Glenn Hodgins Injured In Freak Accident On Monday

Young Glenn Hodgins, 17 year o'd son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hodgins of Shawville is in Pontiac Community Hospital today with a fractured left leg and right leg broken in four places. This unfortunate condition is a result of an unusual accident which occurred on Monday.

Glenn was taking a load of logs down the hill at Grant Eades' busn towards the seventh line road. The logs were loaded on a two wheel trailer which was being drawn by two heavy work horses. The horses being considerably heavier than the boy, Glenn had wrapped the lines about his hands, the better to brace himself to hold the horses back on the steep decent.

Setting off the accident was the breaking of the wagon tongue. This allowed the trailer to roll against the horses. The draw bolt came free and they started to run with ever increasing speed down the hill. They got way ahead of the wagon and young Hodgins, firmly attached to the horses by the lines entangled on his wrists flew over the front of the wagon and down between the whipple tree and the trailer where his legs both snapped. He was drawn a piece before he could get loose of the lines.

A car, driven b Fred Stanley, stopped in front of the horses which then tried to leap over the car.

The horses, being heavy chunks and not thoroughbred jumpers, couldn't clear the car. One ran around and the other trampled in its roof on the way over. Miraculously, Stanley escaped injury as every part of the car roof ex-cept where he was sitting was flattened down towards the seats.

The horses lay stunned for a minute while Fred squeezed out of his now jammed car door. When he approached them they leaped up and made a two mile dash for Walter Moffat's farm where they turned in.

Meanwhile Linden Graham who was working nearby called Hayes Ambulance which carried Glenn to the hospital where he is under the care of Dr. Cowley.

The horses are none the worse for wear except for a bad gash in the upper leg of the one who tried to fly over the automibile.

Old Building By-Law Repealed – (Probably)

The necessary one third of the property owners in Shawville did not just rush out to Hynes Hall yesterday morning to vote away the old Building By-law and make room for a new one. Instead, a few conscientious souls turned out; a few more drifted over during the afternoon; many were urged by various council members and finally driven to the poll to vote their YES for the change.

By 5 o'clock the voting was still far off the 95 voters and $282,000 valuation needed to rescind the outdated By-law and a great effort on the part of the poll officers and councillors still failed to bring in the necessary vote by poll closing time, 6 p.m.

So the Shawville Council has had to support another day of keeping the polls open and voting continued today. By noon there were still not enough voters listed to swing it. The locked ballot box may not be opened until six this evening at which time the secretary treasurer feels confident that the count will reveal that the old By-law is duly repealed.

Quyon K. of C. Irish Show Plays To Large Audiences

Tall Father Wingle, about forty uniformed high school students from St. Mary's and another large crew of littler ones in their rhythm band outfits were an unusual sight at Shawville High School's big auditorium last night as the Knights of Columbus of Quyon district put on their grand Irish show for the second time.

Sunday night the show went on in Quyon to a packed house with standees all over the halls and in fact in the class rooms where they couldn't see or hear the show but could enjoy the artists doing their last minute practising up.

The crowd at Shawville was actually bigger but didn't fill the large gymnasium and towards the end of the evening as small children were taken home by concerned parents there were many vacant seats but still a good audience to hear Master of Ceremonies Lennox Gavan wind up the evening with one last rousing Irish song with resounding help from all the other performers in in the wings on the choruses.

The other performers consister first of children some with real talent, some singing and dancing for the fun of it, lots of Irish tenors of varying capacities but all good, step dancers (more at Quyon than at Shawville) and fiddlers to thrill your ears if you enjoyed it or split them if you didn't.

First came St. Mary's choir singing "River Shannon" and "Kerry Dancers", a real tribute to the Sisters who train them. Then Michael and Maureen, the 7 year old Moore twins sang "Wearing of the Green", very cutely. Also very cute was a dialogue done by tiny Don McColgan and Desi Kennedy and a couple of number by the three violins, three guitars and two pianos which make up St. Mary's boys' orchestra.

Norman Horner In Training With Quebec Provincial Police

Pontiac County may be back in full strength in the matter of Provinical Police if Norman Horner decides to complete training and join the force. Norm was recommended locally as a potential replacement for the late John Richardson and went to Montreal Monday morning for indoctrination and to be fitted for a uniform if he decides to stay.

Among other things, Norm will have to pass an exacting gun test before he is issued with a firearm. The initial training period lasts ten days or two weeks and afterwards the trainee is a probationary constable for six months at which time he becomes fully licensed.

Until three years ago Pontiac County had only two Provincial Policemen but today it is considered that a force of six is necessary. Those on the force now are Linden Young of Shawville, Edmond Romain and Lyola Boisvert of Coulonge and Clifford Romain and Tancrede Paquette of Chapeau. Linden Quaile, Campbell's Bay, liquor police and detectives Andre Audet and Earl Bennett Campbell's Bay should also be listed in connection with the Provincial constabulary which Norman Horner is about to join in Pontiac.

Norm is married to the former Katherine Woodley and they have two sons.

PLATFORMS Vs PERSONALITIES

Before the next issue of The Equity comes off the press, the election campaign, now rapidly approaching a climax, will have been settled, and from coast to coast Canadians will have resumed the normal tenor of their ways.

But before that happens, all Canadians with the right to vote will be called upon to assume one of the responsibilities of living in a democracy. Those who realize the significance of this responsibility will mark their ballots only after carefully weighing the issues they believe exist and considering the personalities involved, both locally and nationally.

Political observers have remarked that this election is perhaps the most difficult one yet for the voter to decide on conclusively.

It has been said in some quarters that it is this time not useful to look at the records of the parties; nor yet at their platforms which, where declared, have been too vague to serve a useful purpose; nor yet at platform promises because they are substantially the same on both sides.

Party records are not this time too satisfactory a basis of decision. Many of the 1957 Liberal government members are not now active in politics. The P.C. record is of more use, yet even here it is not as helpful as might be hoped. For one thing, it is based on such a short period of time that conclusions drawn from it would not necessarily be valid.

Indeed, on certain particularly important aspects of policy, the P.C. record helps not at all. What are its trade policies? (What indeed are the trade policies of the Liberals?) What is the defence policy of each?

Unemployment has been raised by each party as a reason for giving support to that party. It is our belief that unemployment is not in fact a bona fide issue in this election. Nor is the "tight money" situation of last year.

So with us, like many others, the whole thing largely comes down to a matter of making a decision based on the capabilities of the party leaders and their standard bearers in this constituency.

Firearms Safety Campaign Planned By Province

A province-wide campaign in Quebec to encourage education and practice in the safe use of firearms, has been announced by officials of Dominion Marksmen. The plea, to be directed at leaders in all phases of community affairs, service clubs and associations, will emphasize the need of organized shooting clubs with the aim that any person using firearms will be a shooter trained both in accuracy and safety.

The program was initiated following suggestions from Quebec fish and game associations that the government place sanctions on persons responsible for hunting accidents. Dominion Marksmen, a country-wide organization with a membership of over 19,000 believes the solution lies not in government legislation but in proper instruction and practice for those who are now, or will be, using guns.

Harry Cottle, executive secretary of the organization, urged that every citizen get behind this concerted effort to make every person using guns a shooter trained in safety. He said that Dominion Marksmen will provide all necessary information for the formation of local clubs and construction of rifle ranges.

Grains of Sand

At the moment that St. Mary's fine choir was singing in the Shawville Auditorium last night, final arrangements were being made by phone for a music specialist to be engaged for the junior grades at Shawville next term. Complete lists of teachers for the whole county have been promised for publication next week.

At the Quyon Winter Festival last month one more honour was heaped onto the Leo Keons' 15 year old daughter Anne. As well as being Head Girl at her school and president of the Students Council, pretty Anne is now "Hockey Queen of Pontiac".

Don Gilchrist, big time step dancer, was wondering if he came up to Shawville Saturday afternoons whether any Pontiac children would be interested in a few lessons. We'd like to give him an answer. Anyone interested could call The Equity.

Two blue jays and two robins have been taking their meals for the past two weeks in the backyard bird feeding station operated by Hosmer Turner of Shawville. Chicken feed has been the menu so far but Ozzie thinks he'll vary it with a little cracked wheat because these particular birds are leaving a lot of the feed scattered around.

Regina Keon, though not metioned on the program, was far and away the greatest and most versatile performer at the Knights of Columbus shows last Sunday night at Quyon and Wednesday night in Shawville. This is saying a lot in face of the fact that Donnie Gilchrist and company, Jerry Lafleur and company, Sylvia Casey and company, many talented musicians from St. Mary's, Irish Jiggers uncountable, step dancers both famous and anonymous, singers unending, 13 fiddlers, actors, jokesters and even a rhythm band were all doing a great job of entertaining the thousand odd people who came to be entertained. Regina's job was to accompany whoever wanted accompanying. All accompanists deserve a medal but Regina's should be a gold one.

The Farm Hockey League ran out of ice before a champion was determined but they did have time to vote for one player of all four teams who was most useful to his team during the season. The honour and the very fine silver trophy went to Barry Murray of the Pontiac Printshop who played on the Seventh Line Team.

Religion is an instintive spiritual hunger. It's practice is a conditioned reflex, dictated by birth, nurtured by habit, and sustained by a combination of faith and a lethargic intellect in some, and a blind acceptance of the incomprehensible in others. The small number not circumscribed by these dimensions are either the agnostic starvelings, or the true children of God.

The teacher situation at Shawville High School looks very good this week. As all contracts are dated March 31 we can't publish the complete list until after that date but this we can say: Commercial subjects will continue next year as will kindergarten and industrial arts. Also Ken Musgrove, who does the hiring for SHS, says he has nine men on the high school staff for the 1958-59 academic year.

United Church WMS Meets At Coulonge

Fort Coulonge — The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Kenney Sr. on Thurs. March 13 with Mrs. Hugh Proudfoot ,the president in charge and Mrs. Jean Duke, secretary.

A very good attendance and active response to subjects of discussion made and provided an interesting meeting. Regular devotional period exercised by members and minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The Secretary read an article "Mission in Formosa". The treasurer, Mrs. E. MacDonald reported on proceeds of Cooking Sale held on March 7th, which was very substantial and encouraging.

The secretary was authorized to forward donation to Camp Bitobi Fund, a project sponsored by Explorer's Counsello s' Fellowship of Ottawa Council of Christian Education.

The site for Camp Bitobi is in Gatineau District and is to provide summer outings for Junior Girls of Baptist Presbyterian and United Church in Ottawa and surrounding areas.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Dr. Schamehorn

Sir: The passing of Dr. Garnett Schamehorn has been a great shock, both to his medical colleagues and the whole city of Kingston. Although a very short time in practice, he had won the esteem and affection of all who knew him. Not only the patients in his very large practice, but also those whom he attended as interne in the General Hospital some years ago, remember his kindness and ability. It was always a pleasure to meet and talk with this straight slim young doctor with that honest level look in his eyes and that quiet steady voice. His fine ethical attitude, his kindly manner, and great natural ablity really qualified him to comfort and help his patients. We all feel that the phrase 'beloved physician' is an accurate description of his character.

Having served his country with distinction in the Royal Canadian Air Force and his community with all that he had, he has left a wonderful memory for us all.

My Window On The World

BY THE REV. E. REX TAYLOR

"The reduction in the number of small industries and handicrafts made rural life duller and less self sufficient in its mentality and native interests, a backwater of the national life instead of its main stream. The vitality of the village slowly declined as the city in a hundred ways sucked away its life blood and brains".

As the city sucked away its blood and brains . . . such was the sentiment expressed recently when I was talking with a farmer from these parts who deplored the continual drain away from the countryside and who saw there in a grave threat to the future.

Yet the opening paragraph is not written of contemporary events but of conditions over a hundred years ago. It was written by G.M. Trevelyan in his English Social History describing that country at the end of the Napoleonic Wars.

His description fits our times however and there are many people who think that his diagnosis also is just as apt. Our young people are leaving the country for the city because, to use their own words. "There's nothing to do up here," and "There's always something doing in the city."

Life in the country just hasn't enough to capture and hold the active, inquisitive minds of our young folk.

Now it's right and proper for governments to be concerned with a fair deal for the farmer and to bring in those measures which will promote a healthy agricultural economy but it seems to me that we are losing the battle for the farmer not in the fields and in the barns but in the villages, townships and communities. When our young people express themselves as they do about life in the country that should be a tremendous challenge for us to provide all those legitimate activities that youth needs. It's a challenge for us to stir ourselves from our television sets and go out and meet people, to become participators instead of spectators. The rural communities need a focal point, a centre of activity because do lets be honest with ourselves, with 25 or 50 years ago, the countryside is dead. Read the excursion into the past The Equity offers each week and you'll see what I mean.

It's my belief and contention that the church should provide that focal point. Yet here again the blunt truth is that the church is not offering those things which will keep youth at home. The ministers are not without blame here but one of the problems they have to contend with is that of what has been called a double standard. Members engage in certain pursuits themselves but should the minister do that himself or want it done communally under the auspices of the church these same people would be shocked.

I'm sure if all concerned sat down together to face these problems a happy outcome would result, the church's witness would be strengthened, its usefulness to the community increased and a general uplift all round would be the outcome. Whenever the tides of real religion have flowed strongest they have always been accompanied by new life and vigour in arts and letters and all those accompanying things which lift up and enoble the life of man.

Forums Advise Low Income Farmers

Specific policies should be developed to help the "low income farmer" say 80 per cent of Quebec Farm Forum members. All but one group agreed that there is a problem with low income farmers. The farm forums who think that such farmers should not receive special consideration point out that many of these persons would not take kindly to a special program, and would not respond to assistance.

Groups were undecided as to whether such persons should be helped to improve farm income or fitted for jobs in industry. To make this decision, there were four considerations suggested. First, does the farmer wish to continue farming, or would he profer work in industry? Secondly, has he the ability to improve his farming operating or adapt to industrial conditions? Third, is his land suitable for farming? Fourth is he young enough to secure work in a fectory or in industry? If there is any doubt as to which he should do members suggest he stay on the farm.

More education and information was the first suggestion of the groups to help farmers improve their income. Short courses, more management and technical advice from agronomists, more local co-operation and consultation were suggested for immediate help and junior farmers were advised to secure a higher education in order to avoid a similar situation developing in the future, Long term, low interest credit should also be made available to these farmers according to the groups. A farm management service would be valuable too. And finally the groups would ike to see better marketing service, and greater participation in local co-operatives.

Ladies Fun Day At Curling Rink

An exciting, but pleasant day was spent at the Curling Rink on Saturday, March 22nd when thirty-two enthusiastic curlers joined in a bonspiel, each team curling three games. Mrs. Kay Hodgins and her match committee deserve special thanks for the successful efforts in planning this "Fun Day".

Mrs. Edith Hodgins kindly donated cups and saucers for the three game winners. These were won by Mrs. Evelyn Little (skip), Mrs. Evelyn McCredie, Miss Nancy Hodgins and Mrs. Mona Taylor (sub).

The two game winners were Mrs. Gwen Strutt (skip), Mrs. Amy Paul, Mrs. Pat Harris and Mrs. Mona Taylor, who won key chain lockets donated by Mrs. Kay Hodgins.

Mrs. Doris Hanna (skip), Mrs. Muriel Imison, Miss Evelyn Anthony and Miss Ella Weaver became the proud owners of Curling glasses for a one game win.

After curling three games Mrs. Alice Young (skip), Mrs. Mary Kehoe, Mrs .Mayfred Dods and Mrs .Idena Orr were ready to enjoy their consolation prize of 'bars of chocolate'.

Fort Coulonge Curlers Call It A Day

Fort Coulonge—After a very successful and creditable operation around, the Fort Coulonge Curling Club "called it a day" and closed down activities in the line of Curling for this term on Sunday last, March 23rd.

Two visiting rinks, Hilton Mines and New Calumet Mines were the guests and in good will and form congratulated their hosts two local rinks, on their victories in a friendly match.

Dr. Harold Laycock, skip, with H. Gaffney and L. Gaffney and Gerard Dupuis won over Hilton Mines rink, skipped by Ritchie Dale, score 12-4 and Merv. Pearson, skip, with Lorne Routliffe, Michael Dempsey and Jas Duke, defeated Calumet Mines rink, skipped by Dave Still 9-5.

The Curling Club draw is to be held at the Clubs Annual Banquet to be held later.

Recollections of 1867 Requested By CBC

Who can remember the first Dominion Day, July first 1867? The CBC is trying to collect a series of taped recollections to keep on hand for use on July first, 1967. If anyone reading this paper has any memories of that great day in Canada's history ,they are invited to write ,or have someone else write for them, to this paper. Their names will then be forwarded to the right department of CBC. As there are plenty of citizens in this area who were alive 91 years ago we should be able to help the CBC considerably in their project.

Quyon K of C Irish Show

her well trained voice to "A Little Bit of Heaven" and an amusing "Daughter of Rosy O'Grady". Later Charlene proved her versatility by doing a quick tap routine.

John Keon, 9 got the first big laughs with his "Who Put The Overalls In Mrs. Murphy's Chowder" and then teamed with little Doris Renaud for a charming duet.

Tap dancing by Dowe, O'Hara, McKnight, Lusk and Irwin, five little Quyon girls was a pleasant variety here followed by the second grade rhythm band doing, or should we say rending, "McNamara's Band".

Mrs. Joe McGahren played Londonderry Air beautifully on her violin as well as another Irish Air and then Jennifer Dickson sang "Goldmine In The Sky" a spiritual and "Just a Closer Walk With Thee" to the guitar accompaniment of Hugh Horner.

Following Jennifer came Elizabeth and Marjorie Dickson with a double Highland Sword Dance with bagpipes by record. Alan Kluke with his wonderful guitar then sang a few numbers which delighted his growing number of fans.

Bernie O'Hara and his Quyon Star Dusters, a great bunch of nine or ten year olds whose square dancing beats description, were the next performers, followed by songs by Gervase O'Reilly.

Sylvia Hudson, one of the more advanced of Sylvia Casey's pupils, danced as did Sylvia Casey herself. The Casey touch was present throughout the program as many of the various dancers either had or were now taking lessons from Sylvia.

Among the best dancers of the evening was little Lucille Hodgins whose precision and perfection of step baffles all witnesses. Her Sailor's Hornpipe and Irish Washerwoman Jig were a joy to behold.

Nine fiddlers playing in unison provided another diversion as well as fine Irish singing by Lornie Byrne, Ronald Bottrell, Irwin Cole, Willie Grace, and western type singing by Charlie Muldoon and Maynard Bennet. The Curley Brothers performed their comedy act and step dancing was done by Elizabeth and Marjorie Dickson, fiddler George McKenny, Clem Foran, various Daly's (also fiddlers), Freddie St. Cyr, Terrific little "best in Canada" Gil Roy (at Quyon only) and last but not by any means least, Joan Anne Jamieson and proud Pontiac native Donnie Gilchrist.

Accompanied by an excellent fiddler, Tom Linklater, Jamieson and Gilchrist treated the tired but enthusiastic audience to some of the best adult step dancing they'll see anywhere. Donnie did his usual Pontiac routine, demonstrating the various ways they dance in Beechgrove, Quyon, Shawville, Otter Lake etc. Joan Anne Jamieson's unbelievably fast tapping kept up to and threatened to exceed the speed of the fiddler and the show came to a resounding close.

Ira Hanna Has Great Success With Grain Corn New To District

Ira Hanna is pleased with results.

Ira Hanna of Radford District has this year experimented with four new strains of corn and in his own words he "couldn't be better satisfied" with the results.

The corn is of Warwick variety Nos. 155, 227, 260 and 210 the first two varieties of seed obtained from Northern Wisconsin and the last from the Experimental Farm in Ottawa, but these strains can also be bought from any seed dealer according to Mr. Drummond

Although Shawville's Agronomist Neil Drummond says this is the "best silage corn area in Canada," the growing of grain corn has not been succesful here until these new hybrids were introduced. The purpose in planting these strains last year was to test them in this area for yield and factors of maturity this far north.

Ira planted a half acre of each, pulled the corn and husked it by hand. The planting was done on May 21, 1957, 8 lbs to an acre, 3 to 5 seeds per hill, with hills 3 ft apart each way. He cultivated both ways using a horse. The corn, when pulled and husked, was put in special cribs, a foot and a half off the ground, surrounded with crib wire for ventilation and topped with a tin roof for protection.

Ira then took the corn to Russell Mee's hammermill where he had it ground, cobs and all. The meal which resulted is much like corn meal, though whiter because of the cobs. This is being used to finish steers as well as for feeding hogs, cattle and hens.

Mr. Hanna is very enthusiastic about it for all these uses, especially finishing steers. Used instead of oats and barley, Mr. Hanna feels he can grow more of this new type corn on two acres than anything else on three acres.

One corner of Hanna's corn field wasn't too well drained and he found the corn did poorly in that spot which would indicate that well drained soil is needed. Also recommended is 500 pounds of 5-10-10 fertilizer to each acre before planting and later in the season when the corn is knee high, a side dressing of ammonium nitrate, about 150 lbs per acre.

The earliest maturing of the four Warwick strains was No 155 with a good, very early yield. Next came 210 with a well matured yield, 266 about the same and 277 has been classed by Mr Drummond as having been fairly well matured.

The four varieties combined yielded 125 bushels per acre from 8 lbs per acre. The object of the planting was to discover something better than our local cereal grains. Hanna says this year has been a good one for grain anyway but the result on this one crop have been termed truly spectacular.

Having determined that these Warwick strains of grain corn can be so successfully grown here, it is the hope of Mr. Drummond that a new division of 4H clubs will take up grain corn raising as their specialty.

The work involved in growing this corn need not be done entirely by hand as Mr. Hanna did it. It can be done mechanically if several farmers become interested and buy the machinery together or if equipment could be borrowed from the Experimental Farm in Ottawa.

Ira Hanna said he wouldn't mind using 20 acres of the corn if he could obtain the necessary culling machinery. As the corn ripens on the stalk and remains in perfect condition even after freezing until it is picked, there is no need to take it in on any special day. Some of Ira Hanna's corn was still on the stalks in December and is as good as that which he pulled in October. For this reason, joint ownership of machinery would be most practical.

NATO Kids In Germany Get Good Education

Soest, Germany—With one teacher for about every 24 pupils and an educational programme which is a composite of standards from each of Canada's ten provinces, NATO kids in Germany can stack their exercise books up against those of any kids anywhere.

This is the opinion of Dr. Jean V. Martin, of Montreal principal who supervises the five junior and senior schools in the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group area.

"Another good thing about being in a principal's position in this part of the world," he added, "is that we can forcast almost down to the last freckle, what our enrolment is going to be later this year."

At the present time 2,029 students are enrolled in four schools in Germany and one in Antwerp, Belgium. According to the latest count 352 more will start their education after the summer holidays.

In the Werl school, about 15 miles west of here ,the principal, Mr. Norman D. Castonguay of Aglda, Ont., has eight French-speaking teachers conducting classes according to the Province of Quebec educational standards.

In the Canadian Army area on continental Europe there are a total of 97 teachers who are on loan to the Department of National Defence for two-year periods. These teachers were selected for service overseas by schools boards in various parts of Canada and are paid at the same rate as they would be at home.

While serving with the Canadian NATO brigade they are "sponsored civilians' 'and entitled to married quarters accommodation .

The school at Hemer in the southern portion of the Canadian area in Westphalia teaches the largest number of grades of any of the schools. For sons and daughters of men of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, and the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, the Hemer school ranges from kindergarten classes to grade 10. Mr. W. A. Reid of Toronto, the principal, has 26 teachers on his staff.

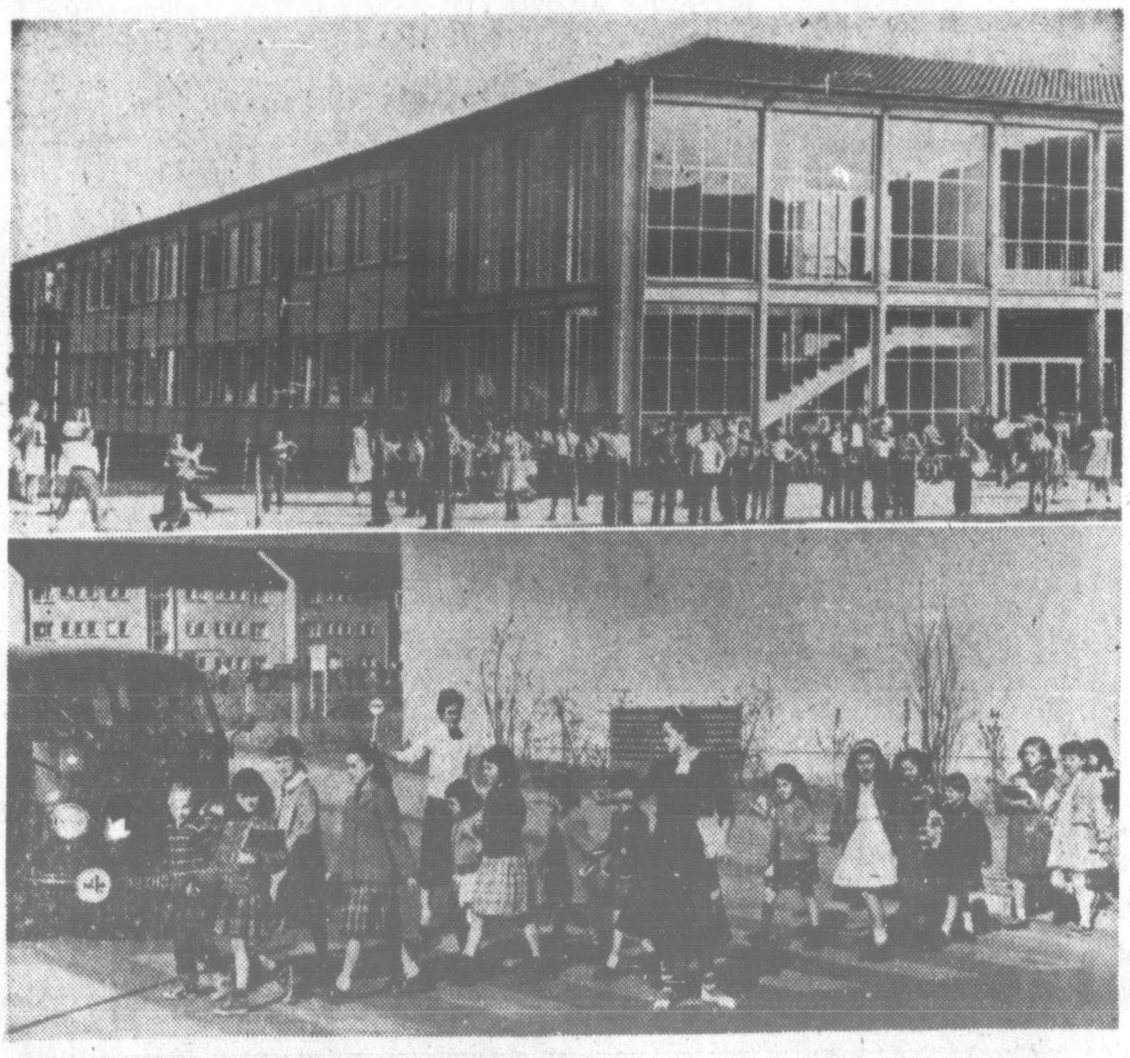
On the outskirts of the town of Soest and within the permanent married quarters area there is both a junior and a senior school. The junior one, under the principalship of Mr. R. Patrick Montgomery of Toronto, teaches pupils from kindergarten to grade four. The senior school, under Mr. J. Adrian Ashley of Rivers, Man., runs from grades five to thirteen.

Mr. Ashley's school is the only one in the brigade area which teaches to senior matriculation standards. He pointed out with some pride, "during the past three years 40 of our students have written Ontario's grade 13 examinations with not a single failure."

In Antwerp, Belgium, Principal G. W. Chase of Meota, Sask., and his two teachers, because of isolation from other Canadian schools have to be ready for just about anything. At the present time his 26 students range from grades one to eight. If all goes well with homework and classroom studies, there's a good chance he'll be teaching grade nine as well, next year.

In each of the four school areas of the Canadian community in Germany and Belgium ,very active "home and school associations" ensure that all parents are able to take an interest in the education of their children. These associations, liaison groups between teaching staffs and parents, arrange such things as concerts, teen-age dances, school tours, children's art exhibits ,and free soup or milk for students who have to commute from distant points.

Dr. Martin is due to return to Canada at the end of the present years of service in Germany he stated, "a tour over here is one of the best possible things that can happen in the career of a teacher. It allows exchanges of ideas between teachers from different provinces and different countries Also, from our holiday travel we are able to see at first hand many of the things which we are required to teach and which were, before, only lessons."



Bryson Hears Martineau

Bryson—The opening gun of the Federal Election Campaign was fired at Bryson, Tuesday night, March 18 to a crowded house in the Town Hall. Under the chairmanship of Clarence Wall the speakers were: Pat Mongeon, Union organizer for Mine, Mill and Smelters Union, of Sudbury, whose grandparents once lived in Bryson; Raymond Johnston, MPP, Charles Imison, President of the Conservative Association of Pontiac and the Candidate Paul Martineau.

Mr. Mongeon urged support of Mr. Martineau for Union progress, Ray Johnston asked for a vote for Martineau so that he might get co-operation in Provincial matters from a Federal member, and Mr. Imison suggested a vote for Paul Martineau as Paul is a native son of Bryson. In his speech Mr. Martineau asured the meeting that his ambition is to be of Benefit to the County and to aid in the development of Pontiac under the plan of the Diefenbaker Government. He classed the liberals as surveyors of gloom and he assured his listeners that John Diefenbaker would make a supreme effort to combat unemployment ,if given the chance. At the conclusion of his speech he received loud applause. The Conservative ladies served sandwiches and coffee and Mr. Martineau shook hands with old and new friends.

Willing Workers

The Willing Workers held their regular monthly meeting, March 22 at the home of Lily and Lola Hudson, with the president, Ann Draper in charge, assisted by the secretary, Claudia Kelley. The meeting opened by all repeating the Mission Band purpose, and the hymn, "The Old Rugged Cross". The Scripture taken from Mark 10 was read by Glenna Graham. The Treasurer, Beverley Henderson reported $25.00 had been sent to the Presbyterial.

Mrs. Everett McCorriston explained the story of Noah's Ark by flannelgraph ,which was most interesting and instructive.

Restoration Of Algonquin Park

Algonquin Park, showplace of the Province of Ontario, is to be returned to its pristine state Under plans of the Ont., Department of Lands and Forests, the 2,700 square miles of part wilderness, larger than Prince Edward Island, will over a period of years, be gradually brought back to where it was when it was first established in 1893.

Admittedly, this is a long-term plan. But, henceforth, no new leases will be granted for cottages or tourist camps. The return to the Park's natural state is to be gradual, with nothing arbitrary about it. As present lease-holders end their tenure, they will sell property back to the Crown, or, in some cases, donate it to the people.

At present, no leases are granted in other Provincial Parks as Quetico in the northwest section of the Province and Sibley Peninsula in the Fort Arthur-Fort William District.

Fearing that commercialism might enter Algonquin Park with the encroachment of so-called civilization, the Government has decided to return to the original policy as laid down by a Royal Commission in 1892. In the Algonquin Park Act as passed by the Legislative Assembly of the following year, a summary declared "The proposed Act was intended to provide a public park and forest reservation, fish and game preserve, health resort and pleasure ground for the benefit, enjoyment and advantage of the people of the Province."

Vast changes have taken place since that Act was passed. A highway was built across the southern end of the Park and about 500 leases for construction of cottages and camps were granted. But, even so, control has been maintained over the years. There are no unsightly billboards, honky-tonk refreshments booths or gasoline stations even today in the big park area. There are numerous cottages on the lakes adjacent to the highway, but few off the road and, by following the age-old cane trails leading to the north from the highway, holidayers can still be in relative wilderness within a few miles.

By reversion to the original plans however it means that no new roads will be built leading off the main highway, no cottages with private facilities which would prevent the ordinary citizen of the province from camping where and when he chooses.

James Dickson, then inspector of surveys, in his original report to the Royal Commission of 62 years ago, declared:

"I would strongly urge that neither moose, deer, nor any fur-bearing animals should be either hunted, taken or killed in the proposed Park for all time. By doing this the Province will have a large breeding ground and harbour of refuge for her game. As the Park becomes stocked, they would naturally spread out into surrounding country and the whole Province would be better stocked than it is at present."

That was one policy which has always been followed. Hunting is still prohibited in the Park and bear, deer and other animals walk fearlessly on the road and around present cottages and camps. Fishing is allowed, however, and, in accordance with the original plan, streams and lakes have been stocked over the years. In addition, some years ago, a plan of alternate closure of lakes was inaugurated and Nature's methods of propagation have made fishing as good today as it ever was.

Lands and Forests officials emphasize that there will be no drastic measures taken to bring about the return to the original plan. Persons at present owning cottages or Camps in the Park will be allowed to remain. It is estimated that it will take 40 years before the occupied or leased land will revert to the Crown. But the day will come when Algonquin Park again will be owned and controlled by all the people of Ontario and "no trespassing" signs will be ended forever in one of the continent's most noted wonderlands.

Future issues of the N.R.T. will contain some articles describing canoe trips in Algonquin Park.

Adoption For Older Children

A novel expe iment heretofore untried in Canada in being tested by the Ontario Department of Public Welfare. Display advertising in daily and weekly newspapers in strategic centres will be used in an attempt to stimulate increased interest in the adoption of older children. The first of the series of advertisement appeared in February, 1957.

"We feel," said Welfare Minister Louis P. Cecile, Q.C., "that the older and handicapped children now being cared for at public expence might be taken into the hearts and homes of loving, understanding parents through adoption if their availability were properly publicized".

There are approximately 15,000 children in public care in Ontario, but only a few more than 10% are avai'able for adoption. Some difficulty in placing about 1,000 of these adoptable children has been experienced, however, because of age, race, color or physical handicap. It is to encourage the adoption of children in this group that the advertising program is being conducted.

The majority of these hard-to-place children are normal. None are mentally defective or ill—such children are not made available for adoption—some, however, may be afflicted with some physical handicap and some are negroid. Indian, or Asiatic. All are in need of a home and all that it means.

Since the children are four years of age up to sixteen, the age limit for adoptive parents has been extended up to five years over the maximum age for adopting infants. In order to maintain normal age relatively, a ten year old boy, for instance, might be placed with parents where the father is forty-five, the maximum age under the plan.

In the experience of the Children's Aid Society in Ontario, prospective parents readily approach its agencies, (there are 55 such in the Province) voluntarily seeking infants for adoption. Older and handicapped children available for adoption have been more difficult to place. Two years ago, therefore, the Department of Public Welfare created an Adoption Clearance Service within its Child Welfare Division to help the Children's Aid Society find homes for these hard to place youngsters. This service has had a remarkably successful record ,but it also had to depend on the voluntary approach.

Under the new program the Department will approach the prospective parents. Display advertisements will fully describe certain children available for adoption yet preserve their anonymity. Couples will contact the Department through a special post office box number. The Department will arrange contact with the Children's Aid agency in whose care the child is. The agency will arrange a meeting with the child. If the prospective parents and the child attract each other the normal procedure for adoption will commence.

Al lthat is asked is that the adoptive parents give the adopted child the affection and sympathetic understanding they would give a child of their own, and provide for the adopted son or daughter according to their means until the child becomes self-supporting.

If the parents love each other, if they know the meaning of faith and trust, if they are young enough to be good companions to the adopted child, if they can provide a cheerful, comfortable, permanent home, if they enjoy going to church and engaging in some sports, hobbies ,and community or cultural activities, no more is required.

First Aid Exams Will Be On Friday

The last training class for this year was held on Friday last in the Scout Headquarters with a 100% attendance. Dr. Frank Cowley reviewed the whole course giving each member an opportunity to ask any questions. Following a general period of questions and practical use of the Triangular Bandage was carried on for an hour just to smarten up any rough corners. It looks like another 100 graduates when the exams are held.

Next Friday, the 28th, the examinations wil be held in the new High School where Mr. Jack Tolhurst has arranged to allocate two rooms for this purpose. The exams will be under the jurisdiction of Dr. C. F. C. Powles, M. D. and will commence at 7:30 p.m. They will be put through in the order they report at the school where they will be fegistered.

Each member of the Class should bring his or her trianguler bandage and a clean handkerchief for a dressing. Just as a matter of a little hint to all members: Remember, this is FIRST AID and you are not a Doctor. Keep cool and answer all questions given you clearly and take your time in doing whatever particular requirement you may be asked to do. Do not leave until you are advised you have finished all you have to do. Good luck.

Driver Classes For Teen Agers Endorsed By Women's Institutes

Driver classes for teen-agers was aproved at a meeting of the Executive of the Quebec Women's Institutes, held this past week end in Montreal. Highway Safety is a W.I. project, both at national and provincial levels, and figures were quoted to show the value of this project in reducing accidents on the highways in provinces where such classes are being carried on.

A letter drawn up by Mrs. J. Ward Rember, Ormstown, Q.W.I. Convenor of Education, was approved. This suggested that driver classes might also be introduced in this province in the same manner: extra-curricular courses at High Schools. One has been successfully concluded at the West Hill High School in Montreal. It is hoped that this project will spread to other schools throughout the province.

Branches will be urged to study this possibility and work with other organizations in their community in an effort to promote interest in organizing classes. A letter is also being sent to the Minister of Education pointing out their value, and the Province of Quebec Safety League advised of the action taken by the Q.W.I.

Northern Military Camp Said Unique

Fort Churchill, Man., Mar 11 — No other military camp in Canada is as unique as this northern base where Canadian and American military personnel and civilian scientists share a wide variety of interests and a common enemy — isolation.

Here, where the tree-line stops and the Arctic tundra starts, Canadian jets and American rockets whistle through the thin Arctic air while ground troops of both countries use the tundra for tests of men and equipment under conditions of extreme cold.

Although about one quarter of the troops, scientists and civilianian dependents living here are U.S. citizens, the camp is commanded and administered by the Canadian Army.

Camp commandant is Col. Donald G. Ketcheson, OBE, CD of Belleville, Ont., who has held the appointment since July, 1955.

If the camp is unique, so is the comamnd.

Col. Ketcheson said that with so many Services using the camp's facilities some friction does occur but "inter-Service International rivalries are never very serious."

Officially known as the "Canadian Joint Services Station, Fort Churchill," the camp houses an RCAF Unit; the U.S. Army's First Arctic Test Centre; the Canadian Army's Winter Warfare Training Wing; the Defence Research Board's Northern Laboratories; a Department of Transport Office; the U.S. Army's IGY rocket project site; Canadian and American formation headquarters, and other smaller units or groups from the various branches of the Armed Forces of both countries.

Describing training carried out be Canadian Army personnel at Fort Churchill, Col. Ketcheson said that in addition to conducting typical operations under severe Arctic conditions, the Army also has a very active equipment test and trial program.

"All types of Army equipment are involved, including weapons, ammunition, vehicles, special clothing and trail equipment," he said. "Defence Research Board scientists work very closely with all military services at Churchill and measure the effects of Arctic environment on personnel and equipment.

"From these studies," Col. Ketcheson added, "the military services can develop techniques, methods and equipment to enable them to carry out military operations in the air in Arctic regions."

If Fort Churchill is interesting from the serviceman's point of view, life here is a real experience for the 1,000 dependents of military personnel stationed at the camp.

Canadian and American families live side by side in comfortable marred quarters; attend the same social groups, and send their children to the Duke of Edinburgh High School, a named after His Royal Highness, Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

They share the same Canadian Army chapels, shopping centre and messes. They even get together annually, to jointly celebrate Dominion Day and Independence Day which falls within a few days of each other.

And here, if nowhere else in Canada, Boy Scouts, Cubs, Girl Guide and Brownie groups all are joint Canadian-American projects. So is the Fort Churchill Camera Club; model railway club; drama group; radio station; teen club and hobby centre.

"We lead a very interesting social life, "Col. Ketcheson said not too long after he and Major Erich Hett, of Mittenwald, Germany, had met in friendly competition on the Fort Churchill curling rink. Major Hett is one of several NATO officers here for training in arctic warfare.

Born in Belleville, Ont., Col. Ketcheson was educated at Belleville Collegiate and a Queen's University.

Commissioned in the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps in 1940 he served with the RCOC throughout the Second World War.

In January 1946, he was appointed Assistant Director of Ordnance Services at Army Headquarters, Ottawa and subsequently served as Commanding Officer of No. 25 Central Ordnance Depot, then located in Ottawa; as Deputy Director of Ordnanace Services, and as Director of Ordnance Services.

He has commanded Fort Churchill since 1955. Mrs. Ketcheson and a son Bob, 16, reside at the camp where Bob Ketcheson is a Cadet Corporal in the Duke of Edinburgh High School Cadet Corps. A daughter is "outside," studying at the University of Manitoba.

25 Years Ago

A quiet wedding took place in Clarendon at the home of the bride's parents on Monday evening, March 13th, when Inez Winnifred, daughter of Mr .and Mrs. Alex Elliott, Austin, was united in marriage to Stanley Thacker of Portage du Fort. Rev. E. F. Macklin conducted the ceremony.
