Flight-Lieut. Briese Transferred From Unit

Flight-Lieut. Briese, who has been the chief permanent officer attached to the No. 115 Fighter Squadron of the R.C.A.F., since its organization, will leave the unit on May 15, it was announced yesterday. He is to be transferred to the permanent military flying base at Dartmouth, Nova Scotia. The Flight-Lieutenant has been in charge of squadron routine and instruction of officers for the past two years. Senior non-permanent officers of the squadron credit him with being largely responsible for the unit's rapid development and the excellent flying training received by its pilots.

Flying Officer C. F. Fee is to take the duties of Flight-Lieut. Briese from the date of the latter's transfer.

Preparations for the part the squadron will play in the visit of the King and Queen, are continuing and drill is being conducted every Monday night at the squadron base and on Friday's in the armoury of the Royal Montreal Regiment.

Work is progressing steadily on the new hangar that will house both the No. 115 and No. 118 Bomber squadrons at St. Hubert Airport, and the structure is expected to be completed in about a month.

ROTARY CLUB HEARD ADDRESS BY HON. SCOTT

Speaker Believes World
Owes Much of Its Progress to Democratic Government

Under democratic forms of government the world has made more progress in the past 150 years than during any time in its history, the Honorable Gordon Scott stated while addressing the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Westmount Rotary Club in Victoria Hall on Wednesday.

Because there was less unemployment in nations governed by dictatorships at the present time, this increased employment really camouflaged the true state of affairs.

It would be a simple matter for Canada to reduce the number on relief if it put the unemployed to work in munition camps and military centres, he declared.

Under democracy such a system would never be tolerated, the speaker believed. Here freedom was worth more than a saving in governmental expenditure.

Hon. Scott was of the opinion that the present recession is simply an aftermath of the World War. Previous wars had brought on strained times that had lasted for much longer periods, he told the gathering.

The Hon. Scott declared that in order for a people to survive they must have land, air and water. He blamed present immigration laws as being largely responsible for the turbulent times in Europe. If the people of those countries had been allowed to emigrate to other lands there would be little need for the present dictatorial nations to seek more territory, he said.

There is room for fifty million people in Canada, alone, he pointed out. A larger population would do much to solve the railway problem, the speaker opined.

The Hon. Scott had to leave the meeting early in order to attend a business conference. He was introduced by Rev. G. Burgoyne and thanked by Dr. J. K. Carver.

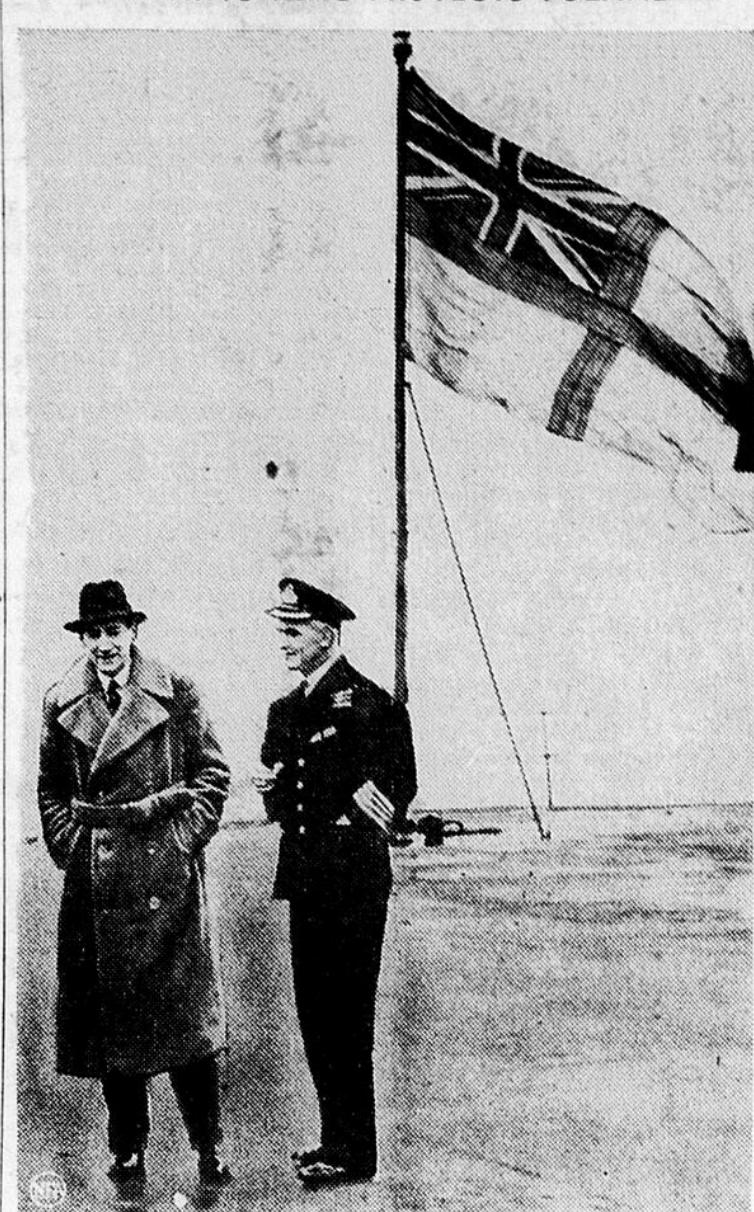

The president, John Colton, occupied the chair.

Rip with complete confidence in himself, and he should be the more admired for his having to take on the greatest responsibility.

The leading feminine role was carefully done by Nina Finkelstein, who gained attention from the first moment she entered the scene.

A supporting cast of twenty-two players led by Alfreda Wallace, who, by the way, has had considerable stage experience, admirably proved their worth and the brisk dialogue was sufficiently productive of laughs and intellectual chuckles as to hold the attraction of a pleasure-seeking audience.

BRITAIN'S FLAG PROTECTS POLAND

Dramatically symbolic of Britain's pact with Poland is the Union Jack that waves over Foreign Minister Joseph Beck, left, of Poland and a British naval officer as they stand on deck of a British battleship.

Westmount Floral Clock Subject of Movie Series

Thousands of persons in every part of the globe will learn about Westmount's floral clock as a result of a movie short recently released and currently showing in a downtown theatre.

The film is one of the "Did You Know That . . ." series produced by Associated Screen News of Notre Dame de Grace. Included among many interesting shots from all parts of Canada, are scenes and descriptive talk of the Westmount floral clock.

The series is distributed in many parts of the world, as part of the "Canadian Cameo" series. In addition, many residents of the west end seeing the film, will learn for the first time just how the clock works.

Salvation Army Needs Unwanted Articles

At this time when families are moving or housecleaning there are always articles that are put aside as no longer needed. The Salvation Army can make use of these things. Magazines, newspapers, books and other articles provide employment, and are sold to help carry on relief work among the poor.

As there is a great rush at this time of year the Salvation Army should be notified as early as possible before moving day.

Last year the following relief was given gratis to the poor by the Salvation Army, Meals, 47,757; Beds, 18,281; Employment found for, 2,588; Articles of clothing given away, 6,505; Articles of furniture, 335; Loads of fuel, 231; Cook stoves (Reconditioned and given away) 55; Families supplied with food, 2,194; Christmas hampers, 88.

Brig. F. Logie Armstrong, O.B.E., district officer commanding, took the salute at the saluting base, located in front of Victoria Hall.

Returning to the armory, various awards and certificates of qualification won during the year, were presented. Veterans of the R.M.R. branch of the Canadian Legion and the Trinity Memorial cadets also took part in the parade.

Col. C. B. Price, D.S.O., D.C.M., V.D., Dominion vice-president of the Canadian Legion and commanding officer of the 17th Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars, was the guest speaker at a meeting in the sergeant's mess, which was held on Saturday night. The meeting was the first of several events at which the unit's 25th anniversary will be celebrated.

ALD. REXFORD ATTENDS CONSECRATION CEREMONY

He was taken to the Outdoor Department of the Homoeopathic Hospital by D. McCormick, a passing motorist.

The youth told police that he slipped on the stairway, striking his head on the brick-fronted residence.

Service Held in Dominion
Douglas Church Conducted by Rev. A. Lloyd
Smith

Final tribute was paid to George Colson Beall on Friday evening, when funeral services were held at the chapel of Jos. C. Wray and Co., Mountain street, and were conducted by the Reverend A. Lloyd Smith of Dominion Douglas Church.

A native of Whitby, Ont., Mr. Beall had resided in Sutherland for 20 years before coming to Montreal 25 years ago. He was chief buyer for William Davies and Canada Packers for 17 years. In 1931 he established his own firm in partnership with Mr. Mitchell.

Mr. Beall was in his 67th year and was active in business until Thursday, when he was suddenly stricken, and died in the private patients' pavilion, western division, of the Montreal General Hospital.

Active in Masonry, he was a member of the Ramesses Temple, Toronto. He was a resident of Westmount for many years, living at 327 Roslyn avenue. He attended Dominion Douglas Church.

The body was sent on Friday evening for Sutherland, Ont., where interment took place on Saturday morning.

Mr. Beall is survived by the widow, formerly Tressa St. John; two sons, Dr. F. G. Beall and Russell Beall of Montreal; one brother, William, of Toronto; and two sisters, Mrs. A. R. Buck, of Toronto, and Mrs. G. Grills, of Halesbury, Ont.

Will Speak On 'Christ in Art'

At the evening service at Westmount Park Church, corner of Western and Lansdowne, next Sunday, Rev. J. Lavell Smith will speak on "Christ in Art." The topic will be illustrated with studies of two well-known religious masterpieces, "The Light of the World," by Holman Hunt, and "Christ and the Adulteress," by Johann Hoffmann. These paintings will be interpreted by the minister with the assistance of the choir.

In the morning the sermon topic will be "When to Forget."

Moral Rearmament Will Form Theme Of Sermon

A book edited by H. W. (Bunny) Austin, star of the tennis world in Great Britain, bearing the title "Moral Rearmament—The Battle for Peace," is making a profound impression upon the English speaking world on both sides of the Atlantic, and throughout the British Commonwealth. It calls for a moral and spiritual awakening and a realistic facing of the facts of life today. The message of this book will provide the theme of the morning service in Calvary Church on Sunday, with the minister, the Rev. T. W. Jones delivering the sermon.

The Communion of the Lord's Supper will be held on Sunday May 7th, at the morning service. On Thursday, May 11th, The Legend of the Willow Plate, will be given by the boys and girls of the Southwestern Y.M.C.A. and a Variety Concert by the children of Calvary Sunday School. Tickets: adults, 25 cents; children, 15 cents. Plan to come and bring your friends with you.

The King and Queen will enter Westmount through a colorfully decorated arch to be erected on Westmount boulevard just west of Mount Pleasant avenue, and will leave the city through another which will be placed on Sherbrooke street, near Atwater avenue, it was announced at the City Hall yesterday.

Elaborate arrangements for the Royal visit are presently being drawn up by a special committee. In order to render assistance to persons who are injured or become sick on the day of the procession a number of first aid stations are to be set up at strategic points. They will be manned by the staff of the municipal health department, Boy Scouts, and the District Medical Officer of Military District No. 4.

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1939

TOO SLOW, TOO FAST

If any further proof were needed that the criticism that members of Parliament have had to endure for the past few months lacked sincerity, we have had it recently when the same people and newspapers who a short time ago were lambasting Parliament for being too slow — wasting the nation's time — are now complaining that efforts to speed up the session in order to prorogue for the King's visit will result in insufficient attention being given to the nation's business. Well, Parliament cannot be both too slow and too fast at the same time. What is the answer? Is it possible that there is a campaign to lower the prestige of Parliament in the eyes of the people in order that it may eventually be destroyed? Do not let us forget that Parliament must first be destroyed before any totalitarian system—benevolent or otherwise—can take root. Parliament is the one obstacle to Fascism and Communism alike.

A FOREST PROGRAM

At long last the Federal Government has taken concrete steps to inaugurate a program of reforestation and conservation for Canada. Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labour, last week announced that the sum of $1,000,000 was being appropriated for a national forestry program as an expansion of the administration's youth training plan.

Purpose of the project is two-fold, namely to develop new forest growth and protect wild life, as well as to give employment to several thousand unemployed young men. Of the total appropriation, the sum of $600,000 is being allocated to the provinces on a dollar-for-dollar basis for forest conservation work, with the balance going for similar work in the national parks and forest experimental stations. If the provinces take up the full appropriation, it will mean that close to four thousand young men will be set to work this spring for a five-month period. Applicants will be enrolled through provincial employment offices and must be between 18 and 25 years of age, unemployed and in necessitous circumstances.

Thus Canada is following the lead given in this respect by the United States administration which has many thousands of men at work in forestry camps throughout the country. It is hoped that this may be only a beginning for Canada. Public monies could not be more usefully expended. Man and fire have taken a colossal toll of our forest resources in the last quarter century. Until now no concerted or comprehensive effort had been made under government auspices to replace the disappearing forests. In Ontario the past two years have witnessed an awakening to the need of conservation and reforestation with the result that county councils and private bodies are making great strides in this direction. But it requires government co-operation to make the project a success on a nation-wide scale. The very life-blood of the nation in future generations will depend on how successfully this monumental task of reforestation is carried out.—Simcoe Reformer.

THE DOLLAR

Just a dollar on a mission sent, makes a lot of people glad each time the coin is spent. You pay it to the butcher for the meat to give you strength; he takes it to the grocer from whom it does at length, some pretty lace or cloth his better half to buy, or help to get her summer hat to make her rival sigh. The dry goods man sent on the coin to pay the market bill, and though the coin is often spent it stays a dollar still, and every time 'tis spent at home, some act of good is done; in booming local industries it's bound to make them run.

But if you take the shining coin and break the local chain, the chances are that from afar 'twill not return again.

A dollar has thus a wondrous power to make somebody happy every hour. It pays the bill and wards off ill and ne'er its power relaxes, to soothe the doctor, buy the coal and pay for clothes and taxes.—Exchange.

ABUSING PRIVILEGE

The Barrie Examiner suggests that a tremendous saving could be effected were the postal franking privilege abolished, and members of parliament and all government departments charged for their mail service, but it is not very hopeful that such a reform has any chance of being carried out. There is no perquisite enjoyed by our M.P.'s which is subjected to so much abuse. Both political parties send out their campaign literature at the public expense.—(Midland Free Press).

Aha!
Lord Russell once asked Prince Bismarck how he managed to rid himself of importunate visitors whom he could not refuse to see but who stuck like burrs when once admitted.

"Oh, I have my easy escape," replied Bismarck. My wife knows people of this class very well. When she is sure there is a bore here and sees him staying too long, she manages to call me away on some plausible pretext."

Just as he finished speaking, the Princess Bismarck appeared at the door. "My dear," she said to her husband, "you must come at once and attend to a matter which you have unfortunately overlooked."

Patriotic Rejoinder

At Windsor, Canada, the English flag and the Stars and Stripes float side by side on American holidays. An Englishman, wishing to jest with a man from the States, remarked: "My what a peculiar piece of display your flag is! It reminds me of the striped candy sold in your stores."

"Yes," said the American, "the kind that makes everybody sorry that tries to lick it."

PARKING PROBLEM

"Are you going my way?" one man inquired of another.

"Yes," replied his friend.

"May I ride with you to my home?"

"How far away is your home?"

"Eight squares."

"Sorry," replied the friend, "but I'm parked farther away than that."

THE FORUM

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C.

NOTE:—The opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them. They are published for their general interest, variety and originality of treatment.

Let me digress briefly to mention another lighting problem of the highroad—the driver who will not dim, or throw down his lights to meet approaching cars. This particular species of fool apparently feels that he is in some occult way making his own journeyings safer by blazing his lights into other motorists' eyes, particularly if the approaching driver is zany enough to dim his own headlights and so leave the road open to the glory of the pyrotechnic display. Such drivers forget, it seems to me, that most of the roads hereabouts are barely wide enough for two cars to pass in comfort and that the momentary blinding of an oncoming driver is likely to cause him to deviate from his normal driving course, out of fear of the ditch he cannot see in the glare. Can something not be done about this flaming menace? Or is it just another of those things which don't matter?—Extract from one of the Unpopular Editorials, "The Quick and the Dead" by Leslie Roberts in the Montrealer.

No economic system can last unless it is just to all—not to nations, but to individuals. The welfare of the individual is the real test.

"I do not keep my job by talking," said Maurice Cohen, confidential aide to Chiang-Kai-Shek.

Vera Brittain in her "Thrice a Stranger" tells of her three journeys to the United States and of her conversion from an anti-American to a warm admirer of that country. Her transition is well illustrated in a passage written in 1926: "America is a kind of experience, you are immensely glad to have it once but hope you will never have again"—and then the passage she wrote in 1937: "My love for America has now become a passion, almost a creed. The courage, fidelity and generosity of her people are qualities that I can worship, the hopes and desires for herself, her essentially civilized aspirations with which I would gladly identify my own."

It is estimated that sickness and preventable death caused the loss of ten billion dollars a year or something like 15 to 20 per cent of national income of the U.S.A. and that one-third of the population, the same one-third that is "ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed"—according to the President—is also ill-doctored or not doctored at all when ill.

Four million new houses have been built in Great Britain since 1938. There are in Great Britain about eleven million houses.

There is a certain amount of accident in most great achievements. The most important discoveries are made by people who are actually looking for something, even if not the thing they actually find.

(Through the Looking-Glass)

Just returned from a rather extensive tour, we had a visit from an old friend one day last week. He dropped in with the same nonchalance as if he were returning from a weekend jaunt to the mining districts, despite the fact that he had just completed a trip practically around the world, with a side trip to the vicinity of the South Pole. J. H. Lymburner, or "Red" as he is better known to the boys of the aviation profession, was back again at his Notre Dame de Grace home after many months absence with an expedition to the Antarctic regions — his second such visit to the South Pole district.

Red was one of the two Canadian flyers who had charge of the aviation end of the expedition, his companion being B. J. Terrence, pilot and engineer, of Grey Rocks Inn.

Cold weather flying is nothing new to Red Lymburner. For years previous to his departure to the land of the Southern Cross, Red had flown airplanes in Canada's vast, unexplored territory. At the controls of machines operated by Canadian Airways he had made frequent trips to points many hundreds of miles distant from the nearest railway, either on exploratory ventures, or in placing prospectors and mining groups in the field.

Red is back with the opinion that the Antarctic regions, heretofore considered barren wastes, may in future be of a great deal of use to mankind. Rock formations in many places is heavily mineralized and the indication is that in that region, at some future date, producing mines might be established. While Mr. Lymburner would not hazard a guess concerning the kind of mineralization, he brought back a number of rock specimens which he intends to have analyzed.

Due to inability to carry a full load of gasoline, aerial excursions inland were necessarily limited. However some trips of about 200 miles inland were successfully completed.

We have many pleasant recollections of other adventures with the explorer — (none however, quite as attractive as a trip to the South Pole)—while he was stationed in the Northern Mining belt. On one occasion, during which both Mr. Lymburner and the writer were enjoying a visit to Montreal, we met on St. Catherine street one evening. Both decided it was a little too early to go home, so decided to adjourn to some nearby spot and talk over the weather. After a couple of hours Red interrupted the proceedings with the remark "better get to bed early—have a big job the next morning. You had better get some sleep, too, for you're in it also." This was the first we had heard about it. Further enquiry brought forth the information that a plane was lost up north, and that three or four other planes were starting the search early next morning. We were both in it, and for four days searched for the missing plane. That was the time Stanley Siscoe, well-known mining man, was lost.

Youngsters Under Barbara Brisbane Give Excellent Concert

Fifty-five children, under the direction of Barbara Brisbane, gave a musical concert on Saturday in Verdun United Church.

There were two percussion bands, vocal numbers, instrumental solos, tap dancing, and recitations and a small, but good orchestra.

The percussion bands were led by six year old Betty Boyce, who put her whole self into the work. Gladys Cadaret and Jessie Shepherd, Norma Bann, age six, acted as announcer. The orchestra consisted of piano accordion, Roy Brenie, violin, Donald Waugh, guitar, Frank Shelly.

The solo parts included songs in Norwegian and English by Ingrid May Jorgensen; vocal and instrumental solos by Mary and Jean Nisbet, May and Astrid Jorgensen, Shirley Onam Robert Moore, Patricia Moore, Shirley Stungess, Joyce Easton, Paul Adohay, Muriel Ede, Joe and Roy Brenie, Dawn Stacey, Pearl Bingham, June Stephens, Denis Groven, Donald Waugh, Frank Shelly.

tails of shading were omitted that add to the perfection of the performance. He also added that sarcasm should be used very sparingly and found that a joke changed the musicians immediately.

Mr. J. Wetherseed thanked the speaker, who was heartily applauded for his splendid lecture by an appreciative audience.

Bird Songs
By
Winifred E. Wilson

It seems to us that birds sing in the spring for pure joy; and no doubt they do—but there are more important reasons. With a few exceptions, it is the males that sing, and their songs have two purposes: to establish territorial rights and to attract wives. The males of many species arrive north some weeks ahead of the females and begin house-hunting. When they have decided on the approximate position of their homes, they start telling everyone within hearing which square yards of property they own and that trespassers will be prosecuted.

Once the females come, courtship begins. Males of some species have a special song for this—very sweet and alluring. The "territorial song" continues all day and occasionally after nightfall throughout the building and incubating. When there is a family to feed not so much time is available. After the young ones leave the nest the father sings only at twilight, to indicate his possession of a spot for the night.

The best way of identifying a bird is by its song, and now is the time to hear it. If you actually see the musician performing, note carefully his looks, actions and environment; then whistle over the tune until you have it correctly. As soon as possible look up your specimen in a bird book to make certain of its name; and, if you are able to write down the song in tonic solfa that you may refer to it whenever you wish thereafter. When sure of the singer, put the music on his page of the book.

Whether or not you see the songster try to class the voice. Does it belong to one of the Thrushes, Sparrows or Warblers? In a short time you will find this is not really difficult as all members of the same family have similar voices though different songs.

Some are the stars of birdland, suitable to compare with Lily Pons and Lawrence Tibbett. Among these are the Thrushes (including the Robin), the Orioles, several of the Finches (to which group belong the Sparrows), the Grosbeaks and a few odd ones: the Meadowlark the Bobolink and the Catbird when giving his own courtship song.

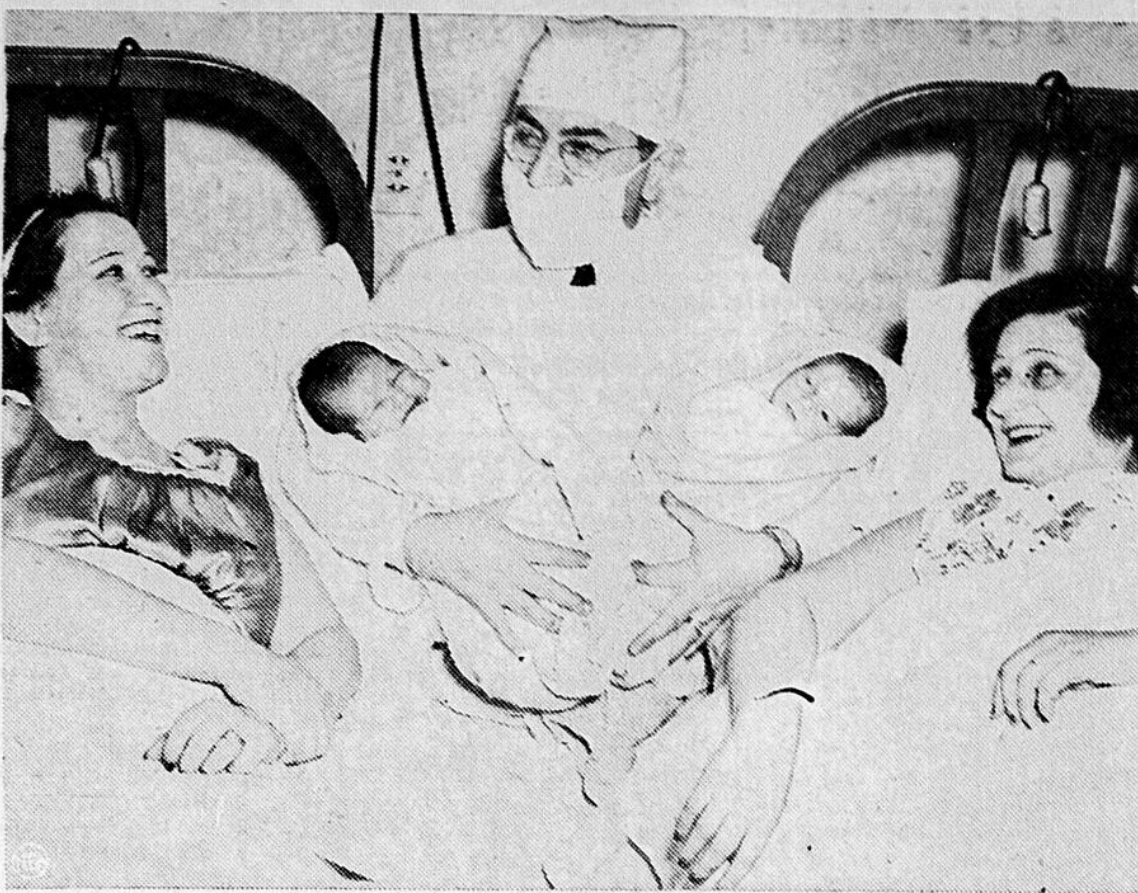

I love the bubbling Wrens, the tireless Vireos, and the Warblers with their thin, squeaky voices. But these birds are merely in the chorus.

What is the colour of a Purple Finch?

Church Will Mark 30th Anniversary

This coming Sunday marks the thirtieth anniversary of the opening of the present building of St. Andrew's Church. On April 18th and 25th, 1909, opening services were held, shortly after Rev. W. J. Clark, D.D., had become pastor of the rapidly increasing congregation. St. Andrew's had the distinction of being the first really large church to be built in Westmount.

To celebrate the anniversary of these services, Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing, of St. George's United Church, Toronto, will be the guest preacher at the morning and evening services. Dr. Brewing has had a most interesting ministry. At the time of church union, he was Bishop of all the Reformed Episcopal Churches in Canada, and brought them into union and was himself called to St. Andrew's-Wesley Church, Vancouver, quite the most impressive United Church building west of the Great Lakes. There he carried on a great and influential ministry. He comes to St. Andrew's as one of the greatest preachers in Canada.

Falls From Bike, Slightly Injured

R. Plouffe, 17 years of age, of 7140 Hamilton street, sustained a cut over the left eye and body bruises when he fell off his bicycle on Atwater avenue at the corner of St. Antoine street, at 11:30 p.m. on Saturday. He was treated by Dr. Lehmann in the Outdoor Department of the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital.

Plouffe told police that he fell from his bicycle when he swerved suddenly to avoid running over the traffic light trip at the intersection. He thought the trip was a hole and tried to avoid it, he said.

He was allowed to return home following treatment. His injuries were considered slight.

Both will speak briefly, and as is the custom at C.C.F. meetings, there will be a question period.

Mrs. MacInnis, who is a well known writer and lecturer, serves as the Parliamentary Secretary for the seven C.C.F. M.P.'s. She is the daughter of Mr. Woodsworth, and wife of Angus MacInnis, C.C.F. M.P. for Vancouver-East.

A special invitation is extended to young people to attend the meeting.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD LANDSCAPE PICTURES

Small, pleasing bits of landscape usually make better pictures than open, distant views. Include a nearby object when possible.

LANDSCAPES are a source of excellent snapshots which will add appeal to any album, and they can be made easily with the simplest cameras.

Many beginners try to include too much in their landscape pictures. A better method is to seek out small, pleasing bits—a single tree overhanging a brook, a quiet country road winding over a hilltop. The broad, open views which first attract our eyes are not as desirable for picture purposes, as simple bits which can easily be "composed" into attractively arranged pictures.

A good practice, in seeking landscape pictures, is to "frame" a scene with your hands while you study its picture possibilities. The camera lens has a narrower "angle of view" than our eyes—it does not take in as much territory—so this trick of "framing" helps us judge better what the camera will include.

In arranging a landscape picture, avoid lines that divide the picture into equal parts, either vertically or horizontally. Large areas, such as open sky, should usually be broken up by detail—clouds, or a graceful tree branch. A color filter on the camera lens helps record clouds. "Balance" should also be sought. For example, if a large mass of trees is shown in the right-hand foreground, they may be balanced by a smaller mass on the left—a figure or two, or a distant house and trees.

Seeking landscape pictures is a pleasant pastime, and a phase of your camera hobby well worth cultivating. Good pictures of this type can be made at any season—and the better ones can be enlarged and framed for use as decorations in the home. Begin your landscape album now.

BOYS BRIGADE HEAD NAMED TO COLOR ESCORT

Sergeant James Patterson, Of First Westmount Co., Given High Honor

The Boys Brigade has appointed Sergeant James Patterson, of the First Westmount Company, to the Color Escort for the forthcoming visit of Their Majesties, one of the highest honors which can be attained by a sergeant. He will be with the Battalion section of boys over fourteen years of age who will be lining the streets on this occasion.

This past Saturday a few of the swimming tests were taken by the Badge Committee and the following boys were successful in obtaining their certificates:—James Wilson, Kenneth Bolduc, Anderson Baxter and Frank Hilborne. Lance Corporal William Mulligan tried for his badge and was successful. The balance of the company will be taken in two sections. Awards will be presented at the Company Review and Display, to take place the last week-end in May.

The Company treasure hunt on Saturday proved most successful and despite the great difficulty of locating the last clue, Private Bruce Marshall turned out to be the lucky winner.

Private Gordon Kearns, having completed his recruiting period, was awarded the Brigade membership badge by Captain Richardson. Pte. Harold Fairhead, company membership secretary, was also awarded a blazer crest for having taken part in the membership campaign last fall.

Scripture Knowledge tests will be conducted this week, the result of which count towards the Education Badge. Handsome certificates are awarded boys who attain a passing mark.

The Ambulance tests will be taken tomorrow night by Lieut. Steggle of the 2nd Company.

Westmount High . . .

(Continued from page one) management was entirely under the supervision of Monty Isaacs, with Frank Daniels, Jack Dodds and Trevor Patterson, rendering valuable assistance. The rapid change of scenery from a parlor scene to a forest glade and back again, is to be especially commended for the smoothness it added to the production. Extra care was paid to costume detail and this with other essentials, contributed to the atmosphere of the scene in no small way.

A year ago, a number of elaborate volumes were presented to the school library by the officers of the D. and D. Society, dealing with the art of histrionics and it appears that they have already begun to influence those students whose interests lie in the ever-broadening field of the drama.

Everything taken into consideration, the play was a memorable achievement for all the students who participated and for the patient and generous direction of this year's producing-director, Miss Joan Skinner.

The Royals Club, and the Westmount Y.M.C.A. Fencing Club are combining their resources to hold a dance on May 12th at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. at 8:45 p.m. The chief reason for holding this dance is an attempt to raise funds to assist in sending two of the Y.M.C.A.'s fencers to the Dominion Fencing Finals, which are to be held in Winnipeg next month. Miss Rhoda Martin, Ladies' Provincial Fencing Champion, and George Tolley, Dominion Three Weapon defending champion are the two whom the branch hopes to send as Quebec's leading representatives in the finals.

R. N. Watt was elected president of the Montreal Tramways Company succeeding Julian C. Smith who has occupied that position since 1925, at a meeting of the board of directors of the company held yesterday after the annual meeting. He is a member of the Montreal Board of Trade and of the Chambre de Commerce and has been closely associated with many of the social and philanthropic activities in the city during the course of the last thirty years. He is a past president of the Canadian Transit Association, a director of the Provincial Transport Company and of the Robert Mitchell Company.

Color Emotional Element; Clashing Hues Irritating

There is a real joy in creating a beautiful room. The joy begins in the anticipation and grows with the acquiring of the things to complete the plan. You enjoy the thrill and the satisfaction of creating beautiful rooms and a lovely harmonious home atmosphere.

Color is the emotional element. Clashing discords of color are irritating to the nerves and sensibilities and destructive of rest and comfort. So color is an important element to consider. Even a beautiful color, if indulged to a too great extent, proves wearying. So color harmonies are sought that soothe the eye and by their combinations, give an effect of restful charm and beauty.

Color is one of the most perplexing problems the home-furnisher has to decide. One thing that should be emphasized is that the question of color should be governed by the size, lighting and exposure of the room.

Warmer Color
A cold northern exposure requires warmer color treatment than an exposure floodlighted by sunshine. Artificial sunlight effects can be produced by the use of the right colors in rugs, etc. A too vivid light can be moderated by the use of colors that absorb and diffuse light.

The question of size is also important because bright color effects highly suitable to a large room would be out of place in a small room. The decorator treats his room as a painter treats his canvas, working out a complete composition with its relative values carefully planned and weighed.

The Oriental rug is a guiding influence in the creation of beautiful interiors, giving them the desired warmth and character. The right Oriental rug regulates to a great degree the success of any room.

Should be Homelike
Rugs should be selected to provide comfort as well as beauty. A living room, for example, must look livable. It must not look like a store display arrangement. It should be homelike with those touches that appeal to man for his hours of rest and recreation and to the woman for the entertainment of her guests. Rugs selected with this idea in view will prove most satisfactory.

Just as certain woods go together naturally or clash, so color in rugs should be studied. Mahogany and walnut go well together, mahogany and oak should never be used together.

The Oriental rug has even been a source of luxurious home adornment. While first made for religious purposes and the uses of the common householder. They became the carpet, the wall decoration, the door curtain and the bed covering. The pattern took the place of pictures or decorations and held before the possessors a constant reminder of their hopes, beliefs and prayers.

Source of Pride
Oriental rugs form a never-ending source of pride and interest to the possessor. Pride in the ownership of such an enduring product of another's supreme skill in a difficult art and interest in the study of the symbols, the patterning and the craftsmanship thereof.

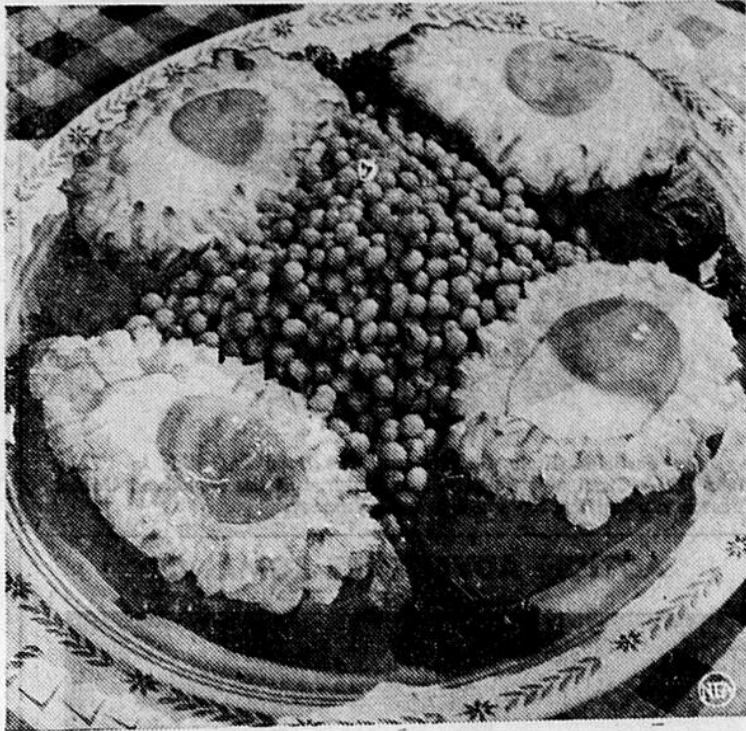

The number of rugs supplied to Europe and this country is a source of wonder to a great many people who cannot understand how much quantities can be produced when one considers the length of time it takes to make a single piece. But when one stops to think that the people who supply these very popular floor coverings have absolutely nothing else to occupy their minds—no newspapers, no magazines or books to read, no worries about fashions in dress, it will be seen that they must have something to while away their time and rug making proves to be both a source of amusement and income.

The Oriental rug is a guiding influence in the creation of beautiful interiors, giving them the desired warmth and character. The right Oriental rug regulates to a great degree the success of any room.

Try These Tasty Spring Recipes
You'll See Potatoes With New Eyes

The perfect spring day luncheon dish for sturdy appetites—large stuffed potatoes with egg and canned or new peas.

Potatoes can handle the luncheon problem with their eyes wide open. Together with a vegetable and a salad, they will please and nourish at the same time.

Baked Creamed Potatoes

(Serves 4 to 6)

One tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, ¾ cup milk, 3 cups chopped cooked potatoes, salt, pepper, onion juice.

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Combine with the potatoes and season with salt, pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Turn the mixture into well-buttered custard cups, pour a little melted butter over the tops and bake in a hot oven (425 to 450 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes or until well browned on the tops and sides. Turn out of the custard cups before serving.

Baked Stuffed Potatoes With Eggs

Bake large potatoes until they are soft. Cut in halves lengthwise and scoop out the insides. Mash, season with butter, salt and pepper, and add enough milk to make of the consistency of ordinary mashed potatoes. Beat until light and fluffy. Refill the potato shells with the mixture, piling it up around the edges so that a hollow is left in the center. Break an egg into each, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Add a sprinkling of grated cheese, if desired. Bake in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) until the eggs are set. Serve with buttered canned or fresh peas.

Escalloped Potatoes With Spiced Sausage

(Serves 4 to 6)

Six potatoes, 1 ¾ cups milk, butter, salt, pepper, ½ teaspoon minced onion, 6 slices spiced sausage, such as salami.

Peel potatoes and slice. Butter casserole and sprinkle bottom with minced onion. Put in a layer of sliced potatoes, dust slightly with flour, dot with butter and season with salt and pepper. Repeat until dish is ¾ filled. Then add warmed milk and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 35 minutes. Twenty minutes before done, add the sliced sausage on top. Bake in the flavor.

Batiste Shades For Lamps in Bedroom

The lamp designers, taking a hint from the Parish fashions, have gone to the neckwear manufacturers and got them to make shades of batiste and net, discretely trimmed with embroidery, for bedroom lamps. The ensemble idea has hit this department, too, with lamp shades now made to match dressing-table skirts, curtains, bedspreads. White net with a pale pink coin dot is used for lined dressing-table shades and other bedroom fittings. The same goes for multi-colored star-shaped dots on white batiste, and for a white glazed chintz with a gay little repeat flower design.

Very attractive and inexpensive boudoir lamp shades come in narrow stripes in cotton, and this striped fabric is used as tie-backs and trimming on organdy curtains. The stripes are in green, blue or red on white.

materials at the first stage of the process, it was a revelation to see these thick-piled, durable rugs. Solid colours of every hue, smart modern patterns—rugs to satisfy the most fastidious taste, and all at a price a good deal less than one would expect to pay for an ordinary domestic carpet.

Thanking our guide for a most instructive afternoon we left with the firm resolve that that shabby rug on our living-room floor would soon take its last journey to the rejuvenating plant of a modern rug reweaving factory.

Reweaving of Rugs is Depression-Born Industry

There's an old saying to the effect that it's an ill wind that blows nobody some good. Much has been written in the past few years of the evils of the late lamented depression. It seems to us that none of these writers have paused to think of the many new industries that have sprung from the roots of an enforced need for economy.

A rapidly growing youngster born of the depression is the new industry of rug reweaving. To many of us who had never heard of such a business, the fact that new rugs are being made from old ones was startling news. The answer to how this was possible was revealed to us upon our visit to a modern rug reweaving factory. One surprise after another greeted us.

Here we found the latest in scientific equipment reclaiming wool from apparently useless old carpets.

To those who, like ourselves, have always thought of reweoven rugs as a makeshift affair this new process is a revelation. We were treated to the sight of reclaimed wool from all kinds of old carpets being washed, sterilized, bleached and finally re-dyed. Unfortunately, lack of space forbids a detailed description of each step in the transformation of old rugs into new. However, we found the dye-rooms to be one of the most interesting and important stages of all. Here the wool is dyed to any shade in the rainbow. These dyes, being what are technically known as "stock dyes", are sun-fast.

The looms, to which are fed the spun yarn, are the final step in this amazing plant. On these looms are woven beautifully reversible and seamless Broadloom rugs, which can be made in any size, no matter how unusual.

In the sample room we examined the finished product. Remembering the shabby, worn ma-

TEA TIME TOPICS

The urge for spring cleaning has descended upon us. There is a great stir of activity in the household. The results of this annual spurge of energy will be amazing—a sparkling clean home in all its spring array. During this period of cleaning, a housewife should not neglect her own appearance, by waiting until the housecleaning is finished to repair the damages to her own personal beauty.

A few good scalpings with a liquid shampoo will remove all traces of the oil and you will be delighted with the lovely soft fluffiness of your hair. A lemon or vinegar rinse will give an added smoothness to the hair.

dusting of the following powder mixture: 1 teaspoon of boracic acid powder and 1 teaspoonful of face powder.

Hands, as may have been discovered fare the worst in all housecleaning jobs. Generous applications of soothing lotions and cream should be applied after every washing. Gloves should be worn, in order to keep the hands smooth and white, otherwise rough and red hands, will be the result.

REFUGEES TAKEN IN

All the girl refugees arriving in England from Germany and Austria have been placed in homes.

Attractive Shades For Kitchen

Attractive shades for the kitchen can be made by cutting a strip of oilcloth the width of the old shades. If the old rollers are still in good condition, the oil cloth can be attached to them. Then a hem just large enough for the stick to which the tassels are attached, and the curtain pulls are in the shape of teapots. My kitchen is in green, so I purchased a green plaid oil cloth. At night I can see the plaid when I am outside my windows.

HOLLYWOOD
GOSSIPSaga of Dauntless Heroes
Is Dramatized on Screen

With Claire Trevor and John Wayne playing the top roles, Walter Wanger's new frontier drama, "Stagecoach," which will have its premiere showing at the York United Theatre on Saturday playing until Tuesday, unfolds a gripping story of pioneer courage—of the brilliant heritage that has descended to young Americans from men who fought and heaved a nation out of a wilderness. It is a saga of brave men who went with them to bring comfort and love to lonely outposts. It was filmed before a backdrop that took sun, wind and rain thousands of years to build and color a Monument Valley, 180 miles from the nearest Arizona railroad.

Louise Platt, George Bancroft, John Carradine, Andy Devine, Thomas Mitchell, Tim Holt, Donald Meek, and Berton Churchill, featured in support of the start, portray the strange group of passengers thrown together with the coach as it proceeds from Tonto, Arizona, to Lordsburg, New Mexico. John Wayne portrays the role of Kid Ringo, who has been driven to out-lawry by per-jurers and is determined to kill them. Claire Trevor impersonates Dallas, a woman of easy virtue who has been forced out of town by the self-righteous citizenry.

While the pounding hoofs carry them closer and closer to shrieking war cries and blood-hungry tomahawks, these incongruous individuals are absorbed with the purposes and hate that have propelled them into the hazardous journey. Each kne that Geronimo was on the war path. Each knew this meant torture or death if the coach was attacked—yet they went. They travel across a vast panorama of primitive splendor in a solitary stagecoach which carries and rocks behind six galloping horses, with each mile bringing them closer to a waiting band of murderous Apaches.

"Aren't We All" MRT
Victoria Hall Offering

One of those essentially "pleasant" plays which seem to fit in with Spring will be the current production of the MRT at Victoria Hall, continuing until Saturday. The play to be presented will be Lonsdale's "Aren't We All" in which the well-loved English actor, Cyril Maude, made his farewell tour, and which those who have seen recall with delight.

It is one of those English comedies typical of a certain school in which a group of delightful people get extremely worked up about something trivial various contre-temps occur, one chuckles and laughs more than moderately and goes home feeling that the characters are charming people and the evening has been well-spent.

The central character of "Aren't We All" is Lord Grenham, an elderly nobleman who refuses to grow old. Having evolved a kindly philosophy and the habit of confining his flirtations to the shadowy halls of the British Museum, he lives his life gaily and at peace with the world. His son is not so fortunate. He becomes entangled in a spectacular but involuntary "scene" and breaks his father's

Children Seen
In "Pollyanna"
Theatre Choice

Dorothy Davis and Violet Walters scored another in their apparently endless string of successes at Victoria Hall when they presented the talented pupils of The Children's Theatre in "Pollyanna."

The story of Pollyanna Whittier, "The Glad Girl," is too well-known to bear repetition here. The character of Pollyanna, who was always able to see the brighter side of things, is one of the most lovable in works for the children's theatre—and the Davis-Walters production took advantage of everything the script had to offer.

Patricia Joudry played the title role as though she had known Pollyanna personally all her life. There was never any hesitation in her lines and her acting was extremely natural—and, to top it all, she looked the part, as well.

Jimmy Bean, the orphan lad who falls in love with Pollyanna and is later adopted by her rich uncle, was played by two brothers—Billy and Victor Levy. Billy carried the role throughout the greater part of the performance, but in the final scene, which takes place five years after the rest of the play, Billy's older brother, Victor, became Jimmy Bean.

Lilian Wilkinson, who has had important roles in recent productions of The Children's Theatre, played Pollyanna's aunt, Miss Harrington, and a fine supporting cast included Joy Schwartz, Laura Mitchell, Pat Pearson, Erika Spector, Elaine Robinson, Thelma Vautour, Frank Leonard, Alveda Wallace, Arthur Hedley and Estelle Mendelsohn.

Ability to "Take It"
Makes Lamour a Star

If you can take a terrific beating and come through unscathed, Hollywood will be ready to admit that your acting apprenticeship is over!

This was the conclusion reached by Paramount's great glamour-girl, Dorothy Lamour, at the completion of her new role in "St. Louis Blues," opening Sunday at the Westmount United Theatre. In this story of life aboard a Mississippi showboat, Miss Lamour is set shoveling dirt along the levees, swabbing decks and gets mauled around in general by her new leading man, Lloyd Nolan.

"As soon as I became a star in Hollywood I began roughing it," said Miss Lamour. "In my previous picture, 'Spawn of the North,' which marked my first big dramatic role, I went in for underwater wrestling with George Raft, got pushed around by Akim Tamiroff and entered into sundry other rough stuff. Before that, in 'Hurricane,' I was blown about by wind machines for days on end."

And there's no let up! Miss Lamour's interview was interrupted by Director Raoul Walsh, who ordered her to get back to her scrubbing!

"St. Louis Blues" gives Miss Lamour another big opportunity to show her talent for 'ramatic acting, as she did in 'Spawn of the North.' She plays a Broadway celebrity who, fed up with glamour, applause and publicity, runs away from it all and finds happiness and romance aboard a down-at-the-heels Mississippi showboat.

Y. M. C. A. ROYALS DEFEAT ARGYLE HIGH 51-10

CAGE SQUADS BRING SEASON TO A CLOSE

Arnold Reed and Harold Parsons Starred for Royals in Final Game

An Improved Westmount Y.M.C.A. Royals Basketball team finished their season at top form on Monday night on the local court when they defeated the Argyle High School quintet by the score of 51 to 10.

From the very beginning the visitors were completely outclassed by the flashy passing of Bert Ward, Bill MacKay, Arnold Reed, Ken White, Harold Parsons and Tom Sim. Flashing real mid season form the guards sent the forwards away on long passes that were quickly turned into baskets.

The leading scorers for the Royals were Arnold Reed and Harold Parsons with Bert Ward and Bill MacKay lending stellar assistance on the forward line.

Ken Whyte and Tom Sim played well defensively as did Wexler for Argyle, who was also high scorer for the visiting team.

Tom Sim played his last game for the Westmount Y as he is being transferred by his firm to Kitchener, Ontario, where he hopes to keep up his interest in basketball and hockey. It is indeed with great regret that the boys of the "Y" team see Tom leave but they all wish him luck in his new position.

The line up: Westmount Y.M.C.A. Royals, Forwards: Ward, MacKay, Reed, Parsons; defense: White and Sim. Argyle: Forwards: Wexler, Hoode, Kushner, MacCreath; Defense: Cookman and Bolduc.

Mrs. Jones: "We haven't heard from Uncle John and Aunt Ella for 20 years. How do you expect to locate them?"

Jones: "Easy! I'll rent a cottage at the seashore this summer."

Curious Stranger: "Changing a tire, eh?"

Driver: "No; just a kindly disposition. I get out every few miles and jack it up to give it a rest."—Atlanta Two Bells.

"How did Tom manage to get so much of his uncle's estate?"

"He married his lawyer's only daughter."—Providence Journal.

National Model Plane Contest Will Be Held

First of its kind ever to be held in Canada, the National Model Aircraft Contest is announced here today. The local section of this nation-wide contest is being held in co-operation with the Model Aircraft League of Montreal.

Local boys will have an opportunity to compete for valuable cash prizes, flights in the new Trans-Canada Airways planes, also in a "Cub" plane, and all-expense trips to the World's Fair, New York.

Open To All
Every boy, young or old, will be able to compete, since there are three classes: scale models, out-door flying models and gasoline powered models. Already several boys' clubs and organizations have heard the news and are busy making plans to form classes and enter models.

Model aircraft building is an increasingly popular hobby in Montreal, but heretofore enthusiasts have never had the opportunity to compete in a national contest. Officials of local model aircraft clubs, when informed of this contest, greeted the news with enthusiasm and were particularly pleased with the very liberal nature of the awards. R. G. Britton, president of the Model

Aircraft League of Montreal, who has devoted much time and work toward organizing model aircraft builders here, stated that League members eagerly welcomed the National Contest as an opportunity to test their models competitively, and at the same time vie for the valuable prizes.

Four Meets Planned
It is understood that four contests will be held to determine the national winners. One to be held in Winnipeg to decide the Western Champions, one in Toronto to decide Ontario Champions, one in Montreal to decide Eastern Champions, and a final contest in Toronto at which the six Champions, two each from Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, will compete for the Grand Championship, which will entitle the two lucky winners to a thrilling, all-expense trip to the New York World's Fair.

For the Montreal contest, trophies will be presented to the first and second winners in each section of each class—additional cash prizes will be given for endurance flights in the gas model class—and two winners will be given return flights via Trans-Canada Airways to Toronto, where they will compete in the National Contest for the grand prizes of World's Fair Trips.

M. A. A. A. Varieties To Be Presented Saturday

The M.A.A.A. which has gained a reputation for unique and novel parties in recent years, almost rivaling the fame of their athletic teams of old, has apparently come through with another winner in the "M.A.A.A. Varieties," which is being held in the clubhouse on Saturday night. Four days before the curtain was scheduled to rise the Peel Street club reported that the S.R.O. sign was being dusted off, and apparently they had another success on their hands.

During the past few years, since the Association retired from competitive sport, it has distinguished itself in the entertainment field with a long time of dances and other parties that have been notable for novelty. Starting with a series of mammoth theatre parties in 1933, they successively have staged Gold Rushes, Circus, Bagdad and Miami Balls, all startlingly original and extravagant when compared to the ordinary entertainment of the day, and all unqualified successes from every angle. Now with "Varieties," the M.A.A.A. is leaping again with a novel entertainment quite in keeping with the progressive spirit of the Peel Street club.

Saturday night's show consists of a full evening's theatrical entertainment on a mammoth stage, to be erected on the badminton courts, with the audience seated at tables in a music hall setting. In addition to the regular stage presentation, which will consist of a number of short plays and skits, there will be a cabaret and dancing, providing a full evening's entertainment.

LIONS CLUB TROOP

Weather permitting, the Lions Club Troop are going on their first spring hike this Saturday morning. Advantage will be taken of the soft ground, to get some plaster of paris impressions of whatever tracks may be found.

The Troop is making plans for after the ceremonies in connection with the visit of Their Majesties. At the present time, the St. Marks, S. Barnabas, and Storer Troops are an "At Home" to other Troops have accepted invitations to attend. Patrol Leader Billie Jones and Second Keith Smith have both passed for Starman and Safetyman Badges, while Patrol Leader Matthew Del Vecchio and Scout Vincent Biggs have passed Starman, and Second Billie Nemes the Safetyman Badges. Scout John McCormick was awarded the Second Class Badge at last Friday's meeting.

A further donation to Troop equipment by the Ladies Auxiliary was received this week, when 5 hand axes were presented to the patrols. The Wolf Cubs were also the lucky recipients of haversacks.

LIONS CLUB PACK
Members of the Pack celebrated their first Birthday at last evening's meeting, and the following cubs were presented with their first service star: Sixers Valentino Costello, Tony Malo, Percy Brookes and Joe Ruttenberg, and Cubs Trevor Jones, Bobby Penney, Bernard McMurray, Clifford Johnston and Alex Harper.

The Pack is now busy preparing for the big Wolf Cub Display that will be held at the Molson Stadium on Empire Day.

BUSINESS ACUMEN
A newsboy having little success in selling his papers to a crowd leaving a Boston theatre the other night suddenly began bawling, "Newsboys Starving in Hub."

Business perked up immediately. —Editor & Publisher.

Not Competing
The professor's secretary saw a magnificent blonde carrying some papers enter the office smiling sweetly.

"Listen you," snarled the jealous secretary. "If you try to muscle in on my territory I'll plant you among the potatoes."

"Oh, don't mind me," answered the other. "I'm only the professor's wife."

Pittsburgh Traffic "Informers" Are Cutting The Accident Total

And Citizens Don't Resent "Spies"

Pittsburgh. — No matter where or when you violate a traffic regulation in Pittsburgh, you can never be sure that you are getting away with it.

There may be no police car in sight. But there is a good chance that you are being noted by one of 500 "traffic observers."

The system of volunteer "observers" who report violations to a central bureau seems to be working. Since it was introduced in 1930 by the Better Traffic Committee, a city-subsidized agency, records show that its activities have run parallel to a constantly falling accident toll.

Traffic Spies
The system is simple. The committee invites citizens to become observers. Accepting, he or she is assigned a number by the committee, and given a credential card. Form cards on which to report observed violations are then provided.

Names of the observers are not made public, and are known only to the traffic committee, which identifies the reports by the number of the observer.

When such an observer sees a car weaving wildly in traffic, passing a standing street-car, speeding, pulling out from the curb without a driver's signal, crashing a light, or cutting across traffic lanes in a dangerous manner, he notes the license number.

Then, on a printed report card he records the number, the offense, makes any additional remarks, jots down his own number as observer, and mails the card to the committee.

Police Request
The committee checks the number of the offending car and mails a polite form letter to the owner, asking his co-operation in making Pittsburgh traffic safer.

HEAR TALK BY REV. J. TOOMEY

Last Sunday evening the Ladies Auxiliary of the Loyola College Alumni gave to a large audience the pleasure of hearing the Rev. John Toomey, S.J., Associate Editor of "America." Fr. Toomey's subject was "Propaganda in the Press." The speaker told his audience how true doctrines were often incorrectly expounded in newspapers and how news of international affairs was being printed to suit the locality in which it was published. After his very enlightening address, Fr. Toomey answered questions asked by his audience.

Miss A. Stanford was chairman and Mr. Walter Elliot gave the vote of thanks.

Speaks at Forum
At the mass meeting conducted by the Canadian-German League on Sunday afternoon at the Forum, Loyola was ably represented in the person of Father William X. Bryan, S.J., professor of Economics and Sociology. Fr. Bryan introduced Fr. Ostermann of New York and also spoke briefly of the persecutions in Germany today as well as of those in Russia and Mexico.

Football Practice Starts
To mention Football in the Spring doesn't seem sensible, however this Spring will witness the first time a school football team in the City of Montreal has entered upon training in the month of May. The reason—the introduction of the Unlimited Interference Rule into High School Football in this city.

TOURISTS INCREASE
France is jubilant over the recent increase in tourists from other countries.

How Pittsburgh uses cartoons to sell the "traffic offender" idea to its motorists... gives them a choice between a polite warning, top, and a summons to court, lower.

owner reported. It carries on one side the reports from observers, and on the other a listing from police records of any accidents in which the driver may have been involved.

Six thousand such warning letters go out each year to owners whose cars have been reported as offending. Less than one per cent yield replies from owners who are angry at having been "spied on."

Many return answers saying that they themselves had not been driving their cars at the time reported, and that they had warned chauffeurs (wives, sons, or daughters who were. Most replies indicate that the warning is effective, promising more care in the future.

When a letter is returned containing a reasonable excuse, the committee usually does not mark the offense on the record.

Indoor Baseball Schedule Opens at Y.M.C.A. Branch

The Y.M.C.A. Prep's Indoor Baseball League got off to a good start Saturday morning when all four teams saw action on the local gymnasium. The Senators from Hampstead played a double header, but lost on both occasions.

In the first game the Yankees beat the Senators 12-8. The Senators put on a five run rally in the last inning, but the strong lead early established by the Yankees was too great to overcome.

In the second game the Giants, whose hard hitting combination of

Marathon Swim Continues At 'Y'

The Marathon swim started at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. last Monday is still in full swing with Jim Kearney leading with a total of 1249 laps; Richard Wark is second with 888 laps and Jimmie Peaters is third with 732 laps.

Plans are already in progress for a conditioning Marathon which will start the first week in May and continue until the closing of school. Each contestant will have to swim 27 laps a day and be timed on that distance. There will be periodic rest intervals throughout the six weeks of swimming. The swimmer covering the required distance in the shortest length of time will be awarded champion.

HIGH SCHOOL CHOIR IN ANNUAL CONCERT

Montreal High School senior choir, composed of 600 hundred voices, will stage its annual concert tomorrow night in the auditorium of the high school at 8.15.

This choir is the largest in the city and is conducted by Harry Norris, well known in Notre Dame de Grace. The school orchestra will present the first movement of Mozart's piano concerto in D, the soloist being Ruth Han-kinson.

Also included on the program will be selections by the rhythm band, conducted by Audrey Speirs. This band impressed a capacity audience at a concert given last Friday night by 600 eighth year pupils, which sang as a unit with orchestral accompaniment. This group is playing by special request. In addition to the many players, there is also a small choir, the entire group consisting of eighty boys and girls.

J. B. Speirs, Marlowe avenue, director of music at Montreal High School, is in charge of the arrangements.

ROYAL ROVERS COME HOME AT INDOOR MEET

Westmount Triumphs in Senior Relay Race, But By Small Margin

Against more than 400 competitors, the Royal Rovers acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner at the Forum indoor meet last week. Though the club piled up the highest aggregate, they did not qualify for the cup which has to be awarded to a school.

In the junior events, G. King was brilliant, winning his heat in sprints, then placing in the final. King also ran a great anchor lap for his relay which placed third, the others being Maskell, Busby and Cobb.

In the senior division, Harold Kirkwood won in the sprints and placed second in the final. He forced the winner to a new record in this heat. He also took the half mile. In the senior relay race, the stellar team of Kirkwood, Johnson, Stranks and Taylor were barely moved out by a team from Westmount.

Tom Maskell and B. Smallcombe are two of the Rovers who took part in the Boston marathon and returned with prizes for having come home within the select circle.

TO THE CITIZENS OF WESTMOUNT

The merchants who are listed on this page are a body of men who have grouped themselves together to make a determined effort to better conditions in our community. They are men who are paying taxes for the privilege of serving you. In their stores you will find an assortment of merchandise comparable both in quality and price with any larger centre, therefore it seems reasonable for them to expect that the citizens in general will support them. We are not asking you to pay more for your merchandise or accept poorer service but we do feel, all things being equal, the local merchant deserves your support. Won't you kindly think this over and when ordering try the local merchant first.

At our meeting on May 18th at Victoria Hall we hope to have the pleasure of meeting a number of the citizens of Westmount and we trust we may be able to impress them with the sincerity of our efforts.
