Weekend fires flare across province

12 die in blaze Sunday

ST. ROCH de l'ARCHIGAN, Que. (CP) — A weekend family gathering here ended in tragedy Sunday when 12 persons were killed in an early morning fire that destroyed their two-storey wooden house, provincial police said.

Earlier reports indicated 13 persons had died in the fire in the small village about 30 miles north of Montreal. However, police and firemen said they have recovered only 12 bodies.

Police said the blaze destroyed the frame house, leaving only the stove sitting in a pile of rubble.

They said there was nothing anybody could have done to save the victims or the house.

The victims have been identified as Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Proulx, 37 and 34 respectively, and their five children, Renee, 12, Daniel, 11, Alain, 8, Maurice Jr., 4, and Linda, 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Lanteigne, 25 and 32 respectively, both of Montreal, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Champagne, 25 and 19, of Trois-Rivieres, and their daughter, Manon, 18 months, were also killed. They were visiting the Proulx home for the weekend.

It was not immediately clear whether the Lanteigne's and Champagne's were relatives or friends.

Police said there were no survivors in the blaze which broke out about 7 a.m. Sunday.

A neighbor, Mrs. Etienne Meunier, said a nearby house was threatened by the flames but firemen, working in crisp zero-degree weather, managed to contain the fire.

No cries for help were heard, she said, but the home burnt very quickly.

St. Roche de l'Archigan is situated between St. Jerome and L'Assomption.

A spokesman for the fire department said the alarm was rung in at 7:05 a.m. and the small house "was crumbling" as he got there minutes later.

"No one knows how it started," he said.

A neighbor said that "except for the crackling of the fire, it was quiet. They must have all died in their sleep."

Charge Thieu with ignoring massacre

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese Senate was told today that a massacre occurred at My Lai, and President Nguyen Van Thieu was assailed for having brushed it off as "just a simple incident in the war."

Senator Tran Van Don, chairman of the defence committee and head of a special joint legislative investigating team, delivered the official findings to the Senate and said: "The executive (Thieu) does not have the courage to correct the fault or mistake, and tries to deceive the people." This was an attack on the administration's repeatedly stated official view that no massacre by United States troops took place in the coastal hamlet on March 16, 1968—despite charges filed by the U.S. Army against two soldiers.

One of them, Lieut. William L. Calley Jr., 26, faces general court-martial on charges of premeditated murder.

The Senate was to vote today on the report and send it to Thieu.

GARAGE LOST BUT HOME AND FURNISHINGS SAVED — The Danville volunteer fire department was called out, Monday morning, at 7:10 o'clock to battle a fire in the Shell Garage owned by Gilles Bolduc, situated on Route 32 between Danville and Kingsley Falls village. The garage was a roaring inferno when the firemen arrived on the scene. Water was taken from a near-by pond and pumped to the scene while passers-by, headed by Chief of Police Jacques Arguin, salvaged the furnishings in the adjacent living quarters of the Bolduc family. According to Mr. Bolduc only the home furniture was insured. The family lost their car and the equipment in the garage evaluated at some $10,000. Mr. Bolduc and his wife were grateful to those who assisted in saving their belongings, and, especially at this time of year as the festive season was so close at hand.

Canada pulls out of world hockey tourney

Almost 15 years after Canada first became disillusioned with international hockey, Earl Dawson, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, stood up at a meeting in Geneva Sunday and said: "We quit."

The pronouncement, before a special meeting of the International Ice Hockey Federation, came eight years after Canada last won a world championship and seconds after she was denied the use of professionals to bolster her entry in the 1970 tournament.

It meant that Canada will not be represented in the 1970 championship and that the tournament, originally scheduled for Montreal and Winnipeg in March, will be switched to Stockholm.

The feeling that Canada should not compete in the world championship under existing rules started to grow after the Penticton vs took the title in Dusseldorf, Germany, in 1955. Many Canadian fans and players there felt the Europeans should declare a champion to challenge the best in North America. Trail Smoke Eaters in 1961 were the last team to win the world championship for Canada and the CAHA began discussing the possibility of a national all-star team in 1963.

The national team was born in 1965 sponsored by the CAHA and taken over by Hockey Canada, a group of political, business and interested hockey men, late in 1968.

The national team was never able to seriously challenge the Russians, however. It was made up of a few reinstated amateurs and young players who preferred a university education to a career in professional hockey.

The Russians won the championship from 1962 to date. Hockey Canada, under the leadership of president Charles Hay, began moving toward a stronger representative for Canada immediately after taking over the operation of the team.

Last July the group applied to the IIHF for an open tournament in 1970 in hopes of entering a team of professionals.

Judy lashes out at Trudeau government

OTTAWA (CP) — Former federal minister Judy LaMarsh said Sunday the current federal government is made of "plastic and steel but no blood and guts" and is led by a prime minister who "doesn't have a heart" to go with his intellect.

Miss LaMarsh, named Canada's "woman of the decade" for the 1960s in a Canadian Press poll last week, was interviewed on the CTV program Question Period.

The former secretary of state and minister of health, whose autobiography, Memoirs of a Bird in a Gilded Cage, on her years in the Pearson government ruffled some feathers last year, continued plucking Sunday.

The only thing she had seen in Prime Minister Trudeau's "participatory democracy," she said, was that "lots of little minions are running around the prime minister's office and doing his jobs... it is becoming a farther away government... and one that really has not much regard for humanity."

Mr. Trudeau himself had "the intellectual equipment but he doesn't have a heart that goes with it..."

"He doesn't see... problems in terms of actual people and the people get squashed in this."

Government had become "a grey, grim business" and would be "mortally dull" if it weren't for the "personal peccadillos" of the prime minister.

Perhaps Miss LaMarsh's own most famous peccadillo was her recorded appeal to former transport minister Paul Hellyer at the 1967 Liberal leadership convention to "snuff that bastard"—the alleged bastard being Mr. Trudeau.

Sunday Miss LaMarsh said her comment probably did not affect Mr. Trudeau's campaign for the leadership but that "the term probably fits."

HAS HER PRIORITIES
Miss LaMarsh said she wished the government had "a little more justice, a little more humanity, a little more of equity, a little less of justice and bright, shiny-eyed steel-chromed efficiency... that members of Parliament... and the people had something to say."

Flash fire leaves families homeless

DRUMMONDVILLE — A fire which broke out in a three-storey building on Lindsay St. here, Wednesday night, has left four families homeless and caused thousands of dollars damage.

The fire started on the second floor of a building situated at 556 Lindsay St., near the centre of town. Flames quickly spread to the top floor and roof of the building, owned by Mr. Claude Phoenix, of St. Hyacinthe.

The four apartments, St. Therese Grocery Store and a Barber Shop in the building were heavily damaged by smoke and water.

A total of 13 persons were sent into 5 degree weather and to the homes of relatives and friends. Victims of the fire lost nearly everything they owned.

Twenty Drummondville firemen, under the direction of Mr. Conrad Proulx and Captain Millette, fought the blaze for more than an hour before it was under control.

Firemen still searching for body in Granby fire

By DAVE MARROTTE

GRANBY — Police and firemen here are still searching for the body of 20-year-old Roger Viens, following a New Year's Day blaze that levelled a two storey building on Main St.

Mr. Viens, of Coaticook, was last seen inside the building when the fire broke out at 8:25 Thursday morning. Police believe the youth died in the flames but no trace of the body has yet been found.

The fire, triggered by an explosion somewhere on the first floor, caused injuries to six people, including three firemen.

Injured were Miss Ginette Gregoire, 18, who suffered third degree burns; Miss Lise Bedard, 18, who was treated for burns to her face and hands; and Mr. Pierre Cote, 20, who received minor burns.

Miss Gregoire, whose condition was described as critical following the fire, is slowly recovering at Shefford Hospital.

Three firemen, who worked up to 20 hours fighting the blaze, were injured in a second explosion.

Raymond Inkel, 31, received an ankle injury, Jean-Marc Fournier, 33, pulled a ligament in his knee and Laurent Jacques, 32, injured his foot when a nail went through his shoe.

Intense cold and wind hampered the efforts of firefighters but there was water available from a fire hydrant, situated just in front of the building at 342 Main St.

The use of this hydrant was abandoned during the fire because the building threatened to collapse on the water hoses. After this, firemen decided to use hydrants located farther down the street.

Traffic was blocked for most of New Year's Day between St. Antoine St. and St. Louis. With firemen already overwhelmed by the fire, they had no time to control traffic as well.

Material located on the first floor of the building kept the fire burning. A hardware store situated there contained gallons of paint and other inflammable objects, the remains of which were found later in the ruins.

It was these materials which probably caused the second explosion and threatened the adjacent building, only a few feet away. But firemen limited the damages, estimated at $200,000, to the demolished building itself.

Breathalyzer declared legal

VICTORIA (CP) — Provincial court judge William Ostler ruled here Saturday that the compulsory breath-analysis test does not constitute a violation of the Canadian Bill of Rights.

Judge Ostler made the ruling in the case of Roy Earl Firth, 32, of Jordan River, B.C., who refused to take the breath test after he was stopped by city police Dec. 4.

Firth's lawyer told the court the police request for his consent to submit to a compulsory test amounted to self-incrimination. Counsel then argued this was contrary to the Canadian Bill of Rights which states no person can be asked to incriminate himself.

Judge Ostler said in his judgment that "to protect the majority, parliament can restrict the freedom of an individual, and in doing so it does not transgress the bill of rights."

Firth was fined $350 for impaired driving and $100 for refusing to take a breath-analysis test requested by a police officer.

Influenza closes rest home

QUEBEC (CP) — A convalescent hospital and a home for the aged were closed indefinitely to visitors during the weekend because of an increase in the number of influenza cases in the Quebec City area.

Authorities said the flu outbreak started a few days before Christmas and the number of cases began increasing rapidly following a snowstorm 10 days ago.

To hold phone conference

QUEBEC (CP) — Robert Bourassa, candidate for the Quebec Liberal leadership, will hold a press conference by telephone Tuesday for reporters in 15 cities.

A total of 21 reporters in 14 Quebec cities and Ottawa have been invited to take part in the one-hour session, a spokesman for Mr. Bourassa announced today.

Calls will come from Val d'Or, Rouyn, Ottawa, Joliette, St. Johns, Sherbrooke, Granby, Theford Mines, Ste. Marie-de-Beauce, Trois-Rivieres, Shawinigan, Chicoutimi, Alma, Haute-Rive, Riviere-du-Loup and Rimouski.

The Liberal leadership convention takes place Jan. 16-17 in Quebec City.

Chartrand protests expulsion

MONTREAL (CP) — Reggie Chartrand, head of the Chevaliers de l'Independence, a militant separatist organization, Sunday protested the expulsion of himself and his political organizer, Lionel St. Laurent, from the separatist Parti Quebecois.

Mr. Chartrand and Mr. St. Laurent were suspended indefinitely from the party last month for "systematic obstruction tactics."

In a joint statement, the two men said they had received no reply to a request for a hearing before a Parti Quebecois executive council meeting to be held next week.

The statement said Mr. Chartrand and Mr. St. Laurent had been treated "anti-democratically" by "colonized intellectuals" in the party led by Rene Levesque.

"The workers of Ste. Marie (a Montreal riding) accept us, and we believe the Parti Quebecois should do the same," the statement said.

Police seek strangler

PIEDMONT, Que. (CP) — Provincial police homicide detectives are investigating the strangulation death of a young Ottawa girl whose body was found near here Sunday.

Police said the body of Linda Silverman, 15, daughter of Dr. Marvin Silverman of Ottawa, was found early Sunday near Mont Belvedere by a woman walking her dog.

The girl had been missing from nearby St. Sauveur when she was skiing with a cousin who later left her to take ski lessons.

Ski patrol officials found the girl's skis near a closed restaurant about 6:30 a.m. Saturday and mounted a search by 100 ski patrol members that was called off about 9 p.m.

Piedmont is about 35 miles northwest of Montreal just over the hill from St. Sauveur.

Chaudiere flooding continues

LAC-DES-ILES, Que. (CP) — Police have found the bodies of an adult and five children among the debris of a fire that raged early Saturday in a barn in this community about 120 miles northwest of Montreal.

The bodies have not been identified as police continue their investigation.

Kennedy inquest opens today

EDWARD M. KENNEDY

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (Reuters) — The long-awaited inquest into the death of Mary Jo Kopechne is scheduled to open today with Senator Edward Kennedy expected to be among the first witnesses.

In all, about 25 persons are expected to testify during the inquest which will be held in a 111-year-old courthouse on the resort island of Martha's Vineyard, about five miles off the Massachusetts coast.

Besides Kennedy, the witnesses are expected to include the five men and five women who, along with Kennedy and Miss Kopechne, 28, who had been a staff worker for the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy, died late that night when a car plunged off a narrow bridge into a tidal pond. Her body was recovered the next morning. Kennedy went to the Edgartown police headquarters, more than eight hours after the accident, and said he had been the driver of the car.

Kennedy subsequently pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was given a three-month suspended sentence by district court Judge James A. Blyle, who will conduct the inquest.

Others expected to testify at the inquest are Dr. Donald Mills, the medical examiner who ruled that Miss Kopechne had died from accidental drowning; scuba diver John Farra, who recovered her body; and a deputy sheriff who has said he saw a car believed to have been carrying Kennedy and Miss Kopechne moments before it went off the bridge.

All of the men who attended the party were married. The other five women, like Miss Kopechne, were all former staff workers for Robert Kennedy. Two of the men at the party were former U.S. attorney Paul C. Markham and Kennedy's cousin, lawyer Joseph Gargan.

District Attorney Edmund S. Dinis has refused to release the names of any witnesses. However, when the inquest was first scheduled Judge Boyle announced that he considered Kennedy's presence vital to the proceedings and said he wanted him to testify.

Edgartown Police Chief Dominick J. Arena, who may also be called to testify, has hired 20-30 state policemen and deputies to augment his small force during the proceedings.

A transcript of the proceedings might be released when a decision is reached by Boyle.

Although the proceedings are closed to press and public, news correspondents from all over the world have flown to his island

Emerge smiling after 12 -day arctic ordeal

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)

Two relative newcomers to Alaska returned here in a jaunty mood Monday after surviving 12 days in the frozen Arctic wastes where they were forced to land their jet helicopter.

Roland McNeil, 34, the pilot from Grandview, Wash., and mechanic Brendan P. Kilmurray of Astoria, N.Y., said they never doubted they would make out all right. Both said they felt fine.

"I always knew I was coming back," said McNeil, who wore a bloodish-red stubble of beard when he arrived here from Umiat, the outpost to which the pair made their way in 34-below-zero weather Saturday night.

The two were flying their 206A helicopter on a 700-mile flight from the North Slope of centre of Prudhoe Bay to Anchorage Dec. 23 after receipt of a factory bulletin calling for changes in a voltage regulator.

McNeil said shortly after passing over Umiat the generator went out and the voltage regulator quit. Blowing snow turned into a white-out that blotted out the horizon and McNeil decided to land.

He said he picked out a heavily-timbered area along the Chandler River so they would have shelter and firewood. The helicopter's battery got "coldsoaked," McNeil said, so they were unable to raise anyone by radio.

STAYED AT SCENE

The men stayed with the helicopter until Jan. 1. They had survival gear and food in the copter, but took little food when they started to walk out. They had two empty cans in which they heated water, plenty of matches, firewood and fuel from the helicopter.

They left about 9 a.m. and "about three hours later we were about four miles up the river when the snow turned into a white-out," Kilmurray said.

The two cut an igloo in the snow on the side of the river bank and stayed in it until Saturday morning. They started at 9 a.m. and reached Umiat about 10 p.m.

Kilmurray said when they saw the lights of Umiat "McNeil ran all the way in."

McNeil, who started flying in 1956, came to Alaska Nov. 1. Kilmurray, who celebrated his 29th birthday Dec. 30, also came here in November.

They said the thermometer in the helicopter showed 40 degrees below during the period and each day had only about five hours of daylight.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The Sunday Independent says its readers have chosen Northern Ireland civil rights leader Bernadette Devlin as "Ireland's Man of the Year" for 1969. Miss Devlin, 22, is the youngest member of the British parliament and an outspoken advocate for Roman Catholic minority of Northern Ireland.

Danish prince dies

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Prince Viggo of Denmark, 76, a cousin of Denmark's King Frederik, died Sunday in Aabeltoft, Jutland, the royal court announced. The prince was sent to hospital Dec. 27 at the height of the flu epidemic which is keeping tens of thousands of Danes in bed. The official announcement said Prince Viggo died when a bronchial disorder spread to his lungs.

Scotland Yard stumped in McKay kidnap case

LONDON (CP) — After nearly a week of non-stop inquiries, Scotland Yard detectives admitted Sunday night they are no nearer finding the wife of a British newspaper executive who disappeared from her home last Monday.

A police spokesman said they are still satisfied that Muriel McKay, 55-year-old wife of Alexander McKay, acting chairman of the News of the World, has been kidnapped.

The only clue has been a letter from Mrs. McKay to her family in which she said she was blindfolded. Police now are certain this letter was written by her.

Mrs. McKay's family also are

Nader says color TV causes eye damage

WASHINGTON (CP) — Ralph Nader, champion of the American consumer, says that color television sets are exposing millions of persons to the risk of genetic and eye damage.

He said in a letter to Warren Magnuson, chairman of the Senate commerce committee, that the danger results from millions of sets exceeding the allowable standard of radiation emission during all or a significant part of their operation.

"All color TV sets give out some radiation, all of which can be avoided by present technology," he said.

"It is clear that the government has chosen to assume the role of protecting the electronics industry's investment vis-a-vis the offending color TV sets now in American living rooms," he said.

Nader added that material gathered by the National Commission on Product Safety shows color TV sets present a fire hazard.

Cases collected by the commission had shown instances where houses were destroyed and their occupants fatally burned.

U.S. will remain in Pacific

BANGKOK (Reuters) — United States Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew told Thai leaders Sunday that the U.S. intends to remain a fully effective Pacific power, able to protect Asian countries from Communist aggression.

Official sources said the vice-president, on the second day of his visit here, also assured the Thai leaders in their talks that the U.S. will continue to honor all Asian commitments, despite its doctrine of self-reliance on the part of its Asian allies.

Agnew expressed his sympathy with the Thai officials when they complained bitterly against allegations by some U.S. senators that Thailand had received payment for sending a 12,000 man force to South Vietnam.

Sources quoted Agnew as saying "they are making enemies of friends and friends of enemies."

At an official dinner Sunday night Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn said Agnew had been effective in rallying the support of the "silent majority" in the U.S. who had been "cowed into silence by the screams of a vocal and unbalanced minority under the influence of subversive language."

Woman escapes injury

SHERBROOKE — A young Montreal woman escaped serious injury New Year's Day, when her car swerved across King St. W. near the Elite Restaurant, and rolled into a snowbank.

Mrs. Michel Perras, 25, of 5161 Berri St., Montreal, was taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital with minor injuries.

The accident occurred when Mr. Perras, 26, lost control of the car, while trying to pass another vehicle.

The driver was not hurt.

Broadcaster given heavy interrogation

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Army news broadcaster relieved of duty for accusing the U.S. command in Vietnam on a telecast of suppressing unfavorable news, said Sunday night that high officers attempted to interrogate him for four hours without legal counsel.

Spec. 5 Robert Lawrence, 27, quoted one colonel in the inspector-general's office as telling him Gen. Creighton W. Abrams "was pressing for this investigation...."

The command said there will be an investigation of Lawrence's broadcast "to decide if there was any violation of a military regulation." Until that investigation is completed, the command added, there would be no comment on allegations made.

Abrams is commander of the U.S. Military Assistance Command Vietnam which oversees the American Forces Vietnam Network—called AFVN.

Lawrence said the inspector-general's office finally yielded to his request for legal counsel and he was told to return today.

Lawrence, who was due to transfer to a daytime spot, said in his telecast that AFVN broadcasters were "not free to tell the truth." He said later he had been told he could not select film for the war segment of his newscasts because his choices were slanted against the South Vietnamese government.

Also suspended was marine Cpl. Thomas M. Sinkovitz, 21, a sports broadcaster, who followed Lawrence on the air and in preliminary remarks said "Thank you Bob, in more ways than one."

Sinkovitz said he had been told he would be called in Monday "to be briefed on my rights and asked for a sworn statement."

Trudeau to ski slopes

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says Prime Minister Trudeau boarded an airplane Sunday night for Paris, where he plans to transfer to a flight for Geneva, Switzerland.

The newspaper said the report came from an employee at Montreal International Airport and was confirmed by "other reliable sources."

Earlier Sunday, the prime minister's Ottawa press secretary said Mr. Trudeau might spend a few days skiing "within 40 miles" of Montreal.

Mr. Trudeau returned to Montreal Sunday after spending a week swimming and skin diving in British Honduras. He had requested the utmost privacy during his vacation and commended the Honduras government for its "great discretion" in handling his visit.

In Montreal, Mr. Trudeau planned to pay a visit to his mother in suburban Outremont and to take a brief skiing vacation before Parliament resumes sitting Jan. 12.

First local fatality of '70

Two killed-four hurt in two-car collision

SHERBROOKE — Two people were killed and four others injured — one seriously — in a violent collision Friday at 4 p.m., in front of the Rock Forest Shopping Centre on Bourque Blvd.

It was the first fatal car accident in the Sherbrooke area this year.

Dead are Mr. Raymond Hemard, 66, of 600 6th Ave., St. Antoine des Laurentides, Terrebonne County, and Mr. Rene Meunier, 22, of St. Jean Baptiste St., Bromptonville.

The four injured, all members of the Meunier family, are Mrs. Solange Meunier, 22, Sylvain, 4, Brigitte, 3, and Nathalie, 2.

Only Mr. Roland Hemard, 30, of 534 Grande Cote, Ste. Therese West, the second driver, was not injured. He suffered nervous shock.

The injured were taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital by Duranleau and Jalbert and Gerard Monfette ambulances.

Mr. Raymond Hemard died of a skull fracture, shortly after his arrival at hospital.

Mr. Meunier, who also suffered a skull fracture, was transferred to Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal, where he died five hours after the accident.

Mrs. Meunier suffered serious internal injuries but, following an operation Friday night, her condition was described as satisfactory.

The three Meunier children were returned home after a short stay in hospital.

The accident occurred when Mr. Hemard, returning home after a visit to Sherbrooke, was driving along Bourque Blvd. and Mr. Meunier was leaving the Rock Forest Shopping Centre parking lot, at the traffic lights.

It is not known which of the two drivers had the right of way at that moment.

With the force of the collision, Mr. Meunier's car swerved into the median. The second car, driven by Mr. Hemard, struck the left side of the other.

Mr. Raymond Hemard was thrown against the dashboard and Mr. Meunier suffered a skull fracture in the same way.

The two cars are total wrecks.

Immigration plan upsets separatists

LONDON (CP) — The Times says the plan of a group of French-speaking immigrants in Quebec to settle in Alberta "will upset the separatist politicians, both moderate and extremist."

"It hardly suggests that Quebec is a land of economic opportunity," the newspaper says in an editorial.

"The riots and violence that have disfigured its cities and public life last year may add an extra motive to leave it."

Quebec's attractions would be "still fewer after a further round of separatist threats and violence," The Times continues.

"These have injured its ability to raise capital for development and may well have frightened away some useful citizens, particularly wealthy and enterprising English-speaking ones."

SAYS BERTRAND AWARE

The paper says it finds every sign that Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand "is aware of the danger and that he agrees with... the prime minister, Mr. Trudeau, on this subject."

"Immigrants whose mother tongue is neither French nor English unmistakably show that they expect to acquire the major language of all North America, whatever province they settle in," says The Times.

It adds that this "galls the separatists" and it describes Rene Levesque as "building a formidable party" out of the separatist group he heads, the Parti Quebecois.

He and other separatists see in the new federal language legislation and similar developments "still more cogent imperatives for making Quebec into an independent and perhaps also an absolutist state," the editorial says.

The true Establishment

The "Establishment" is a term that has been flung about — or wielded like a club — with incredible frequency in the past few years. It has become fashionable to blame the "Establishment" for a country's social ills without stopping to think what the term really means.

This is a dangerous thing, warns a member of the Canadian "Establishment." It is dangerous because confusion in thinking often leads people to attack the wrong targets.

J. V. Clyne, a former Supreme Court Judge of British Columbia and now, as chairman of MacMillan Bloedel, Ltd., one of Canada's leading industrialists, went to the United States recently to deliver a warning and a defence of what he calls the "true Establishment."

This establishment consists of those who set themselves to master their disciplines according to the rigid standards of excellence, he told a Town Hall of California luncheon in Los Angeles.

They subscribe to a moral code based on an "obedience to the unenforceable" and have a highly developed sense of public service. They are not necessarily outstanding public figures, but they are doers in the community.

The "true Establishment" is the instrument of all constructive change, he claimed.

The term came from England, where established families traditionally placed their sons in the service of the church or state. A "first" in university examinations, usually at Oxford or Cambridge, was a ticket to high-level appointment.

Today, however, the term has come to mean any group that has built a power structure around itself.

"If instant reforms are not provided for all mankind's chronic ills," says Clyne, "it is alleged to be the fault of the Establishment, which is seen as standing four-square against progress, freedom, peace and all things good. Arranged against this wicked 'they' is a great collective 'we' who are invariably righteous and noble-minded."

It is one of the paradoxes of our time that so much of the initiative seems to have passed to a militant minority which threatens with a loud voice the tranquillity and the liberty of the majority.

We are told that the truly free man can be bound by no laws except those which his conscience tells him to obey. He need accept no obligations except those which depend on individual consent.

This doctrine has widespread appeal because it sounds so very moral, yet it is used to give the appearance of high principle to lawlessness. The fact that the freedom is always conditioned by the freedom of another is not recognized by demonstrators in the universities, in the streets or elsewhere who seek to impose their opinions by violence upon the rest of the community.

Because of the current confusion of freedom with license, warns Clyne, North Americans are in danger of losing their freedom.

Will the "true Establishment" please stand up. We need you.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

"Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied." (Matthew 5:6. RSV.)

PRAYER: Our loving Father, we fall before You wearied and torn by our struggles and the tensions of unworthy appeals. Create in us a hunger and thirst for Your righteousness. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

"Is There a Doctor in the House?"

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of criticism of Congress for not doing enough work this year. I believe that if any criticism should be levied at Congress, it's that it has done too much work. There isn't a bill proposed these days that doesn't have seven riders attached to it which have nothing to do with the legislation that is being proposed.

This can be illustrated in the case of Jan Klopinski, a refugee from Poland who was trying to get American citizenship. Because of red tape, Jan could not get his American citizenship through normal channels, and so he got his senator to propose a private bill to make him a citizen.

It is done all the time and usually goes through without any difficulty. But this year, any bill in Congress is subject to amending, and as soon as the Jan Klopinski bill for American citizenship was proposed on the floor, a Dove senator got up and added a rider calling for the repeal of the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution.

This angered several Hawks in the Senate and they added a rider of their own which would give Chiang Kai-shek four squadrons of B-52 bombers.

A senator from Louisiana then proposed that a rider be attached to the Klopinski citizenship bill raising the oil depletion allowance to 35 percent. He immediately was followed on the floor by a senator from North Carolina who wanted the bill amended to take all health warnings off cigarette packages.

The rumor started spreading that the Jan Klopinski citizenship bill was in trouble.

No one knew how much trouble until a liberal senator added a rider raising Social Security payments by 50 percent. This was followed by another rider from a Midwest senator raising salaries of postal workers by $100 a week.

The White House, which hadn't been paying much attention to the Klopinski bill, suddenly got to work and called Minority Leader Hugh Scott over for breakfast. Sen. Scott was told the President was very displeased with the Jan Klopinski citizenship bill in its present form.

When Sen. Scott reported this back to the Hill everyone decided to get into the act.

A senator from South Carolina added a rider forbidding federal judges from ruling in desegregation cases. A senator from Arizona added a resolution recommending the President resume bombing of North Vietnam. A senator from California proposed a rider making it a felony to boycott grapes.

Meanwhile, Jan Klopinski had gone out and bought a new black suit for the swearing-in ceremonies. Because of his limited English, he had no idea that his bill was in so much difficulty until President Nixon decided to go on television and appeal directly to the American people.

The President said, "I want to make it perfectly clear that I am for the Jan Klopinski bill for American citizenship, but only if it does not cause inflation, or a sell-out in Southeast Asia. I appeal to every American who is part of the great Silent Majority to write to his senator today and tell him you support my position on Klopinski."

Vice President Agnew went on television two nights later and attacked the three networks for discussing the Klopinski bill before Americans had a chance to digest the President's message.

In the meantime, two more riders had been tacked onto the bill, one authorizing the building of 10 nuclear aircraft carriers and the other making marijuana legal.

The bill was finally passed with all the riders intact. Unfortunately, President Nixon decided to veto it and Jan Klopinski, through no fault of his own, lost his opportunity to become a citizen of the United States of America. He sold his black suit and took the next boat to Australia.

Letters to editor

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Canadian Mental Health Association, Sherbrooke Branch, I would like to express our most sincere thanks to all who assisted in making the 1969 Christmas Gift Campaign an overwhelming success.

To the contributors of gifts and money, the Press, Radio and Television, Jaycettes and their husbands who helped to wrap the gifts and the businesses who allowed us to use their establishments as receiving areas, we are greatly indebted.

It is only through the kind cooperation of everyone that we were able to make the less fortunate a little happier on such a festive occasion.

In closing, I would like to take this opportunity to wish everyone a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Yours very truly,
Bruce D. Allanson
Campaign President.

TIMELY QUOTES

The only thing to negotiate in Paris is the amount of reparations the U.S. should pay the Vietnamese people.

Year end

Another year has slipped away,
Like loose leaves in a book
Familiar faces once we knew,
Are placed on memory's shelf
We'll take them down from time to time
And reminisce once more
And new year now is almost here
We hope t'will bring to you
The things you've always wished for
And good fortune find your door
May the laughter of young children
Gladden all your hearts today
May you all be well and happy
And have a pleasant New Year's Day.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Charles Stratton, the American dwarf who came to be known as "Tom Thumb," was born Jan. 4, 1838. The World Almanac says that, although born of normal parents, Tom ceased to grow in height at the age of seven months. Perfectly proportioned, active and intelligent, he stood approximately 28 inches tall. He toured the world with P. T. Barnum, and married a dwarf girl, Lavinia Warren, in 1863. He died July 15, 1883.

As President's Adviser Sees It:

Serenity of '70s Likely Sequel to Soaring '60s

By ROBERT W. DIETSCH
Written for NEA

WASHINGTON, D.C.—(NEA)—The United States is about to enter a new decade, and President Nixon's No. 1 economic adviser thinks it will turn out as prosperous as the decade now ending.

"The path in the 1970s will be upward," said Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers. "At the end of the next decade our Gross National Product (the sum of all goods and services produced) might be around $1.5 trillion. In fact, the Gross National Product will reach the annual rate of $1 trillion late in 1970."

If the "GNP" does hit that record level—and most economists share McCracken's optimism that it will—it will mean that the nation will have tripled its total output in 20 years. At the beginning of the "Soaring Sixties"—the 10 years coming to an end—the GNP stood at a "mere" $504 billion.

Looking ahead to the '70s—for which no tag name has yet been agreed upon, although the decade has already been described as "Sagging," "Sensible," "Sensational" and even "Sexy"—McCracken spoke of these other likely developments:

Mr. Dietsch is business and financial writer for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

• "Our national income is likely to be 50 per cent higher than it is today." Such income gain may be divided 50-50 between government and the private sector, which means that gross family income will average between $800 and $1,000 a month, compared with about $700 a month today.

• "The 1970s, like the second part of the '60s, are apt to be an age of persistent inflation. I think there has been a changing public attitude about inflation. A great many people are disturbed by it, and their attitude, their annoyance makes it easier for national policymakers to do something about the problem."

• At the end of the '70s, families will find it as hard as ever to balance their household budgets. The horizons of what they want will have expanded. I don't agree with the idea that rising affluence makes people any less interested in material things."

As the "Soaring Sixties" end, other economists and planning organizations also are making public their forecasts for the '70s.

The National Industrial Conference Board thinks that by 1980 40 per cent of all married women will be working (compared with 35 per cent today), that the U.S. population will be 227½ million (compared with 204 million today) and that 94½ million persons will be in the labor force (compared with 78 million today). This or-

PAUL W. McCRACKEN
A $1 trillion GNP.

Anaheim, Santa Ana and San Jose, Calif., and Reno, Nev. Those cities which might lose population and economic growth are said to include Charleston, W. Va.; Scranton, Pa.; Des Moines, Iowa, and Sioux Falls, S.D. The large metropolitan areas expected to continue hefty growth patterns include Washington, D.C., Minneapolis-St. Paul, Houston and Los Angeles.

The forecasts coming in about the next decade also mention industries which are expected to have the greatest growth rates, and thus offer the best job opportunities. Those industries coming in for special attention include oceanography (including such related fields as sea food canning, underwater drilling and salt water conversion into fresh), electronic data processing (which boomed in the '60s, too), shipbuilding, nuclear energy, lasers, security services and equipment, prefabricated and mobile homes, mass transportation equipment and health care and services.

A number of forecasters think that by 1980 the nation will have enacted universal health care paid by the federal government through an extension of the Social Security and Medicare programs.

However the 1970s turn out economically, the years ahead will be hard put to match the growth record of the Sixties. After a slow start (as 1960 dawned the country was in a recession that lasted until about March, 1961), the decade really "soared." The "real" growth rate during the last 10 years—that is, the growth which took place after inflation was discounted—averaged 4.3 per cent a year. Historically, our annual real growth is 3.5 per cent a year. However, McCracken said he is confident "we'll be in that 4.3 per cent ballpark area" during the '70s, too.

Of course, the Vietnam war, the civil rights revolution and the young vs. old "generation gap" troubles often obscure the economic gains recorded during the "Soaring Sixties." McCracken was asked if he saw any connection between business prosperity and sociological distress. He replied:

"It's an interesting question. I'm sure there's no simplistic relationship. But economic success activates peoples' aspirations more rapidly. We all expect more, and when it's not coming we get frustrated, mad. If you can't deliver on promises, can't fulfill aspirations, the gap between the haves and have-nots widens. Obviously, there's a lot we don't know on this subject."

"But I would add one cautionary note:

"There is a casual and easy assumption made that if we run into some economic slack we'll have more social troubles than ever. I'm not sure that would happen."

The long and short of it as fashion enters the 70's

For and about Women

6 THE SHERBROOKE RECORD, MON., JAN. 5, 1970

The midi-um is the message

This season the couturiers have literally gone to all lengths, with the long and the short sizing each other up — often within a same collection.

Although some couturiers are all out for the short look, there are none who are all out for the long one. Since stepping down from their pedestal to reach the public at large a few seasons ago, they cannot allow themselves such an abrupt and radical change. So, two schools emerge from these collections: The All-long; The All-short; and the long-over-short.

THE PENCIL LINE
The new long line is very pared down. By its extreme simplicity, disciplined cut, and monastic purity, at first sight, the new silhouette almost puts you off.

The eye, which for the last 5 years has become accustomed to the short-short, reacts badly to the long-long. The new length is 35 cm from the ground, is worn with 5 cm heels, wrap-around skirts, which are flared or slit for easier walking. The narrow, square shoulders, the absence of big collars, the tailored sleeves, all add to the pared look and the elongated effect. With such simplicity, accessories (bonnets, scarves, stockings, shoes, jewelry) take on great importance.

THE COATS
More often single, rather than double-breasted, zippered, buttoned, or edge to edge. Invisible pockets heighten the narrow look. A few are wrapped and tied like dressings gowns. The long coat is now accepted without pants or boots. It can be worn with ribbed wool stockings, thick-heeled shoes, and a skirt or dress of the same length. But under long coats, there are also jumpsuits, tunics & pants, little bits of skirts, or mini tunics.

Suits have the same pared down look as the pencil line coats, and are often in harmonies of 3 or 4 colours of the same value. Jackets are worn over pencil line tunics of the same length. The skirts are wrap-around, well wrapped and tight, or zipped in front from top to bottom. The up and down zipper has a safety notch allowing the skirt to open to the knee for easier walking.

The short jackets — Blouson cut but in a very closefitting "like" style. At Patou, they are bolero. The skirts are slightly flared at the hem and often wrap-around. At Patou and Dior, they are straight, and buttoned or zipped to the knee.

Dresses are shirt-style, elongated jumpers, worn over turtleneck sweaters with ribbed stockings and heavy knit scarves. The "nothing" dress is body sweater-style in green tweed jersey, long and skinny, with knit collar and cuffs.

FLARED LINE
Two types of fullness: 1 — from shoulders; 2 — from the waist with shoulders remaining narrow.

The A-line capes, tent coats, multi-fold capelets are featured as ¾ coat over pants and tunic.

THE ALL-SHORT
The young couturiers remain diametrically opposed to dropping the hems. And for now they are making no concessions to the new trend. As a group they stand apart: Courreges; Feraud; Ungaro and Armand. But in practically all the other collections, there are few short garments. Their line is closefitting, skimming the top and flared at the bottom. Their style is once upon a time stiff and architected, now much more supple. Important points are gay colours and midhigh hemlines.

THE COATS
Trench-style with patch pockets and martingales, or belted with many buttons, shoulder tabs, flaps, snaps, belt tabs, interesting details in back and saddle buckles. Shirt coats with buttoned tabs and small turned-down collar. And the good old classics: the closefitting, slightly flared redingote.

THE ALL-SHORT SUITS
Not this season's star, but a few closefitting blousons and coats over supple-skirted dresses of printed wools appear and long cardigan jackets over wide pleated skirts, all with interesting pockets.

FOR EVENING
Anything goes from Spahi capes, gandouras, and djellabas, to the Sicilian bandit, gypsy and bohemian look, long supple Harem-style tunics over pants and wrapped Moroccan turbans. Persian embroidery, sequins, vintage and jam colours are highlights with jewel and plastic insets on wool broadcloth and panne and very light satins.

THE LONG-OVER-SHORT
A look with an impact proposing an alternative for the undecided. The contrast of the two lengths is quite captivating, and midi coats are found over mid-thigh dresses. Boy Scout cape in camel wool broadcloth over short-short sweater dress; short skirt and coat of flecked wool tweed. The coat length is emphasized by a wide topstitched band of leather.

To avoid disparity, the couturiers made the long-over-short garments in matching fabrics.

ACCESSORIES
This season, all the chic lies in the accessories. Four major points are scarves, bonnets, jewelry and shoes. Scarves are an essential complement of the simple look. Apache scarf, rolled tight like a cigar, matching dresses and shirts; square and folded on the straight-cut, in wool etamine, matching the blouses; fringed gypsy shawls for evening; peasant shawls, fringed in matching fabric; long straight muffler in an art deco print with 25 cms long fringes, wrapped twice around the throat; long patchwork mink scarf in different colours with a teepee design; never-ending hand-knitted muffler; mink muffler, 2 meters long, in strips of various shades of mink and a scarf in pleated wool jersey; in garter stitch, heavy knit white wool scarf, and turban scarf wrapped Sahara style.

SHOES
An integral part of the new fashion, each style having its own individual shoe, its proportion studied for its hemline. The shoes are solid, flat, often moccasin style and bicolor style with heavy, high heels, high vamps, and either laced up the vamp, or with elastic on the sides. Also very elegant sandals with wide criss-crossing bands in lizard, patent leather and high heeled silver moccasins at Dior with Mary Poppins boots at Cardin.

STOCKINGS
Tend to replace pants, as skirts will be taking an important slice of the market. Attention is still drawn to the legs, but stockings are opaque, in wool, ribbed, fishnet or garter stitch. For evening, they are black, very fine, fancy or with Tuxedo stripe up the sides. At Courreges and Cardin, there are white ribbed wool body-stockings, either worn with a bit of a skirt or with a mini-tunic.

BELTS
In their rightful place, the waist, which is in itself very new. It is tight and held in place through huge loops. Belts are being feminized and blend with the garment with almost no heavy men's belts. Many tone-on-tone ties; simple, double or triple and there are lots of sculpted buckles on leather belts.

Helping Circle at Border entertains at Yule party

ROCK ISLAND — The Helping Circle of Stanstead South Church Christmas party was held in the church hall on Dec. 16. The hostesses were Mrs. Tom McCune, Mrs. Carroll Smith, Mrs. Bertha Corbett and Mrs. Elsie Young.

Reports noted the successful Christmas sale and tea, which added a satisfactory sum of money to the funds.
Four guests, Rev. and Mrs. G. Joyce, Mrs. E. Norton and Mrs. D. Santasiere were welcomed. Mrs. Effie Gray was welcomed back, she had spent six months in British Columbia.

The new secretary, Mrs. Charles Lawton, and treasurer, Mrs. Tom McCune began their duties at the meeting.

A sum of $15 was voted to Sunnyside School musical program and another $10 to the school fund for needy children's lunches. Fifteen dollars each was voted for the Maplemount school in Cookshire and to the special school in Newport, also, $25 to the Stanstead South Church Sunday School funds.

Mrs. Selby had made arrangements to have evergreen wreaths in the church windows for Christmas, and plans were made to remember the shut-ins.

Mrs. Charles Lawton invited the January meeting to her home in Derby Line.

Two Christmas quiz games were played and winners were Mrs. Norton and Mr. Joyce. First prize consolation winners were Mrs. Elsie Young and Miss Hortense Cowles. Mr. Joyce and Miss Cowles led for the singing of carols. Gifts were distributed in the exchange from the gaily decorated tree.

The hostesses served refreshments in Christmas motif from a table with a Christmas cover, centered by a snowman encircled in holly and cones, flanked by red candles in crystal holders.

Friendly Christmas Club holds annual Christmas banquet

AYER'S CLIFF — The Friendly Christmas Club held its annual Christmas banquet at Ripple-cove Inn on Dec. 11. All the members were present but Mrs. Howard Keeler, who was absent because of illness. Mrs. Goldwyn Davidson was a guest.

A turkey dinner was served to the 12 guests who were seated at a long table.

After the banquet the club gathered at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Lafond, where several games of cards were enjoyed and prizes won by Mrs. Jessie Taylor, first, Mrs. Sheldon True, second, and consolation by Mrs. Ruth Waite.

Later refreshments were served by Mrs. Lafond. The home attractively decorated in the Christmas motif, included a lighted tree where all gathered for an exchange of gifts, with Mrs. Gwen True acting as Santa Claus.

Prize for high score during the year was won by Mrs. Jessie Taylor and for low score, Mrs. Lillian McPaul.

Mrs. Opal Smith was also a guest of Mrs. Lafond and the Club.

BEEBE — The December meeting of the W.H. and F.M. Society was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Dennis Bowman in Derby, Vt., on Dec. 19, where at six o'clock, 28 members and friends were served a family-style turkey dinner by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Batchelder and Mrs. Ezra Woodard.

Several members had made scrapbooks which were handed in, with 10 being sent to the North County Hospital.

The president expressed thanks to those who worked on the Christmas cheer committee.

Mrs. Elwyn Humphrey read the slate of officers as follows: President, Mrs. Ezra Woodard; vice-president, Mrs. E. Humphrey; treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Ashman; secretary, Mrs. C. Aulis, all re-elected.

A standing vote of thanks was extended to Rev. and Mrs. Bowman and family for their hospitality. A poem, Christ Child's Birth, was read by Mrs. Woodard.

A program, with Mrs. Bowman in charge, included carol singing by the group, readings, duets, trios, by male and female singers, Paul Batchelder, a student at the Oral Roberts College, Tulsa, Okla., was accompanist on the piano.

Christmas cards were signed to be sent to shut-in friends.

The birthday of Mrs. Ethel Wilson was observed with the presentation of a decorated cake and a card with the group's signatures.

The program was in charge of Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. Phillips. They were thanked by Mr. Wells Bishop. Refreshments were served. Mr. George Halliday on behalf of all extended thanks to the lunch committee. Mrs. Irwin McBurney, Mrs. Douglas MacKay and Mrs. Dwight Forgrave and all who helped.

Family style dinner featured By Beebe WH and FM Society

BEEBE — The December meeting of the W.H. and F.M. Society was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Dennis Bowman in Derby, Vt., on Dec. 19, where at six o'clock, 28 members and friends were served a family-style turkey dinner by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Batchelder and Mrs. Ezra Woodard.

Several members had made scrapbooks which were handed in, with 10 being sent to the North County Hospital.

The president expressed thanks to those who worked on the Christmas cheer committee.

Mrs. Elwyn Humphrey read the slate of officers as follows: President, Mrs. Ezra Woodard; vice-president, Mrs. E. Humphrey; treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Ashman; secretary, Mrs. C. Aulis, all re-elected.

A standing vote of thanks was extended to Rev. and Mrs. Bowman and family for their hospitality. A poem, Christ Child's Birth, was read by Mrs. Woodard.

A program, with Mrs. Bowman in charge, included carol singing by the group, readings, duets, trios, by male and female singers, Paul Batchelder, a student at the Oral Roberts College, Tulsa, Okla., was accompanist on the piano.

Christmas cards were signed to be sent to shut-in friends.

The birthday of Mrs. Ethel Wilson was observed with the presentation of a decorated cake and a card with the group's signatures.

The program was in charge of Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. Phillips. They were thanked by Mr. Wells Bishop. Refreshments were served. Mr. George Halliday on behalf of all extended thanks to the lunch committee. Mrs. Irwin McBurney, Mrs. Douglas MacKay and Mrs. Dwight Forgrave and all who helped.

A number of baskets were packed by the Cheer Committee for delivery to sick and shut-ins.

It was agreed $75 be given L.O.L. 559 for the use of their hall on several occasions and $100 to help pay for the electric organ, purchased recently for the church.

Several shut-ins are to be remembered with gifts. A turkey was given at Christmas to the Kinnear's Mills Home. Get well cards were sent to Mrs. Herbert Crawford, Hamilton, Ont., who recently underwent surgery.

Correspondence included thank-you notes from two families for refreshment served after funerals. Report of Quebec Sherbrooke Presbytery was passed around to the members.

Mrs. Jack Allan will entertain the January meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Man of the year chosen for service to the community

WATERLOO — Guy Hebert, a well-known sportsman in Waterloo, was named Man of the Year on Dec. 22nd.

Mr. Hebert was born in St. Joachim, on August 21, 1926, where he attended school. He came to Waterloo in 1948.

In 1951 he began work at the Co-op as a labourer, became foreman in 1957, and manager in 1963, the position he holds today. Mr. Hebert married Rita Gathien of St. Dominique in 1948, and they have a son Luc, 18, an excellent hockey player.

Mr. Hebert was chosen for the honor by the JC's because of his many benevolent activities throughout the years in Waterloo. He was president of the Scout committee from 1964-69, president of the Swimming Pool committee from 1966 to 1969, a director of the Waterloo Arena, director of the Waterloo Maroons in 1968-69, and a director of Minor Hockey, Juvenile section from 1966 to 69. He is also a church warden.

A souvenir plaque will be presented to Mr. Hebert at a supper at the Warden Hotel on Jan. 22nd at 7 p.m.

Golden Star Chapter OES holds Christmas party

STANSTEAD — Golden Star Chapter OES, held its December meeting in the Masonic Temple and the Christmas party in the banquet hall. Plans were made for a card party to be held in the hall on Jan. 16 with members to make up tables. A lunch committee was also named.

The officers, recently installed by Mrs. Mildred Wheelock, P.G.M., and Howard Walsh, P.G.P., are: Miss Viola Moranville, W.M.; Lloyd Selby, W.P.; Mrs. Violet Badger, Assoc. Matron; Rev. Ralph Rogers, Assoc. Patron; Mrs. Mildred Wheelock, P.G.M. secretary; Gordon Johnston, treasurer; Mrs. Ethel Whiteman, cond; Mrs. Linda Middleton, Jr., assoc. cond.

Mrs. Eva Hovey, chaplain, Mrs. Edith Selby, marshal, Mrs. Helen Johnston, organist; Mrs. Mona Sherman, Adah; Mrs. Ruby Simpson, Ruth; Mrs. Margaret Black, Esther; Mrs. Doris Morrison, Martha; Mrs. Phyllis Chamberlain, Electa; Mrs. Mirtie Walsh, warder, and Raymond Wheelock, sentinel.

The Christmas party started with the singing of carols. Games were played and small prizes given. Santa could not come but was represented by a fairy from Santaland, who with a magic wand found a gift for each one.

The program was under the convenership of Mrs. Margaret Black and Mrs. Ivy Hatch, assisted by Mrs. Richard Middleton, Jr., and Miss Viola Moranville.

The hall was gaily decorated with a Christmas tree. The tables in horseshoe design were gay with Christmas motif, red and white candles. The hostesses, Mrs. Rudy Simpson, Mrs. Eva Hovey, Mrs. Margaret Black and Mrs. Ivy Hatch, assisted by Mrs. Richard Middleton, Jr., and Miss Viola Moranville.

The program was in charge of Mrs. C. Smith and Mrs. Phillips. They were thanked by Mr. Wells Bishop. Refreshments were served. Mr. George Halliday on behalf of all extended thanks to the lunch committee. Mrs. Irwin McBurney, Mrs. Douglas MacKay and Mrs. Dwight Forgrave and all who helped.

Beavers split weekend chores

SHERBROOKE — Birthdays should always be celebrated in Fine Fashion — centerman Claude St. Sauveur of the Beavers can attest to that. On Friday night, St. Sauveur paced his teammates to a 6-2 win over the Cornwall Royals in a Quebec Junior A tilt coming up with two goals and two assists. Other marksmen for the Beavers were Piche, Smith, Dube and Dallaire. Scoring for the visitors were Renaud and Herrington. A crowd of 3,266 was in attendance.

Besides taking his regular turns on the ice, St. Sauveur was also used as a penalty killer along with Normand Piche and did a formidable job.

Beavers got away to a one-goal lead after seven minutes when St. Sauveur scored on a rebound off Jean Lemieux from the blue line. This was the only tally of a rather slow period. There were a couple of penalties in the period but each team held out while a man short. Beavers had 15 shots on goal to the Royals' 13.

The second period opened with each team having a player in the penalty box but nothing materialized while they were off. Michel Ruest of the Royals was chased for hooking at the 7:42 mark and Beavers clicked for their second goal while he was in the cooler as Gilbert Smith hit on passes from B. Landry and Normand Dallaire. The Royals got this one back less than a minute later when Garry Harrington beat Belanger with a high corner shot. Rodney and Brooks drew assists on the goal. Beavers again outshot the visitors 12 to 9.

The third period, perhaps the best frame of the game saw five goals being scored. The Beavers clicked for four while the Royals got the other. Renaud of the Royals scored unassisted after four minutes of play. Three minutes later, Normand Piche replied for the Beavers who at this stage of the game were having most of the play and threatening each time they went down the ice. Claude St. Sauveur drew the assist on Piche's goal.

St. Sauveur made it 4-2 at the 12:16 mark with Piche and J. C. Landry assisting. Twenty-nine seconds later Dube put the Beavers further ahead as he finished off a scoring play started by Bedard. Normand Dallaire completed the scoring for the night tallying just before the period ended. Beavers were slow in starting any offensive attack in this game but came on strong in the last two periods.

Last night in Trois-Rivieres, the Dukes overcame a two-goal deficit in the third period to edge Sherbrooke 6-5, and thereby further dimmed playoff berth chances for the Beavers who find themselves four points behind the Dukes in the East Division standings. The loss may well have been attributed to the shaky Beaver defence late in the game—a nagging problem all season long.

Dick Walterbeek, Luc Simard, Gilles Rompre, Luc Hebert, Jacques Royer and Dave Johnson tallied for Trois-Rivieres while Normand Dube, with a three-goal "hat trick", Normand Piche and Jean Lemieux replied for the Beavers.

In other league action last night, Quebec defeated Cornwall 8-4. Laval surprised Sorel 6-5. St. Jerome ousted Verdun 5-2, and the Shawinigan Bruins clubbed Drummondville 7-3.

Tonight, Rosemount plays at Laval in the only scheduled game.

BIRTHDAY PRESENT — Newly acquired Claude St. Sauveur of the Beavers gave himself a dandy 18th birthday gift Friday night when he collected two goals and two assists to lead Sherbrooke to a 6-2 win over the Cornwall Royals. Since coming to les Castors, St. Sauveur has amassed 10 goals and nine assists. Seen above is Claude scoring his first tally of the evening with help from Lemieux and Lefebvre.

Vikings, Chiefs in Super Bowl

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Joe Kapp, the improbable hero, ran a broken play for a touchdown Sunday and started the Minnesota Vikings to a 27-7 barrage of the Cleveland Browns for the National Football League championship and a trip to the Super Bowl.

Temperatures of seven to nine degrees and a partially frozen field seemed to have little effect on Kapp and the Vikings, who won the NFL title in their very first try after nine years as an expansion team.

Minnesota will play the American League champion next Sunday in the Super Bowl at New Orleans.

MOBBED BY FANS

The Vikings ended the game on Cleveland's three yard line and as the final gun sounded thousands from the sellout crowd of 47,900 at Metropolitan Stadium poured onto the field and mobbed the Minnesota players.

Kapp, the 31-year veteran who spent most of his career in the Canadian League, gave the Vikings the spark for a 24-0 half-time lead.

The 31-year-old quarterback marched the Vikings 70 yards with the game's opening kickoff.

He ran the final seven himself after he bumped into Dave Osborn trying to hand off. Kapp shot back through the line, eluded a knot of Cleveland tacklers at the four and fell into the end zone.

In less than three minutes, Kapp had the Vikings on the scoreboard again when he combined with receiver Gene Washington for a 75-yard touchdown pass play. Cleveland back Erich Barnes fell down in covering Washington.

SNEAKER ATTACK

Many of the Browns switched to rubber-soled sneakers early in the second period, but the damage already had been done.

The Browns didn't score until the fourth period, when Bill Nelson passed three yards to Gary Collins.

Osborn raced 20 yards for a touchdown in the second period. Fred Cox kicked 30 and 32-yard field goals to round out Minnesota's scoring.

Nelson completed only five of 15 passes for 47 yards in the first half. He wound up completing 17 of 33 for 181 yards.

Kapp hit seven of 13 passes for 169 yards and added 57 yards rushing. Osborn was the game's top rusher with 108 yards of Minnesota's 222-18 carries.

When it was all over, Kapp went about congratulating his team-mates in the locker room while blood streamed from his nose. He also had a cut on the bridge of his nose.

"Our front four was great," said Kapp. "Our linebackers are heavy hitters. Our deep backs stuck them and our offence played like hell. We've got a fine team and we're happy to be going to New Orleans."

Raiders shaken 17-7

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The way coach Hank Stram feels about it, the Minnesota Vikings his Kansas City Chiefs will meet in Sunday's Super Bowl game may well be the Green Bay Packers in disguise.

Stram's memories of the Packers are colored by the passage of time and the reflections on the Green Bay team that whipped his Chiefs 35-10 three years ago in the first Super Bowl game. But Stram does remember, and he does find resemblances in the Vikings.

"In a lot of respects they are very much alike," Stram said after his Chiefs had gained entry to U.S. pro football's No. 1 event with a 17-7 victory over Oakland Raiders.

"Both teams... don't do a lot of things, but what they do, they do well."

As for his own Chiefs, Stram said frankly: "I don't think there's any comparisons. Our team is much better than the 1966 team. We're much better defensively."

That improvement is reflected in the fact that only four defensive starters remain from those Super Bowl losers and it was reflected on the floor of Oakland Coliseum Sunday as the Chiefs' defence played the key role in bringing Kansas City the American Football League championship.

They put on a furiously fierce pass rush on Oakland quarterback Daryle Lamonica that forced him out of the game at one point with jammed fingers on his throwing hand and dumped him four times for losses, and so harassed him that he had three passes intercepted.

"Our great desire — our will to win — was expressed by our defensive line," said Stram in the Chiefs dressing room.

"We were a very tight offensive club at the beginning.

WHERE THE ACTION IS — In Friday's game against the Cornwall Royals, Michel Lefebvre of the Beavers took on Gilles Groulx as a sparring mate in the first period and ended up on the short end of the scuffle by absorbing a flurry of punches and sustaining a broken nose. Sherbrooke came back in the third period to overhaul the Royals 6-2. They did not fare so well last night, however, losing a 6-5 squeaker to the Dukes in Trois-Rivieres.

Lemaire nets pair in 5-1 victory over Seals

Wings win twice, eye third-place Habs

Detroit Red Wings are snapping at the heels of the defending Stanley Cup champions, thanks to the efforts of a 32-year-old veteran who turned the tables on a rookie.

The veteran was Red Wings goalie Roy Edwards who recorded Detroit's first shutout of the National Hockey League season in a 4-0 win over Chicago Black Hawks Sunday night. In the losers' nets was 26-year-old rookie Tony Esposito, who leads the league with seven shutouts.

The win moved the Red Wings to within one point of third-place Montreal Canadiens in the East Division standings.

In other Sunday games, New York Rangers downed Oakland Seals 5-2, Philadelphia Flyers defeated Minnesota North Stars 3-1 and Toronto Maple Leafs earned a 4-4 tie with Pittsburgh Penguins.

Saturday, the Red Wings whipped Philadelphia 6-1, Toronto beat Chicago 6-2, Montreal downed Oakland 5-1, Boston Bruins defeated Los Angeles Kings 6-2, St. Louis Blues shut out Pittsburgh 6-0 and Minnesota gained a 3-3 tie with New York.

Garry Unger scored his 16th and 17th season goals Sunday to lead the Red Wings attack before 15,051 Detroit fans. Bruce MacGregor and Pete Stankowski scored once each.

GOALIE STOPS HAWKS

The Red Wings and Black Hawks each counted 33 shots on goal but Edwards was outstanding, especially on shots by Chicago's Pit Martin and Stan Mikito Bobby Hull had six shots at Edwards and on numerous other opportunities the Hawk scoring ace shot wide.

Vic Hadfield scored twice in the second period to lead New York. The win put the Rangers four points ahead of the second-place Bruins in the East.

The 17,250 fans at New York saw the Rangers pelt Oakland goalie Gary Smith with 43 shots. Don Marshall, Bill Fairbairn and Dave Balon also connected for the Rangers.

Carol Vadnais and Gerry Ehman scored for the Seals who wrapped up their 22nd loss in 36 starts, worth fifth spot in the West Division.

New York goalie Ed Giacomin stopped 28 shots and was especially hard-pressed in the second period when two penalties against the Rangers gave the Seals a two-man advantage for almost 1½ minutes.

Reggie Fleming, Andre Lacroix and Lew Morrison scored for the Flyers, who moved back into a tie with Pittsburgh, two points behind second-place Minnesota in the West.

The North Stars remain 14 points back of the leading Blues.

SCORES 20TH GOAL

Bill Goldsworthy collected his 20th season goal for the North Stars to put him in a tie with Montreal's Jacques Lemaire as the league's leading goal scorers.

The 11,731 fans at Philadelphia saw Minnesota goalie Fern Rivard face 41 shots while Doag Favell earned the victory by stopping 29 shots.

A goal by Brit Selby with 35 seconds remaining in the game at Pittsburgh earned the tie for the Leafs.

Norm Ullman, Murray Oliver and Floyd Smith also scored for Toronto, now one point behind the fifth-place Black Hawks.

Defenceman Bob Woytowich scored his fifth and sixth goals to open the scoring for Pittsburgh in the first period. Rookie Michel Briere and Ken Schinkel also counted for the Penguins before a home crowd of 7,966.

Right winger George Armstrong was called on to play defence in the first period when Jim McKenny joined Jim Dorey in the penalty box with a misconduct.

DELVECCHIO GETS THREE

Detroit centre Alex Delvecchio further shook off his goal-scoring drought, putting the puck in the Philadelphia nets three times Saturday night.

The Red Wing veteran had gone 30 games without a goal before collecting two in a 5-1 win over Boston last Wednesday.

Frank Mahovich picked up his 17th of the season Saturday and Unger and MacGregor got the other Detroit goals before a crowd of 14,606 at Philadelphia. Gary Peters scored the only Flyers goal against goalie Roger Crozier who stopped 35 other shots. Favell and Bernie Parent shared the Flyers' goaltending, stopping 33 Detroit shots.

Armstrong played his usual right wing spot Saturday before 16,485 fans at Toronto and scored two first-period goals. Terry

Canadian Press Sports Editor

GENEVA (CP) — Although the big Canadian powerplay fizzled in the face of overwhelming odds Sunday, the force of the impact left a bad taste in the mouth of Bunny Ahearne and tears in his eyes.

Ahearne, unchallenged czar of world hockey and president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said:

"I have done everything I could on behalf of Canada."

He made the remark after Earl Dawson, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, pulled Canada out of international hockey competition and the 1970 world championship next March was switched to Stockholm from Winnipeg and Montreal.

Dawson, the cigar-chewing former Liberal member of the Manitoba legislature, was terse and to the point when he announced to Ahearne and delegates from the other five countries in the world tournament that there will be no international exchange of games between Canada and European countries until Canada is given the right to play her top players.

"We will not take part in any tournament until that time," Dawson said on behalf of the Canadian delegation, which included president Charles Hay of Hockey Canada.

"Canada will also enter a team of amateurs in the 1972 Olympic Games and we intend to question the eligibility of every other team and make ineligible any and all teams which have professionals."

BLASTS AHEARNE

Then, as Ahearne stared in shocked silence, Dawson unloaded a verbal barrage against his leadership of the federation.

"We are disappointed in your leadership, Mr. President. You had a chance to lead the fight against dictatorship by the Olympic Games and you did nothing."

Dawson's stand was known before Sunday, although there was little doubt that the five countries—Russia, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Finland and East Germany—believed the Canadians were bluffing.

Dawson outlined Canada's po-

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne

sition at Saturday's opening session of the emergency meeting, called after Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, ruled that anyone playing with or against professionals in the 1970 tournament would be declared ineligible for the 1972 Olympics.

Dawson cited a July ruling of the federation that granted Canada the use of nine professionals for the 1970 championship.

But the protest from Brundage, stating that the professionals would contaminate the amateurs, forced Ahearne to call the emergency meeting.

After Dawson's tirade, Ahearne said:

"He is fully within his rights in querying my leadership. However, from my point of view, he is a small boy. He has had no experience. I am quite happy to put myself in the hands of the other 28 nations in the IIHF."

"I am sorry to say that, in my opinion, the CAHA no longer controls hockey in Canada so far as the IIHF is concerned."

Gordon Jukes, executive-director of the CAHA, said after the meeting that so far $400,000 has been spent on the tournament in Canada and could not say how much of that could be recovered.

MUST REFUND TICKETS
"In Winnipeg alone there will have to be ticket refunds totaling $300,000," Jukes said.

Ahearne, meanwhile, announced that the federation will invite the United States to move from Group B to replace Canada in Group A.

Tom Lockhart, president of the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association, said Sunday he would not know if the invitation will be accepted until he returns home today and submits it to the U.S. Olympic Ice Hockey Committee.

The general feeling of the Canadians was that the whole matter and especially the 1970 tournament had been sabotaged by Sweden and Russia.

Dawson said:

"Sweden led the sabotage so they could get the tournament and benefit to the tune of $500,000. The Russians sabotaged the Canadian tournament so they would not be in danger of losing the gold medal."

Dawson said the Russians had been complaining about the tournament schedule all along and now that the tournament is at Stockholm, the Swedes propose that the Canadian schedule be adopted and everyone agreed without a murmur.

CRITICIZES THE IIHF

Hay, the retired president of Gulf Oil (Canada) Ltd., criticized the efficiency of the international federation.

"The agreement on pros contained a rider that said a second look would be necessary if Olympic eligibility was threatened.

"And nobody checked with the International Olympic Committee. What kind of organization is that?"

Jukes said a secret meeting was called in Sweden last November to discuss the possibility of Olympic eligibility. Nine federations attended. Ahearne and Canada were not invited.

Dawson said: "If I was president of the IIHF I would have taken offence at the calling of that meeting. I would also have obtained some firm stand from the IOC. We've lost the tournament on the opinion of one man, Avery Brundage."

Jukes said the Canadian hockey officials had gone through the federal government to try to get a firm statement on IOC policy on Olympic eligibility, on whether suggestions of possible ineligibility were Brundage's own opinion or IOC policy.

"They were unsuccessful," Jukes said. "Because one man expressed a personal opinion and one he wouldn't back up in writing, we got the axe."

Jukes also said that there were three instances of sabotage: Rumors stirred up that Canada would not grant visas to East Germans, Russian opposition to the schedules for the 1970 tournament and the protest over Canada's proposed use of nine professionals.

A general burrah was the first reaction that greeted the announcement Sunday that Canada had withdrawn from international hockey competition.

The announcement came from Geneva, where representatives of Canadian hockey interests withdrew after being refused the use of professionals for the 1970 world tournament, which was then switched to Stockholm from Winnipeg and Montreal in March.

Health Minister John Munro defended the action and predicted the world tournament would "with a second-class tournament as long as Bunny Ahearne is around."

But Munro, interviewed during an exhibition hockey game between the Canadian Nationals
