PERCE, the chef-lieu of Gaspé co., Gaspé district No. 2, Que., situated on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 36 miles from Gaspé Basin. It contains 2 churches (Roman Catholic and Episcopal), model and elementary schools, post office with money order and savings bank branches, 6 stores, 2 saw mills, 1 flour mill, 2 lobster canneries, telegraph office, and a court house and jail. Perce is supplied with water by means of an aqueduct. The far-famed Perce Rock with its abundance of seabirds is situated in close proximity to the shore. The scenery from this portion of the coast is highly picturesque and romantic and hardly to be exceeded in grandure. The largest cod fishing industry in Quebec is located here, and several important fishing establishments export to the West Indies, Brazil, the Mediterranean and other foreign ports. The best fishing grounds for salmon, trout, cod, mackerel and other salt and fresh water fish are in this portion of the Gaspé coast. Mount St. Ann, situated in rear of the village, is about 1,400 feet high, and, from its altitude, on a clear day, commands a view towards the Gulf of St. Lawrence of over 50 miles in circuit. On its summit is a shrine to St. Anne. A breakwater has been constructed in the south cove of the village and is of great advantage to the fishermen. Bonaventure Island lies 3 miles south-east from the village. It is a port of entry and warehousing port. A fine wharf 700 feet long has been constructed in the north cove—an extension of 150 feet to said wharf has just been constructed. Perce is a calling place for the SS. Campana, running between Montreal and Pictou, and SS. Lady Eileen, running twice a week both ways between Campbellton and Gaspé. Pop. (including township), about 2,500.

QUEBEC, the "Canadian Gibraltar"

the capital of the Province of Quebec, is commandingly situated on the left bank of the River St. Lawrence, which here receives the St. Charles, 400 miles from the mouth of the St. Lawrence at Point des Monts. It is 180 miles north-east of Montreal, and 328 miles north north-west of Portland, Me. Lat. (of north-east bastion) 46° 49' 6" N. lon. 71° 13' 45" W. Mean temperature in winter 14.6°, in summer 61.6° Fah.

The city has a remarkably picturesque situation between the two rivers at the north-east extremity of a narrow but elevated tableland which, for about eight miles, forms the left bank of the St. Lawrence. Cape Diamond, the extremity of the table-land is 333 feet above the level of the river, to which it presents a nearly precipitous face; the descent to the River St. Charles is more gradual. The distance from one river to the other across the ridge is rather more than a mile. Opposite Cape Diamond the St. Lawrence is contracted to a breadth of only 1,314 yards; but immediately below, at the confluence of the St. Charles, it spreads out into a broad and beautiful basin more than 2,500 yards wide, forming a capacious and excellent harbor. The spring tides rise and fall 18 feet.

Quebec is divided into two parts, called Upper and Lower Towns. The Upper Town occupies the highest part of the promontory; it is surrounded with walls, and otherwise fortified. The ancient citadel, which crowns the summit of Cape Diamond, covers, with its numerous works, an area of 40 acres, and from its position is probably the strongest fortress in America.

The chief ascents to the Upper Town are by a steep and narrow winding street and by a flight of steps.

The Lower Town, which is the seat of commerce, is built around the base of Cape Diamond, where, in many places, the rock has been cut away to make room for the houses. On the side of the St. Charles the water at flood tide formerly washed the very foot of the rock, but from time to time wharf after wharf has been projected towards low water mark, and foundations made sufficiently solid on which to build whole streets, where boats and even vessels of considerable burthen once rode at anchor. The banks of both rivers are now lined with warehouses and wharves, the latter jutting about 200 feet into the stream, and along which the water is of sufficient depth to admit vessels of the largest size. The streets are generally irregular and narrow. The houses are principally of stone and brick, two or three stories high, the older ones with steep and quaint-looking roofs.

"Though time and the elements have wrought their ravages in the Ancien Régime, in which Quebec abounds," observes Mr. Mercer Adam, in "Illustrated Quebec," "not a few of the old landmarks remain which are associated with the adventurous years of the seventeenth century. Those that have passed away have left their romantic history, while the buildings by which they have been replaced speak ever impressively of their early associations. The local antiquary has here a peculiarly rich field for his research. Those at all familiar with the history of the place will turn with special interest to these relics of a by-gone time." No visitor to Quebec will fail to visit the Plains of Abraham or neglect the drive to Montmorency Falls.

The city has several times suffered from disastrous fires, but the result has been the erection of more attractive buildings, and a consequent great improvement in the general appearance of the city.

During the year 1858 a plentiful supply of water was introduced from Lake St. Charles.

In the Upper Town are several squares and public walks commanding views unrivalled for their varied and picturesque beauty. In one stands a substantial monument, erected to the joint memory of Generals Wolfe and Montcalm, the English and French
