CARRANZA WARNS TROOPS NOT TO MOVE SAVE FROM MEXICO ACROSS BORDER

Any Other Movement Will Be Considered Hostile Act and Signal for Mexico to Commence Warfare—American Troops Stand to Arms—Washington Waiting

Special to The Montreal Star by United Press.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—"Mexicans will attack American troops if any more of the latter cross the border or if there is any attempt to move any troops," according to a message Gen. Trevino has telegraphed to Gen. Pershing, Gen. Bell reported to the War Department through Gen. Funston.

Special to The Montreal Star by United Press.

LAREDO, Texas, June 17.—Carranza troops in Nuevo Laredo are reported to have received instructions to resist any attempt by American forces to cross into Mexico regardless of circumstances.

The majority of the bandits who escaped to the Mexican side after the raid on San Ignacio are said to be concentrating near Nuevo Laredo.

Special to The Montreal Star by United Press.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., June 17.—Three Mexicans are reported to have been killed in a clash last night between United States troops and a band of about thirty bandits ten miles from San Benio. There were no American casualties.

Two companies of the Twenty-Sixth Infantry were rushed in automobiles from Harlingen to Olmito, ten miles north of Brownsville, to cut off the retreating bandits, who are reported early today heading for the Rio Grande.

Special to The Montreal Star by United Press.

EL PASO, Tex., June 17.—Gen. Carranza was reported today to have established the present location of the American punitive expedition as a "dead line."

Reports that his commander of the north, Gen. Jacinto Trevino, had informed Gen. Pershing that any advance from the present American lines would constitute an act of war, were not unexpected here.

Authorities point to growing evidences of Gen. Carranza's hostility to the expedition's continued stay on Mexican soil.

DETAILS OF THE ULTIMATUM

By Canadian Press.

NEW YORK, June 17.—An Associated Press despatch from Chihuahua City, Mexico, last night said:

Gen. Jacinto Trevino, commanding the Carranza army of the North, today advised Gen. J. J. Pershing, American expeditionary commander, that any movement of American troops from their present lines to the south, east, or west would be considered a hostile act and a signal to commence warfare. Gen. Trevino acted upon specific instructions from Gen. Carranza.

A despatch from El Paso Texas, to the Tribune says:

News of the Carranzo ultimatum reached El Paso late yesterday afternoon in the form of a telegraph despatch which was permitted to pass uncensored over the Carranza military wires between Chihuahua City and Juarez. With apparent eagerness, Carranza officials in Juarez forwarded the despatch across the river.

Gen. Bell, commanding at Fort Bliss, issued orders at 4 p.m. to the commanders of the various troop detachments which are encamped about the city, instructing them to hold all officers and men in camp in readiness for any development.

WASHINGTON IS DETERMINED

By Canadian Press.

WASHINGTON, June 17. — Although the United States' reply to Gen. Carranza's late note is virtually completed, its despatch is being delayed while Administration officials seek detailed information on the following developments:—

Gen. Carranza's threat, reported from Chihuahua yesterday as having been transmitted to Gen. Pershing through Gen. Trevino, to start active warfare if American troops in Mexico are moved in any direction except northward toward the border; another bandit raid on Texas territory north of Brownsville last night; the attack on American troopers by Mexicans at San Ignacio on Wednesday, and reports of warnings by the Carranza commander opposite San Ignacio that American troops would be attacked if they crossed the Rio Grande, regardless of their purpose.

Additions to the note dealing with some of these late developments may be made, it is said. The Government's present intention is to despatch the reply within a few days.

The Washington Government will re-affirm its purpose not to intervene in Mexican affairs unless forced by continued and aggravated attacks on American territory, it is reported. Sufficient emphasis will be placed on the growing impatience of this Government, however, to make it plain that if warfare finally appears a duty, it will not be shirked.

EL PASO, Texas, June 17.—All male residents of Jaurez have been called to arms, the American troops are under orders in their camps and at Fort Bliss, and the feeling along the border is more tense than it has been for more than a month.

The order for all men in Jaurez to report for military duty was posted in Jaurez yesterday by the military authorities. The notice, which was in Spanish and signed by Jesus Valdez, called upon the citizens, both old and young, to meet in the principal plaza "to prepare for a break with the United States."

GERMANS CAPTURED WHEN CASEMENT WAS LANDED IN IRELAND

By Canadian Press.

DUBLIN, June 17. — The prosecutor in the court-martial trials in Dublin yesterday revealed that three German officers and twenty bluejackets were captured at Cork when they tried to land from a German gun-runner which accompanied the submarine on which Sir Roger Casement came to Ireland. The men, the prosecutor said, had been interned.

A despatch from London on April 26, the day following the capture of Sir Roger Casement, said that twenty-two Germans, picked men from the navy, had been captured in connection with the filibustering expedition to Ireland. The arrest took place at Tralee, which is fifty-nine miles west-northwest of Cork.

GEN. MERCER IS NOW REPORTED AS KILLED IN ACTION

GEN. MERCER

Special to The Montreal Star.

LONDON, Ont., June 17.—The brother of Gen. Mercer, who was reported missing after the battle of Hooge, has received official notification from the military authorities that Gen. Mercer was killed in action during that battle.

SEN. DERBYSHIRE REPORTED SINKING.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 17.—Senator Derbyshire, who has been seriously ill with paralysis, is reported to be sinking rapidly, pneumonia having developed.

RAIN! RAIN! RAIN! WEATHER MAN CAN SEE MORE AHEAD!

There is no end to the rain, apparently. It has been hard at it now for over thirty-six hours, and the man at Toronto who keeps this part of Canada posted on what sort of weather is coming, can see nothing but rain ahead.

How much has fallen in Montreal in the last few days has not been computed by the observatory officials at McGill, but the general public is not in need of figure to realize the downpour has been a record one.

Truck farmers around the city are in despair. Potatoes have been drowned out row after row, and unless there is a let up soon, next winter's prices will put last season's high record in the shade.

Happily the whole of the country is not being inundated as are Quebec and Ontario. The weather man states that the West is having fine weather, and so are the Maritime Provinces.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK.

Special to The Montreal Star.

OTTAWA, June 17.—The continued wet weather has caused some apprehension about the crops in Ontario and Quebec, but the Hon. Martin Burrell thinks there is no reason to worry. In these two provinces, he says, grass is the most valuable crop, grass for pasture and for hay. It is the crop that is mainly responsible for the big daily output and to a considerable extent, for beef. The abnormal rainfall has not affected the growth of grass, which promises to be a record one. With the present high prices for butter, cheese, beef and hay, grass is the controlling factor. In a mixed farming district, Mr. Burrell points out, abundance of rain is preferable to too little.

In the West where wheat is the outstanding crop, departmental officers report good growing conditions, while there are also exceptionally fine prospects in the Maritime Provinces.

Fifty years ago Mrs. Wilson came to Montreal as a bride from the Southern States. Her maiden name was Harriet Estelle Hollister. She was of a literary disposition and a number of her poems have appeared in local and St. Andrew's papers. FRENCH VICTORY IN VOSGES

By Canadian Press.

PARIS, June 17, 12 noon.—In the course of last night German troops attacked the French positions at Avocourt with grenades, says the official statement issued today by the French War Department. In the region of Le Mort Homme there was an intense bombardment.

In the Vosges after a violent bombardment of Hill No. 425, to the east of Thann, French infantry, the statement adds, penetrated the first and second German line and brought back a number of German prisoners.

The text of the French official communication follows:

"In Belgium there was last night a fairly intense artillery duel in the sector of Lombaertzyde.

"On the left bank of the river Meuse German attacks with hand grenades on the redoubt at Avocourt and on our advanced posts to the west of Hill No. 304 were easily repulsed.

"There has been an intense bombardment of our positions at Dead Man's Hill, but without any infantry action.

"On the right bank of the river there has been violent artillery fighting in the sector to the north of Fleury.

GERMANS' LINES PENETRATED

"In the Vosges, following a violent bombardment on the part of our artillery directed against the German works at Hill No. 425, to the east of Thann, a detachment of our infantry penetrated to the first and to the second German lines which were cleaned up.

"The French detachment returned without having suffered losses, and brought with it some prisoners.

GARDENER NOW STATES POISON THROWN AWAY ON MR. ORPET'S ORDER

Sensational Evidence Which State Attorney is Fighting to Get Before Jury—Defence will Ask for Immediate Dismissal of Case—Girls Waiting to Testify

Special to The Mintreal Star by United Press.

COURT ROOM, Waukegan, Ills., June 17.—Declaring that the State has failed in every attempt to connect Will Orpet with the murder of Marian Lambert, counsel for the defence in Orpet's trial today announced they would ask Judge Charles H. Donnelly to take the case from the jury the minute the State has finished its evidence.

James H. Wilkerson, senior counsel for Orpet, made the announcement following an unsuccessful attempt to secure a delay in proceedings of the trial until Monday, in order to prepare briefs and arguments for dismissal.

"I will promise to reduce the length of the trial six days, if the court will adjourn until Monday morning," Wilkerson said. Judge Donnelly refused.

As the court opened today it was reported that Celestia Youker, the girl to whom Orpet was engaged, had changed her mind and was ready to take the stand for the State.

TO SUPPLY PROOF OF MOTIVE.

This decision was reached it was said, when the State Attorney, Mr. Dady, promised her that if she admitted her engagement the love letters she wrote Orpet would not be introduced in evidence. Dady needed her testimony, he said, to establish beyond a doubt what he considered Orpet's motive for desiring to do away with Marian!

Judge Donnelly will rule today on the admissability of evidence by Percy Longland, an assistant to E. O. Orpet, father of the defendant on the Kupkenheimer estate at Lake Forest.

Longland is to be a witness for the defence, but Dady has demanded that he be produced as a State witness to testify regarding a quantity of cyanide of potassium destroyed on the Kuppenheimer estate a few days after Marian's death.

DAMAGING IF CORRECT.

Mr. Dady said that Longland told him that Mr. Orpet had ordered him about Christmas time to throw the poison away as it had deteriorated to such an extent that it was of no value. Longland said he had forgotten to do so, but that a few days after Marion's death Orpet told him to throw the poison in the ash heap and to "forget that you ever saw it." Mr. Dady said this was before it was known that Marion had died of cyanide poisoning.

The State was about through with its "chemistry class" today. All of the expert testimony tending to show that cyanide in a liquid form caused Marian's death has been concluded.

Dady planned to wage his efforts now toward controverting Josephine Davis' testimony that Marian was despondent and threatened to commit suicide.

Marian's mother, who sobbed as she said Marian seemed happy before her death, was Dady's witness late yesterday. School girl friends of Marian were still waiting today to take the stand to tell the same story that Mrs. Lambert did.

By Canadian Press.

LONDON, June 17.—According to the political writers in the London morning papers, the appointment of David Lloyd George, Minister of Munitions, as Secretary of State for War to succeed the late Lord Kitchener, has now been definitely decided upon.

The Morning Post's political correspondent says:

"It has been decided that Mr. Lloyd George is to succeed Earl Kitchener as Secretary of War.

"There remain to be settled the relations of the new minister to the Munitions Department. It is probable that the two offices will not be combined, in which case it will be necessary to appoint another Minister of Munitions."

Allies Continue Blockade of Greece

ATHENS, June 17.—The demands of the Entente Allies nations on Greece, it was learned here today, are being considerably strengthened and extended as a result of the anti-Entente demonstrations which broke out in Athens last Monday.

The demands were ready for presentation to the Greek Government when the disorders occurred, but the note probably will not be delivered until next week. Meanwhile the Entente blockade against Greek ports is continuing in full force.

DUKE BECOMES PATRON OF THE SEAMEN'S FUND

Deputation Waited on Him Yesterday and He Gave His Assent

ANOTHER MEETING TO BE ON MONDAY

Letters Sent Out to Influential Men Across Canada

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General, yesterday afternoon announced that he would become Patron of the Patriotic Fund for Seamen which is to be raised in the Dominion for the purpose of showing the appreciation of the people of Canada of the splendid work being done by the seamen of the British Navy and the men of the Mercantile Marine. This fund was inaugurated on Monday by a representative meeting held at the offices of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal called by W. G. Ross, the chairman of that body, and an influential General Committee has been appointed with a view to opening a campaign to collect subscriptions which will be devoted to assisting the excellent organizations established in Great Britain for looking after wounded and disabled seamen and the dependents of those who have lost their lives in the performance of their duty during the Great War.

Canada has no navy of her own nor organization which cares for the brave lads from the Dominion who have risked their lives on the waters, either in the navy or in the unarmed merchant ships which carry the products of the Dominion across the oceans. But she has many representatives in those vessels, and they will be looked after by the British organizations as well as the others. The heavy losses that have been sustained in human lives during the past eighteen months will mean a heavy drain on the resources of these. The chance is now given to the citizens of the Dominion to show a practical sympathy on their behalf and at the same time give the world evidence that Canadians realise that but for the might of the British Navy the prosperity which has been enjoyed in this country during a time of stress would have been impossible.

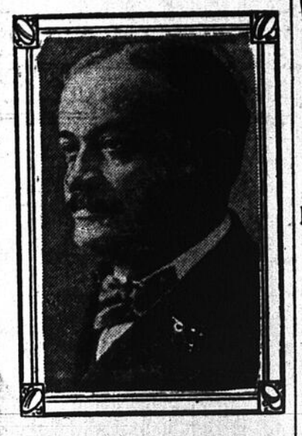
DUKE BECOMES PATRON.

A deputation consisting of W. G. Ross, James Carruthers, Brig.-Gen. A. E. Labelle, and Vice-Admiral Kingsmill visited Ottawa yesterday and waited upon His Royal Highness at Rideau Hall, when they put before him the objects of the Fund. The Duke, with his usual readiness to do anything he can to promote the welfare of others, readily consented to become patron of the Fund, and wished the organizers of it every possible success.

The deputation afterwards waited on the Mayor of Ottawa, Nelson Porter, and a number of other prominent citizens and Government officials at the capital, enlisting their sympathy and hearty co-operation in the project.

The General Committee, which embraces representatives from all the ports of Canada, and the heads of the grain and corn exchanges and Boards of Trade in the important cities, will hold a meeting at the office of the Harbor Commissioners at three o'clock on Monday afternoon, when the organization will be put into shape with a view to a widespread appeal being made for funds. The Committee has power to add to its numbers, and letters have been sent out by M. P. Fennell, the hon. secretary of the Fund asking those who have already expressed their willingness to co-operate to attend the meeting.

CANADIAN PATRIOTIC FUND FOR SEAMEN



The officers of the new fund to aid wounded and disabled seamen and look after the dependents of those who have sacrificed their lives for the Empire, are given above. In the centre is H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, who has become Patron of the fund. On the left are W. G. Ross, president (top), and Major D. Seath, hon. treasurer, while on the right are James Carruthers, vice-president (top), and M. P. Fennell, hon. secretary.

WELFARE OF BABY AIM OF EXHIBIT BY SETTLEMENT

Mothers Will be Taught to Prepare Food Properly

The University Settlement is starting its baby saving campaign this summer, by holding a "Baby Welfare Week," from June 19 to June 25 inclusive.

For the past three years the University Milk Station has saved many little lives, especially in summer time through the distribution of properly prepared milk to the families in the neighborhood. The same work will continue this year on a larger scale, for Miss Carr, the nurse in charge, is to have an assistant, Miss Carter.

Each day the milk station is open from 8.30 to 1 o'clock. On Monday afternoon a baby clinic is held when mothers bring ailing infants to the doctor. For the past year Dr. Fred S. Swaine has looked after this department.

But no hard and fast rules can be made as to hours, for it seems impossible to make such regulations understood by the mothers. The milk serves such a cosmopolitan section of the city that many languages would be needed to interpret the rules to those who attend. There have been Russians, Poles, Norwegians, Swedes, French, English, Greeks, Scottish, etc., who have benefitted through the advice and milk supplied.

TO REACH MOTHERS.

In a number of cases mothers have been taught to prepare the food at home, and their children seem to thrive very well. Now the committee in charge of the milk station, with the advice of Miss Carr, who is chief organizer, decided to try to reach the mothers in a very effective manner, through an exhibition of conditions favorable to baby health and happiness. Everything shown at this Baby Welfare exhibition will be such as any mother can procure without much expense. Among the exhibits will be a home-made refrigerator, which is so simple in construction that a child could make it without any difficulty.

There will be a table with all the articles necessary for preparing the food, and keeping the bottles clean. Special stress will be laid upon the necessity of using a measuring cup. A model cot, model bath, and model set of baby clothes will be on view, all of the simplest. The proper method of putting up mosquito netting will be shown by a practical demonstration on one of the windows. Striking diagrams and posters will illustrate the right and wrong ways of caring for the babies. Someone will be in attendance to explain anything that may not be quite clear. Each afternoon, except Tuesday, a conference will be held for about half an hour. On Tuesday this conference will be in the evening. The conferences are:

LIST OF CONFERENCES.

Monday, June 19, 3 to 3.30.—Lecture: Dr. H. R. Dunstan Grey—"The Milk Station and the Baby."

Tuesday, June 20, 8.15—Announced later.

Wednesday, June 21, 3 to 3.30—Dr. S. Boucher and Dr. Fred Pelletier—"The Department of Health and The Baby."

Thursday, June 22,, 3 to 3.30—Dr. Fred S. Swaine—"The Clinic and The Baby."

Friday, June 23, 2.30 to 3—Robert C. Dexter—"Charity Organization and The Baby."

Saturday, June 24, 3 to 3.30—Miss Carr—"The Care of The Baby."

So far weather conditions have been very favorable to the babies, and no unusual amount of illness has been reported, such as is often caused by the extreme heat. If the mothers take advantage of the exhibition it is felt that they will be better prepared to cope with the trying conditions which are experienced about midsummer.

C. P. R. PREPARES FOR BIGGER TRAFFIC AT WEST ST. JOHN

ST. JOHN, N.B., June 17.—Looking forward to an even greater volume of business at West St. John next winter than in the record season of 1915-16 the C. P. R. is preparing additional facilities to meet the pressure.

Improvements announced include construction of a third line from Bay Shore yards to West St. John, construction of storage siding at West St. John to accommodate 350 additional cars and the replacing of all light steel in tracks and switches with heavier rails to permit use of more powerful locomotives.

A new 20,000-gallon water tank will be erected to furnish a reserve supply for locomotives and for fire fighting.

From St. John to Montreal additional sidings will be laid to lessen the possibility of congestion, and two of the larger bridges will be strengthened for use of heavier rolling stock.

MOTHER, HELPLESS, SEES CHILD KILLED

While his mother stood helpless on the front doorstep little William O'Neil, aged four, of 1285 Berri street, who had run after his ball into the middle of the street, was knocked down by a passing rig, both wheels crushing the boy's ribs. He died a few minutes after being taken to the General Hospital. An inquest will be held today.

METALLURGICAL ASSOCIATION.

The first summer monthly excursion of the Montreal Metallurgical Association was held on Wednesday night. About a dozen members proceeded to the Point St. Charles Plant of the Canadian Steel Foundries, where arrangements for their visit had been made by D. B. Swinton. About thirty more members joined the party at the works, and all were interested in seeing the making of steel ingots for 4.5 in. and 6 in shells, and also the machining of 4.5 in. shells.

Knowles-Kerr.

A quiet wedding took place on Thursday afternoon in St. Mark's Church, Longueuil, when Miss Elizabeth Una Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kerr, of Longueuil, was married to Lt. Percy Morris Knowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Knowles, of Montreal. The bride, who was given away by her brother, wore her travelling costume of midnight blue taffeta with picture hat, trimmed with French feathers and Georgette crepe. She was attended by her sister, Miss Ruby Kerr, wearing a gown of silk crepe de chine and Georgette crepe and carrying American Beauty roses. Mr. Arthur Knowles acted as best man. VETERAN SOLDIER HAD LONG CAREER IN LOCAL CORPS

Late Maj. Kenneth Campbell Saved Royal Scots

When Major Kenneth Campbell died recently, at the age of eighty, Montreal lost one of her most respected citizens and the volunteer Militia of Canada one of its oldest members. He was an enthusiast in military matters from his earliest days and did his best for the service during a period of about eighteen years.

Of old Highland Scottish ancestry, Mr. Campbell was a native born Canadian. He was head of the old established drug firm of Kenneth Campbell and Co., of the Medical Hall, Phillips Square. Montrealers of the older generation will remember him as proprietor of the Medical Hall on St. James street, at the corner of St. Francois Xavier street, where the Dominion Express now stands.

Early in 1862 Mr. Campbell joined the Montreal Light Infantry as a cadet, and soon worked his way up to be lieutenant and then captain. He appeared before a board of examiners of the British regulars in garrison, and was granted a first-class certificate as a field officer. In the autumn of 1866, he became junior major, and raised a new company for the Light Infantry.

SAVED ROYAL SCOTS.

In 1870 he became connected with the 5th Royal Regiment, later the 5th Royal Scots, and now the 5th Royal Highlanders of Canada. When this historic regiment was threatend with disbandment, Major Campbell displayed great determination and activity in saving it from that fate, and it is recorded in Lieut.-Col. E. J. Chambers' history of the regiment that had it not been for the part Major Campbell played in the reorganization of his old corps, the Royal Scots of Canada would not be in existence today." Major Campbell remained with the Royal Scots until February 25th, 1876, when he retired, retaining his rank.

Major Campbell had quite a record for active service. In April 1866 he commanded a service company at Cornwall Ont., in connection with the Fenian Raid. In June, 1866, in the same connection he commanded a servicec ompany at St. John's, Que., doing duty with the regulars. In December, 1866 he had command for two months of a detachment of 130 men at Sweetsburg, Que., during the trial there of Fenian prisoners. In June, 1870, when the second Fenian Raid occurred, he served with the 5th Royals at St. Johns by their special request. In 1878 he went to Quebec in charge of Companies, A, B and C of the Royals to aid in the suppression of riots.

Major Campbell was six times formally tendered the command of the 5th Royal Scots, once by the Government. He had the Fenian Raid medal for active service. In his last days it was gratifying to the veteran to see his old corps recruiting battalion after battalion for overseas service.

FAREWELL SERMON.

The Rev. M. Robertson, B.A., pastor of the Shaw Memorial Church, will preach his farewell sermon in that church tomorrow evening.

THINKS LLOYD GEORGE'S PLAN WILL SUCCEED

T. P. O'Connor Considers, However, That There is Still Room for Doubt — Executions Caused Trouble — Sketches of Irish Leaders

(Copyright, 1916, by Central News.)
Special Star Cable by T. P. O'Connor.

LONDON, June 17.—Ireland pauses before making the most momentous decision of her history. I believe the decision will be ultimately in favor of Mr. Lloyd George's proposals, but there is room for much doubt. The chief difficulty is not the nature of the proposals.

The Ulster Nationalist minority, living under oppressive conditions, are the most vehement, energetic and united Nationalists in all Ireland. They resent bitterly the separation of any portion of their province from the glories and protection of a Home Rule Parliament.

The difficulty comes from the blunders of the military, especially from the number of executions. In my brief visit in Dublin I found this bitterness of feeling more widespread, deeper, and fiercer than we in England could realize; and as a result of a rebellion which nine out of ten Irish Nationalists disapproved even execrated as fatal to Ireland's chance of final liberty, there is now found a great wave of pity for the men executed.

Wholesale arrests of men absolutely loyal to Mr. Redmond and Mr. Redmond's policies created a similar though not as fierce exasperation in other parts of the country.

CALM THOUGHT DIFFICULT.

It is difficult to get calm consideration for any proposition in such an atmosphere.

In addition, all the enemies of Home Rule and the Irish Party are attempting to kill a settlement in order to kill Home Rule and the Irish Party. Their campaigning is ferocious, unscrupulous and mendacious.

But the alternatives are now clearly before the Irish people. They are, first, immediate liberty with a Home Rule Parliament and a Home Rule Ministry for twenty-six out of thirty-six Irish counties, with the certainty that in time the other six will be drawn in by economic causes. The other alternative is the continuation of the military regime, with coercion, bloodshed and anarchy for perhaps another generation. I trust the instinct of my race to make the one wise choice between such alternatives.

The negotiators to whom was entrusted the great attempt to settle the Irish question had as big and as difficulty a job as any body of men that ever had to help in the decision of a long outstanding quarrel. Some words may be welcome with regard to the main figures in this remarkable enterprise.

GREAT IN WAR AND PEACE.

Lloyd George is at once the most energetic and vehement of fighters and the most indefatigable and successful of peace negotiators. His first great success, indeed, in official life was in preventing a disastrous railway strike which would have held up all the trade of the country and perhaps led to bloodshed. He took the bold step of interviewing everybody; he did not attempt to bring the railway directors and the labor leaders into the same room, but he had them in adjoining roofs, and he passed from one room to the other. He was vocal and he was silent just as the exigencies demanded.

Lloyd George has a great advantage in playing his present part by being on equally good terms with all the parties to the transaction. The Nationalists have always regarded him as one of themselves, partly because he is a Celt, partly because he has fought so strongly for the National principle in his own little country.

On the other hand, there is no man who is in more thorough agreement with him on the war than Sir Edward Carson. When Carson left the Cabinet he proclaimed loudly that the one man in the Cabinet was Lloyd George. It was a little unfair to the other members of the Cabinet—Lloyd George himself would say it vehemently—I only give it as showing the terms between the two men.

TRUSTED BY ORANGEMEN.

And in Ulster generally, the undoubted Protestantism of the great Welsh Non-Conformist frees from any suspicion of leanings towards that church which is still so dreaded and hated by the typical Orangeman. Lloyd George has in negotiation one quality for which he does not get credit. An impulsive man with great capacity for defiant temper if he be attacked, he exhibits infinite patience, and if the circumstances are too serious and the emotions too deep for smooth words—he gives a gentle smile. The brilliant eyes become soft and he says just the right soft word to turn away wrath. The only thing he said once in reply to a hot address was, "Now, really, you must give me a chance." It had an instantaneous effect.

Sir Edward Carson is also complex. In exterior and in public there is no grimmer figure in the House of Commons. Tall, rather slight, with a hatchet face, a high forehead, clean-shaven, black in hair, black in expression, he might pass for one of those ruthless squires of the close of the eighteenth century who helped Castlereagh first to put down the rebellion and then to destroy the Parliament.

CARSON CHARMING MAN.

How daring and desperate he can be was proved by his organization of the threatened rebellion in Ulster, when he certainly risked his life and abandoned a great position and a princely income. Yet this dour spirit is in private a charming good-tempered man, with the soft Irish accent of Dublin, and much fonder of friendly than unfriendly words to even a political opponent.

Once he and Mr. Redmond went together to the Speaker's House at Westminster to see if there was a possibility of a deal just after the outbreak of the war. Carson was fierce against any deal—used violent language—even struck the table vehemently before the calm Englishman who presides over the House of Commons with always imperturbable temper. And then it was all over; he went away with Mr. Redmond and spoke to him with almost affectionate terms, and with deep and almost uncontrollable emotion.

Strong in purpose, Carson is and always has been weak in health. He has been cursed all his life by dyspepsia, with the consequent horrors of sleeplessness and profound depression; and often if seen early in the morning looks like a man who is unable to face the work of the day. But when he gets to his work, he forgets his despair and his pain and fights like a tiger for his client, either legal or political.

REDMOND VERY ORDERLY.

Redmond and Dillon are too well known to require elaborate description. The two men are about as opposite in temperament, in physique, and in manner as two strong Irish Nationalists could be. Redmond is a characteristic product of the County of Wexford—a county which for a good while was in possession of the Danes and has a considerable admixture of Norman blood.

The Wexford men are distinguished from the men of other counties by a certain dourness, both of speech and temper. They are slow to be roused, but they are fierce when roused. The strong equiline nose, the prominent eyes, the strong chin, the rather impassive expression, the absence at all times of any expansiveness, make Redmond appear less Irish than any other Irish leader, except Parnell, who I have always thought was more American than either British or Irish.

Redmond has superb self-command He is orderly as a clerk, commits nearly all his speeches to writing, keeps and preserves a memorandum of every important conversation or transaction in which he takes part, and has papers in as orderly arrangement as if he were a statistician.

DILLON LOOKS ITALIAN.

Dillon is from Connaught, the most typically Irish part of Ireland Yet he might well pass for an Italian — especially when he was a young man The raven black hair, now white, the raven black eyes, the long delicate face with a delicate nose and an olive complexion, together with the expression, suggesting melancholly— as a matter of fact he is not in the least melancholly — might make him pass for one of the comrades of Mazzini or one of the other spirits who raised Italy from importance and division to unity and splendor.

He has ordinarily a very calm temper, but no man has such volcanic depths of hatred for oppression, and though he is not an enemy of Englishmen — he has innumerable English friends and admirers — he often gives the suggestion of remembering the wrongs of Ireland as fiercely as the peasant untutored in the frigid spirit of the old politician. No man is more dreaded by the enemies of Ireland, no man is regarded as so extreme as a matter of fact he has a cold, keen political judgment, and insists on his country getting everything she can win in these strange times.

BRITISH FORCES MAKING FURTHER ADVANCE IN AFRICA

Important Military Posts Have Been Captured, is Report

FRENCH RETAIN TRENCH CAPTURED

Fighting in Vardar Section, Balkans, During Past Week

LONDON, June 17.—British forces operating in the eastern part of German East Africa have made further advances, occupying the village of Kilimanjaro and another village nearby. A large German force is confronting the British in this sector.

Further south, near the coast, British have occupied the important post of Korogwe, and to the northwest have seized positions in the Victoria Nyanza sector. These announcements are made in an official statement issued last night as follows:

Kwediswa, six miles north of Handeni, has been occupied; also the village of Kilimanjaro, close of Handeni. A large German force is entrenched near the Handeni water supply.

"The important station of Korogwe and the wagon bridge over the Pangani River, have been secured by the British.

"The Island of Ukerewe, north of the German post of Manusa, on Lake Victoria, has been occupied and two Krupp guns and stores taken."

GERMAN GUNS ACTIVE.

The official statement of the campaign in Belgium and France, issued by the War Office last night, follows:

"Last night we successfully exploded mines in the neighborhood of the Souchez quarries and Cuichy. An enemy mine was exploded near Civenchy, but did no damage.

"To day the hostile artillery was unusually active immediately north of La Bassee Canal and in the Loos salient. Our trenches east of Zillebeke were shelled heavily for a short period this afternoon. The remainder of the front was quiet."

No Hun Attack on Verdun Front

PARIS, June 17.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office last evening:

"On both banks of the Meuse the activity of the artillery was intermittent during the course of the day. There was no infantry action.

"It has been confirmed that the attack we made yesterday on the slope south of Le Mort Homme gave us a portion of enemy trenches on a front of about one kilometer.

"All the attempts made by the enemy to drive us back from there have completely failed. The number of prisoners taken exceeds 200, including six officers.

"There has been no important event on the other parts of the front."

The Belgian communication reads:

"The usual artillery actions have occurred on the Belgian front. The region of Dixmude has been the theatre of a rather violent reciprocal bombardment."

FIGHTING ON THE VARDAR.

An official report on the operations of the army of the Orient from the first to the fifteenth of June reads:

"In the region of the Vardar River and of Lake Doiran both artilleries have been active during the whole fortnight. The bombardment was violent on the fourth, eighth, tenth and fifteenth of June. There has been no infantry action of importance.

"A few patrol encounters have taken place in the mountainous region west of the Vardar. On the Struma the Bulgarians fortified themselves hastily in the region of Fort Rupel, without penetrating any farthery into Greek territory.

DETACHMENT OF IRISH RANGERS LEAVE FOR CAMP

With Irish flags and Irish tunes and streets crowded in spite of a heavy downpour of rain, a detachment of the Irish Canadian Rangers received a rousing send-off last night.

From 6:30 in the evening when relatives and friends were admitted into the barracks on Peel street until 8:30 when the detachment lined up outside between lines of the Irish Rangers it was a continuous leave taking. Outside the Windsor street station with bayonets fixed the roadway was was kept open by the C. O. T. C. under Captain McKergow. The men marched down the platform headed by their band and as the train pulled out they gave the general salute while the band played the Wearing of the Green and the crowd cheered.

At the station were Lord and Lady Shaughnessy and the Hon Miss Marguerite Shaughnessy, Mrs. S. B. White, Judge Greenshields and Mrs. Greenshields, H. J. Kavanagh, K.C., and Mrs. Kavanagh, Mr. and Mrs. McKeon, Col. Fages, Lieut.-Col. Clarence F. Smith, Hon. Col. 55th Irish Rangers, Lieut.-Col. Stewart, A. D. of S. and T., Lieut.-Col. Hill, D. S. INJUNCTION TO BE ARGUED MONDAY NEXT

Mr. Justice Bruneau Gives City Time to Reply to The Star's Petition — Controllers Adverse Express Their Views

On Monday morning the application of The Star for an injunction to restrain the Board of Control from excluding newspaper representatives from its meetings will be argued in the Practice Division of the Superior Court.

The application was presented before Mr. Justice Bruneau in Practice Court yesterday afternoon by Arnold Wainwright, K. C., acting for The Star. The judge said that it would be necessary to give the respondent the City of Montreal and the Board of Control, notice of the matter, and fixed the hearing for Monday.

"CRAZY" SAID THE MAYOR.

Mayor Martin laughed when he heard of The Star's application for an injunction against the Board of Control.

"They must be crazy" was all he said. Then, he repeated: "It's crazy."

"Have you nothing further to say than that?" The Star representative asked.

"That is all I have to say" he replied.

COTE'S VIEW OF IT.

Controller Cote: "If the court says we must sit in public we will abide by that decision. I am not afraid of public meetings and I don't care a fig what the papers print of my remarks or what they leave out, but I repeat that certain discussions that may be and I know are in the interests of certain newspapers, are not in the public interest."

ROSS EXPLAINS STAND.

Controller Ross: "I reiterate my belief that the business of the city can better be carried on by meetings held in private I wonder if anyone really believes that the executives of newspapers should invite their subscribers to attend their meetings whence business matters or general policy were being discussed, or that banks and joint stock companies generally should invite their shareholders to be present at the directors' meetings; or that the general staff deliberations of the army or navy should be thrown open to members of the forces and to the public; or that the tax-payers of the Dominion should be entitled to attendance at the meetings of the Dominion Cabinet

"It surprises me that any one should believe that the Board of Commissioners should carry on its business with best results while the attention of its members is diverted by the constant attendance of the public and representatives of the press

"Human nature is human nature, and any man deceives himself when he states that he concentrates his best attention and ability on business in hand when under inspection of an audience, critical or otherwise

"Recent experience has shown me that when the rule excluding the press and public was relaxed, immediately the business of the board, which had theretofore been conducted in harmony, was disturbed by a certain amount of friction and controversy, which was unduly exaggerated in the press, while the amount of work accomplished was notably reduced.

"The plea that the press desired to attend meetings for the purpose of securing important information to give to the public is not well founded, because the representatives have access to the minutes of the meetings, and these minutes, or first draft thereof, are promptly prepared and available.

"I now repeat my challenge, that leading newspaper proprietors and chief editors will not, over their signatures, condemn the decision of the board in this matter and commit themselves to the statement that the transaction of business by the Board of Commissioners is not adversely affected by the presence of the public and press at its meetings.

"I know we have back of us in our decision the whole strength of public opinion as daily and constantly expressed by leading citizens of all classes

"For the newspaper reporters I have sympathy, because our decision deprives them of material for good stories and good copy and incidents which they might present attractively to sensation lovers, but the interests of the City of Montreal should, in the opinion of its tax-payers, be held paramount to the business of newspapers."

As is well known, both Controllers Villeneuve and Ainey favor the open door policy.

EFFORTS TO DRIVE GEN. JOFFRE OUT

Politicians Make Charge He Did Not Heed German Warning

DECLARE DAY SAVED BY GEN. CASTELNAU

Miserable Scheme to Dethrone Great Generalissimo Fails

Special to The Montreal Star by Herbert Corey.

PARIS, June 17.—Gen. Joffre still commands the army in France. De Castelnau remains his chief of staff. Petain still commands at Verdun.

Politicians tried to interfere with the arrangement this week. They failed. Like the King of Spain in Mother Goose's veritable history, they marched up the hill and then marched down again. The affair has succeeded in demonstrating that France means business in this war.

The country is absolutely solid. It is not following the trail left by any political herring. It also shows that the army chiefs stand together. They are not worrying about the politicians. They only desire to win the war.

"They are like the fingers of a clenched hand," said a member of the French Left. "They cannot be separated."

It would be an error to think that any one engaged in this matter acted from any but the highest motives. No one in France desires anything short of a peace that shall be decisive. It is only that France is a republic, and, like other republics, has a full supply of professional politicians. A politician must of necessity work at politics. Otherwise he ceases to be a politician. People forget about him.

FACTION AGAINST JOFFRE.

It is a mere incident in the week's history that the existence of a faction opposed to Joffre was revealed. Every one has known about that faction. Its existence has been as universally recognized as that of solar phenomena. One must not think that its members are selfish in their motives. They merely believe that some one else than Joffre could pierce an earlier peace. Other countries have gone through the same experience in this war—Germany and Great Britain in particular.

The trouble began when a writer signing himself "Un Combatant" wrote an article which appeared in Le Matin. In it, among other things, he declared that confusion reigned in the first days at Verdun and that the high command had at one time issued orders—orders, mind you—that the further bank of the Meuse should be evacuated.

Le Matin got away with it. Le Matin is a very powerful paper, in which powerful people are interested. The Bonnet Rouge is not popular and it represents the extreme wing of the Socialists. Therefore, although Le Matin was not punished, the Bonnet Rouge was suspended for four days for reprinting from Le Matin the offending story. It is interesting to note that the Bonnet Rouge has sued the chief censor for 10,000 francs damages. It holds that flesh was made of Le Matin, but very poor fish of the Bonnet Rouge. That is by the way.

GEN. JOFFRE'S REPLY.

Gen. Joffre objected very strenuously to the charge made by the otherwise anonymous "Combatant" in Le Matin. A counsel of the army was called, in which this charge was refuted by the re-publication of general orders in which it was stated that any general who gave up any part of his position before Verdun would be courtmartialed. All the newspapers were permitted to publish this, and this only. They were not even to explain why they published it. They tried to explain, and blank spaces marked the place where the explanation had been. That, of course, aroused curiosity. It is not often that an official communique appears to have been censored.

At the moment of writing this is all that has happened, although every tongue in Paris is clacking merrily. The gossip has it that the political element which has been opposed to Gen. Joffre seized on the occasion of Verdun to get rid of him. It is not long since he named Gen. Roques as Minister of War—or, at least, if he did not name him no one seems to know who did—and he has had innumerable "run-ins" with the politicians. To be strictly accurate, the politicians have had the "run-ins." Joffre has not been greatly worried by them.

FRENCH MORALE SOUND.

It affords an opportunity to review the situation as it seems to have been at Verdun. It is highly probable that some of the higher officers of the French army favored the evacuation of Verdun months ago. This war has demonstrated, among other things, that a fortress is the weakest spot in an otherwise strong line," as a wit said not long ago. Verdun was the point of a salient thrust into the German front. It could only be held at the price of terrific fighting.

"Verdun must not be abandoned," said the French politicians. "An abandonment would impair the morale of the people."

It may be permitted to doubt this. The French morale, if one may judge by events is sound and staunch. However, the difference of opinion remained. In the Chamber of Deputies it was demanded that a sufficient number of railroads be run to Verdun to make sure of its revictualling if an attack were made. There was one railroad worth counting. Nothing was done, although, according to "Combatant."

"It was known that the Germans were amassing great stores of provisions of all sorts behind Verdun, and that an attack was to be anticipated there."

WHEN THE SHOCK CAME.

It may be assumed that this knowledge was actually possessed by the French. To deny it would be to impugn the French intelligence service, which has been excellent throughout the war. At all events, when the attack in force came the French advanced line was undoubtedly crumpled up seriously. Confusion reigned. Men did not get food or ammunition or orders, in some cases. They held on by main force.

"If the Germans had only known it, the road was clear right into Verdun," one private soldier I know of has stated. "Our regiment lost touch and marched in the only way we thought we could be useful. That was right toward the Germans. We did not know it, but a regiment had preceded us.

"We found what was left of that regiment. It had been literally wiped out. We laid down and dug shelter holes with our intrenching tools, and held on for three days. At the beginning of the three days there was no one behind us. The Germans could have run right over us, if they had known our true strength. As it is, we lost two-thirds of our rifles in the three days."

The responsibility for this confusion will be assessed after the war. It is known that Gen. Herr, who was in command of the entrenched camp of Verdun, was removed by Gen. de Castelnau when he reached Verdun on the morning of February 25. Gen. Petain was put in his place. The story which has gained circulation in Paris is that Gen. de Castelnau was warned from Verdun, and not by Gen Herr, of the serious character of the German attack. He sent word to Gen. Joffre, and then leaped into an army ambulance and drove all night. He reached the scene of battle early in the morning of February 25. It was still gray.

"Recapture the positions we have lost," Castelnau ordered. "Hold on at any price."

LOST POSITIONS REGAINED.

Then, on his own responsibility, he sent for Gen. Petain and the famous Twentieth Corps, which was in camp at Mailly. This "free army" broke camp at 7 o'clock that night and was in fighting line at 10 o'clock the next morning. Petain broke the German rush and regained the lost positions. His battle word:

"They shall not pass. We have them," should go down to history. No soldier is as immediately responsive to personal leadership and an inspiring phrase as the French poilu. Petain's rage as he rushed his men forward and his clarion "Ne passeront pass" tripled the strength of his men.

That day de Castelnau placed Petain in supreme command at Verdun, consulted with him as to his plans, removed General Herr, and then returned to Paris, satisfied with the situation. Most of this seems to have been done in the early morning, before it was possible to communicate with Joffre at general headquarters. The General-in-Chief, however, ratified all of de Castelnau's arrangements when they were made known to him. The story goes that de Castelnau finally got Joffre on the long distance telephone at headquarters. He outlined the situation:

"Therefore," said he "I sustain," was Joffre's reply. "Go back to your work and do what should be done. Tell me afterward."

According to "Combatant," however, there is another side to this. It is apparent that he sought to present General Herr's side of the case, whether with the knowledge of that officer or not cannot, of course, be told. "Combatant" alleged that General Herr had made known to the high command the fact of the German concentration, and had failed to convince of the need of action. When the attack developed, "Combatant" says that General Headquarters issued the order to abandon the further bank of the Meuse, and rectify the line as rapidly as possible.

"These orders had been issued," according to this anonymous writer, "and even when de Castelnau came, and, in his authority as chief of staff, revoked them and directed that the further bank should be held at any cost, not all the organization received the revocation. Some were falling back while others were going ahead to the attack."

ASSUMED CONTRADICTION.

This assumed contradiction of orders can, of course, be definitely proven or disproven when the time comes. For the present the course adopted has been to deny the anonymous charges and then to forbid discussion in the press. It is meanwhile apparent that tremendous confusion reigned at Verdun in the first week. Not only were the plans for battle hastily to be shaped, but the now famous fleet of automobile trucks was mobilized to revictual the fighting men. According to "Combatant," the exact number was 4,700, and they ran full both ways, carrying food and shells in, and civilians, the wounded, and the exhausted troops out.

VERDUN FRENCH VICTORY.

Today Verdun is considered as a victory for the French, although the Germans are still battering at its doors. The winning of the battle is due entirely to the sticking ability of the men Petain inspired with his "ne passeront pas," and to the automobile fleet which supplied them with things needed when it was entirely impossible to make sufficient use of the single railway, which was at all times under the flail of the German guns. It appears that, the victory having been won, certain among French politicians thought it a good plan to renew the attack upon General Joffre which has been sporadically in evidence for some months past.

"We could have forced Joffre out if the members of the Left had joined us," is the statement attributed to a member of the government.

The Left is the extreme Socialistic wing of French politics. But the attempted coalition found that they dared not attempt to replace Joffre by any one except De Castelnau or Petain. The report goes that both men were felt as to their attitude:

"The chiefs of the army are like the fingers of a clenched hand," is the statement attributed to one of the Left. "We could not separate them. So we gave up the attempt."

So far as an outsider can see, the statement of this man of the Left outlines the situation perfectly. The chiefs of the army insist that enough men and munitions be given them when they are wanted. They do not worry about politics and they do not play politics. They are thinking only of the prosecution of the war.

"The supreme commander, the Czar, has received the following telegram from the King of Italy: "'I am in harmony with the whole Italian people in expressing the sentiment of profound admiration for the victorious development of the powerful offensive of Your Majesty's armies, and in sending to you the warmest and most friendly congratulations.' Being convinced that the efforts thus happily commenced will lead to definite success, I pray you to accept the assurance of my unchanging friendship.'

"On the front of the armies south of Polesie, the fighting continues. The enemy has suffered heavy losses in encounters with our troops. The following details of the operations in many sectors have been received:

"In the course of a powerful but fruitless counter-attack by the enemy in the region of Sokul, north of Rojitche, we took as prisoners twenty officers and 1,750 men.

"In the region west and northwest of Lutsk, during the pursuit of the enemy, our cavalry fought several successful actions.

Heroes' Death Undeters Other Young Soldiers

"Northwest of Kremenez our bold soldiers of General Sakharoff's force, after a desperate fight, dislodged the enemy from his fortified positions on the River Pluichevka between Kozin and Tarnovka by a vigorous assault. One of our young regiments, led by Colonel Tatarnoff, after a fierce fight, forded the deep river, which was up to their chins.

"One company was engulfed and died a heroic death, but the valor of their comrades and their officers resulted in the disorderly flight of the enemy. Seventy officers and 5,000 men were taken prisoners, and two guns, a great many machine guns, 1,000 rifles, cartridges and enormous reserves of barbed wire were captured in this action.

"By an equally impetuous coup, our infantry, with powerful support from the artillery, captured Rostock Wood, south of the lower Potchaieff, taking prisoners, machine guns and bomb throwers.

"By an heroic effort, the troops of General Stcherbatchoff's army yesterday overthrew the Austrians in the region of Gouvoronka and Gulliovady, on the west bank of the Stripa.

"Northwest of Buczacz the engagement with the Austrians and the Germans continues unceasingly. So far we have captured 6,000 prisoners, guns and machine guns.

"An enemy aeroplane has dropped bombs on Tarnopol.

COSSACKS DOING GOOD WORK.

"Our brave Don Cossacks have taken prisoner seven officers and 600 men. The approximate total of yesterday's captures is 100 officers, 14,000 men and a quantity of war material.

"On the Dvina front and farther south in the region of Popesie, there has been an exchange of artillery and rifle fire. Our artillery made a violent attack yesterday in the region of Dvinsk. Enemy attempts to take the offensive in many sections were everywhere repulsed by our fire.

"Caucasus front—In the coast region, the Turks made numerous attempts to take the offensive, all of which were repulsed.

"In the direction of Bagdad, on the 14th, the Turks took the offensive and occupied the village of Serpoul. They were afterwards ejected by our troops and thrown back to their original positions."

A semi-official communication, issued here today, says:

"The operations near Beranovichi, to which some persons were inclined to attach importance, were nothing more serious than a reconnaissance in force undertaken to obtain information as to the enemy's strength, which the simpler forms of scouting had failed to reveal. The German attacks in the Narocz and Dvina districts differed in no essentials from the local lunges which the enemy has frequently made on these sectors."

Russians are Now Making Drive at Austrian Centre

LONDON, June 17.—The chief gain of ground announced by the Russians during the past twenty-four hours was on the Austrian centre, which, up to now, had held comparatively firm. The Russians claim to be breaking this resistance. The main contest has been on the front just north of Buczacz, on the Stripa river. Here the Russians are declared to have overthrown the Austrian army and taken 6,000 prisoners.

For the time being the rapid movement on the wings and the cavalry dash in Volhynia toward the Kovel junction seem to have slackened somewhat. The morning newspapers today print only brief specials from Petrograd, and some of these give evidence of considerable delays in telegraphic transmission. A possible explanation of these delays is given in a despatch from the Daily Telegraph's Petrograd correspondent, who says:

"It is likely that the course of events will become a little obscured during the next few days, for much depends on the secrecy of the execution of the manoeuvres, for which the Russians have now got free play."

TO DESTROY ARMIES.

A semi-official commentary published in Petrograd yesterday says:

"The absence from the official communications of the names of places occupied or the directions taken by General Brusiloff's army do not mean any retardation in his advance. On the contrary, his progress continues without intermission.

"The broad corridor formed by our break through in the direction of Lutsk continues to widen and is assuming an enveloping character in relation to the enemy's flank. The advance, however, cannot go on indefinitely at the present speed, for the element of unexpectedness, to which was due much of its early success, cannot be maintained for the period of a fortnight. Stops must be made for removing the wounded and prisoners, for bringing up fresh supplies, and for other work necessary in the freshly elongated lines of communication.

"Moreover, the immediate aim of the Russian aggression is not to recapture certain towns or areas, but has in view the destruction of the vital organs of the enemy's military power, which are his armies."

A FIGHTING SCENE AT VERDUN

A remarkable photograph taken during the battle of Verdun, which has now reached its 112th day of sanguinary fighting. A soldier is seen about to fire an aerial torpedo under the direction of an officer. The smoke from a German shell is still visible in the background and the Germans are less than 200 yards on the other side of the hill crest.

BATTALION STARTS SOCIAL MOVEMENT

The 5th Overseas Pioneer Battalion has inaugurated a "Know Every Man" Movement and in order that every Pioneer may become acquainted with all of his brother Pioneers, has arranged a sernes of impromptu smokers and entertainments to be given from time to time in the old Ogilvy Building. The movement was launched last evening with an especially good entertainment and during the course of the evening a wealth of entertaining talent was uncovered. The program consisted of vocal and instrumental selections, readings by clever elocutionists, and exhibitions of boxing and wrestling.

These entertainments are greatly appreciated by the Pioneers, and especially so by those who have come many miles away from their homes to enlist in this battalion. The building is well adapted for entertainments of this kind, the spacious rooms providing ample capacity for an entire battalion. Exhibits of the various kinds of technical work to be undertaken by the battalion have become permanent fixtures in the building and the men are greatly interested in them. Among these are samples of bridge constructing and of cask-piercing work.

The Lord Kitchener memorial window in the building has been decorated and is attracting much attention. A beautiful new picture of the late Lord Kitchener is on exhibition and the window is decorated with flags, bunting, guns and shells. In the centre is a sign reading as follows: "Avenge Kitchener? Yes. But what are you going to do about it?"

Tomorrow morning the Pioneers will parade from their armory on Wellington street to the Calvary Congregational Church, corner of Green avenue and Dorchester street. Recruiting has been going well during the past week with the result that the battalion is now about 400 strong and makes an imposing appearance on church parade.

SUNDAY EXCURSION DOWN THE RIVER.

The steamer "Three Rivers" will leave Victoria Pier at 2 a.m. Sunday for a trip down the River, stopping at Repentigny, St. Sulpice, Lavaltrie, Lanorie, Sorel and Berthier. Returning, the "Three Rivers" will arrive at Montreal at 8:30 p.m. The fare for this trip is $1. This affords an opportunity for a delightful trip at a moderate cost.

POSITIONS SOUGHT FOR WOUNDED MEN

Two returned soldiers who have been wounded are seeking light employment, and the Military Hospitals Commission, Room 301 Drummond Building, will be glad to hear of any light outdoor work that they could do. The Commission has several regular positions open for returned soldiers, but there is a scarcity of light employment offered.

"Wish this was Government Ration."

SUNNY JIM says: "Once you get a mouthful of these crinkly, crispy, luscious 'Force' flakes, no other cereal ever tastes quite so good. And the taste isn't the best part of it, either, for over here in Hamilton, Ontario, where we make we use only the best Canadian Wheat that money can buy---finest energy-maker in the world, sir! and we cook it so it's ready to eat. During the process we add rich barley malt, to give it a snappy, nutlike taste and also to make it easily digested."

"FORCE"

"Then we roll the cooked and malted wheat into thin flakes, bake and toast them so they're ready to serve and enjoy.

"Step up to a plateful of 'FORCE' at breakfast to-morrow morning. See how you'll like it. Better---see how clear and vigorous your brain will be during the morning's work."

Price 15 cents, and worth it.

Life and Character Reading

JUNE 17

The man of this birthdate, if at all interested in a reform or any religious movement, will be very earnest and sincere and will be able to see but one side of the question.

This tendency is apt to make him narrow-minded and he should guard himself against believing that truth is one-sided.

The governing planet is Mercury. It gives a quick, keen mind, a good knowledge of language and surrounds the person with many magnetic planetary influences.

The governing sign is Gemini, giving a dual nature, which sometimes leads to unreasonable restlessness and indecision.

This person will ask other people's advice and then take exactly the opposite action.

$15,000 to $30,000 a Year In Profits

We are looking for a man qualified to market a big proposition—through the trade—in a big way. Will be given entire control in Canada.

It's a patented specialty—a revolutionary idea. Prices range from $6 to $25. No competition—nothing else like it. Sold through department stores, hardware stores, drug stores and plumbers.

On the market four years in the States, and has been a wonderful success.

Backed by aggressive advertising, including full pages in such publications as the Saturday Evening Post.

Canada is a virgin field, as we have never before been able to manufacture fast enough to keep up with the United States demand.

The right man can easily make around $15,000 in profits the first year in Canada, and within two years should be making at least twice that.

None but a thoroughly, reliable and aggressive man need apply. Must have sufficient capital to carry an ample stock of merchandise and to finance a selling organization.

If you are ready to take hold at once, tell us something about yourself by letter, and give us your telephone number. Our representative—with full power to close the deal—will be in Montreal within a few days and will arrange for interview.

Address: Hugh B. Pitcher, Vice-President, 25 West Broadway, New York.

REGATTA AT POUGHKEEPSIE--SENATORS MEET NATIONALS

OTTAWA HERE FOR REGULAR N.L.U. FIXTURE

Senators Confident That They Will Give a Good Account of Themselves—Have a Strong Line-up for This Afternoon

The Ottawa Lacrosse team in charge of Coach Alf. Smith and accompanied by a number of executive officers of the club reached here at noon today for their N. L. U. engagement with the Nationals on the Maisonneuve grounds. While not expecting to defeat the Frenchmen on the latter's grounds the Senators are at least confident of giving Newsy Lalonde's boys an argument.

With three games under their belt it is figured by the visitors that the Nationals are apt to be rather over confident. The Ottawas will play for a lead in the early stages and believe that if they can do this they will be able to hold off the shifty home of the French Canucks.

Art Harrison and "Buck" Sarazin will look after Lalonde and Pitre but the rest of the Nationals attack will be given attention as well as the Senators do not intend allowing one of the others to win the game single-handed as Ambrose Degray did against Shamrocks here a week ago.

The Nationals will lineup the same as in their match with Shamrocks, Gauthier being off the team, while Brossard will be used as a substitute. The Ottawas will not have Johnny Powers or Bruce Fairbain but will present a strong lineup nevertheless. The probable way the teams will lineup is as follows.

Ottawas		Nationals
Benedict	goal	L'Heureux
Sarazin	point	S. Bellerose
Harrison	cover	C. Degan
Yeatman	Def.	Secours
Shea	Def.	Doutre
Davies	Def.	Hamelin
Dooley	Centre	Degray
Cy Denenny	home	Dandurand
Spring	home	Boullanne
Gorman	Outside	Pitre
Harkness	Inside	Lalonde

Substitutes.

Ottawas — Alfie Smith, Fairbain, Fagan.

Nationals — Paiement, Brossard, Vincent.

Referee — Harry Smith.

Judge of Play — Eddie Robinson.

ATTENDANCE AT MAISONNEUVE OFF BECAUSE OF RAIN

There was a complete upset for the talent at Maisonneuve yesterday, as only the second choices and the outsiders accounted for the money in the six races. This is explained by the condition of the track, which was sloppy.

Owing to the wet track, the fifth race was declared off, and there was a good number of withdrawals in each of the other races.

The weather had a like influence on the attendance, which was considerably reduced, and there were only eight books opened.

Rooney who had the mount on Curious, was set down for three days for breaking up what might have been a good start. Hinphy, the local jockey, scored a victory when he finished in front with Eddie Mott, Civil Lass was the longest priced winner of the afternoon and Parcel Post, which was to be the medium of a coup, failed to get the money, she finishing fourth.

FIRST RACE, purse $300, three-year-olds and up, selling, five furlongs—Jack Stern, 105, Cruise, 4 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, won; Tower, 113, Shilling, 4 to 1, 2 to 1 and even, second. MUD RUNNERS HAD GOOD DAY AT CONNAUGHT

OTTAWA, Ont., June 17. — The mud runners held sway at the Connaught Park Jockey Club track here this afternoon, the course being turned into a regular quagmire, due to the heavy deluge of the past twenty-four hours. As a sequel to the transformation in track condition, many surprises were recorded, and some handsome dividends were paid in the various events.

Euterpe from the stable of the Montreal turfmen, Ed. Hanley, was winner of the sixth number, a selling affair at six furlongs. Costumer was second and the heavily played Dick's Pet, third. J. W. Healey, who has superseded Louis Garth temporarily as trainer of the pretentious public stable saddled two winners during the afternoon in A. D. Parr's Jack Winston, who was winner of the cross country event and Ral Parr's entry Broomsedge, the winner of the fourth number, at one mile and seventy yards.

The latter was one of the longest priced winners of the day, paying $21.90. Guy Bedwell's Pardner, showing a sudden return to his old-time form landed the closing event of the afternoon, paying the remunerative odds of $24.10, from a band of mud larks. Jabot was heavily supported in this event, but ran disappointingly, finishing amongst the also rans.

FIRST RACE—Selling, purse $500 for three-year-olds and up, foaled in the Dominion of Canada, non winners twice in 1916. COL. BARRE'S BULL DOGS PLAY BALL AT AMHERST

AMHERST, N.S., June 17. — The 150th Battalion took a fall out of the Scots on Saturday afternoon, when they administered a 7—5 defeat to the Knoxites. Revenge! Revenge! Revenge! The licking that the St. Stephens slipped across on the soldiers previously has been placed in the discard. The two teams are now on even terms.

Without a doubt it was a great game. One team and then the other would take the lead and hold it for an inning or so. Finally the khaki clads took a spurt and forged into a substantial lead. Hard hitting and sharp fielding were the principal features of the game.

The eighteen men worked hard to swing victory in their respective directions. The P.C.'s evidently pulled the hardest as they landed the bacon.

If possible the third and decisive game of the series will be played before Barre's Bulldogs entrain for Valcartier. It would be possible to arrange a game next Saturday afternoon, as the 150th are not due to leave until Monday.

FRED ANDERSON A GIANT STAR WORKS FOR HEALTH

Fred Anderson, the Giant's star pitcher, is one hurler who may be truthfully said to be pitching for his health. By that it is not meant to convey the impression that Fred works without remuneration from the Giants. Far from it. The story is as follows:

Some years ago Anderson was pitching for the Red Sox. He was studying dentistry as well. Finally, he decided to give up baseball and take up his other profession.

He bought out the practice of an old dentist down in his home town in Georgia. He did very well, too, and had no thought of ever returning to the diamond.

The fact of the matter was, Anderson was doing too well. He had so much business that his health began to break down under the strain. His physician advised him to take a long rest and be out in the open as much as possible.

The Federal League was just starting up. So Fred decided to try his hand at pitching again. He signed with Buffalo.

He soon regained his strength, and did so well in the outlaw league that he decided to remain in the game indefinitely. Last year he was regarded by many as the best pitcher in the Feds.

McGraw heard of his prowess, and when the outlaw smash came purchased him at once. He has proved a good buy, for he is today ranked as the best hurler on McGraw's club.

Anderson's health is fully restored now. Yet in a sense he is still pitching for it. He is pitching now to retain it, not to get it back!

POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA BIG EVENT TODAY

No Western Crew to Mar Eastern Event—Cornell and Syracuse Are the Favorites on Past Performances

Written by the Sport Seer of the United Press for The Montreal Star.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., June 17.—The shadow of no far western shell rests upon the historic Highland course here today as the Penn., Cornell, Syracuse and Columbia eights make ready the battle of oars in the famous Poughkeepsie regatta.

These eastern eights breathe more easily with the knowledge that Leland Stanford, the heoted at and derided, that last year so nearly captured the victory, cannot be here.

They certainly were scared of little L-S, the crew that had to travel miles and miles overland to get to water to train. They laughed at Stanford last year—before the race. They called the crew a bunch of dubs; said they splashed and sozzled pitifully; that they didn't have a chance.

Maybe Stanford did splash and sozzle; perhaps the dub indictment was true, and maybe all the other unkind things the easterners said were so, but lawsymlaws, how that Stanford bunch could PULL!

True, Leland was nosed out at the finish, and the oarsmen had to sell their shell to get back to the Golden West, but just the same, the easterners do not overly regret their absence this year. The Californians lost the race to Cornell by only twenty feet.

The strenuous training of the last two weeks has not resulted in any rash predictions as to the outcome of the 'Varsity four mile race which the great crowd of marine fans here is patiently waiting.

If the favorites are to be picked by their past performances this season it would appear that they are Cornell and Syracuse. Then, too, important changes have been made in both boats, and also those of Columbia and Penn, and must be figured accordingly.

The Syracuse 'Varsity has not been beaten this season. Members of the crew are highly optimistic. Syracuse has not won the intercollegiate title here since 1913, and since 1900 has been victorious only three times while in the same period Cornell carried off the honors eleven times.

Cornell's complicated victory this seasor. does not give the dopesters any iron-clad reason to pick the Ithacans a winner, but shows that they can be expected to stage a spectacular and eventful race.

The Cornell crew threw a jolt into Princeton several weeks ago on Lake Cayuga, when it defeated the Tigers, who earlier in the season won from Harvard. This race, in which Yale rowed, too, upset all the dope by reason of the fact Cornell, before the race with Princeton, was beaten by Harvard.

Columbia is an unknown quantity. Since Princeton defeated the New Yorkers at Philadelphia, Coach Rice has made wholesale changes during the stiff training here. The Penn crew also has been put through the pace. Coach Wright toiled tirelessly to whip the often defeated Quakers into shape to avoid criticism of his methods.

The two-mile races between the four junior 'Varsity and freshman eights is also being awaited. In both events fur is expected to fly with the critics more or less silent as to the results. Last year Cornell won the junior 'Varsity race and Syracuse the freshman.

NEW EXCUSE OFFERED FOR EXEMPTION

Lancaster, the middle-weight jockey has failed to secure exemption in what was accepted as a test case for all jockeys. He is a married man with a family and it was urged that Army service would so increase his weight as to ruin his career in the saddle.

The great majority of flat-race jockeys are too small or too light for military service. Of the eligible minority a number have joined up including Herbert Jones, the King's Jockey. William Griggs was a leading member in the daring motor-car rescue of the survivors of the Tara in Egypt recently.

CRIPPLED RIDER WON.

The winner of the ten miles motorcycle racing championship of New Zealand was Alan Woodman, (Triumph), a onelegged rider who lost his limb in the Isle of Man during practice for the Tourist Trophy race. His time was 10 min 25 3-5 sec

You Be the Judge of Rubber Heels vs. Cat's Paw

The best judge of the merits of Cat's Paw Rubber Heels is the man or woman who has worn other makes of rubber heels.

All rubber heels make walking lighter and easier than leather heels. But Cat's Paw Heels are as far superior to others as the ordinary rubber heel is to leather heels.

As the best rubber heel on the market costs you no more than the ordinary kind, you should insist on getting Cat's Paw, instead of asking merely for "rubber heels." demand CAT'S PAW.

Wear Longer Prevent Slipping

The high quality of the rubber used makes Cat's Paw unusually resilient and long wearing. The Canvas Friction Plug contributes to their long wear.

Also prevents slipping on wet sidewalks, icy surfaces and polished floors. And it gives enough sound to every step to do away with the "stealthy" feeling which usually accompanies the wearing of ordinary rubber heels.

For Men and Women

Cat's Paw Rubber Heels are made in all sizes in both tan and black. First class dealers furnish them attached at 50c per pair. Don't deprive yourself of their benefit even one more day.

FIRST ROUND CITY LEAGUE SCHEDULE ENDS TOMORROW

With the first part of the City Baseball League's triple schedule being completed tomorrow afternoon at Lelorimier Park, with La Casquette playing Stars in the first half, and Nationals and Athletics meeting in the second part of the usual double header, two excellent games are expected. Although the champion Crescents so far have a direct string of victories to their credit, their lead in the league race is not a big one, and everyone of the remaining five clubs have still excellent chances for the high honors.

It will be the first time this season that the teams fighting in tomorrow's double header have met, and with such twirlers as Ralph of La Casquette, Stevenson, Spear and Aucoin of the Stars, "Lefty" Lorrain of Nationals, and "Big Jim" Moffat and Dave Brown of the Athletics, the fans should be treated to some very fine pitching.

The teams and batting orders are as follows:

1:30, La Casquette vs. Stars.

La Casquette: Shean or Samson, 1b; Price, ss; C. Jacobs, lf; Dumhous, c; McIntyre, cf; Flanagan, 3b; Laing, 2b; Pollock, rf; Ralph or N. MMoffat, p.

Stars: Williams, cf; Belac, ss; Cleghorn, lf; Carver, 2b; Morin, 3b; Waddell or Aucoin, rf; Lightford or Major, c; Ashton or Melvin, 2s; Stevenson, Spear or Silverman, p.

3:30, Nationals vs. Athletics.

Many Western Golfers Compete for Banff Trophies

The Banff Golf Club's first annual tournament, open to golfers of the Provinces of Alberta, and British Columbia, has just been played under conditions which brought the playing to such a remarkable degree of excellence that scores which ordinarily would have won a cup went unrewarded.

The silver cup given by the Banff Springs Hotel and the gold medal were won by W. Griffin of Vancouver, with a score of 83 less 14, equalling 69. J. Rudolpg, of Calgary, won the silver medal with a score of 72-86 less 14. The bronze medal was tied by Don Mathieson, of Banff, with a score of 80-92 less 12 and W. Turquind, of Vancouver, whose score was 76-90 less 14. The course was in perfect condition, the day was just cool enough to make playing attractive, and sufficiently cloudy to make and ideal grey golf light. There were 56 entries, most of them from Vancouver, Calgary, and Banff.

In addition to the prize-winning names, there was much fine playing and the unusual playing of the winners demonstrated not only their ability, but the excellence of the Banff Golf Course.

EDDIE WALLACE ARRIVES MONDAY FOR THE BIG MILL

Eddie Wallace will arrive in Montreal early Monday morning accompanied by his manager Charlie Harvey, to finish his training for his meeting with Frankie Fleming of this city at the Gayety Theatre on Wednesday evening.

Wallace is a firm believer in preparedness insofar as that calls for going into the ring in first class condition and he knows that he will have to be at his best to successfully combat the speed and science which the Laprarie boy is so abundantly supplied with. Wallace is coming to Montreal on Monday in order that he may complete his training in the gymnasium of the Canada Athletic Club before the public and show that he is in condition to go the 10 rounds, if the bout lasts that long, at as fast a clip as he did with Kilbane in their meeting here some time ago.

Fleming is training steadily at Laprarie, saying little but working hard and the Canadian champion is keen on going into the ring in condition that will smother Wallace with his speed and demonstrate that he is the champion that Montreal has always claimed he is.

The preliminaries for the big match have not yet been settled but the management announces that they will be worthy of the event.

Canadian Canoe Association Holds Regatta June 29

TORONTO, June 17.—At a meeting of the Western Division of the Canadian Canoe Association at the Toronto Canoe Club last night, it was decided to hold its regatta here on Saturday, July 29. The idea is to encourage the new and younger members of the canoe clubs, as ninety per cent of the older members have enlisted.

Three open races will be put on by each of the local clubs at their regattas.

Local paddlers are getting ready for the American championships, which are to be held on the St. Lawrence River on August 12.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 17.—Rudy (Boer) Unholz, for years one of the best known boxers in the lightweight class, died here last night of tuberculosis. He was 33 years old.

FAMOUS JUMPER "COVERT COAT" BROKE NECK IN LAST RACE.

The famous Irish steeplechaser Covert Coat, owned by Mr. Erle Platt, broke its neck in the race for the Conyngham Cup at Punchestown.

The horse won the Grand National Steeplechase in 1913, and though it won many races in Ireland, and several times over the famous Punchestown Course, it never succeeded in winning the cup. It was a favorite in the race which closed its career.

St. Pierre and St. Henry Meet in Independent League

The two teams to meet one another are St. Pierre Aux Liens and St. Henry. Both these teams are composed of the pick of the National Lacrosse Union, and the public is assured of a great game.

The grounds rank among the best in the city, and the Grand Stand has been covered. Any car going west on Notre Dame or St. James streets reaches the grounds.

BISHOP'S PROUD OF HER SHARE IN WAR FOR FREEDOM

Has Given Large Percentage of Students, is Announced at Convocation

Special to The Montreal Star.

SHERBROOKE, June 17. — Previous to the public convocation at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Dr. Allnatt, Dean of the Divinity Faculty, was the recipient of a gift from his personal friends, being presented with the robes of office of a Doctor of Divinity, by Bishop Williams, to mark his thirty years as an instructor at the college.

Chancellor John Hamilton, of Quebec, presided at the conferring of degrees. He referred to the fact that the attendance had been depleted by so many of the students having joined the colors. National service, he said, was not confined to Government service, but a practical sentiment born of the national love of country which led every man, woman and child to do whatever he could to serve the country's need.

Bishop's College had done its share in sending men to fight for liberty, justice and truth.

Bishop Morrell, of Halifax, N.S., and the Rev. E. C. Paget, Dean of Calgary, also spoke of the great sacrifices that had been made by the universities throughout the Dominion and paid tribute to the men who had gone out from Bishop's.

The Bishop of Quebec and Dr. Abbott Smith, Montreal, also spoke along the same lines.

BISHOP'S DOING HER SHARE.

The Rev. Dr. Parrock, principal, in his annual report referred to the fact that Bishop's, as well as other universities throughout the Empire has done and is doing her share to meet the extraordinary responsibilities imposed by the great war. This year four new students entered the Divinity Faculty and twenty-three entered the Arts Faculty. Twenty-seven of the old students remained on the register, making a total of fifty-four. Of that number eighteen have enlisted during the session, and three have recently left with a view to enlistment.

The number of candidates for Holy Orders in both faculties was thirteen and six of these have enlisted in the field ambulance. Two students would have completed their Divinity course and been ready for ordination, but they are both at the front and it is recommended that they receive their title of L. S. T.

There were six graduates in Arts and of these two have enlisted for active service and have been granted their year over. The "Roll of Honor Service" now includes eighty names and several more have not yet been located. No less than twelve graduates are serving as Chaplains, including the Rev. Canon Scott and the Rev. Canon Almond, who recently re-M. G. from his Majesty the King. M. G. froh his Majesty the King.

TWO GRADUATES HAVE FALLEN

Two graduates have fallen in action, C. A. Pope, B.A., who graduated in 1899, and T. Eustace, B.A., who graduated in 1913. The first was a lieutenant in the Universities Battalion and the latter was lance-corporal in the 5th Mounted Rifles.

Within the last few days has been received the news of the death of Corpl. Lennox Robertson, who was recently awarded the D. C. M.

Notwithstanding the losses stated above, a very serious matter for such a small community, the work of the college and the various college activities are being maintained as strongly as possible by those who remain and the college looks forward to the reconstruction period after the close of the war.

Hand Feeding Baby
Troubles and Failures.

Some of the causes of these can well be pointed out again. Ordinary cows milk is unsatisfactory —it contains too much indigestible curd, too little milk sugar, and is frequently acid. To correct these faults is more than can be undertaken successfully in the home. Remember — "Milk is peculiarly susceptible and liable to contamination not only while in the hands of the producer, but also after it reaches the consumer. Thus as is well known it causes and spreads serious diseases, and has a great influence on infant mortality." (Leading Medical Opinion.) Cows milk varies in quality so that the child seldom receives two feeds alike.

Condensed Milk, as usually given, errs in that it contains too little cream, and has large quantities of preservative sugar added, and as with cows milk the curds are indigestible. Consider these points, and when selecting an alternative to the natural food make sure it closely resembles healthy mother's milk. Physicians agree that "Progressive Dietary" is most valuable.

Simplicity and Success

When baby is very young or delicate he should be given the 'Allenburys' Milk Food No. 1. This food is identical in composition with maternal milk, and can, if necessary, be given alternately, so alike are the natural and the prepared food in this instance. It is pure, completely nourishing and digestible.

After three months the Milk Food No. 2 follows. This food can be adopted at this age if breast feeding has ceased, or in place of other substitutes which it is desired to discontinue. The Food No. 2 contains all the essential additions to form bone, nerve and muscle.

When a farinaceous food can be given the Allenburys' Malted Food No. 3 provides what is necessary in an ideal form.

"THE MILITARY MAP" AND PEACE

THE "military map"—on whose importance Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg is so insistent—has been very gravely changed this year at two points; and in both cases by the Russians and in our favor. They began by changing to in Asiatic Turkey. They captured rzerum and then Trebizond; they swept down o Lake Van; they cleared German disaffection out of Persia; and they sent two armies against the Baghdad route. This was a very serious change in the military map, whatever object one may have thought the Russians to entertain. If they were thinking of extending their Caucasian Provinces down into Armenia and Mesopotamia, they had occupied most of the territory they would naturally desire. If they were seeking something to "trade" in a peace conference for any of their own Provinces held by Germany, they had secured the foreign possession the Germans would most covet. In any case, it was a slashing cut in the military map in favor of the Allies.

Then now the Russians have made another stroke equally slashing, equally in our favor, and equally important both as to military and with a view to possible peace negotiations. They have broken the entire Austrian front. They have re-captured the rest of the fortified triangle of Volhynia. If Bethmann-Hollweg should feel moved now to repeat his boast that the Germans would hold forever the Russian Provinces they had occupied down to the Volhynian swamps," the Russian Generals could reply—"But you no longer occupy them." They are tumbling the Austrians back into Poland and Galicia.

Further, they are clearing them out of their own Province of Bukowina. This section of the campaign seems only to have begun. Bukowina is of vital importance in the political relations of the Near East because it contains a large Roumanian population, and would be a tempting prize for Roumania if Russia desired to offer it as part of the price for intervention. The Russians in Bukowina will make a change in military map, far more likely to affect the flow of forces which will settle the war, than the change the Germans have made in Poland.

The German Chancellor sought to create the impression that the "military map" was a fixture, so far as the German gains were concerned. It was amazing that he should have the effrontery to attempt this while the Russian conquest of Armenia was actually in progress. But he calculated on our hypnotic concentration on the Western front. There are so many of our people who seem to think military operations elsewhere than on this nearest of the fronts to be of negligible importance, that the Germans are able to play dialectic pranks with us of this sort. If they pretend to ignore Allied victories elsewhere, some of our short-sighted fellow subjects will help them carry through this dishonest pretence. But the truth is, that the barometer of neutral opinion has been far more affected throughout the war by operations in the East than by those in the West.

* * * * *

In any case, the Russians have now changed the military map over two large areas. This proves to a demonstration that it is by no means petrified. The Allies can change it. The traditional power of the defensive cannot prevent us. The whole foundation of the Bethmann-Hollweg reasoning goes by the board. His fundamental idea was that the advantage possessed by the nation fighting on the defensive was so great that, when the Austro-German game came to merely hold a line, they became immovable. That is, they could petrify the military map in any form they chose, provided they already held the territory they desired to include within their lines. They might, he argued, improve the military map by driving back the Allies. This they were trying to do at Verdun, in Italy, possibly toward Riga. But it could never become worse—from their point of view.

This boastful theory, the Russians have now blown to pieces with their new guns. They have driven the Austrians back in a fatal fortnight farther than any enemy force has ever travelled within the same time. They were not checked at all by the advertised formidable character of the prepared defensive. They simply swept over intricate trenches, barbed-wire mazes, concealed batteries and all the devilry of the modern defence, like a tidal wave. The tradition that an Austro-German line can hold against any attack, is gone forever; and the truth established that a concerted, co-operating, concentrated Allied attack can crush the Central Empires between the concentric Allied forces as an egg-shell is crushed in a strong hand.

This surely suggests to us that we should accept the Bethmann-Hollweg doctrine and regard the "military map" as the true basis for any peace settlement. But, of course, we must first draw our "military map" to suit our taste before we sit down to debate our peace terms. Nor must we be fooled into accepting any German hint that they might be willing to allow us a discount on the existing "military map" as the price of immediate peace. Once we had consented to an armistice and begun the discussion of peace terms, we would find them very obdurate in demanding that the existing "map" be pretty largely regarded as fixed. And we should have the onus of re-starting the conflagration if we disliked this claim.

Let us re-make the "map" before we try to make peace.

PREVENTING FLAGRANT WASTE

PUBLIC opinion will be with Controllers Ross, Ainey and Villeneuve in the firm stand they took in the Board of Control on the question of cutting down the inflated pay lists, and taking steps so there may be an abatement of the patronage evil. It is not many weeks since that Aldermen themselves publicly declared in the City Council that many of the departments were shamefully congested with unnecessary employes, and that something like three-quarters of a million could be saved if reforms were made. Controller Ross got the proper perspective when he declared "that something is radically wrong with the pay lists is instantly seen when we remember the fact that ten years ago the total income of the city, from all sources, was just about the same as we shall pay out in salaries alone in 1916. It is the solemn duty of the present administration at the City Hall to set things right." From articles which have been appearing in this paper astonishing light has been thrown on the reckless manner departments are congested with foremen, inspectors, clerks and also officials. The declaration has more than once been made by judges on the Bench, when probing into civic scandals, that gross incompetency was shown by men in the city's employ, and that it was a disgrace the way patronage ruled in civic appointments. It is only a few months since that Mayor Martin caused comment from the Bench for his action in reinstating an employe who had twice been dismissed for incompetency. It is to stamp out such an outrageous state of affairs that a thorough probe has been decided upon by a majority of the Board of Control.

It is a peculiar state of affairs when additional taxation is urged, by members of the City Council, in preference to curtailing most unwarranted expenditures. Had it not been for the action of the Legislature, on more than one occasion, the realty tax would have been raised by at least one-quarter of one per cent. In the name of common sense, why should realty always be singled out to bear the penalty of civic maladministration? The assessed valuation of realty has been about doubled in value during the past ten years, yet schemes are constantly being brought forward to mulct it still more heavily. The petty contention is often put forward by Aldermen that the realty tax, one per cent, is not high when a contrast is made with other cities; but the fact is never pointed out that, in addition to the fixed one per cent rate, there is levied on realty one-half per cent for educational purposes. In addition to this, there is no explanation of the part the Board of Assessors have played in boosting "assessed" values, so there is twice as much in "value" to tax today as there was but a few years ago. That these "assessed" values had been levied on wrongful principles is demonstrated by the fact that when the assessors went their rounds, last year, they found realty conditions so burdened with taxation that a gross reduction in values had to be made to the tune of twenty millions. It is said further reductions will also have to be made this year. All of these facts are well known to the three Controllers, who are now manfully endeavoring to put the finances of the city on a sane basis by lopping off abnormal waste in administration charges. The fact is made very clear by the Controllers that they have no intent of dealing harshly with any of the employes, but that they do intend to make reforms which have been demanded for many years past. Had they not decided upon this course they would neither be carrying out their election pledges, nor have the slightest interest in bettering our woeful conditions.

If Controllers object to the publication by the newspapers of undignified remarks during Board meetings, the simplest remedy of all is not to make them.

The Irish Rangers are to be congratulated on being the first local regiment to supply rejected applicants to its ranks with a distinctive badge indicating that the wearer has at least tried to "do his bit." Failing the appearance of a standard badge or button issued by the Government, it is only just that the local regiments in each district should issue them. Men who have offered their services and been rejected through no fault of their own deserve the recognition such badge or button would secure for them.

THE WORLD'S PRESS

Canada Doing Her Share

Springfield Republican:—Canada is bearing its full share of the brunt of the fighting in Europe, and the ties to the British Empire are thereby still further strengthening. The loyalty of the British overseas dominions is one of the great elements of strength of the entente powers, which was long since proved.

"Freedom of the Seas"

London Daily Mail:—Mr. Balfour shows that "the freedom of the seas" is simply a German dodge to cripple the use of all naval power, American as well as British. He shows that it would paralyse the fleets of the world while leaving the armies free to do what they pleased. That is what the Germans desire. That is what we in Great Britain will never permit. That also is what no American who is capable of seeing what lies behind a speciously sentimental phrase would dream of assenting to. So far as Mr. Balfour's explanation helps any American to realize that "the freedom of the seas" is nothing but a German scheme to make international law the handmaid of military despotism, it will be very useful.

American Neutrality

The Living Church:—We continue to hold, as we intimated from the beginning, that it is not the function of the American nation to judge between the belligerents and take sides, even though we deem one party to be right and the other wrong. Probably the great majority of Americans feel toward the war as the Bishop of Pennsylvania expressed it in his convention address: "Political neutrality may be a duty, but mora land spiritual neutrality were for us Americans unworthy and unnatural." Our Government is scrupulously renderin gthe former, which is the only neutrality it is bound to render. The German denial that we have been actually neutral and the German-American allegations to the same effect, are libels that history is bound to disprove, but that we do not need to resent by force of arms.

Lessons from England

Chicago Tribune: — The importance of the lessons of the British situation to the American people cannot be overstated. A more terrible exposure of the traditional American fallacy which Mr. Bryan voiced in his memorable asininity about calling up a million men in arms before sunset can be conceived, because happily for England the unreadiness of her land preparations was counterbalanced by her naval readiness. But the fruits of nearly two years of Lord Kitchener's genius for organization working through the impossible voluntary system, the "springing to arms" system which we babble about, ought to have brought the American people to complete disillusion and the determination to take advantage of England's lesson by adopting a system of real preparedness.

Plenty to Read About

New York Sun:—Amid the excitements of war and political conventions the lesser fates continue their machinations. Wisconsin game wardens decided that a man who jumped on a sturgeon's back in a stream at low water and rode the fish to death had not "caught" his Albany beef and was guiltless against the game law. One woman tried to end her life after being rebuked for scorching a lamb chop, and another tried to die because her nose was too big. Billy Sunday flunked his bout with New York's personal devil; a Missourian, blind in his left eye, opposed rejection of his application for enlistment with the perfectly logical contention that nature or accident had excused him from the bother of having to close it in aiming a gun, and President Hibben of Princeton told 300 graduates that while they as individuals must be "for the nation," the nation, "in a spirit of service," must exist not for itself but "for the world." With those curiosities presented in the news of one day, it is unreasonable to complain that there is nothing but battles to read about.

Natural Allies

The Independent, New York:—John Barleycorn and the Captain of the Men of Death are an extraordinary fit team. French physicians have the saying: Consumption is contracted sur le zinc—that is, across the bar. Also that alcoholism fait le lit, that is, makes the bed, of consumption. The physician Lancereaux computes that more than half the cases of tuberculosis among men have been chronic alcoholics. And any interne working in the male wards of any large charity hospital will express the same half and half proportion. Physicians declare that consumption is more frequent in heavy drinkers than in people of moderate habits in the proportion of three to one. So much for the idea a good many people have that whisky cures or helps in the cure of, consumption. Pulmonary tuberculosis is almost invariably found in persons who have died in the course of chronic alcoholism; abdominal tuberculosis is pretty sure to accompany hobnail liver. Acute "galloping" consumption is all the more "hasty" in alcoholics, who must inevitably succumb.

The British Prime Minister

The Spectator:—The country owes him a great deal for his conduct of affairs, and when all is known, and the full story is told, history will, we believe, not merely acquit him on the charges which have beeen brought against him, but pronounce that he has displayed great qualities — qualities which were necessary to our ultimate success. His plan of campaign was to maintain national unity even at the sacrifice of pace, and even if it involved a certain loss of the nation's energies. At the very beginning of the crisis, he realized that war could not be avoided without loss of honor and loss of good faith, and so without incurring the deadliest of perils. Thereupon he made up his mind to bring not only the majority but the whole of his party into line to secure a united nation. He was determined that the nation should move as a whole and that even if the march were thereby delayed, the advance guard should never run away from the main column. Who can doubt that herein he was wise in principle, even if the halts often tended to exasperate those who do not realise the dangers that come from a disordered advance.

Two Blockade Policies Compared

London Chronicle: — We could not, if we would, have requited submarine murder by submarine murder, because outside the Baltic Germany had no merchantmen at sea. We had to take another way, the way of the Orders in Council; and the difference between that and Germany's submarine policy was that whereas Germany got immediate results, ours were bound to be slow and ultimate. Our blockade could not pinch Germany at once; we knew that it could only do so by long continuance, and the longer it continued, the more it would pinch. On the other hand, Germany could start massacring our merchant sailors and passengers immediately, and she did so. The hideous crimes against the Lusitania, the Falaba, the Arabic, the Persia, the Sussex and the rest of that ghastly list have been committed; the bones of their victims lie in their graves at the bottom of the sea crying out for retribution. Is it seriously to be argued that Germany can perpetrate such an orgy of massacre for fourteen months and then, just when her opponent's hand in the game, the Order-in-Council blockade, is beginning to make itself felt seriously, can turn round at her own pleasure and cry quits?

FROM THE DARK.

Lord of this world since wind and tide
And changing æons came to be,
Waft from the skies the clouds that hide
The stricken earth from Thee!

From where Thou sittest, throned in day,
Beyond these nights of blood and pain,
Thou seest we seek Thy perfect way
And that we seek in vain.

Thou seest the nations bloom, and fall
Before the scythe like Summer grass,
The strength of men made naught, and all
The piteous pageant pass.

Behold, the children of the Sun
Are tempted with ignoble ease,
And those Thou sett'st Thy seal upon
Still ravage earth and seas!

We tread so blindedly the why,
Lord of the reaper and the grain—
Oh, flash through whirling clouds some ray
To make the long road plain!

THE PASSING HOUR

An old colored uncle was found by the preacher prowling in his barnyard late one night.

"Uncle Calhoun," said the preacher stearnly, "it can't be good for your rheumatism to be prowling round here in the rain and cold."

"Doctor's orders, sah," the old man answered.

"Doctor's orders?" said the preacher. "Did he tell you to go prowling round all night?"

"No, sah, not exactly, sah," said Uncle Cal.; "but he done ordered me chicken broth."

"Madam," whined the weary wayfarer, "I am starving. I haven't tasted food in three days." "Poor man!" exclaimed the sympathetic housewife. "Just go out in the woodshed. You'll find it's full of chops."

"The British army has raised its age limit to forty-five years," said H. E. Gresham, the British consul to Cleveland "The age limit originally was thirty-eight.

"The army isn't so exclusive either as to age or as to physique as it was at first.

"A slacker in Manchester tried to get exempted the other day.

"'I've got such poor eyesight,' he said. 'I can't see any distance at all.'

"'Oh, that'll be all right,' said the surgeon. 'You'll have an excellent view. We'll give you a trench in the very front line.'"

"Do you think you could serve a seven-course dinner?"

"Yes, mum," replied the applicant. "Well, where would you start from?"

"I'd start from the kitchen, mum."
—From the Birmingham Age-Herald.

An officer attached to the White House tells a story of a small boy whom President Wilson encountered at Staunton, Va.

The President was speaking to a crowd from the steps of a seminary for girls. The boy pushed and shoved his way through the crowd until he found himself squarely in front of the President, whereupon he shouted excitedly:

"Where is it? Where is it?"

Mr. Wilson stopped his speech and said good naturedly: "Well, my boy, I suppose I am 'it.'"

At this the youngster's face assumed a look of disgust. "Oh," he said, in a lower tone, "I thought it was a dog fight."

FROM THE STAR FILES

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Sir Louis Jette.

At four o'clock yesterday afternoon the professors and students of Laval University met in the above institution to present Hon. Justice Jette with a token of their esteem. The Hon. Justice was handed a purse containing $650 in gold and a list of 350 subscribers to his civil code."—From The Montreal Star, June 17, 1886.

Sir Louis Amable Jette was born at L'Assomption, Que., January 15, 1836. He was called to the Bar in 1857, and began the practice of his profession in Montreal. He was elected to the House of Commons from the East Division of Montreal in 1874; was appointed a Puisne Judge of the Superior Court of the Province of Quebec, 1878, and appointed professor of civil law in Laval University, later becoming Dean of the Faculty of Law in the same institution. In 1898 he became Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, and remained in office until 1908. He was then re-appointed a judge of the Superior Court, and not long after was transferred to the Court of King's Bench, of which he became Chief Justice in succession to the late Sir Henry Taschereau in 1909, holding office until 1911, when he retired, to be succeeded by Sir Horace Archambault.

"Sir George Stephen, Bart., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in answer to the telegram of Mr. Shaughnessy, Assistant General Manager, in reference to the sufferers at Vancouver, has replied ordering that Mr. Abbott, the Western Superintendent, be authorized to disburse $3,000 in assisting those who are in immediate want."—From The Montreal Star, June 17, 1886.

"Negotiations have been entered into for the purchase, for the site of a Protestant asylum, of the Hadley Farm, comprising 110 acres, on the Lower Lachine Road, for $18,000. The Government of the Province have agreed to facilitate, as far as in their power, the transfer of the Protestant patients from Longue Pointe to the proposed hospital."—From The Montreal Star, June 17, 1886.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CANADIAN SOLDIERS IN ENGLAND.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—You published an article in your issue of the 14th inst., supposed to have been written by an officer in training in England, wherein he states that in England wherever a Canadian soldier goes he is "bled from every pore in everyone of our purses."

I am Canadian born, and was never in the Old Country until the First Canadian Contingent arrived there, but have since travelled through the Old Country as a Canadian soldier, and it is unfair to that great and noble country to cast slurs upon it as some of your correspondents have done.

My experience in various towns was that a Canadian soldier is honored to such an extent that if there is a difference in the price he pays for goods, "he gets the short end of it."

In London, Derby, Sheffield, York, Manchester, Bristol, and many smaller places where I have been, a Canadian soldier, if he pays at all, pays the minimum, and is made welcome with a welcome which few of them have known.

Before going to the front and after returning minus a limb, my experience was the same—that a Canadian soldier is honored and treated with profound respect, and the average Canadian who is "bled" looks for it by getting drunk and creating in England a feeling of disgust, and most complaints, however jocular, are lodged by men of that class.

A CANADIAN SOLDIER WHO HAS LOST A LIMB.

AUTOMOBILE SAFETY GUARDS.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—In view of the many accidents to persons being run over by automobiles, I beg to suggest that an efficient safety guard be attached to the front end of each car, and the kind I would propose I shall call an apron guard. This guard should be curled up at the bottom, so as to form a loop sufficiently large to hold a good sized person. The ground work of the guard should be of strong wire netting, with a mesh of at least one inch, and should be painted white.

T. J. W.

A SUGGESTED REMEDY FOR AN EXISTING TROUBLE.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—Have any of your readers ever been on a Notre Dame de Grace or Montreal West westbound car and witnessed the altercations which take place daily between passengers and conductors, caused by the passenger when paying his five cent cash fare neglecting to inform the conductor that he was going to Notre Dame de Grace, or Montreal West, and having his transfer punched accordingly, or, in some cases, where passengers do so inform the conductor and he neglects to punch the transfer, thus subjecting the passenger to paying another cash fare after passing Claremont avenue?

In some cases the victim is a stranger in the city, ignorant of the regulations, but deposits his cash fare and possibly asks for a transfer without qualifying he is going to Notre Dame de Grace, or Montreal West, or possibly does not ask for a transfer at all; the result is, in many cases, a scene between the passenger and conductor after passing Claremont avenue. The conductor, if he carries out instructions, must collect another fare or eject the passenger.

To minimize this trouble, it is suggested for the consideration of the officials of the Tramway Company, a simple remedy, namely, to give instructions to conductors that when a passenger westbound deposits a cash fare and asks for a transfer, whether or not he qualifies in going to Notre Dame de Grace or Montreal West, that the transfer be punched in such a way as would entitle the passenger to travel to these points. This would not subject the Street Railway Company to any loss and would eliminate to a great extent the trouble experienced at present.

Yours truly,
A RESIDENT OF NOTRE DAME DE GRACE.

THE WHITE LIGHTS AND SPORT.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—The following is from the New York Globe of June 15:

"They lose on the home grounds because they were out the night before," said one of the loyal fans. "You know him well for his loyalty, but we promise dnot to use his name because he isn't looking for trouble."

"The temptations of Broadway are not easily oversime by men who have been going to bed every night at ten o'clock on the road. Here the cafes, the theatres, the clubs, the boxing exhibitions, and the gambling keep the men from keeping in training. McGraw can't watch all the men every minute, and men are men."

The remarks apply equally to the teams Montreal and other Canadian cities send down here to play hockey or lacrosse. Under ordinary conditions—or condition rather — the Canadian teams should wallop the life out of our players in either pastime, but one evening, two evenings, or a week, in New York does the trick. Away goes condition, interest, desire or ability to play or win, and the visiting team slinks back home with "its tail between its legs," having been "showed up" on the field by a lot of inferior players. See how the Shamrocks fared at the hands of the Crescent Lacrosse Team down here two weeks ago.

A WOMAN wondered one day what she would have for lunch. On looking through her cook book she found a recipe for serving grated cheese with crackers. She bought a box of McCormick's Jersey Cream Sodas, and the result was even better than she had expected. Enjoy What You Eat

More cases of Indigestion are due to habitual Constipation than to imprudent diet. Unless the bowels and kidneys are regular, there is an excess of poisonous matter which remains in the system and is bound to affect the stomach and interfere with complete digestion.

To correct this tendency to Constipation—to have the bowels move regularly every day—to keep the stomach sweet—and to enjoy what you eat without fear of pains, "heartburn" or heaviness, take a cooling, refreshing, pleasantly invigorating glass of Abbey's Effervescent Salt every morning.

This famous household remedy will put your whole system in its normal, active condition, & "make you forget you have a stomach". Take it in warm water.

NO BEAUTY SAVE THAT OF FORM, A VAUDEVILLE VIEW

Elsie Williams, who plays the young wife in "Who Was to Blame," a comedy playlet with a novel ending, which will be at the Orpheum Theatre next week, has decided ideas on beauty and the like.

"There is no other beauty but that of form," she says. "That is my own idea, and I don't think any girl is pretty, either, who has no suppleness of body to display. The reason why one's figure counts so much is because it is through grace of form that we see beauty in its most bewitching representation — health. A healthy body is the one true possession of a beautiful woman, for any clever woman can be merely pretty.

"Systematic exercise is the best thing invented. If a girl exercises at the same time every day it will benefit her twice as much as if she exercised at odd moments. Through exercise, and exercise alone comes grace of movement.

This beauty tonic is within the reach of all, rich and poor alike, and if the girls of Montreal will take advantage of my idea of exercising to obtain beauty I am sure they will benefit.

"Exercise at stated times throughout the day means health, and health means beauty."

Next Week's Shows

THE PRINCESS

The vaudeville for the Princess Theatre next week, will include eight acts. Each it is claimed, is a high-class production.

The leading features will be Jessie Mae Hall, in a comedy sketch written by herself, entitled "Patsy's Finish," which comes with a good reputation as a laughter-maker.

Dorothy Herman, who as a singer created somewhat of a sensation in New York, will also be featured. Miss Herman relies not only upon a good voice and personal charm, but upon original methods. She makes her first entrance on the stage in a candy box, and there are other novelties attending her act. This will be her first appearance in Canada.

George Bobbe and Eddie Nelson will contribute a talking and singing act. McCormick and Irwing have a small sketch entitled "Between Decks."

Greenlee and Drayton are two colored dancers and singers, and the Xylo Maids, are two experts of the Xylophonists, while the two Kanes do aerial feats. There will be the customery motion pictures and news feature.

Beginning tomorrow and running each Sunday through the Vaudeville season, two concerts will be given at the Princess, including a special musical program by the orchestra. There will be four vaudeville acts and four first-run feature pictures.

THE ORPHEUM

The feature act at the Orpheum next week will be Elsie Williams and her company in a one-act comedy entitled, "Who was to Blame?"

This sketch is based on the theory that some young couples love themselves so very much that they cannot be happy unless they are fighting. It comes to Montreal with a good reputation.

Webb and Burns, the Italian Minstrels, will contribute singing and comedy acts. Clara Howard will appear in new songs. Baraban and Grohs feature society dances and have established for themselves considerable standing in New York vaudeville circles.

Leonardi is a versatile musician who plays upon many instruments and whose performance generally arouses enthusiasm.

Pathe's Gazette and several first-run photo plays will complete the program.

On Sunday three special feature concerts will be given with the Orpheum orchestra in attendance.

THE ST. DENIS

A double feature is promised at the St. Denis Theatre next week, when the Dhavrol Troupe will produce two Grand Guignol successes on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday — "L'Horrible Experience," by de Lorde and Binet, will be played and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday "Le Baiser Dans Le Nuit," which has already drawn crowded audiences to this theatre. All Mr. Dhavrol's players will appear in both productions.

A special attraction will be provided in the person of Miss Ellinor Rae whose skill as a violinist is worldwide.

Payton and Greene will contribute acrobatic performances.

The special photo-plays are "Orphan Joyce," "Otto the Hero" and "Sea Dogs" and the Pathe Gazette will also be shown.

DOUBLE EXPOSURES

Miss Jose Collins has made her debut as a screen artist in "A Woman's Honor," a William Fox production. She portrays an Italian peasant whose betrayal led her into a vendetta.

"Civilization," "Destiny," "Souls," "The Brutess," "Liars" are the names of pictures soon to be seen.

William A. Brady told the Federated Women's Club that they were to blame for the immoral pictures—they should picket theatres and warn other women away.

"The Fall of a Nation," and "The Birth of a Nation" are both playing New York.

Marcus Loew is to open the Knickerbocker Theatre as a picture house. It has been one of New York's most dignified theatres.

One of the outgrowths of the recent meeting of the delegates of the Federated Women's Clubs held in New York city, was the formation of The Photoplay League and the appointing on the advisory committee of such prominent New Yorkers as Cornelius Vanderbilt, Adolph Lewisohn, Isaac N. Soligman, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. James Speyer and others.

"Somewhere in France," one of the last stories from the pen of Richard Harding Davis, soon is to be produced as a motion picture at the Triangle-Ince studio. Miss Louise Glaum probably will appear as the heroine.

Miss Constance Crawley, of the American-Mutual Company, is writing scenarios in addition to her work before the camera. "Fear," her first photo drama, soon is to be released as a two reel feature.

Last week the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Film Company burned a village for their newest picture in which Wallace Reid and Miss Cleo Ridgley play the leading parts. The town was built near the Lasky ranch in Southern California.

Pat Rooney, vaudeville dancer, has arrived in University City, Cal., where he will apear in a series of screen comedies for the Universal Company.

"The editorial blue pencil, execrated by myriads of literary aspirants, is piling up a healthy batting average in the motion picture league," says an exchange. "The tendency to pad that existed to some extent in the early era of picture production has been replaced by an effort to compress scenarios into fast moving screen action. Sometimes, material for a standard multiple reel feature is deliberately condensed into three acts, in order to provide exhibitors with a regulation feature in tabloid form, one that will permit a more varied program arrangement than the feature in five or six acts."

Robert W. Chambers, the man who discovered gold in literature, has entered new fields. In addition to Clara Kimball Young's forthcoming appearance as Valeria in "The Common Law," Vitagraph announces that

COLONIAL ACT AT SOHMER NEXT WEEK

At Sohmer Park the headliner next week will be "In Colonial Days," an elaborate act. The company consists of ten people, five ladies and five gentlemen, clad in the wardrobes of long ago. There are sopranos, tenors and baritones, cornets, violins, cellos, trombones, etc. The setting is a grand old baronial hall, backed by terraces, old gardens and ivy-covered walls.

The Danses de Fantasie, minutes, gavottes, etc., are the acme of graceful dancing.

Heras and Preston are two male comedy acrobats tumblers of unusual skill, direct from the New York Hippodrome. Thomas and Henderson are colored acrobatic dancers, who are rightly described as the "High Steppers" Flyn's dogs give a finished canine performance. Their jumping and dancing are wonderful and they have an arithmetic marvel which is almost human. Cadieux, the French bounding wire emperor," will give his sensational acrobatic act.

The Park Military Band have a pleasing program for the pavilion, besides an excellent one for the promenade concert after the close of each stage performance. Gala nights on Wednesday and Friday are very popular. The time for annual benefits is now coming on. The first of these, that for the Montreal Hebrew Orphans' Home will be held at the Park, Monday and Tuesday, June 26 and 27. A special program will be offered for that week.

VAUDEVILLE NEXT WEEK

A. Belle in "Colonial Days" at Sohmer Park. Elsie Williams, at the Orpheum next week.

Anita Stewart is now at work in another Chambers best seller under the direction of S. Rankin Drew.

Before the year closes film gossip has it that Miss Clark will either be the most Famous Player, or she won't be Famous at all. With Mary Pickford posing under the same roof, there has been no opportunity of featuring Miss Clark in proportion to her merit. Ever so many actor folk whose only claim to fame lies in the fact that they've had a lot of portraits taken for the trade journals get more mention than the petite Marguerite. So if Little Mary remains Famous next year, Miss Clark probably will become Mutual.

Owen Moore has returned to New York from the Pacific Coast, where he has been starring in Triangle productions, and has signed a long-term contract with the Famous Players, thus rejoining Mary Pickford, with whom he formerly appeared for the Famous Players. In his first production under the new arrangement he will co-star with Hazel Dawn in an adaptation of a recent big stage success. Whether or not Mr. and Mrs. Moore (Mary Pickford) will appear opposite each other as they did before has not yet been decided, but it is not at all improbable that they may do so in the future.

A picturization of "Where Love Is," a novel of London studio life by William J. Locke, is being produced at the Thomas A. Edison studios with Ann Murdock, Frohman star, in the leading role. The production will be in five reels, and besides Miss Murdock it will present Henry Stanford, a former Belasco star.

E. H. Sothern began work in the Vitagraph studios the first of the month. His first picture will be a domestic drama by Paul West. The distinguished actor will appear as Blake Waring, whose belief that all is fair in love and business constitutes the basis of the story.

PUPILS TO GIVE PIANO RECITAL

A pianoforte recital by pupils of Septimus Fraser, assisted by Mrs. Harold Mills, soprano, and C. T. Medlar, baritone, will be given in Victoria Hall, Westmount, Tuesday evening, June 20. F. H. Blair and George Brewer will act as accompanists.

The pupils of Mr. Fraser who will take part are: William Donohue, Miss Doris Hamilton, Miss Effie Lewthwaite, Chesterfield Skroder, Oliver Gilpin, Miss Reta Anglin, Miss Ruth Hefflin, Miss Dorothy Hill, Miss Mary Childs, Miss Muriel Harris, Miss Lena Shute, Miss Kathleen Howe, Miss Lavina Nicholl, Miss Queenie Savage, Miss Ruby Rodrigue, Miss M. Harris, Miss Ray Vineberg.

DOMINION.

Robert Warwick in "Fruits Desire" along with the 8th episode of the Strange Case of Mary Page is the offering at the Dominion Theatre. On Monday and Tuesday William Fox presents Frederick Perry in "Her Hidden Past." The story is as follows:

George L'Amie, the son of a poor gate tender, becomes, through a natural aptitude for the medical profession, the foremost physician and surgeon in Paris. Conchita, his wife, dies leaving an infant daughter. L'Amie keeps the room where his wife died unchanged visiting it on every anniversary of her death. Many years later he discovers evidence proving that his wife has been unfaithful. He drives the girl from his home and refuses to go to her even when she is thought to be dying. His best friend almost drags him to her bedside. L'Amie is conquered. Like a fiend he labors to save the girl from death, bringing all his skill and science to bear and in the end he is successful. The fourth chapter of "Peg O' the Ring" will also be presented. For Wednesday and Thursday the bill offers Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in "A Million a Minute," a five-part feature. For Friday and Saturday, World Film Corporation presents, Kitty Gordon in "As in a Looking Glass" and Pearl White in "The Iron Claw" will be shown also.

BALL DEPENDS ON THE WEATHER MAN

It is entirely up to the weather man. If he is good natured, the masquerade ball which was to have been held last week at Dominion Park will be held tonight. Rain cancelled the event last week.

Two more automobiles are to be given away to children, but instead of hiding a five dollar gold piece somewhere in the Park, which the lucky child has to find, the children will draw numbers.

Thursday afternoon will be Hervey Institute day, when the whole Park will be in the hands of the ladies of the Institute's committee. A big day is expected.

BURLESQUE UPON SHAKESPEARE IS PITIFUL BUSINESS

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—Montreal is not so rich in Shakespearean performances that it can afford to shelter in its leading theatre, for a week, a meretricious burlesque on "Hamlet," such as was given at the Princess Theatre this week.

It must be a matter of wonder to the intelligent patrons of the house, why such an attraction was booked here; but it would be folly to blame the capable local manager for the situation, since we are, as Mr. Morgan-Powell has so often pointed out, completely at the mercy of the American producers.

Seldom has such a tawdry, vulgar piece of nonsense been exhibited to adults at charged admissions. Space forbids enumeration of the silly "business" employed; but to a student of our English poet-playwright, the spectacle of this impudent Yankee conglomeration of red-nosed comedians, beer-cans, ragtime and tights, cannot be other than depressing in the extreme.

We should not allow such a performance to be repeated. Montreal did not do its full share in the Tercentenary; but, at least, we should have been spared this.

Only a strenuous objection to advertising the exhibition prevented this letter from being written for publication last Tuesday morning.

Yours truly,
HARCOURT FARMER.

Montreal, June 16, 1916.

KING EDWARD PARK HAS NOW OPENED

King Edward Park, which was opened last Sunday, is now in full swing. Besides its many other attractions, the park has a restaurant this season, and a dancing hall, with a capacity of one hundred dancers. A bathing house, row boats, fishing tackle, etc., are also provided to the amateurs of aquatic sports. The "Board Walk," fifty feet wide, crosses Isle Gros Bois from one end to the other.

Steamers "Imperial" and "White Star" ply every hour between Maisonneuve and the Park.

PRICES FIRM DESPITE DULLNESS---HOLLINGER'S REPORT

Undertone is Strong Although Local Market Indulges in a Pause

The stock market worked along quietly this week without any price changes of great note, and the distinguishing feature of the general situation appeared to be the small supply of stocks for sale.

There is always a little selling and a little buying in a market virtually bereft of speculative dealings, and when the balance swings from one side to the other the market reads in the results certain indications.

At no time have prices shown weakness, but, on the other hand, the development of a little stronger demand than was to be met by the usual supply resulted in an instant tendency to advance prices, showing that buyers had to bid for what they wanted.

The present pause in the market may be due to a variety of causes, and some observers will lay stress on one particular point and some on another, but probably the reason that will appeal to most people as the most logical is the failure of the market to bring forth a fresh supply of buyers with sufficient purchasing capacity to keep the market active.

This in itself is not a disappointing factor, as the whole history of the market is made up of the ebbs and flows of buying, some waves being more powerful and potent than others. Then there are the calm spells, when everything flattens out and the market looks very uninteresting. The question which chiefly agitates the Street is not that the quiet spells should come, but how long they will last, for the market dearly loves activity, and most bulls are not happy unless something is going up.

Fundamental conditions both in Canada and the United States have not undergone any marked change, but the long anticipated bull movement in Wall Street still hangs fire, and now that the Presidential campaign has interested, along with the unsettled situation regarding Mexico and the European war pot boiling fiercely, it is difficult for the Street to arrive at any satisfactory solution of the market's probable attitude during the coming months until the election campaign reaches the stage where an idea may be obtained of the probable outcome.

This may have a tendency to make leadership in the local market a little less easy, but circumstances may arise which will drag the local away from the influence of Wall Street, as has happened two or three times already in the present year.

While it is admitted that some stocks may have risen as high as present circumstances warrant, it is believed there are others which should have some way to go yet. Further favorable developments are expected to take place from time to time which will arouse interest. Certain dividend expectations have yet to be fulfilled, and it is not improbable as time goes on that some extra distributions will help to fatten the general average of good things coming to shareholders.

The Street likes to see financial conditions in such good shape that there is ample capital seeking investment to absorb all the offerings which are being made from time to time in the local market. Canada is still going to New York for its larger loans, but there has been a good demand for municipals and prices have been considerably advanced over previous months, so keen is the demand of distributing houses to secure such issues. This in conjunction with the good domestic demand for the Dominion war loan is indicative of healthy conditions and leads to the hope that it will relieve any anxiety with respect to future financing.

While it is probable that the purposes for which borrowed money is to be used will continue to be carefully scrutinized, one of the great fears which sprang up all over the country when the war broke out, to the effect that Canada would be absolutely tied up for want of funds until after the war, has been dissipated, and this must make for a more cheerful feeling in many directions, and permit of moderate expansion. It is a good thing to see some of the money being made by the people out of the war business contributed for this purpose, and not depending entirely on outside sources.

Press Opinions on N.Y. Situation

Special to The Montreal Star.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Tribune: Toward the close of yesterday's dealings traders decided that the Mexican difficulty was what was overhanging the market, and developments there, being rather unfavorable, sold stocks. For most of the day the business done was without much significance. Even with the last hour's comparative activity, the total turnover was one of the smallest of the year and prices moved little, save toward the close.

American: Announcement that President Wilson is forwarding a sharp note to Mexico interrupted what promised to be a strong market yesterday. The announcement came just at the moment when Mexican Petroleum stock was displaying unusual strength. It yielded at once and carried the entire list with it. The close was weak and active with many net losses.

Sun: Not only was the turnover of stocks in yesterday's market the smallest so far this week, but the market was the most uninteresting that Wall Street had experienced for some time. Trading was limited to little more than 350,000 shares and price changes for the greater part of the session were limited to meaningless fractional changes.

Herald: "Dull, stale, flat and unprofitable," Hamlet's phrase, well describes yesterday's market as viewed by bankers and brokers as well as professional traders. A shrinkage in the volume of dealings in stocks, an even sharper contraction in the bond market and an irregular but decline in prices tell the story of the day. Steel, Reading and Beet Sugar represent more than a fourth of the transactions in stocks and the net decline in these range from ¾ in the first named to 1¾ in the last.

Times: A dull market became duller yesterday. When at the close of the session traders sold stocks a little more actively, many of them attributing their sales to the rumor that the National Guard of this State would be called out for service on the Mexican border, they did what they probably would have done at the close of so perfunctory a day without the aid of any unsettling report.

DETAILS OF FRANCE'S $100,000,000 CREDIT

Special to The Montreal Star.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Negotiations which were started some months ago looking to the flotation of a French loan in this country have been practically completed. Announcement of a public offering is looked for soon after July 1. The French will be provided with $100,000,000. The net cost will be approximately five and a half per cent. All the proceeds will be used in the United States. The lower rate is obtained through the use of collateral and the interposition of a holding company.

The French Government will deposit with a corporation in this country bonds of Argentina, Switzerland, the Scandinavian countries, Spain and Uruguay, with market values sufficiently in excess of $100,000,000 to furnish a safe margin. In return the corporation will at once extend to the French Government a banking credit of $100,000,000 to be used in place of exchange in making payments here. The credit will run for three years. The securities pledged have been borrowed from investors.

Answers to Questions

Inquirer—Your best plan would be to write to the officers of Montreal Abattoirs for information as to when dividends are likely to be resumed and what the company's prospects are. No outsider would be able to give that information. It is understood in the Street that a variety of matters have helped to create the present situation, none of which are incapable of readjustment. There is no general market for the company's shares. Any brokerage house, however, would make an effort to trade for you.

CROWN RESERVE OPTION

TORONTO, June 17. — The Crown Reserve, it is reported, is exercising their option on Cochrane and have decided to sink the present shaft from the 300 to the 600-foot level right away. The Crown Reserve is now only working one shaft a day, with two machines, and the Cochrane is the only chance to keep things going in Cobalt after the end of this year.

CRUCIBLE DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, June 17.—Holders of Crucible Steel preferred stock saw yesterday the first indication of increased income through the payment of dividends in arrears. The directors ordered the usual distribution of 1¾ per cent, and also ¾ of 1 per cent on account of back dividends. The payment will reduce the accumulated dividends from 24¾ to 24¼ per cent.

HOLLINGER TONNAGE CREATED NEW RECORD

The statement of Hollinger Gold Mines for the four weeks ended May 19, shows that the tonnage treated created a new high record. Although the mill's running time was only 90.6 per cent, the total was 46,561 tons, of which 33,558 tons were Holinger ore and 13,003 tons ore from the Acme property. The last record to be made was 43,679 tons, in February.

A new low record was made for the value of the Hollinger ore treated, $8 per ton, as against the previous low of $9.01 in February last. A decrease in working costs as compared with recent months was a feature, however, and at $3.336 a ton neared the lowest figures in the company's history. Gross profit of $4.67 per ton—without allowing for loss in extraction, which is considered a declining factor at present—works out on the basis of combined tonnage milled from both Hollinger and Acme, a gross profit of approximately $217,439, at which rate the gross profit for the year would figure out $2,826,707, or equal to a rate not far from 12 per cent on the new capital, on which 13 per cent will be paid in dividends.

The next Hollinger dividend will be on the $24,000,000 capital of the consolidated company, and the present statement is interesting as showing how the larger payments necessary under the consolidation will be met by the company.

Apart from the foregoing, the May statement is featureless; gross profits of $154,369 compared with $158,446 for the previous period, and provided enough to pay the usual dividend on the old stock, leaving $34,369 for surplus account.

BIG SHIPPING RETURNS

Holland steamship lines are reaping a wonderful harvest during the war. Ten per cent was a low dividend in 1915. The highest dividends paid in 1915 were as follows: Holland-Amerika, 50 per cent; Triton, 40 per cent.; Oostzee, 60 per cent; Van Nievelte, Goudrian and Company, 100 per cent; Zeeland, 50 per cent.; Hilligersberg, 140 per cent.; Holland Steamboat, 27 per cent

Lively Discussion at Pete Lake Meet

TORONTO, June 17.—The annual meeting of Peterson Lake shareholders was well attended yesterday, and at one time promised to be fairly lively. President Pellatt was in the chair, and read quite a lengthy statement of the company's affairs, after which lively criticism was indulged in by Messrs. Horst and Carter, two of the aspirants to the directorate. Col. Hay and others of the directors took a hand in the discussion.

After a couple of hours' discussion, the report was finally adopted, and balloting begun to elect a new board, six scrutineers being appointed, three to represent the retiring directorate and three the Horst ticket. The result will be announced at noon today.

NIPISSING ENTERS PORCUPINE FIELD

Special to The Montreal Star.

TORONTO, June 17.—The demand for Plenaurum shares, which carried them up from around 50 to 90, seems to be explained by the news that the property has been sold to the Nipissing Mines Company, of Cobalt, who will develop it. The terms are not announced, but it is supposed that it presages the speedy opening and development of this Gowganda property.

Nipissing has long had an indirect interest in the property, President Earle and Mine Manager R. B. Watson both having a substantial interest in it, and it is presumed the deal has been closed.

The market regards the news as highly interesting for various reasons, one being that while other Cobalt companies have entered Porcupine, this is Nipissing's debut.

Plenaurum is capitalized at $2,500,000, with 500,000 shares at $5 par, of which 400,000 were issued.

COPPER EXPECTATIONS

NEW YORK, June 17.—Persistent rumors continued to be circulated in copper circles, of large pending export orders and there are many interests who believe there is good foundation for the reports. Leading producers, who should know, however, maintain that thus far there has been nothing definite, and that only "nibbling" is being felt on the part of European consumers. It is believed in the trade, however, that the business will be placed sooner than is generally anticipated.

HEAVINESS IN WALL ST. AT OPENING

Special to The Montreal Star.

NEW YORK June 17. — Losses ranging up to a full point were general among leaders at the opening of the Stock Exchange today. Willys Overland was an exception with a gain of 3-4. Crucible was off 5-8, Mexican Petroleum 1, Studebaker 1 and Union Pacific 3-4.

Overnight developments in the Mexican situation imparted some heaviness to early trading, specialties yielding 1 to 2 points.

Declines of a point were registered by Mexican Petroleum, United States Fruit and Studebaker, with 2 points for Airbrake, while other specialties lost material fractions, together with U.S. Steel, Reading and St. Paul. Moderate gains were made by Beet Sugar. Inspiration Copper and Willys-Overland. Heaviness became more general later, Petroleum extending its loss, to almost 3 points.

QUEBEC ISSUE SUCCESS

The new Province of Quebec $4,000,000 bond issue, details of which were reported in yesterday's Star, has been very largely disposed of by the purchasers, the sale price being 100¾. The province received 99.20 for the issue, which runs for ten years at 5 per cent.

Brunini, chief of the G. P. R. Telegraph on 'Change, was the recipient of a purse of gold and the felicitations of the members and of his co-workers.

The presentation was made by A. P. Stuart, of the British Empire Grain Company, on behalf of members of the local Board of Trade and Corn Exchange, who testified to the unerring attention and unfailing courtesy of Mr. Brunini, in business intercourse at all times, and of which they were desirous of expressing their appreciation. In fitting reply, Mr. Brunini thanked them and said he felt grateful for the evidence of good feeling that was manifested toward him.

LIVERPOOL CATTLE MARKET

LIVERPOOL, June 17.—There has been no change in the market at Birkenhead this past week; best quality Irish steers and heifers still selling at 26c per lb., sinking the offal, with other sorts a slow trade. Chilled beef is lower on heavier supplies, and is now selling at 19c per lb. for the sides.

Canadian Northern Railway earnings for the week ending June 14 were $880,000, an increase of $476,900, as compared with the corresponding week of 1915. From July 1 to date earnings total $31,557,900, an increase of $7,970,900.

Demand for Canadian Wheat in U. S. Creates Bearish Situation

By Joseph F. Pritchard, regular correspondent of The Montreal Star on the Chicago Board of Trade.

CHICAGO, June 17.—The fact has been again thoroughly demonstrated during the week that it will be a difficult matter for the bulls in this grain to regain control under present conditions. On one or two days there has been heavy buying by those who believe that prices are too low, and those who made purchases were obliged to dispose of their holdings at losses.

Crop conditions throughout the prairie provinces of Canada, as well as our own northwest, continue to improve, and heavy stocks are held on both sides of the international line, and with the demand almost wholly for the Canadian wheat, the situation favors the bears no little.

There were heavy purchases of Canadian wheat by the various governments this week and this buying was led by Great Britain. There were a few lots of hard winter wheat bought for export by way of Gulf Ports, but hardly enough of this grain was taken to be of any assistance to the general situation in this market.

According to compilations by B. Frank Howard, editor of the Daily Trade Bulletin, the aggregate supply of breadstuffs, with flour included as wheat, in the United States and Canada on June 1, 1916, showed a decrease in May of 19,161,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 30,464,000 bushels during April, and a decrease of 18,059,000 bushels in May last year.

In the aggregate, supplies in the United States were reduced 8,386,000 bushels, and those in Canada were reduced 10,730,000 bushels. The supplies in the aggregate are 97,216,000 bushels more than one year ago—an increase of 174 per cent. The decreases were mainly through the central west, in the south, and in the northwest, and quite general in the Canadian Northwest.

The movement of wheat to the primary markets of the United States from July 1, 1915, to June 1, 1916, was 492,000,000 bushels, compared with 418,000,000 bushels for the corresponding time in 1914-15. The exports of flour and wheat during the same time were about 237,000,000 bushels, compared with 327,000,000 bushels for a like period in 1914-15—a decrease of 90,000,000 bushels, or 38 per cent. The visible supply June 1 was 25,000,000 bushels larger than the year previous. Estimating the wheat crop in the United States at 1,011,000,000 bushels, and allowing 55,000,000 bushels for supplies in all positions, July 1, 1915, the aggregate supply for twelve months would be approximately 1,066,000,000 bushels. Allowing 530,000,000 bushels for consumption, 88,000,000 bushels for seeding during the harvest year, and 237,000,000 bushels exported to date, accounts for 855,000,000 bushels and there would remain for export during the current month and supplies on hand July 1, 1916, about 211,000,000 bushels. The exports for June, 1915, were about 13,000,000 bushels.

Corn and oats have held their own fairly well during the past week, and this was the case especially for corn which was taken more freely by exporters as well as eastern shippers. The weakness in wheat, however, caused some price recession to be established, but the fact that the corn is in strong hands will hold that market steady, and will be of some assistance to the oats.

With a stronger market for hogs during the latter part of the week, and with covering by shorts of lard and ribs, prices have sold to higher levels. Some of the stronger men of the trade have favored the bull side and those who have been associated with the bears for some time are slow in making new committments on that side of the market. The exports business in meat and lard was small this week, as foreigners are now getting product bought some time since.

LA BANQUE NATIONALE

FIFTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT, 1916

The fifty-sixth annual general meeting of the shareholders of this institution was held at the office of the Bank on Wednesday, the 14th of June, 1916, at three o'clock p.m. The president read the following report of the affairs of the Bank:

Gentlemen Shareholders:

We have the honor to submit the result of the operations of the bank during the year expired the 29th April, 1916, as contained in the following statement of Profits and Loss account:

The balance at the credit of Profit and Loss, on 30th April 1915		$ 48,006.47
The profits of the year, after deduction for accrued interest on deposits and for bad and doubtful debts are		341,003.45
Forming the sum of		$389,009.92
To Trimestrial Dividends, at the rate of 8% per annum (i.e. 2% payable 1st of August, 2nd November, 1st February and 1st May)	$160,000.00
To Reserve Fund	100,000.00
To Depreciation on securities and for contingencies	50,000.00
To Pension Fund	10,000.00
To War Tax on Circulation	6,666.67
To Patriotic Fund	7,500.00
		334,166.67
Leaving to the credit of Profits and Loss a balance of		$ 54,843.25

It is a great satisfaction for us to submit so good a result. If you compare this statement, you will find that last year, we had an amount of $20,000.00 as War Tax on our circulation. In doing this, we had provided for what we had to pay up to the end of December, that is eight months in advance. This year, we have, to be in accord with what has been done by other banks, charged only what has been paid to date. Next year, this item will be $20,000—and will remain so each year, as long as the law is not changed. Then, if you deduct from the $341,003.45 of profits this difference of $13,333.33 taken from last year, you have $327,670.12, i.e. 16 2-5% on the capital or 8 3-5% on the capital and reserve together; or, to be more correct, if you deduct the amounts appropriated, which are neither dividends, nor reserve, you will have to deduct from those $327,670.12 $74,166.67, leaving a balance of $253,503.45, i.e. 12.68% on the capital or 6.67% on both capital and reserve.

The different items of our statement, which will be read to you in a moment, show a normal and satisfactory progression. It is a proof of confidence from the public towards our French-Canadian institution, which honours us, but, at the same time, obliges us to administrate not only in the interest of our shareholders but for the welfare of this public gives us encouragement and trust, and we are doing this to be the extent of our ability. By our branches and sub-agencies, which are more numerous than ever, we are inviting deposits, but, at the same time, we are distributing them by our loans to commerce and industry and specially to agriculture which we reach by those numerous country branches and agencies. Our branches, to the number of seventy-seven, are an increase of seven on last year. We have one hundred and thirty seven sub-agencies, forty-one more than last year. We have from them encouraging results. We closed four, during the year.

It is not our intention to analyze the items of the statement. In examining it and making the comparison with last year, you will see the progress made. We must explain that in the increase of $2,776,806.06 in our deposits, there is a little over of $900,000,—which is not regular increase, but which comes from deposits left with us from proceeds of the debentures which we bought and which are left but temporarily in our hands. Our Paris branch, in this increase, counts for $285,853.76. The diminution suffered by this branch in August and September 1914 was nearly $500,000; this has been recovered and more, and the amount of $1,150,636.47, appearing in our statement of 1914, has been exceeded; we had, this last 29th April, $1,211,347.58. We entertain great hopes of the future of this branch and soon, as it is our conviction, this war will end gloriously for the armies of France and the Allies. The war had not much influence on our business; our country villages have remained prosperous, not only by plentiful crops, but by the remunerative prices that our farmers obtained and are obtaining for their products. In our cities, commerce is more active and our laborers have work. War munitions of all kinds have helped in a large proportion to this general prosperity. The bank, by helping its customers, has taken with profit part in the manufacturing of shells, clothing, etc.

We have paid another $7,500, into the Canadian Patriotic Fund, and made other subscriptions for less amounts to deserving patriotic and necessary donations, which the war imposes to institutions as well as to citizens.

Our advantageous financial position enabled us to subscribe to sundry loans, as follows:

$ 300,000—to the Canadian Loan.
1,000,000—to the Imperial Loan for munitions of war to be manufactured in Canada.
200,000—to the French Loan, also for munitions to be made in Canada.

All these debentures were bought on advantageous conditions.

By our subscriptions to the French Loan, we have also proved to our French depositors and shareholders how great is the affection that binds us to France, and the satisfaction and the pride which the admirable behavior of her valiant soldiers inspires us with, as has also the patriotism, the courage and abnegation of all the nation. We are proud to be able to claim ourselves as being offspring of this brave and strong race, whose language we have kept with love.

We told you, last year, that it was our intention to rebuild our building in Quebec, but we decided to adjourn this project to the end of the war, when normal conditions have taken their regular course. We have built in Chicoutimi a bank building in proportion to the importance of our business in this region. We have also, but in less proportion, bought, built or repaired for our use, properties at Belvedere, Bienville.

If, as we hope, the fiscal year now in course, gives us the result we expect, we will have, next year, a reserve equal to our capital. This end, once attained, you may expect an increase of dividend.

We have, during this year, made a great loss by the death of our Vice-President, the Honorable Judge Chauveau. During twenty-one years, he gave to the bank the benefit of his intelligence, his judgment and work, and this, nearly to the exclusion of his other affairs, making the bank his principal business. Our Paris branch was the object of his special care. You must remember with what warmth and what conviction he used to speak of it, at each annual meeting. The bank has lose a wise counsellor, and we, a friend. We renew to the family the expression of our sympathy and the deep regrets which are caused by his disparition. He was replaced, as Vice-President, by Mr. J. B. Laliberte, and as director, by our general manager, Mr. Nap. Lavoie.

Our head-office, our branches and all our agencies have been inspected with care, and thanks are due to our staff for the zeal and intelligence which they have given to the bank in fulfilling their respective duties.

OTTAWA, June 17.—Moving pictures as a means of advertising Canada, promoting immigration and interesting capital are to be utilized by the Dominion Government. Francis Halley, director of the Bureau of Commercial Economics at Washington, who is in Ottawa, has interested the Canadian Government in the proposition, and photographs are now being taken of the country's scenic beauties, its grain fields and industrial systems.

Through the medium of the Economic Bureau, the views will be exhibited free to the millions of movie patrons in the United States.

They are expected to be of exceptional educative and advertising value and to conduce to that national expansion which is certain to follow in the wake of the war.

The immediate object of the visit is to study the financial and economic conditions of war time. On returning it is likely that the party will take in Mongolia and Manchuria.

Books Worth Reading

This American is a Great Admirer of Thomas Atkins

KITCHENER'S MOB, by James Norman Hall (Toronto: Thomas Allen).

Lest we should be betrayed into any misunderstanding of the character of his book by the use of the unusual word in its like, the author explains at the outset that "mob" is not used in any derogatory sense at all. "Kitchener's Mob," the great volunteer army raised and organized by the late Secretary for War, so christened itself, and the name, like so many others, "stuck."

Mr. Hall is an American who happened to be in England when war broke out. How he joined the British army—and in doing so had, mildly, to perjure himself over his nationality—he is still somewhat at a loss to account for. He rather played with the idea for a few days, joining a waiting line of recruits, and then falling out before the critical moment arrived. Then one day a sergeant said to him: "Now then, you! Step along!"—and it was done.

He takes us with him through the preliminary training—and they were a fine collection of Cockney "rookies" if we are to take his word for it—into the trenches and, like the "Bruce and Wallace Highlanders," of Ian Hay's book, into the thick of the bloody doings around Loos.

"Kitchener's Mob," although vivid enough to be dreadful does not actually visualize trench warfare as does Boyd Cables' masterly "Between the Lines." It is lacking, also, in the subtler touches and delicious humor of "The First Hundred Thousand." Where it excels, though, is in its able and highly sympathetic appreciation of the character of one Thomas Atkins, Esquire. As has been said, the author is an American and, as such more sensitive to the striking characteristics of the men with whom he shared weal and woe, so intimately and for so long. He is quick to note the unquestioning acceptance by the privates of a caste distinction between themselves and their officers. When he, with American belief in the social equality of all, expresses a desire to meet and joke with majors and colonels as one of themselves, he is solemnly ordered, "Don't be a bloomin' ijut. They could jolly well 'ang you fer that." He finds a queer streak of sentiment in Tommy, although no trace of sentimentality. Never a hint of the reality of home ties, never a mention of mother or wife or child, yet the most exquisite delicacy and understanding when it is his grim duty to chronicle to one of these the death of some pal killed at his side. He will bury that pal without a hint of sorrow, even joke or argue about the flight of a shell as he lays him into his shallow grave—then fight like all the fiends of the Pit to avenge him without ever admitting that a thought of regret for the dead finds a place in his mind. He does not call on God as an ally nor chalk up religious mottos on his dug-out, but neither does he file a saw-tooth edge upon his bayonet. "In England before I knew him for the man he is, I said: 'How am I to endure living with him?' And now I am thinking how am I to endure living without him; without the inspiration of his splendid courage; without the visible example of his splendid devotion to his fellows?" writes Mr. Hall.

"Kitchener's Mob," according to booksellers' reports is having a remarkably big sale. On the whole this is not remarkable. It is a good book.

London's Latest Hero is a Genuine Superman Type

THE LITTLE LADY OF THE BIG HOUSE, by Jack London (Toronto: The MacMillan Company of Canada, $1.50).

This time Mr. London has created for us a superman to marvel at. Dick Forrest has been left a matter of twenty millions or so by his father and promptly runs away from home, aetat thirteen, to acquire a practical education. He gets it as broncho-buster, cowpuncher, hobo, fighter, sailor before the mast. Then grown mellow and very learned in men and books he buys a quarter of a million acres of land and proceeds to establish the most wonderful farm community on earth. The cream of all the blooded stock in North America is his. To assist him he hires the greatest experts money can buy—and knowing of course more than they do, fires them with great joy every time he finds them tripping. He keeps a score of dictaphones buzzing, and has perspiring secretaries, a score pant at his heels, his "great house" is a palace of delights for luxury and a Grand Central station for size.

Paula, his wife, is a fit mate—when you think of London, you must always say "mate" instead of "wife"—for him. There is nothing she cannot do. She sings like the leader of a seraph choir, dances like the premiere of a Russian ballet, swims better than Annette Kellermann, talks like a combination of de Stael and Socrates and, although in the thirties has the figure of eighteen withal.

All this sounds like a good enough combination but when Graham, an old friend of Forrest's comes, trouble comes with him. From this time on it is a "triangle" tale. Here is London's opportunity and here, to put it crudely is where London "falls down." Superior masculine excellence in his view seems to consist in the ability to hit harder, kick higher or bite deeper than one's competitor. Consequently it is upon the primitiveness of Forrest that Mr. London lays stress. When he would show him to us at his best he depicts him prancing about his great house, giving an imitation of a stallion and chanting "Hear me! I am Eros. I stamp upon the hills. I fill the wide valleys. The mares hear me and startle in quiet valleys for they know me," etc., etc.

One could imagine that Paula would grow a little weary of all these prancings and brayings—and that Graham, if he represented a different type might appeal to her. But for the purposes of the inevitable tragedy, Graham too must be a very superior male and a London hero is thereby equally compelled to prance primitively. The only difference is that Forrest having got into the book first and being the more super of the super men prances more prancefully than Graham. Paula thereupon takes the only way that she conceives to present itself out of the impasse. Between two such glorious he things what can a poor girl do?

London writes ably, colorfully, at times with genius. But why, oh why, must London's characters have their brains in their biceps? Or, as in the case of Paula, when put to the test, lack them altogether?

The Tale of Cortez' Great Adventure in Ancient Mexico

THE MASTERING OF MEXICO, by Kate Stephens (Toronto: The MacMillan Co., $1.50).

This book is a re-telling in English of the stirring tale of Bernal Diaz del Castello, who was what we would now call the "official eye witness" of Cortez' extraordinary expedition to and conquest of Mexico in the year 1519.

The story is not as familiar, to English readers at least, as one would expect, probably because the Spanish narratives have received so little attention at the hands of translators. Yet, as the author remarks in her preface there is a similarity between the amazing exploits of the Conquestadores and the immortal Greek Ten Thousand. The conquest subjugation of a great and enormously rich and thoroughly organized city by four hundred ill-equipped adventurers, the seizure of the ruling monarch and the establishment of the authority of a power three thousand miles away is an exploit to be ranked with any of the world's great achievements. That it was accomplished at the cost of a slaughter grim and great, followed by a flood of bloodshed and the complete extermination, in process of time, of the Aztecs may account for the comparative oblivion into which the tale has sunk. The splendor of the earlier adventure was forever dimmed by bloodshed and readers turn away from it sickened.

However, the subsequent atrocities of the Spanish conquerors are not to be found in this book. It is a record of the earlier expeditions from Cuba, the wars against various tribes, the formation of peace and finally the advance on Mexico and the city's fall. It is as fascinating as Froissart and on a larger scale. The author has stuck closely to Diaz' style. The descriptions of the Aztec city of Mexico is most interesting, the pictures drawn of the interior of the great temples particularly so.

New Lights on the History of Papacy

CRISES IN THE HISTORY of the Papacy, by Joseph McCabe (New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons, $2.50).

Mr. McCabe's scholarly volume is by no means an attempt to re-write a connected story of that wonderful thing the Papacy. He has sought rather to view some of the "high lights" of its immemorial history from somewhat new angles.

That he should find so few "crises" worthy of commenting on betweeen the bloody and bestial days of Calixtus and those of Leo XIII speaks well for his restraint although it depends of course upon one's understanding of what constitutes a crisis. This same excellent quality of restraint is also to be found in Mr. McCabe's writing. Obviously a sincere admirer of the great accomplishments of the Papacy as an institution he has yet kept his mental eyes undazzled and his mind free to approach the innumerable perplexities of his task with genuine impartiality. He has at once the optimism to search for the grains of truth in the bushels of chaff that constitute much of Papal history written in the middle ages and, having found them the courage to throw all the rest overboard. He is never an iconoclast just for the fun of listening to breaking glass, and yet does not preserve anything only because it happens to be three or four centuries old.

Mr. McCabe's book is one which can be read with both pleasure and profit, although it is quite probable it may make him some bad friends.

How a Nation Was Wholly Wiped Out

THE BLACKEST PAGE OF HISTORY, by Herbert Adams Gibbons (New York: George P. Putnam's Sons, 75c).

There have been too many black pages added to modern history in the last two years of grace that Doctor Gibbons may be involuntarily exaggerating when he claims for Turkey the infamous honor of having written it in Armenia. However, the book goes a long way toward proving that such is her due. The author insists that he knows by practical experience whereof he speaks, having lived for years in Turkey, in Europe, and Asia Minor and seen the gentle Turk at close range in his relationship to his unfortunate subjects.

That the Turks deliberately set out to exterminate the Armenians and that, up to the time of writing, they had succeeded to the tune of at least one million human beings he insists upon again and again. Once the males of military age had been drafted to fight Turkey's battles and all danger of organized opposition to the butchers was thus avoided, all that remained was to dispose of old men, women and children. There were an embarrassingly large number of these in the larger communities but an expatriation order which started tens of thousands of the poor wretches on journeys across barren deserts, enabling the guards to slaughter them en route helped the Turks to solve the problem. The awful scenes witnessed on these marches are described by Doctor Gibbons in some detail.

The Turk has been praised by our soldiers on Gallipoli as a brave and frequently chivalrous foe. His conduct toward the helpless Armenians shows another side of his character and displays him as a fiend in human form. It is for us to decide which conception of the Turk we choose to accept. Perhaps his chivalry depends on the ability of his opponent to "come back."

The Saviour's View of His Own Mission

WHAT JESUS CHRIST THOUGHT OF HIMSELF, by Anson Phelps Stokes (Toronto: The MacMillan Company of Canada, $1).

The author believes that before trying to answer the question what we think of Christ, it is necessary that we find out what the Saviour thought of Himself.

The book is by the secretary of Yale University, and occupies a pioneer place in its field in so far as it attempts to fathom the consciousness of the Founder of Christianity, to obtain if possible Christ's view of His own person and mission. It is a daring venture, yet one conducted in a reverent and devout spirit. There is nothing of what we have learned to call "higher criticism" in it, but an acceptance of the chief results of modern scholarship as applied to the New Testament.

Blindness of Virtue

BLINDS DOWN, by Horace Annesley Vachell (London and Edinburgh, T. Nelson & Sons, Limited).

A recent addition to the popular Nelson library is "Blinds Down," by H. A. Vachell. The book gets its rather peculiar title from the fact that the Honorable Misses Maulever (Prudence and Jacqueline), a pair of "Dresden-China" spinsters, shut their minds to every sort of evil and keep the blinds down on the back windows of their home, which overlook the slums of Charminster. Mentally and literally, the blinds are down and their small half-sister, Rose, the heroine of the story, is very rebellious of her mental darkness.

Small wonder that when she gets into the world, and is married to a titled man, many years her senior, she takes the bit in her teeth and bolts.

Her young daughter is given to Prudence and Jacqueline to be educated and trained, but just when the crushing weight of the honorable aunts' narrow-mindedness seems about to overwhelm Rosetta, Rose comes back and in a strong scene, wins her daughter's happiness.

It is a charming little story and one feels inclined to recommend it to the parents and guardians who think that ignorance is virtue.

Gold Hunting

THE GOLDEN HOPE, by Grace Sartwel Mason and John Northern Hilliard (Toronto: Thomas Langton, $1.50).

In the early days of California, every man was either prospecting for gold or running a ranch, and the "Golden Hope" gives an interesting picture of the men who were called pocket-hunters, and who went from place to place in the vain hope that they might find a "pocket" overlooked by some other prospector. David Mariner and his wife Kate, had left their little Vermont home because David had stolen from the bank. His one dream was to find a pocket, pay back the money he had stolen, and go back. But Kate was of stronger stuff. She did not wish to leave the thing to chance, but urged her husband to get some regular work to do, and to save his money until he could pay his debt.

She finally induces him to leave the hills, and to go to Tres Pinos, a little Californian town which is the centre of the ranching community. Here they become involved in a fight for water rights, such as every western town went through in the old days. There are some interesting expositions of western American political methods, and the usual picturesque characters to be met with in town on the fringes of civilization.

Kate Mariner finds her place in the world by her work in the little western town and her assistance in the fight for her water rights is as interesting as unexpected. The story closes with the death of David in a manner that redeemed his rather worthless life, and a prospect of happiness for Kate beyond any that she had ever experienced.

'A Doer of Good

THE HERMIT DOCTOR OF GAYA, by I. A. R. Wylie (New York and London: G. P. Putnam's Sons, $1.35).

India, since the first days of Britain's rule, has always been the happy hunting ground of the English novelist. From Kipling down, we have had innumerable stories of Anglo-Indian life, and somehow they all seem interesting. In I. A. R. Wylie's story, however, we strike a rather new note. Instead of the dashing military hero to whom we are accustomed, The Hermit Doctor of Gaya is one of the more modern heroes, no less worthy of the Victoria Cross, who spends his life-time fighting the devils of fear and ignorance and dirt which inevitably result in the scourge of disease. To be sure, Tristram Tristram, the hermit doctor, is also a Major in the British army, but a medical major, and he wins his title of the "hermit" because he insists on living in a mud hut in the native quarters in order that he may gain the confidence of the natives and be better able to help them.

Tristram's first appearance on the scene is characteristic. "He wore a duck suit with leggings, and carried his pith helmet in both hands, as though it were a bowl full of priceless liquid. In its place a loud bandanna handkerchief offered a slight protection to his head and neck. Behind him, at her untrammelled leisure, came Arabella, her reins trailing, her nose almost on the ground, her legs obviously wavering under the burden of her protruding ribs. Behind her, again, in a cloud of sulky dust, waddled Wickie, forlorn and spiritless."

Wickie is described as follows: "The most that could be said of it with any truth was, that it had been intended for a dog. Many generations back there had been an Aberdeen in the family, and since then the peculiarities of that particular strain had been modified to an amazing degree by a series of mesalliances. In fact, all that remained of the Aberdeen were a pair of bandy legs and a wistful, pseudo-innocent eye."

In the pith helmet was a bulbul, which the doctor had rescued from his dog and intended to treat until it was better and then let it go free. In his hut was a cheetah cub which he had found with a broken leg and was tending back to health. He had never shot an animal in his life, and never intended to kill one in any fashion— rather an anomaly in a sporting British regiment. It is not surprising that Tristram in spite of the fact that he is astonishingly ugly, and never cares about his clothes, is well beloved. Tangled up with his career are a number of interesting people, a famous dancer, who comes to India with her extraordinary chaperon; an English colonel, with whom Tristram has an amazing fight; the Colonel's daughter, whom he marries out of pity; a slightly fanatic clergyman; an illegitimate Eurasian half-brother, who turns up when he is least expected; a native who thinks he is a Rajah; and one of the strangest magicians, without whom no Indian story is complete.

There are some strongly dramatic moments in the boowk, and it holds the interest to a not altogether expected climax. Apart from the central character, the chief value of the story is the delineation of the Eurasian, who is neither English nor native, and who spends his life in the vain attempt to be welcomed by either.

Set in India

DESMOND'S DAUGHTER, by Maud Diver (Edinburgh and London: William Blackwood and Sons).

To those who have read with pleasure, "Captain Desmond, V.C." "The Great Amulet," etc, the announcement of a new book from Mrs. Diver's pen in which we meet with old friends in a new dress, brings its own welcome.

Thea Desmond, daughter of our old friends, Theo Desmond and Honor St. John, is the charming heroine of this tale which is, like most of Mrs. Diver's work, centred in India with the British garrison life as a background.

Thea, as is to be expected from her parentage, is very much the soldier's daughter, who expects to marry a soldier and to stay in garrison life all her days.

The story of her somewhat tangled love affairs with Vincent Leigh runs side by side with that young man's transformation from the dreamer to the man of action through the crucible of war.

Mrs. Diver gives us a vivid picture of army life when India is at peace and then takes us through the Tirah campaign and the heroic defence of Fort Galistan.

No one knows her subject better than Mrs. Diver and one becomes as absorbed in her little garrison family as if one "belonged" oneself. "Desmond's Daughter" will be sure to find a host of interested readers.

Little Bits About Books and Writers

The late Richard Harding Davis left a fortune estimated roughly at a quarter of a million dollars.

The June number of "Rod and Gun" has an article on the destruction of fish and game in the Laurentians, written by C. R. Partick, which should surely deserve some notice from the departmental authorities at Quebec.

The Shadow Riders, by Isabel Paterson, the new writer of Western Canada, has, as the Chicago, Tribune expresses it, "caught on with a rush" to such an extent that a third edition is now in preparation, though the book has been published for hardly three months.

There will be genuine and widespread regret over the announcement of the death in New York on Sunday last of Jean Webster, the young authoress of "Daddy Long Legs." She was married to Glen Ford McKinney in September, 1915, and was a niece of Mark Twain.

Norman Duncan, the Canadian novelist and short story writer, who has won recognition in the world of American letters, has gone back to his beloved Labrador for the scene of his latest book, "Billy Topsail, M.D." Mr. Duncan's last venture was into the South Seas.

The thousands who have read and fallen under the spell of "The First Hundred Thousand," will be glad to learn that its author, Ian Hay (Beath) of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, after winning a medal for gallantry in the field, has been given a berth in England, where his life will be safe. Another book by him is expected shortly.

Delia Duffy, Howick, Que., asks for a list of the works by Francis Parkman. The library edition of Francis Parkman comprises twelve volumes. The late William McLennan, of Montreal, a personal friend of Parkman, and a life-long student of his books, contributed a review to "The Literature of American History," published by the American Library Association, Chicago. A copy of this guide may be found in the larger public libraries of Canada. Mr. McLennan said: "Parkman's volumes should be read in this order: Pioneers of France in the New World; Jesuits in North America; LaSalle and the History of the Great West; The Old Regime in Canada; Frontenac: A Half Century of Conflict; Montcalm and Wolfe; The Conspiracy of Pontiac. The twelfth volume, The Oregon Trail, forms no part of the Canadian series."

Anna G. Brackett, Westmount, Inquires why some of the Christian names in library lists are followed by a colon instead of a period.

Forty years ago C: A Cutter was librarian of the Athenaeum Library, Boston. He noticed in writing his catalogues that there were many more Johns than other names beginning with "J." Other letters of the alphabet also included names of comparative frequency. This suggested Publishing houses both on this and the other side of the Atlantic have been much struck by one change in the class of goods being bought by the public since the outbreak of the war. Works of fiction are much less in demand than they were two years ago. Today more serious works, particularly history and biography are what the booksellers are being asked to furnish. This tendency on the part of the reading public has naturally reacted upon the publishing business. Its effect is being seen in the much reduced numbers of novels coming in for review of late.

to Mr. Cutter the indicating these commonest names by following their initials with a colon instead of a period. Here is his list, and a great time-saver it is:—

A: Augustus. B: Benjamin. C: Charles. D: David. E: Edward. F: Frederick. G: George. H: Henry. I: Isaac. J: John. K: Karl. L: Louis. M: Mark. N: Nicholas. O: Otto. P: Peter. R: Richard. S: Samuel. T: Thomas. U: Ulrich. V: Victor. W: William.

This informing punctuation has for many years been adopted by the American Library Association, together with a parallel list of the commonest names of women, two periods in a horizontal line being placed after the initials:—

A.. Anna. B.. Beatrice. C.. Charlotte. D.. Delia. E.. Elizabeth. F.. Fanny. G.. Grace. H.. Helen. I.. Isabella. J.. Jane. K.. Kate. L.. Louisa. M.. Mary. N.. Nancy. O.. Olivia. P.. Pauline. R.. Rebecca. S.. Sarah. T.. Theresa. U.. Ursula. V.. Victoria. W.. Wilhelmina.

"CANADIANS BEST FIGHTING STOCK;" MAN WHO KNOWS

French Leader Pays Tribute to Dominion Boys' Gallantry

Special to The Montreal Star From Our Correspondent Resident in Paris.

PARIS, May 10.—Every now and then news of the Canadians at the front filters through to Paris from widely different sources. Only yesterday I was told by some one who had lunched last week with one of the "Council of 23," who speaks so rarely that his sayings are listened to with deep attention, that his host had assured him the Canadian troops ranked as the very finest fighting material in the field today.

Our men are not looking for praise—they are too busy, as the English soldier said to the poilu, in minding their own business of bringing the war to an end as quickly as possible. But it is good to know that their ability and valor are remarked and esteemed in an army where the pick of England's soldiers are their brothers-in-arms.

That last word reminds me of the closeness of the tie between some of the British regiments and their Canadian confreres. I was talking to a wounded Tommy in hospital last summer and asking him if he had seen anything of our men. He replied with a broad smile "Why my regiment has been fighting side by side with the Princess Pats for the last six months and we are such chums we won't go anywhere without them!"

The same story was told me last week by a young English officer who is attached to the Canadian corps in France and who spoke in warm terms of the comradeship between the English and Canadian troops. Being of a modest stripe, the Canadian does not dwell on what benefits may follow his arrival in the orbit of Tommy Atkins, but he is quite alive to the good he gains by his contact with an older civilization and while he kicks at first at the restraint of a sterner discipline than he has known, he appreciates its necessity in the long run.

SHOCKING THE ENGLISH.

Now and again it must be confessed, incidents occur which leave the English man bereft of speech before the ineradicable optimism bred in our keener air. Not long ago a colonel in command of a certain important branch of military operations became aware of a disastrous lack of cohesion due to what might be termed insouciance on the part of his Canadian confreres. Sending for the officer in command of the branch of the service in question he explained in minute detail illustrating with his pencil what should be done for efficient co-operation. Realizing suddenly that his words were falling on inattentive ears he felt a hand on his arm and heard a cheery voice saying: "Now then Colonel, don't you worry one mite. It'll be all right!"

SOLDIERS' DECORATION.

An interesting ceremony took place the other day at the No. 4 Stationary Hospital at St. Cloud, which has just been raised to the rank of a base general hospital. The patients well enough to be out of doors were drawn up in a hollow square, a pathetic note being added by a row of hospital cots containing the heroes not able to stand up to receive their decorations. Gen. de Sailly, accompanied by a staff officer, just walked around the ranks, chatting to the wounded in the friendly way which is so noticeable in the relations between French officers and their men. Then everyone was called to attention, the bugles sounded and, "In the name of the President of the Republic," the General advanced, tapped the young officer lightly on the shoulder with his sword, pinned on his uniform the decoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, and ended by kissing him on the only cheek not swathed in bandages.

The officer then read out in a loud clear voice the text of the order of the day, stating that "Chatrenet, Elisee, capitaine au 107me regiment d'Infanterie a ete nomme dans l'ordre de la Legion d'Honneur avec le grade de Chevalier Officier doue des plus belles qualites morales, d'un sang froid superbe et d'un inlassable devouement, inspirant a ses chefs comme a ses soldats la confiance, l'estime et l'affection. A ete tres grievement blesse le 21 Avril, 1916, a la tete de son unite, au cours d'une contre attaque."

HEROES CHEER HEROES.

As soon as he ended there was vociferous applause till the general went on to the next man, a stretcher bearer, whose devotion to duty had cost him a leg. Twenty soldiers in all were decorated, either with the croix de guerre or the medaille militaire.

After the ceremony Gen. de Sailly, accompanied by Col. Mignault, visited all the huts and spoke to every wounded soldier. Later on tea was served in the specious recreation hut erected by the Canadian Red Cross for the use of the staff. This comfortable building resembles a large airy summer drawing room with easy chairs, books, rugs, flowers and a piano given by Mme. Miquault.

It is very much appreciated by the nurses, whose numbers have just been increased by the addition of fifteen of the Laval nurses, just arrived from England.

MANY FRIENDS HERE.

His many friends in Montreal will have heard with regret of the death of M. Louis Radlauer, killed in action on the 22nd of May in the brilliant charge which gained the French troops a temporary possession of the Douaumont fort, M. Radlauer was known to many Montrealers by his pseudonym of Rad, with which he signed his articles. When war broke out he returned at once to France and enrolled as a private in the 36th Regiment Infanterie. He went all through the campaigns without a wound and had gained his stripes and the rank of sous lieutenant, when he met his gallant death.

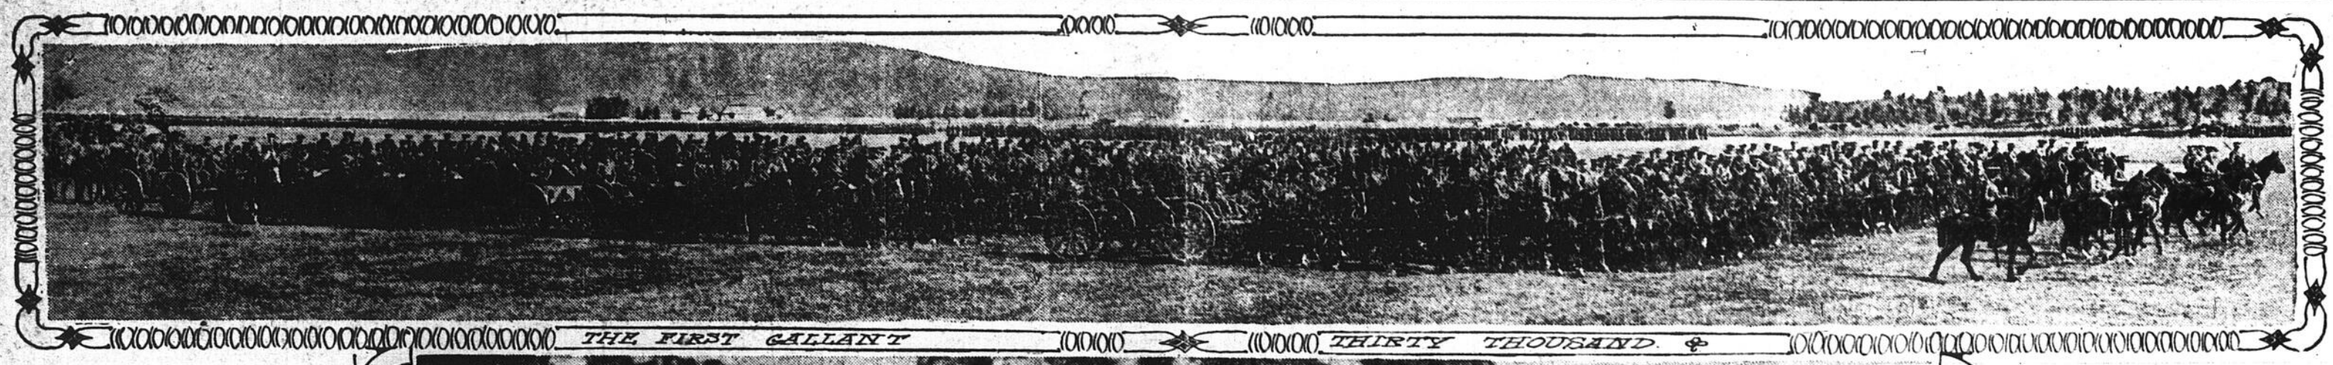
Business Efficiency In The Canadian Army

ROLAND HILL TELLS OF PROBLEMS MET AND OVERCOME IN THE ORGANIZATION OF A PRACTICAL SYSTEM OF MANAGEMENT FOR CANADA'S FIGHTING FORCES OVERSEAS



THE FIRST GALLANT THIRTY THOUSAND.

LIEUT.-COL. GRANT MORDEN, MAJOR-GEN. SIR SAM HUGHES, ANDREW BONAR LAW, CAPT. CALVIN CARSON, BRIG.-GEN. DAVID WATSON, GEN. SC. JONES, MAJOR GEN JOHN CARSON.

Special Staff Correspondence.

LONDON, June 2.—Canada has to a large extent avoided the wastage of "rifle strength" which Col. Winston Churchill declared in the House of Commons last night was rampant in the British Army. Whatever charges may, after the war, be laid at the door of the Canadian Department of Militia, it will not be accused of inefficiency in regard to the combing out and handling of men who might become casualties and a dead loss to the Dominion, when there is still a chance of their regaining health and fighting strength.

The system used in Canadian centres in France and England has now been adopted in Canada. It is being studied by Imperial Officers and many of the points have already been adopted by the Imperial authorities.

Canadian wastage returns now show as compared with those of January that the percentage of casualties returning to England and remaining unfit for further service is only 13 per cent. Figuring on 25,000 casualties only, both local and overseas, this leaves over 20,000 recovered from casualties for further service or a monetary value at a moderate estimate to the Canadian Government of $20,000,000. The average value of a private is $2,500.

ORGANIZATION ENORMOUS TASK.

In October, 1914, less than two months after the declaration of war with Germany, the nucleus of an army, never before paralleled in military history, arrived in England from Canada. Much has already achievement of the Canadian Government in raising, equipping and transporting to England the 35,000 men comprising the First Canadian Contingent. Here are a few of the difficulties in organizing the subsequent contingents, now swelled to the proportions of an army nearly 200,000 strong.

To speak of the "organization of an army" conveys little or nothing of the enormity of the proposition to the average mind. Many of the details sprang into existence with the British Army. After much amendment and adjustment, the results of centuries of practical experience they became the gospel for the primary guidance of the British Army in the field.

K. R. and O. is the gospel and the king-pin of the construction of the Canadian army on arrival in England to take its part in the great war. However, it was found that this gospel was full of self-evident exceptions; that problems were arising in the solution of which there was no precedent by which to be guided and only then the new organization of which the public knows little or nothing began.

RECORDS MADE IN LEAKY HUTS.

First of all came the establishment of a miniature Militia Department in London under Major-Gen. Carson. Automatically there followed a Central Record and Pay Office, also with headquarters in London. In order to commence operations it was necessary to collect data and information with reference to every member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, to prepare three ledger sheets for every soldier and to bring all entries up to date.

The preparation of these documents was undertaken in one of the huts on Salisbury Plains, 105,000 sheets being prepared and despatched to London together with the Attestation papers of 35,000 soldiers. Before the commencement of 1915 this work was completed and the records were on the way to a fair start.

There were thousands of difficulties encountered in collecting the necessary information. Many of these original documents bear the stains of Salisbury mud, while expert accounting was being carried on in leaky and hurriedly erected huts in a continual downpour of rain the like of which no Canadian had ever before encountered.

WEEDING OUT WEAKLINGS.

Early in January the 1st Division commenced urgent preparations to proceed to the front. Weaklings had to be weeded out and their places filled with those physically fit for overseas services, surplus baggage had to be collected and sorted and thousands of other details arranged—in addition to the actual departure of the division—each one a problem in itself.

After the departure of the 1st Division for France the weeding out process continued. Many of those remaining in England were unfit for further service, and discharge papers had to be prepared. This necessitated another administrative department in itself. In addition many members of the Canadian contingent had applied for, and been appointed to, commissions in the Imperial Army.

During this time the base of the Canadian Division in England had been formed into a Canadian Training Division for the purpose of training and equipping reinforcements for the front. The original units remaining in England were supplemented with fresh units from Canada and casualties commenced arriving from the many hospitals.

WORKED DAY AND NIGHT.

The 2nd Canadian Division for service overseas was under formation, and all departments were working at top speed night and day to keep things running smoothly and endeavoring to cope with the extra work. It was found that the Record Office was becoming disorganized through the lack of co-operation and system among the units.

All orderly rooms, the administrative offices of units, were inspected, and it was found that systematising of the work was necessary in order to achieve the desired results. A uniform system for an orderly room to co-operate with the Record Office was evolved and installed in all units.

Each orderly room had at this time the work of a small record office to maintain, owing to the fact that reinforcements were arriving regularly from Canada and being drafted to France and casualties were arriving from France for hospital treatment, convalescence and discharge. The strength of the units varied daily and the routine and detail work required was enormous.

For the purpose of an additional check on the personnel, bi-monthly muster parades were instituted at which every member of the unit had to answer his name or be accounted for by the records of the unit.

UTILISING CASUALTIES.

Another detail to be handled was the enlistment of Canadians who were in England at the outbreak of the war. War Office authority was obtained and over 1,700 men enlisted.

The greatest problem by far, however, was the handling of the casualties reporting to their reserve units. It was found that thousands of these men were, after convalescence, permitted to lie idle about the lines of the reinforcing units. At the beginning of July it was decided to employ such men on light duty, thereby releasing physically fit men for training and ultimate service.

Each man was questioned (after being boarded by medical officers for light duty) and delegated to some particular employment for which he was most fitted. The principal classes of employment of this nature were clerks, orderlies, batmen, etc., and in less than seven months nearly 3,000 men were so employed.

The universal system adopted by orderly rooms having been so completely satisfactory, the same procedure was applied to quartermaster's stores, a uniform system of bookkeeping being installed and written instructions to quartermasters issued, resulting in the saving of many thousands of dollars. Stores and records were regularly inspected and audited and an estimate of $3,000 monthly was recovered in this manner.

SPECIAL DEPARTMENT ESTABLISHED.

With these and many other problems to face, the realization that the organization of the army was as yet only in its embryo stage was forcibly brought home and it was decided to establish a department for studying just such problems with a view to arriving at the most logical and efficient solutions for handling them. Col. F. A. Reid, the officer responsible for what work had been done in this connection as set forth above, was appointed the head of the department, as Director of Recruiting and Organization and the work was commenced in earnest.

Complete instructions on the preparation and disposal of documents were prepared for distribution to all units on formation in Canada. At this time the department in England was handling the preparation and completion of all discharges from the force, the organization of orderly rooms and quartermaster stores, the holding of regular muster parades, enlistments of bona-fide Canadians in England, employment of light duty men, and the audit and inspection of quartermaster stores, regimental institutes, canteens and messes.

BRAMSHOTT BRANCH OPENED.

It was found necessary in October, owing to lack of accommodation at Shorncliffe Camp to form a second Canadian camp at Bramshott, Hampshire, and on the return of Col. Reid from Canada a branch office was opened at that place for the purpose of carrying on similar duties and assisting the divisional staff in organizing a new division to proceed to France later as the 3rd Canadian Division.

A complete general report of all arms and departments was then prepared, with charts showing the chain of responsibility in each case on which to base the proposed organization for the information of the Department of Militia at Ottawa.

Returns were compiled and a card index instituted for the purpose of recording officers' services and their standing in the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and from this information of gradation list was prepared and necessary corrections made to the army list. The Intelligence Department was also taken over for re-organization along more methodical and efficient lines.

OLD PLAN UNSATISFACTORY.

Owing to the number of casualties being returned to Canada for discharge, convalescence, and employment and the vast amount of detail in connection with the handling of this most important branch, embarkation officers were appointed with a sufficient staff to cope with the work.

The procedure in effect at this date was that all overseas and local casualties should be medically boarded, those being found "fit for duty" being posted to a training company and all others posted to a casualty company was then cleared as fast as circumstances would permit, light duty men being detailed to light duty and arrangements made by the embarkation officers to return discharge cases to Canada.

This method was only partially satisfactory, in that casualty companies were permitted to contain hundreds of "casualties" actually fit for duty. Investigation also showed that drafts arriving from Canada for the purpose of reinforcing reserve units were insufficiently trained in the latest and most approved methods of physical training and bayonet fighting, etc.

To overcome this defect an officer was detailed to proceed to Canada for the purpose of organizing this most important branch of the work. Competent instructors were selected for each military district in Canada and an immediate improvement was noted.

Establishments for reserve units, hospitals, departments and special units were then drawn up for approval, many of these units having been carrying on with no definite establishment as a basis.

TO RECLAIM MILLION IN CLOTHES.

Two divisions of Canadians were now in the field and they had left behind in England approximately 70,000 kit bags of surplus and personal equipment and property. Very little had been reclaimed by the original owners and by far the greater percentage consisted of government clothing, boots and shoes. Arrangements were therefore made to open all these bags, sort out and parcel the personal property of the soldiers for transmission to the next of kin and fumigate and return to government stores all government clothing and equipment contained therein.

It was estimated that clothing and equipment, the property of the Canadian Government, to the value of over $1,000,000 was reclaimable in this manner. Property to the value of over $400,000 was realized in less than five months.

In January the question of the handling and disposal of casualties again became most serious and complicated, as figures showed that the wastage of the Canadian Corps as at January 1, 1916, was at the rate of 90 per cent of the number of casualties returning from France and being admitted into hospital in England, as against 25 per cent in the Imperial Forces. This meant a direct loss of approximately $2,500 per man for every casualty lost to the service in this way.

MET PROBLEM PROMPTLY.

Immediate action was necessary to overcome this enormous wastage and the method of handling casualties, as already outlined, was completely revised by the formation of a casualty Assembly Centre and a Discharge and Exercise Depot in February, 1916.

It was proposed to handle all casualties and their records and documents from the Casualty Assembly Centre, but first of all it was necessary to clear the area of the reserve units of all casualties in the lines. As there were over 10,000 such men the undertaking was of no small proportions, but, systematically handled, it was successfully accomplished.

Standing medical boards were appointed before which every casualty was examined and a finding given. Over 5,000 men were immediately pronounced as fit for full duty and were returned to their units for training. The balance were taken on the strength of the new Canadian Casualty Assembly Centre.

KEPT TRACK OF EVERY MAN.

All casualties, whether local or overseas, were now taken on the strength of this new unit immediately on admission to a hospital in England, and were traced from hospital to hospital until they reported to Folkestone on discharge. They then appeared before one of the standing medical boards and if found fit for duty transferred to a reserve unit.

If found "fit for light duty" they were attached to some unit or department for light duty according to qualifications. If found "permanently unfit, for discharge" or "fit, after light physical exercise," they were attached to the Canadian Casualty Discharge and Exercise Depot situated at Bath, Somerset.

However, many units were employing far more light duty men than was absolutely necessary, although it was desired to utilize them wherever possible to relieve full duty men for service overseas. A table was therefore drawn up after careful study and comparison of statistics, and 136 light duty men were allotted per battalion as being a sufficient number to carry on any work from which it was advisable to release full duty men.

Certain light duty men with special qualifications for office work were permitted to attend a school of stenography, where shorthand and typewriting were taught by experts to fit these men for duty as military clerks and eventually in obtaining employment after discharge from the service.

ELIMINATED ALL WASTE.

The number of casualties boarded for light physical exercise increased to such an extent that it was found necessary to establish a command depot for their accommodation at Monks Horton, Kent. The Canadian Casualty Exercise and Discharge Depot was used for the handling of discharge cases only, all cases for light physical exercise proceeding direct to the command depot for training. At regular intervals these men were boarded and the percentage of those boarded as fit for duty gradually increased.

In this manner all avoidable waste of both money and personnel has been eliminated, all orderly rooms are organized along the same lines and maintain the same system. All quartermasters stores and messes keep the same books on definite written instructions and are regularly inspected and books audited. The most important feature, the reclaiming and disposal of casualties, has shown results far surpassing those shown by official figures of any other military force ever before in operation.

As a business proposition the Canadian Expeditionary Force would declare a bigger dividend than any competitor.

MAJOR GENERAL SIR SAM HUGHES

MAJOR-GENERAL JOHN W. CARSON.

CANADIANS WHO ARE IN CHARGE OF ARMY ORGANIZATION TODAY

Special to The Montreal Star From Our Own Correspondent.

OTTAWA, June 17.—The magnificent organization of the Canadian forces at the bases in England is essentially in the hands of three Canadian officers. Gen. J. Charles McDougall commands at Shorncliffe; Gen. David Watson, recently appointed to the head of the Fourth Division, is in charge of the camp at Bramshott, while the Division is being got in readiness for the front; and Gen. John Carson is in London as the personal representative of the Minister of Militia and the Militia Department. He is the official medium of communication between Ottawa and the forces in England. The official positions and duties attached to them, however, are distinct from each other.

The relationship between headquarters at Ottawa and troops overseas may best be defined in this way. The details are worked out over there, but general principles and policies are determined here and communicated to Great Britain or the front. Cables are being exchanged hourly.

There appears to be doubt as to the present status of Gen. Alderson. When he recently relinquished the command of the Canadians it was stated in the cables that he would be made an Inspector-General of our forces training in England, but so far as can be learned at Headquarters, such duties have not as yet been actively assumed.

Half of the original Canadian division have figured in the casualty lists, but a good percentage, fully the normal, have been able, after convalescence, to return to the trenches.

When the rolls of the recent fight at Hooge have been completed, it is estimated that thirty thousand Canadian troops in dead, wounded and missing will figure in the casualty lists.

WHAT FIGHTING ON YPRES FRONT IS LIKE TODAY

Star Correspondent Draws Graphic Picture of Characteristic "Quiet Day" with Artillery Attacks, Mines Blown Up and Other "Quiet" Incidents

This graphic description of the kind of fighting now raging around Ypres was written just before the recent German drive when our correspondent, Mr. Hill, was at the front. Naturally, when the great offensive began, all correspondents were cleared out.

Special to The Montreal Star From Our Own Correspondent.

NORTHERN FRANCE, May 22, by courier to London.—Along the whole western front, with the possible exception of Verdun, there has not been a single section so hardly fought for, so valiantly defended, as the Ypres salient, the keystone of the arch on which rests the safety of Calais and the British lines of communication across the English Channel.

Canadians have made much history in the defence of this section, Langemarck and St. Julien on the north and northeast gave Canada her first chance of making history in the great European war. Now it is at St. Eloi that we are stemming the Hun tide, and St. Eloi is credited with being the hottest place on the British front.

To the Twenty-Seventh and Twenty-Ninth Battalions belong the honor of being the first Canadian regiments in these trenches. They were hurried up early in February when the Germans were making herculean efforts to break through, and although they had not the experience of the seige warfare which is always the rule here, they worked like Trojans and valiantly beat back the crest of the Hun attack.

Later — possibly the bearing and success of these two battalions impressed the British General Staff — the Canadian army corps were given this area to defend just after it had been enlarged by brilliant work on the part of the Northumberlands.

BEAT HUN AT OWN WORK.

The first German attacks, which cost us Canadians heavily, have been described. They were, as is evident now due to nervousness on the part of the Hun, who thought that these Colonial troops were to be the thin end of a wedge that would develop into the much advertised spring drive.

For the last few weeks events on our section have been, as the official communiques say, comparatively quiet. There have been daily tremendous artillery duels, which have not even had a demoralizing effect as far as our troops are concerned.

Mining operations and trench raids have been predominated and in these classes of modern warfare Canadian troops are excellent. They have more than beaten the Germans at the game, and by quick retaliation have tamed the Hun commanders considerably. These raids were a Canadian invention. The Germans believed they had improved on them—but they must be of a different mind now.

Generally the favorite German plan was to start a tremendous artillery bombardment on perhaps half a mile of front, using high explosives to overawe the trench defenders and shrapnel from big shells to smash our wire. The Germans' guns would then lift on a certain section and sweep communication trenches behind the craters. After that swiftly and silently in the night would come the raid.

Generally we were ready and machine-guns would stop the majority of the marauders, while bombs would account for more. If they did reach the front-line trench there would take place a prehistoric rough-and-tumble in the bottom of the muddy ditch when weapons that might have come out of the Chamber of Horrors or the torture room at the Tower of London would decide the issue. Rifles and bayonets would be no use. One Canadian officer I know who has been most successful in these struggles, favors a short knobkerry with iron spikes.

MINING HORRIBLE NIGHTMARE.

Mining is another horrible nightmare that always goes on even when official communiques suggest "nothing doing." It is probably the most discomforting mode of attack—or defence. After days and nights of war, sometimes within hearing of the German sappers who are attempting the same thing, the mine is sprung and the enemy, sometimes ourselves too, is blown up fifty or sixty feet, or buried under an avalanche of the blue, muddy earth that is characteristic of this part of Flanders.

There is the rushing of the crater to kill or if possible capture those who remain, and there is also the sudden rally to drive back the enemy's counter-attack we know will follow.

I am unable to mention the battalion whose experiences I quote, but they are from an Eastern province, and have distinguished themselves in this seige fighting. What had been a calm spring afternoon on a Tuesday not many weeks ago, was suddenly turned into chaos by the German artillery which bombarded positions, the names can convey nothing to the enemy—the Dump which was—battalion headquarters, the railway crossing, Jackson street, Larch Wood and open ground behind two strongly fortified trenches.

By six o'clock the bombardment was terrific and at six-thirty, three bays next to the two strong trenches, in which were fourteen men, suddenly lifted.

The crater caused by the mine was hundred and thirty feet long, eighty feet wide and thirty feet deep. Canadian artillery retaliated with a terrific fire on the Huns' communication trenches, and when a lull came in the German fire those of our lookouts who were not killed or buried, saw the enemy leaning over their parapet.

CANADIANS HELD ON TO LAST.

Reinforcements which came through the German shrapnel manned our trenches and opened rapid fire with rifles and machine guns, but about one hundred of the enemy continued to come on. It was seen that very few of them were carrying rifles, the majority of them having hand grenades, spades and what looked like drums slung on sticks and carried by two men. These drums contained what in military terms is called a "mobile charge."

The Germans came on in short rushes, taking cover in shell holes and a new crater in No Man's land, until they reached a sap which was held by eight of our bombers. The Canadians held the post to the last, though three were killed and five badly wounded, and they took full toll from the enemy.

In a few minutes our counter-attack was organized and we drove them out, getting a few prisoners, although many managed to escape through the smoke from the original explosion which was settling down on the Hinterland. They left behind them many hand grenades and two of the drums, and the latter contained an explosive similar to fifty per cent dynamite, used generally for blowing up mine shafts and bridges.

OUR ARTILLERY EFFECTIVE.

While this excitement was on an enemy party of about twenty bombers made a dash for the trench to the right and managed to gain another bombers sap where they awaited the success or failure of their comrades' venture. They were driven out by the Brigade machine gun batteries, which were turned up, and lost half of their number killed.

With the aid of our artillery, which was exceptionally effective, the battalion managed to carry the outer edge of the new crater and to consolidate it by building new communication trenches during the night. In the fighting there were over forty killed, over a hundred wounded and ten missing. The latter were probably buried when the mine was sprung.

That is the story of a "quiet" day in the trenches which we now are holding. If those at home could hear how lightly these men from overseas speak of these incidents, they would cheer up and not speak of the Canadians—or British—"doing nothing."

ROLAND HILL.

Research by the Argentine Department of Agriculture has shown that a natural parasite enemy of the locust exists, and the department has recommended that the National Institute of Bacteriology and the section of applied zoology of the Live Stock Bureau co-operate in a study and application of the best means to propagate this parasite, as the most effective way of checking the ravages of locusts. The sum of 500,000 paper pesos ($212,300) has been appropriated for use in the campaign against locusts.

THE STAR'S HOME MAGAZINE PAGE

THE WORLD OF FILMS

The article on "The Movie Actress," which appeared on this page two or three weeks ago, appears to have created a good deal of interest both among the girls who wish to go into the motion picture field and among the men who produce motion pictures.

The following breezy letter has been received from one of the prominent motion picture men in Montreal:

"I was delighted to read your warning to girls who wish to become movie actresses. Keep up the good work.

"New York with its 'gay white way,' is literally paved with tombstones of blighted ambitions and moist with the tears of bitter disappointment of those who came with hope, pride and determination in their hearts to conquer the public only to bury their shattered hopes under the flagstones over which they have tramped so long and so often. 'Veni, vidi, vici,' may have suited the Caesars, but it cuts mighty little ice in these days of competition in the centres of the world theatrical and motion-pictorial.

"I am often asked: 'Is the world of filmdom immoral?' and my answer is 'No more so than the stage, and the stage is no more immoral than the world of filmdom.

"You will find immorality in all walks of life. This everyone knows, but no paths offer such opportunities and temptations as the world theatrical. The late hours, the lights, the music, the beautiful women, the handsome men, the parts they play, the hours they keep, the adulation they receive; all combine to dull the senses and to urge a search for excitement. The stage has been called immoral by really able men. May I point out that if it has been given the name it is because that which does happen in the theatrical world affects semi-public figures and thus at once obtains notoriety. Were the same thing to take place in private life with plain 'Mr. Smith,' no notice would be taken of it. The characters are not sufficiently important and thus the public are fed up with scandals among the artists of the great amusement industry of the world, because there is an interest in their lives. To answer the question fairly one would have to make comparisons. There are no figures available, no statistics upon which to base that answer; with which to compare the cases in the every day walks of life with the cases in the theatrical world. Temptations are many. The ranks contain 'blackguards' as do the ranks of all professions, but no greater proportion than one can find any where else or in other walks of life. It is simply a case of 'opportunity offering' that is all.

"The salary and the opportunity to deceive the applause of the public counts tremendously with most people. We are all seekers after flattery, little as we may think it. We all love to hear nice things said about us and to us, and though we may pretend that we don't like it, we do! It is human nature. With th knowledgt of the tremendous salaries ever before them, the life itself and the plaudits of th public already ringing in their ears, many a novice takes the first step that she thinks will assist her to the uppermost rungs of the ladder of success. I can only sum the whole matter up by saying that it is unquestionably the most 'dangerous' (not immoral) profession I know, offering the most attractive temptations possible, but the strong minded woman who can withstand all the temptations, with which must be combined ambition, can win through and has a far better chance than the woman who succumbs to these temptations by virtue of the former's very strength of character, which must if she possesses ability, forge her to the front.

"I would never suggest the silent drama as a career for a girl.

Ninety-nine and one half per cent of the girls who today seek to capture the laurels of the screen are absolutely unfitted for it.

"How is one to know whether one is suited to the screen or not?

"That should be very easy to a certain extent. One needs looks, manners, and above all 'personality.' It is hard to explain, but try and makes comparisons. Take Theda Bara for instance, one of the most famous screen stars in the world, and try and figure it out for yourself. Compare her 'personality' with any girl you know and see if you cannot find that indefinable something, that mysterious magnetism that no one understands, that cannot be assumed or acquired. There were lots of men far more handsome than the late Richard Mansfield and the late Sir Henry Irving, lots just as well read and as well educated, but how many had their wonderful 'personality'? There are thousands in the 'ruck' today. Thousands of lovely girls among the 'also-rans,' more among the 'also-rans' than among the even fairly successful artists in the world of silent plays because they all lack the great essential—screen personality. Screen artists, and I use the word 'artists' with its full meaning, are born and not made. Every girl I have ever met who has an eye on the screen thinks she is perfectly adapted to the art. That is the extraordinary part of it. Yet one glance at most of them and you would at once realize that they are even below mediocre standard.

"Even if, to all outward appearances, a girl is suited to the screen, it is hard to get in. The supply is fifty times greater than the demand. If she is exceptionally beautiful she may catch the eye of the head of the engaging department, and the first question he will ask is 'have you had any experience?' With the answer in the negative she loses ninety per cent of the chances of being engaged, because there are so many who have experience."

"Then how does one get that experience?" you ask.

"By wandering about the streets of New York for days and weeks, calling in from one office to another until if the gods smile upon you you may be engaged as an extra hand at $3 per day, and again even for the $3 you are expected to have experience. It is here that the dangers come in. Given an attractive girl, in her perigrinations in seach of fame, she runs up against all sorts and conditions of men Is it to be wondered at that now and again she meets a blackguard who may promise the wonderful opportunities and even having given her one, realizes that she is not fitted, will draw the girl on with promises and God knows what, until common sense shows its heels to ambition, and another heart is broken. Thank God this is not the rule, but the opportunities are so many. Look at the goal, and then think of the temptation. 'Facilis descensus Arverni!'"

"There are no agents to whom a girl can apply without fear?

"Advise all your readers to keep away from so called agents, also from 'schools.' Ninety-nine per cent swindles. Why should there be schools to supply the demand which is already supplied one hundred times over with experienced and able people? There is, of course, always room for a few new faces, but the whole thing is such a gamble. It is like the big Panama lottery. Thousands take chances day after day and yet do you ever meet with one who gets the capital prize? I do ask you to keep the lovely fresh young girls who appear so anxious to be screen actresses away from such agents and schools. Tell them of the stout dangers and of the slim chances.

"I want to give you one example of the supply being greater than the demand. When my brother Herbert Brenon started to produce the Million Dollar picture for William Fox, he needed sixty beautiful girls who could swim. Not a line of advertisement was ever used. The matter came under discussion with Mr. Fox, and he told my brother to go ahead and get his sixty swimmers. Two hours after my brother had mentioned the fact to his private secretary, his office was besieged with girls of all sizes. Mind you, nothing had been said outside the building of his intention by either Mr. Fox himself or his secretary, but two hours afterwards he was unable to get out of his own office owing to the crowds of women who were standing there trying to see him. The names of seventeen hundred were taken in one week. It would be hard to say how many names were NOT taken. It took them three weeks, with the assistance of Miss Annette Kellerman, to choose sixty girls who would suit, and who could swim. There must have been in one week three thousand applicants, and the applicants whose names were taken were told to appear at a big swimming tank especially erected for them, in which Miss Kellerman could judge of their beauty and ability. Just think of three thousand applicants—all experienced, too—for sixty very subordinate positions.

An unknown girl has practically no chance of engagement. It is too much of a gamble in these days of keen competition between manufacturers and producers.

Experience, experience and more experience plus personality, looks and ability is what they all cry for. Directors have not the time to teach girls how to act, Time is money with film men in these days of one to three thousand dollars a week salaries for one artist, five hundred for another, three hundred for several others and the Lord only knows how many at seventy-five and fifty per week. Why minutes mean money to the producer today. How can they afford to teach a girl how to act when a star is waiting to go on with her scene, who is costing the firm $100 every working hour. Oh, No! There is mighty little chance for the inexperienced girl in the game today.

"You have advised her to keep out. I heartily endorse that advice. Pound at them, Miss Currie. Tell them how foolish they are. Tell them there are thousands today seeking employment who are glad to get on for even a day's work in order to exist. Tell them of the temptations. The great rewards are for but few, a favored few who possess all the essentials and who by hard work and by the surmounting of great difficulties have won their way to the top and there is so little room on top after all. Not enough room for one ten thousandth part of the aspirants.

"Why advise people how to go about getting there at all? There will be some girl absolutely unfitted who will take the chance and who throughout the lonely, anxious hours of waiting and disappointments and temptations will batter her heart down with vain regrets for the days gone by, whose eyes will fill with great, big, tears, priceless tears for a folly made all the more acute with the knowledge that she was warned. I am forcibly reminded of De Quincy's "Opium Eater." His Exquisite pen picture of the flagstones in a certain section of London. The memories, the thoughts, the tears, the broken hearts, the ambitions, the blighted hopes, the sufferings.

"'All the world's a stage' is true, we each have our parts, but surely the Great Director has already cast us in parts most suited to our temperaments. We should not let our ambitions lead us into the wrong entrance for as surely as we make that wrong entrance the Great Director will ring down the curtain for, miscast, we would only botch his wonderful handiwork."

CHANDOS ST. JOHN-BRENON.

It is extremely interesting to have this letter from a man who speaks with authority. Mr. Brenon has been an actor, a motion picture director and a manager. He knows the motion-picture business from A to Z, and I advise all the "movie-struck" girls to heed his warning.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS

That the early flowering shrubs should be trimmed as soon as they have ceased blooming, if they need any cutting. The common but wholly wrong way to trim is to go around and nip off the ends of the branches. The right way is to cut out all the worn-out stalks just where they come out of the ground, thus giving the young wood a better chance. And the reason for trimming now is that these early blooming shrubs will soon begin to make their buds for next year.

PAINTING COMPETITION

Now, children, here is a washing-day scene for you to paint. Read the competition rules.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

All correspondence for this department should be addressed to Margaret Currie.

All communications must have name and address signed.

Please address legal and military questions to Editor Notes and Queries.

A. J. L.

I cannot promise to print your letter until I see it, but I shall be very glad indeed to have you send it to me.

WEDDING INVITATIONS.

1. Is it correct to leave the tissue paper in engraved wedding invitations?

2. Is it correct to send invitations to Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith and family, or should one go to Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, one to the Misses Smith, and still another to Messrs. Thos. and Jno. Smith? I have been told that the latter method is correct, but to me it seems dire extravagance.

3. When a person's wedding gifts are on display should the cards bearing the names and wishes of the donors be left with the gifts?

4. In going to a concert, who goes up the aisle first, the girl or her escort, and is the order the same on leaving the hall?

ROSEBUD.

Ans.—(1) Yes. (2) Strictly speaking, the latter method is correct, but a great many people use the former. (3) I think the cards should be taken off, but many people have them on. (4) The man precedes going down the aisle, then stands aside to allow the girl to go to her seat. In leaving, the man stands aside at the aisle and allows the girl to precede him in going out.

A. H.

Any hardware store will sell you or recommend you a special "wash" for tinting brick.

P. C. M.

I cannot introduce the subject on this page.

INK AND COAT.

(1) Would you kindly tell me how to take ink stains out of a brussels carpet? (2) And how to wash a heavy white serge sport coat? (3) How to keep light hair from turning darker?

ALICE.

Ans.—(1) Use sweet or sour milk to sponge it. Then use ether. (2) Use lux and luke-warm water. (3) Use lemon juice in the rinsing water

CLEANING.

(1) I have a blue (navy) Gabardine skirt which I had cleaned some time ago, and I find that there is a faded spot which spoils the look of it. Is there anything I can get to bring it to its original color without having to have it dyed, I tried ink, but found it too dark and the spot of course shows quite plainly.

(2) What can I get to clean a white Marabou ruff?

(3) I would like very much to know if you have a good reliable recipe to take away dandruff from the scalp. I have to wash my hair about every two weeks—and during that time I massage it with my finger tips and apply a tonic, but it does not seem to be of any use. (4) Also in washing the hair do you prefer liquid green soap to shampoo powders?

BROWN EYES.

Ans.—(1) Try sponging it with ammonia and water first and if that does not succeed, it will need to be dyed.

(2) Use French chalk or Fuller's earth.

(3) If you have so much trouble, I should advise you to have a course of treatment for the hair. (4) Yes.

HE WANTS INTRODUCTION.

I beg leave to make enquiries of you how I should proceed to secure an introduction to a young lady I see every Sunday at church and not knowing her name and address and not knowing any of her friends to secure through them an introduction to her would it be improper for me to introduce myself and ask for an exchange of cards if I should meet her, or what course should I pursue as I am very much interested in the young lady and don't wish to prejudice myself in her opinion by making a breach of etiquette.

D. K.

Ans.—Why not ask the clergyman to introduce you? You should not speak to her and ask her to exchange cards, as you suggest. It would be a decided "breach of etiquette." Surely you can find someone who knows her.

LONELY.

If I were you, I would try to get some work to do to supplement your income. You could easily get a half day's housework, which would probably include your noon meal. I don't see how you can live on the sum you mention, unless you do without meat.

VERSES.

The verses you wish for in Saturday's Star are from Will Carleton's "First Settlers' Story."—(A long poem.)

Boys flying kites haul in
Their white-winged birds,
You can't do that way when You're flying words.
Thoughts unexpressed may sometimes fall back dead,
But God himself can't change them when they're said.

—MATER.

Ed. Note—Thank you.

ECONOMY CORNER

TOPSY.

Ask your teacher to answer your questions.

B. P.

It is legal for first cousins to marry by civil law. Some churches object to it. I don't care to offer any opinion on the advisability of such a marriage.

A CONSTANT READER (Mrs. P.)

Thanks for date. A soldier's rank is often changed on active service, he gains promotion and his pay is altered accordingly. I presume the regimental paymaster notifies the Militia Department of the alteration in rank and they make the change in the separation allowance accordingly, without any request from the wife. There is no separation allowance for children—they get allowed something if the father is killed or disabled.

L. W.

The wife of a private gets a separation allowance of $20 a month and an assigned pay of $15 a month deducted from her husband's pay. She gets it from the Paymaster General's Office, Ottawa. This applies to the wives of soldiers who were married before enlisting, those who married after enlistment before June last year, and those who married with the permission of the commanding officer since that date.

IS SHE A SAILOR?

(1) When introducing people in a parlor, should they be introduced as they come, or "Ladies first."

(2) What was the origin of the Black Watch.

(3) If my father had been married twice and by his first wife, had one (1) daughter, same not living at home, and I being the eldest daughter of the second marriage am I to be called Miss Ethel Blank, or simply Miss Blank.

(4) If my mother is Irish, my father French, and I am born on a ship in mid-ocean, am I a sailor?

(5) If a Catholic and Protestant were married in the States and come to live in Montreal, each keeping their own religion, is it held legal in this province?

JANE S.

Ans.—(1) "As they come."

(2) It was originally raised for military and patrol service to "watch" the Highlands. A very dark, almost black, tartan was worn, hence the name.

(3) Miss Ethel Blank.

(4) If kittens are born in the oven, are they biscuits?

(5) Yes.

DIVINITY FUDGE.

For Betty: 2 1-2 cups white sugar, 1-2 cup corn syrup, 1-2 cup boiling water, whites two eggs, 1-2 cup chopped nuts. Put sugar, syrup and water to boil, add 1-2 cup of this boiling syrup to the whites of eggs beaten light. Let remainder of this syrup boil till it is hard, and strings. Add nuts to eggs, then add remaining syrup. Beat until thick. Flavor with vanilla.

SALTED ALMONDS.

For Betty: Pour boiling water over the shelled almonds. Let stand for a few moments, drain almonds, and then the skin will come off in your hands, as you gently rub. Brown the blanched almonds in a little olive oil on top of the stove. Drain, sprinkle with salt and let dry in the oven.

LITTLE STORIES for Bedtime

By T. W. Burgess

PETER RABBIT GETS INTO MISCHIEF.

(Copyright, 1916, by T. W. Burgess.)

Busy hands and busy feet,
Having useful things to do,
Mischief seldom leads astray—
Here's a little hint for you.

The trouble with Peter Rabbit is that he isn't a worker. He is happy-go-lucky, good-natured but lazy. Much as we love him we have to admit that Peter is lazy when it comes to a matter of work. He will spend no end of time and effort trying to satisfy his curiosity, but when it comes to a matter of useful work somehow Ptter always is dreadfully tired. In fact, about the only work Peter ever does is to cut little paths through bramble-tangles for his own comfort and safety.

Peter never could and never will understand why most of his feathered neighbors build new homes every spring. It seems to him a terrible waste of time. He cannot understand why they do not patch up their old homes. That is what he would do. I mean that if he was a bird he would each year patch up his old home if it was so fallen to pieces that he just couldn't live in it without doing so, and be quite contented. If it were possible to live in it without patching it he wouldn't take even that much bother. You see Peter has no pride in appearance. That is what is the trouble with Peter. He doesn't care how he looks or how his home looks. He hasn't learned that there is more true pleasure in honest work well done than in anything else under the sun.

So having nothing in particular to do Peter is very apt to get into mischief. Curiosity leads him into places where he has no business to go and half his troubles come from this and the fact that he has nothing to do but try to satisfy that dreadful curiosity. Now there was no reason in the world why Peter should go up to Farmer Brown's garden. There was plenty to eat right near the dear Old Brier Patch. There was the sweetest of sweet clover, more than Peter could eat in a hundred years. There was tender young grass and in the Old Brier Patch plenty of young plants of which Peter is fond. But Peter wasn't contented. He wanted to know what was growing in Farmer Brow's garden.

So one night Peter started for that garden. He knew he had no business there, but that knowledge didn't trouble him at all. "It is perfectly safe," said he to Mrs. Peter as he started out from the dear Old Brier Patch. "There is never any one there at night. I won't be gone long. I just want to see what is growing there. There isn't any harm in just looking, is there?"

Of course little Mrs. Peter couldn't say that there was any harm in just looking and so Peter went, although he knew that she didn't approve of it at all. He reached the garden without any adventure and once there he quite forgot that he had come simply to look. Almost the first thing he found was a bed of tender lettuce. Peter just loves lettuce. For the life of him he couldn't resist the temptation to sample one of those crisp leaves. Farmer Brown would never miss one leaf. First he took a nibble, then he took a bite. My, how good it tasted? In two minutes Peter had quite forgotten that he was where he had no business to be and that that lettuce didn't belong to him. If he had been content to eat one or two plants it wouldn't have been so bad, but he wasn't. Good as that first lettuce plant was, he wondered if the next one to it wouldn't be better, so he sampled that before he had finished the first one. Then he tried another and another. Each tasted better than the last. At least Peter thought it did. So he went on spoiling a great many plants when two or three would have quite filled his stomach if he had eaten them all.

Then He Spied a Long Row of Carrots and Ate the Top From Some of These.

Then he spied a long row of carrots and ate the tops from some of these. After that he sampled a few young bean plants and so finally he came to where the young cabbage plants were growing. By this time Peter's stomach could hold very little more and so he ate only a few of the tenderest cabbage leaves. Then he remembered that he had come only to look and with a guilty feeling he started for the dear Old Brier Patch. He had been in mischief, the very worst kind of mischief, and he knew it. But no one had seen him and so, I am sorry to say, he didn't feel as badly about it as he ought to have. In fact Peter was already planning to visit that garden the very next night.

Next Story: Peter Feels Badly.

HAIR REMEDIES AND THEIR EFFECTS

(By A. Cooke.)

Quite as important as the foods which we eat as the good or harm that may be accomplished, are the toilet preparations found on our dressing table. The intelligent selection and proper use of the necessary soaps, face or talcum powders, cold creams, dentrifrices, antiseptic washes, and toilet waters, are necessary factors in preserving health and affording much legitimate daily comfort. An indiscriminate choice of these indispensible restoring agents, or the ignorance of the many frauds and deceptions practised in their name, has brought suffering and humiliation to many. Hair dyes, bleaches, or restorers, complexion-wafers, eye-brighteners, bust-developers, flesh builders, reducing powders, the futile depilatory and other similar frauds, have no place on any toilet table. Hair dyes and bleaches, besides being unaesthetic, are scarcely safe to use. The "Restorer" which claims to color without dyeing depends upon the interaction of lead, acetate and sulphur for its good work, while black hair dyes principally contain the somewhat less poisonous nitrate of silver. The frequency with which such preparations are used, and the susceptibility of the individual alone control the harm which may result. There are so many hair dyes on the market, that it makes one hesitate in the selection. When one observes the various green and pink tints being displayed, by the unfortunate victim of experiments one offers a feeling of sympathy rather than criticism.

Hair dyeing is always exceedingly injurious to the hair, and there is constant danger of mineral poisoning of the system. It is by no means an exact science, for in a great many instances, it fails in expected results, especially when attempted by the inexperienced operator, and, moreover, these results are unchangeable. Once dyeing is resorted to, it must be continued periodically as the hair grows. There are so many formulas for dyes and methods of using them, that it is deemed inexpedient to give any here. In cases of premature greyness, or for personal reasons, one has to resort to a little tinting of grey or faded hair. Dyes should be purchased from professional dealers, and then the purchaser should inform himself of their ingredients. For guidance, we will name a few of the basic chemicals, noting their color producing effect, and danger in using. Henna Powder, sometimes called Jamaica Mignonette, a plant which grows in the East Indies, is sometimes used with powdered indigo plant to produce black, and is quite effective when the process is done with good judgment. Experiments have proved this dying process to be the safest both for the skin and hair. It gives natural tints from light brown to black, and is said to be free from poisoning. Another dye free from poison danger is made by using ten parts of the juice of black walnut shells to ninety parts of 60 per cent. alcohol, letting it stand for ten days and then filtering. In cheap preparatory dyes, the solution of bi-chloride of mercury followed by a second solution of hypo-sulphate of soda is greatly used, but the danger of poisoning is extremely great.

Many readers ask what constitutes a reliable hair tonic. While a good hair tonic is a perfectly permissible toilet preparation, it is absolutely necessary to know that such preparations are the product of a responsible organization. A reliable hair tonic is not only cleansing and refreshing, but valuable as well for the massage with which its application must be accomplished. In common, however, with inferior toilet waters and perfumes, it is not unusual to find Bay Rum tonics and other dressings for the hair that are compounded with methyl or wood alcohol in place of a grain alcohol which costs at present from six to seven times as much per gallon as does the wood alcohol. So much has been written concerning the dangers attending upon the use of wood alcohol both externally and internally, that one hesitates to enlarge upon it. It has a grave effect upon the person that uses it. Not only as an active poison is this fluid dangerous, but in addition it has the peculiar property of selective action upon the optic nerve.

"Whether wood alcohol is drunk, inhaled, or absorbed through the pores of the skin, the effect is usually blindness or death." Consequently, it is all important when purchasing a suitable hair tonic, to select one that has been submitted or approved by the highest medical authorities, but few claim this protection. Hair tonics are the products of only experienced gricologists. A reliable formula is not a cheap preparation. The best and safest procedure is to consult a reliable specialist—it saves time and money—and your hair, in the end.

MOTORING NOTES AND NEWS

By R. H. P.

There is a rumor that the price of gasoline will drop in a day or so. If it proves true it must have been brought to town by the Blue Bird of Happiness. Here's hoping, anyhow.

* * * * *

The placing of a binder on the Chambly Road is expected to be started by the Provincial Government at a very early date.

* * * *

The heavy rain has prevented work on the Quebec Highway, but it is expected a start will be made on the eleven miles which at present spoil a lovely run from Montreal to the ancient port, for in bad weather those eleven miltes are almost impassible.

* * * * *

The news goes around that soon there will be an announcement of the commencement of a new road between Three Rivers and Shawinigan Falls. This will make a splendid side trip from the main highway from Montreal to Quebec. They say the scenery is charming.

* * * * *

Speaking about Three Rivers it is known for a progressive city, and I hear that plans are being prepared for the building of a big hotel there. Let the good work go on—when the touring public appreciate the beauties of the province they will use up all the hotel accommodation provided. Good roads and good hotels are a necessity in modern civilization.

* * * * *

The soldiers are in camp at Valcartier, but don't think of driving over there just yet—the road is not in a fit and proper condition for motor traffic after the awful June weather we've been experiencing. Anyway it is better to wait a couple of weeks or so to give the camp a chance to settle down and and get things ship-shape, for the boys have a proper pride in their tented dwellings.

* * * * *

Don't take it as gospel what the habitant tells you about the condition of the road between his place and the next point. Perhaps in his eyes it is a "good road," but that's because he's use to it. A party last week had experience of this and got stuck in the mud. Perhaps if the mud hadn't been there and one or two other things were not as they were the road would have been a good one.

* * * * *

It is good news to hear that motorists are showing a little more attention at street corners in the city and slowing down, while they are also remembering that vehicles going north and south have the right of way over vehicles going east and west.

* * * * *

The Secretary of State for New York, Francis M. Hugo, is taking a keen interest in road and traffic questions in Canada and the United States. He suggests that a great step forward would be made if the rule of the road was taught children in school as part of the curriculum. Considering the ignorance there is on the subject he thinks it marvellous there are so few accidents. The idea is a good one, for by the time they grow up goodness knows what will be the speed of vehicular traffic or the volume, and they will be better prepared for it if they know what rules ought to be observed.

* * * * *

There might also be some education given to the older generation especially in the country districts. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred farm waggons and country carts are found out of their proper position outside of cities and large towns. And they are aggravatingly slow in pulling off the centre of the road, even after the sound of the oft-blown horn does get to them. They might also have impressed on them the necessity of holding out their hand in the direction in which they are going to turn, for the motorist doesn't know where every by-road meets the main highway or which entrance to a farm a waggon-load is going to turn into.

* * * *

Motorists using the bridge crossing from Bout de L'Isle to Charlemagne on the Montreal Quebec Highway should be careful to take the right hand road, passing under the arch. There have been several complaints that strangers take the left hand road, which is for traffic going in the opposite direction. And as there is no room on the bridge to turn, it means backing. A sign is to be put up there by the Automobile Club of Canada to call attention to this.

* * * * *

How many cars will be registered in the Montreal district this year? Already the total has reached 4,600, which is a thousand ahead of last year's figures for the same period, and within a thousand of the grand total for the whole of last year.

* * * * *

The organizers of the Brome Corner Field Day have invited all members of the Automobile Club and motorists generally to take part in their event. It will be near Brome Lake and Knowlton and the motorists of Sherbrooke and that vicinity will be there in force.

* * * * *

The Mount Pleasant Hotel at Bretton Woods is open, and the Mount Washington opens on July 8, while the Hotel Champlain at Ruff Point will be opened on June 24. Soon all the summer hotels will be in full swing, and the tourist will have no excuse for not spending his surplus money on this side of the Atlantic.

* * * * *

There has been a reduction of 25 per cent. in the premium for a general collision insurance. This is due to the improved highways and the decrease in the liability to accidents, to say nothing about the improvement in the makes of motors and their control systems. All auto owners hope that there will soon be reductions in other classes of insurance. Members of the Automobile Club, of Canada, have special rates of insurance among other privileges.

* * * * *

Those owners who have not yet started their cars for the season should be careful to see that there is good ventilation in their garage before trying out their engine with the door closed. One owner neglected this a short time ago, and was overcome by the fumes from the exhaust. The opportune arrival of a neighbor probably saved his life. Fresh air is a splendid thing—even in a garage.

Quite a number of people tried out the Island tour that I gave last week, and were surprised and delighted at the variety and beauty of the scenery to be found so near at home. They found the road at Pointe aux Trembles and at either end of Ste. Genevieve very bad though, as they were told. Wouldn't it be possible for the local authorities to do something as a temporary measure—even if it is only to fill in the holes with fine stone?

* * * * *

The local manager of the Ford Company, C. S. Hoben, and the local manager of the Goodyear Tire Company, W. J. McNally, drove from Montreal to Prescott to take part in the reliability trial last week end. They said the mud was six or seven inches deep on the Prescott road, and you couldn't distinguish the color of any of the cars after covering a few miles. The best way to get to Prescott is via Rouse's Point, Moore's, Chateauguay (N.Y. State), Malone, Potsdam, Canton, Ogdensburg and Prescott, a distance of 176 miles and good roads all the way.

* * * * *

Do you know that you are liable to set your gasoline supply on fire when pouring oil through chamois in the funnel? Friction sets up an electrical current, and this may cause a spark which will jump from the funnel to the tank. If it strikes the spot where the gasoline vapor is mixed with air an explosion will follow, especially in cold dry weather. An engineer says the simplest safeguard is to "ground" the funnel, by keeping the nozzle of the filling pipe in metal contact with the tank being filled—thus the electrical energy has a continuous circuit to earth.

* * * * *

Manufacturers of devices or liquids which they claim will cut the gasoline bill in half—more or less—don't agree with the engineers who wrote the article in the Club Journal of the A.C.A. that they are fakes. Some of them are ready to make tests on any car of their product, and there may be something more about them in these columns later on. Anything that will reduce the gasoline bill will be welcomed by the automobilist, especially when it is 32 cents a gallon.

* * * * *

Dr. Desaulniers, M.L.A., is authority for the statement that a start has been made on the roads at St. Bruno and St. Basil, which will connect up the route from Victoria Bridge to St. Hubert, St. Bruno, St. Basil to Beloeil, and on to the good road along the historic and scenic Richelieu River country.

* * * * *

He further says that the river road from Longueuil to Bouchierville will be started this year—for which all who like to be beside the water in the hot days and evenings will be very thankful. There is no reason why any municipality should be laggard in carrying out road improvements. The Provincial Government will lend them the money for forty years at 2 per cent interest—and who could resist the temptation to borrow at such at rate?

* * * * *

Just to show what the Provincial Government is doing for the good roads movement, Dr. Desaulniers, who as an M.L.A. speaks with authority, says that there is only $800,000 left of the $15,000,000 which the Government borrowed three years ago, so that now they are apportioning this out among the different countries who are making roads so that they can continue their work. Next session, however, he adds, it is understood that the Government will ask the House to authorise the borrowing of a larger sum to continue the policy. Up to date the demands for grants for the construction of good roads made to the Department at Quebec reaches the great total of $20,000,000. And they are still coming in. Municipalities should jump into the scheme early to avoid the crowding out which seems inevitable in the days to come.

* * * *

There is quite a discussion going on as to what causes roads to become wavy. To the engineer the answer is simple—an unstable foundation is the primary cause, the use of poor material which permits the trafic to move the bed of the road. The only permanent cure is to give the road an absolutely rigid base.

* * * * *

The manager of the touring bureau of the American Automobile Association wants a photograph of the two-wheel cart which the farmers use on the Montreal-Chambly Road.

* * * * *

A commentator across the border says "When it comes to overhauling a car or repairing it the easiest way is the best—if you don't mind doing the work over again!"

* * * *

Two or three owners have lost their cars from outside residences or hotels and other public places during the past week or so. It reminds one of the truth of the statement that because a man is seen walking it does not necessarily follow that he hasn't a car. It may be in the hands of the repair man, or the chauffeur (or some other person) may be giving his best girl a joy ride.

* * * * *

Speeders in Westmount, along their splendid main thoroughfare have found that it doesn't pay to disobey the law. The speed officers are very active along the King Edward Highway, Lachine, St. Lambert, Westmount and Maisonneuve, as well as in the city, and very rightly so. Motorists should use discretion in travelling and remember that the legal limit is 14 miles per hour in cities and closely built up districts and eighteen miles outside, with a limit of fourteen miles at street crossings.

The Automobile Club is to take up the question of having gongs kept ringing by street cars at dangerous suburban crossings where there is a steep grade. Some of the cars could not stop if any vehicle came on to the track not knowing of their approach round a curve. In any case, "Stop, look, listen" should be the slogan for all drivers of vehicles before attempting to pass over a railway or suburban car crossing.

• • • •

A new fuel is being made in the capital of Durban, S. Africa, called Natalite. It consists of 60 per cent alcohol obtained from molasses and 40 per cent ether, and official tests by the Royal Automobile Club show excellent results. Will it bring down the price of gasoline?

• • • •

Complaints are made of the excessive charges made by some garage owners for repairs. The latter say they cannot tell what needs to be replaced until they take a car down, and they are simply told to go ahead and put the machine right. The best way is to get a written estimate of what repairs are needed and the cost—it means but little delay and saves unpleasantness.

• • • •

Why don't the police get after those nuisances who persist in using their cut-outs when going up an incline? It doesn't add to the horse-power of a good engine, it damages the roads because the unchecked explosions blow the surface away, it is a nuisance to everyone around, and above all it is strictly forbidden by law.

There has been "discovered" by J. R. Douglas a well-known local automobilist and director of the Automobile Club of Canada a new State road to Loon Lake, which is a favorite re-

ANOTHER PRETTY TOUR TO BEAUTY SPOTS NEAR CITY

The tour which is given this week is through country which has been termed by many who have gone over it the Brettonwoods of Quebec and anyone who has visited the district which these two words indicate over the border will realise that it stands for something very pretty. The route which is outlined covers a distance of seventy-three miles, the major portion of which is over good roads. In one or two places the roads are of clay or sand, but these make smooth going in dry weather. It should be understood, however that if the weather should be wet, or there has been heavy rain within a day or two of the proposed trip, it is inadvisable to undertake it. There will be plenty of fine days before the summer is over, and Nature is not at its best in June only.

Should there be any alterations in the condition of the roads from that indicated in this or any other of the articles, these pages are always open to those who are kind enough to give other autoists the benefit of their knowledge, while general news about road conditions will be welcome at all times.

Starting from McGill street to Victoria Bridge, the best route is to go west on Notre Dame street to Murray street and then down that to Welington bridge along Bridge street to the Victoria Bridge, which, it should be remembered can only be crossed in daylight for military reasons. The toll for an automobile and driver is twenty-five cents return, with five cents each way for every passenger. After crossing the bridge the route which is being outlined turns to the left under the arch and proceeds along the main thoroughfare till Victoria avenue is reached. Here curve to the right down the avenue for about a block and then turn left along the street now known as Bird street, but which is to be renamed Desaulniers avenue. This will take you on asphalt or concrete pavements through Montreal South to Longueuil, and by following the car tracks you reach the Chambly Road. Turn to the right and proceed along the Chambly Road to Chambly, a distance of sixteen miles from the city, and then go on to the village of Chambly Basin, crossing the canal bridge into the village of Chambly Canton. Go ahead, following the shore of the Richelieu River, and at the first canal bridge on the right turn over the bridge and then immediately turn left, following the Richelieu Canal to the city of St. Johns, which is twelve miles from Chambly, or twenty-eight miles from Montreal. It is all pavement with the exception of half a mile in the vicinity of the dam west of Chambly, which is not yet improved, but which the Automobile Club of Canada are trying to get done by the people who are responsible. On arrival at St. Johns cross over on the new bridge of the Richelieu River to the village of Iberville via St. Gregoire and St. Brigide. The roads here are of clay and sand with some worn stretches of macadam. Proceed to the city of Farnham, which is eighteen miles from St. John, making a half circle en route of Mount Johnson, while just outside the city there is an excellent view of the Green Mountains.

On leaving Farnham you travel a distance of eleven miles on clay and sand roads, which are alright in fine weather, but impassable after heavy rain, passing through the village of St. Brigide again and proceeding to St. Angele, where you strike the new macadam road, which takes you to Marieville, four miles distant. From there you proceed to Richelieu over a macadam road, which is badly worn in places, but which is passable at all times, and cross the free bridge over the river to Chambly, turning to the right on leaving the bridge and retracing the route followed in going from Montreal to Chambly.

The drive is a very pleasant one on a fine day, and only sixteen miles of it are covered twice, while the river scenery and the views of the mountains along the St. Johns road are full of variety and interest.

Infectious diseases are unknown in Greenland on account of the dry, cold atmosphere.

John Ross Now Builds Cars in His Own Name

After thirteen years of active work in the building of automobiles for various manufacturers under other than the name of Ross, the Ross Automobile Company of Detroit has entered actively into the manufacturing of the Ross car, an eight-cylinder production, combining many of the important details of cars constructed successfully in the past for other manufacturers.

It was during this time that John Ross built up in his own mind an ideal car, a car to meet the requirements of all who knew real value in an automobile. About a year ago Mr. Ross decided to enter upon the market with the Ross Eight, and the car has met with great success.

Note that there are only TWO (2) layers of these giant Cords, in any Silvertown Cord Tire, whatever its dimensions,—with a layer of live Rubber between, to absorb friction.
Then bear in mind that each of these TWO flat, rubber-impregnated, Cords is STRONG enough to lift a man's weight.
You have here the secret of that marvellous ENDURANCE, in Silvertown Cord Tires, which has made it possible for the Gladiators of the Race-Track to TAKE OUT OF the Motor Cars they drive, ALL the speed which the Builders of these Cars can put INTO them.
That no "Thread" Tires, (calling themselves by the Silvertown name of "Cord" Tires), show pictures of their 5 to 7 layers of Thread construction,—is significant.
But, that none of them are SEEN, or HEARD from on the Race-Track (which is the Crucible for testing Tire ENDURANCE)—is MORE than significant.
Silvertowns have never been intended as mere RACING Tires.
But, the fact that the Speed-Kings of the Race-Track elect to PAY FOR THEM, when they could have other Tires free for the asking, is mighty well worth noting.

SILVERTOWN Cord Tires, not only give PRESTIGE, Ease-of-Riding, and Aristocratic Elegance to Cars equipped with them but they also add:—
—1st—17% more Net-Power and Speed to same Car.
—2nd—30% further Coasting Quality.
—3rd—25% more Mileage, per Gallon of Gasolene.
And,—this latter feature soon pays for the relatively small additional cost which SILVERTOWN Cord Tire Construction makes necessary, per Tire.
No Thread (or so-called Cord) Tires average "LARGER."
The demand for Silvertown Cord Tires has, for nearly two years, far exceeded our capacity for production.
But Silvertown Cord Tires may NOW be had through all GOODRICH Dealers and Branches.

McLAUGHLIN CARS WON HONORS IN RELIABILITY TEST

Had First Four in Ontario Tour, with Goodyear Tires

The reliability tour from the Canadian capital into the State of New York, which took place last week, and excited a great deal of interest all along the route. It not only gave motorists a chance to sample the terrible roads between Ottawa and Prescott, which was the first leg of the journey, and where conditions were made worse than ordinary by a heavy rainfall of eighteen hours directly before the start, following on several weeks of more or less continuous rain, but it also enabled an impetus to be given to the Good Roads movement in Ontario, as well as permitted of the celebration of the exchange of licenses between Ontario and New York State by a large body of motorists.

As to the reliability tour itself the McLaughlin cars carried off the first four prizes, and the contest must be regarded as a triumph for them and their drivers, as well as for the Goodyear tires with which they were equipped. The winner was G. B. McKay, who finished the run to Gouverneur with a perfect score of a thousand points, this car not even losing a point on the secret schedule run, which put paid to the aspirations of so many of the drivers. The fifth prize went to a Dodge car, and the sixth to an Overland, while the McLaughlin cars were the next three in order to finish on points, followed by a Russell, Ford, Chevrolet, and Briscoe.

The first prize was a silver shield presented by the Ottawa Free Press, who organized and managed the tour with an executive board representing the Ottawa Valley Motor Car Association and the Ottawa motor dealers. G. B. McKay also won ten golden sovereigns presented by C. H. Carlisle of the Goodyear Tire Company of Canada, and the silver cup presented by the McLaughlin Motor Co. E. E. Code won the silver cup given by the Mayor of Ogdensburg and the cup of the McLaughlin Co., for the second entry, and F. Wilson the silver cup given by Mayor Porter of Ottawa and the McLaughlin cup for their third entry. Sam Rosenthal won the silver cup of the Overland Company for their best entry and J. W. Jette the Ford prize.

Penalties were comparatively few for even on the bad roads between Ottawa and Prescott which called forth all the skill of each individual driver, there were few points lost and all finished with good high marks.

NEW ACCIDENTS.

Tire trouble and skidding caused the greater part of the woes and worries of the contestants and even of these minor troubles there were very few. The first lap of the road, from Ottawa to Prescott, was enough to make even the bravest driver quail, but all who started went through in style.

It was the first reliability tour to enter the United States from Eastern Canada and the first organized party of tourists to enter New York State since the arrangement for the interchange of automobile licenses went into effect.

The route from Ottawa to the international boundary has not yet been improved, but the necessary legislation has been secured from every municipality en route and from the provincial Government at Toronto to build a permanent highway. For some reason delay is occurring in carrying out the scheme and it was to give a further impetus to the plan to build the highway that the tour was organized.

The roads from Ottawa to Prescott are mainly blue clay and after several weeks of more or less continuous rain and eighteen hours of steady downpour directly before the start was made, its condition to be imagined. All tops and side curtains were up and each car wore chains when the tourists began to leave the capital on Friday morning. So heavy was the downpour that in some of the older cars it was necessary to raise umbrellas to keep the water off the occupants.

The first control point was at Smithville, where lunch was served by the Red Cross Society. Prescott was reached during the afternoon and during the evening the cars were ferried across to Ogdensburg where the city of Ogdensburg parked them under police protection for the night.

The next day the run was made to Gouverneur, forty-three miles over state roads by way of Canton and the return was made to Ogdensburg in the afternoon.

At Prescott a big good roads demonstration was held, and resolutions were passed urging the Ontario Government to at once take in hand the improvement of the road between Ottawa and that city. The Hon. D. J. Reid, Minister of Customs said he would make it a point to go to the Ontario Government and tell them how absolutely necessary it was to have the Ottawa-Prescott highway—in fact he wanted a good trunk road right through the province and clear across Canada with good connecting systems branching off.

It was mentioned that many additional customs men had been placed at Niagara Falls, Windsor and Bridgeburg to deal with the heavy increase in motor traffic since the reciprocal arrangement regarding licenses between the New York State and Ontario had come into force.

At Gouverneur the party was met at the outskirts of the village by the President, Mr. Tait, and the officials of the village and a fleet of seventy-five automobiles. The official party were guests at dinner at Presbott the evening previous and at lunch on Saturday at Gouverneur.

Addresses were made on the village square by the Hon. Francis M. Hugo, Secretary of State at New York, and the officials of the New York State Highway department who were present, as well as by the Ottawa contingent.

At Ogdensburg in the evening the granting of interchange of licenses was celebrated by a public meeting in the opera house, arranged by the New York State Automobile Association, at whch Mr. Hugo, and the officials of the Highway Department and the automobile association, as well as several of the Canadians took part.

While there were representatives of the Dominion Government present at the good roads demonstration, and many officials from the New York State there was not anybody to represent the Ontario Government or the Ontario Highway Department. The Minister of Militia showed his interest by sending his Cadillac "8" on the tour.

Plans have already been made to conduct the contest in 1917 by way of Ogdensburg, Canton, Gouverneur, Watertown and Alexandria Bay. The finish will be at Ottawa. Motor boats for the entire party have been promised for a day among the Thousand Islands of Alexandria Bay.

Near Drente, Holland, the petrified body of a woman buried 1,700 years ago has been excavated.

AUTO DESIGNER BUILT FIRST CAR MANY YEARS AGO

James G. Heaslet, in charge of engineering and production of the Studebaker Corporation, belongs to the limited few who have been in the automobile industry practically since its inception.

Due to Mr. Heaslet's modesty, more than any other single factor, it is not generally known, even in the automobile industry, that he first designed an automobile some nineteen years ago—when the automobile industry was in its swaddling clothes."

It is a far cry from the first horseless carriage which Mr. Heaslet designed to the present highly developed series seventeen Studebaker four-cylinder and six-cylinder models. Yet through all the years he has never deviated from his policy of adhering to a dignified design of the product for which he was responsible; of so designing a car, for instance, that the owner would not find his automobile becoming obsolete in a year.

It is doubtful if any business has held out greater temptations to engineers to change from a well-defined ideal to a whim of the moment than has the automobile industry.

That Mr. Heaslet, through all the years of his association with the automobile industry has been a man of vision is more apparent today, than ever before. History shows that the ideas, untried and experimental, which he refused to be swayed by, sprang into existence only to disappear again.

Mr. Heaslet is an engineer by profession, yet he combines his ability to design with a rare appreciation of what sort of automobile people want. To him is given credit for working out the quality standards which dominate in Studebaker cars; and for arriving at the present unusual proportion between value and price.

"It is my experience that people have changed in their ideas of what counts for most in an automobile," says Mr. Heaslet. "They are no longer swayed by unique or novel design, but by real worth. They want the car that offers the most all-around value for the amount of money they are willing to spend, and they use common-sense methods of determining that value. They look for power, dignified design, roomy comfort, easy riding quality, good looks that do not become obsolete in a year, and the ability of the car to stand up under hard usage. The great majority of buyers will choose a car that is a well-balanced unit, rather than a car of faddish design or one that is over-developed in one or two points, and under-developed in others.

"I have always taken pride in the fact that the owner of a Studebaker car would not be ashamed to drive it two or three years. In other words, Studebaker cars have never showed radical changes in appearance each year so as to make a man driving last year's model feel that he was a year behind the procession. Of course, there are people who seek novel and faddish appearance of design, but it is an element in the fast diminishing minority."

Chinese Motor Engineer Called Back to Own Land

Following the death of President Yuan Shi Khai, the Chinese Government has cabled C. C. Fu, a young Chinese engineer, who has been taking a course of instruction in Kenosha works of The Thomas B. Jeffery Company, to return at once to his native land.

Mr. Fu, a graduate of the University of Michigan, was sent to the Jeffery Company last February. He donned overalls and jumper with the willingness characteristic of the race, and started to work his way through the various departments. A few weeks ago he was transferred to the export sales department, under J. A. Rose, and was demonstrating there, equally as well as he had in the shops, his ready grasp of things.

STOCK SAXON WON HONORS IN SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION

Before 5,000 enthusiastic spectators, a stock Saxon Six captured two firsts and a third place, and won the most points in the demonstration contest held at the San Diego Exposition Motor Demonstration Show. Although exceeded in both power and number of cylinders by higher-priced entries, the Saxon was the only car which won the trophy in two events.

The performance was so convincing that a spectator bought and paid for the victorious "Six" on the Exposition Grounds and, without waiting to get it cleaned up, drove the winning car home.

The hill climb, which the Saxon won, was one of the most gruelling ever staged. Contestants in this event were required to drive down the fifty-five per cent. grade of Exposition hill and up the thirty-five per cent. pitch. Then, the drivers were obliged to turn around and reverse the order of descending and climbing. The Saxon not only made the best time, but was one of the few cars able to reach the top of the fifty-five per cent. grade.

More expensive cars were defeated in the relay race. The Saxon romped around the track in fast time, winning the award of the judges, the applause of the assembly and five additional points.

Then, just to demonstrate its flexibility in the quick "get-away" event, the Saxon won an even break with a higher-priced machine for third, beating the time of one 12-cylinder and two eight-cylinder cars.

Probably no stock car has ever given a better demonstration than the Saxon gave at the San Diego Exposition—first in the hill-climbing, proving ample power; first in the relay, showing high speed; and third in the quick "get-away," completing the remarkable showing of the car.

Two hundred and one Reo dealers and buyers came to the factory at Lansing in one week and drove their cars away. Fifteen to twenty dealers a day is the average, nor does the shortage of railway cars alone account for this. Many dealers, and especially buyers, derive a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction in driving their own car right from the factory to their home.

The Maxwell Company has not increased their prices. We do not know what their plans are, but we do know and you know that materials entering into the construction of good automobiles now cost from 20 to 300 per cent more than they did six months ago.

Nothing is to be gained by delay. Much may be lost.

The Automobile Club is to take up the question of having gongs kept ringing by street cars at dangerous suburban crossings where there is a steep grade. Some of the cars could not stop if any vehicle came on to the track not knowing of their approach round a curve. In any case, "Stop, look, listen" should be the slogan for all drivers of vehicles before attempting to pass over a railway or suburban car crossing.

Complaints are made of the excessive charges made by some garage owners for repairs. The latter say they cannot tell what needs to be replaced until they take a car down, and they are simply told to go ahead and put the machine right. The best way is to get a written estimate of what repairs are needed and the cost—it means but little delay and saves unpleasantness.

Why don't the police get after those nuisances who persist in using their cut-outs when going up an incline? It doesn't add to the horse-power of a good engine, it damages the roads because the unchecked explosions blow the surface away, it is a nuisance to everyone around, and above all it is strictly forbidden by law.

There has been "discovered" by J. R. Douglas a well-known local automobilist and director of the Automobile Club of Canada a new State road to Loon Lake, which is a favorite resort of Montreal tourists. Instead of going via Plattsburg as has been the custom, you branch off at Rouse's Point and go over to Malone (N.Y.) and from there to Bloomingdale, a distance of forty-three miles on a new State road. From there to Lake Loon is thirteen miles of new road, with the exception of one mile which is not bad. The whole distance is approximately 158 miles from Montreal, and Mr. Douglas came back from the Lake to the city yesterday in seven and a half hours, including a stop for lunch. There is a fine hotel on the shore of the Lake.

ANOTHER PRETTY TOUR TO BEAUTY SPOTS NEAR CITY

The tour which is given this week is through country which has been termed by many who have gone over it the Bretton Woods of Quebec and anyone who has visited the district which these two words indicate over the border, will realise that it stands for something very pretty. The route which is outlined covers a distance of seventy-three miles, the major portion of which is over good roads. In one or two places the roads are of clay or sand, but these make smooth going in dry weather. It should be understood, however that if the weather should be wet, or there has been heavy rain within a day or two of the proposed trip, it is inadvisable to undertake it. There will be plenty of fine days before the summer is over, and Nature is not at its best in June only.

Should there be any alterations in the condition of the roads from that indicated in this or any other of the articles, these pages are always open to those who are kind enough to give other autoists the benefit of their knowledge, while general news about road conditions will be welcome at all times.

Starting from McGill street to Victoria Bridge, the best route is to go west on Notre Dame street to Murray street and then down that to Welington Bridge along Bridge street to the Victoria Bridge, which, it should be remembered can only be crossed in daylight for military reasons. The toll for an automobile and driver is twenty-five cents return, with five cents each way for every passenger. After crossing the bridge the route which is being outlined turns to the left under the arch and proceeds along the main thoroughfare till Victoria avenue is reached. Here curve to the right down the avenue for about a block and then turn left along the street now known as Bird street, but which is to be renamed Desaulniers avenue. This will take you on asphalt or concrete pavements through Montreal South to Longueuil, and by following the car tracks you reach the Chambly Road. Turn to the right and proceed along the Chambly Road to Chambly, a distance of sixteen miles from the city, and then go on to the village of Chambly Basin, crossing the canal bridge into the village of Chambly Canton. Go ahead, following the shore of the Richelieu River, and at the first canal bridge on the right turn over the bridge and then immediately turn left, following the Richelieu Canal to the city of St. Johns, which is twelve miles from Chambly, or twenty-eight miles from Montreal. It is all pavement with the exception of half a mile in the vicinity of the dam west of Chambly, which is not yet improved, but which the Automobile Club of Canada are trying to get done by the people who are responsible. On arrival at St. Johns cross over on the new bridge of the Richelieu River to the village of Iberville via St. Gregoire and St. Brigide. The roads here are of clay and sand with some worn stretches of macadam. Proceed to the city of Farnham, which is eighteen miles from St. John, making a half circle en route of Mount Johnson, while just outside the city there is an excellent view of the Green Mountains.

On leaving Farnham you travel a distance of eleven miles on clay and sand roads, which are alright in fine weather, but impassable after heavy rain, passing through the village of St. Brigide again and proceeding to St. Angele, where you strike the new macadam road, which takes you to Marieville, four miles distant. From there you proceed to Richelieu over a macadam road, which is badly worn in places, but which is passable at all times, and cross the free bridge over the river to Chambly, turning to the right on leaving the bridge and retracing the route followed in going from Montreal to Chambly.

The drive is a very pleasant one on a fine day, and only sixteen miles of it are covered twice, while the river scenery and the views of the mountains along the St. Johns road are full of variety and interest.

Infectious diseases are unknown in Greenland on account of the dry, cold atmosphere.

John Ross Now Builds Cars in His Own Name

After thirteen years of active work in the building of automobiles for various manufacturers under other than the name of Ross, the Ross Automobile Company of Detroit has entered actively into the manufacturing of the Ross car, an eight-cylinder production, combining many of the important details of cars constructed successfully in the past for other manufacturers.

It was during this time that John Ross built up in his own mind an ideal car, a car to meet the requirements of all who knew real value in an automobile. About a year ago Mr. Ross decided to enter upon the market with the Ross Eight, and the car has met with great success.

The 1st,—2nd,—3rd,—and 4th Places, and Prizes, were won on SILVERTOWN CORD TIRES.

De Palma,—Indianapolis, May 31st, 1915 500 Mile Race, at 89¼ Miles per hour	Anderson,—Sheepshead Bay, Oct. 9th, 1915 350 Mile Race, at 102 Miles per hour

Note that there are only TWO (2) layers of these giant Cords, in any Silvertown Cord Tire, whatever its dimensions,—with a layer of live Rubber between, to absorb friction.
Then bear in mind that each of these TWO flat, rubber-impregnated, Cords is STRONG enough to lift a man's weight.
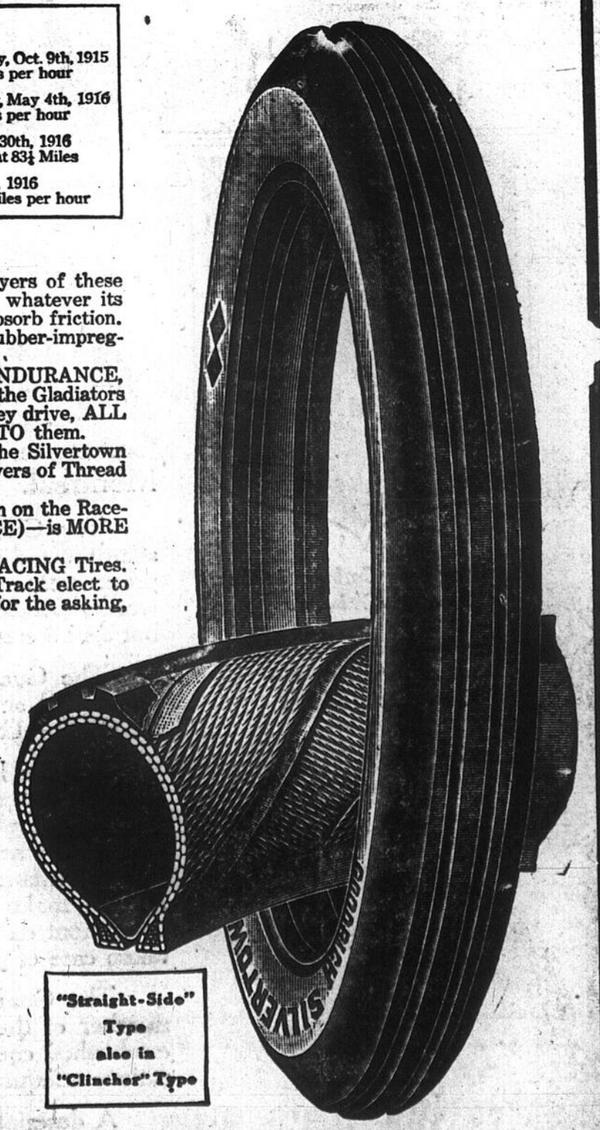
You have here the secret of that marvellous ENDURANCE, in Silvertown Cord Tires, which has made it possible for the Gladiators of the Race-Track to TAKE OUT OF the Motor Cars they drive, ALL the speed which the Builders of these Cars can put INTO them.
That no "Thread" Tires, (calling themselves by the Silvertown name of "Cord" Tires), show pictures of their 5 to 7 layers of Thread construction,—is significant.
But, that none of them are SEEN, or HEARD from on the Race-Track (which is the Crucible for testing Tire ENDURANCE)—is MORE than significant.
Silvertowns have never been intended as mere RACING Tires.
But, the fact that the Speed-Kings of the Race-Track elect to PAY FOR THEM, when they could have other Tires free for the asking, is mighty well worth noting.



"Straight-Side" Type also in "Clincher" Type

SILVERTOWN Cord Tires, not only give PRESTIGE, Ease-of-Riding, and Aristocratic Elegance to Cars equipped with them but they also add:—
—1st—17% more Net-Power and Speed to same Car.
—2nd—30% further Coasting Quality.
—3rd—25% more Mileage, per Gallon of Gasolene.
And,—this latter feature soon pays for the relatively small additional cost which SILVERTOWN Cord Tire Construction makes necessary, per Tire.
No Thread (or so-called Cord) Tires average "LARGER."
The demand for Silvertown Cord Tires has, for nearly two years, far exceeded our capacity for production.
But Silvertown Cord Tires may NOW be had through all GOODRICH Dealers and Branches.

McLAUGHLIN CARS WON HONORS IN RELIABILITY TEST

Had First Four in Ontario Tour, with Goodyear Tires

The reliability tour from the Canadian capital into the State of New York, which took place last week-end excited a great deal of interest all along the route. It not only gave motorists a chance to sample the terrible roads between Ottawa and Prescott, which was the first leg of the journey, and where conditions were made worse than ordinary by a heavy rainfall of eighteen hours directly before the start, following on several weeks of more or less continuous rain, but it also enabled an impetus to be given to the Good Roads movement in Ontario, as well as permitted of the celebration of the exchange of licenses between Ontario and New York State by a large body of motorists.

As to the reliability tour itself the McLaughlin cars carried off the first four prizes, and the contest must be regarded as a triumph for them and their drivers, as well as for the Goodyear tires with which they were equipped. The winner was G. B. McKay, who finished the run to Gouverneur with a perfect score of a thousand points, this car not even losing a point on the secret schedule run, which put paid to the aspirations of so many of the drivers. The fifth prize went to a Dodge car, and the sixth to an Overland, while the McLaughlin cars were the next three in order to finish on points, followed by a Russell, Ford, Chevrolet, and Briscoe.

The first prize was a silver shield presented by the Ottawa Free Press, who organized and managed the tour with an executive board representing the Ottawa Valley Motor Car Association and the Ottawa motor dealers. G. B. McKay also won ten golden sovereigns presented by C. H. Carlisle of the Goodyear Tire Company of Canada, and the silver cup presented by the McLaughlin Motor Co. E. E. Code won the silver cup given by the Mayor of Ogdensburg and the cup of the McLaughlin Co., for the second entry, and F. Wilson the silver cup given by Mayor Porter of Ottawa and the McLaughlin cup for their third entry. Sam Rosenthal won the silver cup of the Overland Company for their best entry and J. W. Jette the Ford prize.

Penalties were comparatively few for even on the bad roads between Ottawa and Prescott which called forth all the skill of each individual driver, there were few points lost and all finished with good high marks.

FEW ACCIDENTS.

Tire trouble and skidding caused the greater part of the woes and worries of the contestants and even of these minor troubles there were very few. The first lap of the road, from Ottawa to Prescott, was enough to make even the bravest driver quail, but all who started went through in fine style.

It was the first reliability tour to enter the United States from Eastern Canada and the first organized party of tourists to enter New York State since the arrangement for the interchange of automobile licenses went into effect.

The route from Ottawa to the international boundary has not yet been improved, but the necessary legislation has been secured from every municipality en route and from the provincial Government at Toronto to build a permanent highway.

For some reason delay is occurring in carrying out the scheme and it was to give a further impetus to the plan to build the highway that the tour was organized.

The roads from Ottawa to Prescott are mainly blue clay and after several weeks of more or less continuous rain and eighteen hours of a steady downpour directly before the start was made, its condition can be imagined. All tops and side curtains were up and each car wore chains when the tourists began to leave the capital on Friday morning.

So heavy was the downpour that in some of the older cars it was necessary to raise umbrellas to keep the water off the occupants.

The first control point was at Kemptville, where lunch was served by the Red Cross Society. Prescott was reached during the afternoon and during the evening the cars were ferried across to Ogdensburg where the city of Ogdensburg parked them under police protection for the night.

The next day the run was made to Gouverneur, forty-three miles over state roads by way of Canton and the return was made to Ogdensburg in the afternoon.

At Prescott a big good roads demonstration was held, and resolutions were passed urging the Ontario Government to at once take in hand the improvement of the road between Ottawa and that city. The Hon. D. J. Reid, Minister of Customs said he would make it a point to go to the Ontario Government and tell them how absolutely necessary it was to have the Ottawa-Prescott highway—in fact he wanted a good trunk road right through the province and clear across Canada with good connecting systems branching off.

It was mentioned that many additional customs men had been placed at Niagara Falls, Windsor and Bridgeburg to deal with the heavy increase in motor traffic since the reciprocal arrangement regarding licenses between the New York State and Ontario had come into force.

At Gouverneur the party was met at the outskirts of the village by the President, Mr. Tait, and the officials of the village and a fleet of seventy-five automobiles. The official party were guests at dinner at Presbott the evening previous and at lunch on Saturday at Gouverneur.

Addresses were made on the village square by the Hon. Francis M. Hugo, Secretary of State at New York, and the officials of the New York State Highway department who were present, as well as by the Ottawa contingent.

At Ogdensburg in the evening the granting of interchange of licenses was celebrated by a public meeting in the opera house, arranged by the New York State Automobile Association, at which Mr. Hugo, and the officials of the Highway Department and the automobile association, as well as several of the Canadians took part.

While there were representatives of the Dominion Government present at the good roads demonstration, and many officials from the New York State there was not anybody to represent the Ontario Government or the Ontario Highway Department. The Minister of Militia showed his interest by sending his Cadillac "8" on the tour.

Plans have already been made to conduct the contest in 1917 by way of Ogdensburg, Canton, Gouverneur, Watertown and Alexandria Bay. The finish will be at Ottawa. Motor boats for the entire party have been promised for a day among the Thousand Islands of Alexandria Bay.

Near Drente, Holland, the petrified body of a woman buried 1,700 years ago has been excavated.

WHO WILL BECOME CHAMPION DRIVER IN AUTO RACES?

The 300 Mile Chicago Derby Race run on Sunday brings the list of drivers competing for the coveted title of Champion Motor Car Driver of America, up to twenty-two contestants. The Bosch Trophy recently donated to be given to the champion driver has just been completed and is now in the hands of the American Automobile Association, which has arranged a plan by which the Champion Motor Car Driver of America can be officially determined.

The competition will run for the entire year and includes all big and officially sanctioned automobile events. A pre-determined number of points are apportioned by the A.A.A. for each race in accordance with the mileage of the contest, together with other factors. The Chicago Derby Race completes the third of the spring series of Championship Award Events, while the big auto contest at Des Moines on June 26th starts the summer series.

The list of the drivers and the points that they now hold is as follows:

1 Dario Resta	1800
2 E. V. Rickenbacher	600
3 W. D'Alene	510
4 Ralph DePalma	470

AUTO DESIGNER BUILT FIRST CAR MANY YEARS AGO

James G. Heaslet, in charge of engineering and production of the Studebaker Corporation, belongs to the limited few who have been in the automobile industry practically since its inception.

Due to Mr. Heaslet's modesty, more than any other single factor, it is not generally known, even in the automobile industry, that he first designed an automobile some nineteen years ago—when the automobile industry was in its swaddling clothes."

It is a far cry from the first horseless carriage which Mr. Heaslet designed to the present highly developed series seventeen Studebaker four-cylinder and six-cylinder models. Yet through all the years he has never deviated from his policy of adhering to a dignified design of the product for which he was responsible; of so designing a car, for instance, that the owner would not find his automobile becoming obsolete in a year.

It is doubtful if any business has held out greater temptations to engineers to change from a well-defined ideal to a whim of the moment than has the automobile industry.

That Mr. Heaslet, through all the years of his association with the automobile industry has been a man of vision is more apparent today, than ever before. History shows that the ideas, untried and experimental, which he refused to be swayed by, sprang into existence only to disappear again.

Mr. Heaslet is an engineer by profession, yet he combines his ability to design with a rare appreciation of what sort of automobile people want. To him is given credit for working out the quality standards which dominate in Studebaker cars; and for arriving at the present unusual proportion between value and price.

"It is my experience that people have changed in their ideas of what counts for most in an automobile," says Mr. Heaslet. "They are no longer swayed by unique or novel design, but by real worth. They want the car that offers the most all-around value for the amount of money they are willing to spend, and they use common-sense methods of determining that value. They look for power, dignified design, roomy comfort, easy riding quality, good looks that do not become obsolete in a year, and the ability of the car to stand up under hard usage. The great majority of buyers will choose a car that is a well-balanced unit, rather than a car of faddish design or one that is over-developed in one or two points, and under-developed in others.

"I have always taken pride in the fact that the owner of a Studebaker car would not be ashamed to drive it two or three years. In other words, Studebaker cars have never showed radical changes in appearance each year so as to make a man driving last year's model feel that he was a year behind the procession. Of course, there are people who seek novel and faddish appearance of design, but it is an element in the fast diminishing minority."

Chinese Motor Engineer Called Back to Own Land

Following the death of President Yuan Shi Khai, the Chinese Government has cabled C. C. Fu, a young Chinese engineer, who has been taking a course of instruction in Kenosha works of The Thomas B. Jeffery Company, to return at once to his native land.

Mr. Fu, a graduate of the University of Michigan, was sent to the Jeffery Company last February. He donned overalls and jumper with the willingness characteristic of the race, and started to work his way through the various departments. A few weeks ago he was transferred to the export sales department, under J. A. Rose, and was demonstrating there, equally as well as he had in the shops, his ready grasp of things.

STOCK SAXON WON HONORS IN SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION

Before 5,000 enthusiastic spectators, a stock Saxon Six captured two firsts and a third place, and won the most points in the demonstration contest held at the San Diego Exposition Motor Demonstration Show. Although exceeded in both power and number of cylinders by higher-priced entries, the Saxon was the only car which won the trophy in two events.

The performance was so convincing that a spectator bought and paid for the victorious "Six" on the Exposition Grounds and, without waiting to get it cleaned up, drove the winning car home.

The hill climb, which the Saxon won, was one of the most gruelling ever staged. Contestants in this event were required to drive down the fifty-five per cent. grade of Exposition hill and up the thirty-five per cent. pitch. Then, the drivers were obliged to turn around and reverse the order of descending and climbing. The Saxon not only made the best time, but was one of the few cars able to reach the top of the fifty-five per cent. grade.

More expensive cars were defeated in the relay race. The Saxon romped around the track in fast time, winning the award of the judges, the applause of the assembly and five additional points.

Then, just to demonstrate its flexibility in the quick "get-away" event, the Saxon won an even break with a higher-priced machine for third, beating the time of one 12-cylinder and two eight-cylinder cars.

Probably no stock car has ever given a better demonstration than the Saxon gave at the San Diego Exposition—first in the hill-climbing, proving ample power; first in the relay, showing high speed; and third in the quick "get-away," completing the remarkable showing of the car.

Two hundred and one Reo dealers and buyers came to the factory at Lansing in one week and drove their cars away. Fifteen to twenty dealers a day is the average, nor does the shortage of railway cars alone account for this. Many dealers, and especially buyers, derive a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction in driving their own car right from the factory to their home.

A Timely Warning

ELEVEN well-known automobiles have advanced in price within the last ninety days.

The Maxwell Company has not increased their prices. We do not know what their plans are, but we do know and you know that materials entering into the construction of good automobiles now cost from 20 to 300 per cent more than they did six months ago.

Nothing is to be gained by delay. Much may be lost.

Not only may you lose several dollars in the purchase price, but you are sacrificing the enjoyment, the relaxation, the health-giving properties—everything, in fact, that makes motoring the favorite pastime of the nation.

We urge you to come in and investigate the Maxwell.

Or, we will refer you to any number of Maxwell owners and let them tell you their own story in their own way.

They will tell you what they have told us. That the Maxwell is good-looking—that it is powerful—that it is comfortable—that it is economical—in short, that it is the best investment they ever made. They will tell you more and they will tell you gladly and freely.

That's the way they feel toward us and the Maxwell Car.

Whatever you do, don't put this off. We have a few cars on hand and can take orders for immediate or future delivery—at present prices. If you can't come in today, phone us for a Maxwell demonstration.

GENERAL BYNG REPLIES TO NOTE OF CONGRATULATION

OTTAWA, June 17.—Messages of congratulations on the gallant attack made by the Canadian troops near Zillebeke as a result of which lost ground was re-captured, have been exchanged between General Julian Byng, commander of the Canadians, and the Government.

Sir Robert Borden sent the following cable to General Byng on Thursday:

"Pray accept and convey to Canadian forces under your command our warmest congratulations upon the gallantry and resourcefulness displayed in recent successful attack."

The answer from General Byng today was as follows:

"All ranks Canadian corps join me in appreciation of congratulations conveyed by your cable."

CANADIANS FETED BY BRIGHTON TOWN

Canadian Associated Press.

LONDON, June 17.—A large contingent from the 12th Battalion of Canadian Infantry, with a band, received a great and enthusiastic reception when they arrived at Brighton, where they are participating in the Allies' week of celebration in aid of war charities. The men were billeted as guests in residents' houses, and were entertained at a luncheon in the Hotel Metropole.

NAMED TO WRITE HISTORY OF WAR

LONDON, June 17.—The Hon. John William Fortescue, librarian at Windsor Castle, has been appointed by the Government to write the official history of the war.

The Hon. John William Fortescue is the fifth son of the third Earl Fortescue and was born in 1859. He has been librarian at Windsor Castle since 1905, and is the author, among other publications of "History of the British Army, 1899-1915."

REFUSES POSITION ON FINANCE BOARD

TORONTO, Ont., June 17.—John A. Paterson, K.C., of Tononto, has telegraphed Winnipeg, refusing the appointment of the General Assembly to succeed the Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant as chairman of the Presbyterian Finance Board.

His reason is that the task of raising the $1,631,000 budget requires undivided attention, which he cannot give, as he has too much other business to look after.

Youthful, Beautiful Skin Easy to Have

You may be as healthy as a bird in the air and still have a poor complexion. Changing seasons and temperatures, winds, dust and dirt, are apt to injure any skin, even though the general health be good. When these external influences spoil the complexion, the natural thing is to remove the spoil by external means. Ordinary mercolized wax will do this. It will actually absorb the weather-soiled film-skin, a little each day. In a week or two you'll have a brand new complexion, a new skin. The exquisitely beautiful and youthful complexion thus acquired, comes so easily, without harm or discomfort, there's no reason why any woman should not adopt this simple treatment. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will not fail in any case.

To quickly remove wrinkles signs of care and age, bathe the face occasionally in a solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz. dissolved in ½ pt. witch hazel. The results will surprise you.—Advertisement.

The wording at the top says: "Greater Berlin, Sugar Card, Non-Transferable. See other side."

The card is divided into six coupons, each one is dated for a week and is good for one half-pound of sugar. If the merchant has any in stock.

On the reverse side it is repeated that the card is for personal use only and that the card or coupons must not be transferred to another, as punishment will be meted out to anyone found guilty of so doing. The merchant is instructed to detach one coupon for each half-pound of sugar delivered and the holder is told that the card does not give absolute right to sugar, but it will be honored by the merchant providing he has a supply on hand.

NOTES AND QUERIES

"ON THE BIAS."

Q.—What is th exact meaning of the phrase "on the bias" as in the sentence "I'm on the bias"? Is it good English?—K. T., Montreal.

A.—"I'm on the bias" is a slang phrase meaning "I'm not feeling in good condition." It is not good English.

PRINCIPLE, NOT EXPEDIENCY.

Q.—What is the right form of the saying about "principle, not expediency."—"George."

A.—In the novel entitled "Sybil," by Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield (1804-1881), we find this sentence in book 2, chapter : "Principle is ever my motto, not expediency."

DEVIL AS ROARING LION.

Q.—Where can I find the quotation about the Devil going around as a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour?—D. A. G., Montreal.

A.—You will find it in the Bible, First Epistle General of Peter, chapter 5, verse 8: "Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour."

"THE ENEMY SHIPS."

Q.—I notice that in official communications, also newspapers and magazines, the expression is used: "The enemy ships." In this case the word enemy is used as an adjective. Is this correct or even allowable in grammatical writing?—W. O R., Montreal.

A.—The word "enemy," in the expression "the enemy ships," is used in an attributive sense, just as one would say "the factory chimney," "the Jones boys." The term has only recently come into use, but the use is accepted as good English.

"PACIFICIST" AND "PACIFIST."

Q.—Which is the best form, pacifist or pacificist; pacifism or pacificism? I notice that prominent English writers use both forms.—F. R., Montreal.

A.—Pacificist is derived from the term pacific, plus the suffix-ist, which is used of nouns to denote an agent, and is correctly formed. Pacifist is derived from pacify, minus the final letter "y," plus the same suffix. The first form is the more scholarly, but the second seems to be in popular favor.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES.

Q.—Could you give me a full list of the wedding anniversaries? I know only a few, such as tin wedding, silver wedding, golden wedding, and wish to get the whole list, if possible.—M. C., Montreal

A.—1st year, paper; 2nd, calico; 3rd, muslin; 4th, silk; 5th, wooden; 6th, iron; 7th, copper; 8th, bronze; 9th, pottery; 10th, tin; 15th, rock-crystal; 20th, china; 25th, silver; 30th, pearl; 35th, coral; 40th, ruby; 45th, sapphire; 50th, golden; 55th, emerald; 60th, diamond; 75th, diamond.

"THE REV. MR. SMITH."

Q.—I find a growing tendency among the people to address a minister of the Gospel as 'Reverend Smith,' or 'Reverend Jones.' If the given name is omitted, is it not correct to say 'Reverend Mister Smith'?—B. S., Montreal.

A.—Persons of culture use the form "the Rev. Mr. Smith" when the first name of the person addressed is not known. When that name is known, the form used may be "Rev. John Smith," but the former is preferred. The form "the Rev. Smith" is vulgar.

THE LOMBARDS IN HISTORY.

Q.—Who were the Lombards, and what part did they play in the history of Europe?—A R. G., Montreal.

A.—The Lombards, a German people, were settled at the beginning of the Christian Era, about the lower Elbe. In the 5th Century we find them in Moravia, and a century later established, a powerful people, between the Adriatic and the Danube. They invaded Italy in 568, and in three years had mastered the north; but they gradually became Italianized, and after the overthrow of their dynasty, by Charlemagne, in 774, they became merged in the Italians. From the 13th Century, Italian merchants, known as Lombards, from Lucca, Florence, Venice, and Genoa, traded largely in England as wool-dealers and bankers, whence the name Lombard street, the great financial centre of London.

AUCTION SALE OF MOTOR BOATS.

The pessimist who happened to walk into Fraser Bros. Auction Rooms on Wednesday morning, would doubtless get the shock of his life. The rooms were crowded with a representative gathering of our citizens, each one keen to gain possession of one of the 15 motor boats displayed for auction sale. The whole affair took a little over an hour and every boat was disposed of in quick order after very spirited bidding. The prices realized were considered good and as an index to financial conditions the auction was an interesting event for the optimist.

WOMEN WORKERS GETTING BUSY IN THE QUEEN CITY

TORONTO, June 17.—Application was made to the Women's Emergency Corps yesterday by a firm of munition manufacturers for 100 women to do munition work.

At present work will be done in ten-hour shifts, and the wages will range from $10.50 to $12 a week. The bonus system will be employed.

Even yet the true basis of the Emergency Corps is not correctly understood in all quarters. It was formed, not as a general employment bureau, but to register women willing to enter the wage-earning world to free men for direct war service. Neither was its object the supplying of cheaper labor for the benefit of employers.

Yesterday a firm applying to the corps for twenty women was asked by Mrs. Willoughby Cummings if they would be used to free men. The firm said "No."

"Then I'm afraid we can't help you," said the president of the corps.

Another large employer of labor who congratulated the women at a meeting the other day on their "splendid patriotism" in offering to supply men's places, received a rude shock when confronted with the plank in the corps' platform, "Equal pay for equal work."

"I had no idea, ladies," he said, in a tone of pained surprise, "I had really no idea that the question of money entered into this matter at all. I thought the move was purely patriotic."

"They'll get to understand in time, I hope," says Mrs. Cummings, "just what we mean by patriotism and by emergency."

Dozens and Dozens of Fine Nainsook and Embroidery Night Gowns .79

This is a really unusual event, this sale of fine lingerie at such a price.

The designs are charming, most of them showing both lace and embroidery.

One gown has the fullness held by tucks below a band of ribbon run through embroidered slots. The upper part and sleeves are of alternate bands of lace and embroidery, faggotted together.

Val lace medallions form the lower outline of a deep yoke and kimono sleeves of lace inserted between embroidery panels. Ribbon bows and knots add the finishing touches.

A deep panel of embroidered organdie centres the yoke of this gown, narrow alternate panels of lace and organdie complete it, and are used on the set-in sleeves.

Unusual Corset Covers .25

When they were shown to me, the price was much higher, but for Monday's Selling they will be re-marked to ..... .25

High Grade Suits Reduced to $14.98

Several times that amount wouldn't have bought some of them a few weeks ago. There's more than one that bears the label of a well-known Parisian house. They are all imported and because we never keep style merchandise more than a few weeks, out they must go, regardless of their former prices, which you may see when you come—but come early.

There are forty-one in all, silks, serges, fine wools, gabardines, etc., in beautiful colorings.

There's an Alice blue taffeta with black silk cordings holding the side pleatings and the cross over front effect. A double ruffle of white silk edges the black silk collar and cuffs.

A Paris model in white shows the high stand-away collar beloved of Parisians, and pockets formed by the belt.

A suit of self-plaided black silk has the coat and skirt banded and belted with blue serge.

Old rose serge has been used for a smart model trimmed with wide white military braid.

Cartridge pleats nine inches deep hold the skirt fullness of a suit of wine colored taffeta, the collar is gathered high and cordings and gathers are used on the coat.

Again we say, Come Early.
