New Appearance Made By Pontiff

Vatican City — (AP) — The Pope Sunday night made his second public appearance since becoming ill more than two months ago. He stood in the window of his Vatican palace apartment and blessed 50,000 persons kneeling in St. Peter's square below.

The Pope's only other public appearance since a dangerous gastric ailment put him to bed, Jan. 25 was on March 19. In a message to a congress of radiologists in Rome, the convalescing pontiff said today sickness and suffering can be profitably turned toward purifying the heart and "esteeming more exactly human values."

The message—the Pope's second since he became ill—was published in the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano. It praised the work of radiologists which "makes possible earlier medical attention and affords precious help to all branches of medicine."

Four Dead, 40 Homeless In Ontario Week-End Blazes

By The Canadian Press
Fire struck more than a half-dozen Ontario communities during the week-end, killing four children, leaving 40 persons homeless and doing damage estimated at more than $1,250,000.

The children, three under five years old and the fourth a 12-year-old baby-sitter, died at Galt Saturday night when flames spread from a stove. Dead are three children of Pte. and Mrs. Richard Dolson—Ricky, eight months, Mary 3, and Bobby 4. The baby-sitter was Nancy Wyllie, Mrs. Dolson's sister.

The children's parents were at a Canadian Legion dance when the flames swept through their second-storey apartment. Nancy was believed asleep when the flames spread.

Firemen said Bobby's body was found near a living room window. Ricky was in his crib in the same room. Mary was in a bedroom. Firemen fed oxygen to Bobby for two hours in an attempt to save his life. Ricky was taken through a window by firemen and given

Royalty On Brief Visit To Islands

By GOMER JONES
Cocos Island—(Reuters)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh stepped from the royal yacht Gothic into another world today as they paid a 90-minute visit to this romantic coral group. All 350 inhabitants of Home island, one of the three main islands, gathered along the "main street" of the village as the royal couple drove 300 yards to the house of Mr. and Mrs. Clunies-Ross, the ruling family.

The narrow dirt road was lined by the people of the villages' 18 bungalows which flank one side. A lagoon laps the other side of the street. Six police officers had been flown in from Singapore. So had the jeep which carried the royal couple—normally there is no form of mechanized transportation here.

The brightly clad natives who greeted the royal couple were members of one of the few feudal communities left in the civilized world. No islander who leaves for the mainland is ever allowed to return. There is no currency on the island. The only export is copra. Payment is made on barter system.

The Clunies-Ross family has developed the island as a welfare state for the 1,000 inhabitants during the last 130 years. The present ruler, John Clunies-Ross, 25, is known as the "king of the Cocos."

He is the descendant of a Scottish trader who first reached here in 1825 and was granted a "perpetual lease" over the islands by Queen Victoria.

It was the most quiet, informal and happy reception the Queen and Duke have had during the royal tour. The natives are not by nature noisy and there were no cheers but respectful waves from those at the roadside.

Toscanini Retires As Conductor
New York — (AP) — Arturo Toscanini, whose name means the finest in music to millions, has retired as conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra.

The 87-year-old maestro left his post quietly and without making a special occasion of his last concert, an all-Wagner program in Carnegie Hall Sunday. NBC said he planned to leave the United States in May or June for a visit to his native Italy.

Official word of his retirement was withheld until after the final concert. NBC said this was done at Toscanini's request to avoid a sentimental demonstration by the audience or orchestra, formed 17 years ago especially for him.

Through most of the hour-and-a-quarter broadcast program, Toscanini conducted with his usual vigor. By the last number, however, he quieted noticeably and allowed the music to slide along with no more than a mechanical beat for the "Die Goeterdaemmerung" climax which formerly stirred him to action.

Toscanini, who first conducted in public at the age of 19, leaves a reputation for musical precision and a marvelous memory that enabled him to achieve this goal. But precision wasn't enough. He wanted feeling too.

To sing and instrumentalists he would urge, "Put your heart into it."

At Campbellford in the Peterborough district, 26 persons were left homeless early Sunday when flames burned through part of a downtown business district. Two stores were gutted and loss was estimated at $250,000.

The blaze was believed caused by a short circuit in a snack bar's freezing unit. Ed Stanbury, owner of the snack bar, received face and hand burns.

At Parry Sound, three buildings containing at least six businesses and six apartments were gutted and four families were left homeless in a blaze early Sunday. Damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

The flames were believed to have spread from smouldering fat and oil in the basement of a grocery store in the centre of the downtown area. Destroyed were a Tip Top Tailors' store, a shoe repair shop, paint and wallpaper store, Parry Sound Auto Parts, and a Masonic hall. A taxi stand and restaurant were damaged.

Repeats Refusal To Ask United States To Halt Series Of Tests Planned In Pacific.

London — (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today he believes the United States hydrogen bomb tests increased the chances of world peace more than the chances of world war.

Churchill was replying to a speech by Clement Attlee who said he doesn't think the H-bomb will deter war.

The prime minister said he would not ask the United States to halt its series of H-bomb tests scheduled to continue this month in the Pacific.

Attlee had introduced a Labor party motion saying the hydrogen bomb threatens civilization with "grave danger" and calling on Churchill to try now for a meeting with President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Malenkov to seek some means of easing world fears.

Churchill said: "I also believe we have time, though not too much time, to consider the problems which now confront us and the whole world and talk them over in their new proportions."

However, the prime minister mentioned only what he called public and private discussion "with our friends and allies." The prime minister described Attlee's speech as "thoughtful and inspiring" and added "we agree with almost everything he said." "It is difficult for me to do not feel that he has bridged the gulf between the awe-inspiring facts he mentioned and the practical method of solving the problem by the resolution, moderate and certainly well intentioned, which he has put forward."

"There is a gap between the evils and perils we can all see, which have often been stated, and the practical steps which can, in the circumstances, be taken," Churchill said.

"We are all naturally concerned with the prodigious experiments being carried out in the Pacific. But I do not think there will be any difference between us that we would rather they were being carried out there than in Siberia. Let us thank God for sparing us from the 'dark day' that would follow if Russia instead of the U.S. was carrying on a series of H-bomb tests."

"In fact, I believe that what is happening, and what is going to happen in the future, in the Pacific ocean, increases the chances of world peace rather than the chance of war."

I must repeat that I shall not ask the United States government to stop their series of experiments, which will go on throughout April."

Just before the debate opened, during question time, Churchill rejected demand he tell what he knows about Russian H-bomb tests. Churchill said: "It would not be in the public interest to disclose the extent of our information."

Attlee said he welcomed the Anglo-American decision to call for an early meeting of the United Nations disarmament commission to try again for a system of arms controls but added he did not have a very great deal of faith in banning any particular weapon.

He appealed directly to Churchill to take the lead in "saving civilization."

Calling for a live-and-let-live agreement between east and west, he said the fears of H-bomb destruction are mounting and are worldwide.

But, he added amid cheers "it is not too late."

Attlee was in disagreement with Churchill's contention that the hydrogen bomb might deter war. He said there is still a great danger it will be used in total warfare.

"I do not think that it will by itself prevent wars. There is a danger that people may chance making war in the belief it will not be used and the threat of its use is very dangerous."

"If the existence of a nation is at stake any weapon will be used," he added, and then asked who could doubt that Hitler would have used such a weapon as the H-bomb in his last desperate days.

"There is no guarantee that in some country at some time there may not arise to power a fanatic who hated the human race or believed that all civilization might be destroyed."

The Labor party motion called on the government to take "immediate initiative" in arranging a Big Three meeting.

Amid loud cheers from fellow Labor MPs, Attlee said he acted "with no feeling of panic because we do not panic in this country."

the grave problem raised by development of the H-bomb.

Attlee said the H-bomb as shown by American tests in the Pacific could "devastate the area of London and equally Moscow, Paris, Sydney or any other of the world's great cities."

"It is capable of being increased in size," he added.

Attlee expressed regret over "these innocent Japanese fishermen" injured by the radio-active ash from the American H-bomb blast of March 1.

"But they will not have suffered in vain if that can bring home to people the great extent of the dangers," he declared.

The opposition motion, tabled by Attlee, left-winger Aneurin Bevan and four other leading Labor members, said the H-bomb "constitutes a grave threat to civilization and that any recourse to war may lead to its use."

It called for the Big Three meeting to reconsider reduction and control of armaments, devise "means for removing from all the peoples of the world the fear which now oppresses them" and to strengthen collective peace through the United Nations.

Both Churchill and his Labor critics already are on record in favor of a meeting of the Big Three talks which Churchill himself first proposed 11 months ago.

Panmunjom — (AP) — The Communists are expected to protest officially Tuesday against a five-man South Korean foray into the Korean neutral zone Saturday night in which Red guards killed one and wounded another.

Red China's Peiping radio termed the skirmish a serious violation of the armistice.

The Communists asked a full-dress meeting of the joint military armistice commission Tuesday afternoon. A United Nations spokesman said the Reds probably will bring up the incident.

The Communists charged that five men crossed into the Red sector of the 2 1/2-mile-wide neutral zone Saturday night near Panmunjom and fired on Red guards.

There have been previous minor incidents in the zone but this is the first reported instance where Allied personnel were killed.

The Reds still hold the South Korean they wounded.

The Reds said the five South Koreans opened fire after refusing to answer a challenge. They said Communist police answered the fire and three members of the Allied group fled to the south side of the zone.

Tuesday's Budget To Give Idea On Future Prosperity
By HAROLD MORRISON
Wondering about prosperity? Watch the budget Tuesday.

Besides unveiling what the government plans to do about taxes in 1954-55, Finance Minister Abner will express the government's view of whether prosperity will keep up.

He does this through forecasting the gross national product for the next fiscal year, the sum total of all goods and services to be produced.

The government's tax estimates are based on the GNP. If the GNP rises, there will be more room from which to obtain federal revenues. A decline puts a squeeze on possible federal collections.

Luckily for the federal treasury, the GNP has been rising all through the post-war years, jumping last year by $1,200,000,000 to a peak of $24,200,000,000.

Vietminh Subjected To Further Mass Slaughter In Attack On Fortress Area

Third Ship Of Sealing Fleet Lost

St. John's, Nfld. — (P) — The men of the sealing vessel James Spurrell Saturday became the third crew this year to lose their ship to the treacherous, ice-littered seas to the west of Newfoundland. Near tragedy and heavy property loss have made this one of the least successful seasons in the hundreds of years men have risked their lives hunting the seals that drift southward on flocks of ice from Arctic mating grounds.

Capt. Bob Kean of Corner Brook, Nfld., and his 15-man crew took to dories when gale-force winds shattered the 70-ton Spurrell on a half-submerged reef at Codroy.

The Spurrell was empty; she was returning for her second trip of the season after landing her pelts. She ran into the storm late Friday, and dropped both anchors to keep from blowing ashore. Rising seas parted the lines, and her 36-horse power engine couldn't overcome the pull of waves breaking on the rocks.

Her value was not known, but she was reportedly fully insured.

Only two of the five sealers that went to the ice packs this spring remain. They are the St. John's owned Terra Nova and the Arctic powder out of Halifax. Both had narrow escapes after weeks imprisoned in the grip of ice.

The Newfoundland, commanded by Capt. Fred Blackmore of Port Union, Nfld., went down in 100 fathoms in the Gulf of St. Lawrence when ice crushed her hull early in the season. The 65 crew members followed their captain ashore over a heaving ice pack. Ice caved in the hull of the sealer Truitt off Cape Breton last week. Captain Kristoffer Marlo and his 24-man crew escaped to the accompanying vessel Titus.

Both the Newfoundland and the Truitt carried 7,000 pelts, worth about $35,000, to the bottom. Pelts are worth eight and nine dollars a hundredweight.

Dwindling prices for oil and pelts are the reasons for the rapid drop-off of the industry. Twenty years ago sealing attracted 400 ships and 13,000 hard-bitten sealers each spring.

Tragedy is never far from the red ice of the sealing grounds. The worst occurred in 1914 when the Southern Cross slid beneath the ice with 173 men aboard. In the same year 78 men died when the Newfoundland went down.

Hanoi, Indo-China — (P) — The French high command announced today the defenders of Dien Bien Phu had killed "more than 1,000" Vietminh troops trying to smash their way into the heart of the besieged fortress through its north-west corner.

Heavy fighting raged as the Communist-led rebels battled to widen a gap against a strong French counter-attack supported by tanks, artillery and war planes. French planes throughout the night and early today plastered the rebels with 1,000-pound bombs and fresh barrages of fire bombs.

There was no mention of any attacks by the Communist-led legions in other areas around the beleaguered plain.

In the northwest it was close combat, with French Union infantry under grilling the black-clad Vietminh in hand-to-hand struggle.

The rebels tore one hole in that sector's defenses Friday, overrunning a perimeter post and wrecking it before the French drove them out.

The rebels Sunday night pulled a quarter of a mile back from the heavily assaulted eastern and southeastern defenses of the French-held plain 175 miles west of Hanoi.

Today was the sixth day of steady attack by the fanatic, screaming legions of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh in a renewal of the infantry assaults first launched at the fortress March 13, then broken off three days later.

Authoritative French sources estimated the Vietminh had lost 21,000 killed and wounded — about half their original attacking force — in the three weeks of hand-to-hand fighting, constant artillery duels and massive round-the-clock bombing and strafing.

But the fortress' defenders — French, Viet Namese, North African, Foreign Legionnaires and Thai tribesmen — were still outnumbered.

The Vietminh commander, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, unleashed a big artillery barrage on the Dien Bien Phu airstrip, forcing the French to call off for the time being their plan to fly out wounded in transport planes marked with crosses.

The French had broadcast their plans for the "mercy" flights to Giap and asked for a brief ceasefire.

The French high command said the massive artillery attack was Giap's answer.

Democrats Opposed To Roosevelt

Washington — (P) — Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell has suggested the national Democratic party would best be served if two California candidates — James Roosevelt and Representative Robert L. Condon — get out of the congressional race.

Roosevelt said early today he is not going to withdraw.

Condon, who has protested being described as a security risk, said in a statement he strongly resents Mitchell's view.

The national chairman, wrote Paul Ziffren of Los Angeles, member of the California Democratic national committee, that the party is not supporting either Condon or Roosevelt, eldest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mitchell said the national committee has the right to decide how to use funds available for helping candidates "and in these cases we will exercise our right to withhold support."

Ziffren said in Los Angeles he will ask the California state central committee to meet this week to consider Mitchell's action.

Roosevelt's wife is suing him for separate maintenance. She charged him with adultery in three instances.

Roosevelt's campaign manager, Ed Lybeck, said in Los Angeles he talked at length with Roosevelt and "our sole purpose is to allow the voters of the district to decide."

Condon was barred by the atomic energy commission from a test at the Nevada proving grounds last May 7. Before the Congressional atomic energy committee, he denied under oath that he or any member of his family was a Communist and said he had not inquired into the political beliefs of his former California law partners.

Blind, Crippled, Halifax Man Opens New Campaign

Halifax — (P) — Walter Callow said today he has asked every federal government member to help make his humanitarian movement as big and beneficial as the Red Cross in Canada.

He wants the government to provide him with enough money to have 90 of his specially built invalid coaches in operation throughout Canada. In event of disaster, they can be converted into the world's biggest ambulances.

Callow, who's used to getting what he wants, is confident he'll be granted the money—about $1,500,000.

"I think every member will vote for it, like they voted for the Dominion charter that gave me the chance to operate on a national basis," said the courageous inventor-humanitarian.

"They couldn't vote very well for the charter and not for this, could they?"

Walter, 59, has been crusading a long time to make life happier for North America's crippled veterans and invalids. And he's been flat on his back for 25 of 47 years of blindness, paralysis and almost constant pain.

Mob Attacks Two French Ministers

Paris — (P) — Premier Joseph Laniel nursed sore shins today and Defence Minister Rene Pleven a slapped face after a mob attacked them in protest at the proposed European defence community (EDC).

The 100 or so rioters—identified as supporters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Monarchists and possibly some Communists—broke up a solemn ceremony Sunday at the Arc de Triomphe honoring the defenders of Dien Bien Phu, the Communist-besieged fortress in Indo-China.

With only a thin line of police and a handful of troops on hand, the demonstrators rushed the official party as it started to leave the ceremony.

Laniel was kicked in the shins. A police flying wedge got him to a police car which the rioters then tried to overturn. Police held off the mob and the chauffeur finally rammed the car through the crowd.

Pleven was stranded under the arch alongside France's national shrine, the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Screaming "Resign!" the crowd hurled stones which missed him. Two or three knocked off his hat and glasses. Someone slapped him twice. Another grabbed a handful of his hair.

Pale and seething, Pleven stood with the police in the centre of the crowd until reinforcements finally arrived—almost a half-hour later.

Pleven arrested seven of the demonstrators. Because there had been no advance hint of any demonstration, only a few police were on hand. The rioters held their tongues until Laniel and Pleven emerged from the tomb to place wreaths on the tomb.

Then they tossed anti-EDC leaflets in the air, shouted anti-EDC slogans and yelled "Vive (long live) Juin." This referred to Marshal Alphonse Pierre Juin, dismissed last week from his military posts for failing to meet with Laniel and Pleven to explain an anti-EDC speech.

In a statement Juin washed his hands of the riot. He said: "I do not wish to find myself associated, with this in any manner."

McCarthy Is Cheered By Police Group

New York — (P) — Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) received an enthusiastic reception Sunday from a Roman Catholic audience that later nearly crushed him in efforts to express congratulations.

The senator made a half-hour speech to some 6,000 persons, including Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, at a communion breakfast of the city police department's Holy Name Society.

The audience frequently interrupted with lengthy applause the talk in which he promised to continue fighting communism at home and abroad.

Afterward the crowd pressed so close, trying to shake his hand, that he was practically carried from the room as police bodyguards kept off the crowd.

Some of the audience cried: "McCarthy for President!" The senator was introduced by Rt. Rev. Joseph A. McCaffrey, retiring police chaplain, as a man who "has fought untruth with truth, dishonesty with loyalty, treason with patriotism and Godlessness with Godliness."

The coaches will be used to transport crippled veterans, shut-ins and children suffering from cerebral palsy and polio to hockey and baseball games, church services and picnics.

If there's an emergency, he'll turn the coaches, complete with driver and hostess, over to the government. In 15 minutes one can be transformed into an ambulance capable of carrying 18 stretchers cases, six wheelchairs and 10 patients with minor injuries.

He has three $18,000 coaches already in operation in the Maritime provinces. There isn't a wheelchair put in Nova Scotia or New Brunswick who hasn't been taken on an outing at least once yearly. The chairs enter the coach on a special ramp at the rear.

The coaches carried 11,000 persons last year. Callow designed the coaches himself, although he has never seen or be in them.

"This organization isn't designed to last three or four years, you know. It will last 100 years. It will grow and grow and grow. It will spread through the United States, too."

Callow has had a tragedy-ridden life. A crash while testing a Royal Flying Corps aircraft in 1917 resulted in paralysis 12 years later. His mother and wife died soon after, leaving him to bring up his 10-year-old daughter by selling Christmas cards and real estate.

The last time he was blind, 18 months ago, doctors amputated his legs above the knees.

W. J. C. Sutton Of Stanstead Named Red Cross Head

Rock Island, April 5 — W. J. C. Sutton, Stanstead was named president of the Stanstead-Rock Island-Beebe branch of the Canadian Red Cross, at a well attended general meeting, held at the Rotary room of the Del Monty Hotel, Monday evening.

At the meeting Maurice Moore, also of Stanstead, was named as general chairman of the Red Cross campaign.

Rev. Peter Farrell of Beebe, 1st. vice-president, was in the chair in the absence of the president, Rene Monty. The minutes of the Annual meeting held in 1953 were read by Mr. Moore, who also read the letter of resignation from the secretary, Mrs. Grace Taylor. The resignation was accepted with regret and with appreciation of the vast amount of work done by Mrs. Taylor during her several years in office.

The treasurer's report showed $134.14 on hand. Mrs. E. J. Curtis of the work committee, reported there had not been too much women's work done from Rock Island and Stanstead this past year. Mrs. Carlton Twombly of Beebe, gave a glowing report from the Beebe area.

Fifteen shipments of finished work had been sent to Red Cross headquarters during 1953 consisting of 374 knitted articles, 599 sewed articles, and 78 quilts. Through the generosity of Mrs. Emma Rollins, a very successful "In as Much" tea was held in the Beebe Town hall on Armistice afternoon, 217 baby articles were donated and brought the total to 1278 articles sent to Montreal.

Mrs. Twombly stated that a group of ladies meet about every Tuesday afternoon for Red Cross work. It might also be interesting to know that Mrs. J. A. Boulah, daughter of the late Mrs. Emma Moir, has a record of knitting a sock a day, these are not small socks, either, but with a 15 inch leg length. Also her companion, Miss Lillie Eryou is not to far behind her in knitting the same type of socks.

Miss Elsie McIntosh reported that the disaster committee had only one call last year, when a family of five lost their home by fire, in August and help was given to them in the form of blankets, food, and clothing.

The amount raised last year for the campaign was $1,854.41.

Mr. Moore, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers: honorary members: Miss Jessie Colby, O.B.E., Stanstead; Louis Roberge, M.P., Rock Island; president, W. J. C. Sutton; 1st. vice-president, Earl Bushnell; 2nd. vice-president, Beebe, Frank Finch; Stanstead, Miss Elsie McIntosh; Rock Island, Mrs. C. Lee Jenkins; Heathton, Mrs. C. Smith; Tomifolia, Mrs. R. A vote of thanks was extended to J. A. Grady, through whose kindness the records of the local branch of the Red Cross, dating back to its beginning, during World War I, have been placed, for safe keeping, in the Southern Canada Power Co. vault.

Mrs. Cass, R.N., spoke briefly in regard to having a home nursing course in the Fall, saying the main difficulty is being able to find a suitable place to conduct a ten weeks course.

Mr. Greaves stated he was glad to be of any assistance to the Branch. Mr. Bushnell, spoke briefly, saying he was glad to help in the Red Cross in any way possible. He recalled his years in the service when he had been helped many times.

Mr. Moore reported that he and Mr. Sutton hoped to have a room for the women's work soon. Mrs. Bellam commended the nominating committee on the fine work, getting volunteer officers for 1954.

Mr. Moore responding, said, he felt all officers were sincere in their efforts to aid the Red Cross work.

Rev. Farrell voiced a vote of thanks to Mrs. Twombly and her workers, for the splendid work accomplished in the past year.

Last year several hundred children attended the Red Cross six-weeks swim program at Salem Lake. This course given by expert instructors, cost $1,800. Money is raised through contributions, but the balance is paid by the Red Cross.

Campaign objective is $2,500, and will get under way as soon as possible.

Hollywood—The Laugh Parade: An elephant was supposed to lift Jerry Lewis high above the ground with his trunk, for a scene in "Big Top." Just before a scene camera started to roll, the elephant picked up a bale of hay in his trunk and calmly broke it in half.

Jerry immediately turned to Director Joseph Pevney and said: "I can't do this scene because of my religion."

"What do you mean?" said Pevney, sensing he was needed as a straight man. "What is your religion?"

"I'm a devout coward," screamed Jerry.

Dudley Nichols, the movie director-writer, told the guests at a Screen Writers' Guild party that he had never believed the stories about Gypsies until he had a story conference with Sam about a western.

Sam said, according to Nichols: "I'll tell you what kind of a man this Judge Bean is—he's a man who milks out justice."

As a young singer, Opera Star Lauritz Melchior bolstered his bank account by singing at funerals. One of his favorite numbers was, "An Angel Has Touched Your Forehead With a Palm Leaf." But at one funeral, as Lauritz sang the number, the mourners giggled and even laughed out loud.

Embarrassed and curious, he asked one of the chapel guests for a reason.

The guest explained: "The guy we're burying died when he was hit on the forehead with a beer bottle during a waterfront fight."

As Groucho Marx sees it: "It's ridiculous for Zanuck to sue Marlon Brando for $2,000,000. If the kid had that much money he'd have a sidecar on his motorcycle."

A Hollywood scribe listened to an MGM press agent praising the studio's movie, "The Gypsy Coat." After the press agent finished comparing Gypsy, the equine star of the film, with such famed eaters of movie history as Rex, Flicka and Thunderbolt, the writer rasped:

"MANE dropper!"

Stan Freberg, the song satirist of "Cest Si Bon" fame, and of hilarious fun-poking at "Dragonet" with "St. George and the Dragonet," tells this one on himself.

During the last presidential campaign he recorded a mad snare fire titled, "Abe Snake for President," and one day word reached him that a certain radio network had banned the kidding.

Stan called the network's record department and a gent there explained, with deadly seriousness, much free political time and that the record was being played too often.

"But do you know what ticket Snake is running on?" laughed Stan.

"No," was the reply. "Well, it's the pari-mutuel ticket," said Stan.

"That's fine, but we're sorry," said the network fellow, hanging up.

Tip From The Waiter
Elizabeth Scott told it on the set of "Four Desperate Men." A playwright whom Liz knows was invited to a fancy shindig tossed by Mama Jolie Gabor for daughters Zsa Zsa, Eva and Magda.

The dramatist had a current hit on Broadway, but it was his first trip to Manhattan and he had not yet achieved the celebrity of Tennessee Williams or George Kaufman.

He made his entrance, was greeted with some coldness by the Gabor, then found a seat on the far side of the room, away from the milling throng.

After a few minutes, a waiter approached him. "This plate was especially prepared for an important guest," said the waiter, handing him a platter of food. "You are, of course, not an important person."

"But there's no point in the food getting cold. YOU take the plate and eat the food quick before the old lady sees you."

Bob Steinberg about a movie doll: "She's an excellent housekeeper. Every time she's divorced, she keeps the house."

Freak Snow Blocks Fall On Local Farms Causing Speculation In Hydrogen Wake

By W. C. WHITE

It all started with an eight o'clock phone call. The sedentary, white-haired reporter, on deck for a quiet Saturday morning, was jerked out of his accustomed calm.

"We have a fall of big snowballs out here," began a voice. "Some of them were three, or four feet wide when they fell."

The reporter, having a recent April the first in mind, was a little chary. This was the unexpected with a vengeance. He wanted time to get his bearings. Even a hydrogen-inured mind lacked resiliency.

"Where is there?" he answered brightly, "and do you mind telling me your name?"

A long description of "there" followed and the reporter, until recently thirty years away from the district and rusty on location, thought he had better call in an expert.

"Hold the line a minute," he countered, "I'll call our managing editor."

The M.E. came to the phone, alive to the fact that these are the days of the unusual and that even the impossible can't be ruled out. A brisk discussion followed. The managing editor's next step was to call the photographic office of Gerry Lemay with a request that Royal be despatched to the scene with his camera. The white-haired one went.

It was quite a drive along January, not April, roads. Even the snow tires found the highway-going difficult. The wind howled and blew swirls of snow across the fields. The two voyagers, in the comfortable little English car, were torn between growing doubts and the glittering prospect that they might be "onto" something that would make the country sit up.

Several hundreds of the huge snowballs had fallen, the telephone voice had declared. Royal, in consequence, had visions that his pictures might be snapped up by papers and agencies throughout the continent. The reporter could imagine his story keeping the wires buzzing.

The goal was the farm of Charles Ellis, five miles out, and after a false turning and a few enquiries the car plodded up a grade and the attractive white farmhouse loomed in sight. But, best of all, there was a small forest of circular humps in the field next to the house.

Within were Mrs. Ellis, tall and pleasant; little Jade Lavers, 4, and "Shep", the dog. A squarish block of snow, 13 inches or more in diameter, and soft—a poking finger felt no resistance—stood in a large pan near the outside door.

Mrs. Ellis told the photographer and the reporter that the blocks, which were much larger than, had fallen at about nine o'clock the previous night. And, sure enough, they could still be seen from the window, dozens of them, probably a hundred or more in all, forming humps, three to ten feet apart, in the neighboring field. A good many had also landed, said Mrs. Ellis, on the fields of the Lafontaine farm which is adjoining.

Jade, smiling uncertainly, was persuaded to pose with the snow-block and Royal clicked the shutter twice for good measure. The reporter got a few details. It had been snowing at the time of the fall and there had been quite a wind. It was Jim Fearnley, of East Angus, said Mrs. Ellis, who had called The Record.

The car's return trip was not easy and was complicated by the fact that the gasoline needle was flirting with the empty-mark. But it still was registering the occasional flicker when the main highway and a gasoline station was reached. Visions of being stranded for a few hours on a lonely, back road, not been cheerful ones.

When the office had been regained, a little local checking-up showed that a yellow-tinged snow had fallen only a few days before and some persons had even associated this rarity with the hydrogen-bomb experiments in the Pacific.

It was the Dominion Public Weather Office at Dorval which cast light on the seeming phenomenon. The forecaster on duty on Saturday morning had an explanation: The under-surface of fields, not far away was probably rough, or ridged, before Saturday's snow-fall. With a snowfall at a temperature in the mid-thirties and with just the right velocity of wind, clumps, or blocks, of snow could easily be plucked out in places and blown away. This has happened before with rough-contoured snow when a fairly heavy wind has come.

Checking with other sources revealed that this wind-freak is rare and the large blocks which fell on the Ellis and the Lafontaine farms did, in a sense, represent a phenomenon. But their shape and all the record goes to show that they could not have fallen directly from the heavens but were gouged out and blown by a pranking Old Wind from fields not too far away.

This had occurred to us, as it occurred to the Ellis's, as a reasonable and likely explanation but in these precedent-shattering days one never can tell and a closed mind may miss a good deal.

ODD SNOW FORMATIONS

During the late hours of the Friday night and early Saturday morning, odd snow formations landed on the Ellis and Lafontaine farms in Asot Township, a few miles outside of the Sherbrooke city limits.

The upper photograph shows several of these unusual snowballs, which measured as much as eighteen inches in diameter and 55 inches in circumference are shown on the Ellis farm.

Below, little Jade Lavers, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis and family, is seen with some of the balls which were brought into the house.

A high wind, cutting out blocks of dry, hard snow, is believed to have been responsible for the phenomena.

Large Number Attracted To Biology Show

Well over 400 people filed through the corridors of the third floor of the New Arts building at Bishop's University Friday and Saturday to look at the University's Biology Club's sixth biological exhibition on "Organic Evolution."

The exhibition, which was open free to the public on the afternoons and in the evenings of both days, attracted laymen, scholars and many groups of school children.

Besides the exhibits shown in the laboratories of the Biology Department, movies on dinosaurs from western Canada, spiny-skinned marine animals, eugenic data, heredity in animals, clam relatives, animal life in general, and interesting views of marine invertebrates were shown on a continuous schedule from 2.30 in the afternoon to 9.55 at night.

According to the theory of organic evolution, all forms of life existing today have come about through processes of gradual change from earlier, and in general, simpler forms of life. Their ancestry extends back for many millions of years, to one or possibly to a number of original forms.

The central claim of the theory of organic evolution is that of never ending changes in inheritance. These changes have resulted in the development of all the higher plants and animals, from simple forms of life. In addition, there have been numerous cases of simplification by evolution, all along the paths leading to higher forms.

In their demonstration of this theory, the young biologists planned the exhibition in two broad sections, an examination of the evidences for evolution, and a study of the ways in which evolution has occurred.

In the first section, the initial display showed a chart explaining plant and animal breeding during historical times and pointed towards a rather extensive exhibit on classification, a survey of the plant and animal kingdoms. Here as elsewhere in the exhibition, many interesting specimens were used to illustrate the theme of the section. This particular section was under the student guidance of third year science student Ann Awocek and second year science student Lorna Graham.

From this section, the exhibition followed into a demonstration in comparative anatomy, prepared under the direction of Mr. Leo Sepp, lecturer in Zoology. A study of the skeletal and nervous systems was under the care of second year science student Jim Devlin, the respiratory and digestive systems under second year science student Hector Hebert, vestigial structure under first year science student Ruth Townsend, and the evolution of the uterus under second year student Audrey McNaughton.

All of these students were members of the Biology Club, and like the rest of the members, stood clad in white lab coats labelled with purple ribbons and name cards ready to give any information on their respective sections. Visitors were encouraged to ask questions about any part of the exhibit.

A fascinating fossil study under the care of second year student Peter Morand aroused many questions, and to the average layman was perhaps the most clear and coherent evidence for evolution in the exhibit. It was comparatively easy to see similarities between many of the fossils shown and some of the animal and plant life now existent.

Perhaps the most colorful exhibit in the project was second year student Les Murs's section on the evolution of the skull in which several types of animal

Hundred Teachers From Sherbrooke And Compton Attend Educational Conference

Approximately one hundred teachers attended the Educational Conference at the Sherbrooke High School on Saturday morning. On this occasion, members of the teaching faculty of Compton County were guests of the Sherbrooke County Teacher's Association and discussed with several eminent directors of the Quebec Department of Education, problems confronting the elementary and high school level teachers.

The day-long program got under way at 9 a.m. with the registration in the assembly hall, and the address of welcome by Gordon McElroy, president of the Sherbrooke Association. Miss Ruth Low, M.A., chairman of the conference, proceeded to explain to the delegation the program.

In the first half of the morning program, discussions were held on four subjects covering all classes up to Grade 11. Gathered in circular form in S.H.S. new classroom, Miss V. Clark, acted as chairman, to conduct the forum on primary methods for teachers of Grades I and II.

Likewise in various classes, teachers had gathered to hear and discuss with these superior teachers, the most effective methods of teaching and the handling of the children. Miss May Hextall, helping teacher of the Quebec Department of Education, assisted the teachers of Grade three, four and five, and whose interests were centered around Scriptures. William Steves, M.Sc., Supervisor of the Montreal Protestant Central School Board, and a group of teachers of the final grades of elementary school, held an arithmetic debate.

An audio visual demonstration was the opening feature of the afternoon, followed by a business meeting of the Sherbrooke Teachers' Association. The list of officers is as follows: President, Gordon McElroy; Vice-president, Mrs. Leslie McLeod; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Doreen Bennett; and Mrs. F. K. Beattie, Miss Bessie Bryce, Mrs. C. Sawyer and Mrs. S. Rich, all members of the executive.

The conference concluded with the teachers playing badminton in the new gymnasium. At the noon intermission, the visitors attended a luncheon in the cafeteria. Wright W. Gibson, principal of Sherbrooke High, acted as host.

Summer Plans Are Completed At Brae Manor

Knowlton, April 5 — With the coming of Spring, serious activity renews here at Brae Manor Playhouse. Not that everything has been quiet during the winter, directress Mrs. Filmore Sadler reports, for during that time several new plays were read and selections made. The program will be announced at this popular summer theatre as soon as the casting has been completed.

During these weeks of early Spring Mrs. Sadler is interviewing players, a back-stage crew and apprentices, bringing together into the pleasant atmosphere at Brae Manor an interested and talented company for the Summer season, opening July.

Canadian director, David Haber will arrive here next month to take up the post of production manager and resident director. Youthful Mr. Haber has spent ten years in professional theatre in Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa and other centres and as stage manager with the National Ballet Company of Canada, he is currently on its second coast-to-coast tour; he has also appeared as dancer and

Forty-Year Cold Record Broken When Mercury Slumped To Two Below Zero

When the thermometer at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Lennoxville, went down to two below zero early this morning a record low was established for any April the fifth during the 40 years of the Farm's weather statistics.

Indeed, April had seen below-zero weather only once before during the 40 years. That, reported Wentworth S. Richardson, senior agronomist, was on the first day of April, 1923, when the mercury plunged to five below.

After its April Fool's plunge of 1923 the mercury was at a minimum of zero the next day and the succeeding three days saw a sudden rise to the thirties above.

There is no telling whether the same pattern will be followed now but fingers, generally, are being crossed.

The unparalleled cold of the first few days of April this year stands out in greater relief when compared to the mildness of last April's opening days. Maximums have varied as much as 41 degrees between the two years.

If Eastern Townshippers feel like complaining, however, they may bless their stars that they need not cope with temperatures similar to those registered at some pioneer points of Northern Alberta where the thin red-line has sunk to the thirties below. Edmonton has shown 23 below, breaking all April records by nine degrees.

The present cold spell, needless to say, gives the sugar bush another setback.

With spring opening up the roads and traffic increasing, the local police have been stepping up their drive on speeders. Fourteen were caught in one day last week.

Bail Skipping In Magog Profitable

Magog, April 5.—It pays to skip bail—at least for speeders—in this Eastern Townships centre.

Motorists arrested for speeding are released on $11 bail. The usual fine if they are convicted is $18. And if they skip bail the local authorities pocket the $11 and don't bother tracking them down—except in cases of two-time offenders.

24. TRUE OF REPORT. Surely if you get a REPORT you must first have taken something calling for a reply, and such reply is not likely to give you "quite a start".

25. FRIGHT is preferable, since the statement would then apply to everybody. A person thoroughly used to flying would not be adversely affected by a bad FRIGHT.

26. RUG is best. The clue implies that whereas one or two holes might not matter, a lot of holes would. This is true of RUG, but not necessarily of RAG.

EXPLANATION OF MORE DIFFICULT CLUES:

ACROSS:

3. MANNER is better since the clue says "MIGHT reveal". His MANNER might reveal it or might not but his BANNER definitely would for that was its purpose.

6. FUN is better. SUN does not necessarily apply, since "a gloomy spell" does not necessarily indicate gloomy WEATHER.

8. IDEAL is best. It's natural enough for a man to think his IDEAL to be good. IDEAS would be better if qualified by "best" or "ideal" since one does not sincerely believe ALL one's own IDEAS to be good.

13. CLOCK is best. TO CLOCK or check the speed of a race horse, or dog the animal must be moving. TO BLOCK anything does not require that it be moving.

18. LAD is best. LID seems a little odd divorced from the pan or whatever it is the LID of, and as it applies it might please ANY housewife. "MOTHER" definitely points to LAD.

19. SHOES is best. The implication of the clue that long run may be the CAUSE of their being taken off favors SHOES. SHOWS are taken because of lack of support or theatre problems.

20. TRIO is very apt, being intended to give enjoyment. Many a TRIP may be good from a business standpoint but not affording particular enjoyment.

26. SHOUT is better. A man will "not like it" if he SHOUT at him but surely to merely say he would "not like it" if you SHOOT at him is a classic understatement.

24. TRUE OF REPORT. Surely if you get a REPORT you must first have taken something calling for a reply, and such reply is not likely to give you "quite a start".

25. FRIGHT is preferable, since the statement would then apply to everybody. A person thoroughly used to flying would not be adversely affected by a bad FRIGHT.

26. RUG is best. The clue implies that whereas one or two holes might not matter, a lot of holes would. This is true of RUG, but not necessarily of RAG.

Two Lake Megantic Residents Admitted To Hospital
Two residents of Lake Megantic, Mr. and Mrs. Armand Lessard, were brought to Hotel Dieu Hospital on Friday evening from minor injuries suffered when their car collided with an autobus on the Sherbrooke-Megantic highway about three miles east of Lennoxville.

Mr. Lessard was released shortly after admittance when it was determined that his injuries were confined to minor lacerations to the chin but his wife is still in hospital suffering from shock and lacerations to the face and neck.

Siamese Twins Born At Granby Died At Birth
Granby, April 5. — Siamese twins joined at the chest and with a common heart were born in a Granby hospital on the night of March 29, but died a few minutes later, a Granby doctor disclosed over the weekend.

Born only two days after the birth of Siamese twins at Montreal's Catherine Booth hospital, the Granby twins are believed to have been the first such case in the city's history.

Dr. Jean Guertin, who attended the 19-year-old mother, said there was never any hope that the twins would survive.

Their respiratory organs were not complete and they were not able to breathe. They died between two and three minutes after birth.

The names of the mother and father were withheld at the request of the doctor and officials of St. Joseph's Hospital, where the births took place.

The babies were six weeks premature and weighed a total of seven pounds two ounces.

Dr. Guertin said the mother had "a difficult delivery but is progressing satisfactorily."

He said the presence of only one heart prevented him from knowing birth until he began the delivery Monday night.

No x-rays had been taken. It was the first birth in the family.

The doctor said he believed they were the first Siamese twins in Granby's history.

More Air Policing Needed

A man with an air pilot's license was rescued last week from the bush near Chenneville, northeast of Ottawa, after he and his companion, flying a rented, two-seater plane, had crashed into a hill. Leo Michaud, Montreal, piloting the small craft, sustained injuries from which he died. Derek Ramsay, the survivor, was found by lumberjacks after he had used campfire ashes to spell out an S.O.S. and the first three letters of the word, "Food," as he sighted search planes wheeling in the sky overhead.

The men had rented a Cessna plane on Sunday from an aviation company at Cartierville. They had been advised, despatches reported, that they should keep their flying "local" as snow was predicted for the afternoon. They were not to go beyond Hawkesbury, 50 miles distant, at the farthest and were to be back at a given time.

They flew to Ottawa despite this warning and there, apparently, they filed a return flight plan and put in a telephone call to a Montreal man who asked that they be grounded in Ottawa as the Cartierville weather was by then too bad for flying. Disregarding this second warning they left the Capital at 5.45. Radar picked them up an hour later near Buckingham. They were heading in the wrong direction. Radar plotted their course for the next 18 minutes. The crash must have come soon after.

Neither of the men, according to the aviation company president, had had experience in night flying or with instruments. In the storm they must have been "going it blind."

Several planes, including RCAF rescue fliers, were engaged in the resulting search for the two and ranged over 3,500 square miles of wooded, hilly country north of Ottawa.

The crash, which took the life of one flier, should raise the question once more of whether present flying regulations and penalties should not be tightened to prevent recurrence of such a mishap. Not only are the lives of those taking such chances endangered and, sometimes, forfeited but the government and private aviation companies alike are put to considerable expense and trouble in the searches which must follow. Also, a plane in the hands of a relative tyro has often caused considerable damage and, more than once, loss of life to those on the ground to say nothing of the danger they present to other craft in the air.

Published reports state that Michaud and Ramsay, both men in their twenties, had ignored two warning directives. They had been told not to go beyond Hawkesbury, in the first instance. They were told, in the second, not to leave Ottawa until conditions cleared.

The two-seater's return trip, in freezing rain, would have been hazardous even for veteran fliers who, in all likelihood, would not have taken the risk. As it was, Michaud, it is reported, had only 60 flying hours to his credit before the Sunday ride and Ramsay, 35.

The Department of Transport has already investigated this crash. The Department issues licenses to pilots and these licenses, according to a Department official, may be suspended or may be cancelled for all time as a result of a serious breach of regulations.

The thought comes inevitably to mind that planes should be rented only at times when weather predictions are favorable. Also that air policing, with increasing use of the air lanes, will have to be given more attention.

Latest reports promise that the work of American scientists may render aviation almost independent of the weather by 1964, but, in the meantime, more co-operation is needed to reduce its risks.

Handwriting On The Wall?

When Magog's city council met the other night a new reporter was there. There could be no question of this scribe's accuracy; no backfire from the city fathers on the grounds of misquotation. An enterprising Sherbrooke newspaperman — or was it his editor's idea? — had invoked an ally to ensure that his paper's report would be, as Caesar's wife should be, above suspicion.

The method was simple and known to many a business and professional office. A tape-recording machine was installed in the council chamber.

One alderman didn't take kindly to the innovation. He had been talking off the record, unaware, apparently, that the relentless tape was taking down his every word.

First, he demanded that the device be banished. The police chief, scratching his head, appealed to the pro-mayor, presiding. The pro-mayor, like Newbolt's sexton, reasoned it long and reasoned it out and his argument left him free from doubt.

"Some aldermen," he recalled judiciously "are always complaining that they are being misquoted in the press. Here we have a reporter who is attempting to record exactly what is being said. Now, they want to throw it out. It does not make sense."

This sensible defence in no way assuaged the aroused aldermen. His next move, according to the report, was to make a lunge at the recorder. A vigilant mechanic stepped in; the tape was saved but the machine was damaged.

Now this rare resort, so far as council meetings go, opens up a wide vista in the future of reporting. The machine, of course, may have to be surrounded at first by an electrically-charged enclosure or some other adequate protection. But as aldermen and other public figures become reconciled to the automatic writer by the softening passage of time this safeguard should become unnecessary.

How will the reporter's role be changed? A chaffered machine will be able to do much of the work of the leg-men of the press. Newswriters will still be in demand, we may be sure, to condense the recordings and to furnish background. They will be the stationary engineers of the pressroom, if no more.

But the human scribes will probably be lonely if a long-taped machine is left to handle a meeting on its own. No more will the reporters hear the familiar plea, the agitated whisper: "Don't put that in." Their buttonholes will be saved some wear but the late jangling of the office 'phone may be equally hard upon the nerves. And there will always be the possibility of suspense: the machine, unpopular, we fear, in times of stress, may be waylaid on its tell-tale, homeward journey to the office.

We wonder if the ingenious reporter, or the fertile editorial mind which conceived the idea, realized the consequences which may follow. Our thinking has been inured by the hydroben explosion in the Pacific but this thing is different and comes far more close to home.

"The Fires Of Spring"

(Montreal weather)

April, bah! The fluffy Montagnac overcoat, bought in a March sale, was put away and the overshoes were gaping. People, in general, standing on the threshold of the month, gave a contented sigh; looked over their spring clothes; stretched their arms and waited for the balmy breezes.

Balmy? The word fits. Western Canadian thermometers went way below zero. Pioneer points in Northern Alberta saw the mercury in the thirties below while Calgary broke all April records with a 22 and Edmonton with 14. Even the Townships shivered with the return to winter.

Sam McGee had the right idea. If he wasn't "cremated" in April he should have been. In fact, the after life, with its promise of unvarying heat for some of us, is losing its terrors. If this kind of April keeps up much longer we know one ad. which will appear in the classified columns:

Silver Wings

By BYRON MCCLURE

McClure Newspaper Syndicate — WNU Features.

"Care to dance?" Captain David Holbrook had been drawn by some irresistible force across the ballroom to the uniformed girl sitting alone at the corner table. Cool gray eyes appraised him and time stood still for a moment as they gazed into each other's eyes; then the girl nodded. Gradually they drifted to the edge of the floor and through a door opening on a small balcony. Neither spoke. Speech was unnecessary. It was enough to be together, complete in each other. Finally David broke the silence. "Just... like... that!"

She smiled tremulously. "Yes, just... like... that. I had never believed it could happen so suddenly."

"Neither had I. Gives you a sort of all-gone feeling inside, doesn't it?"

She nodded. "Just like pulling out of a dive."

David grinned. "Exactly! But what do you know about pulling out of dives, young lady?"

She pointed to a pair of shining silver wings pinned to her jacket. "I'm in the Air Corps," she said simply, unable to conceal the pride in her voice. David laughed gaily. "What's so funny about that?" she demanded.

"Funny? Why, I was just laughing happily at finding that we're in the same outfit."

"You know that's not true," she retorted, anger in her voice. "It's just that you men are all alike! You're not willing to admit that women can do things you can... just as well and sometimes better!"

If men aren't the stupidest, the most conceited... she paused, searching for words. Finding none, she gave him a stinging slap. Almost roughly he grabbed her arms. "Listen, you little idiot! I get so sick of seeing you women carrying chips on your shoulders, daring anyone to suggest that you aren't really doing men's jobs. Why does a uniform have to go to a woman's head? You could punch that typewriter in some office just as well without it!"

She started to answer him but, instead, struggled with the grasp and disappeared in the crowded ballroom.

David fell asleep that night dreaming that he was falling through space. But an angel swooped down on silver wings to catch him before he crashed. When he arrived at the airport in the morning the dispatcher approached him. "Your plane has already been warmed up for your ferrying mission, Captain. Lieutenant Winters is ready to take off whenever you say so, Sir."

"Thank you, I'm all set. Let's go," David was anxious to get into the air, where he was at home, where he could think. His mind was still filled with thoughts of that girl.

So preoccupied was he that he ran straight into the storm before he realized it. A blinding streak of lightning zigzagged across the sky just in front of the nose of his ship! With senses newly alert, he glanced hurriedly at the instrument panel. The compass indicator was spinning crazily. That bolt had knocked out its delicate mechanism. David knew it was useless to turn back. He would be just as hopelessly lost as he was now. Drat that girl! If he'd had his mind on her, he'd have paid more attention to the weather report.

He pulled back on the stick and pushed the throttle forward, attempting to rise. Almost immediately ice began to form on the wings and propeller, his rate of climb decreased rapidly. He shuddered as he envisaged the jagged peaks below. Then he remembered the other plane. He craned his neck and peered back, not daring to hope. There it was doggedly following, just a few hundred feet behind! Hastily he flipped the transmitter switch. "Flight leader to flight! Flight leader to flight! Can you hear me? Come in, flight!"

A familiar feminine voice came clearly. "Flight to flight leader! I can hear you. Go ahead, Sir!"

David thought he was dreaming again. "Wh-who are you?"

Again that cool voice "I'm Lieutenant Winters, Sir. The girl punching a typewriter in some office. Or don't you remember?"

"Why didn't you tell me you were a Ferry Pilot?" he demanded.

"You didn't give me a chance. You probably wouldn't have believed it, anyway. Women aren't supposed to be capable of doing such things, are they?"

After a moment of silence David said meekly. "Will you take command of the flight, Lieutenant? My compass is knocked out. I'm completely lost."

"Yes, Sir." Crisply she ordered, "let me pass." David marveled at the ease with which she outmaneuvered the storm. In a matter of minutes they emerged into the glorious sunshine.

David slowly eased up alongside. As they flew wing tip to wing tip he could almost reach out and touch her. "Lieutenant Winters?" he asked.

"Yes, Sir."

"I... well, I... there's something I'd like to say to you tonight, Lieutenant. Do you think you'd care to listen?"

There was no mistaking the emphasis she placed on her answering, "Yes, Sir!"

had the bargain, and clear out of Indo-China! What, in that case, does Washington plan to do? Mr. Dulles has ably stated American intentions and purposes, but still leaves the means very much in doubt.

From the standpoint of domestic American politics it is just about as unlikely that the administration should contemplate sending American troops into Indo-China in the near future to augment or replace the French forces as that it should be read to recognize Red China as the price of a Korean-Indo-Chinese settlement. This is true even if such troops were part of a United Nations police action.

One possible alternative would be to support new domestic nationalists leadership, uncompromised by long collaboration with the French, as a rallying point for anti-Communist resistance and with forces strengthened by intensive American training. Mr. Dulles has spoken of "serious risks." The great risk in any such plan would be that America would be replaced into the fight after all Vietnamese nationalism could not be invigorated in time to take over its own defense.

The alternative to a willingness to take that risk is a willingness to negotiate seriously with the Chinese — and Mr. Dulles has made it plain that he does not consider he has a mandate from the American people to explore that possibility at Geneva.

THE MATURE PARENT

DON'T OVERWHELM HURT CHILD WITH OWN FEELING OF ANXIETY

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Tommy, a five-year-old boy who, up to a month ago, enjoyed his friends. Then he came home crying one afternoon after a first fight with one of them.

Since then, he will not venture into the yard without his older sister. If a former playmate is invited into the house, Tommy bursts into tears and runs to take refuge in a locked bathroom.

"How can I help him?" asks his mother. "Will he outgrow this fear?"

If Tommy got a splinter in his finger, we'd dislodge it with a sterilized needle. Then showing him the tiny barb, we would say, "See how small and really harmless it is."

If a fear besets him, we dislodge it with our own uninfected point of view. Gently, without anxiety, we lead him to tell us about his fear, until under our guidance, he can begin to see it leaving him like the splinter.

But if we become anxious, we burden him with our sense of helplessness as well as his own. We must see the fear as small and harmless if we want him to see it that way, too.

And now I want to ask Tommy's mother how she received him the day he came home from his first fight.

He trusts her judgment on what happens to him implicitly. So that if by her words or her attitude, she implied he was a victim of catastrophe, he would believe it. What he himself knew and felt about his first fight would be lost in what his mother thought and felt about it. He would emerge from her frightened comfort, convinced that he was a helpless little boy.

The fact probably is that Tommy did not behave in his fight like a helpless little boy at all. I think he sounds like a brave one. That's what we want to help him remember as we lead him to tell us about his fight. We're seeking for his feelings and thoughts about the fight this time, not overwhelming him with ours.

As he begins to tell us about them, we sympathize with the anger and fear he felt toward his aggressor while at the same time we applaud his resistance to his aggressor, until Tommy begins to think he behaved like a pretty fine fellow. And power is transferred from aggression back to the person who has resisted it.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

PASSIVE BRIDGE IS WORTH LOOKING INTO

Passive defense in bridge is largely a matter of sitting tight and allowing declarer to develop his tricks without any help from your side. Sometimes, however, it isn't enough to just sit tight; you must take some positive action to stay out of trouble. In today's hand the defense collapsed because East allowed himself to fall into difficulties.

West's decision not to open a spade was wise, since a spade lead would have given declarer two tricks in that suit and an easy play for his game contract. A diamond opening lead would have been best for the defenders, but West actually chose to open the five of hearts.

East won with the ace and returned a low heart, hoping that his partner had led from strength, even though it seemed most unlikely.

South won the second trick with the king of hearts and immediately ran his four club tricks, hoping that the opponents would be embarrassed for discards. East discarded the jack of diamonds and then a heart, and West could then well afford to spare a low diamond.

South could tell that the king of diamonds was in the East hand, and that his play for a ninth trick was very sketchy. Hoping for some sort of end-play, South cashed the queen of hearts and then led a spade towards dummy's queen. West properly played low, and dummy's queen of spades won the trick.

East should have hastened to drop the jack of spades under the queen. Instead, he woefully played his low spade and was therefore compelled to play the jack of spades when the suit was returned from the dummy. South naturally played low, and West couldn't afford to overtake with the ace. Consequently East's jack of spades held the trick.

Now East was in trouble. He couldn't cash his last heart, but then he had to lead away from his king of diamonds, permitting declarer to win a trick with dummy's queen as well as with his own ace.

BISHOP'S BULLETIN BOARD

SKINNER DEBATE

A three-man debating team representing Arts and Science Thursday night, captured the Skinner Trophy, emblematic of inter-faculty debating supremacy, by winning their second straight debate over a trio representing the Divinity faculty. The winner of the trophy, a huge silver loving mug, is decided on a best-two-out-of-three basis in a series which is competed in annually.

An Arts and Science team composed of Hamish Stewart, Lew Abbott and Peter Matthews successfully defended the negative side of the first debate in November, when it was resolved that "the government was justified in instituting the emergency powers act in 1950, and Thursday night, two of that winning trio, Stewart and Matthews, were back to defend the negative of the resolution that "a triple enrolment at Bishop's would be a detriment to the University." They were aided by a newcomer to Skinner Debating, Jane Quintin.

Debate of the negative for the Divinity side were Pat Playfair, Owen Evans and Mervyn Awcock. Peter Tett, president of the Literary and Debating Society was speaker for the debate.

The affirmative Divinity side divided its arguments into three sections, extra-curricular, academic, and with regard to the Eastern Townships. Mr. Playfair, first speaker for the affirmative, deplored the state of Bishop's athletic teams because of the lack of sufficient material. As it is now, Mr. Playfair pointed out that ability is not lacking, nor is spirit in athletics at Bishop's, but depth is. With a triple enrolment, injured players could be replaced, instead of continuing in the line-up and "breaking bodies for Bishop's."

Then, too, at the present time there are not enough students to finance a full Bishop's participation in national affairs. Military training, too, could be enlarged in scope, pointed out Mr. Playfair if the various forces had more men to work with.

On the academic side, Mr. Owen Evans depicted the university benefits that would accrue a triple enrolment. Better and bigger library would have to be built, more faculties could be added, new professors would be added to the staff and with them would come an influx of new ideas. He also pointed out that the unique teacher-student relationship at Bishop's would not be lost with a triple enrolment because the staff would increase with the students.

Mr. Mervyn Awcock based his argument on the fact that Bishop's was originally founded as a university for the Eastern Townships.

County W. C. T. U. Executive Meets

All members of the executive and representatives of the three branches, Huntingville, Lennoxville and Milby, attended the executive meeting of Sherbrooke County W.C.T.U., held at the home of Mrs. A. J. MacIntosh, Prospect street, Lennoxville.

The president, Mrs. Ernest Harrison, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Charles Graham, secretary, gave a resume of interim executive meetings.

Correspondence included a letter from Mrs. Sarah Emerson, Sherbrooke, expressing her appreciation of the world life membership awarded to her.

A brief report of the scientific temperance study course, also a report of the work being carried on the poster contest, were given by Mrs. Walter Henderson.

Huntingville Union was the winner of the $5 awarded annually to the branch gaining the greatest increase of members during the past year.

Mrs. W. T. Evans, president of the Milby Union, extended an invitation to Sherbrooke County W.C.T.U. to hold their annual convention at the Community Hall, Huntingville, on Wednesday, April 28, with Milby branch the hostess Union.

Pre preliminary plans for the convention were outlined. Mrs. R. W. S. Nutbrown and Mrs. W. T. Evans were named committee to draw up the slate of officers for 1954-55.

The meeting was adjourned with the Mirzab benediction.

yet because of the narrow facilities available, only 90 of the present students attending are from the Eastern Townships. Increased-enrolment would allow an expansion of facilities, and Bishop's would become the cultural centre of the English Eastern Townships as it should be.

The whole negative argument was based on the impracticability of a triple enrolment. Miss Jane Quintin, first speaker for the negative emphasized that quantity is no criterion for quality, and that the fact that three times as many students will be admitted does not lead to the fact that three times as much quality will be found among the student body. Academic facilities would be too small, no room for expansion is in sight, and there is no perceivable source from which the money for such expansion would come. Seven hundred and fifty students is still a small college, yet will result in a greater tendency to mass-produce students.

Mr. Stewart again emphasized the impracticability of the expansion and also pointed out that it is exactly the small atmosphere of Bishop's which allows the individual to best exploit his talents.

Mr. Matthews, closing up the argument for the negative, let loose with a storm of verbal pyrotechnics that all but swept the small audience before it. He reiterated the points already gone over by his colleagues, with added emphasis this time, and greeted the increase of enrolment would result in psychological barriers being thrown up between different fields of student activity. On the boys' side, could not be an actor, or an actor could not be a debater.

Mr. Playfair took the rebuttal for the affirmative.

The decision of the judges, Mr. McElroy of Lennoxville High School, Mr. Lewis Rosenbloom of Sherbrooke, and Professor D. C. Masters of Bishop's, was unanimously in favor of the Arts and Science.

SPORTS

With the cessation of all major sports, intra-mural athletics now swings into the spotlight. The girls have already completed their intra-mural schedule and Joyce McColm's Blues came out on top. On the boys' side, after regular schedule play, the Yellow and the Greens were tied for top spot in the loop. Playoffs were held during the week and these two teams are now engaged in two-game total point series. In the first game, played on Thursday, the Greens emerged the winners 30-18.

Today the gym is the scene of all-day activity on the high school basketball scene as teams from Richmond, Stantead, Knowlton and Thetford Mines invade the campus for the annual Visser Trophy competitions. This is the fourth straight year that Bishop's has played host to the high school cagers, and spectators are expected to be dropping in all day long.

ACTIVITIES

At least one of the more active faculty members took off for Stowe, Vt., during the week to get in a few last licks at skiing. Professor Elton Scott is reported to have enjoyed a very strenuous day of spring skiing at Mount Mansfield.

Hearts in a dither to hear and see Lois Bannerman play her now-famous harp on Monday night at the University Memorial Auditorium. Few people have ever had the opportunity of hearing a complete harp recital, so it should be a novel and entertaining evening. The recital starts at 8:15, and the admission to the general public is $1.

The appearance of a veritable jungle of packing cases in the halls of McGreer Hall marks the arrival of long-awaited furniture for that building's common room. The Golden Mitre Society, a very select group which consists of five students elected each year by the graduating class as those students who have done most for the university during their stay here, recently passed a motion that all members elected to the society should have their names inscribed on a permanent roll to be placed in a prominent place in the university.

CLUBS

The highlight of club activity this past week was the Music Club's annual concert held in rather informal style last Monday night in the Memorial Auditorium. It was really an open meeting, and consisted of a well-rounded program of singing, piano-playing and violin music.

Featured pianists were Dr. N. L. Wilson, who played the "Little Suite in A major" by J. S. Bach, and some excerpts from Mousorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition," and Ella-May Brown who played the Fantasia in G, the Sonata No. 18 by Mozart, Etude in C minor by Scriabin, and Arabesque by Schumann.

Violinist Hector Hebert played the second movement of Bruch's violin concerto, Kna's "Banjo and Fiddle," and Kreisler's "La Gitan." In a more popular vein, he also played Victor Herbert's "Sweet Mystery of Life."

Music Club president George Morgan, tenor, sang Handel's "Silent Worship," "Phyllis Has Such Charming Graces," by Anthony Young, a requiem by Sidney Homer, and Michael Head's "When I Think Upon the Maidens."

Accompanists for the concert were John Preston and Claudette Lacharite. After the musical evening, a reception was held in the Men's Common Room of Norton Hall.

Glee Club added a note of gaiety to their concert last Saturday night when they joined in "Happy Birthday" to Dr. McCubbin, their director, on the stage. Their last chore of the year was making some recordings of their concert selections on Tuesday.

Canterbury Club presentation "Go Down Moses," at St. Peter's Church on Wednesday and Thursday will see Arthur Motyer, director of "Romeo and Juliet" in his last dramatic effort for the university. Mr. Motyer will take the part of the Archangel Michael who opposes Satan for the soul of Moses.

Magog Firemen Kept Hopping Over Week-End

Magog, April 5.—An outbreak of small fires kept the fire department hopping in this Eastern Townships community during the week-end.

The largest blaze gutted the homes of two families in a two-storey building at 59 Laurier street.

The fire broke out in the kitchen of the first-storey home of Robert Malcolm and spread quickly, forcing out the Malcolm family and the Emile Robezze family. Fire Chief Telephone Lavoie and his men used two streams and took over an hour to subdue the blaze. Neither family was able to re-enter.

Yesterday morning, fire caused considerable damage to a workshop housed in a large garage at 131 College street, owned by Isabelle Ducharme.

Firemen used a booster pump and quelled the flames in less than an hour.

Firemen also battled seven chimney blazes yesterday, believed started by high winds which swept the valley. None of the chimney blazes was serious but they kept firemen busy. No one was reported injured.

E. T. Students Receive Awards At Macdonald

Four Eastern Townships students were among the nineteen who have completed the two-year course in agriculture at the Macdonald College and were presented with diplomas, it was announced at the college.

Congratulations were extended to Dale Heusser, of Sweetwater, winner of the "La Ferme" prize. Among those who were awarded diplomas in addition to the prize winners were Robert T. Evans, Georgetown, William Brian Gee, Melbourne, and Rupert S. Ticehurst, of Magog.

Jean Charles Magnan, director of Agricultural education for the provincial department of agriculture, presented the prizes at the graduation exercises last week. Diplomas were handed out by Dr. W. H. Brittain, dean of the faculty of agriculture and vice principal of the college.

Fractured Skull Results From Barroom Brawl

Gerard Roy, 21, of 163 3rd Avenue is in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital suffering from a fractured skull as a result of an incident in a local hotel Friday night.

According to a reliable source of information, the man was accompanied by a friend when he entered the grill. They were drinking for some time when the waiter evicted him. He came back to the grill and started to rush the waiter with a bottle. He was then thrown out for a second time.

While on the steps of the hotel, his friend got annoyed and kicked him. He then fell down the steps and fractured his skull. An ambulance was called and the man was rushed to the hospital under the care of Dr. Clovis Dagneau. There have been no further developments in the case.

Minor Drop Recorded In Living Costs

Ottawa — The consumer price index, measuring living costs, declined by one-fifth of a point in February to 115.5, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Declining food prices were the deciding factors in trimming the index which had remained unchanged at 115.7 in the previous month. The index, based on 1949 prices equaling 100, now is 2.7 points below the all-time of 118.2 reached in December, 1951.

Coffee prices rose sharply and there were other rises in cured pork, apples and oranges, but the lower prices for all cuts of beef

St. George's W.A. Group In Session

The April meeting of St. George's Branch of the W. A. was held in the Parish Hall on Friday with the president, Miss E. L. Stevens in the chair.

Mrs. Atto, Thank offering secretary, gave a brief explanatory talk about that department of the W. A. Miss Stevens, Dorcas secretary reported on the Tuesday meeting held during Lent. The sewing is finished but money is needed to buy clothing.

The president asked for suggestions for ways and means of raising money to meet pledges. It was voted that each member give $1.00 to meet this need.

Mrs. Noonan gave an excellent talk on Africa, taken from the Study Book. Following this Miss Stevens suggested that members read the book "Consider Africa" which has been highly recommended. She has one copy available.

The meeting closed with the blessing. Tea was served by Mrs. L. M. Watson and Mrs. D. Saunders.

and most fresh vegetables trimmed the food sub-index by a full point to 110.7 from 111.7.

This is well below the peak of 122.5 reached in November, 1951. The clothing sub-index also declined, slipping a fifth of a point to 109.8 from 110, following small scattered decreases among clothing items. The column now is the lowest in 11 months.

All other columns showed increases. The shelter column rose by a fifth of a point to a new high of 125.6, reflecting higher rents.

The household operations column edged ahead by a tenth of a point to a new high of 117.6, pushed up by higher prices for soaps and laundry and cleaning services. Reflecting higher costs for automobile operations and streetcar and bus fares, the "other commodities and services" column increased also by a tenth of a point to 116.6, just a shade below the January 1953 peak of 116.7.

Any citizen can hold the post of Supreme Court Justice if the President appoints him and the Senate approves the appointment.

A display on protein specificity, under the guidance of third year student Peter Wilcock showed evidences for evolution in the action of animal and human blood, while a connect-

In this section, there was shown a test which suggests grounds not yet wholly agreed upon for declaring the Manitoba Maple not a maple at all.

A final display on plant grafting, and the evidences for tobacco-tomato relationships under the direction of fourth year student Brian Wilcock closed out the evidences for evolution. In this section, it was shown how plants of the family, the Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys.
Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

CLOSEUP: No. 1

The Face of Asia

This is the face of Asia as seen through the eyes of a Pulitzer Prize global reporter. Now back in the U.S. after his long tour of on-the-spot reporting from the front lines of the Far East, Fred Sparks puts the far-flung datelines of Asia in new perspective. This article contains dispatches in a humanized round-up to help you understand what the coming Geneva parley means to Asians, like the ones below, who have cast their lot with America.

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York. — I have seen the face of Asia. It is turned our way.

The face of Asia is the face of the young Vietnamese soldier in a primitive village studying, as if it were a Bible, an ancient copy of the Saturday Evening Post, studying the four-color ads that speak of a world he aspires to.

The face of Asia is the face of the aged North Korean, in utter rags, who walked into our command post during the fury half dead with cold. He clutched this note, written on a torn bit of C-ration tissue paper: "We are three wounded GIs... hiding in a hut... this man will lead you to us... you can trust him... he has been good to us."

The face of Asia is the laughing, if shocking, face of the leper girl in the hills of Formosa playing jacks with a burly U.S. sergeant at a pleasant sanatorium paid for by the U.S.A.

The face of Asia is the collective face of perhaps one billion brown and yellow people, long double crossed by foreigners, who look to this strange America, so far away, to help them graduate to full membership in the human race.

This I believe. I leave to historians and sociologists the explanation for this phenomenon. As a reporter I merely record its existence. In lands where millions cannot read,

Alex MacRitchie, Scotstown, Marks 90th Birthday

Scotstown, April 5 — Mr. Alex MacRitchie, was the guest of honor at the home of his niece, Mrs. George Armstrong, and Mr. Armstrong, 11111 Street, on Wednesday evening, March 31st.

Several friends and relatives gathered to extend congratulations and wish him "Many happy returns," in honor of his 90th birthday. Mr. MacRitchie was completely taken by surprise.

Several lovely and useful gifts children know Lincoln. In lands where millions have never seen a movie, all know the mighty jeep. Those of us who have visited with average Orientals often disagree how to exploit the rich soil of good will. But we agree it is there.

The mystery is how to hold and inflate it. For if Lincoln and the jeep are good salesmen for America—only the color of our skin is bad.

I recall sitting cross-legged in a native hut near Kuala Lumpur, in mid-Malaya. As green lizards scampering on the bamboo walls chirped like crickets, my host said: "It is a shame you Americans are white men."

We must rise above being "white men" in the sense he meant it, because the white man, the colonialist, the "pukka sahib" snob with his polo ponies and restricted clubs, is through in that world.

It is unfortunate that in many places, Malaya, Indo-China, we are associated with the "wrong kind of white man"—even if in the right kind of struggle.

Our good will was earned by stories of America's growth and opportunities, by fair American businessmen, by kindly American missionaries. Some of our government representatives are doing little to consolidate these gains.

A Filipino told me: "You Americans say you come here to help the poor—but you live with the rich."

The Orient's gaudiest gin mills teem with U.S. bureaucrats. Their cars crowd ox-carts off narrow alleys. The finest homes are American.

Of course, you can't expect a man raising an American family to live in a thatched shack. His wages locally converted make him today's pukka sahib.

But without the right kind of administrators, even the right kind of Point Four project is wrong. We need new pioneers. What a challenge for young Americans with an eye for adventure.

were presented to him for which he expressed his most sincere thanks.

Tea was served by Mrs. Armstrong, a beautiful birthday cake, artistically decorated and adorned with the traditional candles being the center of attraction.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John C. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. George MacRitchie, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. MacLeod and their house guest, Mr. MacLeod, and Mrs. Rufus MacLeod.

DWELLING DAMAGED

A private dwelling house owned by Mr. D. Rousseau on Ditton St. and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Renaud, was partly damaged by fire and water Wednesday at 5 p.m.

A neighbour passing by noticed smoke escaping around the roof. Mr. and Mrs. Renaud were not at

They need the faith of missionaries—and the digestion of a boa constrictor.

Today our missions cluster in capital cities where people have already made up their minds. Communist propaganda has not been via airwaves or four color ads, but by Tammany Hall ward-healing methods knocking on doors, person to person. Our new pioneers must knock on more doors.

Don't forget the magnificent reception to Vice-President Nixon when he shook more humble hands in a few weeks than our diplomats had touched in years.

It is an error to create the impression we're anxious to finance everybody's opium pipe dream, including fresh sewers in Rangoon and stop lights in Jakarta.

English is the second tongue in most Asiatic countries—and not spoken with an Oxford accent. For generations Chinese studied in the U.S. I recall a barren Korean hillside where two Columbia graduates—class of '49—held a reunion. One was a U.S. lieutenant, the other a captured Red soldier.

Realistic intelligence agents insist the war against our GIs won't popular Chinese support and desertions among U.S. or missionary schooled Chinese was massive. The total of those who refused repatriation is final proof.

Education in the US is our best long term investment, but we must give Asiatics a political motive as well as chemistry. It will help keep our white faces at home and let our young friends advertise America among their own.

Russia's greatest asset has been "war by remote control." She keeps her white face out of places like Korea and Indo-China, working through stooges primed at Moscow's College of Communist Knowledge.

Asia is the future; Europe is the past. And the face of Asia is turned our way—hopefully and also fearfully.

home at the time, but the neighbours gained entrance and the fire alarm was sounded.

Most of the damage was centered in the living room, and the contents of the room were badly damaged. The fire was of unknown origin.

W. J. C. Sutton Appointed President At Boundary Red Cross Annual Meeting

Sweetsburg, April 5 — Two beautiful sacred pictures were on display at the annual meeting of the Cowansville W.C.T.U. on March 31, which was entertained by Mrs. William Lickfold at her home, 217 Veteran's Boulevard.

The pictures will be presented as prizes for work done by local pupils in the Temperance Study Course, after which they will be placed in the Sunday School room of Emmanuel United Church with a suitable inscription. Titles of these pictures are, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "Knocking at the Door".

Incidentally, the money collected at each meeting of the W.C.T.U., known as the Brown Memorial Fund, which was established in commemoration of the late Mrs. W. G. Brown, local president for many years, is used for extension work, such as the Temperance Study Course prizes.

Marking the approaching of the Easter season, the opening hymn was "When I survey the Wondrous Cross", after which Mrs. Gerald Fee gave the Bible reading and prayer. The roll call was answered by the payment of fees.

The slate of officers had been prepared by the chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. W. D. Smith as follows: President, Mrs. J. B. Moore; first vice-president, Mrs. Gerald Fee; second vice-president, Miss F. Humphrey; secretary, Mrs. William Craigie; treasurer, Mrs. Lloyd Lewis.

A decision was made regarding refreshments at monthly meetings, starting in June next only one thing, such as cookies or sandwiches or cake with tea will be allowed, thereby making it easier for the hostess to entertain a meeting.

railroads, drops and giraffes

One of the oldest, and certainly one of the most obscure of games is Court Tennis. If you're interested, a court will cost you around $300,000. There aren't many around.

The game got its start in the Middle Ages when the athletic nobility whacked a ball round their castle courtyards. Bonnie Prince Charlie was a pretty fair player, and so was Henry the Eighth until his waistline caught up with him.

What with spots in the court called dedans, grilles, galleries and tambours, rules of play are a trifle involved. But the service is the real baffler. Service variations include the railroad, the drop, the giraffe, the sidewalk and the pound.

As you might expect, Court Tennis appeals only to the few. Molson's Ale, on the other hand, appeals to just about everybody. Nobility, gentry, tycoon and simple tiller of the soil all enjoy its matchless taste and aroma. Nothing involved or baffling about that — and, when looking for service, the cry "Make Mine Molson's" is the only rule.

Red Wings Down Montreal Canadiens 3-1 In First Game

Red Wings Stage Third Period Rally With Two Goals To Defeat Canadiens; Penalties Play Big Part In Scoring

Olympia Stadium, Detroit. — Detroit Red Wings struck hard for two goals in the third period last night to defeat Montreal Canadiens 3-1 in the opening game of the Stanley Cup final. It was a rugged and often rough battle before a full house of 13,959.

Rookie Earl (Dutch) Reibel broke a one-all deadlock early in the first period and defenseman Red Kelly, who played a standout game for the Wings, wrapped up the game less than six minutes later.

Ted Lindsay's goal in the first period and Boom Boom Geoffrion's in the second set the stage for a bitter third-period struggle. Once the Red Wings moved into a two-goal lead it was evident Canadiens' first bid to keep the Stanley Cup title they won a year ago was almost a hopeless cause.

The Red Wings made no mistakes from there on and checked Canadiens steadily.

Penalties paid a big part in the scoring, the first three goals coming when the opposition was short-handed. Kelly topped it off with a flip of the puck past goalie Jacques Plante while the Red Wings themselves were a man short.

Referee Bill Chadwick called them close and handed out 13 minor penalties and two misconducts. Ted Lindsay and Maurice (Rocket) Richard drew the misconduct penalties for vigorous protests, and when the Rocket had his slapped on to a minor, he almost blew his top but Ken Mosdell and Tom Johnson, his teammates, threw their arms around him and ushered him toward the penalty box.

The Red Wings had the better of the play most of the way and outshot the Montreal 25-18.

Detroit drew six of the 13 penalties. Detroit's high-scoring production line, with Alex Delvecchio at centre and Gordie Howe and Lindsay on the flanks, functioned smoothly. It figured in two of the goals and was the best trio on the ice, bolstered by fine work on the part of Kelly and Marcel Pronovost.

The Red Wings' near-perfect checking also shackled many Montreal attempts and except on the close-range goal by Geoffrion, goalie Terry Sawchuk worked in faultless style and had fewer tough chances to handle than Plante.

Montreal's scoring punch, the power that took quick toll of the Boston Bruins in the Cup semi-final, was lacking.

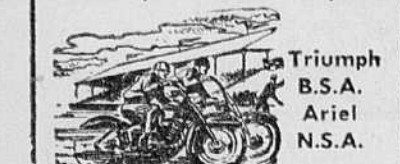

The score-happy young line of Jean Beliveau, Boom Boom Geoffrion and Dickie Moore flashed only in spots but at that they were the best combination Canadiens produced tonight.

A parade of penalties early in the opening period kept the teams off balance until finally the Red Wings struck first while Moore was in the penalty box.

Reibel fired from about 40 feet out on the right and Lindsay pounced on the shot rebound to rap the puck past Plante.

It was a power play, starting with Delvecchio on the points. Reibel was the fourth forward during that, and subsequent power plays. Pronovost almost gave the Wings another when he trapped a passout by Geoffrion and blazed away at Plante who came up with a brilliant save.

Matane Red Rocks Make Clean Sweep Over Fredericton

Matane, Que. — (CP) — Matane Red Rocks Saturday edged Fredericton 3-2 to make a clean 4-0 sweep of their best-of-seven Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final series.

The Red Rocks now will go against the winner of a series between Sudbury Wolves and Owen Sound Mercurys in Ontario.

Matane kept the pressure on capitals all through the game, and only brilliant goaling by Andy Halverson kept the score low. Halverson stopped 43 shots while Matane's Marcel Paille—protected by a solid defence—had only 23 to handle.

Rene Pepin, Jacques Nadon, and Bob Leger scored for the Red Rocks while Laurie Menzie and Neil Sewell tallied Fredericton's goals.

Nadon gave the Red Rocks a 1-0 lead late in the second period while both Doug Sewell of Fredericton and Matane's Ray Leduc were in the penalty box.

Jim Bartlett drew an assist on Nadon's tally.

In the second period, Menzie counted on a two-way play with Archie Burton and Rolfe Rickard to tie the score.

The Red Rocks rallied in the final period and Leger broke away with two defencemen—Bernie Lismoges and playing coach Gerry Plamondon—to give Matane a 2-1 lead.

Roger Ste. Marie of the Red Rocks won Fredericton's 2-1. Leger was sitting out, roughing penalties when Leger scored.

Pepin fired the winner at the half-way mark of the final frame and Neil Sewell closed out the scoring at 14:36.

Halifax Atlantics Win Alexander Cup

Halifax Atlantics defeated Sydney Mariners 3-2 Friday night to win the Maritime Major Hockey League championship and three additional trophies.

For the hard-battling, weary Atlantics, it was the second league to win in two years. Their bonus honors included the Alexander Cup, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association award for top major team, the Starr Trophy, for the Maritime championship, and the Landry Bowl for the League title.

Atlantics may meet Cincinnati Mohawks of the International league in an exhibition game, though nothing has been decided. The top team in the Maritime major league, unique in Canadian hockey, has nowhere else to go to title.

In the bedlam of congratulatory noise that was the Atlantics' dressing room, one stout figure stood apart. That was Roy McMeekin, the goalie who gave more than any other member of the team to win the title.

"Now I can go off my diet," he repeated in dazed jubilation, with both hands on his taut tummy.

"Now I can go off my diet," the chunky, starchy goaltender claims his training diet cost him 5 of the 225 pounds with which he started the season.

Halifax, who won the first four games of the best of nine series by easy margins, had trouble when Sydney brought substitute goalie Gilles Boisvert up to replace Norm Defelice, who went stale after being the league's star goalie. Boisvert stopped 34 to McMeekin's 29 Friday, but allowed Atlantics only one goal in two earlier games.

Halifax started confidently with a goal early in the first, looked bad as Sydney scored the only goal of the second period, then lashed back in the third.

Doug McPhee tallied for Atlantics in the first, and Jene LeClerc, once aided by Marcel Clements, alone, fired the two goals that gave Halifax the game in the third period.

Duke McDonald scored for Sydney in the second, and Neil Amadio fired Sydney's last goal. Halifax received four of the seven penalties. Each team got two during a near brawl in the first period.

Black Hawks Buy Hassard For Cash

Toronto — Chicago Black Hawks Sunday announced the purchase of centre Bobby Hassard from Toronto Maple Leafs.

General manager Bill Tobin would give no definite price but said Hassard cost "in excess of $200,000."

Hassard, 25, played in only 26 National Hockey League games with the Leafs this year. He was with injuries most of the season.

Adam Brown Scores Overtime Goal To Give Quebec Aces 4-3 Victory Over Chicoutimi; Aces Lead Series

Quebec, April 5 — (CP) — Adam Brown batted home the payoff goal early in an overtime period to give Quebec Aces a 4-3 decision over Chicoutimi Saguenays and a commanding 4-2 lead in their best-of-nine semi-final playoffs.

The largest Quebec Hockey League crowd here this season, 13,295 fans, saw the former National Leaguer knock in a loose puck after goalie Phil Hughes had made a stop on Irwin Grosse's shot. Buddy Boone assisted.

The Aces were never ahead until the winning margin came at 3:25 of the sudden-death overtime. Larry Regan's goal early in the third period, his second of the game, tied the score at 3-3 and forced the extra frame. Gerry Cabana got the other Quebec tally.

Veteran Jacques Locas equalled Regan's feat for Rolfe Hebert's crew and Jimmy Moore completed the scoring.

Both goalies were impressive. Hughes kicked out 27 shots for the Saguenays while Jack Gelineau handled 23. Chicoutimi failed to get a shot at the Quebec netminder in overtime. Hughes turned away three before Brown beat him.

Referee Georges Gravel distributed seven minors—four to the visitors. There were no penalties in the last two periods.

While the line of Regan, Cabana and Leduc Tremblay started for the Aces, defencemen Gerry Gaudet stole the show for Chicoutimi, breaking up countless Quebec rushes and giving Gelineau a hot time with his booming slap shots.

Chicoutimi opened the scoring on Locas' first goal late in the opening period. Regan answered for the Aces at the 47-second mark of the second. Locas' second goal a few minutes later gave the visitors a 2-1 lead which they held until Cabana counted at 14:31 while the Saguenays were short-handed. Moore put the visitors ahead again at 0:47 of the third and then came Regan's unassisted tally for overtime.

Chicoutimi — goal: Hughes; defence: Gaudet, Taillefer, Roy, Lamerande; forwards: White, Buchanan, Paréault, L. Smrke, S. Smrke, Locas, Dussault, Groleau, Tkachuk, Moore.

Bobo Olson Retains Middleweight Crown In Thrilling 15-Round Bout; May Meet Giardello In September

Tireless Bobo Olson saved his world middleweight title in a rousing battle with courageous welter champ Kid Gavilan Friday night by winning the votes of the referee and a judge for a 15-round decision. The other judge scored this blistering "fight of the year" a draw.

The near-capacity crowd roared in delight as the Cuban kid matched Olson in a toe-to-toe slugger bee through the final seconds of the stirring bout between two solid workmen.

Blood streamed from Gavilan's slashed right eye from the ninth round on as extra pounds finally told the story of this battle of two champions.

The winner scaled 159½ to the kid's 155.

Gavilan's bid for a double title was frustrated by the closest of margins in a bout marked by frequent savage exchanges.

Referee Bernard (Sonny) Weissman called it for Olson by a margin of 147 points to 141. Judge Bill O'Connell had Olson on top 147-139, while Judge Ed Hintz scored 144 for each man. The Associated Press card had Olson out front by the barest of margins, 142-141.

Olson, a master of the feint, startled Gavilan by landing "sucker" right-hand leads throughout the fight. Bobo lunges like a butcher working on a side of beef, with a side-chopping motion.

From time to time, Gavilan's zooming punches to the inside would beat Olson at his own body-thumping game. But it was the persistent attack of Bobo which made Gavilan back-pedal in a retreat that cost him the fight.

There were no knockdowns, but the exciting moments of the contest were Olson's.

"Toughest fight I ever had," the kid said, "But I'll beat him next time. I no use right hand much because I no practise with it. But now I know I need two hands."

On the AP card, the 10th looked like the best of the night for Gavilan, although the cut opened again. The Cuban batter was beating Olson at his own game with body punching, and forced the 160-pound champ to break off the attack. However that 10-round flurry must have taken its toll on the kid for he was slowed after that.

In the final, Gavilan shot the works in a burst of action that brought the big crowd to its feet roaring until the final bell.

The customers, who appeared to favor the Hawaiian-born Olson, had no serious objections to the decision.

Gavilan, apparently carefree in defeat, shrugged off the loss as "bad luck."

"Toughest fight I ever had," the kid said, "But I'll beat him next time. I no use right hand much because I no practise with it. But now I know I need two hands."

Going into the bend, Oxford, a 2-to-1 underdog, held less than a boat-length lead when the water roughed up. Oxford stepped up the stroke and went straight through.

Cambridge's bigger and heavier rowers bucked the water, shipped a bit and then made the fatal mistake of seeking smoother going. By the time they found it off to the side, Oxford was two lengths in front and going strong.

Toward the end, Cambridge increased its stroke but Oxford was too good and too far ahead for Cambridge to overhaul.

Teepees Rally To Take Series From Toronto St. Mike's

Toronto, April 5. — St. Catharines Teepees completed the greatest comeback of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A season Sunday when they defeated Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 5-4 to enter the league finals. The largest crowd of the season — 14,801 — watched the eighth and final game.

The victory gave Teepees the best-of-seven series 4-3 with one game tied.

The Teepees, down 3-1 in games at one stage of the series, won three consecutive games to go past the collegians into the best-of-seven final against Toronto Marlboros.

St. Catharines took a 3-2 lead in the first period but the Irish tied the score 3-3 in the second and went ahead 4-3 in the third. Chester Warchol scored the final two goals of the game to give the Teepees the victory.

Brian Cullen also fired a pair for the winners with Don McLean getting the other goal. Jim Logan, Brian Anderson, Paul Knox and Dick Duff were the Toronto snipers.

St. Michael's got off to a bad start at the beginning of the game and the Teepees were in front 2-0 before the game was 4½ minutes old. Two of the three Teepee goals in the first period were scored when the puck deflected off of Irish defenceman St. Michael's scored both goals of the period while the Teepees were playing two men short.

St. Michael's were tagged with five of the nine minor penalties handed out during the game. Five penalties were called during the first period.

Warchol scored the winning goal with Toronto defenceman Ted Toppazzini draped over his back. The goal came with less than four minutes remaining in the game and the Irish had little time to try for the equalizer.

Dodgers Will Open Season With Same Squad As Last Year

New York — (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers' chief aim is to defeat the New York Yankees in a world series. With that as an added incentive, the Dodgers should overcome such possible handicaps as old age and a new manager, and march to their third consecutive National League pennant this season.

Actually, the Brooks have just about everything a winning baseball team needs. Their tremendous power, air-tight defence, good speed and a strong bench, together with the best pitching they've had since 1941, should beat down the Milwaukee Braves, St. Louis Cardinals and other hopefuls.

The Brooks will open the season with the same club that clinched the flag at the earliest date in National League history Sept. 12.

Don Newcombe, the big Negro right-hander who won 21 games in 1951 before he was called up for a two-year hitch in the army, will be back with the Dodgers.

The reinforced Braves, who finished a surprising second 13 games behind the Dodgers last year, could conceivably dethrone the Dodgers, but it appears doubtful.

The Brooks are just plain loaded with such top-flight stars as Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo, Pee Wee Reese, Gil Hodges, Billy Cox and Junior Gilliam.

The pitching, headed by Newcombe, Carl Erskine, Russ Meyer, Billy Loos and Preacher Roe, is the Dodgers' best since the days of Whit Wyatt, Kirby Higbe, Fred Fitzsimmons, Curt Davis and Hugh Casey.

This writer sees the National League pennant race this way: 1 Brooklyn, 2 Milwaukee, 3 St. Louis, 4 New York, 5 Philadelphia, 6 Cincinnati, 7 Pittsburgh, 8 Chicago.

Playoff Dates For QHL Finals Set

Montreal. — (CP) — Dates for the best-of-seven semi-finals series between Ottawa Senators and Montreal Royals were announced here today by the Quebec Hockey League.

The dates: April 6, 11, 15, and 18 at Montreal; April 9 or 10, 14, and 17 at Ottawa.

Whether Royals play at Ottawa April 9 or 10 depends on whether Eastview St. Charles, Ottawa junior team, squares its best-of-five Eastern Canada Memorial Cup series 2-2 with North Sydney Franklins or is eliminated.

Eastview tied the series, the deciding game will be played at Ottawa Friday and Royals will meet Senators Saturday, April 10.

Toronto Marlboros Down Hamilton 3-0

Hamilton, April 5. — Toronto Marlboros defeated Hamilton Cubs 3-0 Saturday night to sweep their best-of-five Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final series 3-0 in games. One game was tied.

Marlboros will now meet the winner of the St. Catharines-Toronto St. Michael's series in the finals.

Marlboros, who scored once in each period of the rugged game, were in control all the way. The Cubs didn't get an attack organized until the third period and were stalled by a tight Marlboro defence.

Bob Baun, Bill Harris and Wally Maxwell scored for the winners.

were: Magog 6, Danville 5 and Granby 4.

Yesterday's competition was very keenly contested and drew a large number of spectators.

Ottawa Eliminates Valleyfield In Final Game Of Series; Gravelle Paces Winners Who Meet Montreal Tuesday

Ottawa, April 5. — Ottawa Senators eliminated Valleyfield Braves in the Quebec Hockey League quarter-finals here Saturday night, winning 3-1 in the deciding game of their best-of-seven series.

The Senators now will meet Montreal Royals in the semi-finals. Opening game of that series is expected to be played in Montreal Tuesday or Wednesday night.

Veteran Leo Gravelle scored two goals for the Senators before about 7,800 fans who saw Ottawa take the seventh game of its series against the Braves. Howard Riopelle scored Ottawa's other goal while Jean-Paul Bissillon scored the lone Valleyfield goal.

The Senators held off a desperate rally by the Braves in the dying minutes of the game after they broke up a 1-1 deadlock in the second period and added an insurance marker midway in the third.

Gravelle gave Ottawa the lead at 2:01 of the opening period when he drilled in a low, seven-foot drive after Dusty Blair carried in the puck. Howard Riopelle started the play. Valleyfield drew even at 6:28 of the period. Bissillon picking the upper left-hand corner of the net from 10 feet out on a passout from Kitoune Joannette.

Riopelle's winning goal came after only 34 seconds of play in the second while Valleyfield's Roly Leclerc was off for tripping. It was hotly contested by the Braves. Coach Toe Blake dashed onto the ice to protest but retreated hastily when he was given the nod by referee George Gravel of Montreal.

Riopelle rapped the puck from the goalmouth after Valleyfield's Bob Needham stopped a blue-line drive by Ottawa's Phil Maloney. The Braves protested that Riopelle was inside the goal crease when the goal was scored. Gravelle scored the final goal from close-in at 7:12 of the third period on a good passing play with Blair.

Valleyfield goalie Andy Payette was replaced by an extra forward with 45 seconds remaining in the game and Ray Frederick of Ottawa stopped four close-in drives
