Banker kidnapped for million-dollar ransom

By ROBERT MACPHERSON
(Record Reporter)
SHERBROOKE (RM) — The manager of an east ward caisse populaire, kidnapped last Saturday at his cottage in Stoke, is apparently still being held for $1 million ransom.

A Quebec Police Force (QPF) spokesman in Sherbrooke told the Record this morning that officers are "on stand by." But he refused to comment further on the case.

The Record was able to piece together the following details from secondary sources:

Charles Marion, manager of the Caisse Populaire de Sherbrooke Est, and a caisse employee, Aline Yergeau, of Lennoxville, were seized in broad daylight Saturday at Mr. Marion's cottage in Stoke by two armed men.

They were taken away from the scene, on the 11th Concession Road East, in Mr. Marion's small truck.

At around noon Sunday, Mrs. Marion — who was also at the cottage but did not witness the kidnapping — heard screaming voices in a nearby cabin. Upon opening the door, she found Mrs. Yergeau bound and gagged. The employee was transported to Hotel-Dieu hospital for treatment and released Sunday.

But no word on Mr. Marion was heard until yesterday, when the headquarters of the Caisse Populaire Desjardins movement in Montreal received a communique from the kidnappers demanding $1 million for the banker's safe release.

The note was forwarded on to the Sherbrooke caisse, located at the corner of Bowen Street and King Street East.

Another contact with the kidnappers was reportedly made late yesterday.

Two years ago last June, Mrs. Lena Blanchet, 65, was taken from her Rock Forest home and held for almost a week before Quebec Police rescued her from a farmhouse near Drummondville.

Two Drummondville brothers, who also demanded $1 million ransom, are currently serving prison sentences for the kidnapping.

End to air strike to be tabled today

A strike by 2,200 air traffic controllers in Canada has disrupted air traffic but has not kept members of Parliament from getting to Ottawa to debate emergency legislation ordering the controllers back to work.

Returned to Ottawa by government aircraft, MPs were to be in the Commons today as the government introduces a bill that would impose a settlement and end the strike, begun at 4 a.m. EDT Sunday by the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA).

Jim Livingston.

association president, said Monday that CATCA members would be advised to obey the legislation. He estimated it would take 12 to 24 hours to get service back to normal.

If the Liberal government receives support from other parties, the bill might be passed in one day.

Walter Baker, house leader for the Progressive Conservatives, said Monday that his party would not block speedy passage of the bill. NDP sources said the caucus likely would give its consent but NDP Leader Ed Broadbent refused to state his position.

USED BUSES

The strike has forced airlines to cancel flights or send planes to airports at United States border cities and take passengers to and from Canada by bus.

A number of airlines have laid off employees because of reductions in the number of flights.

The strike has caused delays in mail delivery. Postmaster General Jean-Jacques Blais said the post office depends heavily on aircraft but now is using surface transportation to move mail.

Prime Minister Trudeau told a news conference Monday that the government would go ahead with its proposed legislation because it does not believe the controllers are entitled to a settlement exceeding federal anti-inflation guidelines.

Maximums set by the anti-inflation board this year generally limit wage increases to eight per cent.

The controllers are seeking a 12.6-per-cent wage increase which would include 4.6 per cent for the 60 per cent of the membership set for reclassification into higher pay categories. The CATCA says the reclassifications are promotions and should be exempt from the guidelines.

The government has offered 7.4 per cent, which it says converts to eight per cent when increments are included.

Munro denies strike law plans

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is not considering any legislation that would take away the right to strike from workers in essential services, Labor Minister John Munro said Tuesday.

Speaking to reporters after a cabinet meeting, Munro took issue with statements Sunday by Transport Minister Otto Lang that the federal government may consider withdrawing the right to strike from essential workers such as air traffic controllers.

The controllers, who walked off the job Sunday, are to be legislated back to work.

Munro told reporters he sees nothing in the general labor scene that would be helped by abolishing the right to strike for essential workers.

"There's a feeling abroad by some who feel that if you abolish the right to strike, then you're going to have fewer strikes," Munro said. "But I don't think that by abolishing the fundamental right that necessarily happens."

Munro said abolishing the right to strike is more likely to lead to illegal strikes than to industrial peace.

CONSIDERS IT WORSE

"I think that's worse. 'I really don't think that's a fundamental solution to the problem.'"

Munro said he discussed the issue with Lang and Lang said his weekend statements on CBC radio had been misinterpreted.

However, a transcript of the CBC interview shows Lang saying that in cases such as the air controllers' strike, "we are going to have to very seriously consider whether or not that right to strike is at all appropriate."

Soviets fear nuclear threat from Africa

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union claimed South Africa is on the verge of creating a nuclear bomb and called Monday for "urgent, effective efforts by all states" to block it.

In a special statement carrying the force of an official Kremlin pronouncement, the Soviet news agency Tass said it was "authorized" to say that "the creation of the nuclear weapon in the South African republic would have most serious and far-reaching aftermaths for international peace and security of peoples."

Tass did not give the source of its information, but noted that the Western news media have reported several times in recent years that South Africa may be preparing to produce nuclear weapons.

Towns will protest Bromont airport bill

GRANBY (RM) — Fifteen area municipalities have agreed to send a letter of protest to the provincial government expressing their "strong opposition" to a bill that would make them financially responsible for the Bromont airport.

At a meeting at city hall here last night, the municipalities also condemned two other articles in Bill 243, which would allow Bromont to boost residential taxes 75 per cent by 1982 but make companies newly established in the Bromont Industrial Park tax-exempt for five years.

Farnham mayor Gilles Desrosiers termed the bill — introduced last week by Frontenac MNA Gilles Gregoire — as a "rape of democracy."

And Paul-O. Trepanier, the Granby mayor who called the meeting, told the Record it was "illegal ... in principle."

He said the municipalities discussed taking legal action if the bill becomes law.

But he added he would be surprised if the Parti Quebecois government would pass the legislation in the face of the opposition.

The Bromont airport, which adjoins the industrial park, was built by Bromont and Cowansville some years ago.

Its construction is still being paid for, and Bill 243 proposes that municipalities within a 10 mile radius of the single-runway airport should pay the remaining portion of the bill.

The municipalities have said they are willing to foot operating costs, but not construction.

They have also said that the article giving Bromont the right to tax-exempt new plants in its industrial park contradicts existing provincial laws which forbid such exemptions.

Eighteen municipalities were invited to last night's meeting, but three were unable to send representatives because of concurrent council meetings. Mr. Trepanier indicated that they will also oppose the bill.

School clause changes rebuffed by government

QUEBEC (CP) — Two opposition attempts to broaden admission rules for English-language schools were rebuffed by the government majority Monday as clause-by-clause study of language legislation continued in legislature committee.

A Liberal proposal aimed at permitting English-speaking newcomers to Quebec from the rest of Canada to send their children to English schools was defeated by a vote of 10 to 6.

The two Union Nationale committee members joined four Liberals in supporting the proposed change to Bill 101, the Charter of the French Language.

Liberal Fernand Lalonde accused the Parti Quebecois government of trying to build "a wall around Quebec." He said the government's restrictions on school entrance were a "slap in the face" for the rest of Canada and could affect Quebec's future dealings with other provinces.

But Cultural Development Minister Camille Laurin ridiculed opposition support for the so-called "Canada option."

"Appeals for solidarity and Canadian unity could not be more naive, unrealistic, sentimental and romantic," Laurin said.

Earlier, another Liberal motion was defeated. It called for admission to English schools of children with at least one parent who had studied in English-language primary schools anywhere in the world.

EXCEPTIONS EXIST

The legislation, as approved by the committee, would permit only children who have at least one parent educated in English in Quebec to attend English schools in future. There would be some transitional exceptions.

Despite rejection of the amendments, Laurin kept the door open to negotiation of reciprocal agreements with the nine other provinces on minority language education rights.

"Quebec could give its neighbors identical advantages to those which they agree to," he said.

"It (Quebec) could even give more in return for benefits in other areas to show its willingness to collaborate and be open on the Canadian level."

Pakistanis publicly flogged

KARACHI (AP) — As thousands of Pakistanis watched, three young men were whipped Monday in a traditional Islamic punishment given legal force by Pakistan's new military government.

Khursheed Alam and Mohammad Sadiq, both 23, and Meem Badshah, 21, each received 10 lashes in view of spectators gathered at a playground in this city of 3.5 million people, Pakistan's largest.

It was the first public lashing in Karachi since the government announced it would punish law-breakers according to the traditional law of Islam, the religion followed by 98 per cent of Pakistanis.

Martial law authorities said the three men were found guilty of impersonating army officers and extorting money from shopkeepers. The three also must serve one-year prison terms.

Gen. Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, who led the July 5 military overthrow of Zulfikar Ali Bhutto as prime minister, proclaimed last month that authorities would apply the Islamic penalties of hand amputation for robbery and looting and public lashing for lesser crimes.

"We don't publish rules just for the sake of it," he said in a recent interview. "If it has to be implemented, it will be.... If I get one chap who deserves it, by jingo I'll cut his hand off. But he must deserve it. It is a maximum punishment."

No amputations have been reported so far.

Zia is known as a strong Moslem. One of the complaints by religious opposition parties against Bhutto was that he followed Islam only perfunctorily.

The religious parties joined with other opposition groups in claiming Bhutto supporters rigged national and provincial elections in March. Opposition-incited street riots followed, claiming about 300 lives.

When Bhutto could not agree with the opposition on procedures for new elections to replace the March balloting, the military ousted him, claiming intervention was necessary to prevent civil war.

The military government has set an Oct. 18 date for free elections to return Pakistan to civilian rule. Zia has encouraged Bhutto to participate, but the former prime minister has not announced whether he will run.

Yukon pipeline route depends on Washington's nod

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has tentatively backed proposals for a pipeline through the Southern Yukon to move Alaskan natural gas to United States markets, but whether the project goes ahead will depend on negotiations with Washington.

Prime Minister Trudeau, just out of a four-hour cabinet session, said the $10-billion pipeline proposal from Foothills Pipe Lines Ltd. can be built "under appropriate conditions and safeguards."

Negotiations on those terms, which include a payment to the Yukon to compensate for the social and economic impact of such a project, will begin with the U.S. as soon as possible, he said.

"These are going to be tough negotiations—it's quite conceivable they will not be successful," Trudeau told reporters. "We have a preference, they have a preference. It is on this basis we are going to proceed."

Trudeau said the government favors construction of a connecting pipeline into the Northwest Territories to move Canadian gas when it is needed in the domestic market, sometime between 1981 and 1985.

READY TO TALK

U.S. president Jimmy Carter has told the government his administration is prepared to open negotiations in an attempt to determine whether a basis can be reached for agreement on the pipeline.

Among the items Trudeau says will have to be negotiated are: the precise route for a pipeline through the Southern Yukon, timing of its construction, provision of the connecting link into the Canadian north and the financial feasibility of the proposal.

He said Ottawa also wants to ensure that construction and operation of the pipeline will not prejudice native land claims settlement; that social and economic impact be kept to a minimum and adequate compensation be paid where it is not; that pipeline benefits go to northerners wherever possible and that environmental damage be reduced to the lowest possible level.

Government House Leader Allan MacEachen, the former external affairs minister who will head the negotiating team, said the recommendations from special government-ordered inquiries that compensation should amount to $200 million and the route be changed to accommodate the Canadian spur line "will be very important elements" in the talks.

The U.S. already has said it is unhappy with both recommendations on the grounds that it will add to the cost of the Alaskan gas sold to its consumers.

CONCERN OVER DELAY
Washington also is concerned over a recommendation that pipeline construction be delayed until 1981 from the 1979 date now proposed by Foothills. After experiencing crippling natural gas shortages in eastern states last winter, it wants the gas brought to market as soon as possible.

But Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie said the government might consider providing additional gas to the U.S. from Alberta now, taking Alaskan gas in return when it is available, or speeding up the delivery of Alberta gas already sold under contract to U.S. firms.

Negotiators have feared that the U.S. would use a proposal for an alternate route across Alaska to turn down any conditions put forward by Canada that it does not like.

TORONTO (CP) — A sharp drop at New York sent the Toronto stock market moderately lower at the close of light trading Monday.

The TSE 300 index was down 4.59 to 1,037.49, spurred by a 9.27 decline to 879.42 in the Dow Jones index, its lowest since Jan. 5, 1976.

Analysts said uncertainty over the federal government's decision on the Alaska highway natural gas pipeline and the nationwide airline strike added to the depression.

Among the four most heavily-weighted groups within the TSE composite, metals and minerals fell 14.16 to 998.66 and industrial products 7.72 to 905.08, their lowest since June 16. Financial services rose 1.25 to 952.33 and oil and gas issues .32 to 1,226.04.

Transportation stocks, down more than 14 points, were the biggest loser among the other 10 groups within the 14-unit index.

NEW YORK (AP) — Concern over rising short-term interest rates pushed the stock market into a steady decline Monday that carried the Dow Jones industrial average to a new 19-month low.

The Dow average of 30 industrials dropped 9.27 to 879.42, its lowest close since it finished at 877.83 on Jan. 5, 1976.

It was the fourth time during the last two weeks the average established a new 1977 low. Since the start of the year the average has logged a drop of 125 points.

Another four blocks of Alminex totalling 41,100 shares and selling at the same price put the company at the top of the most active oil stock list.

Neonex International Ltd. gained 25 cents to close at $2.75 a share, a high for the year, following its resumption of trading at 1 p.m.

They also cited fears that higher rates would lure investors to such short-term interest-bearing investments as treasury bills rather than stocks.

The report, prepared by four top civil servants, urges the government "to take corrective action as rapidly as possible in order to improve Sidbec's profitability."

In an earnings report released earlier this week,

Sidbec reported that its 1976 deficit, the largest since the company was formed in 1969, brought to $74.5 million the accumulated losses absorbed by the government during the past eight years.

Sidbec attributed last year's loss, a substantial increase over the 1975 deficit of $22.3 million, to weak demand in the world steel market and a six-month strike at three plants, including Contrecoeur, about 30 miles northeast of Montreal.

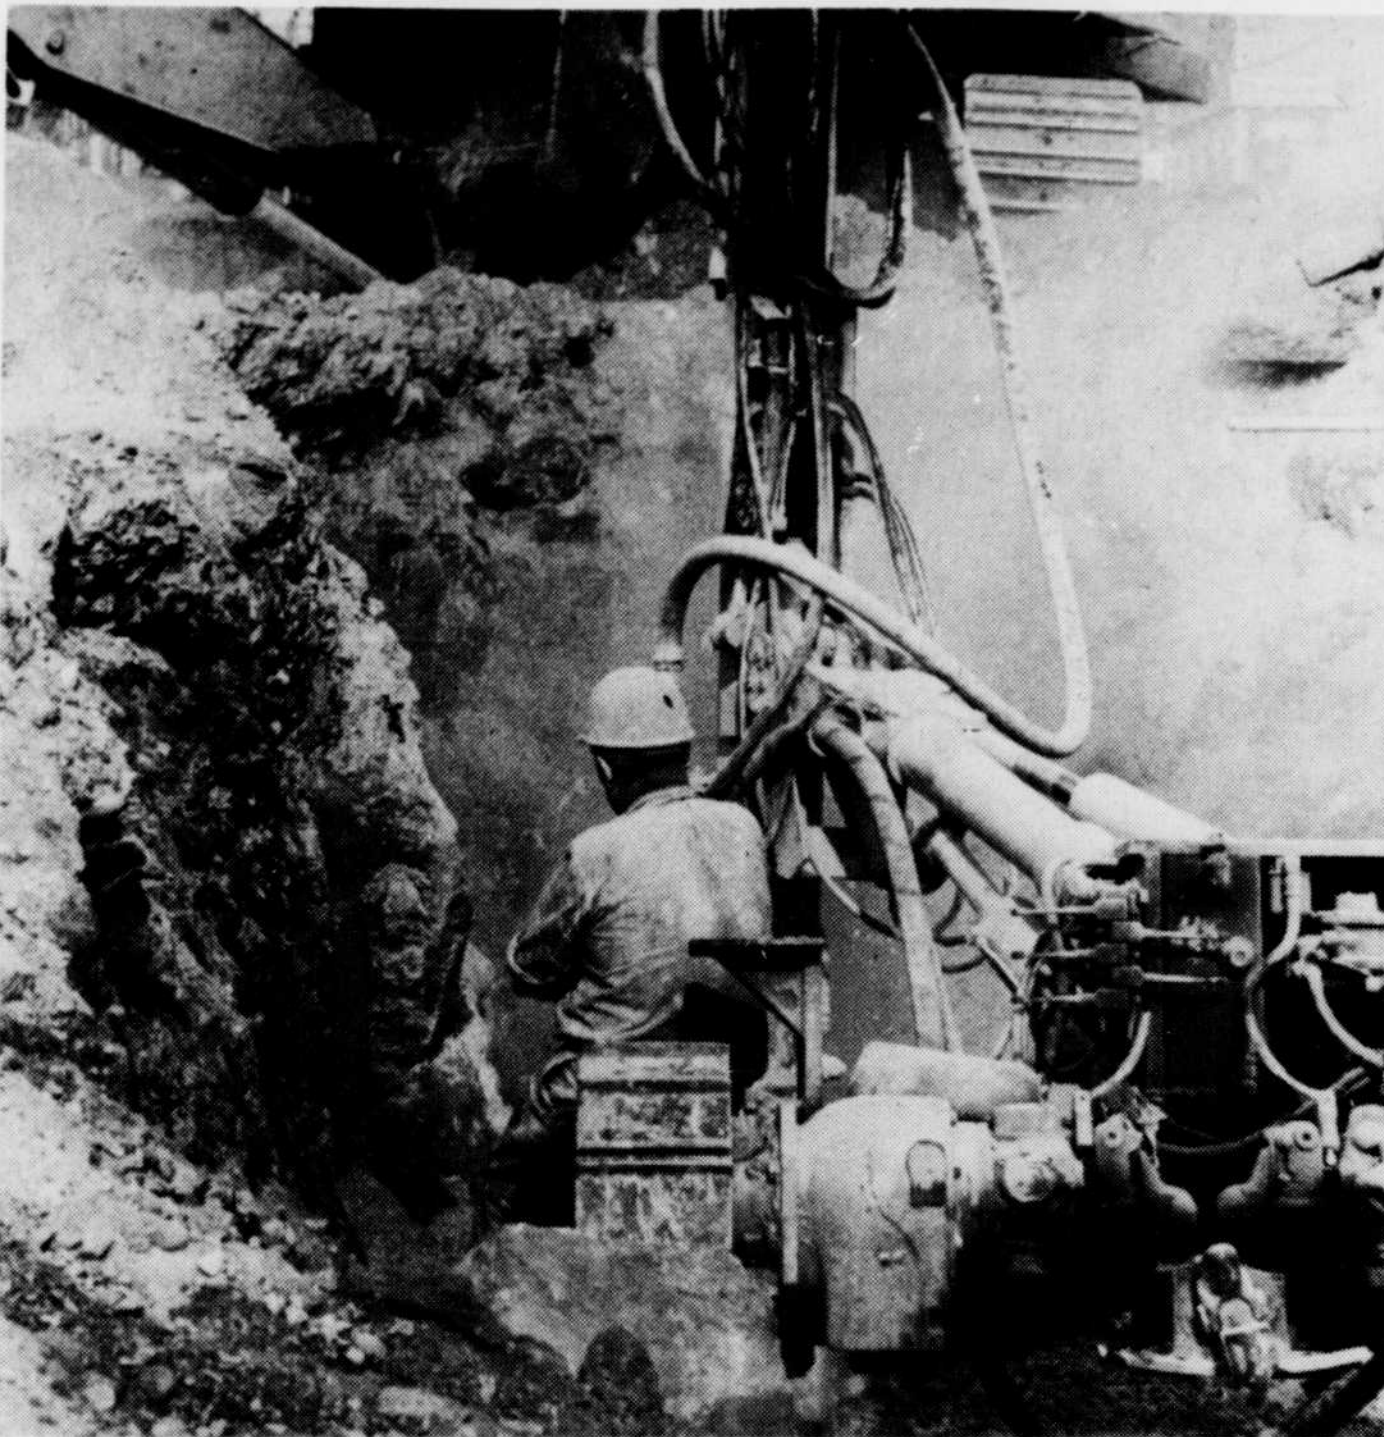

But the government study said the Contrecoeur plant was beset by major technical problems including a low output volume, a low rate of continuous casting of steel bars and the low quality of ingots.

The company has been promised more than $2.5 million in federal and provincial government aid, but said last week it could not continue operations without negotiating a new contract aimed at achieving "increased labor productivity."

Workers sunbathing, equipment ruined

Alaska pipeline builders 'wasted $1.5 billion'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans-Alaska pipeline builders wasted $1.5 billion as workers sunbathed on the job, equipment that was stored outside ruined and contractors ordered parts already in their own warehouses, a new report says.

The report on the $8-billion pipeline was prepared for the Alaska Pipeline Commission by Washington lawyer Terry Lenzner, a former Watergate prosecutor.

"One of the most serious . . . of Alyeska's labor problems was that of workers frequently idle at the job site (including sleeping on buses and sunbathing along the right-of-way), the report said.

"Alyeska's own documents show that the principal responsibility for idleness rested with management's poor supervision and utilization of the work force."

The pipeline, operated by the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., delivered its first oil from the North Slope to the Alaskan port of Valdez last week. The pipeline has been the subject of a number of investigations following charges of irregularities and excessive costs.

"Execution contractors desperately sought to requisition spare parts which (unknown to them) were already located in their own warehouses," Lenzner's report said.

"Because of inadequate warehouse space, equipment and material were often stored outside and effectively lost after the first snowfall. By the time the spring thaw came, much material had either been ruined by the weather or stolen."

MIGHT HELP DRIVE

The findings might be helpful in Alaska's drive to keep to a minimum the costs for transporting oil through the pipeline. A special formula gives Alaska more oil income as transportation costs decline.

The state might argue that unreasonably high construction costs should not be counted in determining the transportation charges, Lenzner said. He called such an exclusion "established regulatory doctrine."

Alaska is one of several protesters trying to convince the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) that the eight oil companies which built the line want to charge too much in oil transportation costs. The commission has approved temporary charges but is investigating permanent tariffs that the companies can charge.

The new report might become part of Alaska's case if the state agrees with the findings. But first there must be public hearings at which the oil companies have a chance to respond, said a member of Lenzner's staff.

The chairman of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., Edward Patton, declined to comment on the report because of pending litigation before the ICC.

Peter DeMay, an Alyeska vice-president, said in Anchorage: "I don't think there was anything wasted. After a job of this magnitude, someone could always look back and point to instances where something should have been done better."

Sidbec's losses tied to poor steel quality

QUEBEC (CP) — The flagging performance of Sidbec, the Quebec government-controlled steel company which declared a record $36.4-million loss for fiscal 1976, is largely attributable to the poor quality of steel produced at its plant in Contrecoeur, Que., a government study says.

Excerpts from the report published Wednesday in Le Soleil say the plant suffers from high turnover of workers and inexperienced management.

The report, prepared by four top civil servants, urges the government "to take corrective action as rapidly as possible in order to improve Sidbec's profitability."

In an earnings report released earlier this week,

Sidbec reported that its 1976 deficit, the largest since the company was formed in 1969, brought to $74.5 million the accumulated losses absorbed by the government during the past eight years.

Sidbec attributed last year's loss, a substantial increase over the 1975 deficit of $22.3 million, to weak demand in the world steel market and a six-month strike at three plants, including Contrecoeur, about 30 miles northeast of Montreal.

But the government study said the Contrecoeur plant was beset by major technical problems including a low output volume, a low rate of continuous casting of steel bars and the low quality of ingots.

The company has been promised more than $2.5 million in federal and provincial government aid, but said last week it could not continue operations without negotiating a new contract aimed at achieving "increased labor productivity."

Following a weekend decision to turn down the company contract offer, a spokesman for the Confederation of National Trade Unions said Gulf "wants to force the workers to put the hatchet to their collective agreement to keep the plant in operation."

Plant manager Eloi Racicot has said the company's final offer is "as far as we can go."

The company announced earlier this year that the plant would close in February, 1978. But last month federal Industry and Commerce Minister Jean Chretien said his department and the department of regional economic expansion SHERBROOKE — A "threshold deduction" of $10,000 introduced by the federal government to offset criticism of its proposed new tax on life insurance is totally inadequate, say local life underwriters.

The new tax which was proposed in Minister of Finance Donald Macdonald's March 31 budget would levy income tax on life insurance "policy gains" at the time of a policyowner's death.

The so-called "threshold deduction" was described as a token gesture in a statement issued by Serge Drouin, CLU, president of the Life Underwriters Association of Sherbrooke.

"It is a totally inadequate solution to the basic issue that it is wrong to levy income taxes on any portion of life insurance proceeds at the time of death," he said.

"People insure their lives not for monetary gain but to protect their families. For the government to tax widows and children at the time of their bereavement is both insensitive and inappropriate."

"In a just society, you don't hit people when they're down. You don't deal them a severe economic blow at a time when they have just suffered a severe emotional blow."

There would be vigorous public protests about the new tax if its ramifications were fully understood by the public, says the association. But the proposals are so complex that the average person has difficulty understanding them, and appreciating the impact the tax could have on their families.

The proposed deduction of up to $10,000 from taxable policy gains at the time of a policyowner's death is limited to situations where the policyowner and the life insured are one and the same person. The deduction would not apply in cases where a parent insures a child and vice versa or where business associates insure each other to fund a buy-sell agreement.

"Even a modest amount of life insurance could result in a taxable gain well in excess of $10,000 for a person living to normal life expectancy."

"The typical Canadian family now owns about $38,000 of life insurance. If this amount of participating whole life insurance was taken out by a man at age 30, and he lived to his normal life expectancy of 73, the policy gain would be $21,283, assuming current dividend scales."

"When the policyowner dies, his widow and children would then be faced with having to pay the government tax on $11,283."

...token gesture

The association points out that no other country, to the best of its knowledge, levies income taxes on any portion of life insurance death benefits. Here in Canada, estate taxes and succession duties have largely disappeared, too.

"Consequently," says the association, "a withdrawal of the entire proposal to levy tax at death is far more consistent than the threshold approach."

The association was critical of the government's proposed new tax treatment of life insurance policy loans, too.

"Borrowing on the so-called 'gain' position of a policy should not trigger additional tax liability," says the association. "And interest payments on policy loans should continue to be deductible if the borrowed money is used for business or income-producing property."

The government has misled taxpayers into believing that the new death and policy loan taxes would be of little consequence, says the association.

"As a result, only a very small number of Canada's 12 million policyowners are likely to be aware of these tax proposals and their significance."

"Most Canadians will not be disturbed by the changes until the death of an insured family member or an emergency need for cash. The proposed changes are a sort of ticking time bomb set to explode in the faces of policyowners, widows and children at a time when they are least able to absorb the shock."

The association called on the press, both locally and nationally, to make the facts about the new tax proposals known to Canadians. "By informing people about the potential impact of these new taxes, the press could make an important contribution toward defeating proposals that are both morally wrong and socially repugnant."

CASH DISCOUNTS — Article 38 (1) a) of Bill C-2 specifies that: "No person who is engaged in the business of producing or supplying a product, or who extends credit by way of credit cards, or who has the exclusive rights and privileges conferred by a patent, trade mark, copyright or registered industrial design shall, directly or indirectly, by agreement, threat, promise or any like means, attempt to influence upward, or to discourage the reduction of, the price at which any other person engaged in business in Canada supplies or offers to supply or advertises a product within Canada; (...)"

If you pay cash instead of using a credit card, you could be saving the retailer as much as five per cent of the purchase price of an article, because the credit card company may charge the retailer this much for the credit card service.

Until recently, agreements between credit card companies and subscribing merchants typically contained a clause requiring the merchants to sell goods to credit card users at the same prices as those applying to cash transactions. This had been interpreted by some merchants as meaning that they could not give discounts for cash.

Stage 1 of the Combines Investigation Act amendments included a provision making it illegal for a credit card company to use its contracts to discourage a price reduction by a merchant.

Retailers should now be free of any doubt that they may pass on the savings to cash customers. But, they are unlikely to begin giving cash discounts unless the customers ask for them and the more people who ask, the sooner it will become a fact of today's retailing.

So if you are purchasing a big ticket item with cash, the merchant may well be willing to pass on to you some part of what he will save.

Quarry to leave Pinnacle untouched

DANVILLE (RM) — The Pinnacle, a prominent rock formation and local attraction won't be disturbed by the construction of a stone quarry nearby, say the quarry developers.

A director of Tri-Rock Inc., an Asbestos-based firm which is planning to build the quarry, said yesterday that it will touch the corner of the scenic hill. But work won't be noticeable from outside.

"We'd like not to hurt the environment," Robert Lodge told The Record yesterday.

The locally-owned company is currently making geological tests at the proposed site, located less than a mile from the Pinnacle and four miles from Danville on the Route Canadienne.

Mr. Lodge said the quarry is scheduled to begin operations next spring. At full production, it will supply 150,000 tons of stone to crushers for eventual use in road construction.

Roy Monahan, mayor of Shipton Township where the Pinnacle is located, said yesterday Tri-Rock has the proper municipal permit to undertake its development.

The permit is issued after an inspection by the provincial department of the environment.

When asked if the quarry might upset the landscape significantly, Mr. Monahan — who lives directly in front of the site — replied: "Not actually."

He said the land has an estimated value of $10 an acre, and is not good for farming.

Mr. Lodge indicated the rock at the site is harder than that on the Pinnacle, which he described as slate rock. And Tri-Rock is "not interested" in buying the Pinnacle despite reports that it is for sale.

Mr. Lodge described Tri-Rock as a "small operation" headed by five Danville and Asbestos businessmen. Currently operating a portable crusher, the new quarry will be the company's first.

Major stone-crushing companies have expressed an interest in acquiring a portion of Tri-Rock, but Mr. Lodge said the directors have no interest in turning the quarry into a large-scale operation.

Donations sought to preserve Magog tombstones

MAGOG (RM) — The Pine Hill Cemetery Association is seeking donations to help preserve the tombstones of this city's oldest residents.

The 19 stones, dating from 1831 to 1902, were recovered last month from the rear of the Evangelical Free Church here after the church began constructing a parking lot over Magog's first burial ground. None of the graves were to be upset by the work.

John Peters, president of the cemetery association, said yesterday a 600 square-foot plot near the cemetery's vault on Pine Street has been set aside for the stones.

But, he told The Record, a monument service company has told the association it would cost $500 to repair damages to the stones caused by rough handling when construction on the parking lot began.

"There are two fairly large granite ones in good condition," Mr. Peters said, "but the soapstone ones are broken up."

Mrs. Kay Milne, a Magog resident who has taken an active part in preserving the stones, said descendants are still living in the Magog region and across the continent.

Donations can be sent to the Pine Hill Cemetery Association's Special Account, 197 Pine Street, Magog.

HOSPITAL BENEFIT — About 50 people came to Sutton over the weekend to donate a little money and look at the antiques.

Selfless Sutton man raises $62 for Montreal hospital

By NELSON WYATT
(Record Reporter)

SUTTON — Ronald Lawrence is not your everyday door knocking, telephone-ringing fund raiser. His favorite charity, the Montreal Children's Hospital is $62 richer after the Lawrence family spent six weeks putting together their second annual antique car and antique show here Sunday.

Although attendance was sparse for the Lawrence's collection of cars, trucks and bric-a-brac, Mr. Lawrence said the family "got a great deal of pleasure" out of arranging the event.

Mr. Lawrence, a native of England who has made his home in Sutton for the last 31 years, said obtaining permits to conform with municipal zoning laws were the biggest problem in staging the day.

He told the Record he had hoped to raise a $100 for the hospital's research wing. Approximately 50 people had arrived by early afternoon to see antique cars and antiques on display, including a 1928 Ford fire engine from Sutton.

"These cars look to be in better shape than my new one," said one man.

The Lawrences hope to arrange another afternoon such as this next year for the entertainment of area people. Mr. Lawrence asserted that there was not a great deal of idle recreation in the area.

Judging by the work and spirit that went into this weekend's activity, such an event at this is the ideal solution.

Rock Island

New police car

ROCK ISLAND — When the Town of Rock Island Council met the evening of August 1 authorization was given to purchase a new police cruiser and to accept the tender of Beliveau and Comeau, Rock Island to supply the vehicle, completely equipped to cost $5,400, plus trade-in.

Mayor Edouard Girard noted the term of Mayor and all the Aldermen is completed in October. As he and the council do not intend to seek re-election he advised the citizens to start "looking around" for nominees to be voted in November.

The new Town hall and offices will be opened for business on August 22 at 96 Main street. The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Marielle Masse will be on holidays from August 15 thru 22.

A special meeting was held on August 8 at 3:00 p.m. when Jean Michaud of the Dept. of Cultural Affairs from Sherbrooke was here to visit the Haskell Free Library. Kenneth Baldwin, chairman of the Board of trustees at the library was invited to attend the session.

The Council have rented office space in the new Town building to Belanger, St. Jacques, Sirois, Comtois et Cie, accountants of Sherbrooke for a one year lease period.

Sherbrooke

Building investment up

SHERBROOKE (JC) — Construction in Sherbrooke during the month of July was down from the same time last year but investment was up as a result of a $2 million permit issued for the building of new QPF headquarters on Don Bosco Street, the month's construction summary shows.

Statistics released by the city report 103 permits issued at a value of $3 million last month, as compared to 132 permits at a value of $2 million in 1976.

Construction investment was highest in the north ward at $2.25 million. The west ward received permits valued at $476,764, the east at $305,700, the south at $12,000 with the downtown area at only $700.

Residential investment saw a sharp decline from $1,699,000 in 1976 to only $411,000 this July. However residential investment was up $2 million for the first seven months of the year.

Commercial investment was doubled at $380,000 with seven permits being issued in July, a permit including valued at $145,000 for the enlargement of L.J.B. Furniture.

Stanstead

Arts grant

STANSTEAD — The Stanstead Municipal Council held a regular meeting the evening of August 4 in their council hall of the Registry building.

Later this month the Municipal new zoning by laws will be read at an informal information session, then open for inspection by the public when any amendments will be accepted and studied.

Stanstead will again receive a grant for $1,500, for courses in art and handicrafts. This grant will enable the instructors to continue another winter.

Tenders are to be called soon to bid on an extension of Terrill Drive by 200 feet. Streets within the village should soon be paved. The Quebec Department will be advised of the poor conditions on Hackett and Maple streets and seek improvements.

The council have been advised they will receive a sum of $1,203, its share under Article 100 of the valuation law.

Vandalism mars WI tea room

AYER'S CLIFF (JH) — For many years now the Stanstead County Women's Institute Branches have operated a tea room in their quarters adjacent to the Main building at the Ayer's Cliff Fair. For the past few years it has been open for the three days of the fair with all branches volunteering their hours and the tasty foods enjoyed by all as they sit down in a comfortable chair and chat with friends and eat the sweetbreads, cookies or donuts with a cup of fresh tea.

But there is always someone to make such things hard to carry on. In a matter of a few months this tea room was broken into four times. There remained evidence of parties and most of the small items have been carried away.

The thefts include about one half of the tea cups, they left the saucers, the creamers, (leaving the matching sugar bowls), they took the spoons and small tea pots, the tea plates and other small items, then the last time four green chairs.

But the tea room will again be in operation this August 26-27-28 at the fair because of the determination of the chairman, Mrs. John Johnston and the Institute branch members because women will work harder and will bring in the necessary things to use.

The room was built to the main hall several years ago, first it was a rest area for young mothers with their small children, cribs and rocking chairs were provided for their comfort and rest.

Latterly it has served as a rest area and refreshments center for any who desire to make use of it. Why the break-ins? ask the women. As one person said and all agree "The Institute always tries to help people, especially youth, so why pick on us."

Smiles and Flowers

It was hard to decide which was brighter at the Cowansville Flower Show held at the United Church recently. It was a toss-up between the toothy grins of the five amateur horticulturalists and their flowery display. From front to back they are Andrew Sinclair, Christine Tector, Susan Tector, David Sinclair and Janet Lee.

Woman, 87, in serious condition after being beaten and robbed

SHERBROOKE — An 87-year-old woman remains in intensive care this morning after being savagely beaten and robbed Saturday morning.

Florence Bradford, of 320 Island St., is suffering from a fractured nose and ribs and facial lacerations after two unknown assailants took $15,000 in cash and bonds from her apartment.

Ms. Bradford was discovered by Morris Girard, a close friend, after being alerted by an anxious tenant who was suspicious after hearing noises and finding the doors of Ms. Bradford's apartment open. The thieves took only the cash and the bonds, leaving her jewelry and other possessions after turning the apartment into a shambles.

Mr. Girard told reporters that he found Ms. Bradford lying on the floor, her face and head covered in blood. He said Ms. Bradford was speaking but her words were unintelligible.

"I think if I had them (the assailants) in front of me I would shoot them. It takes a wild animal to attack a woman of that age," said Mr. Girard. Drawers were overturned and a metal strongbox with a broken lock was found on the bed. Sgt. Cliche, of the Criminal Detective Bureau of the Sherbrooke Police is heading the investigation.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Lynn Grenier, of Cowansville, who earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving, reduced from criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle causing the death of Barry Gage in Cowansville, May 9, 1975, was sentenced to 40 days in jail, was fined $300 and costs, in default 30 days consecutive, by Judge Gerard Normandin here Monday.

Defence lawyer Donald Bissonnette told the court his client told him he was going to pick up his then girl friend at Tupperware located on Boulevard Jean Jacques Bertrand that evening after he had spent some time in the Motel Deux Lacs, Dunham, when he had consumed a certain amount of beer.

"He told me he was proceeding within the speed limit when he saw an oncoming vehicle," Mr. Bissonnette told the court. "It was about 11 p.m. when he slowed down, then pulled out to attempt to pass the vehicle when he saw lights from an oncoming vehicle. He pulled back in and said his left wheels caught in the soft shoulder and he tried to correct and may have overcompensated when he got beyond the truck and his car hit the oncoming vehicle."

"The police report indicated the marks 14 feet on the left side of the road. As far as the chemical analysis of his blood-alcohol content is concerned I do not believe it will stand up in Civil Court as it was in uncontrolled conditions for more than a week."

Mr. Bissonnette then cited local jurisprudence which usually called for a heavy fine in lieu of imprisonment in the District of Bedford, before telling the court his client had no prior record.

Crown attorney Noiseux

admitted the crown had agreed to accept the lesser plea, however said the elements required for proof in dangerous driving and criminal negligence are the same, the only difference being the maximum prison terms under an indictable offence were higher than those under pursuit on summary conviction. He then told the court the accused had been convicted of a charge of impaired driving in Sweetsburg Court less than seven weeks before the fatal accident. "I have no alternative than asking for a stern period of imprisonment," he said.

Judge Normandin told the accused it was a very serious offence and cited the testimony of an independent witness at the coroners inquests who said Grenier's vehicle was on the left hand side of the road for 300 or 400 feet before the point of impact. "I can't be lenient under those circumstances as the public have a right to know they are being protected."

Grenier was also placed on two years probation and was allowed 60 days to acquit the fine and costs following his release from jail Judge Normandin rejected a request the sentence be served on weekends.

+++ Denis Naud, of Granby, who pleaded guilty last week to a charge of theft of a Moped and tools, the property of Bruce Rumsby, in East Farnham, during May, was fined $200 and costs, in default 30 days, and was bound over to keep the peace for two years.

+++ Bruno Joubert, of Cowansville, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Cowansville, July 10, when his blood-alcohol level was .140 mgs. He was fined $140 and costs, in default 30 days.

Right to strike

According to news reports there are two-thousand-two-hundred air controllers in Canada. It seems inconceivable that such a small group of people can be permitted to cause serious damage to the country's economy and to inconvenience the travelling public.

Back-to-work legislation is not the answer. This brush-fire approach does nothing to solve the long-term problem and is a continuing source of bitterness and ill will.

It is time that the federal cabinet proposed a global policy on the maintenance of essential services. The answer appears to be relatively simple. A decision must be made as to which public services are in fact essential. All labour disputes in these areas should then be submitted to binding arbitration and the right to strike prohibited the categories so defined.

It seems that we are faced with a lack of political will rather than a problem whose complex nature defies solution.

GEORGE MacLAREN

Sick society

Friday overnight's vicious mugging-robbery of a well-known elderly nurse in Sherbrooke's north ward is another of those senseless crimes from which no city seems to be invulnerable. Ms. Bradford, according to police, had considerable sums of cash in her house, probably from rents paid her by her tenants. By all accounts, two youths broke into the house through a locked door which didn't stop them for long. The casual brutality the pair used to learn where their elderly victim kept her cash was the kind of thing we've long since taken for granted on the TV screen.

However, it's a different story when someone who's worked all her life for others is confined to hospital with broken ribs, smashed nose and numerous cuts and bruises. Didn't anyone see anything? If so, what sort of nation are we becoming? If not, let's keep an eye out for our neighbor's welfare. It works both ways.

Ripple Cove forum redefines community

The word "community brings different things to mind to different people.

Some think of the local school, the churches, and the town hall. Others think of the individuals who make up the community.

Before the weekend, that would have been the extent of my definition of "community". But something happened Saturday which has made my image of "community" clearer and more demanding.

Now, my image of "community" must include, as well as the community buildings and members, an active participation and involvement of local people at the grassroots level.

The experience which got me thinking "community" was my participation in the demonstration Community Forum held at Ayer's Cliff last Saturday by the Institute of Cultural Affairs (I.C.A.).

For the past few years, I have thought of myself as being "community" oriented. In comparison with what I am now feeling, I don't think that I was at all. I feel as if I'm off to the races, and that before I was sitting in the grandstand.

Maybe that's our problem around here. There are too many of us in the grandstand, and not enough on the racetrack.

The people who were responsible for the Community Forum are mostly native Americans now based in Montreal. Their quiet, gentle, almost "religious" manner is something most of us are not at ease with.

Commentary by Susan Mastine

Through talking with them, I have come to believe that this "religiousness" comes from their dedication to the I.C.A. and their firm belief in the need for social change beginning at the local community level through a more active participation and involvement of individual community members in what is going on in their community.

This, rather than having - as too often happens - a limited number of people with particular interests making all of the decisions for the community.

Like a lot of other local people who have come into contact with I.C.A. members, I was very skeptical. After all, I thought, what can a bunch of outsiders who know little, if anything, about our area, do to help our community get together, confront local issues, and work together to solve them?

I still haven't succeeded in feeling completely at ease with and non-hesitant about the I.C.A. But, on the other hand, I am convinced that the Community Forum would be a worthwhile experience for any community.

When I arrived home Saturday night after being with the I.C.A. group for about seven hours, I was overflowing with enthusiasm, hope, and an intense motivation to participate and become more actively involved in the community. Imagine if several hundred people participated in a Community Forum, there would be some action on the racetrack then!

It is not rare for a community to be faced with a number of problems at the same time. What is rare, too rare, is a getting together of the community to tackle the issues.

What most often happens is that people in the community do not know where to start or how to handle the problem. They also feel incapable of doing anything that could really change or improve the situation. And in the first place, they don't get organized. They don't get together to confront the issue.

The Community Forum gets concerned individuals in a community together for a one-day workshop. Whatever your concern, whatever your experience, you are encouraged to participate and to express your interests and opinions.

The method used in the Forum allows everyone to express his most serious concerns for the community. During the workshop, the group focuses on the problems, combining those that are related to get to the roots of the situation.

Let me give you an example. One of the concerns expressed at the beginning of the session, was the "negative rumour mill". This expression was used to describe the problem of a lack of information and communication on local issues. Examples were given by the group, results of council meetings not reported to the public, lack of information as to the state of affairs at the Butterfield strike, as well as a lack of information as to the feelings of people and what people are concerned about.

It was felt that one of the factors contributing to this problem is that for so long local communication was left in the hands of outsiders with strong financial interests, and that what should now be done to correct the situation is to make sure that reports on each local issue be available to the public.

I'm not at all convinced that this is clear to you. However, if you can grasp the importance of how, during a few hours, seventeen people came up with definite problems, the roots of those problems, and ideas as to what should be done to change the situation, I have succeeded in communicating the value of the Community Forum method.

I am not aware of any other structure or method which is successful at getting members of the community together, providing them with motivation and a community spirit, and guiding them to coming to a decision, their decision, as to what should be done for their particular local concern.

The ideas and concerns of those sixteen E.T. people there with me both amazed and encouraged me. The possibilities if we had the real thing - don't forget this was only a demonstration forum-excite me. It's a question of getting people together, working together to improve our day-to-day living in this beautiful Eastern Townships of ours.

Britons scurry for Queen's tea

LONDON (CP) — "Anything in the mail, dear?"

"Oh—gas bill, light bill, invitation to Buckingham Palace. . ."

The next line, of course, is something like "But I haven't a single thread to wear."

With a few variations, it's a dialogue repeated each summer in thousands of British homes as Queen Elizabeth II invites a cross-section of the populace to take tea with her in the garden of her London residence. This year 24,000 turned up.

The result is three days of monumental traffic jams. Suit-rental firms run out of your size in top hat. Couturiers declare dividends.

And little men in wrinkled tweeds, carrying ancient cameras, are able to make another payment on the car.

Months beforehand, the chosen are approached informally by telephone as to whether they would care to attend. Assurance brings the reply that the invitation will come in the mail.

The potential invitee then, of course, neglects to tell his wife so it will be a nice surprise.

INVITATION IMPRESSIVE The invitation itself is an impressive document; several documents, actually.

The main one reads: "The Lord Chamberlain is commanded by Her Majesty to invite (name of guest) to an afternoon party in the garden of Buckingham Palace."

You get to keep that one, with the royal cipher, as a souvenir. The individual cards on brown cardboard must be handed in to the red-coated, bearskinned sergeant of the Grenadier Guards on the gate.

British paper's overview

"War of words" threatens Canada

LONDON (CP) — The Sunday Telegraph, in a lengthy feature entitled "Canada threatened by civil war of words," says "Quebec today is one of the unhappiest and most bitterly divided spots you can find anywhere in the Western world."

In a report by Gordon Brook-Shepherd, the paper says: "Though the separatists have their violent wing, there has - as yet - been no bloodshed even to approach that of the Basques in Spain or the Catholics of Northern Ireland."

However, the story continues, there is "far more at stake here" in the Quebec question.

"The unity of Canada and with it that of North America is already in serious jeopardy."

Brook-Shepherd writes that "with their new weapons of circumflex accents and 'e' mutes, the French Quebecers have found something more potent than the sword points and crashing musketry of old."

He points out that both the English and French generals were killed when Quebec fell to England in 1759.

"There ought to be a moral in that somewhere for Rene Levesque and his separatist cavalry charge of today. It stares the rest of Canada - and for that matter the United States - right in the face."

"A continent, like a person, can live on readily enough with part of its stomach cut out. But life is never the same."

Gaspe paths cross for Quebec's Levesques

NEW CARLISLE, Que. (CP) — They share the same family name, of course, although there is no blood relationship.

But the similarities in background go deeper than a common name for Premier Rene Levesque and the head of his political opposition, Gerard D. Levesque, interim Quebec Liberal leader.

On the southern shores of the Gaspé Peninsula, overlooking the Baie des Chaleurs, the two men shared the same kind of bourgeois family background, the same country roads, the same beaches, the same schools and a knowledge of the same kind of people.

What they say to each other when their paths cross probably still is said with the accents of Gaspé bantering, despite their political differences. And in the corridors of the Quebec national assembly—where they were once cabinet colleagues under Liberal premier Jean Lesage—their mutual greetings undoubtedly have a special ring.

Those who knew the two men as children agree that both Levesques were regarded within their families as little geniuses. PRAISED BY PROFESSORS Rene earned recognition as the province's best student orator, while Gerard's Jesuit professors say their protégé was nothing less than "brilliant."

The Parti Quebecois leader was born in New Carlisle and the Liberal chief in Paspébiac, four miles away. New Carlisle, with a population of about 12,000—of which 60 per cent is English-speaking—is the largest town in the area.

Gerard Poirier, 60, a retired Canadian National Railways employee, remembers Rene as a boy who lived every day of his life to the fullest.

"I must have been five years old when I began playing with Rene and his brothers," said Poirier. "At that age he was living 25 hours a day. He appears to be doing much the same now."

"A scrapper he was, and he liked to provoke people," Poirier said. "He earned some well-deserved slaps because of some of the things he said and did—and not necessarily to the English but to us, his best friends."

ALWAYS OWNED UP Rene fearlessly owned up to his misdeeds, says Poirier.

"He always managed to get us into trouble but then he always got us out of it too."

"As to his more serious fights, those with English kids for example, I don't think they mean that much,"

Poirier said. They were the normal, healthy fights of children.

Rumor has it that Rene was driven to school by his father because he inevitably came to blows with the kids from the English high school he passed en route to classes.

But the rumor simply isn't true, Poirier said. "We didn't even pass the English school on the way to ours."

Poirier said the community found Levesque's victory last November hard to believe. Townspeople wondered how that bright and hyperactive child they remembered could now be premier of Quebec.

Gerard Levesque, who grew up in Paspébiac, has been described as a well-balanced child who spiced his life with the right amounts of humor, discipline and hard work.

Although there isn't a great deal of money in the community, Langevin said life was comfortable and he remembers his youth with young Gerard and their mutual friends with great warmth.

In the local Jesuit school Gerard developed a keen interest in theatre and often played the title roles.

Langevin also remembers Gerard's frustration at not being "quite as good a singer as he would have liked to be."

Bridal Shower

WATERVILLE — A linen shower was held in honour of Miss Susan Nelson on July 23rd in the United Church Hall, with about 30 guests attending. The shower was hosted by Mrs. Ralph Kinghorn and her daughters, Mrs. Neal Parker and Miss Marlene Kinghorn.

The hall was decorated with pink and green streamers and white wedding bells. The luncheon table was centered with a green and yellow butterfly cake.

Miss Nelson, an August bride-to-be, was taken by surprise when met at the door, where a corsage of white carnations was pinned on by Mrs. May Parker. May then invited Susan and her guests to have some bridal punch, after which she escorted Susan to the front of the hall and presented her with a large array of beautifully wrapped gifts.

The guest of honour was assisted in opening her gifts by her maid-of-honour, Miss Brenda Nelson and her mother, Mrs. Rudolph Nelson, who had been presented earlier by the hostesses, with corsages of yellow carnations. Susan thanked everyone for attending in her usual friendly manner.

Before lunch was served a game was played, winners being Mrs. A. Cunningham, Miss Wenda Bailey, Mrs. B. Smith and Mrs. W. Midlemis.

Others not attending. She was assisted by Olive, her sister-in-law, in opening them, after they were passed around the room and admired. Janet expressed her thanks for the gifts. A contest was enjoyed with Mrs. Marilyn Durrell, Lennoxville, being the winner.

The buffet refreshments were served from a table having a white linen cover and a bride doll.

Relatives and friends were present from Berwick, N.S., Lennoxville, Warden, Ste. Anne de la Rochelle, Waterloo and Sherbrooke.

Christening

SAWYERVILLE — The christening of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Loveland of Sand Hill took place in the United Church here on Sunday, July 24, with Rev. Gordon Simons officiating. The baby was named Chad Arthur and the Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Parker.

Following the service, relatives gathered at the home of the parents at Sand Hill, where dinner was served. The table was centered with the traditional christening cake made and decorated by Mrs. Rena Lassenba.

Relatives present were the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Loveland of Birchton, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Parker, all of Sawyerville, Mr. and Mrs. James Hall, Misses Betty and Jennifer Hall of Sand Hill and Mr. Rodney Parker of Kitchener, Ont.

Birthday party

RICHMOND — A very pleasant birthday anniversary party, arranged by Miss Edith McCourt, assisted by Mrs. E. McCoy (who is in charge of Norton I), Mrs. Dorothy Collins of Montreal and Mrs. Enid Bailey of Waterloo, was held on Friday, July 22nd, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Wales Home in the solarium of Norton I, to honor Mr. Irvine (George) Snodgrass who was celebrating his birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woolley (a sister) of Conway, N.H., due to illness, were unable to be present. Two brothers were also absent.

The guests were the residents of Norton I (all men), also Mrs. Jenny Baker from Norton 3, who is an old friend of the Snodgrass family.

The table in the solarium was covered with a linen cloth on which was a large vase of white mums, a gift of Mrs. Enid Bailey. In front of the flowers was a large square birthday cake, donated by Miss Edith McCourt. It was decorated in blue and yellow, topped with "Best Wishes" on one half, the other half was covered with lighted candles.

Summer Social

FOSTER — The annual Summer Social of St. James' Church, here, took place on Saturday evening, July 16.

In spite of the warm evening, the Summer Social was well attended. The ladies in charge of the well-stocked tables reported that their customers bought generously, particularly the home cooking. The work table was also well patronized. The Fish Pond was a great success, being fished in up to the last minute.

A new attraction was added this year by the pupils of the Senior Sunday School class. Dan McCauley, their teacher, wrote and directed several amusing skits which the class performed with zest. The young ladies who took part were the Misses Heatherington and Miss Hume. The skits were performed on the front steps of the church, to an appreciative audience. The proceeds were given to the church.

An Afghan, crocheted and donated by Mrs. Donna Knowlton, was raffled. The winning ticket was drawn by Melissa, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bissell of Cowansville. Mr. Barry Heatherington was the lucky winner.

As many out-of-town visitors like to see country churches, the church was opened and lighted for their benefit. Quite a number of visitors dropped in, and signed the Visitors' Book, one from as far away as Brockville.

The St. James' Evening Guild wishes to express its appreciation for the support given by so many people who contributed to the success of the Social. Also much appreciated was the help given by our many friends who assisted in selling at the tables.

Panache for a personal interview

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — Well, Harriet, here you are. The mother of grown children, sitting in a personnel director's office for the first time in years, maybe the first time ever. And while you try to turn a suddenly twitching lip into a chic tic, the director says:

How much money do you want? Tell me about yourself? Etc.

"Ah... well... I don't really know..."

No, Harriet. Not like that. Do it the way William J. Morin says you should — if you want the job. Morin is Group Vice-President for Outplacement Counseling with Drake-Beam Associates, Inc., a New York firm that advises corporations on their "people problems."

First, he says, make sure you're visible. "Most office walls are light, so wear dark clothes so you don't blend into the background. Also dark colors are powerful — they cause people to listen to you, whereas bright colors tend to distract them."

Of course, bright colors, jeans, Peruvian hats are fine if they reflect the personality of the company, and that's for you to know beforehand. Otherwise, goodbye Harriet. "The personnel director's job is to measure your personality against the company's," Morin says, "and to screen you out if you don't fit."

So he eyes you and smiles and says, tell me about yourself?

"You've got to keep your answer to a minute and hit the highlights," Morin says.

"Divide your life into parts: early life — I was born in Kankakee, Ill., in 1939, etc.; formal education — I got my degree in whatever at the University of Iowa; work experience — then I spent four very outstanding years as a legal secretary or whatever, and did I have a good time with that, sir. In fact — and it's very important for her to make a bridge now to the present — that's why I'm here today, sir, to talk about this opportunity to return to the field

"You've got to cover all the bases because most interviewers want to feel you're normal, whatever that is. So I suggest volunteering marital status, children — it's all right to be divorced — so he won't think you're trying to hide anything."

WILLIAM J. MORIN: "You've got to cover all the bases because most interviewers want to feel you're normal, whatever that is."

But don't volunteer too much. "Don't ever raise a red flag in front of him, such as, my last boss was always after me sexually so I left. He'll be suspicious of you and a female interviewer will think you should have handled the situation."

You're doing fine so far, Harriet. Now don't tense up when he says, what kind of money do you want? "You should say, what's the salary range in this job, and then hit the midpoint. If there is no range, you must have a figure ready based on what you need to live on and what that job pays in your area."

All the while, Harriet, you're being positive, assertive — asking questions when convenient. "You can't take same old questions. The thing here is to emphasize how smoothly you'd work along with him, how well you understand him and to do that, you've got to know what "time" he is.

"There are either now people, past people, future people, or those who function in all three time frames," Morin says.

"The 'feeler' is past oriented. Sensitive, not too analytical, he'll offer you a cup of coffee. There's lots of memorabilia around, but his desk is neat. With him, you talk in terms of people, how important they are and how well you're able to motivate and get along with them. Use the words, 'I feel' a lot."

"Then there's the 'intuitive,' the future person. He's creative, reflective, a pipe smoker who uses the pipe so he won't have to answer too quickly. Maybe he's in research or long range planning, so there'll be stacks of journals on his desk. Talk in terms of goals with him. 'I like to come up with ideas to improve paper flow.'"

"Finally, there's the 'thinker,' a financially oriented person, who uses past data to analyze the present to predict the future. There's a calculator on his desk, charts on the walls. He asks factual questions, may seem cold, so be organized and have some facts and figures on hand about the company. You say, 'I see you have 53 employees here, sir'."

There you are, Harriet. Enough, we hope, to get you into the job and then it's up to you. One more thing. Maybe that personnel director asked an illegal, sexist question such as, 'who'll watch your children, and you smiled and said, rest assured everything will be taken care of. That was terrific, Morin says. "The objective always is to get the job."

"Then," he adds, "you get into a position of power and fire that personnel director."

Ann Landers says

There is a reason for overweight

Dear Ann Landers:

This is a letter from a dying woman. I know I am dying because I am killing myself. With food, that is.

I started my suicidal kick when I was about ten years old. They called it "baby fat" in those days. When I married I weighed 125 pounds but was fighting every inch of the way. What a battle! I gained only 15 pounds with my first pregnancy because I felt rotten. After my third child was born, it hit me like a ton of bricks. I was 60 pounds heavier.

There were lots of excuses at the time and I used them all. I was older, my metabolism had changed. Caring for three kids was exhausting and I needed food for energy. I was a mediocre cook and had to depend on fast foods and a lot of junk. I was a long way from home and lonely for my parents and friends. Food consoled me.

I went on every diet that came along. I also bought all the books. They were worthless. The weight came right back on. Now I'm 35 years old and weigh 200 pounds (I'm 5'3") and believe me, that's dying.

I die every time I look in the mirror. I die worse when I go to buy a dress and look in a 3-way mirror. I die when I try to exercise and can't bend down because I'm so fat it's exhausting. I don't know how long my heart can stand the strain.

Wouldn't you think all this would be enough to keep me away from the refrigerator? Well, it isn't. I am addicted to food. You've written a lot about alcoholism and drug addicts. Please say something about Foodaholics. We are just as bad — if not worse.

I Need A Miracle

Dear Friend:

Don't wait for a miracle or you WILL eat yourself into an early grave. DO something.

I have two suggestions and I hope you will try either one — or better yet, both: Get some counselling and find out why you are trying to kill yourself with a fork and spoon. There IS a reason. A good therapist will help you get to the heart of the problem.

Next give Weight Watchers or Overeaters Anonymous a chance. Many people have had great success with these groups. (Look in the phone book.) There is something extraordinarily effective about the fellowship and encouragement of others who share the problem. (Same approach as A.A. and Recovery, Inc.)

Drop me a line after you have gone into therapy and/or attended your first meeting. I'd love to hear from you.

Dear Ann Landers:

I am a 17-year-old guy. About three months ago my best friend told me he was gay. I accepted it and nothing changed — until last week when he told me he is in love with me and wants a sexual relationship.

He stares at me all the time and makes me uncomfortable. I don't want to lose his friendship but I just can't go that route. How do I get him to cool it?

Straight And Want To Stay That Way

Dear S.:

Your gay friend is not going to cool it — so it's up to you to deal with the problem — and it IS a problem, make no mistake about it. See your friend only when others are present. Eventually he'll establish a love relationship with someone else. You will then be off the hook without feeling you've abandoned him.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Bleach should stop mildew

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — Do you know of any way I could get mildew off the bottom of my bathtub mat? I have tried washing it in the washer and using cleansers but with no help. —TONYA

DEAR TONYA — Sun and air will help. Also you might try lemon juice and salt or even a solution of bleach and water. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — May I suggest to Mrs. F.L.M. and others who have trouble cleaning kitchen tile and grout that perhaps the problem is not just a film but mildew. I always tell my friends that a simple way to remove this is to apply diluted liquid bleach with a pastry or small paint brush. Be careful not to splash any of this on the skin. If necessary leave it on until dry and then rinse well with clear water and again using the brush to get in the cracks. I also find this works wonders in the laundry room or bathroom where baseboards have gotten wet.

(Polly's note — I feel sure our reader means if the baseboards are also tile.) —PAT D.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the blatant disregard for the speed limits on turnpikes. Occasionally, on a recent trip on a well-known turnpike, I would see a car pulled over by the patrol but never a truck. With the CB radios outfoxing all efforts to control truck speed surely a new system is called for. I think there might be a simple mileage chart, correlated with time elapsed (each ticket received at the entrance would be punched with the exact time), would tell exactly how many miles per hour a given car was traveling. Speeders would be pulled aside at the exit and given a ticket that should brook no argument. This would free the patrol to search out offenders who would try to beat the system by stopping for a bite to eat thus bringing their speed down to a respectable level. They could also pay more attention to the trucks that are going 40 miles an hour up a hill but 80 down. It might be suggested that they be checked on the downside of the hill not the upside. Perhaps this should go to the energy conservationists as it would be one way to hold the line on gasoline. —CAROL.

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. C.R.J. suggested using a razor blade to rip seams but I think my way is easier and does not require putting on old pants to pin the seam to. Simply clamp the material on one side of the seam under the sewing machine presser foot and use a ripping tool that can be bought for a quarter at any notion store. Rip away with no danger of cutting the material. —MRS. A.T.G.

ACW honors faithful member

SAWYERVILLE — The A.C.W. of St. Phillip's Church met at the home of Mrs. Annie Gates on July 13, in honor of Mrs. Mary Loveland, who, with her husband George, have left to reside at the Rolling Hills Residence in Lennoxville.

Mary will be greatly missed by St. Phillip's Church as she has been a faithful member of the choir and all activities of the A.C.W. for many years.

About thirty members and friends were present and greeted Mary by surprise, needless to say, she was almost overcome by the kind wishes showered upon her. After refreshments were served, provided by the members of the A.C.W., the President, Mrs. Lydia Judge, presented Mary with a flowered two-piece negligee set, which Mary later modelled, for all to see how pretty and suitable it was and how much she appreciated their thoughtfulness, thanking them all for their wonderful friendship and goodness over the years.

Mrs. Twyman, Mrs. Freda McLeod, Mrs. Kathleen Mackay and Mrs. Sybil Matthew acted as hostesses, assisted by little Pam Lowry in her own sprightly manner. Best wishes are extended to Mr. and Ms. Loveland for many happy years at the beautifully situated Rolling Hills Residence.

at the Bedford County Fair, which opens tomorrow at the municipal arena. From his dancing palomino to his high-jumping German Shepherds, Phillips' act is considered one of the best animal shows in the business. Phillips, Golden Mist, the horse and his troupe of cagey canines is performing Friday through Sunday at between 2 and 3 p.m., but it's best to phone ahead if that's what the kids are set on seeing.

Polanski pleads guilty to sex with minor

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Movie director Roman Polanski pleaded guilty Monday to unlawful sexual intercourse with a 13-year-old girl, the least serious of six drug and rape charges against him.

The maximum sentence for the charge is 50 years in jail but District Attorney John Van de Kamp, who recommended that Polanski's plea be accepted to protect the identity of the girl, said afterward that sentences of 16 months to three years are generally imposed.

Superior Court Judge Lawrence Rittenband, who accepted the plea, ordered psychiatric examinations for Polanski, 43, and set a hearing for Sept. 19. Sentencing would come sometime after that.

Polanski, a French citizen of Polish background, said in the packed courtroom that he realized one consequence of his guilty plea might be deportation.

He admitted he and the girl had sex March 10 at the home of actor Jack Nicholson and said he knew the girl's age.

He had been charged with drugging and raping the girl. The prosecution said its acceptance of a lesser plea would avoid a sensational trial which might be traumatic for the girl.

In return for the plea, the prosecution recommended that the judge drop the five other counts of Polanski's indictment: furnishing a drug to a minor, lewd or lascivious act upon a child under 14, rape by use of drugs, perversion, and sodomy.

The most serious were those involving drugs, which carried sentences of 10 years to life imprisonment.

If sentenced to a year or more, Polanski would be subject to deportation under U.S. immigration laws, which provide deportation for aliens convicted of crimes of moral turpitude.

US and PLO may agree on Israeli situation

BEIRUT (Reuters) — A Palestinian news report said Monday Israeli troops, backed by tanks and artillery, crossed the border into Lebanon and attempted to storm the village of Yarin, 1,200 yards from the frontier.

But an Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv dismissed the Palestinian report as pure imagination.

The report distributed by the Palestinian news agency Wafa said: "At 4 p.m. local time, the Israelis made an unsuccessful attempt to advance to Yarin. The Israelis used all types of weapons including tanks, missile batteries and artillery."

Settlers on the Israeli side of the border fence reported hearing exchanges of fire during the day between right-wing militia forces and Palestinian guerrilla forces.

all along the frontier, Israeli sources said.

Wafa's accounts of the 1975-76 Lebanese civil war and the continued fighting in the sensitive South have been largely accurate.

Wafa said forces of Lebanon's leftist-Palestinian alliance had repulsed the attack, inflicting heavy losses on the Israelis. Five ambulances had been used to transport Israeli casualties from the combat zone, the agency reported.

It added fighting was continuing in the area eight hours after the Israelis first advanced.

Earlier Monday, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin acknowledged publicly for the first time that Israel had been giving active military help to the rightist Christian forces in South Lebanon.

Police shoot 3 at Soweto school

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Police firing shotguns Monday wounded three youths in a crowd of students trying to enforce a school boycott in the black township of Soweto.

The shooting occurred when the students tried to prevent school children from breaking the boycott, launched to protest South Africa's racially segregated educational system.

Soweto police chief Brig. Jan Visser said 12 students were arrested, including the three wounded, after his men fired three rounds of light shotgun pellets outside a vocational training centre.

He said attendance at secondary schools in the sprawling township was generally poor as the boycott entered its second week. Primary schools, attended by children up to 14 years old, appeared to be continuing normally.

Journalists in the township reported that the few students they saw going to school carried no books and that only a handful wore school uniforms.

Justice Minister James Kruger announced last Thursday that inspectors would consider closing schools Monday unless pupils returned.

But the secretary for Bantu (black) education, G.J. Rousseau, told reporters his department would go out of its way to help students who showed up for class and that a school would be closed only if there were no pupils to teach.

Attendance at the Pretoria townships of Atteridgeville, Saulsville and Mamelodi appeared almost back to normal following a return to classes by many children last Friday.

Armed police stood guard outside Soweto court Monday when 31 students appeared on charges of public violence arising from outbreaks of stone throwing and arson last week which led to the detention of hundreds of youths. The 31 were freed on bail or released into their parents' custody when the case was postponed until Aug. 24.

200 truckers off the job

MONTREAL (CP) — About 129 tractor-trailer drivers will continue a work stoppage at four Montreal-area firms until agreements on interim haulage rate increases are reached at all the companies, a spokesman for the drivers said Monday night.

One company, Day and Ross Ltd., has threatened to shut down operations because of alleged vandalism by the truckers.

Two other firms, Smith Transport Ltd. and Speedway Express Ltd., suspended operations last week between Quebec and the Maritimes, but continue to operate within Quebec.

Mario Lavoie, lawyer for the Quebec Association of Tractor-Trailer Drivers, said tentative agreements were reached in talks Monday with Speedway and with Cabano Transport Ltd.

But he said the work stoppage will continue even if the accords are ratified by the drivers, who own their own rigs but use them to haul company trailers.

The drivers voted Sunday not to return to work "until there is a settlement at all the companies," Lavoie said.

The association is hoping to begin talks later this week at Smith Transport, where there are hopes of a settlement and at Day and Ross "who have been the last to accept negotiations," Lavoie said.

Magny Transport Inc. and Metro Liquid Carriers Ltd. were also strike targets last week, but the walkouts there have been called off because drivers are satisfied with the companies' rates, Lavoie said.

NO WORD ON SUIT

He said he had received no word about a statement from Day and Ross that it was preparing a $160,000 damages action against the drivers' association because of the strike.

Day and Ross complained last Friday that a group of "hooligans" stopped a convoy of its trucks and vandalized them on a stretch of highway near Drummondville, about 60 miles east of here. Eight persons were arrested following the incident.

The International Brotherhood of Teamsters has refused to support the drivers, saying their action is illegal and that the association is not a certified union.

The association does not claim to be a union because it is incorporated under Quebec company law as a non-profit organization, he added.

The association is demanding a minimum hauling rate of 68.5 cents a mile. The drivers currently receive an average 45 cents a mile.

Lavoie stressed that the drivers were only seeking a temporary adjustment in the rate because the final decision is to be made by the Quebec transport commission during hearings this fall.

Finishes 1-2 in the hammer throw

Quebec leads Summer Games point race

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Alberta captured half the gold medals on the first day of the Canada Summer Games Monday but Quebec was the points leader, largely on the strength of a 1-2 finish in the hammer throw by Charles Lafontaine of Pierrefonds and Guy Thomas of Pointe-aux-Trembles.

Diane Cameron, 17, of Calgary romped to victory in the 3,000 metres and Bob Evans, 18, also of Calgary won the 2,000-metre steeplechase for Alberta's two golds while Andrea Wachter, 19, of Kitchener gave Ontario its first gold with a victory in the 100-metre hurdles.

Quebec, which finished third behind Ontario and British Columbia in the first two Summer Games—in Halifax in 1969 and Burnaby, B.C., in 1973—is in the No. 1 spot with 52 points.

Ontario, which won the first Summer Games but dropped behind B.C. four years ago, is second with 47, followed by B.C. with 40, Alberta 39.5, Manitoba 24, Nova Scotia 15, Saskatchewan 12.5, Newfoundland 2.5, Prince Edward Island 2 and New Brunswick 1.5.

Ten points are awarded for a first-place finish at the 1977 Games compared with 12 at previous competitions. In order to provide points for all 12 teams—from the 10 provinces and two territories—the graduation at the lower end of the scale is 2.5, 2, 1.5 and 1 for the ninth through 12th placings.

WATER POLO STARTS Competition opened Monday in five sports—track and field, field hockey, baseball, sailing and tennis. Water polo and water skiing started today, and archery, the eighth sport of the first week, begins on Wednesday.

In sailing, Don Martin of Vancouver won the first race for quarter-ton keelboats, Eddie Martin of Laval, Que., finished first in the Laser 1 race and John Roy of Halifax won the Laser 2 race.

Ontario and British Columbia competitors were the only ones to remain undefeated in the first day of round-robin tennis action in men's and women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles, each winning five matches.

British Columbia, seeking to retain the baseball title it won four years ago and also capture the Canadian junior championship which is being competed for here, opened with a 3-0 victory over Nova Scotia, last year's junior champion.

Quebec whipped Prince Edward Island 12-0, Alberta edged New Brunswick 1-0 with Tom Biko of Medicine Hat pitching a four-hitter and homering for the game's only run, Manitoba blasted Saskatchewan 18-4, Ontario shut out Quebec 9-0 and Newfoundland beat New Brunswick 6-1.

B.C., the defending girls' field hockey champion, defeated Manitoba 2-0, Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan played to a 1-1 tie, Ontario shut out P.E.I. 2-0, Quebec defeated New Brunswick 2-0, Newfoundland beat Saskatchewan 4-0 and P.E.I. came back to edge Alberta 1-0.

LOST SHOE

Bob Evans won the 2,000-metre steeplechase despite losing his shoe with three laps to go. He was clocked in 5:42.6, a Games and Canadian native junior record.

Dean Childs, his Calgary

team-mate, was second in 5:43.4 and Brian Blamey of Victoria was third with the same time as the two bumped across the finish line together.

Evans said he thought he had lost the race when he fell and had his shoe ripped off. "But Dean Childs wiped out completely, landed on his hip, then caught up to us and passed us. I said, 'Gee, I've only lost my shoe, that's nothing, Dean's almost lost his leg and he's running ahead of me.' That motivated me and I just went."

Diane Cameron, the other Calgarian to win a gold, was a comfortable winner in the 3,000 metres. Her time of 10:00.5 was five seconds better than Prudence Baxter of Montreal with Anne-Marie Malone of Toronto third in 10:07.9.

Jeannie Cameron of Antigonish, N.S., led for all but half a lap but was passed with 100 metres to go and faded, finishing sixth. She had to be helped from the track.

SLOW PACE

"It was a slow pace," said Diane who appeared fresh at the finish. "I was nice and relaxed. It's a lot easier to make the others do the work. They run into the wind and they tire faster. I stayed behind and was almost resting."

Lafontaine won the hammer throw, a new Canada Games event, with a toss of 56.86 metres and scored his second victory over Thomas, who placed second with 50.36. Harold Willers of Victoria was third with 44.86.

Wachter's victory in the 100-metre hurdles came after she ran second in the qualifying heats to Sue Farley of Edmonton who set a Games record of 14.28 but fell in the final and did not finish.

The Ontario girl's time was 14.37. Chantal Brisebois of Rosemere, Que., was second in 14.50 and Ann Crump of Vancouver third in 14.67.

Takes lead in playoff series

Senateurs edge Yankees 5-4

By STEVE BELL
(Sports Editor)

SHERBROOKE — The Senateurs took the lead in their best-of-three playoff series with the Yankees last night, by defeating the Lennoxville team 5-4 in the first game of the Sher-Lenn Little League championship.

Marco Desbiens was the winning pitcher for the Senateurs with a record of four runs and five hits given up, seven strike outs and three walks, and seven men left stranded on base.

Marco pitched the team out of a tight spot in the top of the fifth when the Yankees cut the Senateurs lead to one and had a runner on third threatening to tie up the score.

Jeff Bray scored on a fielder's choice play and Christian Lennon scored on an error to bring the Yankees within a single run of the Senateurs.

The Yankees' inability to score the badly needed run in the sixth stemmed mainly from their inconsistency at the plate and an age old custom of little league coaching.

Lennoxville batters were continually swinging at garbage, electing usually to let the good balls fly by for strike calls. Ordinarily a solid hitting team, the Yankees seemed to have let their short vacation get the better of them.

The other factor in last night's loss was the age old custom little league coaches have adopted over the years of putting their subs into the game in the dying moments of the game, a time when they usually need all their best players on the field.

The custom developed as a result of a ruling which states that all players dressed for a game must play at least one inning. So the general rule of thumb amongst coaches is wait until the sixth before you remember to play your subs.

All of which results usually in a lot of frustration all the way around. The subs get frustrated because they have to sit on the bench for five innings and then when they are finally sent into the game, they are expected to perform the duties of the older and more experienced players in key situations.

The coaches get frustrated because they find themselves in a tight spot in the last inning and then they realize that they have to play the subs.

While far from being the main reason for Lennoxville's loss last night, it always has an effect.

The Senateurs performance last night, while not as polished as it has been lately, was very tight. They continually chipped away at the Yankees, scoring single runs in the first three innings and then two more in the fourth to come away with the win.

Daniel Guay stole home in the first, Sylvain Cloutier scored on a hit batter in the second, Marco Desbiens scored on a single in the third and both Cloutier and Robert Leclerc scored on singles in the fourth inning.

Chantal Rouleau scored on a triple by Howard Cormier and Howard scored on an error to give the Yankees their first two runs in the third inning.

Jeff Bray was the losing pitcher with a record of five runs, five hits and seven men left stranded. He struck out seven batters and walked three.

There were two rather unusual statistics noted in last night's game, first was the number of errors committed by the Senateurs. They committed three, two of which resulted in runs, a rather high number for the team.

And secondly the Yankees' showing at the plate, in the first, second, fourth and fifth innings, the Yankees went down in order, one after the other.

The Yankees will have to improve on that record considerably if they have any hopes of defeating the Senateurs Thursday night in Lennoxville.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Sher-Mont All-Stars go up against Rosemont this afternoon at 5:45 in the final of the Quebec Major Little League championship. Should they win today, Sher-Mont will be Quebec's representative at the Canadian Little League championship being held this year in Vancouver.

Poor progress

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — The Fastnet Race fleet, which left Cowes, England, on Saturday in the final race of the Admiral's Cup ocean racing competition, was making poor progress in light to variable winds Monday night.

In the early evening the leaders were reported to be about 130 miles from the Fastnet Rock off southern Ireland where they will turn to race to the finish in Plymouth.

The 605-mile race is the last and most crucial in the Admiral's Cup series. Nineteen points separate Britain, with 650, from the United States, with 631. Hong Kong has 597 points and West Germany 556.

The leading yachts were said to be 10 to 20 miles northwest of the Scilly Isles. Race observers do not expect to get a clear idea of the running order among the yachts until they start back towards Plymouth.

Plans scrapped

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Plans to hold the Canadian Grand Prix at Toronto's Exhibition Place this year have been scrapped, Sidney Oland, vicepresident of Labatt Breweries, said Monday.

Oland, whose firm jointly sponsors the event with Mosport Park Ltd., said the annual Thanksgiving weekend race will be held once again at Mosport Park, about 30 miles northeast of Toronto.

However, Oland said race organizers have not given up hope of moving the Grand Prix to Toronto in the future. "We still plan to put a proposal to the city (of Toronto) sometime in September, but that would make it too close to the race date," he said. "Right from the start, we said it would be a close thing and that's exactly how it's turned out."

The sponsors, who contend the race has outgrown the Mosport facilities, had gained approval May 11 from the Exhibition Place board of governors to use the exhibition grounds for five years.

Oland said at that time the Grand Prix had attracted 85,000 spectators to Mosport last year—a figure which heavily taxed the Mosport facilities.

But the Labatt-Mosport group met two stumbling blocks in its attempt to use Exhibition Place. The group had to obtain permission from Metropolitan Toronto council to close Lake Shore Boulevard—which would form part of the 2.2-mile circuit—between 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on Friday, and all day Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Hockey

Faces assault charges

QUEBEC (CP) — Hockey player Rick Jodzio, who faces assault charges stemming from a World Hockey Association game here last year, asked Monday that his trial be conducted before either an English speaking or a bilingual jury.

The request was made to Mr. Justice Jean Bienvenue of Quebec Superior Court, who said he would render a decision soon.

The former player with Calgary Cowboys will go on trial Sept. 19 on charges that he attacked Marc Tardif of Quebec Nordiques during a WHA playoff game April 11, 1976.

Judge Cyrille Potvin of sessions court had ruled March 7 in favor of court action against Jodzio.

Judge Potvin said hockey players accept the possibility of injury but not "a malicious, unjustifiable, violent attack, going beyond all bounds and of a type to cause grave injury."

Baseball

Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — "Words almost fail here," baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Monday as he introduced Ernie Banks to an overflowing throng that witnessed induction ceremonies for the six newest members of baseball's Hall of Fame.

"They called him Mr. Cub," Kuhn said. No other introduction was necessary for the former Chicago Cub infielder who blasted 512 home runs in his 19-year major league career.

"We got the setting—sunshine, fresh air, the team behind us, so let's play two," Banks said, eliciting a roar of approval from the crowd, which included about 600 Cubs fans who had come to this upstate New York village in the Adirondack Mountains.

Air controllers strike forces CFL teams to ride the buses

For some players getting to tonight's two Canadian Football League games was half the fun.

"Isn't this something... I just love it," said Larry Highbaugh.

Not all his teammates shared Highbaugh's enthusiasm for the 18-hour bus ride Edmonton Eskimos were forced to take to Vancouver to a clash with British Columbia Lions. The Eskimos, who normally go by air, were grounded by a strike of Canadian air traffic controllers.

"If we travelled like this all the time it would add six or seven years to my career," said Highbaugh, Edmonton's flashy kick-return specialist.

"I used to build model planes as a kid; and have studied everything there is about an airplane. Ask me any question about a plane. I can answer it. I like planes. I love planes. It's just that I'm deathly afraid of riding in them."

BUS RIDES

The Eskimos weren't the only ones riding a bus. Ottawa Rough Riders had to take a bus to Syracuse, fly to North Dakota and then take a bus to Regina for a game against Saskatchewan Roughriders. Ottawa's total bus time was 10 hours.

"It's going to be tough out there," said Ottawa coach George Brancato. "We had to cram two days work into one so we could get our wagon train on the road. I don't know how ready we'll be by Tuesday night."

Edmonton coach Hugh Campbell wasn't worried about the effect of the bus ride on the Eskimos' chances of beating the Lions and grabbing a share of first place in the Western Conference.

"It has some positive affects," Campbell said. "The players being together in another light than football is good."

The Lions, with three wins and a loss so far this year, have four recent Eskimos on the roster—Larry Watkins, Rob McLaren, Tom Kudaba and Tyrone Walls.

Cromartie replaces Speier

Expos edge Padres 6-5

By SCOTT ABBOTT
MONTREAL (CP) — Warren Cromartie, batting in the No. 2 spot in the order because of a slump affecting Chris Speier, drove in the winning run in the eighth inning as Montreal Expos edged San Diego Padres 6-5 in National League baseball play Monday night.

Speier, demoted to the No. 8 position, scored the deciding run from second base after drawing a one-out walk off losing reliever Bob Shirley and going to second on a walk.

Pinch-hitter Jose Morales flied out before the Padres issued an intentional walk to Dave Cash so that left-hander Shirley, 6-15, could pitch to lefty-hitting Cromartie.

"I'd have done the same thing in their shoes," said Expos manager Dick Williams of the intentional pass to Cash. "If he walks Cromartie to load the bases, then I'm sure we see (Rollie) Fingers. But Cromartie hit a sidearm hanging breaking ball."

WARREN CROMARTIE Drives in the winning run

It had appeared that such late-inning heroics wouldn't be needed when Montreal starter Stan Bahnsen was limiting the Padres to three hits through six innings of a 5-0 shutout.

PADRES BREAK OUT But the Padres rocked Bahnsen and winner Don Stanhouse for five runs in the seventh. George Hendrick led off the inning with his 15th home run of the season. Tucker Ashford had a run-scoring double, pinch-hitter Dave Winfield stroked a two-run single and Mike Ivie contributed an RBI single.

Bahnsen drove in two unearned runs for the Expos with a double in the second and Montreal added three runs in the fifth on a two-run homer by Ellis Valentine, his 20th of the year, and a sacrifice fly by Speier.

Stanhouse gave up two hits and one earned run in two innings of relief, striking out two and walking two, to even his record at 8-8. Joe Kerrigan struck out two while setting the Padres down in order in the ninth inning to register his ninth save.

The victory before 22,613 fans broke a three-game Expos losing string. San Diego suffered its second consecutive loss.

The Padres send Dave Freisleben, 4-5, to the mound today against Wayne Twitchell, 2-7, in the second game of a two-game Montreal homestand.

Claude Pilon and versatile running back Greg Woods on the 21-day injury reserve list following its first win of the season, 41-11 over Toronto Argonauts last week. Wonderful Monds, a deep back, and running back Larry Gates are also limping but will play. Outside linebacker Ken Moore, injured in the exhibition season, is being reactivated to replace Woods.

The Regina game, which will start at 8 p.m. CST, will be televised on the full CBC network.

Walls, described by Lions coach Vic Rapp as the best blocking tight end in the CFL, will replace Richard Appleby, a rookie import who has been placed on waivers with right of recall. The Vancouver game starts at 8 p.m. PDT. It will not be televised.

Ottawa and Saskatchewan, 1977 Grey Cup participants, are both floundering this season. Saskatchewan has managed but one victory in four games, Ottawa one in three. Ottawa placed tailback Jim Foley, defensive end

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Police and fire officials are investigating a rash of fires that broke out Monday in Curtis House of Memorial University, the quarters being used by the Quebec delegation at the Canada Summer Games.

Security officials clamped a lid of secrecy over the fires. But it was learned there were four outbreaks. All of the fires had been set in plastic garbage containers in different areas of the house. None caused any serious damage although the fire department was called on two occasions.

Late Monday night members of the St. John's Constabulary detective division obtained a complete list of names of the Quebec delegation—athletes and officials. The names, along with dates of birth, were being run through the Canadian police computer system to determine whether any of the delegation members have criminal records.

A spokesman for the constabulary refused to say whether the check turned up any leads. It was expected there would be extra security patrols in the house overnight.

THE LIFE OF A COACH is a difficult one at best, one must continually fight off the urge to go out and do the job yourself. Robert Daigle, coach of the Senateurs, is seen here as he surveys his outfield during last night's game.
