GERMAN PLANE RAIDS ON BRITAIN INTENSIFIED

Southern Region Main Objectives Of Daytime Raid

Several Persons Reported Injured as German Raiders, Operating Over Wide Area, Continue Series of Raids Started During Night—Survey Reveals German Claims of Heavy Damage to Ports False.

London, Aug. 3.—German bombing planes stabbed repeatedly at Britain in broad daylight today, continuing a series of scattered raids which had ranged from the Southeast Coast of England to Scotland under cover of darkness.

Several persons were injured by bombs dropped in one Welsh town, but damage was said to be small. Nazi planes also appeared over Southwestern England during the morning.

Four high explosive bombs fell near a village in East Scotland, destroying a chicken house and killing eighteen pullets, but no other damage was reported.

In pre-dawn raids over Scotland more than fifty incendiary bombs were dropped.

Other areas visited by the raiders during the night included the Midlands, Southeast England and the Bristol Channel sector.

A joint communique issued by the Ministries of Air and Home Security said:

"There was some enemy activity during last night, and bombs were dropped in Northeast Scotland, the Midlands, Southeast England and the Bristol Channel area."

"No substantial damage is reported except from a town in the Bristol Channel area, where some bombs fell in a residential district, damaged a church, a school and other buildings and caused a few minor casualties."

The ports of Bristol and Cardiff are the principal cities on Bristol Channel.

BRITISH PORTS OPEN DESPITE MANY RAIDS

London, Aug. 3.—The battle for Britain has resolved itself into a conflict centering largely on the English Channel and the North Sea and upon the ports and harbors bordering these waters, through which passes most of Britain's and Germany's peacetime shipping.

Military secrecy hides the full effect of rival British and German blows, by air and sea, but the British announcement that the German port of Hamburg "now practically in ruins" emphasized the major attention being paid to coastal bases.

Besides on Hamburg, where transatlantic liners docked in peacetime, the British have rained thousands of air bombs on Bremen, with its shipbuilding yards, docks and airplane factories; the big Wilhelmshaven naval base, and Cherbourg, the German-held French port.

All of these ports, possibly, jumping-off places for an attempt to invade Britain, have been blasted repeatedly along with major inland objectives by British airmen ranging from the Arctic coast of Norway to the South of France.

The Royal Air Force, returning the German raids on their harbors and inland bases, reported that more than 1,000 objectives in Germany and German-held territory have been bombed in far-flung raids of the past three months.

On the other hand, Ronald Cross, Minister of Shipping, said last Wednesday.

Argument Over Guaranteed Wheat Price Delays House Prorogation

By CARL REINKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Continuation of the 70-cent basic wheat price for another year had the approval today of the House of Commons, though Western members of all parties agreed it was not all it should be under normal conditions.

The price question was the only major point in the bill amending the Wheat Board Act settled in the Commons yesterday. Thursday's day-long debate ran on for seven hours more yesterday, recessing for the second time after midnight. However, it became generally apparent as the words piled up that Parliament could not prorogue today as the Government had intended. Estimates totalling well above $300,000,000 remain to be considered.

Debate yesterday produced few unfamiliar arguments. Agriculture Minister Gardiner agreed the producer required a 90-cent price at the farm to maintain himself but marketing conditions, much worse than last year, precluded such a guarantee.

On the other hand Opposition critics argued that loss of markets was a result of the war and should be as-

Opposition To Draft Grows Despite Roosevelt Support

Bi-Partisan Bloc Being Organized in United States Senate To Force Adoption of Speeded Voluntary Enlistment Plan Rather Than Selective Draft To Bring United States Army to Strength.

Washington, August 3.—(AP)—Opponents of compulsory military training for the United States talked today of forming a bi-partisan bloc for a Senate floor battle against peacetime conscription advocated by President Roosevelt.

Cheered by a statement of Harry H. Woodring, resigned Secretary of War, Senators fighting the Conscription Bill considered trying to attach a voluntary training system to the measure empowering the President to call out the National Guard (militia) and Reserve Officers.

Senator Burton Wheeler (Democrat, Montana) told reporters that some organization of "both Republicans and Democrats will be formed to fight conscription with all the vigor we possess."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Republican, Michigan), another critic of the draft legislation, urged that some system of voluntary enlistment for a year's army training be tried along the lines advocated by Woodring.

TO IMPROVE ALASKA DEFENCES
Washington, August 3.—(AP)—The United States Navy took steps today to improve the Alaskan defenses opposite Russian territory by awarding $4,205,000 in contracts for work at naval air stations on Kodiak and Unalaska Islands.

The action came less than two weeks after a Coast Guard cutter confirmed reports that a Russian air base was being developed on Soviet-owned big Diomed Island in the Bering Strait, a mile from American-owned Little Diomed Island.

Awards amounting to $4,609,500 also were made yesterday by the Navy for air outposts at San Juan in Puerto Rico, Charlotte Amalie in the Virgin Islands, and Midway.

URGE REMOVAL OF FORMALITY IN EVACUATION

New York Members of House of Representatives Would Increase Quotas Available for Refugees.

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—With German planes raiding the British Isles, New York members of the House of Representatives are demanding Congressional action to speed evacuation of refugee children to the United States.

Chairman Samuel Dickstein of the House Immigration Committee has called hearings for next Wednesday and Thursday on several bills dealing with the subject, declaring: "I believe we owe it to the democracies and to the world to cut the red tape of the immigration law and let these poor children who are the victims of an unprecedented condition come to this land of freedom."

Lord Beaverbrook May Assume Cabinet Post Of Chamberlain

London, Aug. 3.—Possibility that Lord Beaverbrook, newly invited to Prime Minister Churchill's Inner War Cabinet, might succeed Neville Chamberlain as Lord President of the Council drew speculation in the press today.

An official announcement last night said the Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook would continue for the time being in his post as Minister of Aircraft Production.

His elevation brings membership of the Inner Cabinet to six, the other members being Mr. Churchill, Mr. Chamberlain, Viscount Halifax, Clement Attlee and Arthur Greenwood.

The Daily Herald (Labor) declared: "There is a growing belief that Mr. Neville Chamberlain, who is at present in a nursing home (after an operation), is not likely to resume any heavy responsibilities. It is being stated that his present indisposition marks the end of his active career. In this event, Lord Beaverbrook may be expected to take over the ex-Premier's duties at an early date."

The News Chronicle (Liberal), discussed the possibility that Lord Beaverbrook might take over the Ministry of Information from Alfred Duff Cooper, who has drawn criticism in the House of Commons for recent house-to-house polls of public opinion regarding war matters and in the newspapers for handling of censorship.

It has been strongly represented to the Prime Minister that British propaganda, especially in foreign countries, badly needs strengthening," the News Chronicle said, remarking that no member of the Inner Cabinet is directly responsible for propaganda.

Government Endorsed Evacuation Party Reaches Dominion Safely

An East Coast Canadian Port, Aug. 3.—Sponsored by the British Government, eighty-two English children were in Canada today, looking forward to a new life in the Dominion after an ocean voyage from their home land.

They landed here yesterday from a liner that also carried forty-nine paying passengers, most of them Jewish refugees. Some of the passengers circulated a report that the convoy with which the vessel sailed from Britain had been attacked.

It was the eager-eyed children that drew the spotlight when the passengers disembarked from the ship although the adult group included a blonde German film star, a Dutch dress designer and other interesting personalities.

Nova Scotia will harbor twenty-eight of them for the rest of the year, New Brunswick will care for sixteen and Quebec six while the other children are bound for other parts of the Dominion. Most of the Jewish refugees have Shanghai for their destination, "which is easier than most places to get in and out of," they explained.

Trim in her khaki uniform of British Commissioner of the French Red Cross, Miss Edith Gowan was the chief escort for the journey. Last night she had a brand new command to give her young charges as they turned back for bed. "Children, will you please get undressed—and take all your clothes off tonight!"

There were two young Canadians in the party, Dorothy and David Dobbs of Toronto. They had been in England for the last two years or so and were bound "Back Home."

Dorothy was of a mathematical turn of mind and told reporters she was "not quite so accurate on the subject of where she lived, however, giving her home as "Church of England."

Also aboard was Dr. Bruce Hardy of Toronto, borrowed from a London hospital for the trip. Discussing the foreign passengers on board the ship he remarked "the tragic thing about it is that so many foreigners have fled to England. They want to help in the services but there's so much danger of Fifth Column activity that the Government has had to send them away."

Eight German Jews who had not quite completed taking out their British naturalization papers were among the passengers. They are now on their way to Shanghai.

An attractive blonde Dutch dress designer, Miss Myra Wolf, was on her way to New York. She will continue her business there.

Another blonde passenger was reported to be Evelyn Holt, a film star in pre-Hitler Germany. Like most other adults she refused to identify herself. Her husband said their destination was the International Settlement at Shanghai.

REPORTED FRENCH COLONY REFUSES TO RECOGNIZE EUROPEAN ARMISTICE

Sydney, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Sydney Telegraph said today the French Island Colony of New Caledonia had refused to recognize the French-German armistice and had pledged support to Britain in continuing the war against Germany.

The decision, the dispatch said, was announced by Governor Pelletier at a meeting of the Legislative Council in Noumea, capital of the colony.

New Caledonia lies about 375 miles east of Australia. The island has an area of 8,548 square miles and a population of 57,630.

NOT MURDER ANYWAY
Epping, England, Aug. 3.—An open verdict, excluding homicide, was recorded at an inquest here into the death of Sapper Warley Wells, who was found shot while on guard duty.

Vichy, France, Aug. 3.—The Vichy Government has ordered dissolution of Freemasonry and all other secret societies in France, it was announced today.

The press charged Freemasonry with offences ranging from sapping the morale of France to undermining Marshal Petain's efforts to re-establish the "Work, Family and Fatherland" idea among the people.

The newspaper Le Nouvelliste of Lyon declared "our foreign enemies never would have been able to succeed against us if France had not been literally assassinated by the venom of secret lodges."

The newspaper asserted that Freemasonry systematically deprived the French of their ideals, adding: "France without ideals has become a defeated France."

Charging that Freemasons methodically applied their international orders to the constant detriment of France, Le Nouvelliste said "they not only worked to de-Christianize the country but also to corrupt and destroy the three principles Marshal Petain has decided to re-establish in all their essential virtues: Work, Family and Fatherland."

The press said Freemasons got their representatives into public office where they wielded their influence against the nation's Catholic faith and built up a spirit of "hypocrisy, tyranny, defeatism and hate."

FURTHER RESTRICTION OF FOODSTUFF SALES

Vichy, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The French Government issued new decrees today restricting the sale of foodstuffs in another move to guard against shortage of supplies this winter because of transportation difficulties and absence of imports.

SUBMARINE IS MAIN ACTOR IN RANSOM SCHEME

Airplane Also To Play Part in Extortion Threat Against Store Manager at Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A $100,000 extortion and bombing plot—whose fantastic features included a scheme for a getaway in a tiny, home-made submarine—was broken up by police with the arrest of three young Milwaukee men.

The three, held pending issuance of warrants today, were a twenty-three-year-old ornamental iron worker, his brother, twenty-seven, and a twenty-eight-year-old companion.

The youngest man, O'Gorman said, admitted after his arrest yesterday, that he made and planted a bomb which exploded harmlessly in a Northside Sears Roebuck & Company store last July 24, and also the sending of a series of letters to Store

Japanese Make Protest Over Detention Of Noted Business Men By British

British Authorities Deny that Arrest of Two Japanese Bankers in London Was in Retaliation for Detention of Britishers in Shanghai—Claim Move Drive on Empire-Wide Espionage Plot.

London, Aug. 3.—Britain followed up the arrests of many of her prominent subjects in Japan with an Empire-wide round-up of Japanese today, including two London representatives of the powerful Mitsubishi and Mitsui banking interests, but authoritative sources here insisted the British action was not retaliatory.

The arrest here last night of Satoru Makihara and Shunsuke Tanabe, London managers of Mitsubishi and Mitsui, respectively, and the arrest of Japanese subjects in other parts of the Empire were coupled with unconfirmed rumors of the uncovering of a widespread spy ring branching from London throughout the Empire, notably Canada, Australia and Burma.

Reports of the spy ring, published here without specific reference to the arrests, said the members of the ring had been allowed to operate in peace "until they were involved hopelessly."

The Japanese Embassy registered a "strong protest" with the British Government at the arrest of Makihara and Tanabe, the two most prominent Japanese businessmen in London.

Authoritative circles denied reports that the arrests were in retaliation for the mass arrests of British subjects in Japan and Korea, nine of whom still are in custody, and described their timing as "pure coincidence" growing out of investigations which have been under way for some months under Britain's stringent Defence of the Realm Regulations.

The British position was that in a widespread drive against enemy sympathizers and possible spies people of all nationalities had been detained, among them some Japanese.

To link such arrests with the incidents in Japan and assert they are retaliatory merely because they followed the arrests in Japan, these sources said, was drawing an unwarranted conclusion.

Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu personally went to the British Foreign Office with the protests against the arrests of businessmen, whom the Embassy said were Satoru Makihara and Shunsuke Tanabe, the London managers of the great Japanese banking firms of Mitsubishi and Mitsui, respectively.

The two were understood to have been arrested under the aliens order of the Defence Regulations, which gives the Home Secretary power to deport aliens or order their detention.

The Home Office, however, refused any comment this morning. Makihara has been the London representative of Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha for more than ten years, while Tanabe was transferred to the London office of Mitsui Kaisha three months ago. Tanabe is married to an Englishwoman and has one daughter.

Police searched Makihara's home in the fashionable Putney district before the arrest, but was understood they took no papers away.

Makihara is understood to have been given only time enough to pack an overnight bag before he was taken to Scotland Yard by officers of the special branch.

While no details were given as to the number of Japanese apprehended, it was understood that

Large Population Transfer Base For Hitler Solution In Balkans

Bucharest, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Transfer of 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 persons to the countries of their ancestry is Adolf Hitler's plan for disposing of Rumanian-Hungarian territorial problems, regardless of of much land Rumania ultimately cedes, German diplomatic circles said today.

Under this scheme, all Hungarians in Rumanian would be returned to Hungary; all Germans in any ceded territory of the disputed province of Transylvania would be removed to the Reich, and all Rumanians in such areas as well as present Hungarians would be transplanted into Rumania.

According to latest estimates, there are 1,400,000 Hungarians in all Rumania; 500,000 Germans in Transylvania, which Rumania gained from Hungary in the First Great War settlement, and 100,000 Rumanians in Hungary.

German circles said the recent Axis-Balkan conferences had limited Rumanian-Hungarian negotiations to a semi-circular frontier area taking in two large Transylvanian cities.

Rumania will open territorial concession talks with Bulgaria next Wednesday, when Bulgarian Foreign Minister Ivan Popoff and Finance Minister Dobri Boziloff will arrive in Bucharest, informed sources said. Bulgaria claims Southern Dobruja, which Rumania won in 1913. Conversations with Hungary will follow, it is expected.

SHIPS SINKINGS THIS WEEK

(By The Canadian Press)

The British Government's summary of sinkings for the week ending July 21—announced this week—showed 37,577 tons of British shipping was lost, together with 10,192 of neutral shipping and 2,088 tons Allied.

PREFER DEATH TO LIVING ON REICH RAIDER

Crew of British Freighter Set Adrift in West Indies Hold Poor Opinion of Life on Raider.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 3.—(C. P. Cable)—The 6,400-ton British freighter Davian was attacked five hundred miles off Barbados, July 10 by a German raider. The survivors of the British vessel said here today. The thirty-two members of the Davian's crew were brought here from Santo Domingo yesterday.

The seamen declared that their vessel was bound for Trinidad when the enemy craft was sighted. The Nazi raider was flying the Swedish flag and had the name Narvik painted on its side.

As the Germans opened fire on the Davian, she ran up the German flag, the survivors declared. Forty members of the Davian's crew were taken aboard the enemy vessel. The Davian then was plundered and sunk.

For three days, the Nazi raider remained in the same area, attacking the 5,200-ton British freighter King John and sinking her also. Members of the Davian's crew were placed in boats of the King John, with some members of that ship's crew.

The men from the two ships which were sunk by the raider were set adrift without a compass and only a few biscuits and some water. The survivors who reached here said that they would have preferred death rather than share the fate of comrades kept prisoners aboard the raider.

The Captain, Chief Engineer and a few seamen from the Davian who were injured by shots from the Nazi vessel were kept aboard the German craft.

After seven days in their leaky boats, the men reached an uninhabited part of the Santo Domingo coast. Finally they were picked up by a Norwegian steamer which took them aboard, weak from exposure, exhaustion, hunger and thirst. The boat brought them here.

Other survivors of the Davian and the King John reached Basseterre, St. Kitts, eleven days ago. Then men who reached Kingston, ranging in age from eighteen to sixty-two years of age, come from England, Scotland, Wales and Canada.

In an encounter with a Nazi raider announced four days ago by the British Admiralty at London, the 22,000-ton armed merchant cruiser hended nor where they were seized, this morning's London News-Chronicle, predicting such arrests would occur in England, India and in other British possessions in the Orient where they are large colonies of Japanese.

Confirmation of the arrests came within twenty-four hours of news that two more British subjects had been detained by Japan, this time in that country's Asiatic colony of Korea.

This brought the number of Britons in custody to nine. Since six of the thirteen prominent businessmen arrested in various parts of Japan in what Japanese authorities described as a drive against espionage had been released.

These actions by the Japanese brought a statement from an authoritative British spokesman yesterday charging that the German Gestapo had a representative in the Japanese Home Office who exerted considerable influence in Japanese internal affairs.

A spokesman at the Japanese Embassy said: "We are flabbergasted at the action which has been taken."

He added that Ambassador Shigemitsu, in addition to lodging a protest, had asked full details of and reasons for the arrests.

The spokesman described the two men as "very pro-British and very sympathetic to Britain."

"We cannot possibly imagine anything on their part to invite suspicion or give the impression that they infringed on the regulations of this country," he said.

"We hope everything can be settled satisfactorily," he added.

JAP PRESS CLAIMS RETALIATION

Tokyo, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Tokyo newspapers said today they regarded the arrests of Japanese citizens by British authorities as being in retaliation for arrests of Britons in Japan on suspicion of espionage.

The newspapers issued extra editions with London dispatches reporting the arrests.

The Foreign Office declined comment pending receipt of official reports from the Japanese Embassy in London.

Alcantara hit the Nazi vessel. The Germans fled under smoke floats and a lucky shot from the raider struck the British vessel, reducing her speed. The Nazi raider, carrying Wheat Board at a price considerably above the market.

The Government's grain policy was "nothing but a confusion and bewilderment," Mr. Coldwell said. "I should like to see the position thoroughly cleared up before we leave the House and I say that because Canada is facing a very difficult situation."

If there was dissatisfaction in the West, much of it was due to statements by the Liberal party prior to the 1935 election, when they promised the farmers dollar wheat. Instead, the farmers were paying higher prices and getting fifty cents a bushel at the farm.

The tremendous problems of the post-war period should be receiving attention now and one of those problems was what would happen to Western agriculture after the war.

C. E. Johnston (N.D., Bow River) said excessive freight rates made it almost impossible for Western Canada to buy the goods it desired, "unless Eastern Canada recognizes the fact that it must treat Western Canada as it should be treated, then of course, Western Canada must look to some means of taking care of itself."

One said he and other Americans felt this was as much their war as it was Britain's and Canada's.

A former Member of the Michigan Legislature, wearing Canadian battle dress, said there was a considerable number of Americans in his brigade and that there would have been more except that those who were leaving persuaded them to stay home and look after their families.

A lad from Kentucky said most of the Americans in one Canadian Battalion had worked in Detroit "alongside Canadians who were just like brothers to us."

COAST GUARD MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Boston, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The oldest branch of the United States armed forces—the Coast Guard—opened a week's celebration today to mark its 105th anniversary, privileged to turn the log back through an unbroken record of service often more perilous and varied than that of any other Government department.

The Coast Guard shares the hazards of war with the army, navy and marine corps, but has neither armistice nor peace while the seas remain broken and unbridled.

Last year, more than 10,000 lives were snatched from peril, often in hair-breadth rescues, and vessels and cargoes valued at $63,723,566 were assisted to safety, where otherwise they might have found Davy Jones' capacious locker. Totals for the current year probably will be approximately the same and for several years rescues have averaged 8,000 or 9,000.

Since the Coast Guard was entrusted with the International Ice Patrol, after an iceberg claimed the giant liner Titanic and 1,517 lives in 1912, no other vessel or passenger has met such fate in the North Atlantic steamship lanes.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "One infinite God, good, unifies men and nations; constitutes the brotherhood of man; ends wars; fulfills the Scripture, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself'; annihilates pagan and Christian idolatry—whatever is wrong in social, civil, criminal, political, and religious codes; equalizes the sexes; annuls the curse on man, and leaves nothing that can sin, suffer, be punished or destroyed." STANSTEAD CO. GROUP HEADED BY DR. HARRIS

Adult Education School To Be Operated at Ayer's Cliff from September 17 to November 5.

Ayer's Cliff, Aug. 3.—At a meeting held here, it was decided to operate a Stanstead County Adult Education School on Tuesday, from September 17 to November 5, at the Ayer's Cliff School. Mr. Gordon Rothney, of the McGill University Extension Department, described the organization which has been set up for the direction of Adult Education in the Eastern Townships. Mr. Alex Sim, of the Rural Adult Education Service, Lennoxville, spoke on the objectives which were being kept in mind in planning the programmes of the community schools in war time. "Training for useful service at home is the primary purpose," he declared. He also stressed the importance of worth-while recreation in every community.

The question of courses to be offered was thoroughly discussed. It was the general opinion that the subjects to be taught should be as practical as possible, and as suggestions, First Aid, Dress Making, Farm Problems, Mechanics, and Child Psychology were mentioned. The following were elected as officers of the Stanstead District committee: President, Dr. Carroll S. Harris, Magog; Vice-President, Mr. Gordon Geddes, Way's Mills; Secretary, Mrs. Freeman Sutton, Barnston; and Treasurer, Mr. Lysle R. Thompson, Ayer's Cliff.

Southern Region Main Objectives Of Daytime Raid

Monday that some of Britain's busiest pre-war Channel ports now are virtually closed for various reasons, and that normal traffic in others is displaced by war commerce.

This week the Germans made their greatest single day's attack on Dover, Channel port closest to France, but did little damage.

Mr. Cross said Britain had prepared for "sudden changes in our port arrangements," as a result of the danger to Channel traffic.

He assured Britons, however, the maze of quays, stretching 26 miles from Tilbury to London Bridge along the Thames, often called the "most vulnerable spot in the British Empire," had escaped damage altogether.

Despite the almost daily German raids aimed at British ports, a poll of them disclosed they also had escaped serious damage from the attacks.

In its last recapitulation, the Air Minister reported 3-8 German raiders had been downed, 248 since the first mass raid June 18, by home defences and that more than 400 Nazi fliers had been captured.

Here is what British coastal correspondents report:—

Folkstone: "You can take it from me there hasn't been any damage to this port. There is no shipping going in and out, but the reason is that all our ordinary trade is gone."

Plymouth: There have been forty-odd raids around here in the last month and about twenty deaths. Some houses have been hit, but mostly the bombings have been in country districts where they are aiming at military objectives."

Southampton: "There haven't been any real raids here for six weeks. There has been no military damage, and none to port facilities."

Edinburgh: "There have been raids and one dock was hit at Leith, but no damage has been done to hurt shipping, which is a little slow due to other war considerations than air raids."

Glasgow: "Not a single coastal objective has been hit. They've been scattering bombs over towns and fields."

Hull: "Damage has been confined to houses."

Liverpool: "Some bombs were dropped in this region several weeks ago, but there has been absolutely no damage to the port or port facilities."

Dover: "You might have thought from the size of that big raid last Monday that a lot of damage had been done, but that's not so. They aimed almost altogether at shipping. I went around the harbor after the raid, but no part of the harbor or the harbor walls were hit. A couple of bombs dropped back of the town some time ago, but there has been no damage in the town itself."

Bristol: "Shipping at Bristol docks is quite normal. There definitely hasn't been any damage to the docks."

Portsmouth: "We get plenty of raids around here, but Portsmouth is so strongly defended they haven't been able to get at us."

Cardiff, Wales: "We have had sixty raids in all, a good many alarms in Cardiff, and we have heard a good many bombs drop. But I can tell you that aside from a daylight raid several weeks ago there has been no damage to docks. Then one bomb hit a ship at the docks and killed six people. Shipping goes in and out as usual."

Attractions at the Local Theatres

At The Premier

Joe Penner, noted for his individual and highly personalized type of mirthmaking, is starred in another of his famous comedy portrayals in "Millionaire Playboy," which opens at the New Premier Theatre tomorrow.

Like previous Penner vehicles, "Millionaire Playboy" has a hilarious premise. The amusing situations revolve around a bashful young man who gets a terrific fit of hiccupping whenever a girl kisses him. To cure him a friend takes him to a mountain resort overflowing with beautiful girls whom the companion explains are really old ladies with their faces lifted. The amusing complications which arise keep the story moving swiftly.

"Millionaire Playboy" marks the fifth starring vehicle for Penner. His previous hit comedies for RKO Radio were "The Day the Bookies Went," "Mr. Doodle Kicks Off," "I'm From the City" and "Go Chase Yourself." The current picture is said to top them all for laughs.

Lovely Linda Hayes has the feminine lead opposite Penner in the Robert Sisk production, while other roles are played by Russ Brown, Fritz Feld, Tom Kennedy and Granville Bates. Leslie Goodwins directed.

The other attraction at the Premier stars Jack Holt as a federal undercover man on a runaway gambling ship.

"Outside the 3-Mile Limit," Jack Holt represents a G-Man working undercover on the trail of a fortune in spurious bills. Harry Carey, Eduardo Ciannelli and Sig Ruman are the trio of villains who fight against the daring federal operative in a spectacular saga of bravery and excitement. Donald Briggs, Irene Ware and Dick Purcell play important roles in the film which was directed by Lewis D. Collins.

Submarine Is Main Actor In Ransom Scheme

Manager Rowland H. Davis demanding $100,000 under threat that "a bomb 200 times larger will go off at your South Side store. Besides your own life will be in danger..."

The submarine, a flimsy seven-foot long contrivance made of sheet metal, was discovered in the youth's basement. Light enough for two persons to lift onto a trailer, it was powered by two storage batteries and an automobile starter motor, and equipped with a crude conning tower, diving fins, and oxygen tank.

The youth said he intended to pick up the extortion money as it was dropped from an airplane out over Lake Michigan under a plan outlined in a letter to Davis, and then submerge and make his getaway.

COUNTERFEIT HUNT

Eighteen-Year-Old Girl Held Responsible In Baby's Death

Marie-Rose Leclerc, Formerly of Lake Megantic, Will Be Charged with "Neglect at Birth with Intent To Conceal Birth"—Baby's Body Found in Valise.

Under police supervision in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital today, Marie-Rose Leclerc, 18, is expected to be arraigned in Magistrate's Court next week to answer charges arising out of the death last Sunday of a prematurely born child whose body was found in a valise in a West Ward home.

The Leclerc girl, who is a former resident of Lake Megantic and has been employed in Sherbrooke for the past two months, was held criminally responsible for the child's death at the conclusion of inquest conducted by Coroner Leonidas Bachand at the Marquette Street police station.

It was indicated by Crown Prosecutor Cosaire Gervais, K.C., that the accusation against the girl will be that of "neglect at birth with intent to conceal the birth" as outlined in Article 271 of the Criminal Code.

Marie-Rose Leclerc was removed to the hospital on Monday on orders of Dr. Guy Bertrand and the following day the Lady of the house at which she was employed as servant discovered the infant's body in a small valise kept in a closet in the maid's room.

Investigation into the child's death led the Provincial Police to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital where Miss Leclerc was questioned. According to evidence given at the inquest she admitted the infant was hers and that she had placed it in the valise after she had given birth to it.

Results of an autopsy performed by Dr. (Cosme) Fontaine, Montreal medico-legal expert, were read to the jurors by Coroner Bachand and revealed the babe died of asphyxiation due to lack of proper attention at birth. It was evident, the report said, the child had been alive after birth.

Witnesses at the inquest included the Leclerc girl's employer, Lieut. Albert Marinou, and Detectives Steno Brasseur and Germain Lortie, of the Provincial Police, and Dr. Bertrand.

Marked Pick-Up In Tourist Trade From U.S. Is Observed

Indications that the fears of American travellers regarding possible difficulties in entering Canada are being overcome, were given today in the monthly report issued by Leon Darche, head of the Sherbrooke Tourist Information Bureau.

Mr. Darche observed that for the first three weeks of July tourist travel here from the United States was at a much lower volume than during the corresponding period last year. He added that there has been a marked pick-up, however, in the last ten days and attributed this to an extensive advertising campaign on the part of the U.S. by the Dominion and Provincial Governments.

The observations of the tourist office head are based on the number of people who make use of the King Street Bureau for information of all kinds. Last year during the month of July, 876 Americans visited the Bureau, while during the last month the total was 525.

In spite of the decrease in the American tourist trade there is a counterbalancing increase in the total number of persons given information by Mr. Darche and his staff. In July, this was 1,808 as against 1,745 last year, and the large number indicates more Sherbrooke people are using the office and there is a greater flow of travel from other districts in Quebec and other provinces of Canada.

Information regarding passports was given out to 478 persons during the last month.

C.P.C. DUTIES IN AIR RAIDS ARE DESCRIBED

Director Maranda Issues Call for Volunteers in Local Civilian Protection Committee.

Maintenance of the morale of the civilian population in times of emergency and particularly during air raids is vitally necessary and one of the most important functions of the Civilian Protection Committee is to provide the necessary leadership to ensure a high morale.

The above information was given by Police Director Artur Maranda, who has issued a call to all citizens more than thirty years old to register in the C. P. C. and thus become affiliated with an organization which may be called upon to render great national service.

Some of the duties of the C. P. C. in the event of air attack will be the evacuation of persons from threatened areas, restriction of lighting, provision for shelters, maintenance of vital services including transport systems and telephone and telegraph networks, first-aid work, clearing of debris, fire-fighting, road repairs, etc.

Director Maranda pointed out that by enlisting in the C. P. C. citizens will prove they are behind the nation in its war effort and will be looked upon as providing an example of leadership to the rest of the civilian population. He urged that all who can, register as soon as possible at the nearest police station where application forms are now available.

Preparations Underway For Regiment's Period In Camp

Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke Leaving Tomorrow for Farnham—Sherbrooke Regiment Will Leave on August 24 for Three Weeks Under Canvas at Mount St. Bruno.

Preparations are under way in the headquarters of local militia for the three weeks' training period which is to be spent under canvas in military camps in the Province.

Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke are to leave Sunday for Farnham where they will remain in camp until August 24 and the Sherbrooke Regiment will leave on the 24th for the camp at Mt. Bruno where they will remain under canvas for a similar length of time. At first the French regiment was scheduled to encamp at Mt. Bruno as well, but a decision was reached at military headquarters to group all the French-speaking units together in one camp where they will receive their instruction in French. Likewise, English-speaking units will be grouped together at Camp Bruno.

In the camps the administration and discipline will be in the hands of the units themselves, but the training will be arranged and executed by a camp staff who will remain in the camps throughout the summer. These instructors have just completed their training at St. Johns, Que.

The first week of the camp will be devoted largely to elementary training both with and without the rifle in drill, and instruction will be given in various phases of military work. These will include anti-aircraft defences, the use of cover, elementary tactics, the use of the compass both by day and by night, the use of barbed wire, the construction of weapon pits and other subjects in field engineering.

During the second and third weeks of training, members of the Non-Permanent units will receive instruction in more advanced subjects. A considerable amount of time will be devoted to the use of the rifle and the militiamen will have a great deal of practice on the ranges. Instruction will be for the most part related to the use of the rifle. Such subjects will be dealt with as judging distance, military duties, practise in organizing and running butt parties and the keeping of butt registers.

Sixty targets will be used by the men of each camp and ranges of from thirty to five hundred yards will be made use of. At the outset of the musketry practice men firing will be largely confined to the thirty yard range in order to let the men become accustomed to the use and action of their weapons, and to build up a feeling of confidence.

Throughout the training period the day will be divided into periods in order to break up the subjects, rendering them more interesting and arranging them in progressive order. Although the Sherbrooke Regiment is primarily a machine gun unit, it is understood that the training for all militia will be the same. The underlying object is to make as many men as possible familiar with the elementary principles of soldiering, and to teach them how to handle and fire a rifle.

Both the local units will go into camp at full war time strength.

WILLIE DUSSAULT SAYS:

Have you got your coal in yet? I think that the coal dealers should be urging you to fill up your bin now while coal is arriving and summer prices are ruling. I don't sell coal, but I have men available right now to do any job of repairing, remodelling or rebuilding that you may have, and every man is an expert craftsman. My telephone number by day is 3861; in the evening 'call 2888.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1—May the bride carry a prayer book if her attendants carry arm bouquets?

2—Do the bridesmaids select and pay for their own dresses?

3—Is it correct for a young man to take his fiancée along when he selects her engagement ring?

4—If a man does not take his fiancée with him when he selects her engagement ring, should he find out whether she prefers yellow, gold, or platinum and the style setting she likes?

5—Should a young man, sending a girl flowers to wear to a dance, try to find out what color dress she plans to wear?

What would you do if—
You are a girl, and a young man that you have never met but who is a friend of a friend telephones you when he is in your city and asks if you can see him—

(a) Invite him to your home?
(b) Arrange to meet him somewhere?

ANSWERS

1—Yes, if she wishes.
2—The bride selects them, but each bridesmaid pays for her own dress.
3—Yes.
4—Yes. Because once he has bought the ring for her she cannot let him know it is not in the kind of setting she likes best.
5—Yes.

Best "What Would You Do?" solution—(a).

MARRIAGES

ARNOTT—CARLETON
Dunham, August 2.—On Saturday afternoon, July 27th, the marriage of Frances Josselyn Carleton, daughter of Rev. J. F. and Mrs. Carleton, of Dunham, to S. Douglas Arnott, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Arnott, of Westmont, took place in the United Church, Dunham. The church was decorated with hydrangea and hollyhocks.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rev. Mr. Carleton, who was assisted by Rev. Colin Rudd, of Montreal.

Acting as bridesmaids were the Misses Marion Selby and Mary Louise, of Dunham, and Margaret Alleyby, of St. Johns, Que. Mr. Harry Bacon, of Stanstead, was best man while Messrs. Howard Miller and Pat Williams, of Montreal, were ushers.

A full choir was in attendance with Mr. Harold H. Hodge, of Stanstead, East, at the organ and sang "O Perfect Love" prior to the entry of the bride and procession and "O Father, All Creating" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a gown of cream cut sheer over satin, with a long train and tulle veil extending to the end of the train, a halo of orange blossoms and real Russells lace, and carried a colonial nosegay.

The bridesmaids wore full-skirted dresses of point d'esprit over taffeta, with matching flowered hats and short tulle veils. Miss Marion Selby in blue, Miss Mary Louise in yellow and Miss Margaret Alleyby in orchid. Each carried colonial nosegays.

Mrs. Carleton, the bride's mother, wore a floor-length dress of Queen's Blue crepe, and a corsage of white sweet peas. Mrs. Arnott, mother of the bridegroom, wore a floor-length gown of navy blue lace and a corsage of dark sweet peas.

After a reception held in the Church Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Arnott left for a motor trip in the Laurens, the bride travelling in a mauve linen suit with white accessories.

Out-of-town guests included friends from Toronto, Perth and Arden, Ont., Montreal, Napierville, Stanstead, Sherbrooke, Quebec City, the bridegroom's brother from Camp Borden, and the ministers of the District of Bedford Ministerial Association and their wives. The congregations of the Churches ministered to by the bride's father were also amongst the invited guests.

PARTRIDGE—CLARK
Knowlton, Aug. 3.—The marriage of Evelyn Jean, daughter of the late Herman Clark and Mrs. Clark, of Knowlton, to Mr. William John, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Partridge, of Knowlton, took place on Tuesday afternoon, July 30, at 4 p.m., in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Rev. A. E. Rollet officiating. Office Woman and Housewife Can Learn From Each Other Standing Miss Executive and Mrs. Housewife side by side and seeing how they stack up, you find out that neither one has everything her own way.

Miss Executive is a much better luncheon companion. She takes a quick glance at the menu and orders her meal—and once it is ordered she doesn't change her mind.

Whereas Mrs. Housewife is sure to consider everything on the menu out loud, and then find that choosing between swordfish and lamb chops is a major decision.

Housewife Is Better Hostess. She'll take up so much time setting down to talk that lunch is over before there is time for any real conversation.

But when it comes to keeping up her end of entertaining, Miss Executive is way behind Mrs. Housewife. She feels, somehow, that the fact that she works excuses her from doing anything that doesn't exactly suit her at the moment. And she kids herself that she needn't be as scrupulous about returning hospitality as Mrs. Housewife has to be.

So far as clothes go, Miss Executive has it all over Mrs. Housewife. She achieves a day-in-and-day-out smartness that her stay-at-home friend never quite manages.

Executives Shudder At Birthdays. But in the matter of growing old gracefully, Miss Executive is way behind. Maybe it is because she is afraid to grow old at all, knowing that there is little place for "the older woman" in business. Anyway, the years are more likely to harden than soften her features. Whereas they usually soften the features of Mrs. Housewife.

Seeing that being a housewife develops one set of good qualities, and being a business woman develops another—the solution is obvious. Before she marries, a girl should work a while—if only long enough to learn how to order a meal in three minutes.

Mr. R. S.

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

Emily's Visit To The Forest

EMILY was to be the little Dutch girl in a play in her room at school and she had been working hard to have her costume quite perfect. She was to wear a short striped skirt, a plain little tight fitting waist, a large bonnet that almost covered her and, of course—wooden shoes. It had been easy enough to fix up the skirt and waist; the bonnet, though queer, wasn't so very hard to make but the wooden shoes—they had been a real trouble.

"Wooden shoes," her mother exclaimed. "I'd just like to know where you can find wooden shoes!"

Great Tears Of Fright Ran Down Her Cheeks

Years ago we used to see them sometimes on the fancy goods counters in the big stores. But not a pair have I seen for ages. I don't believe they ship them over any more.

"But I have to have wooden shoes!" cried Emily in great distress. "I couldn't be a Dutch girl without them."

And it was right there Uncle Bob came to the rescue. He remembered that one Sunday when he had driven out a way from the city, he had passed through a Dutch settlement. And he thought—of course, he wasn't certain sure—but he thought he had seen some youngsters walking about in wooden shoes.

"Let's drive out there next Sunday," he suggested to Emily, "and see for sure. If they have some, maybe they will sell them to us for enough money to buy real American shoes. At least we can try it."

So they went, Emily and her uncle, and they had a beautiful time. They found the quaint little Dutch village with its charming little houses and one big sure enough windmill. And better still, they found the little children with the same wooden shoes and one little girl, just Emily's size exactly, was more than willing to sell her shoes to a little girl whose uncle was as generous as Uncle Bob was that day. So the shoes became Emily's and her costume was complete.

I wish there was time to tell you all about the play at Emily's school, and all about the fun they had at rehearsals and all that. But maybe you've been in a play yourself and don't need to be told about that sort of fun.

But anyway, the play was a big success and everybody said Emily looked exactly like a really truly little Dutch girl with her hair down her back and her wooden shoes and everything and that she acted very well.

After she came home from school that afternoon, she put her costume away so carefully in a box in her room and thought she was all through using it for a long time. That's just how little she knew.

For no matter what she was doing after that, Emily kept thinking about that costume under the bed and wooden shoes, and wishing she could dress up again and be a little Dutch girl—even if there wasn't any play.

She thought about it so much one day, long after school had closed for the summer, that she decided to play that she was a little Dutch girl, and go off in a dark forest.

Right there Emily was pretty mixed up. Dutch girls live in Holland and there are no dark and gloomy forests in Holland as Emily would have learned in the very next grade. Holland is a land of sunshine and canals and tiny, beautiful little fields are taken care of better than some of our yards. It is way over in Central Europe that the dark forests grow, quite a way from Holland. At least that is the way it was before the awful war came upon that happy land.

Still, if she had known that, perhaps she wouldn't have planned to dress up and play go to the forest and then perhaps—but that's getting ahead of the story.

Well, Emily went up to her room, took the costume out of the big wooden box that rolled under the bed and put it on.

"I'd like to have had some of the girls go with me," she thought to herself as she stepped into the wooden shoes, "but I want to play get lost like a real story book person and I'm afraid it would be hard to play if other folks were along."

Down the stairs she went walking as carefully as she could so as not to mar the floors with the urb of a great city and it wasn't hard to get to the woods from her house. Just cross a few lots, wander through a meadow and there were the woods, not ten minutes from home. Of course, woods are not forests. Forests have great, tall trees that have not been touched for years and years and years. Trees that seem to go up as far as a person can see and to make a roof most to the sky. And under this roof of trees, is a dim, fairy-like darkness in which most everything can happen. And, of course, everybody knows that mere woods are not that dark and that they are cheerful and lovely to play in. But Emily was good at pretending and her woods were the nearest to a forest she had ever seen.

Munching at her apple, she wandered into the woods. Passed the place where she and her friend Betsy played house; passed the place where the rabbits had a home, passed the pile of boulders and the tiny creek where the family sometimes had a picnic supper, and into the far end of the woods where she seldom went. And then she sat down to finish her apple and cookies and decide just what she should do next. The sun looked so red and beautiful in the west, the oak trees looked warm and cheerful and Emily was thinking what a beautiful time she was having, and how comfortable she was and what fun playing little Dutch girl was going to be.

And then, so suddenly that she never knew what had happened, she must have fallen asleep, and when the woods are quiet and pretty and a person has just had plenty to eat, it's awfully easy to go to sleep, as you know.

And then, just as suddenly as she had gone to sleep, Emily woke up—but, oh, such a different woods as it was! The fiery red sun was all gone. The oak trees that had looked so warm and friendly were dark and solemn looking and the pile of boulders—Emily looked around for the pile of boulders. They weren't there! Nothing was there as it ought to be! Goodness! "Somebody's picked me up and carried me away!" thought Emily to herself.

She looked around to see who might have done such a dreadful

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, PLYMOUTH, N.H.

THE Handy Boy photographer may have a lot of fun in making this simply built camera with which he can make his small films large enough to be interesting.

Make the box by getting out the back and front, the four sides and nailing them together; at the same time he should make and fit the slide so it will be light tight but it must slide freely. Line the light box with tin for it will reflect the light and at the same time be a safeguard against a possible fire. Make cover as suggested and line thing and there, standing right up in the fork of a tree was a wicked looking little gnome—exactly the sort of wicked gnome who always made trouble in story books. Emily had always thought that when she came across this gnome in real life she would stand up and talk to him and tell him he ought to be good. But indeed she didn't do that at all.

She shivered back away from him and great tears of fright ran down her cheeks. She forgot that she was a little Dutch girl and that she was going out for a brave adventure.

But before the gnome had time to tell her what wicked things he meant to do when he carried her off to this strange dark place, Emily heard the cheerful voice of her father calling, "Emily! Emily! Where are you, dear?"

She tried twice to speak, but couldn't say a word. But that didn't matter either for her father spied her and came over to her. With him near, Emily didn't feel so afraid and when he came close enough to put his arm around her, she said softly, "Father, you tell him he mustn't take me away any more!"

It was with some difficulty she made her father understand that she was talking about the gnome in the tree, but as soon as he did understand he turned his flashlight on that wicked gnome—and what

A Sunshiny Shower

A SUNSHINY shower won't last half an hour. I know from my old Mother Goose:

So why should I stay From the garden away— To do so I don't see the use.

With mother's umbrella And such an old fellow As Sport to stay with me, I think It's fun to remain To watch the cool rain Give each of the flowers a drink.

Just under this tree It's snug as can be And almost as good as a house, So mother won't fret And think I am wet. I'll keep just as still as a mouse.

that with tin also; fit it with an electric bulb, say 50 or 75 watts. Make two supporting irons from strap iron $\frac{1}{2}$ " x 1" x about 8" long; drill screwholes, screw to the back as at A and B and fasten the box to a wall or post at a convenient height, say 40" from the floor; if desired it may be raised or lowered to suit the height of the table, the lens or to increase the size of the print.

The table or shelf may be about 30" from the floor and a soft wood board about a foot square laid upon it; this board may be raised or lowered by building up with pieces of wood, with books or other convenient support. It should be kept level to avoid distorting the prints; bromide, or other paper may be held in place with thumb tacks.

Make the lens board of such size that a rim of rather flexible carton board may be tacked around it; after being sure the board and rim will fit the box closely enough to stay in place by friction; fit it with a lens from an old camera. Make two finger holes C in the rim to aid in adjusting the board while focussing. Exact direction for placing may not be given for in most cases the type and strength of the lens will vary. Fit two pieces of clear glass to the slide as indicated, for the negative will be placed between them.

do you suppose Emily saw? Nothing but the old sycamore tree by the creek—bare, white and one of her favorite play spots!

After dinner Emily could laugh at the joke on herself.

"Next time I go off to play in the forest," she said, "I'm going to have some of the girls go along. Then if I have company, I won't think things look so queer."

"That's a good idea," agreed her mother, "and next time stay awake and play and come home before dark and then you won't see gnomes where trees are."

And Emily promised to remember.

Keeping His Promise

O H, Mother, can't I go?" Carl's voice quivered with eagerness, "Can't I, Mother?"

"Nixie—nix. What do seven-year old kids like you want at a picnic. You'd only be in the way," growled big brother Benny.

"O, Mother, please! It's going to be great," continued Carl, taking no notice of Benny's opinion. "Games, eats, prizes and everything. You said I could go if the younger boys did." Mother looked at the pleading little face.

"Well, dear, if Benny will promise to see after you, I think perhaps you can go."

"Say, come on Carl, we'll be late for the club meeting," cried Benny, and off rushed the two boys!

"Won't you promise mother about the picnic," asked Carl. "I can take care of myself all right, but she won't believe it!"

"We'll see," said Benny. "Now remember if you want to go fishing with Joe and me this afternoon, meet us at Brown's lane, and bring along the fishing basket."

"Sure," cried Carl, and the boys separated.

So that afternoon the three boys made their way to their usual fishing spot in a pretty little woods about half a mile from town.

Carl had his own little rod Dad had rigged up for him, and sat there contentedly, listening to the other boys' conversation.

"Benny, this is awfully slow," cried Joe, suddenly. "Come over to my house and see my rabbits. Dad said I could give you one, so bring your basket and come."

"How about the little one?" said Benny, hesitating. "Let him stay here till we come back," said Joe. "He'll be all right, you hear," turning to Carl. "Benny and I are going to my house for a minute, you wait here." "And don't you budge," added Benny. "Last time you started home alone and got lost, and I got in an awful row. Promise now not to move from where you are, and I'll take you to the picnic, how's that?"

"All right, I promise," said Carl, and Benny knew Carl's promises were to be depended upon, and the two boys left him alone.

There he sat fishing patiently, but not a fish could he catch, the time seemed very long. He wondered why the boys did not return, and he began to feel very hungry, and would have liked to run home for tea, for surely it was getting darker and the sun was setting. But a promise must be kept and there he sat, clutching his rod bravely while tears ran slowly down his cheeks—and he was so tired.

Meanwhile the two boys had made their way to the rabbit hutch and were selecting the rabbit when they heard a call:

"Say, boys, want to come to the ball game with me," and there was Mr. Smith, Joe's father waiting in his car. Rabbit, Carl and everything else was forgotten.

"Sure!" they both shouted, and in an instant they were seated in the car bowling along the road.

When Benny arrived home late for tea, he found the whole house in excitement and trouble. Carl could not be found anywhere.

There He Sat Patiently Fishing

"O, Mother," he cried, shocked at his own forgetfulness. "I'll get him. I know where he is!"

Jumping into the Smith's car, off they sped, he telling his tale as they went. Yes, there was Carl still sitting on the bank, the shadows gathering fast around him.

He gave one jump into Benny's outstretched arms.

"I kept my promise, Benny," he whispered.

"Oh, Carl, how can I tell you how sorry I am," cried Benny, hugging him.

At first Daddy said he would punish Benny but as little Carl begged so hard, he relented.

"I'm not afraid Benny won't look after Carl, now," Mother said, and she was right.

WIN DOUBLES CROWN

CINCINNATI IS CONFIDENT OF LOOP PENNANT

Supporters of Reds Are Also Convinced that Another World's Series Title Is Also Probable.

By JOHN FRYE
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Cincinnati, Aug. 3. — It's still mid-season, the dog days of August are here, and baseball guessing is a lethal pastime, but there's a feeling growing in Forkopolis that the Reds are going to win another pennant. Likewise a World Series.

Among the factors by which Red-leg fans arrive at the conclusion that they'll see another and more satisfactory World Series are these: 1—Paul Derringer's new knuckleball. He's been working on it for years and it's finally under control. It has helped him to one two-hitter and one two-hitter, the latter against the New York Giants on July 21st when he set down the first 21 men in order. Babe Young, however, caught a knuckler on the hard spot in the eighth and it went into the bleachers.

2—Bucky Walters' ever-present mid-season form. He was knocked out of the box just twice in his first nineteen games and won fourteen of them.

3—Jim Turner's development from a "spot" to a regular pitcher. The ex-Bostonian, who came at the bargain price of Les Scarsella, now back in the minors, has earned his dollar a day ever since he got into a Cincinnati uniform.

4—Gene Thompson's refusal to say "uncle" to the sophomore jinx. This big fellow, as cool as Derringer despite his youth, won thirteen and lost five last year and won ten up to mid-season this year.

5—The team's hot-shot fielding, which has plenty to do with the four reasons above. The Reds are averaging less than an error and more than a double play per game. It's a fast hopper that goes through the infield and a long drive that gets past the outfield for extra bases.

6—Finally, the kind of hitting that wins games even if it doesn't produce a heroic team batting average. Any pitcher will tell you that for a bunch of 245 hitters, the Reds have about as many soft spots in the lineup as a green banana.

RED SOX SCORE 4-3 WIN OVER TRIFLUVIANS

Granby, August 3.—A ninth-inning rally that netted two runs gave Granby Red Sox a 4-3 victory over Three Rivers Black Foxes in a Provincial Baseball League game last night.

Paul Bonner smashed out a long triple to right field, scoring Doljack from first with the winning run, after Clark, who had walked and stole second, tied the count on Doljack's blow through short.

Roy Moore, making his first start in two weeks, held the visitors to seven hits, fanning 11. The three runs that came off his delivery all in the fourth, were all unearned, coming on three singles after Hammond had dropped the ball on a force play at second base.

Hibbard Brothers Defeat Gagne And Charest In Four-Set Match

Top-notchers in local competitive tennis for the past few years, Ashley and John Hibbard last night showed they have lost none of their ability when they won the men's doubles championship of the city in a four-set match with Raoul Gagne and Majella Charest.

Playing before a large crowd at the St. Francis courts, the Hibbard boys put on a polished display and especially in the last two sets which they ran through with the loss of but five games.

Gagne and Charest showed plenty of fight in the first set which they forced to extra games before conceding it a 7-5. The match went to one set-all in the second, Gagne and Charest fighting doggedly to score an 8-6 win.

The long struggle in the preceding sets seemed to tire Gagne and Charest with the result that the Hibbard brothers had little difficulty in running out the match and copping the last two sets at 6-2 and 6-3.

In another match played at the St. Francis courts last evening Roland Melivier edged his way in the men's singles finals by eliminating Marcel Gagnon 6-4, 7-5, 6-4. Semi-finalists in the other men's singles bracket have yet to be named.

Monday night at 7 o'clock Alice Duplaine and Florette Perrault were in favor of the plan. The council has a definite interest in the ball club since the local park is municipal property and is rented to the club at a nominal rate.

Alderman Eugene Thibault, speaking for the other members of the Council, told the directors that there would be no objection to the proposed new set-up as long as the City would not be called upon to contribute to the support of the team.

With everybody in accord, the decision of the directors was transmitted to the representatives of the outside interests and it is expected a reply will be received some time today or tomorrow.

KEYSERS EVEN BRUNBELOE IN 15TH WIN ON WINGS' MOUND

Kleinmen Score 10-6 Win Over Textile Team—League Championship To Be Decided by Tilt Monday Night.

Downing the Textile team 10-6 in the second game of a two-of-three finals series, Henry Klein's Kayser outfit remained in the fight for the league championship in a game on the Parade Grounds last night. Textiles won the last tilt by 8-4.

An eight-run spurge in the fifth inning proved the downfall of the Textilemen, with Corcoran replacing Collin on the mound to finish the last two innings for the losers. Forsey pitched for Kayzers and allowed only seven hits, while the two Textile hurlers gave out thirteen safe blows between them.

Lessard had a perfect night at bat for the winners, hitting out a triple, double and two singles in four trips to the plate. Dube, for Textiles, had a three-bagger and double to his credit.

Third and deciding game of the series will be fought on the Parade Grounds Monday night.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Vince Dundee, world's middleweight boxing champion in 1933, retired from the game two years ago today. He held the title—won from Lou Breuchard—until Teddy Yarrow topped him in September, 1934.

REDS HAVE HIT SLUMP TO LOSE 5 OF 6 GAMES

Cincinnati Went Down Before Boston Bees in Two Contests Yesterday — Cubs Edged Out Dodgers 4-3.

Hold onto your hats, boys, Cincinnati Reds are riding that roller coaster.

The National League champions, whom everybody said couldn't slump because they had pitchers who just couldn't be beaten in succession, have managed to lose five of their last six games.

The Boston Bees humiliated the Reds with two victories, 10-3 and 4-1 yesterday. It was the first time Cincinnati had lost a doubleheader this year. The champs had won ten and split five.

Boston has been murderous to the Reds all year and their triumphs yesterday gave them an even break for the dozen times the clubs have met. This made the Bees the only team in the league over which the champs didn't have an advantage.

The short-handed Chicago Cubs edged out the Dodgers 4-3 with busy Claude Passeau striking out the last two batters in a rescue act that gave Larry French his 11th victory of the year.

Babe Young hit two homers, one in the ninth inning to give the Giants a 5-4 verdict over St. Louis Cardinals in their first game, but Carl Doyle checked the New Yorkers on seven hits in the nightcap to win 3-1.

Sherbrooke Again Becoming A Centre Of Military Activity

C.A.S.F. Regiment Pressing Recruiting Campaign and Two Non-Permanent Units Preparing To Go Under Canvas for Three Weeks' Period of Training.

Sherbrooke is again becoming a centre of military activity as its C.A.S.F. unit presses forward with a recruiting campaign and its two Non-Permanent regiments prepare to go under canvas for a three weeks' period of training.

Since the departure of the active service force units which were stationed at the Exhibition Grounds last spring, military activity has been more or less at a standstill. Individual members of units from Montreal could occasionally be seen about the streets, but apart from that there was practically no visible indication that Sherbrooke was interested in military affairs at all.

Indeed a man in uniform about the streets became something of a novelty.

With the announcement about the beginning of July, however, that both Non-Permanent units were to recruit up to full war-time strength on a Non-Permanent basis, interest in military matters began to increase. Then came the announcement that Colonel M. W. McNulty had been named again to take over the command of the Sherbrooke Regiment. It was evident that something was in the wind, for all Sherbrooke knew that "Colonel Mac" had been staging a fight, almost single handed, to have an active service unit representing the Eastern Townships in the C.A.S.F.

Organization went ahead rapidly as permanent staffs were appointed to look after the recruiting. Announcement was made that several hundred men were being mobilized for home defence and almost at once a stream of recruits began to pour into the armories of the Sherbrooke Regiment and Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke. Instruction of new members was started immediately and recruits began at once to accustom themselves to the army routine and discipline. Elementary instruction was carried out in rifle drill and simple drill movements and week by week both units began to shape themselves into the beginnings of two very fine regiments.

Then suddenly announcement was made that at last Sherbrooke was to have an active service unit, with Colonel McNulty appointed to head the battalion. The unit was to be representative of both the French and English-speaking races in this section of the county and would be officered and recruited from men of both races. Major Aime Biron, of Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, was named as second-in-command. One complete company was to be supplied from the French-speaking unit.

Although Colonel McNulty's appointment to head an active service unit from here had been taken for granted in all quarters, the announcement was greeted with enthusiasm by French and English alike, as was that of Major Biron. Organization was to begin at once and the unit would move into barracks at the earliest possible date it was made known. The name chosen for the new unit, which is actually a composite battalion picked from the other two, is "The Sherbrooke Fusilier Regiment," and, although not official, is often called in French "Le Régiment Sherbrooke Fusilier."

Within the last week recruiting has been progressing rapidly for the unit and approximately four hundred Eastern Townships men have made application for entry. The standard of men applying has been a high one throughout, but as might be expected, a number of applicants have been turned down because of military unfitness.

Indications point to a very successful future for the unit and Sherbrooke and district are looking to it to enhance the fine tradition already established by former Eastern Townships units on active service. A spirit of co-operation between the two units concerned has been prevalent throughout as both French and English officers have lent their support to its establishment.

THETFORD MINES

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at the home of the Vice-President, Miss I. Farquhar, and was well attended. The President, Mrs. C. Cruikshank, opened the meeting with Scripture reading and prayer. In the absence of the Secretary, Mrs. A. Kinneer, the minutes were read by Miss Seymour. The Treasurer, Mrs. Morrison, submitted a favorable report and announced that material for quilts had been ordered. The Community Friendship Secretary reported a sunshine box containing about twenty-four gifts sent to a member who was ill.

Some interesting reports from the "Blue book" were read by the President, the meeting closing with the singing of the National Anthem. The hostess served delicious refreshments. The August meeting will be held at the home of the President.

Although the Red Cross groups are not holding meetings in August, considerable knitting is being done by the members at their homes during the vacation period.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Cruikshank and infant son were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. McHarg at East Brighton.
