greater crowds to London than the Coronation seven years ago.

Prince Philip will give the bride away and the Archbishop of Canterbury will officiate at the service in Westminster Abbey.

FATAL STORM

A wild March storm with winds whirling up to 80 miles an hour lashed the North Atlantic Wednesday, staggering transportation, shipping and communications in the Maritimes.

The storm struck southern Nova Scotia five weeks after a record 30-inch snowfall crippled the district Feb. 3. Newfoundland received its second major weather assault within a week. The Atlantic blasts were the most spectacular of March storms that plagued a large part of the continent with considerable loss of life.

By noon Friday, one of three missing fishing vessels had turned up safely and an air search continued for the two others. A new storm then was churning Atlantic waters south of the Maritimes.

GINA TO CANADA

The word came out that Italian movie queen Gina Lollobrigida, her physician husband and their young son are coming to Canada to seek Canadian citizenship.

Arriving in mid-April, they will live in Toronto where the husband, Yugoslav-born Dr. Milko Drago Skolic, who is a stateless person, has a brother.

Apparently British Columbia hoped to lure the beautiful actress away from Ontario. A B.C. publicity man sent her provincial booklets and scribbled a note: "Toronto, phooey."

Moon To Wear Coppery Coat With Eclipse

The moon will wear a strange coppery-red cloak early Sunday.

It will be passing through the earth's shadow in a total eclipse of the moon beginning at 2:41 a.m. EST and lasting until 4:15 a.m.

Lunar eclipses occur when the moon is on the opposite side of the earth from the sun, and soars through the earth's great cone-shaped shadow, cast by the sun, extending about 860,000 miles into space.

'Princess To Wed Man We Fired' Students Claim

MANCHESTER (CP) — Gad, sir! University chaps these days haven't any respect.

Some Britons might think the comment appropriate for the headline the Cambridge undergraduate newspaper, Varsity, used on its story of Princess Margaret's wedding plans: "Princess to marry the man we fired."

It develops that Margaret's photographer fiancée, Tony Armstrong-Jones, got the headline from Varsity in 1950.

The Guardian quotes John Hailey, former head of Varsity's photographic department, as saying Armstrong-Jones was fired because he was "just not a suitable person for Varsity."

Man's Distress Often Leads To Success

By JANE SCOTT

Adversity often is the acid test of character and faith. The man or woman who can keep faith in the wisdom and love of God alive when his security is threatened has what the Bible calls "saving faith."

It is this quiet confidence in the will and power of God to solve our problems which sustains our mental and moral equilibrium while others sink into the slough of despondency.

That distress often leads to success has been proven by thousands of people. Many a man and woman has discovered God as an ally when they found themselves in the clutches of adversity.

And not a few of us are grateful to God for the distresses that led to our successes. A business slump that jeopardizes our security; a long sickness that cuts short education and reduces our chances of advancement in the office, factory or mill.

These things cause panic if

Early Pioneer History Part Of A-D-S High

By SANDRA YOUNG
A-D-S, High

A long, low brick building, with a horseshoe driveway leading to its main entrance is the first impression a stranger would have of Asbestos-Danville-Shipton High School. First impressions however, often present only a fractional view of the true picture.

Our school is consolidated, and much history is written into its name. The small one-room school of Shipton, the Asbestos High School, and Danville Academy, one of the earliest institutions of higher learning in this area, are now one. To this consolidated school come children whose great-grandparents cleared their land from virgin forests, children whose parents have come from other countries, and children whose parents come from other parts of Canada. All these bring with them different ways of life, but at A-D-S, we become united.

Our staff numbers 25, which includes teachers of music, art, household science, industrial arts, physical education, commercial courses, as well as our general courses of study.

Our science laboratory is very modern and well-equipped. The Household Science laboratory contains two complete kitchens, a sewing room, and a laundry. Here our girls learn the rudiments of good nutrition, budgeting, interior decorating, child care, fabric composition, grooming, etc. Our Industrial Arts room contains many expensive machines and tools. Our boys may purchase materials at a low cost, from which they make any article of their choice—from boats to breadboards. As a result of this training, some of our graduates have specialized in these subjects.

Our spacious gymnasium affords the opportunity for physical education classes as well as indoor sports. Movies, assemblies, and concerts are held in the gym.

Our drama club has become a prominent feature in our school. It was formed three years ago. Each year a three-act play has been presented, a melodrama entitled "Drums of Death", and two comedies, "Men are Like Streetcars" and "Adam's Evening". The casts for these plays numbered approximately ten. Dramatics improve the posture, speech delivery, and memory of the participants. It creates a spirit of good fellowship, and the income from our productions is a welcome addition to our Student Council funds.

Sports activities are well organized, ably coached, and prove very popular with our student body. Hockey, soccer, softball, volleyball, basketball and badminton are some of our sports. A few of our athletes have excelled in their favourite sport, both at the Eastern Townships, Provincial, and Dominion levels. In the past few years our schedules have been extended. This broadens our views of competitive sports. Our intra-mural sports afford opportunities for greater participation. We are particularly proud of our outdoor track, made recently. We expect this will encourage our girls' fine relay team, as well as further track interests among the pupils.

Our large well-stocked library gives pupils occasion to obtain information from many reference books, also borrow books for leisurely reading. A very substantial library fund was established upon the death of a loyal, interested friend of our school. This fund is known as The Cecil Brehaut Memorial Fund. The responsibility of sorting, filing, recording, etc., of all library books is assumed by student librarians.

The Students' Council is an executive body consisting of class representatives and a staff advisor. One of its main sources of income is the annual Curtis Campaign. Magazine subscriptions and renewals are solicited by our enthusiastic and energetic salesmen. We are grateful to our citizens for their support in this endeavour from year to year. Other funds are obtained from activity fees, the sale of school supplies at the school store, dances, and parties. Most student activities are sponsored by these funds.

Our school was singularly honored when our grade two class won first prize at the C.N.E. exhibition for the mural they entered. This mural was featured in a leading Canadian magazine and now has a place of honor in our foyer.

We publish annually a fine school magazine entitled The Fire. This contains much information for its readers regarding staff, student body, and activities.

The cafeteria hums with activity. Hot lunches are prepared daily for over two hundred students. This makes it possible for our bus conveyed pupils to enjoy hot meals at noon.

As much responsibility as possible is given to the students regarding financing, planning, and conducting the many and varied projects undertaken.

In this building, pupils from grades one to eleven work and play with a spirit of helpfulness, courtesy, and respect towards each other and their teachers. Such is our school. We graduate from it well prepared to take our place as future citizens of the larger community.

THE ZOROASTRIANS
WORSHIPPED FIRE...

In various stages of the history of man, he has called upon natural forces to help him... in this way were developed sun worship and fire worship. At other times men worshipped animals and believed in good and evil spirits.

About 500 B.C., Zoroaster founded a system of religion that became the national faith of ancient Persia. The main feature of this belief was a good and evil power or deity perpetually striving against its two natures. The religion spread to what are present-day Iran, Iraq, Afghanistan, Pakistan and even to India, where there are still some hundreds of thousands of adherents.

Today, as 2500 years ago, fire is bursting from the ground, permitting fire worshippers to follow their beliefs. These eruptions, mysterious and terrifying in the time of Zoroaster, are now known to be caused by gases formed in the vicinity of petroleum deposits.

The countries in which the religion founded by Zoroaster flourished, have large petroleum deposits. The oil you buy to heat your home probably came from these regions. The firm of W. H. Defence Testimony Begins

Would-Be Bouncer Intended Victim Letellier Murder Trial Jury Told

By PAT BOUGIE
(Record Staff Reporter)

Andre Letellier returned to a Lake Megantic dance hall with a gun Christmas night 1959 with the intention of killing the man who tried to eject him from the hall, the Letellier murder case jury was told yesterday.

The jury also heard defence evidence from members of the Lake Megantic youth's family who said he looked and acted peculiar the day before and the day of the murder.

This was the first regular defence testimony since the beginning of the trial, four days ago. Defence counsel Stanley Steinman said the defence is not expected to rest its case before Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

Letellier is charged with the murder of Jean-Louis Lacroix, 19, of Lake Megantic, shot to death about 10.30 p.m. last Christmas Day.

Crown witness Lucien Breton, 38-year-old Megantic welder who drove Letellier home after the youth had been persuaded to leave the dance hall said: "Upon reaching Letellier's home, he asked me to wait for him. He told me he was going to pick up his gun, return to the dance hall and kill Jean-Marie Baron, the man who tried to eject him."

THREATENED

"I told him I would not wait and he threatened me. He said I would fall first. He got out of the car and I drove away," Mr. Breton said.

First defence witness, Luc Letellier, 29-year-old brother of Andre, said: "When I visited my brother at the municipal police cells Christmas night he was not normal."

"He started shaking the doors of his cell. Then he started crying, laughing, singing and hitting the walls of his cell with his fists over and over," Luc Letellier testified.

Crown witness Breton gave this account of events leading up to the murder:

"I first saw Andre Letellier about 9.30 p.m. Christmas night. He came into the Knights of Columbus hall (located next door to the dance hall where Lacroix was shot) to leave his overcoat and hat."

"The next time I saw Letellier was about 10.15 p.m. when I went to the dance hall after the owner, Mrs. Fortin, called me over to try and throw Letellier out. When I walked in he was fighting with Jean-Marie Baron. I separated them. That is when Letellier told me to shut up and to wait."

"I waited for him. That is when he said to Baron 'I will come back in 15 minutes and kill you.' I then accompanied Letellier out of the basement dance hall and back to the Knights of Columbus hall."

"I then gave him a coat but he said it was not his. I tried a second overcoat and again he said it was not his. On the third try he recognized his coat and put it on. I gave him his hat and we left."

HEAD SWAYED

"Outside, he walked like a normal man from the building we had just left to my car. On the way to his house, however, his head started swaying back and forth. When I arrived at his house when he asked me to wait and when I refused he threatened me," Mr. Breton said.

"I then returned to the dance hall where I told Mrs. Fortin that she had no worries, I had taken Letellier home," he testified.

"No sooner had I said this than Letellier walked in behind me brandishing a gun. He walked to the center of the hall, gun in hand and asked where Baron was. I told him he was not there. He repeated his question. I told him he had left for home."

"Then he raised his gun in the air and ordered everyone into the corner. Some went; others stayed where they were. He then fired a shot into the ceiling. Then everybody went into the corner. I saw Lacroix (the victim) walking past Letellier and try to take the gun from his hand. Then I heard three to four shots."

"Next thing I saw was Lacroix slumping to the floor into a sitting position and grabbing his chest. Then Letellier ran out of the dance hall, gun in hand," concluded Mr. Breton.

Defence witness, Andre Letellier's brother, Luc had the following to say:

"My brothers and sister, including Andre all went to midnight Mass December 24. Following midnight Mass the family and friends, numbering about 15 came over to the house for a little party. Andre was there with his girl friend Odette Morin."

SERVED LIQUOR

"I then served some homemade liquor reduced five parts to one with orange juice. Andre had two glasses that I know of."

"After finishing two 26 ounce bottles of the liquor I decided to mix more. The second batch I mixed was 'undrinkable' and I threw it out."

"I stayed in the house until about 4 a.m. after which I left for the officers' mess in Megantic. My brother was still up at that time. When I came home the next morning about 9 a.m., Andre was sleeping on my bed. He was fully clothed. I left the house again and returned about supper time."

"I saw Andre at supper time

Christmas Day. He had been drinking. After kissing my younger sisters and wishing them a Merry Christmas he went into the living room and cried. He then left shortly afterwards."

"I then saw him again before 11 p.m. that night. He came in walked past me and went into a room."

"I thought he was going to change his clothes. They looked awful. A few minutes later he went out. This is when my younger sister remarked 'Andre looks funny.'"

"The next thing I knew was when Capt. Pierre Boulay, of the municipal police force came and told me that my brother had brought down two men and he had to find him. We both left for the police station where I saw Andre. He was stripped to the waist. Police were searching him."

"They then placed him in a cell where he started his singing and crying," the witness concluded.

372.02 compared to a total of $146,136.38 in 1958.

Three more driving permits were revoked in 1959 than in 1958, compared to 27 in 1958. Ten trials were held before juries in which four verdicts of guilty were reached and five of not guilty. One trial was ordered.

Summary convictions totalled 265, of which 225 were fines, 11 jail sentences, and 20 acquittals.

Purchasing A Reliable Camera Not To Be Done Without Care

The above picture is probably the way you look to a camera dealer showing you a super automatic camera, but I might warn: "Don't drool too long or act childish when about to purchase the camera you have your heart set on."

I'm going to try to give you a few tips on purchasing that camera. Before going too far into detail about the various methods of approach I will discuss camera buying in general.

The safest place to buy new or used cameras is at a reputable dealer whose sole merchandise is photographic equipment, but in some cities, including ours, there are none. So pick one who is recognized as honest and can give intelligent opinion on the subject of photography. He will be able to answer questions about equipment, make recommendations, listen attentively to your problems. He hopes to keep you as a steady customer, he wants your business for films, flash bulbs and accessories, he will go out of his way for you. Often you will find him just as interested a photographer as you are. If you don't like a piece of equipment you have purchased, he will listen sympathetically and may do something about it.

Large stores are not necessarily more reliable than small ones, but there is a good way to test

By
them—go in and ask them about their guarantees on equipment, new or used. Most manufacturers guarantee their equipment, but returning the item is a chore, so get one from the store too. Do your business in your home town.
A reputable dealer's time, service and advice are worth money. It's nice too, to have a friend nearby in the camera business, especially if you have paid him hard earned money for your photographic equipment. If something goes wrong deals in distant cities may not help you. But your local good-humored man in all probability would loan you a camera for that wedding you have to photograph for your old aunt in Kalamazoo.

If you buy privately, be very careful on two points—one, that it is not stolen equipment, and secondly, check the leather on the camera. If this is not scuffed or worn, it usually is a sign it has not been misused. Check the shutter speeds to see if they operate all the way through their range. Look closely for scratches on the lens, and lastly, expose a roll of film in the camera at various speeds in the bright light or sun. Have it developed and check for indications of fog and for accuracy of focusing.

Far Fields, Patriotism Win Speaking Test Awards

Douglas Whatley and Mary Brown, both Grade eight students yesterday won the Kiwanis Junior Public Speaking shields at the annual contest at the Sherbrooke High School, over four other students, Lawrence Smith, Keith Doherty, Carole McGaw and Georgette Anto.

Speaking on the topic "Distant Fields are Greener," Douglas Whatley treated his subject with considerable humor and good taste. Explaining the fact that distant fields may appear to some to be not quite so green, he pointed out that what may appear good at a distance may assume a different aspect on closer inspection.

Basically, his topic involved the appeal of the unknown such as interplanetary travel, its interest for those of more adventurous mind an instinct of curiosity.

However, he was quick to point out the pitfalls of discovery of such knowledge and its less romantic aspects.

Miss Brown, discussing patriotism, described the emotions involved. Apart from the feelings and emotions of love and hate, she mentioned a third, the feeling of patriotism.

Its true meaning, she explained, was a sense of pride, loyalty and honor.

Patriotism, she said, is the sensation one obtains when reading of the accomplishments of a fellow Canadian in winning a gold medal at the Olympic games; it is the sense of justified retaliation in the event of martial invasion.

Keith Doherty spoke on Canada's Northland; Carol McGaw and Georgette Anto on learning by one's own mistakes; and Lawrence Smith described Vincent Massey, the greatest living Canadian.

That Government Payroll

In the latter half of the nineteenth century, an English student of government evolved the so-called "Parkinson's Law," which declared that the number of civil servants was always just equal to the amount of work to be done.

Probably Prof. Parkinson was thinking in a somewhat lighter vein when he propounded his "law," but it is no idle jest when one looks at the growing number of persons on the federal payroll. Salaries and wages of public servants, including the armed forces, represent about 22 per cent of the federal expenditures and are about 15 times their pre-war level.

Between 1925 and 1940, the number of permanent and temporary civil servants increased from 39,000 to 50,000, or about 28 per cent, with the payroll increasing proportionally from $57,000,000 to $75,000,000.

The next five years, from 1940 to 1945, saw the number of civil servants grow from 50,000 to 116,000 with the payroll jumping from $73,000,000 to $180,000,000. This represents a somewhat staggering increase but may be excused by the fact that the country was fighting a war, the greatest in its history.

But the war cannot be used to explain away what followed. In the 15 years since the war the number of persons employed by the Canadian government has risen by 84,000 men and women to cross the 200,000 mark, with the payroll reaching $1,250,000,000. To put it simply, more persons were added to the federal payroll in the past 15 years than were added during the war.

Federal civil service salaries represent $300 annually for every Canadian who pays income tax, while the average income tax paid this year will be $375.

The figures for provincial civil servants and municipal employees are not readily available, but judging from the increasing amount of space required for administrative offices, it is likely that payrolls of government at lower levels have increased correspondingly.

No Social Visit

There were many who hoped, optimistically, that Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion's visit to the United States was a sign of lessening tension in the Middle East.

Why, they asked, would he choose this time to accept an honorary degree from a New England College (Brandeis), appear on U.S. television and pay what was ostensibly a social call on the president of the United States?

Well, they have their answer now. Although Mr. Ben-Gurion himself has been mum in his talks with reporters there is little doubt that his call on Mr. Eisenhower was by no means a social one.

Reuters reported on Tuesday that officials in Tel Aviv were no longer denying that he would give Western leaders including Mr. Eisenhower, a pre-Summit warning of the dangers of the flow of Soviet arms to the Arab countries. It is also believed, but not confirmed, that the Israeli premier made a strong appeal to the President and Secretary of State Herter for a relaxation of arms trading restrictions which made it difficult for his country to keep up with the Arab countries.

The Manchester Guardian reports that Egypt appears to be on the verge of acquiring TU-16 bombers, much larger than its present IL-28's. It is also seen as certain that Egypt and Iraq will re-equip their MIG-17 fighters squadrons with MIG-19's.

To match this the Israelis would probably want at least the Super-Sabre or one of the more advanced Mach 2 fighters, the Guardian claims.

There is also speculation that the Israelis may be trying to solve their air defence problems by acquiring an anti-aircraft missile system such as the American Nike or the British Bloodhound.

In any case it appears certain that Mr. Ben-Gurion's visit is far from being a social one.

Unofficial Do-Gooders

Reports from the earthquake-ravaged town of Agadir indicate that a host of "unofficial do-gooders" caused delay in getting official Red Cross mercy teams to the area.

A Red Cross official in Morocco is quoted as saying: "We were swamped by unofficial medical teams from all over the world. This caused a little delay in organizing the official mercy teams."

This is another example of that hoary saw that too many cooks spoil the broth.

In times of tragedy anywhere, a helping hand is always needed and appreciated, but such is human nature that often the help becomes an obstacle to relief, and sometimes, if allowed to run unhindered, can compound the disaster.

Well meant gestures, actions that stem from the very best of motives, kindly concern; all of these unfortunately, can be overdone and too often are if they are not governed by common sense and some judgment.

Little St. Hugh Topic Of Possible Controversy

LONDON (CP)—There are the makings of a first-class controversy between the Church of England and the Roman Catholic Church, but it's almost certain to fizzle out.

Neither side seems particularly interested in making an issue out of Little St. Hugh.

Little St. Hugh, incidentally, has been buried in Lincoln Cathedral since 1255. By legend, the eight-year-old boy is one of the great Christian martyrs.

He was allegedly murdered by the Jews as an insult to Jesus Christ.

The Catholic Church erected a shrine to Little St. Hugh, then canonized him. With the Reformation, the Church of England took possession of the boy's burial ground and clung dearly to the legend.

Now, more than 700 years after the death of Little St. Hugh, the Church of England has decided that he was a nobody.

A framed notice that stood over his grave for centuries has been taken down. And the little boy, mentioned in the writings of Chaucer and several British ballads, now is described by the Church of England as "merely a child buried in the cathedral without special significance."

But he is still regarded as a saint by the Catholic Church.

Officials of both churches, commenting on the issue, have made it fairly clear that there won't be any feud. The Church of England considers it a closed affair and a Catholic Church spokesman says "nothing has been done, or is expected to be done about it."

A new plaque over Little St. Hugh's grave says: "Trampled over stories of ritual murders of Christian boys by Jewish communities were common throughout Europe during the Middle Ages and much later. These fictions cost many Jews their lives. Lincoln has its own legend and the alleged victim was buried in the cathedral.

"Such stories do not redound to the credit of Christendom and we pray 'Remember not, Lord, our offences nor the offences of others.'"

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

SECOND HAND HIGH, SOMETIMES

A couple of time honored bridge aphorisms are "Second hand low" and "Cover an honor with an honor." Both have a lot of merit but neither should be followed at all times and, when they conflict you must favor one against the other.

North's jump to three no-trump was a slight overbid. West opened the queen of spades and South went right up with dummy's king. He would have killed to hold up one lead but the heart suit was even more dangerous than the spade.

South promptly led the jack of clubs from dummy and East immediately had his moment of decision. Which saying should he follow?

It didn't take East long to see that there was nothing to gain by playing low. If West held the king or queen it would make later on. If West held four to the ten it behooved East to capture an honor with the ace. So East played the ace and since West held those four clubs to the ten and the king of hearts South had to go down.

Saturday's Sermon:

Looking Ahead

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Suppose you saw a car going down the street and you were to ask the driver, "Where are you going?" Oh, he answers, "I don't know where I am going. You would think there was something wrong with him. He ought not to be allowed to drive through the crowded streets if he does not know where he is going."

Yet along the Road of Life, I have frequently met those who, not knowing Whither bound? were just drifting, blown hither and yon by the winds of chance. For them with no dream in their heart to give direction and force to their life, they just floated along. Lacking the LOOKING AHEAD attitude, there was nothing of the spirit of Columbus about them and so they mutinied against the Captain Christ and throwing the Ten Commandments of daily sailing, overboard, turn back. Well when there are no goals to lure one on, goals demanding disciplined thinking and living to which we bend our energies, it is not surprising that life consequently becomes soft, ineffective, drab, aimless.

"MINDS ABOVE"

Those who study men and motives tell us that much of life's ineffectiveness is primarily due to our lacking the pioneer spirit to LOOK AHEAD. These solid folk with their feet on the earth and their minds guided by the Holy Spirit were ever watchful for knowledge of God so that in the temporal they could discover that which is eternal.

And by travelling hopefully, they successfully fought their battles against nature on the outside and nature on the inside. Today their achievement is a source of inspiration to us, their inheritors and wise indeed shall we be, if and when we avail ourselves of the inspiration and power that came to them from LOOKING AHEAD to the reign of Christ as The King of Glory.

So with this forward look as a determining factor in their fine, robust, healthy living and, imitating them, we, too, shall plan to function in two worlds (a) that of the material here and now and (b) that of the spiritual in the world to come with its promise of Everlasting Life. And those who REALLY live are they who embrace and ever hold fast the blessed hope of everlasting life. So much so that daily, by the quality of their lives, send heavenward the materials which shall determine whether their future heavenly home be that of a cabin or a mansion.

Without this great expectation this magnificent obsession if you will which comes from looking ahead, it is no wonder their lives are meaningless, drab, out-of-joint inharmonious. To travel hopefully and successfully along the Road of Life, we must have the Hope of Glory as a basic. It is essential for rational living. In fact, the lives of the holy and humble of heart undeniably declare that it was because of this blessed hope of everlasting life which our blessed Lord gave us that they know life's satisfactions. Yet notwithstanding this tonic of big ideas, this inspiration for abundant living here and now, this gift of God available at all times and in all places, there are throngs of men and women still adrift, aiming at nothing, going nowhere.

KNOW WHERE YOU ARE GOING

To stop and redirect this great unceasing procession of unhappy, restless, uncertain, tired wandering nomads to the Road of Loving Hearts with Him Who Himself said He was — is — THE ROAD (John 14:6) is your task and mine. So we begin at the beginning, that is with yourself and myself, simply by filling our daily life with definite purposes. Know where you are going is but another way of stating this fact. The world, you know, makes a way for him or her who knows where he or she is going. If then we wish to receive the support of "the world," we must meet its basic requirement of "self-knowledge, self-reverence, self-control." And armed not only with a plan but with specific details for its application we keep on travelling hopefully till we reach our destination. Our goal, Journey's End.

TWO DISCOVERIES AWAIT
Each life then follows a pattern designed by None Other than the Architect of the Universe Himself Who is our Father-Mother, God. We are His children and as such it follows that it is the will, the plan, the design of a God so great and powerful as the "Maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible" that those made in His image and subject to moral and spiritual as well as natural laws should live according to a plan designed by the Same Divine Architect.

Knew ye, my dearly beloved brethren, that "from the skies you came and to the skies you must at last return" so penned Dr. Boreham.

Two great discoveries accordingly await (a) To discover God's plan for YOU and (b) to discover the Architect Himself. Let us forthwith begin by fixing our gaze and thoughts on JESUS ONLY. From the Heart of God, He, for us man and our salvation came to Bethlehem. After 33 years spent as Boy, Man, Teacher, Defender Redeemer and Friend, with experiences at Nazareth, in the wilderness, at Calvary's Cross, three days in a tomb in a garden known now as the Resurrection Garden, 40 days later, He ascended from the Mount of Olives, into heaven from whence He came there to prepare a place, a room especially for you (John 14:2).

Jesus, we conclude, knew whether He was going. His destination, home Heaven! Ours, too, by trusting in His redeeming blood and daily endeavouring the works to do, we shall one day go home and be forever with the Lord.

And Lent is just the opportune time to prepare for this exodus. This adventure tremendous, this journey from self to God, from earth to heaven. And it is for a Lent so permeated with the hope symbolised by the Springtime and not that associated with ashes that I plead. Yes, a Lent in which we, in silence and quietude, take time to grow mentally and spiritually, all the while building our airy castles to which we later add firm and abiding foundations. Nor will we stop there but continue to trace out in detail the plans we have discovered, with our gaze on the future, rich in its prospects and possibilities.

Believe me, a Lent spent, in "looking well at our goings" (Proverbs 14:15) with special emphasis on INTELLIGENT planning, living, working, will, with its accompanying endowments of bolder gladness and peace divine, be a blessed forty days.

Penning these words I found myself taking out ye olde magic carpet and being wafted back to those days in which as a choir boy we sang:

"We are travelling HOME to GOD,
In the way our fathers trod:
They are happy now and we soon their happiness shall see."
Homeward Bound then suggests to me the answer Ruskin said every man must eventually give to "Where are you going?" The Road? Well, the Road of Life—The Great Highway — is not a long straight path — the untrod dem portion clearly visible—it is a winding undulating lane. Over this we walk "a step at a time." Often we hear a Voice bidding us to Come on! Each milestone is one less you have to travel. Brave! Keep on! I, Jesus the Pathfinder, the Way-shower, art beside YOU, with My grace, all sufficient, which shall be thy supply, always available. So keep right on! It is not far now and Home is ahead. Keep On!

KEEP TO THE RIGHT

Thinking of this spiritual walk, I recalled a walk I enjoyed in the yester-year. As I was visiting in a town which a friend of college days lived, I decided to surprise him. So off I set with scanty information and directions lacking in clarity. Along the road I sought reassurance from passers-by with each one assuring me that as I was on the right road to KEEP TO THE RIGHT and I would eventually reach my destination. And I did!

KEEP TO THE RIGHT was excellent advice that Springtime afternoon: it holds good for "everyday, o'er all the way."

If then you are beset with trials and temptations, in fact whatever type of trouble assails you particularly that in which the Devil with all his customary craft and subtlety insist on freely offering you, heed him not but KEEP TO THE RIGHT.

When in the grip of despair, disappointment, frustration, loneliness, perhaps bereft of friends who forsook thee and fled, do not deviate! Keep to the right!

OTTAWA—"Farewell, John Hampden."

Anyone remember when those words were spoken — and most dramatically spoken, I may say — in the Canadian House of Commons?

It was on a spring afternoon in 1956, and the House was in the midst of that unhappy pipeline debate in which the Liberal government applied closure technically and effectively.

It was Friday, May 25, and the man who used the dramatic words above was John Diefenbaker.

His "John Hampden" was the stocky, angry and frustrated Donald Fleming who had just been ordered to leave the chamber on adoption of a government motion suspending him for the rest of the day.

John Hampden was a 16th century English parliamentarian and fighter for the rights of the people and parliament.

THE RIGHT TO SPEAK

On that day which the reporters at once described as "Black Friday," the arrogance and resource to brute force by the powerful government party reached its zenith.

The House of Commons had been used, and possibly misused, to defeat the efforts of the little Conservative group to assert itself.

What Don Fleming had done was merely to insist on a right to speak to a point of order. Committee of the whole chairman William Robinson ordered him to sit down and he wouldn't.

Thereupon, the chairman had the committee rise and Speaker Beaudin summoned. The story was reported formally to the Speaker, who had no responsibility to do anything about it and said so. It was up to the government.

Then Finance Minister Walter Harris moved for Mr. Fleming's suspension and there was no debate allowed and, of course, the government majority carried the motion.

and not only in adversity but in prosperity too! So whatever you do KEEP TO THE RIGHT. TURN YOUR FACE HOMEWARD.

For, as you LOOK AHEAD, you know you have the word of a Gentleman who is also your Saviour and Friend Unchangeable that at the end of life's journey, there is a blessed home (John 14: 1-3). Those golden words, according to Dr. Boreham, contain all the stimulus a man needs in facing the stern realities of life; they contain all the solace he needs as he confronts the gathering shadows that haunt the portals of the life to come.

So turn your face homeward! We are pilgrims, in what may seem in our worst moods, a barren land yet, as Christians, we are to fare on with good cheer and a spirit of optimism, in THE HOPE OF GLORY, knowing that in the Providence of God, the Way we take — if it be Jesus' Way — leads not toward the gloom and the night but toward the dawn and the light that "Life shall on and upward go:

The eternal step of Progress beats
To that great anthem calm and slow
Which God repeats".

26, the Sherbrooke County Liberal Association will hold a dinner at the Hotel Sherbrooke at 7.30, the speaker at this gathering being J. A. Mongrain, a former mayor of Three Rivers who tangled at least once with the late Premier Duplessis in that riding.

The next day, the convention for the selection of a candidate will be held in St. Francis Xavier School, East Sherbrooke, at 2 p.m.

To date prospective candidates have kept themselves pretty well under cover, possible standard bearers refusing to indicate whether they are available or not.

The convention itself promises to be rather an ambitious affair, with over 575 voting delegates being expected.

This is part of the program for the democratization of the Liberal party which has been urged by Provincial Leader Jean Lesage. Ever since assuming the party leadership, Mr. Lesage has urged that the "grass roots" be given more say in the party affairs.

To achieve this objective the system of naming delegates has been altered.

Under the new system, the poll chiefs in each of the 180 polling divisions will be voting dele-150 delegates, chance enters the picture.

The membership lists of the Liberal Association, the Junior Liberal Association and the Ladies' Association have been filed with the convention executive. Fifty delegates from each group are selected by lot.

Having settled the "grass" delegates, the next step is to pick the "brass," who are not being forgotten.

On the official level there are Liberal Senators living in Sherbrooke county, one; local Liberal Members of Parliament and Members of the Legislature, none; candidates in the last federal and provincial elections, two; Liberal Members of the Legislative Council living in the county, none; executive of the County Liberal Association, eight; officers of the Junior Liberal Association, four; of the Ladies' Association, four; of the ward and parish Associations, somewhere in the vicinity of 40. And to make sure that no element is forgotten, the regional vice-president of the Liberal Federation is included.

Any person of known Liberal principles may be nominated at the convention as long as he has a mover and seconder. The candidates will be selected on the basis of an absolute majority of the votes cast. In the event of three or more persons being

SCOUTING

Scouting making a boy stronger in body, mind and spirit.

Cubmaster William Hall of the Bulwer - Birchton Pack reports the following: A hockey match was held at the Cookshire school rink, between the Bulwer-Birchton and Cookshire Cubs. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all - with a wonderful show of sportsmanship shown by all cubs concerned. The score a one all tie.

A B. P. church parade was held at the Bulwer United Church made up of the Scouts and Cubs - Owing to the stormy weather and road conditions only about 65 percent of the boys were present. At this service the boys took the Anthem, thereby, rendering a good turn to the regular choir.

Two new cubs have been added to our pack - namely Philip Moore and John Laberee. Two boys also received their 2nd Stars - David Hall and Brian Laberee and two boys their 1st Stars - Eric Little and Donald Pickett.

Scoutmaster Wayne Laberee of the Bulwer - Birchton Troop reports the following: Plans are being made to hold a Bronze Arrowhead Leadership Training Course. Queen's Scout Gordon Todd has successfully passed the required tests for the Dairymen's Proficiency Badge and Handyman's proficiency badge.

The 3rd Sherbrooke Troop and Pack had a very enjoyable evening in the event of a sleighride. The group met at the Parade Grounds at 7 and returned to this point around 9 p.m. after going some 6 miles in the country. After they left the sleigh they proceeded to Trinity Church where members of the Mother's Auxiliary waited to serve the boys with hot dogs and delicious hot chocolate.

"All-time driving thoroughbred!"

Talk about enthusiasm—bustin' out all over! Ever since its introduction, we've been hearing more and more mighty nice things about the 1960 Buick. And quite a number of people have put their praise in writing.

Mr. Darou's letter, reproduced on the right, describes Buick's All-Time Best as an "all-time driving thoroughbred". This is typical of the letters that have been written. Drive a Buick yourself... we'd like to hear from you too!

BUICK

JIMMIE DAROU

General Motors Products of Canada, Limited
Oshawa, Ontario

Dear Sirs,

I felt I just had to tell you how tickled I am with the new 1960 Buick Electra you sold me. None of us -- Gertrude, Donnie and myself -- have been able to simmer down and take this Titian Red beauty for granted since taking delivery a couple of weeks ago.

I've driven Buicks steadily since 1954. For a beaten-up old paragon like me with a bum back, comfort and safety figure high. On our annual trip to the Mid-West and Florida, I've driven as much as 600 miles a day in our Buicks without experiencing discomfort.

But this 1960 Electra is by far the stick-out champ. The power features are the smoothest ever. There's easy access both for myself and the chair. Those new coil springs and the heavily upholstered interiors combine to wrap a guy in a cushiony sensation that can't be matched even in your own living room.

And how about those safety features? What a comforting feeling it is to a fellow like me to know it's virtually impossible to get stuck in snow or mud with the new Traction Differential have my blessings.

Our hearty thanks to you and to Buick for creating this "all-time driving thoroughbred!"

Cheerfully yours,
Jimmie Darou

The Record's Farm Report

Several factors indicate prospects for improvement in the hog market situation. The U.S. expects a drop of 11 per cent in the spring pig crop and that hog slaughter after the first quarter of 1960 will remain below last year's. Prices there increased last week and this week.

Canadian marketings continue at a high level, with last week's total of 143,000 bringing the total since January 1 close behind 1959. Prospects are that over 2 million hogs will be graded by March 31. Meanwhile the hog-feed ratio at 6.4 in Toronto gave little encouragement to hog producers. Compared with the 1950 to 1959 average ratio of 8.4 the outlook appeared poor. The knowledge that a deficiency payment could improve that low ratio substantially may have little effect on farmers' intentions now.

USSR TRADE

Expect an announcement soon that final agreement has been reached on Canada's trade treaty with Soviet Russia. Negotiations over the past year have brought agreement on all but a few minor points. Cabinet considered these few points some weeks ago and made a few modifications which are now being considered in Moscow.

Meanwhile, prospects of Russia's export role in world trade may be less alarming than recent predictions would suggest. Communist Frank Flaherty argues that the USSR is likely to be more concerned about importing the consumer goods she lacks than with exporting goods in competition with Canada.

Thus last week's Soviet deal for Cuban sugar indicates the increasing emphasis on improving the standard of living of the Russian people. It also strengthened world sugar prices and Canada's beet sugar producers should benefit indirectly.

U. S. DISPOSAL

Those who expected any easing of the pressure of U.S. wheat disposal programs this year are likely to be severely disappointed. The 1959 changes in public Law 480 have, in the opinion of a leading U.S. agriculturist, "gone a long way toward switching the big surplus disposal program to a refined tool of U.S. foreign policy." Part of this change was bringing their wheat disposal program under the "Food for Peace" banner. This has given the P. L. 480 plan a prestige that makes it difficult for Canada to question the methods used in disposal.

It seems clear now that the U.S. disposal plan is on a continuing, long-term basis, that it is accepted as necessary by the rest of her economy, and that she will use it to build new wheat outlets for the future, especially in under-developed countries where wheat demand is now growing rapidly.

President Eisenhower in his message to Congress on wheat price supports a few weeks ago, gave little hope that U.S. farm policy would cut down future surpluses and thus ease the subsidized competition Canadian wheat now faces. U.S. wheat support it at $1.81 a bushel. Her carryover grows larger each year. February 1 supplies were 1,750 million bushels, over 70 million bushels above last year. Its disposal must increasingly encroach on Canada's markets as its size increases. It is doubtful that Canada's traditional wheat marketing methods will be adequate in the future to meet this kind of encroachment.

On Thursday the Senate's land use committee headed by Senator Arthur Pearson received the report on the U.S. Rural Development Program prepared by Department of Agriculture's Committee. This committee headed by retiring Dr. J. F. Booth visited the development areas in the U.S. and prepared its report from first hand knowledge of the rural program.

With the objectives of helping those who wish to remain farming, of widening the off-farm job opportunities of giving rural people more opportunities for training and, the U.S. program has been under way for over two years. The report cited evidence of progress in that time toward all the objectives. Research had been needed to lay the foundation for development in each area. After that a team effort by local people and an emphasis on development of the total area (rather than just one county) were major features.

The Report is well done. It provides a great deal of information that would be useful in planning a rural development program for Canada. It also emphasizes the "impetus and urgency" given to development by the U.S. program. It suggests also, without saying so, that the organization of the U.S. plan is quite tenuous and might have difficulty in withstanding criticism by Congress, as have so many good development programs in the U.S. in the past. This indicates we should explore these organizational features carefully before adopting a plan for Canada. Co-ordination with provincial extension programs might be a first area for exploration.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"Oh, no, sir, I'm not in a hurry. This just happens to be my after-five costume!"

Waterloo Legion Auxiliary Taken Around The World In Ninety Minutes

WATERLOO — The Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held a social evening for which an interesting program was arranged, entitled Around the World in Ninety Minutes.

The audience was taken for a quick trip to Africa through the kindness of Jean Jolin, who showed colorful slides on his recent visit to the Dark Continent. A few minutes were enjoyed at the World Fair in Brussels as the completing share of Mr. Jolin's travels.

Jerry Martin took over the tour and escorted the audience to Europe under his guidance. This young man took a two months vacation in England and the Continent last summer with Stanley Atkinson. They brought back numerous beautiful slides of their trip, which were extremely interesting. Unfortunately the 90 Minute dead line cut the tour very short, but those present are anticipating another journey with Jerry in the near future.

The last lap of the journey was in Waterloo itself when a half hour tape recording was given of short interviews with local people. Mrs. Shapiro being the commentator. It proved amusing to hear ourselves as others hear us.

A silver collection was taken up and coffee and doughnuts served at the close of the evening.

ST. LUKE'S W.A.

Approximately 40 ladies were present at the March meeting of St. Luke's W.A. held in the Church Hall.

Africa was the subject for the afternoon. Slides were shown by Mrs. G. Dorey, of Montreal, who is particularly well fitted for giving information on the country being studied this year in the Missionary societies as she has always had a special interest in Africa.

The guest speaker, who was introduced by Mrs. J. Buckland and thanked by Mrs. A. McKernan, brought many curious sketches and maps which were most interesting. Mrs. Dorey opened her film, Missions Unlimited with a map of Africa and explained the vast surface which covers one fifth of the world.

Some of the difficulties encountered by missionaries can be understood by the fact that there are seven different languages in Africa. The terrific superstitions of the natives is another great barrier to be overcome. The huge Sahara Desert has blocked progress of Christianity for years. Missionaries were unable to penetrate past this stretch of land into the continent.

Tea was served by Mrs. Reg Blampin, Miss Prue Martin and Miss Hope Davidson.

As the day coincided with Mrs. K. Derry's birthday, a cake with candles was presented to this little lady, who is 78 years young, and Happy Birthday was sung.

DAY OF PRAYER

The World Day of Prayer was observed in St. Paul's United

Affiliation Group Of Waterville Holds Session

WATERVILLE — The regular meeting of the Women's Affiliation Group was held at the home of Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. Ben Smith in the United Church Hall, with the president in the chair.

The worship service was led by Mrs. Eric Swanson, with Mrs. C. Burton at the piano.

It was decided that Mrs. H.S. Ball be the representative to the Board of Stewards.

Mrs. K. Spafford led the meeting in a study of South Africa, using a map for illustration and noting the fact that it is 300 years since the white people went there. She stated that it is the most segregated part of Africa; however colored people are allowed in the department stores, where their money is welcome.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses from a table decorated with tapers and a flowering plant, with Mrs. A. MacLeod and Mrs. J. G. Fulcher pouring tea.

Notice has been given that the finals will be played on Saturday, March 19, 8 p.m. in the Town Hall. As customary, a public card party is to be held then. Anyone interested is asked to form tables. The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it."

Name Poses Problem For Young Singer

TORONTO (CP)—What do you do if you're a talented young singer, have top honors in conservatory examinations, encouragement from your teachers—and you find there already is a famous singer by the same name?

That's the problem facing Connie Francis of Sarnia, Ont., who is trying to make a name for herself here as a classical concert singer. The other Connie Francis has already made her name as a pop singer in the United States.

"I have to change my name now," moans Sarnia's Connie, "but I like my name, Constance Sylvia Francis."

Of Norwegian descent, she is considering Scandinavian names as stage possibilities. One she likes is Kari but she's afraid people would have trouble pronouncing it correctly—Kawree.

She recalled that when she toured Europe and found service was slow, she just said: "My name is Connie Francis, and did they snap to attention."

But then when she had to say she's not THE Connie Francis, it made "me grind my teeth."

Men: You'll Never Grasp Logic of These Matters

Don't expect a mere man to understand:

— The purely feminine urge to go out and buy something to bring home and admire when one is down in the dumps. This, of course, can be anything from a new hat to a canister set for the kitchen.

— A woman's need to rearrange the furniture now and then, if only to find out that she liked it better the way it was.

— Why a woman can't go on wearing her hair in the same way year after year without feeling like a frump.

— Why a woman will fuss about a current fashion but go right out and buy it, anyway.

— How housekeeping can be a hard job even with a kitchen full of labor-saving equipment. Men always seem impressed by those advertisements showing mom reading happily while the automatic washer does the washing.

— What they never show is mama sorting dirty clothes, taking out stubborn stains, mending rips, sewing buttons, starching and sprinkling clothes and standing at the ironing board.

— Why a woman gets upset when she arrives at a party and sees another woman in a dress exactly like her own.

— How a woman can tell that another woman is beingatty when she makes what sounds to a man like an innocent or even complimentary remark.

— Why it is necessary to entertain acquaintances who bore you simply because they have entertained you.

— Why a woman feels justified in telling her closest friend the things she promised not to tell a soul.

— How a woman can spend

Friendly Rivalry Exists Between Art Trustees

OTTAWA (CP)—The two women on the board of trustees of the National Gallery find trips to Ottawa an exciting way of learning what is happening in Canadian art.

Mrs. H.A. Dyde of Edmonton collects Canadian paintings for her own home while Mrs. Hugh Mackay of Rothesay, N.B., is interested in Canadian prints.

"It's such fun getting something ahead of Lord Beaverbrook," says Mrs. Mackay.

The two compared notes during an interview that revealed a touch of regional rivalry.

"Of course oil has helped your part of the country," we're relatively much poorer," said Mrs. Mackay, referring to the booming arts centres in Edmonton and Calgary.

But she added that what oil money is doing for art in Alberta Lord Beaverbrook is accomplishing in New Brunswick. She spoke of the art gallery founded in Fredericton by the Canadian-born British publisher and another gallery in Halifax he may open with Lady Dunn, widow of the late industrialist Sir James Dunn.

Mrs. Dyde talked of the picture-loan program in Edmonton and Calgary through which paintings by local artists are loaned to individuals, an arrangement that often results in sale of the work.

"I'd like to hear more about that," said Mrs. Mackay.

PROUD OF MASTERS
Mrs. Dyde, a member of the board during planning stages of the new gallery here, said "I am amazed and staggered by the quality and beauty of the old masters we own."

She thought they now are displayed to advantage and was thrilled by the collection of graphic prints and drawings that "used to be in a little hole" in the old building.

The two women spoke with enthusiasm of the gallery extension program whereby gallery exhibits find their way into remote communities.

Both women have lived in Ottawa. Mrs. Mackay remembers the city in the pre-1900s when her father Sir Douglas Hazen was in politics.

DR. CHASE'S K & L PILLS

Saturday's Book Shelf

Edited By: Gladys Taylor.

By GLADYS TAYLOR

Ever play a game called "Remember what you were reading then?"

It seems to me that every variety program I watch on T.V. these days sooner or later goes in a "memory-kick" and starts waxing (the pun is intended) about the tunes they were singing or the dances they were dancing "way back then." And what happens to me whenever they do this? As soon as the music starts "carrying me back," I start remembering the books I used to read.

It has happened so often lately that I finally got curious and dug up some old library lists just to see what was being read—and who was writing it "way back then." Interested in knowing what I found out?

Well, let's take the year 1933 for an example.

I'm not just sure why I picked the year 1933 unless it was because that was the year I was hiding Erich Maria Remarque's ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT in my desk (it was written in 1929 but only reached my part of the world in 1933) and peeking at it every time the teacher's back was turned.

As I recall, it was considered rather "raw" for those days, but we've all read worse since. In 1933 Hervey Allen wrote ANTHONY ADVERSE. If the '40's had FOREVER AMBER and the '50's had PEYTON PLACE, the '30's had ANTHONY ADVERSE—and the shock-effect of each book in its particular decade was about the same, though personally I think Allen's book was superior to the other two in both story content and writing.

By an odd coincidence, this week I happened to be reading GUSTY'S CHILD, the autobiography of Alice Tisdale Hobart. Her first book, and possibly the one by which she is best known, was OIL FOR THE LAMPS OF CHINA, and it was published in 1933.

In 1933 Sholem Asch, Louis Bromfield, Vera Brittain, Norman Collins, Noel Coward, Ernest Hemingway and Winston Churchill were all writing but they had yet to produce the books that would make them household names. The same was true of James Gould Cozzens who in 1933 wrote his second book THE LAST ADAM but of whom a good many people had never heard until 1957 when he wrote BY LOVE POSSESSED. In 1933 Mazo de la Roche, the only Canadian who has for so long beguiled so many readers, published THE MASTER OF JALNA, the fourth in a series that now numbers 16, I believe. In that year Eugene O'Neill wrote AH WILDERNESS and John Masefield, who a few weeks ago as poet laureate wrote a poem to the new prince, authored BIRD OF DAWNING, the second of his four novels. One of the few books from 1933 that I still find people talking about is Gladys Hasty Carroll's AS THE EARTH TURNS.

As for Billie Burke's WITH POWDER ON MY NOSE, reviewed elsewhere on this page, did you read Robert Thomas Allen's article in the STAR WEEKLY entitled "These Ads Helped Make Us What We Are?" Illustrating the article is that once-so-familiar Lux Toilet Soap ad, in which Billie Burke looking dewier than most of us did at 19, is proclaiming, "I am 39!" What courage! And how much older 39 seemed then than it does now!

Will Scrolls Be Lost To Scholars?

By PETER GROSE

LONDON (AP)—Fragments of decaying goatskin in a Bedouin tribesman's saddlebag may hold answers to some of the most baffling problems in Christendom.

British Bible experts fear that within the next few months the secrets from these crumbling manuscripts may be lost to scholars forever.

Unanswered questions like these might yet be solved by the ancient Dead Sea Scrolls.

What exactly happened to Jesus' disciples after the Crucifixion?

Why did the original Jewish Christians disappear and leave the teachings of Christ to pass out of Jewry into the Roman world?

How did Jesus spend His childhood and what happened to His family?

The ragged fragments—tens of thousands of them—have been uncovered in the timeless and silent Judean wilderness near the shores of the Dead Sea.

MOST IMPORTANT

Scholars consider them among the most important documents discovered in biblical history.

Many of the Dead Sea Scrolls are still in the possession of the roving Bedouins who found them deep in the Holy Land's dark, craggy caves where they have rested for 1,900 years.

Professor John Marco Allegro, a Manchester University Bible expert just back from Jerusalem, said on his return the scrolls research has reached a crisis point.

Funds are lacking, he said, to buy remaining scrolls from the Bedouins or continue the research establishment in Jerusalem.

What has the research revealed so far?

For the last 10 years an international and interdenominational team of Bible scholars has patiently and quietly pored over the tiny fragments—many no larger than a fingernail.

From this translation scholars have corrected some of the exaggerated early claims made, on the basis of hasty and superficial examination, after the scrolls were first discovered in 1947 by a Bedouin shepherd boy.

"The scrolls story is only beginning," said Allegro, the British member of the scrolls team. "The possibilities are endless and exciting for both the Christian and Jewish religions."

So far, only a small fraction of the scrolls has been published—most will take many years more to translate and interpret. Some experts estimate it will be 10 or 15 years before the translation task is finished.

Questioned, for instance, about the Book of Enoch, Allegro said fragments were found in 1952 but the translation job won't be completed for another four or five years.

Enoch, a non-biblical book, did not receive priority. Allegro said the book's main value appears to be "a very academic interest in astrology," several chapters being devoted to the movements of the stars.

Among the manuscripts uncovered are ancient copies of books of the Old Testament. Some are written in Aramaic—exactly like the scriptures Jesus saw at the synagogue in Nazareth.

Most of the documents are said to have been collected by an obscure fundamentalist sect of the pre-Christian Jewish church, the Essenes.

Scrolls experts believe they have stumbled upon the remains of a library, 2,000 years old, used by the Essenes at their desert retreat, Qumran, now a mere 40-minute taxi ride from Jerusalem.

From the manuscripts the scholars have learned about the daily life of the Qumran faithful, how they prayed and studied and fasted, living a life of purity in preparation for their final judgment.

Dating the scrolls exactly is still a problem, but Qumran was probably founded nearly two centuries before Christ—though some scholars say nearer 100 B.C.—by a radical preacher called in the scrolls the Teacher of Righteousness.

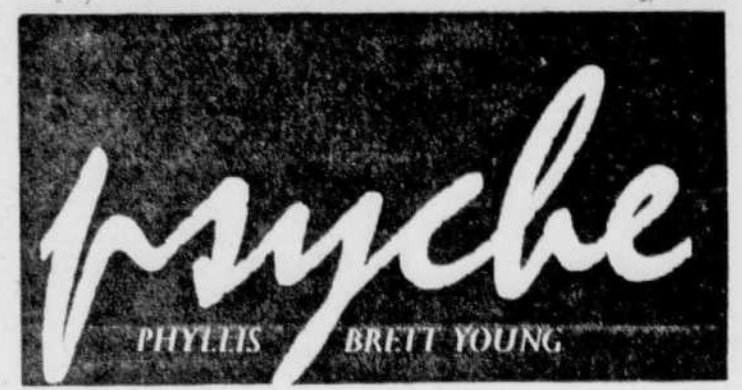

The Teacher apparently led his

Psyche Brings Tears To Your Eyes

PSYCHE by Phyllis Brett Young — 319 p. — LONGMANS, GREEN and Co. — $4.50 — PSYCHE is a "gem" of a book. With possibly one small reservation, it was to me one of the most completely satisfying books I have read in a long time.

It has excitement, suspense, readability, insight and charm. It gives some beautifully detailed pictures of the Canadian scene and it left me reading the last few words with tears in my eyes. What more can a reader ask?

Actually, it is impossible that some reader's enjoyment of this book may be tempered by their response to one question. Do you believe that life consists of things happening to you or do you believe it is made up of things that you make happen to you? Since I incline slightly to the latter theory, I must confess that once in awhile the question arose in my mind (the possible reservation I have already mentioned) as to whether quite so many strange and diversified things could happen to one person — I found myself particularly questioning the fortuitous appearance of Bel and her subsequent rescue of Psyche — however for the most part I didn't stop to think or question while I was reading PSYCHE.

The truth is that I found this book so absolutely absorbing that I didn't really care whether the author was taking a few liberties with the law of averages or not. She was telling a darn good story and I was enjoying every word. Incidentally when I say every word, this is one time when I mean it literally. PSYCHE is written with such an electrifying economy of words that you feel if you miss even one bit of its concise and beautiful prose it may break the spell which Phyllis Brett Young seems, from the very first page, to have cast upon you. There is a distilled quality about Phyllis Brett Young's writing which grips you. There is an indelibility about the pictures he traces on your mind and emotions — and against which background Psyche's strange and heart-stirring search for herself takes place — that make this book one you won't easily forget. And finally, added to the fascination of the story itself, is the uncluttered, almost sophisticated appearance of every page. LONGMANS, GREEN and Co., by their delightful craftsmanship have done full justice to this truly exciting first novel.

Highly recommended.

GLADYS TAYLOR

WITH POWDER ON MY NOSE by Billie Burke with Cameron Shipp, Published by Coward - McCann Inc. $4.50

— This is an enchanting little book of homely philosophy. It is a series of essays written for women by a woman who has lived richly and observed much, the great and aging actress, Billie Burke.

For the most part Miss Burke directs her words to older women, as seen in the chapters entitled "Let's Face It," "Un-Birthdays" and "With a Possum on My Head." The latter is a most explicit chapter, filled to overflowing with advice for mothers-in-law.

There is a strong undercurrent of wit throughout the book. Miss Burke is extremely outspoken and for the most part this book which is plotless is very light reading.

However, I did find two chapters of real interest to all parents and one of these deserves mention. It has the intriguing title of "Dear Mrs. Post: Is It All Right to Be Polite to a Child?" This chapter points up the fact that children learn good manners from observing good manners. Miss Burke has a point and it is for this chapter alone that I would recommend this book to male readers. (Otherwise, this book is strictly for ladies only. It contains many womanly truths, including advice on how to keep your man should he show signs of straying, and several interesting recipes. SHIRLEY SIMPSON.

band of humble followers to the desert wilds after the Pharisees expelled them from the temple in Jerusalem. He may have written some of the scrolls himself.

Some scholars have said the Teacher of Righteousness was crucified, long before the birth of Christ. But the martyr's fame spread throughout Judea and the Qumran flourished until 68 AD when it was overrun by the Romans.

The scrolls were probably thrown hurriedly into nearby barren desert caves, where they were found, hours before the Roman soldiers arrived. And there they lay undisturbed until our time.

What is the present-day significance of this history?

SCHOLARS IMPRESSED

Scholars of all religions have been impressed by the similarity in some respects of the Essenes and the early Christian church a century later.

The Essenes practised baptism, repeated purification washings, glorified personal poverty and performed a mystic ceremony involving bread and wine.

"It is clear that Jesus may have known something of the sect," said Rev. H. H. Rowley, a Manchester University professor and one of Britain's leading Bible scholars, in a recent lecture.

"That some of His followers may have been influenced by the sect before they followed Him, as some had been influenced by John the Baptist, is also possible."

MORE SPECIFIC

Allegro, the scrolls scholar entrusted with the interpretation of the Bible commentaries, was more specific in an interview: "It is quite possible Jesus actually visited Qumran during His retreat to the wilderness at the start of His ministry. We know He was within a few miles of there and we think Qumran was then at the height of its activity."

"Though of course we have no proof," Allegro added, "I am quite willing to believe that Jesus saw Himself following in the footsteps of the Teacher of Righteousness.

"Jesus' cryptic prophecies of His own death could refer to His knowledge of the teacher's fate."

NEED MORE EVIDENCE

Rowley and other experts are unwilling to accept this view without more evidence, and Allegro himself warns against exaggerating the importance of any similarities between the Christians and the Essenes.

A Yale Professor Millar Burrows wrote: "Nothing in the Dead Sea Scrolls concerning the person and work of the Teacher of Righteousness . . . presents any threat to the uniqueness of Christ."

The controversy over particulars continues, but most scholars now agree on the scrolls' deeper significance:

They clearly reveal certain aspects of Judaism at the time Christianity arose. They thus seem to bring two of the world's great religions historically closer together.

Adventures with God

we leave God and His plan for us out of our reckoning. But none of these things upsets us entirely when we sincerely in faith and earnest prayer seek His help and direction in our problems.

CRUCIBLE OF ADVERSITY

The problem of unemployment is a real one today. Honest industrious men and women are at their wits' end because they cannot find work and are in danger of losing their homes.

Others are worried because of unexpected illness. Older people who went through the depression in the '30s and have known the frustration of poor health and poverty can sympathize with their neighbors who are now in the crucible of adversity.

There isn't anything that teaches us to understand other's problems like a long, hard experience of the same nature.

It is easy for people who go through life "on flowery beds of ease" to criticize those whose luck is against them. It is easy to have faith in God when the skies are blue and you are in the pink of health.

But it is quite a different matter when you hit the bottom there is only one way to go and that way is up. The upward climb will be given when you get down on your knees in the slough of despond! and hand yourself and your problems over to God.

But one thing is certain—when you hit the bottom there is only one way to go and that way is up. The upward climb will be given when you get down on your knees in the slough of despond! and hand yourself and your problems over to God.

TURNING POINT

That is what happened at Dunkirk. Our allies were hemmed in on every side and in the grip of despondency.

There was no apparent way out. In our dilemma the nations turned to God in humble faith and prayer, and He allowed the little ships of Dunkirk to move in and save the people and kindle new hope for final victory.

The lowest point in our personal Dunkirks is often the turning point in our lives. When we admit that we are at the end of our own resources and throw ourselves back into the arms of God, unexpected events begin to happen. Sometimes an old job is restored or new skills are discovered, and the highway to success and fulfillment opens up before us.

During the depression a young father lost his job. His wife and children were reduced to dire poverty and he was on the point of losing faith.

They were Christians and a group of friends prayed for a solution to their problem. The courageous woman turned her hand to catering for her more fortunate friends.

By the time her husband found work she had worked up a successful catering business which continues to thrive to this day.

CHANGED TO SUCCESS

In 1924, following eight years of invalidism I spent my last $5 as a down payment for a second-hand typewriter. Had it not been for that spell of adversity I should never have discovered my talent for writing.

How I paid for the typewriter is a long story, but God was good and He was guiding. And at that lowest point the upward climb began.

The old typewriter and the old adventurer have had a lot of ups and downs in the inter-

Two New Books Contradictory

LONDON (CP) — The Daily Telegraph says that two books just published here about the battle of the Plains of Abraham show the authors have reached opposite conclusions on almost every aspect of the Quebec campaign.

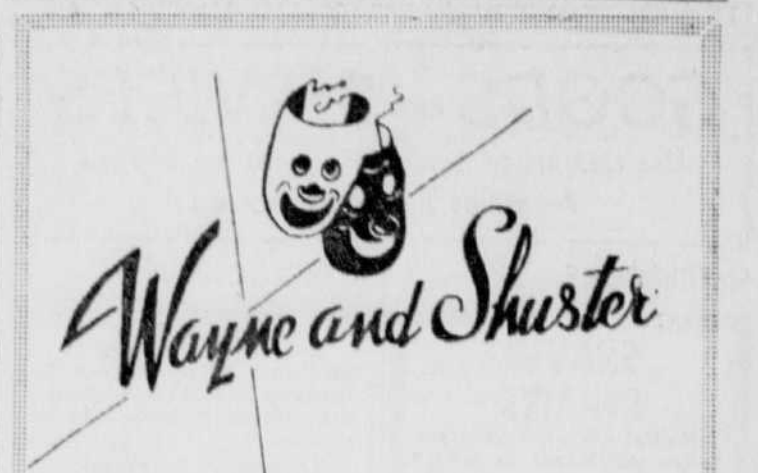

The paper's military correspondent, Lt. Gen. H.G. Martin, notes the discrepancies in reviews of Quebec, 1759: The Siege and the Battle by Canadian historian C.P. Stacey, and The Rest to Fortune: The Life of Major-General James Wolfe, by British historian Robin Reilly.

"Mainly on identical evidence, they arrive at diametrically opposite conclusions," Martin says. Stacey's book lists three different orders made by Wolfe within five hours and, says Martin, concludes from this that the general lacked capacity to make a plan and stick to it.

Reilly, on the other hand, "would have us believe that Wolfe issued all these confusing orders and counter-orders to deceive the numerous deserters and spies."

Ban Eden Book

BAQTHAD, Iraq (Reuters)—Iraq Thursday banned the memoirs of Sir Anthony Eden and ordered confiscation of all copies of the book. A government order gave these reasons for the ban: "The author defends crumbling British imperialism; attacks the Iraqi July 14 (1958) revolution, its leader, Gen. Abdul Karim Qassem, the Iraqi republic and freedom movements in the greater Arab homeland."

One of the wildest psychiatry stories we've ever come across (and we've come across some wild ones) is related by night-club comedian Morey Amsterdam.

This traumatic tale concerns the man who visited a psychiatrist and explained his terrible problem.

"Doctor," he wept, "you've got to help me. I have a terrible delusion. I know it's a delusion but I can't do anything about it. Every night when I go to bed, I get the strange feeling that there's somebody under my bed."

"Then when I climb under the bed to look, I get the strange feeling that there's somebody on top of the bed. That's the way it's been for months. I keep looking under the bed and on the bed and under the bed all night long. If you don't help me, I'll go stark raving mad."

The psychiatrist thought for a long time, and said, "I think I can help you. This is a serious problem but I think we can lick it. You'll have to visit me three times a week at $50 a visit for a whole year. At the end of that year, I think I can rid you of your problem."

The patient considered for a moment. "I don't know, doctor, that's an awful lot of money. I'll have to think it over. I'll be back in a week."

A month later, the psychiatrist met the man on the street, and asked him why he had never returned.

"Who needs you and your $50 a visit for a whole year," he snorted. "My wife cured me in five minutes."

"How?" asked the astonished psychiatrist.

"Nothing to it," was the quick answer. "She told me to cut the legs off the bed!"

A friend of ours describes how his wife drives. She doesn't really park a car . . . she abandons it.

And on the subject of driving, here verbatim is part of a lecture delivered to aspiring motorists at a driving school:

"Be on the alert when driving. If you see a woman signal for a right hand turn, be careful. She might turn right!"

vening years, but we are still working together, trying to tell our fellows what we have learned about God and adversity.

After 36 years at the old machine, experiencing the temptations which are common to man, we have been forced to the conclusion that ALL THINGS work together for good to them who are called according to His purpose.

We have discovered that a few of the upheavals adversity brought landed us in fairer regions and happier situations. Had it not been for unexpected reverses we should have missed many of the wonderful friendships and experiences we have enjoyed.

And we would have missed entirely the sweet communion we have found working together with God.

Reviewing a long life of adventure with God, we exclaim from a full heart: Surely goodness and mercy have followed us all the days of our life.

And some of the "goodness" came disguised as adversity but, touched by God, it was changed to success and blessing.

Calls Writer A Clubman

LONDON (CP) — Author Mary McCarthy says most contemporary American writers are anti-intellectual — "their minds would never be raped by an idea."

She cited Ernest Hemingway as an example, describing him as "the top clubman of them all." All his characters were members of a secret society, of which Hemingway was president, and all wore the red badge of courage.

What she disliked most was Hemingway's exclusiveness. There was no room in his writing for the weak, the cowardly or the intellectual.

Miss McCarthy, visiting London after a lecture tour of Iron Curtain countries, made the comments in a television interview.

Smiling composedly, she delivered severe judgment on playwright Tennessee Williams, calling him a "commercial" writer whose sensational stuff was dished out to audiences who were "like cows waiting to be milked."

She was a little kinder to Arthur Miller, saying she liked Death of a Salesman and acknowledging him as a serious writer.

Miss McCarthy, author of The Groves of Academe, was introduced by the interviewer as one of the most intelligent women in the world. She was promptly self-critical, saying she finds it difficult to describe as an author what she sees as a person. An element of satire or exaggeration always intruded.

Critics Reject Canadian Play

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian playwright Patricia Joudry's Broadway debut Thursday night got the thumbs-down treatment from the New York critics, some of whom compared her Semi-Detached, a play about life in Montreal, with soap opera.

Its engagement at the Martin Beck Theatre seems doomed to be a short one, but Miss Joudry, 30-year-old Spirit River, Alta., native who has lived in Toronto, Montreal and New York and now calls London home, was consoled in advance with the $250,000 sale of her play to Hollywood.

Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times writes that "out of commonplace material, Patricia Joudry has written a commonplace drama."

Busy Session Is Held By W.A. Of Richmond - Melbourne United Church

RICHMOND — The Woman's Association of Richmond and Melbourne United Church met in the church parlor with a large attendance. Mrs. A. T. Smith presided.

A devotional service was conducted by Miss Mary Ewing on the theme of Prayer and Faith.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. H. W. Dapp, and the monthly financial statement given by the treasurer, Mrs. J. S. MacNaughton.

Several thank-you letters for fruit boxes were read. A report from Miss McCourt stated a box of wearing apparel, donated by Mrs. H. W. Dapp, had recently been forwarded to the Flambeau Home. All groups had held meetings during the month and reported numerous sick calls.

The Ruby and Emerald Groups are planning a joint St. Patrick's tea, to be held Wednesday, March 16. The Edin Group will hold a rummage sale in the church hall on April 1st.

Several fruit boxes had been delivered by Mrs. Barrington and Mrs. Coote. Mrs. Galbraith reported the sending of sympathy letters and get-well cards.

A letter from Mr. Brian Gee gave more information on the concert to be put on by the Mount Allison music students and the members voted to sponsor them. The concert will probably be held in May or early June.

The committees which are obtaining information on hymn books for the Sunday School and information on costs of partitioning of class rooms have not yet completed their findings.

Mr. Graham stated that there likely would be a boy's summer camp run under the local Presbytery and more information will be available at a later date.

Reminders for the month: The April meeting of the W.A. will be convened by the Melbourne Group; visiting in March will be done by the Marjorie Group.

Mr. Graham closed the meeting with prayer, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. D. Fletcher, Mrs. W. J. Copping and Mrs. Fred Wintle.

DAY OF PRAYER SERVICE

The World Day of Prayer Service was held in St. Ann's Anglican Church this year, with Mrs. J. Urquhart, from the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Upper Melbourne, in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Urquhart opened the session with prayer and Call to Worship. Mrs. L. M. Fee presided at the organ and Mrs. W. B. Converse rendered a solo, Beautiful Garden of Prayer.

The leader of the worship service was Mrs. E. A. Healy, who also offered prayer. Mrs. George Walker led in the confession and penitence and the Scripture was read by Mrs. H. I. Apps. Mrs. R. Gifford led in dedication and Mrs. R. Laroche read Scripture verses. Mrs. B. Stevens led the Intercession, while Mrs. L. Somerville, Mrs. W. Coles, Mrs. John Barrington, Mrs. R. McManis, Mrs. G. P. R. Fortier and Mrs. J. A. Smith offered prayers. The address was given by Mrs. N. Jameson. Hymns were sung, closing with the Benediction. Mrs. C. Coburn, Mrs. G. Brooks, Mrs. W. K. Rattray and Miss E. Dunn received the offering.

A large congregation was present.

LEN O'DONNELL'S Sport Shots and Pot Shots

INTERMEDIATE PLAYOFFS IN FULL SWING.

Once again it is playoff time in the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League and if the past games are any indication then the fans are in for some great hockey. Six tilts, in both semi-finals, have been played and three of them were decided on overtime which speaks highly of the brand of hockey being played.

There is no question in our mind how good they are for being president it is only natural to think they are tops. We have witnessed many a game but we believe that Thursday's tilt at the Arena was the best we have taken in for quite sometime.

The display of net-minding which Andy Payette of Granby gave was something to witness. We don't hesitate to say it was as good, if not better, than some we have seen in the National Hockey League. His diving stops, catches and toe-dancing was something to watch.

We know a lot of the fans left the Arena wondering how he did it. Some say he was lucky but let's point out that to be a good goalie you must be a little lucky. Time after time he came up with that "good gloved-hand" to snare the rubber out of the air. We think he would make a good first baseman as he can certainly grab and hold the hot ones.

The Beavers came up with a fine performance and they were forced the limit to post the victory. They earned it the hard way. For once they went all out and kept driving and it seems that is the only way to beat Payette. Keep the pressure on and wait for a break.

The players are sticking to their knitting instead of arguing with the referees. No doubt some of the boys in blue come in for criticism but taking everything into consideration we think they are doing a fine job. The pace has increased along with the pressure but still they are calling them as they see them.

We know every game is a big one but when team officials and players commence to blame the referees we say that is going too far. We don't approve of it and as far as we are concerned we won't stand for it. So gentlemen stick to your hockey and let the referees do their job. Heaven knows they get plenty of help from the fans. It seems that every fan is a qualified referee if you listen to him. It is a shame we didn't know this earlier as we could have used a few during the season.

We don't care who wins as long as they play hockey and take their bumps while handling them out. A lot of players like to dish it out but they don't relish it when they get it back. Anyway keep rolling and give the fans more hockey such as they have witnessed the past few weeks.

"They said it couldn't be done." How often we have heard that expression referring to different phases of sport and other matters. The dart players claim it was practically impossible to have many tie games but not only did it happen but Flamingo and L'Estrée came up with six straight 4-4 draws in their playoff battle.

The first round ended 4-4. They played another which finished with the same score. They kept at it and registered three more all with the same results. The match finally ended in the second extra round with L'Estrée winning 5-3 with a total of 29-27. So boys think twice before you say "It can't be done."

Jack McCartan, the boy who led the United States to victory in the recent Olympic hockey championships, is gradually getting the backing of the experts following his work for the Rangers of the National Hockey League. His Olympic coach, Jack Riley, is of the opinion that he can play in the major loop and made his statement a week ago but the experts adopted the wait-and-see policy.

The latest to voice approval is Glenn Hall of Chicago and he should have a fair knowledge of what it takes to make the grade. After Wednesday's game Glenn stated that he liked the way he handles himself. He has class and should be O.K. but he has only played two games.

As for the pressure Riley states that it won't bother him as he had plenty during the Olympics and it didn't worry him in the least. So it looks as though the Rangers may have come up with a find on a lucky pick-up.

The Lennoxville Curling Club, annual Bonspiel is in full sway and is slated to end this evening with the finals for the John Nichol Memorial Trophy and the Lennoxville Press Trophy. Some good matches have been played this week and the finals should be just as close.

Fifty-two rinks started the week and by today have narrowed down to the semi-finals with the good curlers still battling it out. The finals are slated for 8:00 this evening and is open to the public. The big event for the majority of the curlers is the annual dinner which takes place in the Gertrude Scott Hall and this should have a packed house. The pies are wonderful and the curlers really go for them.

Beavers, Canadiens Face Tough Obstacles Tomorrow

Locals Travel To Granby, Rockets At Victoriaville In Crucial Fixtures;

Sherbrooke Beavers surmounted one big obstacle Thursday evening when they managed to eke out a victory over Andy Payette and his Vics from Granby but face another Herculean task tomorrow afternoon when they journey to the Boivin City to clash in the fourth game of series "B" of the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League playoffs. In the other tilt Drummondville moves over to Victoriaville in their fourth tilt.

The Vics are leading the current series 2-1 with Sherbrooke while the Rockets have a similar advantage over the Canadiens. Both these games should be close battles as no doubt all teams will be going all out to try and emerge victors.

The Vics playing on their home ice had better watch out for the Beavers seem to have struck their stride and will be going after a win to even the series at 2-2. The Granby crew posted a 3-2 verdict in the opener in Sherbrooke last Sunday and Tuesday, at home, knocked over the Dube squad 5-1.

On Thursday evening Coach Dube's squad came through with a strong two-way performance to post their victory but they had their hands full in doing so. Payette is the big stumbling block and if the Beavers can figure out how to beat him they may have a chance.

Payette has without a doubt been the star performer for the Granby team as his outstanding play in the nets have kept the Beards club in the battle. The Beavers will have to maintain the same pace they came up with Thursday and even at that it will be a battle.

The Canadiens will be at home where they won their victory last Tuesday when they edged out the Rockets 3-2 in overtime. They will be going for the win to get their series back on an even keel.

Coach Pepin is looking for a 60-minute display from his players. In Drummondville Thursday they let up in the third period and the Rockets battled home three goals to put the game out of their reach but Coach Pepin will take the means at his disposal to be sure it doesn't happen again.

Ernie Richardson's Saskatchewan Rink Wins Canadian Curling Title, Quebec Finishes With 5-5 Record

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Ernie Richardson and his Saskatchewan rink captured its second successive Canadian curling championship Friday, clinching the title on the second last draw with a 13-3 triumph over Nova Scotia. Saskatchewan finished with nine wins and one loss.

The victory was made possible when Doug Cameron and his youthful Prince Edward Island foursome beat Ontario's Jack Edwards 15-11, leaving the Kingston quartet out of reach of the Richardson boys.

Edwards suffered his third defeat on the 11th and final round in the afternoon and fell one game behind Alberta and Manitoba, both of which won their matches and wound up in a second-place tie with identical records of eight wins and two losses.

Ontario dropped an extra - end 11-9 decision to Ted Hunt of Quebec to wind up the five-day competition. In other games, Alberta's Stu Beagle downed Glen Harper of British Columbia 16-6; Mac Scales of Manitoba trounced Ian Baird of Nova Scotia 12-3; Doug Cameron of Prince Edward Island defeated New Brunswick's Harold Mabey 10-5; and Northern Ontario's Don Groom beat John David Lyon of Newfoundland 9-6. Saskatchewan had the last-round bye.

In a post-game ceremony on the ice, the Richardsons—skip Ernie, brother Garnet and their cousins Wes and Arnold—received the MacDonald's Brier tankard, emblematic of the championship, from David M. Stewart of the sponsoring company. A large crowd watched the ceremony. Official attendance for the five days was 32,741.

The Richardsons now will represent Canada in the second annual international competition in Scotland later this month against Scottish champion Hugh Neilson. The Canadians won the inaugural last year over Willie Young.

Tillsonburg Livingstons Are Stamped As Runaway Favorites To Walk Off Canadian Title And Olympic Tourney

MONTREAL (CP) — Tillsonburg Livingstons, the basketball club with a sports-loving business giant supplying the bankroll, have been stamped runaway favorites to win the Canadian championship and Olympic trial tournament.

Four teams, fresh from zone playoffs, take to the court Saturday night in the 2,000-seat gymnasium at the Yvan Coutu Institute to launch the elimination series.

W. A. (Al) Irwin of Montreal, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, picks the high-geared Ontario squad to walk off with the honors and most observers agree. "They've got the best club in the country and should go all the way," said Irwin in a pre-tournament interview.

Irwin also spoke in hopeful and guarded terms about Canada's basketball prospects for the summer games in Rome. In the last three Olympics Canada finished ninth each time in 16-nation fields.

SHOULD BE BETTER

"We should improve our showing this time. Our big problem in the past has been that our teams were not in condition. By selecting our representatives now, all players will have lots of time to practice together."

Then he added: "Of course, we've always had high hopes in other years. But we were always let down."

The games of the final round meant little after the Richardsons captured the title away in the morning, with only the three-way fight for second - place at stake. It was ironic that the only rink to defeat Saskatchewan—the Edwards foursome—should get knocked out, leaving Scales and Beagle tied in the runner-up spot.

Highlight of the day's play, however, was the performance of the youthful Cameron rink from P.E.I. in whipping Ontario. Coupled with its afternoon triumph, the Islanders wound up in fifth place with a record of six wins and four losses—best showing by a P.E.I. rink in the championship. Its previous top showing was a 5-5 record in 1958 at Victoria.

The triumph over Ontario was sparked by 21-year-old George Dillon, who continually got his rink out of trouble with brilliant takeouts and fine draws. His key shot was on the 12th when he made a double kill on his first stone and then made another tough takeout and stuck for shot with his second. The two shots did more to break the spirit of the Ontario squad than any others after it had fought back from a 10-3 deficit on the sixth to within two points coming home.

Meanwhile, the Richardsons, finishing much earlier than the slow-operating Ontario rink, assured themselves of no worse than a tie for first place as they continued their accurate shooting for a one-sided win over Nova Scotia. The Baird - skipped rink was never in contention after the fourth end.

The three-way tie for second place—with one round to go—came when Scales beat Newfoundland 11-9. Beagle already had his 7-2 record and was sitting out a 10th-round bye.

In other games, Quebec edged B.C. 7-6 and Northern Ontario defeated New Brunswick 16-6.

The CABA plans to select as many as 14 players from the trials, building an Olympic representative around the club that wins the senior crown. But only 12 players will make the trip to Rome.

A coach for the Olympic squad will be provided by the national championship club.

British Columbia's Alberni Athletics, University of Manitoba Bisons and Montreal's Yvan Coutu Huskies round out the four-team series roster with the Livingstons.

The tournament is based on an elimination process. A club drops out after losing two games. This will produce a winner Tuesday or Wednesday night.

Tillsonburg and Alberni are both led by coaches from the United States. The Athletics have Elmer Speidel from Seattle and Elmer Ripley of New York pilots the Livingstons.

Ripley came to the Livingstons this season after several years with the clownish Harlem Globe Trotters and stints at Yale, Columbia, Notre Dame and West Point.

Skating Champs To Turn Pro

TORONTO (CP) — Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul of Toronto, Olympic and world pairs figure skating champions, Friday announced they will turn professional.

They will make their pro debut next fall after fulfilling amateur exhibition commitments in Canada and Germany.

The announcement came just two weeks after they won a gold medal in the winter Olympic games at Squaw Valley, Calif., and successfully defended their world title at Vancouver a week ago.

The pair announced they would skate as amateurs in the Ice Review at Toronto March 16-18 with proceeds going to the crippled children's society.

The following week they leave for an exhibition tour of Germany, return to Toronto for another review and join the professional Ice Capades company at the end of April.

Both were born in Toronto. Barbara, 21, started skating at the age of 10. Both Barbara and Paul, 22, quit school in 1953 to devote full time to skating. They placed fifth in their first attempt at the world championship in 1955 and went on to win the title in 1957-58-59.

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

New York Rangers established the NHL record for fastest four goals scored when they beat Chicago 10-2 at New York eight years ago tonight. The spurge came in the third period, with goals by Don Raleigh, Ed Slowinski, and twice by Wally Hergeheimer, all within two minutes and 10 seconds.

Chicago White Sox vs. Cincinnati at Sarasota, Fla.; Los Angeles vs. Kansas City at Vero Beach; Milwaukee vs. Philadelphia at Clearwater; Pittsburgh vs. Boston at Mesa, Ariz., and San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

The spring exhibition games serve the same purpose as sparring sessions for the fighter. They are a means of conditioning and experimenting, and don't count a thing—except as a source of debate for the avid baseball fans.

For instance, the Baltimore Orioles were the American League's grapefruit champs last spring but managed to finish no better than sixth for the regular season. The Pittsburgh Pirates topped the National League in spring victories only to finish fourth in the season's standings.

Los Angeles, the ultimate NL champion, finished second in the grapefruit league but Milwaukee, a pennant contender all the way, was next to last at seventh place.

Mickey Mantle Agrees To Terms, Takes Cut But Signs For Reported $65,000, Two Pounds Overweight

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the big man of New York Yankees, Friday ended a 11-day long distance holdout and signed for a reported $65,000 salary after taking a "pretty good cut."

The 28-year-old centerfielder flew into town from his Dallas home Thursday night and came to terms with general manager George Weiss after a two-minute conference. His 1959 salary was estimated at $75,000.

The original Yankee offer for this year reportedly was $55,000. Under baseball law a player's salary can be cut only 25 per cent.

For the first time in the memory of veteran baseball writers, Weiss actually mentioned some figures in discussing a player's salary.

"I told Mickey that when you jump in five years from $31,000 to $70,000-odd, you can't expect to get $1,000 cuts after a bad year," said Weiss.

It was Weiss who described the salary as a compromise. Later when reporters talked to Mantle he said, "I took a pretty good cut, I'll tell you that."

Mickey said he would rather hit about 350 and lead the league in runs batted in than win the home run championship. In 1955 he won the triple championships of homers, RBI and average.

Manager Casey Stengel was relieved to see Mantle in uniform. "There are times when Mickey has a good day that you don't need any other players," said old Case.

Mantle said he had not been working out but weighed 200, two pounds over his normal weight.

"I talked with Mantle about straightening out his attitude toward the ball club," said Weiss, who last week said he had been tired of pampering the slugger. "We are as much concerned with having him popular and having the public like him as he is."

"I'm hopeful that with (Roger) Maris playing like he did the first half of last year and with Mantle back on the beam, he will have a one - two punch for the right field bleachers to make it a happy summer."
