U.S. TANK FORCES TRAP TWO NAZI ARMIES

Rhine Bridgehead Further Expanded

First Army Deploying Tanks Along Major Highway that Connects Frankfurt and the Ruhr—Bridgehead Now Thirteen Miles Wide and Seven Miles Deep.

By JAMES M. LONG, Associated Press Staff Writer.

Paris, March 17.—(AP)—United States 3rd Army tank columns slashed behind the Siegfried Line in the huge Saarland triangle today, fashioning a death trap against two German armies in road-clogged retreat west of the Rhine.

Tanks exploiting a break-through were half-way from Coblenz to Mains on the Rhine elbow, meeting only light resistance. The U. S. 7th Army beat forward on a fifty-mile front, rolling in the southern end of the trap. It had toppled the Maginot fortress of Bitch.

While the whole German Saarland stand appeared to be collapsing, the U. S. 1st Army in its burgeoning Rhine bridgehead deployed tanks on the highway connecting Frankfurt and the Ruhr, and battled within three miles of open plains leading north to the Ruhr. The bridgehead was thirteen miles long and seven deep.

To the north on the U. S. 9th Army front where the Rhine guards great Ruhr war cities, Americans and Germans stepped up patrol thrusts over the river. The 21st Army group—including the 1st Canadian Army—is arrayed along the area of the Lower Rhine.

Lt.-Gen. Patton's 4th Armored Division, racing south and southeast from its Moselle river crossing southwest of Coblenz, was under-cutting the whole triangle formed by the Moselle and Rhine.

Armored columns, their latest movements cloaked in security silence, had reached beyond Simmern, eighteen miles south of the Remagen bridgehead, and another column farther east entered Rheinbollen and Ellern near the Rhine 24 miles from Coblenz. Patton's men there were nine and a half miles from Bingen at a curve on the Rhine, and twenty-seven miles from Mains on the Rhine elbow farther east.

Airmen reported roads through Kaiserlautern in the middle of the triangle were jammed with German vehicles seeking to escape over the Rhine at Mains and Mannheim.

Japs Mopped Up In Southern Mandalay

Mandalay, March 17.—(AP)—British and Indian troops mopped up roving bands of Japanese in the southern outskirts of Mandalay and of enemy-held Fort Dufferin today.

The main clashes with the Japanese were taking place on the southern outskirts of Mandalay and at scattered points in the eastern and western part of the river city.

Small units of Japanese are moving constantly from one shelter to another, avoiding making a last stand. The railway station south of Fort Dufferin has been cleared of the enemy.

Campbell Opposes Anglo-U.S. Union

Seattle, March 17.—(AP)—Great Britain and the United States do not want a "marriage," Sir Gerald Campbell suggested yesterday because "I don't think our nations have enough in common to be happy though married."

Sir Gerald, special assistant to the British Ambassador to the United States, told the Members of the House of Commons that the Chamber of Commerce he believed the proper relationship would be a business partnership.

Mixed Reception Greeted Plan To Re-Settle Canadian Japs

By The Canadian Press

Announcement by the British Columbia Security Commission yesterday that the Dominion Government would prefer post-war resettlement of Japanese, evacuated from west coast defence zones in 1942, east of the Rocky Mountains received a mixed reception elsewhere in Canada.

The Commission, in a statement, said a notice from T. B. Pickerskill, Commissioner of Japanese Placement, to all Japanese evacuated from the protected area and not wanting to sign applications for repatriation to Japan should "co-operate with the Government and relocate east of the Rocky Mountains."

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said his Government is prepared to co-operate in any plan "acceptable to Canada as a whole" for resettlement of the Japanese. The Province would take no action alone and would wait some Dominion-wide agreement before saying they could settle permanently in the Province.

Premier Duplessis said Quebec would oppose admission of the evacuees to that Province and later told the Legislature that his Government

RETURNED VETS CONFIDENT OF EARLY VICTORY

Hundreds More Canadian Sailors, Soldiers and Airmen Have Arrived in Dominion From Fronts Overseas.

By The Canadian Press

Confident that the war in Europe will be over soon, but just a little disappointed they would not be in at the kill, hundreds more Canadian sailors, soldiers and airmen have arrived in the Dominion from Overseas fronts. Some are back for good, some on rotation leave and others under the "tri-wound" leave plan.

Some had been returned because they were over the military age, and agreed it was "hard to take" because they felt they still were as good as ever.

Another large contingent of R.C.A.F. personnel, including Women's Division members, and Canadian Navy and Merchant Marine men, Canadian firefighters back from Britain, G.W.A.C.C.'s and British wives of Canadian servicemen came to the Dominion at the same time.

Brig. Girard Renvoise Bradbrooke of London, Ont., former commander of an armored brigade Overseas and lately liaison officer with the British 8th Army, led a party of high-ranking officers home.

Among them was Col. William McNeill of Toronto, former military secretary to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, from the establishment of the 1st Canadian Corps in 1941 until early last year, just before the present Defence Minister's retirement from his army post.

Col. McNeill would not comment on the reinforcement situation or the Minister's policies, but said he had "the greatest confidence" in his former chief.

"What Gen. McNaughton is doing is best for the army. Not only the army, but the country owes him a great debt," he said.

Unofficial estimates show there are about 23,000 Japanese in Canada, about 15,000 of them in British Columbia.

Jungle Battle Experience Won In Grim New Guinea Mountains

New York, March 17.—(AP)—Australian fighting men, now mopping up Japanese troops in the islands north of their once-menaced homeland, acquired their jungle battle knowledge in the grim Owen Stanley Mountains of New Guinea during the Japanese surge of 1942, an Australian publication emphasized today.

That campaign, in which the Australians withdrew before superior numbers and then turned on the enemy to pave the way for two years of victorious fighting in the island, was the most significant action fought in New Guinea, said the book, "The Australian Army at War."

"There was a psychological hurdle in this particular campaign as well as the difficult physical obstacle of the mountain trail," added the publication which records five years of army achievement. "The lingering defeatism which had been bred by the speed of the Japanese advance had not been eliminated and the offensive spirit had not been revived among the United Nations."

First stage in the programme, which called for Moresby's capture by September 21, was the drive through the Owen Stanleys from Buna and Gona. The second was to have been capture of Milne Bay on Australia's eastern tip followed by a drive along the south coast. The third was a naval movement against Moresby.

The first drive was stopped at Eoribaiwa Ridge, within 35 air miles of Port Moresby. Between that ridge and the port there was little to deter the enemy. Opposing him was a thin line of Australians but they were determined troops who had learned the jungle lessons.

"Some American land forces had been brought into New Guinea, chiefly by air, but weeks were to pass before they got to grips with the Japanese and linked up with the Australian advance on the north coast," the book said. "The American air forces, however, were to play an important role, particularly in the later weeks while the Japanese were being pressed back down the northern side of the Owen Stanleys."

Meanwhile, the Australians began their offensive against Eoribaiwa Ridge, which was to mark the end of Japanese aggression. Fresh troops were thrown in, patrols harassed the Japanese and the enemy "parried" out of his positions at Eoribaiwa Ridge on September 28.

Late in August and early in September the Milne Bay landing project was routed and the enemy naval programme "was smashed by the success of the Allies in the battle of the Coral Sea in which the forces were predominantly American but were supported by Australian naval units."

Windsor To Visit Ranch In Alberta

Nassau, Bahamas, March 17.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor, in nearly eighteen years, the Duke of Windsor said today, he may visit the ranch at High River, near Calgary, Alta., which he bought when Prince of Wales.

The disclosure came when the Duke, whose resignation as Governor of the Bahamas Islands was announced yesterday, told correspondents he and the Duchess would leave for New York during the latter part of April and from there might go to his ranch. Later they plan to visit Europe.

His Royal Highness last saw the ranch during a tour of the Dominion with the Duke of Kent, in 1927, the Dominion Jubilee year of Canadian Confederation.

WAR BULLETINS

With the U. S. 3rd Army—Third Army armored forces drove up to fifteen miles southeastward from Simmern today and infantrymen drove to the Rhine south of Coblenz, isolating the ancient city, and pushed up along the east side of the Moselle to its outskirts.

Washington — Superfortresses bombed vital storage areas today at Rangoon, strategically important enemy-held military centre in Burma.

A force of approximately forty planes from the 20th Bomber Command in India participated in the raid, which came a few hours after B29's struck heavily at Kobe on the Japanese mainland.

Today's was the fourth B29 mission of the war against Rangoon, one of the largest enemy military bases. It was a further step in a systematic blasting of military targets in Malaya in which Singapore and Kuala Lumpur have felt other stiff blows.

A.M.G. CONTROL IS ESTABLISHED EAST OF RHINE

About 100,000 Civilians Scheduled to Begin Registration Today at Cologne, Largest German City Yet to Fall Under A.M.G. Rule.

By EDWARD KENNEDY, Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, March 17.—(AP)—Allied military government units had crossed the Rhine in the Remagen bridgehead area today and established A.M.G. control east of the river for the first time.

As they did so an A.M.G. officer, returning here from Cologne, reported that the Nazi party and German High Command were in disagreement on at least one point—how much destruction should be done before leaving areas.

The A.M.G. learned that the Nazis in Cologne wanted to demolish powerhouses and similar installations but the army argued that they should be left intact except for certain key parts. In the case of Cologne the army won.

In Cologne, largest German city yet to fall under A.M.G. administration, about 100,000 civilians are scheduled to begin registration today.

Cologne police, 123 of whom have been left as politically unobjectionable, will aid in the registration, which will include fingerprinting. The police are serving under a former chief, ousted by the Nazis in 1933.

Capt. James H. Denison, of Detroit, Mich., first A.M.G. officer to operate on German soil in the Aachen area, said only 34 persons had been arrested for violating military law in Cologne and most of these were minor cases.

Capt. Denison said the German food rationing system was being used in Cologne with new ration cards being issued to each civilian after he registered.

The amount of food Cologne's will get will be less than under the Nazis, with the maximum set at 1,500 calories. The average probably will be 1,250 calories against a daily caloric average in the United States of 3,500.

No food is being brought in for civilians—both they and displaced persons are being fed with existing stocks. Cologne's food stocks in homes, shops and public warehouses are estimated to be sufficient for three months.

Despite extensive destruction in the Rhineland, Capt. Denison reported some factories already are operating and others will be operating soon with German labor and material.

These factories include soap, blanket and shoe-making facilities. The soap will be sent to Belgium. Some shoes and blankets will go to displaced persons and to workers in Belgium and France.

Food Restrictions To Be Maintained

By D. HAROLD OLIVER, Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, March 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt stepped into an inter-agency controversy over division of dwindling food stocks today with the assertion that Americans will have to eat less to help feed starving Europe.

The American people will have to tighten their belts, he told a news conference, adding that people in the United States have not suffered greatly compared with some others.

Penetrating Inner Stettin Defences

London, March 17.—(AP)—Russian tank assault forces smashed through bitter enemy resistance to within four and a half miles of the prize German port of Stettin today while other Soviet troops threatened to split the defenders of the big Baltic naval bases of Danzig and Gdynia.

The three great Baltic seaports at either end of the Red Army's 175-mile front across Pomerania were imminently endangered. Berlin said Soviet forces had penetrated Stettin's "inner defences" and Moscow war communiques disclosed the Russians were within six miles of both Danzig and Gdynia.

East of the blazing front between Danzig and Gdynia, the Russians carved out two-mile gains in the German East Prussian pocket and the enemy said Red Army units 325 miles to the south had opened a new offensive toward the Moravian gap leading to Prague and Vienna.

The German radio said that Marshal G. K. Zhukov had hurled one tank army and five tank corps into the 1st White Russian Army's Stettin battle in an attempt to crush a narrow Nazi bridgehead across the Oder river from the west bank of Pomeranian capital.

Slashing across deep fortifications lines Zhukov's troops slugged to within four and a half miles south-east of the city by capturing Rosengarten, less than two miles south of suburban Aldamm, key stronghold of Stettin's defences, Zhukov's men were battling through forests south of Aldamm in a drive to cut its railroad and highway links with Stettin, across the mouth of the Oder.

Eight to 11 miles south of Stettin, the Russians reached the east bank of the Oder on a three-mile front, hurling the Germans back into the stream after taking Neu-Bruenken, Wintersfeld and the important highway bridge crossing the town of Griefenhagen. Capture or Griefenhagen gave the Russians a possible springboard for a sweep across the river defence line.

Meanwhile, far to the east in the "Polish Corridor," Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 2nd White Russian army troops hammered toward the coastal town of Zoppot, on Danzig Bay midway between Danzig and Gdynia.

Tearing up deep anti-tank ditches, blockhouses and dugouts where the Germans were bracing themselves on the perimeter defences of the twin ports, the Russians captured Oswa (Espankrug), only four miles from the waters of Danzig Bay.

This Russian wedge threatened to split the German pocket around Danzig, six miles southwest of Oswa, and Gdynia, six miles northwest, into two segments. Moscow's midnight communique said the enemy undertook several counter-attacks supported by fire from naval vessels.

Oswa is two miles from the border

GERMANY AGAIN GETS POUNDING FROM BRITISH

Over One Thousand Planes Took Part in Series of Devastating Raids Against Nurnberg and Wuerzburg.

London, March 17.—(AP)—A fleet of Allied bombers which stretched out 150 miles from Britain today in a resumption of daylight hammering of Germany.

Close to 1,000 British planes attacked Nurnberg and Wuerzburg which were chief targets in Germany last night and L.A.F. Mosquitoes raided Berlin for the twenty-fifth consecutive night. The Air Ministry declared the purpose of the raids was "to destroy what remains of the German war industry."

American Superforts Smash Kobe In Gigantic Fire Raid

21st Bomber Command Headquarters, Guam, March 17.—(AP)—American Superforts showered close to 2,500 tons of incendiary bombs on Kobe from a mile-high altitude before dawn today in the heaviest bombing assault yet made on any Japanese city.

Target for this greatest of all fire raids that rapidly are turning huge sections of Japan's industrial centres to ashes was a five-square-mile area in the highly congested core of Japan's sixth largest metropolis.

Although the 21st Bomber Command announced only that a "very large task force" of B-29's attacked, indications were that more than 300 aircraft participated.

This was the fourth great strike—all incendiary—on Japan's major cities in eight days and the first mass B-29 assault of the war on Kobe.

Tokyo was hit a week ago today in the first big attack inaugurating the new strategy of burning down the enemy's industrial areas.

Nagoya was hit two days later, March 12, and Osaka March 14. All the raids were staged soon after midnight.

The three previous raids—details of the Kobe attack are not yet available—caused great conflagrations, much damage to industries, burned out many square miles of congested areas and caused the Japanese government to make many changes in its air raid defences.

A "sizeable" force of the sky giants previously had hit Kobe February 4, starting 34 fires. They also smashed the Kawasaki aircraft engine factory at Akashi town, 10 miles west of Kobe, on January 19.

Varying their tactics with the view of creating surprise, the B-29's look off from their bases in the

The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Scientists have discovered that bombs and shells stretch to twice their original size before they actually burst to spread death in all directions.

That's a fair illustration of the state of the Western Allied front—and of the Russian front, for that matter—as this is written. Both are about ready to explode, and they're swelling rapidly to the bursting point with a mighty striking-power which will flung into the heart of Northern Germany from both sides. That will happen soon.

The advent of a little dependable weather may be all that's needed to precipitate it.

The position on the Western Front is especially fascinating at the moment for Allied on-lookers—a matter of concern for the Germans, and they admit it. The Germans are especially worried over two new developments:

1. The steadily expanding U. S. 1st Army bridgehead east of the Rhine at Remagen.

2. The great squeeze-play being carried out against the Saarland and the Palatinate by the U. S. 3rd and 7th Armies which respectively are driving into the northern and southern flanks of this rich industrial zone.

The Kohlenor Diamond in the Allied crown is that amazing Remagen bridgehead, which the Germans say has swollen to 100,000 or more men and is mushrooming out through the hills east of the Rhine until it is on the true highway that runs near the river from Cologne to Wiesbaden.

Once Allied troops are firmly astride the six-lane military highway, they can strike northward towards the vital war industries of the Ruhr, or southward behind the Saar to trap the squeeze play. As a matter of fact, that Remagen force also is the nucleus of an army which could, and may, strike southeastward from the Rhine and raise hob with the Nazi forces holding up in Bavaria and Austria for a final stand.

Of course it's problematical how far the Germans will be able to go with this idea of making a last ditch fight in the foothills of the Alps. The Western Allies and the Russians are working hand in glove, and their purpose as I see it is to launch simultaneous offensives of vast power which will carry them into the central plains of Germany and shatter the enemy war machine. Those vast Allied avalanches already are getting into motion and once they have swept behind the German lines, there may be no Bavarian stand.

There's another highly important purpose being served by the Remagen bridgehead. It's drawing German troops from the north opposite the 1st Canadian and U. S. 9th Armies which are poised for their drive across the Rhine. In other words, it's weakening the German defences which Allied amphibious forces will have to smash on the east bank of the river.

"Buffalo Bill" Opens Tomorrow As Feature At New Premier

Maureen O'Hara and Joel McCrea in "Buffalo Bill," which begins at the New Premier Theatre tomorrow.

Starring Joel McCrea, Maureen O'Hara and Linda Darnell, and given a production such as only the makers of "Jesse James" and "Western Union" could provide, "Buffalo Bill" begins tomorrow at the New Premier Theatre.

For all its brilliant spectacle and action, "Buffalo Bill" holds one of the strangest and most enchanting romances ever known. For even as the nation cheered him and moved westward, even as his exploits were shaping a newer and greater America, he was torn between the love of two women as far apart as the poles. And while he was winning the heart of the nation he served, he lost the love of the woman he adored only to have her return to him when he needed her most.

In the title role, Joel McCrea achieves the full promise of acting greatness all his previous roles have presaged. His performance is the outstanding triumph of his career. Maureen O'Hara as Louisa Cody, is nothing short of superb. She plays the part with a fire and warmth that easily marks it as her greatest portrayal. Linda Darnell in the role of Dawn Starlight, the beautiful Indian girl who loved Buffalo Bill above all else, gives a thrilling and unforgettable performance.

Thomas Mitchell as the newspaper man who made Buffalo Bill a national figure; Edgar Buchanan as Sergeant Chips; and Anthony Quinn as Yellow Hand, give outstanding performances as do Mori Olsen, Frank Fenton, Matt Briggs, George Lassey and Frank Orth.

The other picture is "O My Darling Clementine," starring Frank Albertson.

Her many friends here regret very much to hear this, but trust that she may even now be well on the road to recovery. Mr. Chamberlain, father of Mrs. Fish, is with them, and while his general health is fair, he was not as well as Mrs. Thompson would have liked to have seen him. Acclamations Are Expected To Be Accorded To Three Council Seats

With nominations for the three Council vacancies which occur this year scheduled to be held Tuesday morning between 10 and 11 o'clock when prospective candidates must file their papers and deposits with City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers if they have not already done so, little likelihood of elections existed today and the three retiring aldermen are expected to be returned to office by acclamation.

To date two of the retiring aldermen—namely Ald. C. Guy Bishop, who occupies Seat No. 1 in the North Ward, and Ald. Hector Lamoignon, Seat No. 2, Centre Ward—have filed their nomination papers at City Hall, and the third, Ald. Paul Hamel, Seat No. 1, West Ward, is expected to do so between now and close of nominations. Should unexpected opposition arise to re-election of any of these three candidates elections will take place March 27. The three wards contain a total of 11,000 eligi-

APPOINTMENT OF NEW MAGISTRATE EXPECTED HERE

The appointment of Dorais Panneton as Magistrate for the District of St. Francis, possibly to replace Judge J. H. Lemay in the event the latter is obliged to retire owing to ill health, is expected to be announced shortly, it was rumored in well-informed circles today.

Confirmation of the appointment could not be obtained this morning from the office of Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Provincial Minister of Lands and Forests, and Mr. Panneton himself, approached on the matter, said that he had learned his name had been put forward as a candidate for the post but that he had had no news to date.

Mr. Panneton is one of Sherbrooke's leading French-Canadian citizens and a prominent member of the Bar of St. Francis District. He is the son of the late Mr. Justice Louis Edward Panneton, and was born in Sherbrooke on July 9th, 1887. He received his education at St. Mary's College in Montreal and St. Charles Seminary in Sherbrooke, then studying law at Laval University, coming to Sherbrooke upon receiving his degree to join the firm of O'Bready and Panneton. For many years he has been associated with Edouard Boisvert in the firm of Panneton-Boisvert.

$497 DAMAGE ACTION UPHELD IN LOCAL COURT

Pointing out that neutral witnesses had given testimony that the defendant had been driving his car at excessive speed on an icy road, and the defendant himself admitted that the accident could have been avoided had he not been going so fast, Mr. Justice J. Dalma Landry today upheld an action for $497.88 filed by Willie Deslauriers, of Waterloo, against Arnold Grenier, of Sorel.

The accident took place on November 18, 1943, on the Sherbrooke-Magog road, with icy road conditions prevailing. The plaintiff alleged that he was, at the moment of the accident, parked at the extreme right of the road at the bottom of a hill, and that the defendant's car, coming at an excessive speed, had borne down on him in a zigzag fashion and had smashed into his car, causing damages to the car and to himself, for which he claimed $512.88.

The defendant, stated in reply that he was coming down the hill when he saw the plaintiff approaching. The defendant declared that all of a sudden the plaintiff started to back up and that, at the moment of the collision, plaintiff's car was swung across the road.

The plaintiff declared that had the plaintiff continued to drive his car up the hill the accident would not have occurred.

However, in his judgment, Mr. Justice Landry pointed out that testimony of a neutral witness showed that the defendant had been driving too fast, and also that the condition of the road was such that the plaintiff could not continue forward.

The judgment also stated that the defendant had testified that he might have avoided the accident had he swung onto the unpaved part of the road, but had declared that he did not because of the risk involved at the speed he was going.

The judgment upheld the plaintiff's claims of $428.88 for repairs to the car; $50 for doctor's bills; $9 for eye-glasses, and $10 for towing charges from Sherbrooke to Waterloo. The judgment ordered the defendant to pay the sum of $497.88 to the plaintiff.

Local Irishmen Celebrating Feast Day Of Patron Saint

Canadians of Irish descent in Sherbrooke, along with Irishmen all the world over, are celebrating the feast day of Erin's patron saint, Saint Patrick, today. Marked by the “wearing of the green,” usually a small bright shamrock, the emblem of Ireland, a colorful touch is lent to the civilian scene today as every proud descendant of “the old sod” flaunts the distinctive stamp of the Irishman so that all may see.

This morning in Sherbrooke, Irish-Canadians attended High Mass in St. Patrick's Church at nine o'clock, when Rev. Father Rosario Moisan officiated. Preacher was Rev. Father Francis Gashin, of the Holy Cross Fathers, who will be the guest speaker at the banquet to be held this evening at the New Chateau Frontenac under the sponsorship of the Junior Catholic Women's League.

The St. Patrick's Day banquet in Sherbrooke has developed into almost an annual affair, with a large representation of the Irish element always in attendance.

The origin of St. Patrick is very obscure, with birthplace ranging from Scotland to France. One tradition in Ireland claimed the saint's

Interesting Period Is Reviewed At Child Welfare Clinic Session

The re-election of all officers, with Mrs. W. C. Marchant returned as President, and the financial report featured the annual meeting of the Child Welfare Clinic, which was held in the Clinic Rooms, with the President in the chair.

An account of the year's work of the Clinic was given by Miss Hattie O. Empey, Nurse-in-Charge of the V.O.N. branch here.

It was reported that forty-six Clinics were held, with a total attendance of 774 cases cared for, of which 117 were children under one year of age. Forty-five cases were referred to the dentist, thirteen to the oculist, sixteen for chest X-rays, and twenty-five for tonsils and adenoids operations. Dr. S. Marcus is in consultation with new cases and any others who need or wish his advice.

The Clinic corrects defects and assists children in gaining their health, and children the year round may be immunized against diphtheria. The Health League of Canada has recorded its pleasure in Sherbrooke's initiative in this last respect. To date, the Sherbrooke Rotary Club has supplied the Toxoid; the City of Sherbrooke, however, has offered to do this in the future.

On behalf of the Clinic, the President thanked the Rotary Club; the Y's Men's Club; the Catholic Charities; A. Hyman, for auditing the books; The Sherbrooke Daily Record, for publishing reports; the Junior Red Cross; the National Institute for the Blind; the V.O.N., for their co-operation at all times; and all who gave donations of money or helped in any way to carry on the work of the Clinic.

The financial statement, presented by Mrs. Russell Tate, Treasurer, showed an operating surplus of $462.30 on January 1, 1945. Donations for 1944 amounted to $2,558.09, against disbursements of $2,096.39.

Officers of the Clinic for 1945 will be:

Honorary President, Mrs. W. S. Allen; Honorary President, Mrs. J. H. Bryant; President, Mrs. W. C. Marchant; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. W. G. Cross; 2nd Vice-President,

WAGE QUESTION TO BE STUDIED BY CITY COUNCIL

The last session of the City Council prior to nomination day will be held on Monday in the Council chambers, when members of the Council will concern themselves chiefly with the new contracts contained in the Collective Bargaining Agreement insofar as it concerns employees of the Electric, Gas and Roads Departments. A proposed increase in salaries for certain municipal servants will be a major factor to contend with in drawing up the new budget and the financial decisions in this request, adopted at Monday's meeting, will be based on talks started during the last assembly of the City Councillors, which have been carried over.

A grant of $2,000 to the current drive of the Canadian Red Cross will also be ratified.

Another item of importance which will affect the general appearance of the city, namely the planting of trees in several districts of the city, as proposed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will also be brought up.

According to the Junior Chamber's proposed programme, 1,000 trees are to be planted annually for a minimum of five years, in order to beautify the city's streets. Word received by Roger Larose, President of the organization, indicates the first 1,000 trees are being donated by the Federal Ministry of Lands and Forests through the recommendation and efforts of the Provincial Minister, Colonel the Honorable Johnny S. Bourque.

The Tree Planting Committee plan to carry out an intensive educational programme among the school children and general public, stressing the need for additional

Garage Owner Is Responsible For Guarding Tools Of Car In Storage

An unusual judgment of significance to garage-owners and proprietors of service stations was handed down in the Superior Court by Mr. Justice J. Dalma Landry, who ordered Webster Motors Limited to pay the sum of $100 and interest with the costs to Antonio Fabi as a result of the theft of the latter's tool box and tools from a truck housed in the defendant's garage.

In his declaration the plaintiff stated that about February 1, 1944, he made a contract with the defendant to store his truck nightly in the latter's garage at a rental fee of $8 a month, and that he was ordered to leave his key in the vehicle when it was in the garage. About the beginning of March, the plaintiff brought his truck in for storage, but upon taking it out the next morning he found that his tool box containing tools valued at $100 was missing.

The plaintiff contends that the defendant was responsible for the loss as he had ordered him to leave his truck open and permitted strangers to go in and out of the garage. On the other hand, the defendant admitted requesting the plaintiff to leave his truck unlocked but stressed that a watchman was on duty every night and that on the particular night in question, no one could have entered the premises without the knowledge of the man on duty. Furthermore, the defendant asserted that every possible precaution was taken to guard stored vehicles against theft, and that the loss of the plaintiff's tool box and tools was not his fault.

In rendering his decision, Mr. Justice Landry pointed out that since the defendant was unable to prove a breaking in or theft on the premises on the night in question he was responsible for the safeguarding of the plaintiff's vehicle and its contents as provided by Civil Law.

AN EXAMPLE TO CANADA

Outstanding among the announcements which Prime Minister Churchill made in the course of his recent address to the British Conservative Party Conference was that of his intention to lead a Union Government during the period of reconstruction and rehabilitation after the war—provided he is returned to power in the general elections—and that he will choose for this Government men of any party or of no party, the only qualification being that the man chosen for a particular post be the best available for the needs of the position.

This declaration by the Prime Minister showed the appreciation of the fact that the post-war period will provide its problems equally as important to the welfare of the country as are those created during the war. It indicates clearly that he realizes that the proper solution of the problems transcends party politics and even politicians as a group, for he plans the introduction of new blood into the governmental set-up.

And in this respect he offers a challenge to the politicians of this country, who have been more actively engaged in the jockeying for party advantage than they have been in the prosecution of the war.
For the future there is little promise of improvement.
Already the leaders are seeing in what manner they can gain their personal ambitions without regard to the actual needs of the country. The prime requirement of Canada in the post-war world is a strong and united government, in which respect Prime Minister Churchill has shown the way.

CURBING SELF STYLED EXPERTS

Every war is said to bring certain advances and improvements which to a degree offset the death, damage, destruction and suffering caused by the hostilities which accompany any clash between nations. One man will point to the advances in medical science, the new ways developed for treating burns, the discovery of penicillin and sulfa drugs.
Others praise the mechanical progress and the
and the chemical advances made under the pressure of war needs.

But to some people, one of the major advances will be the curb on short-course experts, those people who travelled from one end of Europe to another in six weeks or less and then came back to this continent to entertain or bore their hearers and readers with their views on this or that international problem. But this war may curb their activities for there will be thousands of veterans who have had a longer and more intimate look at foreign life and problems than most of these so-called experts, while faster and cheaper post-war travel will open foreign doors to others than those with wealth and leisure.

With new thousands of wide-eyed European vacationers to supplement our travelled veterans, there will not be so much of a market for the outpourings—verbal and literary—of the once-over-lightly pundits.

BEHIND THE TIMES

One of the regrettable features of the political situation in this Province is that a number of the so-called leaders of public thought fail to progress with the times. They live in the past and cannot appreciate the effects which modern conditions in the international, political and industrial spheres have upon current events.

This failing was emphasized in the Legislative Assembly on Wednesday when Rene Chaloult, Independent Member for Quebec County, made his annual attack upon the women of the Province engaging in industry and the professions—although the former class was the only one to be directly criticized.
His arguments contained nothing new, being mere repetitions of those made over the years when the women's suffrage measure was before the House.
He echoed the old refrain that women's place was in the home and that the French-Canadian should remain on the farm where family life could be preserved.

Fortunately or otherwise—dependent upon one's point of view—the women of Quebec in common with their sisters in other parts of the North American Continent and in Europe have been finding or making for themselves an ever-growing place of importance in the economic and professional life of the country. It is as impossible for Mr. Chaloult and others of his ilk to halt this progress as it would be for him to replace the railways and bus lines by the old horse-drawn stage coaches on the ground that they met the earlier transportation needs of the country.

The world does progress and the people must progress with it even at the expense of certain political agitators.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Today wherever Irishmen meet, and some times when there is a gathering of people rather distantly connected with Ireland, tribute is paid to the memory of St. Patrick, the Patron Saint of the Emerald Isle.
Religious services and banquets, parties and plays, all find as their central theme the life of this mystic man or the traditions and music of Ireland. But actually the majority of the functions which are tendered in his memory are in direct contrast to the recorded life of this man who was one of the most fervent of the apostles which carried Christ-ianity and enlightenment to the British Isles.

The shamrock has come to play an integral part in any St. Patrick's Day celebration and its use is credited to an occasion, when speaking at Tara, he was challenged as to the possibility of the Trinity.
Plucking a Shamrock from the earth he illustrated the possibility of having the three in one and one in three.

The exact story of the early life of St. Patrick is unknown, but it is popularly supposed that he was born in Scotland, sold into slavery in Ireland when a young lad, being brought up among the pagans of that island fourteen hundred years ago.
Escaping, he made his way to Rome where he undertook to preach the Gospel and was finally ordained a priest. He returned to Erin where he worked among the people with whom he had lived so long.
The work he did on behalf of the Master was so remarkable that he has been universally venerated ever since.

ALMOST FANTASTIC

The increasing weight of the Allied air bombardment of the Reich is being maintained by weapons of almost unbelievable weight and destructive power.
Not content with using the six-tonners which have proved their ability to sink battleships such as the Tirpitz and destroy entire factories, the Royal Air Force has extended itself by the introduction of bombs weighing twenty-two thousand pounds, or eleven tons by North American measure.

The few details released by the British authorities about their new "town buster" make almost fantastic reading. The new weapon is twenty-five feet, five inches long—almost as high as a two-storey building—and has a diameter of three feet, ten inches. It takes a six-man crew half an hour to load the bomb on one of the converted Lancasters which have been redesigned to carry this super-load.

The weapon is another product of the "back room boys," a group of workers in the Ministry of Aircraft Production who have been devoting their attention to devising bigger and better projectiles for the task of levelling the Reich cities one by one.

When one considers the tremendous damage which has been caused by the bombs already used against the Nazis it may be faintly appreciated what destruction the new implements of war will cause.

Certainly Hitler and Goebbels, who were the chief exponents of total war from the air, can find little consolation from the manner in which their pet theories have been developed by the British and United States military leaders. They may rant and rave about secret weapons in an effort to strengthen home-front morale. They may boast of the not inconsiderable damage which their V-bombs are causing. But in relation to cost none of these can approach with deadly efficiency the work of the ever-growing British bombs, delivered to their objective by planes capable of selecting their target and reaching it.

And while these bombs made a grim prospect for Germany, they do not in any manner improve the outlook for Japan which is reportedly reeling under the weight of the American air force blows. As the destruction of Germany is completed, more and more of these super-planes and super-bombs can be diverted to the Pacific theatre, with a consequent upping of the tempo of the aerial warfare there.

The Axis set out to conquer the world by air power, but they lacked the vision necessary to carry it to its logical completion. They lost control of the vehicle they started and permitted somebody else to take the wheel—somebody who established a definite objective and refused to take any detours in reaching the point.

Betrayal And Condemnation Of The Man Of Nazareth

Prof. the Rev. H. C. Burt, M.A., D.C.L., Lennoxville.

St. Luke XXII, 52-53: "Be ye come out as against a thief, with swords and staves?"

The Fifth Sunday in Lent is sometimes called "Passion Sunday"; a few words on Christ's betrayal and condemnation will not be inappropriate.

The Master has just made the great surrender of His own will to that of the Father, and when Judas and the servants of the High Priest enter Gethsemane, the willing Victim refuses to permit the ill-timed and futile recourse to the sword; His submission is immediate and complete!

Meanwhile, His disciples forsake Him and fled. A sad procession it must have been, as it made its way from the Valley of Kedron up the hillside to the gates of the City of David. Four days earlier in the week another and very different procession might have been seen entering the city. Then he was proclaimed King of Israel, now He is abused as a malefactor; those who once acclaimed now reject and condemn Him. Are these the same voices that then called Him Master and Lord, and now curse Him as blasphemer? Can the protestations of loyalty change so soon into the hoarse shouts of hatred?

So the procession passes on its way to the palace of Annas, thence to that of Caiaphas, the Sadducean High Priest, a base tool of the Roman tyranny, who from motives of cold-blooded policy deliberately aroused popular religious frenzy—like many an ambitious politician in much more recent days!

There stands Christ before the great Council of Seventy—a Council that could boast its origin in those Elders on whom the Spirit of the Lord rested in the days of Moses, and of whom the Psalmist sang:

"There is the seat of judgment, Even the seat of the House of David."

But now, "we look for judgment, but behold oppression—for righteousness, but behold a cry!"

Bribed testimony was used against the Prisoner, but in vain. So the tribunal tries to force Him to convict Himself. They ask the question, "Art Thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?"

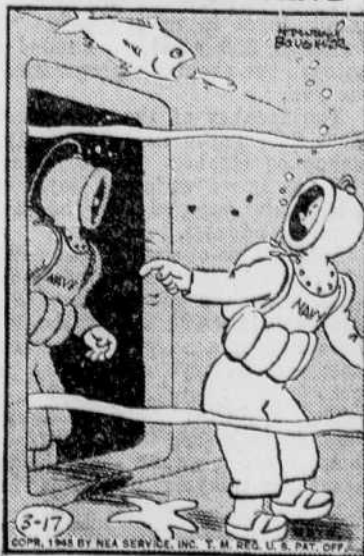

And Jesus answered: "I am. Hereafter ye shall see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of Power, and coming in the clouds of heaven!"

There followed a howling tempest of denunciation, mockery and insult.

"He is guilty of blasphemy! He is worthy of death!"

As the Master looked around on that imposing concave, the chosen leaders of Israel in council, He saw,

HOLD EVERYTHING

"This was the captain's quarters—so wipe your feet before you come in!"

Letters To The Editor

HONORING THE MEMORY OF DR. J. B. WINDER

To the Editor of the Record,
Dear Sir:—Today marks the first anniversary of the death of Dr. J. B. Winder, formerly of Lennoxville.

He was pre-eminently a life deserving a memorial that will speak to future generations of his noble work and of the esteem in which he was held by his fellow-men.

Would not an endowed room in the Sherbrooke Hospital be a fitting memorial to him? For many years he was an honored member of the gallant company of physicians and surgeons who have served that excellent institution. Such a room would be worthy of the purpose to which he dedicated himself.

I shall be pleased to hear from anyone to whom this suggestion commends itself. If the President and the Governors of the hospital give their approval, surely we can raise the money necessary to carry it out.

Yours sincerely,
A. H. McGREER,
Vice-Chancellor and Principal,
Bishop's University, Lennoxville.

Sunday as a wonder-worker through the exercise of whose miraculous powers the Romans "might" be driven out of Palestine; but the days had passed by, and still the Eagles of Rome looked down from the grim fortress of Antonia that bridged the turbulent city. Seemingly, miracles were of no avail against the majesty of Imperial Rome.

So this Man must die, even though Barabbas, the robber and assassin, should go free. As for His blood, "let it be upon us, and on our children!"

Thus was the great prophecy fulfilled—as it is being fulfilled, to our sorrow and shame, be it said, to this very day: "He was despised and rejected of men, a Man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. He came unto His own, and His own received Him not."

GIVES NEW DEFENSE FOR PREVIOUS HAND

I am doing the unusual today: running a hand that appeared in my column several weeks ago. Mrs. Glennie Tarbox of San Francisco discovered such a unique defense for this hand that I thought you ought to see it.

When the original hand was played, South cashed the king of diamonds and then led the ace, king and one trump and East had no trouble making the contract.

But Mrs. Tarbox gives this defense. She continues with the second diamond, letting East ruff in dummy. East then leads a trump which South wins with the king and leads the third diamond. Now when East wins the ace and plays the trump, thus establishing a long fourth diamond, East is forced to trump for South.

IN THE WOMEN'S SPHERE

DOROTHY DIX

Technique Wins Fair Bride

Suitor Must Have Romantic Dash
To Attract Opposite Sex

A man wants to know how he can turn liking into loving. He says that he is 32 years old and wants to marry and that he has many young women friends, but nary a sweetheart, and that when he poses the question to a girl she tells him she will be a sister to him, but not a wife.

Which, of course, is like being served a dish of corned beef and cabbage when you craved ice cream and cake. But, alas, no one has discovered any way by which lukewarm affection can be heated up to the boiling point. Nor can anyone teach a man any magic trick by which he can make a girl see him as a hero of romance and her heart's desire, instead of just plain John Jones whom she likes and respects, but does not yearn to possess.

This ability to attract the opposite sex is something that comes by Nature and it is not to be acquired by either taking thought, or fasting and prayer. If you have it, you have it. And if you don't have it, you are just out of luck, and there you are. But it goes a long way to explain why so many women who would make ideal wives are old maids, and why so many men who would make priceless husbands and fathers are uncies instead of Papas.

Of course, to be a wolf and slay 'em as you go, you have to be born a wolf, but there is a happy medium between a lady-killer and being good old Fido who has been trained to fetch and carry when other dates don't show up. Hence, when a man fails to light the fires of love in ANY woman's heart, it is because there is something wrong with his technique.

Perhaps it is because he is a stodgy lover. He has the emotional nature of a fish. There is no warmth in him. He asks for a woman's heart as if he were buying a pound of sausage. He doesn't tell the girl he is wooing that she is the most wonderful and beautiful creature on earth, and that if she doesn't marry him he will perish.

He calls her attention to the fact that they belong to the same church and are interested in the charities, and that he has a paying job and she is a good cook, and he thinks they will be happy together if they marry. And no woman, unless she thinks she is hearing the last call to the dining car, will say anything but "no" to a proposal like that.

Or, perhaps, the man is a had picker. He selects a girl who is too young to be in love with anything but love itself, and who craves romance and a whirlwind courtship that sweeps her off her feet, which it isn't in him to give her. Or else he sets his fancy on a woman who has outgrown her girlish raptures and decided that she prefers her latch key to a husband.

Or maybe the man makes the mistakes of becoming a habit with a girl. He is always on call. She can always depend on him. So she takes him for granted. It is like having a husband who is not always under foot and who doesn't feel free to criticize her or boss her, and so she has a beautiful friendship with him, and marries some other man.

So the man who wonders why he has so many girl friends and no sweetie should look to his own conduct and try to see where he is at fault and revise his methods. For all women want to love and be loved and to marry, but they want a courtship that has some pep in it, and to be asked to say "yes" in a nice way.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

LEAH ECHENBERG HADASSAH CHAPTER

The first major undertaking of the recently formed Leah Echenberg Hadassah Chapter took place yesterday in the form of a bazaar which was held in the community hall of the Agudath Achim Synagogue. The affair, which opened in the early part of the evening, continued throughout the afternoon, and was well patronized and enjoyed.

Lovely donated articles enhanced the many booths, which included tea, food, miscellaneous, superfluous, while elephant, baby, apron and yard goods.

The food table, under the convener'ship of Mrs. A. Mittleman and Mrs. A. D. Smith, was especially popular, as was the tea cup reading booth, presided over by Mrs. A. Adler.

The guests were met by Mrs. David Echenberg, President of the Chapter, and Mrs. A. Mittleman.

ORFORD W. I. GETS LARGE RETURNS FROM WORK OF FEW

Despite the small attendance of members at the March annual meeting of the Orford W. I., held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Crawford, Victory Highway, reports revealed that excellent work had been achieved during the past twelve months.

Miss K. Thompson, later re-elected President, was in the chair and the meeting opened with the customary ceremony of the Salute to the Flag, prayer for the Allied Forces and the Mary Stewart Collect.

After the disposition of routine business, and correspondence, including a letter from Mrs. Smallman, "Consumers' News," was read by Miss Thompson, who with Mrs. Mack Ross was later appointed to "raw up a programme for the coming year."

A donation of ten dollars was voted to the Red Cross Campaign, and the following knitted articles were handed in, three grey turtle-neck sweaters, one girl's sweater, two navy and one grey sleeveless sweaters.

More yarn was distributed to the busy knitters and the roll call, answered by "a good joke," concluded the March session.

The annual session, which immediately followed, featured the election of officers and reports from the various conveners, "War Service," by Mrs. A. Crawford, Convener, being quite outstanding.

During the past year the Orford Branch knitted 71 articles, sent two boxes Overseas at Christmas, filled 4 ditty bags, donated $15 to the Red Cross Campaign $10 to the Self Denial Fund, sent in 300 pounds of salvage and also tin-foil.

The election results followed: Mrs. A. Faith, Honorary President; Miss K. Thompson, President; Mrs. A. Crawford, Vice-President, and Mrs. A. Mills, Secretary-Treasurer.

There ensued the appointment of conveners, Mrs. Mack Ross, Agriculture; Mrs. Gordon Richards, National and International Relations; Mrs. K. Mills, Child Welfare and Public Health; Mrs. E. Smith, Home Economics; Mrs. Melville Page, Education and Adult Education, and Mrs. A. Crawford, War Services.

Prior to adjournment regret was expressed that illness had in several instances prevented a larger attendance at the annual meeting. Later the hostess served refreshments, with Mrs. A. W. Mills assisting.

VALENTINE DAY PARTY HELD AT GOULD SCHOOL

Gould, March 17.—The pupils and teacher of Gould School held a Valentine party and supper at the school, Miss MacMillan, their Sunday School leader, was a supper guest.

The young weather being ideal, the young folk enjoyed outdoor sports during the afternoon. Masters Warren Morrison and Galen and Garnet Morrison were invited to join them.

After the young folk had returned to the school and made preparation for supper, they opened their Valentine boxes. To the hostess, who had drawn the lucky number, fell the pleasant task of postmaster. He chose Elizabeth Duffy and Roddy Morrison as assistants. There were Valentines and fun for everyone. Then by matching special Valentines, partners were chosen for supper, and all proceeded upstairs.

The recreation room, where the bountiful supper was served, looked very attractive with its gay Valentine decorations and well-laden tables. Grades VI and VII had made all the arrangements, with each pupil contributing to the supper. The Misses Judy Duffy and Ellen MacIver, assisted by Mrs. Alexander Morrison, served the guests.

Left-overs for dinner are okay if you prepare them interestingly. For example:

One quart left-over or canned string beans, 1 onion grated, 1 onion studded with whole cloves, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper to taste.

Simmer together covered, 20 minutes. Add a little water if left-overs are used.

No matter how plain the dinner is, a surprise dessert will make it seem extra special. Here's a nutritious dessert that tastes wonderful.

Peanut Butter Ice Cream

One and one-half cups whole milk, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, well beaten; 1/2 cup peanut butter, 1/2 cup cold milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Scald milk in double boiler. Blend flour, sugar and salt together; gradually stir in small amount of scalded milk. Then pour this mixture into the remaining milk in double boiler and cook 2 to 3 minutes longer. Cool.

Meanwhile with a rotary egg beater, beat peanut butter and cold milk until smooth. Add this with vanilla to the cooled custard mixture. Fold in egg whites (which have been beaten with 2 tablespoons sugar until stiff). Freeze in refrigerator tray until partially set and frozen. Turn into bowl and beat until smooth but not melted. Return to refrigerator tray and freeze until firm.

BREAKFAST: Tomato and lemon juice, ready-to-eat cereal, soft-cooked eggs, baker's muffins, butter, marmalade, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Broiled frankfurters, sauerkraut, roll, rolls, warmed, cut-up oranges and bananas, tea, milk.

DINNER: Left-over chicken soufflé, creamed paprika sauce, steamed rice, string beans with onion sauce, celery, bread, butter, peanut butter ice cream, coffee, milk.

"The Reasonableness of Christianity," based on the text, "Why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right?" was the topic on Sunday morning, March 4, in St. Andrew's United Church. The minister, Rev. Graham Barr, emphasizing the happiness of living according to the principles of Christ, closing with the thought, "that to follow Christ gives us a fuller and freer life, and leads us at last to everlasting life." The service opened with a dedicatory service, accepting and dedicating a beautiful pulpit set in harmony with the church furnishings, the gift of Mrs. George Wilson, of Farnham, and Mrs. Herman Lax, of Montreal, in loving memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Black. Mrs. Lax was present at the service. Following the dedicatory prayer, a favorite hymn of Mr. and Mrs. Black, "Unto the Hills," was sung. Mr. and Mrs. Black, who were natives of Rotherham, Island of Bute, Scotland, came to Canada in 1879, and were among the early settlers of Scotstown, seeing its growth from woods and stumps, to a thriving town. They, with their family of five, three daughters and two sons, all of whom still survive, shared in the community life for a long period of years, occupying a place of prominence in civic affairs as well as in the activities of the church. Mr. Black held a position with the Glasgow Canadian Land and Trust Company, and later was manager of a Lumber Company's store, which business he finally purchased. He was agent for the G.N.W. Telegraph Company and, for many years a town councillor, a member of the School Board and during a long period was Treasurer of the Presbyterian Church as well as Treasurer of the Canadian Order of Foresters. Mrs. Black possessed a genial and kindly personality and was a good neighbor and ever ready to assist those in need, and is especially remembered for her ministrations to the sick.

One new member and a visitor were welcomed. It was decided to donate five dollars towards the Queen's Canadian Fund. It was reported that a loom for weaving had been ordered. THE AWAKENING
The tour! The Grand Tour! Vienna, Berlin, Antwerp, London, Budapest, Milan, Rome, Florence, Madrid! He played to audiences that packed theatres, opera houses, salons. Crowds stood for hours in long queues in the rain, snow, sleet to purchase tickets. There was no satisfying the crowds. They cried for more, and always for more. Frederic played his great works, the Military Polonaise, the Ballades, the Barcarolle, the B Flat Scherzo, among others. His success was beyond even the dreams of Louis Pleyel. But the strain of the tour showed on Frederic.

rolle, the B Flat Scherzo, among others. His success was beyond even the dreams of Louis Pleyel. But the strain of the tour showed on Frederic.

"When you walk out on the stage and see all those people in front of you, looking up at you, you must not cry or run away. Hold your head up, firm. Frantically, show me exactly how you are going to hold your head up." Then he has answered, "I will hold it like this, Mamma." She has smiled at him. "Yes, Firm And always, no matter what happens, hold your head up."

He held it up, even though at times he had to be carried onto the stage, he was so weak.

But the audiences roared, and they paid their money to see him and to hear him, and that's all that matters.

One critic called him "the boldest and proudest poetic spirit of the times!"

—Exhaustion! He fought it off. He would finish the tour. His chest—the tightness—if it would only go away. He tried to cough it away.

The Salle Pleyel, Paris.

—The Polonaise! The great Polonaise! The final chords—and the tour would then be ended. If only his strength would carry him to the end.

—His fingers danced on the keys. The audience roared. And Jozef Elsner sat proudly in a box between a smiling Louis Pleyel and a smiling Kalkbrenner.

The great room was packed and a thousand voices cried "Bravo! Bravo!"

Frederic, exhausted, rose to acknowledge for the last time the applause. He tried bravely to smile. He tried to wave.

He fell. He threw up his arms. He coughed. He coughed—blood!

Jozef Elsner screamed. "Frederic!"

But his voice was lost in the tumult.

A few persons were admitted to the room where Frederic lay in bed, wracked by a cough.

Mlle. Konstancja tiptoed to the bedside.

—"Yes, Frederic. He will be here."

Louis Pleyel was there and Franz Liszt was there and so was the critic Kalkbrenner.

Only Jozef Elsner was not there. Frederic moved his lips. They made no sound. Mlle. Gladkowska leaned close to hear what they were trying to say.

"—Yes," he was saying. "You hear me?"

"Frederic, a little louder."

He summoned greater effort.

"The piano. I would like to hear it. Would Franz play for me?"

—Yes. Of course, Frederic.

Mlle. Gladkowska crossed the room.

Jozef Elsner had been searching the city for George Sand. He found her at last in the studio of Eugene Delacroix, where she was sitting for her portrait.

The painter noticed Elsner in the doorway. He addressed Madame Sand. "Shall we pause for a moment?"

"—Not necessary, Eugene. I am not tired."

Jozef Elsner walked to the dais on which she was seated. "Frederic has asked for you, Madame. He is dying."

George held her pose. Her voice was impersonal. "Are you satisfied, Monsieur?"

Jozef Elsner put his hand to his jaw. He nodded. "Will you come to see him, Madame?"

George lost her pose for just a second. "I think not, Monsieur."

"—Only to see him, Madame?"

"Frederic is mistaken to want me. Good day, Monsieur." She had resumed her pose. "Continue, Eugene. I am sorry for the interruption."

Jozef Elsner worked his hat on his head. He walked to the door. He looked back but his eyes never met again.

Sh—Liszt is playing.

—Sh—Chopin is dying.

Frederic looked into the great warm, misty eyes of Jozef Elsner.

"She is ill, Frederic. Nothing else could have kept her away."

He smiled faintly. His hand felt the hand of Jozef Elsner. Their faces were very close together.

"—You hear me, Professor?"

"—Eh? Jozef Elsner put his ear to Frederic's mouth.

"It's like going home," Frederic whispered.

"—Home. That's right. We're home, Frederic. Yes, Frederic—close your eyes. It's been a long trip—and we're tired—both of us—"

Frederic's eyes closed heavily.

"—But, Paris, Frederic—Paris was wonderful—wasn't it? Well—what did I tell you? Eh?"

Frederic never opened his eyes.

SPORT NEWS

S.H.S. Edges Bishop's 21-20 To Clinch E.T.B.A. Playoff Berth

Edging out Coach Ozzie Clarke's Bishop's quintet, the Sherbrooke High School cagers last night scored a 21-20 triumph to chalk up their sixth win of the basketball season and assure themselves of a playoff berth in the E.T.B.A. elimination series.

In a nip and tuck game which saw the High School cagers come from behind to nose out their collegiate rivals, the Sherbrooke were paced to the win by Robin Stewart and Ambly Wootton, who chalked up ten and seven points respectively.

In the first half, fans saw the two teams match each other point for point and the scoreboard registered the Bishop's men leading by a slim 9-8 margin at halftime.

In the second half, the University quintet brought the score up to 11-10 and then jumped into a six-point lead, bringing the count to 17-10.

The High School lads, however, sparked by the playmaking of Ambly Wootton, chopped away at the lead and, with six minutes to go, the Collegians were leading by only one point, the score standing at 20-19.

Around the 16-minute mark of the session, Johnny Colter sank a basket from close in to give the High School the lead which was to eventually win them the game.

The Collegians stormed at the Sherbrooke citadel in the remaining minutes of play but close checking and a few plays of their own served to help the Sherbrooke High School maintain their slim margin off the game.

Early in the fixture, the Sherbrooke cagers dropped back into a zone defence, but were forced to abandon it when they saw the necessity of opening up the game in order to get points.

Coach Earl Bascom, short of men for the squad, was forced to use Ambly Wootton for the game last night. The plays introduced by Wootton provided the margin of difference between the two squads and his accurate passing set up his younger teammates for clear shots at the netting.

Robin Stewart, regaining his deadly form under the basket, sniped away throughout the game to chalk up a total of ten points. The other two High School points were scored by Guard Harold Drew, the field goal coming in the early minutes of the game.

Bob Cooling again paced the Collegians in their offensive tactics, piling up eight points on four under-the-basket shots. Keith Farquharson accounted for another six points on three field goals while Sutherland, Ouellet and Scott each gained two points to round out the Bishop's total.

Sterling work was turned in by Guard Clayton "Mac" McCredie, who teams up with Farquharson as a secondary defence to form one of the best combinations in the league.

Each side missed a great many shots at the basket with the High School being inaccurate to an even greater extent than were the Collegians.

Fourteen fouls were called in the game by Referee Bill Hammond, with seven going to each quintet.

CORNWALL TOPS BRAVES 8-2 TO LEAD IN SERIES

Cornwall, Ont., March 17.—(C)—Cornwall Cookies swamped Valleyfield Braves 8-2 last night in the first game of their Inter-Provincial Hockey League best-of-seven series.

The last eight minutes of the final period told the story when Bobby Burr scored three points for Cornwall and the Lauzon brothers added another pair of goals for Cookies.

Gordie Drillon shot the first point in for Valleyfield in the initial frame, while Gerry Plamondon made it two for Braves half-way through the second stanza.

Cookies started the ball rolling at 9:08 in the first period with an unassisted goal scored by Bobby Carragher. Joe Desroches added a second point for Cornwall at 12:55 by sinking a pass from Proulx and Valliere.

Cornwall increased the lead on a score by Jerry Gravel at 7:27 in the second frame. The score stood 3-2 for Cookies at 12:45 in the final period when Bobby Burr shot the first of his three markers of the last eight minutes of the game.

He was followed three minutes later by Frank Lauzon who, himself, preceded his brother Bernie by less than a minute.

In the last minute of the encounter, Burr came back with two more points for his team.

St. Pat's and the Seminary will clash in a sudden death fixture. The first game starts at one-thirty o'clock with the second fixture scheduled to be run off immediately after.

"Juvenile Delinquency" Is Topic Of Sermon Given To Magog Congregation

Magog, March 17.—At the anniversary service at St. Paul's United Church on Sunday, March 11, Rev. Wallace Carlson, Field Secretary of the Christian Education Movement, was the guest speaker at both services. The choir rendered the anthem, "Praise Ye the Father." Miss Thelma Crawford, of Lennoxville, was present as guest soloist, and rendered "Open the Gates of the Temple."

Rev. W. Carlson stated in his address that at an anniversary one usually looks back at his memories, but one should also take stock of himself. In Matthew XVIII is found Jesus' attitude towards the child and the need and place of a child-like spirit. Again in Luke there is an account of Jesus remaining in the temple without telling His Mother. It showed that he was a real boy.

"Today juvenile delinquency, which has increased since the outbreak of war, is a major social problem in Canada's life. The majority of Canada's armed forces claim no church membership. The judges state that two to four per cent of the children in the Juvenile Court have never been in Sunday School."

"The Sunday School staff of teachers takes its work seriously. It is to be hoped that parents do the same. The day school does teach a certain amount of Scripture, but no matter how well the Sunday school or day school deals with this subject, it cannot deal with the whole life of the child. It is basically the parents' job. You as parents have a task to perform."

"In a recent survey in California the report dealt with the home. It was found that in cases of crime it was not the child who was wrong. He was the victim of the home. We should say that our children are always at Sunday School, and we ourselves, always at church. We must teach a child to have his own worship time and as he grows older to know other prayers besides the children's prayer, 'Now I Lay Me.' Prayer must grow up with the child."

"See that the child has good literature. Bed-time stories are good. Fifteen minutes of the child's time at bedtime does more good than a half-hour of Sunday School. Get some time to have a few moments together with the family as a unit. Children's attitude of life, their attitude towards each other and towards others are established in the home. There are pamphlets such as 'A Few Moments with Jesus' and 'Let's Talk It Over,' which help in the establishment of just such a get-together."

"The home should be the cradle of democracy—a more joyful, happier democracy. We should work for a better home, more happiness, more faith and good cheer in our home life."

Rev. Mr. Carlson concluded his address with the poem, "So Long As There Are Homes," by Grace Crowell.

At the evening service, Rev. Mr. Carlson gave a challenge to the congregation. He said, "Thought is part of faith, action is part of faith. Faith is the first essential in seeking a better world. There are many people eager today for a better world. The direction for this is to get together."

KNOWLTON

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Circle of the United Church took place at the home of Mrs. A. C. Carter with fourteen members, seven visitors and two small children present. The President, Mrs. J. B. Bullard, was in the chair and the meeting opened with the hymn, "Take My Life and Let It Be" by Mrs. Donald E. Miller at the piano. The Scripture lesson, Psalm XCII, was read by Mrs. R. A. Mitchell, after which the "Lord's Prayer" was repeated in unison. In the absence of the Secretary, Mrs. H. A. Pettes, the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Elton Buckles. The President expressed the hope that more members would attend the sewing meetings. Three "thank you" letters were read and the Treasurer, Mrs. Horace Whitehead, reported a very substantial balance in the treasury. Talent money was handed in to Mrs. Douglas Vickers, Convener of the Entertainment Committee. A motion was passed that five dollars be donated to the present Red Cross Drive. The meeting was then brought to a close with the Mizpah Benediction, after which refreshments were served.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge, No. 29, met in regular session in the I.O. O.F. Hall with the Noble Grand, Mrs. George Porritt, in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. Carl McCloy and approved and the Treasurer, Mrs. H. A. Pettes, gave her report. Several matters of business were given due attention and Lodge was brought to a close in ritual form after which a social evening and refreshments were enjoyed.

Canvassers for the present Canadian Red Cross drive are busy in this vicinity and it is hoped they will be met with as generous a response as usual. The objective for the Village of Knowlton has been set at $1,300.

IMPORTANCE OF NIACIN IN OXO STRESSED

An extract from the Chairman's speech at the Annual General Meeting of Oxo Limited held on December 19 in London, England:

"I need hardly remind you that our unseasoned extract of beef (Lemco) has been on the market for nearly 80 years and Oxo for over 40 years."

"Scientific authorities have always recognized that beef extract is a valuable stimulant of the gastric secretions, thus facilitating digestion and promoting the assimilation of other foods."

"It is with great satisfaction that I am able to inform you of the recent discovery that beef extract is one of the richest sources of the important vitamin, Niacin, an indispensable element in nutrition. This discovery provides scientific corroboration of the popular idea that beef extract increases muscular effort and stamina. A long series of carefully controlled experiments have shown that addition of Niacin to the diet of healthy young adults increases their muscular efficiency in undertaking severe tasks involving extra stamina and mental alertness."

"The discovery that beef extract is a rich source of Niacin is of special significance, as the public normally derives a greater portion of its requirement of this vitamin by consumption of meat. Fluid Oxo and Oxo Cubes both contain this valuable vitamin."

Directors

meet the best ever. Members are also working on their summer camp projects and expect a record attendance this year.

The H-Y Club members are busy planning to send representatives to the H-Y conference which will be held at Kingston during the Easter holiday, and President Gordie Zakas reports good attendance and keen interest in the meetings.

J. M. Samson, National Boys' Work Director of the Y.M.C.A., was a recent visitor to Sherbrooke and along with other appointments had a fine discussion period with the H-Y Club executive.

Mr. Samuel Nock, of the Y.M.C.A. Building, Bureau of the Y.M.C.A., was a recent visitor and made a thorough survey of new building possibilities. Mr. Wolter stated that the physical department activity was at a high level with fine attendance at all classes. Boys' hit and miss leagues in the juvenile and employment boys' classes are completed and with considerably improved attendance in the junior class, a similar league has been started with this group.

Interest in the boys' boxing class is keen and the new instructor, Ed. Bolduc, is very popular. Mr. Zolduc replaces Jimmy Munster, who recently left the city.

After a slight falling-off in attendance during the cold weather, the midgets' group, boys 8 and 9 year of age, attending once again, and will, Mr. Wolter states, be back to normal by the end of the month.

All boys' classes are preparing for a gym and swimming demonstration which will be held next month. The Business Men's Volleyball League is completed and playoff matches will be underway soon.

The city police continue to use the gymnasium and swimming pool for physical conditioning and are benefiting greatly from the training they receive.

The Rand and Y's Men's basketball teams continue their practice and league games on the gym, and some very fine crowds have attended this season.

A fair number of servicemen use the building during the day, Mr. Wolter stated, and the Wednesday evening servicemen's dances are as popular as ever.

Physical training class at the Lennoxville Y.M.C.A. continues under Mr. Wolter's instruction and good progress is being shown by several of the students. A series of home-and-home basketball games is arranged between the Lennoxville and Y.M.C.A. boys, the first game to be played Thursday, March 22. Comparative gymnasium attendance figures show a decided increase over the same period a year ago. Seventy sessions were held during the month with a total attendance of 983 as against 56 sessions and 662 attendance a year ago.

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 18th.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 139:1-6, "For ever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I will extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever. Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations."—(Psalms 145:1, 13.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "God is infinite, the only Life, substance, Spirit, or Soul, the only intelligence of the universe, including man. As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, the substance of good, the substantial, the real, not matter. The belief that man has any other substance, or mind, is not spiritual and breaks the First Commandment. Thou shalt have one God, one Mind."—(pages 330 and 301.)

trees and vegetation in the streets, as part of the civil embellishment project. This will work in with the housing by-laws now under consideration by a municipal committee, which will specify various types of buildings for each respective street or district.

In schools pupils will aid the work by assisting in digging holes for the planting of trees, under the supervision of teachers and members of the Committee.

However, trees will not be planted on vacant lots, and owners of private residences wishing to have trees on their property, will have to contact the Junior Chamber and specify their requests on specially prepared forms.

The organization of young businessmen proposes that the reception and allotment of trees should be carried out under the authority of the Municipal Parks Department in co-operation with the Committee appointed by the Chamber. J. A. Tardiff, the superintendent of the Parks Department, and J. C. Cole, civil engineer, who have been nominated for the Committee, will have to receive the approval of the City Council before they can proceed with this work. In addition to this, another resolution will have to be passed granting permission to the Municipal Parks Department to co-operate with the Chamber in their prescribed programme.

Other names contained in a draft of the Tree Planting Committee include Aldermen Paul Hamel, Paul Gervais, agronomist and Roger Cote, forestry engineer.

SO MANY NEED A HELPING HAND YOU can ease their burden through your RED CROSS

● Victory for many of our wounded boys will only come at the end of a long road of pain. It will take months, maybe years to bring them back to health and peace.

We cannot share their pain or suffering. But to ease the burden of their confinement and speed their recovery, members of the Red Cross Corps are constantly making their rounds among the wounded men—spreading good cheer, bringing them aid and comfort, handing them cigarettes, fruits and books, reading to them, writing letters for them. Whatever their need, the Red Cross is there with a helping hand.

We cannot count our wounded in advance. But we do know that increasing numbers of returned wounded men are depending on your Red Cross in their hour of greatest need.

For those Canadians who have given so much of themselves for us, let us see to it that they shall not want. Let your response to the Red Cross appeal be more generous than ever before.

Destitution and Want are so urgent and desperate in the liberated countries, that the Minister of National War Services asked the Red Cross, with the collaboration of the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund representing the War Charities of 11 of the United Nations, to include funds for this relief in the national appeal.
