SOVIET FORCES DRIVE WEST OF ISOLATED GOMEL

Russians Opening Up Avenue For Eventual Invasion Of Germany; Fifth Army Troops Lose Ground

Berlin Reports Violent Battle in Progress with Vastly Superior Force of Half Million Russians.

Russian forces drove West of isolated Gomel and Zhitomir today in a great battle to collapse the Nazi centre and open an avenue for the eventual invasion of Germany itself.

Gomel was almost surrounded. One escape railway remained open after the Russians captured Denezki, 24 miles on the railway to Warsaw. At Denezki, the Russians were within 320 miles of East Prussia and in the Nevel area farther North, the German border was 275 miles from Russian field guns.

The whole pattern of the Russian campaign appeared to be one of isolating and annihilating German forces which have been ousted from all but about 150,000 square miles of pre-war Russia.

The drive toward Poland from Kiev and Zhitomir had effectively severed the German armies of the South from those of the Centre and North. Advanced Russian forces were 300 miles West of the Germans still fighting in the lower Dnieper marshland, and Berlin said a violent battle was in progress in this area with a "vastly superior force" of 500,000 Russians.

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, Nov. 16.—(P)—The Red army swung sharply North along the Eastern edge of the Pripiet Marshes today, ripping out another important section of the German communications system and covering the flank of the great Russian bulge West of Kiev.

The general line of attack shifted, at least temporarily, from the former Westward thrust to a new drive to the North apparently designed to eliminate any possibility of a major German counter-attack in White Russia.

The most immediate effect of the newest turn in the campaign was the cutting of the railroad and highway running West from Gomel, Southern anchor of the Germans' White Russian line, to Kalinkovichi. The strong German garrison which has been holding out in Gomel was thus virtually isolated and that White Russian city. East of the Dnieper River appeared on the verge of falling.

Snapping of the Gomel-Kalinkovichi communications lines was accomplished by Red army forces which broke through the enemy lines South of Rechitsa and pushed on Southwest of that city.

Other Red army units operating 65 miles to the Southwest captured the towns of Kaganovichi and Bazar, respectively 40 and 30 miles Northeast of the rail centre of Korosten.

This force apparently was aiming to by-pass Korosten to the North.

Chinese Forces Crack Jap Lines

Chungking, Nov. 16.—(P)—The Chinese High Command announced tonight that its forces on the Yangtze Valley front had broken into Japanese lines at many points South of the river and advanced to the outskirts of Ichang and Tangyang to the North.

Severe fighting was said to be in progress near Ichang, a Yangtze port which is the deepest point of Japanese penetration up the river. Equally severe fighting was reported at Tangyang, less than 30 miles Northeast of Ichang.

The Chinese claimed the recapture of Hekow and acknowledged that the Japanese had broken into Shihmen.

About 200 miles North of Hankow along the Peiping-Hankow railway in Southern Hunan Province, Chinese opened an attack on the Japanese rail town of Sinyang.

COAL STRIKE VIRTUALLY ENDED

Calgary, Nov. 16.—(P)—The strike of 8,500 coal miners in Alberta and British Columbia was virtually ended today, with only 400 men in the Mountain Park and Mercoal districts still out.

The miners, members of the United Mine Workers of America, seek increased wages.

CATROUX OPENS NEGOTIATIONS TO END STRIFE

Lebanese Merchants Asked to Resume Business in Order to Restore Normal Conditions with Least Possible Delay.

London, Nov. 16.—(P)—The French-installed Lebanese Government asked storekeepers to re-open their shops today, the Beirut Radio said, as Gen. Georges Catroux, Emissary of the French Committee of National Liberation, sought to settle the dispute over the little Republic's sovereignty.

The broadcast said the appeal was made to merchants to resume business "in order to restore normal conditions with the least possible delay."

From other countries in the Far East, meanwhile, appeals on behalf of Lebanon continued. A Baghdad dispatch said that Wendell L. Wilkie's support for Lebanon, "in the interests of democracy, the Allies and the aims of the United Nations," had been asked in a cable sent by the President of the Iraq Senate.

The French on the other hand claimed Lebanese and Syrian support. Radio France in Algiers said that "a big delegation of Lebanese and Syrians of all political and religious groups" expected to be the Governor General of French West Africa at Dakar yesterday "assurance of their attachment to the motherland and the French Committee of National Liberation and their wish that the work of collaboration undertaken by France in Lebanon should be continued."

Cairo, Nov. 16.—(P)—Negotiations for a settlement of the Lebanese sovereignty question were begun today by Gen. Georges Catroux, Commissioner of State for the French Committee of National Liberation, who arrived in Beirut last night with full powers to make "on the spot" decisions.

French Command Regained Prestige Lost In 1940 When It Joined With Allied Forces In Tunisia Campaign

Thanks to long, ingenious undercover preparation by its North African officers, the French Army was able to take an active role in the expulsion of the Axis from Tunisia almost immediately. This is the second of a series of three articles by Capt. Andre Maurois of the French intelligence service, a widely-known author.

By CAPT. ANDRE MAUROIS

Algiers, Nov. 16.—(P)—The campaign of Tunisia assured the renaissance of the French Army's prestige, and also its self-confidence, but it revealed the deficiencies in our equipment and our armament.

The French Command had won immense prestige in the years 1914 to 1918; it had lost it in the defeat of 1940. It regained it in Tunisia. Generals Eisenhower, Alexander and Anderson paid tribute to the clear-headedness and resolution of the orders given by Generals Giraud, Juin and Koeltz. They were loud with praise for the valor of the troops.

The French, with equipment meagre and out of date, performed on the field of battle magnificent work," wrote General Eisenhower. "Some of their deeds equalled what you could expect from the best troops in the world. Numerous English and American officers bear witness to this. I will never tire of proclaiming the valor of the effort furnished by the French."

In fact, without the French troops, at the beginning of the Tunisian campaign, the enemy would have invaded Algeria. The Allies still had insufficient numbers in Africa. It was the French alone who, for two months, held the Germans back. Later they contributed greatly at Sidi and at Chambi to checking Rommel's offensive. Then, in the final operations, as much along the coast as in the mountains of Zaghouan, the French Army had its very great part in the common success.

The Inter-Allied Command had recognized the tenacity of French

British 8th Army Reported. However, to Have Captured New Hilltops in Eastern Sector of Italy.

By EDWARD KENNEDY,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

Algiers, Nov. 16.—(P)—Two Nazi counter-attacks have driven American troops of the Anglo-American 5th Army from high ground North of Venafro, Allied Headquarters announced today, while the British 8th Army won new hilltops in the Eastern sector of Italy.

The German onslaughts, latest of a long series of such thrusts in the Venafro region some 25 miles inland from the Tyrrhenian Coast, pushed United States troops out of areas previously occupied on hills North of Venafro where a 5th Army wedge threatens the enemy's winter line.

Resistance remained strong along the length of the 5th Army front in Italy, Headquarters said.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's 8th Army won new high ground North of Aversa, 14 miles inland from the Adriatic, where his troops are approaching the Sangro river. Nearer the Adriatic, 8th Army patrols made new sorties across the Sangro, feeling out German strength.

Enemy elements were met near Montazzoli in the middle reaches of the Sangro.

Land operations generally were held at a near standstill by mud and bad weather as the opposing forces girded for showdown battle.

In the air war American heavy bombers, joined by the reorganized Yugoslav Air Force, smashed at Eleusis airfield at Athens yesterday and medium bombers hammered Kalamaki airfield in the Athens area.

The weather prevented extensive air activity in Italy, although some sweeps were made, with an assault on a truck convoy near Ancona on the Adriatic.

Two Allied planes were lost in all activities.

As the opposing forces concentrated on strengthening their positions for the coming major battles, activity around was slight. Latest reported clashes were three enemy infantry, the manoeuvrability of our mountain troops and the technical worth of our officers corps. The unhappy memories of a defeat due to exceptional circumstances have been erased by the Tunisian campaign.

The French Army needed not only to regain the confidence of the Allies, but also to recover its own self-confidence. After 1940 the German soldiers held a sort of moral ascendancy over us. We were halted by the panzer.

The Tunisian campaign proved to the French soldier that he could conquer the German. From Nov. 15, 1942, 20,000 Frenchmen held a 400-kilometre front against the Axis armies; on May 11, 1943, 70,000 French troops took 30,000 German prisoners and captured all their war equipment.

We had greatly suffered during that campaign; we had had numerous dead; we had fought six months without a halt, without relief; but finally again we saw the German conquered; we had, with our Allies, liberated our African Empire. Confidence was ours again.

The French Army had fought admirably but it had had to struggle in almost unbelievably miserable conditions. North Africa had made a total war effort but it has no industry. North Africa cannot produce clothing or shoes or tents. Many of our men fought that campaign without shoes, without shirts; their overcoats were in shreds, a destruction all the more painful when they saw beside them the perfect equipment of their Anglo-Saxon comrades.

In armament their misery was the same. The arms we had saved were from 1939 and often older. They were not made for war in 1943. With some old Somua tanks and some Valentines which the English gave us, we had to face the powerful German panzers. Our soldiers asked only to fight, but they asked also that this be equal with arms. The President of the United States, who

C.C.F. POLICY RECKLESS, SAYS JOHN BRACKEN

National Conservative Leader Indicates Canada Must Hedge Between Extreme Radicalism and Rigid Reaction.

Swift Current, Sask., Nov. 16.—(P)—John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative Leader, said in a public address here Monday that "the dangerous character of some of the radical leadership of today should cause us to do serious thinking."

Referring to a reported statement made by Harold Winch, British Columbia C.C.F. leader at Calgary last week, Mr. Bracken said that when coupled with "his equally revolutionary utterances" on previous occasions it helped to clarify the political scene in Canada.

Mr. Winch was reported to have told the Calgary meeting that the C.C.F., if elected, would introduce Socialism and enforce it by using police and military forces to suppress those opposed to obeying the law.

Mr. Bracken said "whether it was the thoughtless expression of a radical enthusiast or the deliberate statement of considered policy, it is equally dangerous coming from a party leader."

(Mr. Winch in Regina last Friday denied portions of press reports of his speech and said he declared, in answer to a question:

"When a C.C.F. government comes into power it will be because the people have given it a mandate to institute a Socialist programme. The C.C.F. will immediately proceed to enact legislation in accordance with its programme, if big industry and high finance refuse to obey the law, democratically placed on the statute books, then they will be in the same position as one who breaks the law today and would have to be handled as lawbreakers by the police and military forces.")

The Progressive Conservative Leader asserted that progress of Canada was being held back by two dangers—the danger of extreme radicalism and rigid reaction.

Mr. Bracken outlined his party's post-war creed, which urged stability and fair treatment for enterprise, and said the broad issue before the Canadian people as to the kind of government they desired for the post-war reconstruction period was becoming increasingly plain.

"Are we to run the risk of reckless revolution such as the C.C.F.

Gloucester In Australia Post

London, Nov. 16.—(P)—The Duke of Gloucester, 43-year-old brother of the King, will become Governor-General of Australia next July, succeeding Lord Gowrie, who has held that office for the past seven years.

The King approved his brother's appointment yesterday, and the Duke then became the first member of the Royal Family to hold that office. The Duke of Kent, the King's youngest brother, had been nominated to the post but was killed in an airplane crash in August, 1942.

Gloucester at present is serving as the King's personal aide de camp. He is well known in Australia, having visited there in 1934 to attend the Melbourne Centenary Celebration, and is Colonel-in-Chief of the Australian Light Horse.

WAR BULLETINS

New York.—The Budapest Radio said today it had been confirmed in Berlin that Franz von Papen, German Ambassador to Turkey, had left Ankara en route for Germany to report on recent political developments in the Middle East.

London.—Heavy bombers of the United States 8th Air Force attacked targets in Norway this morning, it was announced. No details were disclosed.

Barcelona.—German authorities were said to have ordered 100 retaliatory arrests after a German soldier was shot to death by "terrorists" in Toulouse Saturday.

Madrid.—The deadline set by German authorities for the surrender of Italian forces still fighting the Nazis in the mountains of Southern France expired today, but reports from France indicated that only a few hundred had laid down their arms as demanded.

Marines Land At Bougainville

Here is the beginning of the American forces' attempt to drive the Japanese from their last stronghold in the Solomons. Marines are shown as they went ashore from landing barges on Torokina Beach, Bougainville Island. This picture was transmitted by radio to San Francisco and across the continent by Telephoto.

Chile Seeks Closer Ties With Americas

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—(P)—Chile is anxious to see closer relations among all the Americas—North, South and Central—Pedro Castelblanco, President of the Chilean Chamber of Deputies, said today in an interview here.

It was with that object in mind, he said, that he came to Canada in the course of a tour of national capitals, bearing a special message of good-will from the Chilean Parliament to other Parliaments of the Americas. He has already delivered his message in Peru, Panama, Mexico and the United States.

As Parliament is not in session here he is delivering the message to Prime Minister Mackenzie King with whom he has an appointment later.

Mr. Castelblanco said that in all his contacts with Canadians he found proof of friendship for Chile and a desire to enlarge the friendship between the two countries. He had been greatly impressed with what he had seen of the Canadian war effort. It was another link bringing Canada closer to his own country in the common purpose of conserving democracy.

"We think that after this war the exaggerated nationalism which we have seen in the past should come to a stop," he said, "and that in its place there should be economic and cultural interdependence among the three Americas."

The Chilean Parliamentarian was received today by the Governor-General and also renewed acquaintance with Trade Minister MacKinnon whom he met during the Minister's visit to Chile some months ago as head of a trade mission. He leaves for Toronto tonight.

Heavy Toll In Japanese Warships Accounted For By Allied Bombers

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 16.—(P)—Allied bombers, constantly searching for Japanese warships in general—and cruisers in particular—have sunk or damaged better than one a day during the Northern Solomons offensive.

On October 12th, a record load of 350 tons hit Rabaul, New Britain. It was the opening blow of the current drive. Three destroyers were among the ships sunk during the raid.

To date, beginning with that raid, Allied fliers in their favorite hunting ground for enemy warships—Rabaul and Kavieng, New Ireland—have sunk or damaged more than forty.

Three cruisers, at least ten destroyers and a gunboat have been sunk, at least eleven cruisers, fifteen destroyers, a destroyer tender, a submarine, a submarine tender and a corvette have been damaged. Two additional cruisers were listed as probably hit at Rabaul.

The air blows to the cruisers have been so heavy that United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox said Japan "is being seriously impaired in that category for future operations in the Rabaul area. Adding to Japan's cruiser losses during the period were one sunk and two damaged in a naval battle off Bougainville."

An Allied headquarters spokesman, in commenting on the blows to the cruisers, has pointed out that Japan lacks facilities in the Rabaul-Kavieng area for the repair of such vital ships.

Today's communiqué reported no substantial changes but only patrol clashes at Empress Augusta Bay on the West-Central Coast of Bougainville—the Allied front line in the Northern Solomons.

PRECEDENT TO BE BROKEN BY HULL ADDRESS

Washington, Nov. 16.—(P)—United States State Secretary Cordell Hull broke precedent by traveling 26,000 miles for the Moscow conference and he'll break it again Thursday with a two-mile trip from the State Department to Capitol Hill.

Hull will be the first member of the United States Cabinet ever to speak before a joint session of Congress, which wants to hear a firsthand account of the historic Moscow pact.

Judging from the State Secretary's remarks to a news conference yesterday, he will emphasize to the House of Representatives and Senate this point:

A proposed Allied commission to maintain order in liberated countries until these countries can hold plebiscites to choose their rulers. Hull bore down on this point yesterday. He said all countries would be allowed to choose their own governments at free elections, including the Baltic and Balkan States.

This reference to the future of the tiny Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania collided sharply with the oft-published Russian views that for other countries to discuss their status would be similar to an international conference on the future of California.

The states were incorporated into the Soviet union before Germany attacked Russia in 1941.

The European Advisory Council which the three governments decided to set up in London will examine the application of the doctrine to each Axis-occupied country as it is liberated, Hull said.

Hull indicated that the London Council is not expected to expand into such broad proportions as a world peace group now.

However, he said, the London Commission backed up with further conferences among Allied leaders

OAKES FORTUNE ESTIMATED AT $25,000,000

Nassau, Bahamas, Nov. 16.—(P)—First official intimation of the size of the fortune left by Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian mining millionaire, came today as new uncertainties piled up for dapper Alfred de Marigny, who was recently acquitted on charges of killing his wealthy father-in-law.

Sir Harry's fortune, according to Walter Foskett, attorney for the family, amounts to about $25,000,000, and he termed private estimates that have ranged as high as $300,000,000 "fantastic." He said Sir Harry owned only 40 per cent of the stock of the wealthy Lake Shore gold mine in Ontario.

Sir Harry's Nassau holdings were valued at $14,000,000 in an appraisal filed here after his death.

Meanwhile, word was awaited from de Marigny on what he planned to do concerning the surprise cancellation of his re-marriage to his wife Nancy and his official invitation to leave the island.

De Marigny announced yesterday morning he and his red-haired wife would be re-married at 2 p.m. He explained that their marriage in New York was a civil ceremony.

Father Bonaventure, who was to have performed the ceremony, waited at the church for little over an hour after the appointed time. Then he talked to de Marigny on the telephone, after which he announced:

There will be no wedding today. He said he is ill.

Friends of de Marigny's wife, however, indicated she was taken by surprise by the marriage plans and wanted more time to think over the idea. She is a Protestant and he is Catholic.

There was no announcement by de Marigny on further plans for the ceremony or what he planned to do about the "invitation" by the Gov-

Burma Area Is Blasted In Big Raid

Allied Bombers Strike at Norway After Another Heavy Blow Directed at Athens Airfields.

Calcutta, Nov. 16.—(P)—R.A.F. medium and heavy bombers today carried out the heaviest and most concentrated attack on Burma since the war in the East began, it was announced here tonight.

London, Nov. 16.—(P)—Bringing Hitler's ramparts under attack both in the North and the South, bombers struck targets in Norway today after another heavy blow at Athens airfields.

The Norwegian targets of American bombers were not disclosed immediately. The Nazis have been harboring a number of their warships in Norway's deep fjords.

Allied headquarters in Algiers revealed simultaneously that units of the reorganized Yugoslav Air Force, now trained as heavy bomber crews, have entered the war in the Mediterranean theatre and yesterday flew with formations of Americans to bomb the Eleusis Airfield.

U. S. medium bombers from Italy struck Kalamaki airfield in the Athens region.

The Yugoslavs are flying four-engined bombers given them by the United States Government under lease-lend. They operate as a Yugoslav air force under their own command.

Today's attack was the second by American heavy bombers on Norway. On July 24 a part of a heavy force hit a U-boat base and other installations at Trondheim while others wrecked an important metal plant at Heroya.

For the first time in months German raiders last night attacked Southwest England—the general area referred to by Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers as the scene of the American rehearsal for the greatest military undertaking of all time—hitting a coastal town sharply with incendiaries and high explosives.

The Berlin radio said plymouth was attacked.

Heaviest damage was done in the residential section and fires were started in the industrial area by the raiders, who were making their first incursion over Britain in a week. Some persons were reported killed. Between 15 and 20 others believed trapped in the ruins of several houses were being sought by rescue squads today.

An Air Ministry communiqué said the raiders dropped bombs at scattered points over both South and Southwest England early this morning, in addition to the attack on the coastal town.

Another Nursery Closed By Police

Montreal, Nov. 16.—(P)—A second Montreal district nursery, the Garderie Godie, has been closed in nearby Point-à-View, it was announced today. The Garderie Lemeux, was closed Saturday. No persons have been detained and no charges laid.

An inquest into the death of Paul-Emile Lefebvre, a six-month-old baby who died at St. Justine Hospital Friday night after having been brought there from the Cecile Nursery, will be held before a jury tomorrow, coroner Richard Duckett said today. An autopsy showed the baby died of mastoiditis and pneumonia. Coroner Pierre Hebert said the Lefebvre child was the sixth to have died in hospital after being removed from private nurseries.

Police moved eight infant charges from the Lemeux Nursery to St. Justine Hospital Saturday. Five days after two infants—Jean-Paul English and Micheline Legault—died after being treated at a hospital following removal from that nursery.

Health Minister Groulx said today his department will take action against any nursery operating without a provincial permit. He asked that the public co-operate with the authorities in the matter, by advising them of any establishment operating without authorization or not conforming with regulations governing nurseries.

Work Of Local Mobile Police Lauded By Deputy Commandant

W. E. Dunton, of Montreal, Deputy Commandant of the Provincial Mobile Police, warned the Sherbrooke district units of auxiliary police against complacency on the home-front last night when he was guest speaker at the third annual banquet attended by the Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Cookshire and Magog groups of the Mobile Police.

Although the Federal Government is disbanding the C.P.C. and A.R.P. units in parts of Ontario and the Prairies, Mr. Dunton stressed that the Mobile Police Force will be necessary in Quebec for the duration because home tension may increase during the coming year when the United Nations get deeper into enemy territory.

"There is a strong possibility that the auxiliary police may see action before the war is over," he stated.

The speaker predicted that the Mobile Police will have a huge task to perform until after the war and urged the Sherbrooke district units to carry on and not to become discouraged.

He said that the district groups were taking their work seriously, and lauded Acting Commandant W. W. Foote for his reports concerning the activities of the various bodies.

He also praised Commandant Jean Valenti, unable to be present owing to business, and Henry Downs, of Lennoxville, both of whom are also full of enthusiasm, the speaker stated.

Mr. Dunton was thanked by Mr. Foote, Chairman of the affair, who next introduced Mayor W. S. K. Flaherty, Business Manager and Downs, of Lennoxville.

Mayor Downs said that the Lennoxville unit, started after the outbreak of war, has been functioning successfully, pointing out that members of the Mobile Police are setting an example of being patriotic citizens performing a duty on the home front.

For example, he explained, the Lennoxville Auxiliary Police assisted in the flood of last spring and aided in searches for German prisoners of war.

The next speaker was Director of Police and Fire Percy Donahue. He voiced his appreciation to the Sherbrooke Mobile Police for aiding municipal police in all emergencies during the present year.

"These men have fulfilled their duties to the best of their ability," he said, urging the different groups to continue for the duration because they have rendered a good service.

E. J. Kingsland, O. C. of the Magog Mobile Police, termed the policeman's job a profession, saying that a policeman cannot be made in a day and must undergo a thorough training before becoming full-fledged. He also outlined the responsibilities of a constable.

He scored the Government action in ordering disbanding of civilian auxiliary services in some sectors of the Dominion and asserted he was at a loss to understand the motive since the men are offering their services and purchasing their uniforms and weapons.

Brief remarks were made by J. K. Flaherty, Business Manager and Editor of the Sherbrooke Daily Record: He pledged co-operation in the future as in the past in connection with the support in the columns of the paper of the activities of the Mobile Police Forces in this district.

Adjutant Charles Heon, of the local unit, gave a resume in French of what had been said, especially for the French-speaking members of the various forces. Others who spoke briefly were the Rev. W. Gray, of Cookshire, Padre; Captain Pat Slatery, O. C. Company Two, Sherbrooke, and Fred Barter, O. C. Cookshire Mobile Police; Section Commander W. S. Richardson and Sidney Spanwick, of Lennoxville, and Dr. G. Saine, Medical Officer.

Mr. Foote read a letter of regret from Mayor A. C. Ross, who was unable to attend due to a Council meeting and another letter of thanks from Director Donahue for the co-operation given city police during the Halloween parade and the Remembrance Day ceremony.

Attired in uniforms, the four district groups were inspected at the Lansdowne Market before the dinner by Mr. Dunton, assisted by Director Donahue. The former congratulated the units on their splendid performance.

Approximately 150 Auxiliary policemen then paraded up King Street West and turned South on Wellington Street to the Chateau Frontenac.

Others seated at the head table in addition to those who spoke were W. McKenzie, Chief Instructor, and Charles Ducharme, O.C. Company One. An entertainment followed the dinner.

Municipal Taxation Levies Remain Unchanged For Next Fiscal Period

Despite the steadily mounting surplus in the Sherbrooke municipal finances, the tax rate for the coming year will remain unchanged at ten and a half mills on the dollar, a by-law to this effect being given all three readings at the regular session of the City Council last evening and adopted. In addition an additional half-mill was imposed on property on homologated streets to cover the cost of sewer construction, this levy also remaining unchanged from previous years.

Another by-law sponsored by Ald. Fiset providing for the designation of some twenty-five streets in various parts of the city as residential thoroughfares and preventing the construction or opening of business establishments on these streets was also given rapid passage, going through the preliminary formalities and all three readings in a matter of a few minutes.

The fuel wood situation was also aired briefly at the brief session, which got underway well over an hour late, when a letter from the Regional Wood Controller was read providing for the payment of a bounty of seventy-five cents a cord of thirty-two cubic feet on all wood sold within the city limits by licensed dealers, the City to be recompensed for this payment along with administration charges by the Fuel Controller. The agreement was accepted with little discussion after a representative of the local wood dealers had explained the proposition to the Aldermen.

A report of the Finance Committee providing for the payment of the following grants, approved in the 1943 budget was approved: Antitubercular League, $1,000; Arts and Trade School, $500; Veterans Association, $200; Junior Welfare League, $200, and Sherbrooke Regiment Band, $150.

Instructions were also given the Clerk of the Records' Court that no actions were to be instituted before that Court, except in cases of infringement of municipal by-laws, without having such actions approved by the City Attorney.

Fourteen winter coats for policemen and firemen were ordered from Rubin Brothers, Ltd., at a cost of $12.75 each, the cloth to be supplied by the City.

Several other routine reports were accepted, mostly providing for the payment of current accounts.

LT.-COL. BEST
WILL ADDRESS
ROTARY CLUB

Lieut.-Col. Gilbert Best, Divisional Commander of the Salvation Army for Eastern Ontario and Quebec, will be guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club in the New Sherbrooke House this evening. His subject will be "Behind the Red Shield."

Col. Best will illustrate his talk with sound moving pictures entitled "The Red Shield in Canada and Abroad." This is a technicolor film.

A Salvation Army officer for the past thirty years, Col. Best has spent most of his time in executive capacities, and at the outbreak of war was in the Salvation Army War Service Department.

He will also address a special meeting at the Salvation Army Citadel on Wellington Street South, following the Rotary meeting, and will present several letters of authority to the local Corps of the Salvation Army. This will take place at eight p.m. tonight and admission is free.

J. V. Ames, Chairman of the Raffles Committee of the annual Rotary Fair, again today urged Rotarians and others selling tickets to turn in their stubs and money by this evening, which he has set as the deadline. The stubs will be placed in the raffle mixer.

Erection of fair booths at the Belvidere Street Armory is expected to be completed by tomorrow. The Fair will open on Thursday night and continue until Saturday evening.

FATHER, SON BANQUET HELD AT LENNOXVILLE

A most successful and much enjoyed Father and Son banquet was held in the Gertrude Scott Hall under the auspices of the Men's Own Club, at which ninety-five were entertained.

A. E. Wharram and A. Rowatt provided for the banquet, and L. Parker, President, welcomed the guests.

J. E. Perry proposed a toast to the sons and a reply was given by Allan Sutherland. Rev. N. McLeod gave a short talk, taking as his subject "The Relationship Between Father and Son." After this W. H. Wolter directed several games and Albert Blier led in a jolly sing song.

Alex Rowatt and his son, David, gave recitations, bringing the programme to a close. Carpet bowling was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

On Sunday evening a Father and Son service was conducted in the United Church, fathers and sons attending in a body and taking over the service.

Frederick Vaudry read the Scripture lesson and L. Parker gave a short history of the Men's Own Club. David Rowatt gave a reading. The offering was taken by C. Brazel and son, Alton, and Mr. G. Sutherland and son, Jimmie.

Rev. N. McLeod, pastor, gave a short address and the anthem was sung by A. Rowatt, A. N. Langford, H. Montgomery, D. MacDonald and D. MacKenzie.

Local Aldermen Planning Immediate Action To Improve Water Situation

Some definite move in the immediate future toward the improvement of the Sherbrooke water supply is likely to be taken by the City Council. This was made clear last evening when Ald. Guy Bryant, Chairman of the Waterworks Committee, told the members of the Council that he was hoping for a meeting of the Council as a Committee of the Whole within the next few days to study various projects before the Aldermen and prepare some clear-cut plan for submission to the ratepayers.

Discussing the question of improving the water supply, Ald. Bryant warned the Council that they must be united on the merits of any suggestion they submitted to the people and recalled the severe defeat given a filtration plant proposal thirteen years ago when barely ten per cent of the electors registered themselves in favor of the plan. At that time every ward in the city registered a negative vote.

The discussion arose just at the close of the regular session when Ald. Deziel, champion of a filtration plant of his own which he claims to be more effective than the orthodox proposals which appear to have the support of the majority of the Councilors, demanded that some action be taken immediately in this connection.

Ald. Bryant pronounced his willingness for a quick stop and was given general support by his fellow Aldermen, although Ald. Fiset voiced the opinion that there was no need for haste and that the whole matter could be deferred until the end of the war when materials would be more available and labor cheaper. However, this view did not receive general acceptance.

Ald. Deziel also sought information as to whether an engineer had been engaged to make a report on the proposals and received the answer that at the present time most of the competent engineers were so much engaged on war contracts that they had to defer any visit here at the present time. The "last word" Alderman hinted that his question was rather academic, however, in that he was convinced that any engineer engaged would merely give his approval to the plan which the city had prepared thirteen years ago at a cost of $6,000, although perhaps a few very minor amendments might be made.

The Mayor entered the discussion briefly to inform the Councilors that an invitation had been received from Mayor Pratte of Longueuil for the entire Council to attend the opening of the new filtration plant in that city which would take place in the near future. The Longueuil delegation early in the spring when work had just started and is along the same lines as the plans now in the Sherbrooke archives.

Earlier in the evening, a letter had been read from a local plant complaining of the quality of the water supplied to them, but it was referred to the Water Committee without any discussion at that time.

A decision to hold the customary Christmas entertainments for servicemen stationed in this area, as well as the monster Christmas Party for families of servicemen away from home, featured the meeting of the Citizens' War Auxiliary Services Committee held last evening at the MacKinnon Memorial Building.

Due to the decreased number of soldiers in and around Sherbrooke during the summer, some of the activities of the Committee were curtailed during the summer months, reported Mrs. W. B. McCaw, acting convener of the Entertainment Subcommittee. Nevertheless the popular Rendezvous at the Howard Resi-

THE GERMANS FEAR VENGEANCE

When the Allied national and military leaders predict that something more than the collapse of civilian morale on the German home front will be required to bring about the suspension of German army resistance, they are doubtless taking into account the fear which must be held by many Nazi soldiers and leaders located in the occupied lands as to what will happen to them if they are forced to lay down their arms. It takes no propaganda organization to convince the world that they have made themselves hated and despised by the people of the countries which they have overrun. This raises the question: What will be their fate when the fighting ceases? Will they be hunted down like mad dogs and exterminated? What can they hope for in the post-war world considering the mass of enmity which they have succeeded in stirring up?

When their arms are gone, what can Germans expect in Poland and Czechoslovakia where torture and death have been the principal means of spreading the new order? What mercy can they expect from the starving Greeks or the impoverished Danes and Norwegians? Can they look for any sympathy from the Netherlands who are at present carrying on a campaign of attrition and sabotage despite Gestapo agents and Nazi army bayonets? There are thousands of Germans who will be unable to escape to their homelands from the occupied countries when the armistice is signed, and in the event of a German collapse there may be massacres on a scale never before known in history. Then, again, it is probable that inside Germany itself the enraged people will turn on the Nazis and rend them apart and that would save the United Nations the bother of having to arrange trials for the criminals. The Huns know that all over Europe there are men and women who have tremendous personal accounts to settle with them and they would not be surprised if the Germans were exterminated in every land in which they may be found when the war is ended.

Thus the German army, in desperation, may be forced to fight on to the bitter end, believing that a United Nations bullet might be more merciful than the death which faces them at the hands of enraged people. Some talk is heard of an Anglo-American army of occupation of Europe after the war to maintain order, but the fear in the German mind is: Will such an army, if created, be able to take over its duties in time to prevent large scale slaughter?

POST-WAR CANADA

Addressing a Quebec political rally over the week-end, Justice Minister Louis St. Laurent told the people of the Province many things that were wise and many things that were good. This was to be expected as the Justice Minister has a reputation for intelligence, integrity and moderation. But he also ventured into fields that seem rather new to him, especially in regard to the promises he is making for Canadians in the post-war world.

When he attacked the C. C. F., he was standing on strong ground, although he admitted that his arguments and declarations were largely those made a few days earlier by Col. George A. Drew, Progressive Conservative Premier of Ontario.

His remarks on wage control and the anti-inflation fight were also in line with Government policy. No one can deny that the basic policies of the administration have tended to keep prices and wages in line. But certain members of the Government, notably the Finance Minister are expressing grave concern over the threat to the price ceiling noticeable in recent months. And for this they can blame no one but themselves, for it is the marked inconsistency of their policies—restricting wages and prices in one place but opening the gates wide on another front—that has been the primary cause of the strong pressure against the price control plan.

However, in his advocacy of a system of family allowances, the Justice Minister is treading upon dangerous ground and is supporting a plan that is becoming steadily less palatable the more its details are studied. When first the family allowance plan was advanced in the March report it was hailed as the solution for many Canadian problems, but closer review has produced the impression in many quarters that it is a plan for the wholesale bribery of one section of the electorate. Undoubtedly certain improvements are needed in the economic surroundings of the small wage-earners with large families, but to many it seems desirable to improve social services and public health facilities rather than make cash allowances for this or that purpose with no guarantee that the money would be used for the purpose for which it was designated.

He also forecasts an announcement by the Dominion Prime Minister of an extensive system of post-war public works and a rehabilitation programme. This is promised within the next few days and it is advisable to defer any judgment until the plan has been made public.

THE GERMAN PICTURE DARKENS

Adolf Hitler, the great man of Nazidom, who claims to work his wonders by intuition, indeed seems to have had a flash of second-sight during his recent Munich beer-cellar speech when he told his people in so many words that they were headed for mountains of grief. The titanic battle on the Russian front has worsened suddenly for the Hitlerites. Two outstanding developments indicate that this greatest of all armed conflicts is in the midst of another far-reaching crisis, the events:

The Soviet avalanche has engulfed Zhitomir, thereby slashing Hitler's thousand-mile front virtually in two, and pointing a spearhead at the Polish border, some sixty miles away. It is one of the key victories of the war.

Yesterday, the Germans also announced that 300,000 Russian troops have broken through the Nazi defences in the Dnieper-bend trap which the Soviets are trying to close about the Hitlerites in that region.

The Berlin statement about a break-through at the trap would seem to be calculated to prepare the German public for another big withdrawal of their forces in that area. Maybe the retreat is underway now.

If this is true, there is direct relation between the retirement in the extreme South and the dangerous extension of the Russian wedge which has been driven into the Nazi line at Zhitomir to the North. A deep thrust through the front North of the Dnieper bend would render the German position on the Southern flank untenable. The mighty Russian war machine is gathering momentum as the ground freezes. Thus far the Germans have averted a debacle by the soldierly withdrawal of their unwieldy line, and despite the critical developments there is no sign at the moment that they will not be able to continue falling back with some semblance of order.

If Hitler's war industries were running full blast, and pouring out great quantities of supplies as they did in the early part of the war, then his recent losses in equipment on the bloody battlefields of Russia would not be so serious. But the Allied bombing team is ripping German industrial centres to pieces. The Fuehrer cannot replace his losses on the Eastern front, and consequently is growing weaker each day as he pulls his line back and leaves more supplies behind.

The harsh corollary to this is that even if the Nazi chief could replace his losses in manpower—which he cannot do—he would be unable to give them the equipment necessary to withstand the Russian onslaught. The German army still possesses great defensive power, as we likely shall see demonstrated when we undertake the great invasions of France, but it has shot its bolt as an offensive machine.

THE WORK PILE PLAN

While politicians and their brain trust advisers are talking loudly and forecasting much on the best ways of meeting the business slump which is bound to ensue when the cessation of hostilities brings a sharp curb in armament production, individual organizations in many United States cities are compiling a work pile of jobs that may be done after the war. The idea of making a check-up of what remodelling, improvements, additions, new plants wanted and even what financing might be needed originated with the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and has been adopted as a task by many service clubs.

In San Francisco a chairman has been appointed for each business and industry in the city, who with his committee makes a particular survey of his particular business, trade or locality to see what work can be figured on as available after the war and to date some $56,000,000 worth of work has been listed. The scheme is interesting people in what can be done once labor and material is available and no doubt will have a worthwhile influence in starting off peace-time work and business on the right track.

Its sponsors do not hail it as a panacea for all the economic ills of the post-war world, but they are convinced that if the idea becomes continent-wide it will serve as an important cushion in preventing the painful changeover from wartime to peacetime industry.

PRESS COMMENTS

RE-MAKING THE GERMANS

St. Thomas Times-Journal.

The problem of what to do with the German people themselves after the war is one that is exercising the minds of many people. How are they to be re-educated away from their "master race" complex which they always had and which has been so disastrously intensified by Adolf Hitler, so that some day they will be re-made and are willing and capable of being absorbed among the peace-loving nations of the world?

Various suggestions have been advanced, and we note the address of Jenksche Michiels van Verduynen, Ambassador of the expatriate Netherlands Government in London, at London University during Netherlands Week. Mr. van Verduynen said it would be hard for a Holland to admit that there are any "good" Germans, a view which a large number of people will agree with, although not going so far as to say that the only good German is a dead one. He is opposed to splitting the German nation into two camps, believing that would create an irreconcilable spirit, but he feels there should be a lengthy occupation of Germany by civilian organizations, as well as military supervision, to teach the German people not only that they are about war, including the events that led up to it, but the principles of democracy. His plan is to first give them free and untrammelled municipal elections, followed by test provincial or state elections, and finally national self-government.

One advantage in dealing with the Germans is that they have "an aptitude for obedience." The German is accustomed to doing as he is bidden by those in authority without questioning the why or wherefore of the orders. This is a hopeful factor in the German situation. The question may arise, however, whether this re-education should be in the hands of occupying civilians or by "converted" Germans themselves. The Germans might be resentful, hostile and non-co-operative toward representatives of their conquerors, although there is a probability they are sick of their own masters.

We favor the idea of Allied teachers. The Germans were left to their own devices after the last war. The result was Nazism.

MAN WITH SEVERAL ALIASES

Buffalo Courier-Express.

There has been a considerable amount of trouble between management and labor at the plants of the Brewster Aeronautical Corp.—trouble which has resulted in work stoppages and loss of production.

Some of the trouble can be laid at the door of the management—management which has now been turned over to Henry Kaiser, the shipbuilding wizard, in the hope of marked peace and improvement. And some of the trouble also attributable to labor—or, at any rate, to the man who runs the union which controls some 20,000 Brewster workers. That man is known as Thomas V. DeLorenzo. He is president of Local 368 of the United Auto Workers of America. But DeLorenzo is not his name. He was born Harry Posner, picked DeLorenzo "because it sounded nice" and had his name changed in 1931. He has also been known as James Harris, Sid Traurig and several other names "whenever they came in handy."

DeLorenzo, or whatever you choose to call him, was a witness before a House investigating committee the other day. He amazed the members by the nature of the admissions he made in telling the story of his life and rise to power in the union he now heads.

Among other things he admitted that he had lied to the Brewster company and his draft board about his work experience, that he had lied about his age, lied about his police record which included charges of riot and fifteen traffic violations, and would lie "any time in order to eat." DeLorenzo admitted to the committee that until he went to Brewster he had never had any aircraft experience or even belonged to a union. At that time the C.I.O. and A.F.L. were fighting for control at Brewster. DeLorenzo joined both just to play safe. The C.I.O. United Auto Workers won the election and DeLorenzo's union career was under way.

Incidentally, DeLorenzo admitted under questioning by committee members that he had previously stated the union's policy as not to win the war at any cost but to win it without sacrificing too many rights. He also admitted he had said "in substance" that if he had brothers at the front who needed ten to twelve planes, he would let them die rather than sacrifice all the union's rights.

DeLorenzo said that all workers at Brewster hope conditions will improve under Mr. Kaiser.

We might add that if the substitution of Mr. Kaiser for the former Brewster management is expected to improve conditions, it is only reasonable to suppose that an even greater improvement might be effected by the substitution of somebody—almost anybody—for DeLorenzo or whatever you choose to call him.

WHEN THE WAR WILL END

Ottawa Journal.

The pity of Lord Halifax's week-end statements on the possibilities of the war ending soon is that his hopes will be mistaken for convictions, his speculations or absolute predictions. Lord Halifax said that the war has reached a point where "anything may happen" and that it was logical to believe that an internal change in Germany may come at "any time"—and upon this the optimists will pounce. What the optimists and too many others will not notice is that Lord Halifax also warned we shouldn't count too heavily on a sudden collapse. Said he:

"One part of your mind should prepare for a long and tough struggle, but with the other part you can legitimately watch for anything to happen."

And Lord Halifax, it will be noted, was not talking about a crack-up of the German Army but of an "internal" crack-up of Germany. There is a difference. The difference is that while the state and power of the German Army can be measured by actual conditions in the field, the state of German internal morale cannot easily be measured. We cannot know with anything of certainty how tough that morale is. It may turn out to be very brittle, but then again it may happen that the German people will display unexpected powers of endurance.

There are those who are approaching the date of the armistice in the last war, hold that conditions in Germany are such that they will be before the collapse of 1918, pin their faith upon that. Yet what the experience of the past four years teaches is that the Germans are about the present war based upon the last have almost invariably been silly.

At any rate, it would be the worst sort of folly at this time to take our hopes and relax our efforts. The most unwise thing that we fellow Canadians can do is to let ourselves be lulled by the false promises of our opponent seen on the verge of a knockout.

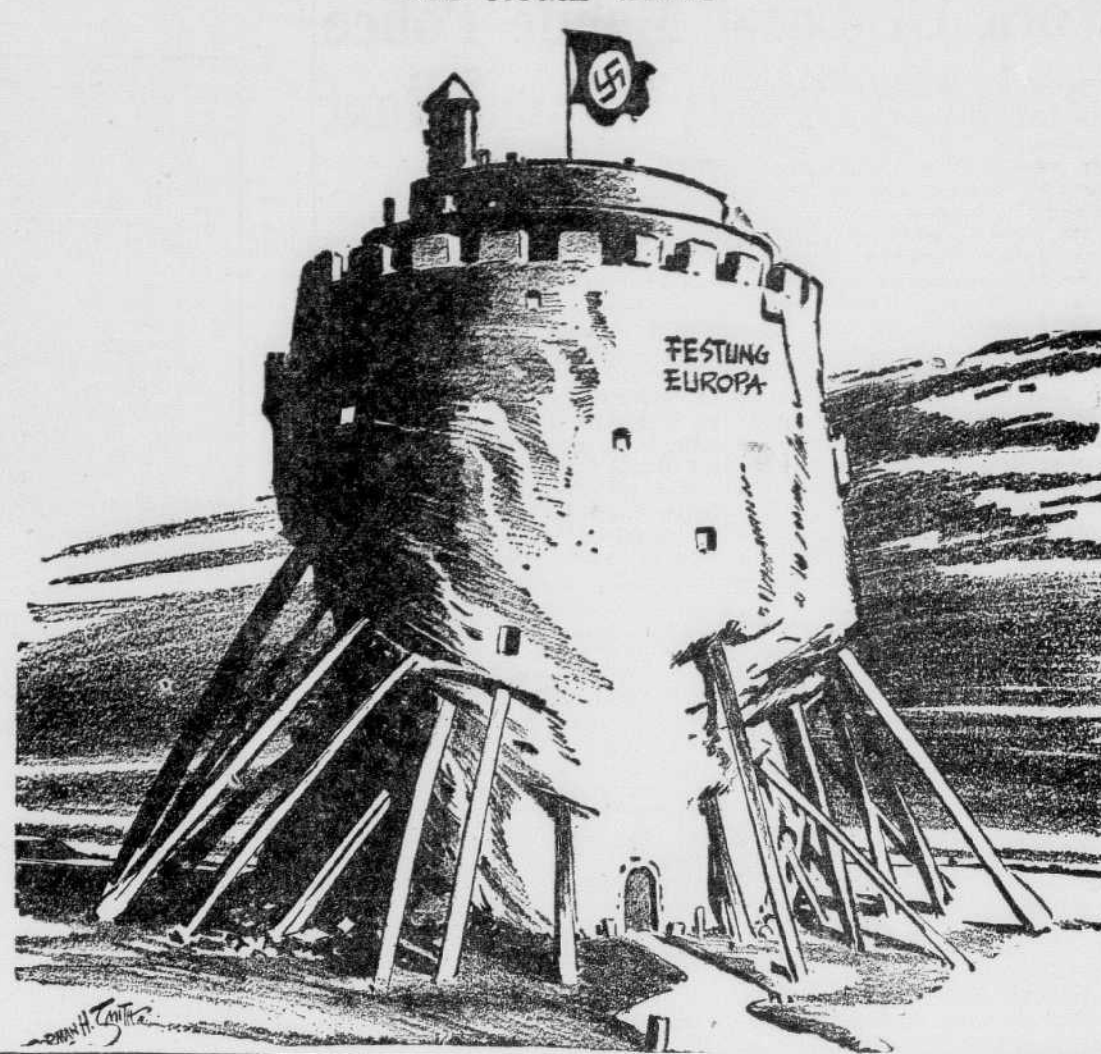

WOULD NOT KILL THEM ALL

St. Thomas Times-Journal.

An interesting view of the state of public opinion toward Germany in often-bombed England is afforded by a recent poll taken by Professor A. A. Low. Having in mind the hundreds of attacks made by enemy fliers on the British Isles, the massacre of Coventry, the raids on Southampton, Plymouth and other cities, the thousands of families killed and the countless homes demolished. The scientist sought to learn the intensity of the hostility left as a result. The attacks began long before the very effective reprisals now under way had been launched, and wreaked havoc on churches, hospitals, schools, convents, orphanages and public buildings of all sorts throughout the British Isles. Thousands of lives, chiefly among the poorer classes, were sacrificed to this indiscriminate ferocity.

To test the heritage of hate resulting from these onslaughts, Professor Low, through the London Sunday Chronicle, asked a hypothetical question. It was: "If a new weapon were invented which would kill every man, woman and child in Germany tomorrow by pressing a button in this country, would you press the button?"

It is testimony to the small capacity for sustained malice and desire for revenge for the British race that the "nels" won by a good margin, remarks the New York Herald Tribune. The majority maintained that there was a strong element of good in Germany, the growth of which should be encouraged by education after the war.

This magnanimous viewpoint doubtless is reinforced by the fact that in four weeks of October the Germans dropped 160 tons of bombs on Britain and received 17,000 tons in return. The proportion is 106 to 1.

AS IN NEW ZEALAND

Lethbridge Herald.

C.C.F. and Social Credit speakers are fond of telling the people of Canada that the people of New Zealand, with a Labor Government, do things much better.

Walter Nash, the first Minister ever sent to Washington by New Zealand, has written a book: "New Zealand Has a Democracy That Works." Mr. Nash was a former Deputy Prime Minister of New Zealand, and he should have his facts straight. In his book he tells us that New Zealand's democracy is anything but a "dictatorship by the proletariat."

Most of New Zealand's workers, he tells us, have elected to accept compulsory arbitration. Their government has prohibited strikes and lockouts for the duration of the war, and men and women not only for the army but for industry. It has required employers to fine their men for absenteeism and has extended the normal week on defense projects from forty to fifty-four hours with overtime in excess only of forty-eight and no special holiday or Sunday rates.

Imagine the world that would go up from the C.C.F. politicians if the Ottawa Government were to institute such "reforms" in Canada. Compare the labor policy of New Zealand with the demands being made by the striking miners of Alberta. Perhaps Canada ought to appoint Mr. Nash as the labor war representative on the National War Labor Board to take the place of Mr. Cohen.

When he called for all those who were willing to contribute $5 to stand up there was an immediate response. When he called for $10, again with the aid of the pushbutton, the response was immediate, but when the amount was raised to $25 the congregation walked out, with the exception of four men who were found dead in the back row seats.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By Wm. E. McKenney, America's Card Authority.

USES SMOTHER PLAY IN TELECAST BRIDGE

Perhaps the most fascinating part of my recent television experience was the mechanical end of it. While I was playing questions on mechanics and engineering, Miss Elinore Balz, who handled the production of our show at Station WRGB in Schenectady, was firing bridge questions at me. I will say that the telecast produced one of the most complicated plays in bridge, the smother play.

A. M. Sobel, the declarer, trumped the third round of diamonds, led the queen of hearts, and Mrs. McKenney (South) refused to cover. Sobel then led the jack of hearts, which was allowed to hold. Dummy now held the singleton ace of hearts and South the king-eight. It would appear certain that South must make the king, but she didn't, because Sobel employed the smother play.

Three rounds of clubs were cashed, then the ace and king of eight and West the ace of trumps spades. I (sitting North) won the and a spade. You can see that it was third round of spades with the impossible for South to make a trick.

MARRIAGES

TREMBLAY-VACHON
Sutton, Nov. 15.—The marriage of Miss Agathe Vachon to Mr. Gaston Tremblay was solemnized in St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Church, Sutton, Rev. Father D. Richard, Parish Priest officiating.
The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Vachon, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Lucien Tremblay.
Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Simone Chicoine, in Sutton.
Later Mr. and Mrs. Tremblay left for a short honeymoon trip.

MASON-LEMAIRE
Covansville, Nov. 16.—The marriage took place quietly on October 23 of Miss Irene Lemaire, daughter of the late Albert Lemaire, formerly of Sweetburg, and of Mrs. Lemaire, who now resides in Covansville, to Mr. Roger Mason, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mason, of Iron Hill, with the parish priest of Ste. Therese de l'Enfant Jesus Church officiating at the Presbytery.

The witness for Mr. Mason was Mr. Robert Mason.
The bride, who was unattended, was becomingly gowned in pink crepe and carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, given by Mrs. Albert Lemaire.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason then left for Quebec City, Rawdon and Ste. Anne's, where they spent a week.

Upon their return to Iron Hill to reside on the home farm, they were honored by the entire population of that community at a reception in the Parish Hall of Holy Trinity Church, where Rev. E. F. Macklin, incumbent, on behalf of the group, presented them with a fine gift of money and the best wishes of all for a happy future.

Mrs. Edwin Heusser presided and arrangements were made to hold the annual sale of food, needlework and aftershave on Tuesday, November 23rd, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Tea tables will be in charge of Mrs. T. D. Barber and Mrs. V. J. Gleason, with others assisting. Work table by Mrs. E. Heusser and Mrs. E. Hall, food table by Mrs. H. Ashness-Wells and Mrs. B. W. Brock.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her sister, Mrs. Grant Wesley, of Montreal.

Mrs. R. B. Martin, R.N., of Montreal, called on friends here.

The objective of ten thousand dollars for Sweetburg in the Fifth Victory Loan has gone over, with the top to eighteen thousand dollars under the able work of the local canvasser, H. Galt Lomas.

Miss Lefebvre, of Montreal, called on Mrs. C. B. Jameson.

Messrs. Rollin Howard and son, of Glen Farnham, are doing over the barn owned by Mr. Eugene Hall, having purchased nine thoroughbred Holstein cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Desourdy have moved to Central Covansville having sold their house to Mr. Desourdy, of Sherbrooke, who is occupying the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Nason Ingalls and daughters spent a day in Montreal and were also in Knowlton and Bromes, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Volney Ingalls, of Covansville.

Desourdy Brothers, of Covansville, are rebuilding the barn at Crystal Spring Farm, the home of Major and Mrs. Maurice Halle, which was recently destroyed by fire.

Mr. Howard Taber, of Covansville, who was a patient in the Bromes-Mississippi-Perkins Hospital, for three weeks, has now been in the Royal Victoria Hospital, in Montreal, for two weeks, with lung congestion.

Social and Personal

Mrs. K. Samworth, of Granby, spent the week-end in Sherbrooke, a guest of Miss Doreen Bergeron.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Marshall, 36 Dufferin Avenue, have received a cable from their son, Leading Seaman Matthew Marshall, informing them that he has arrived safely somewhere in Great Britain.

The many friends of Mrs. George Jameson will be glad to hear that she has recovered sufficiently to return to her home in Melbourne, after having been a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Peabody motored to Lyndonville, Vt., during the week-end, to bring Mrs. Peabody's mother, Mrs. Susan M. Saunders, to Sherbrooke, where she will be their guest at their residence, 147 Portland Avenue, for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nutbrown, of Huntingville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Arline Doris, to Mr. Frederick Russell Rothney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rothney, of Kinnear's Mills, Que.

The wedding will take place on Saturday the twentieth of November, 1943.

Mrs. Howard L. Leslie, President of the Sherbrooke Hospital Alumnae Association acted officially as hostess on Saturday evening for the annual Nurses Dance given under the patronage of the Association, at the Chateau Frontenac.

Although the attendance was not quite as large as in former years, this popular social event was in every way most successful, upwards of one hundred and fifty guests enjoying the hospitality so graciously extended by Mrs. Leslie and her corps of efficient assistants.

The President, who received informally, was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Taylor, who acted as cashiers and by Mrs. Gerald Osborn and Mrs. Fred Simpson who so capably acted as ushers. The officers and members of the Alumnae are deeply grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Conway and the members of the staff at the Chateau Frontenac, whose kindly co-operation helped greatly in making the 1943 Nurses Dance a successful and altogether delightful social event.

St. Paul's Parish Hall, brilliantly decorated with Union Jacks and streamers of red, white and blue, formed a most attractive setting for a largely attended and very delightful bridge-tee given on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. L. Dwyer, Mrs. R. Foley and Mrs. H. Wyatt, under the patronage of St. Mary's Guild.

Mrs. J. Allanson, President, and Mrs. John Ford, cordially received the numerous guests, while Mrs. C. Dunsmore acted as cashier. Bridge was played at twelve tables, and tea and dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Mrs. John Ford doing the honors at the lace-covered tea table which charmingly continued the patriotic motive, used in tribute to Remembrance Day, with a large bowl of poppies as a centerpiece and lighted white candles in silver holders. Assisting were Mrs. C. Wells, Mrs. R. Benton, Mrs. G. Mandigo and Mrs. O. Broadbelt. The sale of home cookery was in charge of Mrs. G. Mandigo and Mrs. O. Broadbelt, while an attractive novelty table was presided over by Mrs. Irvin Smith, the proceeds from the additional features, substantially augmenting the grand total realized from the enjoyable

WOMEN'S CLUBS

53RD CHAPTER I. O. D. E.

The regular business meeting of the 53rd Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the Mackinnon Memorial with the Regent, Mrs. M. M. Loughheed presiding, and opened with the raising of the Standard and reciting of the Prayer of the Order.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. May E. Bordwin, and were adopted as read.

The financial report was given by the Treasurer, Mrs. F. T. Shorten, and accepted as read. Bills were ordered paid for wool, rent, typewriter and donations to be sent to Sailors' and Miners' Fund, Camp Library Fund and Prisoners of War Fund. A sum of money was also donated towards the educational expenses of an ex-service man's daughter.

Sales are coming along nicely on the fur raffle tickets and members are asked to be sure to have unsold tickets and stubs in the Treasurer's hands by November 25th.

Letters were read from Provincial Conventions of Child and Family Welfare, the War Guest Fund, and Work in India.

War Service Convener, Mrs. T. A. Loughheed reported 48 articles handed in during October. Ten ditty bags have been packed and sent in to the Navy League. Boxes of Christmas fruit cake have been dispatched to fifty-two members of the Chapter on Active Service.

Film Convener, Mrs. T. D. Wyatt, read a letter from Provincial Chapter asking members to attend the Christmas showing Empire News Reels, and also recommended attendance at British Film showings in the local theatres.

A pleasant incident took place while this Chapter was "on duty" last week at the Red Shield Canteen. A member of the Royal Canadian Navy who was in Sherbrooke between trains, wrote a poem which he dedicated to the I.O.D.E. It follows:

"I've oft wondered why a rose, soft petalled, smooth,
Bears so near its heart, a thorn.

And why a garment of silk and tapestry so beautiful and fine,
Has but one thought—to wear and then be torn.

And why the clouds on high so di-
mal, may yet
Break into a wide sunshine with lavish light.

And why such foolish mortals though young and wise
And beauty covered, shall stand and fight.

Could it be that God, the one we love,
No longer cares—
Or could it be that our hearts ne'er pass o'er love and lights our way,
'Tis only God who knows.

Though dark may be the night,
Who's heart stands against cold and blackness,
To valiantly fight."

A new member was voted on and accepted, and a thank you note for a gift was read from a member who has recently been married.

Plans were lined up to replace the Chapter's diminishing funds.

The next meeting will be held in the I.O.D.E. work rooms, on November 25th.

The evening closed with the singing of God Save the King.

EAST CLIFTON

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Betts and Mrs. Ida Reed, of Sawyerville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bellam and Mr. and Mrs. James Towers.

party, which through the untiring work and devotion of the members of St. Mary's Guild, crowned their premier effort with such splendid success.

BURY

The Bury Branch of the Canadian Legion held a memorial service in the Town Hall on November 11, at two p.m. The programme opened with remarks by the chairman, A. Whitehead, and the "Call to Remembrance." Afterwards Rev. Mr. Rowe led in prayer. A hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," was sung and addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Carr, Rev. Father Guay, Mayor A. J. Hunt and W. J. Duffy.

M.L.A. A letter from J. A. Blanchette was read. He regretted being unable to attend. The hymn, "Near My God to Thee" was sung, after which the chairman read the names of those who had made the supreme sacrifice in this present conflict, Austin W. Morrow, Carlton S. Goodenough, Argyle Harrison, Cameron Harrison, Emerson Martin, George Halle and Russell D. Coates. Two minutes' silence was observed after which "God Save the King" was sung.

A very interesting meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. A. Whitehead. At the worship service the theme, "The Bible, the Foundation Stone of the New Order," was conducted by the President, Mrs. Whitehead, with all the members participating. At the conclusion of the business period the study book, "For All of Life," Chapter II, entitled, "The Blessing of Health," was then taken up, and proved most interesting and informative.

The christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parsons took place on November 7 at three o'clock in the Anglican Church. The baby received the names Gordon Cameron, Mr. Herman Parsons and Miss Brenda Groom were the godparents. After the christening, Miss Groom and Mr. Parsons were tea guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parsons.

Mrs. Floyd Hooker is caring for Mrs. Sterling Batley in Brookbury. Mr. Leonard Davidson and family, and Mrs. William MacDonald visited Mrs. Davidson at the home of Mrs. E. Wooten.

Mrs. Hollis Smith has returned to her home in Bulwer, after spending a few days caring for her sister, Mrs. C. Crawford. Mrs. Crawford is gaining and she has Mrs. Alex Dougherty with her at present.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reed, of Sawyerville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. McConnell. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Harrison and family in the death of their eldest son, Cameron Harrison, who died at Tokyo on September 9th, after being a prisoner of war since the fall of Hong Kong on December 25, 1941. A memorial service will be held in the United Church, Bury, on November 21 at seven p.m. for both Cameron and Argyle Harrison.

Mrs. H. A. Chaddock, of Cookshire, was a guest of her niece, Mrs. A. Whitehead, and Mr. Whitehead.

Official news has just been received by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Harrison, of Bury, that their eldest son, Rfmm. Edmund Cameron Harrison, of the Royal Rifles of Canada, died on September 9th, 1943, at a prison camp in Tokyo, Japan, of malaria and beri-beri. Rfmm. Harrison was born in Bury, on August 23, 1920, and was educated at the Bury High School and spent a year at an Agricultural College. He enlisted in July 1940 with the Royal Rifles of Canada. During his training he spent several months in Newfoundland. He was a signaller. A younger brother, L. Cpl. Argyle Clayton Harrison enlisted with the same regiment. Last January his parents received word that he had been killed in action in December 1941, at Hong Kong.

PINNACLE

Mrs. A. Gallup was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gallup.

Mrs. H. Goodenough spent several days in Melbourne Ridge with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Miller.

NEW REFINERY OPENED TODAY AT CLARKSON

British-American Oil Company Adds Another Milestone to Its Swift Rise as Producer of Petroleum Products.

With the opening of Canada's newest, most modern refinery at Clarkson today British American Oil Company adds another milestone to its swift rise since its inception in 1906 to become, not only one of the most outstanding petroleum products companies of the North American continent but one of the prime aids in making possible the successful operation of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

And it all goes back to a day just after the turn of the century when the romance of the fledgling oil business beckoned more strongly to young Albert Leroy Ellsworth than did the musty lawbooks on which he was then working. Ellsworth went to Buffalo and got himself an oil job. But, after a short time he reasoned that what could be done in New York state could be done in his native Ontario and he threw over his job to return to Canada to organize a small group of Canadians into the beginnings of what was destined to be a great company.

From this little group of forward-looking Canadians, Silas R. Parsons was chosen to be the first President of the company and Mr. Ellsworth became Secretary-Treasurer. In October, 1906, the company received the charter which would permit it to engage in the manufacture and

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

PRESIDENT OF THE COMPANY

ALBERT LEROY ELLSWORTH, founder and Chairman of the Board of British American Oil Company, who has been a prime factor in every development of the company from its inception in 1906 to its most recent contribution to the Canadian war effort, the opening of the Clarkson refinery. This new arsenal of victory will provide high octane aviation gasoline for the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan as well as increasing quantities of Canadian-manufactured lubricating oils.

WILLIAM KEPLER WHITEFORD, successor to Mr. Ellsworth as President of the company. As an engineer of unusual ability Mr. Whiteford has marched steadily up the ladder from the producing end of the business to become President of the present company earlier this year. The great Clarkson project has been brought to completion under his guidance and on his shoulders will fall the heavy task of meeting war production requirements.

sale of petroleum products in Ontario.

This was a beginning—undertaken at a time when kerosene for lamps, and oils, and greases for industry were the most important products. For the first few months, the company operated as a jobbing concern but soon, with the desire to create and maintain a high standard for British-American products, the young company purchased a three-acre site on the Toronto waterfront and set up a small refinery of its own. This step, taken in 1907, added a little more to the growing picture of British-American Oil Company, and laid the foundation for the company's cardinal principle—"No one shall offer a better product, nor give better service."

The granting of the Dominion charter in 1909, established the company as All-Canadian—and British

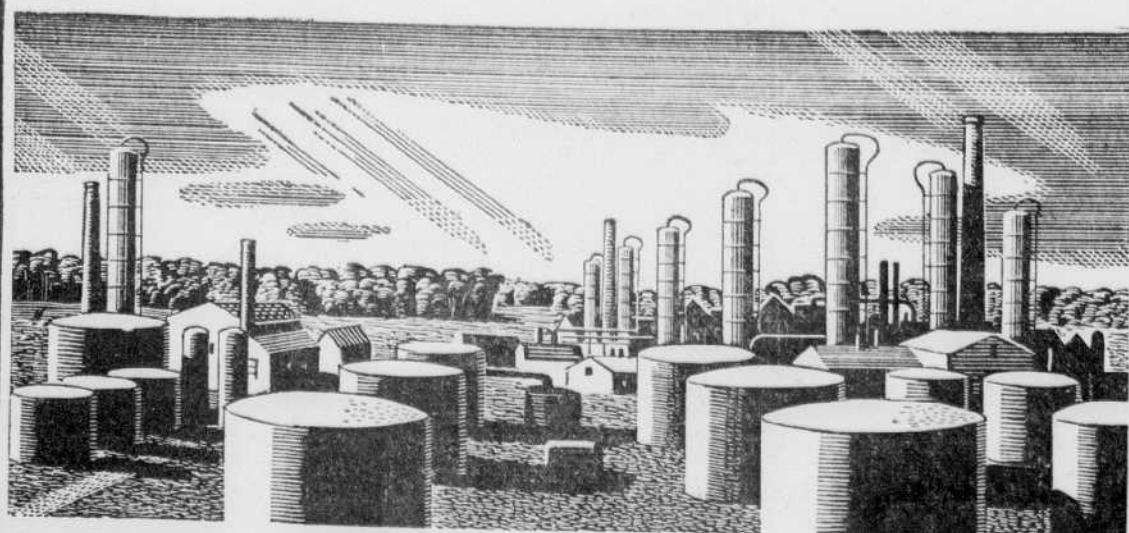

ANNOUNCES

THE OPENING AT CLARKSON OF CANADA'S NEWEST, MOST MODERN OIL REFINERY

TO HELP speed the war effort and particularly to further the great Commonwealth Air Training Plan, British American Oil has opened a new refinery at Clarkson, Ont. This refinery will manufacture aviation gasoline, aviation and industrial lubricants, fuels and waxes—products designed for today's war and tomorrow's peace.

Realized through close cooperation with the Canadian government, the Clarkson project was designed to speed to the utmost the production of essential sinews of Victory—to ensure a continuous supply of such vital material—to stand ready to play a major role in the development of Canada's post-war petroleum products industry.

FARNHAM

The Mobile Blood Donor Clinic, of Montreal, was at the Farnham Health Unit, when eighty-four donors were accepted out of one hundred and thirty who registered. The Mobile Clinic was under the supervision of Mrs. Hubley, of Montreal, and seven assistants. The medical officer of the local Health Unit, Dr. E. Jacques, was the medical examiner, assisted by Captain Blumenfeld, the doctor in charge of the Farnham Military Hospital, and also the nurses on the staff of the Health Unit. Miss C. DuBois, Miss J. Blodreau, Miss M. Langdeau, Miss J. Dussault, Miss C. Brault and Mrs. E. Dimick, a former nurse. The President of the Farnham Branch of the Red Cross, Mrs. Lionel St. G. Wilkins, and the Vice-President, Mrs. J. S. Kilburn; Mrs. Kenneth Pattullo, Sr., W. F. Catterson, Mrs. Schon and Mrs. E. Giroux were also in attendance. The first blood donor was Mayor U. Fortin. Mrs. Hubley and staff were more than pleased with the splendid co-operation and organization of the Health Unit.

Lieut. William Cuthbertson, of Huntingdon, was a guest at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cuthbertson, and sister, Mrs. A. V. Rumbold. Sgt. William Halliday is spending some time at Shawinigan Falls. Mrs. Pearl MacLeod, of Montreal, visited her mother, Mrs. George Ellison, and cousin, Mrs. T. H. Riddick, Mr. Riddick and son, Robert.

American started to grow up with Canada. As the number of automobiles gradually approached the half-million mark in 1921, and gasoline supplanted kerosene as the most important petroleum product, the company made the necessary adjustments.

World War I had presented an unprecedented demand for lubricants, and, as wars are wont to do, brought along revolutionary improvements in refining methods. B-A kept pace with the times, modernized the Toronto refinery, and tripled the daily output. The original three-acre plant reached out to include some forty acres of ground.

By the close of the last war, British-American was firmly established in Ontario and Quebec—but the West was growing in importance and presenting a demand for oil and lubricants for farm machinery.

And so, our picture extends to the West, with the purchase of the Winnipeg Oil Company in December, 1920. Now B-A was going to grow up with the West. During these years, British American Oil Company had depended upon purchasing and importing for its supply of crude oil, but now they were going to launch upon a programme of refinery construction in the major geographical areas of the Dominion, it became evident that the only way to insure an adequate supply of the right type of raw materials was to enter the producing field of the business.

Thus, in 1924, the Toronto Pipe Line Company was organized, and in 1925, British American Oil Producing Company.

With eyes only for the future and the expansion of British-American Oil Company—the company went ahead, and in 1927, Mr. Parsons called on Mr. Ellsworth to be President, and himself became Chairman of the Board, so that his business abilities were still at the disposal of the company. Under the new President, the expansion programme was put into effect, and in 1930, a large modern refinery was constructed at Montreal, terminus of ocean transportation. This refinery was supplied with crude by large ocean tankers which plied their way through the Atlantic from the great East Texas Oil Field. From this enormous reservoir, British American obtained its requirements—largely from its own properties.

In the same year, the fleet of five famous B-A lake tankers was purchased—and now they're a familiar sight, carrying their supplies of crude from Montreal to Clarkson, and Toronto, and transporting the finished products from Toronto to marine storage along the Great Lakes.

In 1934 a modern refinery was constructed at Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan—and, crude being supplied from the company's own wells in the Cut Bank fields at Northern Montana.

In 1936 B-A furnished the funds to enable George Bell and Bob Brown to complete a well-located off the accepted geological structure in which previous wells had been naphtha producers in the Turner Valley. The Bell-Brown well "came in" as a crude oil producer and opened up new possibilities for the area.

As a natural consequence of the discovery of crude oil in the Turner Valley area, plans were completed for a refinery at Calgary. This refinery was opened in 1939.

While all this was going on in the West, the Eastern half of the picture was not being neglected. In 1935 the company extended its operations to the Maritime Provinces.

With the coming of World War II, there came an increased demand for the refining of lubricating oils in Canada—so B-A stopped in again. But plans were only in the blueprint stage when the Government called for an increase in production of aviation fuel and lubricants to help the boys in airforce blue to "Keep 'em Flying."

B-A's reply to this newest challenge was Clarkson—redesigned and expanded to meet the demands of war.

Clarkson is the latest addition to the picture of British American Oil Company.

The picture that was in the eye of Albert Leroy Ellsworth when he embarked upon his career, is fast coming into perspective. It's a picture that will never quite reach completion, because Canada continues to grow, there will come additional challenges to the petroleum industry, and British-American, with ingenuity and foresight, will continue to keep pace with the modern world.

The Farnham Red Cross Branch shipped the following articles to headquarters: Knitting, one pair of mitts, one pair of seaboot stockings, two turtle-neck sweaters, three Quebec helmets, five plain helmets, ten pairs of socks, one turtle-neck tuck-in, six babies' jackets; sewing, 250 khaki handkerchiefs, ten nightgowns, ten pairs of pajamas, W.A.S., two pairs of knickerbockers, three quilts and one pair of socks from the Farnham Centre Group.

CORNWALL ARMY BACKS OUT OF Q.S.H.L.

Royals Indicate That They May Also Retire From Loop

Montreal, Nov. 16.—George M. Slater, Secretary of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, said here last night that four teams will remain in the circuit, following earlier reports that another two clubs would have to discontinue operations.

The Cornwall Army team notified Jimmy Foley last night that "due to military regulations we are compelled to withdraw" from the Q.S.H.L. The telegram was signed by Clarence P. Markell, President of the Cornwall Flyers Hockey Club.

An earlier report said that unless Montreal Royals could find some new talent they also would drop

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Toronto, Nov. 16.—(advance) Hubbub over the army's hockey policy, forcing withdrawal of army hockey teams in Regina, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax, is dying down. Some criticism continues, with one of the chief arguments based on the fact the Navy and Air have not curtailed hockey. Just for the record, present indications are that the Army will have seven teams in senior leagues this season. Navy will have four and Air Force six.

Santa McCaffrey, Lloyd (Montreal Star) McGowan says the best army break-up concerned Jim McCaffrey, the big chief of Ottawa Commandos, the two Laprades and Lloyd Perras. "It seems that Jim's nose was in the wind as usual 10 days ago. He knew which way it blew and offered Ed Laprade and Remi to the Montreal Army as infantrymen along with Perras the Goalkeeper." The Laprades and Perras now are at Camp Borden.

Incidentally: Now that Toronto Army Daggers have folded, exodus of the name players has begun. Syl Apps and Billy Taylor figure to be at Simcoe for a few months. It is learned now that Daggers had planned to use Neil Colville, Jack Portland and Terry Readon for the O. H. A. campaign. All three were at Camp Borden. Reg Hamilton, for years a Toronto Leafs defenceman, has been rejected by the army because of the spinal injury which has kept him on the sport shelf. It's doubtful he'll recover sufficiently to play hockey this season.

There's likely to be a big post-war boom in rink building. Peterborough has joined the Ontario cities planning for new auditoriums. A couple of former "Winnipeg" hockey stars, Joe Rivers and Cam Sheehan, have arrived in England with the forces. Mac Colville Red Deer army hockey team, has deserted the forward line for a defence post. Not to N. H. L. Clubs: Harold (Tiger) Mitchell, goalie for Regina Army hockey team last winter, has been discharged from the army on physical grounds.

DRAPER'S CORNER

Mrs. Wallace Lavalley, of Brompton Road, spent several days here with her mother, Mrs. Aitkenhead. Mrs. Bunclark and sister, of Sherbrooke, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Allison, of Ives Hill, also called on Mrs. Aitkenhead.

Miss Grace Draper, of Lennoxville, was a guest at her home, Miss Donna Draper, R.N., of Sherbrooke, was also at home for a week-end.

Mrs. Percy Draper was an overnight guest of Mrs. Evelyn Knutson, in Lennoxville.

Friends here were sorry to learn that Mrs. C. F. Richardson, of Sand Hill, is in the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Smith, of Hyatt's Mills, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Young.

The temporary bridge at the Sisco Hill between this place and Compton was damaged by the rain on November 8, so no travel over it was allowed until after November 11, when several men under Mr. Foshay again fixed it.

Mrs. Arthur Plunkett opened her house to Red Cross workers, who tacked three quilts and pieced some blocks for another quilt.

Mr. Percy Draper has returned home from a few days in Lennoxville. While away he had his leg put in a cast, at the Sherbrooke Hospital.

FLYING SCHOOL RESIGNS FROM PING PONG LOOP

It was announced today that the Air Force team in the Sherbrooke Table Tennis League has withdrawn from the loop. The Elks won their game by default last night when the R.C.A.F. didn't show up. HILLCREST SKI SCHOOL BEGINS THIS THURSDAY

The "Dry Ski School" which is being sponsored by the Hillcrest Ski Club will begin its activities on Thursday night when the first lesson in the fundamentals of skiing will be given. Ski novices and those amateur skiers who wish to completely master the art of skiing will benefit greatly from these inside instructions. This is the first ski school of its kind in Quebec and possibly in all of Canada. The courses will be given in the recreation halls of the Sacred Heart School and St. Jean Baptiste Academy. The first lesson will begin at eight o'clock on Thursday, November 18 at the Sacred Heart School. Later on the North, Centre, South and West Ward amateurs will be given instruction at this school. Those living in the East Ward will be instructed at the St. Jean Baptiste Academy. Dates and places will be announced later.

The instructors will be Erich Schiller and Allen Mooney, assisted by several other members of the club. Schiller and Mooney, two of the best skiers in the Eastern Townships, were chosen as instructors because of their wide knowledge of skiing.

No skis or equipment will be necessary for the first course, but for the five subsequent courses novices should be supplied with the necessary equipment which will include ski boots, skis and poles. The object of this dry ski school is to teach the beginners the fundamentals of skiing before they attempt the actual descent of a hill. It is important to note that one does not have to be a member of the club to take advantage of the opportunities offered by this school.

The first course will deal with the choosing of the proper equipment while the following instructions will include the more complicated elements of the art of skiing.

The actual aim of the club is to teach the beginner the complete control of his skis so that he will not suffer any accidents when he first begins to ski.

The school is open to any who cares to make use of the facilities and no preference is shown to anyone.

Stanstead Team Applies For Entry In Basketball League

The Butterfield team from Stanstead last night made application for entry in the City and District Basketball League. This, coupled with the application of the "Y" team last week, brought the number of squads in the loop to six. Bill Wolter, President of the League, read the letter of application from G. Bedard at a meeting held last night at the local "Y."

Matters carried over from last week were discussed and several other matters were brought up. It was decided to let the Butterfield application stand until next week when all the teams' representatives will be present. At the meeting last night, the R.C.A.F. was not represented. Another meeting will be held next Monday night at 8.15 and all officials of the squads are asked to be present at the league schedule is to be drawn up. Also to be decided is whether the local league will be affiliated with the Provincial Basketball Association in the intermediate play-downs.

The Butterfield entry indicated that they would be able to travel to Sherbrooke for the locals' home games and expect the Sherbrooke teams to do likewise. But in the event that the locals are unable to arrange for transportation, Butterfield have agreed to play four-point games.

If the local league becomes affiliated with the P.A.B.A., a district champion will have to be declared by March 15. The schedule will be drawn up accordingly. The question of qualified referees has not yet been decided and this subject will be thoroughly discussed at the next meeting.

The league will definitely start its schedule before Christmas and all entry fees must be in before the tenth of December. Each club must hand in their roster of players to the league secretary, Harold Pye, before the seventh of January and after this date, no new players will be permitted to play. The player limit was set at ten.

It was decided to leave the transportation problem until next Monday to give the team officials some time to try to make some kind of arrangements.

Those present at the meeting were A. Clarke, Bishop's University coach, P. Wood, Bishop's manager, and G. Pharo, Bishop's, Harold Pye, Secretary-Treasurer of the loop, Eric Fuller and G. Whately, representing the Rand and Don Wootton representing the "Y."

Do You Ever Play Detective?

Would You Like To Win Ten Dollars?

Will You Be At The Rotary Fair?

TRY AND CAPTURE THE

Sherbrooke Daily Record MYSTERY MAN

Every person attending the Rotary Fair next Thursday-Friday-Saturday nights can enter this entertaining and amusing contest. The rules are simple but must be observed: Approach the person suspected of being the Mystery Man and state: "YOU ARE THE SHERBROOKE DAILY RECORD MYSTERY MAN—that, and nothing else. If the person challenged is the Mystery Man, he will admit it and conduct you to the Rotary Fair Treasurer for your reward. The Mystery Man will be present every night of the Fair—he will not be present Saturday afternoon.

NOTE: YOU MUST CARRY A COPY OF THAT DAY'S ISSUE OF THE RECORD IN YOUR HAND!
