yes, I am free to say
It always was the biggest fish
I caught that got away.

Grade XI's Trip To New York City

Amid the clamour of lusty cheers and good wishes from Huntingdon High patriots, Grade Eleven merrily boarded the bus for New York City on May 1. The dream which had long been planned had become a reality.

After several stops and a pleasant trip, we arrived at the Shelton Towers Hotel on Lexington Ave. and 49th St. at 8.30 P.M. After checking in, we window shopped along Lexington Avenue.

Following a brisk walk to the United Nations Building, on Friday morning, we attended a meeting of the Social and Economic Council. Five of our group were present at a meeting of the Security Council when the Council was faced with a decision on the question of inspection in the Arctic. The Canadian delegate holding the chair of President, heard from the Swedish, American, United Kingdom, and Russian Delegates who expressed their thoughts on the matter. After this interesting meeting, we enjoyed a guided tour through the United Nations' Buildings. The entrance doors to the General Assembly were made from nickel given by Northern Canada. After a delightful dinner in the cafeteria we progressed to the Rockefeller Centre. From the observation roof, we received an excellent view of sky scrapers, milling crowds, the greenery of Central Park and the Hudson and East Rivers.

In the evening, we attended a preview of a new NBC television program, "ESP"—(Extra Sensory Perception). We hobbled down Times Square, but soon forgot our blistered feet as we confronted the blaze of blinking lights. We all fell into bed exhausted but filled with happy memories.

On Saturday morning, we drowsily raised our heads above the covers to gaze at a dull and drissly day. However, our spirits were not dampened as we boarded a special sight seeing bus. Each of us peered through the mist at the well known points of interest. How thrilling to ride in a comfortable bus and gaze at the sights which we had heard about all our lives. We stopped in China Town and literally invaded a small souvenir shop where we purchased many novel souvenirs.

The Bowery was of interest to most to us and also Wall Street, the famous financial section. Our tour of the largest Cathedral in the world, St. John the Divine, was especially impressive . We felt very small and insignificant as we gazed at the magnificent altar, stained glass windows and pillars. We heard the story of the Little Church Around the Corner as we passed this famous landmark. We all enjoyed a breath of fresh sea breeze as we stopped to see the Statue of Liberty and Governor's Island. Central Park seemed a very unusual contrast to the gigantic sky scrappers with its apple blossoms, fountains, weeping willows and rock gardens. Grant's tomb was extremely massive and we certainly would not have guessed what is was if we had not been informed. We were impressed with the famous New York Institution—Columbia University. Blocks and blocks of quaint red brick buildings seemed to contribute most of it. The famous Brooklyn Bridge and Naval Yards aroused our interest. We were intrigued with the gigantic Empire State Building and Belleview Hospital. The tour came to an abrupt end as we piled out of the bus at the American Museum of Natural History. We were moved by the presentation of astronomy in the Heyden Planatarium as the brilliant stars were reflected on black depths of ceiling. The Museum of Natural History was very realistic and many of us snapped a few pictures of the large African animals. We quickly hopped aboard a subway to 5th Avenue, where we had our first shopping spree.

Six o'clock on Saturday night found us on our way to Radio City, where we heard the Radio City Symphony play two enjoyable numbers. We then saw a stage show consisting of songs and dances of Spain. The costumes and music were especially beautiful. This show was high-lighted by "Bolero". Later on we enjoyed the dramatic movie of a young girl,, Marjorie Morningstar. Chance caused us to meet the Grade Eleven Class of Hemmingford, who had also journeyed to New York for the week-end. Since it was our final night in the big city, and no one wanted to go to bed very early, the girls and chaperones gathered in one of the rooms for a pyjama party.

Early Sunday morning, we arose and boarded the bus for home returning by way of Plattsburg, Ausable Chasm and through Herdman customs. We arrived in town at eight o'clock, cheering lustily for the chaperones and the bus driver.

Last October we discussed the subject of a trip to New York City. Discovering we would require over eight hundred dollars, we immediately began sponsoring dances, suppers, and school lunches. We were very fortunate in receiving a donation of one hundred dollars from our Students' Council and also generous support from local citizens who purchased tickets to our functions and offered loyal support in all our activities. The overall proceeds were seven hundred and eighty dollars. We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all those who helped to make our trip a reality.

The students of Grade Eleven would like to take this opportunity to express most sincere appreciation to Miss Pryde and Miss Smith for their kindness in accompanying the class on this memorable occasion.

Golden Anniversary Exhibit At Braithwaite Bros. Store Most Successful Week Long Event

A very successful demonstration of General Electric Appliances took place in Grove Hall, Huntingdon, from May 5th to May 10th. This event was sponsored by the Canadian General Electric Company, the Shawinigan Water and Power Company and Braithwaite Bros., who are this year celebrating their 50th year in business in Huntingdon.

Miss Hugette Goyer, Home Economist of the Shawinigan Water & Power Company, was present each afternoon to demonstrate the G.E. Range, Freezer, Automatic Washer and Dryer; also the G.E. Small Appliances. Miss Goyer's demonstration Friday afternoon on how to freeze meats, cakes, fruits and vegetables was most interesting. The interest in how to freeze foods correctly is so great that Braithwaite Bros. hope to be able to sponsor another demonstration on this topic in the near future.

Miss Marilyn Roberts had the most invitations returned and thus had her choice of a bicycle, record player or radio. She chose the General Electric Portable Radio. Because she won, her Mother, Mrs. Roberts, also won a G.E. Iron.

The other entrants in the contest received a long playing record of their choice.

During the course of the week, several dozen bags of groceries, donated by the Shawinigan Water and Power Company, were won by those ladies attending the demonstrations and by those people who visited the exhibit at other times.

Saturday morning, Mrs. Mae O'Connor, representing the Ladies Auxiliary of the Huntingdon County Hospital and Miss Hugette Goyer, Home Economist of the Shawinigan Water and Power Company, judged the cakes. The winners were as follows:

1—Golden Anniversry Cake: Mrs. Sidney Smith.

2—Iced Cake: Mrs. J. R. MacDonald.

3— Plain Cake (not iced): Mrs. Kay Williams.

Mrs. Smith chose the G.E. Kettle; Mrs. MacDonald, the G.E Mixer and Mrs. Williams won the G.E. Iron. Each of the other contestants received a cup and saucer.

The ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary could have sold many more cakes. The supply fell far short of the demand.

Friday afternoon, a name was drawn by Mr. Camille Simard of the Shawinigan Water and Power Company for the winner of the G.E. Kettle donated by the Shawinigan Water and Power Company. The lucky lady was Mrs. Orville Goodfellow. Afternoon tea was served each day.

In Support of Newly-elected M.P.

MERRIL BARRINGTON, M.P.

There were sixty-seven supporters from Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie constituency at Ottawa, on Monday for the opening of Parliament and to see their newly elected member installed in office. Among the group were several Mayors of municipalities and towns of the constituency. It was the largest group of supporters for any member there. Such a display should show confidence in the new member and make him feel that he has the support of the electorate behind him in all that he does.

Local High School Student Attending "Adventure In Citizenship" In Ottawa

Jean-Guy Lessard is now enjoying an "Adventure in Citizenship" which features four concentrated days in Canada's capital May 12-15 learning how the nation is governed.

195 other selected students from throughout the country are participating in the project which is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Ottawa. The Rotary Club of Huntingdon has looked after transportation and registration expenses. About two-thirds of the Canadian Rotary Clubs responded to the invitation to send a leading "all round" student for the Adventure.

While in Ottawa the boys and girls will see the procession for the Opening of Parliament on May 12th and later tour the Parliament Buildings where they will receive Canadian Citizenship Certificates from Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Other visits will include Government House (Governor General Massey's residence), the National Museum, the National Gallery and a detailed tour of the R.C.M.P. barracks and crime laboratories. Students will attend a series of lectures on government and political science at Carleton University and be shown both the present and future National Capital by the Federal District Commission.

Students were selected on the basis of scholastic standing, participation in school activities and ability in public speaking. After their Adventure in Citizenship in Ottawa is over they are scheduled to describe their experiences and impressions to the hometown Club.

Boy Scout Fund Still Short Of Objective

The fund for the Huntingdon Boy Scouts is still open and the objective is still $200.00 short. To date an amount of $301. has been contributed to this very worthwhile and local cause which should merit your best support. This movement is doing good work among our young boys and the leaders and committee give of their time without cost throughout the entire year. The money is needed to provide the fees for headquarters and to provide equipment and running expenses locally. The boys themselves contribute fees each meeting and also sponsor events to raise money needed. The adults should be able to make up the small amount still needed and the committee hopes that this will be forthcoming. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Rupert Hawley, Huntingdon.

Following is a list of contributors since the last one was published several weeks ago:

$5. — Miss Elsie Elder, Dr. J. S. Gaw, Huntingdon Motors Reg'd., A. Martin, Mrs. Ruby Munro, R. McArthur, D. J. McGerrigle, W. R. Wilson, G. W. Thompson.

Red Cross Campaign Slowly Nearing Objective

Contributions to the Red Cross Campaign in Huntingdon area are showing much improvement as an amount of $1,555.91 is reported collected to date. The objective has been set at a minimum of $2,000.00 for this area and if the contributions continue to come in as they have in the past week, it will no doubt be reached. People of Huntingdon are proud of their record in the matter of support for the various calls made upon them and it would be a shame to have any one of them spoiled. The committee feels sure that the next report will see the objective reached and perhaps passed. The campaign is running past the time allotted, so it is imperative that all canvassers get in their reports at the earliest possible moment.

Following is the list of contributions received since the last report was made:

The Function Of The Chartered Bank In Canada

Mr. George Thompson, manager of the Huntingdon Branch of the Bank of Montreal, was the speaker at the Huntingdon Rotary Club meeting on Monday. He took the function of the chartered bank in Canada, as his subject and much of interest to everyone will be found in this article.

In a previous talk to the Club I spoke of Banking as a career in Canada, today it is my intention to dwell more upon the function of the chartered bank in Canada, more particularly in a community such as ours and will touch a little upon the history of banking in this country which will inevitably call for special mention of Canada's first bank, the Bank of Montreal, and as such mention normally leaves me subject to fine under Club rules, I cheerfully contribute here and now for the privilege afforded me as your speaker on this occasion.

When Canada's first bank was founded in Montreal by a group of enterprising merchants soon after the Napoleonic wars, Canada had no currency of her own. People had to barter their goods or use French, British, American, Spanish or Portugese money. Whenever the value of these currencies changed and that happened constantly, somebody had to suffer.

The new Bank began at once to issue its own currency which was Canada's first real money and soon the chaos in currency came to an end stabilizing matters for everyone. The Branch banking system was established at the same time with Branches of the new Bank being opened at Quebec City, in Kingston and in York as Toronto was then known. Branch banking makes for a strong and steady system and is an important reason why Canada has developed swiftly as a World Power without losing financial stability.

Before its first year was out the new Bank also became the Colonial Government's first domestic banker and so did much to build an independent National economy.

Under the branch banking system funds are accumulated across the country for use in other places where there is a need for banking accommodation and but for this system many pioneer districts would have had great difficulty securing funds for development purposes.

There are ten chartered banks in Canada today, one, the Mercantile Bank of Canada established in recent years largely by Dutch interests and one the Toronto - Dominion resulting from the amalgamation of two of the smaller banks. This new establishment and amalgamation indicates our system is both flexible and competitive and people the world over consider it strong and stable.

Most of you here can recall the crash of world markets in 1929; Britain abandoning the Gold Standard in 1931; and the widespread banking difficulties in the U.S.A. in 1933, not to mention the strains of World War II and subsequent reconstruction problems. During all that long period of upheaval no Canadian had to fear for a dollar of his Bank deposit.

The Bank Act comes up for revision by the parliament of Canada every ten years, the last occurring in 1954 at these reviews current banking practice is examined and such revisions as are deemed necessary to the welfare of the country as a whole are then enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

At the 1944 revision the Farm Improvement Loans Act became operative to enable farmers to purchase implements, or foundation livestock, or to repair their buildings or improve their property with greater facility and has proved a measure of almost inestimable value. At the 1954 revision Banks were authorized to loan money on a mortgage for the building of homes under the supervision of the Central Mortgages Housing Corporation this, too, has done much to relieve housing problems in urban centres.

Under both these plans as with the Home Improvement Loans of the 1930's recently re-enacted the loans are partially guaranteed by the Federal Government and provision is made the repayment period to be extended somewhat longer than is customary for loans made for operational purposes.

A bank's two basic functions, however, are:—

(1) Safekeeping local depositors' savings and business funds,

(2) Putting these deposits to work in the form of loans to business concerns and individuals.

In the two functions the bank makes a vital contribution to the progress and general welfare of the community. Not only does it make local depositors' savings available to finance the business of the community but, if greater amounts are needed, its branch system automatically brings to the community surplus money from other parts of Canada.

This service of your bank in financing individuals, business and industry benefits many people. Manufacturing concerns, for example, must make payment for the materials bought for manufacturing, as well as for wages and upkeep, a long time before they receive the money from the sales of their products. Loans from a bank help the manufacturer to carry on during this interval, enabling him to provide continued employment at the factory while awaiting returns from sales, and assisting him to make prompt payment to suppliers for their raw materials and services.

No less than the large corporation, the small business-man whose services are so vital to the community, would often have to curtail his operations, were it not for the assistance provided by loans from his local branch.

And the farmer, too, after he has bought his seed, fertilizer and equipment, has wages to pay between seed-time and harvest, and would find it difficult, if not impossible, to carry on without bank credit until the money from his crops is received.

A bank often plays an important part in Federal and Provincial Government financing and in municipal affairs, too, by buying debentures which permit spreading the cost of capital expenditures over many years. Also, substantial credit is extended to many cities and municipalities for current and capital requirements pending the collection of taxes and issuance of debentures.

Occasionally a man finds himself up against some unexpected difficulty, such as heavy doctor's bills, hospital bills, and the Bank can frequently assist you with a Personal loan. You may ask what determines whether I get a bank loan — the answer is you — your ability, real or potential, to pay it back. You are considered in the light of the three "C's"—CHARACTER, CAPACITY and CREDIT. Usually these loans can be paid back in monthly instalments, being distinctive from Term Loans, which are repayable at the end of an agreed period.

You must realize, of course, that occasionally, a banker must say "No", but usually the opposite is the case. If banks didn't say "Yes" most of the time, they would soon be out of business. They are anxious to say "Yes" whenever possible, but they have to exercise due care because, at all times, they must be prepared to pay depositors on demand. That is why you will usually be asked what security you have, and in most cases, if you have Life Insurance, Bonds Stocks, or Endorser, and a good personal record, you will obtain the loan. Do not think when your bank Manager asks you about an endorser that he is doubting your personal integrity, but sometimes, events happen that make it impossible for your loan to be paid back in the normal way. Even if you haven't got security of any kind, it does not necessarily mean that you will not get a loan. Personal loans are frequently made without security, or endorsement, when the banker knows the applicant well. A banker must, of course, be satisfied that the borrower's income is sufficient to permit repayment within the agreed period.

And here I might say a word

L. M. Kelly Has Successful Auction Sale

The cattle dispersal sale of L. M. Kelly, Lost Nation Road, on Friday, May 9, was eminently successful, in fact one of the most successful sales held since the pre-embargo days. Considerable credit should, of course, go to the Auctioneer and Sale Manager, Lyell Graham, who sold the 91 head of Holsteins offered as between 1.30 and 4 p.m. for a total of $13,927.00, practically all of them being grades.

The cattle had all been vaccinated and were negative to the blood test, were thereby eligible for export to New York and several other States. It therefore was that some three-fourths of the offering went to United States buyers.

Highlighting the sale was a grade cow, which had freshened 5 or 6 weeks ago, at a price of $355. The next high selling female was another grade cow at $350. Altogether, the 35 cows sold (34 grades and 1 purebred) averaged $244.

The unregistered herd bull sold at $360.

Also included in the sale were 46 head of young animals, all grades, which also sold at good prices, including an open heifer at $120.

B. M. Hospital To Have 'Hospitality Shop'

The Women's Auxiliary of The Barrie Memorial Hospital announces that, through the courtesy and co-operation of the Board of Governors, a gift shop will be opened shortly in the lobby of the hospital for the convenience of visitors coming to see patients.

Preparations for the opening of this "Hospitality Shop" are in the hands of a committee headed by Miss Marjorie Roy. Other members are Miss Irene Brunet, Mrs. John Davidson, Mrs. Earl Forrester, Mrs. M. R. Stalker.

Since all net proceeds of the gift shop ultimately go to the hospital itself, the committee solicits donations of new gifts for resale, with special emphasis on articles for baby use, although a variety of gifts for adult patients will also be most welcome. These may be directed to any member of the committee or sent to the hospital itself marked "Hospitality Shop". It is expected that the opening may take place in the week of June 2nd.

Salk Vaccine Clinics To Be Held

Clinics for Salk Vaccine innoculation against polio will be held at Huntingdon, on May 21st, from 1.30 to 3.30 p.m. for first injection. On May 22nd, a similar clinic will be held at the Frontier Inn, Hemmingford, from 1.30 to 3.30 p.m.

Parents are urged to have their children present at these clinics in order that they may receive the injections to guard aaginst the crippling effects of polio.

Career Tea — Barrie Memorial Hospital — Friday Afternoon

Mrs Dorothy Catto

Tea, Tour and Talk will be the main ingredients served at the Barrie Memorial Hospital Career Tea which is being held on Friday afternoon, May 16. This is Hospital Week and from 2.00 to 5.00 on Friday, the Women's Auxiliary of the Barrie Memorial Hospital will repeat the educational afternoon held last year in connection with their Bursary Committee.

This is a Career Tea and Tour which is held annually for high school students who are interested in Nursing as a Profession, or who are just interested in learning more about nursing. Last year groups of students came from Howick, Ste. Martine, Valleyfield, Hemmingford and Huntingdon and the various groups expressed great enthusiasm for the insight they gained concerning the operation of a modern hospital.

This year Mrs. Dorothy Catto of Turkeys DeLuxe Inc., Dewittville, has consented to give the address of welcome. Mrs. Catto, as a Lieutenant Colonel in the last world war, was in charge of the Canadian Nurses Overseas and was decorated by King George VI with the Royal Red Cross 1st Class. Her talk to the potential nurses will cover responsibilities to the Medical Profession and opportunities in the Nursing Profession.

Friday afternoon of Hospital Week could very profitably be spent at Barrie Memorial Hospital's Career Tea and any girl who is interested in the Bursary offered by the W.A. of the Barrie Memorial Hospital should not miss this invitation to attend.

34th Annual County Convention Of W.I. Held In Huntingdon

The Women's Institute 34th Annual County Convention was held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Huntingdon, on May 2nd. There were about 100 women present, visitors and members of the Chateauguay-Huntingdon County Women's Institute, ready for a day of serious thought, decisions and reports.

Friendliness and co-operation marked the occasion, beginning with the welcome from Mrs. W. Middlemiss of Huntingdon, and the reply by Mrs. H. Greig of Ormstown. The latter invited the group to hold next year's convention at Howick.

Mrs. Ward Rember, the retiring president, in her own charming way, conducted the ceremonies.

A moment's silence was observed for 9 deceased members. In the words of the president, "these women, who were given to joy and happiness, had contributed much to the organization and had seemingly received as much, also, as their talents had allowed them to pass on their gifts".

Mrs. Chas. Reid, Huntingdon County Secretary, read the minutes of both the last annual and the semi-annual conventions.

The Treasurer's report, as given by Mrs. Ernest Merlin of Hemmingford, was as follows:—Balance on hand, $304.25; receipts for year 57-58, $712.56; expenses for year 57-58, $738.50.

These decisions were made:

50c a member go on from year to year for County funds.

Two members of Hemmingford branch would take the Short Course at Macdonald College. Knowledge gained will be available for the branches, when required.

Letters of thanks had been written to Mr. King in connection with his work for the public speaking contest, also to Prof. Hall and the Ormstown School Board.

Annual membership to the Barrie and the Huntingdon Hospitals is continued at a cost of $10 to each.

$10 has been sent to the Cancer fund in memoriam to Mrs. A. McFarlane, 2nd Vice-Pres of the County.

Reports were given by the various County Convenors:

Agriculture — continue school fairs.

Education asked for more use of the pamphlets available.

Health—Use more health hints as roll calls.

Publicity — advertise your organization through conversation and colourful posters for events.

A most delicious dinner was served, after which business and talks were resumed.

Mrs. Rember introduced the past Provincial President, Mrs. Le Baron, who, she said, brings "power, wisdom and stability" to the organization. Mrs. Le Baron was delighted to be present and said she enjoyed sitting in such a goodly company of other provincial presidents of the past, as Mrs. Smallman and Mrs. C. E. Petch. Her hope for the Convention was that the members be inspired. She thought that the Convenors' reports were very interesting and that much valuable work had been accomplished. Good advice came from her lips:— (1) "A need to budget — consider seriously how — Finances are secondary, but they are needed to oil the machinery; (2) Set up a committee and have a membership drive; (3) Budget for a library. Have something to take the place of comics; (4) Enter competitions".

Mrs. Le Baron spoke of the two Essays now to think of — One has an appealing topic, "Things My Grandmother Told Me", the other, "How Can I Teach My Child to be a World Citizen". On hand is a song to write. Melody and words. This was a competition suggested by Quebec. (5) "Remember Radio —Ruth Harding of CBC would welcome W.I. ideas; (6) Have bigger and better exhibits each year".

Mrs. Le Baron finished by extending very best wishes to the new branch at Dewittville.

Mrs. Harold Robertson of Riverfield, thanked Mrs. Le Baron for coming.

Mrs. W. L. Carr, of Huntingdon, spoke on mentally retarded children in Toronto, where there are three schools for adolescents now. She told of the difficulties in teaching certain subjects to these backward children and the ease with which they picked up others. Incidents which happened during her work there, showed how rewarding the efforts were. Mrs. Carr's talk showed how worthwhile special teaching of children in this category is.

The day's business gave way to music. Two lovely songs sung by Mrs. E. M. Wood, and accompanied by Mrs. McCrimmon entertained and were enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Smallman reported on "A Day at the National Convention, Ottawa". She gave ideas gleaned — (1) Good reading is urged; (2) Set up or add to local libraries; (3) Have short story contests; (4) Encourage more creative crafts; (5) Have travelling exhibits; (6) Train youth leadership; (7) Try to send a W.I. delegate to UNESCO; (8) Our aim is to have a library van with books changed twice yearly.; (9) Use greater efforts for civil defense.

Mrs. Smallman mentioned the value of the Short Cource and the exchange of ideas, saying the W.I. falls down if course is not given to the country. In her words, the Quebec Short Courses made the W.I. remarkable across Canada. Mrs. Smallman urged members to express themselves. Discussion followed and a motion to continue the Short Courses was approved.

All Branch Histories are completed to date and sent in.

Branch reports by Presidents followed:

Mrs. Rember gave an account of activities which marked the last three years when she was president of the County. A carload of members had gone to the National Convention at Ottawa. Mrs. Harvey had attended the Ceylon Conference. Continued projects for the W.I. are Courses in weaving, pasteurization of milk, fluoridation of water, status of married women in Quebec as told by Mrs. Holmes, civil defense stressed and work for retarded children.

The president told that the new stamp to commemorate the Women's Institute will be ready for 1959. She ended by saying

Maple Leaf Grange

The meeting of Maple Leaf Grange was held on Tuesday evening, May 6th. Allan Hunter was in the chair and there was an attendance of 26.

Four prospective members were balloted on and four new applications were received.

As the hall is in need of new curtains, one of the members offered to make them if the material was purchased, so plans were made to do so that the new curtains might be up before Neighbour Night meeting on May 20, when Burke comes to Maple Leaf.

As a suggestion for the good of the order it was thought fitting that some mention should be made in the minutes of the active part the Grange played in the drive for the "Brucellosis Free Area" in Huntingdon County.

The programme was a practice for some of the items which Maple Leaf will present on Monday night at Fort Covington.

Obituary

The Late D. T. Ness

Friends and acquaintances of David T. Ness, and they were legion, will regret to learn of his passing, at his home, Edgewood Farm, Howick, on May 12.

D. T. ("Dave") Ness was the third son of the late Robert Ness of Howick, and he would have been 83 years of age next July.

Due to a series of afflictions Dave Ness had not been very active for several years, but prior to that he had led a very active life.

For a considerable number of years his Edgewood Ayrshire herd was a leading contender at Ormstown and other Quebec Fairs; Ottawa Exhibition and Ottawa Winter Fair. During the early part of the present century he was responsible for the exportation of a large number of Ayrshires, and in that respect he had to his credit the filling of an order for 1,200 head from a United States buyer. For a considerable number of years he furnished the replacements for the Ottawa Dairy Farm, when that farm was stocked with Ayrshires.

One of the originals of Ormstown Fair, he was a long time supporter of same; likewise Chairman of various Committees. He had also served as a Director of Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association and was one of the originals of the Howick-Huntingdon Ayrshire Breeders' Club.

One of the originators of the Farmers' Annual Picnic, he was the first and long time Secretary of that organization. In fact until a few years ago, when failing health necessitated his retirement in favour of his son Donald.

A lifetime, outstanding curler, he was honoured several years ago by having conferred upon him that rare honour, an Honorary Life Membership of the Canadian Branch of the Royal Caledonia Curling Association.

He is survived by four sons and a daughter Mrs. Carson of Covey Hill. The sons being W. G. Ness, Manager of North Downs Farm, Aurora, Ont.; R. Brodie Ness, Manager, Le Moines Point Farm, Kingston, Ont., D. J. A. Ness, Manager, Kendex Manufacturing Co., St. Johns, Que., and Donald Ness, who carries on the Edgewood Farm, to all of whom we extend our sincere condolences.

The Late Rowland Ness

Word has also come to hand of the passing of Rowland Ness, sixth son of the late Robert Ness, at Calgary, Alta.

Rowland Ness migrated to the west, to De Winton, Alta., around 1909 or 1910 where he established the Lakeview Ayrshire herd which, until a few years ago, was one of the leading Ayrshire herds in Western Canada.

He had also been a director of Canadian Ayrshires Breeders' Association and was one of the founders and constant supporters of the Alberta Ayrshire Breeders' Club. He had also been a very active member and director of several other farm, etc., organizations until ill health necessitated his retirement a few years ago.

Wider Area For Montreal Free Telephone Calls?

THE Gleaner has received a letter from an interested party in Montreal, regarding telephone calls which may be made to and from Montreal without a long distance charge. Since October, 1957, a new proposal for calls has been outlined for many areas around Montreal, which would entitle subscribers to make calls within the enlarged areas without toll charges. This area includes such points as Chambly, Varennes and Terrebonne as examples of distance.

The party says that he feels that Valleyfield and Huntingdon are about the same distance and certainly Beauharnois should be included. We are inclined to agree with our correspondent on this matter and we feel as he does that the points mentioned are about as far from Montreal as our own district is. In this area, we are also inclined to believe that collectively we have as many, or perhaps more industries than are situated in those areas which would receive benefits. In business the cost of long distance calls amounts to a sizeable figure annually and it has become so important for fast communication, that such calls are a necessity.

In view of the fact that we are in the St. Lawrence Seaway area, it is quite within possibility that more and more industries will be settling on the south shore. New industries could be given incentive to locate in an area where costs could be decreased in any way. Certainly by extending the area of Montreal whereby long distance calls could be counted as local calls would help much toward this. It could also mean an increase in many lines of business for people to be able to call into Montreal on a local basis. It would mean that better service could be obtained by local concerns for their customers. The Bell Telephone Company in a circular issued to the areas which would come under Montreal local, says that the loss of revenue is partially offset by the fact that they would not have the work of billing and keeping track of the long distance calls. A little extra would be charged for the service on the monthly rates. If the proposal meets with the approval of customers and the Transport Board, the change would go into effect early in 1959. Representations in respect to the plan are to be made to the Secretary of the Board of Transport Commissioners and also to the Montreal office of the Bell Telephone Co. not later than November 15th next.

It would therefore seem that if people in this area are interested, that they should ask the Bell Telephone Co. if they also can be included in this plan, or if a similar plan may be instituted in this area at some later date and how soon. Or if this cannot be effected, that this area could be enlarged to eliminate many of the so called long distance calls which we now have to pay. It is possible that if such a plan were put into effect, subscribers would not be so much against an increase in monthly rates. It seems rather foolish that calls to Valleyfield, Ormstown, Beauharnois and other more or less nearby points should be classed as long distance in this day of rapid means of communication and travel. It would therefore be a suggestion that if this area could not be included in the Montreal local, that at least some recompense could be made by increasing our own communication local. As it is, when increased rates are called for, it offers no incentive as the subscriber gets no more value in service and invariably it means an increase in the amount of the long distance tolls also. We believe that is why so many municipalities have opposed the recent application for increased rates and which was denied by the Government. It is possible if greater benefit accrued to the subscriber, that none would mind an extra monthly charge and the company would have a certain revenue, rather than an uncertain quantity.

This is something for both the Bell Telephone Company and the telephone users to take under consideration. It may work to their mutual benefit.

Citizenship Day -- May 16th

THROUGHOUT the year we have many designated days and weeks in honor of various occasions and events, but probably one of the most important is "Citizenship Day" which is on Friday of this week — May 16th.

To Canadians this should be a day of proud remembrance and designated and set apart from all other days. At times we feel that we Canadians do not place enough emphasis on the fact that we are in a land that provides us all with an excellent standard of living and above all a great freedom. We are too busy accepting all the good things that are ours in this country, that we do not take time to assess the actual value of them all. Citizenship Day is fairly new to us, we will admit, but nevertheless, it is a day on which we should be bursting with pride that we are privileged to be citizens of Canada. For many years we never had a citizenship, we were known by the nationality of our forebears, but we were not Canadians. For some years past now we have achieved our Canadian Citizenship and we can truly be known as Canadians. Newcomers to our country can in due course claim this right, providing they fulfil certain obligations. It is on Citizenship Day each year that a large number of such people receive their Citizenship Certificates and it should also be a proud moment in their lives that they are permitted this privilege of joining with us as Canadians. On the other hand, we welcome them to our community of Canada and in many centres, this induction as a Canadian citizen is the theme for a celebration befitting the occasion. Certainly our schools should mark this day as we want our children to be proud of Canada and that they are citizens of this great country.

Canada today stands high in World Affairs — the voice of Canada reaches out into the far away places and is heard and listened to with attention, as never before. Canada's voice has been heard and heeded in many troubled spots of this world and her efforts have staved off many a controversy in the past few years. People from all over the world look to Canada as a country of great possibilities and they are anxious to come here and make their homes here. We have our troubles, that is inevitable, but when we look around at some other countries, our troubles fade into insignificance. The heritage which we enjoy today was gained for us by those far sighted pioneers who settled this country and with their confidence in its future founded the roots on which we grow. They are the people who had it "tough", we are the ones who have it "soft". We do not fully realize just how fortunate we are and that is why we feel that "Citizenship Day" is so important to everyone of us. Our population is still very small compared with the extent of the country and it is really a marvelous feat that such a small population has accomplished so much. We have been endowed with rich mineral wealth that has meant much to us, but proper management and development of these resources has been a factor also. In the manufacturing field we have emerged as one of the top ranking industrial countries of the world. Previously famous for our wheat and as a leading agricultural country, this has now been replaced for industrial leadership among the nations of the world. Canada is an important country — it has come up from the ranks, so to speak, and the hard way. This has been done by perseverance and doggedness to succeed — we intend to maintain this place and we will do so if all citizens take more pride in our accomplishments and are not afraid to tell the world so.

Ormstown Exhibition In June

TODAY, Wednesday, is the last day for entries for the Ormstown Exhibition which will be held on June 4, 5, 6 and 7 at the Exhibition Grounds at Ormstown. This exhibition is often referred to as "The Little Royal" and prize winners at this exhibition are recognized as having exhibited an animal or article as worthwhile. It therefore means that exhibitors of animals in particular can gain recognition in that field as being among the best breeders. Especially in this true if ribbons are won. There is also the fact that many cattle buyers visit these fairs looking for likely places to buy stock and they take note of the prize winners for future reference.

It is only a matter of three weeks until this exhibition will be on and exhibitors will need to get their exhibits in first class condition so that the keen competition can be met. This is true in anything that is wished to be shown. The appearance and arrangement means a lot when the judges make their rounds. Care in arranging some types of exhibits has an attraction for the patrons too, who see these articles in a much different light. The directors of the various departments can do much to improve the showings by going to a little bother in making the exhibition stands more attractive. The public has to be attracted as well as the exhibitor. Such arrangement may cost a little, but its value will be seen in the comment of the patron and the eagerness to see the exhibits. A little colored paper on the stands and a few frills here and there can do a lot that is worth while. It gives the whole place a lift and a touch of artistry.

The big gamble with the exhibition is the weather and the hope goes that it will be nice warm weather and that the rainy season will be over. This means much in many ways not only for attendance at the Fair, but for the farmers to get their work done in order that they may attend and make the exhibits as scheduled. This time of the year is a busy one with seeding and some plowing operations to be done and good weather for the next three weeks can mean that this work will be ahead. Last year was most fortunate in this respect and made all the difference to the success of the Fair. As far as the Fair itself goes, rain does not bother too much, for almost everything is under cover and patrons may view the exhibits and shows without too much discomfort. The midway is the one to suffer and parking of cars is a difficult matter as far as on the grounds is concerned. Horse racing is an event which has to be cancelled. Thus, it is only natural that the officials hope for the best of weather before and during the annual event.

We urge the people of this area and surrounding areas covered by this newspaper to keep The Ormstown Exhibition in mind and plan to attend it. There is always a very excellent horseshow each evening and an extra for Saturday afternoon. The midway usually has plenty of attractions for all ages which includes several rides and thrills. For those interested in machinery, most of the very latest can be seen here and this includes several makes of automobiles and tractors. In the Industrial Building, there are further machine exhibits and also items of interest for the home. All in all there is much of interest all congregated in this space to provide an educational and a happy outing for everyone.

"Weel, then, ye'll hae a snack wi' me an' I'll direct ye as well as may be".

A few rods up the St. Louis river, in the centre of the stream, where it trickles over a series of rocky shelves, stood a small mill, and on the adjoining bank the house of the miller, and thither they went and had something to eat. The miller's wife, a good-looking young woman, could not speak English, but made up her lack in lively gesticulations, while Maggie helped the common understanding with her indifferent French. Justice done to the food hurriedly spread before them, Maggie walked back with Milne until they stood in front of his house.

"There", he said, pointing to planks resting on big stones, "you cross the St. Louis and keep the track until you come to the first house after you pass the rapids. It is not far, but the road couldna be worse. There you will ask them to ferry you to the other side, when you've a long walk to the Ottawa before you, but I'd advise you to turn home". Maggie shook her head decisively. "Weel, weel, so be it; he that will to Cupar maun to Cupar. Here, tak this", and he put in her hand two silver dollars.

Maggie winced. "I'll hae nae need o' siller".

"Ye dinna ken; ye may get into trouble that money will help you oot o'. Dinna fear to tak it; I've made (and here his voice sank to a whisper) I've made a hunner o' thae bright lads by ae guid run o' Jamaica rum across the Hinchinbrook line. It's Yankee siller".

Maggie smiled and, as if the questionable mode of their acquisition justified their acceptance, clasped them, and nodding to the little man, tripped her way across the St. Louis. The road, as predicted, proved execrable. Walled in and shadowed by trees, neither breeze nor sunlight penetrated to dry it, and it was a succession of holes filled with liquid mud. So bad was it, that an attempt to haul a small cannon had to be abandoned, despite the efforts of horses, oxen, and a party of blue jackets. Tripping from side to side, and occasionally passing an unusually bad bit by turning into the bush, Maggie made all haste. Once only she halted. A party of artillerymen and sailors were raising a breastwork at the head of the Cascade rapids, whereon to mount a gun that would sweep the river, and she watched them for a while. That was the only sign of life along the road until the white washed shanty of the ferryman came in sight, in front of which a troop of halk-naked children were tumbling in boisterous play. They set up a shrill cry of wonder when they saw her. Their mother, baptised Angelique, so short and stout as to be shapeless, came to the door in response to their cries and gazed in astonishment at the stranger. She volubly returned Maggie's salutation and led her into the house, the interior of which was as bare as French Canadian houses then were, but clean and tidy. Her husband was away, helping to convey stores to the fort at the Coteau, and there was not, to her knowledge, a man within three miles capable of ferrying her across. Would not madam paddle her over? The woman's hands went up in pantomimic amazement. Would she tempt the good God by venturing in a canoe alone with a woman? Did she not know the current was swift, and led to the rapids whose roaring she heard? No, she must stay overnight, and her good man would take her over in the morning. Maggie could only submit, and seated herself behind the house, to gaze towards the other bank which she was so anxious to set foot upon. From where she sat, the bank abruptly sank to a depth of perhaps thirty feet, where a little bay gave shelter to a canoe and a large boat fitted to convey a heavy load. Beyond the rocks that headed the tiny inlet, which thus served as a cove for the ferryman's boats, the river swept impetuously, and where in its channel between the shore and the islands that shut out the view of the north bank, any obstacle was met, the water rose in billows with foaming heads. Maggie knew that she was looking upon the south channel of the great river, and that the main stream lay on the other side of the tree-covered islands, which varied in size from half a mile long to rocks barely large enough to afford foothold to the tree or two whose branches overhung the swirling current. The motion of the rushing water contrasted so finely with the still-life and silence of the forest that framed it, and the many shaped and many colored rocks and islands that diversified its surface, that the scene at once soothed the anxious mind of the peasant maid and inspired her with fresh energy.

"Time is passing like that mighty stream", she thought, "and before another sunset help for Morton may be too late", and then she asked herself why she, so used to the management of a canoe, should not paddle herself across? She sought out madam and told her what she proposed, was met with energetic protestation, and then permitted to have her own way. Fortified with voluble directions which she only half understood, Maggie took her place in the canoe, and waving goodbye to madam and her group of children, who stood on the bank, gazing down at her, pushed out. Unmindful of how much the light skiff drifted downwards, she kept its head pointed to the island that lay opposite to her and paddled for dear life. Once she received a shower of spray in passing too near where the current chafed and fumed over a sunken rock, but she retained her presence of mind, and was glad to see the island draw nearer with each stroke. Just as the gravelly strand came within reach, the current swept her to the end of the island, and she paddled into the channel that lay between it and the islands below, which nestled so closely that the tops of the trees upon them interlaced, furnishing a leafy arcade to the narrow channels that divided them. As Maggie paused for breath after her severe exertion, a sense of the quiet beauty and security of the retreat came over her, and drawing the canoe on the pebbly

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA, (CP) — A new policy for uranium exports, allowing private producers to sell surplus uranium to friendly foreign countries, has been announced here.

Formerly all Canadian-produced uranium was purchased and marketed by the crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited.

The Canadian policy, which calls for a strict system of exporting permits, was announced May 7. The United States announced a similar exports relaxation the following day.

The announcement by Trade Minister Gordon Churchill amounted to a lifting of a ban on the export and sale of uranium by private producers imposed at the start of the atomic era by the former Liberal administration.

Top Posts

Mr. Churchill also announced the filling of the two top posts in Canada's multi-million-dollar nuclear and uranium program.

J. Lorne Gray, 45, vice-president of administration and operations of Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, was named president of the crown company. He succeeds William J. Bennett who retired May 1.

Roy J. Henry, Eldorado's 60-year-old vice-president, was named president, also succeeding Mr. Bennett wha had held both posts.

A government spokesman said main purpose of the change in uranium exports policy was to enable producers to sell small quantities of uranium to other countries for testing and research purposes.

However, indiviudal sales to countries without agreements for co-operation in peaceful uses of atomic energy will be restricted to 250 pounds with total sales not to exceed 2,500 pounds to any one such country. Canada now has agreements with West Germany and Switzerland.

Producers said the move would have little immediate effect on their operations since few are ahead of present contract requirements with Eldorado. But it would give them a chance to get their foot in the door to develop new markets before present contracts end.

Budget Deficit

It was learned authoritatively last week that the budget, to be presented to Parliament next month, will feature the biggest peacetime deficit in history.

Forecasts place the 1958-59 deficit at between $600,000,000 and $750,000,000 and possibly even higher — and this without talk in federal quarters of any major tax cuts.

While revenues remain virtually stationary, record expenditures of perhaps as much as $6,000,000,000 are expected.

This would mean a rising national debt and increased federal borrowing. However, authorities feel there will be little difficulty in raising the extra money. The national debt has been reduced by more than $2,000,000,000 in the post-war years. And authorities say Canada's financial structure is one of the world's strongest.

Record Vote

Unofficial figures tabulated by The Canadian Press last week showed Canadians voted in record numbers March 31 and gave the Progressive Conservatives the biggest share of the vote obtained by any party since the 1917 wartime election.

Total votes cast, including the services vote 7,279,536, against the previous record of 6,699,532 in the 1957 election June 10.

The Progressive Conservatives, who won 208 of the 265 House of Commons seats, received 3,908,632 votes, 54 per cent of the total. In 1917, Sir Robert Borden's Union government candidates received 58 per cent. The Liberals got 51 per cent in 1940.

The Liberals, who elected 49 members, received 2,446,776 votes, or 34 per cent, against 40 per cent in 1957. The CCF got 689,764 votes, nine per cent; others, including Social Credit (188,428) totalled 224,364 votes, or three per cent.

Construction Brief

The Canadian Construction Association has called on the federal government for more action to promote home-building and road-building.

The association's annual brief to the government — representing about 1,150 construction firms of all types — describes housing as "Canada's most serious social problem," and says the roads problem is greater than ever with twice as many vehicles for each surfaced road mile as there were 13 years ago, when the Trans-Canada highway project was begun.

The brief was submitted May 8 to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and members of the cabinet. It suggests everything possible be done to enable Canadians with incomes of less than $5,000 a year to own their own homes. As one way of reducing housing costs, the submission recommends federal help in building feeder water mains and trunk sewers.

On road building it recommends a national housing policy that, in addition to pushing building of the Trans-Canada highway, would help provinces build better provincial and regional roads, access roads, parkways and the like.

Crop Report

The Bureau of Statistics last week issued the first of its 1958 series of telegraphic crop reports. Based on data telegraphed from field correspondents May 7, it said seeding was becoming general throughout the prairies after cold weather and late-April blizzards had temporarily held up field work.

Before the cold and stormy weather, seeding was general in the southern regions where up to 50 per cent of the wheat had been seeded in all three provinces. By May 7, seeding had started in northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan except northeastern Saskatchewan. Little had been done in central and northern Alberta.

Moisture was satisfactory for seeding but good rains would be needed to promote growth.

In the Maritimes, the season was earlier this year and some early seeding had been done. Nova Scotia had a considerable area of potatoes planted for early market. Grass growth was good. Cool weather had affected both Ontario and Quebec.

Relief Milking Service

Some time ago one of the Scottish Farm Newspapers carried an interesting report about The Scottish Relief Milking Service, an organization which was established some four years ago, by A. J. E. Burden. The report claimed that the said organization was firmly established with a wonderful record of service to its credit. In fact the services of the organization's herdsmen a wonderful record of service to and milkers had been in constant demand by Dairy Cattle Breeders and other milk producers from John O' Groats to Lands End, so to speak. John O' Groats (in Scotland) and Lands End (in England) being, respectively, the most Northern and the most Southern points of the United Kingdom.

In Canada, Too

However, a similar organization has now been established in Canada by Mr. Burden. Writing under date of May, to this writer, as Editor of Canadian Ayrshire Review, A. J. E. Burden, P.O. Box 5073, London, Ont., wrote, in part, as follows:

"Canadian Dairy Farmers can now call on The Canadian Relief Milking Service to supply first class herdsmen who will assist with other work if required, to undertake temporary duties in the event of illness, accident, holidays and general staff shortage. The organization maintains a staff who are available at a few hours notice to go anywhere on receipt of a telephone call to our Emergency control at Sutton, Ontario (phone Sutton 608-r-4).

"Many of our staff have already proved themselves with The Scottish Relief Milking Service, which was commenced in Scotland some four years ago, and has been very successful".

Mr. Burden also states that the rates charged are on a weekly basis for 63 hours work. In addition the farmer must provide free board and lodgings, and a charge is made for transport.

Ayrshire's Horns

"The Ayrshire's Horns Earn Dollars", is the title of an illustrated article in The Scottish Farmer of April 19.

"For the making of horn souvenirs, household articles, etc., there is nothing to touch the 'crowning glory' of he Ayrshire for quality and beauty. At Kilwinning there has been built up a thriving business based on the Ayrshire horn and thousands of articles are exported each year", says The Scottish Farmer.

Big Business

"Visitors to this year's Highland Show", says the article, "will see a demonstration of a hobby which has developed greatly in recent years, has brought two Ayrshire men a thriving enterprise with a turnover of nearly £18,000. The men are James Mitchell and his brother-in-law Munro Smith, and their enterprise is turning of Ayrshire cattle horns into souvenirs of Scotland — brooches, shoehorns, spoons, birds, etc. — at their works near Kilwinning".

From A Hobby ...

The whole story began some ten years ago when Mr. Mitchell, who handles the designing side of the business, submitted some of his work to the Enterprise Scotland Exhibition and received a prize for his exhibits which included a spoon, a brooch and a shoehorn. It was after then that orders began to come in. The first was from a Princess Street (Edinburgh) firm for a large number of brooches, and to this day the same firm is being supplied by Mr. Mitchell and his brother-in-law. Shortly after this the orders began to get too much to do in Mr. Mitchell's spare time and he found it necessary to devote his whole time to them. It was then that he decided to move to the farm of his brother-in-law at Auchens, Fenwick. Auchens at that time was an egg-packing station and poultry farm (including the handling of 2,000 day old chicks during February to May).

Overseas Trade

A disused barn was taken over for the "horn conversion" operations, and after exhibiting at the Scottish Industries Exhibition in 1948 enquiries from overseas buyers began to come in and it was not long before the first export order arrived. This was from the United States and in the past three years they have supplied the largest shoe store in the United States with 60,000 shoehorns.

By 1949 six men were employed at Auchens but the number of orders were beginning to grow out of proportion of the facilities available at Auchens and it was deemed necessary to move to a new, larger place. Ten men are now employed full time and nearly all of them have been trained by Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Smith. Training takes from three to five years.

Numerous Products

Shoehorns are described by Mr. Mitchell as "the bread and butter of the trade", but innumerable other utensils and souvenirs are produced. For instance over three dozen types of brooches, and nearly every conceivable type of spoon, in addition to a variety of other articles — souvenir items and household utensils, cork screws, whisky tops, omelette sets, T.V. lamps, and a host of others.

Nearly 50 per cent of the products of the factory are exported directly and another 25 per cent indirectly through the channels of tourists and people sending gifts overseas. Although the U.S. is the main outlet for the goods a fair trade is done with Canada and Australia.

Why Ayrshires?

Asked why he used Ayrshire horns in preference to Highland cattle horns, Mr. Mitchell is reported to have said, "that the Highland cattle horns for one thing were ribbed in the inside and, more important, they did not have the natural colouring of the Ayrshire horns, which is so essential to the trade. However, other types of horns are used and these come mainly from Africa and France. The African horn is especially useful for the larger type of design. The European horn is, however, of much better quality".

African horns cost nearly £300 per ton whereas the Ayrshire horns cost £180 per ton. The first quality tips however cost £700 per ton, and are used for knives, riding crop handles and paper knives.

Most of the Ayrshire horn is got from a firm in Birmingham, England, which collects it from slaughter-houses all over the country. The dust from the horn is ground, is sold back to the suppliers, and is used as horn meal. This dust was analysed and it was found that there was a 14.7 per cent nitric content (end of quotations).

Maybe some of our Canadian Ayrshire dehorning addicts could find a market with Messrs. Mitchell and Smith for their discarded horns?

Wedding

VALACH - COOKMAN

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cookman, on Saturday, April the 12th, at 2.30, when their daughter Ethel June became the bride of Victor Valach Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Valach of Proctor, Vermont.

The bride looked lovely in a dress of slate-blue with full skirt, sleeveless low neck bodice and bolero jacket buttoned down the front with small black velvet collar, a large picture pink hat and pink gloves. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Beattie sister and brother-in-law of the bride, stood with them, Mrs. Beattie in a Copenhagen blue dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride was met at the foot of the stairs by her father, who escorted her to a lovely decorated corner of the living room, where the groom and best man awaited them.

The duble ring ceremony was performed by Rev. I. Johnson of Ormstown, owing to the illness of Rev. K. Murray, her pastor.

After the signing of the register, congratulations and picture taking, the bride and groom, with the two immediate families, proceeded to the Frontier Inn, Hemmingford, where a delicious turkey dinner was served, after which the happy couple left for Boston, Mass., and other points of interest. Upon their return they will reside in Champlain, N.Y.

United States To Exhibit Satellite At Montreal International Trade Fair

MONTREAL, May 8 — A prototype of the United States' newest earth satellite, Explorer III, will be exhibited for the first time outside the United States later this month, it was announced here last night. The Special Projects Branch of the U.S. Army revealed that it will display this unit at the 2nd Montreal International Trade Fair taking place at the Show Mart, May 30—June 8th.

Explorer III is the closest to the earth of any satellite orbited to date. It has a tremendous sweep from 117 to 1,740 miles above earth.

The display will be brought to Montreal by military escort and will be manned during the Fair by a crew of U.S. Army technicians. The display consists of the satellite itself, animated sections, cutout diagrams and other pertinent data.

The exhibit was procured for the MTTF through the assistance of the United States Consulate General in Montreal. The showing will further promote goodwill between Canada and its neighbours from south of the border.

The Explorer III will be one of more than 200 exhibits at the Fair in which 16 countries are participating.

Explorer III was launched by the Army Ballistic Missile Agency on March 26 by means of a Jupiter C rocket vehicle. The earth satellite has as its primary scientific mission the monitoring, measurement and observation of cosmic ray intensity above the atmosphere with respect to time and position.

There are secondary instruments which provide data on the density of micrometeorites, and the temperature inside and outside the satellite.

Explorer III weighs 18.33 pounds and its weight after burnout is 12.67 pounds. Its length is 34 inches and the length of the final stage motor is 46 inches. Its diameter is six inches and total orbiting weight is 31 pounds.

A major change in Explorer III from the first satellite launched was the addition of a miniature tape recorder, developed by the State University of Iowa. This device collects and "freezes" on tape the data on cosmic radiation encountered during the total orbit. The information is played back to earth upon a signal given from a ground station. The tape is then automatically erased for further use.

Scientists consider information gained from this memory system a marked improvement over that of Explorer I. The first satellite dispatched data continously; it was received only in areas of the orbital band that had ground stations. Many 'blanks' occurred in Explorer I's record, particularly when the satellite was over large bodies of water.

the Snapshot Guild

An occasion such as this offers a good opportunity for informal, natural family group shots. Ask a friend or neighbor to serve as cameraman.

Picture the Family

As you know, we spend quite a bit of time talking about how important it is to take pictures of your youngsters at regular intervals. Well, we still think it's a fine idea—in fact, it's the only way you'll ever have a record for happy remembering in the future.

But right now we'd like to remind you that it's also important to include pictures of the grown-ups in that family snapshot record of yours. Indeed, it would hardly be a family record at all if you don't put the whole family in the picture during some of your shooting sessions.

This doesn't mean we're about to suggest a return to the stiff, formal group portraits that once were the delight of every Victorian album. On the contrary, what we have in mind are family group snapshots that are as informal and relaxed as today's way of living. Even four-generation pictures—if you're lucky enough to have a group of such subjects in your family—lend themselves to this modern treatment.

Just remember to group them in a natural way with a center of interest. It isn't hard to find such a center—nor does it have to be a special kind of prop. Try something as simple as a conversational grouping—in which your subjects are paying attention to what one person is saying at the moment instead of staring into the camera. If your shot is one of the four-generation type we mentioned a moment ago, let the newest, tiniest member of the family be the center of interest.

Natural-looking pictures of adults are as easy to catch as the ones we take of our youngsters. It's simply a matter of giving your subjects something to do, or snapping them in the midst of some kind of activity they enjoy doing.

Although we may not be aware of it at the moment we click the shutter, what we really want of our pictures is to have people appear the way we know them best—the way we'd like to remember them in the future. So always try to picture them in a natural setting and in an informal grouping—and be sure you give the grown-ups as well as the children a break when it's picture-time at your house!

Agriculturalists Discuss Matters Of Policies And Price Supports

Ottawa—World economic warfare vs. international co-operation was discussed at the Fifth North American Regional meeting of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers which concluded at the Chateau Laurier here recently.

Concerned with this problem, especially as it affects wheat, the delegates passed the following resolution: "Recognizing that the current surplus position and resulting trading conditions on the world wheat market, particularly sales on concessional terms, are a matter for international consultation, the meeting recommends that United States and Canada should take the lead in promoting such consultations".

"As long as there are national agricultural policies such as price supports, there is need for international agreement and co-operation . . . we cannot afford trade wars", said Roger Savary, Secretary General of IFAP, a world farm organization representing 25 million farm families.

More than 50 delegates from United States, Canada and Mexico attended the two day conference. The delegations were led by the heads of the farm organizations in the three countries. The Mexican delegate, Don Alberto Salinas Ramos, President of the Asociacion Nacional de Cosecheros, was elected Chairman of the next meeting which will be held at Ensenada, Mexico next year.

During the debate which led to the resolution urging U.S.-Canadian leadership in constructive international consultation on wheat, the delegates were told that in 1957-58 for the second consecutive year and for the third time in history, world trade in wheat probably would be more than one billion bushels. At the same time, wheat production is going up in both wheat importing and wheat exporting nations. This is expected to leave an excess supply of at least one billion bushels by the end of July, 1958. It also was noted that while wheat trade will be high, the upward trend in wheat production in deficit countries may spell trouble for the maintenance of such a high level of international trade in wheat.

One of the liveliest discussions at the meeting concerned contract farming and vertical integration. The subject was added to the agenda at the request of the Canadian delegation. All participating organizations made highly constructive statements on the matter and it was decided to establish a working party to make a more detailed study of the issue. The working party will report to the next meeting and provide a background for a broader discussion at that time.

The delegates also heard reports on what the European Common Market will mean to farmers in North America. In a staff paper, these forecasts were made:

1. Europe probably will import less wheat generally, and there will be greater emphasis on importing types of wheat which are complementary to the kind of wheat grown in Europe. For example, Europe likely will take more high protein, hard wheat to mix with European soft wheat.
2. Europe probably will import more feed grain from North America, although this feed grain will run into stiff competition from Argentine maize.
3. Europe probably will import more oilseeds.
4. Europe probably will considerably reduce imports of animal protein foods (meat, eggs and dairy products).
5. Europe probably will import less fresh deciduous fruit and import more dried fruit and citrus fruit.
6. Europe probably will import more cotton, although much of this extra cotton may come from outside the Western Hemisphere.
7. Europe probably will import less tobacco.

Chairman of the Ottawa meeting was James Patton, President of the National Farmers Union of the United States. Other delegation leaders included: Herbert H. Hannam, President of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture; Charles Shuman, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Herschel Newsom, Master of the National Grange, U.S.A.; Donald Edson, of the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives, U.S.A.; and Don Alberto Salinas Ramos, President of the Nacional Asociacion de Cosecheros, of Mexico.

Seaway Power Is Big Lure For Tourists

CORNWALL, Ont., (CP) — Ontario Hydro officials are bracing themselves for the biggest influx of tourists this summer since work on the St. Lawrence seaway power project here began in 1954.

They expect between 60,000 and 90,000 visitors in July and up to 100,000 in August, compared to about 48,000 in August last year, the busiest month so far. Back in 1955, they considered 970 visitors and 82 bus tours was a busy July.

Biggest rush will be the July 1-4 period when the huge coffer dam is to be flooded, opening on Canada's Dominion Day and closing on the U.S. Independence Day date. For this big show a new lookout was built by extending the St. Lawrence River shoreline.

Well Organized

The lookout will be open all summer and telescopes are being installed to provide a close-up view of construction of the dam and powerhouse.

Four guides now are on the tour staff. Their number will be increased to 22 when holidaying university students report for work late in May.

Visitors have a choice of four conducted bus tours:

1. A half-hour three-mile tour that includes a short film at the Hydro information centre and a trip to the riverside lookout for a view of the big powerhouse under construction.
2. A two-hour 26-mile tour that includes the lookout and a trip along Highway No. 2 to the Long Sault lookout and a visit to the new town of Long Sault.
3. Trip 1 and 2 plus a one-hour 55-mile visit to the new town of Ingleside, Crysler Memorial Park and new Upper Canada village.
4. A trip to the lookout plus a seven-hour 100-mile jaunt to Iroquois lock, Crysler park, Long Sault control dam and other points.

Small Modern Two-Cycle Engines

OTTAWA — Small 2-cycle or 2-stroke engines have become increasingly popular during recent years. H. J. Kemp of the Saanichton, B.C., Experimental Farm, says their simple design affording a minimum of moving parts, favours lower cost. Their light weight makes them suitable for use with small equipment, such as lawnmowers, outboard motors, washing machines, irrigation pumps and portable chain saws.

In earlier years, 2-cycle engines were regarded as being somewhat temperamental in their performance. Modern engineering and construction methods have greatly improved their reliability. Care, however, is still important if their greater efficiency is to be maintained.

The 2-cycle engine delivers one power stroke for each complete revolution of the crankshaft while a 4-cycle engine delivers one power stroke for every two revolutions of the crankshaft. The 2-cycle engine is provided with portholes in the cylinder housing to admit a gas, oil and air mixture and to exhaust the burnt mixture by the suction and compression action of the piston. The 4-cycle engine is provided with mechanically operated valves and in conjunction with the piston movement, these are timed to admit gas and air mixture as well as to exhaust the burnt gas. The lubricating oil is held in the crankcase from where it is circulated through the bearings and other interior working surfaces.

The ignition system, carburetor and air cleaners of 2 and 4-cycle engines are similar and may be used on both types of engines. Flywheel magneto points should be set with a gap of .020 inches and the clearance between the flywheel magnets and the starter coil core should be .080 inches or less to ensure the strongest spark at the spark plug. The spark plug points also should be gapped at .025 inches. The carburetor is generally of the simple float type. The float operates a needle valve to maintain the proper level of gasoline in the carburetor bowl. The float hinges and the float itself must be in good condition and operate freely. The needle and needle valve seat should seat precisely so as to prevent flow of gasoline when the proper level of gasoline in the bowl has been reached. The air cleaner may be of the oil bowl type in which case, the oil bowl should be cleaned occasionally and refilled to the prescribed level. If an oiled wire screen mesh type is used, it should be cleaned occasionally. Clogged screen can result in faulty mixture of air and fuel, difficult starting, low power and excessive use of gas and oil.

Only regular gasoline or non-leaded gasoline mixed with special lubricating oil for 2-cycle engines should be used, in proportions recommended by the maker of the engine or the manufacturer of 2-cycle engine lubricating oil. When gasoline with tetra ethyl lead is used, deposits occur in the combustion chamber. When such gasoline is mixed with automobile or tractor oils containing detergents or other additions, heavy deposits occur in the combustion chamber, the spark plug becomes fouled, and sometimes the points are burned resulting in considerable difficulty in starting and operating.

Council-Manager Form Of Government Now Used In Almost 1600 Cities

By turning their affairs over to trained professional managers, nearly 1600 communities in Canada and the United States have achieved more efficient government at lower cost.

So says a magazine article on the latest report on the spread of the council-manager idea in local government. In the article, "Businessman at City Hall," Karl Detzer notes that depending on the size of the community, a city manager can expect a salary of from $5000 to an average of $22,350 a year. But he will usually save the community more than his annual salary in the first few months he is on the job.

At least 38 Canadian cities have adopted the plan so far, and in the United States, more than half the cities between 25,000 and 100,000 population have it. A good example of how it works can be found in Springfield, Missouri, with a population nearing 100,000, which hired its first city manager, W. Barton Avery in 1956.

One of his first steps was to end duplication of health services by the city and county. He worked out with county officials a plan to hire one well-trained person as head of the city and county health departments. The public health load was divided not geographically but into jobs.

Now, the county pays for most indigent care and maintains the nursing home and clinics for cancer, venereal disease and tuberculosis patients, both city and county. The city pays for a large outpatient clinic as part of its hospital operation. The arrangement not only gives better service; it saves about $65,000 a year.

County and city had always held separate local and school elections, with separate voting places and duplicating election boards. Under a plan proposed by Avery, they now vote together, sharing polling places and election boards—and saving $5000 every election. Tax collection has been unified the same way.

In many cities public funds lie idle for months, until needed for payrolls or contracts. Avery changed that. By wise investment of such funds, Springfield in the last two years has earned $230,000 in interest. "That will build a lot of new sewers and blacktop a lot of streets," Avery commented.

With parking-meter money, Avery bought two large downtown parking lots for the city; by selling unneeded city property and with a slight tax increase, he built two new fire stations. These brought lower fire insurance rates, more than offsetting the tax increase.

The City manager can be compared to the general manager of a business, Detzer says. He is hired by the board of directors—the city council—which in turn is answerable to the stockholders—the voters. By keeping his nose out of politics and concentrating strictly on efficiency, he can produce results which may make a politician scream, but give the average taxpayer a break.

As on earth I fondly loved you
I forget you not in death
And before God's throne in heaven
Pray you have eternal rest."

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Milk That Never Was

American dairymen are robbed of milk worth $225 million every year — milk that never even reached the farmer's pail. The thief is mastitis, a disease which drastically cuts down the milk output of dairy herds.

The sickness, caused by several different types of germs, can be spread by flies and milkers, and cows have become infected just by lying around germ-filled barnyards. What little milk diseased herds do produce is usually watery or straw-colored and unsuitable for marketing.

Cows suffering from mastitis lose weight, become feverish and show all the symptoms of depression. Their udders often are inflamed. Luckily, the germs that cause mastitis are no match for powerful antibiotics like Terramycin, which clears the infection in a few days.

To keep the disease under control, farmers take special care to clean and disinfect all milk machines. Cows with infected udders are separated from the herd to avoid the spread of germs.

Sick cows need constant care, and farmers often spend many hours of day and night applying icepacks to mastitis-stricken animals to prevent glands from swelling. It's hard work, but it pays off in contented cows on the farm and brimming milk glasses on the table.

Milk — 8,000 Years Old, And Still Good

For eight thousand years, man has been using the milk provided by a great number of animals, and he has numbered these milk-producing animals among his most prized possessions.

Excavations have shown that the oldest known civilizations used milk. A mosaic frieze found on a temple believed to be 5,000 years old, possibly depicts the oldest record of the use of milk. The panel showed two calves coming out of a cowshed built of reeds and men milking cattle from behind by sitting on low stools under the cow's tail. On the other side of the shed, two men were pouring milk through a strainer into a vessel set on the ground while two others were collecting the strained milk in stone jars. The peoples who developed flourishing civilizations have used liberal amounts of milk and its products.

Let us turn to science to find out why milk has always been considered so important. The body needs food nutrients — proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals, and vitamins. Pure, whole milk provides more of the essentials we need for health than any other single food. It provides protein of the highest quality to build and repair body tissues. Lactose, the carbohydrate found in milk is non-irritating to the stomach and furnishes energy for the body. Fats are needed by the body to furnish heat and energy and satiety value. The butterfat of whole milk carries vitamin A which is needed for growth, to prevent night blindness, and to help the body resist infectious diseases. The butterfat of whole milk is one of the most easily digested fats.

MY THOUGHTS ON MOTHER'S DAY

My life would have no meaning
Without my family brood,
You're my foundation firm
And all in life that's good.

Your father is my sun
And you my shining stars
You're all the things I need
To meet my life's desires.

You're thankful for your Mom
On this, my special day,
But I'm grateful for you all
To help along the way.

— Ethel White.

The Function Of

about interest rates. The Bank Act sets a maximum of 6% a year for any bank loan. In 1953, the average rate of interest earned on all loans made by all banks was only 4.7%, so that you will readily see we do not always obtain the maximum interest allowed.

Actually, I have just skimmed lightly on our subject: "Banking in Canada and What Your Bank Can Do For You". Many books have been written about it, and the system studied in other parts of the world. One of our great watchwords today is "Public Relations". We bankers want you to consider us just as human as you are. We do not want to be away from the common touch, and I hope this short talk will have shown you how the Canadian banking system, and MY BANK are steadily advancing along with the progress of Canada.

If anyone has any questions, I should be pleased to try to answer them.

Dundee

DUNDEE — In these modern days when the emphasis is on serving the general public better and taking care of almost every need through the medium of shopping centres, it is not surprising that more and more of these merchandising monsters are coming into being. One such known as "Harte Haven" was opened last Wednesday, May 7, in Massena, N.Y. Said to have cost some $6,500,000.00, it has been under construction for the past 18 months and is expected to serve 100,000 persons in the area embracing Cornwall, Ont., Fort Covington, Malone and as far west as Canton, N.Y.

Mr. Stanley J. Harte who has been associated with other real estate enterprises is the founder-owner and President. He is a man in his 40's, married and the father of four children and has great faith in his new venture. Said he, "I am thoroughly convinced that Massena has just started on what will be a long and enviable record of business and residential expansion".

For the opening day "Miss Canada", Miss Mickey McAllister, of Cornwall, accompanied by the Glengarry Highlanders Pipe Band from her home town, was escorted to the platform. "Miss United States", Miss Janet Major of Massena, was supported by the Massena High School Band. The two Beauties christened the new centre jointly as a climax to the regular opening ceremonies at noon.

A 20-ft. mock-up of a Lake Freighter named "Harte Haven" was faithfully reproduced on the grounds and on this the two girls broke bottles of St. Lawrence Seaway water. The act demonstrates no doubt the amicable relations which have existed during the construction period of the now almost finished task of the International Section of the St. Lawrence Seaway and Power project.

The two communities of Cornwall and Massena have found much in common during its construction period.

The new shopping centre will enclose 16 stores and has parking space for about 1500 cars.

Some folks from Dundee have visited the new centre and claim it is wonderful to see.

Mrs. Lindsay Cullen and daughter Nancy, also Mrs. Skidmore, of Ormstown, were guests last Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Fraser.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McNicol received a telephone call from their daughter-in-law Mrs. Calvin McNicol in Shearwater, N.S., late last Thursday night. The message said that their son Calvin, who is in the Royal Canadian Navy, had been badly injured by a motor car that same evening while riding on a bicycle about town. He suffered one broken arm, a broken nose and jaw and other injuries. His condition at the time was considered critical and he was receiving blood transfusions in Hospital. If his condition improved sufficiently an operation was planned for Monday. No further news has been received since. Calvin and his wife have one child. He has been in the Navy about three years.

The United Church W.M.S. meeting was held at the Manse on Wednesday, May 7, at 2 p.m. There was an attendance of 10 members and one visitor. The ladies planned their Annual Spring Tea which is to be held in the Church Basement on Thursday afternoon, May 23, at 2.30. Mrs. Beal of Huntingdon will be the special guest speaker. During the meeting a bale of clothing was packed which will be sent to Montreal. Mrs. Albert Armstrong kindly offered her home for the June meeting.

Mrs. Van Goudoever, the hostess, served refreshments at the close of the afternoon.

The meeting was held on Wednesday instead of Thursday due to the fact that Mrs. Van Goudoever wished to be present in Montreal for her husband's graduation as a minister of the Church at the United Church Theological College in Montreal.

Mr. Van Goudoever's mother from Holland is in Canada for a visit with her son and his family and is presently staying at the Manse.

Wedding

TREPANIER - FLEURY

The marriage of Mr. Richard Trepanier, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Trepanier of St. Agnes to Miss Betsy Fleury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fleury of Westville, N.Y., took place on Saturday morning, May 10, at 10 o'clock at the St. Agnes Roman Catholic Church. Rev. Fr. Gagnon officiated at the double ring ceremony and High Mass.

The bride looked charming in a white sheer nylon gown and carrid a bouquet of white and yellow roses. Miss Susan Martin of Fort Covington was bridesmaid and her fiancée acted as best man.

A wedding breakfast was served at the groom's home afterward to about 60 guests. The newlyweds were the recipients of many beautiful gifts and received about $150.00 in cash. Saturday evening a reception was held at Trumbell's dance hall near Malone, where a large attendance of guests was on hand to greet the bride and groom. They left Sunday morning on a honeymoon trip to Syracuse, N.Y., and also New York City. On their return they will remain at the Trepanier home for a time and later expect to reside in Syracuse, N.Y.

Weekly Review

Fifth Wheel To A Coach

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

There is perhaps some excuse for "making jobs" during a recession, but in normal times and especially in periods of prosperity, which labor has enjoyed in recent years, it is utterly vicious and suicidal to create jobs that are not necessary. An example of this latter has come to my knowledge through a friend who has just returned from an extended visit to the United States. While there he had met a building contractor who was recovering from a nervous breakdown, due to worry over excessive demands of union labor, which held up the work and rendered his contract unprofitable.

One instance was when the contractor unexpectedly "ran into water in the foundation." He had decided to put in a powerful pump, but the union insisted that he must use six pumps and employ an engineer on each pump. This meant the employment of 18 engineers for the three shifts every twenty-four hours, instead of three required to attend to the one big pump. He claimed that there was no need for a fully qualified engineer for the job because all that was required was to turn the pump on and off.

That, said the sick contractor, was only one instance of interference which held up the process of construction and added to his costs of the job. Before he started he had to pay for "permission" for various local requirements, and during the course of construction "accidents" would happen which he said were obviously "fixed." One of these was a deliberate plugging of the drains. All of which, he said, had worried him into his nervous breakdown.

This may have been an extreme example of corrupt union practices in the United States. But we have in Canada at the present time a similar instance of stupid fifth-wheel-to-a-coach duplication in a railway union insistence that the CPR keep an extra man on a diesel engine where he is not required. This is not a mere matter of making jobs for the idle men — like digging holes and filling them in again — which at least would be a job of healthy exercise. But the extra man on the diesel engine has no job at all and must be paid for doing nothing.

beach, she laved her feet while, idly picking from the bushes and vines within reach, she formed a bouquet of colored leaves. She heard the roar of the rapids beneath, and she knew that a few yards farther on lay the deep flowing north channel, but her nature was not one to borrow trouble and she enjoyed the present to the full in her cool retreat. When she again took her place in the canoe, a few dips of the paddle took it outside the islands, and she saw the main channel of the river — smooth except for great greasy circles of slowly whirling water, as if the mighty river, after its late experience of being shredded in the rapids above, had a nightmare of foreboding of a repetition of the same in the rapids to which it was hastening. With steady stroke Maggie urged the canoe straight across, for she had long ago learned that, in a current that runs swifter than the canoe can be paddled, it is a sure way to be lost to endeavor to stem it. So she put her strength into paddling straight for the opposite bank and did not allow the consciousness that she was drifting toward the rapids to discompose her. As the canoe neared the bank, the sweep of the current increased, and her arms began to ache with the violent and long-continued exertion. To her joy, she saw a man standing at the landing and the strokes of her paddle quickened. The canoe was swept past the landing, when the man, picking up a coil of rope, ran downwards to a point, and threw it across the canoe. Maggie caught an end of the rope, and in a minute was hauled ashore. The man, a French Canadian employed to assist the bateaux in passing between lakes St. Francis and St. Louis, expressed his astonishment at a woman daring so perilous a feat, and his wonder increased when she told him of her intention of going to Oka.

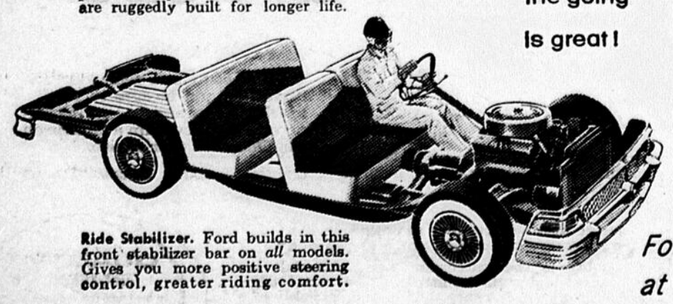
Ford's strength is beauty-wrapped

Just one look and you'll know why this great new Ford is every man's favorite land-craft. Here is new style in steel. New low, lean lines that linger with you long after you lose sight of the sculptured rear deck. Inside, fine-car appointments and trim you'd expect to find only in higher priced cars.

But look again! There's brawn beneath the beauty. Ford's strength begins with the frame itself—the great new 'Inner Ford.' Its heavy frame rails are bowed out to let you ride inside the chassis for maximum safety and comfort; and it's welded, braced and bonded to form one incredibly strong and silent unit.

These and other quality features are standard in every Ford at no extra cost to you. See your Ford Dealer soon, for the full, fine, low-priced story.

Ford's exclusive Giant-Grip Double-Sealed Brakes are self-energizing, provide superior braking power, are ruggedly built for longer life.



Ride Stabilizer. Ford builds in this front stabilizer bar on all models. Gives you more positive steering control, greater riding comfort.

SIX or V-8 the going is great!

Franklin Centre

FRANKLIN CENTRE — The Hi-C Group met at the Manse on Tuesday evening, May 6th. Bobby Blair was in charge of the Devotional, assisted by Mrs. Nickerson and Freddie Sherrington.

The principal topic of discussion on this occasion was the Rally at Huntingdon, followed by a sing-song.

On Saturday about 17 Young People were taken in cars by Mr. Ross Dunn, Miss Dorothy Manning, Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Nickerson and Billy Stevenson to Huntingdon to attend the afternoon and evening session of the Rally, which they all enjoyed.

The Franklin Centre Group planned the "buzz session" on "Exchange of Program Ideas", Mrs. Nickerson in charge. This group also led the sing-song after the banquet. Shirley Dunn played the piano, Freddie Sherrington played the guitar, Lois Moneypenny and Pat McMillan led the singing, the rest joining in. The group had prepared a song sheet which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Eliza Rennie and son Mr. Robert Rennie and little Miss Cobbs of Mooers Forks, N.Y., were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson and family. There was no service in the United Church on Sunday morning, as a very good representation attended the Huntingdon service. Next Sunday a special "Church Family Service" will be held and the Junior Choir will make their first public appearance. The service at the Hill, Zion Church, in the evening, will be conducted by Rev. Herald Rivers of Lachine, who will be the guest of Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Nickerson Sunday afternoon and overnight.

Miss Hazel Bruce, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Bruce. Mr. Lloyd Bruce of Montreal spent Sunday at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Nussey Garth and Susan of Ormstown, and their guest Miss Margaret Dunn of Athelstan, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dunn.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hope were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hope and friend Miss Alexa Thompson of Allan's Corners.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McKay, Mrs. Ed. Cowan and Mr. and Mrs. Gilpin of Hemmingford, were recent visitors of some of their relatives at Franklin Centre.

Recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lamb were Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Lamb of Ormstown, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Arthur and two sons of Huntingdon, Mr. and Mrs. Mayville of Fort Covington and Mr. John Jackson of Covey Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Dickenson and baby Kevin spent Sunday in Montreal.

Rev. Wm. Young of Rosebush, Mich., spent a couple of days the past week at the Dickenson home and also visited several other places. Rev. Young was a former minister of the Standard Church a number of years ago.

Mrs. Lawrence Towns spent the week-end in Montreal visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. Hayball and family.

Saturday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Brooks were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wood and family of Chateaugay, N.Y., also Mr. and Mrs. Merle Brooks and family of North Bangor, N.Y. Mr. Edwin Lamb and Mr. Curtis Lamb and son of Sudbury, Ont., were Sunday guests at the same home. Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dickenson were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McKinnon of Massena, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. John Dickenson of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Hermit Saxton of Brushton, N.Y.

Valleyfield

VALLEYFIELD — The Evening Auxiliary and the W. A. of the United Church held a very successful Tea and Food Sale, on Friday afternoon, May 9th, in the Church Hall.

The tea tables were very attractive with Centrepieces in the form of a palette with spring flowers, daffodils and tulips.

Mrs. C. L. Roman and Mrs. Thos. Crook poured tea. There was also an art exhibit and some very nice paintings displayed. Each person was entitled to vote on their favourite picture.

The prize winners were: Mrs. Thos. Hargrave for "Blue Bowl with Tulips".

Mrs. John A. McCracken for "Serenity."

Mr. and Mrs. James Roman and their children Taylor, Peter and Jill, have arrived in Valleyfield from Indonesia and are spending a few weeks with Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Roman.

Miss Jill Stewart of Toronto a niece of Mrs. Roman is also a visitor at their home.

Miss Mary Johnson has been visiting her brother-in-law Mr. John Boyd in Amsterdam, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Spencer, Janet and John of Lachine spent Sunday with Mrs. M. Spencer.

A very enjoyable evenings entertainment was held in the Gault Auditorium on Friday evening, May 9th. The programme opened with the singing of O Canada. A Fashion Show "Paris in Springtime" showing garments made by the girls from Grades six to eleven was the first item on the programme.

Grade six — White Aprons;
Grade seven — Cotton blouses;
Grade eight — Cotton Blouses and skirts;
Grade nine — Cotton dresses;
Grade ten — Woolen dresses;
Grade eleven — Plaid garments and party dresses.

This was very interesting to see what splendid work the girls had accomplished in that part of their Household Science Course.

Gail Angell as commentator was excellent and Brian Smith at the piano playing soft music throughout the show added greatly to the success of it.

Two one act plays followed, both very good. Mothers' apron strings and boomerang. God Save the Queen.

The W.M.S. of the United Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Louis Lagasse, on Thursday afternoon, May 8. Mrs. C. L. Roman presiding.

Mrs. Thos. Crook led the devotional period. As Mothers' Day was approaching she spoke about Hannah and Mary, two Mothers in the Bible and ended her talk with a very appropriate poem and then a prayer.

The Secretary read her report. Mrs. Davis gave a wonderful report of the Presbyterial meeting in Montreal which she attended as a delegate. The topic was: "What doth the Lord require of us."

The offering was taken by the treasurer and dedicated after which she gave her report.

The meeting closed with the mizpah benediction. Refreshments were served. The hostesses Mrs. W. Chas. Pelletier and Mrs. Arthur Montpetit.

Mr. John Ferris went to Magog on Friday to attend the joint Spring Conference of the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards and Protestant School Administrators. Mrs. Ferris, Ann and Douglas visited friends in Knowlton.

Bone Builder

Milk is the best dietary source of calcium — the mineral needed for strong bones and teeth, to regulate the heart beat and to help coagulate the blood. Other foods contain such a small amount of calcium that it would be almost impossible for us to get our daily requirement if we did not use milk. Phosphorous is present in milk in the ideal proportion necessary to build strong bones and teeth.

Storekeeper Fined in Test Case For Giving Trading Stamps

In a test case initiated nearly a year ago in St. Boniface, Man., a merchant was recently fined $25 and costs for giving away trading stamps to customers to be exchanged for premiums. The case was closely watched by authorities as a guide to possible future action in the trading stamp business. The case involved the selling to the merchant of books of trading stamps by a novelty company. The prosecution contended that while the criminal code did not prevent the giving of premiums by retailers, wholesalers or manufacturers on goods they actually sold or made, but it did prohibit the use of trading stamps as a means of promotion of business by those who were not in any way connected with the ordinary chain of distribution of goods. The prosecution contended that the scheme as used by the St. Boniface merchant in collaboration with the novelty company was a deliberate plan to evade the meaning of the criminal code and to do indirectly what the criminal code prohibited doing directly.

Potato Storage

It's important to store potatoes properly. Most people buy at least a week's supply at a time and although potatoes keep well, you should give them good treatment if they are to reach your table in prime condition.

1. Store in a cool, but not cold, place. Potatoes freeze at about 29° F. Even 40° is too low, and may cause change in flavor and an undesirable dark color when the potatoes are fried. On the other hand, high temperatures cause sprouting. So strike a happy medium—about 45°-50 degrees F. is ideal potato storage temperature.

2. Store potatoes in a dark place. Sunlight turns them green and adversely affects their eating quality, giving them a bitter taste.

3. Don't pack closely in air-tight containers. Potatoes keep better loosely packed in a bag or bin that allows some air to enter.
