OFFICER DESCRIBES FRENCH ADVANCE IN PERONNE SUBURB

TAKING OF IMPORTANT VIL-LAGE ACCOMPLISHED IN SHORT TIME.

Paris, July 10, 4.30 p.m.—The taking by the French of the Biaches village, on the bank of the Somme opposite Ste. Radegonde, the principal suburb of Peronne, was accomplished in about an hour and a half. A French lieutenant, who took part in the assault, described the action as follows: "About noon word came for the divisions to 'keep ready,' and at once our soldiers advanced to the attack all along the front from Sormont farm to Belloy-En-Santerre. "The first German line was passed almost without fighting, so effective had been the preparatory bombardment, but when we entered Biaches at ten minutes after two we found every house organized as a fort and supplied with a number of machine guns. Our artillery, however, by its accuracy and power destroyed these defenses, though it still left cellars and caves full of enemies. "As we entered the village, the commandant, who was at the head of a battalion with rifle in hand, ordered the trumpeters to sound the charge. All the Germans in the village were captured or killed. The commandant was wounded by a shot from a lieutenant's revolver, but he knocked down the lieutenant with a blow from his rifle. "At 2.35 the village was completely in our possession, although a recent German order had declared it to be 'impossible.' We are now less than two kilometres from Peronne. "The recent fighting on the French front in the Somme sector is only the opening phase of a plan elaborated by General Joffre, according to a review of the military situation published in today's Temps. "The paper says that all the results expected have been accomplished and that further successes are assured. "Everybody will realize," says the Temps, "the danger of making known in the newspaper the plan which is being executed by General Joffre. It must be understood that the operations cannot be carried out in a rigid and invariable form. Napoleon himself never entertained such ideas. His plans were dominated by one chief purpose and were in a state of continuous evolution. He modified them after observing the movements of the enemy. "Our operations have been begun and begun well and it is unnecessary to seek to foretell what will follow. On the immense front where the French are in contact with the enemy the developments will be evolutionary. Without putting aside his main purpose the French commander may modify his first intentions."

Brockville, Ont., July 10.—W. B. Adams, editor and proprietor of the Westport Mirror, was drowned today in the Rideau, near Westport, while fishing, in company with James Conley, of Westport. Their boat upset, Adams was swimming to shore, but became exhausted and sank when within twelve feet of the land.

A SERIOUS RIOT AT BORDEN CAMP

MEN ARE DISPLEASED AT THE QUARTERS—GEN. LOGIE IS WORRIED.

Camp Borden, Ont., July 10.—A serious riot took place here tonight. Several thousand soldiers, most of them from London, Ont., organized a demonstration as a protest against having been brought to this camp and against the conditions under which they have been worked. The affair was decidedly serious and at times things looked ugly for "Headquarters." The immediate cause of the riot was the rushing of preparations for the big review by Sir Sam Hughes tomorrow. For the last week the men were to be held, has been the scene of prodigious stumping and the men have been put through tedious rehearsals in the broiling sun, on a dusty plain. The trouble had been brewing since the return from the rehearsal at 2.30, and there was evidently some organization of the demonstration. About two thousand men formed up in a straggling way near the lines of the London battalions, led by men waving great sticks and howling. Among the shouts could be heard such things as: "Do we like this hole?" No! we can't get a wash." "We want wet canteens." "We want to go back to London." "We won't sleep and live in dust for twenty-four hours."

When the crowd arrived near headquarters, Col. Mewberry and Col. Osborne appeared on the scene and things looked dangerous. Sticks were flung at the officers. Col. Osborne was lifted up and tried to reason with the mob. The men cheered him. He told them that he had been working hard for two weeks to make the camp comfortable and if they would be patient, things would soon be alright. The crowd was unconvinced and howled the Colonel down. The mob then moved off to the headquarters building. The front of the south verandah was at once a mass of men, black with dust. They climbed on the roof and mounted the railway cars nearby. The officers and non-com's tried in vain for a hearing. A good proportion of the men came from London, and they kept repeating their request to return to that city. Brigadier-General Logie appeared with a list of complaints that had been handed to him on behalf of the men. The first, he said, was that they had not been allowed water bottles on the parade rehearsal. He promised that they should have the bottles tomorrow. "We want to go back to London," the men shouted. "O! send us overseas. We might as well die there as choke here with dust." "I cannot send you back or overseas. That is for the government," said the General. Here the uproar prevented him saying more. The officers then left and held a conference. The shouting continued, windows were broken and doors burst open at headquarters. Later many of the men went to their lines, but about three hundred loitered threateningly.

British Make Further Gains—German Correspondent Testifies To Great Improvement In The Russian Army

The French in their operations south of the Somme have advanced to within a mile of Peronne, at present held strongly by the Germans. They have occupied the summit known as Hill 97, which commands the Somme to the south-east of Biaches, and have strengthened their positions between Biaches and Barleux.

Desperate fighting has occurred between the British and the Germans at Trones wood, against which the Germans launched six separate attacks. Five of these were repulsed, according to the British War Office, but the sixth was successful in that it permitted the Germans to penetrate the wood, where latest reports said the fighting continued.

The British troops, however, made some gains in the neighborhood of Ouilieres and La Boisselle, and in a particularly powerful attack on the German positions in the Mametz wood succeeded in winning some ground, where previously the resistance had been too strong to break.

The forces of the German Crown Prince are still pounding heavily against the French positions at Froide Terre, Fleury and the Fumin wood, in the Verdun sector, but so far as the official statements show the actions have been confined to bombardments.

There has apparently been no halt of the Russian advance towards Kovel in Volhynia. The German defenses along the Etokhod river have been unable to stay the progress of the Russians, who, though strongly opposed, have crossed the river at various points. The latest communication from Russian General Headquarters shows that the two opposing armies are in the midst of a terrific struggle, for it mentions that "the enemy rallied and made desperate efforts to maintain his positions on the left bank of the river." Along this line the battle is still in progress.

In the Dvina sector and east of Baranovichi the Germans have delivered strong counter-attacks and are undertaking extensive offensive operations.

The fighting between the Italians and Austrians continues with unabated fury, the Austrian official statement describing the repulse of Alpine forces between the Brenta and Etsch rivers, more than 800 Italian dead being left before the Austrian trenches.

British forces under General Smuts have occupied Tanga, the second port in importance on the coast of German East Africa and the terminus of a German railroad.

London, July 10, 10.35 p.m.—On both eastern and western fronts heavy fighting persists. This is especially the case on the western front, where the struggle is not without fluctuations of fortune, and brings to mind the warning of the correspondents from the opening of the Somme battle that steady, methodical pressure, rather than brilliant advances, must be expected.

The British official statement tonight says that the Germans have entered Trones wood, but records farther British progress east of Ouilieres and La Boisselle, in addition to a footing secured in the Mametz wood, where heretofore the Germans had resisted all the British efforts.

The German official communication admits French possession of Biaches, only a short distance from Peronne, which town is thus seriously exposed and threatened.

On the eastern front the Russians have crossed the Stokhod river at many points.

German war correspondents are already claiming that the Allied offensive has been brought to a standstill. The correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt, with the Austrian army, testifies to the inexhaustible supply of Russian troops, the great efficiency of the Russian artillery and cavalry and the endless supplies of ammunition, as in great contrast to the condition of the Russian forces last year.

The Germans are continuing their strong attacks along the Russian front, but the view is held here that this is only with the object of gaining time to perfect the defenses of Kovel and Vladimir-Volynski and to remove large stores of military material from these points to Brest-Litovsk and Ivangorod.

FRENCH STATEMENT.

Paris, July 10.—The text of the French statement follows: "North of the Somme the day passed quietly. South of the river we made some progress in the region between Biaches and Barleux. In the neighborhood of Biaches we captured a field fort where a detachment of the enemy still maintained themselves. We took 113 prisoners, of which there were officers. "South-east of Biaches a brilliant attack enabled us to capture Hill 97, a height which dominates the river and had been strongly held by the enemy. "We also took La Maissonnette farm and a little wood to the north of La Maissonnette. Some of the enemy still hold out in a redoubt at the extremity of this wood. "On the front north of Verdun the enemy artillery violently bombarded our positions in the region of Froide Terre, Fleury and the Fumin wood. Our batteries replied energetically. There was no event of importance on the rest of this front. "Our aviators attacked a number of German machines yesterday in the region of the Somme. Four of the enemy aircraft were driven down within their own lines. Last night one of our air squadrons threw a number of shells on the railroad station at Ham and Pelaincourt."

Belgian communication: "There were lively artillery actions at different points of the front, particularly to the north of Dixmude and toward Boesinahe."

SUCCESS IN EAST AFRICA.

London, July 10, 6.40 p.m.—General Smuts, in command of the British forces in German East Africa, has occupied Tanga, according to a statement issued by the War Office today. The Germans only offered slight resistance.

Tanga is the second most important port on the coast of German East Africa and is the terminus of a railroad which the Germans were building into the interior at the outbreak of the war. About a couple of hundred miles of this road had been completed.

and the more pugnacious of them tried to force the rest up for a charge. Rifles and bayonets were visible in the dark and eight shots were fired from the lines of the 140th London Battalion, where the men were lined up. The eight cartridges were evidently blank. The 170th Toronto Battalion were out with bayonets fixed. They made a rush towards the rioters. The latter turned and fled and some were taken prisoners. This seemed to settle matters and the riot gradually subsided about 11 o'clock.

NEW YORK STARTS HEALTH CAMPAIGN

SPREAD OF INFANTILE PAR-
ALYSIS LEADS TO SCARE
AMONG THE PUBLIC.

New York, July 10.—The campaign of cleanliness being waged by all city departments to wipe out the epidemic of infantile paralysis here was continued today with increased vigor. Hundreds of violators of the sanitary code were brought to court and fined for disregarding health department instructions, particularly in territories where the epidemic is most pronounced.

There were fewer deaths in the 24 hours ending at 10 o'clock this morning, only 14 being reported. The number of new cases in the 24 hour period, however, increased to 101. Thus far the epidemic has caused 238 deaths, and the number infected is 1,083.

Health department officials were more optimistic tonight of their ability to control the spread of the disease. The co-operative work of government health experts, city officials, several of the most noted physicians of the country, the railroads, and motion picture theatre proprietors, has increased the general confidence that the epidemic soon will be checked. A meeting of physicians will be held tomorrow to discuss the general situation.

The National American Woman Suffrage Association today placed its entire organization machinery at the disposal of the federal government. The services of thousands of organized women throughout the country have been offered to Surgeon-General Blue of the United States Public Health Service.

The Pennsylvania Railroad issued orders that its cars operating in and out of New York City be thoroughly fumigated. All cars used for picnics or excursions will be cleaned before being used for other purposes. At least once a day all passenger cars and combination and baggage cars operating between New York and Philadelphia, and all coaches and combination cars in and out of Jersey City will be fumigated once a day also. This will be continued until the epidemic is checked or danger of contagion has passed.

AT THE THEATRES

FOUR ENTERTAINERS DID MAKE A HIT AT THE AUDITORIUM

AND THE REST OF THE BILL
ALSO PLEASED LARGE AUDIENCES AT YESTERDAY'S PERFORMANCE.

"The Four Entertainers" did make a big hit at the Auditorium yesterday and this quartette will be a big attraction all week at our popular place of amusement. It consists of four of the best voices that ever sang together on that stage; the songs are all popular airs; the singers nice looking men with striking personality and accomplished comedians. The basso is particularly remarkable with the sweetness as well as the volume of his voice, baritone, first and second tenors are also in the best class of singers. With an act like this on its bill the Auditorium should be crowded at every performance this week for theatregoers seldom have the opportunity to be treated to such high class entertainment.

Two clever dancers, neat looking and as light as angels would look open the performance and immediately start the applause that greet every act in succession. Browning and Manning, comedy singers and dancers, come next and please the large audiences yesterday. The burlesque wrestling and other acrobatic stunts by the Braggart Brothers were very well appreciated and Sutton, McIntyre and Sutton's sketch is indeed very funny and amusing.

THE GREAT DIVIDE
And Chaplin on Same Bill Greatly Pleases Big Crowds at the Empire

"The Great Divide" featuring Ethel Clayton and House Peters simply gripped the large crowds which saw that magnificent Lubin production at the Empire yesterday. The picture abounds in beautiful scenes and Miss Clayton's beautiful face and her emotional acting instantly won the sympathy of those attending.

Besides this picture, Charlie Chaplin keeps the audience in roars of merriment in one of the funniest photo-plays ever screened. The action in this farce never lags and it is a big laugh from beginning to end. These pictures will be shown for the last time today. "The Great Divide" can be summed up as follows: On the brink of the Great Divide lives Stephen Ghent, an untamed man of the West. To the Great Divide to develop the land left by his father, come Ruth and Phil Jordan with Phil's wife, Polly, and Dr. Newbury, suitor for Ruth's hand, whom Ruth has refused repeatedly, claiming that the man she chooses will be an undeveloped character of the West.

Steve with his pals, Pedro and Dutch, returning to their cabin one night, see a light in the Jordan shack and force an entrance, finding Ruth alone, for her people have gone to the West for a trip. Ruth is overpowered and Dutch and Steve fight a duel for her, then Pedro is bought off by Ghent, who, realizing the helplessness of Ruth, suddenly comes to his senses and agrees to her proposition that she will be his Ghent agrees and the Justice of Peace in the Valley is sought. Then he takes her to his cabin where as days roll on she begins to see better things in this rough character. One night, with drink his master, he violates the promise he has made to Ruth, and for it she learns to loathe and hate and begins her work of weaving baskets that by her own hands she may earn the money necessary to buy back the nuggets from Pedro which bought her for Ghent. The Jordans have planned to leave when Ruth coming upon them introduces Ghent.

She refusing to go back East with her people, is one day caught in a landslide and Ghent rushes to her rescue saving her life. Ghent finally wins the confidence of the noble woman who learned to love him and made him the man she had idealized.

AT THE VICTORIA.
Large Crowds Attended All Performances Yesterday To See George Beban In "Pasquale."

"Pasquale," the Morosco Photoplay Co.'s new production that stars George Beban, the great portrayer of Italian characters is the composition of Mr. Beban in collaboration with Lawrence McCloskey.

The picture-play shows Pasquale as a quaint, honest endeavoring grocer into whose life at a very critical time the shadow of the great war casts an ominous influence. The pathetic appeal of his rendering so stirs that all the range of the emotions is played upon.

Laughter, tears, estrangement and suffering, hilarity and joyousness, happiness and tragedy are wonderfully and fascinatingly blended to make a masterpiece of this very unusual film story.

JOHN BARRYMORE SUPERB IN FAMOUS PLAYERS' CLEVER ADAPTATION OF "THE RED WIDOW"

Will Be Offered Again Today At The Olympia.

Can you imagine John Barrymore in the crown's nest of a steamship, quaking with fear lest the crew and the authorities drag him down to the deck and clap him in irons? Can you picture him shivering in terror while the Russian Secret Police search for a Nihilist whom he has smuggled into their country on the pretext that she is his wife? Then imagine his feelings when the alleged wife of his bosom attempts to assassinate the Czar! His head swims with visions of Siberia and he already feels the chill frost of the interminable snows biting at his toes and numbing his hands as gray-cloaked Cossacks drive him to work with their cruel whips.

But these are not all the terrifying adventures which the celebrated comedian experiences in the Famous Players' Film Company's Paramount picture, "The Red Widow," the adaptation of the great comedy success by Channing Pollock and Remond Wolf, which will be opened again today and tomorrow at the Olympia Theatre.

In fact, those are only his imaginary troubles. As a matter of fact, he has deceived his real wife and taken a Russian adventuress over the Russian border, and his wife, learning of his duplicity, has attempted to get past the border in pursuit of him, only to be held up and jailed as an impostor! When the Russian lady has attempted the life of the Czar and has been arrested, Barrymore has many explanations to make, but the worst of these is not to the Russian police. It is to his own wife, who, after languishing in jail, has emerged with a very definite idea of the shortcomings of her spouse and with a fixed determination to correct these shortcomings with the greatest possible speed.

EXPANSION OF CRAMP WORKS.

The purchase of forty-five acres of Petty's Island in the Delaware by the Cramp Shipbuilding Company for enlargement of its plant and construction of a large oil refinery by the Crew-Levick Company is confirmed. The Pennsylvania Railroad will build a bridge between the island and the New Jersey side of the Delaware to facilitate transportation of ship-building supplies and export of oil. Discussion of this project has already been taken up.

The bridge will connect with the Amboy division of the Pennsylvania affording a direct outlet at New York and Jersey City.

The Cramp Company will build a dry dock on the island, where vessels will be taken after launching. The present plant will be exclusively for hull and repair work.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS SWEEPS OVER NEW YORK

FIFTY THOUSAND CHILDREN LEAVE CITY WITH PARENTS TO ESCAPE EPIDEMIC — 25 DEATHS — BROOKLYN STORM CENTRE.

New York, July 10.—Constant increase in the proportions of the epidemic of infantile paralysis now sweeping the city was indicated by the figures given out by Dr. Haven Emerson, Health Commissioner. He sounded a note of hope, but admitted that several days must pass before he could with any certainty say the department's endeavors would be sufficient to get the plague in hand.

There were twenty-five deaths from the disease reported yesterday, more than on any since the epidemic started. Fifty-nine new true cases were placed in the hands of the Board of Health physicians. This is also the largest number coming to light within any twenty-four hour period.

Besides these there are thirty-one suspected cases under observation by inspectors of the department, who were unable last night to determine whether they are true or may be today removed from the lists.

The cases of yesterday, covering the period since Monday noon, are detailed by Dr. Emerson as follows: Brooklyn: 24 deaths, 48 new cases, 15 suspects.

Manhattan: 1 death, 5 cases, 15 suspects.

Bronx: No deaths or new cases, 1 suspect.

Richmond: No deaths, no new cases, no suspects.

Sixty new cases were taken to the Kingston Avenue Hospital in Brooklyn yesterday, and six to the Willard Parker Hospital at the foot of East 17th street, this borough, where are concentrated all of the Richmond county and Manhattan cases requiring hospital treatment.

Dr. Emerson Hopeful.
In making his announcement, Dr. Emerson said:

"We may have been a little blind at first in this so little understood disease, but we believe we may now meet the requirements of the situation. The reports of today I do not take too seriously. It seems to me they are rather good. I think we are catching up. I am hopeful our precautions are bearing fruit, but we may be fooled and after a few days we may learn that we can't draw conclusions from the figures of such a short space of time.

"I am going to put the best face on the matter I can, and meanwhile no precaution will be relaxed and nothing left undone that we think may aid in stamping out this very distressing and virulent epidemic. I want to impress on all parents, thro the press, that the reason of our removal of the children to hospitals is not alone to take away the dangers of infection from others but to give the unfortunate patients such care as to prevent the permanent paralysis that usually follows an attack of this malady."

By direction of Dr. Emerson additional orders were served on public authorities and on landlords, who were urged to co-operate with the department in the campaign to stamp out the plague.

Exodus of Children.
Fifty thousand children have been taken by their parents from this city into the country districts and into other States to escape the dangers of the present epidemic of infantile paralysis now sweeping the metropolitan area. Reports yesterday from every borough were that the exodus from the crowded city has set in without an idea of cessation.

These figures, furnished by authorities and observers in various parts of New York and confirmed in several railroad offices, do not take into account the regular summer movement of families to the seashore and mountains at the beginning of the vacation period. The health authorities are congratulating themselves that the present epidemic comes at a time when the schools are closed. The problem for them is thus reduced to a minimum so far as this aspect of affairs is concerned.

But to rush to get out of town has been marked in all districts of the city. In the lower east side, where more cases have appeared than elsewhere in Manhattan, the mothers are making preparations to get their families out into the country. It was impossible to obtain exact figures yesterday at any of the railroad tickets sold during the last few days, but all roads agreed that the number of youngsters going by rail from New York has been greater this week than ever before.

Those families who had arranged their vacations for a later period in the summer are now making efforts to get away at once, and there is a general desire to escape the chances of illness here if a few weeks in the open may keep the children free from the infantile malady.

The Health authorities are well aware of this sudden move to get out of town, and their reports indicate that the figure of fifty thousand children now on their way to the fields and the lakes is a conservative one.

Outside Communities Warned.
They have been expecting that, as soon as New York youngsters get into the summer resorts counties there will come reports of the infection carried from this city, and as long ago as last week word was sent out by the Health Commissioner not only to the State Board of Health, at Albany, but to the local boards of health in all the counties in this section, to take precautions to safeguard children in case any outbreak of the disease.

Dr. Bertram C. Waters, head of the stoner yesterday that if necessary the Bureau of Preventable Disease, said yesterday:

"We look for cases of infantile paralysis wherever children go into the country on their vacations. This cannot be prevented, but you may bear in mind that cases in thinly settled country districts can be better isolated and receive as safe treatment as in this city. Sporadic cases will doubtless spring up here and there. They should receive the prompt attention of the local authorities."

Reports here yesterday show that the disease for the most part is still confined to districts crowded with tenements, although there are cases now appearing in two family houses and also in some of the outlying districts in detached homes, where children have been exposed while playing with others who are carriers of the infection.

Dr. Emerson was so keenly anxious to learn the true conditions in Brooklyn, where the epidemic has assumed its most virulent form, that he went through the stricken districts there in the morning with a corps of experts. At the end of his trip he expressed himself pleased with the way in which the work of the department is being carried on and said he had hopes the physicians will be able to cope with the trouble.

"This disease grows with the hot weather," he said. "We may not reach the climax until August." Later he called for volunteers among physicians to enable him to follow up nearly two hundred suspects and reported cases that the regular inspectors of the department could not personally cover. Ten physicians volunteered and went to work at once.

Brooklyn District Inspected.

Dr. Emerson made an early start for his inspection tour of the crowded Brooklyn district in which the disease first appeared. He left the Brooklyn Borough branch of the department at eight o'clock in the morning. He was accompanied by Dr. Waters, Dr. Louis C. Ager, chief of the newly appointed staff on duty in the Kingston Avenue Hospital that has to do with infantile paralysis, and Dr. Simon Blais, in charge of the work in Brooklyn.

In the buildings where cases have been reported a thorough inspection of surroundings was made. They looked over the patient still in their homes, inspected conditions concerning the care of garbage and the care of halls. As a result of the four patients were ordered removed at once to the Kingston Avenue Hospital and many others who had indications of illness that might develop into the scourge were persuaded through parents or guardians to permit their removal as a precautionary measure.

After his trip Dr. Emerson said: "We found numerous violations of the tenement house law. Besides that we discovered, as you may all over the city, of course, at any time, no screens in windows to keep out the flies. This is usual, but in the case of poor little patients who are in bed with illness it is pitiful. In many of these places there were flies all around the little sufferers. We persuaded several parents to let us remove their children to the hospital, where they will receive the very best of attention and treatment."

"As an instance, we came across the case of two little children who had recovered apparently from their fever but they still had a paralysis. The father said 'no' when I endeavored to get his permission for removal, but a sister prevailed upon him to give his consent. Of course, under our powers we have authority to forcibly remove patients who do not receive proper treatment or who are in surroundings that endanger others which is found a case of the plague. Upon the removal of the patient and a renovation according to its directions of the premises, these placards are to be taken away. If this necessary work is not attended to the placards will be kept in place for a period of two months."

Boys' Camp Precautions.

The fear of infantile paralysis reached the camp of 500 school boys who are taking a course in military training at Fort Hamilton, and orders were issued yesterday by Colonel Samuel A. Allen, in command there, that change completely the program laid out for their summer's training.

The boys were enlisted for periods of two weeks each. After a conference yesterday it was decided to admit no more boys until further orders, and no visitors, not even the parents of the youngsters, will be admitted to the grounds. The medical authorities at the post believe the boys are safer there than elsewhere, and those now in camp will be permitted to remain all summer if they desire. Colonel Allen said last night that no boys under sixteen years who make deliveries to the camp will be admitted within the lines and any boys leaving the camp cannot return. Any illness will be at once reported to the Health Department.

The school children's field day, that was to have been held at Van Cortlandt Park on Friday for the benefit of the National Education Association, has been called off.

In addition to his other precautions Dr. Emerson today will make requisition for 50 additional field nurses, 15 more physician inspectors, 87 hospital nurses, 54 domestics and 12 orderlies to handle cases. Mayor Mitchell told the Commis-

How Plague Spreads.

How the disease is so rapidly spread Dr. Emerson told in narrating one of the reports made to him in the Brooklyn headquarters yesterday morning. He declined to give names, but he said a reputable physician happened to see two little boys limping along a Brooklyn street hardly able to lift their feet. Suspecting the cause of the trouble he looked up their home and had a talk with their father. He learned that both boys had suffered from a fever, and after this disease their mother sent them into the street to get some fresh air under the impression that they would soon recover their normal good spirits. They had been playing with many friends in their own block without any one knowing they were afflicted with an infectious disease of an alarming character. The investigating physician found a third child in this home still in the grip of the fever. All three were promptly removed for proper hospital treatment.

When Dr. Emerson returned to the Brooklyn headquarters he looked grave when figures were shown to him indicating a record day in the epidemic. At noon there were 175 cases in the Kingston Avenue Hospital, and ambulance calls for sixty-five other patients, a total of 240 cases, that will be under treatment there today.

"We find today," said the Commissioner, "that the ratio of deaths is now twenty-two per cent. This is an alarming number."

The Commissioner issued orders to all hospitals and dispensaries that their heads shall receive and temporarily care for patients who appear suffering from infantile paralysis, isolating them from other patients until inspectors from the Board of Health may be summoned to diagnose the cases and order removal to permanent hospitals.

There are quarters for fifteen hundred patients in the Kingston Avenue Hospital when some of the other cases now there shall have been removed to other convenient points.

Another order of the Health Commission sent out yesterday will interest every landlord in the city. He called their attention to the advisability of combining with the Health Department in an effort to stamp out the disease. Janitors, agents and landlords were notified that they must see to it that halls and all parts of the premises under their charge are properly with the department in obtaining the prompt transfer of patients to the designated hospitals. They are asked to report cases directly to the Health Department.

KITCHEN KINKS

Never allow fresh meat to remain in paper, for it absorbs the juices. Always allow water to run from the kitchen tap in the morning until all that has been in the pipes overnight has run out.

Never allow opened fruits or vegetables to stand in the tin can.

Never stir anything in tin if avoidable or at least use a wooden spoon.

Never keep vinegar or yeast in stone crocks or jugs, since the acid attacks the glazing.

SCHOOL WAR IN POLITICS.

Dr. Masataru Sawayanagi, the new president of the Japanese Imperial Society of Education, was formerly president of the Tokyo higher commercial school and the Imperial University of Kyoto. There has been much rivalry between the supporters of the new president and the education department authorities. Dr. Sawayanagi taught at Waseda many years ago, but he was very unpopular with the students. Since those days he has maintained an antagonistic attitude towards Waseda, hence his unpopularity with the present administration, which is mainly composed of Waseda or Court Okuma's men.

RUSSIAN TROOPS ARE CROSSING STOKHOD RIVER

PASSAGE IS BEING ACCOMPLISHED UNDER SERIOUS DIFFICULTIES—MORE PRISONERS TAKEN—BRAVE COLONEL IS MUCH PRAISED.

Petrograd, July 10, via London.—The Russian forces advancing in Volhynia towards Kovel are crossing the river Stokhod at various points closely pressing the Teutonic forces opposing them, says today's War Office statement.

The passage of the river is being accomplished under serious difficulties. The official communication says that the crossings of the river have in most cases been destroyed by the opposing armies.

"Throughout the whole line, on both sides of the front, aviators made numerous flights. In the region of the Choubinsky canal, east of the confluence of the Niemen and the Berezina, our artillery brought down a German aeroplane. The pilot and mechanic were made prisoner. A group of at least ten aeroplanes attacked Molodechno and dropped forty bombs which set the hay depot on fire.

"Near the village of Svidniki, Staryi Mossor and Novy Mossor, on the left bank of the Stokhod, lively fighting is progressing. We took German prisoners at these points. Between Kiselin and Zubilino the enemy attempted a surprise attack but was put to flight.

"The total number of prisoners taken by General Keledines from July 4 to July 8 is 341 officers, 9,145 unwounded soldiers. He also captured ten pieces of artillery, 48 machine guns, 16 bomb throwers, 2,330 rifles, 82 limbers and depots of engineering materials. These figures must be added to those given in the communication of July 8 which included 200 officers, 12,000 men and 45 pieces of artillery.

"On the Galician front there was a particularly intense artillery action on both banks of the Dniester. In the Divina sector the enemy undertook an offensive southeast of Lake Sventen but was repulsed and thrown back into his trenches.

"East of Baranovich, in the region of the village of Odorahawski, the Germans launched a counter-attack which broke down under our artillery and infantry fire.

"According to later reports regarding the crossing of the Stokhod at Ugli chief credit for the exploit must go to Col. Kautseroff, commander of the Pavlograd regiment and Chevalier of the Order of St. Georges. Col. Kautseroff, rushing forward at the head of his advance guards, led them across a burning bridge under violent fire at the Chateau.

"In the Baltic one of our submarines, in the course of its usual cruise, sank a large German steamer loaded with iron ore in the Gulf of Bothnia.

"Caucasus front: We are continuing progress west of Platana. In the direction of Gumeshan our scouts bayoneted a large number of Turks. South of the Taurus we successfully advanced and captured an important mountain neck and an entire line of heights which the enemy had spent much time in fortifying. At various points we compelled the Turks to flee from their positions."

NO ONTARIO NICKLE FOR HUN SUBMARINE

Toronto, July 10.—In an interview here today, the Hon. Mr. Howard Ferguson, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, stated it was utterly impossible that any Ontario nickel should find its way into the hold of submarine "Deutschland," for transshipment to Germany. The British secret service makes it its business to know where every pound of Canada's nickel goes. The firms who receive it are licensed, and none could possibly reach the warehouses from which the Deutschland will load up for her return trip.

COULD DEMOLISH VERA CRUZ FROM 16 MILES AT SEA

NEW BATTLESHIP COULD DO MORE DAMAGE, THAN TWO SHIPS.

Norfolk, Va., July 10.—While the United States is making active preparations to get the navy ready for possible service in Mexico there is unusual activity on board the battleship Pennsylvania, the latest and what naval men say is the most powerful ship in the American navy.

This big ship, but recently commissioned, has never seen any service. Her big guns have never been fired and her hull has only once ventured outside the Virginia Capes, and that when she was on her speed trial runs.

But she is ready for service, and naval men say she could do more damage than any other two ships in the navy with her big fourteen-inch guns. Her crew, too, is made up almost entirely of men from other ships in the navy. Unlike most of Uncle Sam's ships, the Pennsylvania has practically no "rookies," or recruits, among her crew of 900 men.

They are all trained seamen, engineers, electricians, machinists and various other mechanics. Her gun crew is composed of gunners of long experience, most of them coming from the New Hampshire, the Louisiana and the Vermont. The latter ship sent seventy-two trained men to the Pennsylvania.

Vermont, New Hampshire and Louisiana have been added to the reserve fleet and their crews sent to the Pennsylvania and various other ships whose complements were not complete.

Burns Oil Exclusively.

The Pennsylvania burns oil exclusively, and in a single day she took on board 150,000 gallons, just one-third of the quantity she will need when she goes on a cruise. She can fill her tanks in three hours, and only two men are required in the task. On coaling days it required nearly half of the crew to stoke the fuel in the bunkers. It also meant a dirty ship after the task was completed. With the use of oil there is no dirt to clean up after the vessel completes taking on a fuel supply sufficient to last from ten days to six weeks.

Navy men say the Pennsylvania would prove of inestimable service in case of war with any nation. They say that American ships of deep draught cannot lay very close to Vera Cruz or other Mexican ports during a storm. The Mexican coast they say, is cursed with what maritime men term "norther"—a storm with a wind velocity often reaching 100 miles an hour. When these storms break warships are forced to go out to sea to escape danger of being driven ashore. At Vera Cruz when one of these "norther" hits the coast all warships go out to sea for fifteen miles. Sometimes they are required to remain there for three or four days.

Her Long-Range Guns.

The Pennsylvania, with her big guns, would be able to bombard Vera Cruz if it became necessary, from sixteen miles at sea. She could remain that far out and drop shells from her fourteen-inch guns right in the heart of Vera Cruz as easily as she could at a 1,000-yard range.

The battleship Nevada, of the same type as the Pennsylvania, has been trying out her big guns off Tangiers Sound in Chesapeake Bay, exploding big shells against the sunken hulk of the old battleship Santee, formerly the Texas, and the ram Katakida, both of which were sunk in the presence of the Pennsylvania.

STILL TOO PROUD?

Toledo, Ohio, July 10.—"The United States will go to war only in case of unmistakable necessity," said President Woodrow Wilson in a five minute talk at the Union Station here this afternoon on his way back to Washington from Detroit.

The President was met and welcomed by Congressman Isaac R. Sherwood. Congressman Sherwood lauded the chief executive in a short talk, declaring the President stands only for peace, progress and prosperity.

BAKED SHAD ROE.

Parpoil the roe from a large shad for one minute, drain, place in a baking pan, spread with one large tablespoonful of butter, sprinkle with pepper, salt and a dash of cayenne, pour in one cupful of cream, bake covered for twenty minutes, then remove the cover, bake ten minutes longer and transfer to a heated platter. Beat the yolks of three eggs with one cupful of cream, add the strained sauce from the pan, cook and stir until slightly browned, place around the roe and garnish with watercress and crisped bacon.

WEIRD EPISODE OF THE RECENT IRISH REBELLION

On Trial for Murder, Sergeant Flood Tells Story of the Shooting of Traitorous Lieut. Lucas.

VICTIM CRIED AND SAID HE'D BEEN LED INTO IT.

Flood Didn't Believe at the Time That the Man Was Really An Officer.

Tragic and weird is the story that comes by way of recent British publications in the report of the trial by court martial in Dublin of Quarter-master Sergt. Robert Flood, of the 5th Royal Dublin Fusiliers, charged with the murder of Lieut. A. Lucas, of the 5th King Edward Horse and a civilian named Rice, and also with responsibility for the shooting down by men under his command of Lieut. Worswick and another civilian, one Dockery.

It was on the night of April 29, in Guinness' Brewery, Dublin, at a time when the Sinn Feiners had taken possession of a part of the brewery and Sergt. Flood with a command of nine men was holding possession of a malt house whose windows were constantly under fire of snipers.

The trial ended in the acquittal of Flood, loudly cheered by his comrades for it had been asserted that Lieut. Lucas, who claimed to be an American, had been in treacherous dealings with the Sinn Feiners and confessed his traitorous action just before he was executed. The inference was also drawn that the other men killed were in league with him, although the inference of the prosecution, had it been sustained, would have convicted Flood of murder by wanton rashness in ordering the deaths.

Flood's Story.

It was about 11 o'clock at night when Colonel Williams, who was in charge of the area under attack, sent Capt. McNamara with a force of ten men, including Sergt. Flood, to the malt house. It was an utterly dark night, and because of the snipers' there were no lights allowed in the malt house, the Captain and Sergt. Flood having electric searchlights. Their orders were not to return the snipers' shots nor to fire at all unless arrested men were made to enter the malt house. Capt. McNamara left the men there, but before departing turned to Sergt. Flood and said:

"It is inadvisable to open any of the windows, but if it is necessary to fire it will be better to fire through the windows rather than open them and attract the attention of the rebels."

A while later on, on orders from Col. Williams, a Capt. Rothman took Lieut. Lucas to the malt house and he assumed command. Captains McNamara and Rothman departing together, Lucas was a stranger to the men and his conversations with them about the Sinn Fein movement aroused suspicions, which increased when he advanced to open one of the windows. They had been made further suspicious by the appearance of Rice, the civilian, and his whispered conversation with Lucas.

So, when Lucas advanced to open a window, Sergt. Flood reminded him of what Capt. McNamara's orders had been regarding not opening the windows, the orders having been repeated in the presence of Lucas.

"The Lieutenant had ordered me," said Flood, "to put men on the footbridge in the grounds, and then he went to open the catch of the window, and when I remonstrated, turned and said sharply: 'You do as I tell you.' But I had seen through the window a number of lights flashing that were not military signals, and I placed Lieut. Lucas and Rice, the civilian, who had no right on the premises, under arrest. I placed them against a wall under guard. In the flare of my torch I examined Lucas's face intently, and knew him to be a stranger, and when I opened his officer's coat to search him for papers I found the clothing he wore beneath unlike that of our officers wear."

"I sent one of the men to Dublin Castle to report, but the doors there were locked and he had to return. The men were getting jumpy, for an outpost had come with the news that the malt house was to be rushed. I then decided I would have to order the execution of Lucas."

Stood Up To Be Shot.

With the shine of the single torch on the faces of Lucas and Rice they were stood up to be shot. Flood in his story said:

"Lucas, when he realized I was about to give the squad the order to fire, said: 'Don't Sergeant, I am only a poor farmer's son and come from America. I'm sorry for what I've done, but the boys led me into it. Then he began to cry and ask me to allow him to say his prayers, and I did, and began to cry, and I asked why a man should cry, and he said he was thinking of his wife and child. I was expecting an attack on the malt house any minute, so I ordered the squad to fire. Lucas died immediately, but in the darkness, with just the light of the torch, Rice, the civilian, was not seriously wounded and remained standing. He was shot again, but even then was not dead, and it required a third bullet.

"Twenty minutes later, with some of my men I went upstairs in the darkened malt house. We heard steps and I called 'Halt!' There was no response. I repeated the call and got no answer, but heard the call, 'Sinn Feiners.' Then I received a staggering blow."

The soldiers fired at the strangers in the darkness, and later, when dawn broke, found that Lieut. Worswick and Dockery, another employee of the brewery, had been killed by them.

Lieut. Lucas, it appears, had been in the army in the intelligence corps, but Flood said that in ordering him shot he did not believe him to be really Lieut. Lucas, but a rebel who had stolen an officer's coat and cap.

A WOMAN MAGISTRATE.

The appointment this week of Mrs. Arthur Murphy ("Janey Canuck") as a police magistrate for Edmonton, with jurisdiction over all cases in which women and girls are concerned, is another striking recognition of the unusual qualities possessed by this quite wonderful Canadian woman. The West has produced many women imbued with the frank and buoyant spirit of that big, new land, and several of them have succeeded as authors in expressing that spirit in such a way as to compel interest not only in Canada but far beyond it. Of all these Mrs. Murphy is one of the best. Truly western of all—keen and joyous, with a big, broad mind and a generous, expansive personality. Physically as well as mentally she radiates the most refreshing human qualities. Her writing naturally has these qualities, too, but it is also exceedingly admirable from a technical standpoint. Little wonder that Mrs. Murphy's influence is constantly increasing in broadening fields.

This exceptional woman was born at Cookstown—the South Simcoe village famous as the birthplace and present home of Hon. J. S. Duff, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture. She is quite frank in telling you that the date was 1868. Emily Ferguson was her name and she came of a noted Simcoe County family of Tory politicians, being a niece of the late Col. T. R. Ferguson, and a grand daughter of the late Col. O. R. Gowan, both of whom were members of Parliament. Sir John A. Macdonald was a guest at the wedding of her parents.

Yet, in spite of all this in one of her books on the West she defended the cost of construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific, pointed out that while it was more expensive built it was sound and solid, "not cobwebs strung on a musket."

"Janey Canuck" believes in fair play in all things. In the same book, "Open Trails," she had a word to say for the French nuns at St. Albert, who have on their monasteries windows, not a cross and the hills of France, but a cross and maple leaves. Also she had something to say about a matter which we have now forgotten about—the notice, "No Englishman need apply!" She said (this was long before the war, of course): "I delight in that Englishman who, on seeing such a notice, raised his eyebrows and said: 'By Jove! Copied off the gates of hell!'"

Mrs. Murphy was educated in Toronto, at Bishop Strachan school, for general proficiency. In 1887 she married Rev. Arthur Murphy, a Church of England clergyman, and for many years has lived in Edmonton. Latterly Mr. Murphy became interested in mining and farming as well as in church work, and Mrs. Murphy took a hand at both and at a hundred other things. She knows all about mining, a lot about timber and farming, can side a broncho with anybody, is a considerable traveler, a currier, and a collector of Canadian fossils.

An extraordinary variety of work has been done in the West by Mrs. Murphy, including an organization of district nurses, women's clubs, hospitals, improved law regarding dowers, etc. She was organizer and first president of the Women's Canadian Club at Edmonton. She is a magnetic platform speaker and a charming, genial conversationalist.

"Janey Canuck's" books include "Janey Canuck Abroad," "Janey Canuck in the West," and "Open Trails." They are not stories in the ordinary sense, but impressions of a penetrating, sympathetic observer of Western life, skillfully and charmingly recorded. Robust is the best word to describe her work as a whole, for it is all strong, sane, and refreshing. Agnes Deans Cameron, the noted Canadian Western writer, now living in the United States, has a keen admiration for Mrs. Murphy. Toronto women were once described by Mrs. Murphy as wearing "a cross between the English and American modes; good material in good style." She also said that "Toronto takes its new jokes from the theaters," but adds: "The city is very fair, resourceful, tireless, and unafraid; a city worthy to be greatly loved."

ANOTHER SPECIALIST

NEEDED FOR KAISER.

London, July 10.—9.45 p.m.—An Amsterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says that Dr. Frederick W. K. von Loberg died in Berlin Sunday. Dr. von Loberg had the special care of the throat affection from which the German Emperor has suffered for many years and was one of the Emperor's most intimate friends.

MADE IN GERMANY

Berlin, via London, July 10.—5.08 p.m.—German correspondents on the western front, telegraphing Sunday, agree in reporting that the great offensive is virtually at a standstill. They also assert that it achieved no results of practical importance in the week it lasted and that the gains were made were quite out of proportion to the losses suffered.

The correspondent of the Lokal Anzeiger telegraphs:

"The offensive has been at a standstill for the last three days and is shattering itself into a bitter group of conflicts on the wall of our second lines. Our defending forces have dammed up the advancing enemy in a basin and they are unable to unite forces sufficient to enlarge the borders of the basin by any extent worth noting."

The correspondence of the Vossische Zeitung reports that the first week of the offensive "has not brought the enemy any nearer his goal." He intimates the possibility of the Allies efforts, saying:

"All kinds of signs point to the possibility of an extension of the front on which the offensive is taking place. Demonstrations by the Allies continue at La Basse, Lens, on the Aene and in the Bois de Prete, Places far behind our front are being bombarded and squadrons of aviators ascend to disturb our transports and rear communications. The success of all these efforts is very scanty."

CROPS IN WEST.

Regina, Sask., July 10.—The Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture, in the fortnightly crop report, issued today, states that the crops are making good progress.

Wheat ranges from eight inches in height, in the eastern central districts, to thirty inches in the Prince Albert and Battleford districts. A small percentage of the wheat is now in the shot blade, and all other grains are making rapid growth under improved weather conditions prevailing generally during the past week.

Damage from hail is reported from Humboldt, Cadillac, Batroum and along the Saskatchewan river for several miles, south of Swift Current and west to Gull Lake, but in no place has the damage been serious. Heavy rain falls and high winds have been general and have delayed plowing of summer fallows and breaking Woods are showing up badly on unplowed lands.

SUBMARINE'S ARRIVAL.

The arrival of the German U-boat at Baltimore after a trans-Atlantic trip need not be regarded with too much apprehension. It has been known for more than a year that there were in existence submarines capable of making such a voyage and, if the truth were known, this is probably not the first by any means to get across. It is common report that Britain herself has submarines that can make a five thousand mile voyage. But a submarine does not need to have anything like that capacity to make the voyage, as it should be a comparatively easy matter to arrange with supply vessels to meet her at a given latitude and longitude.

The present voyage has been made for stage effect more than anything else. It is probably part and parcel of the German general scheme of terrorism, the chief object being to create alarm on this side of the ocean. If we refuse to be alarmed, it will have failed in its mission to a certain extent.

As for any troopships leaving Canada, it may be taken for granted that everything possible is being done to see that they reach the other side in safety. Ample provision has apparently been made to cope with any contingency of the kind suggested by this new feature. On the other hand there is apparently no danger that any submarine will make its way up to Quebec, and this for the simple reason that it would never get back again.

GERMANS ARE

APPREHENSIVE.

Judging from press comments of German papers, the Germans are viewing the present great effort of France and Britain with considerable fear and misgiving.

According to despatches, the leading Berlin papers do not attempt to minimize the seriousness of the new menace, the Cologne Volks Zeitung admitting that "the moment is without doubt fraught with significance and is, perhaps, decisive." While the Germans will probably continue for some time to resist fiercely, it is probable that the doubts and fears that they now admit will be transmuted into reality before very long.

The allies have prepared for months for this advance, and, as wounded men coming from the front point out, everything so far, has gone like clockwork.

It is reasonable, therefore, to assume that everything will continue to do so.

FEELING THE BLOCKADE.

The decision of the allies to abandon the Declaration of London has been interpreted by Germany as meaning the sharpening of the blockade.

The result is that Germany is now aflame with agitators, who are advocating the use of the "unrestricted torpedo" as a reprisal.

While there is no indication that the German government has decided to revert to the tactics that almost caused the severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany, it is extremely likely that such a policy will be resorted to.

A hungry stomach knows no law. And Germany is hungry, just how hungry few outside the Fatherland know.

But we do know from the news that filters through that the mass of the German people are merely subsisting on scanty rations doled out through the food dictator.

Germany can not hide the truth that the blockade is effective much longer, and the action of the allies in throwing overboard the Declaration of London will make it even more so.

Lord Robert Cecil deprecates the charge that the allies have dropped the mask and will now ignore the rights of neutral nations.

As a matter of fact, he declares that the discarding of the Declaration of London is a return to fundamental principles of international law and will do much to clear the air.

But Germany sees it in the light of being an effort to further strangle and starve her.

Hence the agitation for the resumption of undersea warfare and the use of what Germany considers is her most effective weapon—the torpedo.

Whether a new submarine campaign will be inaugurated at this juncture is exercising much speculation.

The German imperialists are becoming alarmed at the internal unrest, and it is argued that they may not desire to tempt fate further by instituting a submarine campaign which will only needlessly prolong the war and prove ineffective in lifting the blockade.

GALLANTRY.

Sir John Jellicoe's report of the battle of Jutland may aid some information for the technicians of naval warfare, but it will not increase largely the public knowledge of what happened when the ships of the British and those of the Teuton met for desperate strife in the North Sea. Most of us will be interested in the little narratives of human daring and fortitude that shine like golden inlay on the grim iron of the official report. Our pulses throb a little quicker when we read:

"A boy of the first class, John Travers Cornwall, of the Chester, was mortally wounded early in the action. He nevertheless remained standing alone at a most exposed post quietly awaiting orders until the end of the action, with the gun's crew dead or wounded all around him. His age was under sixteen and a half years. I regret that he has since died."

So do we all of whatever strain but we all rejoice that he lived long enough to show that there is such a spirit in the human race. Brave boy, short as was your life, it was long enough to win a glory the years will not dim!

Nor is the great Vice Admiral in command of the grand fleet without appreciation of the gallantry of his foe. The generous praise of a brave heart rings in this paragraph:

"We particularly admired the conduct of those on board a disabled German light cruiser which passed down the British line shortly after deployment under a heavy fire which was returned by the only gun left in action."

Thus out of the horror come these true flashes of the finest devotion, out of the red blaze of battle the beams of a purer light. In that British boy and in those German men the one standing alone of his gun crew with his life ebbing, "quietly waiting for orders, the others fighting for their ideal with the last gun left on their riddled and sinking ship," there was that which conquers nature's forces and spreads civilization over the globe.

BRITAIN'S ACHIEVEMENTS

Since the outbreak of the war we have heard much of Britain's blunders. In the light of recent events it would be more fitting to speak of her achievements. And in doing so one can afford to leave her navy out of consideration. In point of efficiency and general superiority it stands so pre-eminently above all others that to praise it seems at times superfluous. Besides, has not Britain's navy braved for a thousand years the battle and the breeze?

Today it is Britain's army that commands not only the attention, but the respect of all the world. No more do the Germans speak disrespectfully of it. No longer is it referred to as that "contemptible little army." It is now respected, yes feared, in the very home of military efficiency, Germany. For her artillery is now equal to anything of which the Germans boast. The equipment of her soldiers is as complete as that of any nation. Her forces are numbered by millions, and to them millions more can be added; while, as for supplies, there is no limit.

The marvel is that all this has been created within less than two years. At the outbreak of war Great Britain despatched to France the whole of her standing forces at home; but they numbered no more than 100,000. She had then to recruit an army rivalling in size that of France or Germany, and to do it from a population strongly averse to militarism, to whom the thought of compulsory military service had always been repugnant.

Of the difficulties encountered in creating this new army it is unnecessary to speak further in particular, the public being familiar with them. Suffice it to say that between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 men are now in khaki; of which number probably 3,000,000 are in France and Flanders. Today they are not only thundering, but breaking through the lines, which Germany had imagined too strong to be broken.

True it is that in this war Britain has made her mistakes; but what country has not? All her preparedness has not prevented Germany from making them. But, taking into account what she started with, no other nation has done nearly as much, in a military sense, as has Great Britain. To speak of her achievements were thus most fitting.

PRESS COMMENT.

Never since the organization of the Boy Scouts has the association had such an opportunity to display its worth as at the present period, and that the boys of the order are measuring up to their opportunity is made apparent in reports recently published by the dominion council. Not only are the boys assisting their empire in every day possible at home by helping in patriotic work and contributing funds, but thousands have united with the colors and gone overseas to do their bit in the big struggle. It is estimated that from Ontario alone 1,200 scouts are with the army, and one whole troop from Hespeler, Ontario, has gone on record as having enlisted as a unit with its twenty-four members now serving in the trenches. Quebec has given over four hundred scouts as soldiers, and a Regina troop recently disbanded that the members might enlist with the active forces, their whole band uniting with the colors. From every province come such tidings telling of the loyalty of the scouts in this present crisis. Not only are the boys adding numbers to the overseas forces, but they are contributing efficiency in a very marked manner. The knowledge of scouting shown in actual use at the front, as well as in courage, self-sacrifice and cheerfulness, has been commented upon by officers in charge, and this manifestation of sterling worth is due to the fact that the qualities which go to make a good soldier have been drilled into the scout during all his months of training with his organization at home.

The spirit of self denial has always been manifest in Boy Scouts during peace times, but now the virtue is much more apparent. Red Cross depots have received invaluable assistance from scouts, who systematically give of their time to run errands, carry parcels, help pack boxes, etc. Not only is time given, but each scout in endeavoring to contribute something in money to patriotic funds from pennies saved by self denial, and large contributions have been received in this way. The Canadian general council of the Boy Scouts has adopted the policy of giving badges during war times for special service. One badge is known as the twenty-eight days special service voluntary service badge and is given to any member of the scout body who performs before the end of the war, twenty-eight days service for patriotic work with day at least three hours long. Another badge, called the one hundred days service badge, will be given to those who fulfil days of service for that length of time. A "war service troop" roll is to be issued to any troop in Canada upon five service badges being earned by members in that division.—Calgary Telegram.

Sporting Notes

If you notice anything strange about the paper this morning don't blame us, there's a big fishing argument going on as we write these few lines. One of the gentlemen insists that some great specimens of trout, whale, etc., can be hooked by angling under the Falls.

The Emmets and St. Patricks will meet next Sunday on the Exhibition Grounds and this will be some game, as these two old rivals always put up a good argument.

The Napoleons and Patricias meet in their return game on Sunday next on the Exhibition Grounds.

Some sports acquire red-noses from too much old Sol and others from too much old Mull.

The St. Patricks team will practice this evening on the Exhibition Grounds. Manager Newton expects the full squad to be on hand.

The Laval team won in Plessisville by 20 to 5. The leaders of the local league had on their batting clothes and clouted the ball hard. Masse pitched for Laval with Pepin behind the plate. Ostigny and Chatel were in the points for the rural gents. The Laval team were greatly pleased with their trip and received splendid treatment from the Plessisville boys.

Cleveland is evidently coming coming back strongly. The Indians whaled New York yesterday and crept within hailing distance of first place again.

Levis is still talking about that great rally which carried them to victory over the Patricias after the latter had accumulated a seven run lead. The Vics once overcame an eight-run advantage which St. Patricks acquired and defeated the Irishmen by 11-10, way back in 1913. St. Pats led by 10-2 in the sixth inning and Manager George Belanger of the Vics took out most of the regulars and switched in the subs. And the subs came through.

Sporting Ed. Chronicle:—
In playing a junior league game last Sunday, one player in making a play on third base touched a runner with his bare hand, though he had the ball in his gloved hand. The umpire called the runner out. Was the umpire right? A reply will greatly oblige.

A Junior Ball-player.

Ans.—The umpire was wrong. The player must be touched with the ball.

We regret to hear that a player of the Tipperary club was struck by a spectator who lost his head over the chatter of the young fellow on the coaching line, in Sillery last Sunday. Ball-players should not talk back to spectators but the spectators should not interfere with the players. The management of the Sillery Club did all in their power to maintain order and the incident was sincerely regretted by the man who did the deed. But a repetition of such events must not occur. Be good sports and see the good qualities in your opponents as well as in your own favorites.

The grass was cut on the Exhibition Grounds last week. The field now looks like a real baseball park.

ANNUAL TOURNEY
OF ONTARIO BOWLERS.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., July 10.—The annual tournament of the Ontario Bowling Association opened here today under favorable conditions, with an entry of 64 rinks. No less than a dozen members of the famous Canadian team that made a successful tour of Great Britain in 1913 are participating in the tournament. Strong rinks are present from Berlin, Guelph, Hamilton, Buffalo, Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto. The most notable absentees are the two Rennies, who have been powerful contestants in every O.B.A. tournament for the past 10 years or more.

The "Fernleigh" club of Hamilton, which has held the big trophy for the past two years, are again making a strong bid and if successful this year the cup becomes their property.

to 3 and 4 to 1. Buffalo won the first game by slugging Schacht's delivery all over the field. The second game was more even, but Buffalo managed to bunch their hits while Newark could do very little with Gaw.

The score: R. H. E.
First game:—
Newark . . . 002 000 100—3 10 1
Buffalo . . . 410 020 60—13 19 1

C. B.'S LOOK LIKE ONLY OUTSIDER IN THE EIGHT CLUB RUSH FOR FLAG.

The following is the standing of the Quebec and District baseball league to date:—

	W.	L.	P.C.
Laval	2	0	.1000
Emmets	2	1	.667
Napoleons	4	2	.667
St. Romuald	3	2	.600
St. Patricks	2	2	.500
Victorias	2	3	.400
Patricias	2	3	.400
C. B.'s	0	4	.000

A glance at the above standing will show that all the clubs have still a chance for the pennant. However, lamping the form exhibited by the various teams in their games to date, the C.B.'s look to be the only club which might be looked upon as an outsider. They may improve as the season goes along. We hear that a new pitcher, Coulombe of Montreal, has been signed on with them, but at present writing, the Cowboys do not look dangerous and the best they may be able to get is to rise out of last place. Laval are leading with two wins and no defeats. There are some fans who look upon Laval's chances as a joke. This is a mistake. Laval by no means looks a classy ball club. Their players have not the polish of Ramsay's or Crevier's or McLeod's but they play straight baseball, hit the ball hard and have a good battery. The Students may crack—every team may do that—but St. Pierre's club at the worst will be in the fight for the pennant until the closing days.

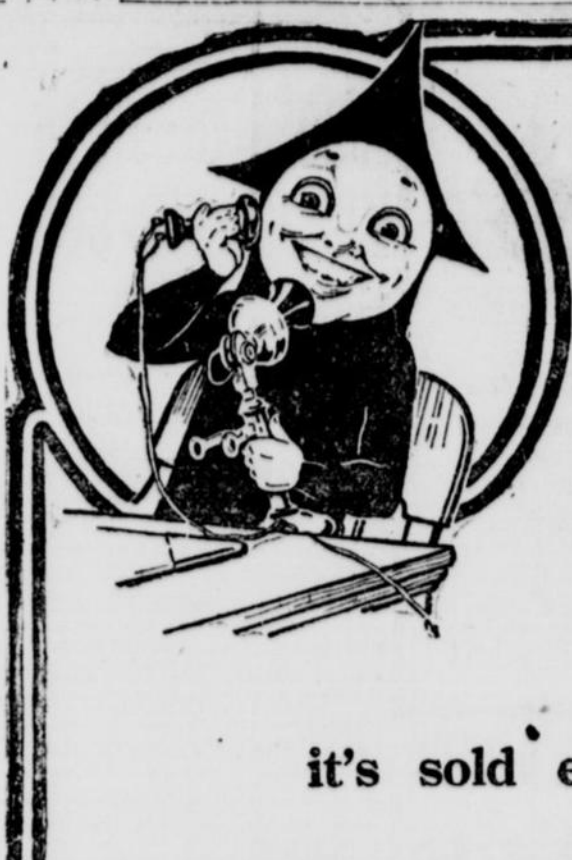

The Emmets are second just now and are also contenders. McLaughlin is strong this season where he was lamentably weak last year. We refer to the pitching department. Undoubtedly, Picard has the goods and is backed up by a team of hard-working ball-players. West-Calkins, Lussier, Savard and Worth do not look to be as swift as the old infield of last season composed of West-Calkins, Mace, Lafrance and Acquin, but Savard and Lussier will probably get working together in the smooth manner which Lafrance and Mace showed last season. Emmets looked too weak with the stick when they opened the season but their heavy-hitting against the Vics has us guessing now. However, Emmets like Laval won't be counted out very early in the season if they do happen to get a knockout wallop eventually.

Napoleons, outside of their battery and one or two other positions do not look as if they could stand the grind of the season. They undoubtedly will be hard to beat on their own grounds but will have to show great improvement to be looked upon as a championship club. St. Romuald and St. Patricks will be strong contenders. The Indians are a fine fielding club with a splendid battery and one or two good hitters. If they can give Desjardins a few runs of a lead they can bank on winning a good many games, for he is pretty reliable and the fielding behind him is good. St. Patricks look like a team of sluggers and when they get working together are bound to be reckoned with. In our opinion the team is better than last season's championship outfit, with the exception that Campagna has not been putting the same stuff on the ball that he showed last year and Maurais has not properly warmed up yet. If Campagna and Maurais show their old-time form, St. Patricks look like a good bet for the pennant.

The Victorias have shown startling reversals of form so far. However, Manager Jimmy Walsh has a team which is bound to come back strongly. Cloutier, Mace, Buell and Acquin look like a million dollar infield, but they haven't been going right. When they do get that ensemble effect, or in other words when Tommy Buell has instilled his Harmony into the rest of the quartette, the Vic team will discourse some select baseball and though just now they do not look to have an edge on any of the other teams with the exception of C.B.'s, they will be in the fight for the flag.

Now we come to the Patricias. If Letourneau can hold that team together for the balance of the season and get out of the heads of two or three of his players that they are better than any of the others in the league, the Patricias look to be a fifty-fifty betting proposition with St. Pats for the title. They have a good outfit but they are not working as smoothly together as they might. If they play the game good-naturedly and quit crabbing each other for every misplay made, they will come very close to winning if they don't end up by copying the honors.

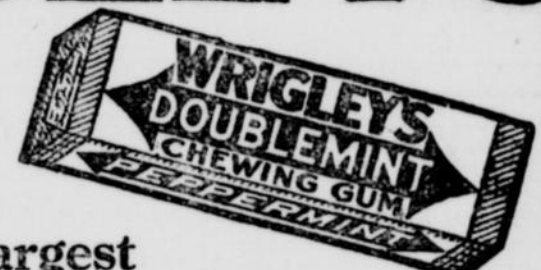

The C.B.'s are now reposing at the foot of the heap and unless they buck up wonderfully they are due to remain there for the balance of the season. They are good hitters and though they are probably out of the running, they will no doubt put one or two of the leading teams out of the running as they usually do each year. One thing about the club is that they are all home-brews and with the exception of Latulippe and Bernard, have all been recruited Tipperary's will practice this evening on the Cove Fields at six o'clock. There will be a meeting after the practice.

The Standards were given quite a scare by the Belvederes in a Junior A League match but Dion's fine pitching kept them from defeat, the little fellow twirling high-class ball, though his support wobbled badly at times. Smith on first was the worst offender. He insisted on catching throws with one hand but the ball did not always stick in the mitt. He looks a likely first sacker and is a tall rangy chap, but he will have to pay a little more attention to the game. McCord and Crestohl were out of the game. Pierce caught for the first time and showed up well. Latour pitched a good game for the losers and Joe Walsh backed him up well. The teams:—

CIVIC LAXITY.

To Editor of The Chronicle,
 Dear Sir,—One of your recent correspondents complains of the condition of St. Ursule street. I, for my part, would wish to remonstrate at the condition of the sidewalk on Mountain Hill, and also on the south side of St. Louis street. And while I am on the job, let me venture to point out that the Esplanade is in a most neglected and disgraceful condition.

When will our Civic Fathers cease from troubling among themselves? When will they cut out their melodramatic pseudo-resignations and concern themselves with the City's real needs?

Yours truly,
 CITIZEN.

LETTER OF THANKS FROM HER MAJESTY.

Another interesting letter of thanks from Her Majesty the Queen has been received by Mrs. Angus, president among the Canadian Branch of Queen Mary's Needlework Guild. The letter which was written by Miss Annie Lawley, honorary secretary at headquarters in London, says:

"That Her Majesty has desired me to ask you to convey her thanks to the various workers who have contributed so splendidly to this last consignment. The arrival of your cases was a great help to us at this moment, as we are sending out a large consignment of things to Mesopotamia and many of your things have gone there. The handkerchiefs were especially welcome as I seem to have unlimited demand for them." Her Majesty was much interested in the comfort bags from Yarmouth, and we have sent some to No. 14 General Hospital, France, to be given to some of the worst cases. It is indeed good of your workers never allowing their energy to flag, and I hope they realize how much their labors are appreciated. We have so much to be grateful for, not only to the daughters, but to the sons of Canada, who, at this moment, are covering themselves with glory, and one finds it difficult to express their thanks.

The following are a few extracts received from letters by the headquarters in London:

Hospital Auxiliaire, St. Germain-on-Laye,

"There is one thing that we really do need badly, but I have been hesitating to suggest it as it is such an expensive want, and I do not know if the Q.M.N.G. supplies such things. Many of the poor wounded have such terrible bed-sores when they come here, either from the stretchers or previous bad nursing, and we have no water or air mattresses, not even the large water pillows that are such an excellent substitute. It is pitiful to see their sufferings on these hard mattresses, when one knows how more comfortable they could be made. India rubber hot water bottles are also unknown here, but we have stone ones instead. Most of the garments that these patients wear are sent by the Q.M.N.G. I always look for the mark and feel proud of seeing it there."

Hospital Melun, Seine et Marne.

"A fine hospital, having many serious cases, surgical and illness.

"Clothes in great demand as men come straight from the front with nothing."

Hospital Mixte, Fontainbleau.

"Well equipped hospital, but no clothes. Some of the men still lying in their clothes straight from Verdun."

Hospital No. 9 Bis.

La Chapelle-la Reine.

"A most pathetic little hospital in poor part of the country. Entirely run by contribution of peasants. Patients very cheery. No garden, so they sit or lie by the roadside, or take turns in one wheel-chair. I am the second visitor they had since the war began. They nearly went on my neck. Do be as generous as you can."

Hospital Civil, rue Victor Hugo, Montreuil-faut-Yvonne.

"A visit to those hospital would melt the stoniest heart. They have practically nothing and very serious cases, and receive no outside help."

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE.

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood, flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of any food or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisurated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach; but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisurated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisurated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."

R.M.S. SICILIAN
REACHES QUEBEC

ALLAN LINER BROUGHT PASSENGERS AND MAIL—DOCKED AT NOON.

Shortly after noon yesterday the Allan liner Sicilian in the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services arrived in port from Liverpool after a splendid voyage. She carried 110 cabin and 175 third class passengers, 1750 bags, 560 baskets and 900 pieces of overseas mail.

The Sicilian left Liverpool on June 20, and arrived in command of Captain R. McKillop after an uneventful trip. Among the passengers were a few returning soldiers including one Belgian reservist, two members of the Newfoundland Regiment and over seventy naval men. Forty two tons including general cargo and express were discharged here before the vessel proceeded to Montreal at 9 o'clock last night.

SHIPPING NOTICES

Donaldson Line steamer Cassandra, Captain R. C. Brown, arrived in port shortly after nine o'clock last night and docked at No. 19, the Cunard shed in the Louise Basin. She brought 75 cabin and 25 third-class passengers besides general cargo for Quebec and Montreal. Seventy-five pedigreed cattle were taken off the vessel while she was in the stream and were brought to the quarantine station at Levis.

The passengers will disembark at 6 o'clock this morning. Captain Brown reported a pleasant and ordinary voyage. Dense fog 100 miles east of Belle Isle impeded the progress of the vessel. A few icebergs were encountered in the Straits.

Before proceeding to Montreal the Cassandra will take on a portion of her outward cargo. The cargo which is being discharged here includes 250 barrels of pitch, 150 cases of whiskey, 100 fire-clay pipes, and 84 packages of general merchandise.

The yacht George J. Boyce arrived in port yesterday with some members of the American School of Medicine. The yacht is on its way to Cuba via Nova Scotia.

Allan Line steamer Sicilian, which arrived in port at noon yesterday to Montreal at 9 o'clock last night after the passengers were landed and the mails, express and general cargo were discharged here.

The steamer Maskinonge with a cargo of coal from Sydney, passed this port yesterday on her way to Montreal.

Steamers Fairhaven and Romeria passed here yesterday en route to Montreal.

The large Lake steamship G. R. Rowe, arrived down from above yesterday, after coming through the Lachine canal in two parts. The steamer is now at the Davie Dry Dock, where it will be put together again for ocean service. This vessel is a steel screw steamer of 2,940 gross tonnage, 331 feet long, 43.4 feet wide and 22.9 feet in depth. She was built in 1907 by the Caledon Shipbuilding & Engineering Company of Dundee, for the St. Lawrence & Chicago Steam Navigation Co. Limited, being rebuilt in 1910 by the Collingwood Shipbuilding Company, Limited of Collingwood, Ont. She was registered at Toronto.

LLOYD'S STATISTICAL TABLES

The total addition of steam tonnage during the year has been 1,461,816 tons gross; and, of sailing tonnage, 51,934 tons gross; or, in all, 1,523,750 tons gross.

Of the tonnage added to the Register about 54 per cent. consists of new vessels, practically all built in the United Kingdom.

The gross deduction of steam tonnage from the Register amounts to 1,452,679 tons; and, of sailing tonnage, to 82,232 tons; or, in all, to 1,534,911 tons. Nearly 10 per cent. of this deduction is due to ordinary sea casualties, breaking up, dismantling, &c., and 53 per cent. to war losses.

It should be noted that in the returns of the Registrar-General of Shipping (from which the following tables are compiled) wrecks, &c., are included according to the months in which they were respectively reported to him, and not, as in Lloyd's Register Wreck Returns, according to the dates at which they occurred.

The tonnage sold to foreign owners during 1915 is returned at 332,949 tons or about 15.2 per cent. of gross the deduction. The steam tonnage deducted on this account is 194,000 tons.

466 tons, and the sailing tonnage 38,343 tons. The total tonnage deducted under this head is 389,800 tons lower than the average for the previous four years. The countries which have acquired the largest amount of tonnage from the United Kingdom within the year under review are the United States (88,348 tons), Norway (38,623 tons) and Greece (30,279 tons).

On the whole, during 1915, the number of steamers on the Official Register of the United Kingdom has decreased by 86, but the tonnage has increased by 9,137 tons, while the number of sailing vessels has decreased by 182, and the tonnage by 20,288 tons.

The total number of vessels on the Register has therefore decreased by 268, and the total tonnage by 11,151 tons during the year.

During 1915, 417 new vessels of 968,533 tons have been classed at Lloyd's Register. Corresponding with the general movement of the shipbuilding industry the present figures show a decrease of 768,198 tons on those for 1914. Of these vessels, 404 of 965,744 tons are steamers, and 13 to 2,789 tons are sailing vessels. With the exception of five small wooden vessels of 293 tons, the material used in the construction of the whole of the tonnage classed was steel. The output of sailing tonnage is so small as to be practically negligible.

(Canadian Press)

New York, July 10.—An extreme decline of 21 points in United States Industrial Alcohol, one of the better known war contract stocks, and arise in call loans to six per cent, a new high rate for day accommodations since the re-opening of the Stock Exchange in December, 1914, were the outstanding feature of today's nervous and feverish session.

The break in alcohol from 128 1/2 to 107 1/2 was almost steady, but made greater progress in the final hour, when the stock seemed almost without support, but gossip ascribed the liquidation to cancellation of war orders and internal differences over questions of policy.

In view of the enormous disbursements connected with the mid-year payment of interest and dividends together with heavy income tax payments, the six per cent. money rate, which applied mainly to belated borrowers, was not considered unusual. Some intimation of the advance was contained in last Saturday's returns of local clearing house institutions, whose actual reserves disclosed a shrinkage of almost $36,000,000, bringing the excess reserves down to $53,546,060, the smallest total reported since the new method of weekly statements came into operation.

A majority of the other war stocks were heavy in sympathy with Alcohol, but recessions were relatively nominal Tennessee Copper, whose production of acids caused it to be ranked among the munitions, rather than metals, also suffered in the further liquidation of shares of that description, and American Coal Product fell 7 1/4 points. Motors for the most part were subject to additional pressure and United States Steel receded a point on publication of the June tonnage statement, showing the first decrease in unfilled business—about 300,000 tons in almost a year.

Representative rails, particularly Reading and Canadian Pacific, were heavy at times, the arrival of further large quantities of foreign owned American securities from London causing some fear of fresh selling from that quarter. Sales of stocks aggregated 455,000 shares.

Speculative bond issues registered moderate declines on light offerings. Total sales, par value, $2,830,000.

CLOSING MARKET LETTER

By Private Wire to Breen & Gourdeau, Stock Brokers, Telephone No. 185.

Chicago, July 10, 1916.—Wheat—

General denials of the existence of black rust in the northwest in 1916 led to free selling of wheat this morning. The trade refuses to believe that wheat is worth present prices and will not accept the explanation that locals who have been selling wheat have been selling for a long pull. Investment buying on breaks is advisable.

Corn—Despite the denial of export inquiry on a working basis and claims of a big increase in country offerings cash houses wanted July Corn, which was firm throughout the morning. A number of complaints have been received of hot weather in the southwest and some buying both here and at Kansas City resulted. Weather over most of the belt is favorable.

Oats—The hot weather is not helping harvesting, its harmful to Oats and is having considerable to do with the strength in the market. The buying side on breaks appears most logical.

New York—A very irregular and snotty stock market prevailed today. Operations by professional traders, which made up the bulk of the dealings, were responsible for this condition of affairs. Industrial Alcohol was an especially weak feature, at one time during the day showing a net loss from the close on Saturday of twenty one points. The final sale of the stock was at a recovery of a point and a half from the low. The status of Industrial Alcohol Company's affairs offered excellent opportunity for successful bear pressure, the weak points of which are, in part, the decline in foreign business, decline in price of alcohol, over-financing by the company and rumor of a new stock issue. There is little else by way of description to be said aside from the absolutely professional character of the day's proceedings. This fact was further testified by the demand noted for stocks in the loan crowd after the close of business. Broadly speaking, we regard the general situation as unchanged.

Sales, stocks, 458,085; bonds $2,783,500.

MONTREAL CLOSING LETTER

McDougall & Cowans, 119 Mountain Hill, H. S. Thomson, Mgr. Telephone 1402 and 1403.

Montreal, July 10.—The reactionary tendency which was very marked in the American market industrial securities continued today. Good news has no effect and until they get the market low enough we presume it will be wasted. C. P. R. had a large increase of $950,000. The Montreal market showed a slight rally in Steel of Canada; and Baldwin and Crucible in the American market.

CLOSING LETTER.

Bruneau & Dupuis, Stock Brokers, 11-13-15, Sault-au-Matlot, Quebec A. A. Gingras, Manager.

New York, June 10, 1916.—There has not been much of encouragement for the bull element in today's market. Money has been high with an active calling of loans and industrial alcohol broke very badly. The general list is down a dollar or more a share without activity but a steady sagging to lower levels. The temper here is growing more bearish. We hear of many people who have been consistent bulls right along who are now giving it up in disgust. The tape usually tells the story better than all the arguments and theories in the world and the tape certainly points downwards, in spite of glowing prognostications and earnings. It

CLOSING LETTER.

Bruneau & Dupuis, Stock Brokers, 11-13-15, Sault-au-Matlot, Quebec A. A. Gingras, Manager.

New York, June 10, 1916.—There has not been much of encouragement for the bull element in today's market. Money has been high with an active calling of loans and industrial alcohol broke very badly. The general list is down a dollar or more a share without activity but a steady sagging to lower levels. The temper here is growing more bearish. We hear of many people who have been consistent bulls right along who are now giving it up in disgust. The tape usually tells the story better than all the arguments and theories in the world and the tape certainly points downwards, in spite of glowing prognostications and earnings. It
