BAISIS OF FOUR POWER TREATY MUTUAL PLEDGE

Not To Go To War Over Disputes In Pacific Without Discussion

HARDING OPTIMISTIC

Said Negotiations Promised To "Succeed Beyond Our Fondest Hopes"

Washington, Dec. 7.—A mutual pledge not to go to war over disputes in the Pacific without a "cooling off period" of discussion is the basis of the new four-power treaty proposed as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

The discussions of the proposal among the arms delegates have reached a well advanced stage, although none of the governments concerned—the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France—has given its final approval. A suggestion that the Anglo-Japanese pact be revoked has gone to London and Tokio. Possible controversies over the Pacific Islands alone, exclusive of the Hawaiian group and Yap, would come under the provisions of the new agreement. The Yap is to be the subject of a separate treaty, negotiations for which are nearing completion, and Hawaii is to be considered for purposes of the agreement, as part of the United States mainland.

The problems of China or other portions of the Asiatic mainland are not to be touched by the proposed treaty, nor will it contain provisions relating to Pacific fortifications or the naval reductions program.

It is possible, however, that all of these questions may be simultaneously brought to the point of a decision. By the United States delegates, the project is regarded as establishing neither an alliance nor an entente, but merely as applying to the Pacific Islands the principles of the 30-odd Bryan peace treaties to which the United States already is a party.

A public statement setting forth that position probably will be made in the near future.

Conversations on the subject have been proceeding entirely behind the scenes of "ambassadors' assistants."

Apparently the negotiations so far have been kept within a very narrow circle centering in the "Big Three"—Hughes, Balfour and Kato.

U.S. Officials Optimistic

As evidence of the optimism with which the United States officials, who are in on the secret, view the general situation in the arms conference was given today however, by President Harding, who declared in a public address that the negotiations promised to "succeed beyond our fondest hopes."

Without making direct reference to the proposed four power agreement he predicted that the Washington conference would usher in a new day in international amity.

All the outward indications point to a merging of the Pacific question with the naval ratio problem so far as the final decisions of some of the foreign nations are concerned. No reply from Tokio regarding the naval plan now is expected until the Japanese Government is also ready to make some expression of the four power proposal.

Both Japanese and Chinese reflected optimism over the Shantung negotiations tonight after another meeting in which the Japanese offered to give up the public property in the leased territory of Kiaochow as another step toward meeting the Chinese position. In the committee of the whole of the nine nations, a resolution was adopted during the day pledging respect for China's neutrality in future wars, and another restricting the uses of foreign radio facilities on Chinese soil.

Mr. Koo, on behalf of the Chinese delegation, discussing Hong Kong and the Kowloon situation, referred to "As to the leased territory of Kowloon, leased to Great Britain, much is to be said for the importance of Hong Kong to the trade of nations, and for the way in which its facilities are made accessible to the traders of the world; and while there may be a necessity to provide for the protection of the Hong Kong harbor in the interests of such trade, the retention of Kowloon may not necessarily be, in view of the Chinese delegation, the sole solution of this problem."

There is a general feeling that all of these subjects—the Chinese questions, Shantung, the naval ratio and the new "cooling off" treaty—may all move along concurrently so that none of them reaches definite settlement until ready to be lumped into a final programme of accomplishment.

Although some of those who are sponsoring the new four power plan have gone so far as to prepare a tentative treaty draft, there are several details on which the plenipotentiaries have not yet presented their views in their informal exchanges.

Thus far, Great Britain alone of the four powers has given an "acceptance in principle" but other delegates like those of Japan, have called home for further instructions before going into a more definite discussion of a treaty draft. The Japanese and United States delegates are proceeding slowly, apparently taking into account the special requirements of their respective governmental systems and the French are said to have taken very little part so far in the conversations.

COMMENT ON THE ELECTION RESULT

Several Canadian And American Papers Give Their Various Opinions

Vancouver, B.C., Province, Dec. 7.—"The Liberals will not have to compromise on the tariff and other questions with the Progressives."

Victoria, B.C., Colonist—"More than half of the followers of the new Government come from Quebec and that is an earnest lesson to the people of Canada that there will be no tampering with the tariff as it stands at present."

Calgary Herald—"The people simply did not want the Meighen Government in power any longer."

Lethbridge Herald—"What we would like to see result from the election is the formation of a Liberal Government, Liberal in name as well as in spirit."

Vancouver, B.C., Sun—"Under the Liberals again there will be expansion, progress and development in Canada."

Montreal Free Press—"For the first time in many years Western opinion upon the large questions of public policy will be set forth in Parliament without being censored."

Ottawa Citizen—"The country has placed a tremendous responsibility upon Mr. Mackenzie King and the Liberal Party. Doubtless an effort will be made to bring in some of the Progressives to give the next administration more weight in the West."

Montreal, La Patrie—"The Province of Quebec is splendidly vindicated as she did not change her attitude but largely brought the other Provinces to her own point of view."

Regina Leader—"Progressive members will talk, the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa, a group of living monuments to a cause that is already dead and buried."

Saskatoon Star—"The Progressive showing is splendid on the whole, considering it was their first election."

Edmonton Bulletin—"The Crear Party must for the present give up its dreams of dictatorship."

Prince Albert Herald—"The sweep of Quebec means that the control of the new Government lies in that Province."

Fredericton Gleaner—"The formation of Union Government was a blunder of Sir Robert Borden's which 'disorganized and humiliated the Conservatives and strengthened the Liberals.'"

Under Union Government, it says "instead of responsible Government we have had Government by committees, by Railway Boards and what not, until the thing became a burlesque and the influences in the Government which brought that about were contributing all the while, if not designedly certainly effectively, to the weakening of the Government and the Conservative Party. Sir Robert Borden left an awful legacy to the Hon. Arthur Meighen."

ALL ROUND CONGRATULATIONS IN LONDON ON IRISH OUTCOME

Tension And Anxiety Of Past Few Weeks Gives Way To General Rejoicing—Nowhere Is There Idea Birth Of Irish Free State Can Be Prevented—Sinn Feiners Get Enthusiastic Send-Off

London, December 7.

With the tension and anxiety of the past few weeks giving place to feelings of general rejoicing, this has been a day of all round congratulations and of preparations for the necessary formalities for bringing the new Irish Free State into being.

Nowhere is there any real idea that anything can now happen to prevent its birth, although difficult details may have to be encountered.

The two Georges—King George, and David Lloyd George—to whom the public accorded chief credit for bringing about peace were photographed together in a smiling group of His Majesty's ministers on the terrace of Buckingham Palace today and the picture was extensively displayed in the evening papers.

Downing Street, where stands the official residence of the Prime Minister, was inundated with telegrams of congratulation from all over the world. The Premier presented to Lady Greenwood, the wife of Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, the pen with which he signed the Irish Treaty as "an appreciation of your husband's efforts for peace."

It is recalled that the Prime Minister's first speech of importance in his political career, was delivered in the company of Michael Davitt at a political meeting in Wales in the eighties and was in favor of his rule.

One of the first fruits of the peace—probably arranged for at the conference when the treaty was drafted—was the Royal Proclamation liberating more than 3,000 prisoners interned in Ireland. It is reported also that there may be reconsideration of the sentences imposed on those Irishmen convicted of political crimes.

Preparations are afoot in London, Dublin and Belfast for the consideration of the treaty. The King has summoned Parliament to meet at Westminster on Dec. 14 to ratify the treaty and cabinet councils have been summoned at Dublin and Belfast.

James de Valera has as yet given no hint of his attitude, but it is generally assumed, as the delegates to the London conference were plentiful, that the treaty will be approved, at least in principle. Opposition seems to be expected from the extremists, both in Dublin and Belfast, from the extreme Sinn Feiners on account of the terms of the oath of allegiance, and from the extreme Sinn Feiners on account of the oath of allegiance and from the extreme North of Ireland men against the provision that Ulster must submit to ratification of her boundaries if she elects to stay outside the settlement.

Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, in a public speech in the Belfast Parliament today, adopted a rather non-committal attitude, guarding himself against any direct opposition to the settlement. But in a statement sent to a political meeting through his wife he took a sanguine view that peace would soon be achieved and represented as a victory for Ulster the freedom of choice accorded her by the treaty.

It is believed Ulster will not at first send representatives to the all-Ireland Parliament, but will wait to see the effect of the new regime before deciding upon which course to adopt.

It is understood that the Provisional Parliament will consist of the present members of the Dail Eireann with four Unionist members for Trinity College.

James Craig, (not the Ulster Premier) who is one of the Trinity members stated publicly today that he was glad peace had been achieved, and that he and his colleagues were ready to take their share in the government under the new constitution.

The signing of the treaty has been received joyfully by the labor party, a joint manifesto was issued tonight by the various bodies comprising the party, expressing satisfaction and the hope that Ulster would wholeheartedly adopt the agreement and also appealing to the Belfast workers to secure industrial peace in the interest of trade union solidarity.

Enthusiastic Send-off

The Irish delegates on leaving London tonight for Dublin had a wildly enthusiastic send off from thousands of London Irishmen and women gathered in Euston Station. The large force of police present tried vainly to control the excited crowd but the delegates had literally to fight their way to the train. Michael Collins especially was besieged by the surging masses; twelve policemen eventually carried him along the platform. He lost his hat in the process, and not a few enthusiastic young women attempted to kiss him.

Arthur Griffith and Robert Barrington had a less boisterous but equally enthusiastic reception. Mr. Griffith tried to address his thanks from the window of the car, but his words were lost in the deafening cheers. Mr. Lloyd George's secretary is waiting at Belfast for Ulster's reply but this is certain to be delayed, in view of the Ulster Premier's desire to investigate the details of the agreement signed.

So far as the Southern Unionists are concerned, there is not likely to be any difficulty, Mr. Griffith hav-

WHEN WILL OLD GOVT. RESIGN?

Meetings Of Cabinet Council To Clear Up Matters Will Be Held

(By Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—The Government having been decisively defeated, it becomes an interesting question as to when it will resign. The ancient constitutional practice was always to wait until Parliament had decided the matter by a vote adverse to the Ministry. This rule was first broken in 1868 by Lord Beaconsfield, and although this action was very much criticized at the time—it being urged that the Ministry was dependent on and answerable to Parliament and not to the electors—the precedent has been followed several times since. In Canada, there have been four resignations of the Ministry since Confederation. On the first occasion, Sir John Macdonald, anticipating an adverse vote in connection with the Canadian Pacific scandal resigned, and the new Ministry dissolved Parliament and was returned with a large majority.

In the other three cases, the defeat in each certain, the ministry applied the verdict of the electors and resigned, though no doubt it was accelerated in 1896 by the Governor-General refusing to make any appointments on the recommendation of the defeated Government.

On the resignation of ministry it is tendered to the Governor-General by the Premier who advises who should be sent for to form the new ministry. If the person so sent for cannot form a ministry, he in turn recommends some one else but it is for the future Premier to submit the names of the new Cabinet to the Governor-General.

The following table will show the dates of the elections and resignations of the four ministries above referred to and the date on which each of the new Parliaments was opened thereafter. After the Conservative Government was defeated in 1896, Sir Charles Tupper sought to fill up the vacancies in the Senate and to make a number of other appointments, relying on the similar practice in England. The then Governor-General, Lord Aberdeen refused, however, to ratify the appointments, upon the ground that conditions in Canada were not in that respect analogous to those in England and that such appointments would be calculated to seriously embarrass the incoming Government.

When next Election Day resignation opened

Jan. 1874	Nov. 1873	Mar. 1874
Sept. 1878	Oct. 1878	Feb. 1879
June 1896	July 1896	Aug. 1896
Sept. 1911	Oct. 1911	Nov. 1911

In the first case above noted, the new Government was at once formed and dissolved Parliament, which had only been elected on July 20, 1872.

Montreal, Dec. 7.—Places in the coming Mackenzie-King Government are conceded in speculation in this city to Sir Lomer Gouin, who is talked of in connection with the Public Works Department; Hon. Walter Mitchell, for the Ministry of Finance; and Jos. Archambault for the Speakership.

In connection with the Lieutenant-Governorship of the Province, a position that will shortly be vacant, the name of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is freely mentioned. Hon. Dr. S. Beland and Ernest Lapointe are both slated for Cabinet positions. Hon. Jacques Bureau and A. R. McMaster will probably accept positions on the Bench, the latter possibly as Nov. 5 for St. John's, Nfld.

Small Interest In England

London, Dec. 7.—The Canadian general election owing to the domestic nature of the issues in the campaign are causing comparatively small interest among the English people generally, especially with the settlement of the Irish question occupying so much attention.

Canadian community in London though, made eager enquiries as to the result.

The news that the Liberal Party had apparently swept victoriously through the Dominion arrived at the business men reached their offices here this morning and caused considerable surprise. The election prophets in this country generally had anticipated a much closer result.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. ## WHY YOUNG DANES REMAIN ON FARM

Gymnastics And Several Forms Of Culture Keep Them Satisfied

London, Dec. 7.—Denmark has kept its people on the land, writes W. Keith in the Daily News not by making them like cabbages as much as possible, but by cultivating their interest in life. The fact should appeal to us now, for the movement began after the war with Germany over fifty years ago. Just as France today is going mad on "le sport" and pushing gymnastics for both boys and girls, the Danes set out to improve their standards. Life down on the farm in Denmark is interesting because it is lived by people capable of being interested. In the gallery of modern painting in Brussels recently I saw a picture of a farmyard. A pig snuffed after another pig. Two yokes lounged over the fence rail, and his empty sabot on the ground. The picture was painted in stark realism, but at the side was a delicately-natured head of a virgin, suggesting all that the pig snufflers were missing. The picture was called "Sunday Afternoon", but the Danish peasant knows better than that. For two or three Winter months each year 6,000 of them go to the folk schools, the women go later in the Spring.

Singing natural history and literature are the principal subjects, but the young farmer, accustomed to hard exercise, has always kept himself in trim by drill and gymnastics in Swedish lines. When he got back to his village he carried on his training in his village club. These exist all over the country, equipped with coffee rooms, smoking rooms and gymnasia, which would be a revelation to most English villages. The best pupils of the "folk schools" became voluntary teachers in their village clubs. Gymnastics is as popular in Denmark as cycling in Belgium, tennis in France or football in England. The hero of the movement now is Neils Bukh, and its cathedral is a large simple building standing on an island in the heart of rural Denmark. Neils Bukh has put the "fiz" into physical training. He believes that it is a training for mind as well as body, and at his school, called by those who can pronounce it the Ollerup Gymnastik Folkhøvscole, he has created an atmosphere that one of the few English visitors who have been there describes as a benediction. To the outsider his methods appear to be to make his pupils limp. The solemn stiffness of the ordinary gymnasium class is unknown. He makes his pupils malleable by swift exercises that follow in rapid succession. A class is soon in a happy sweat, following their instructor as intently as if he were a wing forward running up for a goal. In Denmark they call Neils Bukh a genius. He has certainly succeeded in giving new interest to the national recreation.

U.S. VETERANS SEE VICTORY AHEAD

For The Soldiers' Bonus—Canadians Who Served With U.S. Benefit

(By Canadian Press.) Washington, Dec. 7.—United States veterans of the war are within sight of victory for the soldiers' bonus. This will be interesting news for their brethren of the world war in Canada. Moreover, many men now living in Canada who served in the American army or navy will be beneficiaries. The Harding administration blocked the passage of a bonus measure last summer but the pressure for action has now become so strong that Republican leaders in both Houses of Congress now concede that a bill will be passed in the regular session which opens Monday, December 5. The truth of the matter is the Republican party leaders are afraid to go into the Congressional campaign of 1922 unless a bonus measure is put through. How to raise the money to meet the bonus is a hard question to answer. The latest suggestion and one which the administration and Congress leaders are seriously considering is to utilize the British debt of about $4,000,000,000 for the purpose of meeting the bonus. This plan was taken up recently when it was found that the plan of raising the bonus by a sales tax would be bitterly opposed by the agricultural "bloc" in House and Senate and probably could not be carried. The plan to utilize the debt arising from the war loans to Great Britain originated with the Treasury Department. The view here is that as a matter of fact Great Britain is about the only country abroad that can be relied on to meet the interest and principal of the debt in the reasonably near future. If for any reason there was delay at one time or another in the payments on the debt from Great Britain, according to this bonus plan, the U. S. Treasury could issue certificates to meet the demands for funds until payments on the debt, either on interest or principal or both, were resumed. Various plans have been proposed to meet the bonus by proceeds of the "foreign debt" but they have not been regarded as practicable by the Treasury Department, simply because it is recognized that repayment of much of the debt and much of the interest is highly uncertain and problematical.

(By Ben Deacon, Staff Correspondent Canadian Press.) Washington, Dec. 7.—The problems of the Washington Conference suffered a partial relapse of interest today. General satisfaction was expressed at the happy termination of the long discussions between the Sinn Fein leaders and the British Government while Canadians here were besieged with questions as to the election and its possible effect on the

LOUIS LOUCHEUR TO VISIT LONDON

Will Confer With Sir Robert Horne Regarding Reparations Payments Due

Paris, Dec. 7.—Accompanied by several French financial experts, Louis Loucheur, Minister of Liberated Regions, left Paris this evening for London where he will confer with Sir Robert S. Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, with regard to the reparations payment due by Germany in January and February.

It is understood the British Government desires to explain the purpose of all the negotiations which recently have been going on in London with Dr. Walter Rathenau, former German Minister of Reconstruction, and other Germans and also to discuss with M. Loucheur, a general outline of the Reparations policy which British financial experts believe to be necessary. In Reparations Commission circles here the greatest importance is attached to the visit to London of M. Loucheur, it was pointed out tonight that the chief purpose of his visit is to try and reach an accord with Great Britain on the future reparations policy. It was said also that Sir Robert S. Horne desired to discuss with M. Loucheur the Wiesbaden agreement between Germany and France as Great Britain is considering making a similar agreement with Germany as a means of obtaining the portion of indemnity du Great Britain.

Backache

Backache is the outstanding symptom of kidney disease. Women often make the mistake of attributing other causes and overlook the derangement of the kidneys until serious developments have made it difficult to obtain permanent relief. This letter points to a treatment which has been so thoroughly tried and proven so effective in the great majority of cases that you cannot afford to overlook it when cause arises for its use. Mrs. Albert Brunet, R.R. No. 1, Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for the past two months, having been afflicted with kidney trouble, I used two doctors' medicine previous to using yours, without any good results. A friend led me to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and the second box made me feel a good deal better. I have now used about six or eight boxes, and am completely relieved."

QUEBEC, DECEMBER 8, 1921.

POST MORTEM.

As the smoke of battle begins to clear away, it becomes possible to estimate more accurately the political situation produced in Canada by the Federal elections of Tuesday last. More than anything else there is room for a strong feeling of thankfulness that what should be a practical working majority has been secured by the Liberal Party, so that the country will escape all the intrigues and confusion of group government. We could have wished that the Conservatives, rather than the Progressives, had been the official opposition by right of numbers, as this would have made the elimination of the latter from Dominion politics more certain, and at an earlier date. However, it is only a matter of time in any case before this mischievous class movement goes the way of those which have preceded it.

As to the causes that led to the undoing of the Meighen Government, these, as is generally the case, are too various to fully analyze and enumerate. Chief among them, in our opinion, was the unrest or revolt against things as they are which in Canada, like other countries, focussed itself, rightly or wrongly, upon the administration by which the Dominion was governed. The new factor of the woman's vote, while emphasizing, did not materially affect the general result. What may happen when the women voters acquire more self-confidence it is impossible to predict, but on this occasion they appear to have largely thrown in their votes with those of their husbands, fathers or brothers.

The most ironic feature of the entire campaign was that, while Mr. Meighen was held up as the tool of the "big interests" against the common people, it was these very "big interests" which, by the exercise of benevolent neutrality and even active co-operation, contributed materially to the triumph of the Liberal cause. The public ownership policies of the Borden and Meighen administrations were always disliked and feared by big business; the Quebec wing having been forced therefore to swallow the official Liberal programme with regard to the tariff, it was felt that there was nothing to fear and more to hope from the King-Gouin combination than from either Meighen or Creer.

In addition to the foregoing, the retiring Premier had to contend with the class ambitions of the prairie farmers, on the one hand, and with the racial rancor of the French-Canadians in Quebec, upon the other; to say nothing of internal weakness due to the breaking down of an organization that had been seriously damaged during the Unionist regime and very hastily patched together at the outset of the campaign.

This is a matter that has been insisted upon by the Chronicle for a long time, and particularly since the withdrawal of Sir Robert Borden. We admit that many obstacles have prevented this question from receiving the serious consideration that it demands but it must now be one of the earliest acts of Mr. Meighen—for whom we assume, as a matter of course, a seat will be found in the House—to establish contact with the rank and file of his supporters, either through a national convention or through a series of Provincial and District conventions; following which the party machinery must be thoroughly overhauled and set in running order if it is to function more efficiently than the next trial of strength is called.

This is unlikely to be until after the lapse of the usual four year period as no one in Canada will be anxious to precipitate another general election in the near future, although it is always on the cards that it may come sooner and more suddenly than anticipated.

It still remains to be seen whether the Liberal strength is not more apparent than actual. There are sixty-five members from the Province of Quebec and fifty-three from the other Provinces, whose respective policies as are as the poles apart on leading issues. Western Liberals, for instance, are staunch supporters of the National Railways; while Maritime Liberals sigh for the good old days when political patronage made the I.C.R. a sink-hole of expense, and the solid Quebec block is bent upon private ownership. A similar divergence of views exists in regard to the tariff and the new government will have to walk warily indeed to escape being wrecked upon either of these questions when they come up in the House.

Nor is it without importance that the Quebec leaders are not altogether a happy family among themselves. The old guard, headed by Beland, Bureau and Lemieux entertains none too cordial feelings towards the younger generation of the Lapointe, Cannon school and both of them are apt to fall foul of the Provincial wing directed by Gouin and Mitchell. At the same time the sweets of office will exercise a potent cohesive influence and we may expect that working compromises will be framed to tide the administration over its early difficulties.

The Progressive opposition is largely an uncertain quantity but it is quite as likely to vote with the new Government on certain measures. Mr. Meighen retains the nucleus of a powerful debating force in men of the stamp of Stevens, Tolmie, Manion, Bennet, Guthrie and Mewburn. Altogether there are prospects of some very strenuous battles on the floor of the House next session and, whatever else may happen, the public will get its money's worth in spectacular developments.

PROSPECTS FOR QUEBEC CITY.

Leaving aside partisan consideration, it can be said that the prospects of Quebec, as a city, are brighter than they have been for some time, owing to the Liberal win and the decisive influence that the French-Canadian delegation will almost certainly possess in the new Government, no matter how it may be composed.

For the first time in many years, Quebec is sending to Ottawa a solid block of Government supporters in the persons of Messrs. Lapointe, Parent, Lavigne and Power, who are all pledged to promote the material development of our city and harbor by every means in their power. Hitherto, it has been claimed with obvious justice that these gentlemen's efforts have been fruitless because they were in opposition, but now they will have no excuse whatever for failing to redeem their pledges in this respect.

The Ancient Capital has had many grievances against the Government which, however, largely resolve themselves into the general issue of transportation facilities. If freight rates can be equalized and the National Transcontinental can be used for its destined purpose as a grain road, then a great stimulus will be given to this port and its industries. To bring about a rate adjustment it will probably be necessary to have a general shake-up in the Railway Commission and few tears will be shed by local people, whether Liberal or Conservative, if its Chairman were to resign. Operation of the Transcontinental will be a much more difficult problem, for the Liberals will find themselves confronted with the same opposing influences as have the Conservatives and are, unfortunately, more deeply committed to them.

It can be taken for granted that this new route will not be utilized if those who are interested in existing traffic channels can prevent it, any more than Quebec harbor is likely to receive greater consideration with the consent of Montreal. The local situation, in short, is no less complicated than the national situation and those on the side-lines may look forward to much of interest and even of quiet amusement in the efforts of our local representatives to deal with a deep-rooted and long-standing problem. The Chronicle wishes them good luck and every success; insofar as their course is sincere and calculated to be of benefit to the community they can count upon its utmost support.

THE IRISH FREE STATE.

Nowhere will there be greater rejoicing than in this city over the fact that a final settlement of the Irish problem is not only well within sight, but virtually an accomplished fact. While it has never produced any open friction, it has been a barrier to perfect understanding between two English-speaking elements in the community and has militated against a common national consciousness as Canadians. With Ireland once peaceful and satisfied, the sympathetic relationship that ought to obtain will be possible between Englishmen and Irishmen in every part of the world.

The Chronicle has been a consistent believer in Home Rule, anxious to see the same measure of autonomy accorded to Ireland as this Dominion has enjoyed since Confederation. Every form of constitutional agitation has appeared to us to be permissible in the attainment of such a goal and, if we have not seen eye-to-eye with Sinn Fein, it has been because we sincerely believed that the same results could have been obtained by means which did not involve loss of life and destruction of property. Certainly no reform can be brought about without vigorous effort and it is possible that the use of force has brought about an earlier settlement than would have been otherwise possible, though even this is by no means assured. At all events, these are considerations that it is no longer necessary to dwell on; it is on the brightness of the future that our attention is fixed, rather than past unhappinesses.

The settlement is all the more welcome, coming as it does at the very moment when public opinion had been nursing itself for the final rupture of the negotiations and the inevitable resumption of hostilities. Too much credit cannot be given to all parties to the agreement for their patience and resourcefulness in exploring every avenue that might possibly lead to the composition of differences between England and Ireland on one hand and between North and South on the other. As it has been all along, Ulster continues to be the one doubtful factor in the situation but, though its co-operation might do much to ensure the success of the new era, we do not believe that its opposition would be able to bring about a failure.

There is of course still the possibility that either Parliament or the Dail Eireann may refuse to ratify the treaty concluded by their respective representatives. Here, again, however, we are unwilling to contemplate so untoward a development; minor modification may be necessary but the broad lines of the settlement should be preserved intact. The scars that have been formed are too fresh to disappear but once their cause has been removed we may hope that the forces of propinquity and common interest will draw North and South into a strong and lasting union.

Canada will welcome the new member of the Commonwealth of British Nations and "Good luck to the Irish Free State" is the wish that is prompted in every heart.

A Verse Or Two (By Modern Poets)

SILVER POPLARS ON THE HILLSIDE OF GANARSKA HEIGHTS.

Glistening in the heavenly blue, The silver leaves of brilliant hue, Newly cleansed with refreshing dew, Quiver soundless in the breeze. Illuming the hillside green, The velvet leaves of silver sheen, Proclaims the poplar reigning Queen Of the Summer season's trees.

With daisy-strewn grass at my feet, Protected from the Summer heat, Under the pines in cool retreat, I overlooked the silver row, "A maple wood without a peer, Cozy farmhouse with orchard near, Open valleys giving good cheer," Lay smiling in peace below.

With folding wings, a bright bluejay, A welcome guest, upon his way, Flashed o'er the top, intent to stay To rest for a moment's space. He fluttered here, he fluttered there; No twig near top his weight would bear. Displeased, he shot up high in air To a pine's firm resting-place.

A jubilant note now sounded clear, Swinging on top, nothing to fear, Young oriole on a twig serene, With sweet content was trilling. "O happy, happy, silver tree, I'll sing my sweetest song for thee," Sang the gold bird upon the tree, In ecstacy fulfilling.

KEEP ON PLOUGHING. (London Observer).

When we breed pessimism we destroy trade. Every time that we proclaim that trade is bad we help to make it bad. When we allow ourselves to say, with a fine gesture of omniscience, that the world is in a sad way, we help to make sad at least a part of it. The trader puts to sea or he does not. If he is superstitious he does not sail on a Friday; so much the worse for him. If he is reduced to despair, he sails not at all, which is the very devil of him and for others. Fortunately, the majority of men reject counsels of despair. Like the old peasant in France, they go on ploughing. That is how Europe survived the incessant wars of history and their dreadful consequences. That is how the larger world, which has either grown out of Europe or has been fertilized by it, will win through to a renewed and larger prosperity.

PSYCHOLOGY AND THE NEW WORLD

One Of The Leading Novelists Has Lot To Say On The Matter

Miss Sheila Kaye-Smith is one of the leading novelists of the day. Any reader who has not heard of her, and who doubts this should read The Challenge of Sirius. She has been lecturing recently on Psychology and the Modern Novel, and she had a great deal to say that was and is worth hearing. She points out that the word psychology had not been in use before 1850, and that long before it was mentioned the great kind of work on the subject was done by men who had never heard the word. Hamlet is purely a psychological study, and Jane Austen's Emma is another example that Miss Kaye-Smith sets to show that the science was perfectly understood in practice long before the schoolmen began to theorize about it. If there be any moral to this, it is in the fact that people can do things in a perfectly natural way and without self-consciousness better than when they make deliberate and studied efforts. Miss Kaye-Smith is of the opinion that the knowledge of the science of psychology as such has spoiled the work of several writers. "They have been unable to see the wood for trees, and squandered their minds and talents upon comparatively unimportant details," she says. Science will not give one understanding any more than piano practice will make a musician.

Anatomy Is Not Art. Still, the struggle goes on by the men of facts to exhibit understanding, and no doubt they accomplish something. Our difficulty with them is to discriminate between their real and genuine results and that which they mistake for and imagine to be results, as in the theory of evolution that which is evolving is lost sight of in the means or the by-products of the evolution. It is obvious that the physical vehicle of the evolving being is not the being itself. It must have passed on long ago into a higher phase of unfoldment. So in psychology, Miss Kaye-Smith sees many of her fellow-novelists absorbed in facts about the psyche without even perceiving he psyche itself. "It seems to me," she observes, "that the only way of knowing human nature, or of being able to make other people know human nature as you see it, is through observation and intuition. I do not think that all the science in the world will make up for any lack of that, any more than a knowledge of anatomy in the construction of the human frame will make up to an artist who persists in drawing without a model." The reference to anatomy she supports with an appeal to William Blake's drawings which were done without a model, but from his knowledge of anatomy, with the result that the actual muscular development of the figures is all tremendously exaggerated. Similarly the novelist who draws from what he has read in books instead of from his knowledge of human nature. His characters become distortions.

Eighteenth Century Realists. She thinks that the characters of the modern psychologizing novelist are not as alive as those of the writers of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. She contrasts the characters of Henry Fielding in Tom Jones, Amelia, and Joseph Andrews, which, whether one likes or dislikes them, are intensely vital and alive as compared with the products of students of William James or Freud or Jung. Fielding drew from men and women as he met them in life. Even in Dickens and Thackeray she finds that while they also drew from life "somehow the art of character portrayal has become crystallized. There is a convention in drawing character." Fielding, Richardson and Smollett had no conventions to follow, but those of the stage and the drama. "These they deliberately discarded and drew largely from their own observation. This is the secret of their extraordinary freshness. They drew from life without any standard, precedent or convention, and without any science or self-consciousness." Miss Kaye-Smith concludes that "for the thoughtful writer I think there is very little doubt but that our ideas in novel writing are going back over the Victoria era more to the standards of the eighteenth century. We are tending to ignore conventional types, leaving them to the serial and best seller, and to draw from life people as we see them today." She adds to this that with psychology as a science, some novelists give us what is only revealed in the surgery of the psycho-analyst, and this is going beyond what is warranted.

The Only Model. "Where are we going?" she asks. "Can we go on for ever simply repeating what was done in the nineteenth century, following certain types and certain standards and conventional ideas about fiction and characters in fiction? The study of psychology is good, but the psychological handbook and the interesting cases and illustrations in that handbook must be put out of the way when the novelist sits down to portray his characters, and the only book he can use, the only model he can set up, is human life itself." Miss Kaye-Smith is a faithful follower of her own doctrine, as she understands it. For much depends on what one understands by human life. Human life is a phrase like evolution. To one it means the outside of things, externalities, appearances. These may be interpreted in almost infinitely different ways. The eighteenth century frankly regarded them as appearances, phenomena, and let them go at that. In the nineteenth it began to dawn upon the writers that this manifestation of life meant something deeper, something underlying and immediately the outside things became conventions. As time passed opinions differed as to what lay underneath and the psychologists

ORIGIN OF STEEPCLEASING. The etymology of steeplechase is to obvious to need explanation. Founders of the sport merely fixed upon a distant steeple and rode straight to it, crossing gallantly hedge, ditch, paling, turf or timber pasture, crops, moorland or ridge, and furrow—whose riding straight-genius to get below all this and give us some conception of the infinite realities that lie behind nature's richest garb of character. Always the real being evades psychologist, novelist, psycho-analyst alike. Max Muller went deeper when he translated one of the old Hindu writings: "He that is awake in us when we are asleep, shaping one lovely sight after another, he is the bright, he is the self, he alone, is worthy to be called immortal."

est going to be found. If mischance befell the leader, some other took up the office—occasionally they was a change of leaders if the first proved timorous. For danger, real and thrilling was the spice of the wild goose chase. The winner was not he who came home first, but he who had stunked nothing in the route, even possibly have gone further around to negotiate an extra hazard. Knowing this, I have wondered a little if the Wild Geese—the Irish legions, who, fighting for alien deeds, have shown themselves prodigies of valor—did not take their name from the sport nearest the heart of their homeland.

ALTA. NATURALLY RANCH COUNTRY

Unsafe Place To Farm In, Declares Widely Known Rancher Of Bar-U.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 7.—Expressing the belief that Southern Alberta is naturally a ranching country and an unsafe country to farm in, George Lane, known rancher of the Bar-U ranch, Alberta, when interviewed here, deplored the falling off in population of the small towns scattered throughout the southern ranching districts as shown by the recent census.

"It has been demonstrated by this time that a lot of the country in Southern Alberta and Southern Saskatchewan is ranching land suited to no other kind of agricultural use," Mr. Lane said. "For my part," he continued, "I have always thought it a very unsafe country to farm in. I have always said so, and have always acted up to my belief that it was an ideal country to ranch in. This was seen by Sir Clifford Sifton, who, when minister of the Interior, had the country mapped out for ranching and for mining only, based on the advice and experience of some of the best experts in his department. His decision has proved to have been absolutely right.

"The shrinking populations are, it may be said," Mr. Lane declared, "the latest evidence of the rightfulness of the position. Sir Clifford took in the matter, if other proofs be looked for, I have only to mention the fact that the country which was so profitable as a ranching area, has under the present settled form cost both the Dominion and the Provincial Governments millions of dollars, which they have expended in trying to up hold and keep on the land, the people who were unwisely allowed to go in their at the outset."

YOUNG OFFENDER GIVEN A CHANCE

Judge Lachance Sends Little Girl Home On Suspended Sentence

Many cases of a distressing nature come before the Judges of the Court of Sessions, which are not given publicity, and are therefore unknown to the general public. This applies to family infirmity, and youth succumbing to temptation, cases well weighed by Judges Lachance and Choquette, who temper justice with mercy, and by the logic of their reasoning accomplish much good, and for better results than by severe treatment. Yesterday morning a young girl 16 years of age, arrested by the municipal detectives charged with stealing from her employers, was brought before Judge Lachance in Chambers. The little girl, a child in appearance was naturally frightened at being placed under arrest and arraigned before a judge for the crime of stealing. The city detective who had made the arrest on the complaint of her employer, in a feeling of sympathy had made inquiries about the girl's parents and home life, and discovered that she was one of a family of ten children, who was endeavoring to make a living and help her mother, Judge Lachance after hearing the story, was in a quandary how to dispose of the distressing case, but after due consideration, read the girl a lecture on the enormity of her offence, and what her conduct was likely to lead to. After obtaining a promise to do better for the future he sent the girl home to her mother on suspended sentence.

ROTARY CLUB WEEKLY LUNCHEON

Members Rally Each Other Over Results Of Tuesday's Election Contest

The Quebec Rotary Club held its weekly lunch meeting at the Chateau Frontenac yesterday afternoon, and as usual there was a good attendance of members.

Mr. J. A. Larue, President, presided, and as there was no special speaker to address the meeting, the result of the Federal election was jocularly referred to which brought out a general impromptu discussion among the members of opposite views. The reds rejoicing at the successful result, and twitting their brother Club Rotarians over their discomfort. The latter retorted in a similar humorous vein and contended that the defeat was only temporary, a loss of ground in a contest which they were sure to recover at the next election.

The question of aiding the Dr. Barnardo Home was introduced and after some consideration was referred to the executive committee. The Christmas Guineole drive in aid of the poor of Quebec by the Commercial Travellers was also brought to the attention of the meeting.

The poster campaign organized by the New York Rotarian organization, to encourage a spirit of national optimism in commerce and trade, was also discussed, and deferred until the next meeting.

At the conclusion of the lunch meeting, a meeting of the executive committee was held, when the matter of the Dr. Barnardo Home was considered and decided, in view of the fact that it would not be possible to call for any public subscription towards this worthy object, on account of the many demands of late made on the public for contributions, the club would send its cheque from the general fund for the sum of $100.

CHURCH BAZAAR WAS PROFITABLE

Over $8,000 Netted By Sale In Former St. Patrick's School

The bazaar held last week in the former St. Patrick's School building, McMahon street, in aid of St. Bridget's Home, resulted in a remarkable success. The sale, which was held under the auspices of the ladies of St. Patrick's Church congregation, netted over $8,000. This magnificent result was made known in a statement given out on Tuesday evening, at a banquet given to ladies in charge of the sale and their assistants by Rev. Father Connolly, S.S.R., Rector of the Parish, who took occasion to thank the ladies and their assistants who conducted the sale, and the parties who attended and generally contributed to the successful issue.

The returns from the respective booths were as follows: Dining room $800; Baby Booth, $203.80; Cove Table, $870; Home-made cooking $510.29; Variety booth, $300; Woolen and Linen booth $607.40; Doll Booth $1,349.21; Fancy booth $1,277.63; Post office, $100; Candy and Ice Cream booth, $1,018.34; Sports $759.00.

A feature of the bazaar was the way it was patronized by the general public, irrespective of nationality and creed, largely by French Canadian ladies and gentlemen in sympathy with the cause of charity and who contributed generously. The amount received as announced by Rev. Father Connolly, on Tuesday night at the banquet was $8,000, but later, last night further amounts were turned in, which swell the amount still further.

Chronicle Files 100 Years Ago

Madrid Affairs London, Oct. 20.—Extract of a private letter dated October 4: "It is difficult to give you an account of what is going on here. Since a few zealous patriots wished to carry the portrait of Riego in procession, to avenge him from the outrages, which he is constantly receiving from the Ministry, measures most severe and the most dangerous to liberty have been taken. It is the new Political Chief, San Martin, who has undertaken the task of binding down the people of the Capital—a task which he performs with rare talent. The Club of La Fontana is closed, the most distinguished speakers are in prison; the proprietor of the house where the club is held is in a dungeon. Three Colonels of the Garrison, Serrano, Torrijos and Cerutto, who opposed every means hostile to the people, are also in prison and in solitary confinement."

Chronicle Files 25 Years Ago

Civil vs. Military Quite a sensation was caused last night at a quarter to eleven in front of the Academy of Music by a row between a member of the R. C. A. and one of the audience. It appears that the man in question who was sitting in the gallery, persisted in standing up and blocking the military spectators's view, and when asked to sit down turned round and looked at the soldiers with contempt, refusing to comply with their wishes. Some words passed between them, and after the performance the soldier who had been offended awaited the other man's appearance outside. Needless to say a large crowd soon formed and when the civilian appeared there was enthusiasm displayed by the crowd, and one of the parties who was trying to quiet the crowd and stop the row received a blow in the nose, which caused the blood to flow freely. One of the officers of the Regiment seeing that there was a row of some kind in which the militia was concerned, ordered a corporal to investigate the matter, which ended in the soldier being handcuffed and placed in the cells.

Artist Mr. Wickenden, the Parisian Artist, whose pictures were recently on exhibition in the City Hall, has just completed an admirable portrait of the Rev. Abbe H. R. Casgrain, which a representative of the Chronicle was kindly invited to inspect a few days ago by the Rev.'s gentleman, who is a well-known art amateur. The picture is a splendid specimen of portraiture in oils. The expression of the face, the flesh tints, the hair all are beautifully represented by the artist, which a certain amount of grace and repose is given to the picture by the fold of the hood which is that of a Doctor of Letters of Laval University.

PREMIER DRURY FEELS QUITE CHEERFUL STILL.

Toronto, Dec. 7.—Premier Drury declined today to comment upon the showing of Progressive candidates in Ontario in the Dominion election beyond remarking that he was "feeling quite cheerful." He said that the Ontario Government would bring on the by-elections to fill the vacancies in North Oxford Russell and Kingston, as soon as possible. Hon. Mr. Drury said the by-elections should be over by January 20, and that the Legislature would probably meet in the first or second week in February.

A MASTERFUL CONCERT SUNDAY

Piano Professor Of Paris Conservatory To Play At Auditorium Together With The Celebrated Violinist Serato

Combining two musical attractions in one recital, Mr. J. Albert Gauvin announces for Sunday evening at the Auditorium a unique concert. More than one feature makes of this concert a really attractive gathering of music lovers. First, the pianist is one of the most prominent teachers at the Paris Conservatory and the string part of the concert will be filled by the noted violinist Arrigo Serato.

Both artists come here with a well reputation well backed by big successes wherever they have appeared. Alfredo Casella, the pianist, is well known in this city. He has been for years teaching piano at the Paris Conservatory and many are the Canadian pianists now famous who were moulded by this master of the keyboard. Among local artists that were literally "made" by Mr. Casella may be mentioned Mr. Trudeau, one of the best pianists in this part of the country. And many others also come from the same school.

All students of piano or violin should make it a point of hearing these two masters of their desired art, for seldom will such an opportunity be given Quebec of combining these two musical elements in one identical concert.

Seats are now selling fast at Gauvin & Courchesne's also at the Auditorium box office.

AFRICA ORIGINAL HOME OF HUMANS

Scientists Say That Darwinian Theory Has Received Partial Corroboration

London, Dec. 7.—Scientists say the Darwinian theory that Africa may have been the original home of the human race received partial corroboration from the discovery just made in northern Rhodesia of a fossilized skull which gives a new orientation to the early history of primitive man.

The skull, which is complete save for the lower jaw, resembles that of the ape man pithecanthropus erectus discovered in Java in 1892, which has been regarded as the most primitive human skull known until now. The Java skull, however lacked a face. In this respect, the Rhodesian fossil reveals a type curiously similar to what is known as the Gibraltar skull.

Moreover, a collar bone, a leg bone and part of a hip bone believed to belong to the skull have also been unearthed, and these may enable anatomists to reconstruct the main parts of the whole Rhodesian skeleton.

The scene of the discovery was the "Bone Cave" of the Broken Hill mine, already famous for the beauty of its stalactites and stalagmites and for the remarkable fact that the lime of which they were originally composed has been largely replaced by phosphates of zinc and lead.

It was the commercial value of these formations that led to the transformation of this cave into one of the strangest mines ever worked. The floor consisted of a mass of fossilized remains of elephants, lions, leopards, rhinoceri, hippopotami, antelopes, birds, bats and small mammals. Hundreds of tons of these animal remains had been removed, but no trace of man was discovered until a depth of 60 feet below water level was reached, when the bones described were found surrounded by soft friable lead conglomerate.

Would-Be Champions Of The High And Fancy Diving Will Compete Tomorrow Evening At Auditorium--Boys In The Contest Also—Three Valuable Cups In Prizes

Mr. H. Paquet, of the Auditorium, questioned yesterday on the contest to be held at the theatre tomorrow evening (Friday) explained that the contest is to determine whether Quebec really has daring and well trained divers and swimmers both among girls and boys. The contest is open to all present performing their diving feats at the Auditorium will not compete so that the field is clear to the local divers.

Any decent swimming suit will be admitted, but competitors will have to submit to censure before they are allowed on the stage, so as to absolutely guard any of the girl performers or the audience from any objectionable conduct.

Three valuable cups are to be given out as prizes to the three best divers competing, the audience to decide who wins. The three cups donated may be seen after five this afternoon and thereafter in the show windows of Cyr. Duquet's, 1 St. John street. They are really valuable cups and since they will bear inscriptions they will be worth keeping for the local diver who wins out in the competition.

Already a number of girls and boys who really can dive have registered at the box office for Friday evening's contest. All may register until Friday night for the contest.

Notice to Public. Owing to the high and additional cost of organizing this diving contest for Friday evening, also to prevent all unnecessary rush at opening time Friday night, all seats for that ONE performance will be reserved in advance. Prices for that evening only will be 25c to $1.00.

FIVE GOOD BOUTS ARE SCHEDULED

Forty-Two Rounds Of Boxing On Bill At The Auditorium Saturday

Forty-two rounds of boxing will be on the bill at the Auditorium Saturday night when the first bouts under the auspices of the 5th Machine Gun Brigade will be staged. All five contests are scheduled and everything points to real good evening.

The main scrap of the evening will be a ten-round bout between "Spike" Sullivan of Quebec and George Christian of New York. Sullivan has not appeared in a local ring for some months but has been doing good work in other cities, and is ready for the best bout of his career. Christian is reputed to be a nifty boy with the mitts and should give the local luffer a hard tussle to get the decision.

The semi-final will also be a battle of ten rounds and will bring together Joe Duquet of this city and Kid Rose of Montreal. Those lads are very evenly matched and should put up a great battle.

Kid Mitchell, a local boy and Joe Conlin of Buffalo are matched for the first ten-round bout of the evening. Mitchell is a pretty clever youngster and is rapidly improving. He has already appeared in a local ring and has always put up good scraps.

Conlin has also appeared in a scrap with Lezard, by whom he was knocked out. However, he has a good account of himself, but as he is more evenly matched with Mitchell a better scrap should result.

Young McNaughton is billed to meet Kid Brian in a six-round affair and Kid Brusso and Young Bill Edwards will start the evening's excitement in the preliminary six-round bout.

SNOWSHOE CLUBS MEET TONIGHT

With C.P.R. Sporting Committee To Make Final Arrangements For Winter Sports

The various snowshoe clubs of the city are requested to send one or two delegates to the meeting which will be held with the C. P. R. Sports Committee at the Chateau Frontenac at 8 o'clock this evening, to complete all final arrangements for the carrying out of the Winter Sports programme that has already been drawn up.

The snowshoe clubs have drawn up an excellent programme of races, etc., and all dates have been practically decided upon, but there still remains a few minor details to be sanctioned by all clubs that will have any members competing in the different events, so it is to the interest of the clubs to be represented at the assembly.

Tomorrow evening the ski clubs will meet to settle a few important questions which were left in abeyance at the last assembly. The most important question that has to be decided by the skiers is the finishing point of the cross-country race. At the last meeting one club held out to have the event decided at the Drill Hall, while the remaining clubs wished to continue the race to the Chateau. This was one of the questions left over at the last meeting, and it is very probable that everything will be settled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

STAGE SEEMS TO SUIT JOHNSON

Former Heavyweight Champ. Has Made Big Money Since His Release

Detroit, Dec. 7.—Jack Johnson's theatrical engagement came to a close at Detroit several days ago, Jack had a special act with a Burlesque show and was a big box office attraction. But, despite the fact that the former heavyweight champion was packing them in wherever he went, the burlesque company grew tired of him. Jack's company still had several weeks to run. He was making big money and wanted to continue, but the burlesque company wanted to get rid of him and didn't know how. Someone, apparently familiar with the different cities that Johnson likes and dislikes, suggested that Jack be sent to Louisville, Kentucky, for one week. For some reason, Jack doesn't like Louisville and refused to show there, doing just what the burlesque company wanted him to do, broke his contract.

Johnson has made about $40,000 on the stage since his release from Leavenworth prison last July. He has three automobiles and carries his white wife and her mother with him every place.

According to a representative of the burlesque show, Johnson plans on organizing a big road show of his own to play one night stands from coast to coast. He was offered a chance about six weeks ago to box Frank Moran at Toronto, Canada. Jack refused $7,500—he wanted $10,000, to mix with Frank, so the bout was off. It is thought that Jack is through with the ring. Stage life seems to be the life for Johnson.

MISS LEITCH MADE MANY FRIENDS

American Critics High In Praise Of British Woman Golf Champion

New York, Dec. 7.—America does not think much of the class of foreign champions.

Results, more than prejudice, lead to this opinion. After seeing Carpenter, Mile, Lenglen, Wilkes Hunter and the constant procession of fighters that come over with a title, the crown of "European champion" does not stand very high on the American sport exchange.

It is very unusual then to have a British champion visit these shores, go down to defeat twice and yet have that beaten champion regarded as the greatest player in the world.

Uncle Sam thought that Miss Alexia Sterling, the Atlanta girl, was some golf player and when she was defeated twice by Miss Leitch, Americans were inclined to throw off the cynicism with which they usually looked at British appraisal of greatness and agree that the British woman was the greatest of them all.

Naturally the invasion last summer of America by Miss Leitch was one of the banner events of the golf season. The British champion started off auspiciously enough by defeating Miss Sterling for the Canadian woman's title.

Then came the reverses. In the second round of the American championships, the English queen of the links was unexpectedly beaten by Mrs. F. C. Letts, Chicago, former western champion.

One week later in the Bethelby Cup tournament in Philadelphia, she was again defeated by Miss Gianna Collett, the sensational young Providence girl.

Undismayed by these reverses, Miss Leitch then regained her form and didn't lose another match. Her smiles in the face of defeat and the gallant and cordial way in which she rushed to congratulate her conquerors won her a place in the hearts of every American golfer so that when she was leaving for home one of the best critics in America said:

"Although unsuccessful in the main purpose of her coming to American shores, Miss Leitch gave real proof of the fact that she holds a place as perhaps the greatest woman golfer the world has ever seen."

Miss Leitch has returned home to England. She left with a promise to return next season and make another effort to win the American title which is the last of her golf world to conquer.

GET TOGETHER OF BASEBALL MEN

Judge Landis Addressed A Large Gathering At Minors' Annual Dinner

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 7.—Judge Keresaw M. Landis tonight addressed the largest gathering of baseball men he has faced since he was made high commissioner of the national game. There were owners, officers and players from the twenty-six leagues in the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, and a goodly sprinkling of major league representatives in the company room at the minors' annual dinner.

McGraw's second sensation was sprung today when it was announced that the Giants had paid the San Francisco team of the Pacific Coast League $75,000 for the 20-year-old first sacker and fielder James O'Connell.

The business session of the minors was occupied chiefly with routine and adjourned at 2 o'clock in the afternoon till tomorrow morning.

BICYCLE TEAMS STILL BUNCHED

Twelve Duos Are Tied At Seventieth Hour Of Six Day Race

New York, Dec. 7.—Twelve teams are still bunched for the lead when the half-way mark was reached in the annual six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden tonight. Each had covered 1,249 miles, 8 laps, at 10 p.m., the seventieth hour, as compared with the record for that hour of 1,423 miles, 2 laps, made by Drobach and Lawson, in 1914.

Just before 10 o'clock the team of Brocco and Gouillet endeavored to steal a lap but they were unable to shake off the other riders and finally gave it up. Deruyler was leading when the riders settled down to the regular grind.

INTEREST IN BIRD SANCTUARIES

Has Been Much Awakened In Old Country Lately—Refuge Bought

London, Dec. 6.—Public interest in bird sanctuaries has been considerably freshened as a result of a recent dinner held in this city by the Selborne Society in celebration of the purchase of the Brent Valley Bird Sanctuary—one of the most remarkable refuges of wild life, from its being within bounds of the world's greatest city.

This refuge is a small oak wood near Greenford, Middlesex, and there the nightingale, cuckoo, blackcap and many other birds which would otherwise surely have been banished by the spread of Greater London, may live in peace and security and propagate their kind.

Earl Grey of Falloden, who presided at the Selborne Society dinner, is one of Great Britain's most conspicuous bird-lovers. He and the other guests, and a few other bird-loving friends bought an estate in the "broads" district of Norfolk before the war and turned it into a sanctuary for rare local birds with appreciable success.

One feature of this refuge was the return of breeding bitterns to Norfolk, and their steady increase is regarded as one of the most heartening chapters in recent bird history.

Sanctuaries of wild life require a vigilant eye and often a controlling hand. The worst of all enemies of rare British birds is the collector of their eggs. When the last half-dozen British kites were preserved from extinction in Mid-Wales, the nest-trees had literally to be watched day and night. Bird and animal pests may be only less destructive than human raiders; a bird sanctuary, if uncontrolled may simply become a happy hunting ground of jays, crows, stoats, weasels, rats, sparrows, starlings, mongrels, or whatever other species may be artificially in the ascendant. These sanctuaries need not only be formed, but maintained.

Marsh birds are chiefly extinguished by drainage, and many wood birds are banished by scientific forestry, which eliminates old rotten trees. In England today there are a few such entirely primitive tracts of woodland as Naddle Forest, on the shores of Hawes Water, which Manchester is to wipe out.

In Australasia it is not necessary for a bird sanctuary to be absolutely closed against the world. Given adequate protection from interference, which is best secured by an educated public opinion there would seem to be nothing to prevent any of the larger wild-life sanctuaries from being maintained as a popular resort. A good example is to be found in the National Park of New South Wales—an immense area of primitive Australian scenery, accessible both by road and rail and equipped with an hotel for visitors. Here the lyre bird still breeds in safety. Though naturally a ground-nester, it has co-operated in its own preservation by preferring to build in the crowns of tree-ferns, out of the reach of foxes. Other inmates are the rare Black cockatoo and the curious rock-warbler, a species peculiar to New South Wales, which hangs its nest from the roof of small caves by a thread.

In New Zealand the protection of rare native birds from bush fires and predatory imported animals is more difficult than in Australia, since, owing to segregation during uncounted ages, many species of diverse families had lost the power or the habit of flight. There is little hope of the permanent protection of the kiwi, the kakapo or owl parrot, and other flightless or ineradicably ground-haunting species, except in small islands from which four-footed enemies can be excluded. In forming its sanctuaries the New Zealand Government has been alive to this point.

A remarkable natural sanctuary was discovered in 1914 by a prospector on certain Crown lands in South Island, New Zealand, where kiwi, kapapoa, the very rare New Zealand creeper, and a wealth of other rare species were found thriving in primitive seclusion. The district was promptly gazetted as a sanctuary and specimens were drafted to replenish the stocks on Little Barrier Island, near Auckland.

Change Is Popular. This ceremonial is only the first of many similar ones demanded by the age-old Shinto ritual. Shortly he must make a pilgrimage to the Great Shrine of Ise and make a similar announcement to Amaterasu the Sun Goddess, and the greatest of all Shinto deities, ancestors of the Imperial house. Later he must repair to the mausoleum of Emperor Meiji at Momoyama, where he will announce to the spirit of his grandfather his assumption of the regency.

PRINCE OF WALES AT BARHATPUR

Is Continuing Hunting Trip Through Rajputana—Received With Pomp

Barhatpur, British India, Dec. 7.—The Prince of Wales who is continuing his hunting trip through Rajputana arrived here today. The Prince was received with the same spectacular scenes of Indian pomp as he has witnessed at previous stopping places. The natives of Barhatpur, are showing great enthusiasm over his visit.

Rangoon, Burma, Dec. 7.—Speaking in the Legislature today, Lieutenant Governor Sir R. H. Craddock, condemned the efforts of the Burmese to organize a boycott on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales by means of intimidation.

The Lieutenant Governor announced that in order to prevent a recurrence of the violence which occurred during the stay of the Prince in Bombay it had been decided to inform the leaders of the movement here. His expressed confidence that a majority of the Burmese would welcome the Prince as cordially as he had been welcomed in other communities.

Delhi, Dec. 7.—Twelve leaders of the non-co-operationist movement have been arrested at Allahabad and Lucknow, charged with attempting to address meetings for the enrollment of recruits in the national volunteers. The magistrate at Lucknow has issued orders prohibiting such meetings for two months.

JAPAN REGENT MOST POPULAR

His Humanness Of The Sort That Appeals To All Japanese

Tokio, Dec. 6.—With ancient, mystic rites, dating from an age contemporary with Pericles and the Roman republic, Hirohito, prince regent of one of the great modern Powers, recently stood reverently before the "August Shrine" in the Imperial Palace and announced to the spirits of the Imperial ancestors that he had entered upon his duties as regent of Japan.

In the presence of the blood and the highest court dignitaries, and accompanied by weird music of ancient flutes and drums—diving Shinto music—the prince regent, clad in ceremonial robes fashioned after those worn by Mikado millennia ago, advanced into the sacred precincts dedicated to the spirits of six-score Mikados who ruled Japan before him, and read there the Imperial rescript commanding him to take up the duties of the nation's actual ruler.

Change Is Popular. Various offers were declined, but the stone was finally sold for several thousand pounds to Bonnie Russell of Barkly West, E. Allen of Bowden, Cheshire, and W. Crudgington of Moseley, Birmingham. It was named "Arc" after the initials of the purchasers.

MAY HOPE FOR BEST. London, Dec. 8.—Lord London-

and owing to nervous debility is unable to attend.

No Political Significance.

The prince's assumption of imperial duties is believed to have no political significance, being absolutely necessary in view of the emperor's condition. The expected retirement of Prince Yamagata and Marquis Matsukata is significant only as marking the passing of these great figures from the national stages. Their tremendous personal influence will be removed, but the offices will be filled by men of their own clique and choice. Viscount Kiyoura probably will succeed Prince Yamagata as president of the Privy Council, and Viscount Hiraata will replace Marquis Matsukata as Lord of the Privy Seal. Marquis Matsukata probably will be promoted to the rank of prince.

Other inmates are the rare Black cockatoo and the curious rock-warbler, a species peculiar to New South Wales, which hangs its nest from the roof of small caves by a thread.

In New Zealand the protection of rare native birds from bush fires and predatory imported animals is more difficult than in Australia, since, owing to segregation during uncounted ages, many species of diverse families had lost the power or the habit of flight. There is little hope of the permanent protection of the kiwi, the kakapo or owl parrot, and other flightless or ineradicably ground-haunting species, except in small islands from which four-footed enemies can be excluded. In forming its sanctuaries the New Zealand Government has been alive to this point.

Is Continuing Hunting Trip Through Rajputana—Received With Pomp

Barhatpur, British India, Dec. 7.—The Prince of Wales who is continuing his hunting trip through Rajputana arrived here today. The Prince was received with the same spectacular scenes of Indian pomp as he has witnessed at previous stopping places. The natives of Barhatpur, are showing great enthusiasm over his visit.

Rangoon, Burma, Dec. 7.—Speaking in the Legislature today, Lieutenant Governor Sir R. H. Craddock, condemned the efforts of the Burmese to organize a boycott on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales by means of intimidation.

JAPAN REGENT MOST POPULAR

His Humanness Of The Sort That Appeals To All Japanese

Tokio, Dec. 6.—With ancient, mystic rites, dating from an age contemporary with Pericles and the Roman republic, Hirohito, prince regent of one of the great modern Powers, recently stood reverently before the "August Shrine" in the Imperial Palace and announced to the spirits of the Imperial ancestors that he had entered upon his duties as regent of Japan.

In the presence of the blood and the highest court dignitaries, and accompanied by weird music of ancient flutes and drums—diving Shinto music—the prince regent, clad in ceremonial robes fashioned after those worn by Mikado millennia ago, advanced into the sacred precincts dedicated to the spirits of six-score Mikados who ruled Japan before him, and read there the Imperial rescript commanding him to take up the duties of the nation's actual ruler.

Change Is Popular. Various offers were declined, but the stone was finally sold for several thousand pounds to Bonnie Russell of Barkly West, E. Allen of Bowden, Cheshire, and W. Crudgington of Moseley, Birmingham. It was named "Arc" after the initials of the purchasers.

MAY HOPE FOR BEST. London, Dec. 8.—Lord London-

and owing to nervous debility is unable to attend.

No Political Significance.

The prince's assumption of imperial duties is believed to have no political significance, being absolutely necessary in view of the emperor's condition. The expected retirement of Prince Yamagata and Marquis Matsukata is significant only as marking the passing of these great figures from the national stages. Their tremendous personal influence will be removed, but the offices will be filled by men of their own clique and choice. Viscount Kiyoura probably will succeed Prince Yamagata as president of the Privy Council, and Viscount Hiraata will replace Marquis Matsukata as Lord of the Privy Seal. Marquis Matsukata probably will be promoted to the rank of prince.

C.N.R. SYSTEM IS IMPROVING

Operating Economies Bringing About A Greatly Improved Situation

The improved financial showing of the Canadian National Railways for the months of August and September has received general and favorable comment in the press throughout the country.

Those who were in close touch with the situation, and who knew what was being done to bring about operating economies, could see well in advance that a continuation of these measures, with the usual increase in volume of traffic, would bring the lines together, and that, with the seasonal crop movement, they should cross. It was hardly expected that the month of August would show net earnings, but reductions in the costs of materials and supplies, coupled with the readjustment of wages, and the increase in gross earnings were factors which combined, enabled the management to produce a small balance on the right side for August. The crop movement in September was sufficient to enable the much better showing made in that month.

A feature of the situation, which constituted a great difficulty encountered by the management in their endeavor to wipe out the deficit, is graphically displayed by the chart, which shows that gross earnings dropped after February—that month's gross is usually the lowest in any year—and, commencing with March, gross earnings invariably improve; but during the present year a new condition prevailed: the earnings in the months of April, May and June were lower than those in the months of January and February. This slump in business was general, and affected all lines. If the usual trend of earnings had been followed the operating economies effected would have brought the lines together at an earlier date.

The chart also shows that the greater reductions in operating expenses were obtained prior to July. This should dispose of the view that the reduction in expenses was largely brought about by the readjustment of wages, effective on July 1st.

The Canadian National Railways earlier in the year, informed the people of Canada, by a series of frank, explicit articles in the public press, of some of its problems, and, in particular, of the pressing need of more traffic. The improvement in the relative position of the National lines has been accomplished, not only by the reduction of operating costs, but, also, through the co-operation of the public that realized the truth of the statements made on the National Railways' behalf, and who have met the situation in a practical way.

RUSSIAN OFFICER TO BE RESTORED

To Practically Same Position He Held Before The Revolution

Riga, Latvia, Dec 6.—The Russian army officer, stripped of most of his authority by Premier Keresky at the very start of his regime in 1917, and persecuted in the early personification of all that was to be despised in a "bourgeois" or aristocrat, is about to be restored to practically the same position he held before the revolution.

The authority of any army officer in the field has been recognized by the Bolsheviks during the past three years, and nowhere has discipline at least on paper, been stricter than in the Red Army; but as a rule, officers did not find their work attractive. Their pay was not very much higher than that of the men, nor was there any great difference in their rations, while the responsibility was heavy.

If they came from the old officer class, they were constantly under suspicion and surveillance by the Communist commissars, one of whom was attached to each separate military unit.

Now the Soviet government has come out with an admission that officers and men cannot be treated alike and that in order to secure sufficient officers, they must be provided for on a much higher scale than the soldiers, and "it should be realized that the principle of equality is not acceptable."

From the very beginning of the Bolshevik regime, many officers of the army of the late Emperor Nicholas have served the Reds. Some were compelled to do so, others were attracted by the promise of food at the time civilians were starving, while still others, liberal-minded politically, volunteered, considering the Red army, after all, Russian to the core. Their numbers have been constantly increasing during the past year, due to Trotsky's insistence that the Russian army be as efficient as any other in the world, and also to the gradual progress made toward bettering their lot.

To supply the Red army with well-trained, junior officers, the Bolsheviks have opened scores of training schools. The "Kursants" as these young officer aspirants are termed, are spick and span and as well set up as American West Point cadets. In addition to school training, they are given actual battle practice at every opportunity, being sent into the field as "sock troops" against counter-revolutionary or "bandit" bands in the Ukraine. They greatly distinguished themselves in the revolt at Kronstadt last March.

HAS DEVELOPED APPLE INDUSTRY

Third Year Of Big Crop And Satisfactory Prices In Nova Scotia

Halifax, Dec. 5.—For the third consecutive year Nova Scotia has had a large crop of apples and though at the beginning of the season there were many pessimists among the fruit growers recent reports indicate that the crop is being marketed at very satisfactory prices to the producers. From the Annapolis Valley an unusual quantity of apples has been shipped via the Yarmouth and Boston boats to American markets, and, according to A. E. McMahon, President of the United Fruit Growers, Nova Scotia, this year will have practically no competition in marketing fruit in the United Kingdom—at any rate in so far as barrel apples are concerned.

The three large consecutive crops of apples are regarded as the natural result of ten years intelligent care and maintenance of the orchards. Prior to 1911 apple growers took little interest in the cultivation and care of their orchards, nearly everybody accepted the view that it was natural thing for orchards to bear a good crop one year and a poor crop the next; and the fact that Nova Scotia apples placed in open competition in the British market often sold for four to ten shillings under the prevailing price was accepted with a certain philosophy. But gradually the idea developed that lack of proper care of the orchards had a good deal to do with the inferior quality of Nova Scotia apples, and around 1910-11 an educational campaign was started. Considerable money was expended by the Dominion government, the Nova Scotia government and the Canadian Pacific Railway, which controls the railway through the Annapolis Valley, on experiments of one kind or another, and in the distribution of information as to what orchardists in other parts of the world were doing.

Special demonstrations of the mixing and use of sprays and insecticides were given from year to year, and it was discovered that lime and sulphur made the best spray.

During the early years of the war the United Fruit Growers' Association urged its members to grow a better, cleaner apple, realizing that to create a demand for Nova Scotia fruit an attractive apple must be put on the market. Ontario farmers during the war rather neglected their orchards, and are consequently not now growing a normal crop. In the United States too many people went in for mixed farming and neglected their orchards, the result being that the American apple crop, which ran to 253 million bushels in 1913, will this year be less than 100 million, according to various reports. As a result of the attention given to orcharding a marked improvement has taken place in the quality of Nova Scotia apples now available for export. A few years ago some of the older orchardists were saying that Nova Scotia would never become a factor to be reckoned with in the box apple trade. But this year Nova Scotia sent 300 boxes of apples in charge of Professor Blair to the Fruit Show in London, England, and the exhibit won prizes that, it is said, placed Nova Scotia on an equality with Ontario. While definite figures are not available it is estimated that Nova Scotia's apple crop will run over 1,500,000 barrels this year. In 1920 the crop was 1,167,420 barrels and in 1919, 1,599,861 barrels. According to an official of the United Fruit Growers this year's crop will yield the producer approximately $3.00 per barrel, clear of culls.

A TWO FAMILY BUNGALOW

DESIGNED BY CHAS. S. REDGWICK, ARCHITECT

HERE is a plan for a two-family bungalow, each apartment has about five hundred square feet and the space is nearly equally divided. There is one central chimney with one separate flue for each apartment, this will accommodate a heater in each separate basement and flue for kitchen. The design is arranged for a corner, with one entrance approached from one street and the other from the other street, in this manner keeping the two apartments entirely separate. Each has a porch entrance of same size and living rooms each 14 ft. x 15 ft., also separate stairs to each basement which is full and complete. The bath rooms are on opposite sides. The estimated cost is $4,500 to $5,500 exclusive of heating and plumbing.

The construction is frame and covered with wide drop siding, or "Colonial siding." The upper sections and gables are stuccoed and the foundation is of concrete with full basements fully equipped for laundries, heating, fuel, etc. There are two good sized bed rooms, one for each and well fitted kitchens with pantry cupboards and small rear porches with space for refrigerators. There are also good closets for each. The roof is covered with creosoted shingles stained to suit and the wide siding stained a Mission brown with all cornices, casing, etc., painted white. The floors in two living and bed rooms and the casings are designed to be of oak, the kitchens to be finished with linoleum on the floors and the woodwork of pine and enameled white. The main entrance steps are of cement concrete or may be of hard brick.

GERMAN PAPERS WAGE CAMPAIGN

Protest Against "Selling Out Of Germany" To Foreign Invaders

Coblenz, Germany, Dec. 6.—German newspapers for weeks have been waging a campaign of protest against what is termed the "selling out of Germany" to foreigners who have invaded the country to purchase goods since the mark began its sharp decline early in October.

The president of the Rhineland province, acting under direction of the Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission, issued a decree prohibiting purchase of merchandise by foreigners not actually residing within the territory of occupation.

For days, buyers poured into the Rhineland on every train and by automobile from Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, France and other nearby countries and business in the stores of Coblenz, Cologne and Aix-la-Chapelle flourished as it never had before.

Many articles of American manufacture are on sale in Coblenz stores at retail prices much lower than in the United States, taking into consideration the rate of exchange.

CUSTOMS OF THE BERBER TRIBES

Number Sixteen Thousand And Have Some Very Interesting Ceremonies

Melilla, Morocco, Dec. 6.—The customs of the two Berber tribes whose territory has just been recaptured by Spanish troops as a result of their recent victories, are very interesting.

These tribes are known as the Beni-Buyah and Beni-Bu-Ifrur, including the settlements of Segangan and Zaitun, extending to Monte Arruit, Tiatutin, Bate and Gize, which they pitch in circles, thus forming an adaur, or settlement. The tents are made of sheep's wool mixed with camel or goat's hair for the more wealthy among the tribesmen, while the poorer members of the tribes must content themselves with grass fibre.

The men are of changeable mood, at times seeking adventure in rapine and at others indulging in prolonged periods of laziness. Polygamy prevails among them in proportion to their means of providing sustenance for the women. These poor creatures in every part of Morocco lead the most miserable lives. They look after the cattle, grind the grain, make the bread, churn the butter, howl the wood, draw the water which has to be carried long distances, shear the sheep and goats, card and weave the wool and hair as well as the grass fibre, do all the ploughing and sowing, and generally are treated by their lordly husbands even worse than the animals to whom they are yoked for field-work.

Their only consolation is in eating, they consume four meals daily, at which they drink great quantities of weak tea, and before they retire for the night devour large quantities of akuzuz balls composed of flour, water and honey. They are very careful with the cattle and never forget to put them to pasture facing away from the sun so that they will not lose their sight through the brightness.

those connected with births and the giving of names, which occurs eight days after birth, when the father sacrifices a sheep and, sprinkling the blood, pronounces the names to be given to the child in the name of Allah.

At 20 years of age, it is customary to marry. A young man then announces to his father his desire to wed a certain young woman. The father communicates with the father of the chosen bride and sends his brothers to sacrifice a sheep in front of his tent, at the same time appealing to the father to give his daughter in marriage to their nephew.

If the father consent, the price of the young woman and the dowry she is to bring with her is agreed upon. The day of the ceremony is settled, the bride knowing nothing about it.

When the wedding day arrives, the parents of the bridegroom go in procession to the tent of the bride's father, to whom they bring the half of the bride's dowry. The men fire three rifle shots and the men shout with joy. The couple, although the ceremony is yet incomplete, go to their future tent together. The real wedding ensues the following day when the bride is taken in procession on the back of a camel, escorted with silks and followed by her body-slave if she is wealthy enough to possess one, to the tent of the bridegroom, where she is welcomed by his parents and the remainder of the price and dowry changes hands. The wedding is completed to the accompaniment of much feasting. A bride who proves unfaithful may be sent back to her father's tent dressed in sackcloth.

"Rubber Stamp" People Are Being Replaced With Real "Characters"

There was a time—not so long ago—when "screen" types were rubber stamp people.

They were cast in molds, ran according to formula, and you could tell what to expect of them as soon as they glimmered on the silver sheet. The ingenue was as standardized as a batch of doughnuts—and just as doughy. She had curls, ruffles and the intelligent expression of a contented cow browsing beside a purring brook. When she was angry she nouted. Mercifully she has gone the way of the good Indian—to Limbo. In her place is a more natural young person, with abbreviated skirts, a wise look and something of a temper. Heroines are getting human, too. The other night I saw one who said "damn" and drank and unvoiced, and cocktail wore her stockings rolled down and kissed a chap she really didn't care for—but it was moonlight. # Bullish Sentiment At Outset In New York; Montreal Quiet

NEED OF MONTREAL MARKET SHOWED IMPROVEMENT AND PRICE GAINS WERE SEEN

National Breweries Accounted For Over Half Of Day's Trading — Scored New High For Year — Canada Cottons Made Most Important Gain Of Day, 3 Points

(By Canadian Press) Montreal, Dec. 7.—With the exception of marked activity in National Breweries there was little business in the local stock exchange today but the tone of the market showed improvement and moderate price gains were general throughout the list.

Trading in Breweries accounted for more than half the day's turnover, the stock moving up to a new high for the year at 59 3/8 and closing at 58 3/4, a gain of 1 3/4 points for the day.

The most important gain of the trading was in Canada Cotton preferred (35 shares of which sold at 77, up three points).

Montreal Tram also made a fairly good advance of two points to 145, a new high for the year.

The papers were all firmer although trading was light. Abitibi held steady at 31. Laurentide sold

The Chicago Produce Market

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Fresh declines in the price of wheat took place today largely as a result of lack of demand for cash wheat. The market closed unsettled, one cent to 1 1/4c. net lower.

Corn finished 1-4 @ 3-8c off to 1-8c. advance, oats were unchanged to 1-4 @ 3-8c. down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10 cents.

Close:—

Wheat, May $1.11 1-8; July $1.01. Corn, May 53 1-8c; July 54 1-2c. Oats, May 37 1-2c; July 38c. Pork, January $15.10. Lard, Jan. $8.55; May $8.95. Ribs, Jan. $7.42; May $7.77.

Sugar Market

New York, Dec. 7.—The early raw sugar market was quiet with no sales reported. Prices were unchanged with uncontrolled new crop Cubas were available at 2 1/2 cents cost and freight, equal to 3.66 for centrifugal, while the committee's price for old crop is 2 1/2 cents, cost and freight, equal to 4.11 for centrifugal.

The raw sugar futures market was a little steadier on covering and trade buying with prices at midday unchanged to 1 points net higher. The market for refined was easier with local refiners reducing list prices 10 points to the bases of 5.20 for fine granulated.

There were no transactions in refined futures.

Closing Letters By Local Brokers

(By Bruneau & Co.)

New Dec. 7.—The opening was strong with Studebaker and some of the lower priced oil stocks the feature and until the last hour the market held well. The selling in the last part of the session had all the earmarks of further increasing of the short interest and a bear raid. The excuse given was a speech made by Mr. Vanderlip on the European situation at luncheon today, which was said to be pessimistic, but as we have not heard the same we cannot comment on it further than we have said, has been vigorously fought by the large short interest and today's late selling does not look very powerful, nor yet very important.

Sales 957,000.

(By Breen, Goudeau & Co.)

New York, Dec. 7.—Higher prices pretty generally as regards industrial and railroad stocks characterized the early dealings in the stock market today. Interests, however, were chiefly centered in the rubber, the motor and the rail groups, also certain specialties, like Famous Players and May Department Stores. The demand for stocks was shortly extended to other groups, particularly the coppers, oils and chemicals, among which new high prices for the current movement was established. The market's strength was well, although quietly maintained throughout the forenoon, but weakness in the St. Paul issues during midday led to the development of considerable irregularity. During this irregularity, however, new high prices were established, under the leadership of Studebaker. In the final hour the tone developed a somewhat heavy tone, with good sized recessions occurring in a number of speculative favorites that had reflected consistent demand early in the day. The more prominent of these issues was Studebaker, Chandler, General Asphalt and some of the rubbers and oils. This condition of affairs was attributed to realizing which had been influenced by the high prices. The market closed irregular, with a somewhat heavy tone. The market's action today, especially towards the closing of the session, was not surprising, in view of the gains that have been established of late.

Sales, stocks 956,400; bonds $17,300,000.

(By L. G. Beaubien & Co.)

New York, Dec. 7.—There was some further strength in special quarters in the early afternoon but soon thereafter the trend changed and a reactionary movement set in. The weakness first appeared in the railroad stocks. St. Paul issues were again under pressure and sold down another point or two to the lowest price in a year.

R. & O., C. P. R., Penna were also heavy.

The selling spread to the equipment stocks, oils and finally hit the motor, tire issues, shipping stocks and other specialties.

Reaction of about 2 points was registered before the close, although it was orderly and without any undue irregularity or disturbance.

The tendency might be ascribed to a temporary over extension of the long interest which ran to cover and took profits when the tide turned.

The bullish side has seemed to be heavy in a number of quarters for some several days as the move has been led by specialties and the major stocks have not advanced in keeping with the rest.

Call money closed 4 1/2 percent. New York Funds 8 1/2 percent.

BULLISH SENTIMENT WAS UPPERMOST AT START OF N. Y. STOCK MARKET

Session Was Very Active But Prices Experienced Sharp Reversal Later When Pressure Against Certain Issues Was Accompanied By Sudden Rise In Call Money Rates

New York, Dec. 7.—Bullish sentiment was uppermost during the first half of today's very active stock exchange session, but prices experienced a sharp reversal later, when pressure against rails, equipments, oils and motors was accompanied by a sudden rise of call money rates to 5 1/2 percent.

Advices from Washington, which included the encouraging survey of general business and industrial conditions by the Department of Commerce, contributed largely to the early success, which embraced an unusual assortment of industrial and special shares.

There were a few exceptions to the higher trend, notably St. Paul common and preferred, which were heavy under reports affecting the Company's ability to meet impending extensive maturities.

Pressure against mail order, shipping, high grade tobacco, secondary steel and sugar stocks, proceeded mainly from professional sources. These issues were regarded as vulnerable because of backwards condition in their respective lines.

Sales 966,000 shares.

Most of the day's demand loans were placed at 4 1/2 percent on liberal offerings in which the local reserves of interior banks were freely drawn upon. More thirty and sixty day loans were made at 4 5/8 percent, but offerings for longer periods were scant.

Except the Dutch rates which continued to strengthen, foreign exchanges reacted in varying degree from yesterday's substantial advance. Sterling lost 1 1/2 cents and virtually all Continental bills were lower by five to almost fifteen points. Central European quotations also easing.

Liberty issues and most other active bonds gave way to further profit taking but a few of the recently reorganized rails were strong. Internationals were mixed closing at moderate gains and losses.

Total sales, par value, aggregated $18,250,000.

"Quo Vadis" Scores Sensation at The Victoria Theatre

Nothing more realistic has been produced in the motion picture art which has been born and reached maturity in our own generation than the scene in "Quo Vadis" which opened four days engagement at the Victoria Theatre yesterday. In the arena scene, where the Christians are fed to the lions and that great scene in which Rome is burned one feels the terror and the panic of the fleeing populace, as, bearing their household goods, their children and their aged relatives, they flee before the all devouring flames.

One contrast, too, this scene when the Roman Empire was crumbling with the scenes of today, when the inhabitants of many villages in Belgium and Northern France have likewise fled from their homes—but before the invading hordes, not to make a Roman Emperor's holiday.

In the scene in the arena where the band of Christian martyrs await the most horrible death, one is reminded also of the martyrs of our own day who face privation and death for the sake of an ideal dearer to them than life.

After the games are over, when the Roman populace has imposed its will upon the selfish and degenerate Nero, Vitellius escapes with Lygia and later marries her.

Mary Pickford Continues to Score in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at Empire

Mary Pickford as "Little Lord Fauntleroy"—and also as "Dearest," his mother! Can you imagine it? You know Mary Pickford. You know the story. What you imagine is at the Empire Theatre.

"Our Mary" has done a fine thing in this, her newest picture, all done with the glint of gaydom, and the tug of pathos about it, a sympathetic retelling of a story you've loved, and that yours, after you will love, the romantic tale—with its quaint figures and its familiar characters has been, literally translated. Each characteristic is clean cut, intelligent and throbbing with human interest. The settings are lavish in the extreme, the photography was superlative.

The charm of Miss Pickford's moments of child acting and her fine sense of humor have never been framed in a more delightful photograph than this. Miss Pickford has achieved her greatest success as a film star.

See for yourself.

ST. PIERRE AND RUM SMUGGLERS

French Islands Off Newfoundland Have Figured Very Much Lately

Halifax, N.S., Dec. 7—St. Pierre and Miquelon, the French islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, ten miles off the coast of Newfoundland, have figured rather frequently in press despatches of late, as the alleged source of the liquor supply of smugglers who have been operating during the past summer on the coast of the Maritime provinces and New England. These two islands the remnant of the once extensive dominions of France in the new world, have an area of 91 square miles. They are rough and hilly with extensive outcroppings of barren rock, and the population of something over 4,000 is mainly centered in the town of St. Pierre on the smaller island. St. Pierre has a good harbour and for generations has been the headquarters of the Atlantic fisheries of France. Twenty years ago 500 sail of vessels, including those from old France, fitted out for the fisheries at St. Pierre, and by 1912 the fleet had increased to 800 sail, but since then the big local fleet of sailing vessels, schooners, brigs, brigantines and barques, has dwindled, and now most of the inhabitants use motor boats in the fishing. The Metropolitan fleet from France has also been reduced, and the old sailing vessels have been largely replaced by steam trawlers.

St. Pierre has had a stormy history. Occupied by the French in 1660; was captured by the British in 1702 and held by them until 1763, when it was restored to France as a fishing station. In 1778 it was again destroyed by the British, and in 1783 again restored to France. Ten years later it was again captured and depopulated by the British, and in 1802 it was recovered by the French, only to be recaptured by the British in the following year. In 1814 it was covered by France, and since then has been a French possession. For years St. Pierre has been a resort for the fishing vessels of New England, Nova Scotia, Spain and Portugal. In the old days most American and Canadian deep-sea fishermen, after filling up with fish on the banks, called into St. Pierre to secure a supply of liquor for a carousal on the passage home. Not a few vessels leaving St. Pierre with full fares and full crews, failed to reach their home ports.

As a source of supply for liquor smugglers, St. Pierre has long worried the revenue officers of Canada and the Atlantic seaboard of the United States. All types of craft from steam yacht to fishing lugger have been engaged in smuggling operations from St. Pierre, though the natives have confined their enterprise to supplying the booze. Some years ago the French authorities by drastic measures had managed to restrict the supply of liquors available for smuggling to a very small quantity, but since the advent of prohibition in eastern Canada and the United States, new methods of evading the stringent export regulations of the colony have been discovered and the activities of smugglers have caused revenue officers in neighboring countries much loss of sleep.

Since the war the Government of France has formulated some rather grandiose projects for the development of its fisheries, and has constructed a huge cold storage plant at St. Pierre and established a refrigerator steamship service with the colony. A few weeks ago the French Government sent out a "governor," a functionary of importance in the French colonial system, to take the place of the "administrator" who has been head of the colony since 1896. This change in the political establishment is regarded as significant as an indication of the French government's new interest in the development of the fisheries and of its determination to make the most of the strategic position of the islands, which are in proximity to Banquereau and St. Pierre banks, and within forty-eight hours sail of the Grand Banks of Newfoundland.

Apart from the traditional and sentimental importance which attaches to the office of governor, such a functionary brings new dignity and prestige to the islands and introduces a new element in their relations to the governments of Canada and Newfoundland.

Would Not Marry With Stomach Trouble

Miss Livly States Simple Intestinal Antiseptic Put Her in Condition for Life's Duties

"I could not eat anything at all and have suffered a great deal from stomach trouble. Since I have been taking Adlerika (simple intestinal antiseptic) it has done wonders for me. I can now eat and sleep and anything that I want and also sleep very ready to get married." (Signed Miss Carie Livly.)

Intestinal Antiseptic There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows: It tends to stimulate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here. It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowels and removing foul matter which poisons the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal, matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and note how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you.

In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, and indigestion, the quick-acting Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of chronic constipation, on account of its rapid stomach tonic, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians. "I congratulate you on the good effect I had from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois. "I have found nothing in my 50 years practice to exceed Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver. "I have used it in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. Prettyman. "After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Pickett. "Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere. Sold in Quebec by W. Brunet & Co., Druggists, 70 LaBelle St., W. P. LaRoche, 70 St. John St., and other leading druggists.

ASPROLAX NOW HAVING ENORMOUS SALE HERE

Thousands Now Using New Scientific Cold Remedy With Most Astonishing And Gratifying Results

RESULTS FROM USE ALMOST IMMEDIATE

Druggists Instructed To Refund Money in Every Instance Where Satisfactory Results Are Not Obtained After First Few Doses

The next time you have a cough or cold go to your nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Asprolax. Have the clerk open it on the spot, take a teaspoonful, repeat the dose in an hour and again the second hour. If you are not surprised and delighted with the results, then go back to your druggist and he will refund your money without question. Asprolax is manufactured by a million-dollar corporation, composed of successful, level-headed business men, and the fact that they are willing to stand back of every bottle sold is convincing evidence of their absolute confidence in the preparation.

As recently announced, the Asprolax formula was perfected by Dr. J. W. Smathers, an American Physician and Pharmacist of thirty years' experience. In referring to his new discovery, Dr. Smathers said: "Ever since I first began the study of medicine I have realized the great need of a more efficient method of treating Colds, Bronchitis, Croup in children, and kindred disorders. The trouble has been that most people invariably treat the symptoms and not the cause. Most people nowadays, when they have a cold, simply take Aspirin. Plain Aspirin never did and never will cure a cold. It relieves the symptoms momentarily and alleviates only. Others take nauseous doses of Quinine and violent purgatives, which often upset the system to such an extent that the treatment is worse than the disorder. Still others use cough remedies and expectorants, which afford only temporary relief.

"My new formula, Asprolax, not only relieves the symptoms, but the cause as well. It is a combination treatment, and acts as an antipyretic, which reduces the fever and relieves the feeling of distress and discomfort; an expectorant, which loosens the phlegm, relieves congestion and stops the cough; a laxative which opens the bowels and an antiseptic, which retards germ growth and checks the spread of the infection. Those who have taken Asprolax find it difficult to describe the wonderful feeling of relief and exhilaration they experience. The volatile parts of the solution penetrate deep down into the air passages, sniffing and coughing usually cease at once, and headache and other distressing symptoms almost invariably disappear with the first few doses. Only one bottle is usually sufficient to break up the most obstinate cold."

This new scientific discovery is rapidly becoming the sensation of the drug trade throughout Canada, and thousands are now using it with the most astonishing and gratifying results.
