PLANTAGENET WATER.

When first applied to by Mr. Larocque, for my opinion of the "Plantagenet Water," I could only state that I had found it useful, as a mild aperient; a more extensive experience has convinced me of its utility in various diseases, as chronic and acute rheumatism, derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, particularly where mercury and strong purgatives had been frequently employed. In urinary diseases and hemorrhoidal affections, the Water will be found extremely useful, and for the derangement of the stomach and bowels, which accompanies pregnancy, I have found it preferable to all other remedies.

Having suspended my opinion until some years experience of this Water had satisfied me of its value, I have the less hesitation in strongly recommending it to the profession and the public, in the above affections, in which I have found it superior to all the other Mineral Waters of Canada; and as a beverage in hot weather, I can recommend it as preferable to the drinks usually taken during the warm season.

I may state, in conclusion, that I recommend this Water to the members of my own family, and have always kept a supply in the house, since I became personally acquainted with its valuable qualities.
ROBERT L. MACDONNELL, M.D.

Sold only in one place in Montreal, No. 4, Place d'Armes; in Beauharnois by Mr. Robert Thom; in Bytown by Mr. Thompson, Confectioner; by Mr. Schnider, Carillon; in Rigaud; in Lachine by Mr. Laflamme; in Quebec; in all parts of Upper Canada and the United States.

MR. H. OWEN,

WOULD beg to call the attention of the Public, to the Large Assortment of PIANOS now in Store, and for Sale. MR. OWEN has devoted a great deal of time and attention to the Selection of these Instruments in Boston, and he trusts, that from his well known ability to judge of the qualities of a Piano, and his great experience, will be a sufficient guarantee as to the Style and Quality of any Instrument Purchased from him.

Parties desirous of securing a really good Piano, had better make an early call, as the assortment is now complete, but owing to the immense demand for Instruments for shipment to various parts, he cannot insure a further immediate supply.

Every Instrument sold, will be warranted, and kept in Tune for one year.

(From the Toronto Patriot.)

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

FRIDAY, June 20.

A petition was presented from certain inhabitants of Port Sarnia, praying that arrangements may be made to prevent the desecration of the Sabbath by the transmission of mails on that day. The hon. Mr. Ross in bringing up the petition, said that he wished it to be distinctly understood that he did not concur in the prayer of the petitioners, believing that if it were aceded to, it would cause as much confusion here as a similar measure caused in England some few months since.

Hon. Mr. Ross brought up the Report of the Select Committee in favour of the private bill to relieve the estate of the late Alex. Wood.

Report adopted, and Bill read a first time.

Hon. Mr. DEBLAQUIERE gave notice that he would on Monday next move for an address to His Excellency, praying him to transmit to the Colonial Secretary the correspondence between Governor Simcoe and the Colonial Secretary on the Clergy Reserve question; for the purpose of laying it before the Imperial Parliament.

The hon gentleman also gave notice of a motion on the 8th of July, for an address to His Excellency, thanking him for having communicated to the house copies of the charter asked for by the Lord Bishop of Toronto, for the College intended for the sole use of the members of the Church of England; expressing the full concurrence of the House in the views so ably expressed by His Excellency in the correspondence with Earl Grey on this subject; and further expressing a hope that the Government will not grant to the Church of England College, to the prejudice of the National University, the power of conferring honours and degrees; and further, that while the house is desirous of conceding to the members of the Church of England all the privileges extended to other sects, it is of opinion that the interests of the members of that church, so far as regards academical education, would be most benefitted by affiliation with the National Institution; and that in the opinion of the House a speedy and satisfactory settlement of the question would be arrived at, if it were submitted to a general conference of the clergy and laity of the church.

SECOND READING OF BILLS.

Hon Mr. IRVING moved the second reading of the bill to preserve the independence of Municipal Councils, by the exclusion of certain officers, who have now the right of holding seats therein. He referred to Registrars, Sheriffs and their Deputies, Inspectors of Licenses, and Clerks of Division Courts, and their Deputies. He thought the best way would be to exclude all public officers.

Hon. Mr. Ross said it was very questionable whether the operation of this bill would be such as could be desired. It should be born in mind that in the present state of the Province, there is some difficulty in obtaining the services of competent persons in the municipalities of the remote townships, and it might in some cases be extremely desirable to permit the election of County Officers.

Hon. Mr. IRVING thought the hon. Gentleman had imbibed incorrect ideas as to the intelligence of the Canadian population.

The bill was then read a second time and referred to a Select Committee.

Hon. Mr. JAS. MORRIS moved the second reading of the Bill to incorporate the Toronto School of Medicine. The Bill was not intended to confer any new privileges, but merely to extend the sphere of usefulness of this School by granting power to hold property to the value of £5000. It was established in the year 1830, and since then, with the exception of a very short period, has been in full operation and he believed in a very prosperous condition. Some of the gentlemen who had received their education there, not only did it credit, but were an ornament to their profession.

Hon. Mr. IRVING fully corroborated the high character of the School, given by the Hon'ble. Mr. Morris.

Hon. Mr. DEBLAQUIERE wished to know in what way the examination was conducted.

Hon. Mr. WIDMER replied that the examinations had hitherto been always conducted in private, but he believed that, for the future they were to be public. There could be no objection to the bill now before the House.

Hon. Mr. DEBLAQUIERE felt great pleasure in learning that the examinations would be public, for he was a great stickler for doing everything in open daylight.

The motion for the second reading passed and the Council then adjourned.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

FRIDAY, June 20, 1851.

A number of petitions were received and read.

Mr. H. SHERWOOD gave notice, that he would introduce a bill to incorporate the Orphan's House and Female Aid Society of Toronto.

Also, of an amendment to Mr. Price's proposed resolution on the Clergy Reserves to the effect that the present disposition be not interfered with.

Mr. H. SHERWOOD reported from the committee on the standing orders, that the rules of the house had been complied with in the petition of H. G. Grassett, for an act of incorporation of a House of Industry in Toronto.

Col. PRINCE moved that the order of the day fixed for yesterday be revived on Monday. He did so because he intended to move immediately after that motion would be carried, that the House do adjourn, as on this day fifteen years ago Her Majesty ascended the throne. He thought it was due that the House should pay so much respect for the occasion, whether it would ever be appreciated or not; and farther that members should on this occasion enjoy themselves as much as possible. He believed that both their Excellencies the Representatives of Her Majesty intended to give an entertainment this evening; and he did not think that it would be more than paying proper respect to them for the house to adjourn.

Mr. J. H. CAMERON thought that as yesterday had been a holiday the House should not adjourn before eight or nine o'clock. He did not believe that members should be paid for doing nothing.

Col. PRINCE said, that if anything was done at all it had better well done.

Mr. J. H. CAMERON still suggested that it would be better not to adjourn until seven o'clock.

Col. Prince postponed his motion until the motions which had been given notice of were got through.

The following bills were introduced:—

Mr. MCFARLAND to provide for the erection of the Port Erie and Buffalo Suspension Bridge over the Niagara River.

Mr. JOHNSON to define the Road allowance in the Township of Caledonia.

Mr. Sol-Gen. DRUMMOND to regulate the granting of Licenses for Taverns, &c., and for the suppression of intemperance.

Mr. CHABOT to amend the Act incorporating the City of Quebec.

The House then adjourned.

THE EXHIBITION AND THE PEOPLE.

The results of the Great Exhibition continue to illustrate the growth of appetite which follows upon acquaintance with it. During the time that the cost of admission made the sight available only to the wealthier classes, it did not attract its greatest assemblage on the first day, but showed an almost unintermitting increase until on the last afternoon the receipts were found to exceed those of any previous occasion. The same effect will apparently follow the admission of the masses. The opening at the shilling charge last Monday disappointed all the expectations of those who had previously become familiarised with the glories of the display, because they omitted to estimate how much their own admiration was the result of that actual experience which did not yet exist on the part of the general population. Like everything really true and sublime, it demands time for the perception with regard to it to fasten themselves upon the mind. We must contemplate the giant limb by limb, before we can accurately comprehend the grandeur and proportion of his entire bulk; thus it is found that all the ardent descriptions of the newspapers, as well as the general fame of fashionable report, failed to create a desire on the part of the people at large to behold the spectacle, equal to that which has arisen from a few days actual inspection. About 60,000 has been supposed to be the number which the building could accommodate without pressure or inconvenience to any one, and this it was surmised would be the smallest total that would seek admission on the first day. But the actual number was not quite 20,000. Since then, however, it has increased at the rate of 10,000 a day, and yesterday it was 47,587.

The steadiness of this augmentation has been shown in the receipts, which were as follows: Monday £930; Tuesday, £1,347; Wednesday, £1,859; and Thursday, £2,379.

The people from the country will not begin to come up in large numbers until Monday next, when the railway arrangements for the purpose will commence. Most probably the same result as regards steady increase in the number will be observed in their case, and also in that of foreigners, as has been observed with respect to the London population. This peculiarity has hitherto been a great aid to the successful working of the arrangements connected with the whole undertaking, since it has enabled every necessary provision to be made deliberately, according to the increased requirements of each day.

The aggregate receipts from all sources up to the present time reach nearly £200,000. Another £100,000 will cover all expenses, and enable the commissioners to present the structure to the nation. The most gratifying fact connected with this financial position is, that not a single farthing has been contributed or sought from the Government, either directly or indirectly from beginning to end. Even the police expenses, not only for the inside but also for the regulation of carriages and the preservation of order outside of the building, have all been defrayed to their uttermost extent.—N. MR. WHITNEY'S ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. Whitney's recent letter to the Times has caused offers to be made to him to supply whatever capital he may desire for the commencement of such a road as that which he proposes, either through the United States or Canada. He represents that there is a feasible route through a very large extent of good agricultural country, suitable for grain crops and pasture, by which starting from Quebec, the Pacific might be reached at Fuca straits, opposite Vancouver's island. All the parties interested in Canada are therfore looking to the possibility of promoting such a scheme, in case that, owing to the rapid filling up of the Government lands in the United States, the course first suggested by Mr. Whitney should become impracticable. The English people would rejoice to see the enterprise carried out either through the American territory, and the desire of all who emerge from the wretched delusions of national selfishness, would be that it should go by the best and shortest way. If this, however, is prevented by difficulties on your side, I entertain little doubt that the plan will be tried with regard to Canada, and will receive sufficient encouragement.

The individuals by whom the offers in question are understood to have been made are practically acquainted with railway matters—to which indeed they owe the possession of large fortunes—and it is said that in consideration of a share in the ultimate results of the enterprise they propose not only to supply the money necessary for the first ten miles, until the lands could be sold for re-imbursement, but also to pay a bonus.—The proposal applied equally to the scheme as regards the United States or to any efforts for carrying it through Canada. Mr. Whitney, however, has resolved, it is stated, to let it rest for the present, as its acceptance previous to the next meeting of Congress could in no way hasten the commencement of the undertaking.—Ib.

THE MONTREAL HERALD.

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 24, 1851.

NEWS BY THE NIAGARA.—The mail brought by this vessel reached town on Sunday morning. We are mainly indebted to the European Times of the 7th instant (the day on which the "Niagara" left Liverpool) for the following summary of the previous week's news—the intelligence from France is most encouraging for the maintenance of the Republic:—

PROTECTION AND FREE TRADE.

The recent riot at Tamworth, and the return of a Free-trader for the agricultural district of the Isle of Wight, are events of no trifling interest. In the latter place the successful candidate came into the field at the eleventh hour, and defeated his Protectionist opponent; and the populace marked their horror of a return to dear bread by maltreating the attorney for the opposite party. The unfortunate Mr. Cole was literally frightened to death by an agricultural mob in the garden of England. Such an index of the time cannot be mistaken.

Light has been thrown on the events at Tamworth, by an extraordinary correspondence which has recently passed between Sir Robert Peel and Mr. G. F. Young, arising out of the disturbance. The tone of this correspondence is not in the best taste on either side. Sir Robert Peel felt that an insult was put upon the memory of his father by the visit of the "musty pilgrims of Protection" to Tamworth; and, in a letter to a morning paper, he expressed his pleasure at the thrashing which they had received. He went further, and designated the leading outdoor Protectionist orator, Mr. G. F. Youny, an impostor,—not a very complimentary term, certainly, and one which appears to have rendered savage the party on whom it was fixed. When a man has made up his mind to be particularly severe, he affects a horror of scurrility, and accordingly while Mr. Young reads Sir Robert Peel a severe lesson on the application of such an ungentlemanly epithet, he goes further in the way of blackguardism himself, for he calls his assailant "a profligate and a gambler", and adds, that while the honourable baronet writes his speeches, he breaks down in the delivery of them. Finally, Mr. Young winds up his invectives by a contemptuous allusion to the state of serfdom in which Sir Robert keeps his tenantry at Tamworth. The rejoinder is remarkable. Sir Robert Peel professes to be conscious that his private character is untainted, and he leaves that to defend itself, while he publishes a letter which he addressed to his steward at Tamworth before the riot, for the purpose of disproving the "contemptible freaks of impotent tyranny" with which Mr. G. F. Young charges him. The composition of this letter exhibits the talents of the great Minister's son in a very humble light, and the spirit of the letter is on a par with its literary taste. Here we get a glimpse of the drama which is being played behind the scenes, and we find the old spirit of the lord of Clumber, "Shall I not do as I like with my own?" revealed and rampant in every line. It is just such a document as a feudal lord of the olden time would have written to his vassals, supposing he had the ability to write. The tenantry are not acknowledged to have any souls of their own. "Let my opinion", he says, "be known to them upon every occasion that presents itself". It will occur to most people and it ought to have occurred to Sir Robert Peel that a tenant who meets his engagements, if he he have any spirit at all, will treat the "opinion" of his landlord on the politics of the day with haughty indifference, perhaps with something akin to contempt, provided the "opinion" clashes with his own. Our belief is, that if such a letter had never been written, the riot at Tamworth would have taken place. It was the late Sir Robert Peel who educated the Tamworth tenantry. He showed them by argument, and, above all, by example, the only way to maintain a manly and successful competion with the foreigner under a system of free trade.

Mr. Philip Pusey, the member for Berkshire, himself a practical farmer of eminence, who sees clearly, and expresses boldly, the rock on which the interest of the British farmer has gone to pieces, thus writes to his constituents. Mr. Pusey eschews the humbug of Protection, and honestly exposes the hollowness of those who are luring the farmer to his ruin. The hon member for Berkshire, strange to say, takes the same view as Mr. Cobden of the insincerity of the Protectionist leaders in desiring to restore protection; and as he fought bravely for protection to the last, we cannot but attach importance to a statement coming from so unquestionable a source. Referring to the Stanley-Disraeli panacea of a five shilling duty on imported corn, the member for Berkshire says,—

"Practical men, I find, believe that a five-shilling tax would raise the price of wheat not five-shillings but three shillings only in our market, while the foreign producer would submit to receive two shillings less in his own. If this be so, you would not gain even three shillings, for their is a duty of one shilling already upon imported wheat. Two shillings per quarter, therefore, would be the amount of your gain. The pride of wheat for the last week was thirty-eight shillings and two pence. The new party would raise it to forty shillings and twopence, exactly twopence more shan the price at which no one is allowed to say that wheat can be grown. For the whole two shillings I cannot myself think it would be worth while to overturn a Government and dissolve a Parliament; nor would the new Government be thought very satisfactory, by its supporters at last, if, with the member for the next county upon the treasury bench, you were now to read the weekly average price of wheat—as might have happened if a Corn-law Government had been formed in March—at no higher amount than forty shillings and twopence. I can follow no such will-of-the-wisp."

This is honest, and emanating from the representative of an agricultural constituency, most independent.

TAXATION.—Mr. Hume, it will be recollected, induced the House of Commons, a few weeks ago, to limit the operation of the Income-tax to a single year. The member for Montrose, without opposing the tax on principle, wished its inequalities and oppressions to be obviated, and although his motion was carried by a large majority, he now finds himself, when he proposes the names of the committee, opposed alike by the Peelites, the Protectionists, and the Government. In fact, a more discreditable shuffle to shirk an annoying inquiry has rarely been attempted in the popular branch of the Legislature.

The House as a body is opposed to direct taxation. The inquiry if persevered in, would show how unfairly the present system of indirect taxation works. It would show how oppressively the poor are taxed, and how the rich escape. This is where the shoe pinches. Our present system of raising money to pay the interest of the debt and to carry on the Executive Government, is the most bungling, the most inconsistent, and the most arbitrary that ever human selfishness devised. We say system, but the truth is there is no system at all. Everything is contradictory. Instead of a man being compelled to pay to the State in proportion to his means, which is the only fair and rational mode, the poor man's necessities are heavily taxed, while the luxuries of the rich escape comparatively unscathed. The question at issue is one between a fair and equal plan of apportioning the national burdens, and the unfair and unequal system which now rules. If the people will submit to be plundered with their eyes open, the fault is clearly their own. In the case of the Income-tax, the nearest approach has yet been made to a more true and honest principle. The objection of the tax refers to details, not to the principle itself; and an inquiry is dreaded because it would throw a flood of light on a question which it does not answer the purpose of our law-makers that the public should comprehend too clearly.

The consideration of the subject was deferred until last night. We should be sorry to see Mr. Hume's motion defeated by a paltry side wind.

FRANCE.

A political explosion has taken place in France. The President left Paris last Saturday night and proceeded to Dijon to assist at the opening of that railway. He was accompanied by M. M. Dupin, Leon Faucher, and other ministers. There is no doubt whatever that he was enthusiastically received on the road, the applause bestowed upon him being occasionally interrupted by little knots of democrats worrying him with cries of Vive la République! Of course we had repeated the got-up scenes of "dummies" being dressed up in the regimentals of the old imperial guard, and Louis Napoleon embraced these veterans in mimicry of his uncle; and then we had a second edition of his finding "a child" in a wood, whom the benevolent President sent home to her parents with a 100 franc note in her pocket. This "child" turned out to be a bouncing French girl of sixteen. But the journals puffed up these heroic exploits to the skies; however, distrustful persons might suspect they were got up purposely for dramatic effect. Nobody thought or said a word about the railway; but when the health of the President was drunk, it would seem that "he crampled up" the constitutional speech which his ministers had written for him, and for which they alone were responsible, and delivered one of his own à la Bonaparte. The text of the speech, as given by the Moniteur officially, will be found in our foreign intelligence, (published in our issue of Saturday last.) On Tuesday night a garbled telegraphic account of the concluding sentences of this speech reached Liverpool, and considering their imperial tone, and the very self-conceited manner in which the President said "that whatever duties the nation may impose, it will find me ready to accept, and France SHALL NOT PERISH IN MY HANDS"—we looked upon the speech as purely another impudent attempt of Louis Napoleon to assume all the patriotism of France to himself, and that he alone as Emperor could save the country. The London Times and Constitutionnel were full of the most adulatory fulsome eulogy of the President and his speech. The next day's post overthrew all these idle delusions of the Elysée press. It turned out that the President uttered a speech of the most violent character. He said these banquets were "his tribute" (à moi). He complained of the course pursued by the majority for some time back. The majority, after having seconded him in all his measures of repression, which a deplorable necessity had forced upon him to apply for, deliberately opposed him when he desired to carry out the reforms which he had pondered over and so ardently desired. However, he was indemnified for such conduct by the sympathy of the population, and supported by them, he should know how to resist the attempts of the old parties. These "old parties" he insultingly called "factions." It must be remembered they are his only majority in the Chambers. The policy of the "Fusionists" he called "intrigues de salon." In short, he insulted everybody. M. M. Dupin and Leon Faucher groaned in spirit, held down their heads, and no doubt said within themselves, "the blockhead is ruining us and himself too." The excitement was very great, but the applause of the Bonapartists did not deceive the French Ministers. They insisted at once that the President's speech should be suppressed, and the version given by the Moniteur was agreed upon and telegraphed to Paris, where, even with the chief stings taken out, it made a prodigious sensation. The Ministers, with M. Dupin, returned to Paris, and Louis Napoleon followed the next day, with the full consciousness that he had made a political blunder. On Tuesday the bureaux of the Assembly met to choose their Presidents, &c. and the Bonapartists were all excluded to a man. Great excitement prevailed in the Assembly. On the first motion, which was to pension certain soldiers of the line, involving a principle affecting the republic, the left opposed the motion, and it was rejected by 306 to 295. This is the first blow of the Assembly. But during the debate a much more important incident occurred. Genl. Changarnier took an opportunity of speaking on the question, and in advancing to the tribune, shook hands ostentatiously with M. Leon Faucher and M. Buffet, the two ministers. The General, then, in a few words, spoken amidst profound attention, said "No man could induce the army to act against the laws of the country, and change the government. What pretext was there for enthusiasm? (The left loudly cheered.) The army was deeply penetrated with the sentiment of its duties and dignity, and would never lend itself to the act of inflicting on France a government by force. This was not the era of the Cæsars, when one Emperor was deposed to-day and another raised to the purple by drunken Proetorian soldiers! (Loud cheering.) The discipline of the army was too firm to allow it ever to march against the Assembly. Not a battalion or a conspiracy could be found to obey a chief, if he gave such an order: THEREFORE, REPRESENTATIVES, YOU MAY DELIBERATE IN PEACE." This intrepid speech was loudly cheered, and the ministers having declared officially that the President's speech in the "Moniteur" was the only version that they recognised, the interpellations upon it were withdrawn, but the subject must be resumed in some other form. The blow has now been struck by the President against the Assembly, and a courageous General vouches for the loyalty of the army to that body, and a second General, Cavaignac, is ready to draw the sword to support General Changarnier if necessary. Under these circumstances, in spite of all the daily assurances we hear from the London "Times" and the organs of the Elysee, that Louis Napoleon will walk over the course, we must take leave to disbelieve it in toto. We are not afraid that "France will perish in his hands," but if Louis Napolean perseveres in his treasonable designs against the Republic, it is far more likely that this adventurer may himself perish by the hands of France. The Socialist party are in raptures with General Changarnier's speech, while the organs of the Elysee strive to undervalue its importance. Whilst Changarnier and Cavaignac remain firm, Louis Napoleon can never succeed in overthrowing the Republic to make himself Emperor.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

We have three days later news from the Cape of Good Hope. Beyond a variety of excursions from Graham's Town, mainly with a view to harass the enemy and destroy his crops, Sir Harry Smith can, of course, perform nothing. It appears that the Kaffirs have roasted a Hottentot prisoner, and probably ate him up. This is made, of course, a subject for exciting a feeling against the enemy; but unless we can bring more force to bear against him, we fear we shall have to record many such occurrences. The "Zuid Afrikaan" of the 7th April has some well-written remarks, confirming the views we have taken respecting the probable duration of the war. That journal says well: that with the Saikas at open war, with their ranks reinforced from the 'Slambies, with the connivance of the Amazalekas—with the Tambookies and almost every chief throughout British Caffraria and the Orange Sovereignty in arms, and the Hottentot rebellion and defection in the army to boot—there is no prospect of a speedy termination of hostilities. This journal very properly censures the tone of hyperbole in which the British slender and very limited successes are related. We fear that the war will be a protracted and most expensive affair.

INDIA.

The advices from Bombay are to May the 3rd. The Governor General was expected at Simla in the first week of May. The neighborhood of Peshawur and the western frontiers of the Punjaub are still troubled by the marauders from the hills, but the sons of Dost Mahommed have found the townspeople quite enough to engage their attention. The Ameer of Bokhara is said to meditate an expedition against them. The rebels in China appear to be gaining ground; the tract of country in their possession is now very considerable.

We have nothing from Germany or the Spanish Peninsula, later than the news brought by the "Humboldt," and published in Saturday's Herald

MISCELLANEOUS.

SIR JOHN FRANKLIN.—The Calcutta Englishman copies the following from a Sydney paper of February 8th:—"The Brothers has made a very quick run from Honolulu of 29 days, one of the quickest passages on record. Captain Stavers states, that the day prior to his departure, the British consul had received intelligence of two vessels wrecked in St. George's Sound, supposed to be Sir John Franklin's, and that two of her Majesty's brigs were despatched to ascertain the truth of the assertion."

Half the bread now manufactured in Limerick is the produce of Egyptian flour, being a cheaper article than any other flour.

According to the census return the population of the city of Waterford has diminished 6,000.

There is a sore famine in the Isle of Skye. Subscriptions are in progress in Glasgow and other places in Scotland for the relief of the sufferers.

Henry Bell Brown, the Wesleyan minister who was convicted in the sum of £5 for ill-using his servant girl, has been suspended from the ministry.

It is said that the value of corn mills in Great Britain and Ireland is more than double the value of the coton-mills or any other mills in the kingdom.

The court-house at Wells has been adapted to serve the purpose both of an assize court and a theatre. The bench and the stage succede each other alternately.

The purchase money of a large tract of country on the wild coast of Galway and Mayo, by an English Gentleman, was only fivepence per acre for hill and lowland. In Connemara, English settlements have been formed, and occasionally are to be seen an hotel, a police barrack, neat cottages, with numerous fields reclaimed, beneath the towering hills, and fully cropped with oats, bere, barley and potatoes.

The Duke of Leinster has recently let several large farms in Kildare to Scotch farmers, and upwards of fifty of the new settlers are located between Athy and Cassledermot. Near Roscommon there are three Cheshire farmers located; their farms adjoin, and are about 100 Irish acres each.

Our readers would, doubtless, remark, in our telegraphic account of the proceedings in the House of Assembly, on the 13th instant, that Mr. Ross, the member for Megantic (and recipient of of Queen's Counsel fees, to the tune of some £200, during the last year), had introduced a bill, with a view to the exclusion from Parliament of certain members who, whatever their virtues may be, show no particular regard or deference for Mr. Ross's Ministerial patrons. The following remarks of the organ, par excellence of these patrons, the Toronto Mirror, although little complimentary to their protégé, are so just in themselves, and bear such conclusive evidence of the estimate in which, while used, Mr. Ross is held by the ministry he supports, that we give them in preference to prolonging our own remarks upon so stupid and bungling an attempt to cheat the Hon. member for Haldimand out of his rights:—

Mr. Ross, member for Megantic, introduced a bill on Wednesday night, to prevent members from holding a seat in Parliament who have been guilty of treason or taken the oath of allegiance to a foreign State. This is evidently intended to apply to Mr. MacKenzie, though there are other members to whom it may apply equally well, such, for instance, as Dr. Nelson and Mr. Papineau. We regard the measure as a piece of gross stupidity, not at all likely to elevate Mr. Ross in the estimation of the people of Upper Canada. Perhaps it may be otherwise as regards his constituents, though we do believe Megantic will make another and a better choice next time. Mr. Ross has sadly disappointed the expectation of his friends. He is worse than useless in debate. The words stick in his throat so, and he looks so confoundedly fierce, when he speaks, that, though he may frighten the timid, he can never convince the doubtful or demolish an opponent. What a difference between him and his late townsman, Judge Aylwin! And yet the people of Quebec set a good deal of value on Mr. Ross's talents as a lawyer, perhaps deservedly so. As a member of Parliament he is sadly deficient, as a partizan he is indiscreet, and as an opponent he is violent and vindictive. The present bill is proof positive of his vindictiveness, and we trust he will not proceed any further with it, but suffer it to drop as quietly as possible. The Queen's pardon has been extended to all parties guilty of treason in Canada, and to create penalties for an offence that has been forgiven, is inconsistent and unjust.

RECIPROCITY—RETALIATION.—We observe by the Toronto Colonist, that the Board of Trade of that city have addressed a Memorial to the House of Assembly against the proposed shutting of the Welland Canal to American vessels. We give the Memorial below. The following are some of our contemporary's remarks upon Mr. Hincks's policy:

It is well the country should be put on its guard with respect to the motive for the present humbug, better known by the name of retaliation. For the last twelve months our ears have been tickled with magnificent promises of reciprocity, and with occasional announcements of the gigantic diplomatic arrangements going on under the management of the greatest financier of the age. But it appears the bubble has now burst, and the whole thing has turned out to be a bag of wind. It is reported that the important communication from Washington has arrived, and that there is to be no reciprocity. It matters little whether the report is correct or not, or that there was any truth in the statement of a communication being expected; the Inspector General gained his point, which was to stave off investigation; and the protectionist members permitted the dodge to be practised without confronting the statement with authentic information in their possession, of an opposite nature. So much for what has already just transpired. The next dodge is a cry for retaliation; but this won't do, and we may take the liberty of telling those who seem inclined to lend their influence to aid the imposture, that it will not succeed. There is too much good sense in the public mind of this province to tolerate so bare-faced an attempt to deceive. They might as well try to retaliate against the elements of nature, as against the United States, in our present circumstances. Free trade has put us in a fix, we are governed and controlled by a free trade policy. Our geographical and ethnical position is such, and we have no discretionary power to act in any other than one direction. Our hands are tied up; we are deprived of the means of defence; and our necessities compel us to seek access to the United States market. This our southern neighbours know, and with their shrewd commercial penetration, have calculated the issue as surely and correctly as they would any other question of a business nature. They can afford to smile at our system of financing, and to laugh heartily at the way in which the Inspector General's pet measure of retaliation, namely, the shutting of the Welland Canal, is "used up" by the Council of the Toronto Board of Trade.

"TO THE HONOURABLE THE COMMONS HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY IN PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT ASSEMBLED.

"THE MEMORIAL OF THE COUNCIL OF THE BOARD OF TRADE,

"RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH,—

"That although the Council is of opinion that the benefits likely to be derived by this Province from free trade in agricultural products with the United States are very much overrated, they nevertheless learn with regret the failure of the repeated overtures made both by the Imperial and Provincial Government to attain that object.

"That the advantages granted to the Americans by the repeal of the differential duties, thus allowing them to enter our markets on as favourable terms as our fellow subjects, who not only receive our products free, but in some instances grant us the benefit of protection, have not been met in that liberal spirit which we had reason to expect.

"That the time has arrived when the Government of the Province would be justified in resorting to such measures of retaliation as would deprive the Americans of the very great advantages they now enjoy in our markets, providing such can be done without injuriously affecting our own interests.

"That in the opinion of your memorialists, the proposed closing of the Welland Canal to American vessels sailing to American ports, would not have the desired effect for the following reasons: That the trade and returns on the Erie Canal would be very much increased, while those on the Welland Canal would be greatly diminished; that any injury done to the trade of Oswego and Ogdensburgh would be counterbalanced by the impetus given that of Buffalo and other places on the Erie Canal; that while Canadians find it their interest to forward their produce through the Erie Canal and sell it in bond in New York, the Americans will not be induced by the proposed embargo on American vessels to send their produce through our Canals to be sold or shipped in Montreal.

"That differential duties on American products, by which the trade with our fellow subjects would be fostered, rather than that with our less liberal neighbors would, in the opinion of your memorialists, be likely to attain the desired end; and as any increase of duties on the products of the United States might be compensated for by a corresponding reduction on those from Great Britain and other countries, such a course would neither affect the revenue nor increase the burthens of the people.

"That inasmuch as Western Canada is most deeply interested in the question of reciprocity, your memorialists have no doubt the trade will cheerfully accede to such modifications of the import duties as will be likely to obtain the desired object.

"That your memorialists desire it to be understood that they have in no respect altered the views which they have repeatedly expressed in favor of the principles of Free Trade. But they are convinced that existing circumstances render the course above recommended necessary, so long as the system at present in force amongst our American neighbors shall be persevered in.

"Your memorialists therefore pray your Honorable House, that such measures be taken as may seem in your wisdom best calculated to secure the advantages sought for.

"And as in duty bound your memorialists will ever pray.

"By order,
"(Signed) G. P. RIDOUT,

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE DAY.—This being the National Festival of our friends the Canadians, par excellence,—our fellow-subjects of French extraction,—it will, we understand, be celebrated with unusual splendour. In the morning the members of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, with their friends, will march in procession to the Parish Church, and after the religious services of the day, make their accustomed progress through the town. More than one dinner, in honor of the occasion, will take place in the afternoon; and in the evening a grand social Réunion will be held in the splendid Ball-room of the Hays' House. We sincerely hope the weather will be more propitious than, we regret to say, at this present writing, it appears to promise, and we wish our fellow-citizens every enjoyment appropriate to the national anniversary.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS—THE GALLANT TWENTIETH.—Our friend Mr. Oliver and his admirable Band will, we are happy to announce, (weather permitting), resume their delightful concerts, by the kind permission of Col. Horn, on the Champ de Mars, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The following is the programme of the day:—

1—March.
2—Overture, Stradella—Flotow.
3—Canadian Quadrilles—Seume.
4—Cavatina, Ne touchez pas a la Reine—Boislot
5—Evening Star Walzer—Lumbye.
6—Selections from "Martha"—Flotow.
7—Hyde Park Galop—Labitzky.

It is to us a matter of regret that we have not already given honour to whom honour is due.—But we must make amends.—The Wilson monument originated with Sir James Alexander, A. D. C., to the present Commander of the Forces, the Hon. William Morris, A. Davidson Parker, Hew Ramsay, and John McClean, Esquires, of Montreal. The sum of £70 is now in the hands of the Treasurer, and £25 is promised from New York; and we are pleased to learn that the monument will be in progress ere a month passes by.—[Quebec Chronicle.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

(Reported for the Montreal Herald.)

SUPERIOR COURT.

Friday, 20th June.

JOHN POLLOCK ET AL VS. BENJ. HOLMES ET AL.—This case came on to-day before Mr. Justice DAY and a special jury composed of the following persons:—James Lewis, James Moore, Andrew McFarlane, John Sproston, Francis Mullins, Jas. Thompson, John Glennon, Charles J. Cusack, D. P. Janes, Edwin Atwater, John Jordan and Robt. Latham.

Messrs. ROSE and MONK appeared for the Plaintiffs.

Mr. ROSE opened the case.—This was an action brought to recover damages laid at £3000, resulting from a purchase made on the 2nd November, 1849, of 800 bbls of pork from the defendants by the plaintiffs, as Montreal and New York inspected Mess, but which subsequently proved to be bad and unmerchantable. For this the plaintiff had paid $13¾ and $12¾ per brl. It had been transported to Bytown, and to other places at greater distance, and had consequently subjected the plaintiffs to great inconvenience and expense, besides injuring their reputation as merchants, in the eyes of those who had bought this pork from them. The facts would be substantiated by the evidence. As to the law applicable to such cases he quoted John Williams Smith on contracts, p. 143, and referred to several decisions, on what he stated to be similar cases. The points to be established were these: that in selling, the defendents had concealed the bad quality of the pork; that there was a sale by sample; that there was a vice cachee; that there was no opportunity for the plaintiffs to examine the pork till it was opened for use; and that in fact, pork was an article always sold by the brand and not by the inspection of the purchaser.

The first evidence put in was the account sales and receipt of payment. Then were submitted the letters which passed between the parties, relative to the transaction, subsequently to the discovery of the defects in the pork. The first of these was dated 27th February, 1850. from plaintiffs to defendants, complaining of the quality, and declaring that they would hold them responsible. This letter the defendants answered the same day, stating that they did not consider themselves so. The plaintiffs wrote again to the defendants on the 14th March, 1850, in reply to the last named letter, reiterating their intention to hold the defendants responsible, and enclosing statements of the damages alleged to have been sustained; also stating that a portion of the pork sent to Bytown was on its way back to Montreal, and that the rest would be despatched immediately. On the 2nd April following, the plaintiffs' protested; and on the 15th they again wrote to the defendants, offering to give back to them the pork, on being refunded the amount of the purchase, with interest and costs,—allowing defendants 24 hours to agree to terms—and threatening, in default thereof, to sell the pork at their risk. This letter was replied to on the 18th of April, the defendants declaring they had nothing to do with the matter. Thus the correspondence was completed. Then were read the examinations of the several defendants (Benj. Holmes, John Young and Joseph Knapp) sur faits et articles. The main facts elicited by these, were, that on the 2nd November, 1849, Mr. Gilmour, one of the plaintiffs, called at the office of Messrs. Holmes, Young & Knapp, and asked if they had Pork for sale; that Mr. Holmes, who was there, replied that they had a large lot for sale on consignment, and that he (Mr. G.) might look at it, if he pleased; that Mr. H., after some further conversation, went with Mr. G. to the store where the Pork was, at the entrance door of which two or three barrels were standing, which had just before been opened for the inspection of Messrs. Gibb and Ross; that after Mr. G. had examined these barrels at the door, they entered the warehouse together, where the storeman took down at random, from a range of barrels, some two or more, supposed to be an average specimen of the whole lot; that Mr. G. examined them also, and declared himself satisfied with them; that he (Mr. G.) being asked what inspector he would prefer, to inspect the 500 brls. which he wanted to have of Montreal brand, replied that he would prefer McDonald. It further appeared from Mr. Holmes' answers to the interrogatories, that nothing was said of a sale by sample; that there was no sort of warranty whatever; that he (Mr. H.) had no reason to doubt the soundness of the Pork; that the believed that the barrels examined were a fair average specimen of the lot; and that Mr. G. might have examined any number of them that he pleased. It also appeared that Mr. McDonald, the inspector, between the 2nd and the 10th Nov., inspected 848 brls. of the Pork, laying aside 98 brls marked with a X—which last remained uninspected, in order to save inspection charges; that Mr. Young, at the time of the sale, was confined to his bed, having just met with an accident, and Mr. Knapp was in New York; that consequently neither of them had any part in effecting the transaction; that the consignors insisted that all the Pork was of good quality; and that some barrels were sent back to New York, to shew them the quality of the portions branded sour by the Inspector here.

Mr. Knapp's and Mr. Young's answers gave no information relative to the terms of the sale.

The main facts of the Plaintiff's case, viz.:—The sale to them on the 2nd of November, 1849; the subsequent transportment of the Pork to Bytown; and its turning out bad and unfit for use, were proved by a large number of witnesses. It was also proved that the cellars in which it was placed at Bytown were good, having been constructed for the express purpose of storing provisions, and that it could not have been injured while there. The sale of the portion which was returned, referred to in the correspondence between the parties, and the amount realized therefrom was proved by Mr. BENNING, the Auctioneer.

The Defendants' case was conducted by Messrs. ANDREW ROBERTSON and JOHNSON.—The pleas denied the warranty alleged by the plaintiffs, the sale by sample, and the fraud. They alleged a sale of 600 barrels on the 2nd November, viz:—300 of New York, and 300 of Montreal inspection: also, 200 of New York inspection, on the 5th, and 200 of Montreal inspection, on the 8th. They also alleged that the last 200 barrels were inspected by the plaintiffs themselves, on the defendants' premises: that the pork was sold on commission, after full inspection and examination by Mr. Gilmour, one of the plaintiffs, and by the brand: and that the defendants accounted for the sale to their principals in New York, in the month of December following, and long before the plaintiffs had given them any intimation of the unsoundness of the pork.

Mr. S. LESTER TAYLOR, who was on the 2nd November, 1849, book-keeper of the defendants, swore that he was present at the sale; that he accompanied the parties to the warehouse; that he saw Mr. Gilmour examine the barrels, and heard all the conversation between him and Mr. Holmes. He said the sale was made at Mr. Gilmour's own risk; and that he (Mr. G.) had expressly made choice of McDonnell as inspector. He proved the dissolution of copartnership of Holmes, Young & Knapp, on the 31st Dec., 1849. He also proved the accounts of sales to the principals in New York; and that at the time of sale, they had upwards of £3000 on hand. The first complaint he had heard of any portion of the 4000 barrels was that made by the plaintiffs in February.

WILLIAM BIRD, the Storeman of defendants, corroborated the testimony of Mr. Taylor, as to Mr. Gilmour's examination of the pork, and choice of McDonnell as inspector. He also proved delivery.

Other parties were produced to prove the difference in price between sound mess and sour. This was variously stated at from 7s. 6d. per bbl. to 15s. Proof of commercial usage, as to warranties and samples, was not allowed by the Court.

Here the defendants' case closed, and Mr. ROSE replied; after which,

Mr. Justice DAY charged the Jury. This was a case he said, of an interesting nature, and one which bad apparently caused a good deal of excitement. He would say at the out set that it was one of those cases, which, being peculiarly commercial in their character, might properly be submitted to the arbitration of the Board of Trade. He did not make this observation, however, with the view of casting the least blame upon the plaintiffs; on this score, nothing wrong could be imputed to them. They had been called upon by circumstances to take some action in the matter, and they had chosen to bring their complaint before this tribunal; this they had a right to do. This was an action for damages, set forth in four different allegations or counts of the plaintiffs' declaration. The first was an allegation of express warranty by the defendants of the pork sold to the plaintiffs; and that inasmuch as it proved to have been at the time of sale bad and unmerchantable, the defendants were guilty of fraud. The second was substantially the same as the first, so far as respected the conduct of the defendants, and the quality of the article; but differed from it in stating that the plaintiffs had sold a quantity of the damaged pork at a price which they were willing to deduct from the whole amount of the purchase.—The third count rested on an alleged legal warranty, inasmuch as the plaintiffs had purchased in good faith, and in ignorance of the defects of the pork, of which defects the defendants being acquainted had neglected to inform them. The fourth count alleged that the sale was by sample. This count contained no imputation of fraud. There were some facts in the case, he should say, which were proved beyond a doubt, viz: the leading facts, such as that the sale took place,—that the pork was sent away,—that it was subsequently found to be bad, &c. When he spoke of the facts, however, he wished to be understood as merely expressing an opinion upon them; all decisions respecting them fell within the province of the Jury. He would lay down a few simple rules of law, as to the circumstances which this case presented. With regard to the first count of the plaintiffs' declaration—if the allegations it contained were proved, there could be no longer any doubt about the liability of the defendants, and the damages awarded by the verdict should be heavy. The consequential damages should be contemplated, as well as the proximate. But if the Jury should think with him, that there had been no express warranty, for specific purpose, as was alleged, their verdict upon this count must be for the defendants. As to the second, which, excepting the offer to deduct, was merely a repetition of the first, the same remark was applicable. The essential element of the third count, on which the plaintiffs probably relied most, was FRAUD. All the circumstances were now before the Jury, and it was for them to determine, on an examination of these, whether there had been on the part of the defendants, such a concealment, such a fraud, as would entitle the plaintiffs to recover. There was a distinction to be drawn between fraud, in a merely moral sense, and fraud in a strictly legal sense. In the former, one might neglect to disclose to another all the facts of a case, and not be culpable, while the law might regard such an omission of the truth as fraudulent, when it tended to prejudice the actual interests of the other,—as when a purchaser, his vendor failing to inform him of defects in the article sold, became a loser in consequence. If the Jury thought it proved, in this case, that the Defendants had concealed from the Plaintiffs when purchasing, any defects in the Pork, of which they were themselves aware, then it was clear, that upon this third count, the verdict must be for the Plaintiffs. The fourth count alleged that the sale was made by sample, and that the article delivered and paid for did not correspond with that sample. Here it was the business of the Court to direct the Jury. Point involved was rather one of fact than of law, and to which Merchants were very competent to speak. He would take as an illustration the case of a broker who had a quantity of wheat to dispose of, and who shewed buyers a small part of it to indicate the quality of the whole; a sale made in this way would be a sale by sample. He did not agree with either of the Counsel, in the opposite positions they had taken. If Mr. Gilmour had gone to Mr. Holmes, and asked of him the price and quality of his Pork; and the latter had shown him a small lot, saying "this is a sample of the whole," and Gilmour had replied "very well, I will take it as such," the sale would clearly have been one by sample. But on the other hand, if Holmes had said, "here is a specimen of the general quality," as in the present case, the sale could not, according to the books, have been one by sample. This was the rule which the Jury ought to adopt. There was no sale by sample. Here facts and law were closely blended together. This fourth count contained no imputations of fraud, and if under it the Plaintiffs should be found entitled to recover, the damages ought to be small—merely the measure of difference in value between the good article and the bad.

There was still another form in which this claim might have been urged. If a purchaser bought from another, both parties being in good faith, and subsequently detected defects in the thing purchased, the law gave him the right to come back upon his vendor; this was the case of a latent vice. But this ground of action was different from any set up here; and it was a matter of difficulty to say whether or not, under the declaration, it could be made available. The declaration was a long one, but he had great doubts whether it covered this ground. It would be better, however, to take it for the present as if it did so, reserving the point of law for further consideration. He confessed that he thought this fifth ground gave the plaintiffs a more substantial hope than any other, unless a fraud were proved. Here the liability of the vendor depended upon the defects being latent, and not patent; for if a vice were patent, the purchaser, by a proper examination, could detect it. But where a vice was too latent to be discovered on examination, the law came to the aid of the buyer. In the present case, Holmes had replied to Gilmour's inquiries, that he had pork branded New York Inspected Mess. It had been shown by the evidence, that the pork had been previously branded as New York Inspected, and that part of it was re-inspected at the instance of the plaintiffs.—The fact was well established that the re-inspection was subsequent to the sale. With certain barrels taken indiscriminately from the lot, Gilmour had declared himself satisfied. Then with respect to the others, which were not opened, the question arose, whether any defect they might have contained, was to be considered as latent, when, by the mere opening, it would have been rendered patent. No such defect could be called latent, in the proper sense. But to render the defect patent, it was not sufficient merely to unhead the barrels; they had to be unpacked, and the Pork inspected, piece by piece. Now, as far as the purchaser himself was concerned, it was moraly impossible for him to do this. But the law made provision for the difficulty, by the appointment of a public officer, whose duty was to examine and certify the quality. In the present case, did the inspection subsequent to the sale vary the relation of the parties? It was Gilmour's undoubted right to look at every barrel and at every piece. This, however, he could not do himself; but as there was an officer who could, and who was authorized to do so, he was willing to take that officer's statement. He, therefore, waived his right of personal inspection, in favor of another—the licensed inspector. If this point were established, (and his Honor thought it was,) there was an end of all discussion as to the quality of the Pork. The rule would be different, if the defect were proved to have been latent, in the true sense, and not so merely because the barrels were not opened. He repeated, that the evidence was with the defendants, as to the Pork's being inspected after the sale, and at the instance of the plaintiffs. It did not alter the matter, that the defendants had paid the inspector, for they had done so at the election of the plaintiffs, and charged them with the amount. It would be perfectly apparent to mercantile men, that there must be some end to the liability of innocent vendors. He spoke of the hardship to which consignees would be subjected, who, after they had remitted the proceeds of sales to their principals, and the whole transaction had been long finished, should be suddenly called to account on their own behalf for recently discovered vices in the things disposed of. If, in this case, the Jury thought with him that the vice complained of was not latent, then, upon this ground, their verdict must be against the plaintiffs. But if they thought it latent, or thought a fraud to have been proved, his reasoning would not apply. There was another question incidentally connected with these points. Did the Montreal inspection cover that portion of the New York which was not reinspected? He thought it did. Gilmour had thought proper to have a certain quantity inspected, to satisfy him as to the condition and quality of the whole. This, however, was rather a matter for the opinion of the Jury. His Honor, in concluding, said, that as the decision would be an important one, he thought, for the convenience of taking future steps upon it, if any should be found necessary, that the verdict ought to be special—mentioning the counts upon which it was found—if found for the plaintiffs; if for the defendants, it would of course be general.

The Jury retired, and after remaining in consultation for upwards of an hour, came into Court and stated they were unable to agree, being six to six. The Court having said that the case was one which might very properly be submitted to the Board of Trade, a juror was withdrawn and the jury were thereupon discharged.

TRADE & COMMERCE

We have been requested by several of our importing friends, to direct the attention of Trade authorities to the faulty system, or rather want of system, followed in the delivery of cargoes by the Shipmasters visiting our port. There are, apparently, no port regulations on this subject in force, and the consequence is, that packages and crates are tumbled higgledy piggledy on the wharf, to the profit of the English crockery manufacturer, but to the loss and injury of his Montreal customer.

We beg to direct the attention of Merchant Tailors, and the Trade generally, to the sale of "West of England and German Cloths," (the importation of PHILIP HOLLAND, Esq.,) which takes place To-morrow, at One o'clock, at the Warehouse of STEWART & KERR. The Cloths, we understand, are of a superior quality, and are to be sold without reserve; consequently, an excellent opportunity will be afforded to buyers for laying in their stock.

(From Parsons, Day & Co.'s Market Report.)

LIVERPOOL, June 7.

Ashes.—About 400 barrels have been sold during the last fortnight, at 27s to 27s 6d for Pots, and 29s to 30s per cwt for Pearl.

Corn—The week following our last report of the 24th ult., there was rather more business passing in Wheat at slightly improved prices; in Flour several low sales were made, and for Indian Corn there was a steady demand at the quotations. During the past week there has been a steady consumptive demand for Wheat, and a fair business passing in Flour; in Indian Corn a reduction of 6d to 1s per quarter was submitted to.

At yesterday's Market there was a fair attendance and a good business done, Indian Corn having nearly recovered the depression of the past few days; at the close there was a firmer tone for all articles than for some time past.

Staves—The better descriptions of hhd and wine Pipe meet ready sale, while the inferior kinds are neglected; good New Orleans hhd command £17 to £18 per M; New York hhd £14 to £16, and Wine Pipe £16 to £18 per M. Quebec Staves.—The demand for Standard is very limited; the latter sales have been at £60 per standard M. for good quality and specification. For Puncheon there has been less inquiry; there is, however, no change in prices.

Sugar—Since our last report we have to notice a decline of 6d. per cwt. on all descriptions; the sales of the fortnight have been 1,200 hhds. B. P.; 7,000 bags Bengal; Foreign, 3,060 boxes Havana, 300 cases brown Bahia, 220 hhds and 70 barrels Porto Rico, and 25 hhds Surinams.

Iron—The Iron Market continues in a very languid state, and only a limited business doing. Pig Iron continues in a drooping state, and meets little enquiry. Tin Plates are in good demand, and prices are firmer, with a tendency to advance. Block Tin keeps very quiet. Copper is in fair request at former rates. Pig Lead continues neglected.

The following quotations of prices of Metals, in Glasgow, are from the Circular of Mr. Wm. Roy, Jr., received by last steamer:—

THIS EVENING (MONDAY,) JUNE 23.

LEWIS'S PANORAMA OF THE LOWER MISSISSIPPI,

Being a Continuation of the Picture, which has been shown here for the last four weeks.

THIS Magnificent Work of Art is painted on 30,000 square feet of Canvass, showing the Course of this MIGHTY RIVER through SIX STATES OF THE UNION.

The Picture begins with a splendid Nautical view of the GULF of MEXICO, representing the two principal mouths of the River, viz:—the S. E. and S. W. passess; and thenceforward faithfully depicts the continuous and ever varying scenes of interest, until the spectator arrives at St. LOUIS, which is represented under the influence of the great FIRE (which destroyed nearly $5,000,000 worth of property,) on the memorable night of the 17th May, 1849.

To give some idea of the magnitude of this great work, it may be stated, that the view of NEW ORLEANS alone, covers 400 square yards of canvass, and represents 300 ships, besides steamboats, and countless other River Craft. The Views of NATCHES, VICKSBURG, MEMPHIS, and CAIRO, at the mouth of the OHIO RIVER, will also be found of great interest.

Admittance as before, 1s. 3d.

Doors open at half-past SEVEN.

Picture moves at quarter-past EIGHT precisely.

AFTERNOON EXHIBITIONS on WEDNESDAY and SATURDAY, at THREE o'clock.

Maffre's fine Band will be in attendance.

BLISS'S COMPOUND COD LIVER OIL CANDY.—Had Dr. Bliss introduced his unsurpassed medicine a few years since, the records of mortality would not have been so enormously swelled with deaths by consumption. This is perfectly clear to the mind of every individual who has witnessed the benefits arising to consumptive patients from a use of this Candy. It possesses all the virtues of Cod Liver Oil, but none of its offensive odour and disgusting taste. But like every good article it has its counterfeits. Call for Bliss's Candy, and receive no other.

ELEGANT TOILET REQUISITES.

TO LADIES.
ROWLANDS' KALYDOR
FOR THE SKIN & COMPLEXION.

AN ORIENTAL BALSAMIC Preparation, perfectly free from all mineral or metallic admixture. It is distinguished for its extremely bland, purifying and soothing effects on the Skin; while by its action on the pores and minute secretory vessels it expels all impurities from the surface, allays every tendency to inflammation, and thus effectually dissipates all REDNESS, TAN, PIMPLES, SPOTS, FRECKLES, DISCOLORATIONS, and other cutaneous visitations. The radiant bloom it imparts to the Cheek, and the softness and delicacy which it induces on the hands and arms, render it indispensable to every toilet.

To Ladies, during the period of nursing, and as a wash for Infants, it cannot be too strongly recommended.

Gentlemen, after shaving, will find it allay al irritation and tenderness of the skin, and render it soft, smooth, and pleasant. Price 4s 6d and 8s 6d per bottle.

CRANE'S
PATENT PREMIUM
LABOUR-SAVING SOAP,
MANUFACTURED BY JOHN MATHEWSON & SON.

TO this popular and celebrated SOAP was awarded the First Premium and a Diploma over all other competitors at the NEW YORK STATE FAIR, held at Albany in September last,—but the best testimonial in its favor is the personal experience of those who use it. All say it is the most effectual, safe, time and labour-saving preparation, ever introduced. There are none of the deleterious articles in this Soap which are used in the miserable fluids, powders, and imitation labour-saving Soap, so forced upon this community, and which are calculated to destroy the texture of the clothes washed with them, but the chemical preparation of this Soap is perfectly healthy, and is warranted not to injure the finest fabric.

Owing to the increased demand, the price has been reduced. Each bar is stamped with the Manufacturers' name.

Sold Wholesale and to the Trade only, at the Manufactory, and at the Stores of C. BOCKUS, 216, St Paul Street. By Retail at the principal Grocery Establishments in the city.

Barton & Fenn's
(STEAM REFINED)
PREMIUM LABOR SAVING SOAP.

NOW is the time to try one of the many superior qualities of this Soap in cleaning painted work, which has collected smoke during a long winter from lamps, candles, wood and coal.

The constantly increasing demand for it in this city, (the only place in Canada where it has been introduced or can be obtained) is one of the best recommendations that can be given in its favor.

In the United States, it is acknowledged by all those who have used it, to be the only REAL LABOR SAVING SOAP manufactured, that is worthy of the name, and what is of more consequence, accomplishes what it promises.

A few of its many superior advantages over all other Soaps, are—

It saves one half of the labor—Clothes are not worn out by rubbing—it removes PAINT, GREASE, TAR or STAINS from Carpets or Clothing, without injury to color or fabric, and is very superior for cleansing painted work.

I have only to say to those who have not used it, try it, and you will be satisfied that it is all which it is recommended to be. It is warranted not to injure the finest fabric or colors in washing, more than pure water.

To residents in the Country, I would say you need have no fear from purchasing a few months supply, as it is not a washing compound that evaporates; but like all good Soap, improves with age.

For Sale, Wholesale and Retail at most of the principal Grocers and Druggists in this city.

All orders left with JOHN LONG, No. 224, St. Paul Street, or with the Subscriber, will meet with prompt attention.

J. M. GILBERT.

CAUTION.—The unparalleled reputation of BARTON & FENN'S Soap, has induced others to sell an inferior compound, calling it by the name of Labor Saving Soap. This Soap is warranted not to EVAPORATE if exposed to Air.

To prevent imposition, take particular notice that each bar is stamped, "BARTON & FENN'S Labor Saving Soap, Troy, N. Y."

THE Steamers BRITISH EMPIRE and BRITISH QUEEN, running in connection with the large splendid U. S. Mail Steamers from Ogdensburgh to Lewiston, via Kingston and intermediate Ports, will leave MONTREAL, (Sundays excepted,) at FIVE o'clock in the Evening, giving passengers the DAY IN MONTREAL, and then reach Buffalo at the same time as those leaving by the Royal Mail Line on the morning of the same day

Passengers leaving by the splendid new Steamers BRITISH QUEEN or BRITISH EMPIRE, on SATURDAY EVENING, at FIVE o'clock, will reach Niagara Falls and Buffalo on TUESDAY MORNING in time for breakfast, and Morning Steamers bound up the Lakes from Buffalo, Twenty-four hours in advance of those who leave Montreal on Saturday Morning by other Lines.

This arrangement will prove highly beneficial to business men and others residing on the River St. Lawrence, affording them, as it will, a fine opportunity of transacting business in Montreal during the day, and of returning to their homes at evening by this favorite Line.

For further particulars, enquire at the Lake Ontario and River St. Lawrence Steamboat Office, 24, McGill Street, Montreal.
