Former Huntingdon Twin Girls Feature In Unique Operation

The following story concerns former residents of this area, who were occupants of Rowat farm at Dewittville for several years, Mr. and Mrs. G. Johnson. This article appeared in a recent edition of the Montreal Star and is reprinted here as being of interest to our readers.

A 15-year-old Montreal district girl is alive and in "satisfactory" condition in the Royal Victoria Hospital today because her twin sister donated one of her kidneys to her for the first kidney transplant operation in Canada.

The twins are Moira and Nola Johnson, children of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Johnson of Baie d'Urfee.

The rare operation, which has been performed less than a dozen times in the United States, was carried out by a team of doctors and surgeons at the Royal Victoria on May 14th.

Legal Barrier Cleared

The transplant is only possible between identical twins. This is because skin grafts do not "take" and become permanent between any other two persons, even twins who are non-identical.

The procedure also involved removing a legal block. Normally in Quebec only the consent of the father or a legal guardian is necessary for operating on a sick child but since Nola, the intended donor, was perfectly well, it was decided to call a family council and get court consent to the transplant.

Moira became ill about two months ago and when convulsions started she was admitted to the Montreal Neurological Institute on March 30. There examination showed very high blood pressure and evidence of chronic disease involving both kidneys.

Exhaustive Checks

She was transferred to the Royal Victoria, where doctors realized that only an operation to give her one of her twin's healthy kidneys could save her life.

Preparations for the tricky procedure began with exhaustive tests to pove beyond a doubt that the girls are true identical twins. Plastic surgeons did skin grafts from each twin to the other a month before the major surgery. These grafts "took" well.

Experts in genetics and other specialties at McGill University and the Montreal Children's Hospital also checked fingerprints, the color of the iris of the eye and the lobes of the ears.

The transfusion department at the Royal Victoria had to do elaborate blood tests and screen more than 100 donors to find compatible blood for the operation.

Nola came into hospital two days before and tests showed her kidneys were functioning well.

Two operating rooms were used, one surgeon removing the donated kidney from Nola while the other prepared the arteries in Moira to receive the transplant, the diseased kidneys being left in place with the new organ by-passing them.

The procedure took five hours. Within 20 minutes, the transplanted kidney began to work "extremely well and has continued to function satisfactorily." Now her condition continues quite satisfactory and her appetite has returned.

The doctors also reported that Nola, who had not hesitated to sacrifice one of her kidneys to save her twin's life, made a quick recovery from the operation.

They explained that many people are able to live a normal life span with only one kidney.

CBC Country Calendar Visited Howick On Sunday

The very popular Sunday Afternoon CBC Television Program, "Country Calendar" originated on Sunday from Burnside Farms, Howick. During the course of the program, the life history of the Ness Family in Howick as well as some pertinent particulars of the farming area surrounding Howick and Ormstown were given.

The feature opened with Mrs. Bernice Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ness, riding on her horse "Royal" through Burnside and Woodside Farms to the front Paddock of Woodside Farm. Then Douglas and Mitchell Ness came onto the screen. Other members of Ness family appearing were Earl, Bruce, The Hon. R. R. Ness who gave the history of Burnside Farm, Rolly Ness, Bobbie Ness who spoke on 4-H Club work, Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Douglas Ness.

Commentators on the program were Johnny Moles and Earl Cox who does Gardening on Country Calendar; and Paul Pelet, Chief Commentator on the French edition of the Farm and Garden Show, "Les Travaux et Les Jours". Producer and director of program on Sunday was Murray Creed.

There were about 25 technicians from CBMT and CBFT, who worked on the mechanical end of the program. The feature was beamed from a 100 foot tower which was erected behind the barns at Burnside Farm. The connection for the speaking part of the program were made by The Bell Telephone of Canada, who strung extra cables to carry sound which was relayed to the Tower on Mount Royal.

The CBC had three cameras in operation. The largest was located in the field in front of Woodside Farm. This Camera is called a "Field Zoom Camera", and is like those used for Hockey and other sporting events. It might be added that the Field Zoom Camera has a very high power Telescopic Lens which brings distant points very close. The other two cameras, were the ordinary closeup cameras, one being located on a movable dolly and the other was in the house at Woodside.

Due to the great amount of power required for the program, a special portable generator was brought in.

All in all the picture reception was very good considering the rainy weather on Sunday. It is hoped that city dwellers were able to get a good insight into the operations of a large farm.

Prior to the live show, the CBC, filmed some interesting landmarks in Howick, as well as the Exhibition Buildings, etc., at Ormstown.

Grant's Bakery, A Huntingdon Enterprise, Is Most Modern

Grant's Bread is a name and product that is known quite well in Huntingdon and surrounding territory. The original founder of the business passed away several years ago and the business is carried on today by his sons.

The Grant family has been in the bread making business for about 50 years, originally located in the Eastern Townships, Henry Grant and his family came to Huntingdon about thirty years ago. He was not immediately established in his own business, but in due time he operated a bakery products route and made some of his own bread. The quality of the product soon caught on with the public and the business began to expand. His sons helped him as time went on and they became of an age to do so. Charlie, however, was the one who took the most interest and later Gordon did likewise. A shop was opened on Chateauguay Street during the last war and the late Henry Grant built a house on Hunter Street during the early part of the war.

About this time Charlie was called to the war and served in the R.C.A.F. and did a stint of bombing missions over Germany before returning to this country and peacetime conditions. During the time he was away on duty, Gordon took over the job of keeping up the service to the customers and was also assisted by another brother, Howie. The business continued to expand during this time.

When Charles returned following the war, he came back with ideas and the real expansion began. He was left almost entirely to the operation of the bakery as his father became an invalid and later passed away. He built a shop at the rear of the residence on Hunter St., as rationing and war restrictions were relaxed, Charlie added more variety to his products. In the past few years, the premises became very much overcrowded and there was insufficient space in which to operate. Everything was done by hand except for the mixing of the ingredients and later a moulding machine was added. The business kept growing and the demand for his own bakery products increased.

About a year ago, it was decided to enlarge the premises and to put in modern machines for greater and faster production. The former shop comprised an area of 1300 square feet and now an addition of three stories or a further area of 1400 square feet has been made. Into this has been installed some of the latest in bread making machines which have increased the capacity of the plant to three times what it was a few years ago. Now almost everything is done automatically by these machines and the production is still only 50 per cent of the capacity of this bread making equipment.

Today the flour and water used in the making of bread dough is conveyed into a mixer together with other ingredients put in beforehand and the dough is quickly turned out. This dough is dropped from the high speed mixer into a trough and then taken to another machine known as a divider. The dough is weighed into loaves and kneaded into round shapes by a whirling process which carries it into an overhead prover by means of belts and sprockets. These shapes are then deposited upon webbed pockets, three in a line. While in this machine the bread rises and is prepared to pass through to another machine which moulds it. The dough comes out in a long shape and is placed into the baking tins by hand. The baking tins are placed upon a rack and then put into an automatic proof box which gives the dough the ideal humidity with heat and steam. After proper fermentation, or rising, the dough is placed into a rotary type oven for baking. This oven can bake 340 loaves at a time, or 680 loaves in an hour. The heating is done by oil burner system.

After the bread is baked, it is cooled. It is then taken to another machine which slices it and wraps it in a specially printed wrapper, when it is ready to be loaded on the two delivery trucks, or sold over the counter.

Besides bread, Grant's Bakery is also well known for its cakes and pastries, a business which Charlie has excelled in for many years. While more handling is required for the making of these products, much of the making is done by machine which speeds the process. A doughnut machine turns out the shapes and drops them into the fat for cooking. There are two vertical type mixers for mixing the ingredients for cakes. A cookie dropper turns out small cookies and drops them onto the pans ready for baking.

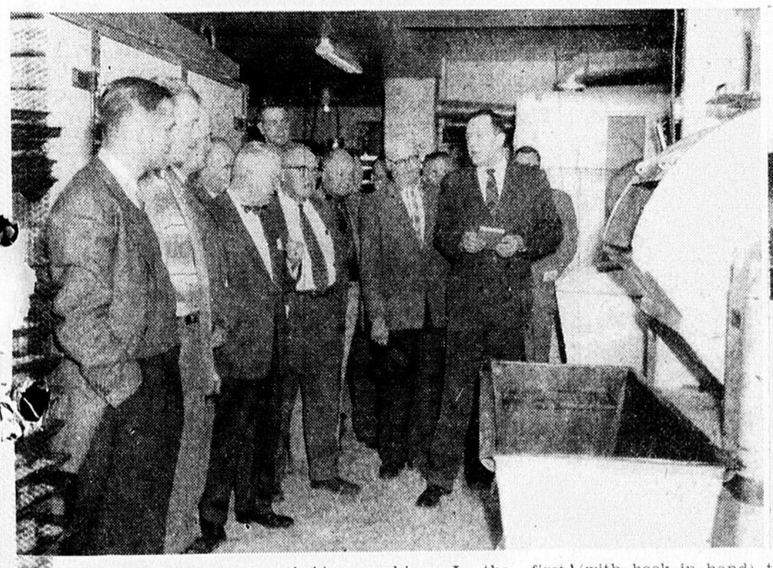
It will be easy to see the difference that this new equipment has made to the work formerly done and the speed with which the products can be turned out.

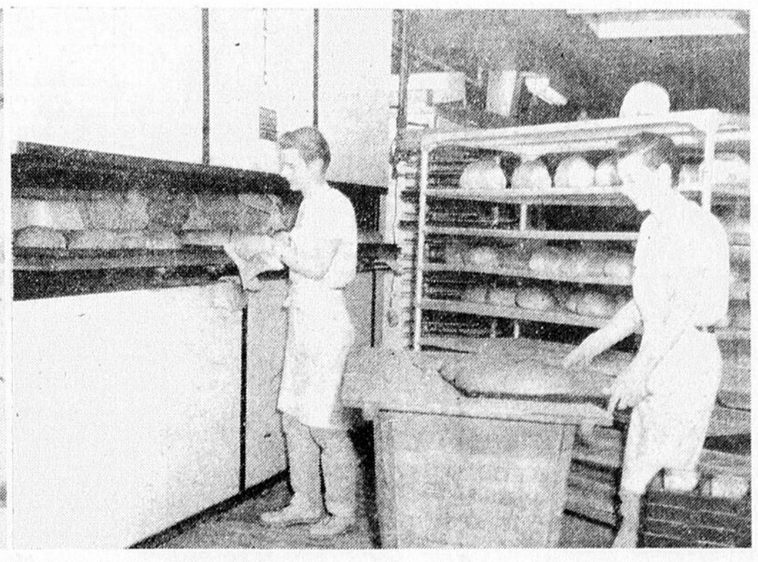
Grant's Bakery now has two jobbers, one in Dundee and one in Howick. Two daily delivery routes in Huntingdon, as well as supplying a number of stores in the town and surrounding outlying territory. There is a full time staff of five people and two part time workers. Two trucks are maintained for retail deliveries.

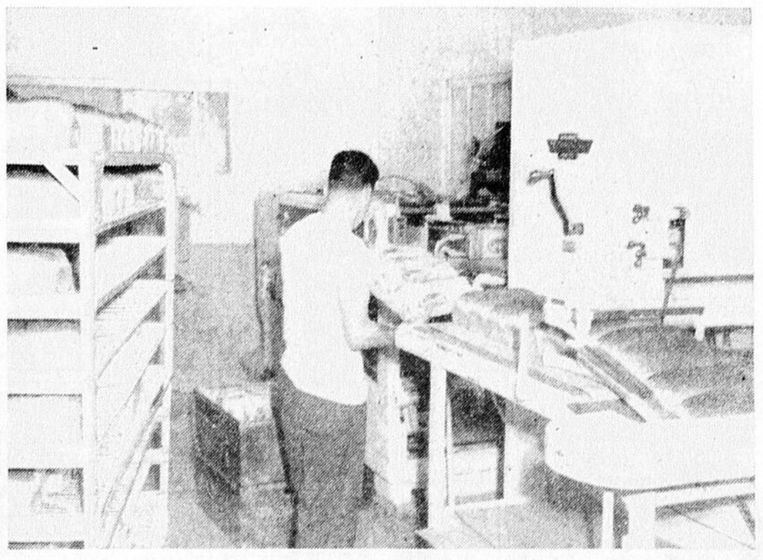
This firm also handles the products of Wonder Bakeries to supplement its own products and finds a ready sale for all it can deliver and produce. All of the machinery is powered by electricity and in consequence is among the larger users of this type of power.

This business has developed through a perseverance of hard work and stay on the job, which gives service to customers, while at the same time stressing quality of product. Orders for all kinds of bakery products are filled on short notice, wedding and birthday cakes being a speciality. Bread buns and rolls are another line which is in great demand at all times.

— Modern Baking Machinery And Equipment Is Installed At Grant's Bakery In Huntingdon —







On Monday afternoon, members of the Huntingdon Rotary Club took a tour of Grant's Bakery to view the recent addition of several up-to-date baking machines. In the first photograph will be seen the members in the Bakery being told by Mr. Charles Grant, the proprietor of Grant's Bakery, (with book in hand) the fundamentals of bread making and the uses of the various machines. The one shown is a mixer which makes the dough. The Rotarians went all through the plant and were most interested in all they saw. The second photograph shows a batch of bread just freshly baked being taken from the rotary oven and stacked on racks to cool. The shelf in the oven from which the bread is being taken (left) moves up and around and another shelf comes in to view. The last photograph shows the bread after it has cooled and going to the slicing and wrapping machine. This machine takes in the bread and slices it and then wraps it in individual waxed wrapped and seals the ends. The bread is then packed into boxes ready for delivery. In this case, Gordon Grant is in charge of the machine.

Charles Grant Addresses Rotary Club

At the Rotary Club meeting on Monday Charles Grant gave a short talk about the making of bread in Grant's Bakery. Charlie told of how his father, the late Henry Grant, who moved to Huntingdon during the depression years of the 30's and established a small bakery on Chateauguay St. where the Menard Grocery store is now located. Charlie was then a boy of 12 years of age and his father purchased for him a new bicycle, and with it he was to go out and sell bread. Charlie said he was all keyed up to start out selling and with the baskets on the bike well loaded he hedged on starting out, until his father asked for about the third time if he was all set to go, and when I said yes, he commanded me to get going. Those of us who have followed Charlie's business activities over the years must realize that was a command he never failed to heed. Charlie was always well liked by his customers, and likewise the other members of the Grant family. With the good quality products made, and sold in such a pleasing manner by the Grant boys and employees they have certainly gone to town in building up a big bakery trade. For a more detailed story of the modern Grant Bakery business as it is to-day, please read the report appearing in another column.

Return From Visit to England

On Wednesday, May 21st, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Heath returned from a five weeks' visit to Scotland and England. They enjoyed this trip very much and have one regret — that the time did not allow them to see and do all they might have wished. However, they visited parts of Scotland, saw various namesake towns in the County of Huntingdon in England. Went through the Shakespear country of Stratford and spent a wonderful time in London. They were entertained in London by several friends made on the trip over. All in all, they had a most enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McWhinnie attended the Telephone Pioneers of America Convention, which was held in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Brownrigg of St. Johns, spent the Victoria Day holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy McWhinnie. Mrs. S. Boyse, two daughters and son of Lacolle; Mrs. F. Greer of Hemmingford and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McWhinnie of St. Johns, were also guests at the same home.

The following names were omitted from the recent lists of contributors to the Red Cross Campaign in Huntingdon: $1.00 D. S. McColm and Mrs. T. Goundrey.

Blossom Time

During the past week the apple blossom bloom has been at its height. Gerald Beaudin, Franklin stated that the bloom was very heavy and that if the little frost we had affected the apple crop it would not likely be very detrimental. The heavy blossom indicated the possibility of a tremendous crop which would be hard on the trees, and an excess of apples for the demand of the market.

Many people have been out for auto drives through Franklin, Havelock and Hemmingford townships admiring the apple blossom bloom. One of the arresting sights was the magnificent display of tulips in bloom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Beaudin, Franklin. Mrs. Beaudin has good reason to be very proud of her tulip bed next Highway 52, where it is believed some 3500 tulips are in full bloom.

Editorial Notes

On Improvements In Town Of Huntingdon

A PROGRESSIVE town shows in many ways and is the cause of favorable comment by visitors and others. Sometimes progressiveness is slow and improvements as a result go unnoticed because they have been so gradual. One may be inclined to say that the Town of Huntingdon has not progressed much in the past number of years. There was a time when this town was growing by leaps and bounds, then it suddenly slowed down in pace.

Over the past few years, there has been progress, but it has been of the gradual kind and hardly noticed, due in part to the fact that the improvements did not actually produce further growth. Let us just take time to run over a few of the changes and developments which have taken place.

One of the first changes, although this took place several years ago and in the more or less rapid period, was the Drug Store known as Fortune's Drug Store. A new and modern store in every way was built on Chateauguay Street and presented the first major change in a number of years at that time. More recently, the store front of Marchand Freres, Chateauguay Street, has been rebuilt on modern and attractive lines and also the inside of the store undergone renovations. Apparently these changes have started a trend on this street, for some other business premises are presently in the process of having a face lift. The latest are the stores of the Menard Grocery and Kiddy Town.

On another street, extensive additions in equipment and enlargement of the building have taken place at Grant's Bakery on Hunter Street. This bakery has considerable amount of modern bread making machinery installed in a large addition to the former premises. At present a period of familiarization with this new equipment is underway. But this will make Grant's Bakery on a par with a number of much larger bakeries, both as to production and quality of product. Charley Grant, the proprietor, is an enterprising young man who has a good product that is much in demand and will do much to advertise the Town of Huntingdon in the future.

A new gasoline service station has been added to those already giving service. The Roman Catholic Notre Dame School has been enlarged from the original building and presents a fine school in this Town. Both banks have been renovated and additional services installed during the recent years. A few new houses have been added in various parts of town and one new industry has located in a vacant industrial building.

All of this is as it should be — no town can afford to stand still in these days and there is still a lot that could be done to improve the appearance of Huntingdon. It is hoped that in due time other important improvements can be made. One of these could be the installation of a new and modern bridge over the river to replace those now in existence. These are definitely outmoded for present day traffic and could be improved upon and at the same time present a more pleasing appearance to this town. The river bank at the lower end of Chateauguay Street has been much improved in recent years.

The building of the new Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena has added another needed acquisition, althought this is strictly not in the town, it is considered as such. The full use of this large building has not been felt to date, but the time is coming when this will be better known. The addition of a Memorial Wing to the Huntingdon County Hospital not so very many years ago is another feature which has meant much to the whole community. The extension of the bus service through several streets in town might also be considered as an improvement in services to the people of this community and signifies some importance. Many new sidewalks have been built on streets not previously served and have added further convenience to the public.

The Town police force of three men has been equipped with a police car in the past year or so, which also adds to the dignity of this town. A new fire truck with special equipment is another recent addition to the services of the fire department. Also under consideration by the town fathers, are the purchases of two town trucks and snow removal equipment and perhaps a municipal garage to house the equipment.

In the immediate future a new addition will be made to the Protestant school here to overcome the crowded conditions presently existing.

All of this marks progress — progress that has been gradual and therefore has not aroused too much attention, but nevertheless it has taken place, or will take place.

Dorea Children's Village Needs $250,000

IN the news columns of this newspaper will be found a story on recent important developments at Dorea Children's Village at Franklin Centre, Que. This is a comparatively new development in our area and while some may know much about it, there are some who will know very little. It is a development and plan much along the lines of the well known Father Flannigan's Boys' Town in the U.S.A. In its beginning in 1950, it was a piece of farmland close to the U.S. border on the Quebec side on which a few boys had been gathered and housed in two unfinished cottages. Today it has many buildings and many more boys who are happily going to school and doing work on the project as well as participating in healthy recreation. These boys are from broken families through one cause or another and are not necessarily delinquent. They are being trained to be good citizens and brought up on foster parent conditions which will tend to rehabilitate them to a good and useful life in the world when they are of an age to fend for themselves.

This work is going on in our midst and can be seen at any time if one wishes to take the time to visit this village on the slopes from Covey Hill, in Huntingdon County. It is under the sponsorship of the Roman Catholic Church and a number of local citizens give it their support. The money needed is for further expansion of the village by the addition of more buildings to accommodate the growing population. The work being done is humanitarian, in that it gives young boys a chance to gain a start in life that may otherwise be denied them. If these children were allowed to drift as would be the case under the circumstances in which they lived formerly, it is entirely possible that they could become delinquents and end up as hardened criminals. By taking them away from their poor surroundings and giving them a new chance, society is helping to guide these children in the right path for their own good and the good of the world.

No matter what our faith, the true Christian will see that this is a work of God — Suffer Little Children to Come Unto ME — are words which Jesus used. True Christians will know that it is part of their teachings and belief to care for other humans and to do all in their power to see that all may live in the way of God. Your contribution toward this project will help to realize for some child a new way of life with hope — a chance to become a good and useful citizen, upright and honest instead of a scourge upon society. These children did not seek such an unhappy entrance to this world — they were unfortunate enough to be born into an environment that was already evil and placed among the unwanted, the unloved. Dorea will give them homelike comforts and care, religious teaching and a Christian way of life. It will not give them the same love that good parents can give their children, but it will give them the next best thing and make them feel that they are important enough to warrant the thought and kindnesses they receive.

Your contribution to this cause will not be wasted. The fund will be used wisely as it has been used these past few years. The results are to be seen and a talk with those in charge will soon prove the benefits that have already been received. This is going on in our midst and therefore demands our support as charity which starts at home. You probably will pity these unfortunates when you read this, but pity alone will not be sufficient, something more tangible must be done.

Check Your Car - Check Your Driving - Check Accidents

THE Province of Quebec Safety League is making an all-out effort this month to ask motorists to check their cars, their driving, and their accidents. "It should not be necessary to urge any intelligent driver to have his car checked", said the Safety League's President Charles Desgroseilliers. "His own safety and the safety of everyone he meets in traffic depend on the safe operating condition of his vehicle. Even a small neglect of any item needing attention can lead to a serious accident".

This vehicle safety-check is an "action" traffic safety program to create public awareness of the need to have vehicles safety checked periodically and the importance of maintaining them in safe driving conditions. "The lives of thousands of Canadians depend on the owners to keep their vehicles in a perfect safe driving condition. One out of five motor vehicles is in need of immediate attention to one or more parts affecting safe driving condition. Take time to check around and under your vehicle", said Charles Desgroseilliers.

The best way to prevent being taken by surprise due to a sudden mechanical defect is by frequent inspections of the vehicle you are driving. "It's up to every driver to accept his responsibility for public safety and to do his part by having his vehicle safety-checked". The Province of Quebec Safety League pointed out that the success of this whole safety campaign depends upon the response of each individual driver. Today's inspection is tomorrow's protection!

GLEANER TALES

The Late Robert Sellar

Book Length Story Being Published In Serial Form

"Do tell me how I can find Hemlock?" pleaded Maggie, and the current of her thoughts thus changed, Martine insisted on learning why and how his evidence was needed, and Maggie repeated as much of the story as was necessary. The housekeeper grew interested and said decisively, "the young brave must not die". Covering her head with a blanket-like shawl, she told Maggie to follow, and stepped out. It was a calm, clear night, the glassy expanse of the lake reflecting the stars. Hurrying onwards, they passed a number of huts, until reaching one, they entered its open door. The interior was dark save for the faint glow that proceeded from the embers on the hearth. Maggie saw the forms of several asleep on the floor. Seated in silence were three men. "This woman has come to find Hemlock; can you guide her to him?"

"What seeks she with him?"

"She has come from the Chateauguay to tell him his word is wanted to save his best friend from death".

The conversation went on in the gutturals of the Iroquois for some time, when the housekeeper said to Maggie, "It is all right; they know where Hemlock is, but it would not be safe to go to him now. They will guide you to him at daybreak. Come, we will go back and you will stay with me until morning".

CHAPTER VI

HEMLOCK AT HIS DAUGHTER'S GRAVE

The rising of the housekeeper, whose bed she shared, woke Maggie, and a glance through the small window showed a faint whitening in the sky that betokened the coming of day. Knowing there was no time to spare she dressed herself quickly, and joining the housekeeper in the kitchen, asked if the messenger had come. She answered by pointing to the open door, and Maggie saw, seated on the lowest step, in silent waiting, the figure of an Indian. She was for going with him at once, but the housekeeper held her, and in a whisper, for she was fearful of disturbing her master, bade her to eat of the food she had placed on the table. Having made a hurried repast, Maggie drew her plaid over her head and turned to bid her hostess good-bye. The good soul forced into her pocket the bread that remained on the table, and kissed her on both cheeks. When Maggie came to the door, the Indian rose and without looking at her, led through the village and then past it, by a path that wound to the top of the sand-hill that hems it in on the north-east. Motioning her to stand still, the Indian crept forward as if to spy out the object of their search. Glancing around her, Maggie saw through the spruces, the Ottawa outstretched at her feet, reflecting the first rosy gleam of the approaching sun. A twitch at her shawl startled her. It was her guide, who had returned. Following him, as he slowly threaded his way through the grove of balsams and spruces, they soon came to a halt, and the Indian pointed to a black object outstretched upon the ground a few yards from them. Fear overcame Maggie, and she turned to grasp the arm of her guide — he was gone. Her commonsense came to her aid. If this was Hemlock, she had nothing to fear. Mastering her agitation she strove to discover whether the figure which the dawn dimly rendered perceptible amid the gloom of the evergreens, was really the object of her quest. Silently she peered, afraid to move a hairsbreadth, for what seemed to her to be an age. She came to see the outline of a man, naked save for a girdle fantastically fashioned out of black and white furs, stretched immovable on the sod, face downward. Suddenly a groan of anguish escaped from the lips of the prostrate man and his body swayed as if in convulsions. Her sympathies overcame her fears, and advancing, Maggie cried, "Hemlock, are you ill? Can I help you?"

With a terrific bound the figure leapt to its feet, the right arm swinging a tomahawk, and despite an effort at control, Maggie shrieked. The light was now strong enough to show the lineaments of the Indian, whose face and body were smeared with grease and soot and whose countenance wore the expression of one roused from deep emotion into sudden rage.

"Hemlock, do not look at me so; I am Maggie Forsyth, come from the Chateauguay to see you".

Instantly the face of the Indian softened. "Why should the fawn leave the groves of the Chateauguay to seek so far the lair of the lynx".

"Your friend Morton is doomed to die by the American soldiers and you alone can save him".

"What? Was he not set free? Tell me all".

(To be continued next week)

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament learned last week that the publicly-owned Canadian National Railways faces a cloudy future after incurring last year its first deficit in four years.

The $3,000,000,000 enterprise reported a 1957 deficit of $29,600,000 in its annual statement, signed by president Donald Gordon. It was the first deficit since 1954.

The report also warned of a "growing disparity" between costs and freight rates increases, less than a month after the cabinet had disallowed a freight rate increase.

Operating Surplus

The CNR had a 1957 operating surplus of $7,400,000 despite a drop in revenues and record high expenditures. But its fixed charges of $37,000,000 — mainly interest on government loans, government - held securities and bonds held by the public — turned this into the largest deficit since one of $42,000,000 in 1946.

In the previous year the CNR had a $26,000,000 surplus after paying off fixed charges. Its last previous deficit was one of $28,700,000 in 1954.

The federal treasury pays off CNR losses.

Mr. Gordon broadly implied his company could well have used its $8,000,000-a-year of the freight rate increase disallowed by the cabinet last month.

He also offered a suggestion to employees that they should accept the CNR's plan to assume sole discretion over how firemen are employed on freight and yard diesel locomotives.

The diesel issue precipitated a three-day strike by the firemen's union on the CPR early this month. The firemen won a minor concession but eventually capitulated to the company's plan to hire no more firemen for freight and yard diesel service.

Trade Deficit

A big drop in imports from the United States — which officials suggested was associated with the general economic decline — helped reduce Canada's American trade deficit in the first four months of 1958 to almost one-half of what it was a year earlier.

The deficit — which represents the surplus of imports over exports — was down to $293,300,000 from $532,500,000 in the same period last year.

Exports to the U.S. dropped by only $2,000,000 to $887,300,000 in the January-April period, while imports slumped by $242,000,000 to $1,179,600,000.

Only the bare figures on the trade shift were available last week, but officials said it appeared the big import drop was in such items as steel, machinery and equipment, usually associated with an economic boom.

Debate Unemployment

A veteran Liberal member of the Commons — George McIlraith (Ottawa West) blamed a measure of current unemployment on the Progressive Conservative government's decision not to present a budget in the last, brief Parliament.

"When the budget was withheld", he said, "business firms one by one took decisions not to proceed with various projects they had in mind".

This brought a rare interjection in the throne speech debate by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who challenged Mr. McIlraith to name companies which altered their plans. Mr. McIlraith said he could not name them, but that he was making the statement "on my personal responsibility as a member, which the honorable gentleman does not often do".

"That is meaningless", said Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. McIlraith said there had been one project of $30,000,000 and another of $1,500,000, which were "not meaningless in terms of employment".

Mr. McIlraith spoke just before the Commons voted for the first time in this Parliament on a non-confidence motion — a CCF motion which called for planned economic policies and greater foreign trade.

It was defeated 194 to 8. The huge Conservative majority was supported by 32 Liberals, who still had a non-confidence motion before the House accusing the government of seeking to divert trade from the U.S. to Britain, rather than trying to expand trade generally.

Unemployment Down

Unemployment dropped off by 74,000 in the month preceding April 19 as jobs — mainly on the farm — began to pick up with warmer weather. But the government's unemployment estimate, at 516,000, was still far ahead of the 305,000 figure in April, 1957.

However, the monthly estimate of persons with jobs rose to 5,453,000 at April 19, up 136,000 from a month earlier and slightly ahead of the 5,442,000 at the comparable date a year ago.

It was also learned that at May 8 registrations for jobs with National Employment Service had dropped to 715,000 from the 825,359 figure for April 17. The post-war high of registrations — which includes an unknown number who already hold jobs but seek others — was 883,660 for March 20.

President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress described the figures on unemployment as improved but "still alarmingly high".

Coastal Commission

The royal commision on coastal trade proposes that no major changes be made in law to give Canadian ships an advantage over competitors when the St. Lawrence Seaway opens next spring.

The commission, in its report tabled last week in the Commons, turned down a number of proposals for changes received during its three-year study.

However, it did suggest that the Canadian shipbuilding industry might get help in the form of a federal subsidy if its position is worsened by seaway traffic from countries abroad.

It also proposed that if it appeared more vessels should be kept on Canadian registry than are in prospect this might be done by direct government subsidy or by easement of taxation.

Unique Ceremony At Dorea Children's Village, Franklin

A very impressive ceremony took place at Dorea Children's Village, on Tuesday, May 13, when the new school gymnasium, presently under construction, was officially named "Maurice Richard School Gymnasium.

There were two ceremonies taking place on that day. The first one was held at the Children's Village at noon when Msgr. Percival Caza, Coadjutor of Valleyfield, welcomed a number of sport personalities including Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Richard, Dollard St. Laurent, Don Marshall, Sam Etcheverry and others as well as a number of prominent supporters of welfare societies and organizations in Montreal and vicinity. Welcoming the guests, Bishop Caza said that the principal purpose of the Dorea Village is to procure a home for homeless children through an educational formula, new and different from what is found in traditional orphanages and in most institutions devoted to homeless children.

Dorea is a pioneer institution exclusively reserved to outcast youth, to children of separated parents, to those who give had examples in their family or environment. Bishop Caza stressed that Dorea children are not, as a general rule, delinquents, and that the aim of this institution is prevention of delinquency. Rev. Gabriel M. Lussier, Dominican Father, who is president of the Dorea Children's Village, took the visitors on a tour through the Village. The visitors saw Dorea in operation and were most interested in the homes where the youngsters stay. These homes have a bedroom for two or three boys with a centre containing radio, television, etc., all in all the comforts of a real home. Following the tour the delegates went back to Montreal where official ceremony for the dedication of the Maurice Richard Gymnasium took place in the auditorium of Dow Brewery.

Currently a campaign for funds to complete the school gymnasium is under way. It is estimated the $250,000 will be required to finish the building. Joint campaign chairmen of the campaign are Col. W. E. Morgan, O.B.E., M.C. and Maurice "Rocket" Richard. Col. Morgan spoke for some time on the need for these funds to complete this very important building for the Village. In the course of his speech, he said that this is the first time in the history of the Province of Quebec that a building had been officially dedicated to one of the Province's athletes and will bear his name and in this case, Maurice Richard. He then gave a brief history of the Village and its objectives and aims of the institution. Dorea covers an area of 600 acres and comprises a chapel, modern farm buildings and cottages housing 15 children each. When completed, the Village will be in a position to accommodate close to 200 pupils. At the present time there are approximately 85 children living there but close to 200 come under its protection. A greater part of the pupils come from Montreal but more and more children are coming from other parts of the province.

Other speakers at the dedication ceremonies were the Hon. Jean Barrette, M.P.P. and Gen. George Vanier, D.S.O., M.C.

Grade VII Assembly

On the morning of May 16th, Grades 7 to 11 assembled in the gym to participate in an assembly led by Miss Pringle's Grade Seven. The theme of this assembly was Empire and Citizenship Day.

Jamie Wallace who acted as Master of Ceremonies announced that we would stand and sing "O Canada", followed by a prayer led by Dorothy Forget. We then sang "All People That On Earth Do Dwell" and Allison Liversidge read Psalm 95. Grade Seven presented two musical selections accompanied on the piano by Mr. Yates.

Jamie Wallace announced that we would celebrate Empire and Citizenship Day. Linda Dahms gave us an idea of the meaning of the British Commonwealth of Nations and explained our part in it. Various people represented various member nations with Kathleen Reid as representative of the Queen. They were as follows: Karen Evans, Canada; Shirley Graham, Australia; George Bell, New Zealand; Harold Kelly, South Africa; Charlene Faille, India; Anne Steele, Pakistan; Shirley Middlemiss, Ceylon; Barbara Foers, Ghana. Karen Evans explained the meaning of being a Canadian Citizen. The following represented some of our Canadian Citizens — Dawn Henderson, British who came to Canada who are Canadian citizens now; Shirley Stirling, our forefathers; Carolyn French, Immigrants coming to Canada; Jo Ann Helm, Indians who live in Canada. Grade Seven stood and repeated the Oath of Canadian Citizenship.

Shirley Caldwell led in prayer followed by the Lord's Prayer. Dr. Willis wished us a good holiday and Jamie Wallace announced the closing hymn, "Glory Be To God The Father", followed by "God Save the Queen", after which the classes filed out in their usual order. Miss Pringle and Grade Seven are to be congratulated on their work in the preparing of this assembly.

Track Meet—

On the afternoon of Wednesday, May 21st, grades 3 to 11 of Huntingdon High School will have competed in their annual track meet. The winners of this vent will participate in the county meet which will be held in Huntingdon this year on the 31st of this month.

Grade 111 Assembly

On Friday, Mrs. Frier's Grade Three presented an assembly with Empire and Citizenship Day as the theme. The assembly was opened with everyone singing "Land of the Lands". The Call to Worship was given by Douglas Hunter, followed by John Leggatt leading in prayer. Grade 3A sang "Brighten The Corner Where You Are". Julie Rottensten then read the 95th Psalm. After everyone sang "Come to the Saviour", four girls of Grade 3 recited "Colours of the Flag". The presiding class sang "Pass Me Not".

Since 1951 Empire and Citizenship Day have been observed as a joint ceremony. To celebrate the occasion Grade 3A held an interesting discussion on the subject. Dr. Willis then said a few words followed by the singing of "O Canada" and "God Save The Queen".

Chateauguay Park

CHATEAUGUAY PARK — Mr. and Mrs. Tom McKean, 32 Park Ave., were out bright and early at Dorval Airport on May 17th to greet Mr. McKean's mother, Mrs. Mathew McKean of Barrhead, Scotland. Before flying, Mrs. McKean was presented with a purse and bouquet of flowers by the ladies of Dovecot Hall Co-op. Woman's Guild. Her husband will join her on July 18th. The girls in the office of Holmes and Allan of Glasgow, Scotland, presented Mr. Mathew McKean with a delightful corsage of white heather, silver ribbons and candies decorated with white ribbons to be presented to his wife, wishing her "Happy Landings". We also hope both, will have an enjoyable holiday before they leave for home on 29th Aug.

Vegetable Production On The Acid Peat Soils

Ottawa — The organic soils, (marsh, bog, peat) many of which in the past have been classified as waste land, have become very important as knowledge necessary to produce crops on these soils increases. Surveys made in Ontario and Quebec show clearly that large acreages of these organic soil deposits are close to the large centres of population and, therefore, ideal for vegetable crop production.

In Eastern Canada numerous marshes and bogs have been drained for production of agricultural crops. There are other extensive organic soil areas that could be reclaimed at a reasonable cost. Acid dome bogs with low vegetation can be drained, cleared, limed, ploughed and prepared for seeding at a cost of less than one hundred dollars per acre. This, coupled with the low initial cost of this land, means that land ready for fertilizing and seeding is relatively cheap. However, the cost may be considerably higher for marshland with dense vegetation.

During the past two or three years the development of acid dome bogs in Ontario and Quebec has become very important. Companies working closely with retail stores and operating year round packaging plants are developing large areas of acid peat land. At the present time the potential under development is approximately 15,000 acres in Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec. This land will vary from moderately to strongly acid in reaction and has very low major nutrient mineral levels and deficiency levels of boron and copper. It is apparent, therefore, that as well as normal commercial fertilizers and minor elements, considerable quantities of lime will be necessary for satisfactory production.

While the initial fertility of these soils may be very low the development problems are much greater on the acid peat bogs because of the high lime requirement for satisfactory growth. Depending upon the crop grown the quantity of lime necessary for satisfactory production varies from 3 to 9 tons per acre.

Studies indicate that hydrated lime can be used for quick response on some of the organic soil crops, particularly onions and carrots. Results indicate that on these soils, potatoes, onions and carrots respond quite favorably to one ton per acre of 5-10-15 fertilizer the first year of production, if sufficient limestone has been applied. Because of the slow initial conversion of nitrogen in the first years of production on these soils it was found necessary to supply a higher percentage of nitrogen as in the 5-10-15 formulation. For most crops it was found necessary to supply boron at rates varying from 20 to 40 pounds and copper at rates from 40 to 100 pounds per acre.

While there are many problems still to be answered in the development of the semi-decomposed acid peats indications are that if handled properly they may well be of major importance in the intensive production of certain horticultural root and leafy vegetables.

Mother's Day Entertainment At St. Romans

HEMMINGFORD — An interesting program was held at St. Roman's Hall, in honor of Mother's Day. Mrs. Abram was chosen to represent all the mothers and was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red roses by Ghislaine Pomminville. The Principal, Mr. Julien Bertrand gave an address of welcome. Chants, recitations, songs, short plays, made up the portion of the program that was in French.

The English section welcome and introduction were given by Mary Hebert and Alan McKough. The first part of the entertainment was acted by Grades 1 and 2 pupils and showed mothers in "Grandmother's Day", "The Schoolgirl", Nancy Furtenbaker; "The Bride and Groom", Lorraine Fortin and Donald Tobin with "Bridesmaid and Best Man", Carol Hawkins and Harvey Dauphinais. "Flower Girls", Alice Robert and Christine Braun. "Mother", Diane Gosser. "Grandmother", Anita Vaillancourt. The second part grades 3, 4 and 5 showed mothers and those who took the part as mothers in various walks of life in this modern age. "The Modern Mother", Sheila Kirnan; "The Little Girl mothering her doll", Christine Braun. "The School Teacher", Dorothy Tobin. "The Nurse", Cynthia McKough. "Grandmother", Janet Lussier and finally "Mother", who is a shining example to us all, the blessed virgin Mary, nursing the child Jesus, portrayed by Dorothy Maynard; 2 kneeling angels, Dorothy Lussier and Diane Hebert, and eight boys robed as altar boys and carrying tall white candles.

All twenty-six children taking part were dressed in costumes appropriate to their part and complete with accessories. Each tableau was introduced and verse to each mother was ably read by the reader, Donna Kelly. Appropriate music to accompany each scene was arranged and played by Mrs. L'Esperance and during the showing of the last tableau, Miss Joan David gave a beautiful rendition of Gounod's "Ave Maria". The choir of 35 voices was trained by the principal and Mrs. J. L'Esperance. The songs were new and interesting and brought much applause.

In the course of his speech, Canon Grondin paid special tribute to the singing. He spoke of the value of singing in the schools and hoped there would be more taught.

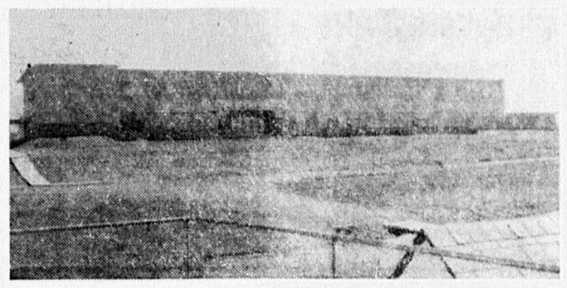
BACKGROUND OF FOREMEN'S CLUBS

The Foremen's Club movement, started in the United States in 1912, owes it's existence in Canada to the enthusiasm of a small group of industrial foremen meeting in Toronto in 1939 to discuss with the Y.M.C.A. the problems of foremanship. A community type Foremen's Club was organized, being sponsored and affiliated with the local Y.M.C.A.

As the organization grew and proved it's value other clubs were organized in the principal cities of Ontario and Quebec. To co-ordinate club activities a national body, known as the Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs was developed in 1943. This is an organization of representatives of member clubs

SCHOOL GYMNASIUM "MAURICE RICHARD" AT DOREA



On Tuesday, May 13, the Maurice Richard School Gymnasium at Dorea, Franklin Centre was officially opened. The important ceremony was attended by Mgr Percival Caza and Maurice Richard who presided. club movement in Canada. This Canadian Council works with the Industrial Program Section of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A.'s of Canada.

The primary purpose of this club was Supervisory Training and the promotion of better human relations in industry. A club statement of purpose is indicative of the basic objectives of the foremen's club movement in Canada.

"The purpose of this Club is to assemble men from industry, who, having common interests seek to attain through association and usefulness the following objectives :

1 — To keep its members in touch with the best thought on supervisory management and allied subjects;

2 — To provide opportunity for the exchange of ideas and discussions of industrial problems;

3 — To build character and good will in industry by a recognition of the human element and by promoting a program of mutual service.

THE VALUES OF A FOREMEN'S CLUB

These are some of the things Foremen's Clubs do for supervisors in Canadian industry :

1 — Develop qualities of leadership in foremen and others holding supervisory positions.

2 — Train foremen for positions of greater responsibility

3 — Present an enlightened view of foremen's responsibilities

4 — Promote high ideals in industrial life

5 — Exalt and dignify community attitudes towards industry and its workers

6 — Help foremen to interpret simply and correctly to workers some fundamentals of practical business economics

7 — Aid foremen to analyse their jobs for better results

8 — Emphasize the importance of dispensing supervisory justice

9 — Help their members to secure a better understanding of human relationships

10 — Aid in the promotion of health and accident prevention work — in the home, in the community, in the schools, on the highway, and in industry

11 — Teach the foreman how to win the confidence of those he supervises

12 — Advocate a well-rounded program of life for their members — spiritually, mentally and physically

13 — Teach good citizenship

14 — Enlist all types of industrial workers in definite community and industrial services

15 — Create a more wholesome relationship between foremen and executives of different plants.

16 — Give their members valuable contacts with industrial leaders, speakers on industrial subjects, and the like

17 — Teach the foreman to see the plant as a whole and his place in it

18 — Emphasize better co-operation in the industry of which the members are a part — foremen with management, foremen with foremen and foremen with workers

19 — Enlighten their members problems and difficulties facing the "new" employee and reveal methods by which he can be helped to adjust to a strange environment.

20 — Afford opportunities for wholesome recreation

21 — Help young people visualize the benefits to be gained by entering various phases of industrial work.

22 — Teach members how to help young people employed in industry to get a clearer understanding of the problems of life, and how to achieve success in industry.

23 — Enrich the lives of those who share in the direction and activities of the club.

Short Notes

A. The poorest time to purchase a cow is when she is springing or fresh. Normal swelling of the udder at that time makes it almost impossible to detect old, chronic mastitis lesions that may be present.

B. A shortage of copper in the ration will cause a marked decrease in a sheep's wool production.

C. Sudden and prolonged sneezing in the swine herd could be the warning of a serious swine disease—infections atrophic rhinitis.

D. Dogs suffering from diabetes may now receive regular insulin injections enabling them to live in comfort and reasonable wellbeing.

E. The use of barium sulfate, given to dogs under anesthesia by means of a stomach pump, is helpful to veterinarians in making more accurate X-ray diagnosis of problems in the dog's digestive tract.

F. Because of the added requirements for growth, puppies require more calories per unit of weight that do mature dogs.

G. The Canadian Veterinary Medical Association advises livestockmen that calling a veterinarian early is more satisfactory for all concerned when animals or poultry are sick.

It will take fewer drugs in many cases, thus reducing the expenses ;the drugs can work better as there is less tissue damage; and the net result is a quicker recovery from the disease.

Burnside on T.V.

It was probably the first of its kind, anyway the featuring by C.B.C. on its Country Calendar, on Sunday afternoon, May 25, of Burnside and Woodside Farms, Howick, was an unique honour that was accorded the firm of R. R. Ness & Sons.

We are not aware of the correct terms attendant on such showings, but while the newspaper listing described it as being by "remote control", it was what we believe is called a "live production". In that respect a special, temporary tower had to be erected. The interviews and dialogues, so to speak, were stage managed by Johnnie Moles, C.B.C.'s T.V. Farm Commentator, Toronto, and two other C.B.C.'s T.V. Commentators from Montreal.

Interesting Programme

Scenically and otherwise, and as apart from one's livestock leanings, it was one of the most interesting productions of its kind we have ever seen.

Despite the rainy condition of the weather the panoramic views, including sections of the district and Burnside Farm, were very clear indeed. The programme opened with a panoramic view of Burnside and Woodside houses and steadings and their environs, and with, in the background, the former Bernice Ness, now Mrs. Ross, and Andy Ness on their ponies en route from Burnside to Woodside.

The hostesses of Burnside, Mrs. Mitchell Ness, and of Woodside, Mrs. Douglas Ness, were interviewed. The latter quite extensively and interestingly in her house and gardens — about the display of trophies and curios, her delftware collection of miniature cows, African Violets, and garden flowers.

Stage managing the livestock end in a most interesting way was Douglas A. Ness with his introductions of his brothers and descriptions of the cattle included in the parade. Leading the parade was Chris Ness, son of A. Mitchell Ness, and a 16 year old cow, which Douglas Ness said was herself classified "Excellent", and was the dam of three "Excellent" cows, granddam of three "Excellent" cows. Also singled out were three "Excellent" cows — the well-known Burnside Appreciation and her paternal sisters, Burnside Amethest and Burnside Apple Blossom.

Also Interviewed

The Chief of the Clan, the Hon. R. R. Ness, now 86 years of age, was also interviewed. He recalled that he was brought up at Woodside in a Clydesdale horse environment, but that in 1893 he moved across to Burnside to establish the Burnside Ayrshire herd. Asked for his opinion about the success of his four sons as farmers and livestock men, he said, in part "Environment and a good mother", in that respect he paid tribute to the late Mrs. R. R. Ness.

Also interviewed, in turn, were R. R.'s three other sons:

A. Mitchell Ness as Farm Manager of Burnside Farm of R. R. Ness & Sons, who said that his chief job was providing feed for the 150 head or so of cattle that comprise the Ayrshire herd. That is the roughage (including some 150 tons of hay), grain and silage, with only the protein feeds being purchased.

J. Earle Ness, the eldest son, one of the original members of the firm of R. R. Ness & Sons, but on his own, so to speak, for a great many years as owner of the 300 acre Terrace Bank Farm. He modestly attributed a goodly share of his present success to his son and partner R. ("Bobbie") Ness. The latter an outstanding member of the Howick Ayrshire Calf Club until he was 21 years of age, subsequently Assistant Club Leader for 3 years, and now, for several years Club Leader. Incidentally, he said that the 4-H Howick Ayrshire Club is presently comprised of 30 members — 3 girls and 27 boys.

R. Bruce Ness, also one of the original members of the firm of R. R. Ness & Sons, now for a great many years owner (with his sons) of Burness Farm with its 540 acres and its herd of 130 purebred Ayrshires. Asked about his other operations, he mentioned amongst same Feed and Machinery Agencies, Agricultural and Livestock Transportation.

It was indeed a most interesting half hour, inadequately reported in this column.

Also on T.V.

Leon A. Beaudin, Agronome, Quebec Department of Agriculture, Huntingdon, has been invited to appear, in Toronto, in C.B.C.'s Country Calendar, on Sunday, June 8. The programme will be "Specialized Methods of Summer Cattle Feeding".

Leon Beaudin's theme will be the "three meals'-a-day method" which has been so successful in connection with his pasture experiments in Huntingdon County.

Howick United Siloski C.G.I.T.

A meeting of the Siloki C.G.I.T. was held at the home of Vicky Wolodarsky on Monday evening, May 5, 1958.

17 members answered the roll-call by naming the country they would most like to visit. Beverly Smith lead in devotionals. It was decided that the group would sell candy at the "Springtime Review" which will be presented by the Speirs-Miller Dance School in Howick High School on May 31, 1958. Girls planning to attend camp were given registration forms. Re-affiliation with the W.M.S. was set for May 20. Beverly Smith moved and Jean Kerr seconded that we give $10.00 to W.M.S. for Girls High Schools in Japan. Possibilities of having a hike or a trip to Mrs. E. Smith's cottage after June exams were discussed but no decision was reached. The second annual report was filled in.

After a short sing-song Mrs. Wolodarsky served a delicious turkey supper. Margaret McKell read the mission study about Japan. Janet MacFarlane moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Wolodarsky for her hospitality.

Dry Cleaners Benefit From Laboratory Advice

A dry cleaner must be on his toes these days. New textile fibres, new fabric blends, new ways of treating the old familiar fabrics, all mean the dry cleaner must constantly adapt his techniques to keep up with the clothing Canadians are wearing.

That's why he so frequently seeks the expert advice of an organization in Ottawa called the Canadian Research Institute of Launderers and Dry Cleaners. Supported by its membership of cleaners, launderers, textile manufacturers and institutions which have their own launderies, its job is solving cleaning problems.

When new clothing materials are introduced, the Institute's laboratory works out the best cleaning method and reports to members as quickly as possible. Monthly bulletins keep members up-to-date on all new developments affecting their business. Articles damaged in cleaning are sent to the Institute and a full report on the cause of damage is returned.

Usually it's not the cleaner's fault when garments are damaged, claim the people at the Institute. They regularly receive clothes with inferior dyes which have faded when in contact with cleaning solvent. Cold wave solution used in permanents also creates problems for the dry cleaner. When this solution drops on clothing it isn't always noticeable. But as soon as the cleaning solvent touches the spot, it immediately becomes evident.

Frequent trouble-makers are window drapes which have been standing for a long time exposed to sunlight. They appear in good condition when sent to the cleaners but when the cleaning solvent is used on them the fibres, weakened by sun and dust, finally break. This isn't the cleaner's fault but he has often been blamed for it.

Not all the work in the Institute's lab is devoted to articles damaged in cleaning. Various types of cleaning solvents are also tested to see if they bear out the manufacturer's claims. Dry cleaners can be guided by the results of these tests.

The Canadian Research Institute has been operating almost a quarter of a century now. It started as a separate lab at the National Research Council in Ottawa to handle problems of cleaners and launderers. Before long it became too big an undertaking to be conducted at the N.R.C. and in 1935 the Canadian Research Institute was formed to replace the lab.

Solving problems is the business of the Institute. Through its efforts and the co-operation of members, better dry cleaning is being made possible.

The annual meeting of the Howick district branch of the Bible Society was held in Howick United Church, on Sunday, May 18th, at 8.15, Mr. W. H. Brady presiding.

Rev. J. Evans read a portion of Matthew 5 as the Scripture reading followed by prayer by Rev. W. Brown.

The Choir favored with the selection, "There Is Room In My Heart For Thee".

Mr. Brady welcomed the new district secretary, Rev. T. C. Jones.

A film in color produced by the British and Foreign Bible Society entitled, "For every man was shown". Rev. Jones spoke briefly after the pictures and related the events concerning his coming to Quebec from England. He also asked every one to support the work of the Bible Society and if at all possible to double their efforts as more money was very badly needed. After the singing of a hymn, Rev. Evans thanked the speaker and also all those who had come to the meeting. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Jones.

The business part of the meeting resulted in Mr. W. W. Elliott being elected as President, Rev. Evans as Vice-President. Mrs. Andrew Tolhurst and Mrs. Janet Reddick re-elected as Treasurer and Secretary.

In the absence of Mrs. A. Tolhurst through illness Mrs. R. Tolhurst reported $295.20 had been collected and sent to the Montreal office. A very gracious thank you is extended to all those who collected. The offering amounted to $20.31.

The next meeting will be held in Riverfield Presbyterian Church.

Takes Complete Supply Silver Dollars From Bank of Canada

A temporary clean-out of the entire stock of 1958 silver dollars held by the Bank of Canada in Ottawa is helping a Quebec company to celebrate its silver anniversary.

Champlain Oil Products Ltd., of Montreal, plans to distribute the shiny new dollars in change given at its retail outlets in Quebec and Eastern Ontario during the Company's Silver Anniversary celebrations, May 17th to June 14th.

"We needed 70,000 silver dollars to ensure the success of our program," said R. L. Dunsmore, President of the Company. "In order to obtain this amount we actually took the complete supply available at the Bank of Canada at that time. The co-operation of the Bank of Canada and the Royal Bank," he added, "has made possible this feature of our anniversary program."

Besides distributing the silver dollars in change given to the public, the Company is sponsoring an automobile contest to mark the anniversary.

Canada's textile industry currently holds only 52 percent of the domestic market compared with 72 percent prior to the Second World War.

Addition To School At Franklin Means Much To The Community

A new addition to Franklin Consolidated School has just been completed and officially declared open, at Franklin Centre. Along with many other such institutions, this school has been suffering from growing pains over the past several years and new additions in the way of classrooms have been made from time to time.

The main building is wood construction having been bought in 1943 and two class rooms were furnished to accommodate the 60 pupils. About every two or three years since that time other classrooms have been added or remodelled, until the present addition. The new structure is made of cement blocks on the outside and stucco. Iusulation has been placed on the inside and the outside measurements are 50 by 88 feet. There is no basement for this addition, but there is a basement in the old building which houses the heating plant for the whole. The heating system has been extended to furnish the additional heating requirements for the enlarged school. The addition gives a new classroom and an auditorium — the classroom being 23 by 33 feet and the auditorium, 36 by 50 feet. The ceiling construction is of open bar joists.

The new classroom is on very modern lines being well lighted with windows on one side and the decoration is in the new light colors used extensively in modern schools. Blackboards are along the wall opposite the windows and also at one end. At the other end are cupboards and shelves for storage purposes. At the end where the blackboard is, there is la large counter and sink for experimental work in chemistry and kindred subjects. Plenty of storage space is also available beneath this counter through draws and cupboards. The floor is tiled and artificial lighting is obtained through the use of fluorescent fixtures. Other finishes are in light woodwork and varnished.

The auditorium is small compared to some schools in the area, but nevertheless has been well planned and will provide a splendid place for community gatherings as well as school assemblies. A large stage is at one end and almost across the entire width. It has good depth and is well lighted on one side by windows. Artificial lighting also is very effective. The interior is lined with plywood panels which are in light finish and varnished. The floor which is raised above the level of the auditorium itself, is tiled. A wide doorway with a short flight of stairs leads to the other part of the school and to several clockrooms. The main auditorium is finished in much the same way and the floor is tiled. On one side there is a kitchen with all equipment and lavatories for boys and girls. Another large doorway leads to the outside. A spare room is also provided at the opposite end of the hall. The whole is well lighted by windows and in this case, the windows have heavy wire screens to prevent breakage while games might be in progress. Wire baskets enclose the artificial lighting overhead and there are a sufficient number to give a well lighted hall after dark.

Plumbing and heating work was done by Laberge and Lalonde of Huntingdon and the electrical work by F. W. Weirick, of Hemmingford. W. Keddy and Sons Ltd., of Hemmingford were the general contractors.

The addition gives five classrooms, a principal's office and more cloakroom space.

Up to grade 10 is taught and there is an enrolment of 116 pupils and a staff of five teachers including the principal. The whole is quite compact and plenty of exits are available. It is possible to enter and leave the auditorium without going into any of the classrooms, thus the main school can be shut off. It is an achievement of which the taxpayers can be proud and the Board can be complimented upon. The approximate cost was $48,000 and of this amount the Provincial Government made a grant of 75%.

A Constant Dollar

Because the Canadian dollar is the accepted measuring stick by which we measure all material values, and because the law requires us to accept it at its face value in payment of debt, and because the incomes of nearly all our people, and the savings of the majority of us, are all defined in stated numbers of dollars, we hold that it is the duty of the government to maintain the value of that dollar at a constant level; and that no government should take any action or adopt any policy that would have an unfavorable effect on that value.

For these reasons, when another election comes around, we will judge the government's record by its success or failure to maintain the value of our dollar. — The Rural Scene.

Man Found Dead In His Camp At Leblanc's Point

Mr. E.J. Novak, 63 year old resident of St. Anicet, was found dead in his summer camp at Leblanc's Point late Friday evening, May 23. He left his home about 2 P.M. telling his wife he would be home about six o'clock. When he did not return she became anxious but, being an arthritic patient, could not go outside to call help. As the house has no telephone, she did what she could to attract attention by turning on outdoor lights and signalling with a flashlight at a window. Her distress signal was finally seen at about 9.30 by Mr. George McPherson who lives on the neighbouring farm. He drove over hurriedly and when told that his friend Eddie had not returned, drove immediately to the camp at the Point. Getting Mr. Burrows and Mr. Higgins, who also have summer camps at the resort to go with him, they entered the Novak camp where they found its owner slumped and lifeless on a divan in the dining room. Dr. G. Lefebvre, coroner, and Det. F. Wilmot were called, also the ambulance. Both the coroner and Det. Wilmot decided that death had been due to natural causes for he had been dead several hours. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Wm. Wray on Mountain St. in Montreal.

Funeral services were held in Montreal on Monday afternoon, May 26 at 3 p.m. Messrs. George McPherson, Carl Stowell, Willie Smellie, Norman McPhee, Robert Castagner and Albert Latreille motored down to be present for the last rites. Mr. Novak leaves his wife, two sisters and a brother. He was a retired fur specialist, who worked a long time at Holt-Renfrew furriers in Montreal. The Novaks moved to St. Anicet in 1947 and purchased the former McPherson farm from Mrs. Thomas Woods. He and George McPherson built considerable of the road to Leblanc's Point, which he later sold to Hubert Leblanc, who finished the work and opened up the resort. Mr. Novak's parents were from Czechoslovakia but he was born in New York City. He and his wife have been spending the last number of winters in Florida as Mrs. Novak found the Canadian climate too vigorous. Mr. Novak was a good neighbour, always ready to tender a hand to anyone needing help and will be missed by those who knew him.

Installation Ceremony Officers of St. Lawrence Valley Foremen's Club

The installation ceremony of the 1958-1959 officers of The Upper St. Lawrence Valley Foremen's Club was held at the Chateau Salaberry, in Valleyfield on Thursday, May 22nd, 1958.

Mr. William Edward Ryan, President, of The Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs officiated and also presented the clubs' charter to the local president Omer J. Langlais. Mr. Ryan in conducting the ceremony said the officers were willingly accepting leadership responsibilities and counselled them to conduct the activities of the club in such a fashion so that they will reflect favourably on all club members; the firms they represent and the sponsoring body, The Canadian Council of Foremen's Clubs which is affiliated with the young Men's Christian Association on the national level. Mr. Ryan further informed the officers to provide the members with a program that will be designed to help foremen understand supervisory responsibilities and their administration and to develop Christian qualities of personality and character.

In his concluding instruction to the officers he said "you will at all times place the good of the club above selfish or sectional interests, affirming always the importance of the individual and his growth, integrating you members into a close companionship which will result in an Esprit de Corps for the good of the club and the community". He then called on the remaining club members and charged them to take an active interest in the operation of the club which would rise or fall, like other democratic institutions, to the degree that they, as members, accepted their responsibility of giving the officers their wholehearted support.

The officers for 1958—1959 are:—President, Omer J. Langlais; 1st Vice President, Irwin A. White; 2nd Vice President, Gunar Oleson; Secretary, John Nettel; Treasurer, Marcel Roy and Representative to Canadian Council, Aloise Firek.

His worship, Mayor Louis Quevillion extended the official good wishes and message of welcome on behalf of the City of Valleyfield and said he was happy that Valleyfield had become the third city in the Province of Quebec to become the home of a Foremen's Club.

The special Ladies Night Luncheon attended by more than 100 persons, was highlighted by the principal speaker of the evening, Mr. A. C. Wilkinson, Sales Promotion Manager of Electrolux (Canada) Limited—whose topic was "The Fitly Spoken Word"
