ALDERMEN VIEW LIBRARY SCHEME WITH SURPRISE

Ste. Cunegonde's Council After Agreeing to Terms of Annexation Saddles City with Extra Expenditure For Free Library and New Official—By-Law Will be Considered by Montreal Council Next May

Ste. Cunegonde Council by its action last night has made what may develop into a hitch in the negotiations for its annexation with the city. The annexation agreement called for a taking over of the smaller place with its assets and liabilities as they stood, or according to the estimates of this year. But last night the Council of Ste. Cunegonde first adopted the annexation by-law as passed by the city of Montreal, so that nothing now remains except for the people of the suburb to vote upon it for its final adoption.

Then the suburban council adopted a by-law presented by Ald. Geoffrion for the establishment and maintenance of a free public library for Ste. Cunegonde at a cost of $1,000 a year. Not content with this the Council appointed Dr. J. A. R. Leonard as consulting medical officer for the city, and, of course, his salary means a further expense which is outside of the appropriations for the year.

Just what position the city of Montreal may take with regard to these somewhat unusual measures is hard to predict, but several aldermen this morning expressed surprise at the action of their co-workers in Ste. Cunegonde, and consideed that the city could scarcely be expected to take such additional burdens, which were not expected or intended when the annexation treaty was formulated.

Ald. L. A. Lapointe took vigorous exception to the new move. He remarked: "I do not think the Ste. Cunegonde Council have any right to so engage the expenses of the city. Ste. Cunegonde is now practically annexed and in my opinion they cannot go beyond their ordinary legitimate expenses as provided for in their appropriations, and, of course, this library business is not included in their appropriations. As far as the library principle is concerned I think it is good, and I would like to see more libraries. But this is a matter of business, and I do not see that they have any business at this stage of the proceedings to spend this money on a library and new officials."

Even at that, Ald. Lapointe did not think this could affect the city of Montreal, as the annexation by-law had reached a stage where it could not be amended, so that any new obligations added by the Ste. Cunegonde people could not add to the city's obligations.

Ald. Lavallee, chairman of the Annexation Committee, did not think the action of Ste. Cunegonde would make much difference, as the new library by-law would have to be submitted to the City Council with all the other Ste. Cunegonde by-laws next May, and then it could be dealt with as the Council thought best. This view is also shared by Mayor Laporte.

Dr. Cyphot, of Ste. Cunegonde, waited upon Mayor Laporte this morning as delegate from the Ste. Cunegonde Council to formally hand over the annexation by-law, with the Ste. Cunegonde Council's endorsation.

With regard to the library, proposition Dr. Cyphiot said that Ste. Cunegonde had power from the Legislature to spend a certain amount for fire purposes and for a library, and they had decided to spend it. "Anyway the by-law will come up before the City Council for approval next May," he said, "and if they do not approve of it then we in Ste. Cunegonde must go on with the library scheme for ourselves."

ONE DREDGE SUNK AND ANOTHER BADLY INJURED

Collision May Have Caused Damage to the Extent of Thousands of Dollars

Dredges No. 2 and No. 3 of the Harbor Commissioners, anchored off the Hamburg American Company's sheds, were seriously injured this morning, the latter being sunk, but fortunately there was no loss of life, and Mr. Kennedy, C.E., the harbor engineer, states that the channel is not in any way blocked.

The steamer Universe, operated by Messrs. Carbray, Routh & Co., was coming in from North Sydney and the Bay State was leaving the harbor with a tow of barges; in the attempt to prevent her tow coming in contact with the Universe the Bay State ran into the dredges, while the mix-up resulted in the Universe becoming temporarily entangled with the mooring chains of the dredges, but eventually cleared and came into port. One dredge was sunk and the other was badly injured. The damage may run into the thousands, as these dredges cost $50,000 each. The exact damage will not be known until the feasibility of raising the sunken dredge is known and a survey of injuries made.

SIR FREDERICK POLLOCK WAS ENTERTAINED BY ECONOMISTS

A Brilliant Company Sat Down at Canada Club—Effective Speeches by Solicitor-General Lemieux Mr. Donald Macmaster and Others

Sir Frederick Pollock, Mr. Geoffrey Drage and Mr. Pitt Kennedy left Montreal this forenoon for Ottawa, where they will spend a day in laying the merits of the latest Imperialist project before the leaders of opinion who are in the Capital before proceeding to the Pacific Coast.

Before leaving Sir Frederick expressed himself highly pleased with the reception they had met and the manner in which his scheme had been received by those to whom he had presented it in Montreal. He admitted that it had provoked some criticism, but he was not at all dismayed on that account—in fact he rather welcomed it—and he was unshaken in his belief that it contained the nucleus of an organism that would be of great practical service to the Empire and would do no manner of harm.

Sir Frederick Pollock and his two friends were entertained at a dinner given in their honor under the auspices of the economic association to whom the Canada Club had kindly given the use of their rooms for the occasion.

A company numbering about sixty, and including prominent lawyers and educationalists, sat down under the presidency of Professor Flux, the chairman of the association.

Sir Frederick Pollock, in responding to the toast of his health which was proposed by Professor Flux, explained at some length the nature of the new council which he proposed to create emphasize particularly the fact that its function would be advisory and neither arbitrary nor compulsory. One new suggestion that he made that it would be of great utility in the conduct of Imperial affairs if a confidential list were kept of persons whose position and experience gave them a title to speak with some authority regarding the feeling in their part of the Empire upon important questions that were under public discussion. He remembered that a well-known Chief Justice writing with reference to the scheme had said that at present if he or anybody in a similar position had a suggestion to make to the Imperial Government there was no channel through which it could be made without its appearing to be almost an impertinence.

The toast of the "Parliaments of the Empire" was proposed by Mr. R. C. Smith, and responded to by Mr. Geoffrey Drage, who had on a memorable occasion defeated the late Sir William Harcourt in a contest for a seat in the House of Commons at Derby, and by Hon. Mr. Lemieux, the Solicitor-General for Canada.

Mr. Drage in an able speech remarked that one of the advantages of the new council were it created was that it would be able to use its influence in the direction of promoting legislation that would secure uniformity in patents, copyrights and bills of exchange.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux in his response referred at some length to Sir Frederick's scheme, observing that his view, and he believed that of most of his compatriots was one of great satisfaction with the status quo. Although a French-Canadian he was a Britisher to the core, and had not the slightest desire to live under any other flag than the Union Jack. In fact our position was so happy that it would not be easy to convince him that it could be improved upon by any scheme such as that now proposed. Although he was far from saying that he was opposed to it in principle he was bound to say that the scheme struck him as somewhat vague, and he was by no means sure that any change of the character suggested could make the position of the French-Canadians happier than it was to-day.

The toast of the courts of the Empire was proposed by Dean Walton, who remarked that Canada was very well provided for judicially, and we were inclined to think ourselves fortunate in that respect as compared with other countries not very remote.

Mr. Donald Macmaster, K.C., in responding referred to Mr. Drage's suggestion as to uniformity in legislation, pointed out that the laws governing merchants shipping, and bills and notes hardly differed at present from those of England; but he regarded it as not quite creditable to British institutions that if an inventor wanted to protect his rights throughout the British dominions he would require to take out no less than twenty-eight patents.

The toast of the "Universities" was proposed by Mr. W. D. Lighthall, and acknowledged by Dean Moyse, of the McGill Arts Faculty.

SPOOKS!

THE GODDESS KALI CALLED TO WITNESS

That Henceforth the Bengalis Will Boycott British Goods

Calcutta, Sept. 29. Fifty thousand Bengalis assembled at the Temple of Kalighat, have sworn by the Goddess Kali to boycott British goods as a protest against the partition of the province of Bengal. The administrative work of the province according to the views of the home and Indian Governments, had grown to such unwieldy proportions as to necessitate a division of the labor, hence the partition of the province into two lieutenant-governorships. The Bengalis are intensely resentful at what they characterize as an attempt to split the population and impair the Bengalis nationality. At scores of meetings throughout Bengal the people have pledged themselves to support the boycott which has now received the sanction of the priests.

The scene at the Temple of Kalighat, the greatest in Bengal, was striking when the immense assemblage took the oath, in the holy presence of the Goddess Kali, not to use foreign goods, buy articles in foreign shops when available in native shops or employ foreigners for any work that can be done by our countrymen."

The High Priest than placed a mystic vermillion symbol on the forehead of each of those who took the oath.

The foreign firms are already feeling seriously the effect of the boycott.

Through The Herald's Sieve

WE ARE compelled to use the remark that Mr. Kyrle Bellew, as "Raffles," has a very taking manner.

A NEW YORK man has been hanging around town for three or four days waiting to present Sir Thomas Shaughnessy with a gold fob. We know just how Sir Thomas feels.

IF THE editors of those particularly yellow journals to the south of us were strung up once in a while to the nearest telegraph pole, the sensational murder habit might go out of fashion.

WHEN Gaynor and Greene get once safely over the border there should be some wild scrambling for new cases on the part of Canadian lawyers.

WHY this sudden, terrible peacefulness on the part of the Harbor Commission?

Life's Arithmetic.

They love at first, and add to love
A perfect recognition,
Now this first stage has proved to us
The plain sum of Addition.

A few years go, the wee tots come,
So there is no denying,
That through sweet and happy years
They have been Multiplying.

But as the many cares of Life
Drive them near to distraction,
The sands of Love go dwindling down
This then is the Subtraction.

From bad to worse the matters go,
And so you see, of course,
That the Division comes when she
Sues him for a divorce.

IF Billy Maclean left out anything in that apology of his to the Montreal City Council, our own special sleuth has not been able to find it.

ALBERTA Cons. have nominated Rev. Leonard Gaetz as their candidate, and it is now up to some Westmounter to make a stab at the pronunciation and bet that he never Gaetz there.

Thanks.

Witte got a great reception at St. Petersburg yesterday, and had no hesitation stating that he owed his success at Portsmouth to the advice given him by our own S. Teddy Lyre.

OF COURSE it's all right to say that a man shouldn't nominate himself for the mayoralty, but suppose he can't get his friends to do it for him.

JUST at present Captain Dunn, Emperor Bill and Mr. W. F. Maclean are taking a well-earned rest.

THE barbers' association in Ottawa is anxious to shorten hours. While they are on the subject of reform they should decide to eliminate much of that small-talk habit.

THERE are about seven prospective candidates for the mayoralty, who have their ears to the ground. Still there seems no wild clamor for any of them.

SINCE Miss Helen Gould is so free with her money, we would recommend Cap. Bernier to secure an introduction to her.

SOME ONE should have warned that Russian newspaperman, who was fleeced in Toronto, to stay away from that city.

THE awful news that Malpecques will disappear in ten years must have greatly reconciled Messrs. Gaynor and Greene to their forced departure.

THE NEWS that a large wild animal show will winter in Montreal should be very encouraging to those who wish to organize a new local Conservative party.

THE Bishop of London is alleged to have asked his hearers if they had read "When it was Dark." For ourselves we hasten to assure the Bishop that, not being conversant with the blind alphabet, we have never been able to read when it was dark.

The Autumn Girl.

Talk about your summer girl,
Your winter dame and all,
Why they are not a patch upon
The damsel of the fall.
She gaily trips the sidewalk,
In an air that's surely hers,
And coaxes on the winter
With a brand new set of furs.

Tho' Indian summer shed its heat,
She does not care at all;
For she is such a careless girl—
This damsel of the fall.
And while some grumble at the heat,
There's not a hair she stirs—
Delightfully she bravely sports
Her brand new set of furs.

Now men they are such stupid things
That they cannot recall
The fact that there's much reason to
This damsel of the fall;
The female throat's so delicate!
That's what is wrong with hers,
And that's the only reason why
She wears the set of furs.

FIVE ARRESTS FOR DEATH OF NEGRO

Remains of Isarat Wright of Ingersoll, Point to Murder

Ingersoll, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—The body of Isaiah Wright, colored laborer, aged thirty-four and a well known character around town, was found in the Thames yesterday, some twenty yards or so from Wonham Street Bridge. It bore marks that led to the suspicion that death had not occurred from natural causes. A jury was empanelled and an inquest begun. After the remains had been viewed an adjournment was made until Oct. 6. Chief of Police Wright at once moved to arrest men believed to be responsible for Wright's death. On the night of September 22nd, it is was known that the dead man was met on Wonham Street Bridge by six white men. That will, it is understood be shown in evidence. He was never afterwards seen alive, and the theory of the police is that in the course of a quarrel, the colored man was beaten and thrown into the Thames.

Chief Wright and Constables Cook and Sherlock, during the afternoon, arrested the following five men, on a charge of murder: George Dennis, Geo. Hartsell, George Bower, Thomas Wilson and Ewart Bell.

All are of Ingersoll and of the laboring class.

MORE PRAISE FOR CANADIAN BUTTER

Manchester Provision Merchants Say it Is a Magnificent Article

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Sept. 29.—Before leaving for Canada Mr. Ruddick, Canadian Dairy Commissioner, addressed a meeting of the Manchester provision dealers. Mr. G. W. Little in moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Ruddick, said this year had seen marked appreciation of Canadian butter, but as yet only four per cent. of the trade here was represented by shipments from Canada, but that proportion would grow, for Canada was now producing a magnificent article. Mr. R. Graham in seconding the motion said that the Canadian branch of trade is not the only one Manchester merchants have the chance of developing directly, and they are being thwarted from doing so entirely through the lack of proper shipping facilities; butter ought to come direct to Manchester. If there were a good service of steamers through the ship canal with good refrigerators, merchants would make good use of them.

CONFIDENCE MEN WORK NEW GAME

Russian Journalist is Victim of Clever Scheme in Toronto

PUT HIS MONEY IN BOX

And His Faith in Strangers With the Usual Results—Swindlers Got Clean Away.

Toronto, Sept. 29.—(Special.)—That confidence men will always finds birds for the snaring, is the moral to a tale which Serge Governoff, an intelligent newspaper man from Port Arthur, Manchuria, related to the local police yesterday. His newly-made friends have flown, leaving an empty safe behind.

Governoff crossed the Atlantic on September 6 aboard the steamship Baltic, intending to take a course in agriculture at Cornell University. During the sea voyage a jovial American, Andrew Conins, formed an acquaintanceship with him, and the two became warm friends. After passing the customs the two were bidding each other adieu, when a foreigner approached and inquired if either of them spoke the French language. Governoff supplied the need. This party it appeared was a Frenchman by the name of Pickard, who was journeying to Toronto, where his brother had once resided. The poor fellow had died recently in the south of France, but remembering the business adversity which had overtaken him here, had left $20,000 to be distributed among Toronto's poor. This was part of a fortune acquired in Klondike.

Pickard was experiencing difficulty in travelling and asked assistance of the two friends. They agreed to go with him for a consideration, and assist the charitable task. Governoff carried with him a letter of credit, directed to a bank in Ithica, N.Y., and on their way to Toronto the party stopped there and obtained cash.

Arriving in Toronto last Thursday Governoff put up at the Palmer House, the other two men stopping at the American Hotel at York and Wellington streets. On Friday morning the friends called for him and the party breakfasted at a nearby restaurant. During the morning chat, the safety of a large amount of cash was discussed at length. Pickard was carrying over $20,000, the American $400, and Governoff his $600. The advisability of having a strong box was suggested, and one of the two friends was able to obtain such a contrivance in a few moments. Each party then rolled up his wad in blue paper and sealed envelopes. The three bundles were placed in the box, the key was turned, and the Frenchman kept the key and Governoff kept the box. Conin's borrowed the Russian's camera and went out to see the city. Nothing further developed for two or three days. Governoff was ill and kept his room, but on Monday he set out to find his friends. To his surprise they had left the American Hotel on Friday night. After waiting around several days, without suspecting anything seriously wrong, a local locksmith was obtained and the strong box pried open. The seals were intact, but the envelopes, when opened, contained wads not of crisp notes, but of discarded yellow newspapers. The police were notified at once.

MERGER BECOMES EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

Details Being Completed for Latest Bank Amalgamation

REASONS FOR THE UNION

Bank of New Brunswick Was Being Crowded Out by Competition of Bigger Banks.

The tendnecy towards consolidation among Canadian banks is further evidenced by the negotiations now being completed for the absorption of the Bank of New Brunswick by the Bank of Montreal.

Further consolidation in the Eastern provinces ever since the two biggest banks, the Bank of Montreal and Canadian Bank of Commerce, became strong competitors for the business offering in them, the Bank of Montreal by taking over the People's Bank of Halifax and the Commerce by purchasing the Halifax Banking Company. By securing the Bank of New Brunswick the Bank of Montreal will greatly strengthen its position in New Brunswick. The directors of the latter bank are in favor of the merger, because they found their business was not really so profitable since the bank had to compete against such strong institutions as the Bank of Montreal and the Bank of Commerce.

The Herald's St. John correspondent wired to-day:

"It is regarded as certain that the Bank of Montreal and Bank of New Brunswick deal is on, and it is believed will be effective after Jan. 1. One report is that the Bank of Montreal shares on a value of $250 are to be exchanged for Bank of New Brunswick shares on a basis of $350.

"Bank of New Brunswick shares have lately sold at 291, and pay twelve per cent., while Bank of Montreal pays ten. Another report is that the stockholders of the Bank of New Brunswick are to get three shares of Bank of Montreal stock for two of the Bank of New Brunswick.

"It is believed the two banks will continue business here for two years; that the directors of the Bank of New Brunswick will be continued as a local board for that time and that the Bank of New Brunswick will become the local headquarters.

"It is not known what arrangements have been made regarding the clerks, but it is presumed all will be taken over and will share in the pension and other funds of the larger bank.

CITY COUNCIL DISCUSS BILL AIMED TO MAKE PUBLIC BUILDINGS SAFER

The By-Law Will Affect Theatres Very Seriously—More Stringent Regulations Will be Enforced—Council Fail to Appoint Gas Expert

Yesterday afternoon the City Council spent several hours wrestling with the many intricacies of Ald. Robertson's bill to amend the city building regulations. This by-law has been more or less before the Council since the Iroquois Theatre disaster at Chicago awoke every city in the country to the necessity for better supervision of public and private buildings, but especially such places as theatres, etc. Building Inspector Chausse has been at work on the by-law for over a year, with the aid of such experts as Ald. L. Payette and others, and it now fills a small volume. The better to discuss its provisions it was taken up yesterday in committee of the whole, with Ald. Clearihue in the chair, and Building Inspector Chausse on hand to explain matters.

PROVISIONS VERY STRICT.

The discussion proceeded smoothly, the whole by-law being pretty well canvassed, and a few defects smoothed out. The provisions for theatres are very strict. The original by-law provided for the absolute prohibition of the use of calcium lights in theatres, but this drastic clause was expunged. But there are still a number of provisions for the theatres that will greatly increase their safety. Amongst these are: Automatic sprinklers, brick walls between the auditorium and the stage, asbestos or steel curtains, fire extinguishers, hose connections with the city water service, supplementary lighting system for stairways and exits, and a special fireman in each theatre during the hours of representation. Besides these the by-law prescribes the width of aisles, doors, seats, exits, etc., and prohibits the use of sliding doors for exits, owing to their possibilities for danger in a panic. This species of door was allowed in the original by-law, but that was amended out on the advice of Ald. Payette, so that now the bill provides that the exit doors must swing outwards. Non-compliance with these regulations may be followed by the closing of the theatre.

The dangerous practice of placing chairs in the aisles of theatres, churches and halls on crush nights is also prohibited.

FIRE-PROOF BUILDINGS.

Considerable time was taken discussing clauses regarding fire-proof buildings. Under certain circumstances the by-law demands that public buildings, such as theatres, boarding schools, orphanages, etc., shall be of fire-proof construction.

Ald. C. B. Carter thought that this provision should extend to the ordinary schools, but this was opposed by Mayor Laporte, on the ground that the extra safety did not warrant the expense. Such precautions, in his view, were only necessary in schools where the pupils slept in dormitories. This was agreed to by the Council, and the clause stood without amendment.

NO GAS EXPERT APPOINTED.

When this business was ended Chairman Robertson, of the Fire Committee, brought up the impasse encountered by that body over the selection of a gas expert. He wanted to know if the committee could send a report to Council bearing only three names.

This once again reopened the discussion on that point by the members of the Fire Committee, who were as far as ever from agreement.

Finally on the suggestion of the Mayor it was decided to put the appointment of the gas expert on the order sheet, so that it could be properly discussed by the whole Council.

QUEER FREAKS IN SUPERSTITION

Mr. T. P. O'Connor Writes Interestingly on the Subject

"The root of all superstition," says Bacon, "is that to the nature of the mind of all men it is consonant for the affirmative, or active, to affect more than the negative, or positive, so that a few times hitting or presence countervails ofttimes failing or absence." For example, some months since a woman friend of mine in a country town had a city palmist down for the entertainment of her guests, two of whom the chiromancer so mortally affronted by proclaiming publicly that they would never find husbands that they at once quitted indignantly the room and the house, writes Mr. T. P. O'connor. Yet, though neither was engaged, nor had the slightest prospect of being engaged, at the time, both were married within a few months.

Not much point in that story? No, and therefore I tell it, because it illustrates the kind of story which no one tells. If the palmist had predicted that these two women, who for many reasons seemed unlikely to be mated, would be married in a few months, every one would have told the story.

Here, on the other hand, is the kind of story which every one tells. Last August the Archduke Joseph August consulted the famous fortune teller of Budapest, Adela, who predicted that he would within a year rob a wife of her husband and two widows of their only sons—a prediction which greatly amused the archduke and his friends.

They had hardly ceased laughing at the preposterous prediction when in the following month the Archduke Joseph August knocked down with his motor in the streets of the Hungarian capital a laundryman named Pletsch, who died under an operation for his injuries. Having thus robbed a wife of her husband there remained to the archduke to rob two widows of their only sons. The first of the two, a man Bauer, was knocked down and killed by the archduke's carriage in the following February, while last month the second, a man named Euler, was despatched by a motor drivn by the archduke through the suburbs of Budapest.

In the last case the archduke's dread of the catastrophe may have helped to bring it about. He had given up motoring, and even driving, through fear of the fulfillment of Adela's last prediction; but he was persuaded by his friend Von Glausenburg to accompany him in a motor ride through the suburbs of Budapest. On the return journey Von Klausenburg chaffingly dared the archduke to drive the motor. The archduke shook his head. "I can't get Adela's gloomy prophecies and their terrible fulfilment out my head," he answered. "But we're out of the traffic here," urged Von Klausenburg. "You can safely change places with the chauffeur for a few miles."

The archduke was at last persuaded, but hardly had he taken charge of the motor when a little girl ran across the road, and in swerving nervously to avoid running over her the archduke knocked down a man who was rushing to her assistance. This man Euler, like Bauer, died of his injuries, and, like him, he was the only son of his mother, who was a widow.

Here, again, in a recently published volume, Mme. Edmond Adam's "My Literary Life," is the kind of story which every one tells when he has it to tell. "Go to Edmond, the clairvoyant, and consult him, I beseech you, about my poor lost dog, Zozo," cried Mme. Fauvety to Mme. Adam. Mme. Adam, in spite of her own conviction that Edmond was a charlatan, went to consult him merely to humor her superstitious friend.

"You have come about a dog," said Edmond the moment Mme. Adam had cut the cards. "The dog is not lost. He has gone back to the country from which he came. A woman has caught him by the collar. She will keep him on a chain for six weeks. At the end of six weeks she will let him loose and he will return on that day to your friend." All of which turned out to be true to the letter and to the day.

"Now cut the cards for your own fortune," said Edmond. When Mme. Adam had cut them he said: "In a year you will become famous for a book written in answer to one which at this moment is being composed." This certainly was in itself extraordinary, yet within the year Mme. Adam had written her famous answer to Proudhon's "La Justice dans la Revolution."

"Then," added Mme Adam, all of whose prejudices it must be remembered were against the "charlatan," "Edmund proceed to tell me, almost year by year, the life I have since led; and, among other details, had warned me that on my return home I should find my mother had arrived to see about a loan my husband had asked my father to make him, which Edmond advised him against. On my return home I found that my mother had arrived on that business, which, by Edmond's advice, came to nothing.

Horace Walpole, who made such just fun of the Cock lane ghost, has immortalized the apparition which woke up the Bishop of Chichester at 4 o'clock in the morning of a July day in the hot summer of 1794. The bishop, like Mrs. Chestnut's sister, roused his whole household immediately upon the disappearance of the apparition. "Did you see her?" asked the bishop when the servants had rushed in at last in answer to his thrice repeated summons. "Who, my lord?" "Who? Why the woman who has been here." "A woman!" "Yes, yes! She has just passed out. You must have seen her. A woman all in white. She came in and sat down by my bed. When I asked her who she was she only sighed, took out some papers and began to read. I asked her again and again who she was and what was her business, but she merely sighed profoundly, and then I rang for you. I had to ring again and again before I roused you all, and meanwhile she had vanished."

His servants all thought, and his family all said, the bishop must have dreamed the apparition, but his lordship himself was so convinced of its reality that he reverently related his ghostly experience to his friends, who also were incredulous until—the doctor of a neighboring madhouse explained that a female patient had escaped from under his care, and, finding the gate of the bishop's palace open, had walked straight into his chamber. The woman was identified beyond a doubt by her white and scanty attire and by her habit of pouring continually, with profound sighs, over some papers.

IT DRAWS HARD

On a woman's vitality to do work for which she is unfitted, and we wonder how some of the women of our land live through a single season of pleasure or dissipation.

They will say with tears in their eyes, when they mention the subject at all, "it is a hard pull," that with pain, weakness and weariness they are "almost dragged out." Many, in this condition, resort to alcoholic stimulants and "invigorants," the after effects of which are very injurious.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, forty years, ago found that women were being mistreated through ignorance or carelessness and determined to devote his life and energies to their relief.

Having found the cause of their suffering, he next sought for the means of relief, and found in Nature's laboratory—the earth, certain roots which had remarkable and valuable medicinal virtues for the cure of these ailments.

Using chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength instead of alcohol, he prepared extracts of these, and the result was so satisfactory that the combination became his "Favorite Prescription." The roots used are: Lady's Slipper root, Black Cohosh root, Unicorn root, Blue Cohosh root and Golden Seal root. The world knows it as DR. PIERCE'S FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION, which has the wonderful and unparalleled record of a half-million of cures in the last forty years.

Write to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for advice, given without charge.

"I am glad to be able to testify as to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the many ills that women suffer with," writes Miss Gertrude Mitchell (President Young Ladies' Christian Endeavor Society), 43 Columbia Street, E., Detroit, Mich. "After many years of suffering and pain, I took your medicine, and in a short time began to feel stronger, became more regular and didn't have the bearing-down pains which had been my lot for so long. Shall never cease to be grateful that it was brought to my notice. Always have no pains, and feel much stronger generally."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

MONARCHS AND PLURAL PRONOUNS.

Two hundred and fifty years ago two of the smallest words in the English language evidently caused Oliver Cromwell considerable searchings of heart. Having to answer a petition, the Lord Protector at first referred to himself in his reply as "I." Then he changed his mind and wrote "we" with a small w. Finally, cancelling that efficiently if not too tidily with his finger, he wrote himself down "We" in all the majesty of the royal capital letter. Monarchs are believed to have been first pluralized by obsequious courtiers in the time of the Roman Empire; but John and Richard I. are variously credited with having been the first English Kings to style themselves "We." French and German sovereigns adopted the plural pronoun in the thirteenth century.

CROWN'S BARGAIN A VERY BAD ONE

Immense Growth in London's West End Sites in Recent Years

When Queen Victoria agreed to place the hereditary revenues of the Crown at the disposal of the nation, Her Majesty made a bad bargain for the Royal Family. King Edward did the same thing when he came to the throne, accepting a clear yearly sum of £470,000. At the present moment the nation is making a profit on the bargain. It amounted to £22,500 last year, and is increasing very rapidly.

Among the property thus assigned to the nation were considerable portions of the West End, including much of Pall Mall and St. James's. Rents have risen greatly there in recent years, and as the leases fall in the Commissioners of Woods and Forests will naturally raise their demands. They are doing so with great success now. An instance is the Carlton Hotel, for which the ground rent was only £763 per annum, but which is now £4,200—an enormous increase.

Among other recent changes in leases may be mentioned that of the Junior United Service Club in Charles Street, which is let for sixty years from January 5, 1903, at a rental of £2,500. The estimated annual value is £4,300, but for the new lease a fine of £10,000 was paid. The rent reserved in the last leases was £460. The club effected an exchange with the Crown, buying a piece of land with buildings on it which form part of the club. Two messuages, Nos. 3 and 5, Glasshouse Street, were formerly rented at £80 per annum. They have now been let for sixteen years at £325. Two other places in Glasshouse Street, forming the back of the Cafe Royal, which were rented at £10,, are relet on a forty-one years' lease at £230.

In Jermyn Street Nos. 70, 71 and 72, and 21, 22, 23 and 24 Bury Street have been leased anew for eighty years from 1902 at £500 for the first year and £1,000 per annum for the rest of the term. The former rents were £379. Where the Crown is developing its property in Kensington a piece of land held with No. 15a Kensington Palace Gardens, was rented at £3 15s, but is now £18 15s.

Sir Henry Seymour King, M.P., is the lessee of 9 and 10 Pall Mall and 17 Waterloo Place for eighty years from 1902, and the premises form the well-known bank. The rent under the last leases was £578. Under the new it is £800 for the first two years and £1,525 during the residue of the term. Denman & Co., Limited, for 19 and 20 Piccadilly now pay £950 as compared with £544 under an earlier lease. The rent of 81 Portland Place has advanced from £5 to £125, and the fine paid for the new lease was £900.

WONDERFUL BOOM IN POSTAL CARDS

Average of 250,000 Pictorial Ones Are Posted Weekly

"The buoyancy of spirits which is natural in the ranks of our letter carriers, but which noticeably declined during the summer months, now shows signs of returning; and this," explained an official at St. Martin's-le-Grand, "is due to the reduction in the number of picture postcards sent from holiday resorts now that the season has almost ended."

When the figures are tabulated Margate, it is believed, will head the list of seaside places frequented by Londoners, with Yarmouth next and Brighton third. But it is doubted if any other resort will equal the record of Blackpool, where during the past four months a weekly average of 250,000 cards were posted by visitors.

At Ilfracombe an enterprising photographer reaped a considerable harvest from the practice of "taking" holiday groups and transferring the pictures to postcards. They found a ready sale among the "subjects" thus distinguished.

"The 'personal note' is rapidly creeping into the hobby," observed one of the principals of Wrench, Limited, the picture postcard pioneers. "For instance, well-to-do people are ordering cards bearing views of their residences to be used as Christmas greetings. Then again, one of our latest designs for general distribution consists of a photographs of some celebrated musician, with a few autograph bars from his best known composition."

Politicians, it further appeared, create comparatively little demand. Buyers prefer something pretty. Hence next to landscapes, seascapes, and the like, the presentments of actresses are the most sought after. Incidentally, the representative of a great firm of picture postcard dealers related a story not devoid of topical significance.

A Russian commercial traveller, about to return to St. Petersburg, wished to purchase a stock of general views for sale in that country. He was shown samples relating to South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, and other countries. He rejected them all.

"Well, here are some pretty views of India," said the dealer.

"Ah, yes, I will take these," the Russian exclaimed enthusiastically; "for India will soon be ours." And he gave a substantial order.

HOW GORDON DIED.

The Soudan Times, published at Khartoum, having lately observed that there are still some Englishmen who entertain doubts regarding the death of General Gordon, the Monkattain newspaper of Cairo published on August 14 an interview with Fauzi Pasha, who was captured by the dervishes in Khartoum at the time, and whose destiny is of great historical value in the matter.

The Pasha said that the murder of Gordon was a fact beyond doubt, and gave the following account of how Gordon met his death:

"During the seige of Khartoum General Gordon used to show the greatest concern for his men. He would spend a day or two at times without tasting food, offering his portion to others. One day he received secret messages telling him to leave Khartoum and escape by himself, but he refused, saying that he could not leave his brave men behind.

"On January 26, 1885, when the besieged troops were greatly enfeebled by starvation, the derivhes made their final attack upon Khartoum. Murder and pillage commenced as soon as they entered the town. They proceeded to Government House, where General Gordon was seated in a chair in his office. They fell upon him, piercing him with their spears, then they dragged him alive from the top of the house to the end of the staircase, and afterwards beheaded him. They sent his head to Omdurman to the Mahdi, who grew very indignant, as he had told them not to kill him. He, however, ordered El Tanyeshi (who later became the famous Khalifa) to hang the head in the market place, where it was stoned by the women and children.

"I was then lying wounded in my house. After beheading Gordon the Dervishes sent me his head for identification. The next day they summoned me to Government House to ask me about Gordon's money. There I saw his body fearfully mangled."

THE WONDERFUL TORPEDO.

It may be doubted whether, in the whole range of modern science, any more really wonderful instrument can be shown than the torpedo, which has revolutionized modern naval warfare, and may in the future decide the fate of nations. Constant improvements are being made in the torpedo, but these are most jealously hidden from the public. All practice with new torpedoes is now confined to salt water, under the direct supervision of the Admiralty. Of course, in all these tests the torpedo's "war-head" is taken away from it. The "war-head" is in the terrible nose of the torpedo, which may tear the steel bottom out of a great battleship and send her to the bottom in two minutes. The "war-head" may contain 300 pounds of wet guncotton, which, like dynamite, or any other "nitro compound," is not exploded by fire but by shock or "detonation." Accordingly the "war-head" is provided with a fulminating cap on its extreme point, and where this strikes the explosion is started and communicated to the guncotton behind.

It is a mistake, too, to suppose that a torpedo is "fired" at a ship or other object in the same way that a projectile is aimed from a naval gun of big calibre. No; the marvellous mechanism of this long steel cigar is "told" what to do! Before it is slipped into the tube from which it is shot gently with a small charge of gunpowder the torpedo officer touches a little lever here and another there and buttons somewhere else, and the torpedo obeys. The speed it must run at through the water is regulated; also what depth beneath the surface it shall run; and after having gone so many thousand yards, whether it shall take an upward or a downward turn. Nay, still more marvellous, the delicate instrument with its terrible "message" in its head will run a certain distance and then, obedient to its instructions, which reach it by electricity from the ship, will turn right angles and run round corners, seeking out its victims. It is not too much to say that this long, slender steel envelope is as exquisitely constructed as a fine gold watch.

So dreaded were torpedoes in naval warfare some years ago that big battleships at anchor used to protect themselves from possible attack by lowering deep into the water about them a veritable fence of steel netting, which was known as the "crinoline." But, as illustrating the curious warfare of brains that goes on in the science of destruction, no sooner were these crinolines invented than the dreaded torpedoes were fitted with automatic teeth or scissors which, when they encounter the steel nets, enables them to tear or cut their way to the battleship's armored side.

NOTABLE CENTENARIANS.

The Roumanian Jew, who has recently gone home to Jerusalem after visiting his sons in Canada, at the age of 107, deserves to rank among notable centenarians. But his record is scarcely equal to that attributed by the contemporary "Annual Register" to a Jamaica woman named Mills, who died just a century ago. Her age was given as 118, and she was followed to the grave by 295 of her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and great-great-grandchildren — no fewer than sixty of whom, all named Ebanks, belonged to the regiment of militia for St. Elizabeth's parish. She had practically the art of midwifery for ninety-seven years and until within a few days of her death, and was computed to have assisted at 143,000 births.

DRAWS BIG MONEY.

There is a "prison editor" on every newspaper staff in Japan, whose duties consist in going to jail and standing trial for any offence committed by the journal. This representative of some of the more independent papers spends a large portion of his time in prison, either awaiting the hearing of his case or in serving out of the term of his sentence. Even when out of the toils he has no editorial duties to perform. His salary is larger than that of most of his colleagues, and his position is in demand. He enjoys the sonorus title of editor-in-chief, and when he is behind the bars the actual editor is classed by the journal in question as merely a contributor. Everybody, including the authorities, is fully aware of the subterfuge, but nevertheless, the trial proceeds of the imprisoned editorial dummy, who perhaps is incapable of writing a news paragraph.

NO OLD AGE PENSIONS NEEDED.

Major Powell Cotton, who left England last year on an expedition from the Nile to the Zambesi, which it was expected would occupy about two years, has had a good deal of trouble with his caravan, and news of his movements has been delayed by the murder of two of his native runners.

In one of his letters Major Powell Cotton says: "One of the Congo officials at Wadelai told me a curious story of how the natives in the vicinity dispose of the old folk when they become a burden. As soon as the infirmities of old age creep on them they are given a soothing draught and wrapped in a fresh antelope skin. Thus attired, they are carried by members of their family to a spot some distance from the village and are abandoned in the grass close to a native track. The first native passing by sees what he thinks is an antelope and spears it, whereupon the victim's family emerge from their hiding place and express horror and surprise at the unfortunate incident."

When last heard from Major Powell Cotton was in excellent health.

MRS. KERNICK CONTRADICTS THE EVIDENCE OF MRS. GIRARD

Kernick, She Says, Did Not Say That if He Had to Go to the Scaffold His Legs Would Not Tremble—Evidence In the Case Drawing to a Close.

At the conclusion of the evidence for the Crown in the Ile Ronde murder charge yesterday afternoon, Mr. J. P. Cooke, counsel for the accused man Charles Kernick, moved to have the case withdrawn from the jury, on the ground that no crime had been proved against his client, but Judge Trenholme replied that he did not see cause to interrupt the evidence, and ordered the defence to proceed.

Leocadie Legault, wife of accused, was then called to the stand, and evidently suffering much from her confinement in prison, broke down and wept at the first question put to her.

In the course of her story of the proceedings at Ile Ronde on August 3, after the departure of her sister, Mrs. Kernick said that when she saw Mitchell fording the shallow waters to Madore Island, and at the same moment sighted her husband and sister rowing away, it dawned on her that she was being left alone on the island. Then she screamed, and immediately after heard the voice of her husband enquiring what was the matter. On getting out of the boat and going towards her he had no bottle in his hand. They saw her sister row away alone, and shouted on her to return, but the reply was she was going for a row on the lake. Witness passed the night on the island in company with her husband, Mitchell remaining on Madore Island, and at day break they saw him standing there. Mitchell asked them to come and take him across, but on being told Mrs. Girard had gone off with the boat, he waded over and had some refreshments and breakfast.

After breakfast here husband went to sleep and Mitchell and herself crossed to Madore to look for a boat. They subsequently separated, each going in opposite directions with the intention of meeting in their search along the shore, for a rowboat. Before parting, Mitchell said that in the event of their being unsuccessful, he would swim to Dowker, and on approaching the point at which it had been arranged to meet, she saw him in the water on the way to that island. Just after she sighted him, Mitchell threw up his hands and disappeared.

ATTRACTED MAN IN BOAT.

On resuming her evidence this morning, Mrs. Kernick, in reply to Mr. Cooke, said she afterwards attracted the attention of John Beauvais, who was in a boat. He came to Madore Island, and she told him they had no boat to get off, and wished to go to Pointe Claire. She informed him about Mitchell, and that he had been drowned while swimming from Madore to Dowker, and showed Beauvais and a boy in the boat along with him the spot where the deceased had gone out of sight. Witness explained to those in the boat that her husband was asleep on Ile Ronde when she left along with Mitchell to look for a boat. They tried to find the body, but were not successful. Beauvais afterwards rowed to Ile Ronde to her husband, who gave her some money to go to Ste. Anne's for a boat, he remaining on the island to watch the baggage until her return.

Beauvais returned to the island about the same time, shortly after which two other men arrived on the scene. Her husband and herself rowed home, arriving at Pointe Claire about half-past four or five o'clock.

After reaching home she informed Mitchell's nephew of the circumstances attending the drowning of his uncle, adding that she had advised Mitchell not to attempt to swim if he did not feel able for it, as they had sufficient food for several days.

Witness denied telling young Mitchell that she at first thought the head she saw in the water was that of her husband.

She saw her sister in the evening at Pointe Claire. Her sister remained over night with them and they talked of the drowning, her husband remarking there would be an inquest. Her husband further said he could not yet believe Mitchell was dead, and would not until he saw the body. Nothing else was said further than that if they were witnesses each would tell what they saw.

EVIDENCE CONTRADICTORY.

Her husband did not say that the three must tell the same story, nor did he, as was alleged, say he looked like getting in a hole, but that if he had to go to the scaffold his legs would not tremble.

Brought back to the occurrences of the Friday morning, witness testified that Mitchell took off his stockings and put them into his pocket, and also took off his coat, which witness brought to Pointe Claire along with the other things. On her oath she affirmed that her husband did nothing to Mitchell at any time while they were on the island, and that they were on the best of terms all the time.

DID NOT GO INTO THE BUSH.

By Mr. Guerin—Deceased and her husband were drunk before leaving on the picnic, but could walk and knew what they were doing. She did not leave the cooking at any time to go into the bush. The cooking took more than two hours. Mitchell was away by himself nearly all of that time, witness remaining by the fire. On his return he made no remark as to why he had gone away. She positively denied having gone into the bush. Her husband did not swear at her, neither was there any feeling of jealousy towards Mitchell.

She had seen no mark on Mitchell's neck, and if anyone struck him, or he fell and hurt himself, it was after she parted with him on Madore when they went to look for a boat. He was then in good health and with no injury.

At the time her sister left the island she said nothing to witness about going, although at the time she was only about thirty feet from the fire.

"MY HANDS ARE CLEAN."

In the course of his testimony today, Napoleon Parent, who rowed Mrs. Girard to Pointe Claire after she had drifted from Ile Ronde, said Kernick's words to him on arrival were, "Well, I don't give a damn; my hands are clean anyway; that did not prevent me from sleeping last night."

Crown Prosecutor Guerin intimated yesterday afternoon that John Beauvais, one of the Crown witnesses, had not been found, and that it was stated he had gone to the United States. This witness is alleged to have seen the Kernicks at the island after the departure of Mrs. Girard, and Mr. Cooke made a motion for his appearance in court, which was taken on reserve.

WHOLESALE KIDNAPPING IS TOLD TO THE POLICE

A sensational stoy was told by Mr. Napoleon Bigras, of 1762 St. Hubert Street, Boulevard St. Denis, to the authorities of the Recorder's Court this afternoon.

Mr. Bigras entered the office of the Recorder's Court in a very excited state and informed the clerk in charge that twelve children, belonging to Boulevard St. Denis had mysteriously disappeared on Wednesday last and had not been seen or heard of since. The parents of the children feard that thy had been kidnapped, according to his statement. His own son, Joseph Bigras, eleven years of age, is one of the missing twelve.

It appears that the children attended the Boulevard St. Denis School as usual on Wednesday, and at four o'clock were dismissed and started for their homes. That was the last either the teacher or their parents saw of them. Among the missing children are:

Joseph Duplessis, nine years of age.
Eugene Duplessis, twelve years of age.
A. Trudeau, nine years of age.
Emile Cadieux, eleven years of age.
Joseph Bigras, eleven years of age.

All were living with their parents at the Boulevard.

Mr. Bigras thinks the children were abducted, because he was informed that the guardian at the St. Denis tollgate on Wednesday evening saw a waggon pass with a number of children in it. The youngsters were seated in the back of the waggon, and were evidently there of their own free will, for they appeared to be enjoying themselves immensely. The farmer was a resident of St. Vincent de Paul.

Mr. Bigras was referred to the police authorities, who will investigate the matter.

ANOTHER VERSION.

The police have been informed that a farmer took eighteen children to his farm to pick apples, and that they have not returned.

M'GILL Y.M.C.A. RE-ORGANIZATION

A meeting of the members of the McGill Y. M. C. A. was held last evening for the purpose of amending the charter of the institution and of reorganizing the association under new conditions, in view of the enlargement of the scope of operations and the establishment of the residential features at Strathcona Hall, the new headquarters of the body.

It was found upon considering the situation and the bearing of the existing rules upon the constitution that no action in the direction contemplated could be taken until the semi-annual meeting, which will be held in November.

Under the existing constitution there is no provision for the control of the residential department of the new building, and it is felt that a new charter must be framed to meet the case. This cannot become effective till November, and in the meantime the directors have appointed a provisional committee, which will have control until a permanent executive authority can be elected for the purpose.

Under the new order the association will derive funds from two sources, and it is most important that the expenditure from these shall be kept separate and distinct.

One source of revenue comes from the students who pay for residences and the other from the annual subscriptions which go to defray the current expenses of the Y. M. C. A. work proper. The residential department is expecte dto provide the revenu that would under other circumstancs have to ensue from an endowment fund, but the new departure involves a re-arrangement which will take some little time to perfect.

OUTREMONT RUGBY TEAM.

The Outremont Rugby Association will hold a meeting to-night on the Exhibition grounds at 8.15 to pick teams for Saturday.

U.S. MARSHALS ARRIVE IN CITY

Mr. George F. White, United States marshal for the Federal District of Georgia, and his assistant, Joseph L. Doyle, arrived in the city this morning. They were sent by the U. S. Government to escort Messrs. Gaynor and Greene back to Georgia to stand trial. They were met by Mr. Macmaster, who accompanied them to met Sheriff Thibaudeau and other chief officials. They will wait here until the papers calling for extraditon arrive from Ottawa. They are staying at the Windsor.

DEFENCE FOR BENNETT IS TO PROVE AN ALIBI

Some Sensational Features in Yesterday's Proceedings in Brantford Murder Trial.

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Three distinctly sensational features developed in the Bennett murder trial here yesterday. The defence brought out evidence from two witnesses to the effect that accused man was with them a few miles from the scene of the tragedy between one o'clock and a quarter past two, on the morning of the crime, when it is supposed to have been committed. Another witness, Sophie Patterson, an Indian woman, swore she had been offered five dollars by one Isaac Douglas to give evidence in Joe Bennett's behalf.

Just before adjournment Bennett himself took the stand, telling a story that agreed in almost every particular with the rest of the witnesses for the defence. The proceedings lasted from half past nine o'clock till half-past six.

PORPOISES IN QUEBEC HARBOR.

Quebec, September 29.—(Special.)—A school of porpoises came up the St. Lawrence yesterday and disported themselves in the harbor of Quebec.

MAYORALTY LIES BETWEEN TWO ALD.

Alds. Gallery and Ekers Are Likely to be Rivals for the Office

So far as present indications go the battle for the Mayoralty of Montreal next January may lie between Ald. D. Gallery, M.P., as the champion of the Irish Catholics, and Ald. Ekers as the candidate of the English speaking section of the people generally. Mr. Ekers has not yet definitely consented to offer, but there is a decided move amongst a number of his colleagues on the City Council to induce him to do so. Yesterday a formal requisition was drawn up to that effect, and circulated amongst the aldermen after the Council meeting. So far it has been signed by Alds. Sadler, Turner, Robertson, Stearns, and several others, while Ald. Clearihue is strong in support of Mr. Ekers, and states that he will sign the requisition at the earliest opportunity.

MR. C. LANE WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

No time is being lost by Mr. G. W. Stephens in preparing for his election in St. Lawrence, whether it be by acclamation or otherwise. This morning he secured central committee rooms at 1950 St. Catherine Street, in the large new store built by Mr. Senez, which will give ample accommodation for the work. This committee room will be in charge of Mr. Peter Morrison, with Mr. Savard as his French assistant. It is expected that the committee room will be open for business to-night. Other committee rooms will be secured as required.

No word of opposition has been given yet, and many of the Opposition leaders in the district openly say that it would be better not to run a Conservative candidate. Mr. Campbell Lane, who opposed Mr. Robert Bickerdike in the last Dominion elections, has been pressed to run, but firmly declined. He stated this morning that he had not heard of any move to place a Conservative candidate in the field.

C.P.R. WILL ENTER COLUMBIA BASIN

Portland, Ore., Sept. 29.—The Oregonian to-day, says: Retaliation upon the Hill lines for building the Portland and Seattle railroad to reach Portland by the water level route along the Columbia River will come in the form of new traffic agreements by which the Oregon railroad and Navigation Company will admit the Canadian Pacific into the Columbia basin, through the Spokane gateway, it is said, and through such an arrangement use it as a weapon to combat the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, their most aggressive competitors for northern traffic. By such an adjustment the present traffice agreement with the Great Northern would be abrogated and the Harriman lines would be in the advantageous position to offer Northern routing where desired, either for freight or passenger traffic, and prevent either of the rival competing roads sharing in earnings derived by such service. It is claimed that Harriman interests have found it possible to enter into a sort of offensive and defensive traffic alliance with the line across the boundary and will make the connection by means of the link now building and known as the Spokane International.

MR. PERCY QUINN GOES TO TORONTO

The following changes are reported in the staff of the Royal Insurance Company. Mr. Percy J. Quinn, late joint manager with Mr. J. Hogan at Winnipeg, has been appointed local mnaager in Toronto in succession to Mr. C. McL. Stinson, and Mr. A. O. White, formerly chief clerk with Mr. Stinson, has been appointed assistant to Mr. Quinn. About the beginning of next week Mr. Quinn will be in town, and will stay for several weeks, after which, about the middle of October, he will assume his new duties in Toronto.

Mr. John Hogan, who has been joint manager in Winnipeg, is appointed manager of the western branch of the Royal, and will be assisted by Mr. E. O. Blachford, formerly chief clerk in the Montreal office. Mr. Blatchford leaves for his new appointment by the 9.40 train to-night.

Mr. Charles Hoerner, who is well known in local sporting circles, has been appointed Queen agency clerk in succession to Mr. Blatchford.

Mr. Fred. T. Byers has lately been appointed inspector for the Alliance Assurance Company, Ltd., with headquarters in Montreal.

GUY FAWKES PLOT WAS DISCOVERED

Coalition Leaders in Hungary Had a Narrow Escape.

Budapest, Hungary, September 29.—A tin box filled with powder of some kind was found this morning under the staircase of a hotel in which the coalition leaders were meeting. The box, which is alleged to be an infernal machine, was taken to police headquarters for examination.

The fact that Count Albin Czaky, president of the Upper House of Hungarian Diet, has been summoned to an audience to-morrow is not considered here as implying that he will necessarily be invited to form a cabinet. On the contrary, there is a disposition in many quarters to believe that Baron Fejervary may be reappointed to the premiership. The latter is now understood to support the contention that Hungary has the right to establish independent customs in her territory. This has created a favorable impression.

The Nationalist students are demanding the expulsion from the university of all students of socialistic tendencies. The leaders of the coalition majority and the newspapers are doing their utmost to calm the political passions and prevent a clashing of the factions during the street demonstrations, warning the population that the reactionaries would thereby be given a pretext for oppressive action.

COTTON INTERESTS UNITE TO DEMAND HIGHER TARIFF

Claimed at Meeting To-Day That British Manufacturers Owing to Working Conditions Can Outsell Canadians on Their Own Market—Drew Up Memorial to Tariff Commission

The Canadian cotton companies, including the big Dominion Textile Co., the Montreal Cotton Co., and the Canadian Colored Cotton Co., have decided to make a united effort to get higher protection. An informal gathering of the different companies interested was held to-day, and arrangements were made for the drawing up of a complete memorandum of the conditions that confront the cotton companies in Canada and urging the absolute necessity of higher protection, especially on the finer classes of goods.

The meeting developed that some of the companies had prepared statements showing just what thy had to contend against as compared with the cotton companies in England who, they claim, are just about swamping Canada with their goods.

In addition to submitting the memorandum to the tariff commission on its approaching visit, it is intended that a delegation of the leading cotton interests should wait on Hon. Mr. Fielding, and in a discussion point out more clearly the conditions that make it very difficult for the Canadian companies to make a fair profit on the finer classes of cotton.

In course of conversation with a large cotton interest, The Herald inquired whether the big saving effected by having the most important of the larger cotton companies merged into the Dominion Textile Company had not resulted in placing the industry on such a basis that the big company could successfully compete with the English manufacturers.

The answer was that it had not and the following explanation which it is intended should be included in the memorandum to be submitted to the Tariff Commission, was given.

"In the first place" said the cotton interest, "the difficulty we have to get operators is unknown in England. At Manchester, England, for instance, the cotton industry is the only important one and when girls start going out to work, they immediately go to the cotton mills. Here in Canada there are so many other kinds of work much less trying than that called for in the cotton mills.

"Then again, most of the hands of our cotton companies are country girls and in the summer months just when the mills are busiest they go off and and leave the mills for a month or two.

"Then again there is the cost of fuel which in Canada is very much higher than it is in England.

"Further it is doubtful if there is any other industry that requires such a heavy capital expenditure to secure all the necessary machinery as the cotton industry.

"While it is true that the cotton mills have been fairly busy during the past few months, it has not been possible for them to meet the competition of the British and American companies in the finer lines and make any profit on their output.

Many of the cotton men are far from being high protectionists, but actual conditions in the trade show that the same assistance given many other industries should also be extended to the cotton industry."

DIRECTORS ARE MERE FIGUREHEADS

New York, September 29.—Jacob H. Schiff, head of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, bankers, of this city, and formerly a director of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, was the first witness called before the legislative life insurance investigating committee to-day.

Mr. Schiff said that he had become a director of the Equitable Society in the latter part of 1893 or the first part of 1894. His firm had had dealings with the society for a quarter of a century prior to that time.

The question of the propriety of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., dealing with the Equitable Society, occurred to him and he took counsel upon the matter and was advised that there was nothing to prevent his firm from properly maintaining such relations. He was a director of the Society four or five years before he became a member of any committee of it. Then he was made a member of the Finance Committee.

Mr. Schiff stated that the position of director in large corporations in New York, and he presumed elsewhere, was a negligible quantity. If any executive officer wished to conceal anything from the directors he could easily do so and the director under prevailing conditions, is powerless to prevent any irregularity.

Mr. Schiff testified that the Equitable was in the hands of the executive officers, and he had no way of knowing more than these executive officers chose to tell him.

He refused an election to the executive committee because of the relations of his firm to the society. This, witness said, was because he thought it would be improper for him as a member of the executive committee to pass upon any dealings his firm might have with the society.

MAYOR APPROVES OF THIS DELAY

Discussing the difficulty over the appointment of a gas expert to examine as to the correctness of the city figures regarding the cost of gas, Mayor Laporte said this morning that he would assume full responsibility for the delay in the consideration of the matter by the Council until Monday week, when it would be the first order of the day.

"This delay is necessary," he said, "to give the Council and committee time to get the conditions and terms of the various experts and also find out their qualifications.

"I ask, would any reasonable man in his own business appoint a man recommended by a New York lawyer or by friends of his own, without first getting satisfactory evidence that the man was capable, honest and not interested in the business in any way

"And the same with regard to their fees. Would any business man engage a gentleman from Toronto and give him carte blanche to look into his affairs, and make such change as he thought fit? No one would, and I think Ald. Robertson did no more than his duty in demanding this delay.

"If the committee acts in the meantime it can easily get matters in such shape that a nomination must be made on Monday week.

Then by October 15th or 20th, Council should be in position to let the people know the exact figures as to the cost of gas production and distribution here. If they do not it will not be my fault, and I hope none of the aldermen will take any steps to cause delay in this important matter."

ST. HENRI CANNOT BEGIN ERECTION OF ABATTOIRS

At a meeting of the St. Henri Town Council, last night, an injunction was served upon the members, by Mr. Bazin, advocate, enjoining them to abstain until October 2, from passing a proposed resolution having for its object, consent to the erection of public abatoirs and a public market within the limits of the municipality. A dozen citizens signed the document.

A chief objection to the proposed work was that it would delay annexation with Montreal, being a new civic burden, and thus against the understood agreement between the city and St. Henri.

G. T. B. CLUB AT HOME.

The ladies' auxiliary, to the Grand Trunk Boating Club will hold their closing "At Home," on Friday evening, October 6th, at the club house. Mr. Cooper will preside at the piano.

CITY MUST OPEN MACKAY STREET

Mr. Justice Sir M. M. Tait this morning handed down judgment in the case of Dame L. M. Macaulay vs. the City of Montreal, in which the plaintiff, wife of Mr. Charles Cushing, asks for the opening and expropriation of Mackay street from Dorchester street south 120 feet. His Lordship decided that the city must proceed with the work, and ordered a mandamus to that effect, the contract to be finished by December 1st.

On May 11, 1905, the Legislature ordered the city to open the street on or before July 1, 1905, and to finish the work within a year; the alleged delay was protested by the plaintiff in the case, and on June 26 the Finance Committee claims, the work was ordered to be done. So far, it is held, nohting has been done of consequence. Now, commissioners will be appointed and the opening and expropriations gone on with immediately.

INCREASE CAPITAL BY FOUR MILLION

The shareholders of the Mexican Light and Powr Company, at a spcial meeting held at the Bank of Montreal at noon to-day, ratified the plan of the Board of Directors to increase the capital stock of the company by $4,000,000. The capital has been $12,000,000 and it is intended that it should be increased to $16,000,000.

The increase in capital is being made to enable the company to put through a deal by which it secures control of the two largest remaining lighting companies in Mexico.

The Mexican Electric Light Company, a subsidiary company with a capital of $6,000,000, was formed to take over these two companies, but the entire stock in this company is held by the Mexican Light and Power Company.

It is intended that only a portion of the issue authorized to-day will be made at present.

The reports from the company's representatives in Mexico indicate that the big Montreal enterprise is meeting with great success.

Mr. Alex. M. Langhton, of Melbourne, Australia, is in the city to-day on his way back from a visit to his native town in the north of Scotland. Mr. Langhton expresses himself as much pleased with the freer life in Australia, but he has not forgotten the heather hills of old Scotia. Mr. Langhton, who has been very successful in life insurance in the colony, leaves to-morrow via Toronto, Chicago and 'Frisco, for home.

THE NOSE KNOWS.

He who smells woods' smoke at twilight knows the glamor of the wild,
Understands its fascinations—how its lovers are beguiled.
He who snuffs the scents of Autumn and the fragrance of the pine,
Feels primeval wildness in him—but another song is mine:—
Winding down the rugged mountain with a deer, my guide and I,
Hardly knowing where our camp is, toiling on with grunt and sigh,
Hold! what savor floats to meet us, borne upon the evening breeze,
Sweeter than the spice of hemlocks, or the balm of good, green trees?
'Tis a savor from the tropics, from the gurgling, hissing spout
Of the camp cook's pot of coffee, panting now to be poured out.
Whiff! The load we bear seems lighter, Whiff! That's sweeter than the rose!
No more need of eyes nor compass—move your feet and chase your nose.
'Tis a day of sport well ended, when a chap can take his ease
With his cup of CHASE & SANBORN'S and his supper on his knees.

DECLINE OF IRISH PIG DUE TO COMPETITION

Effect of Competition by Canada and Denmark Has Been Sadly Felt.

Nine years ago the pig population of Ireland was 1,404,586, and in 1905 it has declined to 1,164,322.

As England is the great market for the product of the Irish piggeries, this decline must naturally tend to raise the price of pigs' meat in this country, says a writer in the London Daily News. Mr. James O'Mara, the member for South Kilkenny, pointed out that the decline was due to competition. Twenty years ago, he said, the pigs killed by the firms of Limerick, Cork and Waterford ranged from 15,000 to 20,000 per week. Now the killings of these firms have fallen to from 5,000 to 10,000 a week.

In 1885 the Danes did not kill more than 5,000 a week; now they kill from 25,000 to 40,000 weekly. There were no killings in Canada twenty years ago, while now they amount to from 25,000 to 35,000 per week. Ninety per cent. of the Danish and eighty per cent. of the Canadian curings come to the English market.

The Canadian can grow his hog for 32s. per cwt. and the Dane for 35s. per cwt., dead weight, while the Irish breeder says he cannot profitably grow his pig under 40s. per cwt. The question of freight also comes in. Mr. O'Mara says that from their packing house in Palmerston, Canada, his firm can bring bacon to London for 34s. per ton. Without cold storage in the winter months the freight from Canada is 20s. per ton. The freight from Limerick to London by any route is 34s. 2d. per ton. The average freight from Denmark to London is 25s. per ton.

COALITIONISTS ARE GROWING STRONGER

People of the Hungarian Provinces Flocking to Their Standard

Budapest, September 29.—There is no abatement of the popular unrest. The Socialists gathered in front of the Imperial Club, but the police prevented disorder. Reports from the provinces show increasing support for the coalition party.

The coalition leaders, realizing the decided anti-Magyarian tendency of many influential persons, are losing no opportunity to strengthen their position. Francis Kossuth demands the union of all Hungarian parties "for the defence of the Hungarian constitution," and it is believed that a private meeting of deputies, which has been called for October 2, the day before the great convention, may formulate plans to secure such a union.

It is learned that the condition of Count Goluchowski the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, is so shaken that he will resign with in a few weeks.

Commanding officers of regiments in various sections of the country have refused leaves of absence to officers until the situation becomes clearer.

AUDIENCE WAS UNSUCCESSFUL.

Vienna, September 29.—Emperor Francis Joseph received in audience Baron Fejervary, the former Hungarian premier, and Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian minister. The next steps of the Emperor are awaited anxiously.

Baron Fejervary's audience of the Emperor proved a failure, according to an Austrian authority close to the court. The Baron insisted upon a plan to defeat the Hungarian coalition by the introduction of universal suffrage, but His Majesty was not willing to accept such a radical measure.

Baron Fejervary returned to Budapest this evening. It is expected that the Emperor will call another statesman to form a cabinet and carry out his programme.

M. Polonyi, vice-president of the Hungarian independent party, in an interview in Freie Presse to-day attributed to German influence the opposition of the Emperor-King to the demands of the Hungarian coalition. He concluded with the threat that if Hungary can no longer find support among the Germans she must look in the direction of the Slavs.

RIOTS AT UNIVERSITY.

Budapest, September 29.—The excitement among the students led to riots at the university. Three students with Socialistic tendencies were attacked by Nationalist students and roughly handled. Afterwards some 800 Nationalist students marched to the hospitals, visiting those who were injured during the rioting previously.

NEWFOUNDLAND PULP INDUSTRIES UNDER WAY

London Publishers Take Over the Timber Estates Property—The Harmsworth Works.

St. John's, Nfld., September 29.—The Herald learns that Mr. H. J. Crowe wired the Timber Estate Co. in this city recently that the negotiations for the acquisition by a London Syndicate of the Exploits, Glenwood, Gander and New Lands lumber areas, to be the basis of a pulp enterprise as large as that of the Harmsworths, were finalized and the necessary documents signed. The Syndicate is headed by the Pearsons; the great rival of the Harmsworths in the publication of papers and magazines in England, and Coates & Co., the famous bankers, who have acted for this colony in certain financial transactions in the past. The syndicate puts up a substantial sum to despatch experts here at once to report on the forest growth and the water powers of the areas in question, and if these are as represented—and of this there seems to be no doubt—operations of a practical character will be started as soon as spring opens and the erection of the mills pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

The Harmsworth Company will not operate their saw-mills at Millertown the coming winter, because (1) it is intended to move the mills from there to Grand Falls, and (2) the logs cut last winter will be all used in building the big dam for the pulp mills. The company have surveying parties already at work delimiting the watershed, and are also building a branch railway from the main line of the R. N. C. to the area at Grand Falls, where all their mills will be located. This railway will be finished before the snow comes, and the expeditious moving of material there will thus be assured.

Brockville, Ont.—George Edwards, of Prescott, obtained a verdict of $1,000 against the Prescott Car Ferry Co., for injuries sustained while in the capacity of fireman and deckhand on one of the company's steamers. He lost a leg by the negligence of the captain in making a landing at Ogdensburg. So the jury decided.

STE. CUNEGONDE FOR ANNEXATION

Council Passes By-Law But Will Get a Free Library First

By a unanimous vote the Council of Ste. Cunegonde last evening adopted the by-law providing for the annexation of that town by the city of Montreal, which has already passed the second reading in the City Council.

The motion for the adoption of the by-law was made by Councillor L. Hamelin who expressed the opinion that amalgamation with the larger city was in St. Cunegonde's interests and said that he felt sure the majority of the proprietors of the town would agree with him. He thought that council should adopt the by-law and leave the final settlement in thehands of the property holders.

Councillor A. Geoffrion, who seconded Councillor Hamelin's motion, said that, though there had been some opposition to the annexation by-law as first proposed he thought the citizens of St. Cunegonde would be glad to see it adopted in its present form and he understood that most of the proprietors were in favor of the scheme. The matter would, of course, have to be settled by the proprietors themselves, who would be given an opportunity of voting on the question. If they expressed themselves as in favor of annexation, there was nothing for the council to do but accept Montreal's offer.

Councillor Viau took objection to the wording of a part of the by-law but when the clause had been explained he withdrew his opposition and the motion was carried unanimously.

A PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Another item of important business transacted at last night's meeting was the adoption of a by-law providing for an expenditure of $1,000 for a free public library. Councillor Geoffrion who had proposed the by-law, stated that in view of the fact that annexation to Montreal was almost accomplished he thought it highly important that Ste. Cunegonde should have such an institution. A hall had been set apart in the new civic building for such a purpose. It had been used for the Recorder's Court but when the annexation took place it would no longer be needed as a court room and could be utilized for its original purpose. He thought the citizens of Ste. Cunegonde should be able to enjoy the same privileges as Montrealers had in the Monument National library.

The by-law was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Several other items of minor business were brought forward for consideration and dealt with by the council.

Those present at the meeting were Mayor C. P. Fabien and Councillors Jos. Marcotte, T. Cardinal, V. Viau, L. Hamelin, A. Geoffrion, A. Chretien, H. Henault and Secretary Grissee.

MRS. SPAIN HAS ENTERED ACTION FOR ALLOWANCE

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—The troubles of Commander Spain, Mrs. Spain and Captain Salmon have been brought into court by a county court action commenced on behalf of Mrs. Spain. In this connection Commander Spain was examined for discovery yesterday afternoon. In January, 1904, Commander and Mrs. Spain separated, and by the agreement made at the time Mrs. Spain was to receive $840 per annum. The commander claims that at the time the agreement was signed it was definitely agreed, though not so written in the bond, that Mrs. Spain was not to associate any more with Captain Salmon. It is alleged that this understanding has not been adhered to. Commander Spain paid one or two of the quarterly amounts, but on the ground that Mrs. Spain had broken the understanding as regarded Captain Salmon, he refused to pay any more. Legal action was then started by Mr. W. B. A. Ritchie, Halifax, trustee for Mrs. Spain to recover the $210 for the first quarter which Commander Spain refused to pay.

SALVATIONIST LEADERS GATHER IN MONTREAL

The Colonization Plans of the Organization Fully Discussed

The arrival here of the head of the Salvation Army in Canada, of Col. Coomb; the chief secretary of the organization, Col. Pyle; the international auditor, Col. Bates, and the transportation agent, Brigadier Howell, is regarded as a most important event in Salvationist circles.

These officers have been fully conversant with the developments in connection with the St. Louis disturbances, which they regard as quite novel experiences in connection with the proceedings and meetings that are held now—experiences for which parallels can only be found in the early days of the Army, before its objects and efforts were fully understood.

These officers will hold council with the local executive with regard to these matters, and they will at the same time deal with the general business of the organization, and ascertain how the different corps are working, and what results are being accomplished.

So far as colonization is concerned—a subject to which a great deal of attention has been directed both before and since the visit of Mr. Rider Haggard to this country and the United States, the officers say their hands are stayed at the moment. No action can be taken pending the report of the Royal Commission appointed to enquire into Mr. Haggard's project for the establishment of colonies of persons who find a precarious existence in the large centres of population in the United Kingdom. The springs that move the machinery of Royal Commissioners are slow in action, and as the Army would not be likely to undertake extensive colonization of this character without government co-operation the movement may be said to be held in abeyance until such time as the Commission presents its report, and the Imperial authorities act upon it.

NEW COLONIES.

The Army has established colonies at Fort Amity, in Colorado; Fort Romie, in California; and Fort Herrick, in Ohio, without assistance outside its own resources, but the financial results that have been obtained from these experiments are not of a character that would encourage the central executive embarking on larger projects of a like character, unless the British Government became a participator in the financial obligations that would necessarily have to be assumed.

The three American settlements have demonstrated that much good may be accomplished by the planting of these colonies so far as the reclamation and moral rehabilitation of the individual are concerned, but the work is by no means uniformly successful. Some are found adaptable to ameliorate processes and some are not.

CANADIAN COLONIZATION.

What the Army organization has in view as regards colonization in Canada is the selection of one or two fairly large areas where settlements might be established under Army government on somewhat paternal principles, with strict discipline under governors. New Ontario had been thought of as being likely to furnish a locality that would be suitable for this purpose, and so had the Northwest.

Prairie settlements were, however, open to the objection that they did not offer facilities for the employment of the people in the winter months for enforced idleness was bad for regenerative process. In New Ontario there would be the clearing of the forest land in the winter months. The difficulty as regards the Northwest might be overcome by the establishment of industries, but it was a matter that would require much careful consideration before action was taken.

THE WORK IN AUSTRALIA.

Col. Pyle, the chief secretary in an interview with a Herald representative, today, gave particulars regarding a phase of work that has achieved important results in Australia. He has just returned from that large field of endeavor where he has been engaged in Army work for eleven years.

The problem of the unemployed in Australia has given the Army, as well as the governments of the different states, a great deal of concern. The army has done much to help the governments in this direction, but the special sphere in which its success has been beyond all question very remarkable, is the reformatory field.

"We have," said Col. Pyle, "a number of land colonies upon which we have planted establishments for reformatory work among the boys and girls. We stretch out our hands to save the young criminals and teach them, discipline them, and fit them for industrial pursuits; with the result that there are now no government reformatories in these states.

"Do you mean that the governments relieve themselves of their responsibilities with regard to young criminals by handing them over to you?" the Colonel was asked.

"That is how it is," was the reply. "We get a capitation allowance in respect of each child handed over to us by the reformatory departments of the states. Instead of maintaining institutions of their own the government send their young criminals to us.

"We have a number of large estates for industrial purposes in Australia. We have, for example twenty thousand acres near Perth in West Australia, a thousand acres in Victoria, two estates in Queensland aggregating four hundred acres.

AIM TO BE SELF-SUPORTING.

"Our aim is to make the reformatory systems as far as possible self-supporting. Competent staffs are employed to train and educate the children, and we keep them until they reach the age of eighteen, after which they are sent out, and a record is kept of their conduct. Where they relapse into criminal habits they are returned to us again, but when their conduct is satisfactory they are left entirely free to follow their own course of life—to do what they conceive best for themselves after they get a start.

"Our young charges are simply looked upon as wards of the states. We classify them according to age and conduct—those who are least hopeful are placed in the lowest grade; those who seem fairly amenable to authoritative discipline in the next, and the most promising in the highest class. We have a model farm at which agriculture is taught on scientific principles—ensilage systems with the best modern silos for the treatment of feed for cattle and the like.

"The boys and girls are kept in separate institutions. At one establishment we have as many as 130 boys classified as I have just explained. We have three homes for girls, which accommodate about 150, and there we train them for domestic purposes. The demand for domestic help, I may explain, is just about as keen in Australia as it is in Canada.

"The reports of the reformatory departments submitted to the parliaments of the colonies show that we save fully 80 per cent. of the children who pass through our hands."

Col. Pyle went on to describe other spheres of activity in which the army was doing good work — uplifting the fallen by rescue work, maternity homes —about seventy such homes there are altogether, scattered over the Australian states. There are also a number of Metropoles, or lodging-houses, where the unemployed are fed and lodged. One in Sydney is capable of accommodating seven hundred. The unemployed question is one of the most difficult that has to be dealt with in Australia. People cannot be dissuaded from congregating in the large centres. Col. Pyle thinks that it is the reckless land policy of the early days that is responsible for this in a large measure —a policy that gave over hundreds of thousands of acres of the best soil to individual squatters or sheep farmers from whom the Government is now obliged to buy it back in order to settle people upon it. But notwithstanding all that the Government can do to promote settlement by advancing money on loan on these re-purchased lands, and notwithstanding that a great interior is awaiting settlement, there is great difficulty in getting the idlers out of the towns where they loaf about and spend their days without occupation and without prospects of any kind.

Speaking of the work done by the Army in Australia as compared with Canada, Col. Pyle said that in a spiritual sphere the results here were probably greater in Canada, but as regards what was being done in the social sphere the Dominion could not compare with Australia, but that was mainly because Australia's needs were greater.

TROUBLE AT SPRINGHILL MINES IS SETTLED

Halifax, N.S., September 29.—(Special.)—The management and mechanics at Springhill Mines have adjusted their differences amicably as follows:

The firemen are to receive 16 1-2 cents per hour; the water tender 17 1-2 cents and the men at No. 5 hoisting engine at the Aberdeen slope, 18 cents. All these rates are straight and not subject to any percentage. No. 5 Locomotive engine is to be a main line engine in future. The men have returned to their position and relieved the officials.

It is needless to say that all classes are pleased at this settlement.

MR. F. H. M'GUIGAN DENIES THE RUMOR

A rumor has been current to the effect that Mr. F. H. McGuigan, of the G.T.R., would shortly retire from the position of manager of transportation in order to confine himself solely to the duties of the fourth vice-president, and that Mr. W. G. Brownlee, superintendent of the middle division of the G. T. R., would be promoted to the office of manager.

Mr. McGuigan yesterday denied this rumor, saying there was not a vestige of truth in it.

SHERIFF HATFIELD DEAD.

St. John, N.B., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—D. B. Hatfield, sheriff of Kings County, died Thursday afternoon at his home near Norton Station. He had been in failing health for some time. Sheriff Hatfield was about sixty years old, and was appointed sheriff about ten years ago, and was a careful and obliging official. He leaves a large family, most of his children living in the States.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Mr. C. L. Farnsworth, of Compton, and who celebrated his ninetieth birthday four weeks ago, died on Wednesday evening. He was Compton's oldest citizen. He was secretary of the township of Compton for many years, retiring some twelve years ago.

REV. PROF. HOWARD TO PREACH.

The Rev. Prof. O. W. Howard, of the Diocesan Theological College, preaches at the Harvest Thanksgiving Service in St. Mark's Church, Longueuil, on Sunday next, Oct. 1st, in the morning, and the Rev. Dr. Symonds, of Christ Church Cathedral, preaches in the evening.

BUT THE CLOCK WAS FAST.

A famous minister, himself a strict Sabbatarian, used to tell with kindly humor a story of a farmer in the Carse of Gowrie, in Scotland, who was still more strict.

This farmer arrived home late one Saturday night with muddy boots. Requiring the same boots for the morrow, he set his housekeeper to clean them immediately. Twelve o'clock striking, he loudly called upon her to stop.

"But," said she, "there's only one of them cleaned."

"Never mind," said her master; "it's Sabbath morning." And to kirk he went next day with one shiny and one muddy boot.

The minister used to add, with a merry twinkle, that the best of it was that the farm clock was ten minutes fast.

DEATH FOLLOWED TRAIL OF TYPHOON

Later Reports Increase the Number of Deaths and Loss of Property

Manila, Sept. 29.—Reports now coming in from places along the path of the recent typhoon in the Island of Luzon and the southern islands indicate great loss of life and property. In the waters surrounding Samar and other islands, many coasting vessels and island transports have been wrecked. The coast guard cutter Leyte is a complete wreck and eleven Americans and twenty-four natives were drowned.

At the town of Sorsogon, fifteen natives were drowned.

The loss on hemp plantations is estimated at $1,000,000.

The army transport Juan Rodriguez is ashore at Legaspi.

In the interior of the island of Samar thousands of natives are homeless and the same report comes from many of the other small islands.

The army posts in the southern islands have been destroyed.

The civil and military authorities are rushing aid to the suffering people in the form of supplies of food and shelter.

Owing to the destruction of the telegraph system, reports received from other points are very meagre.

DOYLE'S SENTENCE DEFERRED.

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—Felix Doyle will not be arraigned for sentence until after the conclusion of the Bennett case. It is possible that sentence will not be passed on him until after all the cases are completed. Should the jury render a verdict of guilty in the Bennett case it is likely that the same course will be pursued in regard to him.

His counsel, Mr. Baird, states that he intends to appeal to the Judicial Department for leniency in the case of Doyle, owing to his weakness of mind. No steps of course will be taken until after sentence is passed.

DEMAND FOR PORT.

Old Time Wine Again Finds Much Favor.

That the consumption of wines, spirits, and beer has decreased considerably in the United Kingdom during the past few years is a matter of common knowledge, says the London Daily Mail.

To many causes has this been ascribed, notably to a wave of temperance that is said to be spreading over the land, and also to bad trade and the consequent scarcity of money.

Yet, strangely enough, there is reported a notable increase in the consumption of port—not the old heavy port so much as the lighter kinds that have been kept in the wood.

"I have been told by many persons," said one of the principal wine merchants in London, "that doctors are recommending this light port, and it is now being used extensively as an after-dinner wine in houses from which port had been banished for years.

"Sherry, of course, is still on the down grade, and the increasing popularity of port may, and probably is, wresting from it what little favor remains.

"People," he added, "are losing their fears of the lighter kinds of port as a gout producer; but, on the other hand, liqueurs, which have enjoyed an extensive consumption, are falling under suspicion as 'aids to digestion.' The one exception perhaps is liqueur brandy. That is more than holding its own as a 'safe' liqueur."

WATER AND HEALTH.

Next to fresh air itself, there is nothing more important to health than a plentiful supply of pure water, internally and externally. A man can live but a few minutes without air, only a few days without water—a week or so at most—he can go for 40 days or more without solid food.

If a man should really abstain from drinking water for eight days, his body would be in such a condition that nobody could approach him. The human being is a mass of untold millions of cells, each one carrying on its own separate processes of eating and drinking and breathing, and each dependent upon the cleansing supply of water carried through the body in the blood, or applied externally through the pores. The free use of water within and without—constant bathing with plenty of soap, and the drinking of two quarts of pure water or more every day—will do more for health than any other agency except careful deep breathing.

A GREATER LOSS.

A few years ago a contractor undertook to widen a railway in Yorkshire and while the men were at work one day a serious landslide occurred. There was much confusion, and the cry went up, "Count the men."

"Never mind the men," cried the thrifty contractor, "Count the wheelbarrows."

SHE WAS SAFE.

On a car going to Coney Island the other day an Irishman got on who was badly under the influence of liquor. Strange as it may seem, he got a seat and made himself quite offensive to some people around him, especially to an old lady who sat near him. When the conductor came around for his fare this old lady jumped up and said: "Conductor, do you allow drunken people on this car?"

"No, madam," replied the conductor, "but sit down and nobody will notice you."

NOT WHAT SHE MEANT.

A Brooklyn woman dropped into a neighbor's house the other day. There was nobody at home, and she wrote the word "Slouch" in the dust on the piano. Meeting the poor housekeeper later she said: "I called at your house, but you were not at home." "Yes," replied the neighbor, "I found your card."

THE HALIFAX DRY DOCK.

The imperative necessity of the establishment of a dry dock adequate to the utmost requirements of the traffic upon the St. Lawrence route is not in the least affected by the fact that the port of Halifax has already a dry dock capable of receiving any steamers at present plying on the St. Lawrence. We regre that our failure to mention the Halifax dock when dealing with the St. Lawrence situation should have led the Halifax Chronicle into the belief that we desired to ignore it, for we had no such intention. The Halifax dock is an extremely important institution—to the marine business of the Maritime Provinces. Unfortunately it is not of any great significance in connection with wrecking in the Gulf and river channel of the St. Lawrence, because it is separated from it by several hundred miles of the most difficult open-sea navigation in the Atlantic. To reach it after an accident on the St. Lawrence, there must be made the most thorough temporary repairs that are possible, while the hull it still immersed, and when these have been made it is still an open question whether the run to Britain does not involve less risk than that to Halifax. The financial advantage of heading for a coast where dry docks are numerous and charges therefore competitive, and where there is no possible danger of having to wait for accommodation, needs no emphasizing. The net result of all these considerations is that the Halifax dry dock is probably of less value to St. Lawrence navigation than those of Glasgow and Liverpool—certainly not of any more.

The Halifax dock is at present occupied by the Bremen, which according to the marine expert of a Halifax paper "almost completely fills the dock." The Bremen is 550 feet keel, which is larger than the Allan turbiners, but slightly less than the vessels now under construction for the C.P.R.'s Atlantic service. The total length of the dock is 596 feet. The whole tendency of Atlantic shipbuilding is toward 600 foot and 700 foot vessels, and when the improvements now under way in the St. Lawrence channel are completed there will be no reason why vessels of over 600 foot keel, which are now considered very much the most economical type, should not ply to the port of Montreal. The Halifax dry dock would be of little use to such as these even if it were geographically convenient, and therefore its existence does not affect the necessity for another and larger one on the St. Lawrence route. In asking this we are not claiming that the commercial future of the country includes only the port of Montreal. We are simply asking that Montreal should be enabled to do its share in promoting that commercial future.

HOW TO KILL I.C.R. REFORM.

If there are any people who are harder to please than the Maritime critics of the Intercolonial Railway we have yet to find them. The Halifax Herald on Tuesday published in contiguous parallel columns the two following comments on Mr. Emmerson's management of that road:

"If Mr. Emmerson's promised 'reform" consists in trying to increase the income, rather than in cutting down the needless expenditures of the road, then the Minister is on the wrong track, and he had better go back to the station of business common sense and make a fresh start. The chief reform that is needed is the cutting down of needless expenditures.

And:

"A week or two ago, Mr. Emmerson and his newspaper accomplices announced that he had taken the Intercolonial employes into his confidence, and was about to effect great savings in the operation of the road. The next thing that happened after this spread-eagle announcement was the discharge of seven car-cleaners—old employes and widows whom it was a crime to discharge while they could furnish needed and efficient service. That is the sort of 'reform' Mr. Emmerson is giving."

This is the customary method of the lower classes of political journalism when in opposition, and at times becomes the method of a whole party. The Laurier Government has been attacked on both sides of the same question by its Conservative opponents so often of late, especially since the attacking party ceased to have any coherency of its own, that the public has come to understand that such attacks are the best possible certificates of moderation and wisdom. It must be confessed, however, that it is not often that inconsistent criticisms appear, not at different ends of the Dominion, but in the same paper, in the same column and on the same day.

In matters political this sort of thing is, as we have said, a standing temptation to all Oppositions and the peculiar vice of the present disjointed Opposition in the Federal Parliament. The regrettable thing about these Intercolonial criticisms is that they are concerned with a matter that is not politics but business. The Maritime Conservatives are showing that they would give their eyes and ears, if need be, to render Mr. Emmerson's reforms on the Intercolonial abortive. If they correctly gauge the character of the community to which they cater, as that of a people given over to patronage, place-hunting and the pursuit of Government pap, they may achieve their object. If, on the contrary, those of the Maritime people who are not hide-bound opponents of all that bears the name of Liberal are anxious, as we believe them to be, for the Intercolonial to be placed on a footing that will eliminate all thought of its lease to private interests, they will be less worried about the abolition of unnecessary posts than pleased at the prospect of business-like management.

The Liberal press of the Maritime Provinces can afford to set an example to its confreres in this matter. The city of Moncton, for example, will doubtless profit extensively by the process of centralizing the Intercolonial's business, a policy which when carried out will be in accordance with general railway practice all over America. We could wish that the Moncton press would bring itself to regard this as a purely business-like and natural movement, rather than as a piece of magnificent generosity to Moncton. The latter view is apt to disturb the equanimity of other portions of the Provinces, which have really infinitely more to gain than they can possibly lose by having the Intercolonial run as practically as possible. Mr. Butler, who is responsible for the general outline of all Mr. Emmerson's changes in Intercolonial policy, is a railway man and not a politician; nor is he in the least likely to care a rap about the advancement of Moncton at the expense of St. John or Halifax, or vice versa. If the Maritime press will confine their criticisms to the effect of his operations upon the Intercolonial as a whole, they will be advancing the interests of the entire district served by the railway, and indeed of all Canada. If in addition, critics will bear in mind that Mr. Butler was the creator of the Montreal Locomotive Company's plant, and is probably, outside of present and past general managers of the great roads, the best railway man in Canada to-day, they will be more inclined to assume that he may understand some things which they do not.

AN IMPERIAL ASPECT OF THE NEW TREATY.

Apart from the general satisfaction and the general confidence in the maintenance of peace that have resulted from the new Ironclad compact between Great Britain and Japan, the Commonwealth of Australia and the British Australasian colonies have special grounds for gratification that the treaty is so firm and comprehensive. The advantages to the commerce of every nation trading with the Far East are so obvious and palpable that they need hardly be emphasized. In the benefits that will accrue Canada, both now and in the future, may be expected to be a large participator, for when the Grand Trunk Pacific is built and its steamship affiliations established on that ocean, and the fruits of her new commercial arrangement with the vigorous Oriental power come to be gathered, an enormous impetus will be given to her trans-Pacific trade. Australia too has a commerce which she is sedulously cultivating with greater wisdom than has been displayed in some other features of her national policy, but Australian grounds for rejoicing are not limited to commercial considerations. In view of her isolated position, remote from the rest of the Empire, in view of her slow and rather uncertain growth and in view of the restrictive settlement conditions, which retard her advancement, it is in the highest degree desirable that the relations between Great Britain and Japan should be of the most cordial character.

It may be remembered that when the war was in progress, when victory after victory rewarded Japanese courage and strategy, and when every movement of the islanders was crowned with success, Russian statesmen, Russian diplomats and the Russian press drew lurid pictures of the danger to humanity and to British possessions in particular that would arise from the establishment of an all-powerful yellow [illegible], with enormous potential energy and boundless ambitions in the Far East; and with special emphasis they expatiated upon the menace to Australia. These gloomy predictions found but little sympathy anywhere and none at all in Great Britain, where they were regarded as devices resorted to merely for the purpose of arousing suspicion against Japan whose triumphant course had excited the admiration of the world; but in Australia they provoked uneasiness among certain sections of the people. Responsible statesmen were not slow to allay the fears that were beginning to be entertained, and their efforts were so successful that little has been heard on that score lately. Nothing can be more calculated to remove apprehension from the Australian mind, to dissipate alarms that were probably entirely groundless than a treaty such as that which has been successfully negotiated between Japan and the United Kingdom. Japan will find abundant scope for the energies of her people in the activities that will be created in Corea and in promoting the development of Chinese provinces that have been stagnant for centuries. She is not likely to direct her eyes so far afield as Australia.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Another proof that unsubsidized steamships will seek the port where the dock accommodation and wharfage dues are comparatively the best and most reasonable is afforded by the stoppage of the Allan direct service between Glasgow and New York. The steamships will not be laid up, but they will go to increase the service towards those rival ports which offer the most inducement to the freight carrier. The present condition of the port of New York seems to suggest that it has reached the limit of its business expansion compatible with the present methods of handling transhipment. Terminals within the area in which transhipment can be profitably carried on are reaching a prohibitive price, and the risk attendant upon the increase of shipping business in the waters leading to them is becoming very high. It is possible, however, to push the limit of expansion a good deal further off again by the application of scientific devices. The bridges and tunnels now in course of construction from Manhattan Island will once again reduce the risk of traffic in the adjacent waters; and improvements of transportation on the island itself are extending the area available for the transhipment district.

Gratitude that the Fire and Light Committee has reached the stage of seriously considering the appointment of a gas expert is so strong as almost to stifle all minor criticisms. Therefore we do not feel inclined to complain very seriously because the committee is apparently paying more attention to the nationality than to the qualifications of the two men—both of them at first glance excellent nominations—whom it is considering. We have not very much sympathy with this constant worrying over the nationality of men to be employed on purely temporary and special pieces of work in which the question not only of qualification but of authority is of the highest interest. The industry of raising consultative experts in all branches of science is not one for which the Canadian market offers a specially promising field; it is not large enough, and it is neighbor to a vastly larger one. It is perfectly natural that New York should be headquarters for scientific experts such as the city requires for its gas question; and to make it an objection to a candidate that he is not a Canadian, if he excel in the scientific requirements, seems a little insular.

Bank of British North America.

There is not a more conservative bank in Canada than the Bank of British North America, that great financial institution whose stock is divided into shares of fifty pounds sterling each, and whose "Court of Directors" has just submitted to the "Proprietors" the report which was published in The Herald a couple of days ago. Yet the Bank of British North America is wide awake to the call of the Canadian West, and the most interesting item in the report, in the light of The Herald's recent disclosures of the apathy of too many Montrealers toward that part of the country, is the announcement that of the four new branches opened in the half year two were at advance points in the Manitoba grain district and one at a similar point in British Columbia. This gives the bank a very strong connection in the growing districts. The customary half-yearly dividend at the rate of six per cent. per annum, which has prevailed since 1900, takes $146,000 out of an available balance to profit and loss account of $192,257.77. The reserve account, which three years ago was only thirty-six per cent. on the capital, is now about forty-two per cent. The assets of the bank are of an extremely conservative character, and appear in almost exactly the same proportion, though in a slightly larger total, as they have for years past. Bills receivable and loans on security account for $28,000,000 out of a total of $44,000,000 and $12,000,000 is in the shape of cash on hand or at call.

Leveson-Gower's Reminiscences.

Frederick Leveson-Gower tells this reminiscence of Robert Browning: "At one party he and I were the only men, which brought us into close contact. He was in high spirits and at luncheon became rather boisterous. He afterward said to me: 'I know I am too noisy, but I cannot help it.' I, perhaps somewhat unadvisedly, urged him not to control nature, for the absence of all pose in so celebrated a poet seemed to me most refreshing. I certainly on one occasion wished he had been more controlled. I had become acquainted at Paris with M. Lanfrey, the author of a history of Napoleon, a work I greatly admired. I had consulted my sister-in-law, Lady Marian Alford, who promised to meet him, as to whom else I should invite. She suggested Browning, who, she said, besides being an author of great repute, spoke French admirably. He came, was very noisy and spoke the most abominable French."

Of John Ruskin he writes: "The dean of Durham tells that by degrees Ruskin formed at Oxford valuable friendships. This was not my impression. He seemed to keep himself aloof from everybody, to seek no friends and to have none. I never met him in any one else's room or at any social gathering. I see him now, looking rather crazy, taking his solitary walks. I cannot say that I have ever felt the enthusiasm with which Ruskin inspired so many of his contemporaries. No one can fail to admire the beauty and eloquence of his writings and his exquisite drawing. But I have felt great misgiving about the soundness of his judgment."

A clever reply of Mrs. Grote, wife of the historian, recorded by the same diarist: "She was fond of chaff. One day Mr. Reeve complained of the road leading up to her house being so steep that his fly could hardly get up it. Upon which she remarked that he had probably had with him the last number of the Edinburgh Review, of which he was the editor."

The Boston Musicians.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, which plays at the Victoria Rink on Monday, will arrive in this city on Sunday evening in its own special train direct from Boston, and leave again for Toronto immediately after the performance Monday night. There is some disappointment that two rush programmes will prevent any social entertainment of the conductor and members, but it is necessary in order to fill engagements. The sale indicates a record-breaking audience for this first concert in Montreal by one of the world's leading orchestras.

The Wrong Place.

(Moonshine.)

A man went into a chemist's shop and bought a bottle of some patent stuff, which was advertised thus:

No more Coughs.
No more Colds.
Is. 1 1-2d. the Bottle.

Three days later he went to the chemist, complaining that his throat was stopped up, and that he could scarcely breathe. "I've drunk all that patent cough mixture," he said.

"Drunk it?" yelled the chemist. "Why, that's an India-rubber solution to put on the soles of your boots."

HE KNEW.

Mrs. Benton Holme—See, Charley, what a sweet smile there is on baby's face.

Benton Holme—Yes; I guess he's decided to wake up at 3 a.m. and make me walk him the rest of the night.

Kiss Me.

(Chicago Chronicle).

Kiss me, ye winds of the upper air
Touch me on brow and cheek;
Weary am I and distraught with care,
Comforting, to me speak;
Kiss me ye winds of the upper air,
Bring me some meed of cheer:
Caught am I in the net of despair,
Come as the night draws near.

Kiss me, ye dews of the dusky night,
Gems of the soothing calm;
Dampen my hair in the moonlight white,
Bring my heart a balm.
Kiss me, ye dews of the dusky night,
Soothingly give your dole,
Faltering down from the silver height,
Comfort my tired soul.

Kiss me, my love, my dove, my sweet,
Lean from your lattice, do,
Out on the beaches the soft waves beat
And the night doves coo and coo.
Kiss me, my love, my dove, my sweet,
Swiftly the present slips,
Fleet are the hours and years are fleet,
Give me your warm red lips.

English as She is Wrote.

The London Daily News has been collecting from its readers for several weeks choice specimens of "English as she is wrote," mainly of the continent of Europe. Here are some of the samples:

A correspondent sends us this inimitable example copied from the menu at a Swiss hotel: "At this hotel the wines leave the traveller nothing to hope for."

Another correspondent writes: I was in Frankfort the other day, and was fumbling in my pocket for a match, when a waiter said, "Vait one meenit, and I vill bring ze fire," and when I looked up inquiringly he added, "No, no; I mean I vill bring ze grate."

In Hyeres last winter a Frenchman who wished to draw the attention of the English visitors to the fact that the paint on his shop-front was wet translated, "Prenez garde de la peinture" as "Take care of the picture."

A correspondent writes: The following notice I found in my bedroom at the Hotel de Geneve, in Genoa: "The lamentations of the waiters are obliged to be made to the bureau." And the ensuing notice at the Hotel Metropole, in Venice: "Visitors are prayed into dinner when the bell rings that they may not disturb the order of the service."

The following has been copied from a Paris hotel advertisement, on Calais Station: "Quite a peculiar animation resides at this fashionable spot of Paris. In the rear the Grand Opera of a splendid architecture on one side the Grand Hotel, entirely made afresh and in a more extensive way is the meeting of all the strangers of distinction."

The following appeared on a notice-board on a garden wall in St. Clement's Road, Jersey: "Any dog found in this graden the proprietor of the dog paid £1 sterling for each times."

Here is a gem taken from an English version of a guide book entitled "Through Noord-Holland," quoted by Mr. E. V. Lucas in his "Wanderer in Holland":

"The billowing (at Zaandvoort) is strong and strengthening. . . . the ponnies and asses have a separated standing-place, whilst severe stipulations warrant the bathers for trouble of the animals and their driver.

"For were not it those large extensive quiet heatheries those rustling green woods and those quiet low meadows which inspired our great painters to bring their fascinating landscapes on the cloth?"

"In front of the pavilion at the Hout at Haarlem stands a casting of Laskson and his sons to a knot, which has been manufactured in the last centuries before Christ. The original has been digged up at Rome in 1500."

A Brief Editorial.

(Westminster Gazette.)

It was not very long before important journals went in for leading articles, which have remained an institution ever since. In them all "we" still holds up its head as high as ever. Probably the briefest leader extant was the one written by Mr. William North during the struggle over the Liquor Laws in the State of New York. His instructions were to make it as short as possible, but at the same time powerful and to the point. How well he carried out his instructions is evidenced by the fact that the article consisted of a single sentence: "We had far rather see the world get drunk of its own free will than one man kept sober by compulsion." Its author received £4, or nearly 4s. a word, for this production—probably one of the largest fees yet paid for journalistic "copy" of such brevity.

NO FRIEND OF HIS.

My friend Jones got intoxicated the other night and went home and shot at his mother-in-law five times. When I saw him in jail I said:

"Do you call liquor your friend when it makes you shoot at your mother-in-law?"

He replied: "Liquor is no friend of mine. It made me miss her."

The Standard.

Issue No. 2 of The Standard will be ready for the trade at 9 a.m. Saturday, 30th. It will be utterly impossible to fully fill anything like the orders booked, but with additional facilities arranged for we will have much larger supplies than of the first number.

The features of the first issue of The Standard have jumped into popularity and have developed in an interesting way, as will be seen when the readers get the second issue. The enormous number of letters received at The Standard office would seem to indicate a growing interest in the new paper.

In the second issue, the first instalment of the insurance article will appear, an interesting interview with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, and a very fine bill of fare.

Some gentlemen who have had the privilege of seeing the proofs of the second issue suggest that with such interesting material it would be a good idea to encourage readers to open scrap books and then have an exhibition of scrap books in the winter with a series of prizes for the best books.

PLATES OF OLD CANADA.

To impress, we repeat to our readers that on no account should they miss these plates as they will form the most interesting series ever issued in any city. These plates will probably culminate in the issue of a grand picture of modern Montreal and modern Quebec, so it is important to make the series complete that each plate should be secured. It will be utterly impossible to furnish back numbers, so patrons must look to it that they do not miss any of the plates.

The newsdealers generally report a phenomenal demand for The Standard. Announcements from four well known dealers below will be read with interest as samples of orders from upwards of five hundred vendors.

To my Customers:

I had a demand on Saturday for at least a thousand more copies of The Standard than I could manage to buy. I believe the publishers of The Standard are doubling their facilities, and I will be in a better position on the second number, this week. The supplies I had on Saturday were all sold in a couple of hours. The Standard took the people by surprise. Everybody wants The Standard. I will be doing business at the old stand, rain or shine, next Saturday, and will be glad to hand out The Standards to my customers.

WORLD PUBLISHES FULL APOLOGY

Regrets Publication of Articles Reflecting on Montreal Aldermen

Toronto, Sept. 29. — (Special.)—The World publishes the following article on its front page this morning:

"In the months of May and June last the Toronto World published a series of articles on the question of extension of the Montreal gas franchise, which was at that time before the Montreal City Council. The articles in question were written by a staff correspondent, who went to Montreal with instructions to investigate the proposition in all its aspects, and give a full portrayal of the municipal situation. These articles cast aspersions upon the French-Canadian section of the Montreal City Council, which were entirely unjust. The World was led to believe that the report it received of the situation was an accurate portrayal, but it is now ascertained that there was nothing to justify the singling out of the French-Canadian aldermen for such adverse criticism.

"The World is now in a position to say that some of the articles in question did an injustice to the Montreal City Council, and particularly to Aldermen L. A. Lapointe and L. Payette. The World had no desire whatever to unfairly misrepresent the conduct, demeanor or character of any member of the Montreal City Council, and in so as it questioned the integrity of the above-mentioned gentlemen, it cheerfully retracts the personally offensive statements and regrets their publication.

"The World understands that an article purporting to give an account of a typical meeting of the Montreal City Council was particularly objectionable to the members of that body. It seems that the author of the article in question gave his pen altogether too much license in dealing with the deportment of the aldermen in session. As a matter of fact, the Council meetings in Montreal are as orderly and mannerly as could be desired.

"It is to be regretted that articles which were printed wholly on public grounds, should have contained statements or references, derogatory to the personal characters of Aldermen L. A. Lapointe, Payette, Robillard, Couture, and other members of the Montreal City Council.

"These explanations the World makes in fairness to the above gentlemen."

BRYAN'S PARTING WORD TO THE PRESIDENT

Tells Mr. Roosevelt to "Go Forward" or See the Leadership Pass to Some One Else.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 29.—W. J. Bryan has written another letter to President Roosevelt, which was made public last night. He says in part:—

"To President Roosevelt:

"Permit a parting word. You have the contest of your life before you, and I desire to render you all the assistance in my power. You have asked Congress to enact a law so enlarging the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission as to permit it to fix and enforce a reasonable freight rate, and the railroad lobby was strong enough to stop in the Senate the bill passed by the House. The railroad magnates expect to block the passage of the bill again.

"Stand by your guns! You have developed a reform element in the Republican party. You must lead it or suffer the humiliation of seeing the leadership pass to some one else.

'Go forward! You owe it to yourself, you owe it to your party and, more than all, you owe it to your country."

MASTER PRINTERS FORM A NATIONAL GUILD

Newspaper Publishers and Employing Printers Met at St. Catherines and Formed Association.

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—At a meeting of about sixty newspaper publishers and employing printers of Canada here, yesterday, at the Welland House, it was decided to form a National Guild of Master Printers. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws.

Mr. R. W. Dillon, of St. Catharines, proposed that the Guild be run in connection with the Canadian Press Association, but an amendment that it be an entirely independent organization was carried.

MAYOR OF NELSON, B.C., HAS BEEN LOCATED

Living in Nevada Mining Camp and is Working as Journeyman Printer.

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—J. Houston, the Mayor of Nelson and M. P.P. for this constituency, whose whereabouts has been unknown for some time, has been located in a Nevada mining camp working as a journeyman printer. He is $5,000 behind in his accounts here, and his return is improbable, so vacancies in the Mayoralty and the Provincial House are imminent.

PLEASANT MOMENTS.

It has been said with a great deal of truth, that you can never really become acquainted with a man until you have supped with him.

In order to ensure a pleasant time good tea must be used. During the past five years "Salada" has become a familiar word to every newspaper reader, and, judging from the immense consignments which are being sent out every day, "Salada" Ceylon and India Tea must be just as familiar in the homes. In the face of keen competition that has arisen since it was first put on the market in the package form, the fact that the demand is steadily increasing requires no comment; it tells its own story. "Salada" is King.—Adv.

GOOD PROSPECTS OF SETTLEMENT.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—The mass meeting of underground workers of Nanaimo yesterday afternoon has, it is hoped, resulted in bringing about a better chance to settle the mine trouble than has heretofore been the case, as for the first the men have come together and a committee, without regard to the union, was formed to enter into negotiations with the management of the Western Fuel Co., with full power to make a settlement on an honorable basis.

RUSHING WORK ON G. T. P.

Winnipeg, Sept. 29. — (Special.) — About 130 miles of G. T. P. road west of Portage la Prairie is now under subcontract and the work is being pushed forward with all possible speed. All these contracts will be completed early next spring, and the grade will easily reach Touchwood Hills by mid-summer. The Doukhobor community has contracted for one of the heaviest portions of the Grand Trunk Pacific construction and will put a thousand men and a hundred teams on the job.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH OPENED OCT. 1

On Sunday, October 1st, the English Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will use its new church on Mountain Street for the first time. The Rev. J. C. F. Rupp, Morrisburg, Ont., who took the initiative step in establishing the congregation, will occupy the pulpit at both services. At the evening service the pastor will also be assisted by the Rev. E. Jestinsky, of the German Lutheran Church.

The property of the congregation is located on Mountain Street between St. Catherine and Sherbrooke streets (No. 365). It was recently purchased from the Mathews estate for the sum of $17,500. It is centrally located and in a quiet neighborhood. These two things combine to make it a splendid place for a house of worship.

Extensive repairs have been made in the dwelling by contractor J. B. Johanson. The entire ground floor has been transformed into a fine hall. An altar, baptismal font, pulpit, hymn boards, lectern, crucifix, gown, church book, carpets, etc., have all been presented to the congregation.

Up to this time the congregation has had a steady growth and fulfilled a long felt need in the city.

LONGUEUIL AMATEUR ORCHESTRA.

The first concert of the Longueuil Amateur Orchestra will be held on Wednesday, October 4, in the Town Hall at Longueuil. A most interesting vocal and instrumental programme has been arranged and, from present appearances, this first effort of the amateur orchestra promises to be crowned with success.

Those who will take part in the programme are: Misses C. Lalonde, A. Lalonde, A. Gareau and M. Brais, and Messrs. R. Crawford, D. Ameye, C. Lavallee, J. A. N. Pruneau, J. St. John, the Offenbach quartette and the Longueuil orchestra.

HIGHLAND CADETS.

The engagements of the Highland Cadet Battalion, for next week, are Monday, October 2, recruits; Wednesday, October 4th, Battalion drill, no uniform. A meeting after drill to arrange for the purchase of punching bags, etc., for the armoury for the winter months' amusements. All are requested to attend. Saturday, Oct. 7th, gymnastic drill. Battalion. No uniform. Fred Lydon, Major.

A LIFE-SAVING COAT.

A London tailor has invented a new life-saving coat and gaiters, with which it is possible for a person clothed therein to maintain an upright position when immersed in the water, even if not possessing any knowledge of swimming. The coat resembles in appearance an ordinary pilot coat; but it is fitted with an air belt, which is inflated with air through a tube. The gaiters each weigh two pounds, and are fitted with two brass wings or blades fastened to the back of the heel. As the wearer moves his feet in the water these wings open and shut, and not only propel the wearer along like oars, but enable him to maintain an upright position from the waist upward in the water. A practical demonstration of the utility of the invention was recently undertaken in the River Thames by the inventor, and its efficiency and life-saving qualities clearly shown, even when moving against the tide.

Toronto.—Justice Falconbridge gave judgment ratifying increases in rates by Royal Arcanum Supreme Council.

Cobalt, Ont.—The third monster silver nugget has been found in the Timmins mine. It weighs 160 pounds. Mine managers are having difficulty in stopping the stealing of silver.

THE HERALD'S PUZZLE DEPARTMENT

FIRST WEEK

A Dutchman with a goat and a goose met a milkmaid leading a cow, whereupon the maiden screamed with terror.

"What frightens you?" asked Hans.

"You are going to kiss me against my will," said the coy maid.

"How can I do that with these cranky animals on my hands?" asked Hans.

"What prevents you from thrusting your cane into the ground so as to fasten the goat to it and then put your goose under my pail?" queried the maiden.

"Because that cross-looking cow might hook me," said Hans.

"Oh, that fool cow wouldn't hook nobody, and what is to prevent you from driving all three of them into my pasture field?" replied the terrified maiden. And right here comes the most interesting puzzle, for deriving the subsequent discussion following the facts developed: They found that the goat and the goose together would eat just as much grass as the cow, so if that field would pasture the cow and the goat for 45 days, or the cow and the goose 60 days, or the goat and the goose for 90 days, how long would it pasture the cow, the goat and the goose? Early replies are requested, as Hans and Katrina are contemplating a speedy partnership.

STILL THEY COME.

The Puzzle Editor is "pleased to report" another big batch of replies by to-day's mails. The contestants have evidently been telling their friends who have not heretofore been readers of The Herald, and they in turn have been after copies of the paper to try their luck.

To-day we received a reply from our friend Robt. Guy, of Camden East, Ont., and he says our puzzle is contradictory, and he concludes by saying that it is true that the goat and the goose will eat as much as the cow, but not in the same time as the data requires.

Miss Ethel Harris, of Elgin street, has worked the problem out at great length, and brings it down to 15 days. The other extreme is reached by Charlie McKeown, who makes it out to be 195 days.

Hundreds of our friends have fixed on 40 or 45 days as the correct answer, and hundreds of others get it either 32 1-2 or 36. There is still another day to get coupons, but remember to have your final solution at The Herald office by noon on Monday.

Answers not on Coupon as printed below will not be counted.

Mr. Loyd has prepared a series of volumes comprising a complete collection of his marvellous works, and we offer 25 of these parts each week to those sending in the best answers.

Competitors may send in as many answers as they wish, but each answer must be on a coupon cut from The Herald.

Each puzzle will appear every day for a week. The correct answer on the Monday following and the prize winners on Tuesday of each week.

USE THIS COUPON FOR YOUR ANSWER.

AMUSING MISTAKES.

In his reminiscences Mr. Leveson-Gower records some amusing mistakes both of meaning and of language. Dr. Jowett, the cynical Master of Balliol, who was a confirmed old bachelor, was thunderstruck one day by a young lady's urgent appeal to him to marry her. "It would make me so happy," she murmured, "if you would consent." "My dear young lady," he gasped, "I cannot tell you how touched I am by your proposal; but—but I've long given up all thoughts of marriage." The lady burst out laughing and exclaimed, to the master's immense relief, that she wanted him to marry her—to someone else.

An amusing incident happened one day when we were out shooting partridges at Ashbridge. Count Szechenyi, a pleasing Hungarian, slightly shot one of the beaters. This made him say to Lady Marian at dinner that he was grieved to have shot a peasant. She, understanding him to say a "pheasant," and to apologize for having shot one in September, said, "Oh, it doesn't matter. We'll eat him.'

It was this Lady Marian Alford, by the way, who made the following witty defence of her extravagance to a friend who charged her with "burning the candle at both ends." "But surely this is the way to make both ends meet?"—From "T.P. in His Anecdotage," in "T.P.'s Weekly."

Fort William, Ont.—The Town Council have appointed a committee to memorialize the Ontario Government, protesting against the closing and sale of the West Fort jail. A letter was sent to Hon. Mr. Hanna, setting forth fully the position of affairs and asking a reconsideration.

THE WAY WE DO IT.

THE development of this business is more than satisfactory to us, as merchants. We sell so many really good things, some people imagine our prices must be high, and we do so many unusual things, that others again insist that we can never make a profit. But everybody doesn't figure the possibilities arising out of the combination of two such stores as ours in Montreal and Toronto. Instead of paying profits to others, we manufacture any quantity of goods for ourselves and give them to you at first cost. That is one way prices get down here.

To show our ability to produce good suits for little money, we offer on Saturday THESE COSTUMES AT $16.50. They haven't anything to noticeably distiguish them from others at very much higher prices.

Their style is positively correct.
We perfect their fit.
The material is all wool.
What more is required?

A new sleeved, collarless coat of 7-8 length, trimmed with silk, side pleats from wrist to elbow, back pleated and nicely fitted at the waist; a skirt that is perfectly plain to the knees and pleated from there down all in Navy, Black and Brown Homespun. Saturday, $16.50.

EARLY FALL COATS.

Enough for everybody---from Germany and elsewhere, particularly mentioning one for Saturday's selling at $15.00.

Castor Worsted—loose back tucks—inverted pleats—stitched trimming—lined throughout.

THE NEW COUNTESS SHOE AT $3.50.

When we determined to add to our business the selling of Shoes, we knew how vitally important it was for us to begin on right foundation.

And ordinary shoe wouldn't do.

So we had to have one made on purpose for us.

We call it "The Countess."

If you can buy a better fitting, better wearing, better looking or more comfortable Shoe for $3.50 than The Countess, we know that we cannot expect your business.

MILLINERY ACTIVITY.

During the last few days we have been preparing a large number of very beautiful hats to be shown Saturday for the first time. Stylish little toques and turban effects and many new conceptions that are just charming. They will all be marked most moderately and we expect them to sell freely.

THAT SALE OF GLOVES AT 75c.

Saturday will be the last day for this particular glove sale. Possibly it will be the best opportunity for sometime of getting a real $1.25 or $1.50 French Suede Kid Glove in the shade you want---and such a fit---for 75c.

THE VEILING WE SELL AT 25c A YARD.

This year we will sell the same quality of veiling for 25c a yard that was sold last year at 35c.---not because you paid too much then but because we can buy better now.

THE FASHIONABLE RIBBON BOW.

We'll make up ribbon bows for nothing on Saturday and charge you less than usual for the ribbon that's in them. New bows---new knots---new ribbon---in rich plain liberties and taffetas as well as in handsome fancy novelties---Some will only cost you 40c, others up to $1.25.

A MOVEMENT IN THE BASEMENT.

For the last two months our basement has been filled with a collection of Japanese ware that has been very much admired and very freely sold. The time has now come when we need the basement for other purposes and so from Saturday on many of the Japanese goods will be sold down there at prices far below actual value.

$3.50 and $4.50 Japanese China Vases, $2.19.

Japanese China Vases, tall, graceful shapes decorated with Jap figures in red, traced with gold. Lines that sell in the regular way for from $3.50 to $4.50 each. On sale Saturday, $2.19.

This Store open daily from 8 a.m. till 5.30 p.m.

The ceremony was private, only immediate relatives attending. Afterwards a reception was given in Lady Thompson's home, St. Joseph Street. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. John Thompson, of Ottawa, was gowned in dep cream duchess satin, made with perfectly plain gored skirt and train, hand embroidered down the seams. Valenciennes and rose point lace was used in the trimming of the crushed shirred satin bodice. The groom's gift, a topaz brooch, with pearl and diamond setting, together with a turquoise and pearl necklace, the gift of Lord and Lady Aberdeen, were worn as ornaments, and a bouquet of roses and lillies of the valley was carried. Over all was draped a veil of tulle, wreathed with white heather and orange blossoms. The bridesmaids, Miss Helena and Frances Thompson, sisters of the bride, wore exquisite dresses of palest pink crepe de chine, with silver girdles, and pretty little sailor hats of pink velvet. GOVERNMENT MAY FAVOR BRITISH BUSINESS MEN

But Principle of the Commercial Traveller Tax Will Not be Dropped.

The commercial travellers' tax formed the subject of discussion yesterday with Hon. J. C. McCorkill, provincial treasurer, and a small delegation from the British Agents' Association. In answer to their suggestions, Mr. McCorkill replied that, so far as he could ascertain, the law was working to the advantage of Canadian houses, and no apparent reason existed why the principle should be disturbed.

"We believe the principal of the law to be good," said he, after the conference, "and the tax will not be abolished. Several of their suggestions on matters of detail will, however, be examined, when I shall be most happy to receive any information on the subject, from any source, so that ample justice may be done to all. It is possible, too, that something may be done to give the British agent a certain advantage over foreign competitors, but this is merely a suggestion. It is not likely that the law will be remodelled."

Among others, at the Government offices to see the minister on various subjects were Messrs. Joseph Morin, M.L.A. for St. Hyacinthe; Godfroi Langlois, M.L.A. for St. Louis, and J. L. Decarie, M.L.A. for Hochelaga.

HERALD DAILY PATTERN

SIMPLE NIGHT DRESS FOR A YOUNG GIRL.

Pattern No. 1195. Sizes 10 to 16 years.

It is far more economical to make muslin underwear at home than to buy it ready made. The material is better and it is more carefully put together and the factors that contribute to its wearing qualities. This square yoke night dress is a style that a French mother uses for her daughter's ordinary gowns, selecting a firm but soft muslin and trimming only with a little fine embroidery or a frill of narrow lace. The collar is rolled back over the neck and the sleeves are gathered into narrow cuffs and finished with ruffles. Buttons and button holes fasten the front easily and securely. Young girls can readily learn to make these simple garments for themselves and it is excellent practice for them when they wish to make more elaborate ones. This pattern is also very well adapted to those soft, warm outing flannel night-gowns which are so comfortable for the cold winter nights that are coming. For a girl 14 years old 4¼ yards of material 36 inches wide will be necessary, with 2 yards of embroidery to trim as shown. The pattern, No. 1195, is cut in sizes for girls from 10 to 16 years of age, and may be obtained, post paid, by sending ten cents, the number and size desired, and the name and address to The Fashion Department of this paper.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Quebec and One in Beauport, Que.

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, ovarian troubles, ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, leucorrhœa, or perhaps irregularity or suppression of "monthly periods," causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

Women who stand on their feet all day are more susceptible to these troubles than others.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Mlle. Alma Robitaille of 78 rue St. Francois, Quebec, Que., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Overwork and long hours at the office, together with a neglected cold, brought on a very serious female trouble until finally I was unable to go to work. I then thought of a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when her health was in the same condition that mine was, and straightway sent out for a bottle. I finished that and took two more before I really began to improve, but after that my recovery was very rapid, and I was soon well and able to go back to work again. I certainly think your medicine for sick women worthy of praise, and am indeed glad to indorse it."

Miss Clara Beaubien of Beauport, Quebec, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For several years I have suffered with Leucorrhœa, which has been a serious drain on my vitality, sapping my strength and causing severe headaches, bearing down pains and a general worn out feeling, until I really had no desire to live. I tried many medicines, but did not get permanent relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In two months I was very much better and stronger, and in four months I was well, no more disagreeable discharge, no more pain. So I have every reason to praise the Vegetable Compound, and I consider it without equal for the ills of women."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

COULDN'T AGREE ON A GAS EXPERT

Majority Wants Canadian but Minority Hangs Out for New Yorker.

Another abortive meeting of the Fire and Light Committee was held yesterday afternoon in a vain attempt to settle upon an expert to report upon the figures of the civic officials regarding the cost of a municipal gas system. A good deal of feeling has arisen over the matter, and it is suggested by several members that more things than the capability of the two aspirants for the position have been taken into account. In fact Ald. Proulx accused Mr. Parent, superintendent of light, of having unduly supported Mr. Merrifield, the Toronto expert. Mr. Parent asked permission to reply to this at yesterday's meeting, and specifically denied having done anything of the kind.

The result of the meeting was that things were left exactly in statu quo, there being only five members present, just as at the last meeting, and each stuck to his candidate, with the natural end that no report could be made.

A motion made by Ald. Duquette at last meeting was annulled as it was made after three o'clock. Ald. Duquette then again moved that Mr. R. W. Prosser, of New York, be engaged as expert to report on the gas question. Ald. Walsh immediately moved in amendment that Mr. L. L. Merrifield, of Toronto, be engaged for this work.

Ald. Walsh—Of course you understand the reason for this amendment.

This stirred Ald. Proulx to merriment and he was promptly called to order. Ald. Walsh proceeded to say that members of the committee should take cogniaznce of the fact that Mr. Merrifield was a Canadian doing business in Canada. It was also noteworthy that not long ago a report of Mr. Merrifield's had been the determining cause of a decrease of the cost of gas in Toronto from $1.25 per thousand to eighty cents.

Ald Duquette supported Mr. Prosser on the ground that he had succeeded in getting the cost of gas at Indianapolis reduced to sixty cents per thousand.

Ald. Walsh replied that it was ridiculous to go out of Canada when competent men could be got just as cheaply here—the Americans were never found coming to Canada for experts if they could get them at home. He was surprised to see a good National Policy Conservative like Ald. Proulx wanting to do such a thing.

Ald. Walsh's amendment in favor of Mr. Merrifield was then put to the vote, but failed to get the necessary four supporters, Alds. Sauvageau, Walsh and Robertson voting for and Ald. Duquette and Proulx against it. The main motion in favor of Mr. Prosser, of New York, was defeated on the same division.

Therefore no recommendation could be made to Council, much to the disgust of Chairman Robertson, who, discussing the affair afterwards said he could not understand why the minority of the committee were so obstinately determined to get the New York expert, when a well known Canadian could be got at least as cheaply.

THE STANDARD.

The Standard for this week is announced for early Saturday morning. The publishers secured outside facilities to enable them to add fifty per cent. to their output, and yet the whole issue was over-sold to the trade by yesterday noon. It is not only in Montreal that the Standard has created a furore, for we hear that it is in brisk demand throughout the country.

EXTENDING LONG DISTANCE PHONES.

Montreal people who spend their vacation in the vicinity of Ste. Agathe and Ste. Adele will be interested in knowing that telephone facilities are being greatly extended in that section. The Bell Telephone Company has lately completed a long distance line to St. Marguerite Village, with an office also at St. Marguerite station. The Bell Company will also complete lines to Lac Charlebois and Las des Isles in the near future.

MANY KILLED IN FEUD.

London, Sept. 29.—A despatch to the Express from Lisbon says that a long feud between the villagers at Estrabar and Abrigada, near Oporto, resulted in a serious fight with firearms and other weapons. Troops were despatched to Oporto to quell the riot. When they arrived the fighters, who included many women, fled, leaving five dead and thirty-four seriously wounded. Many who escaped were badly injured.

LICENSE TRANSFER WAS NOT GRANTED

At yesterday afternoon's sitting of the License Commissioners, the Court gave effect to the application of the Canadian Brewing Company in regard to the proposed transfer of the H. Gariepy license to J. Labelle, the opposition to the granting of which was based on the fact that while the other creditors were to receive only seventy per cent. of their claims against the bankrupt estate of Mr. Herschorn, Gariepy under a clause in the bill of sale to the gentleman, had taken back the business and was being satisfied in full of the amount due him.

Prior to the judgment being delivered Judge Choquet read the following section of the licensing act:

"Subject to the provisions of this law as to removals and the transfer of licenses, every license for the sale of liquor shall be held to be a license to the person therein named only and for the premises therein described, and shall remain valid only so long as that person continues to be the occupant of the said premises and the owner of the business there carried on."

An application was under consideration for the transfer of the Savoy Hotel license, from Mrs. John Howard to Mrs. Theoret, in connection with which Mr. R. A. E. Greenshields, who appeared for the applicant said that Mr. F. X. St. Charles had purchased the assets of the hotel for $15,815, and besides satisfying the privileged creditors in full, had paid the ordinary creditors twenty-five per cent. Mr. St. Charles was now anxious to have the license transferred to Mrs. Theoret who would continue to conduct the business.

On behalf of the creditors the transfer was opposed and judgment was reserved until Monday so that the Commissioners might have opportunity of examining the contract.

The Brethren

CHAPTER THIRTEEN.

THE EMBASSY.

The brethren and Rosamund looked at each other, for having so much to say it seemed that the could not speak at all. Then with a low cry Rosamund said:

"Oh! let us thank God, Who, after all these black months of travel and of danger, has thus brought us together again, and, kneeling down there together, in the guest-hall of the lord of Death, they gave thanks earnestly enough.

Then, moving to the centre of the chamber where they thought that none could hear them, they began to speak in low voices and in English.

"Tell your tale first, Rosamund," said Godwin.

She told it as shortly as she could, they listening without a word.

Then Godwin spoke and told her theirs. Rosamund heard it, and asked a question almost in a whisper.

"Why does that beautiful dark-eyed woman befriend you?"

"I do not know," answered Godwin, "unless it is because of the accident of my having saved her from the lion."

Rosamund looked at him and smiled a little, and Wulf smiled also. Then she said:

"Blessings be on that lion and all its tribe! I pray that she may not soon forget the deed, for it seems that our lives hang upon her favor. How strange is this story, and how desperate our case! How strange also that you should have come on hither against her counsel, which, seeing what we have, I think was honest?"

"We were led," answered Godwin. "Your father had wisdom at his death and saw what we could not see."

"Ay," added Wulf, "but I would that it had been into some other place, for I fear this lord Al-je-bal at whose nod men hurl themselves to death."

"He is hateful," answered Rosamund, with a shudder; "worse even than the knight Lozelle; and when he fixes his eyes on me, my heart grows sick. Oh! that we could escape this place!"

"An eel in an osier trap has more chance of freedom," said Wulf gloomily. "Let us at least be thankful that we are caged together—for how long, I wonder?"

As he spoke Masouda appeared, attended by waiting women, and, bowing to Rosamund, said:

"It is the will of the Master, lady, that I lead you to the chambers that have been made ready for you, there to rest until the hour of the feast. Fear not; you shall meet your brethren then. You knights have leave, if it so pleases you, to exercise your horses in the gardens. They stand saddled in the courtyard, to which this woman will bring you," and she pointed to one of those two maids who had cleaned the armor, "and with them are guides and an escort."

"She means that we must go," muttered Godwin, adding aloud, "farewell, sister, until to-night."

So they parted, unwillingly enough. In the courtyard they found the horses Flame and Smoke, as they had been told, also a mounted escort of four fierce-looking fedais and an officer. When they were in the saddle, this man, motioning to them to follow him, passed by an archway out of the courtyard into the gardens. Hence ran a broad road strewn with sand, along which he began to gallop. This road followed the gulf which encircled the citadel and inner town of Masyaf, that was, as it were, an island on a mountain top with a circumference of over three miles.

As they went, the gulf always on their right hand, holding in their horses to prevent their passing that of their guide, swift as it was, they saw another troop approaching them. This was also preceded by an officer of the Assassins, as these servants of Al-jebal were called by the Franks, and behind him, mounted on a splendid coal-black steed and followed by guards, rode a mail-clad Frankish knight.

"It is Lozelle," said Wulf, "upon the horse that Sinan promised him."

At the sight of the man a fury took hold of Godwin. With a shout of warning he drew his sword. Lozelle saw, and out leapt his blade in answer. Then sweeping past the officers who were with them and reining up their steeds, in a second they were face to face. Lozelle struck first and Godwin caught the stroke upon his buckler, but before he could return it the fedais of either party rushed between them and thrust them asunder.

"A pity," said Godwin, as they dragged his horse away. "Had they left us alone I think, brother, I might have saved you a moonlight duel."

"That I do not want to miss, but the chance at his head was good if those fellows would have let you take it," answered Wulf reflectively.

Then the horses began to gallop again, and they saw no more of Lozelle. Now, skirting the edge of the town, they came to the narrow, walless bridge that spanned the gulf between it and the outer gate and city. Here the officer wheeled his horse, and beckoning them to follow, charged it at full gallop. After him went the brethren—Godwin first, then Wulf. In the deep gateway, on the further side they reined up. The captain turned, and began to gallop back faster than he had come—as fast, indeed, as his good beast would travel.

"Pass him!" cried Godwin, and shaking the reins loose upon the neck of Flame he called to it aloud.

Forward it sprang, with Smoke at its heels. Now they had overtaken the captain, and now even on that narrow way they had swept past him. Not an inch was there to spare between them and the abyss, and the man, brave as he was, expecting to be thrust to death, clung to his horse's mane with terror in his eyes. On the city side the brethren pulled up laughing among the astonished fedais who had waited for them there.

"By the Signet," cried the oficer, thinking that the knights could not understand, "these are not men; they are devils, and their horses are goats of the mountains. I thought to frighten them, but it is I who was frightened, for they swept past me like eagles of the air."

"Gallant riders and swift, well-trained steeds," answered one of the fedais, with admiration in his voice. "The fight at full moon will be worth our seeing."

Then once more they took the sand-strewn road and galloped on. Thrice they passed round the city thus, the last time by themselves, for the captain and the fedais were far outstripped. Indeed it was not until they had unsaddled Flame and Smoke in their stalls that these appeared, spurring their foaming horses. Taking no heed of them, the brethren thrust aside the grooms, dressed their steeds down, fed and watered them.

Then having seen them eat, there being no more to do, they walked back to the guest-house, hoping to find Rosamund. But they found no Rosamund, so sat down together and talked of the wonderful things that had befallen them, and of what might befall them in the future; of the mercy of Heaven also which had brought them all three together safe and sound, although it was in this house of hell. So the time passed on, till about the hour of sunset the women servants came and led them to the bath, where the black slaves washed and perfumed them, clothing them in fresh robes above their armour.

When they came out the sun was down, and the women, bearing torches in their hands, conducted them to a great and gorgeous hall which they had not seen before, built of fretted stone and having a carved and painted roof. Along one side of this hall, that was lit with cressets, were a number of round-headed open arches supported by elegant white columns and beyond these a marble terrace with flights of steps which led to the gardens beneath. On the floor of this hall each seated upon his cushion beside low tables inlaid with pearl sat the guests, a hundred or more, all dressed in white robes on which the red dagger was blazoned, and all as silent as though they were asleep.

When the brethren reached the place the women left them, and servants with gold chains round their necks escorted them to a dais in the middle of the hall where were many cushions, as yet unoccupied, arranged in a semicircle, of which the centre was a divan higher and more gorgeous than the rest.

Here places were pointed out to them opposite the divan, and they took their stand by them. They had not long to wait, for presently there was a sound of music, and heralded by troops of singing women, the lord Sinan approached, walking slowly down the length of the great hall. It was a strange procession, for after the women came the aged, white robed dais, then the lord Al-je-bal himself, clad now in his blood-red, festal robe, and wearing jewels on his turban.

Around him marched four slaves, black as ebony, each of whom held a flaming torch on high, while behind followed the two gigantic guards who had stood sentry over him when he sat under the canopy of justice. As he advanced down the hall every man in it rose and prostrated himself, and so remained until their lord was seated, save only the two brethren, who stood erect like the survivors among the slain of a battle. Settling himself among the cushions at one end of the divan, he waved his hand, whereon the feasters, and with them Godwin and Wulf, sat themselves down.

Now there was a pause, while Sinan glanced along the hall impatiently. Soon the brethren saw why, since at the end opposite to that by which he had entered appeared more singing women, and after them, also escorted by four black torch-bearers, only these were women, walked Rosamund and, behind her, Masouda.

Rosamund it was without doubt, but Rosamund transformed, for now she seemed an Eastern queen. Round her head was a coronet of gems from which hung a veil, but not so as to hide her face. Jewelled, too, were her heavy plaits of hair, jewelled the rose-silk garments that she wore; the girdle at her waist, her naked, ivory arms and even the slippers on her feet. As she approached in her royal-looking beauty all the guests at that strange feast stared first at her and next at each other. Then as though by a single impulse they rose and bowed.

"What can this mean?" muttered Wulf to Godwin as they did likewise. But Godwin made no answer.

On came Rosamund, and now, behold! the lord Al-je-bal rose also and, giving her his hand, seated her by him on the divan.

"Show no surprise, Wulf," muttered Godwin, who had caught a warning look in the eyes of Masouda as she took up her position behind Rosamund.

Now the feast began. Slaves running to and fro, set dish after dish filled with strange and savoury meats, upon the little inlaid tables, those that were served to Sinan and his guests fashioned, all of them, of silver or of gold.

Godwin and Wulf ate, though not for hunger's sake, but of what they ate they remembered nothing who were watching Sinan and straining their ears to catch all he said without seeming to take note or listen. Although she strove to hide it and to appear indifferent, it was plain to them that Rosamund was much afraid. Again and again Sinan presented to her choice morsels of food, sometimes on the dishes and sometimes with his fingers, and these she was obliged to take. All the while also he devoured her with his fierce eyes so that she shrank away from him to the furthest limit of the divan.

FIVE MURDERED IN ONE FAMILY

Terrible Affair in Texas—Mother and Four Children Murdered

Edna, Texas, September 29.—Mrs. A. J. Conditt and four children, a daughter of thirteen, and three boys from six to ten years old, were murdered in cold blood at their home here. The mother and daughter were assaulted and their bodies brutally disfigured.

A baby about two years old was the only one left alive. All of them seemed to have been murdered with some blunt instrument. Their heads were crushed and their throats cut with a knife or razor. The girl and mother were killed in the house. The boys were killed about 100 yards away.

Mr. Conditt was working in the rice fields. A negro boy, about twelve years old, was ploughing in a field near the house and heard the children screaming. He saw a man chasing a woman, who was running around the house. Being afraid to go to the house he ran to a neighbor and told what he had seen. The person informed ran to the place and found five members of the family killed. Officers were informed at once and the entire country is out in posses in search of the murderer. It is supposed that two persons committed the crime.

Dogs have been sent for to trace the murderers.

BRITISH MISSION MET DEATH IN AFGHANISTAN

They Suffered From Hunger and Thirst—Fifty of the Party Perished.

London, eSptember 29. — The story told by members of the British mission who spent two and a half years in marking the boundary between Persia and Afghanistan, in the Seistan region, shows that the encountered terrible hardships. Fifty of the members died from various causes and nearly 9,000 camels and 120 horses succumbed.

The mission consisted of eleven British officers, under Colonel Arthur Henry MacMahon, with survey and irrigation staffs, and 200 native infantry and a transport service, embracing altogether some 1,500 men The base was situated at Quelta, whence all supplies were brought to Seistan, 500 miles distant, over a waterless and uninhabited desert.

During the summer several persons died from sunstroke or thirst, while during the winter others were frozen. Last winter numbers of jackals and wolves, which abound in Siestan, went mad for some unexpected reason, and in large packs attacked the men and animals belonging to the mission. Many of the men, camels and horses were bittten and died of hydrophobia. On March 29 of this year the temperature fell to zero, accompanied by a blizzard, and during this storm six hundred camels were killed.

The members of the mission tell many stories of heroism of individuals during periods when supplies ran out.

CORNWALL MAN KILLED.

Cornwall, Sept. 29.—(Special.) — The remains of Peter A. Loney, formerly of Cornwall, who was killed on Monday night at Sudbury, were interred yesterday afternoon in Woodlawn cemetery. It seems that the unfortunate young man, who was a timekeeper on the Toronto and Sudbury line, was on his way home to supper when he was struck by a flat car which was being pushed ahead of a shunting engine. Both legs were cut off and his head was split open.

The deceased was thirty-four years of age and was a son of Alex. Loney, of Tyotown, Glengarry. He clerked in Cornwall for ten or twelve years before going to Sudbury four or five years ago. His wife, who was formerly of Morrisburg, survives him with two small children.

PERKINS REFUSED TO PRODUCE BOOKS

An Interesting Time in the Insurance Inquiry Yesterday

New York, Septembver 29.—A statement, showing the transfers of the stock of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, which accompanied the purchase of control of that society, by Thomas F. Ryan, was made by the society to the legislative committee yesterday. It showed that 52 shares of the stock purchased by Mr. Ryan from James H. Hyde stood in the names of at least 25 persons, who were or recently had been directors of the society, each of them being the owner of at least five shares of the stock. By the transfer of this stock to Grover Cleveland, Judge Morgan J. O'Brien and Geo. Westinghouse, a majority of the directors would have ceased to be stockholders of record. It was deemed wise by the trustees and by counsel that a majority of the reorganized board of directors should be actual owners of five shares of stock each until the question of eligibility of policyholders as directors had been settled by the courts. Acordingly, an effort was made to purchase the necessary amount of stock. This resulted in the purchase of a block of eighty-seven shares of stock for the aggregate price of $212,500, approximately $2,500 a year.

The stock when purchased stood in the following names;—H. R. Winthrop, 27 shares; W. B. Bremner, 45 shares; C. L. Blair, 5 shares; A. J. Cassatt, 5 shares; James B. Morgan, 5 shares.

Mr. Ryan furnished the money for the purchase, and the stock was at once offered to directors of the society at cost, with the result that the following directors have acquired five shares each of this block:—Geo. J. Gould, Levi P. Morton, Thomas T. Eckert, Valentine P. Snyder, F. W. Roebling, J. J. Albright, Eben B. Thomas, Jos. Bryan, Thos. Spratt, B. Cady, Herrick, Nicholas Murray Butler, Chas. H. Zehnder, Sir Wm. C. Van Horne, C. Ledyard Blair and James B. Forgan.

The remaining 12 shares out of this block of 87 shares of stock stand in the name of Mr. Winthrop, and are owned by Dr. Ryan. Five shares of stock were also purchased by President Paul Morton from M. E. Ingalls.

George W. Perkins, vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Company, and a member of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., created a stir before the legislative investigating committee to-day, when he objected to a request that he produce certain books of J. P. Morgan & Co., to explain some of that firm's dealings with the New York Life Insurance Company in connection with the sale of Navigation Syndicate bonds to the Life Insurance Company. He said he would furnish copies of the entries referring to the transactions in question, but preferred not to bring the books. Mr. Hughes, counsel to the legislative committee for the first time during the investigation, showed signs of anger and said loudly:

"I shall have to require that those books be produced."

"All right," replied Mr. Perkins.

Testifying to the purchase of $4,000,000 of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis bonds from J. P. Morgan & Co., by the New York Life Insurance Company, Mr. Perkins said he obatined the bonds for $40,000 less than the price stipulated by the Life Insurance Company's finance committee. Questioned by Mr. Hughes, Mr. Perkins said that in this purchase and sale he himself represented both the New York Life Insurance Company as purchaser and the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., as seller.

NEWS FROM SHERBROOKE.

Sherbrooke, Sept. 29. — (Special.) — Game Warden Gendron seized two boxes of partridges at the Union Depot which had come in over the Quebec Central en route for Montreal. Three deer were allowed to pass, as they apparently came from individual shippers. The game warden is of the opinion that the slaughter of deer has been considerably lessened since the order to take strict measures was enforced. It is the opinion of others, however, that the deer is being shipped by other routes, and a close watch has been instituted at all the connecting points from the Central Quebec district.

The case of G. H. Heber, charged with setting fire to the Dixville creamery, on the 27th July last, came up before Judge Mulvena yesterday afternoon. After hearing the evidence the accused was acquitted.

The costliest musical organization in the world is the Boston Symphony Orchestra of 80, under Wilhelm Gericke. You can hear them Monday next at Victoria Rink for $1.00, $1.50, $2.00 and higher. Seats at Nordheimer's.

OUR SHIRT DESIGNS

HAL PATRON'S SPLENDID WORK

Won 2.13 Class After Hardest Kind of Racing at Delorimier Park

Rarely has better horse racing been witnessed in Montreal than that which was seen in the 2.13 class at Delorimier Park yesterday afternoon, when Hal Patron, the Canadian entry, fought down three horses from across the line.

Hal Patron, took the first, third and fourth heats, but only after the prettiest kind of stepping. In the second heat he was pocketed and forced to forego first position.

The American entries were Billy Hurd, Chief Wilkie and Lucy Yelser, and they were a grand trio. Their drivers did their level best to beat the Canadian stallion, but the latter was game as a pebble and in perfect condition.

In the first htat he stepped a clever mile, finishing in front. Billy Hurd pressed him closely in the home stretch but could not forge ahead.

In the second heat, the American drivers worked a skilful game on Hal Patron's pilot and pocketed him neatly and Billy Hurd went under the wire first, with Lucy Yelser second.

The third heat was a gruelling affair, as Billy Hurd and Hal Patron raced neck and neck from start to finish. There was no pocketing for the Canadian entry this heat, as his driver pulled him out wide and waded in to whisk the American horses off their feet. Billy Hurd had the courage, but was just a shade shy in speed, and after a mile of heart-breaking racing, he had to go under the wire second to the entry of Perrigo and Tracy.

Chief Wilkie took Billy Hurd's place as challenger in the fourth heat and for three-quarters of a mile, it looked as if he had a chance. However, he hadn't the requisite staying powers and was outstepped in the stretch, to the great delight of the spectators, whose sympathies were all with Hal Patron.

The 2.27 class went to Henry C, in rather hollow fashion, none of his competitors possessing speed enough to force him to extend himself.

FINE RACING AT CINCINNATI

Eighteen Horses Entered in 2.18 Trot and Only One Was Distanced

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 29.—The free-for-all trot was the feature at Oakley Park, yesterday. In the first heat Dr. Strong broke badly at the half mile. Wentworth and Sydney McGregor fought it out all the way around, the latter winning by a neck. Dr. Strong finished third, ten lengths behind. In the second heat the three horses raced together until the stretch turn, where Dr. Strong again broke. Snyder McGregor came with a rush at the end and won by half a length from Wentworth.

Main Sheet, the favorite, won the 2.18 trot in straight heats from Maud Maxine. Texas Rooker, the heavily played favorite in the 2.08 pace, had no trouble in winning in straight heats. Yesterday's unfinihed 2.15 pace went to Kruger, the favorite. Track fast. Summary:

BATS GIVEN TO BEST CRICKETERS

A. V. Clarke, W. H. Wright and R. A. Maclaren Were the Recipients

The cricket season was brought to a pleasant close last night by a dinner, at which bats were presented to the best bowlers and batters. The bats were presented to the following: First Vice-President Dr. Fisk's bat was won by A. V. Clarke, for the best batting average; the bat for the bowling average, presented by President E. C. Smith and Second Vice-President Rev. H. P. Plumptre, was won by W. H. Wright, and Mr. Moberly's bat for best work in match and practice was won by R. A. Maclaren.

Captain Ferrabee thanked the players for the assistance given him this season, and stated he would like to see the Montreal Cricket Club have a regular "second eleven," which would give more matches to many of the members.

President E. C. Smith considered the club had experienced a most successful season and poin out that two matches had been played with English teams, one being won and the other drawn.

RUBE WADDELL IS OUT OF THE GAME

Famous Southpaw's Salary Wing Has Gone Back on Him

Philadelphia, September 29.—Manager Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia American League Baseball Club, is considerably worried over the loss of the services of "Lube" Waddell, his big left-handed pitcher. Though the other pitchers of the team are doing excellent work, Manager Mack believes the championship pennant would be certainly his club's if Waddell could go into the box and pitch in the great form that he has maintained in the last few years. Waddell retired from the game at Boston September 8 in the third inning, complaining of a sore arm and he has not since been in a game, except for a few minutes. Yesterday he found he could not get the ball over the plate and retired.

The club's physicians have, thus far, been unable to determine the exact nature of the ailment of the pitcher. Yesterday they took an X-ray photograph of Waddell's left arm and shoulder, and will make a close study of the case. They entertain a hope that they may bring about an improvement, and thus enable the pitcher to participate in the world's championship series should Philadelphia win the American League pennant.

WESTMOUNT BOWLING CLUB.

The committee of the Westmount Bowling Club has decided to close the green for the season to-morrow afternoon, the concluding game to be between the married and single members. Those desirous of taking part in this game are requested to be on the green before 2.30 p.m., when the rinks will be made up and the play proceeded with. The closing is somewhat earlier than usual, but this is occasioned by the decision on the part of the committee to effect certain necessary repairs and accomplish work which will contribute to the general improvement of the grounds.

A general meeting of the members will be held at the close of Saturday's play, and as business of importance will be discussed it is hoped there will be a full attendance.

INTERMEDIATE ORIOLES WON.

The Oriole Baseball Club easily defeated the Wellows, last Saturday on Westmount Park. A. Nicholson of the Orioles, pitched a great game, allowing only five hits, while eleven were made off Balt, pitcher of the Wellows. Nicholson, in seven innings, struck out fifteen men. The umpire called the game at the end of the eighth on account of darkness.

GIANT IRISH WRESTLER APPEARS HERE TO-NIGHT

The big Irish wrestler, Apollo, who is to meet Emile Maupas at Sohmer Park to-night, walked into The Herald office this morning and was rubbered at for further orders. He stands well over six feet and is big in proportion. His fairy-like weight is only 255 lb. and it is all bone and muscle. He certainly looks as if he could give Hackenschmidt a merry go for the world's championship.

Apollo wrestles Maupas at Graeco-Roman style, two out of three falls, and to-morrow leaves for the Pacific Coast, where he will match his skill and his strength against Frank Gotch, who is doing some pugilistic stunts in Oregon.

Apollo looks to be fit physically and says that he keeps himself in shape by playing handball. He has the grip of a bear, and the writer, who was thoughtless enough to try a catch-as-catch-can grip with his lunch-hook, has been wearing a pained smile ever since.

This will be Apollo's second public appearance, his first being when he made such a creditable showing against Hack in England a few weeks ago.

Brookline, Mass, September 29.—With the exception of the defeat of last year's winner Andrew Carnegie Second, of Essex County, there were no surprises in the two rounds of match play in the Massachusetts golf championship at the Country Club yesterday. Carnegie was put out of the running by C. B. Cory, of the Wollaston Club, in the morning round by a score of one up.

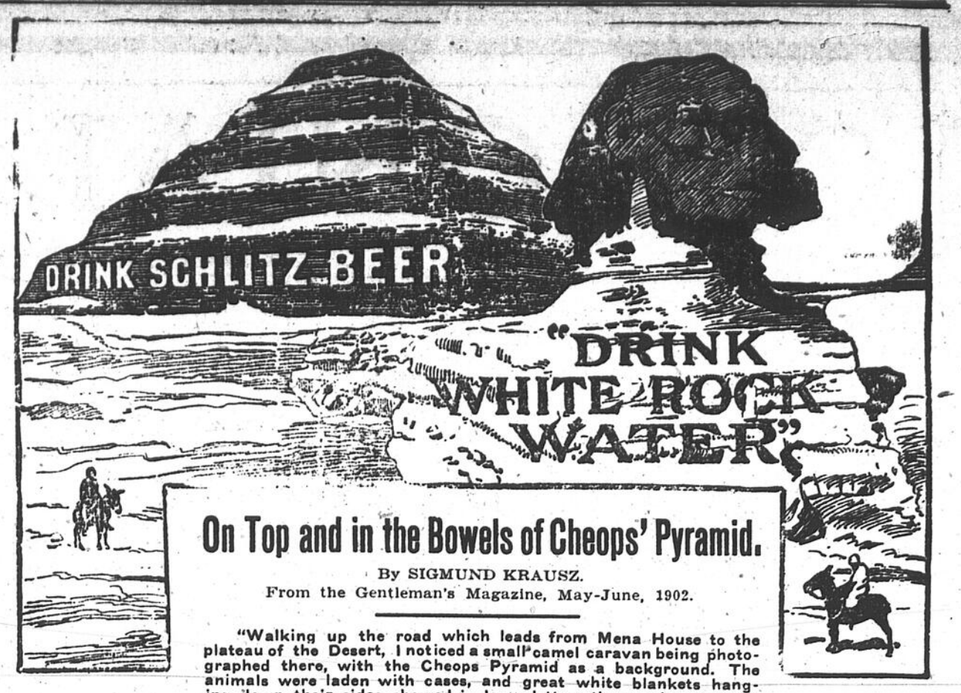

LORD OF THE AIR.

Is the condor the biggest bird that flies? While the heaviest bird capable of flight is the bustard—a table of reference says it weighs from twenty-six to twenty-eight pounds—its expanse of wing, a trifle less than that of the wild swan, is three or four feet less than that of the famous albatross, and only half that of the largest condor on record.

In point of size the giant albatross of the Southern Ocean, with an average expanse of 11 ft. 4 in., has to yield to the condor of Chili, whose extended pinions have in many cases measured twelve feet, and in one instance cited, on good authority, the almost incredible width of fifteen feet. It would seem that the condor of the Andes is still lord of the air by one foot.

On Top and in the Bowels of Cheops' Pyramid.

By SIGMUND KRAUSZ.

From the Gentleman's Magazine, May-June, 1902.

"Walking up the road which leads from Mena House to the plateau of the Desert, I noticed a small camel caravan being photographed there, with the Cheops Pyramid as a background. The animals were laden with cases, and great white blankets hanging down their sides showed in large letters the words: 'DRINK SCHLITZ BEER, the Beer that made Milwaukee famous;' 'DRINK WHITE ROCK WATER.' I had to smile at the Yankee business spirit which knows how to get advertisement even out of the Pyramids. I was only wondering that the enterprising advertising agent had not made his legend read as follows: "Drink Schlitz Beer, the Beer that Cheops Drank."

This proves that SCHLITZ and WHITE ROCK WATER can be found everywhere, and that these beverages have a world-wide reputation.

MONTREAL'S MANY RUGBY PLAYERS

Fifty-Six Will Play For Red and Black To-Morrow

The Montreal Football Club will put four teams on the field to-morrow, viz.:—Senior, Intermediate, junior and Independent.

This means that fifty-six players representing the winged wheel will be active participants in Rugby matches to-morrow.

The senior team will not be as strong as could be wished, but it will be a pretty fair aggregation at that. It is not certain whether Phil Mackenzie can go to Ottawa or not. If he cannot make the trip Ernie Russell or Ted Savage will be on the fourteen.

The team will be as follows.—Full, Bert Molson; halves, Jimmie Craig, Alex. Christmas and Phil Mackenzie; Russell or Savage; quarter, Gordon (captain); scrimmage, McAllen, Percival, Roberts and Hanneford; wings, Vittle, Benedict, P. Christmas, Percy Molson, Walter Molson, Billy Murphy.

The junior team will be composed of Chipchase, Dickson, Meldrum, Whiteside, Eveleigh, Derron, McLean, Cameron, Copeland, Wardell, Vittle, Ward, Brownrigg, Maynard and Ray.

The Independent team will be:—Cloran, McGregor, Chevalier, Renoldson, Peck, Ayer, Putnam, Bullman, Randall, Ewing, Gilmour, V. Russell, Hyman and Waugh.

The Montreals 'intermediate team for to-morrow will be:

E. Hamilton, Savage, Johnston, Madill, McLean, Cameron, Denne, Lemon, Ryan, Gale, Harman, Disney, Ewing, Wardell and Albert Dade.

OUTREMONTS SHAPE WELL.

Outremont's Thursday morning practice on the Exhibition grounds brought out thirty-one players, and Mr. Ayerst put them through an hour's good, stiff practice. Judging by the way the men went at their work, the committee will have some excellent material from which to pick the team to meet Montreal on the M.A.A.A. grounds on Saturday. A meeting will be held at the clubhouse on the grounds to-night for the purpose of picking teams to represent the black and white at M.A.A.A. and St. Stephen's, and also to elect captains for the teams. All players are requested to attend.

SHAMROCKS DECLINE TO PLAY THE TECUMSEHS

Toronto, Sept. 29.—The management of the Tecumsehs are bound to arrange a game with the Shamrocks for Saturday afternoon, if it is at all possible. Mr. Charles Querrie, the secretary of the club, yesterday afternoon wired to Montreal offering the executive of the Shamocks a guarantee of $500 if the Irishmen placed their Minto Cup team on the field here, together with a division of the gate receipts after the necessary expenses had been deducted. The present offer is a material advance over the one at first tendered.

"We must decline to play the Tecumsehs this season," said President Thos. O'Connell, of the Shamrocks, this morning, as our players have had a surfeit of lacrosse."

Repeating watches carefully adjusted. R. Hemsley, 255 St. James St.—Adv.

A CHALLENGE ANSWERED.

Montreal, Sept. 29,

R. J. Knox, Esq., Manager All-Point Lacrosse Club:

Sir,—Referring to the All-Point lacrosse club challenge which appeared in The Herald of the 27th inst., to play an All-City team on October 1, we hereby accept your challenge on condition that the game will be played on October 8, as we find it impossible to secure players who would do justice to the city on so short notice.

Hoping this date will be acceptable to your team, I remain

Yours truly,

D. C. BENSON,

Manager All-City Lacrosse Club.

HARRIERS' LEAGUE ADMITS M'GILL

Two Road Races, Junior and Senior, to be Held in October

The Montreal District Harriers' League, at a meeting held last night, decided to hold two road races in October. The junior race will be held on October 21, and the senior on the succeeding Saturday. The junior event will be run on the Cote St. Paul road from the Lower Lachine road to the town of St. Paul, a distance of about three and a half miles. The league offers a silver trophy for the winning team and three individual prizes.

The senior race on the succeeding Saturday ought to prove one of the best features of its kind ever held in Montreal.

If suitable arrangements can be made it will be run over the McGill cross country course, a distance of about seven miles. The finish would then take place on the college campus, which will that day be the scene of McGill's first football fixture in Montreal. The probable teams for the event will be McGill, Westmount, Gordons and Y.M.C.A.

At last night's meeting McGill was formally admitted to membership in the league. Among other matters up for consideration was that of prizes for the winners in the spring meet. It was finally decided to have silver and bronze medals struck for winners of first and second places.

In the absence of the president, Mr. Leslie Boyd, Mr. J. McCuaig acted as chairman. The delegates present were:—

M.A.A.A.—Roland Gomery. Y.M.C.A.—J. N. McCuaig; Crescents—Geo. Palmer. Westmount — W. Stenhouse. Cote St. Paul—W. Gambly. Gordon's A.A.A.—E. Nibert; St. Patrick's A. A. A.—A. McMahon. Ramblers—H. L. Jessop. McGill—J. A. Stephen.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Sept. 29.—Ten thousand persons attended the St. Lawrence county fair yesterday. In an exhibition baseball game between the Newark and Providence teams of the Eastern League, Newark defeated Providence 7 to 3. Batteries—Newark, Moriarity and Shea; Providence, Nops and Thomas.

LADIES' GOLF MATCH AT DIXIE

Quebec Experts Are Playing Royal Montreal Club's Team

The following eight members of the Quebec Ladies' Golf Club arrived in Montreal to-day to play the semi-annual match with the ladies of the Royal Montreal Club on the Dixie links, and on Saturday will play the Westmount ladies. The following members will compose the Quebec team Mrs. Meredith, Mrs. Foy, Miss Turner. Misses Jessie Scott, M. Meredith, E. Turner, Misses Jessie Scott, M. Meredith, E. Turner, Z. Lindsay and B. Hall.

The handsome cup presented to the Quebec Ladies' Golf Club by Mrs. McLimont, for annual competition, was won this year by Mrs. Meredith. This cup was won last year by Miss Maud Sewell, now Mrs. Cecil Pangman, of Montreal. The pretty trophy is highly prized by the Ladies' Golf Club and causes keen competition among the members.

CHANGES PROBABLE IN SENIOR BOWLING LEAGUE

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—While it is still early to talk of bowling, a glance at the prospects is not amiss. In the Canadian Amateur Bowling League there is likely to be a new team entered in the Ottawa section, and another in Montreal. The continuance of the present system depends largely on the admission or rejection of the applications of the new clubs.

In Ottawa the new-comers are the Army Service Corps.

In Montreal the Royals are applying for a place in senior company. Should the new teams be admitted, the separate sections will continue; if not, there is a chance that the league will return to the old system of home and home games in Montreal and Ottawa.

The teams now in the league are:—Montreal section, Vics Reserves (champions of Montreal), Vics Rifles, M.A.A.A. and Engineers; Ottawa section, 43rd D.C.O.R. (champions of the league), O. A.A.C., G.G.F.G. and St. Patrick's L. and S. Association.

Westmounts in Grand Shape to Tackle Rough Riders Saturday

The baseball grounds will to-morrow be the Mecca of all lovers of the Rugby game resident in Montreal. That the Rough Rider-Westmount match will be worth seeing goes without saying, the name of the visiting team being in itself a sufficient guarantee that the proper article will be served out to the spectators. From what can be gathered it appears that both teams have been trained to go the full time. Westmount, in this respect, got the credit of being the best conditioned of any team in the league.

Last year was Westmount's first season in senior company and although they had not the credit of a win at the close of the campaign they always made their contests interesting, and were thus rewarded with good gates from the public. Last season their opportunity of playing in senior company came at the last moment, but this year the executive has had time to look around for new men with weight and the result of their labors will be seen in to-morrow's match. Some people are inclined to think that the boys from the suburb have their hands on a winning team, and if the showing made in practice is any criterion this will certainly be found to be the case. Patrick and Rush, who are slated for defence, are men fully qualified to take their places in any company. In the front, Davidson, Gardiner, Lawrence and Leacock are all big men of the Ottawa style, and are sure to hold anything they meet during the season. The rest of the team is made up of men who played regularly last season, and made good.

Of the Rough Riders little can be said, but from Ottawa reports it appears that they have the strongest team in years. This much is certain that never in the history of the game has so much practice been indulged in for the opening match.

THE WESTMOUNT TEAM.

Small, Ross, Patrick, Baillie, Brown, Shearer, Harrison or Locke, Kelly, Lawrence, Snowdon, Davidson, Shewan and Gardener; spares, Rule and Leacock.

These players are requested to report at the Baseball grounds at 3 o'clock sharp.

There is a possibility that a change on the Westmount defence may be made. It is stated that a well-known half back, who catained another city team in one of its most important matches last year, may don the maroon and white. It appears that the treatment he is receiving in other quarters is not at all to his liking.

MIKE SHEA ON "FOOTBALL."

Loyola College students should make good this fall in football, as Mike Shea, the great Ottawa coach, has promised to drill the youngsters, when he has time to spare from attending to the Montreal fourteen.

A feature of the drills will be black-board talks to the boys; and if the students fail to assimilate enough football lore to trim anything their age and weight in this part of Canada it will not be the fault of Michael James O'Shea."

As an able exponent of FOOTBALL AND HOW TO PLAY IT, Mike stands alone, and no doubt when the lectures open up, the College convocation hall, or wherever the chalk-talks are to be held, will have to be considerably enlarged.

Mr. Shea's services to Loyola are entirely gratuitous. He was passing the college the other day and looked in on the boys; seeing promising material on hand, the old football spirit burned within him, and a short talk with the professors did the rest.

STOCKS AND MONEY.

Local Market Less Active; Prices Hold Fairly Steady

Cotton Companies Are Likely to Get Higher Protection

The local market was not nearly so active to-day, but considering the advance prices have had it acted very well.

The comparative quietness that prevailed seemed to be a part of the plan decided on to carry prices higher. It was thought that some weak holdings might be drawn out, and when the aggressive element get busy again their efforts will meet with more success.

There will not be any disposition to run prices away up," was the remark made to The Herald by a broker to-day, "but I do not think there will be any reaction that will carry prices down to the level that prevailed when the movement at the beginning of the week was started. The market will be gradually but steadily carried higher."

The increased strength in the Cotton stocks, such as Dominion, Textile and Montreal Cotton, are said to just about reflect the improved conditions that have prevailed in the cotton industry for some little time past. Elsewhere in this issue will be found an interesting statement which will be included in the memorandum that the cotton companies will submit to the Tariff Commission. From the chats that the officials of some of the companies have had with Hon. Mr. Fielding, the general belief is that more protection will be granted and the Canadian companies be enabled to secure a larger portion of the Canadian market.

A little more attention was paid to Montreal Street and the price ruled very strong. The company closes its fiscal year to-morrow, and considering the large amount of renewal work that has been done the earnings will show an increase of almost a quarter of a million. Several local houses contend the stock will show quite a big advance in the next few months.

Two important meetings are set for next week, that of the Canadian Pacific Railway and that of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company. Sir Thos. Shaughnessy generally manages to have some interesting news for the shareholders of the C. P. R. The annual statement of the Lake of the Woods Company will not be made public till after the annual meeting.

Wall Street Market

Wall Street, Noon.—Loans were reported at 6¼ per cent., but the rate was disputed and afterward reported cancelled. The call money rate fell back to below 6 per cent., and pressure on stocks was relieved. Prices hardened, but the activity almost died out. Sloss-Sheffield Steel lost 1½ and Tennessee Coal, Great Northern pfd., and B. & O. pfd., about a point. Minneapolis and St. Louis rose 2; N. Y., Chicago and St. Louis 1½ and Consolidated Gas, 1.. Wabash debenture B.'s were strong. The bond market otherwise was heavy.

WALL STREET GOSSIP.

Sales to noon on Wall Street were 219,000 shares.

Marler & Hodgson.—The money situation has now become definitely and decidedly the dominating factor. Inasmuch as the majority of loans so far have been made at 5% and 6 per cent., the market has been chilled and there has been some liquidation. So far, however, the liquidation has not been heavy, nor have the declines been heavy.

J. S. Bache & Co.—Noon—There was very little doing this morning up to the time call money rates were made, this having been at an advance from Thursday's last price of over one per cent; there was some room selling, which was fairly well absorbed. The rate mounted and 6¼ was registered before the requirements were satisfied, the rate falling back to 5½ per cent. on heavy offerings. The market has good support, particularly in Reading, the second preferred advancing on reports of some favorable developments.

WILL BUILD 500 MILES OF ROAD

Sir Thos. Shaughnessy Says C.P.R. Will Do This Next Year

Sir Thos. Shaughnessy will arrive home to-morrow after his annual trip of inspection over the company's lines. In an interview at Minneapolis, Sir Thomas is quoted as saying:

"Our annual trip over the Canadian Pacific and Soo showed many surprises. Out in the Crow's Nest country, where we never expected any wheat, we found a crop of two million bushels. As to the entire crop of Western Canada, it is simply magnificent.

"Plans for double-tracking our line are well under way, the principal work now being between Fort William and Winnipeg, but we also have four hundred miles laid between Winnipeg and Regina, and the ultimate extension of this improvement to embrace the entire main line will undoubtedly be accomplished as conditions warrant. No westward extension of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic is likely in the near future. We will build five hundred miles more road next year, however, in Canada to meet conditions as they arise. With larger cars and other improvements, we have practically doubled our capacity for handling the crops, but the pressure of business is as heavy as ever."

COTTON MARKET

New York, Sept. 29.—Cotton futures, opened steady. October, 10.40; December, 10.70; January, 10.76; February, 10.85 bid; March, 10.94; April, 10.98 bid; May, 11.03.

New York, Sept. 29.—Liverpool was due to come 3 to 4 higher, opened steady 4 higher and at 12.30 was 3 to 4 higher. Spots moderate demand, 3 higher at 574. Sales 8,000. Estimated ports 45,000, against 73,000 last year.

The market is in that state where rumors of one kind or another easily influence prices. The underlying tendency is still in favor of higher prices. The Wall Street bulls have evidently transferred their October holdings into the later position, but notices to-day will be taken care of by spot and banking interests against sales of the later months.

The net earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway are showing very large increases in the new fiscal year. The statement of earnings and expenses is as follows:

A Dividend for Granby

Boston.—Granby Consolidated stock sold at 8 this week, its highest price.

It is now planned to begin dividends on Granby stock next January at the rate of 5 per cent. This may account for the strength of the stock, for the recent record of the company cannot account for it, for since the close of the fiscal year, June 30 (for which period the Granby Company earned $700,000 net, compared with $283,000 the previous year), the Granby smelter has been passing through troublesome times.

Six furnaces are now in operation, the old battery, and it will probably be winter before the two new large furnaces will be blown in. When that happens net earnings should range between $125,000 and $140,000 per month, as the ore treated will range between 60,000 and 70,000 tons per month as against a treatment of 50,000 tons per month with the old battery of six furnaces.

Granby ore is now showing net profits of about $2 per ton in treatment. The ore has been showing higher gold values for some months.

Great Boom in Iron Trade

The Iron Age says: The past week has carried farther the remarkable buying movement that burst upon the iron market two weeks [illegible] September tonnage is easily the greatest for a single month in the history of the trade. While there are evidences of excitement here and there, business for the most part has been done in an orderly way, and veterans in the trade refer to the present market as the greatest in which they have participated.

The United States Steel Corporation has bought 40,000 tons of Bessemer iron at $15 at furnace for delivery in September and October. Further iron will be required for October and the Corporation is expected to be a buyer of Bessemer at the rate of 40,000 tons a month well into next year. The total of its purchases in September is 80,000 tons. Bessemer iron is now squarely $15.50 at Valley furnace. In the foundry iron trade a prodigious business has been rounded up and leading Southern sellers have booked a record tonnage in September. The largest seller is reported to have taken order for 100,000 tons last week. Northern sellers have been exceedingly busy also, particularly in the East and the Central West. The movement has given strong proof that foundries are at last getting a fair share in the general prosperity.

Three Alabama sellers of foundry iron are out of the market temporarily, but inquiries of large aggregate for the first quarter and fist half of 1906 are pending and $12.50 for No. 2 foundry iron at Birmingham is now quoted. Eastern Pennsylvania furnaces now have their prices 50 cents to $1 a ton above those of two weeks ago. In the Central West the minimum has advanced from $14.50 to $15 at furnace for No. 2 foundry.

Rail buying and railroad equipment demand are still the backbone of finished material markets. Fully 125,000 tons of rails have been booked in the week, including 10,000 tons for the Central of Georgia, 8,000 tons for the Des-Moines & Fort Dodge, 30,000 tons for the Northern Pacific, 40,000 tons for the Rock Island, 10,000 tons for Central of New Jersey, and 25,000 tons, in addition to the earlier order, for Norfolk & Western. More rails than ever for the Southwest and Northwest will be rolled in Pennsylvania next year, the Chicago mill being filled up to Nov. 1, 1906.

The stringency in structural material is more marked, and Chicago jobbers are now shipping far afield, reaching both coasts. Plate mills are a close second to shape mills in the matter of congestion and an advance in the plate base is considered imminent.

It is only mildly stating the case to say that in important finished lines September sales have exceeded all records. Steel bar business is very heavy, the advances in bar iron now making steel the cheaper material. No advance in steel bars has been made, nor do leading manufacturers expect an advance. Wrought pipe has been in excellent demand, albeit prices do not advance. Sheets have improved steadily. Tin plate lags, though some large business has been done with the Pacific coast canning trade. September has always been active in the wire trade, and this month has emphasized the record.

MARKET REPORTS.

Local Demand and Small Offerings Restrict Business in Oat Market

Some Business Worked in Wheat Though Market is Quiet

There was considerable improvement in the tone of the market for oats to-day, and an active enquiry was reported. Exporters reported bids to be more satisfactory than they have been for some time. On account of the small offerings, however, business was quiet, only a few loads being worked. The offerings at present are unusually small, and dealers say that the farmers appear to be too busy with their wheat and other crops to market any oats. Several exporters stated this morning that they could have placed large shipments at a satisfactory figure, but were unable to obtain the necessary quantity. What few oats are coming in are sold on the local market at 34c to 34½c for No. 2 white afloat. It is expected that the receipts will be more liberal next month, and a good business is anticipated.

The demand for wheat was quiet to-day, but few bids being received for new crop, and these in most cases being about a cent out of line. A little business was worked, however, and sales of about 6,000 bushels of old crop wheat were reported.

There is a fairly good enquiry for peas, and as the offerings continue small, the tone of the market is firm at 77c per bushel afloat.

Flour.—There is a fair demand for spring wheat grades of flour and the tone of the market is firm, though prices are unchanged to-day. There is also a good demand for new wheat Ontario flour for export. Manitoba spring wheat patents, $5 to $5.10; strong bakers', $4.70 to $4.80; winter wheat patents, $4.65 to $4.75; straight rollers, $4.30 to $4.40; and in bags, $2 to $2.10.

Millfeed.—The demand for millfeed has slackened off during the past few days, but prices are well maintained, as millers are still oversold. Manitoba bran, in bags, $17 to $18; shorts, $20 to $21 per ton; Ontario bran, in bulk, $15 to $15.50; shorts, $20 to $20.50; milled mouillie, $21 to $24; straight grain mouillie, $28 to $29 per ton.

Rolled Oats.—Business in rolled oats is quiet, the demand being chiefly for small lots to fill actual requirements. Prices are steady at $2.25 to $2.30 per bag. Cornmeal continues quiet and steady at $1.45 to $1.50 per bag.

Hay.—Business in baled hay is somewhat quiet, shippers finding it difficult to obtain freight space. Prices are unchanged. No. 1, $8.50 to $9; No. 2, $7.50 to $8; clover, mixed, $6.50 to $7; and pure clover, $6 to $6.25 per ton in car lots.

Wheat Inspection

Winnipeg, September 29.—Wheat inspections here to-day were as follows: No. 1 hard, 5 cars, No. 1 northern, 257 cars; No. 2 northern, 95 cars; No. 3 northern, 9 cars; no grade, 5 cars; other grades, 68 cars. Total, 439 cars; same date last year, 166 cars.

Wheat Markets

At the Winnipeg market this morning 78⅜c was bid for September wheat at opening and later 78½ was bid. For October options 77½ was bid at opening, and later sales were made at that figure.

At the Chicago market, September options opened at 85⅞, and later were quoted at 85. May options were quoted at 87⅝.

Country Produce

Beans.—The demand for beans continues limited and prices are unchanged at $1.50 to $1.55 per bushel for choice primes.

Honey.—Business in honey is still quiet and prices are steady. Sales of white clover comb at 12c to 13c; white extracted at 6½c to 7c; and buckwheat at 5½c to 6c per lb.

Local Market Situation

Oswald Bros., in a circular on the position of the local market, say:

The local market has recently become more active, with advancing prices, and it would seem that there is room for a further advance When it is considered that we have had a long period of dullness, during which the improvement in the industrial and general business of the country has not been reflected in the local stock market, it would seem that stocks are now cheap and that a further advance is due in order to discount the improvement in general conditions.

The Dom. Iron and Steel stocks have been the most active. Although there is no immediate prospect of a dividend on the common stock, it will no doubt sell much higher eventually, on dividend prospects, and speculators favor the purchase of such low-priced stocks, with great possibilities before them. The Dom. Iron and Steel bonds should be cheap at present prices, and the improvement in the company's business should soon be reflected in these securities.

Montreal Light, Heat & Power stock has become more active with the rest of the market Although it is not likely that the November dividend will be increased, the stock is expected to be put on a 5 per cent. basis next year, and on the last statement issued by the company the stock seems cheap, especially when the prices at which it has sold are considered.

Among the tractions, Montreal Street Railway is one that could be easily advanced. The floating supply is small, a great deal being held by investors.

The ease with which Toronto Railway advanced from 104¾ to 108 on buying of 256 shares, may be taken as an example of the scarcity of stocks on the local market.

Higher prices are spoken of for Mackay common on dividend prospects. The preferred returns 5.36 per cent. at present prices, and should be a good investment.

The Mexican and Rio de Janeiro issues have been rather dull lately, the market for outside securities being rather neglected.

The bond market, too, has been generally speaking, dull.

INSURANCE

Equitable in Cafe Business

Paul Morton, president of the Equitable Life Insurance Company says:

"There is nothing new or sensational about the Cafe Savarin. There has been no change in its relation to the Equitable Society, which now owns and operates it. I do not like the idea of the society being in the restaurant business, but it is a condition that I found, and we will have to continue in the business until I can make other arrangements. It will be my effort to get the society out of the business, although, in lieu of rent, the Cafe Savarin is now getting the society profits which approximate what the rent ought to be.

"No officer ,director or employe of this society is interested in any way in the profits of the Cafe."

Federal Control of Life Ins.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 28.—President Roosevelt will spend from now until next Saturday, when he leaves Oyster Bay for Washington, hard at work, upon his annual message to Congress. That the President will advocate the Federal control of life insurance companies appears certain. The one big stumbling block in the way of enactment of such legislation is the possibility of the Supreme Court's failing to uphold its constitutionality.

Other questions upon which the President will touch in his message are the foreign relations of Venezuela and the fiscal affairs of Santo Domingo. It is also expected that he will advocate the negotiations on the part of the United Sates of several new commercial treaties."

Many Insurance Lapses

The total amount of the lapses of insurance policies taken out by the people of this country is very large. It is said that in a company doing a business as large as that of the Equitable, for instance, the lapses amount on an average to about $130,000,000 of insurance a year. Applying this average to all of the insurance companies of the United States, it is readily seen that either through bad judgment or deliberate purpose people take out a great deal more insurance than they are able to carry, or than they intend to carry.

The lapses occur for the most part in the first five years of the life of the policy, the great bulk taking place in the earlier years of this period. To such an extent is this the case that many of the insurance companies keep two sets of books to show the records of the policies. One set of books is kept for the first five years of the life of the policy, and then the books are copied at the end of that period to eliminate the record of the policies that are no longer active.

Of course, there are a great many people, who feeling prosperous at the time that they take out insurance policies, commit themselves for much larger sums in the way of insurance premiums than they can afford and live comfortably later on, and these are forced to permit their policies to lapse. On the other hand it is probable that the bulk of the lapses are due to the fact that many of the policies are taken out with no intention whatever or very little on the part of the insured, to maintain them in the years to come.
