Record Spending Planned By Quebec

QUEBEC — (CP) — The provincial government has brought down record expenditure estimates of $506,537,400 for the 1958-59 fiscal year beginning April 1.

Finance Minister Onesime Gagnon tabled the estimates in the legislative assembly Tuesday. They call for expenditures roughly $35,000,000 higher than estimated for the current fiscal year.

Estimates for 1957-58 totalled $482,911,360 — nearly $100,000,000 higher than for the 1956-57 term. The increase was due to the start of equalization payments by the federal government and higher corporation income taxes.

The relatively small increase forecast for the coming term indicates the government is not planning new taxes.

WELFARE INCREASE

Mr. Gagnon listed increased expenditure in nearly every government department. Most important increases were earmarked social welfare, education and roads.

Social welfare is up to $75,453,000 from $43,363,000, making it the third largest budget item. The department is taking over social assistance duties from the health department whose credits are dropping to $67,897,000 from $83,407,000.

No estimate of anticipated revenue is made at this time. The finance minister will outline this in his budget speech expected earlier than usual this year.

It is believed the speech may be delivered by Welfare Minister Paul Sauve.

In some quarters it is said Mr. Gagnon plans to retire in the near future and perhaps take up a federal appointment. His name has been mentioned as a possible successor to Lieutenant - Governor Gaspard Fautoux of Quebec whose term has expired.

Judicial Bill Is Withdrawn

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis yesterday announced in the legislative assembly his government is withdrawing a bill to establish a new provincial court of review whose judges would be appointed by the federal government.

Mr. Duplessis said instead his government will introduce legislation to authorize the appointment by the federal government of a larger number of superior court judges. In the bill the province would also propose the opening of new judicial districts.

Those on board were six crew members and eight going to Churchill for training. The plane was damaged extensively but fire did not break out.

Pearson Asks More Trade

Guessing On Election Ottawa's Popular Sport

OTTAWA (CP) — It's anybody's guess—and just about everybody is guessing—as to the date of the next federal general election.

It's Parliament Hill's favorite puzzle pastime as the legislative sessions gets into its late stages. You can get members to suggest dates anywhere from late March to next fall, complete with reasons. Some can't see an election coming this year.

Even cabinet members don't seem any better informed on this one than the run-of-the-mill parliamentarian. Or if they do, they're being highly discreet.

"I don't think anyone knows," says Works Minister Howard Green, Progressive Conservative floor leader in the Commons and No. 1 lieutenant of Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Trade Minister Gordon Churchill, who laid the organizational groundwork for the Conservatives' successful 1957 election campaign, is a bit more definite. He says he expects the next general vote will be held in 1958, but won't go beyond that.

CHUCKLES FROM PM

The prime minister just chuckles when a reporter throws out a feeler.

Most MPs think it will depend on the political atmosphere of any given time, taking into account unemployment, the general state of the economy and the indicated popularity of the government party.

One of the most politically knowledgeable of national politicians—deputy CCF leader Stanley Knowles—picks the date as April 14.

His reasoning: Before Easter would be too early, at the rate Parliament has been moving. The first Monday after the Easter weekend will be April 14, and the government will want to go to the country as soon as possible. The law requires that a federal general election be held on a Monday.

LACK CONFIDENCE

A top Liberal strategist, former immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill, says it is unlikely the Conservatives will precipitate an election this year on their own because they haven't enough confidence that they will win.

Besides, he says, "it would be a shocking thing to the public if they did it when they haven't carried out most of their election promises or brought down a budget."

"But anyone who would predict what might happen in a House where no party has a majority would be a bolder man than I am," Mr. Pickersgill concludes.

Hillary, Fuchs Patch Up Row Over Crossing

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP) — Sir Edmund Hillary and Dr. Vivian Fuchs, the British Commonwealth's chief Antarctic explorers, today were reported in step once more.

Word from Scott Base said Hillary, leader of the New Zealand expedition, will fly to meet Fuchs' party of Britons after they pass the South Pole and guide them to the New Zealand base at McMurdo Sound.

Fuchs, attempting the first overland crossing of the Antarctic continent, reported today that he was 260 miles from the pole. He is to meet Hillary at a point about 500 miles beyond the pole and 700 miles from Scott Base.

Hillary and a party of New Zealanders established supply dumps at intervals from McMurdo Sound to the 700-mile point, then went on to the pole.

WOULD GO ALONE

After returning to Scott Base, Hillary had radioed a recommendation to Fuchs that he abandon his trek at the pole and fly out because of prospects of worsening weather. Fuchs fired back that the New Zealander need not join him at the 700-mile depot and that his group would "find our own way out."

Fuchs had been delayed by bad snow conditions and weather. But he radioed today that he had dropped off some of his vehicles, that "the crevasse area is behind us, and we are making better progress."

In a radio message from Scott Base today Hillary said: "If Dr. Fuchs wishes to continue across (the Antarctic continent), our job is to see he does it as quickly and as safely as possible."

"We are putting emergency supplies of fuel in at Depot 700 and will use our local knowledge of the area to try to give him a fast trip to Scott Base and beat the weather."

OTTAWA (CP) — Not diversion but expansion of trade is what Canada needs, says Lester B. Pearson.

Seldom in history has trade expansion been more necessary than at this time of slack economic activity, he said Tuesday as the Commons devoted its attention to trade and education.

Criticizing the Progressive Conservative government for its plan to divert 15 per cent of Canadian purchases from the United States to the United Kingdom, he urged the government to use "bold, resolute, imaginative and wise action" to expand Canada's foreign trade.

Mr. Pearson, a leading candidate for the Liberal party leadership, spoke near the end of a sitting that devoted most of its time to education.

The education debate arose through a resolution moved by CCF Leader Coldwell. Technically one of non-confidence in the government, it called for federal financial aid to expand and equalize educational opportunities across Canada "without in any way encroaching on the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces in this field."

In the end, the Commons voted 163 to 72 against it. Only the CCF, Herman M. Batten (L—Humber-St. George's) and Frank Christian (SC—Okanagan - Boundary) voted for it.

Mr. Pearson then turned attention to trade, saying the Liberal party's policy always will be to move towards "freer trade and expanding trade between all free countries."

He expressed concern over the possibility the Conservative government might try to fight current unemployment by restricting trade. Such action would only increase unemployment in the long run.

Mr. Pearson suggested the gov-

Canada's Diamond King Dies

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Dr. John Thorburn Williamson, Canadian multi-millionaire "diamond king," died Tuesday night at his mine at Mwadui, in Tanganyika. He was 52.

The Canadian lumberjack's son, who became the world's richest bachelor after he found an African diamond mine, had been reported ill during last year, and had been to Europe and North America for medical treatment.

A native of Monfort, Que., he was a geology graduate of McGill University, Montreal.

His success story was that of a man with a brilliant academic career and confidence in himself, who stuck to his theory that diamonds in plenty were to be found in a certain barren area of African soil—and won.

He first went to Africa with one of his McGill professors who had been appointed a consultant geologist to a gold mine, and for a time worked for big mining corporations in South Africa and Northern Rhodesia.

Then he became convinced that somewhere in East Africa must be a really huge "pipe" of kimberlite, the diamond-bearing blue clay of which the famous Kimberley pipe in South Africa's Cape Province was only an offshoot.

For years he scratched about in hot, dusty Tanganyika, with only a few natives to help him. Eventually he narrowed his activities to the Mwadui area, where he found under a tree the first diamond which gave him the clue to the location of the "pipe."

This led to the start of his fabulous Mwadui mine, which in 1957 was said to yield well over £3,000,000 worth of gems and industrial stones a year. Believed to be the world's richest, its potential value is reckoned in hundreds of millions of pounds.

But Williamson appeared to take little interest in money and did not indulge in lavish spending on himself. For some 15 years he rarely left the mine until he went abroad for his health in 1955. He visited Canada on one of these trips, and was in London last June before returning to his African home.

There he lived behind a high wire fence that barred him from the many curious who tried to penetrate his solitude.

Remote and enigmatic, he was difficult to approach, and his movements were often kept something of a mystery. The reason he gave for his secretiveness was that whenever his doings were reported in the press he was inundated with letters from all over the world.

Callas Barred, May Sue Opera

ROME (AP) — Soprano Maria Meneghini Callas told the Rome opera Tuesday night she may sue because she was not allowed a second chance to sing Norma.

Police said she must not be allowed to sing in Rome again this season lest there be violence. Tempers of ardent Rome opera fans still burn hot over her walkout after the first act of Norma last Thursday.

Albania Holding US Pilot

ROME (AP) — Communist Albania says she is holding prisoner a United States Air Force jet pilot given up as missing two weeks ago.

Apparently the pilot is Maj. Howard J. B. Curran, who disappeared Dec. 23 in a T-33 jet trainer on a flight from Chateaufort, France, to Naples.

Radio Tirana said Albanian jet fighters forced down a U.S. T-33 which had trespassed on Albanian territory. It added that the plane came from the direction of Korçe, near the Greek border, and was headed toward Tirana. The date was not given.

Italian radio monitors who heard the broadcast in Albanian took down the pilot's name phonetically as Howard Keran, but U.S. sources in Rome said the broadcast undoubtedly referred to Curran.

The Rome and Naples airports were fogbound the day Curran disappeared.

Margaret Anglin Dies In Toronto

She Was Once Toast Of Broadway

TORONTO (CP) — The curious life of a Canadian woman who at 18 rose to stardom on gaslit Broadway in the 1890s and became one of the theatre's most commanding figures in the 1920s ended Tuesday in a nursing home.

Margaret Anglin, 81, Mrs. Howard Hull in private life, had heard herself called "one of the few dramatic geniuses of the day" by Sarah Bernhardt. She was paid the supreme compliment by author Somerset Maugham who said he could add nothing to the description of her "great talent as an actress."

Yet at the height of her career in 1929 New York theatres locked their doors against her.

DISPUTE OVER HUSBAND

The quarrel between the red-haired, grey-eyed beauty and the theatre managers began over her husband. She had married Howard Hull, a writer, in 1911 and believed he could act. Determined to get him good parts in her plays, she walked off the lavish sets of two Shakespearean productions, causing the opening of one to be deferred four months while a substitute was trained.

Her husband predeceased her by almost 20 years. Time healed the wounds and she returned to the New York stage in 1936.

FATHER WAS SPEAKER

She was born in the Speaker's apartment at the old House of Commons when her father, T. W. Anglin, held that office. The family moved for a few years to Saint John, N.B. and then to Toronto, where she received a convent school education.

Before she was 18 she went to New York to join the flock of hopefuls in drama schools. In 1894, she rose from obscurity to a part in the famous U.S. civil war play Shenandoah.

Increase Suspended As 8 Provinces, Railways To Appeal Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — An unparalleled situation has developed in freight rates with eight provinces appealing to the cabinet against the latest increase and the railways preparing to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Meanwhile, the cabinet has suspended until at least March 1 the 3.6-per-cent increase that was to have gone into effect Jan. 15. It was the first government suspension of a general rate increase in 40 years. Provincial premiers welcomed the government's move.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced to the Commons Tuesday that the government suspended the increase to give the eight provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—and the railways time to prepare argument.

At the same time, it was learned that the railways notified the cabinet Monday of their intention to appeal to the high court. The double-barrelled appeal, unprecedented in Canadian railway history, left legal experts puzzled as to procedure.

One held that, once the court appeal is filed, the cabinet might consider the issue to be sub judice and keep hands off until the court rules.

Another noted that different points appear to be involved in each appeal and said the cabinet could very well consider itself entitled to go ahead for this reason.

While the provinces are petitioning the cabinet on the claim there should have been no increase at all, the railways will contend they should have been granted the full amount of the 10 per cent they were seeking.

This would have yielded an estimated $35,000,000 a year. The 3.6 per cent is worth about $15,000,000.

The railways said to the cabinet, it was learned, that the board made errors of law and jurisdiction in not granting the full amount sought. These are the two grounds for appeal from the board to the court.

The provinces contend the board should not have allowed as a charge against freight rates an item of some $9,500,000 a year as a deferred income tax fund by the CPR, yardstick line for rate-

Ike Plans Tough Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was described by a high government official today as ready to back his request for new missile and air defence funds with a hard-hitting message to Congress.

This official, who has seen advance drafts of the "State of the Union" address Eisenhower will deliver in person Thursday, said "This is not a message of platitudes or complacency." He asked not to be quoted by name, but added:

"The president intends to tackle the major problems head-on. It will be a vigorous message that we believe will have the approval of most members of Congress."

Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate Democratic leader, who heads a senatorial inquiry into the missile and satellite programs, applauded Eisenhower's action Tuesday in asking $1,260,000,000 of additional money to expand and accelerate United States defences.

Johnson said he hopes Eisenhower follows up the move with "a call to arms" in addressing Congress. Predicting quick approval of the request for money, he added:

"Along with improved organization and additional money, however, it is important that we have the determination to get going immediately on the tremendous job we have ahead of us."

Labor Papers Demand That Macmillan Quit

LONDON (Reuters) — Left-wing London papers are calling on Prime Minister Macmillan, now on a tour of five eastern Commonwealth countries, to follow his former chancellor of the exchequer and resign from office.

"The country has lost faith in the Tory government," says the Daily Mirror. "The Tory government has lost the ability to govern."

"Mr. Macmillan should not flinch from recognizing his duty to face the electorate," says the Labor party's Daily Herald.

Despite these left-wing pressures, the Conservatives show no signs of calling for an early election. A general election is scheduled for 1960, but can be called earlier if the party in power so decides or if the government is defeated on a vote of confidence.

The chancellor, Peter Thorneycroft, quit his cabinet post Monday night because his colleagues would not back his plan to keep government expenditures at their present level.

MEANT WELFARE CUT

To do so, said Macmillan, would have meant cutting down on such social services as education and aid to the aged.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler, deputizing for the prime minister while Macmillan is on tour, said Tuesday night that the government's tough line against inflation will continue despite Thorneycroft's departure.

The rest of the cabinet went a long way toward Thorneycroft's view in agreeing on "the most drastic series of cuts in expenditures," the home secretary said. They differed, however, on £50,000,000—less than one per cent of the national budget of £4,000,000,000.

Thorneycroft's successor, Derrick Heathcoat Amory, pledged to battle inflation and to keep government spending at a minimum. Many papers agree that Thorneycroft's action hurt the government.

"There is no real evidence so far that the flexibility apparently supported by Mr. Macmillan and the majority of the cabinet implies any profligate abandonment of the policy of retrenchment," comments the Liberal paper Manchester Guardian.

"Mr. Thorneycroft may have done us all a good turn in dramatizing the continued need for economy by his resignation."

"Politically the government is weakened. That is inescapable."

The Times, independent, says the government ministers "foundered."

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood looks a bit different to May Hallatt, noted British actress here for her first American movie.

She was last through here in 1905, touring with a stage company. Miss Hallatt is just a shade this side of 80, though you'd never guess it. Her face is smooth and scarcely lined, and her manner is alert and even adventurous. After all, how many 80-year-olds would leave their homes to travel alone across an ocean and a continent to act in a movie?

I asked her why she did it. "Money," was her refreshingly frank reply.

Miss Hallatt played one of the guests of an English seaside hotel in the London stage hit, Separate Tables. She came to New York to repeat the role for nine months, missing only four performances. Now she will play in the film version.

Besides asking her to make the trip, the producers requested her to learn to play billiards. "And I did," she said proudly. "I had one of the top players in Britain instruct me in a billiard hall in Soho. He said I showed great promise, too."

She plays a salty old character with an affinity for billiards, horse races and Mickey Spillane. And she's enjoying herself immensely.

STRANDED IN CANADA
Miss Hallatt has played all over the world. She was introduced to the American stage by Lillie Langtry. Stranded with a troupe in Canada, Miss Hallatt wrote to the star about prospects of finding work in New York, and Miss Langtry found her a role in a Broadway musical.

Both world wars saw Miss Hallatt as an entertainer. In the last one she went out to the African front.

"I was in Alexandria when the Germans were just two hours away," she recalled. "We had to be evacuated."

Council Rejects Suggestion To Name Industrial Commissioner

The Sherbrooke City Council at its first regular session of 1958 last night decided to defer for one year at least the appointment of an industrial commissioner.

The decision was taken after Mayor Armand Nadeau told the aldermen that he had received a letter from former Alderman Leo Cadorette, former chairman of the Council's industrial relations committee, in which Mr. Cadorette had offered his services as industrial commissioner.

Contents of the letter were not made public by the Mayor, who said the letter was addressed to him personally. The question was discussed behind closed doors with newspapermen being excluded.

Market Committee Chairman, Ald. Marcel Savard, asked Director of Services Charles Langlois to submit a full report on the financial operations of the new market.

Annual Reports Presented To Magog Council

He stated that a delegation of market lessees called upon him and Mayor Nadeau yesterday asking for a reduction in the price of tables rented by various lessees. The committee chairman said the financing of the new market was based on revenue which was obtained from rentals and that original plans called for a balancing of the market budget to meet financing costs. However, Mr. Langlois will submit a full report and if there is any benefit to be gained from a reduction in table rentals, the lessees will certainly be the first to profit by it, stated Alderman Savard.

Other decisions taken by council included a scheduled meeting between Building Inspector J. O. Chartier and A. C. Ross to discuss the possible purchase by the city of property owned by Mr. Ross on Esplanade street. The city will need the land in the future to open the street. The property in question is used as an ice house.

Agreed to meet members of the Municipal Library committee after present budget studies are concluded to look into a possible installation of a film room. The Library Committee asked council for a room in which to show films.

Approved an expenditure of $65 for the printing of a film catalogue for the Municipal Film Library.

Approved in principle the purchase of a piece of land on the Brompton road for the widening of the highway.

Approved an expenditure of some $1,515 to paint the interior of the new market building. The painting was delayed at the time of construction to allow the plaster to dry.

Approved the destruction of documents kept in the city vault dating from 1912. City Clerk Henri Paul Emond told council that these documents had been kept for many years and were no longer of any use to the city.

High Level Of Construction At Lennoxville

New construction and repairs and additions to existing buildings totalling $442,690 in value were undertaken in Lennoxville during the past year, Ald. C. W. Dougherty told the members of the Town Council at its opening session for 1958 held last night.

This total included $212,000 of new construction and $230,590 of repairs and alterations.

Although the figures included the cost of the new Roman Catholic school, private construction was still ahead of the previous year, Ald. Dougherty explained.

The aldermen ordered that the proprietors of the Paquin garage, which was destroyed by fire last year, show within a stated delay that they intended to improve the property or those sections of the walls still standing would be removed by the town at the expense of the proprietors.

This decision was reached after Town Secretary Darrell Belam reported the owners of the property had taken no action to remove the walls or make any improvements to the property.

He added that several persons had moved into the shacks behind the burned-out building.

The secretary also read a letter from a Lennoxville company suggesting the adoption of a by-law covering public nuisances.

It suggested that the municipal act to remove all branches of trees that affect the street lights and all tree roots that threaten the sewage system.

However, the Council decided against adopting such a by-law because the matter should be referred to the property-owner on whose lot the nuisance existed.

A report on the new park-land project was also submitted to the Council by Ald. Norman Welsh. He said that work was not progressing too rapidly at the present time and that the clearing of trees was still a problem. However, plans are progressing and it is hoped to have the park ready for late summer or early fall.

Mayor E. W. Gilbey thanked the aldermen for the spirit of co-operation which they had shown in their work during the past year and spoke highly of the teamwork which had carried them through 1957.

He also congratulated the various committees for their care in staying within their individual budgets but cautioned that the present year probably would involve additional expense for municipal vehicles.

Drummondville Industrial Fund

QUEBEC (CP)—The private bills committee of the legislative assembly yesterday passed a bill authorizing Drummondville to set up an industrial fund of $250,000.

A clause in the bill that would have authorized the municipal council to decree excavations, holes, ditches or burned buildings a public nuisance was deleted. The city would be authorized to levy a business tax. No maximum was set.

Early Report On Town Planning Project Likely

A preliminary report on Town Planning is expected in the very near future from Jean Claude LaHaye, planning expert hired by the city.

Director of Services Charles Langlois said last night that Mr. LaHaye would submit a preliminary report on this work to him either today or tomorrow. The report would be studied by council and then Mr. LaHaye would prepare a final report.

Mr. Langlois told the Council last night that Mr. LaHaye wanted to know the opinions of Council on his work. He said that sometimes a town planning expert could submit a report suggesting various changes which would not meet with the favor of local citizens. The Director of Services explained that since the expert hired by the city was not a local citizen, he might suggest changes which would not fit into the local situation.

All members of the Council with the exception of Alderman Everett Nicol favored this method of procedure. Ald. Nicol protested the fact that a preliminary report was being submitted by the town planner.

"He is the expert and we are paying him to produce a plan. I don't think it is up to Mr. Langlois or Council to prepare it for him," he stated.

There was no decision taken by council on a suggestion to have various local organizations study the preliminary report.

Pointe Claire Now A City

QUEBEC (CP)—The private bills committee of the legislative assembly yesterday passed a bill incorporating the town of Pointe Claire, near Montreal, as a city.

Main clause in the bill would authorize the municipal council to appoint a three-member board of revision made up of a lawyer, an architect or engineer and a property owner.

The 1958 Assizes of the Court of the Queen's Bench will open next Tuesday with an average number of trials entered on the roll, according to Court Recorder Jean-Marie Gregoire.

Forty-six cases were originally slated for trial by jury but in 19 of the cases the defendants changed their options for trials before a judge alone.

Highlighting the Assizes will be the retrial of Jeffrey Lowther, of Magog, who was condemned last year, to hang for the 1955 murder of Gilles Murray, of Magog, but was later granted a new trial by the Quebec Court of Appeals.

Says Government Control Of TV Servicing Essential

The government eventually must enforce regulations in the television servicing market because there are too many incompetent people in the field, Rotarian Greg O'Boyle, president of the O'Boyle and Pearce Ltd. told a regular Rotary meeting last evening.

Mr. O'Boyle, dealing with the topic of his classification talk, "Television Retailing", said "There is lack of discipline in the TV business. There are no laws and a lot of incompetent people. The government will step in to regulate TV servicing."

Briefly reviewing the history of television, Mr. O'Boyle said TV was first introduced in Canada in 1952 at Montreal but as far as Sherbrooke is concerned television came into popularity with the broadcasting of the American channels in 1954.

The prices of television sets have been reduced considerably from $400 and up in 1954 to between $150 and $450 today.

An aerial is the most important part of the television set because it furnishes power for the picture, he said. There are two basic types, he said, and recommended that the owner find the one best suited to his needs.

Mr. O'Boyle gave a technical description of the differences between black and white and color television. The reason for the high cost of colored TV was the expense of servicing the sets which contain more components than ordinary television.

Servicing black and white television sets costs households in the billions of dollars, more than the cost of producing the sets themselves. An owner will pay approximately $56 a year to maintain his set. This cost, he explained, may not be paid the first year but over a period of several years.

Concluding, he noted that the television servicemen's busiest hours are between 6 p. m. and 8 a. m.

Mr. O'Boyle was introduced by Dan Towne and thanked by Norm Welsh.

Adrien Matte, co-owner of the Sherbrooke Molsen's Brewery agency was inducted as a new member of the club.

There has been a revival around town of the girl entertainer gifted in the art of undressing.

She went into eclipse in the "gay but good" era initiated in the wake of the Caron vice probe report in 1954. Morality was one of the features emphasized by the reform administration of former mayor Jean Drapeau, defeated last October by Senator Sarto Fournier.

Paul Emile Cardinal Leger, Roman Catholic archbishop of Montreal, in his New Year's message attacked "ambiguous laws, protection and sordid interests" in the "debauchery of youth."

Mr. Jewison requested motorists not to leave their vehicles on the streets because they impede operations.

The only delay in bus transportation was reported by the Provincial Transport Company on their Lake Megantic service.

A company spokesman said the bus was half an hour late because the garage in Lake Megantic was snowed in.

Laramie Coach Lines and the Quebec Central Transportation said there were no delays in their services.

Although clear sunny weather is forecast for tomorrow temperatures will dip to 15 below, overnight.

Quebec Assembly Pays Tribute To Mrs. J. S. Bourque

QUEBEC (Special)—Unanimous expressions of condolences were tendered by Government leaders and members of the Opposition yesterday afternoon to Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests and of Hydraulic Resources, on the death of his wife, the former Doreen Eliane Brien, on December 23.

Premier Maurice Duplessis noted, before the Legislative Assembly dealt with the business of the day, that since the adjournment for the Christmas and New Year holidays, there had been a sad event in the family of one of the members of Government.

"The death of Mrs. Bourque," he said, "aroused sentiments of regret and plunged a distinguished family into profound mourning. Those who attended the funeral for Mrs. Bourque returned with the conviction that the death of Mrs. Bourque created a gap which would be difficult to fill."

"In Sherbrooke, the entire population without distinction of race or religion, expressed its high consideration for the Minister of Lands and Forests and took a considerable part in the immense sorrow that overcame him. It is my duty to reiterate, in my name and on behalf of the government, my profoundest sentiments of condolence."

Opposition Leader Georges Lapalme, speaking for the Liberal party, said he had already extended his personal expressions of sympathy to Mr. Bourque and added "Today I want to join with the Premier to offer publicly and officially our condolences to the minister stricken with the death of his wife in order that the gesture be the unanimous expression of all the House."

Dave Rochon, independent member from St. Lawrence riding, also tendered words of sympathy to Mr. Bourque.

A Logical Move

The decision of the City Council to petition the Provincial Legislature to withdraw the right of the local school boards to contest the municipal valuation rolls will be welcomed by local citizens as the logical way to solve an impasse which has seriously threatened the industrial development of the city.

This power to contest the municipally-prepared valuation rolls is a privilege enjoyed by no other school commission in the province and again emphasizes the folly of passing a general law to cover an individual incident.

When it became apparent following a recent Supreme Court judgment that the Roman Catholic School Board would make no concession for the common good, the Record advocated that the whole matter be referred back to the Provincial Legislature, which, by conferring these extraordinary powers, had created the problem. At that time the belief was expressed that only a clarifying act of the Legislature could resolve the situation. Events since that time have done nothing to change this opinion.

Other parties to the dispute have advanced compromise offers, either individually or collectively, in attempts to reach a settlement but these have all been refused.

No reasonable industrialist expects to escape making his just contribution to the cause of education and is prepared to accept some form of a levy on his means of production. But the danger in the present situation revolves about the uncertainty as to the means by which this liability should be determined.

Under the existing legislation, as it applies to Sherbrooke, the municipal valuers are charged with the preparation of the rolls. But owing to the singular right given the school boards, it might be years before the liability of the taxpayer is finally established.

Unanswered Questions

The resignation of Peter Thorneycroft as British Chancellor of the Exchequer has left many observers wondering whether there is not more serious trouble in Prime Minister Macmillan's cabinet than a dispute over a relatively small increase in government spending.

The immediate point at issue was a cabinet demand that budget spending be increased by 50,000,000 pounds sterling. Some British newspapers have commented that Thorneycroft's stand against this increase amounted to carrying fiscal purity to excessive lengths. Others, including the Times of London, have criticized Macmillan for not supporting his chancellor in his attempt to achieve economic stability for Britain.

Whatever the ultimate reason behind Thorneycroft's resignation, the event underlines once again that Britain still faces a grim task in making her way in the world 12 years after the end of World War II. However improved the month-to-month reports of dollar reserves, export figures and trade balances may be, the United Kingdom must continue to wage an uphill battle for trade, by which the tiny, crowded island lives.

Since the war, however, and in fact since long before the war, Britain has become a welfare state with the heavy burden of fixed charges on the Treasury that implies. Macmillan is not a particularly strong party leader, though he has surprised many who predicted failure when he took over from Sir Anthony Eden.

To continue indefinitely the tough financial policy which is necessary if Britain is to stay economically sound takes more than ordinary courage in a politician. The Conservatives have suffered a series of setbacks in by-elections. Labor, though not increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds, senses that an election on popular issues involving increased welfare benefits would sweep them back into power. Macmillan is not willing to dig his party's grave by ignoring politics entirely for the sake of economics.

Nevertheless, the Macmillan-Thorneycroft dispute has left many questions unanswered. Doubtless, the story will not be long in coming out.

This And That

After a large part of the province was temporarily plunged into darkness by a power breakdown Monday night, even the experts were in the dark themselves for a while trying to find out the cause.

Whether or not the Russians actually did project a man into space in a rocket, many people will wish that the leaders of international communism would reserve for themselves the honor of being the first to try to reach the moon — and then stay there.

The American general who is quitting the army because his promotion was sidetracked after he criticized army missile plans will no doubt now join the ever-increasing army of retired generals who write their memoirs.

CALL FOR CIGARETTES

New York Times
News that a vending machine has been introduced that will dispense thirty cigarette brands, to accommodate all the latest variations, is just another indication of the growing complexity of modern life.

For years the corner filling station has had its cigarette machine, geared to half a dozen standbys. Almost overnight it has become as outmoded as the bustle.

Sure, a few old mossbacks still smoke "regulars," but for the rest of us we chase each new deviation, be it king-size, filtertip, flip-top, flat box, mentholated and various combinations of all these.

FATE OF BIG BILLS

(New York Herald-Tribune)
Since 1941 the amount of money in circulation has risen from $11.1 billion to $31.13 billion.

In the same period the amount of $100 bills in circulation has risen from $1.4 billion to $5.5 billion.

A huge part of this increase is in the form of large bills which have been squirreled away into safe deposit boxes, mattresses and other hiding places by the syncretists, or war profiteers, by professional gamblers and others who receive cash fees — and who hide them to avoid paying taxes.

'NICE-NEILLY' POLICY

(Calgary Albertan)
An addition to the dreary catalogue of "nice-nesses" that has just come to our attention is a recent Canadian Broadcasting Corporation ban on the word "Yank" on the grounds that our American neighbours might consider it derogatory.

It may be that in certain parts of the Southern U.S. (and in Milwaukee, of course) the word "Yank" or "Yankee" has certain unpleasant connotations.

But for the CBC to rule that it must not be used is another contribution to "nice-ness" that is as absurd as it is painful.

THINGS TO DO

(Vancouver Sun)
British critic and poet Sir Herbert Read is a bit harsh to call Sputnik "a futile waste of money." But he speaks wisely when he adds: "Give me a scientist who can double the rice crop in India rather than one who can make a Sputnik." For regardless of the excitement the Sputniks conjure up, the visions of trips to the moon, exploring Mars and all the rest of it, there are lots of other things that need doing. Urgently. Here on earth.

TO TEACH SPELLING

Edmonton Journal
The old-fashioned spelling bee has been replaced by many things in our schools of far less worth. When the fundamentals and disciplines of education are ignored, the undermining process has been started. It is important to be able spell correctly and the sooner those in charge of our educational system realize it, the better.

TOO MUCH TALK.

(Winnipeg Tribune)
Labor leaders and Opposition politicians are doing far too much talking about unemployment and a possible recession.

The best way to deepen the real economic gloom is to keep crying about it, and get Canadian businessmen and potential customers in the psychological dumps.

If it is true that nothing succeeds like success, it is probably also true that nothing promotes recession faster than talk of recession.

GINETTE LETONDAL WHO WILL PLAY THE ROLE OF JOAN OF ARC

By CHRISTINE STEWART
MONTREAL (CP)—Ginette Letondal, who has spent 23 of her 27 years on the stage, modestly attributes part of her success to "coward's courage."

The Montreal actress is to play the role of Joan of Arc in "The Lark," by Jean Anouilh. The play was chosen as the first production of the new Theatre de la Comedie Canadienne, due to open in a few weeks.

Miss Letondal shows an unconscious kinship with Anouilh's Joan, who tells the weak French king:

"We're all a little cowardly, Charles. The whole scheme is to be afraid before the battle begins."

Says Miss Letondal: "I'm a great coward, too, before the curtain goes up, but somehow I master my fear and rise to the occasion."

The theatre plans to present the play in French and English on alternate nights. Ginette is bilingual.

Gratien Gelinas, well-known actor and director of the new theatre, says of her:

"Miss Letondal has the capacity to make of St. Joan a good or even great creation. She has 'le metier'—an accumulation of experience and talent and judgment."

A knowledge of Joan as a historical figure will help her to play the part, Miss Letondal said in an interview. Learning it in two languages gave her deeper insight.

"The English are inclined to regard Joan as a heretic who talked directly with God and defied the church," she said. "The French see her as a devout girl whose downfall was brought about by the bad priests."

Among Ginette's other recent roles was the part of Queen Catherine in the 1956 Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival production of "Henry V," which won acclaim at the Edinburgh Festival in Scotland.

In October she narrated the bilingual television tribute to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, "Music for her Majesty." She was one of the heroines of Henry James "The American," produced for television by Toronto's David Greene.

In private life Ginette has been married nine years to Andre Roche, editor of a Montreal weekly dealing with the arts. They have two children: Philippe, 2, and Daniel, two months.

When Ginette was four, she was dancing professionally. Her uncle, actor-musician Henri Letondal, encouraged her acting and she became widely known as a child actress on radio and stage.

At 13, she appeared in the first French-Canadian movie, "Le Pere Chopin."

Between 15 and 17, the fame she had attained became a problem she says. Like many child actors no longer able to play juvenile roles, she tried to remain a child off-stage in a subconscious effort to win praise and approval.

"Then suddenly I wanted to forget all about acting and become a night club singer."

But the old urge to act came again. Slowly she began to work at becoming an adult actress. "I had to begin all over again. Directors did not think I was very good. It was not easy."

Directors in radio, television, films and stage now are constantly seeking out this petite beauty. What she calls "coward's courage" they call a healthy respect for the effort needed to play a part well.

LUCKY HAND MAKES SEVEN

Bobby Wolf of San Antonio took time out from his successful TV show "What's Your Bid?" to play on the winning team at the Republic of Texas championships in Fort Worth.

Today's hand shows Bobby walking off with all the tricks with a hand that might well have gone down at three no-trump.

With 20 high card points Bobby was just too weak to open two no-trump but decided on that as his rebid after West overcalled.

North raised Bobby to game and West opened the eight of spades. Bobby gathered in the trick with his queen and laid down the ace of hearts. West dropped his singleton queen and Bobby saw that he needed two entries to dummy in order to be able to bring home the heart suit.

Therefore he led a low club and finessed dummy's ten. Dummy's nine of hearts was allowed to ride for the next trick. Then Bobby took the king, got back to dummy with the king of clubs and got rid of his two remaining spades on dummy's hearts.

Meanwhile West had discarded

ed a couple of diamonds. Now Bobby led dummy's jack and East covered with the king. This gave Bobby the rest of the tricks for a grand slam.

This is mighty early in the year, but I have a hunch that this hand will stand up as one of the luckiest of 1958.

Meanwhile West had discarded

LIVING COST POINTS DOWNWARD—A decline in food prices in November lowered the bureau of statistics consumer price index one-fifth of a point to 123.1 at the beginning of December. This graph (shaded area) traces the yearly average of the price index during 1949-56 and its movement through 1957. Also shown is the index for average wages and salaries which has risen almost steadily since 1949 and stood at 160.3 at Oct. 1, the last date for which figures are available. Basis of both indices is 100—the average for 1949. (CP Photo)

Auto Chase Ends As Youths Caught

MONTREAL (CP)—A high-speed auto chase through the city and suburban Lachine involving 10 police cars was brought to an end Tuesday night when a patrol car jammed an allegedly stolen automobile driven by two juveniles into the curb.

The car, reported stolen in Madison, Ont., was spotted in the north end. A police car chased it at more than 90 miles an hour into Lachine where more police cars were summoned.

Mining, Chemical Firms Combine For Research

TORONTO (CP)—A giant Canadian mining company and one of the country's largest chemical firms have joined forces to form a new company—Rio Tinto-Dow Ltd.—apparently to do research on a strategic heat-resistant alloy.

The formation of the new company was announced Tuesday by Robert Winters, president of Rio Tinto Mining Company of Canada Ltd., and L. D. Smithers, president and general manager of Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd.

Their statement said the new company will concentrate on the production of thorium and rare earths found in by-product materials produced at Rio Tinto's uranium mining properties, but The Globe and Mail says the prime project is research and development of master alloy, a combination of thorium and magnesium.

The paper quotes a source close to Rio Tinto as saying the importance of the new company's production will be of "the greatest magnitude" to the Western world, and, additionally, to the

Blind River, Ont., uranium area. BIG URANIUM PRODUCER

Rio Tinto, a subsidiary of the Rio Tinto Company Ltd. of London, England, is one of the principal uranium mining companies in Canada, and also holds major interests in Algoma Uranium Mines Ltd., Northspan Uranium Mines Ltd., and Milliken Lake Uranium Mines Ltd., which are among the shareholders in the new company.

Dow Chemical of Canada, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Dow Chemical Company of the United States, is a manufacturer of basic chemicals, glycols, latices, solvents and styron at Sarnia, Ont.

The Globe says the new alloy surpasses any known in the Western world in resisting high temperatures.

Because of this, it is of tremendous value in the production and development of missiles and rockets, which encounter extremely high temperatures because of the great speeds at which they travel, and in jet aircraft and atomic reactors.

This continent's most readily available source of thorium, the United States Atomic Energy Commission says, is the Blind River uranium area, since two pounds of the material can be recovered for each pound of uranium produced. It is also the only fissionable material besides uranium and Dow Chemical has been exploring its possibilities as a reactor fuel.

11 Roofing Firms Fined For Combine

TORONTO (CP)—A three-year investigation has resulted in fines totalling $110,000 against 11 roofing firms who conducted a $30,000,000-a-year combine from 1932 to 1952.

They were fined a maximum $10,000 each Tuesday after they pleaded guilty before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court.

The companies fined included six from Quebec and three from Ontario—including Canadian Gypsum Company Limited of Toronto which also has a branch in Windsor, N.S.

The Quebec companies were Barrett Company Limited, Building Products Limited, Canadian Johns-Manville Company Limited and Alexander Murray and Company Limited, all of Montreal; Bishop Asphalt Papers Limited of Portneuf Station and Philip Carey Company Limited of Lennoxville.

F. N. MacLeod, a combines investigator from Ottawa, said the accused firms controlled the entire asphalt roofing industry in Canada.

They had belonged to a central organization—the Asphalt Roofing Manufacturers Association—which had set prices.

No Change In Property Taxation

QUEBEC (CP)—The private bills committee of the legislative assembly today blocked an application by the town of Beaconsfield for permission to tax a property owned by the Campbell family of Montreal as a regular property.

The bill was explained by Robert Hodge, counsel for Beaconsfield, who said the Campbell family was taxed at the rate of $1 an acre. The property was valued at $29,000 under the assessment roll while its true value was about $99,000. The reason was the property was listed as farm property.

Premier Duplessis said he does not believe in changing a general law by a private measure.

Mr. Hodge argued the Campbells are not farmers in the true sense of the word.

"They are millionaires who have built a real chateau on this property..."

Kenneth Wilson, attorney for the family, said the property was a real farm. "The family raise cattle, horse and other livestock," he said.

"In that case I suggest that the clause be deleted from the bill," Mr. Duplessis said. "If the owners are not really farmers, then the municipality of Beaconsfield can sue them for taxes they owe."

DOLSAN MINES LIMITED

(No Personal Liability)

DOLSAN MINES LIMITED IS A DEVELOPMENT AND PROSPECTING COMPANY, INCORPORATED UNDER LAWS OF THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC. AT THE MOMENT, THE COMPANY OWNS, WHOLLY OR IN PART, FOUR PROPERTIES ON WHICH SUFFICIENT WORK HAS BEEN DONE TO INDICATE THE DEPOSITING OF ORE OF COMMERCIAL POTENTIALITY.

THESE FOUR PROPERTIES HAVE BEEN EXAMINED EITHER BY MAGNETOMETER SURVEY OR BY DIAMOND DRILLING. THE RESULTS HAVE BEEN MOST ENCOURAGING ON ALL PROPERTIES AND HAVE INDICATED THE PRESENCE OF IRON — URANIUM — GOLD — COPPER — THORIUM AND FLUORSPAR ORES.

DOLSAN MINES LIMITED IS PRESENTLY CONCENTRATING ALL OF ITS DEVELOPMENT EFFORTS ON ITS VASSAL TOWNSHIP PROPERTY WHERE A MAGNETOMETER SURVEY HAS INDICATED THE PRESENCE OF ANOMALIES CONTAINING A GOOD GRADE OF IRON ORE. A POSSIBLE TOTAL OF 30,000,000 TONS OF IRON ORE HAS BEEN CALCULATED TO A DEPTH OF 350 FEET. THIS ORE CONTAINS ENOUGH SILICA TO ENSURE A SELF-FLUXING CONCENTRATE.

A DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM IS BEING CONSIDERED WHICH, BY MEANS OF EITHER A CONCENTRATION OR BENEFICIATION PROCESS, WOULD PRODUCE AN IRON ORE OF 65% PURITY. IT IS BELIEVED 12,000,000 TONS OF THIS HIGH-GRADE CONCENTRATE COULD BE OBTAINED BY OPEN PIT MINING TO THE 350 FT. LEVEL. LARGE PORTIONS OF THIS IRON PROPERTY STILL REMAIN UNEXPLORED AND CAN BE CONSIDERED AS POTENTIALLY PRODUCTIVE. THE COMPANY IS ALSO PLANNING TO GIVE THIS AREA A THOROUGH EXAMINATION.

THE SHARES OF DOLSAN MINES LTD., ARE LISTED ON THE CANADIAN STOCK EXCHANGE AND CAN BE PURCHASED THROUGH YOUR OWN BANK OR BROKER. FOR FURTHER INFORMATION, WRITE DIRECTLY TO ernment could, for example, look into the possibilities of freer trade with the West Indies.

Works Minister Howard Green interrupted at one point to ask whether the Liberal party would have supported Britain's proposal for gradual establishment of a free-trade area between the two countries.

Mr. Pearson replied that a Liberal government would have replied at once that such an "imaginative and far-reaching" proposal deserved sympathetic consideration because it tended to bring Canada and Britain closer together economically.

But a Liberal government would have told Britain that while it is important for the two countries to expand their trade, the possibility of extending freer trade to the whole NATO area should be pursued.

MORE U.S. RESTRICTIONS?

Mr. Pearson said there is talk here, official and unofficial, that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's trade-diversion proposal has given courage to protectionists in Washington pressing for further restrictions on Canadian exports to the U.S.

The former Liberal government had found it possible to bring "friendly pressure" to bear to assist them in Washington opposed to such action as restrictions on U.S. imports of Canadian base metals and fish products. But new restriction action in Washington might arise now.

Canadian Contribution To NATO Most Important

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
PARIS (CP)—"If the free nations are steadfast, the totalitarian menace that confronts them will eventually recede."

That is the 28th of the 32 sentences comprising what history may know as the Declaration of Paris, issued after the NATO summit meeting Dec. 16-19. It is easy to overlook.

Amid the fine print, a reporter might be excused for stifling a yawn at such a splendid generality.

Yet the sentence was drafted by the Canadian delegation, was inserted in the final text at Canada's request, and is regarded by one veteran NATO observer as the most important statement not only in the declaration, but in the 3,500 - word communique which accompanied it.

OWN DEFEAT
It embodies the faith of free men that given solidarity and goodwill, the democratic camp will triumph without a contest of arms. In the long view, there is agreement with State Secretary Dulles that communism carries the seeds of its own defeat.

The sentence also underlines what NATO is all about. As long as Atlantic unity remains firm, there is no doubt of the outcome. And the summit meeting, in the Canadian view, has gone far to demonstrate that NATO's basic solidarity is as strong as ever.

The meeting cast dark shadows before it. European neutralism, the "crisis of leadership" in Washington, a display of French petulance over North Africa, the Anglo-German arms dispute provided a disturbing overture, but the final orchestration was reassuring.

TUGS AND STRAINS
With 15 countries of diverse size, aims and resources, there will be always be tugs and strains. Some commentators, including the influential Walter Lippmann, have expressed doubts about NATO's survival. The summit meeting has shown that it is still going strong, that there can be agreement out of diversity, and has pointed to new goals in science and technology, in political negotiation and nuclear armament.

An official who follows the week-to-week NATO deliberations in Paris—the permanent council meets every Wednesday — was asked whether the experience was a frustrating one. Was it hard to keep 15 countries moving in convoy?

"Not at all," was the firm response. "It is occasionally a time-consuming process, but it is not frustrating. The work is surprisingly smooth, and our sessions harmonious."

The Doctor Says

PARENTS' LETTERS TELL OF BEWILDERING PROBLEMS

Some of the questions I receive from parents are both touching and almost incredible.

One mother writes: "We have a four-year-old boy who is in good health. But sometimes he wakes suddenly with a croupy cough and a hoarse voice, and it is just as if he can't get his breath. It takes a couple of minutes and then he cries and falls asleep. My husband thinks he is doing it on purpose and needs a good spanking but I can't believe it. Does it sound as though this needed treatment?"

I certainly cannot believe that this little boy is having his attacks on purpose! It may be that he has asthma or some other physical ailment. A diagnosis should be made and some effort instigated to bring this little boy relief.

Another mother writes that her teen-age daughter insists on wearing form rubber falsies and wonders if this could interfere with her breast development.

I do not see how it could though anything which is too tight or rubs would be undesirable.

A more complicated problem is presented by Mrs. R.—a problem which requires wisdom and is only partly medical.

She says: "Our little girl was due to start kindergarten this year. Although only four years old, her birthday came within the required time. However, on the first day she was frightened and cried all night. Since then I have transferred the children to another school because my older boy was being beaten up often."

"Since her brother is always hitting her, I have taken her part even though I realize she is often the instigator. The principal says that if I put the girl back in school she would be to young and might possibly fail by the second grade. However, she wants to go because her brother has been talking about school. What do you think I should do?"

It is possible that the older boy may be beating up his sister because of unfortunate experiences of his own in school. Steps should be taken to keep him from becoming a bully, either at home or in his new school.

So far as the little girl is concerned, delicate handling is needed to avoid physical or emotional harm. Putting the child in school too early where she will be competing with older children is hazardous.

On the other hand, keeping her

The Classic Shapely Suit For Spring

THE ELEGANT and classic suit takes its place in the parade of fashion for spring. Fitted suit (left) in beige silk with nubby finish has molded jacket with beautiful detailing. Oatmeal-and-charcoal striped jacket with black velvet collar (center) is paired with linen skirt to make a town suit. Soft, lacy Italian tweed in brown and green is used for suit (right) with boxy jacket and straight skirt. Any one of these Huntleigh designs can be worn with or without a blouse or skirt. Open collars take well to jewelry accessories. All three are ideal for use in a travel wardrobe.

NEW YORK (NEA)—The shapely suit, one that makes the most of a figure, is the one that many a woman will add to her wardrobe this spring. This classic suit type can be considered a sound investment since it is not likely to be made unwearable by the whims of fashion. Yet, it represents current fashion sufficiently to offer the slightly boxy jacket or the semi-fitted jacket.

Gentle at the waistline, has a slim skirt and is cut from notably sound and beautiful fabric. It is the kind of suit appreciated by women who also like fine crystal, good perfume and cobwebby lingerie. It offers subdued, pale elegance, and for this reason the price tag it carries is certain to run over $100.

In nubby silk, Italian tweed or heavy Moynash linen, it is a thing of beauty fully intended to make any woman look prettier.

Smart Women Will Shape Up To New Slack Silhouette

NEW YORK (AP)—No matter what the vagaries of fashion may be, the smart woman will shape up to them, says Pauline Trigere, an astute Frenchwoman who has refused to be licked by the predominant sack silhouette.

Previewing her spring collection, Trigere effects a happy compromise with the decreed gunny-sack theme of fashion, and shows clothes which look new, but never conceal the important curves of the feminine figure.

Her most ingenious device is the "slip cover," a transparent chiffon overblouse, loose and unfitted, revealing the lines of a fitted sheath beneath. She also shows suits and dresses with the waistline defined by wide leather belts, and employs subtle shaping to soften the effect of her straight skirts.

THE SHAPEUP

Trigere calls her entire collection the "shapeup" and proceeds to prove this no idle phrase. One compromise with the sack is a silhouette she calls "in unison," which is a straight, loose sheath with a belt threaded through slots, so that it appears in front and back, but leaves the sides hanging free.

She also employs "slip-cover ruffles" at the hemline to add interest and movement to unfitted sheath, and resorts to such devices as white collars and vests to draw the eye from the unfitted waistline of box-jacket suits.

Trigere's collection, shown on the opening day of a crowded week of New York spring fashion openings, illustrates graphically the advances of fashion in the last 30 years—since the unlabeled styles of the flapper era which provide inspiration for the majority of 1958 clothes.

The flavor of casual, relaxed informality is present, but the modern version of the fashions of 30 years ago is far different. As Trigere remarks, "No woman should hide her light under a bushel, or her figure under a sack."

Easy-Waisted Dressmaker Skirts Resort Favorites

A strong influence in resort wear this season is the easy-waisted look. Expressions of this theme are the dressmaker skirts, over-blouse, middie and loosened jacket. All co-ordinating skirts are slim or pleated.

In separate skirts, soft dressmaker styles outnumber all others. Among the new features are flyaway front panels, fringed waistbands and contrasting piping. Bow decorated waistbands or pockets are still favored dressmaker trimming. Second in importance to the dressmaker style are the pleated skirts. Here, side pleats that start from the waistband are popular, followed by soft inverted and box pleats.

Silk, reaching a new importance in all fashion, is a big factor in sportswear, from separates and swimwear to dresses.

The silks are remarkably suitable to sports styling from the familiar linen and tweedy types, rustic weaves (shantung is still much favored in prints, twills) to smooth shirting silks in woven stripes, sheers, and in beautiful selection, prints. Charter of the weaves and patterns is not only good, reports Women's Wear Daily, but revitalizes every phase of casual sports as well as spectator.

Knitwear sources this year have gone all out and have designed a refreshing group of sweater styles that have a marked summery quality. An air of delicacy makes resort sweaters look new. Feathery sheer flowers are strewn across both front and back of sweaters.

The fur-trimmed sweater continues to be the compelling aspect of luxury in knitwear. Lace and fur are a continuing alliance, well represented in better dressy sweaters. Coordination with chiffon skirts is also significant. While these luxury sweaters look luxurious and fragile, the layers of lace, cashmere suit and chiffon lining assure complete warmth.

Cropped waistlength sweaters are by far the most popular in cardigans. Even in bulkies, the shorter length predominates.

Cod Fillets Mornay

2 pounds cod fillets, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 cups milk, 1½ cups seasoned thick white sauce, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, cayenne pepper, 2/3 cup grated Swiss cheese.

Cut fillets in serving pieces. Add salt to milk and bring to simmering point. Add fish and simmer gently until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about ten to fifteen minutes. Do not overcook. (If using frozen fillets, don't thaw. Allow approximately double the cooking time.) Meanwhile, prepare standard thick white sauce. Blend butter or margarine into hot sauce. Add a dash of cayenne pepper. Add cheese, stirring until blended, then keep sauce warm over hot water. Drain cooked fillets and place on serving platter. Thin out sauce with a little of the hot milk; pour sauce over fillets. Makes 6 servings.

Plouffe Family Uncle Is An Ex-Professor

By CHRISTINE STEWART
Canadian Press Staff Writer
MONTREAL (CP)—Portrayal of a rollicking, fun-loving French-Canadian habitant has developed into a profitable career for Doris Lussier, university professor turned actor.

Twice a week—once in French and once in English—he appears as uncle Gedeon in the television serial The Plouffe Family and as such is known to thousands as a carefree farmer from Quebec's Beauce County.

One of uncle Gedeon's main interests in life is women. He once went on a diet of vitamin pills when he feared he was losing his interest in women. He recommended a similar diet for a politician who in the House of Commons criticized his portrayal of Beauce County farmers.

OWN INVENTION
Mr. Lussier, a 38-year-old Montrealer, created the uncle Gedeon role for a few friends while teaching the philosophy of economics at Quebec City's Laval University.

"I had no idea of turning the character creation into a profession until Roger Lemelin, who writes The Plouffe Family, invited me to join the cast," said Mr. Lussier in an interview.

"For a while I was teaching at the university and doing the television role, but I couldn't keep up both. I love acting, so uncle Gedeon won out."

Mr. Lussier is one of the busiest actors in Montreal. He rehearses six to eight hours a day for The Plouffe Family is master of ceremonies on a weekly French-language TV panel show, Le Point d'Interrogation, does a disk jockey program on a Montreal radio station, and is busy writing a play.

Miss Marjorie Mastine spent a few days holiday with her aunt, Mrs. Nelson Mastine.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Mastine and family spent Christmas and New Year's days at Kingsey Falls, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Mastine.

Nightly, uncle Gedeon ambles between the crowded tables to the stage of a Montreal night club, the Cafe St. Jacques, where he tells spicy stories of life at home in Quebec's Eastern Townships. Hired for two weeks, he has been held over by the management for more than four months.

ROUSED ARGUMENT

The TV character's love of wine, women and song led to remarks in the Commons by Dr. Raoul Poulin, independent member for Beauce, who said the role of uncle Gedeon was a "disgusting type of propaganda." The MP said "his flightiness and vulgar manners" were not portraying faithfully "the way of life in the wonderful homes and worthy population of the constituency of Beauce."

Referring to an episode in which uncle Gedeon, armed with vitamin pills, went south and eyed the pretty girls, Dr. Poulin said "there are some people, no doubt, who go to Florida during the winter, but it is no lustful junket requiring personal priming up with pep pills."

Mr. Lussier replied he was pained to see what was happening to Dr. Poulin. "It seems the poor doctor no longer likes to look at beautiful women . . . uncle Gedeon advises the doctor to take three vitamin pills a day after each meal. If there are no beneficial results within a month then a little trip to Florida will put him on his feet."

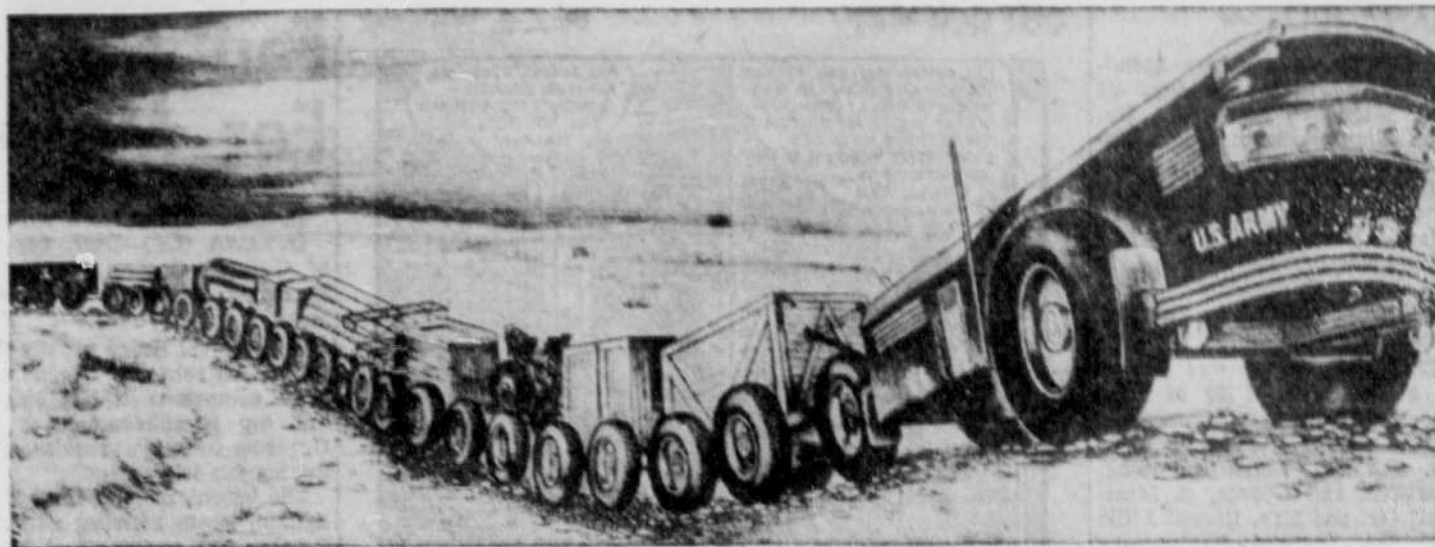

FORMER LUMBERJACK
Doris Lussier's own love of life evolved from a childhood of considerable hardship. When he was three his father died. To pay for his education at Le Seminaire de Quebec he worked two years as a lumberjack in the woods near his Eastern Townships home of Lambton, Que.

"There I got an intimate knowledge of the backwoods French farmer," he says. "Out of that knowledge uncle Gedeon emerged."

He is asked whether he has any regrets about leaving teaching to become an actor.

"Definitely not," he replies. "I loved teaching very much because I loved ideas. And I loved my students. But human destiny has chosen for me a new career which so far has nothing but pleasant surprises."

"I consider it a gift of life to be given the opportunity to explore successively such different yet such thrilling fields as knowledge and art."

ATOMIC CATERPILLAR — Shown in an artist's sketch is a nuclear-powered overland carrier now under study by the U.S. Army Transportation Corps. As envisioned by the Army, the train would carry an atomic-powered electrical generator at its tail end from which energy would be supplied to electric motors built into each wheel. Without benefit of roads, the carrier could haul 150 tons of cargo over cross-country terrain at speeds up to 20 miles an hour.

Dancing Enjoyed At Gala Jamboree Held By Lions Club In Cowansville

COWANSVILLE — The Lions Club held its first annual jamboree, which took the form of a Christmas dance at the Legion Memorial Hall. Music for dancing was provided by Stewart Harrowing and his tape recorder, prepared with suitable selections from his vast collection of discs.

There were special event dances including a spot dance, and a balloon holding contest, the latter was won amidst much hilarity by Lion and Mrs. Armand Bonneau.

The entertainment program featured three barbershop quartettes. The first, Lions Jack Barker, Norm Browning, Bert Chalfoux, and Lloyd Sully, the second, singing french, was later voted the winner, Lions Rene Pepin, Germain Desourdy, Larry Labrecque, Leo Laflamme, and the third, Lions Guy Cousins, Arthur Tanner, Stewart Harrowing and Norm Browning (substituting for Garth Dean.)

"L'horionelle" was a special number of Group Two, and "Alouette" became a community song. Lionness Emily Cousins accompanied the singers. Thanks were expressed to her for presiding so graciously at the piano at meetings throughout the year, and a presentation was made as a token of appreciation.

Refreshments were served in the form of an old-fashioned box social. With Lions Buzz McCrum and Jack Barker acting as auctioneers, the gentlemen bid for the boxes the ladies had arranged for the evening. The prize for the most attractive decorated was won by Mrs. Arthur Tanner, whose work of art was made in the form of a pot of poinsettias.

The Jamboree was a decided success. It was felt, however, that in 1958 it will probably be held early in December. The members were glad to know that from the money derived from the recent nut sale, 50 Christmas boxes, valued at $10, each were delivered to needy families. 44 of them in the Cowansville-Sweetsburg district, and six in the Dunham-Stanbridge area. Twenty-two parcels were also given to the inmates of the prison at Sweetsburg. Once more the Lions expressed thanks to all who co-operated in the drive.

CHRISTMAS PARTY
Recently the L.O.O.F. Hall on Main Street, resounded with enthusiasm when Prosperity Rebekah Lodge No. 32 held its annual Christmas party. About 75 children and grandchildren of Rebekahs and Oddfellows gathered to mark the festive occasion, besides a number of parents. The hall was decorated with evergreen and poinsettias, and included a beautiful, lighted Christmas tree.

The children provided the entertainment, and displayed promising talent in solos, recitations and carol singing, with Miss I. Beattie at the piano.

The fun was highlighted by the arrival of Santa with his pack of toys and the children all singing "Jingle Bells." Each child received a gift and candy, and enjoyed a happy time before Father Christmas took his departure. Later refreshments were served to the children and adults.

Much credit is due the committee in charge for a very happy and successful evening.

Mr. Douglas Stevenson, a student at Bishop's University, spent two weeks' holiday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Stevenson. On Christmas Day at the same home other out-of-town guests were another son, Mr. Kenneth Stevenson, Mr. Stevenson and their two children, Daphne Anne and James Bruce, of St. Lambert.

Mr. James Stevenson was well enough to enjoy the festivities, having made good progress in his convalescence following an operation at the B.M.P. Hospital in mid-December.

Miss Alice Draper spent Christmas with her sister and her family in Montreal.

Each other and sometimes have terrific rows, but we usually try to be helpful without criticisms."

Although he hardly knows Canada—"I was there in the swaddling clothes and lollipop stage"—Massey says he hopes to go there again and when he does it will be for several years.

And what makes him lose that famous temper easily? "Women. They're so darned illogical. But I love them all the same."

AN "ONUS"
"Of course, it's marvellous," he says. "But it puts a responsibility and onus on one, because of the strain to live up to it, and the future becomes even more worrying."

In The Happiest Millionaire, Kyle Crichton's comedy based on the life of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, eccentric head of one of Philadelphia's oldest families, Massey plays the part of Angier Duke, the slow-witted heir to a tobacco fortune who wants to marry Biddle's daughter, Cordelia.

The Daily Mail, one of a number of British papers which praised Massey's performance, said no one could outshine "the wee-begone comedy of Daniel Massey," and it is comedy that the actor feels he has a natural sense for. But he plans to widen his range. He wants to do serious parts and play in musicals, so he's having his voice trained.

He has already tried out his singing in public, appearing in the West End briefly last year in Cambridge University's annual summer review in which he also did several satirical sketches.

HONORS DEGREE
Educated at Eton as well as Cambridge, Massey read English literature at college "because I'd never read any before and the surprising thing is that I managed to get a second-class honors degree."

Massey says it was at university, when he joined the Amateur Dramatic Club and the Marlowe Society, that he "became enamored" of the stage and decided to make it his career.

"I was good in comedy parts then, but I didn't click in heroic Shakespeare parts."

After graduation he spent 18 months with British repertory companies and in November, 1956, he played on Broadway in Robert Sherwood's Small War on Murray Hill. The play closed after 16 performances and Massey says he thought this was because American audiences have lost the ability to enjoy wistful and charming comedy.

Constantly in touch with his father, who lives in Connecticut, Massey says he also writes frequently to his Canadian uncle, Governor-General Vincent Massey. They last met five years ago.

Miss Allen now is married to American lawyer William Whitney and appeared with her daughter in The Reluctant Debutante. "I'm alarmingly like daddy," Daniel says. "I've even got his violent temper, which I try desperately to control."

In the interview, at a friend's house at Marble Arch which he has rented, Massey said he lives away from his family because "one tends to rely on them too much, if you stay too long."

His sister shares this point of view and has a flat of her own in London. "We see quite a lot of

Twenty-One Mile Railway Is An Unusual Enterprise

TIOGA, W.Va. (AP)—It's only natural that a railway named the Stroud's Creek and Muddlety would be an unusual enterprise.

It's only 21 miles long, for one thing, putting it among the few remaining short lines. That's one reason why it's the pet of the parent Baltimore and Ohio system.

But maybe most important, the S.C. and M. has a sense of humor. As witness its annual report:

"The fence post factory which constitutes Muddlety's principal industry and which manufactures a high grade of wooden, slotted fence posts has decreased production. This had led some observers and analysts to presuppose an adverse effect on S.C. and M. carloadings."

"The plain fact is that the S.C. and M. never did haul many fence posts, even in the great bull market of 1923. The way most fence posts get into fences in the Muddlety marketing area is that farmers bring their wagons right to the factory and haul the fence posts away. The export market has always been extremely limited, and in the present era of do-it-yourself, many farmers are making their own fence posts."

"Coal traffic, on the other hand, held up better than most things throughout the 12-month period under survey. It is just about impossible to prepare do-it-yourself coal, and the export market is making things hum. This is something people who are contemplating the fence post business as a career field might do well to ponder."

"In keeping with its tradition of staying more or less abreast of developments in modern railroading, the S.C. and M. became a 100 per cent diesel operation during 1957. . . . Dieselization of motive power has, of course, resulted in some changes in the shops at Tioga, W.Va. They are not as warm as they used to be and getting a good hot cup of coffee fast is not the child's play it once was. The smoke problem has been completely eliminated, which figures."

"The year also saw completion of a series of studies undertaken

Suez Crisis Recalls Commonwealth Strain

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP) — Barely a year ago, the impact of the Suez crisis subjected the Commonwealth to the greatest strain of its history.

Its members rose in the United Nations General Assembly to disagree openly and vehemently on a major question of policy. The gulf between those who supported Britain's Suez intervention and those who condemned it appeared irreconcilable.

Six months later, the Commonwealth prime ministers met in London. The bonds of their association were firmer than ever and all were determined that a similar situation would not rise again.

In the testing weeks of the Suez debate the Commonwealth had come of age. Its members, all one-time components of the British Empire, had proven themselves sovereign and independent in fact as well as name and their association as equals had endured the proof.

UNITY IN DIVERSITY
It endured because of its flexibility. Despite complaints of empire-minded critics that Commonwealth ties had become loose to the point of being meaningless, there had been a sustained effort to create conditions enabling a diverse group of states to live with each other.

For the Commonwealth is no longer a military alliance, a political bloc or an economic entity. It is increasingly multiracial and multilingual. It does not even share a common allegiance to the Crown—several republics included in its membership recognize the Queen only as head of the Commonwealth.

Its political coloring ranges from Communist cabinet members in Ceylon to extreme right-wing government in South Africa. There is a wide variety of religious beliefs and ways of life. Its members share a parliamentary system of government and a desire to work together for their mutual well-being. Terms of association are deliberately vague.

Commonwealth leaders shun publicity in their deliberations, avoiding the quarrelsome atmosphere of United Nations debates. The communiques that emerge from their conferences are usually dull and cliché-ridden. And consultations between Commonwealth capitals are taken so much for granted that they create headlines only on rare occasions, such as Suez, when they do not take place.

SOLID ACHIEVEMENTS
But if the political fruits of the Commonwealth relationship often appear vague, there have been solid accomplishments in the economic field.

The most spectacular is the Colombo Plan, organized in 1950 as a Commonwealth enterprise to assist backward countries in southeast Asia, in which the United States and Japan have joined the wealthier members to extend economic and technical assistance to underdeveloped nations in the area.

Other Commonwealth organizations exchange research information in agriculture, forestry and science. Specialized bodies deal with problems of Commonwealth telecommunications, shipping and air transport.

Despite racial differences that divide South Africa from Ghana and India and territorial disputes causing friction between India and Pakistan, all Commonwealth members are warm in their praise of the institution that unite them.

"What strikes me about the Commonwealth is not its points of likeness but rather its points of differences which have not been allowed to come in the way of our meeting, consulting and co-operating," India's Prime Minister Nehru said recently.

TWO NEW MEMBERS
All members have joined to welcome new recruits like Ghana and Malaya, which became the ninth and 10th partners in 1957 and were seated in the United Nations under the unanimous sponsorship of all their fellow-members.

Where Burma steered clear of Commonwealth associations on achieving its independence after the Second World War, membership is sought by the newer states emerging from British rule, recognizing that it imposes no limitations on their sovereignty. In the West Indies federation, scheduled to become the 11th member in March, Commonwealth affiliation is taken for granted.

Critics have claimed the Commonwealth is guilty of backing away from controversial issues and should adopt a firm policy as a third force between Russia and the United States. Its defenders say better results can be achieved through its present policy of going no farther than the unanimous desires of its members.

They argue that the advantages of the present union would be largely sacrificed if members were forced to abandon it in protest against policies with which they disagree.

Japan Hopes To Sell $200 Million Hoard

TOKYO (AP)—Japan hopes to dispose of a $200,000,000 treasure this spring but may run into further delay.

The government wants the Diet (parliament) to approve legislation authorizing sale of at least part of the hoard of gold, silver, platinum and about one million diamonds—161,000 carats worth.

The riches were obtained from the Japanese people during the war and are stored in vaults of the Bank of Japan.

The accumulation was confiscated by the Allied occupation at the end of the war but was turned back when the San Francisco Peace Treaty became effective in 1952.

Last May a bill approving disposal passed the Diet's lower chamber. Approval by the upper house is expected in the coming five months but may run into a snag—possible dissolution of the Diet and a call for new elections.

Socialists oppose the bill and may be able to stall passage.

BULLION, DIAMONDS

In 1936 the treasure was estimated to be worth 73,000,000,000 yen. It includes 102 tons of gold bullion, 2,140 tons of silver, one ton of platinum and the diamonds ranging from tiny fragments to 18 carats in size.

A New York jeweler, Harry Winston, has inquired about purchasing the diamonds. A Bank of Japan official said no reply has been sent because the law has not been approved.

A treasure custodian said that even if the bill is passed in March, actual disposal could not begin before March, 1959.

Some 37,600,000,000 yen ($104,000,000) worth of the treasure, belongs to the national government including most of the diamonds, 30,700,000,000 yen ($85,000,000) to the Bank of Japan, and 4,900,000,000 yen ($12,000,000) to 341 private individuals.

The diamonds and precious metals were bought by government agencies from the people during the war. The diamonds were taken from rings and accessories to be used in industry.

Sherbrooke Beavers Top Asbestos 5-1; Rockets Upset Magog Aces 4-2

Richmond Opens Home Season Tonight With Victoriaville; Marcel Benoit Pots Two As Beavers Move Into Tie

ASBESTOS — Continuing to show superiority over the Meteors the Sherbrooke Beavers rode to a 5-1 victory here last night and moved into a two-way tie for first place in the Massawippi Valley Hockey League standing.

The win vaulted the Dube squad past Victoriaville, who were idle, to tie the Meteors with 14 points each. The Richmond Braves will try this evening to get their home season underway and will be hosts to Victoriaville. The tilt was slated for last night but was postponed owing to the soft weather.

It was the third straight defeat for the Meteors and their second consecutive at the hands of the Beavers. Marcel Benoit was top marksman for the winners with two goals while Ray St. Cyr, Real Beaudoin and Bob Bedard accounted for the others. Mac Coates notched Asbestos' lone tally.

Two of the Sherbrooke goals came when they had men in the cooler. Marcel Benoit got the first on a pass from Gilles Dube in the opening frame with his team-mate Parr sitting out an infraction. It was the only marker of the period.

In the middle session Benoit potted his second on a pass with Gagnon and Beaudoin and then a little later Ray St. Cyr just when Coates and Robidas had returned to the ice. The Beavers held the upper hand and once again their strong fore-checking kept the Meteors off balance.

In the final stanza Beaudoin made it 4-0 for Sherbrooke when he accepted a pass from Pee Wee Leblanc to beat Claude Bergeron from close range. Mac Coates potted the Meteor's first and only goal when he finished off a play with Glaude and Champagne.

In the closing minutes of the game Coates got the thumb for roughing and he had no sooner reached the sin bin when Bob Bedard rifled one by Bergeron on Leblanc's setup.

In the final minutes of play Beaudoin and Perron got the nod for fighting and both were tagged with majors. Percy Glaude was given the hoist when he shot the puck out of the reach of the referee and drew a misconduct for showing disrespect.

SHERBROOKE: Dubois, Parr, Robidas, Leblanc, Bedard, Blais, Dube, Rousseau, St. Cyr, Benoit, Emond, Gagnon, Beaudoin, Langlois.

ASBESTOS: Bergeron, Michelin, Forques, Champagne, Illick, Perron, Moore, Vachon, Allard, Drouin, Coates, Bisson, Lussier, Glaude, Heon.

First Period

1—Sherbrooke Benoit, (Dube) 3.04
Penalties: Parr, Michelin, Emond.

Second Period

2—Sherbrooke Benoit, (Gagnon, Beaudoin) 8.11
3—Sherbrooke St. Cyr 15.20
Penalties: Dube, Coates, Robidas.

Third Period

4—Sherbrooke Beaudoin, (Leblanc) 11.30
5—Asbestos Coates, (Glaude, Champagne) 15.57
6—Sherbrooke Bedard, (Leblanc) 18.26

Magog Rinks Win Coronation Playdowns

Two Magog Curling Club rinks won their way into Coronation Trophy playdowns which will be played at Montreal during the week of Jan. 20.

Mrs. L. Styan skipped her quartet to a close 9-8 win over Mrs. W. S. Richardson's four-some of Lennoxville while in the other section of the draw Mrs. E. Jackson's rink won by default when Mrs. L. Lafleur's quartet of Thetford Mines failed to show up owing to sickness.

The matches were the playoffs for Centre number 6 in the Ladies' Curling Association. One game was played in Sherbrooke while out at Lennoxville Mrs. Jackson's rink took on Mrs. Quintin of Sherbrooke in exhibition match.

Mrs. H. Parker, Mrs. J. Connor, and Mrs. G. Trew form Mrs. Jackson's rink while Mrs. L. Styan's foursome comprises Mrs. W. Whitaker, Mrs. C. Styan, and Mrs. J. Moynan. Mrs. Richardson's Lennoxville quartet consisted of Mrs. E. Sims, Mrs. R. Stevenson, and Mrs. W. S. Richardson.

Sugar Hart And Larry Baker To Meet Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Hart, who has scored 19 knockouts in winning 22 fights, is an 11-to-5 favorite tonight to defeat Larry Baker in another phase of the "welterweight sweepstakes."

Baker, 26, from Mount Vernon, N.Y., is ranked the No. 8 contender by the National Boxing Association. His record is 21-11-3 with nine knockouts.

◆ HOCKEY ◆ Rangers Appear Ripe For One Of Watson's Famous Tongue-Lashings, Still In Second But Margin Reduced

New York Rangers appear to be ripe for one of coach Phil Watson's famous public tongue-lashings.

Fiery Philippe has been strangely silent most of this season, and his Rangers climbed to second place in the National Hockey League on the basis of an early surge, but they have just lost five consecutive games and hold second place by only three points over Boston Bruins.

Rangers have played two games more than Boston and increase that handicap to three as they play fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs in New York tonight.

WIDE FIELD FOR BLASTING

Lorne (Gump) Worsley, an insouciant fellow who was Watson's favorite verbal target, has departed for the minors, but the sad truth is some of the Ranger reliables have simply not been producing this year. Watson appears to have a wide field for blasting.

Even And Bathgate Rangers' leading scorer last year and Rangers' best in the points column this season, has not been up to par. Compared with last season's total of 27 goals and 50 assists, Bathgate's 11 and 23 after 40 games looks meagre.

Camille Henry, with a league-leading 20 goals, and veteran rearguard Bill Gadsby, with eight goals and 19 assists, have lived up to pre-season hopes, but Andy Heberton, Danny Lewicki and Dean Prentice, with another skate cut, have fallen below their 1956-57 form.

Canadian Alpine Ski Team Won't Compete In Lauberhorn Ski Meet; Not Quite Ready, Says Manager

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (CP)—The Canadian alpine ski team, here since mid-December in preparation for the world championships at Bad Gastein, Austria, withdrew today from the international Lauberhorn ski races at Wengen next weekend.

Team manager Patricia Ramage of Brantford, Ont., said her boys are "not quite ready yet," and in view of bad snow conditions at Wengen they would have better opportunities for intensive training here. Instead, they will take part in the British Commonwealth race in St. Moritz Friday.

The Canadians arrived in Kitzbuehel, Austria, Dec. 6, spent a week near Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Bavaria, and moved to St. Moritz Dec. 15.

TWO INJURIES

The team has not been without mishaps. First Dave Jacobs of Montreal broke a leg, then Peter Ryan of Montreal sprained his knee, and an ankle in a practice run here last Friday.

"But Peter will be on skis in a matter of days, and the boys are really doing fine and in excellent condition," Mrs. Ramage said today.

The Canadians are going to Kitzbuehel again after Friday's race. From there they will move on to Bad Gastein on or about Jan. 21.

TOP TEAM
In the opening two events of British ski week Tuesday the Canadians swept seven of the first eight places in the slalom and Roberts of Kandahar downhill.

Arnold Midgley of Ottawa took first place in both events and

Jacob Finkleman, Chairman Of Ontario Labor Relations, Says Pro Hockey Is Not A Sport But A Business Today

TORONTO (CP)—The chairman of the Ontario labor relations board says professional hockey isn't a sport but a business.

Jacob Finkleman was hearing evidence Tuesday on an application by Toronto Maple Leaf players to have the National Hockey League Players' Association represent them as a bargaining agent.

He told Norman L. Mathews, counsel for Maple Leaf Gardens Inc.: "You say this is a sport. To my mind, sport has certain ethical practices associated with it. The latter part of your argument leads me to believe this is far from being a sport. It's a business."

Similar applications are pending before the national labor relations board in New York for United States members of the six-club league. An application is expected shortly for Montreal Canadiens' players. Detroit Red Wings players voted against association representation several months ago.

SMASH ATTEMPT CHARGE

Meanwhile, the players association lawyer, Milton S. Mound of New York, said Tuesday night, a bid to smash the association could be expected in the next 72 hours.

Governors of the six-team league are reported to have met in New York Tuesday at a meeting called by Senator Hartland Molson and Frank Selke, owner and managing director respectively of Montreal Canadiens.

At the Toronto hearing, Mr. Mathews said a bargaining unit of professional hockey players is "diametrically opposed" to the principles of organized hockey.

A union, he claimed, "would destroy the element of team or individual player competition."

"It seems to me unthinkable that a player would send crashing against the boards today a fellow who is going to be negotiating salary and bonuses for him tomorrow."

Britain's Foul Rule May Stop Floyd Patterson From Making Trip To London For Title Defense Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—A hassle over Britain's foul rule has raised some doubt about Floyd Patterson's plans for making a defence of his world heavyweight boxing title in London this year.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, will ask waiver of the foul rule before Patterson agrees to make a trip.

"I wouldn't want to risk the chance of losing the championship on a low blow," said D'Amato. "Floyd is not a foul fighter as everyone knows, but in England you can lose the title for one blow that might stray below the belt line."

"That's the only apparent difficulty I can see about the British rules. I think most other problems that might arise could be surmounted easily."

However, Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control, said in London he is sure the board will not change its rules for Patterson.

"We have had Americans defend their world titles here before—Gus Lesnevich, Ray Robinson and Archie Moore—and they were all quite happy with British conditions. I see no reason why Patterson should not be the same."

"WE MUST CONFORM"
"Whenever any of our boxers fight overseas they have to conform to the rules of the country they are in..."

Informed of Waltham's reaction, D'Amato said: "I'll take it up when I go to London. As I understand it, this is only Waltham's opinion, not the board's decision."

Although D'Amato is anxious to have Patterson defend for promoter Harry Leven in London, the match, in spring or early summer, still is tentative. D'Amato said Joe Erskine, British champion, might get the shot if he beats European champion Ingemar Johansson, is Sweden Feb. 14.

Promoter Herman Taylor Offers Isaac Logart $25,000 To Meet Winner Of Turner-Martinez Bout

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Fight promoter Herman Taylor said Monday he has offered Isaac Logart a $25,000 guarantee to meet the winner of the Jan. 15 Gil Turner-Vince Martinez 12-round bout for the vacated welterweight championship.

The offer was in a telegram to Eddie Mafuz, Logart's manager. "I expect a favorable reply," said Taylor, "because it is doubtful that Mafuz can get a better offer elsewhere."

Turner and Martinez clash in the second of the elimination bouts planned by the world boxing championships committee to produce a new welterweight champion. Carmen Basilio vacated the title after winning the middleweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson.

In the first of the eliminations, Logart defeated Gaspar Ortega. In addition to the latter two of the Big Four Football Union, managing director Lew Hayman announced today.

Hayman said Kalmanir, formerly of Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, resigned for personal reasons.

Scallop Floors Yvon Durelle With Attack Of Ptomaine Poisoning; Bout Postponed Until Friday, Jan. 31

NEW YORK (CP)—Yvon Durelle, the Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. fisherman who holds the Canadian and British Empire light heavyweight titles, has had his important bout here with Tony Anthony postponed over a scallop.

The Canadian, classed as No. 2 contender for the light heavy title by the National Boxing Association, was stricken with ptomaine poisoning Tuesday. His handlers blamed the seafood.

He was reported recovering nicely, but his Madison Square Garden bout with Anthony was put off from Friday night until Jan. 31.

WEAK FROM ATTACK

Durelle was examined by doctors of the International Boxing Commission and found still weak from the ptomaine attack. However, they expect him to be completely recovered in 10 days to prepare for the bout with Anthony.

Charley (Tombstone) Smith of Los Angeles and Joe Micelli of New York will take over the featured 10-round spot in Friday night's televised bout.

Durelle is aiming at a shot at Archie Moore's title, and a win over Anthony would give weight to his challenge.

Moore TKO'd Anthony last September after Durelle had held Anthony to a draw in Detroit. In his last 10 starts the Canadian has been undefeated.

who expect to realize some of the returns of last year's building program next season. They won only four of 14 games in 1957, Pool's first year in Canadian football.

He is held in Toronto by a verbal two-year contract only, but managing director Lew Hayman says the club would not stand in his way even if he were bound by an iron-clad agreement.

While making up his mind, Pool has been continuing the task of hiring new talent for his team. His most recent acquisition is halfback Jim Rountree, 185-pound star of the University of Florida, whose signing was announced Tuesday night.

DDT Aerial Spraying Killing Young Salmon, Says M. H. Keeleyside Of St. Andrews, N. B., Biological Station

MONTREAL (CP)—A fisheries biologist said Tuesday young salmon in New Brunswick rivers are severely depleted following DDT aerial spraying to combat spruce budworm.

M. H. A. Keeleyside of the St. Andrews, N.B., biological station, said "salmon populations appear to recover if spraying is not repeated over the same areas for an interval of at least three years."

"With more frequent respraying one age class of salmon can be affected more than once and smolt production from rivers in the area will be seriously curtailed," Mr. Keeleyside said at the Northeast Wildlife Conference.

He said spraying also killed off young trout and eels.

The younger the fish the more severely they are affected, both by DDT and by the oil in which it is dissolved.

In the northeast Miramichi River, Mr. Keeleyside said, an annual census has been taken of young salmon since 1950. In 1953, a year before the first spraying, the 10 census stations on the river counted 1,200 fry—salmon less than a year old.

FIND NO FRY

After the 1954 spraying, the stations found not one fry. Parr—salmon two and three years old—were reduced.

Curiously, the next year the fry were more numerous than ever. Mr. Keeleyside said, but the parr—fry a year earlier—were scarce. It was believed the fry were more plentiful partly because of less food competition from the parr.

In spite of extensive and costly control measures, Mr. Keeleyside said, the budworm population has continued to expand.

In 1927, Mr. Kezar married Beatrice Mabel Tingay, of Waterville, who survives him. He also leaves a daughter, Mrs. Marion Minor, of Sherbrooke; a son, Thomas Dale Kezar, of Richmond; a granddaughter, June Elizabeth Minor; two brothers, Simon Kezar, of North Hatley, and Ray Kezar, Southbridge, Mass.; two sisters, Mrs. Peter Wilhelm, Baltimore, Maryland, and Mrs. Susan Hammond, Seagrave, Ont. ERNEST BLOOMFIELD FROST, OF LENNOXVILLE

There passed away at St. Anne's Military Hospital, St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., on December 19, 1957, after a prolonged illness, a highly respected and well known citizen of Lennoxville, Ernest Bloomfield Frost.

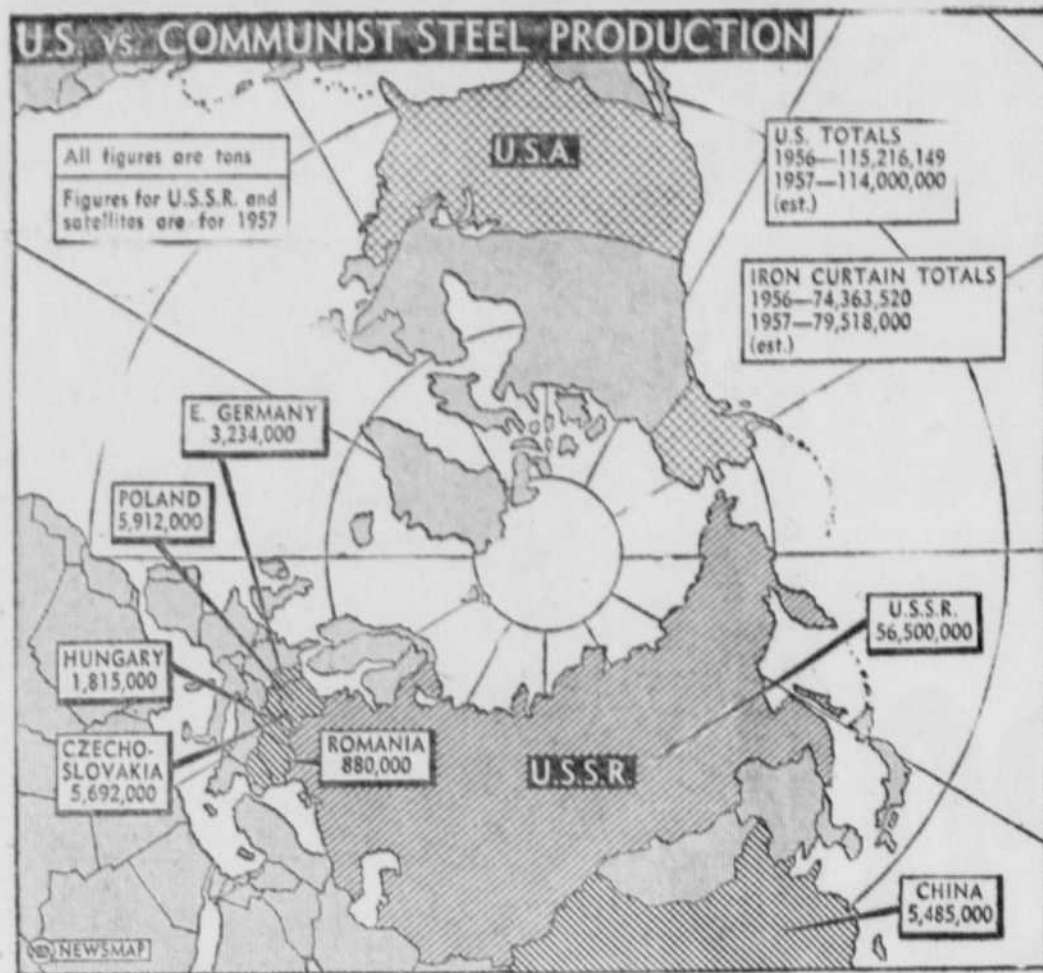

Mr. Frost was born at Lennoxville on March 19, 1896, the son of the late Charles B. Frost and his wife, Ellen Mixer. His early education was received at the Lennoxville Academy, after which he entered into the plumbing, roofing and tin-smith trade at the shop of the late J. E. Lalumiere, later entering into partnership under the firm name of Lalumiere and Frost.

In 1935, after 19 years of partnership, he entered into business for himself which he continued until ill health forced his early retirement. Mr. Frost suffered a long illness, 13 years of which were spent bedridden in hospital, but which he bore with patience and courage.

Mr. Frost served overseas in the First World War for three years in the 6th McGill Battery, later known as the 7th Canadian Siege Battery. He was known to all in the battery as "Ernie" and several of his battery buddies were present at his funeral.

On September 3, 1925, he was united in marriage to Mabel Ellen Watts of Waterville, and of this union one son was born, Gerald A., of Lennoxville.

Mr. Frost was a Past Master and life-member of Ascot Lodge No. 30, A. F. and A. M., a Past Patron of Sherbrooke Chapter

THE NARROWING GAP—Steel is the backbone of modern nations. Although, as Newsmap shows, U.S. steel production exceeds the combined totals of the Iron Curtain countries, it is the accelerated rate of Communist production since the end of World War II that has economists concerned. In the past seven years, Russian steel output alone has doubled, compared with a 20 per cent increase in this country. Most Russian production is plowed back into heavy industry. American economists warn that if Soviet expansion continues at its present rate, steel output in the U.S.S.R. will be close to 90 million tons a year by 1972. Communist Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev has set a goal of 100-120 million tons by that year.

No. 22, O. E. S., and a member of St. George's Anglican Church.

Left to mourn his passing, in addition to his wife and son, are his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gerald A. Frost; a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Frost, of Drummondville; two nephews, Stewart Frost and wife, of Ottawa, Ont., and Ralph Frost and wife, of Toledo, Ohio.

The remains rested at his late residence, 1 Prospect St., Lennoxville, where a Masonic service was held on Saturday evening, December 21, at 7 P. M., followed by services in St. George's Church, the Ven. Archdeacon T. Matthews officiating.

The bearers were all lifelong friends of the deceased, three of whom served with him overseas, namely: Arthur McKindsey, Norrey Hunting, Albert Bryant, and Robert Pearce, W. G. MacDougall, Lt. Col. L. M. Watson.

The many beautiful floral tributes, messages of sympathy and the many who called at his late residence and attended the funeral bespeak the high esteem and deep affection with which Mr. Frost was regarded.

Interment was in Malvern Cemetery.

Out of town relatives and friends present were, Mr. Arthur Pearson, of St. Lambert;

Mr. and Mrs. William Frost of Drummondville; Mrs. Earl Willis, Mr. Richard Willis, of Newport, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. William Nicholson, Mrs. S. Drew of Coaticook, Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Little, Mr. and Mrs. H. Little, of North Hatley; Mr. Vance Johnson, Hon. secretary-treasurer, 7th C. S. Battery; Mr. J. A. Buckland, Mr. A. R. Moysey, of Waterloo; Mr. and Mrs. R. Desrusseaux, of Dixville, and a host of friends.

MRS. W. H. BARRETT, OF SHERBROOKE

The sudden death of Mrs. W. H. Barrett occurred at her home, 910 Belvidere Street South on Tuesday, December 10th, 1957, in her 71st year.

Mrs. Barrett, the former Bridget Ann Tuitt, was born in St. Pierre de Broughton on August 9th, 1887. She married William H. Barrett in September 1909. Two children were born to them, a son, Bernard, Quebec City, and a daughter, Bernice, Mrs. G. O.

Angry Young Men Expect Vintage Year

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Sounds of jangling discord from Britain's cultural circles suggest that 1958 will be another vintage year for the Angry Young Men.

New works by Kingsley Amis and John Osborne, two charter members of the maled content school of writing will add to the post-war chorus of disenchantment while rumblings will undoubtedly be heard over the financial impoverishment of the arts.

Perhaps some celebrated performer, with a taste for the theatrical, will parade through London streets seeking aid for the arts, as happened in 1957, or make an impromptu speech in the House of Lords, as Actress Vivien Leigh did in a bid to save the St. James's Theatre from conversion into prosaic offices.

"CHRONIC CRISIS"

The theme of "Art in the Red" was sounded most compellingly in a report of that title issued in October by Britain's Art Council. It acknowledged government support of nearly £1,000,000 in a year, but said the figure would have to be raised by a quarter to overcome the "chronic crisis" in the arts.

In 12 months, it said, two symphony orchestras barely escaped dissolution, the two national opera houses had heavy overdrafts and theatres were closing "all over the country." The Royal Ballet and the Old Vic Company made ends meet only with the aid of North American tours.

"This insecurity is not due to public indifference," said a summary of the report. "Television has had no appreciable effect on attendances. The audience for the arts in this country is a very large and appreciative one."

Theatrical producer Basil Dean, writing in the Manchester Guardian, agreed that the crisis in the theatre was a financial one. Drama schools were teeming with youngsters of talent and promise, while audiences were holding up well. Despite these factors, Dean said, "the theatre in Britain is passing through an acute crisis, perhaps the greatest in its history."

In the literary world, there were fewer financial worries but there was something of the same troubled spirit. The cult of the Angry Young Men, a label loosely draped over a horde of youthful writers, continued to flourish with the appearance of Osborne's second play, The Entertainer, which proved as successful a vehicle for Sir Laurence Olivier, in the role of the seedy vaudeville performer, as the playwright's first work, Look Back in Anger, proved for actress Mary Ure, now Osborne's wife.

HARD TO DEFINE

Nobody could define the Angry Young Men with any precision and several writers sought to dissociate themselves from the movement, which had in common a restless discontent with things as they are. Some called them the welfare state school.

A newcomer to the ranks of the maled content was John Braine, a 35-year-old Yorkshire librarian whose first book, Room at the Top, was well received. As with most of his contemporary writers, Braine showed a preoccupation with Britain's changing class structure, in a book which pulled no punches.

Cashing in on the current literary movement, an enterprising publisher asked a group of young men and women associated with the school to describe their attitudes in a book called Declaration. Typical of the approaches shown was that of Doris Lessing, at 38 the oldest of the group.

"British life at the moment," she wrote, "is petty and frustrating."

Politically, it was a quieter year on the intellectual front. The revolt which followed the Anglo-French intervention in Suez fizzled out after the abortive end of the campaign, and political apathy stole back into the universities.

Swiss Becomes Hero By Saving Climbers

SION, Switzerland (AP) — Herman Geiger has become a Swiss national hero by risking his life as daily routine in an exclusive and hazardous calling of his own creation.

As an Alpine glacier pilot, the stocky, dark-haired Swiss probably has snatched more mountaineers from death at high altitudes than any other man alive.

He has landed more than 15,000 times on stamp-size snowfields high in the Alps, pitting his skill and courage against tricky mountain gales that threaten to dash his small plane on the rocks.

One of his biggest rescues was in 1954, when he saved eight avalanche victims. Circling over the scene, he noticed a ski stick- ing out of the snow. He went down immediately, dug out a villager alive and flew him to hospital. He returned with a dog, train and seven more were freed alive.

Saving lives is only a sideline for Geiger, who runs the small civil airport of this medieval Rhone Valley town. His main job is flying supplies to isolated cabins, snowbound villages or high-altitude power projects.

SUPPLIES MERRYMAKERS

Sometimes Geiger lands on a 10,000-foot-high glacier just to deliver a few bottles of mineral water. Or he takes a baby carriage to the wife of a cabin keeper. Or he risks his life so that a merry group of mountain tourists can throw a wine-drinking party.

He also teaches scores of Swiss and foreign students the art of glacier landing.

"Our glaciers and snow fields are the best airports nature could give to us," Geiger says. "Why shouldn't we use them?"

Geiger has fitted his Piper Cub with skis, operated by a hydraulic lift of his own design so that he can take off on wheels but land on the snow crust.

Geiger has landed on more than 2,000 different fields, some less than 200 feet long and 100 feet wide. His highest landing was made on the 14,421-foot Monte Rosa Glacier.
