Collision Between France and Germany Only a Question of Time—Bismarck Demands a Cessation of French Official Excitation to Revolt in Alsace-Lorraine.

BERLIN, April 30.—The Budget committee of the Reichstag to-day adopted in the form proposed by the Government the estimates for the construction of barracks and hospitals, also the vote for strategic railways, the vote for increasing the efficiency of the army and the Loan bill. When the Reichstag resumes on Thursday the committee will present a report approving the whole budget proposals of the Government, excepting the artillery grant. Some discussion occurred over the 52,000,000 marks devoted to rendering the army better prepared to fight and suggestions were made to reduce the vote of 68,000,000 for strategic railways, but the idea of economy was overruled by the conviction that a collision with France cannot be postponed, for the release of Schnaebeles only modifies the position so far as justifying Prince Bismarck's diplomatic position in demanding a cessation of French official excitation to revolt in Alsace-Lorraine and the stoppage of an organized system of espionage throughout Germany. Official circles consider that Germany has a good claim to demand that France shall cease from official intriguing in the German provinces. It is believed Prince Bismarck is about to make urgent representations that having proved good will in the Schnaebeles case, France must now stop offences against international law by ordering her officials to refrain from fomenting treason in Alsace-Lorraine. If the response of the French Government is not satisfactory, the Schnaebeles incident, it is thought, will become the starting point of the greatest events of the century. The Cologne Gazette publishes a list of French agents who have been arrested and convicted in Germany, and defies the French Government to adduce a single case where a German Government agent has been convicted of espionage in France. Hitherto, the paper adds, the French Government agents who were arrested have been liberated after a short detention. The case of the Danish Captain Sarauw, the poet Krazewski and the Belgian, Janssen, do not apply to the French. A recent instance of the leniency of the German Government in the case of Lieut. Letellier, who was caught at Carlsruhe having in his possession plans of the fortress and sketches, and who was liberated after his guilt had been fully established. This course, on the part of the Government, has been the rule toward other Frenchmen, but a further observance of the rule, the Gazette declares, is impossible. The Kreuz Zeitung represents that the increased irritation among all classes in Germany must impel the Government to ask France to offer trustworthy guarantees that Germany shall in future be protected against officially permitted espionage. The position of the war party is that if Bismarck means to raise the final question now, the delaying of the conflict has enabled the French war department during the past months to reform and immensely strengthen the line of defences on the frontier. On the other hand, four months ago popular feeling was against war, while now the balance of opinion throughout Germany will be with Bismarck if war is declared necessary.

Gen. Waldersee, with his staff, inspected during the week the frontier line northward from Metz. There has been a continual movement of troops in the frontier provinces.

SCHNAEBELES GIVEN AN OVATION.

PARIS, April 30.—M. Schnaebeles, who was released from prison yesterday by order of Germany, and who at once departed from Metz, where he was incarcerated, arrived at midnight at Pagny-sur-Moselle, where he was arrested. His wife and son met him at the station, where were also assembled the whole populace of the town, headed by all the officers of the municipality. M. Schnaebeles was given an ovation by the crowd, who cried out, "Vive la France," "Vive Schnaebeles." After a short stop Schnaebeles proceeded to Paris. He declined to be interviewed by members of the press. He declared he had been well treated by the Germans. The Paris newspapers appear to be nearly all well pleased by the manner in which the Schnaebeles affair has been settled, and pronounce it an honorable settlement. They praise the prudence and fairness displayed by M. Flourens, Minister of Foreign Affairs, in his conduct of France's side of the case. A majority of the papers draw from the incident the lesson that in the future France must redouble her vigilance in order to avoid surprises of the kind caused by the arrest of Schnaebeles. According to the Republique Francaise all the French prefects have been instructed to prevent the people in their respective districts from using the occasion of Schnaebeles' liberation for making anti-German demonstrations. Schnaebeles reached Paris this afternoon. He at once called upon Premier Goblet and had an interview with him, in which he reaffirmed the story of his arrest as originally told. It is again asserted that Schnaebeles will be relieved of his post of commissary at Pagny-sur-Moselle and be retired by a pension. La France is soliciting donations of one franc each toward the purchase of a diamond cross for M. Schnabeles. Eleven members of the Gautesh family head the subscription list.

BISHOP OF PETERBOROUGH.

The New Prelate Consecrated at Hamilton by Archbishop Lynch.

HAMILTON, May 1.—The event of to-day in Roman Catholic circles was the consecration this morning, at St. Mary's Cathedral, of Rev. Dr. Dowling, of Paris, Ont., as bishop of the diocese of Peterborough, in succession to the late Bishop Jamot. Bishop Dowling is extremely popular with the people of his first and only parish of Paris, where he has labored for twenty-one years. Born at Limerick, Ireland, and educated in Canada, he is yet a young man of vigorous constitution and spiritual graces and intellectual attainments which eminently fit him for the important position he has been called to fill. The priests of the diocese of Hamilton yesterday, through Vicar-General Henan and Rev. Chancellor Keough, of Dundas, presented Dr. Dowling with a gold cross with chain and ring made by the Pope's jeweller at Rome, and with a full set of pontifical robes and gold mitre. The gifts were supplemented by an address, which showed how highly the new bishop is regarded by the priests of this diocese. Admission to St. Mary's Cathedral to witness the ceremony of consecration was by ticket only, yet the spacious church was literally packed by one of the largest congregations ever seen in this city. Among those present to witness the ceremony were the mother of the bishop, Rev. Father Agnew, of Chicago, and Mr. J. and Mrs. and Miss B. Dowling, of Chicago, who are relatives of the bishop. Prominent among the prelates present were Archbishop J. J. Lynch, of Toronto; Bishops Walsh, of London; O'Mahony, Eudosia; J. Cleary, of Kingston; J. Carbarry, of Hamilton. There was a very large representation of clergy from all parts of Canada, and regrets were sent by many others. Archbishop Lynch was the consecrator, his assistants being Bishop Walsh and Bishop Carbarry. The ceremony of consecration impressed the vast congregation deeply. The music used was the Gregorian chant, and during the Mass a very fine choir sang numbers from Mozart's Twelfth Mass. The sermon was a most eloquent effort, and was preached by Bishop Cleary, of Kingston. At the close of the ceremony the new bishop, in company with Bishops Walsh and Carbarry, went through the congregation, blessing the people. The clergy dined at St. Joseph's Convent.

THE MAGUIRE LIBEL CASE.

Important Evidence of Mr. Trudel, Chief of the Quebec Water Police.

QUEBEC, April 30.—The interest in the Maguire libel case is on the increase. This morning Mr. Dunbar recalled Hon. F. Langelier, the private prosecutor, as a witness for the defence. Nothing new was elicited. Mr. J. B. Trudel, chief of the Water Police, then deposed that he has known Mr. F. Langelier for fifteen years; they became very intimate since 1882. He has had business transactions with Mr. Langelier. Witness had a good deal to do with the award of the water works contract to Beemer, and had relations with different tenderers. Hon. F. Langelier was also interested to the extent of $30,000 as commission on Mr. Walbank's tender for the water works. (The defence here admitted that all of their evidence was but circumstantial, on a ruling of the court.) Witness proceeding stated that H. J. Beemer paid certain sums of money to F. Langelier and others to use their influence to obtain the award of the contract, and that the money was paid through him. Beemer gave witness $30,000; of this amount F. Langelier received $6000 or $7000 for the contract. The note for 4200 produced in Court yesterday he stated was connected with a portion of Langelier's commission on Beemer's contract. Previous to the signing of this note by Hon. F. Langelier witness had advanced $5000 on transactions with which they were associated—the Quebec and Lake St. John railway and the Quebec water works contract. At the time of the passing of the by-laws by the city council to grant $450,000 to the Quebec and Lake St. John railway witness received $20,000 from Messrs. Beaudet & Carrier. When he received the $4200 for Mr. F. Langelier's credit, he went to that gentleman and said "I have $4200 for you, and if you give $800 that will clear your $5000 you owe me and settle accounts and I will return you the note." The $20,000 he received was to be used towards influencing the council. Mr. Langelier received about $3000 of this. Transactions between Mayor Langelier and himself were mixed up. Their account was common on both the aqueduct and railway matter, and he could not specifically say if it was exactly $3000 that he was given for the railway grant. Fifty thousand dollars passed through witness' hands for the aqueduct and Lake St. John commissions, of which about $9000 was given Mr. Langelier. In 1883 F. Langelier owed witness $5000, for which he (witness) was to be reimbursed from commissions. He received the note of $4200 from Langelier, so that if the matter ever came to light he could swear it to be a business transaction. There was no talk about the drill shed when the note was signed. Mr. Langelier was one of a combination to get benefits out of the water works and Lake St. John Railway contracts. Mr. Langelier was paid $500 by Mr. Beemer. Among other matters he testified that he (witness) received $10,000 from Beemer when tenders were called for the aqueduct. The $4200 paid the Mayor on the 14th July was part of the aqueduct commission money. Witness received in all from Beemer $32,000. The Mayor received $3000 for the Quebec & Lake St. John Railway grant. He acknowledged having said in June, 1885, he had no documents or any thing that would compromise the Mayor.

DEATH OF BISHOP BINNEY.

The Bishop of Nova Scotia Dies Suddenly While on a Visit to New York.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 1.—The city was shocked to-day by the announcement of the sudden death in New York of Bishop Binney, where he had gone for medical advice. Next to Bishop Medley, of Fredericton, Dr. Binney was the oldest bishop of the Episcopal church. He was born at Sydney, Cape Breton, in 1819, educated at Oxford, appointed Bishop of Nova Scotia in 1851 and was the third oldest bishop in the episcopality. He was a man of great energy and decisive character, ruled his flock with an iron hand and consequently made a great many strong opponents. He was held in high esteem by all denominations. He was very High Church. Of late he had been greatly worried by troubles in connection with King's college affairs and the unfortunate controversy between Prof. Hind and himself. The deceased bishop had set his heart upon building a memorial cathedral, to cost a quarter of a million, to celebrate the centennial of the establishment of the Nova Scotia episcopate, England's first colonial see, which occurs next October. His father-in-law gave a valuable site and deceased promised a contribution of $7000. For a year or more he has been failing in health, and before going to New York, three weeks ago, knew that his days were numbered. He probably died of paralysis. He was appointed by the Crown and his salary was paid by the society for the Propagation of the Gospel. Hereafter Nova Scotia will elect and pay its bishop. Bishop Binney's remains are expected here on Wednesday.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN SAILS.

He Denounces Lord Lansdowne Before His Departure for Canada.

QUEENSTOWN, May 1.—William O'Brien, editor of the United Ireland, and Mr. Kilbride, one of the tenants evicted from the Lansdowne estates, sailed hence for New York to-day on the steamer "Umbria." The mayor and the municipal council of Queenstown and various other bodies presented Mr. O'Brien with addresses. A crowd of several thousand persons gathered to bid him farewell, and he was called upon for a speech. In the course of his remarks Mr. O'Brien said he carried with him the full approval of the Irish people. He felt that when the liberty-loving Canadians heard a true account of Lord Lansdowne's cruelty to his tenants they would not tolerate being governed by such a man.

Reduced Rates to Summer Resorts Wanted.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—Finding that I shall not be able to secure any holiday this summer, and like a great many other clerks and salesmen in this city, not getting a salary large enough to enable me to enjoy it, even if allowed, I thought of the many pretty places near Montreal, such as Valois, Pointe Claire, etc., where I hoped to be able to board as cheaply as in the city, and where I might spend the evenings in healthy recreation, and amongst many friends who can fortunately afford to summer there. However, upon enquiry, I find that this is not within my means on account of the great expense of living on the shores of Lake St. Louis; the main item of which is the enormous prices asked by the railroad company for contract tickets. After making a careful calculation on the most economical basis, I find the cost of living at St. Ann's or Valois to be at least $45 per month; this covers nothing whatever beyond bare board and railroad fare.

I am quite sure if the railroad company would only consider this matter, they would find it to their interest to reduce the price of contract tickets nearly one half. Many who now go to the seaside would take cottages or board on the Lake, while many young men who will be left in the city, with no society but that of similar unfortunates, and no amusements but the temptations of our numerous saloons, would be able to go out and invigorate themselves on the shores of Lake St. Louis. I think the company might easily make a reduction, say on trip tickets, or in favor of those travelling night and morning only.

Yours, etc.,
VALETUDINARIAN.

April 18, 1887.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—I was much pleased to see a letter in a morning contemporary, calling attention to the fact that the rates charged by the G. T. R. to the various suburban points along their line are outrageously out of proportion to the rates charged by the C. P. R., for similar distances. The writer gives the following figures, which are undoubtedly correct: The C. P. R. charge to Ste Rose (17 miles) 1 month $5, 3 months $13 and 6 months $23, while the G. T. R.'s rates to Pointe Claire (only 15 miles) are $7, $18, and $30, respectively. Again to St Therese (20 miles) the C. P. R. charge $6, $16, and $25, for like periods to above while the G. T. R.'s rates to St Annés (21 miles) are $10, $25 and $40.

The proportion of summer residents who travel over the G. T. R. is considerably larger than those going by the C. P. R. which makes these charges the more unreasonable, as one would naturally expect, that a larger traffic would enable a railway company to cut the rates lower, instead of having them nearly 1-3 higher all round.

When the parallel line in course of construction by the C. P. R. is completed, there is no doubt a reduction in rates will immediately take place, but would not the managers of the G. T. R. be acting wisely, and at the same time have a better chance of retaining their patronage, if they anticipated this reduction, and brought down the rates for this season?

Trusting a movement in the right direction will yet be made,

I am, Yours, SUMMER RESIDENT.

Errors of Youth. SUFFERERS FROM Nervous Debility, Youthful Indiscretions, BE YOUR OWN PHYSICIAN!

Many men, from the effects of youthful imprudence, have brought about a state of weakness that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever being suspected, they are doctored for everything but the right one. Notwithstanding the many valuable remedies that medical science has produced for the relief of this class of patients, none of the ordinary modes of treatment effect a cure. During our extensive college and hospital practice we have experimented with and discovered new and concentrated remedies. The accompanying prescription is offered as a certain and speedy cure, as hundreds of cases in our practice have been restored to perfect health by its use after all other remedies failed. Perfectly pure ingredients must be used in the preparation of this prescription.

R— Erythroxylon coca, ½ drachm.
Jerubebin, ½ drachm.
Helonias Dioica, ½ drachm.
Gelsemin, 8 grains.
Ext. ignatiæ amaræ (alcoholic), 2 grains.
Ext. leptandra, 2 scruples.
Glycerine, q. s. Mix.

Make 60 pills. Take 1 pill at 3 p.m., and another on going to bed. In some cases it will be necessary for the patient to take two pills at bedtime, making the number three a day. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, and especially in those cases resulting from imprudence. The recuperative powers of this restorative are truly astonishing, and its use continued for a short time changes the languid, debilitated, nerveless condition to one of renewed life and vigor.

As we are constantly in receipt of letters of inquiry relative to this remedy, we would say to those who would prefer to obtain it of us, by remitting $1 a securely sealed package containing 60 pills, carefully compounded, will be sent by return mail from our private laboratory, or we will furnish 6 packages, which will cure most cases, for $5.

MONDAY, MAY 2, 1887.

THE United States has fishery rights to maintain in the waters of Alaska. British Columbian seal hunters are encroaching upon what it regards as its territorial rights in that region. But it finds it hard to insist upon its rights in Alaska without weakening the claims of its fishermen on this side of the continent. The situation is, we must confess, embarrassing. It will require no small amount of ingenuity to show that what is wrong on the east side of America is right on the west side, that what is a lawful claim when preferred by the Americans in Alaskan seas is a perfectly outrageous one when insisted upon by the British in Canadian waters. The British claim jurisdiction over a band of the sea three miles in breadth measured from a line drawn from headland to headland, while the Americans take upon themselves to seize the vessels of British Columbian seal hunters, scores of miles from the nearest land. Great Britain lays claim to exclusive jurisdiction over but a small portion of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, while the United States claims rights over the entire easterly portion of Behring's Sea. The situation is becoming exceedingly interesting.

MORALITY AND HEALTH.

We notice in scientific journals a good many articles tending to show that the true basis for morality is a knowledge of and obedience to the laws of nature in their relation to man. Morality is described by Herbert Spencer as conduct under perfect conditions individual and social. That is to say, given a perfect individual in a perfect society, the conduct of that individual would express a perfect morality. All his actions would tend to good continually, his own good and that of others; and he would have no conception of good for himself in which the idea of good to others was not involved. To such a state humanity may never attain; but it would probably be correct to say that the goal of all moral effort lies in that direction. We may provisionally accept lower ideals, but with each step forward we shall become more and more conscious of our final aim and destiny. Now how is man to be prepared for a perfect life upon earth? His organization and surroundings, say the scientists, must be progressively improved. Disease must be eradicated, all unwholesome bodily practices and habits must be destroyed, the thinking faculty must be given its proper supremacy over life, the young must be indoctrinated in a knowledge of things as they are, and all men must be taught a sort of natural piety towards the general conditions of human life. An eminent positivist writer has said, as nearly as we can recollect the words, that science consists in a knowledge of the laws of nature and religion in the devout submission of our wills thereto. It is in vain, say the advocates of what may be called the hygienic school, that you preach morality or even religion so long as you leave men a prey to disease and physical enfeeblement. You may excite the emotions, you may prompt to deeds of self-sacrifice; but the forces of nature will work against you until you have arrayed them on your side. The healthy brain alone will be the breeding ground of healthy thoughts and sound impulses, and virtue will always be a more or less sickly plant until it draws its nourishment from a thoroughly healthy organization.

These views can of course be pushed to extremes; or at least they can be, and sometimes are, stated in too absolute a manner. Good health does not necessarily imply good morals; all we can say with confidence is that given good health all moral effort becomes easier, and the temptations to evil lose much of their power. We want moral teaching still; but we should be prepared to learn from the hygienic school not to despise the physical basis of all human excellence, and not to hope that we can permanently elevate human nature without taking due account of all natural laws. A writer in that excellent journal "Science," the general tone of which is far from materialistic, lately said that, whatever might be urged against materialism as a philosophy, its effects in education had been only good. It had led teachers to realize more fully than they had been accustomed to do the limits within which they must work, and how much depends on the proper observance of physiological and sanitary conditions. There is much progress yet to be made in this direction; and we can well bear with even the too fervent apostles of hygienic reform until their work is fully accomplished.

AN INIQUITOUS MEASURE.

A somewhat remarkable incident occurred in the Quebec Legislature on Friday evening. When the House went into committee on the Montreal Tramways bill, which is fathered by Mr. Bourbonnais, Hon. Mr. McShane strongly denounced the measure, and hoped that no honest man would vote for it. Almost immediately afterwards Hon. Mr. Mercier rose and supported the bill in his own vigorous style. He explained his colleague's opposition to the measure by saying that it was a private bill, and that ministers had a perfect right to oppose or support private bills as they saw fit. If Mr. McShane's reading of the bill is the correct one, viz., that it is a "boodlers' instrument," Mr. Mercier is placed in rather a bad light. Mr. McShane has spoken out plainly on the question, and by his utterances has condemned in advance the tactics of his leader, and, if Mr. Mercier persists in his course, other members of his party will, without doubt, if they hold the opinion of their constituents as of any worth, follow the lead of the member for Montreal West. We will try to summarize the provisions of the bill, so as to allow the public to judge whether Mr. McShane or Mr. Mercier is correct with respect to its nature and tendency.

The bill is entitled "An act to incorporate the Montreal Tramways Company," and the promoters are Joseph M. Fortier, Edmond N. St. Jean, C. A. Vallée, Ubald Garand, Louis Perrault, George Daveluy, J. Odilon Dupuis, P. G. Martineau and Louis Napoleon Dupuis.

The capital stock of the company is placed at $100,000, divided into shares of $50 each, with power to increase the capital to $1,000,000.

The company may commence operations as soon as 50 per cent. of the capital is subscribed and 20 per cent. paid up.

The company shall have the right to convey passengers over any streets or highways whatsoever in the city of Montreal and adjoining municipalities by means of omnibuses and tramways, and for the requirements of its passenger traffic from the city of Montreal to the adjoining parishes shall have the right to construct plank roads, macadamized or gravelled roads, not less than three miles in length, whether these roads be made upon entirely new ground or as an improvement to an existing road, not being a turnpike road, or by partly making a new road and partly improving an existing one.

The company is also authorized to open up St. Denis street, from its present boundary in the village of Cote St. Louis, in a straight line, as far as the River Des Prairies and to plank, macadamize, stone or gravel the same, and also Sherbrooke street, as far as La-Pointe-aux-Trembles; the width of the said streets shall not be less than one hundred and fifty feet. Should the company decide upon opening up such streets, it shall give notice thereof to the secretary-treasurers of all the municipalities through which the said streets shall pass, and a similar notice shall be given to the owners of all lots, which it may be necessary to expropriate; the person whose name is entered as such in the registry office to be deemed the proprietor of such lots of land, and should any dispute arise regarding the value of the property expropriated, three arbitrators are to be appointed, one by the company and one by the proprietor, these two to name the third, the decision of the arbitrators in all cases to be final.

The company is also to have the right to collect tolls upon all the roads which it may open, the said streets and roads to belong to the company, but it shall be obliged to allow the public to use them, of course upon the payments of tolls.

No tramway, surface or elevated railway can be established on the streets or highways opened by the company without the consent of the latter.

The affairs of the company to be under the control and management of a board of seven directors, each of whom must be a shareholder to the extent of at least $500, the first directors to be J. O. Dupuis, Ubald Garaud, C. A. Vallée, Louis Perrault, J. M. Fortier, Edmond N. St. Jean, Paul G. Martineau.

The directors of the company shall have full power and authority to make, amend, repeal or enact all such regulations, rules, resolutions and by-laws as they may deem expedient for the proper administration of the company and the acquisition, administration and the employment of its funds, goods and property and its business and transactions, the making of agreements or execution of contracts with the aforesaid cities or adjoining municipalities, the declaring and payment of dividends, out of the profits of the company, of bonuses out of certain portions of the stock, the form and manner of issue of stock certificates and shares and the transfer of shares, the fares to be paid for the conveyance of passengers and generally to do everything which may be necessary to attain the end and secure the exercise of the company's powers.

The company may purchase any real estate bordering on the roads it may open, may borrow upon debentures to the amount of fifty thousand dollars, and shall have power to hypothecate any of its property, tolls and revenues, in whole or in part, for the payment of the moneys so borrowed and the interest thereon. The act to come into force on the day of its sanction.

This is granting away the privileges of the city with a vengeance indeed. Should this bill pass it would create a most powerful and oppressive monopoly. The company could take certain streets of the city, lay as many tracks upon them as it chose, charge whatever fare it saw fit and give as poor a service as it liked and the citizens would have no redress. If it suited its interest to make a new street it could expropriate land through any gentleman's grounds, even—for aught there is to the contrary, in the bill—going so far as to turn him out of his residence. It is an iniquitous bill, and it is no wonder that Mr. McShane opposed it so vigorously. The only wonder to us is, that Mr. Mercier could for one moment support such a measure. Surely he will not plead ignorance of its provisions as one of his law partners, Mr. Martineau, is the promoter of the measure and is named as one of the first directors of the proposed company. If Mr. Martineau has not taken Mr. Mercier into his confidence and the latter gentlemen is still in the dark regarding the valuable franchises he proposes giving away, it is to be hoped he will make himself fully acquainted with them before the obnoxious measure is again brought before the House. We cannot imagine how anyone having the interests of the city of Montreal at heart can conscientiously support such an iniquitous measure, and we call upon every one who has the welfare of this city at heart, both in and out of the Legislature, to exert himself to the utmost to procure its defeat.

AN AMERICAN ANNEXATIONIST.

The New York Sun has suddenly become a strong advocate for the annexation of Canada to the United States. It finds that the fact of the Grand Trunk Railway being in Canada, and not subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, interferes with the operation of the Interstate Commerce Law. This Canadian railway is so situated that it can carry the produce of the United States North-West to the sea without reference to the rates charged by the American lines, and is thus "a constant source of danger to the maintenance of fixed and reasonable rates between the East and the West" of the United States. "It does more," the Sun adds, "to disturb values and produce dissatisfaction than anything else now in view, except, perhaps, the great waterway beginning at Duluth and ending on the lower St. Lawrence." The joint occupancy of this great waterway and the possession of the canals of the St. Lawrence by Canada, our New York contemporary looks upon as an embarrassment to the commerce of the United States in times of peace and a danger to many of its rich western cities in times of war. To get rid of these difficulties, annoyances and dangers and to make everything smooth and pleasant for American trade and the American railway system, the Sun proposes the annexation of Canada. There is no chance, it says, of free trade relations being established between the two countries as long as the Dominion is, with regard to the United States, a foreign country. Those in favor of absolute reciprocity in Canada and elsewhere "may just as well understand, now as later, that the only free trade this country is likely to have for very many years is free trade between the states of the American Union, and the only way in which Canada, British Columbia and the other British colonies can get part or lot in it is by coming into the Union." This is plain speaking, but it is just possible that the Sun does not express the opinions in this matter of a majority of the people of the United States. If it does, nothing is more certain than that there is not the slightest chance of free trade relations being established between the United States and Canada, for the people of this country have not the remotest idea of changing their Nationality for the sake of any advantages they may gain by unrestricted commercial intercourse with the United States. In fact, one of the objections which many Canadians have to absolute reciprocity is that it may lead to annexation—that it is merely "annexation disguised." It is evident that this is not the opinion of the Sun. It apparently believes that the establishment of free trade between the two countries would increase the difficulties that lie in the way of annexation, and it has come to the conclusion that if Canada were once admitted into a commercial union with the United States it would be in no hurry to change its political condition or to sever its connection with Great Britain. It may be that the Sun is right. The loyalty of Canadians is a strong and a deep-seated sentiment, and is not to be weakened or undermined by mere mercenary considerations. They like the Great Republic well enough, but their affection for it is strictly platonic. They are most willing to be good neighbors and good friends with its citizens, to buy from them and to sell to them, to visit and to be visited, to rejoice with them when they are glad and to sympathize with them when they are in trouble, but they, as a people, have no disposition to enter into any closer relationship. They want to be the best of friends with their American neighbors and they consent to be considered as cousins, but nothing closer. The Sun something more than hints that the union of Canada with the United States may become a necessity on the part of the latter country "based upon the right of self-preservation" and that a contingency may arise when it will be brought about "suddenly and violently." This is very improbable indeed. It is very hard to imagine circumstances in which the United States would be forced to take measures for the annexation of Canada as a means of "self-preservation."

HER BRIGHT EYES IN DANGER.

The Reason Why Mrs. Langtry Did Not Appear at the Academy Last Week.

It appears that the lovely eyes of Mrs. Langtry are affected, that she is under the care of a celebrated oculist in New York and that to this fact is ascribed her failure to appear at the Academy last week. Her manager has informed a reporter that her medical adviser had prevailed upon her to remain in New York. He told Mrs. Langtry that if she remained under his treatment there would be no danger, but if she persisted in travelling from town to town and being treated by local practitioners, he would not be responsible for the result. "The glare from the footlights" said he, "is probably the principal cause of the trouble."

"Will Mrs. Langtry contest the suit?"

"Certainly," was the reply, "I wrote to Manager Thomas offering him Miss Clara Morris to fill the dates taken by Mrs. Langtry, but he replied that he would see if there was any law in Canada, and at once began suit. We have a good defence, and I do not think he can recover any damages."

New Cars for Freighting Horses.

The Grand Trunk Railway are building 25 new horse cars in anticipation of a largely increased importation of horses during the coming season. These cars are built to accommodate 16 horses each and are so arranged that each horse has a separate stall to himself and quite as comfortable as in a stable. One of the cars has already been completed and was examined a day or two ago by Mr. Bennett, of Kansas City, one of the largest importers in America of Clydesdales and Percherons and who made over $150,000 last year from the sales of his imported horses, says these cars are the finest he ever saw and much superior to anything of the kind on the continent of America, and strongly recommends Mr. Kimball of the Horse Exchange, who is the designer of the cars, to patent the design. The object of providing this superior mode of transit is to prevent as much as possible the deterioration in value of the horses, which have to take a journey by rail of sometimes five days' duration when being transported to the breeding farms of the Far West. It is anticipated that this superior accommodation, when it becomes known to the large importers of the Western States, will have the effect of deviating a lot of the horse traffic which now finds its way via New York, especially as the Montreal route has the advantage of being a much cooler route during the hot summer months when horses are brought across the Atlantic.

Jake Sharp on Trial.

The trial of the boodler, "Jake" Sharp, in New York, has been fixed for May 11, and it is stated that the verdict in this case will have an important effect on the condition of his confederates at present residing in this city. And this for the alleged reason that they have been receiving money from Sharp to remain beyond the line of American jurisdiction, as he was afraid of some of them giving evidence in favor of the state, and thus escaping punishment. Should Sharp be convicted of course he will not pay any more money, nor will he, should he avoid conviction. It is further alleged that one or two of the boodle gang here are in somewhat straitened circumstances, owing to the refusal of the "cashier" of the party to advance them any more money, and, consequently, they have been looking about for something to do. It is said they have endeavored to buy "The Niche," a saloon on St. James street west, but this has been positively denied. Under any circumstances it would appear now as if a crisis would soon be reached in their affairs.

An Unnatural Mother.

Mary Smith, alias Fitzpatrick, with no residence, was arrested Friday morning at 8 o'clock on St. Monique street, lying in the gutter dead drunk with a two year old child in her arms.

As she was unable to stand or sit the child was not given to her until Saturday at five o'clock, and hardly had the reserveman reclosed the cell when he and Sergeant Clark heard the child crying and apparently gasping for breath. They found the child lying on the floor, his mother above him with both hands clinched around his little throat. When the child was released from its unnatural mother it was blue and black in its face and it took fully an hour to place it out of danger.

The Recorder sentenced the woman to 9 months' gaol.

A Strange Visitor.

Wednesday morning when Mr. O. Robert, hatter and furrier, opened his store at the corner of St. Lawrence and Vitre streets, to his astonishment he saw on the floor near the open cellar door, a good sized muskrat. He immediately appropriated the intruder and put him on exhibition in the window. The question then arose as to how the muskrat got into the cellar. As late as 1820, Craig street was a small river and Viger garden a marsh, where abounded wild fowl and muskrats, and the probability is that there still are a few muskrats in the drains on Craig and other streets in that low-lying district, and that the present one by that means found his way into Mr. Robert's cellar.

The 84th.

It is rumored that Lt.-Col. Bruce Campbell has tendered his resignation as Col. of the 84th St. Hyacinthe Battalion. The cause of his resignation will undoubtedly excite curiosity, as the 84th has always been looked upon as one of the best rural Battalions in the Province.

M'GILL UNIVERSITY.

The Convocation on Saturday Afternoon.

The Lists of Degrees Conferred—The Increase of Science Pupils—A New Engineering Laboratory Wanted.

At the Convocation of McGill University, a portion of which proceedings was reported in Saturday's STAR, Dr. Johnson, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, addressed the students, pointing out that by the existing laws, graduates in arts from McGill are ignored. He hoped this would be speedily remedied by the Legislature at Quebec. Prof. Bovey, Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science in his address, said the number of pupils in Science was four times as large as in 1877. The University had been able to give great advantages to students by enabling them to pass the recess in the mechanical department of the G. T. R. and have them report on their work. The chemical laboratory has been well equipped but the want of a properly equipped engineering laboratory is much felt, which could be done for about $19,000. Already a citizen of Montreal had offered to bestow a testing machine, worth $4000, to the faculty, if a laboratory similar in dimensions to the Peter Redpath museum were built. Prof. Bovey closed his address with a complimentary reference to the Society of Canadian Engineers which has a membership of 400.

The valedictory in arts was delivered by Mr. Robert Johnson, and in applied science by Mr. William Carlyle.

In the Faculty of Arts the following honors were conferred in the graduating class:

B. A. Honors in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy—Alexander R. Johnson, first rank honors, and Anne Molson gold medal. B. A. Honors in Classics—William M. Rochester, first rank honors and Chapman gold medal. B. A. Honors in Natural Science—James B. Walsh, first rank honors and Logan gold medal. B. A. Honors in Mental and Moral Philosophy—Leslie W. Clay, first rank honors and Prince of Wales gold medal; Wellington A. Cameron, first rank honors; Robert B. Henderson, second rank honors, and James P. Naismith, second rank honors. B. A. Honors in English Language, Literature and History—Charles W. Colby, first rank honors and Shakespeare gold medal, and John A. Nicholson, first rank honors and special prize. B. A. The degree of Master of Engineering was conferred on Mr. William Johnston Sproule.

Degrees of D. C. L., were conferred on Professors Norman W. Trenholme, John S. Archibald, Edmund Lareau and M. Hutchinson, of the University.

Foresters.

At the last meeting of the Court Maple Leaf No. 20, Canadian Order of Foresters, the following officers were elected for this year. Messrs. William Renshaw, C. R., re-elected; Francis Martin, V. C. R.; Joshua E. Falle, Hon. Sec., re-elected; Chas. Wilkie, Rec.-Sec., re-elected; Daniel Beloe, Chaplain, re-elected; John Watson, Treasurer, re-elected; Peter E. Lunn, S. W., John W. Anley, J. W., Richard Lee, S. B., re-elected; W. H. Murphy, J. B. The meeting of the courts will be held after May 1st, in the Oddfellows' Hall, 662½ Craig street.

The New Hospital.

Owing to the inclement state of the weather the visit of the Civic Committee to the proposed site of the Royal Victoria Hospital, which was to have taken place Saturday afternoon, was postponed until this week. The Mayor states that the committee will probably inspect the site on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Gentle Spring.

The Manor House "St. Hilaire" entertained at a sugar party the following guests last week: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Allan the Misses Allan, Miss MacDougall, Mr. Colin Campbell, Henri Bouthillier, R. McD. Paterson and Lorn MacDougall.

A GREAT UPRISING

Contemplated by the American Anarchists for 1889—A Remarkable Programme Outlining What the Reds Will Do in the Meantime.

CHICAGO, April 26.—It is now authoritatively stated by the organ of the Socialists that the leader of the "Reds" proposed that there shall be an uprising in 1889. What would occur were the uprising he counts on successful is thus outlined: The circumstances which may permit decisive action will probably be these: In 1889 the present panic will approach a climax. It will be uproarious and alarming, accompanied by closed factories, starving workers, rioting and the use of military force. It may be even complicated by a bitter class feeling and result in a suppression of the rights of free speech, meeting and the press. Until then, unless the whole people are armed, it is the duty of the wise Socialist to hold aloof from riots in special localities. The time is not yet ripe for success. We have counted our heads and we know it. To strike this year would be to uselessly slaughter our best people, and put back the cause a hundred years. No, at present we must be wise as serpents, but harmless as doves. We must take advantage of it for

AGITATION AND EDUCATION.

Only we must speak much and act not at all. When the working people are hungry their brains weaken. One year of panic means a trebling of our forces at the very least, and while with our present 100,000 Socialists forcible action is impossible, with 400,000 (what the next panic will give us if we manage wisely) we hold the game in our hands. We have perhaps until 1889 time in which to perfect our plans. That year in Europe will surely bring brave results. In America if figures do not lie another panic, greater, deeper and more widespread than the preceding will be upon us. Not until then may we risk a cast of the iron die. Then we may strike and strike to win. The article states that they expect to have in the United States in 1889 at least divided somewhat as follows: Chicago, 25,000; New York, 25,000; New England factory states, 100,000; central coal and iron region, 100,000; Colorado and the Western States, 50,000; Pacific coast, 50,000; Atlantic and Southern cities, 100,000, and scattered at various points in towns and villages, 50,000. Continuing, the year the panic comes the public are excited, the large centres revolt, the places where but a few Socialists exist are made points for the rallying of the Conservative elements. In these small places it should be made the duty of the Socialists there residing secretly and with the aid of science and indestructive warfare to raise sufficient turmoil to keep the Conservatives busy at home. Meanwhile, in large centres bold measures should be taken. Our people should head, lead and control the popular revolt, should seize the places of power, should lay hands upon the machinery of the Government. Once installed in power, the revolutionary army committees should follow this course of action. The decrees should at once be promulgated and enforced.

HALF A MILLION EARNEST SOCIALISTS,

THE GRADUATES' DINNER.

A Fine Gathering at the Windsor on Saturday Evening—The Toasts and Speeches.

The graduates of McGill College held their annual dinner at the Windsor on Saturday evening. Mr. Arch. McGoun, jr., President of the Graduates Society, occupied the chair, having on his right Sir William Dawson, Mr. George Hague, Mr. W. H. Kerr, Q. C., Rev. Principal MacVicar, Rev. Prof. Coussirat and Rev. Principal Henderson, and on his left Principal Grant, of Queen's University, Kingston; Rev. James Barclay, Mr. John Kennedy, Mr. J. R. Dougall, Prof. Alex. Johnson, Mr. W. C. McDonald, and Prof. H. T. Bovey. Mr. N. W. Trenholme occupied the vice-chair, and among others were Messrs. George Cooke, J. S. Archibald, Q. C., Rev. A. B. Cruchet, Rev. F. M. Dewey, R. A. Dunton, M. Hutchinson, C. J. Brooke, Alex. Robertson, H. H. Lyman, H. J. Hague, D. McGoun, A. Falconer, W. Dixon, J. F. Mackie, Jeffrey H. Burland, R. P. Low (Ottawa), Henry M. Ami, Leigh R. Gregor, D. Macmaster, Q. C., J. N. Greenshields, R. D. McGibbon, A. W. Atwater, F. S. McLennan, Selkirk Cross, W. F. Ritchie, Dr. Blackader, Dr. Hutchison, Dr. Porteous, Charles Gibb, A. D. Nicolls, Dr. Wyatt Johnson, Dr. Ruttan, W. J. White, C. J. Doherty, Q. C., R. C. Smith, Dr. F. W. Kelley, Dr. A. J. Eaton, Dr. R. W. Ells, Prof. C. H. McLeod, Paul T. Lafleur, Dr. Shepherd, Prof. Charles E. Moyse, A. G. Cross, J. D. Purcell, Dr. Wilkins, Dr. Stewart, Dr. J. C. Cameron, Dr. Alloway, Dr. W. Gardner, Dr. A. D. Ross, and E. B. Busteed.

An orchestra furnished music during the dinner.

After an excellent menu had been thoroughly discussed the chairman proposed which was received with the greatest enthusiasm. In proposing the toast Mr. McGoun said that if there was one thing could warm the hearts and inspire noble thoughts and words, it should be the name of the ruler of our mighty empire.

After this toast the chairman stated that it was intended to have the jubilee poem read here, but, unfortunately, the judges had decided that none of them had "attained such excellence as to make it worthy of the premium." The poems marked 18 ("Mark Lovell") and 1 ("I'll try my fortune like the rest") were quoted as "distinctly superior to the others." Poems 37 ("Ernst ist das Leben"), 61 ("Ontario") and 31 ("Vivat Regina") deserved mention.

The health of the

was then proposed and warmly received.

In proposing

THE UNIVERSITY

Mr. McGoun referred to several of the important questions of the day regarding their University.

Sir William Dawson rose to respond and was greeted with prolonged cheers. He spoke vigorously and hopefully on the questions regarding the welfare of the Protestant Universities in Canada, the admission of graduates on the Governing Board, the relationship between the University and the Bar, etc.

SISTER UNIVERSITIES

was proposed by Mr. R. C. Smith in an able and humorous speech to which replied, referring to many points of likeness between McGill and Queen's Universities. They had both principals from the same place and not bad principals either (laughter).

PRINCIPAL GRANT

Mr. C. J. Doherty proposed

THE DOMINION

to which Mr. W. H. Kerr, Q. C., responded.

The proceedings terminated with "God Save the Queen."

The Iroquois.

Sufficient stock has not been subscribed to the Iroquois House Hotel Company to warrant the company assuming charge this year, consequently Mr. Bruce Campbell will again be at the helm. The season at St. Hilaire promises to be good, quite a number of rooms are secured at the Iroquois and a number of excursions booked for Otterburn Park. The Park will be opened on the 24th May and the hotel will serve cold lunch that day and open for the season on June 1st.

Petition Against the Sunday By-Law.

Mr. P. O. Cerat, confectioner, of No. 966 St. Catherine street, stated to a STAR reporter that a petition signed by at least 500 confectioners and tobacconists will be sent to the City Council, asking that the by-law preventing them from opening their shops on Sunday be abolished, or that the groceries be prohibited from selling candies and cigars during the week. "If the grocers," he said, "give up selling candies and cigars during the week we can afford to live on six days' profit."

Death of a Crimean Veteran.

The late Mr. J. Kimber, who died recently was a Crimean veteran and for many years an old comrade of Mr. G. Waldron, of this city. He sailed with him from Queenstown, Cork, for Gibraltar, in 1854, in the troopship "Star of the South," for seat of war in the Crimea and was present at the siege and fall of Sabastopol, September 8th, 1855, and after the war sailed from Balaclava for Canada in the troopship "Simoon," and landed at Montreal, June 26th, 1856.

A Jubilee Suggestion.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—As suggestions for the coming jubilee celebration seem to be the order of the day, permit me to throw in my small contribution. The statue of our beloved Queen which has so long graced Victoria Square has grown somewhat dingy and a renewal of the bronzing would, I think, be an improvement. Trusting that this suggestion will meet with some consideration,

I remain, FRANCIS.

C-h-o-o! C-h-o-o!! C-h-o-o!!!

Don't sneeze, sneeze, hawk, hawk, spit, blow, and disgust everybody with your offensive breath. If you have acrid, watery discharges from the nose and eyes, throat disease, causing choking sensations, cough, ringing noises in head, splitting headache and other symptoms of nasal catarrh, remember that the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy offer, in good faith, $500 reward for a case of catarrh which they cannot cure. The Remedy is sold by druggists at only 50 cents.

Jay Gould has purchased 168 acres of land near St. Louis for $5000, on which to build the machine shops of the Consolidated Missouri Pacific, Iron Mountain and Southern railroads, which will give employment to 4000 men.

A Guaranteed Remedy for the Flood.

There is no doubt in the minds of many people, that the subsidence of the water in the flooded districts leaves behind it as a memento of its visit a stratum of slime permeating everything in warehouse or dwelling, making them unfit for human habitation, and entailing much suffering, discomfort and loss. The best, safest and cheapest remedy and one that will do its work thoroughly in cleansing and purifying is the liberal use of Darling's Common Sense Soap. Every grocer keeps it.

We will be pleased to give a few bars of this soap to any person suffering from the effects of the flood and unable to purchase, on presentation of a line to that effect from some known party. Darling & Brady, 96 St. Charles Borromee.

VOL. XIX. NO. 101. MONTREAL, SATURDAY, APRIL 30, 1887. PRICE ONE CENT.

THE TRADE OF THE WEEK.

The Effect of the Interstate Law—Canadian Pacific Competition Making Itself Felt—Review of the General Markets.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's from leading trade centres indicate a moderate improvement in the movement of general merchandise. At Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco, there have been gains over a week ago. Interior demand and the call for staple goods at New Orleans, St. Louis and Chicago is marked. At San Francisco prices tend upward on liberal transactions. Sugar has advanced ⅛ to ⅞ cents per pound since the relief experienced by transcontinental lines from section four of the interstate law, and 4000 barrels have been shipped to St. Paul, via the Canadian Pacific, with more to follow. Other California overland shippers have begun to send goods East as well. Trade at Louisville is stimulated by the active measures taken to increase that city's industrial and commercial importance. The distribution of merchandise from Boston has been disturbed because of inability of railways to announce freight rates, so that the cost of delivery of goods may be determined. Interviews with over one thousand leading shippers at thirty-four cities, wired to Bradstreet's, indicate that a like delay in framing, as well as in making, rates has had much to do with the late disturbance in trade. It is also learned that railways have been and are making new, and as stated, than were first announced, which goes to relieve the situation, and that there is a sentiment among a large number of the shippers in favor of the interstate law being fully tested. The industrial situation is no more promising than last week. The great Worcester county (Mass.) boot and shoe lockout is practically over, but stove moulders, building trades and other strikers aggregate over 31,000 in April to the 28th inst. Over 90,000 coal miners are to demand an advance, as well as 30,000 iron and steel workers with strike as alternatives. The total bank clearings at thirty-seven cities for six days ended yesterday amounted to $995,783,863, against $1,058,588,118 last week, and as compared with $781,604,965 in the fourth week in April, 1886. The decline for the week is $62,775,000 or 6 per cent., but the week's total is 28 per cent. in excess of the record a year ago. The check to trade caused by the new rail rates of late is now reflected in part in the bank clearings. New York's total declined $25,000,000, Boston's $7,000,000, Philadelphia's $14,000,000, and Chicago's $8,000,000 this week, which does not result from current business alone. Interior money markets are not, as a rule, as easy as last week, owing to increased local demands in many lines.

MORE EQUITABLE RATES

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

has been dull and irregular, with lower tendencies at times, largely due to the disturbed condition of foreign markets and the uncertainty regarding the effects of the new railway rates. Money is easier and foreign exchange strong and rising. It is pointed out by Bradstreet's that wheat and flour exports, from July 1 last to date, cover the exportable surplus of last crop and that the present rate of exports with home consumption would, if continued to July 1 next, wipe out the reserves carried over last summer, if they were correctly estimated. The "drop" in wheat is due chiefly to the cliques selling May and buying the deferred deliveries. It is conceded that arrangements with the carriers have been perfected to hold the cereal through May and possibly June, is no sensational developments are looked for next week. There is little new in iron or steel. Reported cut prices on bar and rails are isolated cases and specially influenced, as a rule. Prices are very firm, with makers busy. More at the West. Copper has dropped ¼ to 10c per pound on sales of about 25,000,000 pounds abroad, several months' supplies. Calumet & Hecla dropped five points to 210. The outlook is for another struggle between the Lake and Montana copper kings for supremacy. Coffee has been feverish, irregular and lower on free realizing sales after the heavy advance, but closing for spot Rio ½c over last week. The advance in petroleum certificates of about 6c per barrel appeared as a result of the defeat of an anti-Standard bill in the Pennsylvania Legislature. The want of connection was so apparent that few, if any, were deceived, and the advance was only partially sustained. Boots and shoes at Boston are unusually active, but prices are no higher. Wool continues very quiet. Holders are firm and look for good prices. Manufacturers are buying sparingly. Some machinery is idle, more promises to become so, and some is on short time. Brown and bleached shirtings have been shaded a little, other cottons are firm and in fair request.

IRON IS GOING FORWARD

SCHNAEBELES RELEASED.

The Diplomatic Difficulty Between France and Germany Settled.

PARIS, April 29.—Premier Goblet has received a despatch from M. Herbette stating that Prince Bismarck has ordered the release of M. Schnaebeles.

BERLIN, April 20.—The North German Gazette says: "In ordering the release of M. Schnaebeles, the German Government has placed a broad interpretation upon the matter regarding the invitation addressed to M. Schnaebeles by the German police commissary as a sort of safe conduct, although the arrest itself was effected independently of the invitation and without the knowledge of Commissary Gaulsch by two Berlin officials."

PARIS, April 30.—The Foreign office has notified the press of this city that M. Schnaebeles has just been released by order of the Emperor William.

THE OTTAWAS WANT TO ENTER.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

OTTAWA, April 29.—Dr. Cousins, of the Ottawa Lacrosse Club, returned from Montreal to-day. Both the Montreals and the Shamrocks are in favor of the Ottawas replacing the Ontario's, of Toronto, in the championship series of the National Lacrosse Association. If permitted the Ottawas will enter.

The Bank Note Contract.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—I notice a statement made by the Minister of Finance in the course of his answer to queries put by Mr. Holton relative to the bank note contract, which I cannot allow to pass unchallenged. Sir Charles Tupper is reported as having said:

Tenders had not been invited, but a tender had been received from another company which was not as favorable as that of the British American Company.

In point of fact, the Canada Bank Note Company sought during a whole year, by frequent and urgent letters, as well as by personal interviews with members of the Government, to be allowed the privilege of tendering. But, although promised by Sir John A. Macdonald himself that tenders would be asked for the work in the usual way, the contract was awarded without our having had the opportunity of tendering. We made sufficient advances to warrant the Government in asking us for a tender, such as undertaking to save the country $2000 a month, or to do the work 20 per cent. cheaper than it had been done, but we insisted time and again on making a tender by schedule in the regular way. No notice was taken of this, however, and after waiting several months we sent in our tender at all hazards on September 10th, 1886. Subsequently, we learned that the contract had been granted six weeks previously! Our tender was returned to us unopened, and now lies still under seal in the hands of a notary public, to be called for, when required. Under these circumstances, the Minister of Finance is not in a position to say that our tender was not as favorable as that of the former contractors. Yours truly,

GEORGE E. DESBARATS,
President Canada Bank Note Co.

Errors of Youth.

SUFFERERS FROM,
Nervous Debility, Youthful Indiscretions,
BE YOUR OWN PHYSICIAN!

Many men, from the effects of youthful imprudence, have brought about a state of weakness that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever being suspected, they are doctored for everything but the right one. Notwithstanding the many valuable remedies that medical science has produced for the relief of this class of patients, none of the ordinary modes of treatment effect a cure. During our extensive college and hospital practice we have experimented with and discovered new and concentrated remedies. The accompanying prescription is offered as a certain and speedy cure, as hundreds of cases in our practice have been restored to perfect health by its use after all other remedies failed. Perfectly pure ingredients must be used in the preparation of this prescription.

R— Erythroxylon coca, ½ drachm.
Jerubebin, ½ drachm.
Helonias Dioica, ½ drachm.
Gelsemin, 8 grains.
Ext. ignatia amaræ (alcoholic), 2 grains.
Ext. leptandra, 2 scruples.
Glycerine, q. s. Mix.

Make 60 pills. Take 1 pill at 3 p. m., and another on going to bed. In some cases it will be necessary for the patient to take two pills at bedtime, making the number three a day. This remedy is adapted to every condition of nervous debility and weakness in either sex, and especially in those cases resulting from imprudence. The recuperative powers of this restorative are truly astonishing, and its use continued for a short time changes the languid, debilitated, nerveless condition to one of renewed life and vigor.

As we are constantly in receipt of letters of inquiry relative to this remedy, we would say to those who would prefer to obtain it of us, by remitting $1 a securely sealed package containing 60 pills, carefully compounded, will be sent by return mail from our private laboratory, or we will furnish 6 packages, which will cure most cases, for $5.

NASAL BALM

Mr. Isaac Waterman, of the Imperial Oil Co., Petrolea: Nasal Balm gave me the most perfect satisfaction of any medicine I ever used for cold in the head. I found it easy to use, quick in giving relief, and effect a complete cure within a few hours.

Mr. W. J. Hazlewood, Foreman Belvedere Stock Farm: I found Nasal Balm easy to use and quick in giving relief. After suffering several weeks from a distressing cold in my head, an acquaintance recommended me to try Nasal Balm. It was so easy to use that I at first had little confidence in it, but in an hour I made up my mind it was a good thing—I felt so much better. In less than twenty-four hours my nasal passages were perfectly clear, and I was all O.K. again.

E. C. Foster, Attorney, 36 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass., says: I have no confidence in patent medicines, but once using Nasal Balm convinces me that it has superior merits for the speedy relief and cure of cold in the head.

Mr. Thos. Dawson, General Merchant, Raglan, Ont., says: I was troubled with a severe cold in the head; once using Nasal Balm gave me immediate and permanent relief.

Capt. D. H. Lyon, Manager and Proprietor of the C.P.R. and R.W. & O.R. Car Ferry, Brockville, says: I used Nasal Balm for a prolonged case of cold in the head. Two applications effected a complete and thorough cure in less than twenty-four hours. I would not take a hundred dollars for my bottle of Nasal Balm if I could not replace it.

Mr. J. Clancy, of the Jas. Smart Manufacturing Co., Brockville, says: Nasal Balm cannot be too highly recommended for cold in the head. In my case it gave immediate relief, and in twelve (12) hours completely cured me. I would recommend any one suffering from cold in the head to try Nasal Balm.

Ex-Mayor Robert Bowie, Brockville, Ont., says: I used Nasal Balm for a bad case of catarrh and it cured me, after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

Pere Brosse.

(For Notes and Queries.)

He had been with the Indians all the day,
But sat with us at eve,
Chatting and laughing in his genial way,
Till came the hour to leave.
And then he rose, we with him, for we loved
Our good, old parish priest,
Who all his life time in our midst had moved
At death bed or at feast.

There had been something in his face that night
That thrilled our hearts with fear,
An undefinable, mysterious light,
Which told us Heaven was near.
There was a deeper lustre in his eyes,
And seemed his smile more bright,
Till, looking in his face, all Paradise
Seemed opened to our sight.

He raised his hand for silence and each head
Was bowed as though in prayer,
Expectant of his blessing, but instead
He stood in silence there.
Thrice he essayed to speak, and thrice in vain,
And then his voice came back,
Vibrating in a deep, triumphal strain
That it was wont to lack.

"My children, we must part. My task is done,
God calls me to His rest.
And though my labors seem scarce yet begun,
Surely He knoweth best.
I have grown old in laboring for Him,
My hair with age is white,
My footsteps feeble and my eyesight dim—
But all shall change to-night.

"When strikes the hour of twelve, my weary soul
On earth shall cease to dwell,
As sign of which the chapel bell shall toll
Its slow funereal knell.
Then seek me if you will, and you shall find
Upon the altar stair
The empty house my soul will leave behind,
Kneeling as though in prayer.

"Seek, then, Père Compain, on the Isle aux Coudres,
Nor fear the rising gale,
For I will guide you through the angry flood
And it shall not prevail.
He will be waiting for you on the sands,
Amid the morning gloom,
And come back with you that his kindly hands
May lay me for the tomb."

He ceased and left us as though turned to stone,
So motionless and still:
And faintly fell his footsteps as alone
He slowly climbed the hill.
Then we awoke, and all so wondrous seemed,
His words so strange at best,
We almost fancied we had slept and dreamed
That he had been our guest.

We turned unto our merriment anew,
With some kind thoughts for him,
Yet as the hour of midnight nearer drew,
And waxed the hearth fire dim,
A silence fell upon us, and in fear
We stopped and held our breath,
As though more clearly through the gloom to hear
The promised knell of death.

Then chimed the clock. And scarcely had it ceased,
Than tolled the chapel bell,
As though for some long-suffering soul released,
Its slow funereal knell.
And on its ebon wings the rising gale
Swept landward from the sea
And mingled with the chapel bell's long wail
Its own sad symphony.

We found him lying lifeless, as he said,
Before the altar, prone,
Nor laid our sinful hands upon the dead,
But left him there alone.
And launched our frail canoe upon the tide,
Not marvelling to behold
Before our prow the billows fall aside,
Like the Red Sea of old.

On every hand the screaming waters flung
Their great white arms on high,
And over all the thundering storm clouds hung
And battled in the sky.
Yet fearless we sailed on, until, when day
Broke, panting, through the night,
The fertile Isle aux Coudres before us lay,
Its beach with breakers white.

And there, upon that tempest beaten strand,
Waiting, Père Compain stood
And beckoned to us with uplifted hand
That stilled the raging flood.
No need to tell our errand, for that night
Père Brosse had sought his cell
And told him all, then faded from his sight,
Breathing a kind farewell.

CHAPTER XI.—(Continued).

He clasped her in his arms. "No, no, no! my child, it cannot be! It shall not be!" he groaned, and sank back into the chair again.

He was no longer the self-controlled and calculating business man. With the tears that a moment since had burst the ice, the charmed cord of his life had snapped. Amos Carleton was but a trembling, tottering wreck. Maime, in her own struggle, did not notice it.

"Father, it shall be!" she said, little dreaming what a phantom of the past she was addressing, "and, more than that, it shall be done at once and willingly!"

"You are mad! you are mad!" exclaimed Amos Carleton, gathering himself for a moment in despair. "It is Sir Edgar Stanley! You are mad! Don't marry him! O Mary, my daughter, for heaven's sake DON'T!"

Only a moment, as that blow fell, Maime staggered under it. Then again she gathered herself for the last great struggle, and in a voice that was calm and low and determined, she said, "Father, I will marry him. It is my own free will. Come, come to the desk, father, and write the note. Tell him to come to the house at once; to come to-morrow, ready to marry me; that there may be no delay. I shall be—I shall be proud of an English—Yes, here is the paper. Write it quickly, father."

The poor old man had followed his daughter to the writing-desk.

Would that in simple charity and justice she could have seen the vacant, expressionless eyes which rested upon her; but she dared not look into the face. Would she had braved one glance as she dictated the letter, and he mechanically followed, word for word. She would have seen that the soul of Amos Carleton was no longer in the watch-tower. She would have realized that her father had gone forever from Carleton Cottage, before that remnant of only half-animated clay took up a pen to respond to her command. But she was busy with her own concerns, and did not notice it.

The letter was finished, and for a moment the hand swung boldly as of old, while it formed the signature. It was the last flush of the embers as the gust sweeps away the lingering spark. He was utterly unable to direct the envelope. Maime did it with her own hand, sealed and sent it to the city by a servant.

Not knowing what he had been doing, Amos Carleton crept up to his room and went to bed. It was broad daylight, but he did not notice it. He had been accustomed to sit up long after reaching home, and was only following the habit of years and years' contracting. He was still an automaton.

Edgar Stanley smiled as he read the note. "I thought it would come to this," he said; and when he had finished he muttered: "Guy Underwood, you and I are quits! You kept me from one fortune; I have kept you from another."

He appointed a day for the marriage so early that Maime had scarcely time to realize what she was doing when it was all done. Neither Osgood nor Guy knew of the marriage. Maime would not give them an opportunity to interfere.

The morning before the marriage, her father crept into her room. He had only recovered from the shock sufficiently to realize what was soon to be done. He had no thought, no power to prevent it. He crept in like a thief, starting from each shadow. He laid upon the bed a package of fifty thousand dollars in gold government bonds, and clasping his daughter's hand, piteously begged her not to tell Sir Edgar. "He will take them away from you if you do, and you may need them some time, Mary. I have sent fifty to Guy and fifty to Osgood, and there's plenty more. Oh, yes, there's plenty more!"

He laughed and chuckled as he went away; and Maime, so rapt in her own troubles, did not realize that it was the first time in all he life that she had heard her father laugh aloud.

The marriage was strictly private; the father, the bride, the groom, the clergyman, and one old house-servant to watch the ceremony and open the door. That was all. His only daughter was married; and Amos Carleton, without waiting to bless the bride, fled from the room, and crept nervously into his carriage.

"Faster! faster! faster!" he eagerly repeated to the bewildered driver, till the horses were white with foam.

He stopped at his land agent's office, and told him to rent Carleton Cottage as it stood, and report to his lawyer. Then he drove to his own office, and directed the driver to return.

"To the cottage?" asked the astonished man, who had always waited in the city till his master returned, whether by day or night.

"Yes, to the cottage!" said Amos Carleton, sternly. "To the cottage or to hell!"

As the old driver turned the panting horses he looked anxiously toward the office door, which closed behind his master, and muttered to himself, "In twenty year come next December that I've druv for Mr. Carleton, I never see him carry on like that."

The first struggle was over. The fire was lighted upon the altar. Maime was married, and Kate Ashley, who had made that solemn vow to God upon her knees beside Maime's bed, had never been heard from again. The vow was broken. Only she and her God knew why.

CHAPTER XII.

Dr. Carleton sat in his tent, his head resting on his hand. In the other hand he held the precious chalcedony. He moved it slowly from side to side, watching the curious effect of the faint camplight in the deep red cloud as it floated in the centre. He was not thinking of himself to-night. He was dreaming of Maime and Guy. The mail van reached the camp. It brought him a letter from Maime. He opened it; it was not very long, but to judge of its contents by the way they were received would have been utterly impossible. It was Maime's confession. The brother read it to the end, and a deep frown furrowing his face was the only external evidence. He read it only once. It was very simple. It said, "My darling brother: Are you happy as you open this? I am sorry, very sorry, Osgood, but possibly what I must tell you will give you a little pain. Do not be angry, Osgood, for it was right that I should do it. Do not be sad, for I did it of my own free will. Before you receive this I shall be the wife of Sir Edgar Stanley. The warning which Kate Ashley sent me opened my eyes to the terrible tortures which father was suffering for us. He did not want me to do this. He refused to have me do it. But the penalty he must have suffered was such that you or I would gladly have given our lives to have saved him, and counted it nothing. You would have done it quicker than I did, Osgood, if you could. I do not fear the sacrifice; but there is one thing I do fear, and you must help me. O my darling brother, I love Guy, and he loves me. Don't let him be angry, Osgood. He cannot be, if you explain it all to him. Don't let my soul be tarnished in his eyes. It will not be, if you tell him.

Slowly Dr. Carleton replaced the letter in the envelope, and put it in his pocket. He walked slowly down from the forest-like bivouac. Some of the men saluted him, some even hailed him to bring them relief from their sufferings. But his eyes were blind, his ears were deaf, his hands were still. While the men were preparing for another day, he tried to write to his friend Guy. But words were an inadequate vehicle to convey his thoughts. In despair he placed Maime's letter, just as it came to him, in a fresh envelope, and directed that to his friend. Then he attempted to write to his father, but again he failed. Not from lack of words, however, but from the simple folly of spending reproach when the deed was done. Reproach? Yes, in all the debt of reverence which he fully acknowledged, he could hardly find the grace to remain silent, even after the deed was done.

He ground the anger into his silent soul, and in the terrible routine of battle-life four weeks went by without a letter, even to Maime. Whether he were angry with her or only terribly pained for her, he could not tell. He only came to his senses when the mail brought him another letter, of a legal kind, bearing the still more startling information that his father had died, suddenly, in an obscure Western town—died a helpless maniac, and been buried by strangers—and that it would be necessary for him to return, take possession of the property, and assist in settling an estate which was somewhat entangled, but which promised to be much larger even than was commonly supposed.

Then he realized how his father too had suffered, and in his pity he forgot to be be angry; and forgetting to be angry he even blessed his sister for the noble struggle she had made to save him.

So soon as was possible he was at home again. At home! Strangers had taken the lease, and were already in possession. Carleton Cottage offered him no welcome. With a still heavier heart he directed the driver to turn about and carry him again to the city. He did not as yet dare to venture upon visiting Maime, even if he could have consented to have become Sir Edgar Stanley's guest.

He found his father's attorneys in possession of a will made twenty years before, dividing the entire fortune between himself and Maime. More than this, the only information they could give was that for over a month before he disappeared it had been very evident that his father was insane. At last he saw it all. He had no desire to take an active part in arranging the estate; he left the matter with the attorneys, and took refuge in a a huge hotel.

There was one, however, who was in much greater haste; and Dr. Carleton had not been long in the city when his first caller's card was brought to his room.

"I left word at the office that I would not see any one!" he said, turning fiercely upon the servant, without looking at the card.

"Please, sir," replied the servant, meekly enough, "he says that he must see you, and that if you have his card you will send for him."

Surprised, Dr. Carlton glanced carelessly at the name—

"Sir Edgar Stanley!"

"Show him up!" he said, even more fiercely than he had spoken before. Then he crushed the card in his hand, and slowly lifting his fingers, he stood looking at the wreck he had made of it.

This is what Sir Edgar Stanley saw, as he entered a moment later, and, under the delicate mustache, the classical lips curved in a satanic smile.

"I am glad to welcome you as a brother," he said, bowing very low.

Dr. Carleton started perceptibly, looked at him wonderingly for an instant, and replied, "I suppose I am your brother. I had overlooked that part."

"You are rather sarcastic," said the Englishman, smiling; "but if that is the way you propose to play your game, why go ahead. It would be better than having you too familiar."

Dr. Carleton began to regret the manner in which he had received his sister's husband. He spoke more politely. "Sir Edgar, as my sister's husband, you are to me my brother. Only in the world let us be what we have always been to each other, nothing."

IRON AND COAL.

Cape Breton Mine Managers Interviewed by the "Star" Correspondent.

How the Establishment of a Great Iron Industry would Cheapen the Cost of Producing Coal, and Benefit Both Miners and Consumers—A Coal Mine Compared to A Hotel—Artificial Fuel.

III.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

COW BAY, C. B., April 14.—Although there are coal fields in many other parts of Cape Breton the only ones which have as yet been systematically worked are those of the Sydney district which occupies the eastern shore of Cape Breton County, having a land area of 200 square miles forming the rim of a great coal field extending under the Atlantic, which according to the report of the Department of Mines of the Nova Scotia Government for the year 1885, is estimated to contain, after making deductions for waste, not less than 2,000,000,000 tons of workable coal. According to the report of the Geological Survey the seams now opened contain in the areas leased for working over 212,000,000 tons. The mines now being worked extend from North Sydney to Cow Bay.

At Cow Bay are situated the Gowrie mines, owned by Archibald & Co., and under the management of Mr. Charles Archibald. The output is about 80,000 tons annually, and, according to the last official report published, there were employed underground 108 skilled laborers, 12 laborers, and 37 boys, and on the surface 18 skilled laborers, 38 laborers, and 14 boys, making a total of 227. The mine was worked during 111 days of the year. These were the figures for 1885. Those of last year were about the same, but the official figures are not yet published. The average number of tons cut by each miner daily in 1885 was six. Mr. A. L. Anderson, the underground manager, says that five tons is considered

A GOOD DAY'S WORK.

Some seams are easier to work than others, and the quantity mined per day varies somewhat in different mines. At the Gowrie the miners now receive 38c per ton. The object of my visit to the mines being to show the relation between the coal and iron industries, enquire into the condition of the miners, and listen to suggestions for its improvement, without increasing the price of coal, a description of a coal mine would be beyond the scope of this letter, but for those who have never been down in a coal mine a few words regarding the method of working will be necessary to an understanding of the system of wages. Two men always work together, being known in the books of the company by a common number, to which their output for the day is credited. The coal lies in seams, and is cut out in huge blocks of from nine to twelve tons. One man undermines the coal at the bottom while the other cuts into the wall of coal at one side. Wedges are then driven in at the other side and the huge block is thus separated from the rock. In some mines it is very difficult to separate the coal from the rocky roof, and, instead of using wedges, powder is inserted at a side boring after the undermining and side shearing has been done. In cutting narrow passage ways the blocks are smaller and the men cannot cut so much coal per day, but the miners are allowed $1.20 per yard of passage way tunneled, besides 38 cents per ton for the coal, so that their earnings average about the same as those of other miners. Thus the earnings of the average skilled miner are only about $253 per year. He has certain advantages, however, that the workmen of Montreal might envy. The miners live in very comfortable houses owned by the company, for which they pay a rental of 50 cents per month. These houses contain five small rooms and one large one. At one end of the latter is a constructed for the use of coal, and the miners are supplied with coal at the rate of 40 or 50 cents per load of about 1700 lbs., or 20 cents per load for slack coal. The open fireplace gives the room a cheerful, homelike appearance that must be very inviting after underground work. But, in spite of low rents and cheap fuel, the miner's lot is a hard one, and many find difficulty in making both ends meet. The company have a general store, and the miners are allowed what provisions they need on credit in the winter when the mines are idle, the amount being deducted from their wages in the summer. It takes until about the end of June for most of them to pay for their winter supplies; some do not get their accounts squared before August and others are never out of debt. Instead of paying the doctor so much per visit a monthly fee is paid whether his attendance is required or not. Married men pay forty cents per month, single men thirty cents, and boys over sixteen working in the mines ten cents. There is a school fee of thirty cents per mouth for married men and twenty cents for single men, but the greater part of the cost of maintaining the school is paid by the company in the shape of a school tax on property. Books are supplied free of cost. There are four teachers in the school and about three hundred children attend. The boys leave school at a much earlier age than the girls, many of whom qualify themselves for teaching, but when the mines are idle many of the older boys attend school. There is a Young Men's Christian Association library and reading room which seems to be well patronized, and the young women have

VERY LARGE FIRE PLACE

A LITERARY SOCIETY

and reading circle under the direction of Mrs. Archibald, who selects the books to be read. The relations of the miners and the manager appear to be most amicable and all the miners with whom I talked sounded the praises of Mrs. Archibald. Still the miners feel that they are very poorly paid for very hard work.

In the course of an interview with Mr. Charles Archibald, the manager, he said: "We are making so little profit out of the mine, that if we could take our capital out we would be glad to do so. Still we are doing much better than we did before the National Policy was adopted. The protective tariff has given us access to the Montreal market. Before the protective tariff was established our mine only shipped from 1000 to 2000 tons per year to Montreal. Last year we shipped 52,000 tons to that city. Without the National Policy we would be obliged to shut down."

"How would the establishment of a great iron industry in Canada affect the coal trade?" was asked.

"It would very greatly benefit it. Our mines are idle during a great part of the year for two reasons. We can only ship coal to Montreal during five months of the year owing to the early close of navigation and the demand for coal is limited. The

ESTABLISHMENT OF IRON WORKS

anywhere in Nova Scotia either on the island or on the mainland would benefit us, because it would create a large demand for coal. It established on Cape Breton Island in the neighborhood of the mines, it would probably enable us to work the mines both winter and summer. Even if no iron works were established on the island, if smelting works were started at Pictou, it would benefit us indirectly by giving us a larger market for domestic coal. As yet our iron mines are altogether undeveloped. There is without doubt valuable iron ore on the island, but in what quantities remains to be proved. For my own part I would like to see Ontario and Quebec iron smelted here. It would build up a reciprocal trade between the two sections of the country, and be mutually beneficial. If the enlargement of the St. Lawrence canals on the Welland scale were completed, so that we could send our steamers through without breaking bulk, we could lay coal down in Ontario almost as cheaply as in Montreal, and I have no doubt that we could supply the people of that province with coal at lower prices than they can get it in the United States. Eastern Ontario has immense deposits of iron ore of the best quality, and by taking ore as ballast on the return trip it would cost us little more for transportation than to bring it from points near at hand. The United States annually imports many hundred thousands of tons of iron ore from Spain for smelting purposes, and I see no reason why we should not a much shorter distance, if the canals were completed. The iron ore would take much less space than the coal, and we could also bring down Ontario flour for the Maritime provinces and Newfoundland."

BRING ORE FROM ONTARIO,

It being suggested that there were valuable iron deposits in Quebec province, near Ottawa, which might be shipped before the completion of the St. Lawrence canals, Mr. Archibald said:—

"What we want is co-operation of capitalists in the east and west. If Montreal capitalists would join us in a scheme to work the iron mines of Ontario and Quebec in conjunction with the coal mines and start smelting works down here it would be almost sure to pay, always provided that the Government gave us sufficient protection for both iron and coal. We might have our own steamers for the trade, and after the navigation of the St. Lawrence closes in the autumn we could send several cargoes of coal to the West Indies and bring back raw sugar as our harbor is open several months after St. Lawrence navigation closes. Perhaps the people of Central Canada will ask why we should not take the coal to the iron instead of the iron to the coal. The reason is that iron is less bulky and not so easily damaged by handling."

Mr. A. L. Anderson, underground manager of the Gowrie mine, being asked how the establishment of iron works would help the coal trade said: "You see it takes a great deal of coal to manufacture a ton of iron, and if enough coal were required to give our miners work during the idle months we could turn out coal at a good profit much more cheaply than at present. A coal mine is

SOMETHING LIKE A BIG HOTEL.

Suppose that during five months of the year the Windsor hotel in Montreal were full of guests and during the remainder of the year there were only two or three a day, the profits would be far less than if the hotel were full all the year around. Most of the servants might be discharged during the idle season, but the expenses of the hotel would still be great. The building must be kept in repair, taxes paid and the salary of the manager and the remaining servants paid just as if money were coming in. The profits during the busy season would be nearly eaten up during the dull one. It is just so with a coal mine. Even if we did not have to pay a cent in wages during the idle season we would lose the interest on the capital invested in machinery during six months of the year while there is also a great deal of expense in keeping the mine in order, pumping out water and in other ways. We could easily increase our output to 1000 tons per day, and the more we turn out during the year the cheaper it is."

Although coal is mined in huge blocks, in shearing, undermining and loading, a great deal of coal is unavoidably broken into very small particles, and much of it is even ground to powder. This and every tub of coal raised from the mines must be subjected to a process of riddling and sifting to get rid of the slack. What to do with the slack is a troublesome problem in mine management, as it is not readily saleable either for domestic or ordinary manufacturing purposes. Of late years in Germany, France and England, a great deal of the slack has been mixed with pitch and compressed into bricks, forming an artificial fuel which is said to be in some respects superior to ordinary coal. It is sold largely to the poorer classes, who buy their fuel in small quantities, and London dealers who used to supply their customers with small bags of coal, say it is much more convenient to leave a few bricks at their doors. These bricks of coal and the only machine for making them in America is at the Gowrie mine in this place. It was erected by Mr. Archibald several years ago at a cost of $10,000, and can turn out fifty-four tons of briquettes in ten hours. The weight of each brick is about 11¼ lbs. and the measurement 9x4¼in. About 8 per cent. of coal tar pitch is used, and it is imported from Philadelphia in barrels at a cost of $7 or $8 per ton. The briquettes can be placed on shipboard at the rate of $2 per ton. As yet very few have been manufactured, as the market has been limited, but several men-of-war have made large purchases. It is claimed that it is particularly adapted for steam purposes, and most convenient for fueling, as it can be passed easily on board, making no dust. It is also said to be very easy on fire bars, and to leave only fine ashes. Mr. Archibald says that one brick placed in an open fireplace or stove will burn all night unless it is broken up, in which case it burns rapidly. Mr. Carmichael, who runs the briquette machine at the Gowrie mine, said to-day:

ARE CALLED BRIQUETTES

"The machine should have been

instead of here. We should ship the coal to Montreal as it comes from the mines without sifting out the slack. The coal dust or duff would fill in the spaces between the large lumps of coal and partly prevent breakage. As it is, so much new slack is formed before a load is landed in Montreal that a second sifting is necessary to make a clean article. If the briquette machine were in Montreal, they could do all the screening there, and thus save the cost of two or three handlings. The round coal could be graded and the slack could be manufactured into briquettes. Unscreened coal could probably be laid down in Montreal for $2.70 per ton."

Mr. Archibald being questioned in regard to this said that he first intended to have the machine erected in Montreal, but could not induce capitalists in that city to take an interest in it. He did not think that the presence of the coal-dust would be as effective as Mr. Carmichael believed in preventing breaking and crumbling of the large coal during transportation.

It may be noted in this connection that slack coal can be used as well as round coal in making coke for the manufacture of iron, and a mine having a contract to supply an iron-smelting furnace with fuel, would have no difficulty in disposing of its slack.

WM. K. — Have a hound dog sixteen months old, bites at the root of his tail; his eyes run and look very sore; he has a very offensive breath and poor appetite; he also gets lame in hind legs after running. ANS.—Feed the dog only porridge and milk; then give him a good large dose of castor oil, 1 ounce, and repeat if not acted upon; dress the eyes daily with 2 drachms of sulphate of zinc and 1 pint of water, a little to be used at each dressing; keep him clean and comfortable and in a week or so give 2 grains of sulphate of quinine in 1 ounce of sherry wine, to be given daily.

G. H. G.—Horse is affected with looseness of the bowels when driven. At other times he is all right. I have given him sulphate of iron once every two weeks. ANS.—The treatment was good, but give the horse a quart of raw linseed oil on an empty stomach and let him physic well; if he does not, repeat the dose. Then follow your present treatment and you will get him well; there must be some irritation of the bowels causing the looseness. See that all his feed is clean and dry and not musty.

T. G.—Colt's joints appear to go out and in when the animal walks. 2. Mare with foal is sick every few days. She stamps her feet and looks round at her sides. ANS.—1. It is laxation of the patella. Give the joint he is lame on, which will be the stifle joint, a good blistering, and put on a high heeled shoe. 2. Cause is some irritation of the bowels, improper feeding and indigestible food. Feed mashes and give a quart of raw linseed oil; if no action on the bowels repeat the dose in several days; change her diet and do not let her overload her stomach.

MINNIE.—Colt crouches down when harnessed, as though the harness hurts her loins; seems weak in the back; perspires much when driven before she has gone a mile; is quiet. ANS.—I would advise applying hot flannels, wrung out of hot water, over the loins, with a dry one over it or a new-flayed sheepskin; give an opening dose of physic followed by tonics, as sulphate of iron 1 drachm, bicarbonate of soda 2 drachms, to be given in the feed. Give milk, 3 or 4 quarts a day, to drink, and make her comfortable in a good stall or loose box.

ANKLE.—Horse interfered on account of bad shoeing and caused an enlargement on one ankle. ANS.—See that he is properly shod, and then give the enlargement a good blistering with biniodide of mercury 1 drachm, lard 1 ounce; repeat in 10 days. But I may say there will always be more or less a little of the enlargement left. That is the treatment and nothing else.

A. F.—1. Have a mare 9 years old; when driven falls in and looks bad; hair long; looks dry, and stands on end, bowels rumble all the time. 2. Has had cracks on her forefeet between the heel and fetlock for 4 months. 3. She has a sore place on her back right over her hips; seems to be swelled; she appears to have some trouble with her kidneys. ANS.—She certainly is in a bad way. 1. Put her on bran mashes for two days, then give her the following ball: Aloes, Barb., pulv., 6 drachms; calomel, 1 drachm; ginger, 1 drachm; lard sufficient to make a ball; let her physic well; at the same time, dress the heels daily with mercurial ointment. For the sore hip, bathe well with hot water, and wash after with the following lotion: Sugar of lead, 1 ounce; sulphate of zinc, 1 ounce; water, 1 quart; after the physic stops, commence to give her 1 ounce doses daily of Fowler's solution in her drinking water, and change the diet; in time you will have a better looking animal.

THE FLOODS.

What People Say About the Recent Inundations.

Some Objections.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—As our dynamiters have found by soundings where the ice touches ground and hence the reason of the backing of the water, it might be a question whether it would not be better to deepen the channel from Hochelaga to Sorel, or wherever the dam is formed, remove such portions of the Boucherville Islands as form a resting place for the ice, and thus do away with a possibility of any portion of the ice resting on the bottom of the river. It is useless to talk of building a high revetment wall, or an embankment to keep out the rising water, as so great is its force that the flood-gates on the sewers would burst and let it in inside of the embankment, or we would find it rising and flowing back upon us by Lower Lachine or Upper Lachine even, the old bed of the River St. Lawrence being bounded by Cote St. Antoine and Dorchester Hill.

As to the ice dump, my plan would be to have an elevated track at Hochelaga, dump the sleigh loads of refuse into open cars below and carry it away to fill some of the crevasses and coulées between Montreal and Terrebonne, giving it to the farmers on the road as manure. Yours truly,

How to Prevent the Flood.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR—Allow me to suggest the proper way to prevent the floods. Last year and years before, hundreds of dollars and suggestions were given without any success, and some of them were not taken into consideration and were good. Last year I was speaking about the idea I had of it, and I was asked to make a report about it, but not being a pilot neither an engineer, as I knew none but those of engineers are taken, I thought better to not answer as too many of them had given their ideas without being listened to, but seeing the same flood this year, and no doubt it might be worse if the Lake St. Louis ice came down, I will give the idea I had, and still have, to prevent such floods.

For the last five or six years I have been watching the river side principally in spring time, and last year and this year I went every day to watch the proceeding of the ice and form a conclusion as to the ideas I had, and they are the same and will ever be.

This year thousands and last year thousands of dollars were spent, and yet as regards the advice of the Mayor and the so called Captain of Lachine, millions will be spent to build these piers at Dorval.

See, this year again the water rise and still the Lake St. Louis ice is firm and solid. The Laprairie Bay is clear of ice, and the ice at Boucherville is blocked from the top to the bottom of the river without a channel to let the water run down, and there are mountains of ice there. Why not take away these battures below, that have been made by filling the shoals from the dredging of the Harbour Commissioners, then the ice that runs underneath would pass through without being jammed there, but no, the ice that runs underneath makes a jam in the channel and the water must have a course or rise and there is the flood. If I would see a flood a little further on below these battures it might have another view, but no it is not, no rise of water; no blockade of ice, and still we want to spend millions again. So, Mr. Editor, my idea came to a conclusion and will ever be if they don't take these battures away. Build piers, do anything they wish, they will never stop the flood.

Yours, etc., W. H. P. CUSSON.

Protection From Floods With Profit.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—While there are so many schemes afloat for prevention of spring and autumn flooding of this city and outlying municipalities, would it not be well for some of our capitalists to take the question up and consider how protection and profit might be brought about at the same time.

I think a company formed to build an embankment and canal from the head of the Lachine Rapids to the Victoria Bridge, or nearer to the city, would do a great deal towards protecting the city, and at the same time have one of the finest water power canals in Canada, if not in America. The embankment could be built wide enough to accommodate mills of the largest capacities, city, railway lines, etc, a system of locks connecting it with the Lachine Canal for freight accommodation.

The land extending back from the river front could be purchased and disposed of at a large profit. Such a water privilege would make this city the Minneapolis of the Dominion and extend its limits to Lachine.

A water power system could be introduced to supply all south of the Lachine canal, and electric light plant erected that would furnish light cheaper than gas.

The outlay would be heavy, but the returns would pay larger profits than any investment in our Wall street manipulated stocks, besides largely increasing our city revenues.

We have the men in our midst who could handle such a scheme. I trust they will give it their mature and practical consideration.

Without taking up more of your valuable space at this time, I would thank you for this privilege and remain,

Yours, etc, J. L.

The Corporation Advised.

EDITOR STAR,—To an onlooker the discordant influences at work to mismanage the municipal affairs of the city of Montreal are in strange contrast with the motto inscribed on the city arms "Concordia Salus."

In health matters it has cost the city millions in cash and loss of trade; in financial matters much more, and in engineering matters no end of loss. And now in the matter of prevention of floods, everyone who has an "axe to grind" has a scheme to offer.

Surely the futile attempts made this year by blasting must have convinced the public that temporary and experimental expedients will not do.

I presume if the total damage for the past (say) 25 years were counted up it would amount to a much greater sum, interest and principal, than it would cost to raise the whole low-lying level of the city above high flood water-mark, which is the only common sense remedy for the evil.

This has been done in Chicago, Boston, New Orleans, and many other cities of the United States, where large areas have been "filled in" with earth from the neighboring hills, and from dredgings of rivers and harbors to form extensive plateaus of made soil on which these cities have extended valuable quarters wholly elevated out of reach of damage from flood or stagnant accumulations with their unhealthy effluvia. If the city of Montreal would set itself seriously to the task of raising the whole flooded area to a point above high flood water mark, the money spent in doing so would enrich the laborers and contractors of the city and the merchants they deal with, and would enhance the value of the real estate thus improved, and save the annual destruction of property now occasioned by floods to say nothing of loss of life, with the compound interest thereon for all time to come.

Instead of sending deputations to the Government of the Dominion asking for aid (like screaming children too stupid to use their own exertions to help themselves) let the Corporation of Montreal adopt a common sense course and issue debenture to pay for it, and go to work at once, and before next spring the work (in these fast days of railway construction) would be completed, and floods would be consigned to the old days of wheelbarrows and stage coaches. "Up and at it."

My only excuse for troubling you with this communication must be my lingering interest in "the old city of the valley."

Yours Respectfully,
W. E. BESSEY, M. D.

The Inundations.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—In my communication of last Saturday I stated that the lake ice had not come down; it commenced to move this morning. It first shoved towards Ile Dorval, where it lifted two barges out of the river, planting them on the public road, and causing travellers to make a road through the fields. About noon the whole body of the ice was on the move, and (4.30 p. m.) it is passing in immense fields; it is supposed that the first portion must now have reached the vicinity of the Victoria bridge.

It is now about thirty years since I recommended the removal of Ile Ronde. I saw that the construction of new projecting wharves narrowed the channel for the passage of the anchor ice, and caused a ridge, or dam, to form across the current St. Mary, at Ile Ronde; and when the lake ice came down, the passage was completely blocked, forcing the water back through the city drains, flooding the lower levels.

Forty years ago the Military Engineers pointed out the remedy; for thirty years I have annually done the same, but in vain. The city has been made a nest of disease, thousands of children have, I may say, been murdered, and now that we are suffering from a repetition of the fearful visitation, the question is asked, what is to be done? Is Ile Ronde to remain as an obstruction, are the shoals above and below the current St. Mary to be dredged, is the pier at St. Lambert to be blown up, are the rocks behind St. Helen's to be ditto or what? The citizens are waiting for a reply.

A writer in one of our city papers recommends the construction of piers and booms across the lower portion of Lake St. Louis. I discussed the matter with our worthy Mayor this morning, and we came to the conclusion that it would be like tying an elephant with a thread; the booms would be smashed to pieces, and perhaps the piers would be driven down. Ice four feet thick is an enemy to be dreaded.

In one of my letters I remarked that if Montreal had belonged to the Americans, half of the Island of St. Helen would have been removed to make a channel for the ice. A breadth of ten feet might at once be taken off the south side, and the whole channel deepened to at least six feet.

Your obt. servant, JOHN G. DINNING.

What Ought to be Done.

To the Editor of the STAR:

SIR,—After reading the reports and statements by interested parties with regard to the prevention of your (now) periodical floods one cannot help coming to the conclusion that it is absolutely necessary to construct piers or embankments somewhere.

Of course the exact locality must be established by a Board of competent engineers, but my immediate object is to draw your attention to the ways and means for accomplishing the matter.

Of course one can readily understand that the Montrealers object to incurring such an additional heavy debt (say $500,000) and naturally look to the Federal Government for assistance.

In view however of the present heavy Dominion debt one cannot look for much help in that quarter in the shape of a money grant, but I would suggest that a compromise be effected in the following way, which I fancy would suit both parties:

Let the Government give the services of as many convicts as could be employed. Let the city of Montreal pay for the service of the Engineers and Superintendent as also the necessary materials, at the same time furnishing the shanties (or tents) for the use of the convicts and wardens.

This would be an easy mode for the Government to render assistance as the convicts could be fed quite as cheaply at Montreal as at Kingston, in addition to which, the employment of them on public works could not be well objected to, and would put a stop to the cry of convict labor competing with the legitimate industries.

This plan has been carried out with great success in England, where, to mention the only case that strikes me at the moment, the wonderful breakwater at Plymouth (I think) was built entirely by convict labor.

I do not know if the suggestion is of much value, but I should be greatly pleased if it led to the utilization of convict labor on our public works. Yours truly,

Quebec, 25th April, '87. QUEBEC.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

Koheleth.

Information was asked in the STAR of March 19 about "Koholeth," who is mentioned by Mr. H. Rider Haggard in the 5th chapter of his recently published novel "Jess." Mr. Haggard, according to the two following letters, which seem very clear and satisfactory, has spelt the name wrong. The Hebrew word "Kohéleth" seems to be equivalent to the Greek "Ecclesiastes."

DEAR SIR.—In your last issue information is asked about Kohéleth, whom Mr. H. Rider Haggard refers to in his novel "Jess." I have to state that Kohéleth is the Hebrew name of the Book of Ecclesiastes, and also the name assumed by its author—generally considered to be King Solomon—who styles himself Kohéleth in the opening words of the book. The first verse of Ecclesiastes reads thus: "The words of Kohéleth, the son of David, King in Jerusalem;" then follows the familiar verse, "Vanity of vanities, saith Kohéleth, vanity of vanities, all is vanity."

The signification of the word Kohéleth is, one who calls or assembles together, hence one who calls or assembles people together for the purpose of exhorting them, or for religious purposes; and thus in the English translation of the Bible most commonly in use here it is rendered the Preacher. In the Midrash we are told that King Solomon obtained this particular title because he spoke or preached these words before the congregation (Hebrew Kaäl). Kohéleth is in the feminine form, which is considered to be due to the fact that in this book King Solomon personifies wisdom, which is usually spoken of in the feminine.

With the above explanation I trust that Mr. Haggard's reference will be made apparent to all Bible readers. Yours truly, Montreal, March, 1887. A HEBREW.

CARLETON PLACE, March 21, '87.

Kohéleth, not Koholeth, is the Hebrew name for the Book of Ecclesiastes: "Ecclesiastes called by the Hebrews Kohéleth." The quotation as given does not occur in the Canonical Book of Ecclesiastes, but one something like it is found in the Apochryphal Book of Ecclesiasticus, the work of Jesus, the son of Sirrah. "There is a wisdom that multiplieth bitterness." The Book of Ecclesiastes was written by Solomon, to whom the name "Kohéleth" is doubtless intended to apply. M. W. B.

Kindergartens.

To the Editor of Notes and Queries:

DEAR SIR.—I have been told that kindergartens have only existed in this country for twenty or thirty years, but I am aware of one, or at least a school conducted on similar principles, which was in operation in this city fifty years ago. Many Montrealers will remember an old building on St. Francois Xavier street, which stood on the ground now occupied by the Express Buildings, and was formerly occupied by Benning & Barsalou. It stood a little back from the street, and its court yard was enclosed by a wall surmounted by a railing. Before that time it was occupied by the school in question, which was furnished with rows of seats, rising one above the other. The walls were hung with pictures and diagrams, and children were taught orally, and went through exercises illustrative of elementary education. In the playground, at the back, were wooden bricks and appliances for teaching the arts of construction. I do not remember the name of the master, but perhaps there are old inhabitants who may be able to give fuller details of this very interesting school.

G. H. H.

Montreal, 30th March, 1887.

I am much obliged to my correspondent for his interesting communication, and hope that some one else may inform us of the name of the master of the school. Friedrick Frœbel, a celebrated German educator, was undoubtedly the inventor of the kindergarten system of school instruction. He was born in 1782, and died in 1852. From 1807 to 1810 he was the associate of Pestalozzi in a Swiss school. In 1816, he founded a school himself at Griesheim, Thuringia, and after transferring his school to Keilhau, near Rudolstadt, there practised for 15 years his peculiar system of education. It was based on the principle of cultivating the activity of the pupil by connecting manual labor with every study. He held that the powers of infant minds, before they become stunted by neglect, must be harmoniously developed in an institution specially adapted to prepare these young minds for the ordinary processes of school instruction. A school such as his he called a kindergarten, i. e., "a garden for children," partly because it was to be located in a hall within a garden, and partly because the children were to be treated like plants, being carefully tended, and aided, in the development of their natural powers. His first attempt at a practical realization of this scheme is said (in Kiddle's "Cyclopædia of Education") to have been in 1840; the second at the invitation of the Duchess of Meinigen in 1849. In that year he began the training of young women to be kindergarten teachers. Poor Frœbel shortly before his death was charged with being a Democratic agitator and Socialist, and had the mortification of finding the establishment of public kindergartens forbidden by the Prussian Minister, Von Raumer. If "G. H. H." is correct in his date, the Montreal establishment of fifty years ago is actually prior to Frœbel's fully developed school of 1840. Some German emigrant probably introduced the system into Canada.

Harper's Magazine for April for its leading article presents Edmund Kirke's "Southern Gateway of the Alleghanies," profusely illustrated with scenes and views in that picturesque region. An exhaustive paper by Theodore Child tells the history of the Comédie Française, the finest in the world, perhaps, its walls teeming with works of art, the labors of France's greatest modern sculptors and painters. The illustrations, which are taken from original drawings and photographs on the spot, give a gorgeous idea of these classic haunts of the cream of French litterateurs, artists, actors and fashionables, whilst the bits of personal history thrown in have a charm of their own. The number is rich in fiction, and that of the best, both sentimental and comic. Charles Dudley Warner in this number begins one of his delightful rambling trips, from El Paso to the City of Mexico, called "Mexican Notes."

NEW BOOKS.

NATURAL LAW IN THE BUSINESS WORLD. By Henry Wood. Boston: Lee & Shepard, Montreal: Dawson Bros.

Every one who has read Drummond's "Natural Law in the Spiritual World" will be interested in seeing a corresponding application of natural and fixed principles to the economic and business world in which we live. It is conceded on all hands that the present relations of capital and labor are very much strained and sadly require remodelling; and the author has tried to apply the light of Natural Law to these abuses and evils. Granting Natural Law to be defined clearly, it is certain that men cannot go wrong in applying its conclusions to every form of their business; but this is just the rub, men will not agree as to what Natural Law provides for. Mr. Wood, amongst other applications of it, thinks that it should be conceded that men have a right to the full outcome or value of their labor, and thinks the easiest way to preserve smooth relations between contracting parties, is for the temporarily stronger party, capitalist or employer, to recognize this as gracefully as he can by the method known as "profit-sharing," which is free from the objections to "co-operation." With co-operation it is a case of too many cooks spoiling the broth; in profit-sharing, the management is still that of one paramount brain; unity of purpose, indispensable to success, is not sacrificed; then again, whilst co-operation rarely can command sufficient capital for large enterprises, profit-sharing is under no such disadvantage. By the mere outlay of a certain percentage, which would not be grudged for new machinery, to crush a rival establishment, or any other such end, employers secure the best and most heart-whole labor, together with permanence, identification of interests and many things that go to make a solid business. This plan cannot be called a visionary one, as it is in actual use by many European firms, and in New York at least one firm, that of Messrs. Lorillard & Co., have adopted the method, distributing in one year $16,500 pro rata among their help.

Many other attractive topics are also treated, which we have not space to notice, but which will be found worthy of perusal. Some of these are supply and demand, Socialism, labor combinations, the unequal distribution of wealth, etc. The book is neither Conservative nor Radical in tone; it takes rather a moderate middle position.

NEVER FORGETTING. M. L. Holbrook. New York: M. L. Holbrook & Co.

Surely a useful little book this. If the senses are the gateways of knowledge, then the impressions we get through the senses should remain and be within recall, if we are ever to know anything. What use were all the waters of the Atlantic if we dipped them up with a sieve? Dr. Holbrook has much to say about the best methods of stopping holes in sieve-memories, and so acquiring knowledge as that it will make impressions clear, permanent, and capable of revival on demand. Firstly, he declares health to be the chief condition of good memory. Pure air, nourishing food, active exercise lay the foundation for sound brains on which vivid impressions can be made. Next, he tells us that attention is important in receiving and storing mental impressions. What interests, what arouses attention, is best remembered; observation, study, are therefore most profitably employed in directions for which one has most natural taste and aptitude. People of a mathematical turn remember dates well and the formulæ of the exact sciences; people of an artistic tendency, remember the details of landscapes, peculiarities of form and feature. Nature points out in each case, not only where memory is most impressible, but also gives hints not less valuable as to what phases of memory need cultivation. Mathematical ability will not bring a man out of a forest wilderness as quickly as careful attention to peculiarities of path, stream and bend of trees to prevailing wind. Attention and repetition of an impression will do much to make an impression clear: much can be done toward making it lasting by linking it to strong and deep impressions which have become part and parcel of the mind. Association of ideas, dovetailing the newly imported fact or principle into relations with facts or principles long familiar, will make it stick as it ever would if it came into the mind as an isolated, unconnected bit of information. Dr. Holbrook has some sensible advice as to learning a language, important advice in bi-lingual Canada. Why is it that a servant, a farm-hand or factory operative will pick up French or English, according to need, in so much less time than people of more education? Because they begin as children do by learning the names of common things, and how to ask for them and speak about them. The uncommon things which fill so many "methods," vocabularies and dictionaries are postponed for consideration indefinitely. Familiar every day objects and topics are the best subjects for the student of a language; let him grapple its grammar at leisure.

Dr. Holbrook has done a good work in writing his book, for it is what we hold, not what we simply catch, that makes our store of knowledge grow.

PRISONERS OF POVERTY. Helen Campbell, Boston: Roberts Brothers.

This volume is a reprint of a series of articles contributed to the New York Tribune, dealing with the condition of the working-women of New York. Mrs. Campbell describes with photographic fidelity the poverty and wretchedness of these women. From Europe every year comes a tide of poorer and still poorer Hungarians, Bohemians, Italians, whose lower standard of living brings them into disastrous competition with Americans, Irish and Germans. Wages have fallen gradually until to-day they represent in purchasing power but two-thirds as much as they did seven or eight years ago. While the cost of clothing has declined, food is as dear as ever, and rents constantly rise. Thousands of women, by arduous toil of twelve to fourteen hours a day, earn but four dollars a week. Few, comparatively, earn six; very few more than six dollars. The effects of all this in undue crowding in tenement houses, pressure toward vicious courses and general demoralization are set forth by Mrs. Campbell without flinching. She exposes the fraudulent methods by which helpless women are robbed, and she shows how the strife of unceasing competition bears hardest on the weakest and most defenceless members of the community.

Very suggestive are the chapters wherein the authoress discusses the question of domestic service as a resource for the oppressed female operative. We are given that operative's view of the case, in her own words. The lack of limits to hours of service, unsympathetic, tyrannical treatment, and social loss of caste, are the reasons why women prefer a superintendent or contractor to a mistress. Mrs. Campbell plainly sees how much mistresses are to blame as well as maids. For all the hideous wrong by which the strong and rich grow stronger and richer at the expense of the weakest and poorest, she sees no remedy but the development of the sense of duty which shall not only curb the riot of competition, but lead the poor to faithfulness, integrity—the virtues needful for self-employing co-operators.

THE MASTER OF THE CEREMONIES. By George Manville Fenn. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Montreal: Dawson Brothers.

George Manville Fenn holds a high place in the English world of fiction as a writer of society novels, and deservedly so. His works are full of humor, pathos, versatility, and entertaining from beginning to end. The volume before us is no exception to the rule. It is a charming story, told only as a Fenn can tell it. The scene is laid in a quaint seaside resort in England, the time being the last century. Stuart Denville, Esq., the Master of the Ceremonies, a gentleman who welcomes new arrivals, introduces them to residents and visitors and looks after their entertainment generally—of course for a consideration—is introduced to the reader in the opening chapter, and his individuality is the foremost character to the close of the book. Scarcely less prominent, but far sweeter, is the author's creation of the Master's daughter, Claire, whose courage during trial, sympathy with those in distress, together with the general loveliness of her character, make the reader loth to hear of the indignities to which she has to submit at the hands of persons calling themselves gentlemen; at the same time one can rejoice at the final overcoming of all her difficulties, and the happiness that rewards her faithfulness. The whole plot hangs on the mysterious murder of a lady boarder at the house of the Master, the committal of which crime leads to misconceptions innumerable. Claire thinks that her father committed the deed, while Mr. Denville believes that his scapegrace son was the guilty party, and the lips of both father and daughter are sealed, the daughter, as she imagines, to screen the father, and the father to screen the son. Neither father nor son, however, is guilty, but the plot is so neatly worked out, that the real culprit is not suspected by the reader till his name is divulged in cold print. The other characters are skilfully drawn, the scenes and incidents of life in the last century graphically described, and novel readers will find the book well worth perusal.

NEW MAGAZINES.

The April Scribner's opens with an interesting collection of the unpublished letters of Thackary, with an introduction by Jane Octavia Brookfield, to whom many of the letters were affectionately addressed. The portrait of the great satirist, after a crayon drawing by Samuel Laurence, graces the frontispiece, and the interest is largely added by a number of facsimiles of drawings by Thackeray himself, such as he was wont to introduce into his familiar correspondence. Two excellent serials are continued: Mr. H. C. Bunner's "Story of a New York House," and "The Residuary Legatee," a clever short story by J. S. of Dale. The concluding paper of ex-Minister Washburne's "Reminiscences of the Siege and Commune of Paris," treating of the downfall of the Commune, is a feature of the number, and it will certainly be considered that the documents in Mr. Washburne's possession have disclosed some valuable historical traits. Adams Sherman Hill pens a vigorous protest against the English in our colleges, which he qualifies as miserable, and which he rightly demands shall not be subordinated to any other language dead or alive.

New Publications.

A history of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, St. Gabriel street, Montreal, will be published shortly by the Rev. Robert Campbell, M. A., the advance sheets being already out. It will contain about 400 pages, and will embrace engravings of the old Church, of Old Montreal, the Recollet Church, and new St. Gabriel Church, together with portraits of many notable men connected with the church. The old Church is identified largely with the history of Montreal, and the work will refer to the early American settlers in the city and prominent members of the North-West Co. The controversies regarding the clergy reserves and disruption questions and the law suits regarding the property, the progress and settlement of the Union question, and the Temporalities fund will be touched upon. The volume will also contain an account of the centennial services in 1886. It will be issued only to subscribers whose names will appear at the end of the volume. The price is fixed at $3, and the publishers are Messrs. W. Drysdale & Co.

LAVAL UNIVERSITY.

The Passage of the Bill Providing for its Incorporation—Notes.

Dr. E. P. Lachapelle returned from Quebec Thursday, where he had been attending to the bill providing for the incorporation of the Montreal branch of Laval University. He was successful, and the incorporation was granted without any opposition. It gives Laval a civil standing and establishes its Board of Directors, which is to be composed of the Archbishop of Montreal and his suffragans, the Rector, vice-rector and representatives from the various faculties and from among the graduates of the institution, and the Superior of the Seminary of St. Sulpice.

The competition between architects, who have been requested to send in plans for the new building that the authorities of the university propose to erect on Sherbrooke street, will be closed on Sunday. Rev. Abbe Audet and Messrs. Nap. Bourassa and Eug. Taché, who have been appointed judges, will then decide upon the three best plans, and to the lucky candidates prizes will be awarded. The contracts for the new edifice will be given out in the autumn and work will be commenced then. The professors for the faculties of Arts and Sciences which have recently been established will not be appointed until the building is almost completed.

Annual Meeting of McGill Graduates.

Canadian air does not seem conducive to poetry, or is it that the jubilee does not furnish inspiration enough? Ask Lord Tennyson. Whatever the reason, out of the seventy-seven poems sent in to the Graduates society under the rules of the competition, not one has been found worthy of the prize. At a meeting of the Graduates society last evening it was decided that no poem be read or published at or subsequent to the dinner to-night.

It is understood that the poems judged as best are those with mottoes "Mark Lovell," "I'll try my fortune like the rest," "Ontario," "Vivat Regina."

Other matters were discussed. It was decided not to keep the McGill College library open on Thursday evenings as had been done, as there were too few persons patronizing it.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. Stewart; Vice-Presidents, Dr. Gardner, Mr. Alex. Robertson and Mr. Selkirk Robertson; Secretary, Mr. Alex. Falconer; Resident Councillors, Mr. McGoun, Mr. Dixon, Mr. Sproule, Mr. Dougherty, Mr. McLeod, Mr. Mills.

The dinner is to be held at 7.30 sharp at the Windsor this evening.

Officers Elected.

The adjourned meeting of the Governors of the House of Industry and Refuge was held Wednesday in the board room, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. After the reading of the 25th annual report, which shewed that $4,828.35 worth of goods and material had been distributed during the year, leaving a balance in hand of $532.34, the election of officers took place with the following result:

President, Mr. Charles Alexander; vice-presidents, Messrs. Henry Lyman and E. E. Shelton; treasurer, Mr. Richard Holland; secretary, Mr. Geo. Cruikshanks; visiting physicians, J. B. McConnell, M. D., J. T. Finnie, M. D., and A. Lapthorn Smith; solicitor, Mr. W. W. Robertson; notary, Mr. A. C. Lyman; board of management for a term three years, Messrs. Chas. Alexander, D. Morrice, Wm. Reid, R. C. Jamieson, Robt. Anderson, J. C. Baker, E. E. Shelton, Alex. Milloy, Sam. Finley and Geo. W. Reed. The various committees were then appointed, after which a discussion ensued as to the length of time able-bodied men should remain in the house, but action in the matter was deferred.

Public Offices Vacant—Who Will Fill Them?

Hon. Mr. Mercier has several very lucrative positions at the disposal of his friends, and the question as to who will be appointed to fill them has given rise to considerable gossip. Until a few years ago there were three prothonotaries in the Superior Court, and there is every likelihood that the Government will appoint a colleague to Messrs. Honey & Gendron. The names of Messrs. W. Prevost, Q. C., and Chas. Champagne are mentioned in connection with this position. The position of Prothonotary of Sherbrooke has just been rendered vacant by the demise of Mr. John Short. No one is yet mentioned as likely to succeed him. The vacancy in the Office of the Crown and Peace, caused by the death of Mr. Schiller, will also necessitate an appointment. Mr. Charles Doucet's name has been mentioned in this connection. Mr. Doucet has been Mr. Schiller's assistant for the last eight years and he is considered quite competent for the important duties of the position. Mr. Calixte Lebœuf's name is also mentioned in connection with this position.

Pleuro-Pneumonia.

The suggestion made by Dr. McEachran to the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa that the importation of cattle from England should be prohibited for a year, has not yet been acted upon. Dr. McEachran stated to a STAR reporter yesterday that there were at present interdicted districts in England from which cattle would not be allowed to land in Canada, but that he had the authority of leading veterinary people in England that the districts were enlarging and increasing, and a district free from disease to-day might be overrun with pleuro-pneumonia the next day. Canada now has such a large and fine stock held by Canadian breeders and farmers that the proposed embargo would not do any injury.

ESSENCE OF PARLIAMENT.

The Proposed New Departments—The Temperance Question—The Budget—Banff National Park—The Senate Discussed.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

OTTAWA, April 30.—The proposed new Department of Trade and Commerce was the subject of three motions by the Premier yesterday: for leave to introduce a bill respecting the Department of Customs and the Department of Inland Revenue; for a Committee of the Whole on Tuesday to consider a resolution fixing the salary of the new Minister at $7000 a year; and for the second reading of the bill repecting the Department of Trade and Commerce. Sir John explained that the bill would only come into force on proclamation, and that it was intended that the two existing departments (Customs and Inland Revenue) should form sub-departments of the new Department of Trade and Commerce, an Under-Secretary to be at the head of each sub-department to go in and out of office with the ministry and to be members of Parliament, but not to be in the Cabinet.

THE SOLICITOR-GENERAL.

The Hon. Mr. Thompson introduced a bill for the appointment of a Solicitor-General, and moved for a committee of the whole for a future day to fix the salary a $6000 a year. He explained that the duties of the Solicitor-General would be to act as counsel of the Department of Justice and to represent the Government as far as possible in cases in which the Government is interested. He would go in and out of office with, but would not necessarily form part of the Cabinet.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

Mr. Jamieson introduced a bill to amend the Canada Temperance Act, a bill somewhat similar to that which he carried through the House of Commons last session, but which was thrown out by the Senate. This gave the Hon. David Mills an opportunity to charge the Government with shirking the responsibility of dealing with the temperance question. He was particularly hard on the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who had said ten years ago that public opinion in this country was ripe for prohibition and who still posed as the apostle of temperance, but who had not made much use of the opportunities his seat in the Cabinet gave him to help the temperance cause.

THE BUDGET.

Sir Richard Cartwright, who evidently feels that his responsibility in connection with the budget is only second to that of Sir Charles Tupper, once more asked when the latter would be ready with his budget speech, and received the assurance of the Minister of Finance that early next week he hoped to be in a position to indicate the probable time.

BANFF NATIONAL PARK.

On the Hon. Mr. White moving the second reading of the Bill respecting the Banff National Park, there was considerable criticism from the Opposition benches. Nobody objected to Canada having a National Park or to the site selected, but the Liberals were suspicious of a job somewhere, and jealous of the extensive powers granted to the Minister of the Interior. The bill was declared to be one to enable the Minister to make the fortunes of his friends as hotel keepers. Former members of the House were said to hold leases of lands and privileges within the Park boundaries. The bill was read a second time.

THE SENATE.

The second reading of Sir John Macdonald's bill to give the North-West Territories two representatives in the Senate proved no less objectionable to the Liberals. There was an impression abroad, originated the other day by a hint from Mr. Blake, that Parliament could not legally authorize the appointment of senators to represent the North-West Territories without an amendment to the B. N. A. Act. Mr. Blake remembered that the Dominion Parliament had asked the Imperial Parliament for an enabling Act authorizing it to grant the Territories "representation in the Dominion Parliament." This much has already been done by granting them representation in the House of Commons, and Mr. Blake was doubtful whether, under the Imperial Act, Parliament had the right to grant the Territories representation in the Senate. Meanwhile Sir John had looked up the British Act, and found that it distinctly specified representation in both Houses. Having stoutly maintained his position Sir John was then asked by Mr. Mills whether, if he had the power to appoint two senators to represent the North-West Territories, he had not equally the power to appoint twenty senators to represent the North-West Territories. With a smile that was the Premier said he rather thought he had. "Then," said Mr. Mills, "I would remind the right honorable gentleman that if the Reform party were to come into power to-morrow, by the action of the Government, it could appoint forty senators to represent the North-West and to counterbalance the numerous appointments made by the right honorable gentleman and his friends."

CHILD-LIKE AND BLAND

"The honorable gentleman," said Sir John, "has evidently got some unholy design against the Senate. How naturally the mind of the honorable gentleman runs on gerrymandering. I give him full leave, when he gets on this side of the House, to appoint forty Senators." The Premier declared that Senate reform was not a live question among the public, only among speculative political philosophers.

Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Charlton and Mr. Mills maintained that Senate reform was a very live issue. Sir Richard called the Upper House a perfectly useless body of partisans; a scandal and disgrace to our system of Government, and while admitting that a second Chamber like the House of Lords might be useful, expressed the conviction that the Senate was in the same year as the House of Lords. Mr. Charlton was denouncing the Senate as a packed body of partisans when Mr. McNeil interrupted to enquire of the Speaker whether it were in order thus to speak of the other Chamber. The Speaker ruled that it was not.

The debate then degenerated into an unseemly wrangle between the two parties over things in general, Mr. Charlton denying the Premier's right to claim that he had public opinion at his back and avering that Sir John owed his late victory entirely to the Franchise Act, the Gerrymander and "boodle." Sir John retorted that these accusations were made because the Liberals were so utterly disappointed at the result of the elections. Everybody seemed to forget or ignore the fact that the question nominally under discussion was the Senate; until the Premier having taunted his opponents to his heart's content suggested "Now suppose we get back to the Senate." After a little more discussion the bill was read a second time.

NOTES.

The Minister of Justice has given notice of resolutions fixing the salaries of officers of the penitentiaries and providing for a gratuity of retiring allowance.

Mr. Davin's bills for Local Government in the North-West territories will provide for thirteen members in the district of Assiniboia, seven in the district of Alberta, and four in the district of Saskatchewan.

Mr. McLelan's bill relating to public offices and Mr. Pope's railway bill were read a second time yesterday.

The following bills were introduced and read a first time yesterday: To incorporate the Berlin and Canadian Pacific Junction Railway Co., Mr. Bowman; to incorporate the New Westminster Southern Railway Co., Mr. Chisholm; respecting Regina & Wood Mountain Railway Co., Mr. Davin; to amend the act incorporating the Hamilton, Guelph & Buffalo Railway Co., and to change the name of the Company to the Hamilton Railway Company, Mr. McKay; to authorize the Grange Trust (limited) to wind up its affairs, Mr. Masson.

A Railway Deal.

Senator J. G. Ross and other parties interested in the Waterloo & Magog Railway have been in the city for the last few days in negotiation with the Canadian Pacific authorities to transfer that road to the latter to form a portion of the C. P. R. short line. It is understood that the transfer will be carried out and the Waterloo & Magog be used by the C. P. R., if not as a part of the main line, yet as a branch. Trains will run, it is expected, from Montreal to Sherbrooke over the new road in September, and a large new depot is to be erected at the latter place. It is also claimed that the line through Maine to New Brunswick will be completed ere the end of the year. At the Board meeting to be held on the 11th prox., the question of building a new million bushel elevator, of replacing the lost "Algoma" and of running a line of steamers between Chicago and Montreal will be settled.

LEGISLATIVE JOTTINGS.

The Irish Resolutions—Another Non-Confidence Motion Defeated — Montreal Tramways Bill — Immigration Office Abolished — The Boodle Bill.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

QUEBEC, April 30.—On the assembling of the Legislature yesterday afternoon, after some routine business, the Speaker read an address from the Legislative Council stating that it had concurred in the address voted on the question of Irish coercion, but had made certain amendments.

Mr. McShane expressed his intention of dissenting from the amendments, and Mr. Mercier said there was some difficulty as to whether, under the circumstances, both houses could send their own addresses or not. Perhaps the Speaker could decide.

Mr. Turcotte said there was no obligation for the Chamber to adopt the amendments.

Mr. Lynch expressed the opinion that it would not be desirable to send separate addresses of the two Houses, but that what was sent should be the address of the Legislature of Quebec, without division. The effect would be better if it was known and understood that the address was in all respects that of the Legislature of the Province.

Mr. Mercier said he was not prepared to amend the resolution which had been so unanimously voted by the Legislature. He objected to making changes for the sake of making changes.

Mr. Lynch suggested that the matter should be permitted to stand over until the member for Quebec centre (Mr. Murphy who had moved the resolutions) was in his place. This suggestion was adopted.

THE FINANCES.

Several reports of the Committee of Supply were received, and on motion to go into Committee of Supply, Mr. Blanchet moved the following amendment:

That this House is ready to vote the subsidies to Her Majesty, but that it regrets that the Government has decided to confide to a Royal Commission the duty of investigating the causes of the difficulties raised on the subject of lunatic asylums, and of putting in force the law passed in 1885 relative to these establishments.

That the creation of this commission will entail considerable expense, which would have been avoided if the Government had assumed the responsibility which belonged to it.

That this House further regrets that the Government has decided not to make known to it the instructions which it intends to give to this Royal Commission.

In moving the amendment the hon. member alluded to the charges that had been made against the administration of the asylums, and said that any changes that had been introduced had not been, as alleged, on account of the charges made by Mr. Tuke. He repudiated the charge made in certain quarters to the effect that the rights of religious communities had been encroached on. The hon. member reviewed the administration of the Lunatic asylums, and read a letter from Cardinal Taschereau to prove that the charge made some time ago to the effect that the interests and rights of certain religious communities had been encroached on was not true. If the administration of the asylums was not correct the Government had it in its power to remedy the evils, and should not shirk its responsibilities by taking refuge behind a commission of enquiry.

Mr. Flynn was commencing to speak when the House rose for recess. On re-assembling, the as amended, was called, and the House went into committee on it. It was strongly opposed by Hon. Mr. McShane, who showed that its provisions were calculated to work great harm to the City of Montreal and give dangerous monopolies. With reference to the clauses which would govern the outlying municipalities of the city he said that those municipalities would soon be part of the city, and that even the village of Laprairie would ere long be within the city limits. Then it would be found the provisions of the bill were harsh and oppressive to the poor. The rates which the company proposed to impose were out of all proportion to those seen in other large cities like New York, London and Paris. He hoped every honest man would vote against the measure.

After Mr. Dechesne (L'Islet) had spoken in favor of the bill, Mr. Hall called attention to the fact that the copies of the amended bill handed around to members were different. He asked that it should be pointed out where the amended bill provided that municipalities should give power to the company before they could operate.

Mr. Mercier said there was a mistake in Mr. Hall's copy of the bill. He then spoke in support of the bill, saying that Mr. McShane had as perfect a right to oppose the bill as he had a right to defend it, because private bills were different from public measures.

Mr. Lynch strongly opposed the measure, and Mr. McShane again rose to inveigh against the principles of the bill as unjust, when Mr. Mercier called "time" and the consideration of the bill was deferred until the House gets into committee again.

THE ASYLUM DEBATE.

The lunatic asylum debate was resumed. Hon. Mr. Flynn opposed the Government on two grounds. One a question of principle, as one always opposed to royal commissions, and he based his arguments against them on such authorities as Gladstone and others in the English House of Commons. Secondly, he drew the attention of the House to the fact that the Premier had advocated principles in opposition which he seemed to abandon or forget in power. The debate was continued by Dr. Trudel, Mr. Taillon and Mr. Casgrain, and a division was taken at 1.15 a. m.; 22 voted for the amendment and 30 against—Government majority, 8. Messrs. Larochelle, Bourbonnais, Trudel, St. Hilaire and Cameron voted for the Government.

The House went into committee of supply.

IMMIGRATION OFFICE ABOLISHED.

Shortly before the adjournment Mr. Mercier announced that the Government intended abolishing the Provincial Immigration office at Montreal. Mr. Lynch and Mr. Hall protested against the abolition of the office, which they believed would not be in the interest of the province, Mr. Hall stating that he had several letters from Montreal citizens against its abolition.

Mr. McShane said if he could he would keep Mr. Marquette, the assistant clerk, in the office, and run it as an information bureau, but Mr. John Lesperance, the chief agent, was not needed, and his services would be dispensed with.

After further discussion, during which Mr. Faucher de St. Maurice paid a high tribute to Mr. John Lesperance as a historian, a journalist and a litterateur, Mr. Hall said if the Government had made up their mind to this course, he would have to consent.

The House adjourned at 2 o'clock until 11 this morning.

THE BOODLE BILL.

The Montreal boodle investigation bill was read a second time yesterday on the motion of Mr. Mercier. Mr. Hall said that he made some suggestions to Mr. Mercier the other day as to widening the scope of the bill and wished to know if they would be incorporated. Mr. Mercier said he did not quite see the force of Mr. Hall's suggestions, but they could consider them in committee. The bill will be considered in committee of the whole to-day.

NOTES.

A statement of receipts and expenditure from the 1st July, 1886, to March 31, 1887, shows the former to have been $3,615,776 and the latter $3,280,124. The receipts include a temporary loan of $200,000 from the Bank of Montreal.

Mr. Lafontaine has given notice of an amendment to the Montreal city charter bill so as to cause private schools to pay the water tax.

VATICAN AND QUIRINAL.

The Pope's Terms for a Reconciliation with King Humbert.

VIENNA, April 30.—The Tagblatt says the Vatican favors the following conditions for a reconciliation with the Quirinal:

1st.—The Pope will advise the Royal, Archducal and Ducal families of Naples, Tuscany and Modina to renounce all claims to sovereignty in favor of the Holy See.

2nd.—The Pope will crown Humbert king, granting him and his Catholic descendants territory in Italy in fief.

3rd.—The King will govern the whole kingdom, with full temporal rights, but will acknowledge the Pope as suzerain, and pledge himself to rule according to the dictates of the Church.

4th.—The King will reside in Rome.

5th.—A territory, including the Leonine city, and part of the Tiber shore, will be allotted permanently to the Pope, with absolute ruling and proprietary rights.

6th.—A special convention will be concluded fixing the amount Italy shall pay to maintain the Papal Household.

Immigrants and Their Chosen Home.

The number of immigrants ex SS. "Sardinian," via Halifax and Portland, this week, was 707. Of these 206 went by Canadian Pacific railway to the North-West, the remaining 501 being distributed chiefly over Western Ontario and the Western States, only 27 remaining in Quebec.

PROTECTION FROM FLOODS.

Yesterday's Meeting of Citizens—The Question Discussed—Text of Resolutions Passed.

After going to press yesterday, the citizens' meeting to discuss the flood question was continued, during the course of which the Hon. Mr. Thibaudeau said he was fully in accord with the resolutions read by Mr. Coristine, and having been a sufferer from the floods in the past, he was strongly in favor of the citizens taking prompt action as the floods must be prevented no matter what the cost. It was all very well, said Mr. Thibaudeau, to talk of the Commission, but what had the Commission done? It had cost $10,000 already.

MR. G. W. STEPHENS' PROPOSITIONS

Mr. Stephens proposed that the streets in the inundated districts be raised to a height above the flood level, the cost of this to be borne by the proprietors abutting on each side of such streets, the work to be carried on under the direction of the Road Committee. He also proposed "that the City Council borrow the sum of $500,000 to be applied exclusively to the construction of an embankment in front of the city to prevent the recurrence of the inundations." As a property owner, Mr. Stephens said he was quite prepared to bear his share of the expense in carrying out these projects.

THE COST OF THE EMBANKMENT.

Mr. Stephens stated that the cost of the proposed embankment would be less than one year's loss by the floods, and he would not ask the Government for any assistance in the matter, as this would only tend to delay, and while the question was under consideration Montreal might be visited by another flood. Mr. Munderloh quite agreed with this idea, and said that when the embankment was built, the railways would have to pay for using it, and it would eventually pay for itself. The Board of Trade had very little confidence in the Commission.

MR. GEORGE DRUMMOND,

President of the Canada Sugar Refining Company, was in favor of waiting for the report of the Flood Commission before taking any action, stating that this report was promised at an early date.

Mr. Coristine said it was all very well to talk of waiting for a report, they had waited long enough already, and what they now wanted was

AN ORGANIZATION OF THE CITIZENS.

He did not wish to speak disparagingly either of the Board of Trade or the Flood Commission, but the time had come when prompt action must be taken and must be had. It was of the most vital importance to both employer and employed that these floods be stopped, as each one cost at the least $100,000 in loss of wages and loss of time.

After several other speeches had been made, urging immediate action, the following committee was appointed to co-operate with the Corporation and the Board of Trade: Sir Donald A. Smith, Messrs. J. Coristine, A. F. Gault, Henry Lyman, Wm. Clendinneng, G. W. Stephens, Thomas Workman, E. K. Greene, Geo. Hague, M. Cantlie, Hugh Mackay, J. B. Greenshields, Alfred Thibaudeau, H. Beaugrand, C. S. Rodier, C. Cousineau and H. Lapointe, with power to add to their number.

The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted:

Resolved: that on account of the overflow of the River St. Lawrence, periodically, winter and spring, it is necessary without further loss of time to devise effectual means to protect the dwellings of inhabitants living in the lower lying districts of the southern and western suburbs from the floods, which cause them great suffering and privation as well as damage and loss to property, and with each recurring visitation a largely increased mortality.

Resolved: that the interests of the city demand that prompt means be taken, to protect the portions of the city heretofore flooded from further inundations.

Resolved: that we deplore the loss sustained by the trade and manufacturers of this city on account of the flood, which involves the stoppage of many of our mills and factories from ten to fourteen days annually, and a very serious loss in wages. Besides the injury and damage to manufacturers' premises, machinery and stock, also the serious loss to the mercantile community, on account of the suspension of railways shipping, which drives a considerable amount of business to other cities on account of long delay caused in the moving of freight, as well as the development of manufactures.

Resolved: that this meeting is anxiously awaiting the report of the Flood Commissioners, and in view of the importance of time in such a matter, would respectfully ask the Government to urge upon the Commission to make its report as soon as possible.

It was decided that the propositions of Mr. G. W. Stephens should be submitted to the above committee for their approval and sanction, and it was also decided that the committee should meet and confer with the Council of the Board of Trade before taking any further action.

After a vote of thanks to Sir Donald A. Smith for presiding the meeting adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC was filled Thursday night when the M. A. A. A. minstrels gave an entertainment for the benefit of the grounds fund. The programme was that of a regular minstrel show, and judging from the unstinted applause bestowed on the amateurs the audience found no fault with their efforts. The choruses were splendid, and especially in N. J. Fraser's "Beady," which is perhaps one of the best martial songs written. The "Sity Hall," a burlesque on the sedate proceedings of our city fathers, was the end of an interesting entertainment. It will be repeated to-night.

A CAPITAL COMEDIE FRANCAISE, of the time of Louis XV, entitled "La Fée," will be played at the Academy to-night in aid of the Catholic Orphans' Asylum. A comedy, "My Uncle's Will," in English, will also be played, and the evening will conclude by Labriche's Vaudeville entitled "La Grammaire."

MADAME KELLOGG, the famous American cantatrice, arrived at the Windsor last night with her artistes, and the public of Montreal will, on Monday and Tuesday at the Academy, once more enjoy the songs of the greatest of America's prima donna sopranos. Madame Kellogg does not possess the impassioned Italian style; but she has the look and air of an American lady and has that delicate beauty which belongs to them. Her voice is high and pure; but how delicate, how agile, how finely in tune. Commencing in the highest notes of the treble scale without the least effort, she invents with facility the most beautiful passages. More melodious passages may have been heard from Grisi and many of a more brilliant execution from Sontag; but nothing could be so wonderfully delicate as her management of high notes, which become softer and more pleasing the higher they go.

Sold.

A most unfortunate looking specimen of the genus man, crippled and lame and blind, applied for a pass to St. Johns, Que., yesterday morning at the Central Police Station. The Chief gave him the pass, but was not a little astonished in the afternoon on learning that the man was under arrest for lying drunk on the street, after having sold his pass.

The Celts.

At the monthly meeting of the Celtic Society held Thursday night under the presidence of Mr. J. K. Ward, Mr. John C. Pritchard read an interesting paper upon "Wales."

The lists of the Swiss Landsturm formed under the new law show an enrollment of 300,000 men.

The Ladies' Favorite.

The newest fashion in ladies' hats will doubtless cause a flutter of pleasurable excitement among the fair sex. Ladies are always susceptible to the changes of a fashion plate; and the more startling the departure, the more earnest the gossip over the new mode. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for the ills which afflict females and make their lives miserable. This sovereign panacea can be relied on in cases of displacements and all functional derangements. It builds up the poor, haggard and dragged-out victim, and gives her renewed hope and a fresh lease of life. It is the only medicine for woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. Read printed guarantee on bottle wrapper.

It is a paradox that of all shoes a felt shoe is the least felt.

Morse's Mottled Soap is the purest soap to be had. Why go and get these soaps that are half rosin, when you can get a pure soap like Morse's Mottled.

The poet evidently made a mistake. April showers bring forth umbrellas.

Why don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache and all the ills produced by disordered liver.

THE FLOOD QUESTION.

Conference Between the Board of Trade and a Committee of Yesterday's Meeting—Important Action Taken.

In response to the invitation of Mr. G. A. Drummond, President of the Board of Trade, a meeting was held at the Corn Exchange this morning to discuss the Inundation Question. Among those present were:

Messrs. G. A. Drummond, Sir D. A. Smith, M. P., E. B. Greenshields, G. Hague, H. Lyman, E. K. Greene, G. W. Stephens, J. A. Cantlie, Jas. Coristine, Jas. Williamson, H. A. Budden, D. A. Watt, W. Clendinneng, H. Shorey, W. W. Ogilvie, Jos. Cleghorn, J. M. Kirk, R. P. McLea, C. H. Gould, C. P. Hebert, E. Judge, W. C. Munderloh.

Mr. G. W. Stephens urged the necessity of immediate action, and said powers were needed for raising a loan. The cost was a secondary consideration, as the matter was an absolute necessity. The position of the Government in the matter must be ascertained and the proportion they would pay to the cost. He would propose that a committee be appointed to wait on the Premier and ask for amendment to the city charter.

Mr. Watt reminded the meeting that the City Council had accepted a suggestion to seek enabling legislation when discussing the matter last year along with Mr. McLea and the speakers as representatives of the Board of Trade.

It was moved by Mr. E. B. Greenshields and seconded by Mr. W. W. Ogilvie and carried,

"That the city members be requested to urge on the Government the immediate necessity of obtaining and making public without delay the report of the Flood Commission with the proposals they may make as to the measures to be taken to prevent the future flooding of the city."

Mr. W. W. Ogilvie in seconding the resolution, referred to the Board of Trade deputations last year to the City Council and Federal Government, also the help given the Flood Commission which had worked hard and speedily. Mr. G. W. Stephens urged the necessity of speedy action as the Legislature would soon adjourn, he was afraid that Mr. Watt's scheme had apparently been overlooked. He therefore moved: (The members being nominated by the meeting.) "That a sub-committee composed of Messrs. G. W. Stephens, J. Coristine, G. A. Drummond, A. W. Ogilvie, C. P. Hebert, R. P. McLea, and D. A. Watt be requested to wait upon the Finance Committee to ask their concurrence in sending a delegation to Quebec to secure, if possible, amendments to the city act enabling the City Council to deal with the inundation in a practical manner so as to prevent its recurrence, with power to proceed to Quebec if necessary."

Mr. H. Lyman seconded the motion, and said great stress was laid upon the protection of the South shore.

Mr. Clendinneng said that he heard that the City Council were sending a deputation to Ottawa. Here it was stated that a request was to be sent down to this meeting to ask for representatives to join this. Mr. Clendinneng claimed that Montreal's duty was to keep water out of the city, and if the channel was not large enough to carry the water away, it was the duty of the Government to look to this.

Mr. W. C. Munderloh, in correcting an erroneous report which made him say that the Board of Trade has no confidence in the Commission, thought that a main point at Ottawa was to urge the Government to free the city by taking the burden of the Lake St. Peter debt. He thought that this was an opportunity for putting this matter right and one that might not be repeated.

Mr. H. Shorey claimed that the Council and Commission had both been very active, although the flood had not been stopped, and although the public appeared to credit them with having done nothing.

Mr. H. A. Budden said that the Commission, of which Messrs. Watt and McLea were part, had demonstrated that the flood could be avoided by an embankment.

Mr. Shorey said he was afraid that the embankment scheme had fallen into disfavor because it might benefit the railways. If it was an advantage to the city, its benefiting the railways was not a bad feature.

Mr. J. Coristine thought a joint meeting would be of great importance and carry weight.

The chairman read a telegram from Mr. Keefer saying that the Flood Commission would report early next week.

After some discussion as to a deputation to Ottawa, Sir D. A. Smith, M. P., said that a definite scheme should be agreed upon before any deputation went to Ottawa. He added that he had seen some of the ministers last week and they had informally said that they thought the river wards ought to be under Government control.

Mr. Watt pointed out that there was a danger of mixing up two questions, the Lake St. Peter debt and the floods. A visit to Quebec was necessary as Legislation was required before any action could be taken; while the visit to Ottawa would be for a different purpose.

The Chairman suggested that although he thought it was rather too early to go to Ottawa, before the report was received, yet as the City Council had asked for a deputation to proceed with them to Ottawa, it would be well to appoint one.

Mr. W. W. Ogilvie moved, seconded by Mr. Clendinneng, "That Messrs. Clendinneng, E. B. Greenshields, G. W. Stephens, A. Thibaudeau, A. F. Gault, J. Coristine, E. K. Greene, G. Hague, and the council of the Board of Trade be a committee to act with the delegation of the City Council to Ottawa; with power to add to their number."

Mr. D. A. Watt then explained a plan for protecting the city by an embankment extending from Windmill Point to the Long Wharf which was originally introduced by Mr. J. G. Sepell fifteen years ago, and although it was intended then for harbor improvement, it appeared as if it would be very beneficial in preventing floods. It had the great advantage of being able to be built without interfering with the wall in any way.

A plan of this was hung upon the wall and was duly examined. It includes an embankment on the land beyond Point St. Charles, terminating at the bridge and then continued by a breakwater from Windmill Point to the Long Wharf.

The meeting terminated with a vote of thanks to the chairman.

PERSONAL TAXATION.

The Tramway Bill—Special Meeting of the Board of Trade.

A special meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade was held to-day to discuss the bill for personal taxation (which was treated of editorially in yesterday's STAR).

Mr. G. A. Drummond, president, occupied the chair, and read the bill, which he described as monstrous.

Mr. W. W. Ogilvie proposed that Messrs. J. P. Cleghorn, C. H. Gould and E. Judge be a committee to enquire into this matter, and to prepare a memorial and send it to the Legislature. This was carried unanimously after strong expressions of disapproval of the bill.

It was then agreed to appoint Messrs. Hebert, W. W. Ogilvie and R. P. McLea, as a sub-committee to watch the Montreal Tramways Bill.

THE NEW LICENSE LAWS.

Resolutions Introduced in the Quebec Legislature this Morning.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

QUEBEC, April 30.—After routine, Hon. Mr. Shehyn introduced the resolutions respecting the licenses, of which notice has been given. They read as follows:

Resolved,—1. That in addition to the duties payable under section 63 of the Quebec license law of 1878, as amended by the act 43 and 44 Victoria, Chapter 11, Section 17, there shall be paid on each license for the sale of intoxicating liquors, except for medicinal purposes, a further sum of $10.

Resolved—2. That on each pawnbroker's license there shall be paid the sum of $250.

Resolved—3. That every infraction of the Quebec license law of 1878 and of its amendments by persons holding licenses thereunder for the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be punishable, for a first offence, by a fine of not less than $30 nor more than $75; for the second offence by a fine of $75, and for the third offence by a fine of $75 and the loss of the license.

Resolved, 4.—That every person selling liquor without a license, and being convicted thereof a second time, shall be liable to a fine of double the amount imposed the first time, and for the third time shall be condemned to imprisonment in the common gaol for not less than three nor more than six months.

After a brief discussion the House went into committee, adopted the resolutions and resumed. A bill was then introduced, founded on them, and read a first time.

TRADE MARK

Is Marvelously Efficient in clearing the Skin of Impurities, and keeping it in a perfect state of health. It beautifies the complexion, while as a Healing agent for Sores or Wounds it passes all praise. There is no Form of Eruptive Disease for which this Renowned Soap has not proved efficacious. In the Bath it is as beneficial as the waters of the Renowned Sulphur Springs. Linens and Woolens washed with it are rendered superlatively white, and are disinfected when germs of disease linger in the material. The value of Sulphur as a Cleansing and Purifying agent is everywhere recognized. Ask for Palmo-Sulphur, and refuse all others, and you wont be deceived.

AMUSEMENTS.

AMATEUR ENTERTAINMENT.—The amateur dramatic entertainment in the Academy, on Saturday evening, in behalf of the Roman Catholic orphans of the city, was attended by la fine fleur of Montreal's society. Three short comedies were played without a hitch, "La Grammaire," "My Uncle's Will" and "La Fee." While listening to Mr. Horrace St. Louis in the first comedy, one who did not know him might have ventured to believe that Mons. Mezierres had returned to Montreal, so cleverly did he imitate the well known and amusing opera bouffe actor. Miss M. Lamothe was well received by the audience, as were the other members of the cast, Messrs. L. Galarneau, A. Giroux and F. May. Miss Kilby greatly pleased the audience in "My Uncle's Will," and Messrs. C. Lane and C. Raynes gave her valuable support. It could be seen at a glance that the lady was perfectly at home on the stage. Madame Armand Larocque in "La Fee" did her work efficiently, and the baskets of flours, bouquets and unstinted applause with which she was rewarded would have filled with pride the heart of an artiste of the oldest standing. Messrs. P. Wiallard, A. Terroux, A. Giroux and L. Galarneau deserved the liberal plaudits they elicited.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Howard's Star Specialty Company, of Boston, will be the attraction at the Royal this week. The company is said to be comprised of over twenty of the leading stars of the variety stage and an enjoyable performance may be expected.

MATINEE CONCERT.—The grand matinee concert, which was given in the Queen's Hall on Saturday afternoon by Mr. Ernest Longley, Miss Alice Seymour and Mr. Hubert Baker, was highly successful, and all the participants were favorably received.

PERSONAL.

Saturday Drs. Archibald Campbell and Cameron were installed as assistant medical officers of the General Hospital, succeeding Drs. Birkett and Kirkpatrick. Dr. Birkett will take charge of Dr. Shepherd's practice during that gentleman's absence in Europe, and then establish a practice in the west end. Dr. Kirkpatrick will visit the large hospitals of London, Paris and other principal cities of Europe to increase his clinical experience.

Col. Labranche, who has been manager of the Montreal Swimming Club for some years, has resigned his position.

Militia Changes.

The following changes in regiments in the 5th and 6th districts are gazetted:—

First Battalion "Prince of Wales' regiment."—Adverting to the appointments in No. 3 of general orders (4) March 11, 1887, the following is to be substituted therefor: To be lieutenants, provisionally: Herbert Story Hunter, gentleman, vice Bradshaw, resigned; Robert Henry Wilson, gentleman, vice Henshaw, promoted; Frederick Austin Bourne, gentleman, vice Bousfield, resigned; Stanley Kinnear, gentleman, vice Scott, promoted. Second Lieutenant "provisionally," Benjamin Taylor Andrew Bell having left the limits, his name is hereby removed from the list of officers of active militia.

3rd Batt. "Victoria Rifles of Canada"—To be lieut.-colonel: Major Charles Peers Davidson, V. B., vice John Molson Crawford, who is hereby permitted to retire retaining rank. To be major: Captain Charles William Radiger, S. I., from the adjutancy, vice Davidson, promoted.

65th Batt. "Mount Royal Rifles"—To be second lieutenant provisionally from 1st April, 1887: Charles Charest, gentleman, vice Joseph Leandre A. C. Plinguet, whose resignation is hereby accepted.

Captain Hector Prevost, S. J., has been promoted to the rank of Major in the 65th, in succession to Lieut.-Col. Hughes, who has been appointed major in military district No. 6.

Closing the Season.

Professor Durkee's pupils held their last dance of the season at Hall & Scott's Friday night. About seventy couples were present and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Dancing was kept up until midnight when the guests adjourned to an excellent supper.

Friday evening a very pleasant reunion of the private dancing classes of Prof. A. Roy McDonald took place at the Queen's Hall. A large number of the parents and friends of the pupils were present, and expressed great satisfaction at the progress made by the pupils. Some of the pupils gave excellent exhibitions of fancy dances, and particularly Highland flings and shadow dances.

Property Assessment.

Regarding the statements made in the City Council recently, that the assessors did not rate property at the proper value, one of the assessors said to a STAR reporter: "The parties who made such statements would be the first to cry out if we raised the assessments. It is no secret that we do not assess property at its full marketable value. We have a discretionary power, and it has been our object to keep taxation as low as possible. We could squeeze the public if we wanted to, but you would soon see what a hornet's nest it would give rise to."

Baseball Schedule.

The Baseball schedule for the Montreal Amateur League is as follows:

June 4—Clipper vs. Beaver.
June 11—Montreal vs. Gordon.
June 18—Clipper vs. Gordon.
June 25—Montreal vs. Beaver.
July 16—Beaver vs. Gordon.
July 23—Clipper vs. Montreal.
August 20—Gordon vs. Clipper.
August 27—Beaver vs. Montreal.
September 3—Clipper vs. Montreal.
September 10—Gordon vs. Beaver.
September 24—Beaver vs. Clipper.
October 1—Montreal vs. Gordon.

Trinity Church Band of Hope.

A well attended entertainment was given Friday night by the Trinity Church Band of Hope. About one hundred members took part in choruses, solos and declamation. The feature of the evening was the crowning of the May Queen, the children approached the May throne in procession, and each in turn rendered his homage to the queen. Rev. Canon Mills, who presided, congratulated the little band and its instructors on the success attained.

Labranche's Successor.

Col. Labranche, who resigned the position of drill instructor to the 65th, after being dismissed from a similar position in the police force, has been replaced by Sergt.-Major Gauthier, who will be entrusted with the drill of the battalion. It is understood that Sergt.-Major Gauthier is also a candidate for the position of drill instructor of the police, for which he is considered well qualified.

Halifax Sugar Refinery.

Mr. George G. Dunbar, of the Halifax Sugar Refinery, passed through the city Friday en route for Toronto. When asked if it was proposed to commence operations in his refinery, he replied in the negative, saying he had no hope of the refinery being put in operation for a long time to come, as everything seemed to work against it.

Third Edition.

NEWFOUNDLAND MATTERS.

The Placentia Railway—The French Shore Question—Desperate Straits of the People on the West Coast.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 2.—The Legislature will probably close on May 7. It has been sitting since February 17. The Government propose to float a loan to raise funds to build the Placentia Railway, but the Council will not likely assent to it. Placentia is but 30 hours' steam sailing from Louisburg, and when the road is completed and Louisburg connected with the Canadian railway system, the mails will probably be sent by way of that port once or twice a week, instead of fortnightly by Halifax as at present.

The joint committee of the Legislature appointed to consider the arrangement between France and England for the final settlement of the vexed "French Shore" question, have, after nearly two years' consideration, submitted a report embodying the following resolution: "That we consider it our bounden duty, in the interest of Her Majesty's loyal subjects in Newfoundland and elsewhere, to respectfully decline the arrangement proposed for our ratification."

A telegram from Rev. Dr. Howley, Prefect Apostolic of the West Coast, was read to the Legislature to the effect that officers of a French corvette now in these waters threaten that next year they will not let the Newfoundlanders take herring, and that they (the French) will help themselves to herring bait, and thus be independent both of Newfoundland and England in any action they may take on the bait bill. They will spare no expense for seines, gear, etc., as the Government will foot the bill. Fifteen thousand francs has been voted to make investigations and obtain all the necessary information this year on this matter. Dr. Howley adds that the sale of herring is the only means of livelihood of many of the people of the coast, and wants to know what the Government will do for the people in case the French carry out their threats. There are at least 40,000 people scattered along the French shore. The people of Burgeo, Fortune and Placentia depend to a large extent upon the sale of bait to the French. There is a widespread opinion in these places that while the bait bill, if finally assented to, will benefit St. John's and the people along the east coast, it will prove ruinous to the people of the places before mentioned.

SUNDAY POLITICAL MEETINGS.

London Workingmen Oppose the Crimes Bill and Express Confidence in Gladstone.

LONDON, May 2.—An unusually large number of Sunday political meetings were held by Liberal workingmen's clubs in the metropolis to consider the Irish Crimes Bill. Resolutions were adopted in every case opposing the bill, pledging the meeting to support anti-coercion candidates at the next general election and affirming confidence in Mr. Gladstone. Among the meetings was one in the Bermondsey division, called under the auspices of the workingmen's organization that defeated Mr. Gladstone's candidate in 1880 and elected Edward Clarke, one of Lord Beaconsfield's nominees. The fact that this section of the capital has thus early veered back again to the support of Mr Gladstone is regarded here as a satisfactory proof of the change of public opinion going on in all parts of England.

ENORMOUS EMIGRATION.

Unprecedented Rush From the Old World to the New.

LONDON, May 2.—The weekly press generally comment on the enormous increase of emigrants leaving Queenstown, Dover, London, Hull, Bristol, Liverpool, Cardiff, Glasgow and other British ports for Canada, the United States and Australia. An overwhelming majority are going to the States. Overwides area in the south of Ireland the entire able-bodied population is either leaving or preparing to leave. The aggregate emigration threatens to be the largest ever recorded in the history of Ireland. The Irish leaders are taking energetic measures to assist the emigrants.

A FIGHT IN SOOLOO.

Several Thousand Rebels Routed by Europeans and Loyal Troops.

LONDON, May 2.—Advices received here say that the Governor of the Sooloo islands and a force of Europeans and natives aided by Spanish ships, attacked several thousand native rebels at Malberg and took many prisoners. A large number of guns also fell into the hands of the Spanish. Malberg was burned after being looted. Only the Chinese were spared. There were heavy losses on both sides. The native chiefs have fully submitted.

THE BRITISH MINISTER'S DAUGHTERS

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The departure of the charming daughters of the British Minister for New York, to take the steamer for a visit to England, was the occasion of several pleasant dinners and "good bye's." If his diplomatic duties will permit, Sir Lionel West will visit England later in the season and return with his daughters in September. The newspaper talk about an engagement between Sir Lionel West and Miss Mattie Mitchell, daughter of Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, is very displeasing to both parties. Miss Mitchell is very intimate with Miss Flora West. Members of the Legation give the statement no credence.

COLONIAL EXHIBITION ACCOUNTS.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

LONDON, May 2.—The accounts of the Colonial Exhibition, just published, show a balance $176,000. Of this sum it is proposed to transfer $125,000 to the Imperial Institute and the remainder to settling the deficit in the accounts of the inventories exhibition, and to forming a reserve fund.

JUBILEE OFFERING FOR THE POPE.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

LONDON, May 2.—The Tablet proposes that a library, consisting of all the books written by English Catholics during the last fifty years, be presented to Pope Leo as a jubilee offering by subscriptions to be received by the Tablet.

CABLE JOTTINGS.

Latest Items of Interest Telegraphed From All Parts of the Old World.

The operation performed on the Queen of Sweden for tumor succeeded beyond expectation.

It is reported in St. Petersburg that the English and Russian Afghan boundary commissions cannot agree.

The Czar has resolved to journey south, notwithstanding adverse police reports. It is expected that he will start in a fortnight.

It is common talk in London that the Marquis of Salisbury, if so disposed, may become a Duke. The Queen is said to have hinted that it would gratify her if he would accept this elevation in the peerage.

In an interview at Paris, M. Schnaebeles persisted that he threw off the German policeman and ran to French territory before he was arrested. He said that the German detectives threatened to shoot him if he resisted. He carried a knife with him, but forbore using it. The whole thing was done in a moment.

The first performance at Berlin of Sir Arthur Sullivan's Opera Patience, at Croll's theatre, was a brilliant success, the artists receiving many encores. The critics are unanimous in praise of the music, and with one exception consider the words witty and sarcastic, although too English to be appreciated by a German audience.

AMERICAN NOTES.

James N. Taggart, paying teller of the Union Trust Company, of Philadelphia, who is short about $100,000, has been missing for two weeks.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland will visit New Haven, Conn., on June 17 to attend the dedication of the soldiers' monument. The President will be the guest of Prof. Marsh, of Yale. He will remain over night, visit Yale next day and return to Washington that afternoon.

IRISH RENT REDUCTIONS.

LONDON, May 2.—A return will be published to-day giving the reductions in rent ordered by the Irish Land Court for the month of April. The figures show that the average reduction was 25 per cent. This exceeds the reduction demand by the tenants in no case except the Clan Ricarde estate, where the reduction asked was 30 per cent., and the reduction ordered was 35 per cent. Only in three other similar instances did the reduction asked exceed 20 per cent.

DON'T WANT THE FISHERIES.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A Washington special says: Capt. Collins, of the United States Fish Commission, is quoted as saying: "If Canada should freely grant American fishermen all of her fishing privileges, there would be none that our fishermen would avail themselves of. Canada has no fisheries we want. All the fish that can be caught with profit are in the deep seas."

LEGISLATIVE JOTTINGS.

A Difference of Opinion on the License Resolutions—Mr. McShane's Opposition — The Montreal Boodle Bill — Notes.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

QUEBEC, May 2.—The Legislature on Saturday was occupied with the license resolutions already telegraphed to the STAR. They reflect, to some extent, the assurances given to the temperance deputation a day or two ago. Mr. McShane is not wholly in favor of them and made a good natured speech, saying that he would prefer three commissioners to cover the whole affair to tinkering with the law. He strongly condemned groggeries, and said that around one church alone in Montreal there existed no fewer than twenty-five unlicensed groggeries, and in cigar stores and other little places whiskey was sold.

Mr. Mercier reminded the hon. member good naturedly that he was opposing his own, i. e., a Government measure.

Mr. McShane responded, and said that he was opposed to the measure nevertheless. He was no hypocrite and was not like two or three of the recent temperance deputation who went on "a bender."

Mr. Taillon generally approved of the resolutions, and Mr. Flynn followed and alluded to the difficulties which "clubs" might cause.

Mr. Lynch asked if it would apply to Scott Act counties, and the Premier said the law would be generally applied. The bill as founded on the resolutions was read a first time.

THE MONTREAL BOODLE BILL.

In committee on the Bill to appoint a Royal commission to enquire into the Municipal affairs of Montreal discussion took place. Mr. Hall had suggested that the bill, as crafted, left the door open to refusals to answer questions, on the ground that the commissioners were going outside their powers. He accordingly proposed that the bill should be so changed as to cause the commissioners to cover any charges of malfeasance, breach of trust or misconduct of the members of the Council, and into the workings of the Recorder's Court and Police force. The first clause originally read: "The Lieut.-Gov.-in-Council may come, under the great seal of the province, a Royal Commission entrusted with making a complete investigation into the administration of the municipal affairs of the city of Montreal and upon the working of the charter of the city for such time as he may think proper." As amended the words "and the conduct of members of the council and the officers" will be found in the bill when reprinted.

NOTES.

A want of confidence motion concerning the relations of the Government and the Legislative Council will be introduced probably to-day. It is understood that Mr. Beauchamp will vote on this division with the Government.

Mr. Tessier, the member for Portneuf, is one of the most zealous law reformers in the Chamber. Recently he proposed a measure to break the tie which exists in the Court of Review when two judges dissent from their brother on the bench, and the court below. He now proposes to have it enacted that article 1170 of the Code of Civil Procedure shall be amended as follows:—

"Judgment cannot be rendered in appeal unless at least three judges concur therein, when the court which heard the case is composed of five judges, but when the court which heard the case is composed of four judges and two of the said judges are of opinion to confirm the judgment appealed from, such judgment shall be confirmed pleno jure."

Mr. Pilon has a bill to amend article 844 of the Code, which contains a provision of importance to certain sections. In the absence of such a law, duly enforced, a sad accident occurred in the Eastern section of the province last winter. The amendment proposes to enact that:

"Every person who, for the purpose of obtaining a supply of ice, makes an opening or a hole in the ice of a river upon which a public road is traced and thereby causes any inconvenience to passengers, specially to the traffic during the night time, shall surround such opening or hole by means of a fence or barrier sufficient to prevent any accident, under a penalty of a fine of not less than five nor more than fifty dollars, without prejudice to the recourse in damages of any person injured thereby."

The consideration of the Commercial Travellers Association bill, which proposes to exempt them from local taxes, was postponed till Thursday in the absence of the mayor.

Mr. Latour, a prominent lumberman of Ottawa, is here to urge on the Government desirableness of rescinding the recent order in council imposing a ground rent tax of $5 a square mile, and substituting a tax on manufactured lumber to cover the same amount.

Madame Masson gives a soiree musicale to the members on Thursday evening.

Mr. McShane entertains forty members of the Council and Legislature to-morrow to dinner.

CANADIAN CONDENSATIONS.

Special Telegrams to the "Star" From all Parts of the Dominion.

The mayor of St. John, N. B., denies the statement that the harbor of St. John is closed with ice, saying that such a thing is an impossibility.

This morning, Larry Clark, a married man, was killed at the foot of Johnson street, Kingston, by a Grand Trunk railway freight train striking him, knocking him under the wheels and crushing him to death. Trainmen had shouted at him as the cars slowly backed up, but he paid no heed to the alarm.

The erection of a May pole at Ste. Julie station, Que., Saturday, for the display of the British flag, on the occasion of the Queen's jubilee, was attended by a large concourse of people, mostly French Canadians. Addresses were made by Messrs. Turgeon, Twohey, Huard, and others, all expressing loyalty and enthusiasm. The meeting dispersed amid rousing cheers for the Queen and empire.

THANKS TO LORD LANSDOWNE.

[SPECIAL TO THE STAR.]

LONDON, May 2.—Lord Lansdowne's tenants in Wiltshire, England, have sent to His Lordship an address thanking him for his kindness to them in the past.

O'Brien's Visit.

The Montreal Branch of the Irish Nationa League held a special meeting in their hall, 223 McGill street, yesterday afternoon, to make preparations for giving Mr. Wm. O'Brien, who sailed yesterday for Canada, a fitting reception on his arrival here. The chair was taken by Mr. H. J. Cloran, the president, who complained that a hue and cry had been raised against the mission of Mr. O'Brien without cause. Mr. Cloran said Mr. O'Brien was not coming to Canada to try and injure Lord Lansdowne but to enlist the sympathies of the people of Canada in favor of the evicted and raise funds for them. Mr. O'Brien is expected to arrive in Montreal on the 10th inst. and his first lecture will be given in the Albert Hall, as both the Queen's Hall and the Academy of Music are engaged for that evening. A committee was appointed to superintend the details in connection with the reception.

A Divided Church.

An analysis of the recent voting for a rector at the Church of St. James the Apostle shows that Rev. Canon Ellegood received 29 votes from pewholders and 57 from seat holders, while 31 pewholders and 1 seat holder voted against him. For the Rev. P. Crawford of Kingston, 50 pewholders and 15 seat holders voted in the affirmative; 7 pewholders and 41 seat holders voting in the negative. Rev. Canon Norman received 41 pewholders and 10 seat holders' votes; 16 pewholders and 45 seat holders' voting against him. The Ven. Archdeacon Evans got 4 pewholders and 45 seatholders votes, while 52 pewholders and 10 seat holders voted negative. This shows the divided feeling in the church. It is understood that Canon Ellegood has been nominated by the Bishop.

Father Dowd's Jubilee.

The committee of St. Patrick's congregation at its meeting yesterday afternoon appointed Mr. M. P. Ryan to take subscriptions from parties outside of the congregation towards a purse to be presented to Father Dowd on the occasion of his jubilee.

James Sampson, a young man residing at No. 70 Shearer street, met with a terrible accident Saturday, which will probably result fatally. He was coupling cars at the Lachine depot of the G. T. R., and slipping on a wet tie was caught between the cars and his chest crushed in a frightful manner.

Those who wish to practise economy should buy Carter's Little Liver Pills. Forty pills in a vial, only one pill a dose.

THE ONLY ONE.

By Harry W. French.

CHAPTER XII.—(Continued.)

"I do not agree to that," replied Sir Edgar coldly. "I could not recognize in my own house one who had failed to recognize me on the street. Rather, my dear friend, let us be enemies, here and everywhere. It will add a little spice to life, you know."

Even Dr. Carleton was startled upon his own battle ground. He had asked for a stone, and been given a scorpion.

"I have a little business to perform with you. We will simply consider ourselves strangers till that is done, if it please you better. After that, I will not throw myself in your way again. And I warn you, if you would not meet an enemy, avoid it by never throwing yourself in mine."

"I shall not annoy you more than is necessary in seeing my sister," said Dr. Carleton, scornfully.

"You forget that she is my wife, now," replied Sir Edgar, smiling.

"You do not propose to object to my seeing her?"

"Most assuredly!" declared Sir Edgar. "I advise you, explicitly that if I should find you upon my grounds, I should treat you like any common thief. I am an expert in the use of your American revolvers, though I have not been to the war. I will prove it to you if I find you there. But this is not business."

"No, this is not business," replied Dr. Carleton, calmly. "Let us attend to it at once."

Gracefully Sir Edgar seated himself in the most comfortable arm-chair, and with one delicate hand lying easily upon the marble table he began: "I understand your father's death left you in possession of a large estate, the half of which belongs to my wife. I have come here to claim it."

The doctor looked up in astonishment. "I have nothing more to do with that than has my sister."

"I am quite aware of it; but you are the only other heir, and as such I want your order to the attorneys to turn your sister's portion over to me at the earliest possible date, as we are going abroad."

"I should suppose it should be paid to her."

"So do the lawyers. But the lady desires that it be paid to me."

"I doubt it," Dr. Carleton muttered scarcely moving his lips.

"I supposed you would, from the manner in which you received me. But just here comes in my business. Your father and I were friends, associates, confidants. I was a sort of vault in which he kept his secrets. I could have buried him in a State prison while he lived, and now that he is dead it is in my power to sweep away the last dollar of his estate. Unless that money is turned over to me, and turned quickly, I shall put it to the test, and you both lose it all. It is a pity to be driven to such an extremity to defend a sister's rights against her brother."

"And more a pity when even that falls dead!" exclaimed Dr. Carleton. "Sir Edgar, when my sister comes to claim her share she shall have it and mine, too, if she wish it, to bless her for the awful sacrifice she made to save her father. But rest assured I would not lift a finger to save a dollar of his wealth, except from you."

"Look here, Carleton," said Sir Edgar, and again the metallic laugh seemed almost to accompany his words, "we have begun at the wrong end in this. To fight like cats won't help us on, you know. Of course you want your share of the money, and—"

"You are mistaken," Dr. Carleton interrupted, leaning upon the marble mantel.

"Well, your sister wants hers, at all events," added Edgar Stanley, vexed with the indifference, which was the only thing that could baffle him.

"When she says so, I will believe it," Dr. Carleton replied.

"I said so," remarked Sir Edgar, curtly.

"And I doubted it," replied the other, stopping to brush an atom of dust from his coat.

"You do not believe me? You call me a liar?"

Sir Edgar was off his guard, and he bit his lip, more from mortification than anger, as Dr. Carleton replied, "I do," without looking up.

"You are going farther than you mean," Sir Edgar said, after a moment's pause. Then he rose, slowly, and taking his gloves from the table, remarked, as he turned the knob of the door, "A little thought will show you that you are acting rashly. Your father was a traitor to his country. For the past two years he has been running blockades with arms, and coming back with cotton. For ten years he has been issuing counterfeits through his bank, and this is only a drop in the bucket. Now, if the money is of no value to you, and your father's good name is of no importance to you, you will at least admit that they may be to your sister; and for her sake I fancy you will agree to my terms. Good day, doctor; I will see you to-morrow."

Dr. Carleton hardly responded to the graceful bow as Sir Edgar left him. He saw the force of the Englishman's position, if what he said were true, and the sudden fear possessed him that its truth was at least a possibility. He was leaning upon the marble mantel, when Moses, a little black boy he had brought with him from the army, entered the room with a bound and a chuckle.

Two imperishable rows of glistening ivory indicated a broad grin on Moses's face as he nodded to his master; and, verily, Moses's mouth was so large and his body so small, that the threat he often made to swallow himself, when things did not go to please him, seemed one of the most possible things in all the world for him to do.

Moses did not stop to look at his master, to see if it were well for him to venture a remark, for his remarks were always out of season. He had given up all hope of ever saying anything at just the right time; but in a voice that invariably made a stranger start and look at him in astonishment, wondering if that rumbling roar could possibly have originated in the tiny atom of a boy, he observed, "Well, ef dat yeah gemman ain't a case, den dis nigger's name's no longer Mose."

Dr. Carleton made no reply, but Moses was determined to be noticed, so he added: "S'posed de atmospherical 'pearance 'd be blacker 'n my hide, in dis yeah 'partment."

"Come, come, Moses; close up that sepulchre," said Dr. Carleton, half angrily, half laughing. But Moses minded the smile, and let the anger go for what it was worth to some one else.

He pushed his queer, great hands into the little pockets of his neat, blue breeches, and quite forgetting to move the gold-banded military cap from his woolly head, he replied, "W'y, bress y', massa doctor, dat preacherish gem'n wid de florid like spots wha his bard wus bald, a-rippin out dem powerful oaves, all de way down de stairs, wus nuff to send de stone a-kitin from de doh uv a bigger sepulchre than mine."

Again little Moses received no response, and, turning sadly away to attend to the duty that came next to hand, he muttered to himself, "He couldn't 'a' been a-cussin dat away berry long, he'd 'a' got clean out o' cuss words sho nuff."

"What did he say?" asked Dr. Carleton at last, more out of pity for Moses's disappointed face, than because he cared to know what Sir Edgar might have talked about.

THE FLOOD QUESTION.

The Member for Montreal West Writes to the Mayor—The Government to Hurry Up the Flood Commissioners—United and Speedy Action Probable.

Mayor Abbott has received a letter from Sir Donald Smith in reply to His Worship's communication asking the member for Montreal West to bring the question of floods before the Government and that measures should be taken for concerted action. Sir Donald replies that the citizens will be happy to unite with the civic authorities in urging the subject upon the Government's attention. He also informs His Worship that the Government intends intervening in the matter now before the Flood Commissioners so as to have, if possible, the report of the Commissioners presented this week.

Mayor Abbott states that in all likelihood the report will be presented to the Government this week. He believes that nothing will be done until the report is received here when a conference of the civic delegates, the committee of citizens and the Committee of the Board of Trade will be held with the view of deciding upon some united line of action. In answer to the enquiries of the STAR representative, the Mayor stated that there were now several excellent plans before the public. The idea of "booming" the ice he considered a good one and was more in favor of it than ever since Mr. Van Horne had informed him that it had proved an absolute success in stopping the floods caused by the ice gorges in the Upper Mississippi and Missouri Rivers. The idea of raising the wharves to the level of Commissioners street would undoubtedly be considered. The Harbor Commissioners were willing to do their part if the Government would assume the Lake St. Peter debt. The city would do its share, and a company was now chartered for the building of the embankment.

The Finance Committee has been called to meet this afternoon to have a conference with the representatives of the Board of Trade on the subject.

APPLIED SCIENTISTS

Of McGill Dine At the Windsor on Saturday Evening and Pass an Enjoyable Time.

The annual complimentary dinner tendered to the graduates in Applied Science of McGill University was enjoyed Saturday evening in the Windsor Hotel. A cordial invitation was extended to the graduating arts men, a number of whom embraced this last opportunity of saying "good-bye."

The chairman, Mr. M. W. Hopkins, proposed the toast to the Queen, loyally honored by the strains of the National Anthem. "Billy" Hamilton proposed "Alma Mater," which was drunk with enthusiasm. Mr. Rinfret followed with a song, and Mr. McNutt with the health of the class of '87. Messrs. Carlile and McCarthy responded in a few well chosen remarks. Mr. McCarthy made a few humorous remarks and Mr. Carlile contributed a song, followed by Mr. Hopkins giving the toast to the sister faculties. Messrs. Walsh and Nichols, arts, and Mr. Dickie, law, responded.

A telegram was read from Mr. Livingstone, '86, expressing his congratulations to the new graduates. The toast to the medalists elicited replies from Messrs. Carlile and Walsh. Mr. McCarthy also, ever on the alert for a joke, thanked his fellow-students for thus honoring him by drinking his health. A song from Mr. McNutt was followed by the other usual toasts, proposed by Messrs. Ball, Ferrier, Fourneret and Rinfret.

Early in the evening a delegation from the graduates' annual dinner, among whom was Mr. J. H. Burland, B. A. Sc., came on the scene and enjoyed the evening with the boys.

Proceedings were brought to a close precisely at 12 o'clock by bouncing Mr. Burland.

An arrangement was made among the students to keep track of each other by frequent correspondence, and Mr. Ferrier was appointed secretary.

Mr. Hopkins has been appointed assistant sanitary engineer of the new society being formed, and the graduates have nearly all received positions under the Government.

THE OLD BRIGADE.

The Veterans of 1866-70 Meet—A Delegation to go to Ottawa—A Parade to be Held on Jubilee Day.

The veterans of the old brigade of 1866-70 held a meeting in the Natural History Society's rooms on Saturday evening, for the purpose of electing delegates to proceed to Ottawa in order to obtain from the Government some recognition of their services during the campaigns of 1866-70. The chair was occupied by Col. A. A. Stevenson who said that Mayor Abbott had written to Sir John A. Macdonald to say that he would go to Ottawa with the deputation as the representative of his old battalion, the 11th Argenteuil Rangers and would introduce the delegates. The following gentlemen were then nominated to represent their respective corps as delegates:

Col. Lyman, for the Staff; Lt.-Col. Ogilvie, Major Muir and Capt. W. W. Ogilvie, No. 1 Troop Cavalry; Lieut. C. Lapierre, No. 2 Troop Cavalry; Lieut.-Col. Stevenson, Montreal Field Battery; Lt.-Col. Oswald and Major Baynes, Montreal Garrison Artillery; Major Kennedy, Engineers; Lt.-Col. Bond, Major Bond and Capt. Hughes, 1st Prince of Wales Rifles; Lt.-Col. Crawford, Davidson, Capts. Greenshield, Sully and Gowdey and Mr. McIndoe, 3 Victoria Rifles; Lieut.-Col. Campbell, Capt. J. H. Routh and Lt. Hector McKenzie, 5th Royals; Lieut.-Cols. Massey and Gardner, and Capt. Seath, 6th Fusiliers; Lieut.-Col. Coursol, M. P., Chasseurs (now 65th); Lt.-Col. Hannaford and Capts. Elliott and Ellicott, Grand Trunk Brigade.

Letters were read from several members of Parliament who promised to aid the delegation all in their power. The delegates will proceed to Ottawa on Wednesday next.

Before the meeting dispersed it was suggested that all those veterans who did not belong to any other corps should meet and organize for a parade on the Queen's jubilee, in connection with the military parade already arranged.

INCREASED REVENUE

From the Customs and Inland Revenue for the Month of April.

The Customs receipts for the port of Montreal for the month of April just ended amount to $653,998.93, as compared with $357,768.74 for the corresponding month of last year, being an increase of $296,230.19 for the present year. The figures for the corresponding month in 1885, were $475,237.08; and for 1884, $362,750.08. It will thus be seen that there is a very substantial increase during April of the present year.

The receipts of the Inland revenue office in Montreal for April, just ended, were $152,314.82 as compared with $44,804.34 for April, 1886, shewing an increase of $107,510.48 for this year, or nearly four times the receipts of last year. The Inland revenue receipts for April, 1885, were $135,197.73 and for 1884, $106,706.61, thus shewing that in this department there is also a very substantial increase in 1887 over the past three years.

The smallness of the figures in April, last year, are to a great extent accounted for by the fact that the bonded stores were nearly all cleared of their contents during March last year, in anticipation of a change in the tariff as already pointed out in the STAR of April 1st.

The Fire Record.

A small blaze in Mr. Wm. Marshall's confectionery store, No. 2614 Notre Dame street, last evening, was extinguished after a damage of about $50 had been caused.

Yesterday morning a fire broke out in Messrs. Rolland Bros.' store, No. 366 St. Paul street. Upholstering materials, chairs and sofas were destroyed or spoiled to amount of about $200. Covered by insurance.

About $500 damages was done to the store of Mr. Thomas Valade, No. 1036 St. James street, yesterday morning, by fire caused by an overheated chimney. No insurance.

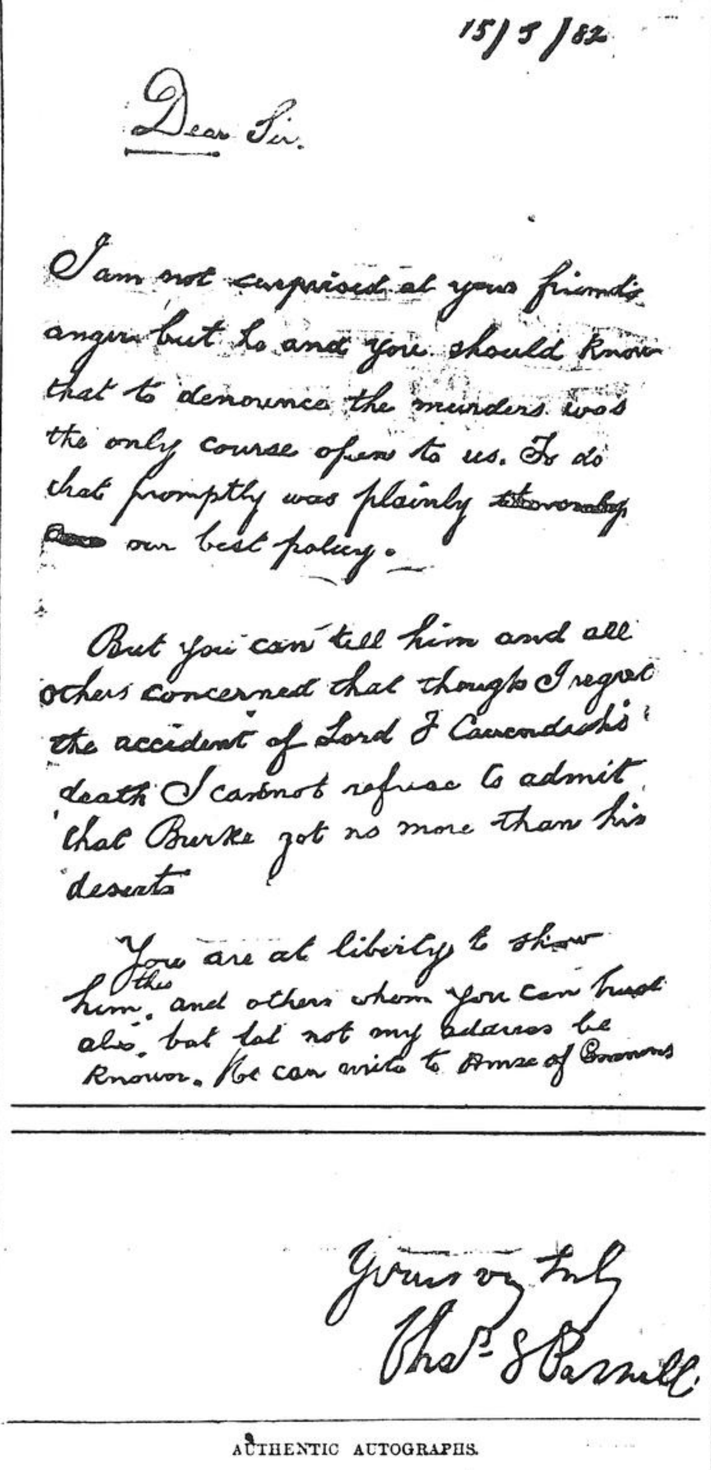
Last Saturday evening $1000 damage was done by fire in Mr. Beauvais' store, No. 1529 Notre Dame street. A gas jet in the show window seems to have ignited some adjacent lace goods. Insurance in the Royal covers the damage.

The Queen's Jubilee.

The question of Montreal's part in the Queen's Jubilee celebration still remains undecided, and no date has yet been fixed. Mayor Abbott favors the 1st of July, and thinks that Canada's national holiday would be the most suitable date. Many leading citizens also express the same view, and some of the largest corporations in the city have agreed to contribute towards a monster illumination of the city if an appropriate date is selected. The action of the military in deciding upon the 21st of June is considered premature, as the City Council has taken no action yet and may decide on a different date. The Mayor will favor Dominion Day, and as this idea seems to be popular, it is more than likely that it will carry.

THE "TIMES"-PARNELL LETTER.

The following is the fac-simile of the letter attributed to Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell by the London Times. As the reader may remember the body of the letter was on one page and the signature alone on the other. One of the signatures accompanying the letter for comparison was written by Mr. Parnell two years before the Phœnix Park murders took place, and the other autograph is a fac-simile of one obtained by Dr. Welford, of Peterborough, Ont., during his residence in London, in 1881.



15/5/82

Dear Sir.

I am not surprised at your friend's anger but he and you should know that to denounce the murders was the only course open to us. To do that promptly was plainly ~~[illegible]~~ our best policy.

But you can tell him and all others concerned that though I regret the accident of Lord F Cavendish's death I cannot refuse to admit that Burke got no more than his deserts.

You are at liberty to show him this and others whom you can trust also but let not my address be known. He can write to House of Commons.

NAVIGATION OPENS

Nine Days Later Than Last Year—Steamers in the Harbor and en Voyage.

The first boat to arrive in the harbor of Montreal this season was the tug "Thos. & E. S. Smith" of the Sincennes-McNaughton line, being nine days later than the first arrival last year this was followed by the "W. C. Francis," both of which made their way up from Sorel yesterday under pretty difficult circumstances from large quantities of floating ice. This morning the "Quebec," "Terrebonne," "South Eastern" and "Chambly" steamers arrived and berthed in their usual quarters; the "Terrebonne," which left Sorel early yesterday calling at Varennes and Vercheres where she picked up a lot of cattle, sheep, horses and poultry, thus being the first to bring in any cargo. Shortly before noon the "Three Rivers" arrived and at once commenced to get ready for receiving freight. The "Quebec" has been taking in cargo since 10 o'clock this morning and will continue to do so until 5 p. m. to-night, when she makes her first trip down the river, leaving early on account of the ice still in the river. Her sister ship, the "Montreal," will arrive this evening or to-morrow morning to make ready for her trip to Quebec to-morrow, so as to establish the first regular service of the season. The other steamers commence their regular service to-morrow as follows: The "Chambly" leaves at 1 p. m. for Chambly; the "Three Rivers" at 1.30 p. m., for Three Rivers, and the "Terrebonne" at 3.30 p. m., for Terrebonne. The "Longueuil" will commence to run to-morrow to Longueuil, and the "Laprairie" some time this week, as soon as the quay at Laprairie can be repaired. The "Bohemian" will arrive in Montreal on Friday, to be in readiness as soon as the water is let into the canal.

All the boats that have arrived so far look "spic and span" as new, and form a great contrast to the muddy and dirty appearance of the wharf.

THE OCEAN STEAMERS.

The "Barcelona" has arrived in Quebec, but will not be up before Wednesday morning, owing to the damage she sustained below Quebec on Saturday battling with the ice. On enquiry at the office of Messrs. Reford & Co. this morning, it was ascertained that the damage is only slight, but sufficient to cause one day's delay. The "Oregon," of the Dominion line, is already reported at Quebec, and is expected in Montreal to-morrow evening. The "Scotland," of the Temperley line, is also reported at Quebec, and expected here early on Wednesday morning.

There is comparatively little ice on the wharves to impede the work of erecting the sheds which has already begun. The worst place along the whole river front is on the site of the Messrs. Allan's sheds, but the ice is being quickly removed.

The Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company say they will have their sheds quite ready by Wednesday evening.

THE FLOOD QUESTION.

A Delegation of Citizens Interview with the Finance Committee.

A delegation of the Board of Trade, consisting of Messrs. G. A. Drummond, Jas. Coristine, R. P. McLea, G. W. Stephens, J. A. P. Watt and W. W. Ogilvie, waited upon the Finance Committee this afternoon and through Mr. Drummond stated that if legislation was required to protect the city from floods the committee might rest assured that the Board of Trade and the citizens generally would do all in their power to strengthen its hands. He proposed that a clause should be inserted in the amendment to the civic charter authorizing the city to make any necessary expenditure.

Ald. Grenier thought this was premature. The city should wait to see what steps the Dominion Government would take on the question, but at the same time he assured the delegation that were $400,000 or $500,000 necessary this year to prevent a recurrence of the disaster it would be forthcoming. Meeting in progress.

The old students of the Jesuits College will hold their annual convention at St. Mary's College on the 25th and 26th May. Great preparations are being made for the occasion.

MORE LICENSES

Granted by the Commissioners—Eight Hundred Issued to Date—A Decrease of One Hundred Over Last Year.

The following licenses have been granted by the Commissioners after being under consideration for two months.

Owing to the fact that in past years applications have been made by parties owning little shanties which they dubbed hotels or restaurants, the License Commissioners this year investigated every new applicant's locality and enquired into his character.

The Royal Victoria Hospital.

The inspection of the proposed site of the Royal Victoria Hospital by the civic committee has been postponed, and it is doubtful whether it will take place or not. It is, in fact, rumored that a private inspection of several of the sites proposed as better suited for the purpose has been made by the donors, and that, after consideration, they have come to the conclusion that on the whole no suitable site can be obtained which will serve the purpose so well as the one originally proposed. This decision, which will no doubt be communicated to the committee, is understood to be final, and it will only remain for the city to say whether they will give the site desired by the donors of this most magnificent bequest or not. There is not likely to be any hesitation in the matter.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN.

Closing Words of the Editor of "United Ireland" Before Leaving for Canada.

LONDON, May 2.—Replying to an address at Thurles, yesterday, William O'Brien, who is now en route to Canada, said: "The addresses and this magnificent welcome prove that I do not go alone on my mission, but that I carry the hearty good wishes and full approval of the Irish priests and people. Nothing has been undone by the people to effect an amicable settlement with the Marquis of Lansdowne, but the tenantry and those acting for them have been treated most shamefully, and it only now remains for me to place the whole case before the bar of public opinion in Canada and the United States. I feel assured that when the liberty-loving Canadians have heard the true account of Lord Lansdowne's cruelty to the tenantry, they will not permit themselves to be governed by such a man."

In an interview, Mr. O'Brien said: "Meetings have been arranged in the four principal cities of Canada—Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa and Toronto. These I intend to compass, if possible, within eight days, by which time I trust Canadian public opinion will have had sufficient material to judge between Lord Lansdowne and the hundreds of poor people he has left homeless at Luggacurran. I have no notice as to the intentions of the Canadian Government, but the Canadians will not tolerate any attempt to refuse me fair play in pleading our poor people's case. If Lord Lansdowne has no better answer to make to me than a warrant of arrest, it will be a more crushing condemnation than any I could pass upon him. I am very certain that the people of Canada hold the fate of the whole humble community at Luggacurran in the hollow of their hands. Lord Lansdowne is carrying out the first systematic clearances attempted in Ireland since the years following the great famine. He proposes to sweep his estate bare of its whole population. I don't believe the Canadian people will allow that if they can prevent it. I propose to show that, even in a high state, no man is now exempt from responsibility for the cruel sufferings inflicted upon his poor tenants."
