Quebec Goes National Union

At the all the mid-slinging and other that went around during the campaign for the Quebec Provincial election, the National Union Party is to be called upon to form a government. There was much conjecture at first, after the results were known, as to whether Mr. Maurice Duplessis would be called upon to form a government, or whether Mr. Adolphe Bourget would continue, or whether perhaps another election would have to be called immediately. Mr. Duplessis has 48 seats against the Liberals' 37, and it is possible he may secure another two seats, giving him 50 out of the 91. The Liberals will be considered the official opposition, which would leave 43 seats to swing their vote either way. If the other two seats are not available to the National Union, there will be 6 extra votes to split between the two major parties. If the Liberals gained all six as opposition, it would not help to defeat the government, as the government would have a majority of 5. But if in a division, some of the government sided with the opposition, or refrained from voting at all, the government may be defeated and it would call for a "Vote of Confidence" vote, when anything could happen.

While very large majorities are not considered good for government, very small majorities can be equally bad. On the other hand a small majority will make for greater manipulation of legislation and it is likely to be well-picked to pieces before it is passed through.

The platform that the Union National Government won its election on was hardly a provincial one, as it concerned federal policies to a greater extent, something over which the province has little control. Behind it all was the fear that a majority in Quebec has, that its manpower will be dragged into the war. The Duplessis Party is not in favor of sending men overseas. So no doubt this had a lot of influence on the vote in many parts of the province. But the matter of sending men overseas is a federal one and not within the jurisdiction of the provincial governments. The matter of ceding the autonomy of the province to the federal powers was a weak argument, because as everyone knows, any ceding of provincial powers is for the duration of the war only and was granted willingly by the provinces to help the war effort. It would seem therefore, that Mr. Duplessis will not wish to help the war effort by a temporary ceding of the provincial rights. This, to the same extent of the province that is against men being sent overseas, would seem to be a good plank in the party's platform. But if it is to satisfy selfish motives at the expense of the rest of Canada.

Fortunately we are in a better position today, insofar as the war is concerned, and it may not be necessary for the Federal Government to ask the provinces to sacrifice any more of their rights in the war effort. The Federal Government has the power to transfer some of its war contracts to other provinces if it so desires, and this could be a great blow to the manufacturing centres of Quebec, unless Mr. Duplessis is willing to play ball with the Federal Government and help the war effort all he can. In wartime co-operation means much to everyone, and if Quebec decides not to co-operate, it can turn out quite bad.

Upon these issues the National Union Party was elected, upon these issues it may easily be defeated. On the other hand it can produce good government that all may admire. But it must be prepared to treat one and all alike and not try to divide the province against the Dominion, and one section of the people against another. It must be remembered that a large number of men from this province have voluntarily enlisted in this war and they will expect the support of this province in the war effort, if the government goes against them by bucking what is being done; they will not be receiving that support. Time alone will tell whether the people have made a right decision and let us hope that they have.

Three Times in Seventeen Months

THE people of Montreal and visitors to Montreal are faced with a problem of again finding means of transportation in and around the city, for the third time within a space of seventeen months. What is the trouble this time? Why the workers are demanding a closed shop, or employment to which only those belonging to a certain Union are allowed to be employed. The National War Labour Board has turned down this request and the Montreal Tramways Company has decided not to agree to such a demand. The War Labour Board offered to have the matter arbitrated, but the strikers refused this. This is a disruption of the tramway services in Montreal has come about and the people are having to get around as best they can.

The demand of the strikers is again a preposterous one, in the face of democratic freedom. It is in violation of the Freedom From Fear clause we hear so much about. It means that if a man does not join the Union to which these strikers belong, he would not be able to hold his job or obtain a job with the Montreal Tramways Co. With such a stranglehold on both workers and the company, the Union officials would be the veritable dictators of the transportation of Montreal. Such a state of affairs would threaten the liberty of all, a state for which we are fighting against in order to preserve our liberty.

It would threaten to keep the returned soldier out of a job with this company, when he returns to take up a position in civil life. Unions properly conducted, make a splendid bargaining agent between employer and employee, but when they become dictatorial, they are unwieldy. There is nothing against workers having a union to represent them and their disputes, but such representation should be conducted on a sane and sound basis. They must not develop into a monopoly, whereby they form a society of discrimination against all except those whom the union chooses to have as members. Such is what the Union would have the Montreal Tramways Co. accept. It would tie the hands of the company from accepting the services of trained workers simply because the applicants did not belong to the union operating. If the union saw fit to accept these workers into their membership they could do so, or otherwise they could reject them. Thus the union, and not the company, would have the last say in all matters.

No one minds workers making just demands and then standing firm for them, but demands such as those proposed by the Montreal tram workers have not been just.

Who Really Won the Election?

WE hear much about majorities for this and majorities for that and that majority rules. But when it comes to voting in an election it is not always the majority of the voters which has the say in who shall do the governing. In the recent Provincial election according to a tabulation based on returns from 7,601 of 8,384 polls, the Liberals polled the largest vote of 39% against that of the National Union of 36%. The National Union secured 46 seats and the Liberals 37, but the National Union is considered to be the Government.

It is one of those peculiar quirks that gives the minority party the right to rule the majority, according to number of votes obtained. We find that 39% of the voters decided that they wanted a Liberal Government, but failed to elect a sufficient number of representatives; on the other hand 36% of voters decided in favor of the National Union and elected a greater number of representatives. On the number of representatives elected, the government of the majority is decided. Thus we will have a minority group ruling a majority group.

This minority has proved to be the case in at least 46 constituencies, in one case the elected member was shown to be the choice of 2,695 voters as against nearly 8,000 who objected to him. Yet this man will speak for all in the Legislature. This is a pretty serious condition of the principle of Democracy that a minority of the people should dictate the government of the people. Clearly with our present electoral system there is no guarantee that any parliament or legislature or government really represents the best will of the people. Any government might be chosen by one-quarter of the people whose ideas and actions might be wholly repugnant to the other three-quarters of the people, and the whole political and national scheme plunged into chaos—as happened in France.

Below is a table as compiled by Canadian Press, which shows what we mean by figures: Largest Count in Popular Vote

Polled by Liberals in Quebec
Quebec—(CP)—Preliminary and incomplete tabulation by The Canadian Press of the popular vote in the Quebec election showed a record vote more than double the 1939 record total. The largest vote—39 percent—was polled by Liberal candidates. Union Nationale, which elected the largest group, polled 36 percent and the Bloc Populaire 15 percent.

The tabulation, based on returns from 7,601 of 8,384 polls, follows:

	1944	1939	1936
Liberal	448,537 (37)	301,631 (69)	224,374 (14)
Union Nationale	403,514 (45)	220,402 (15)	323,812 (76)
Bloc Populaire	172,626 (4)	(0)	(0)
C.C.F.	33,158 (1)	2,513 (0)	1,469 (0)
Others	65,594 (1)	38,751 (2)	19,970 (0)
Total	1,123,429 (*)	563,297 (88)	596,325 (90)

*91 seats including one deferred, two doubtful.

Economic Justice in Canada

THE National War Labour Board is to be congratulated on its courage in throwing overboard the demand of the railway workers for United States wages, but that does not mean that the Board was right in giving the railway men 6 cents per hour increase in wages, on the ground that their wages had not gone up as much during the war as certain other classes of labour.

Despite a very serious attempt of the Government to maintain economic justice in Canada during the war, it is a fact that workers in certain war industries did obtain very great increases in wages before the wage ceiling was put on. That meant that when we froze wages, we froze a very uneven situation. Great masses of people in Canada had had no wage increase, or a very small one, before the wage ceiling was put on.

Now the National War Labour Board upsets this whole situation, and announces that those wages which have not increased during the war as much as other wages have should be brought into line.

That means an all-round increase of wages for all those people who have not had increases during the war like those paid to the aircraft workers. It means that the Government will have to revise its price control policy, and allow a lot of prices to rise, or many industries would have to shut up. It means permanently increased costs for what the consumer buys. It means a permanent decrease in the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar.

The Government might have taken a better chance to put this policy into effect than to do it in the case of the railway men, who have been always one of the best paid groups in Canada, and whose permanence of employment surely makes them not entitled to the full wage levels paid temporary workers in aircraft factories.

Letters To The Editor

August 12th, 1944

The Editor,
The Gleaner,
Huntingdon, Que.

Dear Sir:

I have read your editorial re the Milk Situation in Huntingdon, as also other items re same, with a great deal of interest and with considerable surprise, not to say amusement.

The last part of the first paragraph of your "Front Page Editorial" of your July 5th issue, pretty well sums up what the aims and objects of all producers of milk should be.

Those who ship whole milk to Montreal District have a very hard, stringent set of rules to adhere to—both as to the health of their animals, cleanliness of same, their stables and utensils. In view of the very high standing of herds in Huntingdon district it is presumed that those which supply milk for the Town of Huntingdon are just as healthy and free from disease as are those which produce milk for the City of Montreal. It would seem, however, that the same does not apply as regards cleanliness and care of utensils, bottles, etc., also as regards the milk houses, etc.

I am not aware as to whether the Town of Huntingdon stipulates that all milk sold there must be pasteurized. That is a rule which is mostly obligatory, by Provincial Ordinance, in Ontario cities, towns and villages, except where certified milk is produced. This rule is also in effect in quite a number of municipalities in Quebec. Like a great many others, I like milk best in its raw state, but only when I know where and how it is produced. As regards milk sold in its natural state, as say certified milk, the rules of most municipalities allowing the sale of same, are very strict. And when one reads of tickets being left in the bottles after same are refilled, one should agree that such producers should be compelled to either produce their milk strictly in accordance with the Certified Milk Regulations, or else have their milk pasteurized in a properly equipped plant. Their milk houses should be such as are in accordance with the Montreal Health Department regulations for shippers to that market.

In brief, there is no excuse either on the part of the retailers or the Town Council for the situation which appears to exist, and you are to be congratulated on the stand you have taken. The producer-retailer should realize that they are producing a commodity for direct human consumption, some of them of a standard that is apparently away below that which their neighbors Montreal—and in the latter case the milk is pasteurized after its receipt. The Town Council should pass an ordinance whereby retailers in Huntingdon should have to observe the same rules as those who ship their milk to Montreal. (It might even be that they could make arrangements whereby the Montreal Inspectors could report on such premises.) They should insist that all bottles are properly washed and sterilized by the bottler before the milk is inserted. It is indeed most amusing to read tickets may have been overlooked because the milk house is dark. It is, however, a most alarming admission on the part of one producing milk for direct human consumption.

Your pat on the back, to the effect that, "you were pleased to note that the dealers were willing to co-operate in every way possible", was a kindly one. But these dealers should not be pleased with; they should be made to co-operate in every respect.

Editor of the Huntingdon Gleaner,

Dear Sir—
I have been a reader of your Paper for many years. I have always been very interested in your Editorials. They usually indicate human interest and forthrightness. However, I wish to comment on the attached Editorial in which you criticize the expense account of a Mr. Hanson who is one of your members to the House of Commons at Ottawa.

In my opinion, Mr. Hanson's hotel expense account which he sets at $10.00 per day and which would cover his room, meals, telephone, laundry and tips is quite moderate. In fact, the charge of $10.00 per day for a Member who is expected to conscientiously represent his country and live in the kind of environment that he has without doubt been accustomed to at his home, is actually low. I do not know anything about the hotels in Ottawa, but I do know something about your Windsor and Mount Royal hotels which are located in Montreal. I imagine that under present day conditions at either of these hotels a breakfast would cost from 50c to $1.00, lunch from 75c to $1.25 and dinner from $1.50 to $2.50. Single rooms at these hotels would no doubt cost from $2.50 to $5.00. There would be telephone, laundry, etc., charges in addition to the above.

Mr. Hanson probably stops at hotels of this calibre. He is probably right when he says he is in the red as far as his indemnity is concerned, at least since the war started. There are probably hotels in Ottawa comparable to the hotels which I have just mentioned and such hotels are just ordinary good hotels.

Your statement, that these Members should find a place where they could live for $5.00 a day or less is ridiculous. You must know, without a doubt, that what you propose for these Members is quite impossible. I have been a commercial traveler for quite a number of years. I know what it costs to live away from home. I only wish I could hold my expenses down to $10.00 per day and I do not have to maintain that dignity which would naturally be expected of a Member of the Canadian Parliament.

Very truly yours,
JAMES SIMPSON

My Dear Jean Baptiste Canayen:

I have read your letter in "Le Temps" with interest; I, like you, have just returned from Normandy where I, like you, suffered a serious wounding, wounds which should handicap me in life to a much greater extent than will yours. You say you have lost the sight of one eye and also one leg, I have lost both legs and am totally blind yet you speak truly when you say that your loss (and mine) "is only a slight incident over there since so many others have lost their lives."

You "thank God" that you still have the right to vote and state that you intend to use that vote to put out of office one, who you claim, forced you to go "overseas" and, so put into power, those who not only would not have forced you to fight, but who would have privileged for which you say you "thank God" but who would not have sent any men to fight for that privilege and who would not, if possible, take them out of that fight.

If you have seen service in Normandy, a part of the homeland of your ancestors, you must have realized that those of your own country-men living there, had no right to vote, had no right to do anything but just what they were told to do by those who had over-run their country, the Germans.

You say you have lost the sight of your right eye, you must have been much more seriously injured! You are more blind than I am. You see with one eye but you do not discern.

I am totally blind but I can see the situation in which Canada, my country, might very easily have been placed had those, for whom you now "thank God" you have the privilege to vote, been in power, been in power when Germany first made her attempt to over-run the whole world. You, and those like yourself, call yourselves Canadians and say you "thank God" for the privileges you enjoy in Canada; but you do not want to fight to retain those privileges?

You are not Canadians, you do not "thank God"—You know nothing about God or you would rather die than so blaspheme.

Oh yes, some of our politicians went back on a promise which they made, is that the only promise which they did not fulfill? When they made that promise no one expected a war, I agree, it was wrong to make such a promise, but, under the circumstances it would have been treason to have kept it. Some did keep it, some tried to keep it and at the same time tried to placate those who saw the need for a strong out and war effort—more shame to them—half measures never are successful in any enterprise much less so are they in a war against a well prepared and unscrupulous enemy. You complain "You let the French-Canadians leave for a military training camp." Are the French-Canadians any different from Canadians of other national birth? Is there any reason why a French-Canadian should not fight for both Canada and France? You, and those like you, boast of your French ancestry and culture and yet do not want to fight to preserve either. Rather than fight you would give in to a culture which would soon entirely efface yours—Germanic culture. Many of your ancestors in Normandy and Brittany have seen Germanic cultural methods and you "thank God" for those who would bring, or at least make no effort to prevent, that culture coming to Canada. You may have served with the French-Canadian troops in Italy and France but you certainly are not the accredited mouth-piece of those troops. I "thank God" because the average French-Canadian, especially those in the armed forces overseas, are gentlemen, real Canadians, real human beings, fit to be citizens of a great country and they are not, as your letter plainly reveals yourself to be, mean spirited, more of a hypocrite than he whom you blame for your troubles. You "thank God" for the privilege to vote, a privilege which their own "blood and sweat" has preserved to themselves and they will not forget that their strength was lessened—by those who could but would not fight, was lessened—by those who could have produced more tanks, more ammunition, etc., etc., but did not, who went on strike solely for their own benefit or that of a particular union or its boss, was lessened—by the "playing politics" of our political parties instead of gearing the whole country 100% for war. No they will not forget and will, by their vote register their dissatisfaction, their anger, that having stood ready to give their all for Canada, so many who stayed in Canada, cared not for their danger, cared not even if they lived or died but cared only that they, themselves, might be spared discomfort and annoyance.

Private Jean Baptiste Canayen, speak for yourself and not for all French-Canadians.

I too, sign myself,
JEAN BAPTISTE,
(CANADIAN)

WEEK AT OTTAWA

Written Specially For The Huntingdon Gleaner

Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA.—(CP)—The House of Commons has unanimously approved the $750,000,000 war service gratuity bill which will come into force next Oct. 1.

The gratuities will be paid to all general service personnel and to home defence troops who participated in the occupation of Kiska in the Aleutians last year. Gratuities will not be paid to other home defence troops unless they are conscripted for service outside Canada. Then they will be payable only from the time of conscription.

The gratuities will be retroactive and will be paid to the 150,000 men and women already discharged from active service. They also will be paid to Canadians in other Empire forces who return to Canada within a year after discharge.

For every 30 days of service in the western hemisphere personnel will receive $7.50. Fifteen dollars will be paid for every 30 days' service overseas, including the Aleutians, Iceland and Greenland. There also will be seven days' pay and allowance for each six months' service overseas.

service overseas and a re-establishment credit equal to the total of the first three items.

For purposes of the bill the western hemisphere includes the West Indies, Newfoundland and South America.

Sees More Construction
The expectation that a "huge volume" of construction will be possible in the next two or three years under the government's new housing legislation was voiced in the Commons by Finance Minister Isley during a review of the purpose and scope of the bill.

Mr. Isley summed up the objects of the bill in moving its third reading, and said that while it would provide for loaning $275,000,000 to prospective home owners, present owners, wishing to repair their homes, builders of low rental homes and those aiding in slum clearance, it was possible for the volume of building, of land cleared and of homes repaired to reach a total value of $740,000,000.

To that sum the minister said, should be added another $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 made possible by section of the bill empowering life insurance companies and certain other approved lending institutions to buy land and develop rental housing projects thereon.

Of interest to country residents was Mr. Isley's statement that loans for rural housing will come out of the appropriation of $100,000,000 provided for in part one of the bill, which makes possible total joint loans of $400,000,000.

He said that under the farm improvement loans bill provision was made for the guarantee of loans to be made by banks—up to $250,000,000—to buy machinery and equipment, for rural electrification and for the making of other permanent farm improvements.

Portion For Farm Houses
"I think it is beyond doubt," Mr. Isley added, "that a substantial portion of this large amount will go not only for the repair, renovation and re-equipment of farm houses but also for the building of new houses and of laborers' cottages on farms."

That part of the legislation providing $100,000,000 in loans to prospective home owners will be made effective first, perhaps with some of the other parts, but all sections of the bill might not be put into effect immediately.

The amount appropriated under the bill would meet requirements for the next two or three years, and if more funds were required after that period they could be voted after Parliament had ascertained that the housing legislation was operating successfully.

Of references to the report of the sub-committee on housing and community planning that a complete urban housing program must contemplate the construction of 600,000 units in the first post-war decade and that a minimum rural housing program would require an additional 125,000 units, Mr. Isley said:

"These are very high figures, and others have estimated that at least 300,000 housing units will be required. The first thing to emphasize is that those who are making these estimates are talking, not about the first year or two after the war, but about the 10 years following the termination of hostilities. The principle we have followed is, I think, a very much sounder one."

This is over 70% for the month of January.

Yours truly,

W. I. Notes

HUNTINGDON BRANCH

The Huntingdon W.I. met at the home of the President, Mrs. Antoine, on Tuesday, Aug. 1st, with a good attendance.

"Why we should keep up to date on current events" was the response to the roll call. Minutes of last meeting were read and treasurer's report given. The question of giving school prizes was brought up. Moved by Mrs. McCartney, seconded by Miss Turner, that the sum of $5.00 be again donated for prizes for cooking and sewing in the Domestic Science classes. Carried.

A donation of $2.00 was given by Mrs. Taylor for the Hospital fund. Mention was made that the W.I. electric crib had already been responsible for saving the lives of two babies.

It was decided a shower of jams and jellies for the County Hospital be brought to the next W.I. meeting.

Mrs. Antoine introduced as the speaker for the afternoon, Mr. Lang, Principal of the Willingdon School, Montreal and formerly of Ormstown, Que.

Mr. Lang's address centered on training the youth of today for democracy. He referred first to the last war, and the consequent depression and tragedies which followed.

To prevent a similar condition at the close of this war, he said, we must form our reconstruction plans to make the world safe for our young people.

The Women's Institute groups he contended, are vitally important in that their influence could be brought to bear on furthering plans and projects which would make for the health and security of the nation.

As a teacher and leader of young people for the last 25 years, Mr. Lang had observed many changes in the schoolroom and among the youth. But instead of decrying the follies of today, he was encouraged by the hopeful outlook of youth. Young people, he said, were asking questions, which is one of the hopeful signs. It is our privilege and duty to guide and help them and to accomplish this we must do some deep thinking.

What is our idea of democracy? It means co-operation, working together for the common good in our own country. The home, he asserted, is most fundamental in developing the child. Our work is to guide and counsel our children by practising democracy in the home.

Don't preach, but give them the idea they are worthwhile. This develops them spiritually and mentally, while attention to nutrition and health rules will keep up the physical part.

Much trouble has been caused by wrong thinking, this especially has been done in Germany. Train our youth to think and analyze, to keep an open mind, and an attitude of tolerance. Social needs of our young people must be recognized, and guided in the right direction.

Home, school and Sunday School training should be centre, and the fact that we are spiritual beings. Nothing is more worthwhile than giving our children a background of religious teaching, and faith in spiritual values.

Trained like this we will have nothing to worry about, for youth can then face the world and its problems with a brave heart and conquering spirit.

Mrs. Antoine thanked the speaker for his very helpful talk, and invited him to visit us again.

A flower and vegetable guessing contest conducted by Miss Turner then took place, and was won by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Bruce, of Dundee.

An exhibition of 5 different varieties of flowers was judged by Mr. Lang and Mrs. Bruce. Results 1st, Mrs. Antoine; 2nd, Mrs. Laframboise; 3rd and 4th Mrs. McCartney; 5th Mrs. N. Stark. A book sale was held at the close of meeting. One new member, Mrs. Norman Stark, was added.

He was well in the lead and was about to jump over the lip when the order for withdrawal was given because of heavy casualties behind him. He was too far ahead to get back so he lay where he was.

He soon found that he could not escape, and he had to lie there motionless for 60 hours. In the daytime the Australians could see him and when he moved they fired at him thinking he was a Jap.

At night the Japanese, only five yards above him, could hear him when he moved and they would fire. He could hear them talking and at times they threw scraps of food over the parapet. He was found exhausted and helpless when the position was taken.

Princess Chooses Lady In Waiting

Lady Mary Palmer Assumes Post in Elizabeth's Official Household

By MARGARET BOKER Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July—(CP)—When Princess Elizabeth chose her first lady-in-waiting, she chose the tall handsome Lady Mary Palmer, who is a typical wartime English girl. She is the daughter of Lord Selborne, minister of economic warfare, and like every other young English woman she is doing a full-time war job. Since war began the 23-year-old brunette has worked in day nurseries. Her present work is assisting with the care of 18 babies under five who have been evacuated from Gibraltar. Five and a half days a week she works from 9.30 a.m. to 5.30 p.m., for which she receives a salary of almost $10.

Like most English girls of her age, she's engaged to a man in the services, and her fiancé is Captain Thomas Anthony Strachey, only son of Lord O'Hagan, who is serving overseas.

Like most English girls of her background, Lady Mary is a versatile young woman who paints, plays the piano and speaks several languages which she learned at school in Paris, Munich and Austria.

Her position as the first appointment to Princess Elizabeth's household is at present on a part-time basis which will not interfere with her war work at the refugee nursery.

Shower for Bride-Elect

Mrs. Floyd Gruer was hostess on Saturday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. T. Kerr, at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Grace Lewis, whose marriage takes place in the near future. About forty guests had assembled when Grace, who was brought to the house with the idea that Mrs. Gruer was going to call on them, arrived and was asked to come in for a moment. As she entered the room the lights flashed on and the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. S. Robb filled the air. Speechless with surprise, the bride-to-be was escorted to chair trimmed with pink and white and flanked with great vases of gladioli, while the floor around was heaped with gifts. After opening and admiring each one, Miss Lewis thanked the assembled guests and invited them to come and see her in her new home. Games were enjoyed for a short time followed by delicious refreshments served by the hostess assisted by her mother and sister, Mrs. Allister MacArthur, after which the guests departed wishing the bride-to-be happiness in her new home.

Celebrate 25th Anniversary

About 60 relatives and neighbors gathered on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Stacey, to celebrate with them the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. It was a warm evening and when the guests arrived they found Mr. and Mrs. Stacey and family on the lawn enjoying the evening air, and when the car horns sounded they were certainly startled, but welcomed their guests and seats were quickly found so that all could enjoy the outside air. A few of the younger generation enjoyed dancing to the music furnished by W. G. Allen, while the rest passed the evening in conversation. After refreshments had been served by the guests, Mr. Ernest Reddick called the gathering together and on behalf of those present, presented the bride and groom of twenty-five years ago with a well-filled envelope containing a substantial sum of money accompanied by the good wishes of the crowd to which Mr. and Mrs. Stacey very suitably responded. After singing for "They are jolly good fellows," and the National Anthem, the crowd dispersed wishing their host and hostess many more years of wedded bliss.

Holstein Cow Among Big Producers

The above is Betty Ormsby Re-Echo 356731 (Ex.) owned by T. R. Dent, Woodstock, Ont., and is the dam of "Springbank Rag Apple Ormsby", one of the two bulls mentioned in the following write-up, and owned by Mr. H. T. Cunningham, of Huntingdon, Que.

The following was published in the August issue of The Holstein-Friesian Journal:

"Betty Ormsby Re-Echo 356731 (Ex.) owned by T. R. Dent, Woodstock, Ont., joins the select circle of 1,000-lb. producers this month with her 6-year-old record of 1,004 lbs. fat from 20,246 lbs. of 4.95% milk. As a senior four-year-old she led her class in the 1942 Honour List and qualified for a Certificate of Superior Production with a 2X record with 835 lbs. fat from 18,554 lbs. of 4.5% milk. She was also a 1941 Honour List class leader with her junior 3-year-old, 2X record of 771 lbs. fat from 16,600 lbs. of 4.38% milk. This latter was a first calf record at the beginning of which she dropped twin bulls sired by a son of Montvic Rag Apple Pietje, out of the Canadian champion 2X producer, Popular Pontiac Abbecker, Herb. Cunningham, of Huntingdon, Que., got one of these and the other went to Dean Stob, of Michigan. We believe that her other two calves have been heifers. A full sister of Betty, Canary Re-Echo Ormsby, has a 4-year-old, 2X record of 1,364 lbs. milk and 82 lbs. fat."

H. T. Cunningham informs us he has 32 daughters of "Springbank Rag Apple Ormsby", a son of this great fat producing cow, which is the highest test ever made by a Holstein with a 1,000 lb. fat record. This is not a freak record, for Betty has every reason to be a high fat producer, as both her grand-dams are over 4% producers.

The sire of Springbank Rag Apple Ormsby is from a son of "Montvic Rag Apple Pietje" with 22,980 lbs. milk, 1,043 lbs. fat, with an average test of 4.54%. She is the dam of the famous "Pietje B" with over 19,000 lbs. milk testing 5%, and recently sold for $20,000.

His dam is "Popular Pontiac Abbecker", former world's champion, and still Canadian champion cow on twice-a-day milking with 28,282 lbs. milk, 1,050 lbs. fat, testing 4.71%.

Now that I can go I'm not going to stick around and let the other fellows do it.

Bill and Jack went over last week, and Fred's been over there a year. Now it's my chance.

It's going to take months of training before I can get fighting-fit, so I'd better get moving today.

Yes sir! I'm going now, to tell Dad and Mom that I'm on my way to sign up.

Be a Good Citizen — Avoid the "Black Market"

A "Black Market" in anything, from an automobile tire to a jar of marmalade, is bad medicine for a country. It may cause inflation and inflation would send prices skyrocketing so high that the average one of us would be left holding the bag — with nothing in it.

No, sir! Let's all be good citizens and stick to our ration books. Ration books are the greatest preventive we have against inflation and all the distress that would follow. By the way, they have inflation in China — eggs are one dollar each.

HE MUST HAVE SUPPORT

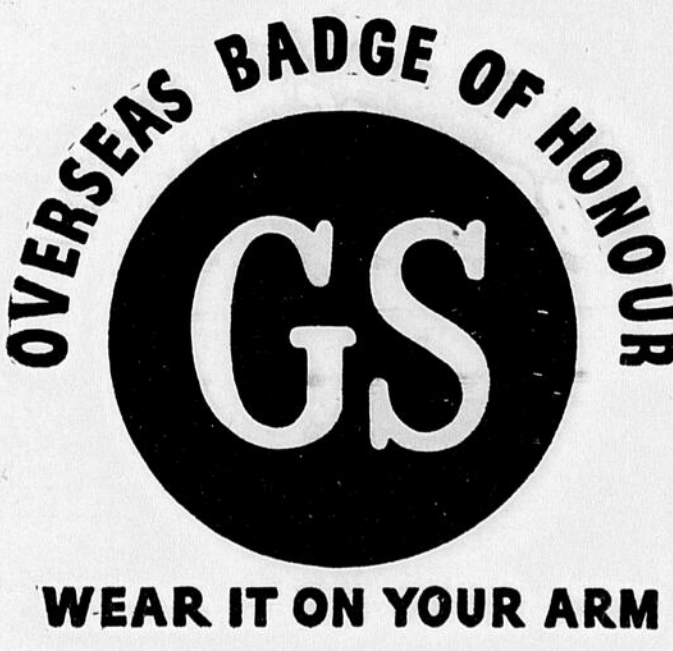

THE pitcher in a baseball game cannot win the game alone and unaided, he needs the support and help of all the players on the team. One player short will make all the difference to winning or losing the game. The same thing applies to the soldier in battle, he cannot win the war alone and not only must he have support in the field, but he must know that there are more men coming up to fill the gaps in the line as they occur. That is there must be men in training to take their part as reinforcements. The soldier in battle is on the mound, he is in there pitching, he must keep the bases clean of the enemy, if they become loaded, he will require the close co-operation of all the other soldiers in order that he can strike out the enemy and win.

Will you volunteer your services to help the men over there in the battle and make victory certain, or will you be content to play baseball at home with a ball instead of a grenade? Will you let the other man play the dangerous shots while you hang out in the fox-hole? Will you stand by and cheer while your fellowmen are needing your help to win the victory? Why not get in there and help them pitch the pineapples, too?

If you are of military age, fit and able, will you offer your services to fight on any front and wear the "GS" badge on your arm? It is the badge of freedom, it is a badge of pride. Offer your services now and get into training to help the boys who have already gone from this Valley, they need your help and support.

DON'T DE DRAFTED — BE A VOLUNTEER

WEAR IT ON YOUR ARM

The G.S. badge on the arm indicates that the wearer has volunteered for general service on any battle front, anywhere in the world.

Don't Stand on the Sidelines Get in There And Pitch

CANADA'S ARMY NEEDS MORE MEN

What is keeping YOU out of Canada's Army?

Will you be able to mix with men after victory with the confidence of one who had done his best? Or will you have to blush through the years when a veteran asks, "What outfit were you with?"

Volunteer to-day, -you will need months of intensive training to make you fighting-fit.

A New Plymouth Will Rise From Crumbled Ruins

Most Comprehensive Post-war Plan Will Make Bombed-out English Port Striking Example of Modernized Victorian City

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Associated Press Staff Writer

PLYMOUTH—(CP)—One of the worst bombed British towns is to become a model future city. The heart of Plymouth is a wide area of crumbled ruin. George street, once a fashionable and busy shopping street, is wiped out; the tower of St. Andrew's rises above the burned-out shell of the church, and only the tower of the Guildhall has survived.

But a plan for the new Plymouth has been created—the most luxurious, costly and comprehensive blueprint for post-war reconstruction yet devised. Plymouth will be a "striking example of a Victorian city completely modernized."

The main features of the proposed plan will include new traffic routes, increases in open space, 18 separate neighborhood centres, each with full community facilities within easy reach of business areas and industries; establishment of safe street crossings everywhere; a theatre and general amusement centre) and enlargement of the naval docks.

The middle of the city, which before the war was congested, squalid and cursed with narrow streets, will be spacious and beautiful.

The Plymouth of the old sea-dogs, symbol of its special history, will remain intact, clustered at the edge of the harbor.

The plan by peacetime methods of construction may take 12 years to complete. If the work could be undertaken at a current wartime pace much of it might be finished within five years.

Before the war Plymouth had 220,000 residents and overcrowding was serious. In the new city, it is proposed, by reducing the density, to house about 180,000. The overspill will be cared for in adjoining towns, villages and hamlets.

SCHEME ORGANIZED TO HELP EVACUEES

LONDON—(CP)—A government-organized delivery service will soon be supplying evacuated families with the essentials of the home they had to leave behind in their haste to seek refuge from flying bombs.

A complaint from evacuees of a shortage of towels and other linen, pots, pans and similar articles, led to the scheme organized by Health Minister Willink.

Local authorities will be charged with packing and removal problems and all the absent housewife will have to do to get the necessities delivered from her own home will be to fill in a form telling what she wants and where to find it.

Despite the plan, families sent to reception areas are urged to make their own arrangements with neighbors for forwarding of what is needed. But if this is impossible the government will step in as packers and removers.
