Bristol Minister Receives Call to Winchester, Ont.

Rev. Wallace MacKinnon, B. A., minister of Bristol Presbyterian Church since May 1941, has recently received a Call from the congregation of St. Paul's Church, Winchester, Ont. Mr. MacKinnon has intimated that he is accepting the Call and will preach his farewell sermon in Bristol Memorial Church on Sunday, Nov. 15th.

Rev. Wallace and Mrs. MacKinnon and baby daughter will leave for their new home early in the week of November 15th.

Pontiac Goes Over the Top for Third Victory Loan

Shawville and Pontiac County went wonderfully over the top in the Third Victory Loan drive, passing their objective of $250,000 by over $50,000.

The committee of canvassers and workers, led by secretary C. H. McLean, are highly pleased at the result, and the increased number of subscribers over the last loan is most encouraging. Total subscribers up to noon Monday was 1080.

Shawville, which had opened the campaign by passing their objective before noon of the first day, has led all through the campaign in the amounts raised by the several districts. With an allocation of $100,000 they had reached Monday $160,000.

Chapeau had 151 per cent of their quota, with $30,550 raised on an allocation of $20,000; Quyon had 128 per cent, with $25,600 on a quota of $20,000; Campbell's Bay reached 109 per cent, with $51,150 on an allocation of $47,000; Fort Coulonge alone was lagging behind with 69 per cent of a heavy allocation of $48,000, but late returns may improve this somewhat.

The total amount on Monday for the County was $300,350, and some returns are to come in from the pay roll deduction plan at the Smith Bros. mills at Campbell's Bay, and the Quyon and Calumet mines.

Many Attend Memorial Service and Unveiling of Honor Roll

Shawville United Church was filled on Sunday morning when the Honor Roll, that contains the names of men and women from the congregation enlisted in the fighting forces, was unveiled in a solemn service.

The beautiful roll, which is in a number of colors, has been inscribed with 70 names, of which 45 are the names of church members and the rest those of adherents. The names were inscribed on the Roll by W. A. Hodgins and a frame of imitation stone design was put on it by the Women's Association of the church.

In the list are 40 who are in the army, 20 in the air force, 7 in the navy and 4 in the Woman's Division.

The Pastor lifted to one side the silk Union Jack that covered the roll, and with prayer dedicated it to the sacred work of remembrance of the men and women away on service duties.

The names were then read and special mention was made of the first three on the roll to appear in the casualty lists, Sgt. Pilot Leslie Hodgins and Pilot Officer Gordon Strutt, who disappeared after their planes had been sent on service over the North Sea, and Seaman Ronald Masson who was a passenger on board the Caribon on his way to Newfoundland when she was sunk.

The Pastor, Rev. A. F. Fokes, conducted the service, and the guest speaker was Rev. H. A. Carson, of Rock Island, Que., who spoke appropriately on the subject, "Jesus' courage and ours."

Later in the service, the names of those who fell in the first world war were read from the fifteen names on the maple leaves on the Memorial plaque, after which the Last Post was sounded by H. C. Rowat, and the National Anthem sung as the congregation stood to attention.

A similar service was held at Stark's Corners United Church in the afternoon, when the Honor Roll was dedicated, and the names of 15 men in the army and air force were read.

The ladies of St. Alban's Church Guild, Parkman, will hold a sale of home cooking and fancy articles on Nov. 14th, at two o'clock in the afternoon, at Sly's Drug Store.

St. Andrew's Young People's Union

St. Andrew's United Young People's Union, Bristol, held their semi-annual worship service in the Church on Sunday morning, Nov. 1st, under the leadership of Wilmer Graham, vice-pres., assisted by Margaret McNill and Alex Murray. Special singing included a duet by Jean Stewart and Hazel Meyer, also a number by the choir. In the evening the same group had charge of the service at Austin and on both occasions presented an inspiring and challenging message.

Y. P. U. Rally Well Attended

About 200 young people gathered in the United Church, Shawville, on Friday evening, for the annual rally of the Y. P. U. of the County.

The president, Leslie Dean was in the chair. Devotions were led by the Bristol society.

Addresses were given by Gordon Pepper, of Ottawa, president of the Presbytery Y. P. U., and Miss Norma Bice, of Westboro, convener of the Presbytery Mission Committee.

A brief period of recreation was enjoyed in Wilson's Hall, and later Shawville society served refreshments in the Sunday School room.

In the election of officers, Leslie Dean was re-elected president for the County.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. H. Millar, of Ottawa, visited at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Wilson for the week end.

Miss Mabel McGuire, of Ottawa, spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. McGuire.

Mrs. Lindsay Armstrong and her daughter, Miss Mona, visited friends in Ottawa for the week end.

Pte Maynard Morrison, Algonquin Regiment, Newfoundland, is spending a furlough at home of his mother, Mrs. John Morrison.

Rev. P. R. Stota, Rev. Frank Hughes and Rev. K. C. Bolton were in Montreal on Monday to attend a conference on Post War Problems.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Burnside, Miss Nets Burnside, Mr and Mrs Charles Burnside and daughter, Barbara, of Ottawa, and Lac Lloyd Burnside, R.C. A.F., Toronto, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Belsher, at Yarm.

Mrs. Geo Lake and little son, Wilmot, have returned from visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lake, at Sutton, Ont. Mrs. Lake has recently received word that her husband, a Staff Sgt. of the Canadian Forestry Corp. in Scotland, has been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant.

Stranger Cuts Throat of Young Soldier, Gerald Durocher

Pte Gerald Durocher is a patient at the Pontiac Community Hospital, where he was rushed late Saturday night after being attacked and having his throat cut by a stranger, Thomas Morgan, an employee at the Howard farm, near Portage du Fort.

Both Pte Durocher and Morgan were in Shawville for the evening and were given a drive home by Mr. Thomas Whelen, of Portage, and his nephew, going by way of Murrells. Durocher occupied the front seat with the driver, Clifford Whelen, and nearing Murrells, Morgan suddenly reached over the front seat and caught the young soldier by the chin in one hand and slashed his throat with a sharp knife in his other hand. Durocher yelled and immediately the car was stopped and stalled, and it was necessary to hail a passing car to bring Durocher, who was bleeding profusely, into town where he was attended by Dr. S. E. McDowell at the hospital. Fifteen clips and five stitches were required to close the gash which narrowly missed the jugular vein.

No motive for the rash act can be established as Morgan and Durocher had not engaged in conversation during the drive and were total strangers.

Pte Durocher is 22 years of age, and had been in training at Valcartier, Que. and was on furlough at his home on the Bryson-Portage du Fort road.

Thomas Morgan, aged 56, is a native of Ireland, and had been employed at the Howard farm since last July. He had been drinking and was intoxicated when he committed the audacious act.

When questioned on Sunday by his employer, Mr. Dean Howard, formerly of the R. C. M. P., Morgan seemed completely insensible of his action in the Whelen car.

Morgan was arrested on Monday by Provincial Police and at Campbell's Bay was charged with attempted murder before Justice of the Peace, Fred W. Bowie, and was remanded until November 17.

Miss Amy Barber Honoured

On Thursday evening of last week a company of the young people of the town assembled at Wilson's Hall for a farewell party in honour of Miss Amy Barber, who left on Monday to serve in the Women's Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

During the evening which was pleasantly spent in dancing, Miss Barber was presented with a sum of money, by Mr. Ben Midldidge, who addressed the recipient on behalf of those assembled.

Miss Barber, who was completely taken by surprise, expressed her gratitude in appropriate terms.

MARRIED

WALL—TUBMAN

The marriage took place on Wednesday, Nov. 4th, at St. James Church, Otter Lake, of Miss Eva Wall, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wall, of Otter Lake, and Gregory Tubman, only son of Mr. Andrew Tubman, of Caldwell, Que.

The bride was attired in a wine velvet dress with wreath and veil. She was attended by Miss Sadie Tubman, sister of the groom. The groom was attended by his cousin, Mr. George Tubman.

Miss Tubman's dress was of light brown with black accessories.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents about forty guests being present.

The bride and groom will reside at Caldwell, Que.

MCLEESE—HORNER

On Monday at high noon a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Horner, when her daughter, Muriel Eliza Jane, became the bride of James David McLeese, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. McLeese, of Ross township, Ont.

The bride entered the room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion, on the arm of her brother, Arnott Horner, to the strains of the wedding march, played by Mrs. Roy Macfarlane, of Clarendon Front.

The bride wore a dress of heaven blue triple sheer, cut street length with long sleeves, and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses, and wearing a locket, the gift of the groom.

She was assisted by her sister, Miss Eleanor, who wore a dress of similar material and design as the bride, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. The best man was William McLeese, of Kingston brother of the groom.

After the ceremony about forty of the immediate friends of both families were entertained to dinner at the Pontiac House, Shawville.

Later the newly married couple left for a trip to South Porcupine, Toronto and other points, the bride's going away dress being of Air Force blue triple sheer, with black coat, hat and accessories.

On their return they are to reside on the groom's farm near Forrester's Falls, Ont.

WILSON—HOBBS

Cedar boughs and ferns adorned St. Alban's Anglican Church, Parkman Que., on Friday, for the marriage of Miss Rebecca Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hobbs, of Shawville, Que., to Mr. Clarence Wilson, son of Mrs. R. Wilson, and the late Rae Wilson, of Green Lake Farm, Que.

Rev. K. C. Bolton performed the ceremony and the wedding music was played by Miss Beverley Harris, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Frank Hobbs, the bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Lorna Webb, as bridesmaid, and by her niece, Miss Joan Pirie, as flower girl. Mr. Elwyn Connolly, of Ottawa, was best man, and the ushers were Lac Clare Grant and Mr. Norris Young, of Ottawa.

The wedding ring used in the ceremony had belonged to the bride's great grandmother.

A full skirted floor length model in white sheer over taffeta was chosen by the bride. She wore a long veil held by a wreath of flowers and she carried a white Bible with white satin streamers.

The bridesmaid was gowned in floor-length pink sheer over taffeta, made with a fitted bodice, Bishop's sleeves, and a full skirt. She wore a matching fingertip veil and carried an arm bouquet of roses.

The flower girl wore a floor length dress of blue taffeta with a matching ribbon headband and she carried an arm bouquet of baby chrysanthemums.

After a reception held at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple left for Hamilton and Western Ontario. For travelling the bride wore a three piece tweed ensemble with black accessories and a corsage bouquet of roses.

Out of town guests included Sapper C. Brown, of Petawawa Camp, and Mrs. Brown, of Hamilton, and Misses Vera Knox, Rita Turner, Muriel Webb, Ethel Young, H. Harris and J. Harris, all of Ottawa.

PRAISE THE LORD ...

And pass the ammunition holds good for these marines on Guadalcanal. While nearby gun barks as U. S. troops mop up Japs in the Mantanikou river section, Catholic fighting men kneel before an outdoor altar as Father Reardon, marine chaplain, says Sunday mass.

HOW CAN I?

Q. How can I make an even break in a glass bottle just below the neck?

A. Wrap a piece of twine that has been saturated with turpentine or kerosene around the bottle at the point where the break is desired. Ignite the twine and let it burn until consumed; then pour cold water on the bottle and it will break where the twine was tied.

Q. How can I boil eggs so that the whites will not be tough?

A. To soft-cook eggs, put them into a pan of water that is boiling hot. Remove the pan from the fire and let the eggs stand in it from eight to ten minutes. When cooked in this way, the whites of the eggs do not become tough.

Q. How can I prevent crumbling of plaster when driving a nail into it?

A. Placing the nail in very hot water before driving it into a plaster wall will lessen the danger of its crumbling the plaster.

Q. How can I remedy hair that is too oily?

A. Beat the white of an egg stiff as possible and rub into the hair until it is wet all over. Allow this to dry, after which the egg will brush out like fine white powder and leave the hair fluffy and bright.

Q. How can I make furniture polish?

A. This can be done very easily by mixing two parts boiled linseed oil and one part turpentine. An excellent polish will be the result.

Return of Supplies For Hong Kong

Canadian Red Cross supplies which had been intended for distribution among Canadian soldiers held prisoner in Hong Kong, barred in transit by the Japanese Government, were discharged recently at a Canadian port from a motorship flying a neutral flag.

The 1,600 tons of supplies consisted of flour, sugar, blankets, canned goods and medical essentials.

The consignment had been loaded for shipment to the Far East, but was re-routed when the Japanese declined to guarantee its delivery.

Great Britain Asks For More Cheese

The agriculture department announced last week that the British Food Ministry has advised that it is prepared to purchase an additional quantity of cheese above the 125,000,000 pounds provided for in an agreement covering the 12 months ending March 31 next.

"The additional quantity which the ministry has agreed to accept will, it is believed, permit of export to the ministry of the greater part, and probably all the October made cheese which may be tendered for export," the department said.

Good pasture conditions and better prices were believed to have enabled the agriculture department to run ahead of schedule in the export of cheese in the present year, and it was understood that several million pounds in excess of 125,000,000 could probably be shipped if production remains as in past months.

The price for the additional shipment will be the same as that for the main contract—20 cents a pound f.o.b. steamer.

Have You Heard?

Two Scots went into the Shelbourne Hotel, in Dublin, and inquired the cost of a night's lodging. "Rooms on the first floor," replied the clerk, "are two guineas, on the second floor one guinea, and the third floor ten shillings, and five shillings for the top floor."

The two prospective guests withdrew for a conference. When they returned, the clerk inquired cheerily, "Well, gentlemen, shall we book rooms for you?" "Na na, mister," replied the spokesman for the pair, "ye've a fine hoose, but it's nae naer helch enuech."

As Sandy went over the weekly housekeeping accounts his face grew gloomy. "Look here, Mary," he said severely, "mustard plaster, one shilling; tooth extracted, five shillings. There is six shillings spent in one week entirely on your private pleasure."

The officer gazed sternly at the private who had been brought before him.

"Did you call the sergeant a liar?" he demanded.

"I did, sir."

"And a twister?"

"Yes, sir."

"And did you go on to describe him as a pop-eyed, knock-kneed, black-blighted stooge?"

The private hesitated. Then with a note of regret in his voice, he replied:

"No, sir. I forgot that!"

Mrs. Modern (calling to husband upstairs): "Will you bring down my hat, dear?"

Husband: "Well, I don't know the difference between your hat and your handbag, which is which?"

Mrs. Modern: "The one without any money in is my hat, darling."

The young wife was feeling and looking gloomy.

"What's the trouble, dear?" her friend, a wife of ten years standing, inquired.

"Oh—my husband has been out all the evening and I haven't the faintest idea where he is."

"Oh, you shouldn't worry about that," her friend replied, breezily. "You'd probably be twice as miserable if you did know!"

Officer: "I say, sergeant, where have all these silly asses in our company gone?"

Sergeant: "I don't know, sir—I think we're the only two left."

Destroy Two-Thirds of Italy's Shipping

Two-thirds of the merchant marine Italy brought into the war has been knocked out of the conflict—destroyed, damaged or seized—a review of official reports shows.

Before June, 1940, Mussolini's merchantmen aggregated 3,500,000 tons. The United Nations have chopped 2,366,000 from this total, with 1,500,000 on the destroyed list.

Britain's Home Guard

"The security of our island from invasion cannot be achieved without the part played by the million and three-quarter men of the Home Guard, who do their regular work, and, at the same time, are available at the shortest notice to defend their hearths and homes."—Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

"Fresh" Taste Put In Processed Milk

Skim Milk and Milk Fat Dried Separately

Note to farmers: Now they've come up with a plan to make "fresh" milk without the immediate help of a cow.

This is not to say the new process to put the original taste in dehydrated milk, as demonstrated by physicians of the New York Academy of Medicine, is cowless milk. It is just that the original producers down on the farm are far removed in time and space.

What Dr. Charles E. North, originator of the process, has done is to dry skim milk and milk fat separately, then mix them together and add water, weeks or maybe months later, to produce "fresh" milk.

At a demonstration in a Long Island City ice cream plant, 50 pounds of dehydrated milk fat, which looked like butter, an 110 pounds of dry skim milk were mixed for several minutes with 520 quarts of water. The mixture made 600 quarts of milk and resulted in these comments:

Col. B. A. Seeley, Army Medical Corps: "Tasted like fresh milk to me, maybe better. But I'm not a milk drinker and I'm not sure I remember just how milk is supposed to taste."

Dr. North: "The milk had a cooked taste, but it was an accident of preparation. Besides, the cooked taste disappears if the milk stands in refrigeration for 12 hours."

Exhaustive studies leave no doubt that a pure fat can be extracted from milk and dried so that its moisture is reduced to 1 per cent; that this fat, properly heated and packed, will keep indefinitely without refrigeration; that the fat can be mixed with skim milk powder at temperature below the critical 160 degrees F. to produce an emulsion out of which cream and milk can be made which is indistinguishable from natural fresh milk and cream.

We now have something that can be stored for future use during spring and early summer when milk is plentiful, something that can be made anywhere, something that will keep in tropical and sub-tropical climates and on ships, something that we can send to Great Britain and later to starving Europe—all without taking up too much scarce shipping space.

Modern Etiquette

1. What is the correct manner of giving a tip?
2. Is a bad blot in a social letter excusable?
3. Should a guest ever rise from the table before the hostess rises?
4. Isn't it improper for a girl to wear her engagement ring in public before the engagement is announced?
5. Has a host the privilege of telling his guests when to stop drinking?
6. When a man and a girl are dinner dancing, who leads the way from the table to the dance floor?

Answers

1. A tip should be given quietly and courteously, without the least display. One who gives a tip in a conspicuous manner invariably does so to impress those who are watching.
2. No. If the blot is so large that it cannot be neatly erased, one should rewrite the page.
3. No. It is the duty of the hostess to rise first.
4. The engagement ring should not be worn publicly until after the engagement has been announced.
5. No; but he should know the habits of his guests before inviting one who is so weak in his habits that he is liable to lose all self-control, as well as self-respect.
6. The girl should precede the man.

Canada Educates Discharged Men

Dr. George M. Weir, acting director of training for discharged men and women under the Department of Pensions and National Health, said in a recent interview that about 1,000 honorably discharged Canadians are already receiving free educational training. The number is steadily increasing, he said.

Life Of Synthetic Tire 43,000 Miles

When an automobile tire wears out it isn't usually an occasion for an item in a newspaper, even in these days when tires are often irreplaceable. But one tire which was worn out on the streets of Chicago recently makes news.

It was a tire made largely of synthetic rubber.

What's more important, it lasted just as long as the three other tires on the automobile, all made of the real thing. The tires were rotated so as to give each one the same kind of wear, and all of them lasted the normal life of automobile tires—about 43,000 miles.

The Chicago Motor Coach Company, which made the experiment, thinks this may well be the first synthetic tire manufactured by one of the big companies to wear out in commercial use. For it was placed on one of the company's inspection cars a year and a half ago—months before the public became rubber-conscious.

ago—months before the public became rubber-conscious.

As Durable As Rubber

The Motor Coach people are convinced now that this particular experimental tire proved just as durable as those made entirely of natural rubber. The synthetic tires being used by the company have some natural rubber in their make-up—it is used to bind cotton fabric in the base, but the tread is entirely of the synthetic material produced from petroleum.

Now the company is experimenting further. Passengers on city busses never dream that they may be riding on the new petroleum product, but 28 tires with synthetic rubber treads are in use on regular routes in Chicago at the present time. They are being tried out in all parts of the city.

Already about 15,000 miles have been traveled by the synthetic tires. There have been no blow-outs, no punctures. Drivers say they are easier to handle on wet pavements than the conventional type.

WELL-PROVISIONED PRISONERS

A Weekly Column About This and That in Our Canadian Army

Where is that man who referred to me and other writers who look things in the face as "you alarmists"? I'd like to take him on a little motor trip—to the Gaspé Peninsula!

That is to say I'd like to take him for that trip but for one thing—it would be a shame to waste gasoline on him. And motor trips are out—except for the nineties with their heads buried in the sand who still run their cars, "just for a little jaunt on Sundays."

"A little jaunt on Sundays." We are fighting a people who would shoot them for that. So, just because we are not a people who shoot amateur traitors, they blithely disregard signs that even the dullest common man can read, squander life-saving gasoline, wear out badly needed rubber and complacently increase the spread of the only portion of their anatomy ever likely to be impaled upon a German or Japanese bayonet.

Some of them, on the long, strategic road that follows the St. Lawrence, even drive with their headlights full on after dark.

And all this, mind you, after the news has been released that enemy submarines have been active in the Gulf of St. Lawrence!

A black-out has been ordered on the banks of the River St. Lawrence and extending five miles inward.

This has not been done for fun, it has been done because lights on shore enable a navigator to make his way to the point he desires to reach and equally because lights on the shore silhouette any vessel—even a little fishing boat—between the shore and an enemy raider.

So you see this has not been done for fun. It has been ordered because Canada, whether we like it or not, is in the war zone. It has been ordered because lives have been lost on the broad bosom of the mighty waterway, the banks of which Lady Bessborough once described as "arms that reach out to welcome visitors to Canada." There are some visitors Canada does not welcome—hence the need for a black-out.

Shortly after the black-out was ordered, indignant complaints reached the authorities that it was not complete. The answer to this was fairly simple. Many of the farmers living in the country surrounding the river do not read the newspapers, do not listen to radio and did not understand how close the war has come to Canada's shores. They understand now because the authorities quickly devised a plan for notifying every villager, every farmer, of the black-out order and of the reasons for it and the necessity for its observance.

The foregoing paragraph, however, grants no absolution to the motorists who drove along the highway with their headlights on, headlights that, every time the road rounded a cape, pointed out like twin searchlights across the black waters of the gulf. These were just careless—if so criminal a disregard for the lives of Canadians afloat for the protection of Canada can be called careless—motorists who thought more of their own safety and more of the silly "necessity" for speed that would not permit them to dim their lights and proceed at a pace calculated not only to assist the war effort by maintaining the darkness but also to assist it by conserving tires and gasoline. And it is not only in the black-out areas that such "careless" motorists mar the otherwise bright

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRISTIAN NURTURE IN THE FAMILY

Deuteronomy 6:4-9, 20-25
2 Timothy 3:14, 15

GOLDEN TEXT.—Train up a child in the way he should go. And even when he is old he will not depart from it. Proverbs 22:6.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING.—Time.—The particular passage assigned to us in Deuteronomy was written somewhere about 1460 B.C. Paul wrote his last letter to Timothy about A.D. 66.

Place.—All the early chapters of Deuteronomy record discourses by Moses on the plains of Moab, on the eastern side of Jordan. The second Epistle of Paul to Timothy was written from Rome, Timothy being probably at Ephesus.

First Commandment
4. "Hear, O Israel: Jehovah our God is one Jehovah." These verses, 4 and 5 are referred to by our Lord as 'the first and great commandment.'

5. "And thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." The demand 'with all thy heart' excuses all half-heartedness, all division of the heart in its love. The heart is mentioned first as the seat of the emotions generally and of love in particular; then follows the soul as the centre of personality in man, to depict the love as pervading the entire self-consciousness; and to this is added 'with all the strength,' that is of body and soul.

The Truth Taught
6. "And thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." The demand 'with all thy heart' excuses all half-heartedness, all division of the heart in its love. The heart is mentioned first as the seat of the emotions generally and of love in particular; then follows the soul as the centre of personality in man, to depict the love as pervading the entire self-consciousness; and to this is added 'with all the strength,' that is of body and soul.

The Truth in Life
8. "And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thy hand, and they shall be for frontlets between thine eyes. 9. And thou shalt write them upon the doorposts of thy house, and upon thy gates." The little metal boxes or skin bags, containing the ten commandments or other portions of the law, are hung on the right hand door-post of orthodox Jews even today. Every pious Jew entering a home where such are attached to the door-post will touch or salute it. The tragedy is that these artificial devices often take the place of real devotion to the Word of God, and those who use them find it convenient and take it to be sufficient to simply allow these inscribed passages of the Word of God to come in contact with the arm or the brow, without allowing the actual truth of these passages to enter into and dominate the heart itself.

Reasons For Obeying God
20. "When thy son asketh thee in time to come, saying, What mean the testimonies, and the statutes, and the ordinances, which Jehovah our God hath commanded you? 21. then thou shalt say unto thy son, We were Pharaoh's bondmen in Egypt: and Jehovah brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand; 22. and Jehovah showed signs and wonders, great and sore, upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his house, before our eyes; 23. and he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he swore unto our fathers. 24. And Jehovah commanded us to do all these statutes, to fear Jehovah our God, for our good always, that he might preserve us alive, as at this day. 25. And it shall be righteous unto us, if we observe to do all this commandment before Jehovah our God, as he hath commanded us." Why are the laws of God sometimes so hard to obey? For the Israelite, the great reason was because the God Who gave these commandments had delivered them from the bondage of Egypt, pages that Canada is writing in the history of these awful war years.

On the Sunday preceding Thanksgiving Day and on Thanksgiving Day itself, you saw for yourself streams of private automobiles that choked the highways surrounding the larger cities. What you thought about it I can guess. What I thought about it, no newspaper can print.

Apparently such selfishness is something that only public opinion applied privately can remedy.

This column, the forty-second, that has appeared in these pages, brings to an end the series known as The Individual Citizen's Army. It comes to an end because this individual citizen no longer will have the time to write a column a week. As a matter of fact, under King's Regulations and Orders governing the Canadian Army, he will not have permission to write for publication, because this "old sweat" puts on the uniform again with Canada on his shoulders to enable a younger man, who is fit, to move on to one of the fronts on which we all are sure the Canadian Army will soon again victoriously take up the torch thrown to it by falling hands a quarter of a century ago.

THE BOOK SHELF

SIGNED WITH THEIR HONOUR

By James Aldridge

John Quayle was a flying officer patrolling a fighter plane in Libya when the fighting command rushed air aid to Greece. On the way to the front he met a Greek girl, Helen Stangou, and they fell in love. This was no ordinary love affair born of emotional impulse. Quayle had learned the art of fighting rapidly but he learned the other lessons of the war more slowly, for the day-to-day struggle to fight and survive took precedence over everything else. So it was partly because he came to realize that Helen understood the complexity of their lives and their relationship to the war that his love for her was sure and deep—and the one thing he most needed in the struggle for survival.

The people of the novel are Greeks, Britishers and Australians. It is a tale of dog fights in the air, and retreat by land and by sea. It will be widely read as a tale of excitement and suspense and for its love story. It will be remembered as a significant expression of young men's thoughts and hopes and fears as they fight to live on day by day so that others may survive to live as free men in a saner, better world.

RADIO REPORTER By REX FROST

With gasoline strictly rationed and heavier income taxes, Canadians will be making their own amusement more and more as the months roll along. Many church and patriotic groups will be thinking up new ways of raising funds from entertainment in their own localities. Of particular interest therefore in rural Ontario will be the series "Fireside Fun" heard every Thursday afternoon, 4.18 to 4.30 over the outlets of the C.B.C., including CBL, Toronto. Included in these discussions, presented by Eustella Burke Langdon are such subjects as . . . "How to plan a Sing-Song"; "How to entertain the troops"; "How to be a home Ventriloquist" . . . and so on. This series of programs should be very helpful both in the planning of home and community entertainment.

Everyone knows Lionel Barrymore the veteran star of stage and screen. Many radio fans will therefore be gratified to learn of the new series which will feature Lionel Barrymore as the Mayor of Springdale every Wednesday night over the Columbia Broadcasting System and CFRB, Toronto, 9.30 to 10 p.m. The Mayor of Springdale is a kindly, wise and understanding character, living in a town described as "not too large and not too small" . . . a man whose interests are dedicated to the democratic way of life . . . a man who interprets more than any other character on the air the type of personality who represents the friendly, understanding town executive who is part and parcel of the life of the rural communities. There are laughs and tears in the story as the Mayor sympathetically deals with the daily problem of his office, whether they be those of juvenile sweethearts, or the young wife whose husband has been reported missing in air operations. Altogether here is a program, full of human interest and of broad general appeal to every member of the household.

Listen boys and girls. Be sure to gather round your radios Saturday evening next (November 7th) 5.15 to 5.30 CFRB, Toronto. Santa Claus, that jovial rollicking old fellow with the cheery laugh and the kindly philosophy will be with you once again. Maybe he'll talk to you right from his ice palace at the North Pole. They tell me he has some big surprises in store for you this year. Better make sure you get all the errands done and all the jobs finished for Mother before 5.15 Saturday, and every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

and, bringing them out from this enslavement, had given them a land flowing with milk and honey, thus revealing Himself to be a God of love, of compassion and of power. The God Who delivered them from Egypt would give such commandments only for their own good, that they might live abundantly. Thus they were to obey the law for two reasons: first, because the commandments were given by One to Whom they owed their very freedom, and secondly, because obedience to these commandments would always result in the enrichment of their lives, and their own material and spiritual welfare.

Early Instruction

14. "But abide Thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them; 15. and that from a babe thou hast known the sacred writings which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." This reference to Timothy's early training follows upon a long enumeration of the terrible characteristics that will be manifest in mankind generally, at the end of the age. Paul declares they will not mark Timothy's life because he has been instructed so adequately that by this truth he will be given victory over all these evil tendencies. In other words, the very roots, if properly nurtured and cared for, could only produce, by the power of the Holy Spirit, a life strong in purity and unwavering in faith.

urday between now and Christmas.

And by the way did you know that Santa Claus has a daughter. Moreover she is a writer of distinction and a character actress too. The daughter of that grand OLD FELLOW who climaxes the big Christmas parade in Toronto is being featured in a series of dramatic sketches heard every Tuesday evening over CBL, Toronto, commencing at 9 o'clock. They call the program "John and Judy." You too, I think will enjoy helping solve their problems, you'll thrill to their laughter, their romance and the honey atmosphere which surrounds these radio neighbours of yours. Maybe you'll share their secrets too. And as secrets are always associated with Santa Claus, we won't disclose his daughter's name. Not now, at any rate. Later perhaps.

You enjoy a bit of light hearted chatter and entertainment, don't you? Everybody does. Well, here's your program. Wednesday evening 9 to 9.30, the Columbia network and CFRB, Toronto. Bob Burns, the "Arkansas traveller" with his colourful stories and humorous anecdotes, is equipped with a new guitar to accompany his characteristic folk tunes, and with his old bazoooka louder and perhaps just a bit funnier than ever. Billy Artzt's eleven piece band provides such musical background as Bob Burns doesn't provide for himself. I think you'll enjoy this show, and it certainly will help rub a few of the wrinkles off your worried brow.

Britain Calls Up Eighteen-Year-Olds

The King, in the presence of South African Premier Field Marshal Jan C. Smuts and Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labor and National Service, signed a proclamation at Buckingham Palace recently making 18-year-old youths eligible for military service.

Bevin, disclosing the action in the House of Commons, emphasized that the young class would not be required to serve abroad.

"We propose to register Nov. 7 those who have reached the age of 18 between July 1 and Sept. 30, inclusive," he said. "They will be medically examined later in the month and called up as required."

"Many of them may expect to join the services in December." Bevin hinting at offensive action, said the need for the 18-year-olds was urgent.

"I will not go into details," he said, "but there are requirements for the three services necessitating this step. The state has now been reached when, in the opinion of the Government, the calling up can no longer be postponed. Indeed, it is urgently necessary."

Every man under 60 was liable for militia service in the reign of William the Conqueror.

Parcels for Prisoners of War From Salvage Receipts

In June last it was decided that receipts from salvage be placed in an account for the purchase of parcels for prisoners of war.

Some salvage money then on hand was earmarked for that purpose, and some teachers met, to arrange possible salvage efforts before School closing.

The two teachers and pupils of No. 9 School, Bristol, were most successful with $45.00. Another teacher had $10.00. The school receipts, plus amounts from other sources, chiefly collection at Exhibition Hall, netted $171.59. This amount we had the pleasure of giving to the Treasurer of Shawville and District Red Cross to forward to the Canadian Red Cross, which is the organization to supply and forward the parcels for all Prisoners of War. The approximate price of a parcel laid down at Geneva, Switzerland, is $2.50.

This service has become one of the most important and appreciated war undertakings of the Canadian Red Cross.

The District, County and the Dominion have each met their several quotas in recent Victory Loan and show good credit balances. More war material is needed. Let's get the scrap rubber and iron ready before snow comes. Date and place for delivery will be announced.

Professor Says 'New Age' Will Follow Present War

A "golden age" of American art will flourish in the postwar period, Prof. Emerson H. Swift of the Columbia University fine arts department predicted at the university's summer session.

"History shows that all the great art periods developed immediately after important wars," Dr. Swift said. "This factor, as well as the encouragement of native-trained artists and the great improvement in the public's artistic taste within the past 25 years will be responsible for this new era of art in the United States."

"Until recently America lacked the background to produce a great national art. Official government sanction and public backing, always necessary to the growth of a great artistic period, was lacking. Art was a luxury reserved for the well-to-do and mainly the product of European trained men and women."

"Since the war has shifted the center of culture from Europe to America and recent federal projects have helped to popularize art and bring it to the public's attention, we can now look forward to the emergence of an important art period of our civilization in this country."

Understand Now??

Rays of light must fall head-on on the retina to be visible; the human eye cannot perceive rays of light from their sides as they pass through space in front of the eye. The apparent illusion of seeing light rays when sunshine enters through a window into a darkened room is explained by the fact that floating particles of dust reflect some of the light rays to the retina. Similarly, the light from anti-air raid searchlights would be invisible to ground observers, asserts the institute, if atmospheric particles and dust did not turn and reflect to the eye some of the rays sent out by the searchlights.

Japs Destroyed Cebu

Cebu, said by the Japanese to have been destroyed in reprisal for alleged civilian guerrilla activity, was second city of the Philippines in size and industrial importance. Bombed from the air at intervals beginning a few days after Pearl Harbor, and shelled by Japanese warships during March and April, it submitted to the invader only with the fall of Corregidor.

Chief city and port of the eastern Visayan group in the Philippines, Cebu is midway on the east coast of densely populated Cebu island. It is about 330 air miles southeast of Manila—450 miles by island-weaving water route. It is built on a wide plain at the side of the mountain range that runs the 120-mile length of the island. A rail line connects it with the island's other cities—Davao to the north and Argao to the south.

Americans Not Singing

Like in First World War

The complaint is heard today that Americans are not singing as they did during the preceding war; that spirit is lacking, that new songs do not hit the spot, and that a revival in singing old ballads and patriotic songs is needed in every neighborhood.

An army officer is quoted as saying that besides munitions of war, four things are needed for the success of any army: Food, clothing, shelter, and music. Another officer is credited with saying: "A silent army never wins victories."

To do something about this, at least in rural areas of the state, a wartime recreation committee has been appointed at the colleges of agriculture and home economics at Cornell University. Their job is to decide how the extension service, which includes county agricultural, home demonstration, and 4-H club agents and farm and home leaders, can revive interest and enthusiasm for singing in rural neighborhoods throughout New York. It is felt that wars are dreary and tragic and that the inspiration of music is needed to help endure it.

Members of this committee are Prof. Dwight Sanderson, head of the department of rural sociology; Mary Eva Duthie, Earl A. Flansburgh, Eunice Heywood, William Smith Jr., Margaret Wylie, and Dorothy DeLany, all college staff members.

TWO YOUNG MEN

with faith in themselves

BEFORE the war, two young graduates in chemistry faced the future with no assets but technical training and unbounded faith in themselves. They planned to capitalize on their years in college by manufacturing a certain chemical product. "But we'll need some money to get started," they said. "Let's put it up to the bank."

Their banker decided that their faith was well founded in character, ability, energy. "We'll finance you to start in a small way," he said. "Make a test on the local market first."

Presently the product was being sold all over Canada and exported to the United States and overseas. Now it fills a wartime demand. The enterprise employs a large number of people.

This actual example illustrates how this country's Chartered Banks help credit-worthy people to benefit themselves, their fellows and their country under the democratic system of free enterprise.

Banks, like any other business, exist because they provide service which a community needs and is willing to pay for at a rate which will yield a reasonable profit. Chartered Bank profits average less than one-half of one per cent a year on total assets. Few, if any, other businesses operate on as small a margin.

No splashing of oil—no greasy, insanitary, fly-attracting mixture of oil and milk, making a mess of both machine and floor. The oil necessary to the operation of a Renfrew goes in at the top and remains inside until it is time to change it.

This is only one outstanding feature of the Renfrew Separator. Others include the low supply tank, ease of operation, close skimming—and highest quality and performance at a reasonable price. THIS WAR IS A FIGHT FOR MAN'S RIGHTS AND LIBERTIES

The broadcast of an address by Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, to the combined Houses of the Parliament of Great Britain carried probably the wisest and most authentic voice of the British Commonwealth. One of the greatest statesmen in the world, certainly no figure of our day can match his amazing and varied experience as a leader in five decades of war and peace. He illustrates in his own person that for every people all possible and practical independence and self-government is the British principle and determination, and that the British promise is sure.

A Choice of Worlds

Discussing the post-war world, General Smuts said that behind all the issues of this war lies: "A deeper question now posed to the world. Which do you choose—the free spirit of man and the moral idealism that has shaped the values and ideas of our civilization, or this horrid substitute, this foul obsession now resuscitated from the underworld of the past?"

"This, in the last analysis, is what the war is about. At the bottom, therefore, this war is a new crusade, a new fight to the death for man's rights and liberties and for the personal ideals of man's ethical and spiritual life.

"I therefore come to the question: What is the sort of world which we envisage as our objective after the war? . . . What sort of social and international order are we aiming at?"

"Certain points of great importance have already emerged. Thus we have accepted the name of the 'United Nations' . . . Then again we have the Atlantic Charter. . . Again, we have agreed on certain large principles of social policy involving social security for the citizen in matters which have lain at the roots of much social unrest and suffering in the past . . .

" . . . Then again, we have accepted the principle of international help underlying the mutual aid agreement. . .

"All these are already indications of considerable advances to a better world and richer life for mankind. To these we may add much of the social and economic work of the League of Nations. . .

"We are passing beyond ordinary politics and political shibboleths. It is no longer a case of Socialism or Communism or any of the other isms of the marketplace, but of achieving common justice and fair play for all. . .

"This at the bottom is a war of spirit. Hitler has tried to kill this spirit and substitute for it some ersatz thing, something which is really its negation. He instilled into the German youth new racial fanaticism. He has sought strength in the ancient and discarded forest gods of the Teuton. His faith is a reversion of the pagan past and a denial of the spiritual forces which have carried us forward in the Christian advance that constitutes the essence of European civilization.

Britain Stands Test

"One occasionally hears idle words about the decay of this country, about the approaching break-up of the great world group we form. What folly and ignorance; what misreading of the real signs of the times! In some quarters, what wishful thinking!"

"But is it not standing the test? Is not this free and voluntary association, is not this worldwide human co-operation today holding together more successfully than ever before under the most searching test?"

"Knowing the dangers and temptations we have had to face, the stresses and strains imposed upon us, nothing has been more remarkable to me than the cohesion of this vast structure under the hardest hammer blows of fate.

Offensive Stage Reached
"We have now reached the fourth year of this war and the defense phase has now ended. The stage is set for the last, the offensive, phase.

"Final alignments both of the Allies and our enemies have been made. Resources have been developed and mobilized on a very large scale, ours still on the increase, those of the enemy on the decline. Our manpower still is growing, that of the enemy is getting depleted, while he makes ever heavier drafts on his suffering vassal peoples.

"The specter of want, hunger and starvation is beginning to stalk through the subject countries. The spirit of unrest is heaving and rising. Explosive limits of endurance are nearing.

"Once the time has come to take the offensive and to strike while the iron is hot, it would be folly to delay, to over-prepare and, perhaps, miss our opportunity. Nor are we likely to do so. Of that I feel satisfied.

"For the first three years of the war our role had necessarily to be a defensive one. That role was imposed on us by the intensive secret preparations of the enemy for six years before war. That advantage no premature offensive could possibly overcome. We could barely maintain our self-defense against the terrible odds.

Never Regret Help

"In those cases where we were in honor bound to take the offensive in support of other small peoples, we have suffered reverses which still further weakened us. Let us, however, never regret the help we did our best to bring to Norway, Holland and Greece in their hour of need.

"The defeat of the Luftwaffe in that supreme crisis saved not only London but, I firmly believe, the whole Allied cause and future of the world.

"The magnitude and duration of the Russian resistance have surprised not only Hitler but probably everybody else. Probably no such losses on both sides have ever been suffered in the history of war.

"But if the Russian losses must be terrible, it is equally true that the German Army is bleeding to death in Russia. The appalling blood-letting which is necessary for Hitler's ultimate defeat is being administered by the Russians, and they alone can do it."

Rough Passage Ahead

General Smuts said that he thought the war would continue for another two years, and he added:

"The spirit flames above the blitz. The same spirit is lighting the scene in China, in Russia, the brave little nations of Europe, and last and greatest of all, America. But a rough and terrible passage lies ahead. A mortal struggle is on, and it will be more cruel and desperate as the end draws nearer."

VOICE OF THE PRESS

EVERYONE CAN HELP THIS EFFORT

Once upon a time, it did not matter so much if you forgot to turn out the light in the basement. It added a few cents to your Hydro bill and that was all.

Now, the Hydro wants you to cut down on your domestic service bills, so that power can be conserved for war industries. Instead of not bothering about the lights, people are asked to make sure they remember to turn off all unnecessary illumination.

Every little helps. Each individual can watch the lights in the home and so marshal kilowatts for war.

Train Blind To Work For War

St. Dunstan's Institution for the Blind, still caring for the ex-service men blinded in the last war, is now training blinded service women as well as men for work that will make them independent.

Beginning by learning to read Braille and to use a typewriter, they are put on to other work that enables the teachers soon to spot whether the pupil is mechanically minded. If so, he is invited to take up munition work, getting at St. Dunstan's a certain amount of preliminary training on the type of machine he is likely to use. The men are delighted to be able to take their share again in war work, and virtually all of those in the factories are getting the standard rate of wage.

Several of the men come from the Libyan campaign, others are naval men who served in the East, and some of these have shown such efficiency that the Admiralty is retaining their services.

A Yank at Eton . .

Adapted by Lebeus Mitchell from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture Starring Mickey Rooney

Synopsis:

Tim Dennis, high school football champion, and his young sister, Jane, are sent for by their widowed mother who has married an Englishman, Roger Carlton. Tim is resentful, hoping to go to Notre Dame as his father, a noted football player, had done. He does not make friends with his step-father or the latter's son, Peter, a few years older than Tim. He is entered at Eton and there meets the Sixth Earl of Weldon, Inky, a Lower Form boy who is to show him around. At a shout of "Boy!" from an upper floor, Inky runs for the stairway, Tim grabs him thinking it's a fire.

CHAPTER THREE

Inky broke from Tim's grasp and joined the rush up the stairs. Tim followed. The boys were lined up in front of a door in which stood a youth with a sneering smile—Ronald Kenvil, an elegant young bully. In his hands were a high hat, a pair of dirty boots and other articles.

"Late as usual, Weldon," he said contemptuously as Inky joined the line. "Here, take these downtown. Get the hat ironed, the suit pressed, new spikes in the boots—"

Tim broke in: "Hey, what kind of a racket you working, brother?"

Ronnie looked at Tim and his eyes lit up. "Oh, the American!" Then to Inky: "Well, what are you waiting for? Go on!" Inky started off, but Tim called to him to wait a minute. "I'm giving the orders around here!" snapped Ronnie. "And I told him to hurry!"

"And I told him to wait. So what?"

Ronnie burst out in furious astonishment: "What did you say?"

"You heard me. What's more, you look healthy enough to run your own errands."

"When a member of the Library tells a Lower Form boy to do something, it's done. You wouldn't understand that, being an American."

"Listen funny pants! Where I come from people don't like being bossed around."

"I ought to have you beaten for your impudence . . . I'm letting you go this time, but remember, any more of your lip and I'll smack your face."

"You mean—like this?" asked Tim and struck Ronnie's face.

Amid gasps of amazement from the Lower boys, Ronnie, equally astonished, stepped back, doubling up his fists. He sent the other boys away and opened his door wide. "You, get in there!"

"With pleasure!" said Tim. "After you, old boy!"

Ronnie Kenvil's room brought the Lower Form boys back to listen; the sounds reached Peter Carlton in his room. The boys in the corridor ducked at his appearance. Peter threw open Ronnie's door, to find the bully on the floor, Tim astride him, hand raised, commanding: "Say Uncle — Uncle Sam!"

The room was in violent disorder. Peter seized Tim by the collar and yanked him to his feet.

"What's the big idea?" demanded Peter angrily. "Go to your room. I'll attend to you later."

"I'm going to have him beaten, right now!" said Ronnie, getting up.

"Yeah, you and who else?" demanded Tim.

Peter stepped between the boys. "I told you to go to your room, Dennis."

There seems to be an awful lot of bossing going on around here," said Tim. "Okay, I'm through with him anyhow." And Tim stalked from the room.

"I'm not going to let him get away with this!" shouted Ronnie.

"Yes, you are, Kenvil — this time."

"Oh, he's to be let off just because he's your brother."

"He'll be treated like any other new boy. It's a fine situation when a member of the Library fights with a Lower Boy—and gets licked . . ."

Tim was still angry when Peter entered his room and asked kindly what the fight was about.

"I was knocking the daylight out of him when you stuck your nose in."

"I was only trying to help you," Peter explained, taken aback at Tim's hostility.

"I was doing all right without your help."

"I'm afraid you don't understand, Dennis. Kenvil is an Upper boy and a member of the Library." He explained: "The Library is the governing body of the house. It's up to us to keep order."

"Does that include making errand boys out of us?"

"You and every other Lower boy will be assigned to an Upper boy for whom you are to fetch and carry. And unless you do what he tells you to . . ."

"Of all the cock-eyed customs!" exclaimed Tim. "And I thought slavery had been abolished over here."

"I dare say it does seem strange to you, but there is a reason for it. It puts every one on the same level—dukes, earls and commoners—with no preference shown."

"I'm an American citizen. Nobody has to level me off."

"I'm not so sure . . . It'll be a good deal simpler for you to get levelled off than to level off the whole school to suit you."

"Oh, yeah? Well, get this: I didn't want to come to this joint in the first place. I made a promise to do a stretch and I'm sticking to it. But I didn't promise to take any guff from you or anybody else."

"All right, Dennis, if that's the way you feel," Peter left him.

Tim Dennis found himself assigned to fag for Ronnie Kenvil and was for raising a fuss when Inky told him he was assigned to Kenvil, too. He thought it would be "rather jolly" for them to be together.

"I get it," said Tim. "Kenvil's the kind of a rat who'd pick on little guys . . . Okay, kid. Don't worry. I'm with you."

"I say, Dennis, I don't want you to do this for me."

"Skip it . . . Say, just what are we supposed to do for him?"

"Tidy up his room, run errands, make tea."

The fagging system at Eton gave Tim an idea—an American idea which, with Inky's concurrence, he put across with the Lower boys. The idea was that one boy should take all the articles of the Upper boys which were to be cleaned, repaired, etc., downtown, thus getting wholesale rates, and pocketing the difference—a sort of Secret Relief and Emergency Fund for the Lower boys. The boys were to take turns totting the stuff downtown.

Tim volunteered to start the ball rolling. Everything went all right until, returning to the school loaded down with purchases, articles of clothing from the cleaners, etc., he saw Flossie Sampson, the object of his shipboard "romance" while crossing to England. She was with a party of sightseers. Remembering the goodbye kiss she had accorded him just before docking at Southampton, Tim ran excitedly up to the group to whom a Cockney guide was explaining the fagging system at Eton. Almost inarticulate with joy, Tim cried: "Flossie! . . . Gosh!"

"Hello, Tim," she said embarrassedly. "You remember my mother?"

"Yes, sure. How is she?" he asked, and then found that militant American clubwoman at his elbow. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Sampson. I'm afraid I can't take off my hat."

Flossie, behind his armful of bundles, spied Tim's Eton costume. "But I didn't know you went to Eton! Why, it's terribly hard to get into it!"

"Yes, it's plenty tough," replied Tim, already feeling much better about going to Eton. "It's considered very difficult."

"Do you know people yet — I mean, have you friends here? I mean English friends . . . a lord? Or duke?" Her face flushed with excitement.

"Oh, sure. One of my best friends is an earl. His name is Inky."

Flossie slipped her arm in his. "It's so lovely, meeting you, Tim."

The guide's voice broke in. "Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you will follow me, we'll have a look at Windsor Castle."

Tim and Flossie started slowly in the wake of the sightseers. "Gosh, Flossie, for the first time Eton doesn't look so bad."

As they approached the Castle, Flossie cried: "Tim, you are not going into Windsor Castle carrying those bundles!"

"Yeah," he hesitated. "I guess maybe you're right." He looked about anxiously, not wanting to miss this chance of being with Flossie. In the grounds of the gardens he saw a fountain which was dry. "I'll be with you in a minute," he said, and darted to the fountain. Into its dry basin he placed his packages, scooped up some dry leaves and covered them. Then he ran back to Flossie crying gaily: "They'll be okay there. Gosh, Flossie, you're more beautiful than ever!"

She smiled coyly at him. "Silly-billy!"

They were just starting to turn a corner of the East Terrace of the castle when they passed a gardener kneeling on the ground. He gave them a two-fingered salute and Tim jovially returned it. "Hi-yah, pal."

They had taken a few steps when Tim heard a sound of splashing water that stopped him in his tracks, an expression of horror on his face. Water was flowing into the dry fountain where he had left his packages!

SADIE B. CHAMBERS
Tea Biscuits, Scones and Suchlike

Now that we have just passed through that wonderful season, with nature in all her glory—and what is there in natural beauty which can surpass the resplendent colorings of the Canadian Maple—we are reminded of these favorite lines and quote:

"Now stir the fire and close the shutters fast,
Let fall the curtains and wheel the sofa round,
And while the bubbling and loud hissing urn,
Throws up a steamy column, and the cups
That cheer but not inebriate,
Wait on each,
So let us welcome peaceful evening in."

And in this mood, whether "the loud hissing urn" is filled with cocoa or rationed tea, one of the accompanying morsels is the tea biscuit—with variations.

Tomato and Cheese Biscuit
2 cups sifted pastry flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup grated cheese
1 cup condensed tomato soup

Sift dry ingredients, mix in shortening and add cheese, blending thoroughly. Moisten with the canned tomato soup. Roll out as lightly as possible in the usual way and cut in desired shapes.

Fruit Scones
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange peel
1/4 cup finely chopped seedless raisins

2 eggs
1/2 cup light cream
Sift flour once; measure; add baking powder, salt and sugar; then sift again. Cut in shortening. Add orange rind and raisins. Reserve about one-third of one egg for glaze. Beat remaining eggs well and add cream. Add all at once to flour mixture and stir until flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out at once on slightly floured board and knead for 1/2 minute. Roll 1/4 inch thick and cut in triangles. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush tops lightly with reserved egg white slightly beaten. Sprinkle with sugar lightly (if ration permits). Bake in hot oven 12 to 15 minutes.

Turnovers
2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup butter
2 packages cream cheese

Sift flour once, measure and add salt; then sift again. Using knives cut in the butter and cheese. Wrap the dough in waxed paper and place in the refrigerator over night. Roll out dough to 1/4 inch thickness and cut into squares about three inches. Drop some type of jam in the centre. Gather up corners and pinch together. Brush lightly with milk. Bake in very hot oven for 15 minutes.

8,000,000 Tons of Shipping in 1942

H. Gerrish Smith, President of the National Council of American Shipbuilders, declared that 8,000,000 tons of merchant shipping would be completed by the end of this year.

"The industry," he added, "is certain of its ability to produce not 6,500,000 tons, but 15,000,000 tons of ships in 1943."

Supporting his prediction of 8,000,000 tons for this year, Mr. Smith said that on Sept. 17, the first anniversary of the launching of the first liberty ship, nearly 500 sea-going merchant vessels of approximately 5,300,000 deadweight tons had been delivered. He described this as "an achievement which exceeds the most sanguine expectations of a year ago."

Vice-Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard, told the conference that the strength of the Coast Guard now was well over 100,000 men and that it was operating as an integral part of the Navy, with the larger cutters engaged in convoy work.

Rub Needle With Soap

When stitching heavy fabrics, such as canvas, khaki cloth or heavy duck, the needle can be made to penetrate more easily if hems and seams are rubbed with hard yellow soap.

Tea-Leaf Liquid Used For Cleaning

Don't throw away tea-leaves, they're so useful for cleaning purposes. Collect a supply for one week in a pail, pour over them a quart of boiling water, leave for an hour, then strain and bottle the liquid. This used with a soft cloth to clean mirrors, windows, glasses, will make them shine like crystal. It is also a splendid cleaner for varnished doors and furniture. Use it also for linoleum, it cleans it better than water, and if afterwards polished with a soft duster it gives a polish like beeswax, without the slippery surface.

Stalin's City

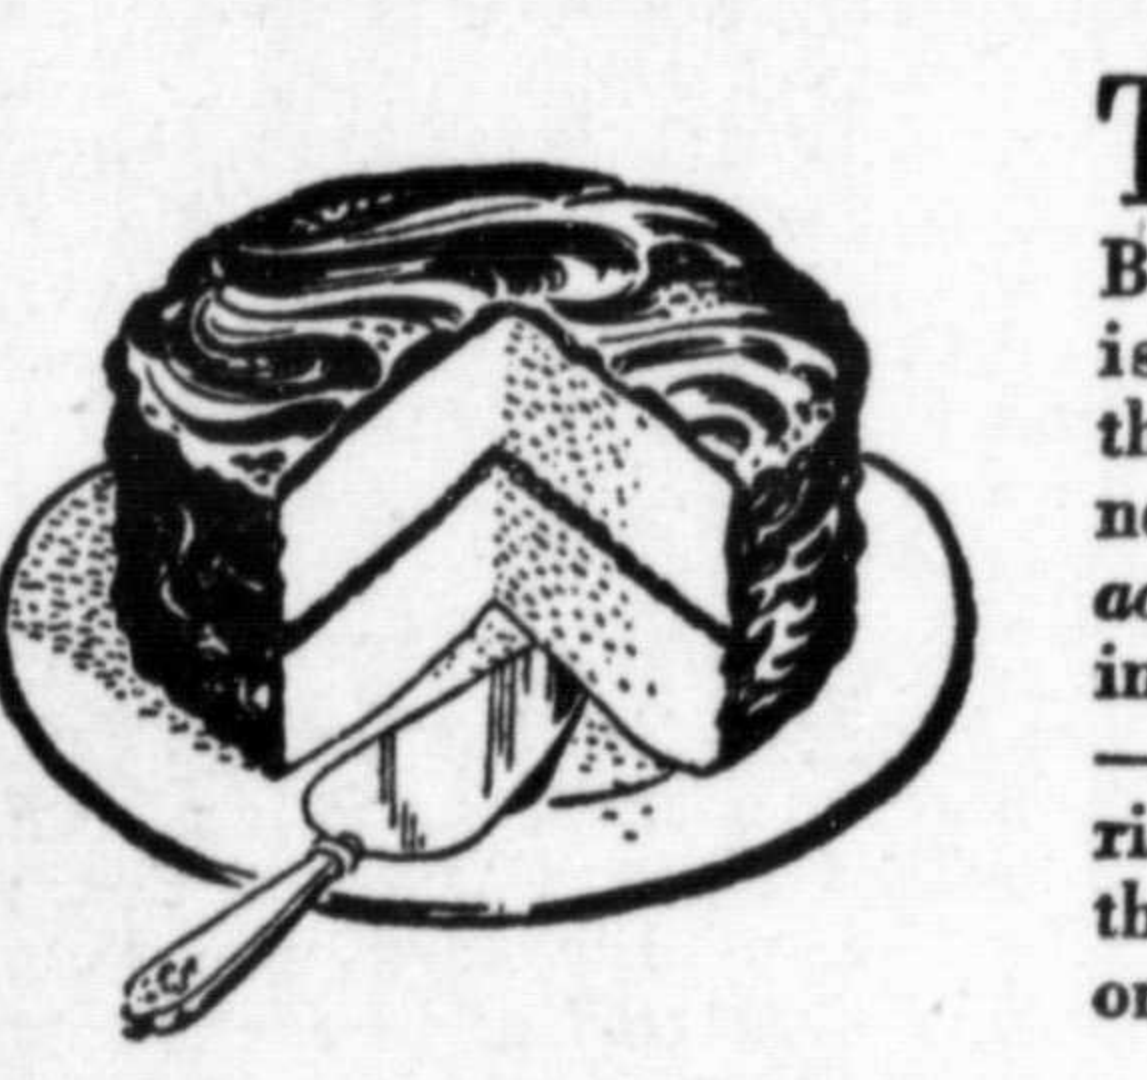

To Tsaritsyn on the Volga in 1918 went Joseph Stalin, stubborn war commissar, Lenin's trouble man, says the New York Times. The revolution would collapse if the year's grain from Caucasia failed to reach Moscow and Petrograd. Tsaritsyn was the bottleneck, beset by the Don Cossacks in revolt, by the White Russians, by the Germans in the Ukraine, and weakened by the muddling of Trotsky's Bolshevik Army forces on the scene. Stalin took charge. "I was turned into a specialist for cleaning out the Augean stables of the War Department." He pushed the Red Army commanders around, fired the insubordinates. "I am driving and bullying all who require it." When Trotsky wired, "Let the army alone," Stalin earmarked the telegram, "To be ignored." He balked the counter-revolutionaries, completed the corn collection, saved the city. Six years later Tsaritsyn became Stalingrad.

THOUGHTS AFTER THANKSGIVING

We set apart one day each year To offer up our thanks For bounteous crops and rugged health, And money in the banks. All other days throughout the year We fret and fume and fuss Because the many things we'd like Have not been given us. How would it be to have one day To kick about our lot, Then all the balance of the year Thank God for what we've got? —E. H. Caughell,

DO ALL YOUR CAKES TURN OUT LIKE THIS?

TAKE a tip—try Calumet Double-Acting Baking Powder. Calumet is the baking powder that's suited to modern needs because its double-action—first in the mixing bowl, then in the oven—eliminates much of the risk of cake failure. In that way it helps you save on costly ingredients.

Two Perfectly Balanced Leavening Actions

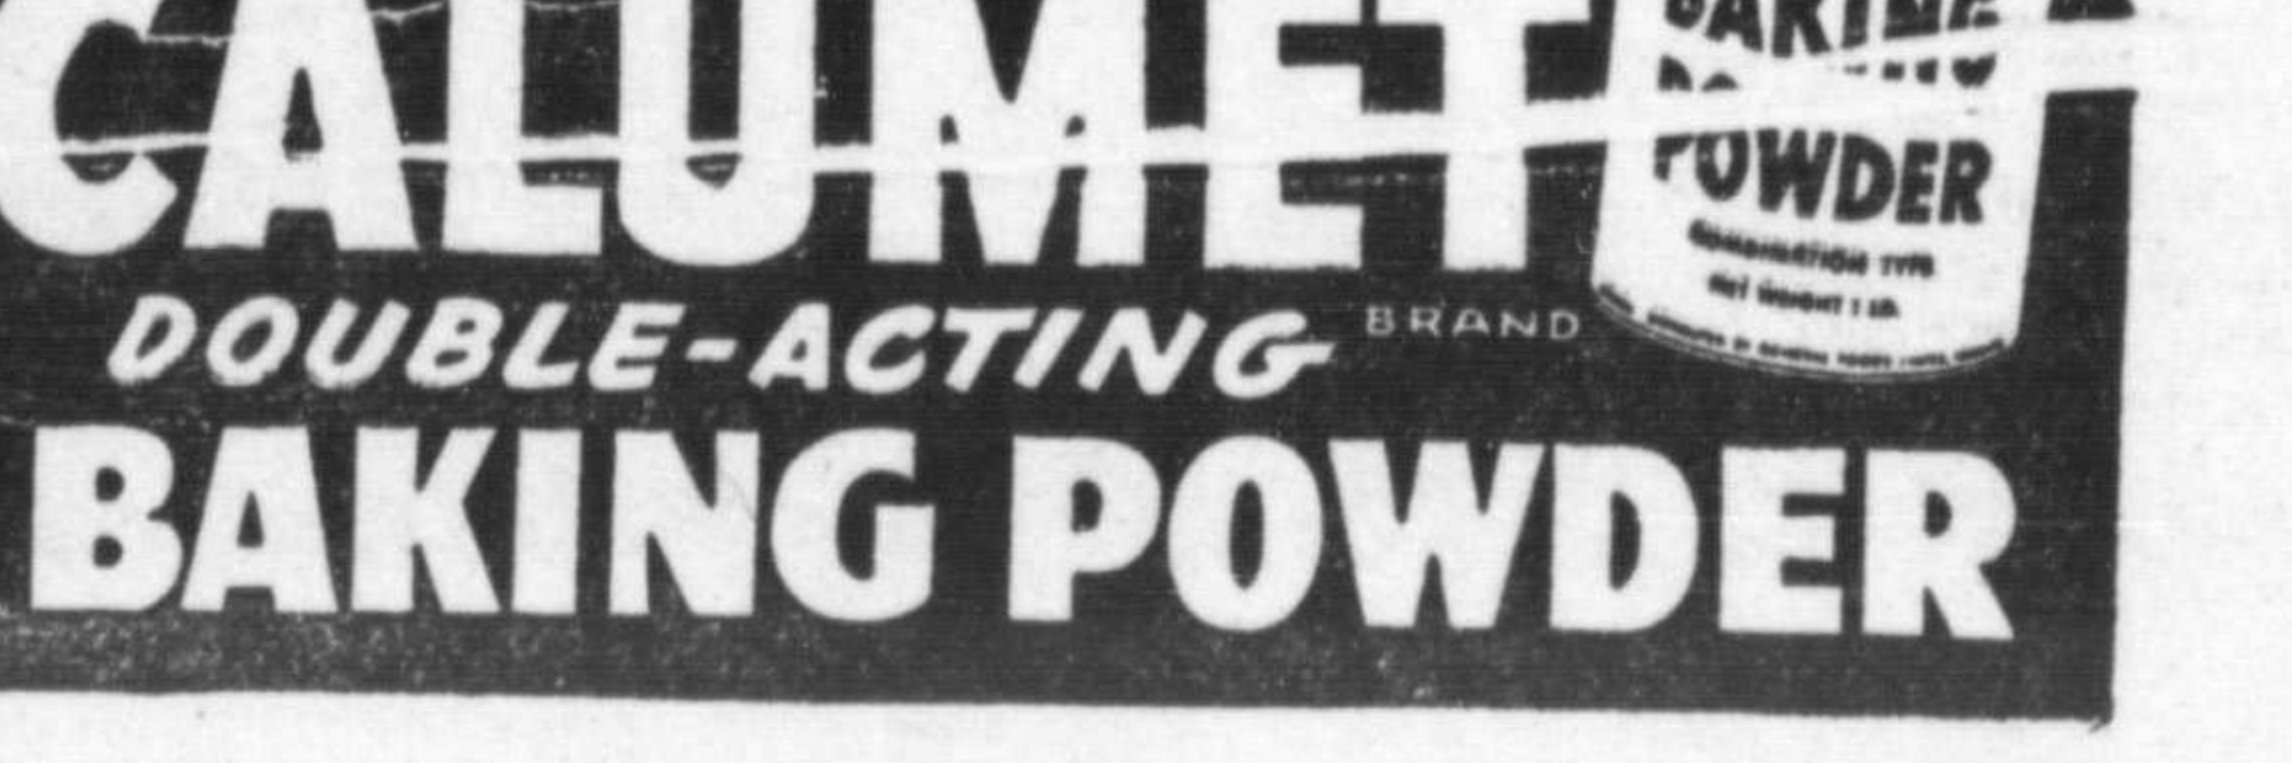

FIRST IN THE MIXING BOWL
When liquid is added to dry cake ingredients, Calumet gives off thousands of tiny bubbles which surge through the batter making it light and fluffy.

THEN IN THE OVEN
When your cake goes in the oven, not only do the existing bubbles expand to make it rise, but a second leavening action—which many baking powders of other types do not provide—takes place. Thousands of new bubbles are created by the action of heat on Calumet. This second action gives additional assurance of perfect, even rising, and is the reason why Calumet-made cakes have that delicate lightness which experts call "velvety-crumbs."

ECONOMICAL TO USE

Calumet Double-Acting Baking Powder goes further than many other types of baking powder. Most Calumet recipes call for only 1 teaspoon of Calumet to each cup of flour. This, along with low cost and surer results, makes Calumet a thrifty baking powder to use.

Former Bristol Minister in the Battle of Dieppe

Captain, the Rev. John Foote, who was a few years ago minister of Bristol Memorial Church, and who has been serving as a Chaplain in the Army, was in the thick of the battle on the beach of Dieppe.

When the Germans opened up a terrific fixed machine-gun fire from protected positions on the wounded at a temporary Red Cross base on the upper beach at Dieppe, Capt. Dr. Wesley Clare, of the R.C.A.M.C., and Capt. the Rev. John Foote continued to administer to the boys and remained with them, refusing to go with the withdrawal. The last that was seen of Capt. Foote he was shooting a Tommy gun at the Germans to hold them off.

Capt. Foote won his position as beloved Padre. When he first reported the men were not so sure and he had to prove he was a soldier. He soon did this. The men built him a chapel and made an altar by sawing a rosewood piano box in two. A Roman Catholic who was handy with his knife carved him a crucifix. An altar cloth came from other materials. Capt. Foote was one of the boys and he kept that confidence at Dieppe.

Capt. Foote was minister of Bristol Memorial Presbyterian Church, and was called from Bristol to St. Andrew's Church, Fort Coulonge. From Fort Coulonge he was called to Port Hope, Ont., from which charge he resigned to go on active service.

The many friends which Capt. and Mrs. Foote have in this district share these hours of anxiety with Mrs. Foote. Capt. Foote is believed to be a prisoner of war, but there has been no confirmation officially of this.

Charges Not Preferred

A new soldier reported on sick call to Capt. Henry Farmer at Camp Shelby, Miss. His card was then marked "quarters" and he was told to report to the clerk. Private Thomas Gabbitt, the clerk, snapped a curt, "Quarters," thinking the soldier would understand that he was to be confined. The rookie looked angrily at Private Thomas and throwing a couple of quarters on the desk, stalked out in a rage.

Now, Private!

Private George A. Gransburg was on kitchen police duty again at Camp Hulen, Texas. But this time it proved well worth his while. For in the midst of his laboring he yelled: "Why, these are potatoes I grew three years ago!" And he could prove it. Neatly imbedded in one of the potatoes was a ring he lost three seasons back while digging his potato crop!
