BRITISH CORRESPONDENTS PRAISE THE CANADIANS

Detailed Accounts of the Hart's River Fight to Hand.

THEIR HEROIC GALLANTRY

Mounted Rifles Proved Themselves Worthy of the Renown of Paardeberg.

The English mail to hand this morning contains the telegraphic accounts of the fight with Delarey's forces on March 31, in which the Canadian Mounted Rifles suffered so severely and distinguished themselves so gallantly. The London papers are full of compliments to the Canadians. The Daily Express heads its account: "Gallant stand made by the Canadians;" the Daily Chronicle speaks of "Splendid Canadian Valour;" the pro Boer Morning Leader refers to the "Heroic stand by a party of Canadian Rifles." The Daily Telegraph in its editorial comment upon the engagement says: "Above all, the Canadian Rifles, still proving themselves worthy of the renown of Paardeberg, stood their ground with heroic gallantry, one party, under Lieut. Bruce Carruthers, fighting until every single man was either dead or wounded." The Times said editorially: "The further account of the fight with Delarey, which reaches us to day, shows how severely the action was contested, and fully confirms earlier reports as to the splendid conduct of the Canadian Mounted Rifles under Colonel Evans. The regiment, as their commander, with the modesty of a true soldier observes in his report to the Dominion Minister of Militia, "have undergone a severe test, and have acquitted themselves most creditably." The mother country is proud to hear the well-earned congratulations on their conduct which Lord Roberts has added to those of Mr. Chamberlain. They had comrades worthy of them in the field. Though they bore the brunt of the attack, the 28th Mounted Infantry and the Royal Horse Artillery showed a fine coolness and discipline in very trying conditions."

DAILY MAIL'S STORY.

It is strange that in none of the telegrams is any reference made to the fate of Bruce Carruthers. The Daily Mail on the Tuesday after the fight published the following:

Pretoria Monday, April 7.

The Canadians who took such a prominent part in the last engagement with General Delarey are just out of Canada. Twenty per cent. are old hands who rejoined after a short holiday.

With them is a section of trackers under Lieutenant O'Callaghan D. S. O., recruited from the North-West Mounted Police.

The contingent is described as a magnificent body of men and is under Colonel Cookson. [Colonel Cookson is evidently the brigade commandant.]

THE TIMES' ACCOUNT.

The Times's special correspondent sent the following account of the fight:

KEKEWICH'S HEADQUARTERS (30 miles south of Lichtenburg), April 2.—Acting on intelligence supplied by Colonel Wools-Sampson, Colonel Kekewich moved with Colonel Grenfell's and Colonel Von Donop's columns on the night of the 31st to surprise the main body of the Boers under Delarey, who were known to be near the junction of the Great and Small Harts Rivers. It was arranged that General Walter Kitchener should co-operate, moving west from his camp on the Small Harts River to the south end of Barberspan. The same afternoon, however, part of General Kitchener's force, sent out on a reconnaissance under Colonels Cookson and Keir, became heavily engaged with the enemy, and the force was consequently unable to co-operate with Kekewich. Distant gun firing was heard at this camp before the force moved in the evening, and a report received as the columns were starting that Cookson was engaged with the enemy made it unlikely that the Boers would remain where they had been located. But our movement was carried out, and after a night march of over thirty miles Kekewich reached Barberspan to find that the main body of the Boers had left.

According to information given by natives, it was Kemp who attacked Cookson, and after being driven off sent to Delarey for reinforcements. Delarey immediately collected all his available men and started with the avowed intention of attacking Cookson and Keir at night. If the threat was not carried out it was probably due to the fact that Delarey found them too strong.

According to later information Delarey has gone south.

A large quantity of stock and waggons had been collected at Barberspan. But Delarey gave the order to disperse on receiving news of Kemp's engagement, and nearly all had disappeared before the arrival of Kekewich's columns. Nine prisoners, however, were captured, besides 20 waggons and some hundreds of cattle.

The force bivouacked at the junction of the Small and Great Harts Rivers, and, after a drenching night, returned to this camp, having covered 70 miles during the time they had been absent.

REUTER TELLS OF THE FIGHT.

Reuter's special service furnished this story of the battle:

News has been received of an action between Delarey's forces, under the immediate command of Kemp and Potgieter, and a British force, consisting of two columns commanded respectively by Colonel Keir and Colonel Cookson, the former comprising the newly raised Artillery Mounted Rifles, and the latter the last Canadian contingent, Damant's Horse and two squadrons of Yeomanry. The scene of action was a farm called Doornbalt, a few miles south of the place where Delarey fought his successful engagement with Lord Methuen. The result is a distinct blow to the prestige of Delarey, who twice within a fortnight has suffered serious loss.

Further details state that Colonel Cookson's and Colonel Keir's columns, while reconnoitring towards Hart River, came upon the spoor of guns, and got into touch with the enemy. A long running fight ensued in a thick, scrubby country. On the columns coming into open ground, large reinforcements for the Boers appeared and attacked both flanks with great determination. Our force hastily entrenched and took up the defence. The enemy pushed close up, but our men, behaving with great steadiness, poured in a heavy fire, and the Boers flinched and retreated, in spite of the efforts of their leaders to renew the attack.

Delarey and Kemp were both present, and personally urged their followers on, but the enemy had suffered too seriously for more fighting. They, therefore, abandoned the attack and hastily retired.

All arms behaved with magnificent steadiness, the 28th Mounted Infantry doing excellent work, while the new Canadian Rifles maintained the reputation of their countrymen, one party under Lieutenant Carruthers sticking to their position until every man was killed or wounded. The Royal Horse Artillery Rifles showed imperturbable steadiness, allowing the enemy to approach to very close quarters, and then driving them back with a well-directed rifle fire.

FURTHER DETAILS.

This was followed the next day by additional particulars, contained in the following despatch:

Kierksdorp, April 4.—Gen. Walter Kitchener on March 29 sent out Colonel Cookson on a reconnaissance in the direction of Doornbalt. Numbers of Boers were seen, and the object of the reconnaissance being attained, Colonel Cookson returned to camp. On the 31st Colonels Cookson's and Keir's columns went out again in the same direction, and it was arranged that the main column should follow. Early in the day the reconnoitring columns got on the track of the Boers, and also of their guns. After they had driven scattered parties of Boers in front of them, large bodies of the enemy appeared on both flanks.

Anticipating an attack, Colonel Cookson waited for the convoy to come up, and then made preparations for defence, the position which he selected being open ground on the right bank of the Brakspruit, some twelve of fifteen miles south of Delarey's recent fight with Lord Methuen, farm houses on the right and left flanks being utilized.

Damant's Horse occupied the right front and the 28th Mounted Infantry the right flank, while on the left front were the 17th Mounted Infantry and the 27th Mounted Infantry, with Kitchener's Fighting Scouts on the left flank. Canadians, under Col. Evans, held the extreme front, and Royal Horse Artillery Mounted Rifles the extreme rear.

The Boers opened the attack with three guns and a Pom-Pom, at one o'clock, from the left front, at a range of 5,000 yards, while a general attack was made from all sides. The Boer rifle fire and gun practice were excellent, but the shells did not burst well. Their effect, however, was to stampede the mules carrying the provisions. The mules bolted from the main column in the direction of the 28th Mounted Infantry, who moved out to intercept them. Damant's Horse acting as a support.

The latter, however, were bearing the brunt of a severe attack, and had to fall back, now exposing the 28th Mounted Infantry to a still heavier fire. The force, which had all the sick in its charge, accomplished the move in perfect order.

The Boers advanced close to the Royal Horse Artillery, who were in support under cover of a farmhouse calmly waiting for the Boers until they were at close range, when they poured in a steady rifle fire, driving the enemy back. The Canadians in front were attacked by strong numbers, but gallantly repelled every attempt made by the Boers to get through. One party fought until all were killed and wounded. The last man, though mortally wounded, emptied his two bandoliers, and then broke his rifle to prevent it from falling into the hands of the enemy.

Our guns succeeded in silencing one Boer gun, while our forces, now in close order, repelled the determined efforts which the Boers continued to make under the personal exhortations of their leaders. Towards night the Boer fire slackened and finally ceased, and the enemy retired. The Boer losses are not known, but they must have been heavy. Our doctors saw 12 dead in one place, and the Boers' ambulance was seen making numerous trips. It is supposed that the Boers had concentrated to trek north, but it is not certain. They were certainly a strong force, numbering fully 2,000.

Our losses were also heavy. The stretcher-bearers, coolly carrying in the wounded under a heavy fire, behaved with great gallantry. The Canadians were very conspicuous, while the 28th Mounted Infantry and Royal Horse Artillery showed splendid discipline and steadiness.

THE CASUALTIES.

A comparison of the casualty lists as published in the English papers on the authority of the War Office, shows that the despatch sent to the Governor-General was correct in every detail, so that the mail does not bring any additional particulars on that point.

BOERS IN BRITISH CAMPS.

Rev. Dr. Hertz Denies That Women are Cruelly Treated.

NEW YORK, April 18. — Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Hertz, who was a member of Lord Milner's High or Advisory Committee in South Africa, and chaplain of the Rand Rifles, has arrived in this city, his former home. When the war broke out, Dr. Hertz was expelled from Johannesburg by Mr. Kruger for being a Uitlander. He has since visited many of the British concentration camps in South Africa. Of these camps and on kindred subjects, Dr. Hertz says:

The stories of the British cruelty toward the wives and families of the Boers in the concentration camps are absurd. It is not the fighting Boer who makes these charges, but the stay-at-home. Why, the Boer in the field sends his family to the British to take care of, so that he will not be hampered by them while fighting.

"While there were but 9,000 children attending school in the Orange Free State before the war started, there are now 14,000 at school under the British governmental rule."

LONDON, April 18. — The lists of applications for the portion of the new loan, £16,000,000, offered to the public, were closed this morning, owing to the heavy over-subscription and the inconvenience to the market arising from locking up such a large amount of money.

Senator Dechene is Ill.

QUEBEC, April 18. — Senator Dechene has suffered a relapse and though he is now supposed to be dangerously ill, the condition of his health is causing much anxiety. Dr. Lachapelle, of Montreal, has been summoned in consultation by his physician.

MR. EDMUND BARNARD HAS PASSED AWAY

Widely Known Lawyer Died at His Residence Yesterday.

HAD RETIRED 3 YEARS AGO

Deceased Made Specialty of Municipal Matters—Some Famous Cases He Was Connected With.

Mr. Edmund Barnard, K.C., died yesterday at his home, 60 Park avenue, this city. He had met with an accident a couple of years ago, and since that time has been almost continuously ill. For the last two months, however, his condition has been very serious, and his death was expected.

Before his retirement from practice, three years ago, Mr. Barnard was one of the leading lawyers at the Montreal Bar. He came of a family of lawyers, his father having been Attorney-General of Lower Canada, and afterwards Prothonotary of Three Rivers. It was in the latter city that the deceased was born, in 1831. The family was of English origin, and came to America before the Revolution, settling in Deerfield, Mass., and removing to Canada shortly after the Revolution.

CALLED TO THE BAR IN 1852.

The deceased was called to the Bar in 1852, and soon gained a prominent position. He was made a Queen's Counsel in 1878. He made a specialty of municipal matters, and his advice was often sought in the most difficult cases. In 1878 he joined with Mr. Edward Carter in expressing the opinion that Orange parades were illegal in this province. Mayor Beaudry acted upon that opinion, and this was probably the means of saving the city from serious disturbances. The deceased was in partnership with Mr. Justice C. Doherty and his son, Mr. A. Barnard, now practicing in San Francisco, when the celebrated statute labour cases came up. The firm was retained by the Knights of Labour, and the deceased was at the head of the movement, which resulted in the enfranchisement of 13,000 householders who would have lost their right to vote through the enforcement of the poll tax. A hundred mandamuses were issued in one day, and a threat was made that a thousand would follow as fast as they could be made out, unless justice was done. That settled the matter for good.

THE FRASER ESTATE CASE.

Another celebrated case with which the late Mr. Barnard was connected, was that of the trustees of the Fraser Estate. He carried the case to the Privy Council, and the result is that the Fraser Institute was established, according to the wishes of the testator.

He was a frequent contributor to the press, and a series of letters which he published over the signature "Lex" on the Manitoba school question attracted widespread attention.

The deceased leaves a large family. His two sons, Messrs. A. Barnard, of San Francisco, and C. A. Barnard, of Sicotte and Barnard, of this city, followed the traditions of the family, and entered the legal profession. One of his daughters is the wife of Mr. Justice C. Doherty, another the wife of Hon. Jules Tessier, M.L.A., a former Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Quebec; the others are: Mrs. J. A. Richard, of this city; Mrs. John P. Cassidy, of Albany. One is a Sister of Charity, while the two youngest resided with their father.

In deference to the wishes of the deceased, who was always opposed to any ostentatious display, the funeral will be private. The service will take place to-morrow morning, at Notre Dame Church, and the burial will take place at Cote des Neiges Cemetery.

TRAVELLERS ALL FOR LONDON TOWN

Allan Liner Parisian Will Have a Distinguished Company June 7

CARRIES CORONATION TROOPS

Many Illustrious Passengers are Booked—No Third Class Passengers to Sail on Ship.

The Allan Line steamship Parisian, on her trip from Montreal to Liverpool early in June, will carry over to the Coronation one of the most noteworthy lists of passengers ever taken from Canada.

The Allan Line has made a contract with the Government for the transportation of the Contingent which will take part in the Coronation ceremonies of King Edward VII. The ship chosen is the well known Allen Liner Parisian, and she will sail from Montreal on the morning of June seventh. At Quebec the Contingent under the command of Lt.-Col. Pellatt, numbering in all some six hundred officers and men, will go on board.

Among the other passengers will be His Excellency the Governor-General, Premier Peters of Prince Edward Island, Premier Murray of Nova Scotia, Premier Tweedie of New Brunswick, and Lady Ruby Elliot, daughter of Lord Minto.

It is expected that the Contingent will be accompanied by the Royal Canadian Artillery band, of Quebec, one of the finest, if not the finest, musical organization in the country.

It has been arranged that no third class passengers will be carried on the Parisian on this voyage, so that the troops will have the exclusive use of the promenade on the main deck, both fore and aft.

Col. Pellatt, who will command the Contingent, will take over two horses on the Parisian, one of them being the charger ridden by His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, on his visit to Toronto.

MORE DELAY OF THE CITY COUNCIL IN HOSPITAL QUESTION

The Whole Matter Again Referred Back to the Hygiene Committee for a Report.

A little over a month ago the City Council approved of a motion asking that a civic contagious diseases hospital be erected on non-denominational lines. This motion, from all appearances, did away with the demand made in certain quarters, that there should be a dual hospital; one where Catholics could be treated, and the other for the care of Protestants. The passing of the motion, however, resulted in some strong protests being made by those outside the Council; and the result was the referring of the hospital question back to the Hygiene Committee again at the meeting of the City Council yesterday afternoon.

When the Hygiene Committee makes a new report on the matter it is more than likely that the dual hospital scheme will be proposed. At yesterday's meeting of Council Ald. Laporte proposed that the Hygiene Committee consider the whole matter again and make a new report. The motion was adopted without discussion.

The Hygiene Committee will also have to report on a new site for the hospital. Council had approved of a site on Fletcher's Field, but it was found the city could not legally use such site. There is a site on Fletcher's Field near the Hotel Dieu, which the city could legally take, and it is pretty well known that the Hygiene Committee will ask for this site.

Before Council adjourned a report was read from the city attorneys on the Terminal Railway question. It was to the effect that Council could discuss other clauses of the Terminal by-law than merely the one dealing with the company's length of franchise. It was held by Ald. Ames, at a previous meeting, that all Council was required to do was to decide if the company should have a longer franchise than five years. He wished to amend the five years' clause to read ten years. From the meaning put on the opinion of the city attorneys the whole by-law can now be discussed once more.

AT QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, April 18. — A detachment of five men for the fourth contingent arrived here last night from Sherbrooke and will go to Halifax with the Quebec men, probably on Saturday or Monday. The officers from this city, with the exception of Major Boulanger and Lt. Cook, left last night, a large number of relatives and friends seeing them off on the Halifax express. Quarter Master Lavie, Capt. Geo. Ryn and Lt. Basil White compose the party of officers. The Artillery band played the party off at the wharf and a number of permanent men from here also went down to Halifax to act as instructors there for the contingent; 12 men have now enlisted here for service. The last to join yesterday were were: Private Blair, son of Dr. Blair; Thos. Sioui, Lorette, a half breed Huron indian; Alfred Matte, 9th battalion; C. T. Doddridge, Q.O.C.H., and J. Lavertie, of the Field Battery. A large number of applicants have already been rejected by medical officer, Dr. Sewell.

LONDON, Ont., April 18. — Nine more men for the fourth contingent were passed in the physical examination tests at Wolseley Barracks yesterday. The additional recruits are: H. J. Warwick, E. Lane, W. J. Kaley, H. J. Moore, J. J. Woodman, C. Young, M. Stevens, W. Graham and H. Rowe.

AT TORONTO.

TORONTO, April 18. — A statement made last night that the Dragoons at Stanley Barracks were dissatisfied at not being allowed to go to South Africa, and blamed Col. Lessard for opposing their request, was officially denied yesterday by Sergt.-Major Widgery.

Regarding the report that the Queen's Own Rifle Band might go with the Coronation contingent, Lieut Col. Pellatt says: "I have made an offer to send the Rifle band, at my own expense. The offer has been sent to England, and nothing will be known till the answer is received."

Twenty seven recruits for the fourth contingent left here last night for Halifax. They departed amid scenes of great enthusiasm, the crowds swarming over the station platforms, and rendering it difficult for the men to get in the train. So far 122 men have been examined and 53 have passed the doctor.

AT HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 18.—Lieut Col. Irving, the recruiting officer at Halifax, has so far received 150 applications for positions on the fourth contingent; of this number only 37 have passed the medical examination and been sworn in.

AT PETERBOROUGH.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., April 18.—Twenty men left on the midnight train for Halifax to form a part of the fourth contingent, and another batch follow to-night.

AT KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, Ont., April 18.—Eight more men have passed their examination, and have been added to the fourth contingent. They are: Wm. Gunn, Jas. Hutton and Alfred Lewis, Kingston; Geo. L. Doxsee, Campbellford; James H. Winford, Brockville; Robert White, Gananoque; Charles Edward and Edward Howard, address not given.

AT WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 18.—Arrangements are about completed for the recruiting of the fourth contingent at this point. There will be many applications.

HAS PEACE BASIS BEEN ARRIVED AT?

London Daily Mail Says Boers Accept Great Britain's Terms.

THE SPION KOP DESPATCHES

General Buller is Condemned by Military Experts and by the Press.

(Special to the Montreal Star.)

LONDON, April 18.—According to the Daily Mail which was the first paper to hint at a hitch in the peace negotiations, a basis of peace has been practically agreed upon between the British Government and the Boers. It seems that the Boer delegates have displayed a more reasonable attitude, and Lord Milner has been empowered to grant them one or two seats on the executive council, pending the restoration of responsible government. The Boers, it is understood, practically agree to accept the British terms. Lord Milner has summoned to Pretoria from Johannesburg an Australian expert to afford him assistance in estimating the cost of rebuilding and restoring Boer farms, for which a money grant will be made to the Boers.

The paper says: "We are able to announce from reliable information reaching us late last night that despite the difficulties to which we have previously referred, the basis of peace has been practically agreed upon at Pretoria."

The Mail adds that the Boers acted independently of their representatives in Holland.

Some details, continues the Daily Mail, which are not likely to create difficulty, still remain to be settled.

Dr. Hans Sauer, a loyalist Afrikander, who spoke at Bradford last night, was not optimistic about the Boer-British peace negotiations. He said he thought it quite probable that the Boers would ask Great Britain for £50,000,000 or £30,000,000, and agree in return to clear out of South Africa altogether.

SPION KOP DESPATCHES.

In the military clubs, there is only one opinion with regard to the Spion Kop despatches, and that is that General Buller was ill advised to press for publication. His reputation is now hopelessly shattered. The pith of the matter is contained in the passage from Gen. Buller's despatch of January 30, 1900, in which he admits he saw things were going wrong, and yet did nothing to put them right, as he thought if he interfered he would discredit Gen. Warren in the estimation of the troops. This explanation is regarded as most inadequate. Gen. Buller was the officer in chief command, and military men say by all the rules of active service he was responsible for carrying out the operations.

The extraordinary thing is that the Government, although well aware of Gen. Buller's conduct, should have appointed him to command the first army corps. That fact is regarded as not the least discreditable part of a discreditable business.

SOME NEWSPAPER COMMENTS.

The Graphic deplores the publication as useless, and says it hopes it will end the painful and unedifying controversy.

The Morning Post blames the Government for suppressing the despatches at first.

The Daily Mail finds fault with the Government for seeking to let General Buller down easy by appointing him to the command of an army corps.

The pro-Buller newspapers, including the Daily Express, lays the entire blame upon General Warren. In an editorial the Express states that General Buller was unwilling to supersede General Warren because the War Office had designated General Warren as second in command, and the successor of General Buller if the latter should be disabled.

The Daily News, without exonerating General Buller, blames the Government's conduct throughout for suppressing the correspondence, when it should not have done so, and publishing it when it is useless, under the guise of showing that it treated General Buller kindly in 1900, which it had no right to do.

The Times says the despatches do not clear the Government. They contain a crushing condemnation of General Buller's behaviour out of his own mouth. It blames the Government for acting weakly and injudiciously in not publishing the despatches immediately, though it allows the Government credit for wishing to spare General Buller.

PRETORIA ANXIOUS FOR PEACE.

PRETORIA, April 18.—An earnest prayer for the success of the present peace negotiations will be offered in the Dutch Reformed Church here, on Sunday.

A MEAT FAMINE FEARED IN ENGLAND.

Butchers Will Ask Government to Remove Existing Import Restrictions.

LONDON, April 18.—A meeting of the Butchers' Association here last night, at which representatives of the entire retail meat trade of London were present, unanimously petitioned Parliament to remove the existing restrictions on the importation of cattle from Canada and Argentina. The meeting asserted that in view of the reduction in the American meat supply, the action they petitioned was imperative in order to prevent a meat famine during the coronation of the King. Reasons similar to those adopted last night will be presented at a meeting of representatives of the meat trade from 120 cities of the United Kingdom, which will be held at Manchester, April 22.

In replying to a question in the House of Commons last evening, R. W. Hanbury, president of the Board of Agriculture, said the Government had no reason to apprehend a serious meat shortage, and that it could not entertain a proposal to remove the restrictions on cattle imported from Canada.

Marconi Arrives in England.

LIVERPOOL, April 18. — Mr. Marconi arrived here yesterday on the steamship Majestic and proceeded to London. In an interview on landing he said the reverse of what the chairman of the Marconi Company was reported to have said in regard to Mr. Morgan's interest in the work. Mr. Marconi says that he believes that Mr. Pierpont Morgan is connected with the European interests of the Marconi Company. He (Marconi) considers that there is a great commercial future before wireless telegraphy, which is rapidly being perfected beyond his most sanguine expectations.

German Plot to Kill a Bishop.

COLOGNE, April 18.—A Belgrade despatch to the Cologne Gazette says the Servian Government has received information of a plot to kill Mgr. Firmilian, the bishop of Uskub. The Bishop is a Servian prelate, who was appointed in 1897, but has not yet been consecrated, owing to Bulgarian opposition. It is stated that three agents of the Macedonian Committee at Sofia have started for Uskub, with the intention of assassinating Bishop Firmilian. The authorities at that place have been warned.

Duke of Manchester.

LONDON, April 18.—In the House of Lords, yesterday, official announcement was made of the annulment of the bankruptcy of the Duke of Manchester, enabling him again to take his seat among the hereditary legislators of the British Empire.

THE UMPIRES INSTRUCTED.

Players Cannot be Fined—Must Stop Rowdyism.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—N. E. Young, secretary of the executive board of the National Baseball League, has issued the annual instructions to umpires. They are in part:

The imposition of fines upon players and managers for violations of rules, as provided in the playing rules, is suspended until further notice, and in lieu thereof a removal from the game or from the game and field is substituted, and in every instance where a removal from the field occurs a telegraphic report containing the fact and a brief report of the cause must be promptly sent to the secretary of the league, and whenever, in the judgment of the umpire, the player deserves a longer period than one day, he shall recommend it. The telegraphic report shall be followed by a detailed mail report of all violations of the rules and the penalties imposed.

You are the absolute master of the field from the beginning to the termination of the game. You are invested with full authority to order any player, captain or manager to do or omit to do any act which you may deem necessary to maintain your dignity and compel respect from the players and spectators. The entire responsibility of presenting the game in a sportsmanlike manner and the elimination of ungentlemanly conduct devolves upon you. If you succeed you will be indorsed; if you fail you will be condemned. Your attention is called especially to Rules 59 and 60.

Make all decisions as you see them. Never attempt to "even up" after having made a mistake.

Be strict in what may seem to be trivial matters, thereby "nipping in the bud" trouble before it fully develops.

Do not in any case temporize with a rule breaker.

Observe Rules 20 and 38, which require players to occupy their respective benches; also Section 6 of Rule 25, which specifies that a player ordered from the field shall go within one minute from the time you ordered his removal from the game.

Coachers have been a disturbing element to the umpire. Rule 53 provides just what their and what your duties are. These rules are mandatory, and not discretionary. If you allow them to be violated you become the chief culprit and do not properly perform the duties of your position. Bear in mind that you are not responsible for the creation of the rules or the penalties prescribed for them.

Mr. Nicholson at League Meeting.

Mr. George C. Nicholson, of this city, former vice-president of the Montreal Baseball Club, who was present at the annual meeting of the Eastern League in New York, is very much pleased with the manner in which business was transacted, and thinks that Montreal ought to be pretty well satisfied.

President Powers will have five umpires on his staff this year instead of four. The fifth man will be used in emergencies. The regular staff will be composed of Frank Rinn, John Eagan, Charles Snyder and Thomas B. Kelly. President Powers will appoint the fifth later. All except Kelly have served in the Eastern League.

MANAGER McKEAN,
Of the Rochester Baseball Club.

HOW TO GET SEASON TICKET.

The person who first sends in the coupon upon which has been figured out, from data at hand, and from knowledge of the game, the standing of the Eastern League Baseball teams upon the evening of the day (May 22), when the League Season opens, in Montreal, will receive a season ticket to the Montreal Baseball Grounds. This ticket is really a book of coupons containing one for every game to be played, and these coupons can be used one by one, or as many at one time, as is most convenient. If no one figures out the exact standing, the ticket goes to the person who first comes nearest to it.

Austin Rice and Dave Sullivan, of New London and New York, respectively, had one of the hardest matches of their lives in Poly's Theatre, Waterbury, before 2000 people, under the auspices of the Waterbury and Nutmeg Athletic Clubs. The articles call for 20 rounds at 128 pounds, and the match went the limit. Referee Croley declared it a draw. Sullivan took the more punishment.

It was the general opinion that Rice had the better of the mill.

Bob Fitzsimmons sent a telegram to Jas. J. Jeffries saying he was convinced that the only state where a glove contest between them could be held without interference was California. Fitzsimmons further said that he would meet Jeffries anywhere in California and at any time to box for the championship of the world, and that he would leave the making of arrangements to Jeffries, he to do the best possible for all concerned.

TENNIS.

THE PING-PONG TOURNAMENT OVER

The Montreal Gymnasium Again Available for Manly Sports.

THE HARD EARNED SILVER CUP

Becomes the Property of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Gurd Gets One That is Not Made of Silver.

Who cares to play at cricket?
Who cares to kick a ball?
To suffer hacks at hockey
Or chance a nasty fall?
Far better don your slippers,
Enjoy your cigarette,
Play ping-pong in the parlour
Across a little net.

In cycling there are tumbles,
And puncturable tires;
And if you hunt, perhaps you come
A cropper on the wires.
In rowing there are blisters
That possibly may chafe.
But ping-pong in the parlour
Is absolutely safe.

The river has its dangers,
The picnic has its snares,
The motor car may run away
Or butt you unawares.
It is a consolation
No parent will deny
That ping pong in the parlour
Would never hurt a fly.

Our prowess in athletics
May pass to other lands
And later generations see
Our cups in foreign hands;
Yet still the might of England
Shall everywhere be known—
At ping pong in the parlour
Our sons shall hold their own.

Then twirl your tiny racquets,
And pat your celluloid;
Be careful that your quick returns
The coffee cups avoid.
Flick hard, ye men of sinew,
And pirouet in style!
The ladies of the parlour
Are watching all the while.
—Westminster Gazette.

The agony is over.

Mr. Thompson gets a silver cup, and Mr. Gurd gets a cup that is not made of silver; the trophies of a bloodless battle beautifully fought.

No longer shall the conglomeration of up-to-date perfumes, like incense offered to the heroes of the night, by the awe-stricken maidens and matrons that filled the vaulted hall, float midst the ropes and ladders of the ancient Gym.

No longer shall the swish of silken skirts, melodious whispers from sweet beauty's lips reverberate in the home of dumbells, Indian clubs, and other implements invented to develop muscle and brawn, and all the attributes to make men strong and manly.

It was charming while it lasted.

It was a novelty. It was an attraction, that filled, to use a theatrical expression, the vacant dates left, by not holding the annual gymnastic and boxing exhibitions.

Barring boxing exhibitions, it was the greatest success from an attendance point of view in the history of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association.

And the excitement was something wonderful.

When Mr. Gurd, calmly and unconcernedly, with a sort of a clockwork motion caught his opponent's ball and allowed it to bounce back correctly, thereby defeating Mr. Carnegie; what a shout and what a fusilade of applause there was heard.

When Mr. Thompson, most scientifically, and with much sacrifice of strength and intellect, beat Mr. Clay, what a clapping of hands, and what a delightful feminine chorus of approval ensued; and when finally Mr. Thompson managed to humble Mr. Gurd's pride at the end, by seven to five, how men and women went wild with enthusiasm.

Oh! It was grand.

COULD NOT RUSH BY-LAW THROUGH

Compulsory Vaccination Proposition Must Go Slow

THE ALDERMEN DECIDED

Attempt Made Yesterday to Have Measure Read Three Times Was Defeated.

Ald. Ames tried hard yesterday afternoon to have a by-law, making vaccination compulsory, read a first, second and even a third time; but all his efforts were futile, the civic fathers decided that the by-law was one that must have plenty of consideration, and that a first reading was enough for one meeting. One alderman proposed a six months' hoist.

From what transpired at the meeting yesterday, there is little chance that council will approve of a compulsory by-law.

The proposed by-law, which was moved by Ald. Ames, and also approved by a majority of the Hygiene Committee, contained the following clause:

"Therefor, 48 hours after the said by-law shall have come into force, any person, being within the city, who will not be able to establish that he has been vaccinated successfully within the last seven years, or who will not be able to establish, by a physician's certificate, that he has been vaccinated but without success within the last six months, shall be liable to a fine of five dollars, and also to an additional, fine of one dollar for each day he will have omitted or will omit to get vaccinated from the second day after the said by-law has come into force."

SOME VIGOUROUS KICKING.

So soon as Ald. Ames moved that the rules be suspended and that the by-law be given a general reading, so that it might be promptly adopted, some vigourous kicking took place.

Ald. Carter was the first speaker. He said: "This is an enactment which touches upon the liberty of the subject, and so it should receive no second and third reading at one sitting."

Ald. Ames—"I am not anxious to have the by-law read a third time at this meeting. The motion should be passed, however, asking for a second reading of the by-law. If we allow the second reading, I then shall be in a position to explain why the Hygiene Committee favours making vaccination compulsory."

It was contended by Ald. Sadler that there was no need to rush matters through. The subject was one that should be thoroughly understood before any special action was taken upon it.

Ald. Ames now informed Ald. Sadler that if he had followed the doings of the Hygiene Committee, and read the papers, he would not be ignorant as to what the proposed by-law was.

This angered Ald. Sadler, and springing to his feet he informed Ald. Ames that he did not want any teachings from any member of Council, as to what he should do as an alderman. He did not think Ald. Ames was in a position to teach him anything—(laughter)—and he would never consent to the proposed by-law being read more than once at a meeting. At the present meeting it had been read once, and that should be sufficient. Later on, the by-law could be given a second reading.

SECOND READING DEFEATED.

Ald. L. A. Lapointe—"I think the best thing to do with a by-law like that would be to give it a six months' hoist. I am not in favour of it."

After more discussion the vote was called on a motion to suspend the rules for the second reading. It was defeated as under:

Nays—Lebeuf, Clearihue, Chausse, Sadler, Cuimet, Robillard, Lesperance, Bumbray, Lamarche, L. A. Lapointe, Ricard, Carter, Sauvageau, Payette, Lemay, Giroux, Hebert—17.

Ayes—Vallieres, Robertson, Ames, Lavallee, Couture, Turner, Ekers, Martineau, Wilson, Nelson, N. Lapointe, Walsh, Stearns and Dagenais—14.

The Medical Health Officer is very anxious that such a by-law should be adopted by Council.

MOUNTAIN ELECTRIC RAILWAY MAY NOT NOW BE BUILT

Owing to the unwillingness of the Westmount Town Council to close arrangements with the Montreal Street Railway for a Mountain Electric Railway when an opportunity was given them a few months ago, the residents of that portion of the town will be deprived of a street car service for some time to come. Last fall a special committee was appointed to confer with the officials of the Street Railway Company, and what was considered by the majority of the ratepayers to be a satisfactory arrangement was arrived at, but it failed to meet with the approval of the Council. Even then it was admitted that the Street Railway was negotiating with the town because it was particularly anxious to secure the town's assistance in getting right of way over the Trafalgar property from the upper portion of Cote des Neiges Road, and for such assistance would be willing to run a line westward along the Boulevard, thus opening up new portions of Westmount, Mount Royal Vale, and Notre Dame de Grace. While these arrangements were being made the company thought it would be an opportune time to make a new franchise with the town, but again, owing to opposition in certain quarters, it was not found possible to do so. Since then it is understood that the Street Railway Company has by itself secured permission to cross the Trafalgar property and will not, therefore, be anxious to make any arrangements with Westmount for the further extension of the mountain line. For a number of years past, Councillor J. R. Walker, who represents this portion of the town in the Council, has been fighting to secure the erection of the railway, and when seen today expressed his regret that the Council had not been able to make the arrangements recommended by the special committee. Unless something unforseen at the present time, turns up, it is hardly likely that the mountain line will be built

Debt Was Not Prescribed.

Mr. Justice Langelier gave judgment in favour of Mr. G. de Treismaisons, in his action for $1517, balance of salary due, against the Dominion Ice Company. The company had pleaded that the debt was prescribed but this plea was dismissed.

A MISSION CRISIS IN NORTH WEST

Bishop Pinkham Says Dioceses There Will Be Separated.

THEY ARE NOW TOO LARGE

Wonderful Development Taking Place —American Farmers are Rapidly Taking Up the Land.

"The present is a most important crisis for the Anglican missions in the North-West. Very few of the parishes are self-supporting at the present time, but if we can only assist them it will not be long before they will be able to take care of themselves."

The speaker was Bishop Pinkham, of the diocese of Calgary and Saskatchewan, who was at the Windsor yesterday, and who will, during his present visit, try to obtain assistance for his mission and be present at the consecration of the coadjutor bishop-elect.

"You see," the bishop went on to say, "the different settlements between Calgary and Edmonton are comparatively new, and the people are unable to pay their minister. On this account, I have been obliged to try to look after them myself. With the great progress that is being made, and especially with the well-to-do class of people that are coming into the country now, the outlook is very bright. But to retain our hold on the people we must help them through this crisis."

"You must find your dioceses growing altogether too large?"

"Yes, indeed, and on this account it has been decided to separate the diocese of Calgary from that of Saskatchewan. I will remain at the head of the Calgary diocese, and a meeting will shortly be held of the bishops of all the districts in the North-West to appoint a Bishop of Saskatchewan. Not having six self-supporting parishes, it has not the privilege of electing its own bishop."

"Do you find it hard to secure men to take charge of the different parishes?"

"Not nearly as hard as formerly. In the old days we were obliged to go to England for our men, and they did not always make successful missionaries. Now we are able to get nearly all the men we need from Ontario, and as they understand all the conditions of the country they are able to work with greater success. I have all the men I need in both my dioceses; that is, as many as I can support, and I think I could get more could I take care of them."

"And what would you say of the great influx of immigrants into the country at the present time?"

"The Saskatoon district, and especially the northern parts of Alberta and many districts of Saskatchewan, are being purchased with wonderful rapidity. Some time ago large tracts of land were purchased by American capitalists, and these are at present being disposed of at good prices. The great feature of the present influx is that it comprises a really fine class of people, who are able to build homes for themselves and employ all the labour they may need. It is certainly surprising to see how the Americans of the Western States have recognized the possibilities of the country, and are taking advantage of their knowledge."

"Have you inspected the settlements of the Galicians and Doukhobors?"

"Yes, and as far as I have been able to observe they will make very fine settlers. Of course, personally, I have very little to do with them, as most of the Galicians are Catholics and the Doukhobors Catholics, or members of the Greek Church. A bishop of the Greek Church has been looking after their spiritual wants, and has secured all necessary powers from the Legislature at Regina."

"What headway have you been able to make among the Indians?"

"In my two dioceses we have over three thousand Indians members of the Anglican communion, and the progress they have made in spiritual matters has been eminently satisfactory to the leaders of the church."

During his present visit, Bishop Pinkham will, first of all, try to secure help for placing men in some of the more rapidly growing towns. He has just arranged for Olds, in the diocese of Calgary and for Saskatoon, in Saskatchewan. As soon as possible he will place men at Frank, on the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, at High River, Tonska and other points on the Calgary and Edmonton Railway, and at the important town of Rosthern, in Saskatchewan. He is also desirous of obtaining assistance for the Calgary Clergy Endowment Fund.

DISEASED ITALIANS WILL BE RETURNED TO LIVERPOOL

U. S. Immigration Agent Reports on Case of Nine Italians Attempting to Cross the Line.

Mr. Robert Watchorn, the special immigration agent of the United States Treasury Department, Washington, has returned from the west. The nine Italians who were nabbed by him and the officers attempting to get over the lines at Niagara Falls, Detroit and Buffalo were sent to St. John, N.B., and will be carried back to Liverpool by the Elder-Dempster steamer Lake Ontario, which company was responsible for bringing them to Canada. These, Mr. Watchorn says, were the worst cases he ever came across, the certificate of the Buffalo doctor who rejected them stating each of them was suffering from one of the following diseases: Trachoma, favus, tuberculosis, hernia, syphilis and partial paralysis of the face. Moreover, they were absolutely penniless, and were in a starving condition. These men were originally booked from Italy, but as they will arrive at Liverpool as paupers they will be tossed upon the charities of that good city, spreading their loathsome diseases broadcast.

Regarding the eighteen French Canadians who were turned back from Ogdensburg, N.Y., Mr. Watchorn says they had been hired in direct contravention to the alien law of the United States, which provides "that no person shall be brought into the United States to perform labour or service of any kind under contract or agreement, express or implied parole or special." There are exceptions to this act, such as artists, actors, ministers, etc. These men were hired here, Mr. Watchorn says, at low wages, to the detriment of the working men of the United States, to work in the pulp mills of New York State.

As a rule, Mr. Watchorn says, he has very little trouble with Canadians, and it is very seldom he has to enforce the law. The evidence in these cases is being taken by the immigration inspector at Ogdensburg in the usual manner and before the usual court of enquiry.

A North-West Sample.

There is being shown in the Star Office window a mammoth potato grown at Calgary, Alberta territory, and brought from there for Mr. H. W. Raphael, by Mr. William Gosling. Its weight is three pounds fifteen ounces and its length 14 inches. Mr. Raphael considers it a magnificent illustration of the life sustaining powers of our great North-West land.

Malt Breakfast Food

For Nourishing and Making The Little Ones Happy.

The proper feeding and nourishing of the child just after weaning should engage the most serious attention of the mother. The great majority of prepared foods produce irritation of the stomach and bowels because of their improper and unscientific manufacture. This irritation of the digestive organs develops into serious complications that often prove fatal.

Malt Breakfast Food is the ideal health food for our little ones. It is entirely free from starchy substances, easily digested and assimilated, is richer in flesh and bone producing elements than all other foods, and has a deliciousness that at once captivates the taste of every child. CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

And a good thing it was for Ranald that he did go that day with Harry to his "governor's" office. They found the office in a "swither," as Harry said, over the revelations of fraud that were coming to light every day—book-keeper, clerk, and timber-checker having all been in conspiracy to defraud the company.

"Where have you been, Harry?" said his father in an annoyed tone as his son entered the office. "You don't seem to realize how much there is to do just now."

"Looking up Ranald, father," said Harry, cheerfully.

"Ah, the young man from Glengarry?" said Mr. St. Clair, rising. "I am glad to know you, and to thank you in person for your prompt courage in saving my daughter."

"Lucky dog!" groaned the lieutenant, in an undertone to Maimie.

Mr. St. Clair spoke to Ranald of his father and his uncle in words of highest appreciation, and as Ranald listened, the reckless and hard look which had been gathering ever since his meeting with Maimie passed away, and his face became earnest and touched with a tender pride.

"I hear about you frequently from my sister, Mr. Macdonald—or shall I say Ranald?" said Mr. St. Clair, kindly. "She apparently thinks something of you."

"I am proud to think so," replied Ranald, his face lighting up as he spoke; "but every one loves her. She is a wonderful woman, and good."

"Yes," said Mr. St. Clair, "that's it; wonderful and good."

Then Maimie drew nearer. "How is auntie?" she said. "What a shame not to have asked before!"

"She was very well last fall," said Ranald, looking keenly into Maimie's face; "but she is working too hard at the meetings."

"Meetings!" exclaimed Harry.

"Aye, for a year and more she has been at them every night till late."

"At meetings for a year! What meetings?" cried Harry, astonished.

"Oh, Harry, you know about the great revival going on quite well," said Maimie.

"Oh, yes. I forgot. What a shame! What is the use of her killing herself that way?"

"There is much use," said Ranald, gravely. "They are making bad men good, and the whole countryside is new, and she is the heart of it all."

"I have no doubt about that," said Mr. St. Clair. "She will be the head and heart and hands and feet."

"You're just right, governor," said Harry, warmly. "There is no woman living like Aunt Murray."

There was silence for a few moments. Then Mr. St. Clair said suddenly: "We are in an awful fix here. Not a man to be found that we can depend upon for bookkeeper, clerk, or checker."

Harry coughed slightly.

"Oh, of course, Harry is an excellent book keeper," Harry bowed low; "while he is at it," added Mr. St. Clair.

"Very neat one," murmured the lieutenant.

"Now, father, do not spoil a fine compliment in that way," cried Harry.

"But now the checker is gone," said Mr. St. Clair, "and that is extremely awkward."

"I say," cried Harry, "what will you give me for a checker right now?"

Mr. St. Clair looked at him and then at the lieutenant.

"Pardon me, Mr. St. Clair," said that gentleman, holding up his hand, "I used to check a little at Rugby, but—"

"Not you, by a long hand," interrupted Harry, disdainfully.

"This awfully charming brother of yours, so very frank, don't you know!" said the lieutenant, softly, to Maimie, while they all laughed.

"But here is your man, governor," said Harry, laying his hand on Ranald.

"Ranald!" exclaimed Mr. St. Clair. "Why, the very man! You understand timber, and you are honest."

"I will answer for both with my head," said Harry.

"What do you say, Ranald?" said Mr St. Clair. "Will you take a day to think it over?"

"No," said Ranald; "I will be your checker." And so Ranald became part of the firm of Raymond & St. Clair.

"Come along, Ranald," said Harry. "We will take the girls home, and then come back to the office."

"Yes, do come," said Kate, heartily. Maimie said nothing.

"No," said Ranald; "I will go back to the raft first, and then come to the office. Shall I begin to-night?" he said to Mr. St. Clair.

"To-morrow morning will do, Ranald," said Mr. St. Clair. "Come up to the hotel and see us to-night." But Ranald said nothing. Then Maimie went up to him.

"Good-by, just now," she said, smiling into his face. "You will come and see us to-night, perhaps?"

Ranald looked at her, while the blood mounted slowly into his dark cheek, and said: "Yes, I will come."

"What's the matter with you, Maimie?" said Harry, indignantly, when they had got outside. "You would think Ranald was a stranger the way you treat him."

"And he is just splendid! I wish he had pulled me out of the fire," cried Kate.

"You might try the river," said the lieutenant. "I fancy he would go in. Looks that sort."

"Go in?" cried Harry, "he would go anywhere." The lieutenant made no reply. He evidently considered that it was hardly worth the effort to interest himself in the young lumberman, but before he was many hours older he found reason to change his mind.

After taking the young ladies to their hotel there was still an hour till the lieutenant's dinner, so, having resolved to cultivate the St. Clair family, he proposed accompanying Harry back to the office.

As they approached the lower portion of the town they heard wild shouts, and sauntering down a side street, they came upon their French-Canadian friend of the afternoon. He was standing with his back against a wall trying to beat off three or four men, who were savagely striking and kicking at him, and crying the while: "Gatineau! Gatineau!"

It was the Gatineau against the Ottawa. "Our friend seems to have found the object of his search," said the lieutenant, as he stood across the street looking at the melee.

"I say, he's a good one, isn't he?" cried Harry, admiring the Ottawa's dauntless courage and his fighting skill.

His eagerness for war will probably be gratified in a few minutes, by the look of things," replied the lieutenant.

The Gatineaus were crowding around, and had evidently made up their minds to bring the Ottawa champion to the dust. That they were numbers to one mattered not at all. There was little chivalry in a shantyman's fight.

"Ha! Rather a good one, that," exclaimed the lieutenant, mildly interested. "He put that chap out somewhat neatly." He lit a cigar and stood coolly watching the fight.

"Where are the Ottawas—the fellow's friends?" said Harry, much excited.

"I rather think they camp on another street further down."

The Ottawa champion was being sorely pressed, and it looked as if in a moment or two more he would be down.

"What a shame!" cried Harry.

"Well," said the lieutenant, languidly, "it's beastly dirty, but the chap's done rather well, so here goes."

Smoking his cigar, and followed by Harry, he pushed across the street to the crowd, and got right up to the fighters.

"Here, you fellows," he called out, in a high, clear voice, "what the deuce do you mean, kicking up such a row? Come now, stop, and get out of here."

The astonished crowd stopped fighting and fell back a little. The calm, clear voice of command and Her Majesty's uniform awed them.

"Mon camarade!" said the lieutenant, removing his cigar and saluting, "rather warm, eh?"

"You bet! Ver' warm tam," was the reply.

"Better get away, mon ami. The odds are rather against you," said the lieutenant. "Your friends are some distance down the next street. You better go along." So saying, he stepped out toward the crowd of Gatineaus who were consulting and yelling.

"Excuse me, gentlemen," he said, politely, waving his little cane. Those immediately in front gave back, allowed the lieutenant, followed by the Ottawa man and Harry, to pass, and immediately closed in behind. They might have escaped had it not been that the Ottawa man found it impossible to refrain from hurling taunts at them and inviting them to battle. They had gone not more than two blocks when there was a rush from behind, and before they could defend themselves they were each in the midst of a crowd fighting for their lives. The principal attack was, of course, made upon the Ottawa man, but the crowd was quite determined to prevent the lieutenant and Harry from getting near him. In vain they struggled to break through the yelling mass of Gatineaus, who now had become numerous enough to fill the street from wall to wall, and among whom could be seen some few of the Ottawa men trying to force their way toward their champion. By degrees both Harry and De Lacy fought their way to the wall, and toward each other.

"Looks as if our man had met his Waterloo," said the lieutenant, waiting for his particular man to come again.

"What a lot of beasts they are!" said Harry, disgustedly, beating off his enemy.

"Hello! Here they come again. We shall have to

PURE CUSSEDNESS.

John Bull has the reputation of being a very obstinate old gentleman. In fact he is supposed to regard obstinacy—his own obstinacy that is—as a virtue. His attitude with regard to the question of removing the restrictions on the importation of Canadian cattle is characterized by an obstinacy which amounts to positive cussedness. Nobody has ever been able to show that the restrictions do anybody any good. They do not keep any infectious diseases out of England and nobody pretends that there are any such diseases in Canada to be kept out of England. If incidentally they protect the English farmer they give him a protection he does not want and would rather be without, because the protection deprives him of a profitable business in fattening Canadian cattle for the English market. English "ministers of agriculture" come and go and they are all asked by the representatives of Canada, of the English consumers, and of the English cattle and meat trades to remove the restrictions, and they all answer simply that they wont and that's an end on't.

CHEAPER BRITISH LITERATURE NEEDED.

The proposal of the Board of Trade that our delegation to London endeavour to arrive at an agreement with the British Government by which postage on printed matter between Britain and Canada be reduced to the same level as that between Canada and the United States, is a timely one.

It is important that we get into closer literary touch with the Mother Country; and that our young people stand, at least, as good a chance to read the productions of "the Empire of which we form a part" as those of "the continent to which we belong." At the present time, the domestic rate obtains between the United States and Canada, while a very much higher rate, fixed by convention under the terms of the Universal Postal Union, is exacted between the United Kingdom and Canada.

The British Government will not be blind to the importance of putting British on a par with American periodicals; and it is altogether likely that it will only be necessary to suggest a mutual reduction of the rate to secure its eager assent. The loss in postage if any would be trivial compared with the gain in the freer circulation of British literature.

CANADIAN CONTROL OF ANY CANADIAN FORCE.

Some nervous folk appear to imagine that any scheme of Imperial defence in which Canada may decide to bear a part, must imply the control of our forces by a Government not responsible to our people. This is no more necessary than that an Imperial preferential tariff would imply the surrender of our tariff autonomy to the British Parliament. When one man enters into an agreement with another man to prosecute any joint enterprise, he is bound in honour to carry it out and that, in a sense, limits his freedom of action. But, in a civilized community, no one regards that as any real curtailment of his liberties.

So if we agree with Britain to keep a certain tariff on specified articles so long as she maintains another set of duties agreed upon between us, we cannot, of course, repeal that tariff at will any more than Britain can get up some morning and tear up her treaty with Japan. The only man who is free in this sense is the hermit.

But it will be entirely possible for us to maintain here a force sufficient to defend our own territory from invasion and to permit us to join when necessary in defending some other part of "the farflung boundary line" of the Empire, and yet keep the control and disposition of that force entirely in the hands of the Canadian Government. Not a man need be sent over seas without the consent of the Canadian authorities; and yet we could have a citizen force here ready for such an emergency if it should arise. Of course, some understanding would have to be arrived at with the British Government. They would have to know that we kept such a force equipped and ready; and that we intended to use it to defend the Empire when the Empire was in danger.

But we could be the judges of the peril. We could say how many men could be spared; and where they should be sent. We could even retain the privilege of paying for their transport to the scene of action and maintenance in the field. It is absurd to talk of compulsion in connection with the matter. There is to-day no compulsion within the four corners of the United Kingdom itself. The British force is entirely voluntary.

On the other hand, if we refuse to discuss the matter at all, and insist upon being defended while making no preparations to defend ourselves, the day may come when the compulsory system will have to be established in the United Kingdom; and when we will have to take our chances, in an hour of stress of danger, of having the British Government ask why the British subject living in Canada should be any more tenderly treated than his brother subject living in London.

ABOUT "BOOPS" AND SUCH.

The New York Times calls attention to the serious condition of society when a Nova Scotian skipper arriving at New York with a schooner-load of mahogany from Cuba reports in his log that he "passed through a school of eight or ten Megaptera boops"—with two dots over the second "o" in boops. The Times fears that this use of the Greek instead of the usual Yankee description of the monsters—"hump-backed whales"—was due to the Pictou skipper sailing a craft called the Evadne. It is quite possible that the master of the vessel wanted to live up to, and keep the official literature of his craft up to her classical name. If the New York reporters did not know what he meant it only showed that they were not up to his standard. Some of them seemed to think that if a group of the creatures were "boops" one of them must be a "boop," on the same principle that some people talk of "them molasses." The Times thinks that, as the Evadne hails from Pictou, the presumption is that her commander knows his business, but if the news that he calls a whale a 'Megaptera boops' ever drifts into the beautiful harbour of that ancient town, its old salts are bound to be much worried about him and his vessel. "They certainly don't talk Greek, whatever may be the name of the craft on which they sail, and their comments on the man who does will carry gloom all through that region—to Pugwash, to Antigonish—with an accent on the ish, to the lonely Magdaleens, to the Bay of Shaloon, to ghost-haunted Louisbourg, and perhaps way around to Arichat."

What is even more remarkable than the Pictonian calling a whale a Megaptera boops is the evidence in the New York Times article that there is a New York newspaper man who knows the geography of a country outside the United States.

AFTER CHARTER SPECULATORS.

Mr. Guthrie, M.P., proposes to put an end to the practice of obtaining railway charters for speculative purposes by requiring every application for a charter to be accompanied by the deposit with the Government of a sum equivalent to $200 a mile for the length of the proposed road, this sum to be forfeited to the Crown if the line is not built.

Such a bill would kill a very real and common evil. No sooner do three families settle in a new district, and persuade a fourth to come along and manage a blacksmith shop, than a body of charter speculators "make a race" for Ottawa with a view to getting a charter to build railways all over the settlement. The settlers need be in no hurry about getting ready to catch the first train, however. The men with the charter have no notion of laying a rail or turning a wheel. They simply wish to be in on the ground with a charter in case the settlement grows; and then, when the people do really need a railway and men of capital are prepared to build it, these legislative "sooners" come out with their red sealed charter and announce that they must be reckoned with before the line can be laid.

It is useless to go to Parliament for relief; for Parliament is bound to say that it has already granted a charter for this district. All the capitalists can do is to buy the charter from its possessors at a fancy price; when the charter speculators will feel that their speculation was a good one.

But if they had to put up $200 a mile for every suggested road, they would feel that the risk was too great. They would wait until they were, at least, in measurable distance of the time when a railway would actually be required. As it is now, they can get a dozen charters "on spec," and, if one turns out to be profitable, they are money in pocket.

Mr. Guthrie's bill ought to pass.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal says: "We have now a 'strenuous' person in the Presidential chair. Is he going to allow Secretary Hay to give away a strip of American territory that is said to be teeming with gold? Certainly it is time that the Government of the Republic was asserting its rights and conserving its own." The United States has had some good men as President, and some that were not so good, but there is one accusation which cannot be brought against any of them, that of letting go of one foot of territory the country had the slightest claim to. The boundary disputes in Oregon and Maine were not settled on any such basis. The Memphis paper need have no fear that Uncle Sam stands in any danger of having any land that belongs to him given away.

Hon. Mr. Mulock's new Labour Department has settled a strike among the Halifax 'longshoremen, and is perfectly justified in claiming credit for it. A Labour Department could not be in better business than enabling labouring men to keep continuously in employment under terms which they themselves accept. In this matter, Mr. Mulock appears to be following in the laudable footsteps of Lord Rosebery, who made a record for solving labour difficulties when he was in active political life. A tactful Minister of Labour and a tactful representative, such as Mr. King, are worth many measures for compulsory arbitration.

A flood of Australians are coming through to the Coronation by the Canadian route. They want to see what their largest sister colony looks like. Would it not be a good idea to get our streets cleaned up a little before they get here? It would be disappointing for them not to be able to see the houses for the dust.

We do not want our people to cross the line in search of work; but it is annoying, nevertheless, to have them turned back by an American official. Unneighbourliness of this kind begets a feeling which will bear fruit after some fashion, as the Americans may discover at an inconvenient moment one of these days.

One would hardly expect to hear the stupid continental "octroi" system seriously proposed for Montreal—that is, the taxing of all food brought into the city. But it is as well to be prepared for the worst when reading City Council reports.

We congratulate the Reverend Dr. Hill and the other gentlemen who visited the City Hall yesterday, upon having found Alderman Leboeuf in such a gentlemanly humour. We know that the genial Chairman of the Police Committee received the deputation in what he considered to be a gentlemanly manner, because he said so himself repeatedly. But we shudder to think what might have happened to the deputation if the worthy alderman had been feeling a little "off" in his courtesy.

The Sunday closing movement is now upon New York and the way the police are arresting butchers, peddlers and small shopkeepers for keeping open on Sunday, clearly shows that the Raines law hotels will have to get the lining material for the rubber sandwich laid in on Saturday hereafter. It also looks as though the policemen were ready enough to do business when the forces which were sitting on the force got up.

One of the most remarkable results of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's budget has been the profound sympathy it has evoked in the United States press for the oppressed down-trodden and tax-ridden British workman. If Sir Michael would only oppress the people of England a little more by taxing imports from the United States, the American press might become quite friendly.

The news comes from Montauk, Long Island, that an exceedingly able-bodied young athlete of a scholar started in to beat his teacher, who was a little chap. The profession will hear with pleasure that as much of the scholar as was left was taken away in an ambulance. He learned that you can't always judge of the strength of soda water from the size of the bottle.

The Major Waller investigation would indicate that the idea of the only good Indian being the dead Indian, was a sentiment not without influence upon the soldiers who went to the Philippines.

THE TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION MEETS

Lord Minto Presided and Delivered An Interesting Address.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The convention of the Tuberculosis Association was opened yesterday, Lord Minto presiding.

The object of the association is to call the attention of the public as a whole to the importance of this subject, and devise such measures to be carried out as will tend toward lessening the spread of consumption.

Sir James Grant, who is president of the association, spoke of the exact mortality in Ottawa which, however, is said to be small from consumption, but it is somewhat remarkable that in a great commercial centre like Montreal, with professional talents second to none on this continent, that 900 deaths from consumption of the lungs alone were recorded during the past twelve months.

Lord Minto spoke at last night's session. His Excellency said that the community was "face to face with a great evil, which has gone far to sap the manhood of the nation, but which, we believe, has been greatly aggravated by ignorance of its exact nature, whilst under reasonable supervision we now know its effects can, in many cases, be entirely removed and invariably greatly mitigated."

Continuing, Lord Minto spoke of the value of scientific research and discovery which was fast getting the better of the dread disease. He then spoke of the objects of the association which were to arouse public interest in the prevention of tuberculosis and then by collecting the best expert opinion and disseminating it in a simple way to the public. He did not think their work at present should be in the direction of expensive sanitoriums, but as the charge of public health was in the hands of the provinces, that action rests with them in the first place, and that they must largely trust to them to initiate the active conduct of the crusade, and by attending at these central conferences of the Dominion to decide on what lines that crusade may be best carried out.

Lord Minto paid a high tribute to the work of Dr. Knopp in combatting the disease, and Dr. Richer on the publication of a valuable pamphlet on the subject.

Lord Minto was followed by Dr. S. A. Knopp, of New York, who delivered an able lecture on "The mission of societies for the prevention of consumption in the anti-tuberculosis crusade."

THE PING-PONG PUNCH.

When celebrities unbend and visit us from other climes,
It's considered sharp to put their names on soap and things—
Or to tack such designations on the wine, so that, betimes,
Anglo-maniacs will come along and open things;
But a British importation has been with us many moons,
And we feel, in consultation with our hunch,
What a pity 'tis nobody thought to evolute, effsoons,
Some insidious concoction called the
Ping
Pong
Punch!

Oh! the euphony and jingle in the rattle of the "P's."
Oh! the punch-plied ping pong parties we'd go singing toward.
Oh! the shakiness and quakiness there'd be about the knees
Of the ping pong patrons ponging at the pinging board.
But there'd be a swift hereafter, with the seltzer and the ice,
And dark recollections coming in a bunch,
With the sudden, sad reminders, catalogued, not wholly nice,
In the katzenjammer following the
Ping
Pong
Punch!

Yes, we fear the time's approaching—indications point that way—
When some aspirant for fame will come along,
And invent a soothing syrup to accompany the play
Of the gentle ping and fascinating pong.
There's a worried feeling in our breast that it is almost here,
And that soon there'll be a parlour tennis lunch,
To include some doubtful comfort and some aggravating cheer
In a frequent contemplation of the
Ping
Pong
Punch!

KIPLING AT CUT RATES.

The following poem in Rudyard Kipling's handwriting was sold in New York the other day for $17:

Who altered his tales as he sold 'em.

He replied "All serene!"
And that's bout all that he told 'em.

I wonder just why I was made.

Out in the suburb, arrayed in his jeans,
See the suburbanite patiently toil,
Planting canned corn, also Boston baked beans,
Down in the lap of the bountiful soil.

Fresh tinned tomatoes and hard-boiled egg-plant,
Sorted dried plums in a cute little row,
Fresh macaroni stuck in on a slant,
Just in the way macaroni should grow.

What does he care for the back-breaking work,
Gibes of the neighbours and smiles of his wife?
Out of the soil he proposes to jerk
Canned goods to do him the rest of his life.

ANOTHER REVISED VERSION.

The Free Lance gives a new version of the anecdote about Lord Salisbury and the pleasant-looking stranger. It was after a Cabinet Council, and Lord Salisbury was leaving with Mr. Arthur Balfour, that this dialogue occurred: "Who," said Lord Salisbury, "is that very modest gentleman with the orchid and the eyeglass that sits at the end of the table and never says a word?" "That," replied Mr. Balfour, "is Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the Secretary for the Colonies." "And is he my nephew, too?" asked the Premier. "Oh, no!" said the Leader of the House, "he's the member for Birmingham." "Ah, well!" said Lord Salisbury, "I suppose it's all right. But I can't bear strangers; never could!"

His Occupation—Asked by a justice to give an account of himself, a Georgy darky replied: "I des a po' ol' nigger, suh, votin' aroun' fer a honest livin'."

Mr. McCall—The woman I expect to marry must be beautiful, cultured, sweet-tempered and ——

THE TESTING OF FATHER.

When faint the city whistles blow
And milk carts rumble to and fro;
When the glad sunbeams newly fling
Abroad their promises of Spring,
Then father to the garden goes
And rakes and digs and plants and hoes;
When he has placed beneath the loam
About his glad suburban home
Lettuce and beans and trailing vine
And proudly says, "All this is mine,"
And joyous hears the breakfast bell
And feels his bosom proudly swell,
What sounds portentous on the breeze
Cause his slow curdling blood to freeze?
There, cackling singly or together,
With feet steel shod and lungs of leather,
The neighbours' soul destroying hens
Have flown their fragile makeshift pens!
The big white rooster proudly leads!
The air is full of garden seeds!
The old hen lifts with rapid scoops
Earth, stumps, sod, gravel, and the roots
That Pa has planted with such care
And left to grow in comfort there.
'Tis nothing but Abounding Grace
That holdeth father in his place,
Instead of clubbing every hen,
He plants the garden once again.
And Ma says, with expression sage,
"Yer father's mellerin' with age."

Members of Congress are beginning to receive acknowledgments from the farmers to whom they sent seeds a few weeks ago. Senator Beveridge got a letter from a man who owns a small patch of land just outside of Indianapolis which the Senator says shows that all mankind has not lost faith in Congress or the individuals who make up that body. The letter is as follows:

"Dear Senator: Please accept my heartfelt thanks for the seeds. They came in very handy. If it is not too troublesome I would be obliged if you would send me a double-shovel plough, a mule and some harness. Please get them here by the time the seeds sprout."

A TIME OF DANGER!

Thousands in Peril From Blood Diseases and Nerve Troubles Developed During the Winter Months.

Paine's Celery Compound

The Great Spring Blood Purifier, Nerve Bracer and Health Builder.

Paine's Celery Compound is the wonder of the age. Its marvellous virtues are discussed amongst interested medical men, and its cures are talked of at every fireside.

As a spring health-giver, Paine's Celery Compound stands far ahead of all other known remedies; it has no worthy competitor in the vast field of medicine.

To a large extent, the present popularity of Paine's Celery Compound is due to the fact that it has accomplished some of its most astonishing cures in the spring season —a time when men and women usually complain of ill health, loss of vitality, tired feelings—a time when people feel dull, listless, despondent and ambitionless.

To-day, there are thousands of business men, mechanics, farmers, and dear wives and mothers too, who, though able to walk around, are nevertheless sadly "out of health."

At this season, Paine's Celery Compound is the great health restorer and strength-giver for the "out of health" people—for those who are perilously nearing some organic disease. Paine's Celery Compound, used at once, will quickly remove every trace of poison from the blood, brace up the weak nerves, build up the tissues and tone the digestive organism.

If you, dear reader, feel that your health is not as robust and vigorous as it should be, let us honestly suggest the use of Paine's Celery Compound that has so wonderfully blessed your neighbours and friends. Be assured, "it makes sick people well."

The "Pianauto."

(Extract from "Canadian and Music Trades Journal," March, 1902.)

"The future of the piano player is bright. It has brought the classics to the masses and should weild the greatest power in the elevation of the standard of music. The D. W. Karn Co.'s "PIANAUTO" is a self-player that any one can operate. It is simple in mechanism, being almost impossible to get out of gear, and besides, is a handsome piece of furniture. Since these Canadian players were put on the market a few months ago, there has been a large demand and sale for them. The Montreal house has given weekly recitals, and in this way interested many of Montreal's best people. Many improvements have been made on it, and to-day it has few equals. Mr. Karn takes great pride in it, and justly so, as it is the pioneer in this country, and one that outsells its foreign rivals. The demand in England is rapidly growing. We predict a great future for the PIANUTO." We take pleasure in showing the PIANUTO to any who are interested. The KARN CO., KARN HALL Side., St. Catherine street.

Remarkable Trial at Quebec.

QUEBEC, April 18.—A most remarkable case has just terminated at the criminal court here by the acquittal of the accused, a Syrian merchant named Armaly. He was accused of raising drafts, cheques and post office orders. Several of the raised documents were produced in court by the crown and identified by bankers and others. Syrian friends of the accused from all parts of the country, even from as far as Hamilton came to assist him at the trial by their sympathy and evidence. Several of the witnesses could neither speak English nor French. The crown prosecutors were compelled to declare yesterday that despite their utmost efforts in the interests of justice they could not produce from their witnesses the necessary legal proof for a conviction and would not therefore insist upon a verdict against the accused.

The Lake St. John District.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The Quebec delegation which was here yesterday saw Messrs. Tarte and Sifton with regard to securing a further grant to aid in settling the Lake St. John district. Last year the Colonization Company placed 1,000 families in the district, for which they received a Federal bonus of $3,000. This year they say they will settle 3,000 families in the district, and they asked a bonus of $2 per family. The deputation left for home last night, satisfied the grant will be forthcoming.

The Ontario Court of Appeal has given judgment maintaining the constitutionality of the Lord's Day Alliance Act. If the law is put in force Sunday cars will not be permitted to run in country districts, and the Sabbath will be more generally observed in many ways.

Death of Rev. Father MacDonald.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 18.—A despatch from Charlottetown, P.E.I., says that Rev. Father D. F. MacDonald, of Souris, died suddenly Wednesday night. He complained of feeling unwell, and sat on the side of his bed and passed away. He was a graduate of Laval, and for some time a professor of St. Dunstan's College. He was respected by all creeds, and touching references were made to his death in the Legislature yesterday.

MONEY—INVESTMENTS—BUSINESS

The advance of 19 points in Nova Scotia Steel and Coal stock in two days in this market is attributed to the possibility of the issuing of a portion of the balance of the unissued stock. Of common stock there is $1,910,000, and of preferred $570,000 unissued. The authorized capital is $5,000,000 common and $2,000,000 preferred, besides $2,500,000 bonds. The concern is rapidly growing in importance, and will doubtless soon need some fresh capital. As the company is reputed to be earning something like 12 per cent. on its common stock and only paying 4 per cent. at present, the attractiveness of the stock is easily explained.

The present buoyancy in Toronto Rails is attributed to the renewal of the reports about arranging for a cheaper electrical supply for the motive power of the company's cars. Some months ago a movement that looked like the combination of the leading electricity consuming companies to convey power from Niagara to Toronto was commenced, one party of capitalists having secured representation on the boards of several concerns, including the Toronto Railway. Cheaper electricity would greatly strengthen the financial position of the company, which is now stated to be excellent.

A director of the company is quoted as saying: "The activity of the stock on the Exchange and its advance is only natural. People are just awakening to the fact that it is worth 123, and it is going there."

"Are there any new developments regarding the transmission of electrical energy from Niagara?" he was asked.

"Yes, we will have Toronto operated by Niagara power in ten months," was the reply.

"There is no doubt that the new power company will be granted a charter?"

"None whatever," was the emphatic response.

"We ask nothing from the Government, and offer to expend $3,000,000 to $4,000,000. Under these circumstances, why should there be any refusal to give us a charter at Ottawa."

The gentleman referred to is one of the provisional directors of the new power company, and is also one of the directors of the Toronto Electric Light, Railway, and General Electric Company.

In view of the statement by Mr. James Ross that the Dominion Iron and Steel Company will not be making steel rails by the beginning of October or November, the following on the steel rail situation from The New York Journal of Finance will prove interesting reading to holders of Dominion Steel and Dominion Coal shares: It is stated that the steel rail pool has no present intention of advancing prices beyond the rate which is now $28 a ton as a minimum. Authorities are quoted, however, as saying that higher prices could very readily be obtained because of the demand. In all probability a very considerable import of rails will be necessary to meet this demand, especially by railroads which have underestimated their requirements. The mills in this country are practically all booked ahead for the entire year, and more business is expected to be carried over into 1903 than was brought over from 1901 into this year. It is reported that a speculative clique has also entered the steel rail market, which has secured a large tonnage, and expects to sell out at large profits later in the year. Manufacturers are quoted as saying that they could readily dispose of all their rails at $5 from $5 to $8 a ton above the present price. The steel rail pool will probably have a meeting in September, at which the price of rails for next year will be considered, and the probabilities are that an advance will be ordered on account of the increased cost of raw material.

In the annals of Canadian stock trading it is doubtful if there is an instance of a stock being so persistently and systematically bulled by its supporters as Twin City. The fountain source of all this booming has been, and still is, Toronto. The stock has certainly excellent qualities as a money maker, for accounts both of the investment and speculative order having risen from somewhere down in the sixties to above 120, thus about doubling its market value in about three years. The Toronto crowd, however, have been credited with running the thing a little hard, and of using methods scarcely conservative to attain their ends. For instance a "melon" is now being dangled before the eyes of the speculative public that new stock may be issued to build a new line to South St. Paul.

The report is current in the "Street" that Dominion Coal will commence paying dividends on the basis of the 8 per cent guarantee by the Steel Company on July 1. Mr. James Ross, when in Great Britain recently, secured, it is said, an order for 90,000 tons of steel billets at £2l, on which the net profit will be three-quarters of a million dollars, not including the Government bounty.

An elderly gentleman called in one of the Toronto brokers' offices a few days ago, and asked for a quotation on Coal. When it was told him he nearly collapsed. It was all he could do to order the broker to sell his stock. He hadn't seen a quotation for a month, having lived in the country. When he was told that his profit was in the neighbourhod of $10,000, all he could say was, "The good God be praised!" He actually wept tears of joy, and wanted to know when he could get his money. The broker gave him his cheque at once; and there was no happier man in Toronto that evening.

Shareholders of the Montreal Telegraph Company, who received their quarterly dividends a couple of days ago, were also given a bonus of ten cents per share. This, it is believed will be paid each year from this time forward, along with the first quarterly dividend, as the financial position of the company warrants. The directors are granting this annual bonus in addition to the usual eight per cent., per annum.

Bank clearings for the week ending yesterday were $39,000,000, a decrease of $1,000,000 as compared with the previous week, but an increase of $5,000,000 as compared with the corresponding week last year. The decrease is due to the Easter holidays, which fell in the week under review. Clearings for the month to date are $156,000,000, an increase of $12,000,000 as compared with the corresponding period last year. The increase is due to the fact that there was one more business day in the month of March this year than last year, and notwithstanding there existed during the month in question a number of unfavourable factors and circumstances. There was much interruption from bad weather, while the grain movement in the West fell considerably below that of a year ago."

Discussing Canadian Securities in the London market, the Canadian Gazette says: The experience of Canadian securities has not been so favourable as when we last wrote, but, nevertheless, several appreciations have occurred in quotations. Province of Quebec 3 per cent. bonds of 1889 have risen 1 to ⅝. Both the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Companies announced that their working results for the month of February, the net expansion on the former of $34,000 being not of the brilliant character published of late, while the figures of the Grand Trunk and associated lines exactly corresponded in the net result with last year, an increase of £2,500 on the Grand Trunk system proper being offset by decreases of £1,000 and £1,400 respectively on the Grand Trunk Western and Detroit Grand Haven lines. On the week Canadian Pacific shares have gained 1 to 113¼, being helped by the favourable statements made by the president at the meeting last week rather than the working statement, and the debenture stock has risen ¼ to 113. The rights of subscription for the new issue are being dealt in at 3¼ to 3⅝ per old share. In Grand Trunk stocks there is a trifling fall on balance in the ordinary to 10 3-16, and a rise of ⅛ in the first preference to 101⅝, expectations of an expansion of from £5,000 to £7,000 in earnings for the closing ten days of March having occasioned a moderately firm feeling yesterday. The half-yearly report contained nothing of note beyond the dividend announcement made some time ago, and had absolutely no influence. Calgary and Edmonton 6 per cent. bonds have improved 1 to 2⅜, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault St. Marie preferred shares 5 to 113½, ditto common shares 3 to 54, Qu'Appelle and Long Lake 6 per cent. bonds 4 to 29½, Quebec and Lake St. John first mortgage bonds 1 to 53½, ditto income bonds 1 to 18½, Quebec Central second debenture stock 1 to 67½, ditto new income bonds 1 to 37½, and Canadian Northern 4½ per cent. bonds 1 to 101 on the important announcement made elsewhere, while all else had little change, Le Roi No. 2 being 1-16 higher at 4¾, and Le Roi 1-16 down at 3 11-16.

MR. JOHN REDMOND ON THE CRIMES ACT.

He Condemns the Government's Action in Putting it in Force—He Calls it Conspiracy.

(Special to the Montreal Star.)

LONDON, April 18.—In the House of Commons last night, Mr. John Redmond vigorously condemned the action of the Government in putting the Crimes Act in force in certain districts of Ireland. He afterwards cabled to "Col." Finnerty at Chicago, appealing for the sympathy and support of the Irish in America to enable the Irish at home to defend personal liberty and constitutional rights. He said that an infamous conspiracy was on foot in England to foment crime in Ireland, where no crime existed. The stories of outrage and violence in Ireland were infamous calumnies. The Nationalists in Ireland were only governed by a contemptible minority. This statement was cheered by the Irish members. A hundred men, Mr. Redmond continued, stood ready to replace every man sent to prison in this struggle. They entreated Mr. Wyndham, the chief secretary for Ireland, to change his policy; but if he continued it they would meet him face to face, and give blow for blow. Their answers to his coercion of Ireland would be to harden their hearts, strengthen their organization and compel redress.

Mr. Wyndham replied that while it was true that there was a comparative absence in Ireland of crime against the person, the lives of people were made miserable by intimidation and boycotting. The Government was not acting from political motives, but as the result of a mass of information laboriously collected and carefully examined.

WILHELMINA HAS TYPHOID.

The Coronation Contingent.

(Special to the Montreal Star.)

OTTAWA, April 18.—The Commander of the Canadian Cavalry section of the Coronation contingent will be Lieut.-Col. Turner, V.C., D.S.O., of Quebec. The Coronation force will spend some days in training prior to embarkation, and will be uniformed according to the various corps to which they belong. This is the same rule as was adopted in connection with the outfitting of the Jubilee contingent.

Captain E. C. Arnoldi, of the Ottawa Field Battery, has accepted a commission in the fourth contingent.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Yesterday afternoon at Albany the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, of New York, received its charter as an old line company. Under its new title, Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, the organization now is a purely mutual life insurance institution, incorporated under the legal reserve statute of New York. The examination by the New York Insurance department preliminary to granting the right of reincorporation has occupied three months. The condition of the company was determined from the standpoint of its ability to comply with the requirements of the statute governing legal reserve companies. The result of a most careful and thorough examination undertaken by the department shows that the company possesses a surplus, in excess of all liabilities, including the full statutory reserve of about half a million dollars. The insurance department increases the value of the real estate holdings beyond the estimate of the company. At the beginning of the examination the management asked of the department the utmost strictness of inquiry into its affairs, and this course was rigidly adhered to. Superintendent Hendricks is satisfied that the company is amply able to comply with all the requirements of the law for reincorporation as a legal reserve old line mutual life insurance company. On this showing the charter was granted yesterday afternoon and now the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company takes its place as the third largest purely mutual life insurance company of New York. President Frederick A. Burnham has thus fulfilled his pledge of the policy-holders of placing the mutual reserve under the regular law without depriving the policy-holders of any part of their ownership in the institution. The Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company begins its new career prosperously. Founded in 1881, it has within a period of twenty-one years paid in death claims to its members fifty million dollars. It has thousands of members in practically every state in the Union and its interests in Europe are important.

JAPANESE CATARRH CURE cures. Mrs. R. Windight, Toronto, writes: I have been troubled with Catarrh for several years. A friend advised using Japanese Catarrh Cure. I purchased a box at Thompson's Drug Store. I had no faith in it, because I had tried remedies until I was tired. I received benefit from the start, and after using two bottles I was entirely cured. I believe it will cure any case, as mine was a severe case. 50 cents at Druggists, or postpaid. The Griffiths and Macpherson Co., Limited, Toronto.

MONTREAL RECRUITS LEAVE FOR HALIFAX

Troops From Guelph, Peterboro, Toronto, St. Catharines and Kingston Accompanied the Men.

The first detachment of Montrealers for the fourth Canadian contingent left for Halifax, at twelve o'clock to-day, on the regular Intercolonial express.

The boys were heartily cheered as they entrained. There was no official demonstration, but Lt.-Col. Gordon, D.O.C., was present with Captain Kenneth Cameron, to wish the boys God speed. At the station the Montreal men met a detachment from the West, proceeding to Halifax. There were one hundred and twenty-five men from Guelph, Peterboro, Toronto, St. Catharines and Kingston. There were no commissioned officers with the party, the squads being in charge of sergeants.

THE BARRING OF ATTORNEYS FROM FLOOR OF EXCHANGE.

Advisability of Doing This Was Discussed at a Meeting of Members To-day.

A meeting of the members of the Stock Exchange was called to-day to discuss the advisability of barring attorneys from the floor of the Exchange. This question came up some time ago when the proposition to exclude them was voted down. The movement appears, however, to have a number of strong advocates, so it again comes into prominence.

At the present time a broker's clerk may be given a power of attorney by his principal, and upon paying a fee of $100 per annum, the clerk may do business on the Exchange in his employer's name. If the "anti-attorneys" carry the day, however, this will be entirely done away with, and, instead, clerks will be given entrance to the floor not to act as brokers, but to transact any business they may have with their employers, the fee being $100 per annum.

FORT WILLIAM ELEVATOR GOES TO MR. F. J. WEBER

Yesterday afternoon Mr. D. McNicoll, second vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific, awarded the contract for the new elevators at Fort William to the Steel Storage and Elevator Construction Company, of Buffalo, of which Mr. F. J. Weber is the head. It will be of steel similar in construction to that of the Harbour Commissioners', but in place of being a working one, will only be used for storage. It will have a capacity of nearly 2,000,000 bushels, and will cost over a million dollars. It must be completed by the end of the year.

Attempt to Wreck Car.

Detectives are working on a deliberate attempt to wreck Montreal Park and Island car which left town at 10.15 last night.

As the car turned west from Park avenue above the old Exhibition grounds it was going at a fair speed but not quite so quickly as is usual at this point. The motorman saw in the dim light some distance ahead an obstacle on the track and he quickly reversed the controller and put on the brakes.

An examination showed that a long stout timber, used for keeping drifts from the track, had been carried a distance of a hundred yards and placed on the track so that a car going at full speed would have been derailed. The fender and front of the car were damaged and the obstruction smashed to splinters, but otherwise no damage was done.

Complimented Mr. McCormick.

A vase of perfect accord A V Drew, of Franklin, Huntingdon Co., has just ended in a conviction of the accused, after a trial which was one of many in a series of complicated suits carried on amid the keen interest of the residents. The part played in the case by Duncan McCormick, K.C., of Montreal is thus referred to by the Huntingdon Gleaner. "Mr. McCormick showed a perseverance, skill, and carefulness of preparation that has been appreciated by those concerned. Those present in the criminal court last week state that the manner in which he conducted the prosecution of Drew for perjury raised him high in their esteem as an able lawyer."

LUSSIER TRAGEDY STILL A MYSTERY

Judge Choquet Will Personally go to Varennes to Investigate

MR. LUSSIER'S CONDITION.

One of His Wounds is Similar to That Which Caused President McKinley's Death.

There is an air of mystery over the Lussier tragedy, which took place at Varennes last Saturday, that has been growing daily, and to-day Judge Choquet decided that he will leave for the little village as soon as his other duties will permit.

It is stated that Detective Crowe is meeting with much opposition in his efforts to get evidence together to prove the attempt to murder. The servant girl of the Lussier household stated to the detectives that she was hit by something very different to a pistol, and she described the weapon so that there is little doubt that it was a loaded cane, which young Lussier was known to have. Every effort so far has been made to locate this cane, but without success.

If Judge Choquet is able to leave for Varennes to-night the accused will be taken from Sorel to the room where his injured father is lying, and there Mr. Lussier's statement of the shooting will be taken under oath.

The doctors report that his condition is still very serious, but there is a hope for recovery. In many respects one of the wounds resembles that from which President McKinley died.

TELEGRAPHERS AND MR. C. W. SPENCER IN CONFERENCE

Judge McDougall May be Third Arbitrator in the Matter of the Trackmen's Dispute.

The Canadian Pacific telegraphers had a lengthy conference with Mr. C. W. Spencer, general superintendent of the eastern division, at 11 o'clock to-day. These conferences will extend over a considerable period.

The third arbitrator in the trackmen's matter will not be named until next week. The name of Judge McDougall, of Toronto, is prominently mentioned in this connection.

FINANCE COMMITTEE WILL DO ITS DUTY CORONATION DAY

It was his intention to bring the matter up before the Finance Committee at its first meeting and see if a generous sum could not be voted in order that the great event could be celebrated in a becoming manner.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hague, "Rothenwood," Redpath street, gave an enjoyable reception yesterday, at which a large number of guests were present. The house was decorated with palms and carnations, red and white flowers being used in the arrangement of the tea table, at which Mrs. Hague poured tea, and Mrs. F. Hague poured coffee, assisted by a number of young ladies. Mrs. Hague, who received with Mr. Hague, was handsomely gowned in gray satin, trimmed with lace. Miss Hague, who also received, wore a lace trimmed tan satin gown. Among those present were Lady Tait, Mrs. Geo. Molson, Mrs. J. Turnbull, Mrs. J. Mackintosh, Mrs. and Miss Skelton, Mrs. T. Fyshe, Prof. and Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Stanley Bagg, Mrs. R. Starke Bagg, Dr. Craik, Sir William McDonald, the Misses Roddick, Mrs. C. Fleet, Mr. and Mrs. S. Carsley, Mrs. and Miss Walnwright, Mrs. Cantlie, Mrs. Meighen, Mr. and Mrs. T. Tait, Mrs. Geo. Caverhill, Mrs. J. Caverhill, Dr. and Mrs. MacCallum, Mrs. M. H. Gault, Mrs. C. E. One of the most interesting social events of the London season was Lady Lansdowne's reception at Lansdowne House Wednesday night. The whole of the magnificent suite of rooms was thrown open, and were lavishly decorated with spring flowers, azaleas, both rose and white, playing a conspicuous part in the floral decoration with most charming effect. Lord and Lady Lansdowne received their guests in the first of the reception rooms, Lady Lansdowne looked very handsome in white satin, trimmed with black, and with a huge bunch of violets fastened to her corsage. Her tiara of diamonds was tipped with huge pear shaped pearls. She also wore four rows of large pearls round her neck and a chain of diamonds. Lord Lansdowne wore evening dress, his only decoration being the Order of the Garter. Nearly everybody in the diplomatic world was present, as well as many other well known people. Rarely have so many ambassadors, Cabinet ministers and men well known in both the political and art worlds been seen at any gathering of the kind. The Duchess of St. Albans was magnificently dressed in black satin and velvet. Lady Aberdeen and Lady Winchester wore black, with magnificent diamonds. Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, who was also in black, was accompanied by her son, Mr. Winston Churchill. On the whole, it was rather curious to note the many women who wore black, but these all had on a profusion of diamonds, contrasting in a most remarkable degree with the hosts of women who came out in bright colours, altogether making such a study in contrasts as, perhaps, has never before been seen in London.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS STILL CONFIDENT

Strikers Claim They Will Win the Present Fight.

THE LIGHTING OF THE CITY

Companies Maintain That Sufficient Men are Available and That Things are Going Well.

Mr. H. J. Hurd, 3rd vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of North America, arrived in the city to-day, and delivered a spirited address at the headquarters of the strikers at St. Joseph's Hall. He received a warm welcome. The men appear to be very sanguine of success, while on the other hand the officials of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company express satisfaction with the condition of affairs, and claim that its circuits are in first class working order, and that all the men required are available.

Mr. P. G. Gossler, superintendent of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, was in excellent spirits when seen to-day by the Star. "We are getting on well," remarked Mr. Gossler, "and, as a matter of fact, we have taken on a sufficient number of men to carry out all the new work of construction along the wharf. About 120 new lamps have been placed since the beginning of the strike. Applications for work have been pouring in all day yesterday and to-day, and it is only now a question of making selections. We are experiencing little or no trouble, and in a day or two everything will be running smoothly."

MR. HURD'S STATEMENT.

Mr. H. J. Hurd, who will remain in the city until the strike is ended, when seen, said: "The men are not asking for anything exorbitant. In Toronto, the trimmers get 20 cents an hour for day work and 25 cents an hour for night work, and these rates are fixed by a city by-law. In Toronto the men trim 80 lamps for $2 and in Montreal the men trim from 95 to 100 lamps for $1.50, and three cents a day is taken off for insurance, which brings their pay down to $1.47. This has been made a compulsory rule by the companies. Our organization," continued Mr. Hurd, "is composed of the best element in the electrical fraternity, and the officials of the local union deny most emphatically that any member of the organization, has cut wires since the beginning of this strike, and the Brotherhood will prosecute any man caught resorting to these tactics."

The companies will never get our men back at the old rates of wages, as the activity in the electrical business at the present time is phenomenal and there never has been such a demand for men. Mr. Hurd expressed surprise at the poor wages paid in Montreal compared with other cities and the reasonableness of the request made by the men. The wages in Winnipeg for electrical workers are $2.75 for a nine-hour work day and in Toronto $2.50 for eight hours."

THE CITY'S LIGHTING.

Mr. J. C. Green said there was little or no improvement in the lighting condition of the city last night and that the Prince of Wales Fusiliers and Royal Scotts were obliged to return to the drill hall on account of the lamps on the Champ de Mars being out. He also said that the strikers ranks had been increased since yesterday.

The Lachine Company management states that its lines are in very good order and that they have had many applications for positions from competent men and are experiencing no trouble in filling the places of the strikers.

A public meeting will be held to-morrow night, in Blue Label Hall, 560 Dorchester street, to discuss the situation at which Mayor Cochrane, who is a member of the Knights of Labour, as well as several aldermen, will be invited to address the gathering. Other speakers will be Messrs. H. J. Hurd, 3rd vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers; Joseph Amey, president of the Federated Trades and Labour Council; A. Rodier, president of the Typographical Union, No. 145, and many prominent citizens have signified their intention of being present.

Sir Richard Musgrave's Views.

"A positive sign that the English Government thoroughly understood the feelings of the people of the country before the recent budget was issued, is shown by the rapidity with which the war loan was underwritten. Had it even been seven times as large as it was it would promptly have been underwritten. The Government has the entire confidence of the people, as also that of other nations."

The speaker was Sir Richard Musgrave, of Waterford, Ireland, who was at the Windsor to-day. Accompanied by Lady Musgrave and family, Admiral Rose and Miss Harvey, he is on his way to Vancouver Island, in the vicinity of which he will spend some time salmon fishing.

"A couple of years ago I visited British Columbia and had such a pleasant time fishing that I decided to come back. There is certainly no place in the world where better fishing can be had. I had the good luck to land a seventy-pounder, which, up to that time, was considered a record catch. Many new rivers were explored and a number of good catches of fish, averaging between thirty and forty pounds were made by some of the members of the party. We hope to be able to make just as good a record during the present trip."

The Price of Flour.

There is evidently trouble brewing between the two principal Manitoba flour milling firms. Just how serious the breach is, is difficult to say, but there can be little doubt that it is critical.

A few weeks ago a considerable cut in the price of flour was announced by one of the firms, and it soon became a matter of talk among flour merchants that the official cut was the result of competition on the part of the other milling firm, which, in carrying on an active competition for trade, had been underselling its rival. But whether these rumours had their foundation in fact or not is another question. To-day the evidence that the milling firms are at loggerheads is convincing.

Yesterday the Ogilvies announced an advance to $3.80 a barrel for strong bakers and $4.10 for patents. To-day the Lake of the Woods Company declared they are still selling at $3.60 for strong bakers and $3.90 for patents; and if anything might be inferred from their attitude on the matter, it is that there is no likelihood that they will advance prices at present.

Mr. F. W. Thompson, of the Ogilvy Company, being seen at his office this morning, said that he had no statement to make upon the matter. His company was selling flour on a commercial basis, and he was not concerned in what others might be doing. Mr. Meighen and Mr. Hastings, of the Lake of the Woods Company, being seen at their office, said much the same thing. They neither denied nor affirmed that a flour war was imminent.

Meantime the trade discusses the situation freely and all are on the qui vive for the news of the next move as further developments are generally anticipated.

Ogilvie's announcement is as follows:

"Ogilvie's flours have been advanced 20c a barrel from the Atlantic to the Pacific making Montreal prices as follows: Ogilvie's Hungarian, $4.10; Ogilvie's Glenona Patent, $3.80; Ogilvie's Manitoba Bakers, $3.10.

PROMENADE ALONG THE RIVER FRONT

This New Project Will Come Before the Road Committee.

PLANS FOR 8 FOOT SIDEWALK

Scheme for Improving Harbour Will Extend From Custom House to Berri Street.

At the next meeting of the Road Committee a project will be introduced for building a promenade on Commissioners street, near the new stone dyke, on the south side of the street.

The City Surveyor will submit plans showing a sidewalk eight feet wide built against the dye and running within three feet of its summit. It is proposed to run this promenade from the Custom House to a point near Berri street. It will be contended, by the City Surveyor, that such a promenade would be a splendid thing for the city, as it would give a fine view of the river and the wharves, and would be appreciated both by citizens and visitors. It will also be shown that the improvement would not cost a great deal of money.

The most serious obstacle against the project is the desire of the Street Railway Company to run cars on the street. Many of the aldermen want the company's tracks placed near the dyke. They contend if they were placed too near the centre of the street teams would be hampered in reaching the wholesale houses on the north side of the street.

It is likely that a proposition will be made that the proposed promenade only be five feet wide instead of eight. It is thought this would settle the difficulty as to space, as it would allow the tracks of the Street Railway Company to come comparatively near the dyke.

ENORMOUS BUYING IN WALL STREET

Quotations in Many Cases Opened Wide—Railways and Industrials Prominent Features.

NEW YORK, April 18. — Wall Street buying orders on an enormous scale were executed all through the list at the opening. The opening quotations were wide in a number of cases on running sales of several thousand shares. There were 30,000 shares of Reading sold at 62 to 63 compared with 61 1-2 last night and 7,000 shares of Colorado Fuel at 108 1-2 to 108 3-4 compared with 105 7-8 last night. First sales of American Locomotive were of 7,000 shares at an extreme advance of a point, the preferred also rising 1-4 and of Atchison 6,400 shares at an advance of a point and of 6,000 shares of United States Steel. There were sales of 1,000 to over 4,000 shares of other stocks and gains of from 1 to 2 points were made by L. & N., Denver and Rio Grande, Illinois Central, Chicago Terminal Transfer preferred, Atchison preferred and New York Air Brake. The pressure against special stocks relaxed and the market hardened when the Southwestern group was advanced. Kansas and Texas preferred rose 2 points. All of the soft coalers rallied, led by Hocking Valley which advanced 2 3-8. Many notable gains were made by the specialties, North American rising 5 3-4, American Snuff 4 1-8, and the preferred 2 1-4. Toward noon large blocks of United States steel, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific were bought, the last named reaching 48 1-8. Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville broke 4 3-8 from the best. The coalers and Colorado Fuel were reactionary and affected the market generally. Bonds were steady.

Wheat Fields Need Moisture.

(From the Special Correspondent of the Montreal Star on the Chicago Board of Trade.)

CHICAGO, Ill., April 18.—Every recognized authority led by the Modern Miller is talking of the lack of moisture over the larger part of the winter wheat belt. The Orange Judd Farmer and the Commercial West are pronounced on the deterioration in Kansas. The railways admit that the winter wheat territory needs rain badly, but that there have been no serious losses thus far. A message from Kansas says that while rain is needed there will be no damage in case there is ample moisture in two weeks or fifteen days. It was a weather market to-day with but little rain in any section. The south-west and north-west were again good sellers. There was some reselling of cash here by the seaboard.

The Long Murder Trial.

(Special to the Montreal Star.)

BEAUHARNOIS, Que., April 18.—In the Long murder trial yesterday afternoon John Ferguson, a farmer of Dundee, was examined. He knew the accused very well, and had never noticed anything remarkable about his appearance or conversation. He saw him on October 3, and asked him into his house, but he declined. He noticed the barrel of a rifle sticking out from under the buffalo robe. In answer to a question of the accused, he said that he had been appointed a justice of the peace, but was not qualified to act. Long then said he must find a magistrate. Witness asked him what the trouble was and he said that he had killed a man, Gordon Davidson's hired man. The court then adjourned. To-day Mr. Ferguson continued his evidence. After their conversation accused drove away in the direction of Huntingdon. Witness told how he and Davidson had found Labre's body on Long's farm, after which he went to notify the coroner.

Ottawa Painters' Strike Settled.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 18.—The painters' strike in Ottawa was settled by a compromise to-day, after lasting about a month. The men want to enforce a demand of $2.25 a day of nine hours for paper hangers, and $2.00 a day, nine hours, for painters, and recognition of the unions. The advance was 25 cents a day for each. The employers have agreed to pay the rate to all who are worth it, and will give union men the preference, but will not sign any agreement. The men will return to work to-day.

The Thomson line steamer Bellona sailed from Burriana, Spain, April 16 for Montreal. She carries a cargo of fruit for this market.

THE BOER LEADERS LEAVE PRETORIA

Leaders of Boer Commands Will Meet and Consider Situation.

NO ARMISTICE IS GRANTED

This Means That Peace Cannot be Established in Less Than Three Weeks.

(See also page two.)

LONDON, April 18.—The Government leader, A. J. Balfour, in the House of Commons, to-day, made the following important statement:

"After two conferences between Lord Milner and Lord Kitchener and the Boer delegates at Pretoria, Lord Kitchener, while refusing to grant an armistice, on military grounds, has agreed to give facilities for the election and meeting of representatives of the various Boer commands to consider the position. The Boer leaders have, therefore, left Pretoria, to carry out this plan."

Mr. Balfour added that it was not expected that communication between the British authorities and the Boer leaders could be resumed in less than three weeks' time.

Balfour's statement made a generally favourable impression. It was argued among the members of the House of Commons that the action of the Boer leaders demonstrated that at any rate, a majority of the delegates favour the acceptance of the suggested British peace terms. The submission of the question to a plebiscite of the Burghers is according to Boer law, which requires the leaders of armed forces in the field to take the opinion of their followers before concluding peace.

Premier Barton is Not Coming.

(Special to the Montreal Star.)

OTTAWA, April 18. — The Postmaster-General has received cable messages from Hon. Mr. Barton, Premier of the Australian Commonwealth, and Hon. Mr. Seddon, Premier of New Zealand, stating that they do not propose proceeding to England via Canada. They hope, however, to return to Australia through Canada after the Colonial Conference in London next July.

HIGHER PAY WANTED

The Low Pay Causes Slowness in Recruiting for the Army, Says Ald. Rose—The Navy Has No Difficulty.

"The main reason why it was found so difficult to get a sufficient number of recruits in England for the South African war was owing to the small pay. Then, again, of late the people have been getting very tired of the war, and this might have had something to do with the decision of the War Office to get recruits for a fourth contingent in Canada."

Such was the opinion offered to-day by Admiral Rose, of the Royal Navy, who was at the Windsor to-day on his way to the Pacific Coast.

"That the first reason was the main one," he continued, "has been shown by the fact that since the pay was increased but little difficulty has been experienced in getting all the men needed."

"Do you think that the people of England are in favour of the present peace negotiations being carried out?"

"Yes, indeed. What they want is peace, and they are willing that much should be done to obtain it. Generally speaking, the people would even be willing that the Government should go back to a certain extent on some of the statements already made in order that negotiations may be closed successfully. And it is generally believed that at the present time the Boers are serious in the propositions they are making."

"What of the navy with which you have been connected for so many years?"

"The condition of affairs is entirely different from that of the army. We are able to get all the recruits we need, and could even secure twice as many. The reason of this is evident. The young men are given an excellent training and they are afforded every reasonable chance to secure promotion."

"And would you say that any special effort is being made to increase the number of ships?"

"Most decidedly. New ships and cruisers of all classes are being built. It has never been England's policy to increase the fleet too rapidly, for it would be imprudent to go out of the navy yards to get ships built. During the past couple of months a number of new ships have been launched, and more will be put out in the near future. The navy is in a most satisfactory condition, and the Government is doing everything to have it remain so."

Granted a New Charter.

The Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association of New York was granted a new charter yesterday by the State Legislature. The name is changed to the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company.

The change of charter makes it legal for the company to do business under the legal reserve law, which the former charter did not.

Single Tax Association.

There was a good attendance at the third annual meeting of the Single Tax Association, of Montreal, which was held last evening in the library of the Natural History Rooms. During the evening a challenge from the Socialistic League for a debate upon "Socialism vs. Single Tax" was received and accepted, and a number of new members were enrolled. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—John Anderson.

First vice-president—Joseph Fortier.

Second vice-president — B. A. Marcuse.

Secretary—Richard Dawson.

Treasurer—R. B. Capon.

Librarian—E. H. Barker.

Directors—Messrs. Henry Timmis, T. J. Griffiths, B. L. Nowell, Charles Lingham, and T. C. Allum.

"Hospitals and Land Values" was the subject of the paper of the evening, read by Mr. R. B. Capon. Authorities were quoted to show that poverty was the most prevalent cause of sickness, when traced back to its source. Remove poverty, and the need for hospitals would decrease. Anything which would remove the special privileges sustained by various kinds of enactments, thus compelling all to become producers, instead of making it possible for them to live at the expense of others, would abolish vast fortunes, and their concomitant, unnecessary poverty. By taxing land values, the enormous values constantly being added only to the land by reason of efficient government and increased population, the special privilege of taxing industries for the benefit of land would be abolished. It was right that these values, being wholly made by the people, should revert to the people, annually, in the shape of public revenue, and, being sufficient for this object, other forms of taxation could be abolished. Then poverty and hospitals would be less in evidence.

AWARDED $4000 FOR HER SON'S DEATH

Mrs. Payette Recovered Damages From Canada Atlantic Railway.

WAS CRUSHED UNDER A CAR

Mr. Justice Taschereau to-day granted $4,000 to Mrs. Joseph Payette, of Ottawa, in her action for $5,000 damages against the Canada Atlantic Railway Company for the death of her son, Oscar Payette. The young man, who was a tinsmith, was engaged with his employer to work at the company's elevator, at Coteau landing. During their work they had to go from one side to the other of the tracks of the company on which were hundreds of empty box cars. To cross the tracks, the workmen at the elevators were told by the company's employes in charge to crawl under the box cars. This they did several times, going back and forth. On one occasion, however, the plaintiff's son was crossing, when a locomotive coming along the track caused all the cars to move, and the young man was crushed to death beneath a car.

CLAIMS THAT COUNCIL BREAKS OBLIGATIONS

Allowing Portions of City to Remain in Partial Darkness.

FEDERATED LABOUR COUNCIL

At Meeting Last Evening Resolutions Were Passed Supporting Electrical Workers in Their Strike.

At last night's meeting of the Federated Trades and Labour Council, great interest was manifested in the Electrical Workers' strike. The meeting was very largely attended. Strong speeches were made and it was claimed that the action of the electrical companies who have refused their employes the right to organize was contemptible. The delegates from the outlying districts protested that the City Council was standing by and allowing the street lighting contract to be shamefully violated without a murmur of protest. The delegates held that in the event of hold-ups or accidents, owing to the dark streets, these companies should be held responsible. Mr. Joseph Airey, the president, was in the chair. The following delegates presented credentials and were introduced: L. Girard and G. Sancon, Boot and Shoe Workers' Local, No. 247; James Duquette and L. M. Dupont, Clothing Pressers' Union; A. Charpentier, J. A. Bernier, J. Monette, P. Nadeau, A. Gagnier, Bricklayers' Brotherhood; J. C. Green and T. B. Trafford, Electrical Workers' Union. The delegates from the Electrical Workers' Union spoke on the strike situation in their trade. A week ago, he said, the union presented schedules to both companies, one of which absolutely refused to consider it, and the other, after consideration, returned an unsatisfactory answer. The only thing left for them to do was to go on strike, and all the members of the union in their branches, with the exception of one or two, had done so. The delegates condemned statements of the managers calculated to create the impression that the companies needed the service of the police to protect them from the actions of the strikers, and place the union members in a bad light before the public.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE STRIKE.

The speakers claimed that the companies were responsible for the strike, as they refused to consider demands presented through their organization, and asked the labour leaders present to request the aldermen to compel the Royal Electric Company to fulfil its contract with the city and to bring pressure to bear upon both companies to come to a settlement with their employes.

The Electrical Workers' Union, they said, were prepared to submit their case to arbitration, but if the companies desired to continue the contest they would fight them to the end. The delegates claimed that the treatment of the companies in the past had forced the men to organize in order to protect their interests. Some time ago the linemen had asked for an advance in wages, and had obtained it at the expense of the groundmen, whose wages were reduced 10 cents a day. Instances of alleged injustices to individual workmen were also cited.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED.

The following resolution was unanimously passed:

"That the Federated Trades and Labour Council protest against the conduct of the city authorities in allowing the Electric Light Company to leave large sections of the city in darkness in defiance of the conditions it had entered into, and that a committee be appointed to interview the Mayor and the City Council in this connection, and further, that all local organizations affiliated with the Federated Trades Council be requested to pass resolutions condemning the electric companies for refusing to recognize the union of their employes and to appoint committees to act in conjunction with the committee from the central body when it waits on the City Council."

Delegates Rodier and Dupont spoke at length to these resolutions, urging all the trade unions of the city to use any political influence they possessed to bring about a settlement of the difficulty. They also took occasion to call attention to what municipal ownership of civic services had accomplished for the workpeople of Glasgow, Manchester and European cities. Under this system wages had been advanced and the hours of labour reduced for employes. The Organization Committee was instructed to arrange a demonstration to protest against the City Council's failure to take action to compel the electric companies to consider the interests of the citizens.

The delegates from the Plumbers and Steamfitters' Union announced that all arrangements were being made to put their new scale of wages into effect on May 1.

The delegates from the Tinsmiths' and Roofers' Union reported that nearly all the employers had already conceded their demands, and it was more than likely a strike would be averted on the 1st of May.

Federation of Women's Clubs.

Arrangements are completed for the sixth biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be held in Los Angeles, Cal., May 1-8. The Federation now numbers over 200,000 members under the presidency of Mrs. Rebecca Lowe, of Atlanta, Ga. The honorary members, several of whom will be present at the meeting, include: Miss Florence Routledge, London; Baroness Bertha von Suttner, Hermansdorf, Austria; Mme. Isabella Bogelot, Paris; Lady Aberdeen, Scotland; Mrs. Clark Murray, Montreal; Mme. Yakoot Sarruf, Cairo; Lady Emilia Dilke, London; Fraulein Helene Lange, Berlin; Mrs. Galloway, Glasgow; Comtess de Denterghem, Brussels; Mme. Jules Siegfried, Havre; Mlle. Anne de Beauvet, Paris; Mrs. Philippa Fawcett, Cambridge; Mme. Pauline Kergomard, Paris; Dr. Archangeloski, Moscow; and Mlle. Conta, Yassy, Roumania.

Their Jurisdiction Extended.

The Reverend Oblate Fathers, who are in charge of St. Peter's Church and for many years past have been supplying missionaries to the North-West, have been given control of the parish church at Cap de la Madeleine. This has become one of the most largely visited pilgrimage shrines in Canada, so it was considered better to place it in the hands of a religious order. Rev. Joseph Dozois has been appointed parish priest and Rev. Father Chevrier, of Quebec, assistant.

Diplomas for Head Nurses.

As a result of the recent examinations the following head nurses are entitled to diplomas as graduates of the Montreal General Hospital Training School for Nurses graded as follows: Miss Georgina Daly, Louise Stewart, Katherine Edith Gorrell, Grace M. H. Barron, Dora Olivia Porteous, A. G. Snowdon, Winifred Blair, C. McF. Snowdon.

LIVING IS DEARER THAN A YEAR AGO

The Prices of All Butchers' Meats Have Advanced.

THE RANGE AT BONSECOURS

Butchers Claim There is No Profit on Some Lines—Cause of the Advance.

Following is a comparative price list of provisions, which have advanced in value since a year ago, prices being in all cases for best qualities, as quoted by leading butchers at Bonsecours Market. Prices in leading up-town stores generally exceed these by quite a margin:

	1902.	1901.
Sirloin steak, lb.	18	14
Rib roast, lb.	15	13
Round steak, lb.	15	12
Brisket, lb.	9	8
Veal, lb.	12½	12
Fresh turkey, lb.	14	12
Roasting chickens, lb.	15	12½
Fowl, lb.	11	10
Eggs, doz.	15	13
Butter, finest, lb.	31	27
Cheese, mild, lb.	14	12
Potatoes, bag	90	60

Mutton shows little change from a year ago; pork, ham, bacon, turnips, cabbages and cauliflowers are about the same. Flour is cheaper in a wholesale way, while rolled oats are dearer.

The growing time is what all have been praying for. A glance over the above comparative list of prices of certain necessary articles of diet will convince the most skeptical that the time is at hand.

From the standpoint of the consumer, the answer is not calculated to bring undiluted joy, more especially when it is remembered that the dealers in many of the articles mentioned hold out little hope of any material decline in prices in the near future. In fact, if the prevailing opinion in the United States be of any value, the market shows a tendency in the upward direction rather than in the downward. A New York report says that the excessive standard of values will be maintained for a year at least, and that already numbers of dealers in the cheaper lines of meats have been compelled to close their doors.

THE BUTCHERS' VERSION.

Montreal butchers have their tale of woe also. Some of them claim that they are doing a portion of their business at an actual loss in order to hold their custom, and that the balance of it is being done at the very smallest margin. One butcher has quit selling beef altogether, and gone into vegetables, while others say they are only holding on in the hope that cattle will decline in price as soon as they can be turned out to grass.

Newspapers in the United States seem to place the blame of dear beef at the door of the Beef Trust. Two of the leading live stock exporters of the port of Montreal, in an interview with the Star last week, gave it as their opinion that no combine existed at all and that the high price of beef was due mainly to the limited supply of animals resulting from the years of low prices.

BUTTER AND CHEESE PRICES.

One of the main causes, however, not only of the high price [illegible] but of that of butter, is that feed [illegible] kinds, save hay, was fully fifty [illegible] higher all last winter than it was [illegible] the previous one. Assuming that the statement that the supply of animals is short also, it would be reasonable to suppose that both butter and cheese will be affected thereby, though it must not be forgotten, that it is the export demand for these commodities, especially of butter, which mainly controls the price. Canada being a leading cheese producing country has more to say in fixing the price of that commodity, and if the price of fodder makes is any criterion for the later makes, higher prices than last year are sure to prevail in cheese also.

Dear feed has also affected the supply of poultry, and consequently its price. Farmers having got rid of a large number of their hens last autumn, the supply of eggs has been considerably curtailed, and buyers find considerable difficulty in obtaining sufficient for the demand, though they are paying about two cents a dozen more than a year ago. Until the number of hens increases again, these higher prices are likely to prevail.

A somewhat remarkable feature in connection with this general advance in the cost of living is the fact that hotels and restaurants have not made any change in the prices of their meals. From the modest 15c meal up through the 25c, 50c, 75c, and $1.00 grades, the price, and so far as the taste is any judge, the quality is unchanged.

Montreal General Hospital.

The President of the Montreal General Hospital, Mr. James Crathern, acknowledges the receipt from Mrs. A. W. Ogilvie, of a large hot air apparatus for application to joint affections. This expensive gift will tend to keep in memory the kindly interest felt by the late Senator to the hospital.

The members of the committee of management also beg to acknowledge the receipt, through Mr. Charles Gurd, treasurer, of a cheque for $1240, the proceeds of the two concerts given in the Windsor Hall in March last. The members of the committee tender their hearty thanks to Mr. O. Stewart Taylor, the conductor; the ladies and gentlemen, the soloists, together with the ladies and gentlemen who formed the chorus; Mr. David Watson, chairman of the concert committee, and those associated with him; and the ladies who undertook the sale of the tickets, and by their efforts insured large and appreciative audiences at the concerts referred to.

Watkin Mills' Matinee.

Owing to the large sale of tickets for to-night's Watkin Mills concert, and the demand from the ladies for a matinee, it has been decided to give an afternoon concert to-morrow at 3 p.m., at popular prices There will be an entire change of programme.

POUND PARTY.—The Woman's Auxiliary of the Montreal Homoepathic Hospital will hold an afternoon tea and pound party at the hospital, 44 McGill College avenue, on Saturday, 19th inst., from 4 to 6 o'clock. THE AMERICANS AND CHINA.

The Boxer war gave the Americans—as well as the world at large—an impressive lesson in the difference between an "open door" and a closed one into China. During the seven months ending with February, 1901, when military operations practically killed trade in North China, the American exports of cotton goods to the Chinese Empire reached a total of only $807,501; while during the same period a year later—that is, the seven months ending with February, 1902—these exports of cotton goods to China amounted to $8,385,231. Thus in cotton alone, the difference to the United States between an open and a closed door amounts to some $1,110,000 a month.

It is significant that the great part of this trade is done with the northern provinces of China, which are especially threatened by the Russian advance. The New York Commercial Advertiser estimates that from 86 to 90 per cent. of all American cotton goods exported to China finds distributing markets in the three northern ports of Tien Tsin, Chefoo and Nechwang. Russian control of these ports would mean a closed door to foreign trade; and the partition of China would undoubtedly give the Bear control of them. Hence it is as clear as need be that American interests are best to be served by aiding the Japo-British alliance in preserving the integrity of China and providing for a permanently open door.

The nations that desire trade and not territory will find themselves compelled, as the ambitions of the predatory powers develop, to stand together. It will be no question of sentiment, but merely a matter of business. Our objects may be no more unselfish than those of the power which proposes to monopolise the commerce of a people and then give to it what they regard as a better and steadier government; but they are different. And they imply keeping these peoples under a control which will never close their sea-gates upon the traders of civilization. There may never be a formal alliance back of this policy; but a clear identity of interest is better than a written treaty.

MUCH VACANT LAND SOLD IN WESTMOUNT DURING PAST WEEK

The real estate sales in Westmount during the past week amounted to $32,535.93. The majority of the sales were of vacant land in different parts of the town.

Mr. H. Wighton has purchased from Mr. A. Hannaford lot No. 1434-74 Abbott ave. for $1,120.15. This is at the rate of 42 cents a foot. Mr. Bannell Sawyer has sold to Mrs. G. Maybank, a stone house at the corner of Western and Metcalfe avenues for $6,000. Mr. A. A. Phillips has sold to Mr. F. W. Hibbard lots Nos. 219-134-135 at the corner of Sherbrooke street and Grosvenor avenue and containing 15,000 feet of land for $6,000, or 40 cents a foot. Mr. F. W. Hudson has secured from Mr. A. A. Phillips lots Nos. 219-32 and 33 Grosvenor avenue, containing 15,109 feet of land for $6,000. Mr. Jonathan Brown has purchased from Messrs. James Marshall and D. Yule lots Nos. 225-6 Belmont avenue, for $4,959.60 or 30 cents a foot. Mrs. A. A. Saint has secured from Mr. J. M. de Bosch Kemper lot No. 263 Metcalfe avenue, for $3,570 or 60 cents a foot.

IRON MOULDERS ALSO DEMAND INCREASED WAGES

It Has Been Decided to Insist Upon a Wage on a $2.50 Per Day Basis.

The iron moulders held a large meeting last night at 132 St. James street and it was decided to insist on more pay, a request for which has been sent in to the Founders' Association. The minimum wage now is $2.15 a day. The men are demanding $2.50. Two years ago an agreement was reached between the moulders and the Founders' Association for a minimum of $2.15 a day. This was renewed last spring for one year. The time has now expired and the men will insist on the rate of wages being fixed on a $2.50 a day basis. The officials of the union say that some men are receiving as high as $2.75 a day at the present time and the new rate will not affect the pay rolls to any great extent by paying an equal wage for equal work.

PLASTERERS HAVE NOW A NINE-HOUR DAY.

As Result of Strike About 400 Men Will Receive $2.50 Per Day Besides Other Concessions.

After a contest of three days the Operative Plasterers have succeeded in establishing a nine-hour day in this trade. As the strike was solely one for a reduction of hours of labour, the victory is regarded by labour men as one of the most important that has been won by a trade union in Montreal for years. The bricklayers is the only other building trade that has a nine hour work day. As a result of the victory about 400 men will receive $2.50 a day, besides gaining conce sions, which will reduce the number of working hours

SWEET BREATH

A test was made to find if just the leaving off of coffee alone would produce an equal condition of health as when coffee is left off and Postum Food Coffee used in its place.

A man from Clinton, Wis., made the experiment. He says, "About a year ago I left off drinking coffee and tea and began to use Postum. For several years previous my system had been in wretched condition. I always had a thickly furred, bilious tongue, and foul breath, accompanied with severe headaches. I was troubled all the time with chronic constipation so that I was morose in disposition and almost discouraged.

At the end of the first week after making the change from coffee to Postum I witnessed a marvellous change in myself. My once coated tongue cleared off, my small appetite increased, breath became sweet and the headaches ceased entirely. One thing I wish to state emphatically, you have in Postum a virgin remedy for constipation, for I certainly had about the worst case ever known among mortals and I am completely cured of it. I feel, in every way, like a new person.

During the last summer I concluded that I would experiment to see if the Postum kept me in good shape or whether I had gotten well from just leaving off coffee. So I quit Postum for quite a time and drank cocoa and water. I found out, before two weeks were past that something was wrong and I began to get costive as of old. It was evident the liver was not working properly, so I became convinced it was not the avoidance of coffee alone that cured me, but the great value came from the regular use of Postum." 91 1

DEPUTATION HAD A STORMY INTERVIEW

Ald. Lebeuf Strikes Out at Members of Lord's Day Alliance.

CONFERENCE WITH THE MAYOR

A Heated Discussion Over Sunday By-Law and the Proposed Amendment.

A deputation from the Lord's Day Alliance called upon Mayor Cochrane yesterday to protest against the amendment proposed by Ald. Lebeuf, chairman of the Police Committee, to the Sunday by-law. The result of the interview was far from satisfactory, as Ald. Lebeuf, who, by the request of the deputation, assisted at the meeting, became very much incensed and used language that was hardly parliamentary. Naturally this was resented, and the discussion became very acrimonious. It is difficult to see at the present time what practical result will ensue from yesterday's discussion.

The deputation consisted of Rev. Dr. J. Edgar Hill, vice-president of the Lord's Day Alliance, of Montreal; Rev. J. L. George, secretary; Rev. C. E. Bland, Rev. James Patterson, Rev. Hugh Pedley, Messrs. W. Blakemore, Walter Paul, George Hague, Alex. McFee and S. J. Carter. In addition to the Mayor, there were also present Ald. Lebeuf, Chief of Police Legault and several other aldermen, who came in during the discussion.

REV. J. EDGAR HILL'S ADDRESS.

The trouble began early. Rev. J. Edgar Hill, who was the spokesman of the party, referred to the meeting at Emmanuel Church some nights ago, when resolutions were passed, which he recited. They deplored the necessity for coming before the civic authorities, but they were law abiding citizens, and came to ask that the civic by-laws be enforced. Twenty years ago, Montreal was a model city, so far as the observance of the Sunday was concerned. To-day everything is changed, and the change for the worse had been noticeable within the last two or three years. The civic authorities seemed to disregard the necessity of interfering to have the law observed. He believed the trouble arose from a misconception of their duties on the part of the chairman and members of the Police Committee. Their duty was to look after the discipline of the force and not at all to indicate which by-law should be enforced and which suspended.

ALD. LEBEUF TAKES A HAND.

Ald. Lebeuf interrupted to ask why the delegations came before the committee so often.

Rev. Dr. Hill continued without noticing the interruption, when Ald. Lebeuf again broke in with

"You asked us to pass a by-law."

Rev. Dr. Hill—"I appeared once before Mr. Lebeuf and his committee; I think it was a great mistake. We did it; I certainly would not do it again. In my ignorance I went there, but now, in my knowledge, I won't go back again. However, I wish to say our idea, and I think the idea of the citizens at large, is the Police Committee have nothing to do with the suspending of laws, or considering whether they should be suspended or not. We believe the chief of police, as head of that department, should be left with a free hand to make himself conversant with the city by-laws and to administer them. We don't think any chairman of a committee is entitled to overrule a public official, in whom the people trust and to whom they look."

ALD. LEBEUF GETS ANGRY.

Ald. Lebeuf (interrupting)—"This is too personal. When did I override the chief of police? You are going too far, and I must stop you there. I never did it, and it is a falsehood you are saying. Don't try to be personal, because I will bring you back to order quick; I don't care who you are; I don't care; I will say it to your face."

Dr. Hill continued, saying that the deputation came before the Council with a full sense of their responsibility. They believed they represented the whole community, for they had had before the City Council letters from Archbishop Bruchesi, Archbishop Bond and all the priests of the Catholic parishes of Montreal. He further said that if this question had been submitted to the electors at the last municipal election the result in some of the wards would have been different.

MR. PAUL TAKES A HAND.

Mr. Walter Paul stated that at the last meeting it was suggested that the deputation should furnish a list of those who are offending against the Sunday by-law, and who should be punished.

The deputation had protested against such an imputation, they were private citizens, who had come to ask that the law be enforced by the proper officers, and should not be asked to become public prosecutors. He did not know whether it was the chairman of the Police Committee who made the suggestion, but he knew it had been made. They did not wish to press hard upon widows and cripples, who made a few cents by dispensing cool drinks and fruit on Sunday, but they did object to large stores being open, and believed they should be closed up. It was hard to legislate so as to prevent hardships, but the offences were so glaring that there was no need of any information from the members of the Alliance to allow the police to take action.

The Mayor here explained that he was the one who had made the suggestion referred to. Some of the gentlemen on a former delegation had stated they knew some of those places were houses of assignation, and the Mayor suggested that any one who knew of any such places should send in the information to the police.

Mr. Paul wondered which one of the deputation could have been familiar with such places. (Laughter.)

Rev. J. L. George thought it had been stated that the police had had reports of such places, not that any one of the deputation knew of them.

The Mayor—"They had no personal knowledge."

Mr. Hague remarked that this had nothing to do with the Sunday question, as these places should be closed every day.

WOULD NOT TREAD ON HIS TOES.

Ald. Lebeuf then took the floor. He regretted that he had interrupted the first speaker, but that gentleman had stated something which he considered a falsehood, and he was not one to let any one tread on his toes without immediately getting up and answering back. He then took up the resolution passed at the Alliance meeting some evenings ago. With great vehemence he denounced those resolutions as falsehood. The deputations had always been treated in a gentlemanly manner, and by gentlemen, and had no right to make such statements as had been made at that meeting. He would press his amendment. He did not care for the Alliance, nor how many thousand signatures they got.

The Alliance had sent two deputations to the Police Committee and the matter had been thoroughly thrashed out and they had agreed to tolerate the small, petty trade, but to close up the big fruit stores. The members of the last delegation had left him under the impression that they would send in a list of those they considered should be prosecuted. They had not done so. They had a right not to do so. He had waited for them some time, and then had caused the Chief of Police to have a list drawn up of those who should close and those who should be tolerated, and he invited the delegates to call upon the Chief of Police and see the list. Ald. Lebeuf said he wished he could speak in his own language because then he could speak of the statements made by the first speaker in such a way as to put that gentleman in his place without being unparliamentary. He stated that it was the duty of the Police Committee to bring the question before the Council, and he wanted to know what right the delegates had to come and dictate to the members of the committee.

WANTED BUSINESS TALKED.

Turning to Rev. J. Edgar Hill, he continued:

"I respect you and the church you belong to. We don't come and dictate to you and your church; don't come and dictate to us. Come here and talk like a gentleman, and talk business, and we will answer you in a business way; but when you come and try to say what you said a few minutes ago, I get up. Now I am on the subject, I give you the explanation you need, and hope you understand it once forever."

Mr. Walter Paul—"I wish the privilege of interrupting and would like to tell Ald. Lebeuf that he is mistaken if he believes loud talking is going to scare the members of this delegation. (Hear, hear.) If he spoke in his own language he might not use the expressions he has used, but I must tell him that to those who speak the English language his language is very offensive."

Ald. Lebeuf—"Do you want me to speak French? Would you understand me if I spoke in French? How many of you here would understand me? I am not obliged to speak your language."

Mr. Paul—"You are obliged to speak in a gentlemanly way."

Ald. Lebeuf—"I am speaking in a gentlemanly way, and have been. You have been attacking me in the papers, and you came for the answer, and I am giving it you now. You say you are business men. What is it you want? You don't want us to go on with that proposed amendment to the by-law. (No.) You say, 'abide by the law.' (Yes.) Don't you think we have the right to make a by-law and amend it when we like?"

Mr. Paul—"The law is made."

COULD LIKEWISE AMEND IT.

Ald. Lebeuf—"We have made the by-law and we shall amend it; it is our right and not yours. We are the representatives of the people."

Mr. Paul—"And we are the people."

Ald. Lebeuf—"All right; come before us in a gentlemanly way; and say 'please don't amend it; it suits us very well.' We would listen to you, but we won't be dictated to by anyone. We shall amend; we shall take the responsibility of the amending. I have given the notice, and I tell you it shall go through, and it would have gone through last December if I had not been in New York. We are ready to listen to anyone in a gentlemanly way; but we won't be dictated to by anyone. Bear that in mind. How can you complain?" He went on to state that the matter would be submitted to the Council, and there decided in spite of all the signatures the Alliance could bring in. Until that happened he did not know how things would go on.

Mr. Paul—"Enforce the law as it is."

Ald. Lebeuf shrugging his shoulders) — "My experience teaches me that some of you gentlemen won't understand, or if you do, you will always misconstrue what we say. It may be my language is not as nice as it would be if I were speaking my own tongue. I am polite enough anyhow to speak your language, and you are not polite enough to speak mine. Probably if you spoke the French language more, and were more connected with the French, you would not try so much to make of Montreal a city like Toronto or New Brunswick or Nova Scotia cities. You won't forget the population is mixed, and those who don't think like you are a large proportion, and will have their own say and their own doing. You must be tolerant, and you are accused by many people of not being so. I hope you will be tolerant, and allow the Council to discuss the matter and come to an understanding, if possible."

RESOLUTIONS JUSTIFIED.

Rev. Dr. Hill—"At the June meeting of which I was one of the deputation, all we asked was that the city by-law be enforced. We made no understanding and asked for no amendment; we simply asked for the enforcement of the by-law. I won't follow the trend of the Chairman of the Police Committee; I think his exhibition to-day shows us that resolution we passed on Tuesday night was justified.

Ald. Lebeuf—"Your friends will believe you and my friends will believe me, and the majority will bear me out, if you don't tell the truth, I cannot help that, and am very sorry."

Mr. S. J. Carter regretted being on the deputation. He thought that the circumstances would have warranted them in appearing before the Mayor and the chairman of the Police Committee, for he had been told that the delegation represented the sentiment and expressed wish of all classes of the community—English and French, Protestant and Roman Catholic—and if it had not been for that, he should not have been present. He regretted the tenor of the meeting, and was sorry that the chairman of the Police Committee was not big enough for the occasion. He regretted that the spirit of the meeting had developed on the lines it had; it was no credit to the deputation, to the Mayor, or to the chairman of the Police Committee.

HIS FIRST EXPERIENCE.

Rev. J. L. George—"I have been twenty years in public life, and it is the first time I have been denounced as a liar."

Ald. Lebeuf—"I never called you a liar, and I appeal to every one in this room. You don't suppose we are going to let you abuse us."

Rev. J. L. George—"It simply means the language of the chairman of the Police Committee has designated every one of these gentlemen as liars."

Ald. Lebeuf—"They can give the explanation they wish; they don't need you to explain. You can say things in the papers, and when we put them in your mouth, you won't swallow them."

Rev. Dr. Hill—"I think as things have developed as they have, it is clear no good end can be served by our deputation remaining longer here. We hoped it would have been possible to have some reasonable conversation here. I don't think our meeting can serve any further purpose, unless you, Mr. Mayor, desire to say anything."

Ald. Lebeuf—"I second your motion; it is time we should all withdraw."

MAYOR COCHRANE'S REMARKS.

Mr. S. J. Carter suggested that perhaps the Mayor might have something to say on the subject.

His Worship thought that probably there was some misunderstanding on both sides. From what took place at the last meeting, he understood that the Alliance did not want to close up the small stores. Since then he and Ald. Lebeuf had been trying, in a quiet way, to see if they could not amend the by-law and define what should be considered a small store and what a large one. If they would only wait a little while, until Ald. Lebeuf had his amendment prepared, they would receive a copy of it, and the council would decide upon it. He was in entire sympathy with the closing of the large stores, but if the by-law was put in force before the proposed change was made, it would have to be meted out to all alike.

Mr. Paul, in behalf of the deputation, thanked the Mayor for the courtesy he had shown, and was sorry that he could not say the same of Ald. Lebeuf.

Ald. Lebeuf (warmly)—"I don't care for your compliments, Mr. Walter Paul, any more than I do for your words, Mr. Walter Paul. You have been treated the same as you have treated everybody else. I didn't put on gloves because you didn't put them on. You can put on airs, and that's all."

This closed the interview.

CHIEF TIMOTHY IN TOWN.—Chief Timothy, of the Oka Indians, was in town yesterday to attend the funeral of the late Rev. Father Scanlan.

Former the Subject of Debate in the House Last Night.

MR. SIFTON DEFENDS DEVLIN

Mr. Maclean Attempted to Bring Up the British Budget, But the Ministers Were Silent.

(Staff Correspondence of the Montreal Star.)

PRESS GALLERY, HOUSE OF COMMONS, OTTAWA, April 18.—The annual immigration debate was the chief topic that occupied the House yesterday.

Mr. Uriah Wilson, of Lennox, brought up the subject upon the motion to go into supply, and criticized the Government's immigration methods in many respects. He censured the Government particularly for its failure to protect the country against undesirable and diseased immigrants, and showed by official information from the United States authorities that the particulars published in the Montreal Star lately, as to Canada being made a dumping ground for immigrants rejected as unfit by the United States, were entirely correct.

** ** **

Mr. Sifton made a lengthy reply to Mr. Wilson, giving much information as to the reason for increased expenditure, claiming increased immigration as the result, and prophesying a remarkable era of development in the West during the next couple of years.

Mr. Sifton did not have much difficulty in getting his estimates through committee, which was probably to some extent accounted for by the very slim attendance. The members generally have apparently little interest in this very important question. One matter of surprise was the silence of nearly all the Western members on the subject.

** ** **

The Minister of Justice (Mr. Fitzpatrick) introduced a bill respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway, which received a first reading. Mr. Fitzpatrick explained that the object of the bill is to remove certain statutory obstacles to the enforcement of the conditions imposed on the company by the Order-in-Council of January 23 last, authorizing the issue of $20,000,000 additional capital stock.

Mr. Maclean (East York) argued that the Government should take this opportunity to impose further conditions on the company for the removal of certain grievances the people of the North-West are suffering.

Hon. Mr. Sifton claimed that the grievances complained of would, to a very considerable degree, be remedied by the proposed legislation.

Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition, twitted Mr. Sifton with reproaching Mr. Maclean for debating the bill and then debating it himself. He asked what the Government had done about determining the date at which the company's exemption from taxation on its land grant would expire.

The Minister of Justice stated that he intended to make an explanation on this point when his estimates were under discussion.

** ** **

The Minister of the Interior introduced a bill to amend the Unorganized Territories Game Preservation Act. The time within which the Indians in the Mackenzie River country are prohibited from killing the wood buffalo will shortly expire; and the object of this bill is to extend the period of prohibition.

** ** **

Mr. Puttee (Winnipeg) was informed that the Government had received the Winnipeg Board of Trade's resolution recommending an expert examination of the Intercolonial Railway, and was considering the advisability of acting upon it.

** ** **

Upon motion to go into committee of supply both Mr. Wilson (Lennox), and Mr. Maclean (East York), rose. Mr. MacRan caught the Speaker's eye, and again proceeded to draw the attention of the House to the British Budget. The Ministers, however, vouchsafed no answer to Mr. Maclean's challenge; and Mr. Wilson at once rose to make some remarks upon immigration matters.

Mr. Wilson referred to the recent changes in the Immigration system in Great Britain, and enquired why the salary of Mr. Devlin, the agent in Ireland, had been increased by $1000, just before the election, so that he was now receiving more than the Superintendent of Immigration. He then referred to Mr. Devlin's interview in a Montreal paper wherein Mr. Devlin stated that he did not advocate emigration from Ireland and never would. He read an affidavit from the reporter, showing that this part of the interview was in Mr. Devlin's own writing. Mr. Devlin also had said in this interview that he was a subscriber to the funds of the Irish League, one of whose objects was to prevent people emigrating from Ireland. He also had said that he held discussions on Home Rule in his office in Ireland. Mr. Wilson considered such a man could not be an efficient agent to promote immigration to Canada, and certainly was not entitled to $3000 a year. Mr. Wilson analysed the returns of immigration from Ireland under the Conservative administration and under the present administration, and showed that, though there were now more agents employed and greater expenditure, the number of immigrants obtained was less.

Mr. Wilson quoted samples of the agents' expenditures from the Auditor General's report, and condemned them as excessive. He urged that Parliament should vote specific sums for each item of the Immigration service, as it did for other services, and not vote a large lump sum for the Minister to expend as he pleased. He read a long list of increases in salaries to Immigration Agents, and asked on what principle they were granted. Comparing the total cost of immigration under the two governments, he claimed that the average cost per head of immigrants under the Conservatives was $7.65, while under the Liberals it is $9.05. Dealing with British immigration, he said that under four years of Conservative rule 62,910 immigrants had been obtained, while under four years of Liberal rule only 43,500 had been obtained, and it had cost $39,000 more to secure them.

Mr. Wilson declared that at present Canada is being overrun with a class of immigrants that the United States rejects. Public attention had been called to this matter, and startling facts had been disclosed in reference to it in the Montreal Star last month. He had made a point of investigating this matter, and found the information published only too true. He had not relied on newspaper report; he had gone direct to the United States Department of Immigration for the facts. He read to the House a report that, through the courtesy of the Washington authorities, he had received from Mr. Robert Watchorn, the special United States Immigration Inspector for the East, whose head office was at Montreal. Mr. Wilson showed what a large number of agents the United States Government employs for the prevention of undesirable immigrants entering their territory, and urged the Government of Canada to adopt similar methods. He further urged that joint action be taken by the Canadian and American authorities for keeping undesirable immigrants off this continent.

The Minister of the Interior said that, in a department so large and varied as his own, the Minister could not personally supervise everything; and he did not object to his officials knowing that they were liable to be overhauled by the Opposition in the Committee on Agriculture. He would not claim perfection, but, on the whole, he thought that his department had done very well. He emphasized the importance of the work in which it was engaged; and said that not only did the country want immigrants on the western prairies, but there were large areas in the northern regions of Quebec and Ontario that needed settlers. With regard to Mr. Devlin, he considered him a man of first class ability. He had not anything to do with his Irish politics; and thought that all that should be required of him was that he did not make himself offensive in Canadian politics. He thought, in view of the opposition to immigration which prevailed in Ireland, Mr. Devlin was probably wise to take the course he did in only appealing to those who were thinking of immigrating. There was one thing certain, that if Mr. Devlin were not a Nationalist in the part of Ireland where his work lies, his usefulness would be gone; for he would not succeed in getting any immigrants at all.

Dealing with Mr. Wilson's charges in regard to undesirable immigrants, Mr. Sifton said the Government had inspectors at Halifax, St. John and Quebec. These officers examined immigrants within a few yards of the United States officials, and knew all who were rejected by the United States examiners. He warned the House against giving credence to all the stories they heard about undesirable immigrants. He knew for a positive fact that of the 25,000 immigrants that had passed through Canada to the United States, only 132 had been rejected by the American authorities. Of these, he had positive information that there were now only 39 in Canada.

The reports that have been made are utterly exaggerated. He had before him Mr. Watchorn's interview in the Montreal Star, and nothing therein induced him to qualify his statement. He might point out that a joint arrangement between the Canadian and United States authorities for the prevention of the entry of undesirable immigrants, which Mr. Wilson had suggested, actually exists, and will be strictly carried out. The only way in which the Canadian authorities are handicapped at present is that they have no power to deport undesirable people landed here; and he had the other day introduced in the House a bill for the purpose of vesting them with that power.

In regard to the cost of running the immigration service, the Minister claimed that the present Government was taking better care of the immigrant after his arrival than did the late Government. When the present Government assumed power they found that the late Government had practically ceased immigration work. The agents had been discharged and the expenses had been cut down, and the new Government had practically to build up from the beginning.

Complaint had been made that an undue proportion of the immigrants the country is receiving is foreign. Of the 49,000 who came last year, 11,810 were British, 17,987 were from the United States, 1,750 were Scandinavian, 934 were German and the balance were of miscellaneous European nationalities. He considered that this showed we were receiving a proper proportion of English-speaking settlers. As to the cost of securing them, the average cost per head was $6.07. Including the amount spent on the immigrant in Canada, it was $8.34 per head.

The Minister dilated upon the tremendous Western Canadian development that is now going on. In the United States they are now organizing large companies to buy up our lands. Leading Minneapolis journals are now publishing special editions devoted to descriptions of the Canadian West. On all hands there are signs of a coming influx of people and capital, that he might be thought to be exaggerating if he ventured to estimate. It was his deliberate opinion that during the next two years Canada has the greatest opportunity to promote its greatness that it has had since Confederation. He made a special appeal to the Eastern members, in view of this prospect, to lend a sympathetic ear to the appeals of the West for railway development.

Upon the conclusion of the Minister's speech the House went into committee of supply and took up the immigration estimates. In the discussion which took place in committee, Messrs. Puttee, Henderson, Taylor, Reid (Grenville), Gourlay, Jabel Robinson, Marcil, Bourassa, and Sam Hughes, Messrs. Marcil and Bourassa specially urged the claims of colonization in Quebec. Mr. Gourlay advanced the suggestion that Lord Salisbury should be subsidised to talk up British immigration to Canada.

In a couple of hours $445,000 was voted, consisting of the following items:

Salaries of agents and employes in Canada, Great Britain and foreign countries	$110,000
Women's National Immigration Society, Montreal	1,000
Girls' Home of Welcome, Winnipeg	1,000
Contingencies in Canadian, British, and foreign agencies, and general immigration expenses, including salaries of clerks at head office	333,000

The House adjourned at 12.10 a.m.

Henry Davidson at Liberty.

(Special to the Montreal Star.)

OTTAWA, April 18. — Henry Davidson, of Tracadie, about four years ago was sentenced to be hanged for the murder of one Bowman, of the same place. The sentence was changed to one of imprisonment for life. Mr. McIsaac, M.P., brought to the attention of the Department of Justice a few weeks ago the fact that Davidson was dangerously ill in the Dorchester penitentiary. The surgeon of the penitentiary, in reply to an enquiry, reported that further confinement would prove fatal, and as a result Davidson has now been liberated.
