World News In Brief

London, April 7.—Hints of fresh trouble in Britain's docks cropped up today.

Trade union spokesmen warned that efforts may be made to provoke strike action in British ports in sympathy with New Zealand dockers.

The New Zealanders went on strike last month for more money. Several British newspapers gave prominence to reports that the communist party would try to extend the stoppage to Britain, as was done in the 1949 Canadian seamen's strike.

San Francisco, April 7.—(AP)—A Southwest Airline plane missing since last night with 23 persons aboard is feared down in the area of Gaviota pass, about midway between Santa Maria and Santa Barbara.

The plane was last heard from two minutes after it cleared the Santa Maria airport for Santa Barbara. It had 300 gallons of gasoline, or enough for just over three hours' flight.

London, April 7.—(Reuters)—A fleet of Russian trawlers steamed by the white cliffs of Dover today—for the second time in a year—reported on their way to the far east by way of the Mediterranean. Observers on the southeast coast of Britain said they saw nine of the vessels in the straits of Dover about eight miles off shore heading westwards in line ahead—naval fashion.

Melbourne, April 7.—(Reuters)—The Australian communist party is running 51 candidates in the approaching federal elections—elections being fought on the issue of outlawing the communist party.

Nominations closed yesterday. Polling is set for April 28, to pick an entirely new slate for both the Lower House and the Upper House.

United Nations, N. Y., April 7.—(AP)—Syria has requested a security council meeting to consider what it calls Israel's "vicious bombardment" of Syria troops. The request was made in letters signed by Syrian delegate Atris El Khouri but to the United Nations secretary and to Daniel von Balleusek of the Netherlands, April president of the security council.

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters in Korea, April 7.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Kim Paik II, commander of the South Korean 1st corps, has been missing in action since March 28 and probably was killed in an airplane accident.

The South Korean department of national defence said today that Kim last was seen after a front-line conference with Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, commander of the U.S. Eighth Army. He left in a plane. United Nations planes have failed to locate the missing aircraft.

Canadians Led Advance To 38th But Have Not Crossed

By BILL BOSS

West Central Sector, Korea,
April 7.—Canadian troops in Korea were poised south of the 38th parallel today, while other elements of the 27th Commonwealth Brigade fought north of the old political dividing line between North and South Korea.

The Patricia's led the brigade's push to within a few miles of the parallel, then patrolled the area while Australians and other members of the brigade moved past them into North Korea.

The Canadians met little communist resistance in their push through rugged terrain. The battalion scaled five series of ridges and mountains culminating in a majestic snow-capped mountain dominating the approach to it.

The operation occurred during a security-tight phase of the United Nations campaign when correspondents were not permitted to indicate precisely how close forward troops were to the parallel.

All through the operation the Patricia's were the farthest forward in their sector, and when the task was completed they commanded high ground just four miles south of the imaginary boundary.

Their advances contributed seven map miles, but it amounted to more than twice the distance overland. The Canadians made their way up 70- and 80-degree rock faces.

The only part of the Canadian advance which was opposed involved a slight brush with the enemy

Mine Fields, Booby Traps Delay Allied Advance As Red Withdrawal Continues

Development Is Outlined By Duplessis

Quebec, April 7.—Development of Quebec's vast mining and hydro-electric resources will be stepped up to the tune of $1,500,000,000 in the next two years, Premier Duplessis said yesterday.

The Premier told his weekly press conference that the amount includes government expenditure in hydro-electric development and private-enterprise investment in both mining and hydro-electric promotions.

Among the new mining developments, Premier Duplessis listed "considerable quantities" of ferrous sands at Natashquan on the St. Lawrence River north shore.

He described the "black sands" as an "enormous wealth" for the province and said that the ore proportion was 70 per cent.

Premier Duplessis said the sands "are likely to play a role of considerable importance in our economic development and the development of mines is studying its various industrial possibilities. The province will draw appreciable benefits from the development."

The ore is extracted from topsoil sands through the application of magnetic force. A refining plant to process the ore will be needed.

Charles E. Prefontaine, Montreal business man, has undertaken to develop the sands commercially, the Premier said.

The Premier also announced discovery of zinc deposits in Gaspé peninsula by Pierre Beauchemin, Montreal mining promoter. He gave no details about the find.

Speaking of hydro-electric development, the Premier said out of the Beauharnois development near Montreal has been increased by 380,000 horsepower since 1945 and that when the $67,000,000 project is completed in 1953 it will produce 1,860,000 horsepower.

The government will also spend $1,500,000 for hydro-electric development in northwestern Quebec's Abitibi and Temiscamingue counties.

Premier Duplessis also announced two orders-in-council passed at this week's meeting of the Cabinet.

The first authorized the city of Montreal to make arrangements with the CBC for the construction of a television transmitter atop Mount Royal. Although details of the arrangements were not announced, the order-in-council specifies there shall be no monopoly of the transmitter's channels.

The second proclaimed provincial rent control effective April 30.

The order-in-council freezes rents at their present level until August 1 and prevents eviction of tenants legally occupying their premises April 30 when federal controls expire.

The company commanded by Maj. Jack George of Edmonton. The Canadian advance began Wednesday, March 28 when the battalion ended a 14-day rest period. A company led by Capt. Bob Swinton of Vancouver made an advance which occupied a 3,000-foot peak.

An indication of the sheer guts required was the performance of Pte. Way Buck Ling of Halifax, 24 years old and just 102 pounds in weight. Ling carried a 150-pound load—his own gear, a Bren gun, and the gear, weapon and rations of a platoon.

Three-quarters of the way up the peak he fainted, fell 20 feet, revived, and continued in the darkness with only sheer courage as a guide, rejoining the rest of the company four hours later.

Thursday, companies of Capt. Del Harrison of Calgary and Maj. George registered a 4,000-yard gain across two mountains, the second one 2,900 feet high. Harrison's men scaled three mountains and trudged 6,000 yards that day—the toughest in this phase of the operation.

Friday, Maj. George's men fought to get onto a hill, pushing the Red line on the map north.

Saturday they sat tight while flanks on lower ground drew abreast.

Sunday and Monday the Patricia's patrolled forward, then last Tuesday companies of Capt. Owen Brown of Calgary and Maj. George moved on to Myongji.

Wednesday, the Canadians stood pat while other troops passed through.

No Major Fighting Reported Anywhere Along Korean Front.

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, April 7.—(AP)—Allied troops pushed warily today through minefields and booby traps in pursuit of communists retreating deeper into North Korea.

The United Nations advance was over central and western battle fronts pockmarked with sudden death—mines, booby-trapped mortar shells and concealed pits designed to catch tanks.

The Reds sent 40 Russian-made MIG jets flying over northwest Korea near the Manchuria border. They were jumped by 50 U.S. F-84 Thunder-jets in a wild dogfight above Sinuiju.

American pilots claimed two Red jets were damaged—one of them probably destroyed. All the Thunderjets returned safely to their bases.

U.N. ground forces were all north of parallel 38 except at one point in the centre. Their main problem was consolidating the gains won with no opposition other than the traps.

Almost all across the front the hills had been cleared of Red Chinese and North Koreans.

(Canadian troops were poised south of 38 in the west central sector while other elements of the 27th Commonwealth brigade fought north of the old boundary. The Patricia's led the brigade's push to within a few miles of the parallel, then patrolled the area while Australians and other members of the brigade moved past them into North Korea. The Canadians met little resistance in their push through the rugged terrain.)

The only hard fighting was in the area immediately north of Yonggong and up the Hanggye-Inje road east of Chunchon. Stubborn Reds were dug in both places.

Before suddenly pulling back to the high ground north of the Han-tan river the communists sowed trails and roads with mines. Their fade-back was in the face of heavy allied artillery that helped American troops clear five hills on the Hanggye-Inje road for slight advances.

Friday's action was light. U.S. Eighth Army headquarters claimed only 800 communists killed or wounded and 37 prisoners taken.

U.N. troops were inside North Korea all the way from the Imjin river in the west to the Sea of Japan in the east except for the gap held by the stubborn Reds along the Hanggye-Inje road. American troops in that road sector still had not crossed 38 but were approaching the border.

The Chinese seemed determined to defend Yenchon, a road junction six miles inside North Korea. They threw up rugged tank defences which included deep craters and road blocks and blew the highway bridge just south of Yenchon.

On the Korean east coast strong allied naval forces gave big-gun support to South Koreans advancing westward from Yangyang. The naval guns continued their bombardment of Wonsan, Chongjin and Songjin, all far up the east coast.

U.S. air force planes took part Friday in 40 sorties against the communist build-up areas.

Juvenile Thieves Get 3 Years Each

Two teen-aged boys were yesterday sentenced to three years each in the reformatory on charges of theft in connection with a series of local robberies.

The youths, both local, appeared in juvenile court before Judge J. C. Samson.

The break-ins involved several restaurants and service stations and followed two other entries by less than a week.

Broken into were Armand Rodrique's restaurant at 37 Wellington street south with theft of about $40.

Shell Service Station, 385 Wellington street south, but nothing reported missing.

Oates and Baker garage and restaurant, 365 Wellington Street South, $5 in cash and 12 packages of cigarettes stolen.

Chamberland Service Station, 402 Wellington Street South, $8 in cash stolen.

On the night of March 29-30, Sylvia Roby's store at 86 Galt Street was entered but nothing was stolen, and on the night of April 1-2 the door of G. T. Armstrong's on Aberdeen Street was forced but no loss was reported.

Rotterdam, April 7.—(CP)—The French tug Abeille 25 is expected to reach the crippled American freighter Mojave some time today, the Rotterdam-Dirkzagers shipping agency reported this morning.

The Mojave radioed last night that she had defective steering gear and asked for tug assistance. Her position then was 65 miles south of the Irish coast.

Morality Problems Worry U.S.

By JOHN TRACY

Canadian Press Staff Writer
New York, April 7.—American reading newspapers filled with reports of crime, scandal and corruption have come up against the question of what has happened to public morality and what can be done about it.

Half a dozen observers of the United States scene this week gave them the answers and suggested remedies ranging from a higher moral tone in top government levels to a change in newspaper policy.

Within a fortnight, newspapers have carried stories about a visa racket in a U. S. consulate, arrests in a college basketball betting scandal, a hunt for a corrupt police official and the sentencing of four spies for giving Russia their country's atomic secrets.

In Washington, Senator William Fulbright, head of a committee inquiring into influence in government-authorized loans, spoke to Congress of "moral blindness" in public life.

Most authorities give the American people a clean bill of moral health but suggest that those in public life pull up their ethics.

"The degree of shock . . . with which some of these revelations have been received is ample evidence that the condition does not reflect the basic temper of this people . . ." the New York Times said in an editorial. "It is, we think, eminently fair to call upon our national government to give us some leadership at this point and to set us an illuminating example."

The New York Herald Tribune said the government should "insist that at the highest level a respect for plain honesty . . . prevail." With an easy tolerance or willful blindness at the top, it said editorially, the standards below can hardly be expected to remain high.

Reiman Morin, Associated Press correspondent, interviewed four Americans prominent in the church, education and business on

Range Of Yukon Mountains Is Named For M. Aurio

Ottawa, April 7.—(CP)—Canada will have a permanent memento of the visit of President Vincent Aurio, of France.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced last night that a range of the Kluane mountains in the Yukon has been named for M. Aurio, first French President to visit Canada.

The newly-named mountains form part of the Kluane chain stretching across the southern Yukon. Towering to 7,580 feet above sea level, these snow-capped peaks overlook the Alaska highway to the north and, to the south, Skagway, famous port of entry to the Yukon in the days of the gold rush.

Only one other person has received a similar honor from Canada. Castle Mountain in the Rockies was named Mount Eisenhower on the occasion of the first visit of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to Canada in January, 1946.

The Canadian government's decision to name the mountains for M. Aurio was announced by Mr. St. Laurent at a state dinner in the Chateau Laurier hotel. The dinner was closed to newspaper men, but Mr. St. Laurent's announcement was issued through his office.

M. Aurio, in Quebec today on another lap of his five-day official visit, went to the dinner directly

Wildlife Week

Next week, April 8-14, has been set aside as Canada's National Wildlife Week, to emphasize the necessity for conservation of the Dominion's wildlife resources. Postmarks on mail from 11 principal cities will carry the slogan, "Conserve Canada's Wildlife." The observance in large part is in memory of the late Jack Miner, famous naturalist.

Shortage Of Box Cars Is Under Study

Ottawa, April 7.—(CP)—Demands for action to crack Canada's box-car shortage are piling up on the government's doorstep.

Proposals came yesterday from within and outside Parliament as the car scarcity continued to impede the movement of grain and other commodities.

In the Commons, Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) called on the government to appoint a transport controller and to consider putting an embargo on boxcar movements to the United States to force the return of Canadian-owned cars returning too slowly from U.S. railroads.

Earlier this week the Saskatchewan Legislature had asked for a controller. Yesterday the Canadian Federation of Agriculture asked for some government action to get cars to move western wheat to the west.

Mr. Argue said millions of bushels of grain could not be moved in the west for lack of rolling stock. This not only affected the west but eastern Canada as well, since the grain was needed for feeding livestock.

His request came during a brief discussion last night on annual estimates of the agriculture department.

Earlier, the House gave first reading to a government bill to change the terms of federal aid to marginal gold-mining companies.

The assistance, based on a complex formula hinged to production costs, would amount to between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000 for this year. Under a nearer formula, this year's aid would have been some $3,000,000 less.

Opposition members criticized the new aid as "inadequate," asking a Canadian gold producer be enabled to get at least part of the benefits of the current premium price for gold on the world market. The government now buys gold at $35 (U.S. funds) per fine ounce.

Ottawa, April 7.—Take a good look at the cancellation stamp on the letters you receive next week.

It carries a message which the resources department, and no doubt every animal and bird in this country, hopes will be engraved permanently in the minds and hearts of all Canadians.

The message is "Conserve Canada's Wildlife." You'll hear a lot about it next week, April 8-14, from the pulpit, over the air waves, in schools, theatres, clubs and social gatherings all over Canada.

The occasion is National Wildlife Week, a period of time set aside to pay homage to the late Jack Miner, famed conservationist, and to the animals that he loved.

The post office department, this year, has decided to lend a hand in bringing home the message of conservation to Canadians. Every letter originating in 11 major cities, from Vancouver to St. John's, Nfld., will for the first time bear the cancellation stamp, "Conserve Canada's Wildlife."

A special appeal, to guard against the depletion of the creatures that roam through the woods, is made by Dr. H. F. Lewis, chief of the resources department wildlife service.

Pictures, he says in an interview, a world made up of city streets alone.

"We might possibly survive by producing what we needed to eat in scientific farms on building tops, but sportsmen could no longer hunt and mankind would be deprived, not only of this recreation, but of all the beauty of the natural world."

"The grace and vigor of wild animals would be gone, the majestic flights of migrating fowl would vanish from our skies. . . . It is only when we think of what life would be like without these gifts of nature that it is possible to realize to the full extent how necessary it is to start, now, to see that we do not lose them."

And what is the situation today in the wildlife world while Canadians mark National Wildlife Week, 1951?

Among our best known animals, the beaver and the muskrat, have taken on a new lease of life. In Quebec's James Bay-Abitibi preserves, under scientific management, the beaver has been brought from virtual depletion to a planned crop of 20,000 in 1951.

Thriving also are the canny coyote and her wolf. Dear and plentiful, says the resources department. The annual take in Nova Scotia alone is more than 30,000.

But reports are not so good in other quarters. Large herds of migratory caribou still roam the barren lands of the Northwest Territories, but they have vanished from some of their natural haunts. This has made it tougher for eskimos to get skins and food.

The gamey woodcock has not fully recovered from heavy losses in the severe winter of 1940, and while all shore birds have been protected for years, their increase is slow.

The whooping crane is faring worst of all. Only 32 of Canada's rarest birds are alive in this country.

New Nickels To Be Made From Steel

Ottawa, April 7.—(CP)—Canada is going to quit making nickels out of nickel to save 60 tons a year of the shiny, strategic metal for defence production.

Prime Minister St. Laurent disclosed in the Commons yesterday that after July 1 the Royal Canadian mint will resume the wartime practice of making five-cent pieces out of steel in a chromium finish. An order-in-council authorizing the change was passed April 4.

The July 1 date is when the mint is expected to run out of nickel for making the pure-nickel five-cent pieces now minted. And chances are it won't be able to get any more. All of Canada's nickel production, now running at more than 100,000 tons a year, will be needed by more-vital industries.

All Canada's other coinage except coppers are made of 80 per cent silver and 20 per cent copper, and won't be affected.

Canada has made her nickels of nickel since 1922, except in 1944-45 when she switched to steel and in 1942-43 when copper and zinc were used. This year she issued a five-cent piece commemorating the nickel industry this year. This coin probably will be a casualty of the nickel shortage.

Millions of them already have been issued, but mint officials said if no more nickel can be obtained after July 1, their minting will be stopped. It wouldn't be right, one official said, to make a nickel-commemorative coin out of anything but nickel.

The commemorative coin has an embossed replica of a nickel refinery on one side and the usual head of the King on the other. Canada's ordinary five-cent coin carries

Like Canadians, British Wonder About Their Budget

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, April 7.—(CP)—Britain's favorite guessing game—what's going to be in the budget?—lacks its usual zest this year. Financial experts admit they're stumped.

"It would be a bold man who would deduce confidently whether a harsh or a lenient budget is in prospect," writes the financial editor of the Independent Times.

"The shape of the 1951-52 budget is more than usually difficult to calculate," says the Conservative Yorkshire Post in a front-page story. Why all the hedging? One reason may be that Britain's planners haven't been able to decide how the country's frail finances will be affected by rearmament.

More guns mean fewer pots and pans, and that means inflation. But rising prices may cut down personal spending. So Britain's business-page editors, usually free with their forecasts of budgetary things to come, aren't making many predictions about the secrets which will be unfolded in the House of Commons on budget day next Tuesday.

The experts have reason to be cautious. A while ago they were saying the budget would surely bring certain charges for the national health service, such as a shilling for prescriptions. But Labour Minister Aneurin Bevan, who introduced the service, says he won't remain a member of any government which imposes such charges.

(The service now is free in the Civil Defence Is Key Topic In Britain

By GLENN WILLIAMS

London, April 7.—(AP)—The air-raid sirens of Britain are kept well oiled, ready to shriek warnings of atom bombers any minute the cold war turns hot.

All over the country, board fences around the bone-picked wreckage of the last war's bomb blasts glare with a red-linked posted question: "What are you doing about civil defence?"

Although these are times of tension, with shooting wars in Malaya, Indo-China and Korea, most Britons answer that question with a silent, "Who, me?"

The people of the country are far less ready for another air war than are the warning sirens.

Local and national officials have been crying for civil defence recruits ever since the corps was revived 15 months ago. About 16,000,000 people are eligible to join. Only a few more than 100,000 have done so.

Apathy has not kept the country from pumping fresh life into the heart of its civil defence organization.

Three unique schools, completed with battered houses made realistic by actual blasts of explosives, train instructors to teach the techniques of civil defence against atomic bombs to local volunteers.

This training set up began functioning three years before the second world war, getting Britain ready to withstand a blitz.

Out of its fears Britain built a corps that saved thousands of lives and held in check the ravages of fire bombs.

The people, frightened, hopped to it those days. They thought war was coming. Now they are willing to postpone the day of preparation.

People who might volunteer to conquer high explosives and fire bombs fear atomic radiation. They don't want to stick their necks out for front-line jobs of rescue and first aid work.

There also is that "veteran" feeling among many. More than 2,000,000 were in civil defence forces during the blitz; millions of others survived it. Many apparently think: "I've already been through it. I don't need any more training."

James Millican has the advantage of unnamed Robert Taylor in a tense scene from "Wake of the Red Witch" opening at the Granada Theatre tomorrow. The new picture, filmed on location in the Colorado Rockies, depicts the stand of the American Indian against the encroachment of Western settlers.

ings these days, according to movie makeup expert Del Armstrong, Del ought to know. He's the lad that Lana Turner, Eleanor Parker and Jennifer Jones summon as their personal exterior decorators when they step before the cameras.

"I've just reconstructed Lana's face entirely," Del told me after dabbing at Eleanor's face on Paramount's "Detective Story" set. "I've given her wider eyebrows. Lana lost hers many years ago when she did a bit part in 'Marco Polo.' She shaved off her eyebrows to make her a Mongolian and they never grew back. The same thing happened to Greer Garson when she first came to Hollywood."

Joan Leslie is warming up her emote to return to the screen now that her twins are two months old. For the first time in her career she's free of all agents and legal red tape. "But," she laughed, "every time I tell a studio that, they say, 'Are you SURE you have no contracts with any agents?' Not until I tell them, 'Sure I'm sure' do they believe me."

Gloria Swanson is going ha-ha over rumors that she'll make no more movies. She just resigned with Hollywood agent Helen Albersworth. "Latest candidate for 'Andros and the Lion' is David Wayne. . . . Jose Iturbi In Sherbrooke

Amparo and Jose Iturbi, who will appear together in a two-piano recital at the Granada Theatre on April 28, will be making one of their first appearances together since they returned from Europe where their concerts were hailed as one of the outstanding musical events of the season.

Featuring Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," arranged for two pianos by Mr. Iturbi, was a shock to European music lovers—until they heard it. They played it for the first time at the famed La Scala in Milan where, before their concert, they were severely criticized for offering American "jazz" in one of the world's citadels of classical music. Concluding the program with it, it was greeted with such cheers of approval that they were forced to repeat it in its entirety as an encore. Its overwhelming success at La Scala was repeated wherever they played it thereafter.

The Iturbis are also including three vital Spanish dances on their program, written for them by their friend and compatriot, Manuel Infante. They are called "Ritmo" (Rhythm), "Sentimiento" (Sentiment) and "Vito" (Speed) and are as musically interesting as their titles.

Another outstanding feature of the program is a satirical suite called "All American" written especially for the Iturbis by a young Negro doctor, J. Clarence Chambers. It is subdivided into four parts entitled, "Chicken in the Hay," "Lush," "Bloozy Wooley," and "Parade of the Visiting Firemen." This is that rarely in musical composition—a beautifully written satire of American music which actually make its hearers laugh!

The "meat" of the program is the great Mozart D Major Sonata for two pianos, Debussy's beautiful and moving "En Blanc et Noir" (In Black and White) and three of Spain's great classics for the piano, "El Pelele" (The Puppet) by Granados, and the justly renowned "Pantomime" and "Fire Dance" by Manuel de Falla.

Civic Operation Of Bus Service Would Net $100,000, Hamel Says

Explaining a by-law which he intends to introduce at an early session of the City Council for municipalizing the urban transportation system in Sherbrooke, Ald. Paul Hamel declared that the civic operation of the local bus services should provide the city with a net profit approximating $100,000 annually.

According to information in his possession, an investment of approximately $400,000 would be required to purchase the fleet of buses required for this service. The buses, delivery of which has been assured before the franchise of the Sherbrooke City Transit Company, Ltd., expires at the end of 1951, would be driven by propane motors, said to be the latest word in autobus motive power. The fact that the city at the present time possesses a propane gas plant should effect a substantial saving in the cost of fuel, Mr. Hamel continued.

The chief object of civic operation of the bus lines, he said, was to provide an additional source of revenue to the city and such a move would serve to round out the present utilities set-up whereby the municipality is now engaged in the production and distribution of gas and electricity and of providing water services.

In addition, he believed that a municipal bus system would provide superior service to the citizens.

Dealing with the profit possibilities, he pointed out that the 1949 financial statement showed the Sherbrooke City Transit Company made a net profit of $108,866.35 in that year.

Since the franchise was renewed five years ago, the company has paid to the city a total of $87,635.64 based on its gross revenues. Indicating how the revenues of the company have been expanding constantly, he pointed out that the initial contribution was $12,542.29 in 1946, mounting to $12,105.61 in 1947, $14,816.12 in 1948, $16,395.17 in 1949 and $17,775.54 in 1950.

The 1949 contribution was based on a gross revenue of $368,602.23 from the transportation of passengers.

Serge Garant To Be Heard As Soloist

In addition to James Burke, famed trumpet soloist with the Goldman Band, the Harmonie de Sherbrooke will present one of its own musicians as soloist at the annual spring concert to be given at the Granada Theatre May 1st.

This year the local soloist will be Serge Garant, pianist, who made so favorable an impression at the band's concert two years ago when he played the solo part in George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

Since then he has appeared as clarinet soloist with the band; received a special award from the Quebec Association of Amateur Bands for study in New York; and won first prize in the competition for composers, sponsored by the Festival de la Jeunesse. He will be the soloist in his most recent composition, "Suite for Piano and Band," which was written especially for this concert.

Mr. Burke, the guest soloist, will play Edwin Franko Goldman's fantasy for trumpet and band, "The Bugler" as well as a special arrangement of the ever-popular "Carnival of Venice" by Erik Leidzen.

The band, under the direction of Harry Long, will present a program devoted to music written directly for band by Beethoven, Wagner, Tchaikovsky, William Schuman, Gossec, and others.

Oscar Wilde Play Planned At Bishop's

For their major production this year, the Dramatics Society of Bishop's University has chosen Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest." It will be performed on two nights only, Friday and Saturday, April 13th and 14th, under the direction of Mr. A. J. Motyer.

Although the play was written in 1895 it has lost none of its vitality, as was confirmed by John Gielgud in his now famous New York production of a few years ago. A modern audience has the added advantage of seeing the period of elegance and superficial manners in proper perspective, and it is a view which cannot fail to delight and amuse a less inhibited generation. There is perhaps no comedy in the whole repertoire of the English theatre which can approach this either for the brilliance of its dialogue or for the amusing artificiality of its situations.

Each character is drawn with consummate skill, and all the parts whether large or small have a polish which is unmistakably Wildean — the urbane John Worthing, the bouncy Algernon Moncrieff (both of whom live for the name of Ernest), the imperious Lady Bracknell, the sophisticated Gwendoline, the somewhat naive Cecily, the questionable governess, Miss Prism, and the Reverend Canon Chasuble. And of course a list of this sort must include two butlers of the "Jeeves" variety, Lane and Merriman.

Many Plans Brought Forward For Reorganizing City Election System

The suggestion advanced by Mayor Charles B. Howard that future Sherbrooke mayors be elected for a three-year term instead of the present two years has brought forward many other plans for the reorganization of the Sherbrooke municipal election system.

That most generally favored is the election of all aldermen simultaneously instead of the existing practice of electing them for three year terms, but in rotation. Now three aldermen are elected in each of two years and four in the third year. The proponents of the change maintain that it would give the citizens closer control over the Council and permit the election of a reform slate when conditions at the City Hall are believed unsatisfactory.

Some, concerned over the gradual reduction of the number of English-speaking representatives at the City Hall, believe steps should be taken to protect the minority group. They favor the election of eight or ten ward aldermen, who would be normally French-speaking citizens, and the election of two aldermen at large by the English-speaking voters.

At one time the North Ward was predominantly English-speaking and such steps were held unnecessary, but the shift in population, the increase in the French population across the Magog river and the movement of many English-speaking families to other parts of the city, has changed conditions.

Another group would have two classes of aldermen, one in each ward elected by the proprietors and a second elected by the joint vote of proprietors and tenants.

Those advancing this idea declare that the proprietors, who provide the bulk of the tax revenues, should have more say over the manner in which the city monies are spent.

Others have come forward with a rather novel plan. They would elect just one alderman from each of the five wards and five by a vote of the citizens at large. By doing this they believe there would be more efficient government. Five of the aldermen, they say, would be busy in the traditional matter of ward politics, getting public works and improvements for their own section, while five and the mayor could pay their attention to the wider matters of civic administration.

Then, of course, there is the perennial issue of revising the ward boundaries to balance the representation, removing the overrepresentation of the Centre and South Wards and relieving the excessive burden on the North, East and West ward representatives.

Tom Thumb Nursery At Magog Teaches Toddlers How To Get Along Together

By MARGARET DOHERTY

Even youngsters under five can learn to get along together without too many squabbles, if they are handled properly.

At least that is the opinion of Mrs. Ken Willis who recently opened a co-operative nursery school in Magog for this purpose.

The venture, launched in January of this year, has already justified her confidence in it and is now being carried on twice a week with continued success.

Called the Tom Thumb Nursery, it is a cooperative non-paying project, the mothers of the children contributing in some way or other to the various activities.

Feeling the need of such a school for the small fry, Mrs. Willis visited Dr. W. E. Blatz' nursery school in Toronto, which incidentally is considered a model one, and returned with a copy of his program, revising it to suit the particular requirements of her group and the space available.

Group activity is the main point stressed. The children play together and when the occasional frowns or tears appear, those in charge seek to prevent monopoly of a particular toy or game, and maintain friendly relations by distracting their attention and interesting them in something equally attractive.

Mrs. Willis opens her home on Wednesday and Friday mornings to ten children, between the ages of 2½ and 5.

The program consists of a play period outside, which is supervised. The children then come into the house where they have fruit juice and cookies. Free choice play follows, organized games and projects, story telling, finger painting and the playing of records. Every effort is made to instill in the child respect for other people's desires and property, and the ability to get along with others.

There is no compulsion whatsoever, as is the case in a regular school. The children are not forced to do anything but are encouraged.

Mrs. Willis is ably assisted in her work by the mothers who take on a number of the duties. Mrs. Jack Gilechrist is telephone convener, Mrs. Osborne Holt is in charge of transportation of the children and acts as assistant supervisor, Mrs. Lang Allison has the same duties, Mrs. Julius Richardson is the secretary, and Mrs. Allan Scott is permanent supervisor, attending every day.

The children were sporting new smocks when we visited them and we were told that the material was donated by Mrs. Clarence Styan while the smocks themselves were made by Mrs. William Sugars. Mrs. William Whitaker, donated the finger paint and is an assistant supervisor. The parents are also grateful to Mrs. Lyle Ross who, although she has no child at the nursery, gives freely of her time.

The only charge for attendance is ten cents a day to cover cost of the fruit juice and cookies.

Mrs. Willis, a Nova Scotian and graduate of Mount Allison University, claims that her husband, former Sherbrooke boy who is now Supervisor of Protestant Schools in the County, has no objection to having his home turned into a nursery, in fact he thinks it's a good idea. She did admit however that it is never there during the day and so is in no way inconvenient.

Completing the happy group is Tory, a friendly little dog who greeted us on our arrival, leading the way to the front door of the apartment and pushing it open with a great show of proprietorship.

GESTURE OF ECONOMY

Reduction of the number of postal deliveries in residential districts of cities and large towns is expected to save a few million dollars a year, and therefore should be counted upon Ottawa for righteousness. It also has the effect of inconveniencing a number of taxpayers, which prompts The Printed Word to comment that one cannot avoid the suspicion that Ottawa intended a mild chastisement for those taxpayers who were impudent enough to suggest that their money be spent with some regard to economy.

There had been no public demand for cutting down on the ordinary postal service. The post office, on paper, even shows a modest profit on its operations. Some of the revenue for which it receives credit comes from selling stamps that are used on cheques, and not by any means are all the expenses of the service charged against it. Nevertheless, in comparison with some other departments, the post office is a shining example of efficiency.

If economy had been really desired in the post office, a good place to begin would have been in the airmail service. Citizens who want the luxury of airmail should be willing to pay an extra fee for it. The others can jog along quite contentedly with the railway mail service for first-class mail, as everyone had to only a few years ago.

Now that the faint gesture of economy has been made, the taxpayers may be expected to look with equanimity at the $65,000,000 of their money to be spent to save the face of the Minister of Agriculture.

DARKER AND DARKER

British people in recent years have looked forward with increasing foreboding to the annual economic survey prepared by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The survey is what it says—an up-to-the-minute review of Britain's general economic situation, upon which the fiscal and taxation policies of the annual budget can be based. This year, in view of the world-wide re-armament and shortage of materials, the survey paints a gloomy picture.

Admittedly, the lean and grim Sir Stafford Cripps has vanished from the treasury, but the jovial and rotund Hugh Gaitskell has had to look the grim facts squarely in the eye, and his report gives ample promise of greater austerity ahead. The actual details, translated into pounds, shillings and pence, and the cost-of-living, will be known next week when the budget is brought down.

The Exchequer head bluntly warned the British people that they would have to cut their standard of living below its present meagre level to finance the re-armament program. Such a program was necessary in view of today's world; therefore, arrangements must be made to pay for it. This would include higher taxes, shortages of materials for civilian consumer goods, impositions of more controls to get materials, factory space and workers, and lengthening of the present seven-year waiting list for automobiles. The food ration would probably not be reduced, but it would be "no better."

The survey predicted a four per cent increase in industrial production, but it was doubtful whether the raw materials for this boost could be obtained. This would mean, at best, "a decline in the rate of increase in the national output, worsening of the balance of international payments (since exports inevitably must fall as defence production rises), a fall in supplies of consumer goods, and continuing rise in prices."

The immediate economic prospect will undoubtedly have political repercussions in the United Kingdom, although the Government can hardly be blamed for the international situation. Nevertheless, the Government has warned the powerful trade unions—who form the Government's strongest bulwark—not to press for higher wages even though a considerable increase in the cost of living is coming. There is a promise to control inflation, but the methods are not revealed.

CUP RUNNETH OVER

The editor of the "Western Christian Advocate," of Macon, Georgia, presents his readers with the following version of a well-known Psalm, which although it is written concerning the United States might well have application to this country:

"The government is my shepherd, I need not work. It allows me to lie down on good jobs; it leadeth me beside still factories. It destroyeth my initiative; it leads me into the paths of the parasite for politics' sake. Yea, tho' I walk through the valley of laziness and deficit spending, I will fear no evil; for the government is with me; its doles and its vote-getters, they comfort me. It prepareth an economic Utopia for me by appropriating the earnings of my grandchildren. It filleth my head with bologna; my inefficiency runneth over. Surely the government shall care for me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in a fool's paradise forever."

IT ALL DEPENDS

St. John's News
It all depends on the part of Canada you come from whether the wheat deal payoff was a raid on the federal treasury or a mealy insult to the farmers.

The whole sorry mess is an unhappy sample of what can happen when governments decide to go into trading and all the taxpayers are the victims of it.

THE EDITOR BREAKS LINK IN

Shawinigan Standard
Recently the editor received one of those silly and asinine chain letters headed "Chain of Good Luck," in which we were warned that "the person who breaks the chain will surely receive bad luck. Do not keep this letter, it must be mailed within 72 hours of receipt." What utter nonsense.

Instructions were to cancel the top name and add your own to the bottom, and make twelve copies and mail them to your friends. Well, we have broken the chain, so will have to suffer the consequences. We think too much of our friends to inflict such on them. What amazes us are the intelligent people who are literally "sucked" in by such silliness, or who must be superstitious—or something. Frankly, we think the letters should be banned postal privileges and those guilty of forwarding them through the mail should be penalized. But, then if it makes some people happy, who are we to criticize. On the other hand, probably it makes some people a bit crazed.

The amazing feature of these crazy letters are the intelligent persons whose names appear therein. (In our case we knew several of the signers). Is it fear for themselves or interest in the welfare of their so-called friends which prompts their action to spread such rot? The answers would be interesting.

Here are more of the contents of the letter: "A private in the Philippine Army won first prize in a sweepstake for complying with this chain. Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected for his third term as President of the United States 52 hours after he mailed this letter. Detective de Druide H. Villeneuve of the city of Bougie laughed at this chain of good luck, and met with instantaneous death in an accident on June 14th, 1945. Colonel James Archer failed to pass on this letter and died at the stake in the Belgian Congo on December 19, 1948." These, we presume, are to show the rewards for keeping the chain going, and the fatal results for failure to pass the letter along.

We are not interested in chain letters, and if our luck, life, or death, depends upon faith in chain letters and being a party to the distribution of such nonsense, then such is fate. This is not the time we have thrown such trash in the waste basket. So, if you are a friend of ours please take us off your "sucker" list of chain letters.

STILL PICKING ON LANDLORDS

Ottawa Journal
An esteemed contemporary, the Calgary Albertan, prints an editorial entitled "Usury in the Rental Field" which argues that since it is against the law to charge excessive interest on borrowed money it should be equally against the law to make an excessive charge for the rent of a house. "If money," it asks, "more sacrosanct than a home?"

Nobody likes a profiteer, and those who make extortionate charges for cabbages or washing machines or shoes or any line of goods can expect to suffer from the public disfavor. Happily competition as a rule keeps down the greed with which many of us are afflicted.

Competition used to serve also in the field of rentals, to assure fair prices, but the shortage of housing has interfered with effective operation of the economic law of supply and demand. There was more demand than supply, rents threatened to get out of hand, and that is why government control of housing was imposed upon us.

Because housing is a necessity its owners have had to endure regulation, suspicion and abuse. A man with a bit of money saved up could invest it in ash trays or Japanese prints, in old postage stamps or used automobiles, and sell for all the more he was acclaimed as a smart businessman. But let a provident couple save their money to put into a house, with the idea that its rent would support them in their old age, and they become usurers, thoroughly despicable persons who would profit from a national emergency and an inflationary market.

Rent control no doubt has prevented some profiteering, some economic injustice, but right is not always on its side. It is housing control too, and in some cases it has protected the profiteering tenant against the more deserving owner. General rules applied over a country cannot be adjusted to specific cases in which they may work a hardship—we have told in these columns on several occasions of the unhappy plight of landlords helpless in the grip of controls.

Some look upon a kind word for the landlords as a defence of extortion and greed; the fact is, of course, that they are no better and no worse than the average Canadian and no more likely than their tenants to rob little children of their pennies.

THE RECORD

Detroit Free Press
History will make a note of the fact that Theodore Roosevelt never contributed any new, or different, theories of economics or politics. He proclaimed, like a fiery evangelist, the fundamental doctrine of morality as handed down by Moses. So vociferous was he that Elihu Root, the greatest scholar of law ever produced in America, and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, once presented "T.R." as the "original discoverer of the Ten Commandments."

We cannot help thinking of T.R. as we contemplate the present situation in Washington. We cannot help thinking of what T.R. would have said or done in his word or action or that of any of his subordinates had he not even doubt Donald Dawson, key figure in the RFC investigation, nor will he permit him to be asked about his record as the brains of the RFC racketeers. Was ever national government at a lower ebb?

SOUND TECHNIQUE BRINGS HOME BACON

North tried hard to play today's hand at three no-trump, as I. T. Sun reports in a recent issue of "The Bridge World." East's bid of four spades could have been set 500 points, but North thought that five diamonds would be more profitable. It was, thanks to South's expert play.

South carefully refused to win the first round of spades but took the second, of course, with dummy's ace. He returned a low heart from dummy and won with the king in his own hand. (East dared not play the ace, since then declarer would make two heart tricks.)

Now South could afford to draw two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy. Next he returned a low club, finessing the queen from his own hand. Then declarer led out all the rest of the trumps, saving the queen of hearts and two clubs in dummy.

East dared not blank his king of clubs, since then South could cash the ace of clubs to set up dummy's jack. Hence East had to save two clubs and one heart. Thereupon he was thrown in with the heart to lead away from his king of clubs. Declarer was bound to make dummy's jack of clubs and his own ace.

The final position could not have been reached, as Mr. Sun points out, if dummy had taken the first spade trick. East would have saved a low spade for exit at the end, and would not have been forced to lead away from his clubs.

Likewise, declarer had to tackle the side suits before drawing trumps. Entries to dummy were too scarce to draw trumps first. Finally, South had to begin the hearts before touching the clubs. An excellent example of sound technique.

After Death—What?

By REV B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Those of us who have loved ones in the Silent Land must occasionally ask questions regarding them. If we have reached middle age, hear of our friends are already over the border. Those we have loved, the dearest and best are there; their laughter is still in our ears, the light in their eyes haunts us. They were more than all the world to us and now... silence!

ANOTHER LIFE

Instinctively, man believes in another life after death. Even the primitive North American Indian carried his bow and arrow believing he would use them again in the Happy Hunting Ground of the Blest. Followers of Mohammed anticipate a heaven as a garden filled with beautiful women and every sensual delight. To Buddhists existence is a sad mixture of sorrow and illusion which no one would wish to have continued yet most must continue through successive eras of penance until final release comes by the letting out of individual personality. Confucius future life, devoid equally of hope or fear and having no relation to the actions and results of the present—a ghastly affair, damp and depressing.

Jesus, in marked contrast, was very definite. "Where I go," He said, "there ye shall go also." (John 14:3). "In My Father's House are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you. I go and prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto Myself that where I am, there ye may be also." (John 14:1-3).

Here, then, in these golden words are found all the stimulus a man needs in facing the stern realities of this life; they also contain all the solace that he needs as he confronts the gathering shadows that haunt the portals of the life to come.

Of the many questions that reach me from near and far—even as far as India and Japan, England, and up in the great North land—the question of AFTER DEATH—WHAT? leads all the rest. So, in this written spiritual conversation, I shall attempt to answer some of them.

First of all, I must emphasize that after death comes judgment. Don't forget that! Fortunately the Judge will be Our Saviour! But this is a moral universe with the Ten Commandments as our code of conduct. So there must be a reckoning—a separation of good and evil—a sifting of moral and spiritual values. Those who have willfully and deliberately refused to obey the Voice of God will sentence themselves as being unworthy of living in the presence of God and must expect to hear a "Depart ye into everlasting shame among the goats." And those who have endeavored to walk in God's appointed way will find themselves

The Record Short Story

GOOD RIDDANCE

By MAY HOLT BATCHELDER

Neva Robbins, vigorously vacuuming her green living-room carpet, beamed at the silver-framed photograph on the piano. The beautiful dark-eyed girl in the picture smiled back at her.

"So extravagant, you mean, mother," corrected Floyd. "That's Suzanne's greatest fault. She's careless about money. Why, do you know," he said, an annoyed frown creasing his pale forehead, "she'll buy a hat on sudden impulse instead of planning for weeks how to manage it on a budget."

"A woman should always buy a hat on impulse," protested Neva, remembering the expensive lilac hat she'd bought quite unexpectedly yesterday just because it made her hair look coppery, her eyes lavender.

"Suzanne must be taught how to save," said Floyd coldly. "She's young and I can soon train her in thrift. After we're married I shall manage all the money. She will, of course, give up her job. I shall give her a modest allowance. But," he said, his lips tightening, "my wife will have to account to me for every penny."

Chills ran up and down Neva's spine. Oh, no, she thought in dismay, Floyd couldn't mean it; he couldn't treat a wonderful girl like Suzanne that way. A girl who worked and was used to her own money. She'd shrivel up like a dried autumn leaf if she were married to a skinflint. Like Floyd, like her father, Neva shuddered at the memory of her husband's blighting stinginess.

She took a careful sip of water. Then she said, "Oh, Floyd, you can't do that. Modern girls are used to freedom."

"When they marry they expect money to be on a sharing basis. Why, your theory belongs to the dark ages before women were free. You certainly can't mean that you're going to be one of those tyrannical tight-fisted men who say to their wives: 'What? More money? What did you do with that dollar I gave you last week?'"

"I most certainly am, mother," asserted Floyd, his voice tight with annoyance. "Suzanne cannot be trusted with money. I shall watch every penny. But," he added cautiously, "I won't tell her until after we're married."

Neva Robbins went that night.

after her son had gone back to his economical habits. She wept because Floyd was so much like his father, that most detestable type: a stingy man. But most of all she wept for sweet young warm-hearted Suzanne, who never dreamed that marriage with Floyd, a man 10 years her senior who had impressed her with his stability and common sense, would mean heartache and misery. Because Suzanne was so like Neva herself, impetuous and generous, Neva knew that marriage with Floyd would mean financial handcuffs on the girl's slender wrists.

Neva lay awake through the night, staring at the ceiling, and it wasn't until dawn came up over the East River that she knew what she must do.

She called Suzanne at noon at the office. "Meet me for dinner, will you, honey?" and her eyes shined with tears at the sound of Suzanne's happy voice.

At dinner in the small quiet tearoom Neva told Suzanne about Floyd's father—his fanatical preoccupation with money, her own unhappiness. And now, she told Suzanne, Floyd proposed to treat his wife the same way. But he wouldn't tell her until after the wedding.

Suzanne's pretty face had paled with shock as she listened to Neva's warmly affectionate voice. Then she and Neva looked down at the same instant at Suzanne's left hand, which rested on the table. Floyd's engagement ring was the least expensive one he could possibly get away with; the diamond was scarcely bigger than a pinhead.

"See what I mean, honey," said Neva gently. "Floyd has lots of money. He saved every cent of his captain's pay in the Army. He has thousands of dollars. He could have, and should have, bought you a handsome diamond ring."

Suzanne wept a little. "I don't know what to do," she murmured. "I was so impressed by Floyd's manner, the sense of security he, as an older man, gave me. I thought he loved me unselfishly and would be a kind and generous husband. I—I didn't realize it was a trap!"

"I suppose," said Neva, "that I'm a cruel and unnatural mother. To tell you the bitter truth about my own son. To warn you against his stinginess. But, oh, my dear," she said brokenly, "you're too fine and lovable a girl to be enslaved by a—skinflint."

The following Thursday night, as usual, Floyd came to dinner with his mother. His pale eyes narrowed as he told her that Suzanne had broken the engagement. "For no good reason. She was wearing another extravagant hat. All frivolous roses and tulips," he said bitterly. "After she'd told me she'd decided she didn't want to marry me, and had given me back my ring, she said: 'How do you like my new hat, Floyd? I spent half my week's salary on it. Just on impulse. And it makes me very happy!' Can you imagine such a spendthrift Mother! Well," he said, unfolding his napkin and staring at the pale pink lobster bisque, rich with butter and cream, that Neva had made for him, "I must say I'm well off of it. Suzanne's an irresponsible, extravagant girl. Good riddance."

"Good riddance," Neva echoed softly, tears in her downcast eyes. But she didn't mean Suzanne, that sweet warm-hearted girl who, some day soon, she hoped, would meet a generous man who'd make her his happy and cherished wife.

Ezzard Charles Signs To Defend His Title Against Joey Maxim On May 30 In Chicago Stadium Ring

Chicago, April 7. — (AP) — Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles' title defense against Joey Maxim, lightweight king, at Chicago Stadium May 30 was all set yesterday.

President Jim Norris presided at the signing ceremony yesterday for the 15-round bout.

The contracts call for Charles to get $40 per cent of the net gate and Maxim 20. There was no provision on the contracts for television fees, but Norris explained Charles would get 40 per cent and Maxim 20 per cent of whatever television plum develops.

The two fighters also agreed to a re-match within 90 days if Maxim upsets the Cincinnati champion who outpointed him in three previous meetings. The re-match split would be 30-30.

When he signed the re-match contract, Charles grinner at his manager, Jake Mintz, and quipped: "We don't need this, do we?"

In their last meeting, a 15-rounder at Cincinnati Feb. 28, 1949, Charles won a split decision from Maxim. Mintz conceded yesterday that if that bout had been a 10-rounder "my tiger would have lost."

There was no mention at yesterday's ceremony of former champion Joe Louis, who had been expected to fight Charles here April 11. The bout was cancelled because of Charles' ear injury. Charles thumped Louis at New York last Sept. 27.

Mintz and Jack Kearns, Maxim's manager, joked about the possibility of getting their fighters down to 175 and fighting for "two titles at once" May 30. Chairman Joe Trainer of the Commission squelched this bantering with a reminder Maxim recently signed to defend his light heavyweight crown against Bob Satterfield at Chicago Stadium June 27.

Charles, 29 and Maxim, 28, yesterday each weighed 186.

Jack Gardner, British Champ, Hold 3 Titles

London, April 7. — (Reuters) — Jack Gardner, Britain's latest white hope in the fist world, holds three heavyweight titles — but admits he's a novice.

The lately-crowned British, British Empire and European heavyweight king, turned professional less than three years ago. He has had only a couple of dozen pro fights for money and sometimes, against more experienced opponents, he looks it.

Against Austria's Jo Wiedin last month, when he captured the European crown here, he had the loser in trouble most of the 15 rounds. But never once, despite his six-foot-two frame, carrying 215 pounds, did Gardner punch his weight.

Gardner's next fight is scheduled for May 22 in London with Caesar Brion of Argentina. The bout had been set for April 24 but Gardner injured his left thumb.

When Gardner won his other two titles from a fading Bruce Woodcock last November he scored a technical knockout over the Yorkshireman in 11 rounds — but it was a cut on the loser's easily-punctured eyebrows, not Gardner's knockout ability, that finished the fight.

There's another blot on Gardner's record. Vern Escoc, Toronto negro who holds the Canadian title, has beaten him twice — a fifth-round TKO in 1949 and an eight-round decision in 1950. Escoc, never a ring genius, still had too much boxing savvy for the youthful, floundering ex-sergeant.

Gardner would like a spell of training in the United States before he takes on Ezzard Charles, Lee Savold or whoever then is recognized as world champion.

Married, with a two-year-old daughter Jackalyn, Gardner lives quietly in the sleepy Leicestershire town of Market Harborough.

41 Thoroughbreds Still Listed To Start In Grand National Today

Aintree, England, April 7. — (AP) — The Irish-bred jumper Shagreen emerged last night as a clear favorite to win today's 105th running of the Grand National steeplechase.

Shagreen, owned by James V. Rank, millionaire flour miller, replaced the American-owned Arctic Gold as top choice for the tough 4½-mile grind.

At the final culliver of odds in London last night, bookmakers listed Shagreen at 17 to 2. Arctic Gold, owned by American sportsman John Hay (Jack) Whitney, was listed at 9 to 1. Previously, the two horses had been joint favorites at 8 to 1.

The 10-year-old bay gelding Shagreen has been increasing in popularity since early March when he ran a good trial in treacherous weather and footing.

Third and fourth in the final odds list were Freebooter, half brother to an Irish plowhorse and winner last year, 100 to 9, and Roinmond and Cloncarraig at 100 to 8 each. Since 1931, the National has formed the basis for an Irish Hospital Sweepstakes draw.

Roinmond was second to Russian Hero in the 1949 National, while Cloncarraig was leading last year when he fell two fences from home in the 30-jump course.

Barring a sudden change in the weather — it's been chilly but dry here for three days — about 38 or 39 horses west to the post at 10:15 A. M. EST.

The still-eligible Lucky Purchase and Hal's Venture are considered almost definite non-starters, while Royal Tan is on the doubtful list.

Gehrmann Beats Wilt In Legion Meet

Montreal, April 7. — (AP) — Some 4,500 Montreal track fans today are convinced of the superiority of Don Gehrmann over Fred Wilt in the mile run, feature event in last night's Canadian Legion annual indoor track meet.

Gehrmann, running for the University of Wisconsin, ran away in the final lap to take the event from Wilt, of New York, and add to his conquests this season over the New Yorker.

Gehrmann ran the distance in 4:12.4, bettering the previous mark of 4:16.6 held by the American flying parson, Gil Dodds.

In third place was Stewart Ray of the New York Athletic Club. Ray started off fast, Gehrmann and Wilt sticking together. Gehrmann held off until the final lap before making his move. He shot in front with three-quarters of a lap to go and finished four yards ahead of Wilt.

Both the Canadian and provincial marks of 4:26.4 and 4:30.4 were shattered in the Eastern Canada mile event by Bill Parnell of Vancouver, running for Washington State University. His time was 4:19.7.

In second place was John Alexander of Montreal while third was John Joe Barry of Villa Nova College, Philadelphia.

In the 500-yard open event, Herb McKinley of Jamaica came home first, keeping the race in hand all the way.

Don McEwen of Ottawa and University of Michigan broke the Canadian indoor record in the two-mile run, lapping his field for a mark of 9:08.2.

McEwen wasn't even extended, moving in front of the field at the start and holding his advantage to the finish. The Canadian open record was 9:14.6.

Rain could cause a big shift in sentiment, for Shagreen prefers good going. Freebooter needs good-to-firm underfooting because of his topweight of 175 pounds. Arctic Gold probably would fare the best of the three in mud because he's in with a comparatively-light load of 153 pounds. Shagreen carries 170.

Bookmakers at the course yesterday were offering 7 to 1 against Shagreen and 8 to 1 against Arctic Gold. The bookies — legal on English race courses — opened for business early today.

Connaught Darts Team Wins Match

North Hatley, April 7. — Connaught Inn defeated the LaSalle Five O'Clock Club of Sherbrooke 27-21 in an inter-club darts match here last night.

Vera McCrea and Doris Sawyer, unbeaten in four games, were the top Connaught combination, while Gordon Norton and Bill McGregor had a similar record for the Five O'Clock Club.

In the playoffs, the ladies team defeated Norton and McGregor two games to one.

Charlottetown Ties Maritime Series

Charlottetown, April 7. — Rocketing Johnny Horek rammed in an early third period goal last night to give Charlottetown Islanders a 3-2 victory over Sydney Millionaires in the fifth game of the Maritime major hockey finals.

The win tied the best-of-seven series at two games each, with one game tied. Sixth and seventh games will be played at Sydney Monday and Tuesday. Winner of the playoffs will be the Maritime representative for the new Alexander Cup.

The winning goal came after a Sydney power play battle. The Cape Breton champions put on the pressure when Charlottetown's Phil Vitale was off for tripping. But the puck bounced to the centre ice zone and first man after it was Islanders' Johnny Horek.

Horek streaked down the wing in a breakaway, drew Pidsodny out of position, and rifled the puck in behind him.

Morality Problems

what has happened to morality. Only one, Dr. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of New York's Interdenominational Church, thought morality had deteriorated. He said that in more than 40 years of church work he had never seen moral standards in America as low as they now are.

Mrs. Fulton J. Sheen, prominent Roman Catholic churchman, did not believe a downward trend had begun, generally, in public morality. But if a crisis in morals has appeared, he said, American schools and newspapers have been large contributing factors.

The schools had denied responsibility for teaching morals and ethics. He conceded that newspapers report only what has already happened, but by selection, he said, they give a distorted picture of life in America.

As an antidote to disclosures of corruption, he urged that every newspaper "publish, on its front page, every day, just one story of virtue," because "people are encouraged by examples of good."

New Nickels

ries a large "V" and a torch of freedom on its reverse side. These are the coins that will be made of chromium-finished steel after July 1.

It takes a pound of nickel to make 100 five-cent pieces. And since Canada issues about 12,000,000 such coins a year, the annual saving will be in the vicinity of 120,000 pounds of pure nickel.

The mint stamps out coins at the order of the Bank of Canada which places its order in relation to the supply and demand for five-cent pieces throughout the country.

Steel nickels with the chromium-finish have a bluish shine, retain their color and cannot be distinguished from the pure-nickel nickel unless closely examined.

Canadians, said a mint official, probably won't even notice the difference.

And its certain they'll go on calling a nickel just that—even though it's no longer made of nickel, or worth a pre-war nickel.

Monte Irvin Is Needed In Giants' Outfield, So Artie Wilson Gets A Shot At First Base Position

Mobile, Ala. — Leo Durocher came up with a new one in deciding that Artie Wilson, utility infielder, should be given a chance to make the regular lineup.

Wilson may be tried at first base, with Monte Irvin returning to the outfield.

Wilson is the 30-year-old Negro the Giants bought from Oakland of the Pacific Coast League for infield protection. He is very fast and a sharp left-hand hitter, although not a power man. He has hit .480 in training.

Durocher, who has been excited about him all spring, says Wilson can hit anybody, and is so fast the opposition doesn't know how to play him.

"There's nothing like having that speed in the lineup," Leo says.

"When Wilson comes to bat, the third baseman is even with the bag, the shortstop comes in three steps. The infielders just don't know where they are. And when he gets on first base they, all move up, afraid he's going to steal."

Wilson Doesn't Pop Up

Another item that impresses him, Durocher says, is that Wilson seldom hits a fly ball.

"It's either a line drive over somebody's head," Leo says, "or it's a ground ball that he's got a chance to beat out. He never hits a ball more than 20 feet high."

So far, Wilson has been used only at shortstop and at second base in exhibitions. But he has been used at first base and Durocher seems convinced he can play there.

"I might try him at first base for a few days if Irvin doesn't come around," Leo says.

Irvin has been out of the lineup with a pulled leg muscle.

"Wilson believes he can play first base," adds Durocher. "He knows he can hit. I know he can hit, too. I guarantee he'll hit 300 in our league."

The Giant manager predicts that if Wilson wins a regular position he probably will hit second, behind Stanky. Whitey Lockman would become the No. 3 hitter.

Behind this brainstorm of Leo's, there are a couple of things besides Wilson's attractiveness.

Irvin's Arm Needed

One is that the Giants would rather have Irvin play the outfield so more use could be made of his powerful arm.

Restauranteur Still Serious

Guy Menard, 23, severely burned in Tuesday's fire which damaged his restaurant in East Sherbrooke, is only a little better and remains seriously ill, according to authorities at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. The condition of Maurice Letourneau, also injured in the blaze, is better, the hospital said.

The third man hospitalized as result of the fire, Albert Rheume, is improving at Hotel Dieu, although authorities there said he passed a restless night because of his burns.

One other man, Willie Bibeault, was also injured but was released following first-aid hospital treatment, the day of the fire.

The fire, which claimed the life of 18-year-old Benoit Roy, employee of a local oil company coincided with the delivery of oil to the restaurant. Firemen say that the fire and the explosion which set it off was caused by fuel oil fumes.

Injured Men Return Home

The three Americans injured when their car went out of control and into a ditch off the Stansfield highway Thursday afternoon left for their homes in the U.S. last night.

Paul Estie, 42, of Somerville, Mass., was most seriously injured, receiving cuts on his head. His companions, Howard Layking, also of Somerville, and J. Reval, of Haverhill, Mass., suffered less serious injuries and were released from hospital after receiving first-aid treatment.

The injured men were taken to Sherbrooke Hospital by Blake's ambulance. Authorities at the hospital said last night that Estie had been discharged and was leaving for home with his two friends.

Their car heavily damaged after hitting a telephone pole and landing in a ditch near Massawippi, the Americans were obliged to return home by train.

G. E. Gill Passes At Richmond

Richmond, April 7. — This town was saddened by the sudden death of one of its highly respected citizens, G. Ernest Gill, plumber, who passed away Friday morning while at his work.

The deceased was born at Liverpool, England, coming to Canada to reside at an early age. He was a veteran of World War One and a member of St. Francis Masonic Lodge, No. 15, A.F. and A.M.

He is survived by his wife, the former Merna Smith.

Funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. at St. Anne's Anglican Church. Rev. George Harrington officiating. Interment will take place at St. Anne's Cemetery.

Madrid, April 7. — (AP) — The Spanish government announced today that it is taking "drastic measures" to halt the soaring cost of living. The announcement said rationing will be reinstated for a number of food products, many of which have been ration-free for years. Penalties for black market operators will be increased.

IN MEMORIAM

1942-ANDERSON-1951 — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Pearl Anderson, who passed away on April 7th, 1951.

"To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."

Sadly missed by HER FAMILY.

BERNICE AND OREN CAMPBELL, Daughter And Son-in-Law, Bishopston.

BESSIE AND RAY CAMPBELL, Daughter And Son-in-Law, East Angus.

FRANK AND MURIEL ANDERSON, Son And Daughter-in-Law, Rock Island.

FOWLER — In loving memory of my dear wife, Ola E. Fowler, who passed away April 7th, 1950.

With tears we saw you sinking, And watched you fade away, We tended you with loving care, But could not make you stay.

We lingered by your bedside, As lonely hours passed, And how our hearts were broken, When we saw you breathe your last.

So many things have happened, Since you were called away, Things which you would have enjoyed, Had you been left to stay.

Things which would be much nicer, If you were here today, We cannot bring the old days back, Your hands we cannot touch, But God has given us sweet memories, Of one we loved so much.

CHARLES L. FOWLER Danville, Que.

LETTER FROM BRITAIN

Welcoming The Climber

By A. K. ASTBURY

With spring just round the corner, mountaineering clubs in Britain are preparing their programmes for the coming year, and considering what facilities may be extended to overseas climbers who feel inclined to sample the very individual types of "scrambling" which we can offer in these islands.

The reader familiar with the mountain giants of the Rockies or Alps may wonder what scope there is for climbing in an island where the highest mountain, Ben Nevis, is but 4,406 feet high. It is true that our highest peaks can be climbed in a day or less; but many of our mountaineers create their own conditions of difficulty by climbing a whole series of mountains one after the other; and there are a number of accepted records for this exacting sport, particularly in the English Lake District. And if we have no mountains of the stature of Mont Blanc or Mount Logan we can certainly offer rock climbs which would tax mountaineers of any school, particularly on Clogwyn D'r-ar-ddu in Snowdonia, North Wales, on Scafell Crag in the English Lake District, around Glencoe in Scotland, or on the Scottish island of Skye.

Mountaineering Councils Invitation

We have some 70 or 80 climbing clubs in Britain. The Highland Mountain Club of Lochgallhead, Scotland—whose members used to hold their annual meeting on Midsummer Day, climb a local hill, and there carry on "certain festivities"—was founded in 1815. The Cumbrian Club was founded in Glasgow in 1866 to climb the mountain known as the Cobbler, and any other hills which could be reached in the course of a Saturday expedition from Glasgow; while the Society of Welsh Rabbits (a facetious name, for a rabbit is not only the most timid of creatures, but Welsh Rabbit is also the name for a dish of toasted cheese) was founded to explore the North Wales massif of Snowdonia in winter.

These are but a handful of the climbing clubs which have sprung up over the years, and it was to represent their interests that the British Mountaineering Council was founded in 1944. Members of overseas climbing clubs who are coming to Britain and feel they would like a day's scrambling on the rocks of Skye, or fell walking in the Pennines, are invited to get in touch through their club secretary, with the Council.

Risks there are in rock climbing, although the hazards of industry and of the crowded street can be worse than those faced by the experienced mountaineer. It is true to say that conditions in industry have become safer recently. The general accident rate in United Kingdom factories, now 26 a thousand, has been falling steadily since 1944, when it was 40 a thousand. The fatal accident rate, too, has fallen by over 10 per cent in one year.

These facts I found in the recently published annual report of our Chief Inspector of Factories. He also mentions that there has been an increase in the number of works canteens and that many more gardens outside factories, with much more colourful decoration within the buildings themselves, are being provided.

Better forms of lighting and a wider use of colour have indeed made a complete revolution in factory buildings during recent years. In many factories machines, machine guards, stranchions, girders and equipment of all kinds have their own particular colours. One iron and steel company has had the walls of its new boiler shop painted aluminium, the cranes and machinery primrose yellow, and the pillars and beams duck-egg blue—yellow apparently standing out better than red. The boiler house of a distillery company has been painted a light oyster shade, the gantries olive green, trucks pillar-box red and motors and generators royal blue.

New colour schemes are usually tried out in the works canteen, where experiments in combining and harmonizing colour schemes can be carried out easily and where the reactions of the employees may be more easily obtained.

It is clear that painting of equipment and buildings has gone beyond the stage of using colour to indicate function, or to put the workman on his guard. It is now used just as much to make the surroundings pleasanter and work less fatiguing—and therefore in the end safer—for it is the tired workman who is in most danger of accident.

Safety On The Roads

I should like to be able to say that this decrease in industrial accidents had been accompanied by an improvement in road accident figures; but a comparison is impossible because in 1944 petrol was rationed, there were many fewer vehicles on the roads, and accidents were naturally fewer. But it is possible to make comparisons with 1938, a year when petrol was unrationed; and although in 1950 the roads had a million more vehicles on them than they had in 1938 they were still a great deal safer than they were before the war. And in one particular respect, I am glad to say, the roads have never been safer—for children are now less liable to accident on the roads than they have been for years. The number of children's road deaths in 1950 was the lowest for 27 years—a tribute to the work of safety instruction in schools and a hopeful augury for the future. For owing to careful training children are now our best-behaved group of pedestrians. According to the Road Research Laboratory of our Department of Scientific and Industrial Research (where are investigated all things concerning the construction, surface, and traffic of our roads) children use the yellow-striped road crossings far more regularly than their elders; and are therefore in less danger than older and more undisciplined pedestrians like myself!

After Death — What?

know it is a place, for Jesus said, "Where I go." No one can positively envisage heaven. "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard neither hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive, the things that God hath prepared for them that love Him." With this in mind, a recent writer penned: "I think about Heaven very little and shed but few tears at funerals. I leave it all to Him!"

How are the dead raised up? No one can answer fully but the New Testament presents us with a great fact; it says that our personalities are susceptible of dissolution. In other words "the real you"—the soul—never dies. It returns to God Who gave it. (Eccles. 12:7). The tenant simply changes his environment from that which is basically material to that which is spiritual and launches forth on a great spiritual adventure. Didn't St. Paul write that which is sown in weakness is raised in power? In that life then, we may well anticipate growth and endless progress both in moral development and in the knowledge of God. And there will be larger and wider service for God there, too, in such high order as suits the full-grown energies of heaven. There, every power will find sweet employ in that eternal world of joy. So we can look forward to serving God with quickened sense and heightened joy in a spirit of untiring eternal youth. (Rev. 22:3).

At last we shall know what true worship is! Perfect, we shall see God and give Him the praise of every triumph won and sing through endless ages the things He has done. And that holy, happy, eternal resting place, the abode of God Himself, will be an ideal setting for perpetual worship.

KNOW YOUR LOVED ONES?

Lastly, shall we recognize our loved ones in the Beyond? Since heaven would not be heaven otherwise, and if personality still exists, why not? Heaven is a home. Surely then we must know each other! I could not think of being in heaven with loved ones and having no thrill of recognition! If you and I should go up to the Saviour and say, "Just to think—we know our loved ones!" I think the Lord would say in tender reproach, "O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt?"

Don't worry that you do not hear from them. "No news is good news" when we are waiting to hear from some absent one. Don't bother that there aren't any startling pictures. Christ, going away said, "If it were not so, I would have told you!" That was the plainest kind of a statement that silence is an affirmation. We will not be solitary isolated spirits among a crowd of others whom we do not know—but in a happy reunited family. Our separation is only an incident.

While you are hoping, expecting to meet and know your loved ones—they are waiting, watching and expecting you!

BE PREPARED

According to the Sacred Scriptures, Christ is preparing a room especially for you. This requires that you will be prepared to live with Him! So you will need to have every sin washed away in your Saviour's blood! Repent then and believe! And, as you journey along the Road of Life, keep singing: "Then, O my Lord, prepare my soul for that glad day; O wash me in Thy precious Blood and take my sins away."

You are really building a more stately mansion for your soul every day by the quality of your daily life here. Yes, you are building your own heaven. There is a legend

Your Home And Mine

By D. C. MULLER

CLOSET SPACE

In looking over the plans for your house, or looking over renting an apartment, ask to be shown the closet space. Where are the closets? That should be on every one's lips, when seeking a home or apartment.

Arrange your closet space in the appropriate manner and don't waste it by using it as a store room. Have your linen in one and pots and pans in another. Some people do put both together.

In your bedroom see that there is ample room for hanging up articles and arranging them in order. Know where they are, maybe even labeling them, wouldn't be such a bad idea, until you get used to your system. Neatly typed labels, faced with tape, pasted beneath the doors will prevent your husband from wasting hurried words trying to find one thing or another.

STORAGE ROOM

In your home put one room aside for extras. When you don't know what to do with anything else, you have a space put aside for it. This is very valuable, and if properly arranged can be of enormous help and value. This applies especially to suit-cases and other large bulky objects, such as a washing machine, if you don't have a laundry room, or that lamp that was given to you, that you haven't any place for, but that you don't want to get broken.

Or even a baby carriage which you are saving, just in case. These are just a few items which it can be used for. Some people use the cellar for this and when they want to clean it out, have to move things from one part to another. Also things are apt to get very dirty there, unless the cellar is finished.

If it is, then there are many other uses for it, and you are not as liable to collect too much. If you have a large place, very often you will see how fast it will take to accumulate all the stuff that you will never use.

Next week we shall move on to the dining room.

BROWNLEIGH PLACE

Mrs. D. Bushey and sons have returned to their home in Montreal, after being the guests of Mrs. Bushey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lockwood.

Master Harold Willey has returned home, after spending his holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews, at Claremont Hill.

of a wealthy woman who when she reached heaven was shown to a very plain cottage. She objected. "Well," she was told, "that is the house prepared for you." "Whose is that fine mansion across the way?" she asked. It belongs to your gardener." "How is it that he has one so much better than mine?" "The houses here are prepared from the materials that are sent up. We do not choose them; you do that by your earthly deeds." Here then is spiritual adventure of the most exciting type. Won't you strive to win that glory? Toil to gain that light, send hope before to grasp it till hope be lost in sight?

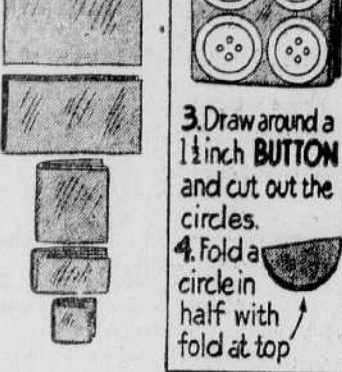

"Jesus, in mercy, bring us to that dear land of rest; Who art, with God the Father and Spirit, ever blest."

PEARCETON

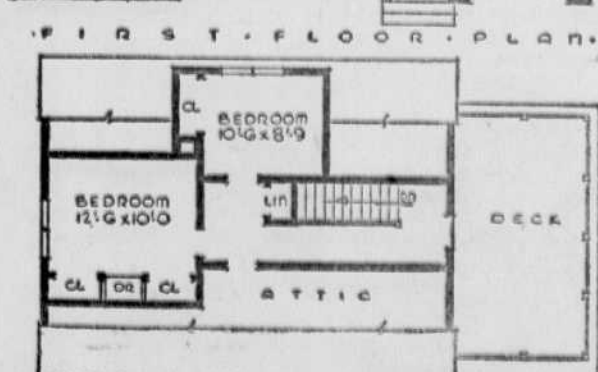

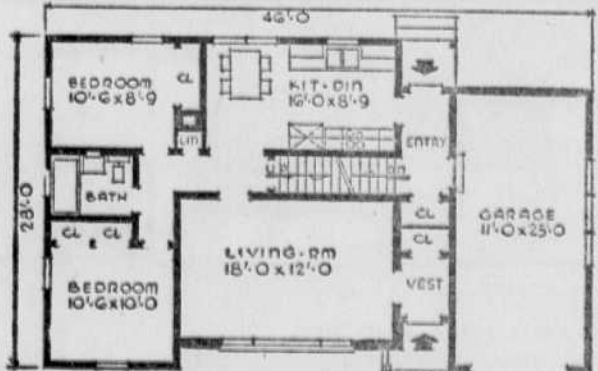

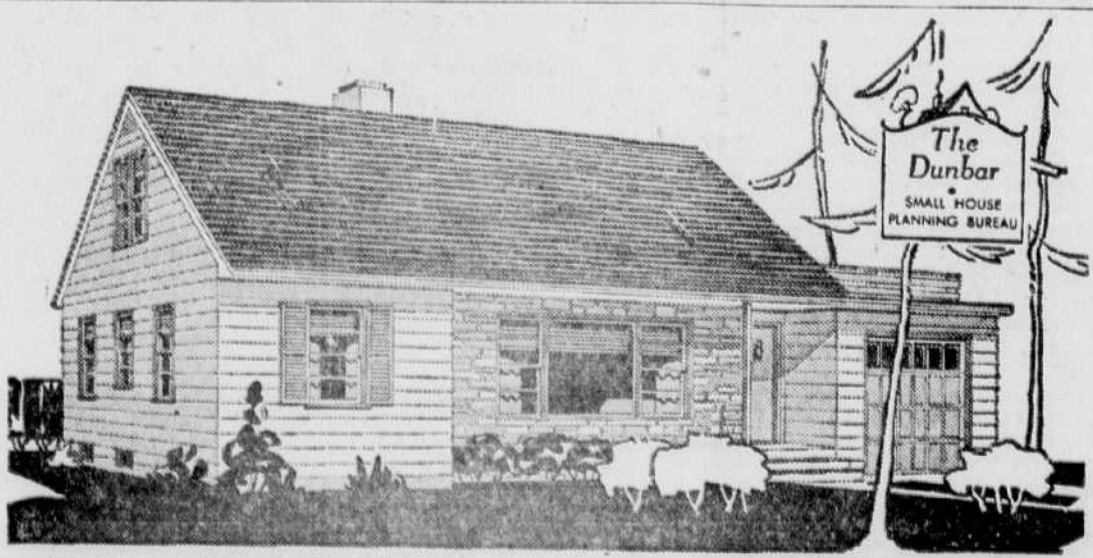

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Addis and family, of Sherbrooke, spent the week-end with Mrs. Dorothy Addis, at the home of Mr. Dennis Clough.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Gardner and family were calling on Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Groenier, at Stanbridge Station.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goyette and Mr. Henry Breault motored to West Shefford, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Buck.

Legion

Log

Activities of Legion Branches in the Eastern Townships

SHERBROOKE BRANCH, NO 10

Monday's social evening, complete with guest speaker, Comrade Col. George Machum, of Montreal, wasn't as well attended as it might have been, I am told. Not but what there was a good crowd, but there was room for more. A pleasant feature of the evening was the large number of ladies present. Col. Machum, who was introduced by Comrade Doug Amaron, spoke briefly and interestingly on the Legion's work for the development of sport, dwelling especially on the providing of facilities for children to take part in—and learn—various sports. The speaker was thanked by Comrade Asford Stewart, chairman of Branch No. 10's sports committee. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing, and card games. Our guest took part in both "minor sports," and is reported to have shown every sign of enjoying himself. So no doubt he will be back with us again some day. I'm sorry I missed this affair, because I'm told it was most enjoyable. That'll learn me!

The executive of the Branch had one of their marathon sessions on Wednesday night, and in case any of you folks think that the affairs of the Branch aren't given a lot of serious consideration by its officers, you'd better take another think. Better still, come some night and listen in (Note, bring a lunch, it's usually a four hour affair.)

On April 16th, the officers of the Branch are visiting Cookshire Branch. Owing to the small size of the Cookshire Legion Hut, and the fact that they expect a bumper turnout of the members, it is not possible to take the whole Branch out to Cookshire, which of course would be the desirable thing to do.

Thursday night saw the Legion darts enthusiasts take quite a licking from the Pleasant Viewers in North Hatley. However, that's nothing. What really matters is that everybody had a grand time, and the evening was most enjoyable. They really wrap things up in style out there at Pleasant View, you've made to feel at home as soon as you step in the door. Best team of the evening was a P.V. duo, Ian Kennedy and Merrill Glavin. Best Legion team was Ash Stewart and Kilroy, who took a beating at the finish up from Messrs. Kennedy and Glavin, but who went down fighting. They tell me Ian and Merrill train on Keen's English Mustard! It certainly seemed as if there might be a little truth to the story, for they sure were hot stuff. The evening was so hot with competition, that our president lost his new hat.

Dinna forget (I haven't said that for a long time!) Mr. Dustin introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. Maynard Alexander, of Irasburg, Vt., who is district supervisor of the State Parent-Teachers' Associations and she gave a very interesting address on the good points and benefits to the P.T.A.'s belonging to the National Organizations of the State, (at present Derby Line is a separate group).

Mrs. Alexander stressed the fact that there was no set program, which had to be followed, but that the associations could carry on their work as in the past, she stated that the value of belonging to the National organization was the most important, for the president of each association, received annual program material, list of speakers, whose only fee were the travel expenses, which adds to the making-up of the program's for the meeting.

Four important points of the materials are based on education, health, recreation and spirituality. In closing, she asked the members to attend the district meeting to be held on April 20, in the Orleans, Vt. High School.

RULES

Opposite each Jumbled Name, list your solution. For example, the first Jumbled Name, when the letters are re-arranged properly, will form the name St. Laurent.

Don't be discouraged if you fail to solve every name. Perhaps no entrant will get them all correct. Failure to enter your list, even if it is incomplete may cost you a cash prize that you would have otherwise won.

Each of the Jumbled Names will, when the letters are re-arranged in their proper sequence, form the name of a prominent man or woman frequently mentioned in the news.

Sports personalities, Canadian and American political figures, military men and men prominent in the international sphere are included in the list.

Prizes will be awarded according to the list with the largest number of correct names, and the amount of subscription money sent in; new subscriptions earning twice as much as renewal. That is if you sent in $4.25 for a 6 months renewal subscription and won first prize you would receive $50.00. If you sent in one new subscription for six months you would receive $100.00. In the event of a tie with the same amount of correct names then the contestant sending in the most money for new subscriptions will be declared the winner as money for new subscriptions counts twice as much as money sent in for renewals. It's up to you.

At least $4.25 must be sent in with each entry. That would pay a six months mail subscription to The Record.

The contest is open to any resident of the Eastern Townships except (a. Employees of the Sherbrooke Daily Record or their immediate families, b. Record correspondents or carriers.) No mail subscriptions will be accepted for delivery within the City of Sherbrooke. Subscribers receiving home delivery in Sherbrooke or any town within the Eastern Townships may compete by sending in mail subscriptions for delivery outside of Sherbrooke or by sending a remittance of $4.25 (covering 17 weeks home delivery at regular delivery rates), the carrier being allowed his usual credit on all subscriptions paid in advance. Not more than 1 year's advance payment will be accepted on any one subscription.

In the event of more than one person having the most words unjumbled correctly, and tied with the amount of money for new subscriptions, The Record will run one tie-breaker. Only those tied in the first contest will be permitted to solve the second Contest. No subscriptions will be necessary on the second puzzle.

No Prizes are offered for lists without a subscription enclosed.

Participants, by sending in an answer, agree to accept the decision of the judges as final. No controversy can possibly be entered into with any entrant.

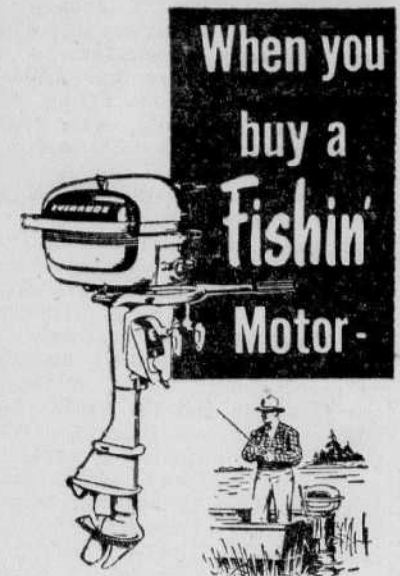

ALL ANSWERS AND MONEY MUST be sent direct to The Record and addressed "Names in the News Contest", Sherbrooke Daily Record, Sherbrooke, Que.

Different solutions may be sent in by any contestant but each must be accompanied by at least a six-months new or renewal order to the Sherbrooke Daily Record.

Successor To Trade Body Shows Promise

Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, April 6.—Dana Wilgress, Canada's "Mr. Chairman" at a host of international conferences, has blessed and gently laid to rest a world organization which carried enthusiastic post-war hopes.

Wilgress says that the International Trade Organization, usually called I.T.O., is dead and ripe for burial. But there is still hope for international trade, because I.T.O. has a sort of younger brother coming along who may be just what the world wants.

This is a body with the lopsided title of the Contracting Parties to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, better known as G.A.T.T. It represents more than 30 countries voluntarily assembled to draw up what might be called a code of conduct for world trade.

—Brave New World—
Briefly, this is what happened. The I.T.O., one of the many bright visions of global co-operation sought by men like Winston Churchill and the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, came provisionally into being under the Havana charter of 1948. But it never really had a chance.

Its constitution represented an attempt to harmonize United States free-trade theories, the protectionist instincts of underdeveloped countries and the views of out-and-out planners. It soon became apparent that it wouldn't work. As Wilgress said in a speech to the International Chamber of Commerce:

"I have come before you not to praise the Havana charter, but to bury it. In burying it, however, we hope to preserve a good deal of what is worth while in the Havana charter by giving greater strength and vitality to the G.A.T.T."

The Canadian High Commissioner in London was speaking not in his Canadian capacity but as chairman of both I.T.O. and G.A.T.T. He has been associated with them both from the outset. Even in the early days, he was struck by the difference between them.

"Presiding over a meeting (of I.T.O.) in the morning, I was conscious of a sense of unreality. When, in the afternoon, I presided over a meeting of G.A.T.T., I found a complete change of atmosphere. I had every consciousness of presiding over a real and very vital body."

—Fewer Concessions—
The G.A.T.T. countries have been in session for the last six months at Torquay, well-known English seaside resort. They will break off deliberations April 21, although details of tariff changes will not be made known until May 9. The number of concessions negotiated is expected to be below the two conferences, when 213 and 147 bilateral sets of negotiations were completed at Geneva and Annecy, France respectively.

—Wilgress says:—
"I often think that of all the international agencies set up after the war, it may prove to be the most constructive and the most enduring."

Good Year Reported By Sherbrooke Trust Co.; Directors Re-Elected

Net earnings of $72,888.88 for a 15-month period ended Dec. 31 were reported in the 76th annual statement of the Sherbrooke Trust Company which was submitted to shareholders at the annual meeting this week.

Income was $220,252.67 and expenditures were $147,363.79. After provision for taxes, write down of land and depreciation of fixed assets, there was an excess of income over expenditure of $50,103.14.

Reports and financial statements were adopted at the meeting. Members of the board were re-elected.

Chenier Picard, president, who acted as chairman for the meeting, submitted his report as follows:

The report with balance sheet and profit and loss statement submitted to this meeting covers a period of fifteen months from September 30th, 1949, to December 31st, 1950.

The change in the date of the Company's fiscal year was made necessary, in order to comply with the provisions of the Quebec Trust Companies' Act and to allow last annual meeting, two by-laws were approved, one to change the date of the termination of the fiscal year.

CHENIER PICARD

cal year from September 30th to December 31st and the other to fix the date of the annual meeting to the first Monday in April.

Income for the fifteen month period amounted to $220,252.67 and expenditure of $147,363.79, leaving a balance of $72,888.88 as net earnings before provision for taxes, write down of land and depreciation of fixed assets which amount to $22,780.74 and leaves an excess of income over expenditure of $50,103.14.

This amount and the balance of $48,801.88 as earned surplus at September 30th, 1949, total $98,905.00 from which the following appropriations were made:

$22,500 for dividends and $25,000 transferred to general reserve, leaving a balance of $51,405.00 to be carried over to surplus.

The above transfer of $25,000 brings general reserve to $300,000, being equal to the paid up capital of the Company.

These results are satisfactory if we consider the rising costs of carrying on business and a comparison of the last annual statement with the one submitted to this meeting will reveal a moderate and continuous expansion.

Call loans at $98,040.39 are $8,643.43 higher than last year. Mortgages at $1,990,767.61 show an increase of $130,647.50, this representing 308 loans, 12 secured by mortgage on farm property amounting to $38,167.55, 44 on Town property amounting to $140,978.47, these properties, with very few exceptions, all in Lennoxville and 252 in City of Sherbrooke property, to the amount of $1,781,621.50.

Investments in bonds include Federal, Provincial and Municipal bonds only and total $1,207,406.05 compared to $1,316,010.66, a decrease of $108,604.61.

This redistribution in the Company's investments was brought about as the volume of funds in mortgages has continued to expand and the proceeds from the sale of Bonds has been used to provide money for home builders, in the form of mortgages.

Our holdings in Bonds are divided as follows:

Dominion of Canada, $718,104.25
Provincial $310,294.53
Municipal $181,007.27

The average yield is 2.76%. The market value as at December 31st was $1,194,237.00, a reduction of $13,169.05.

A reserve of $90,807.64 has been set aside to cover any eventual loss in Bond and Mortgage investments.

Mortgages have been examined by a Committee of the Board and our Auditors have verified the correctness of the Company's records in the Registry Office of the Districts in which mortgages are registered.

The Company holds no real estate for sale and our mortgages have seldom been in a more satisfactory position as to interest and tax payments; the reserve for any eventual loss in mortgage investments is considered sufficient.

There is still a heavy demand for loans and our City has experienced a high level of construction activity and firm real estate prices in 1950, specially for small and moderate size dwellings.

This great activity in housing demand was brought about by the increase in City population, high individual income and finally by liberal credit policies and easy mortgage terms through Government legislation, which conditions were also factors of high building costs and increased real estate values.

The administration of Trusts and Estates, which is our principal business, has shown steady expansion. Assets under administration have increased by $104,872.47 and now amount to $9,061,412.81, though several im-

Mining Men Plan Visit To Townships

The mining men of Canada will gather for their annual convention in Quebec on April 9-10-11. Their hosts will be the Quebec City and Thetford Mines Branches of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. The President of the Institute, Dr. A. O. Dufresne, is a resident of Quebec, who as Deputy Minister of Mines has done much to guide the mineral development of his province during recent years.

"Iron Ore in Canada" will be the principal topic of the meeting. At the inaugural session Sir James Dunn, President of Algoma Steel Corporation, will introduce the subject, followed by senior officers of the other iron mining companies. With the mines of Wabana, Algoma and Steep Rock now in production, and with the major field in Labrador-Quebec soon to be in operation, Canada has become one of the principal iron ore areas of the world.

In this climate, every householder is keenly aware of the prime importance of coal and petroleum. Coal will have a prominent place in the programme, with particular attention to its lack in the central provinces and its superabundance in Alberta. The geophysical methods that have been so fruitful in finding pools of oil, and that are adding the discovery of other minerals will be discussed in several sessions.

The geologist has often an interesting story to tell. The minerals of Baffin Island, the large new deposits of copper in Gaspe, some intimate details of the Labrador iron development, and the gypsum deposits now being put to use in Newfoundland, will add a touch of glamour to the technical discussions.

The industrial minerals, which seldom attract their share of public attention, are just as important to John Citizen as the metals, Asbestos, the most prominent of these in Quebec, will be discussed, as well as the Portland cement and light-weight aggregate that have become so important in the construction industry. The insulating mineral, vermiculite, will be discussed by the engineer who discovered large deposits of it in eastern Ontario last summer.

When the ore is dug out of the ground, the miner's job is only well begun. The next stage, separating the valuable mineral from the worthless rock, will be the subject of several papers on copper, lead, zinc and other metals. Then the metallurgist takes hold, and his role will be illustrated in several sessions devoted to extraction of the metals and their preparation for use. Prominent among these papers will be those dealing with the lights metals and alloys so necessary for aircraft and take high-temperature alloys required for jet engines. Canadian metallurgists have been in the forefront of these developments.

The meeting will conclude with a two-day excursion to the asbestos area of the Eastern Township, where there have been important developments during recent years, both in the mines and in the methods of treating the ore.

Native Mechanic Now Bus Magnate In South Africa

Johannesburg—One of South Africa's outstanding success stories is that of a 41-year-old native, Fred Ngema, one-time garage mechanic who now is director of a motorbus company.

Eight years ago he was a garage hand in Germiston, earning a few pounds a month. Now he's a "baron" of the Rand's non-European transportation world. He is recognized as one of Johannesburg's wealthiest business men and pays a sizeable income tax.

Every month more than 1,000,000 natives ride in Fred's 43 buses. His company last year earned more than $60,000 and its assets are said to run around $300,000. He started it with a capital of about $525.

He paid little more than $3 for an ancient touring car that was his first taxicab, eight years ago. He paid another $2 for a spare engine which went with that car.

By hard work with his taxicab he saved enough to buy a small bus franchise and the profits he made enabled him to expand his fleet. Now he plans to buy another native bus company which will bring his fleet of motorbuses up to 50. A sum of about $60,000 is involved in his latest purchase.

The vehicles operated by Ngema's company are all recent models, fitted with either gasoline or diesel engines. As an economic is being converted to diesel motors measure however the entire fleet

LOU SHAPIRO AND ARMANDO ROCHE SIGN WITH ATHLETICS

Governor Of Maine Sets Bag Limits For Catches

Augusta, Me., April 7. — (AP) — Governor Frederick G. Payne yesterday signed legislation reducing the bag limit on Maine salmon, trout, togue, white perch and black bass.

In rivers, streams and brooks it will be five pounds, instead of the current 7½. In lakes and ponds it will be 1½ pounds instead of 10. A companion bill signed earlier reduced the limit from 25 fish to 15.

Record List Of Entries In Hambletonian Derby

Goshen, N. Y., April 7. — (AP) — A record entry list of 615 horses was reported yesterday for the $200,000 Grand Circuit meeting at Good Time Park, scene of the $90,000 Hambletonian Aug. 8. The Hambletonian, famed trotting derby, accounts for 82 nominations, while 77 pacers have been named for the $17,000 geers stakes for two-year-olds.

Racing secretary Al Saunders said the $200,000 in purses for the five-day meeting also is a record.

Manager Amedee Roy Received Their Contracts Yesterday; Brings Total To Ten Pitchers Signed By Locals

"EVERYONE MUST SEE ONE IN 1951"

Lou Shapiro, the leading hurler of last season, and Armando Roche, one of the locals' hard-working tossers last year, both returned their signed contracts to Amedee Roy, business manager of the team, yesterday afternoon.

Shapiro chalked up eighteen victories against four losses during the season to pace the league hurlers for the top position in the circuit. During the playoffs Big Lou registered three wins against no setback.

He took part in 27 games and finished twenty allowing 164 safe hits for an earned-run average of 2.57. He retired 88 via the strike-out method and issued 37 bases on balls. He finished the season with a percentage of .818.

Armando Roche, who at the start of the past season held the hurling staff together, finished the schedule with an earned-run average of 3.86. He chalked up thirteen wins against nine losses. He started nineteen games and finished ten and took part in thirty-one during the season. Towards the end of the year Roche failed to accomplish much and was used principally in relief role, as he had lost his touch and had developed a sore arm, but he took his turn just the same.

He gave up 178 hits during the season and whiffed 89 at the plate while issuing 120 bases on balls. At the start of the season Roche was at his best but after the middle of the year he began to show the effects of over work and towards the end of the schedule Manager Roy and Gladu kept the big right hander mainly for relief roles.

With the signing of Roche and Shapiro the Athletics will have eleven pitchers to start the season with, or battle it out for the starting positions on the team. For the first thirty days of the schedule they can carry twenty-five players on their roster but following that they must reduce to seventeen.

A's To Meet New England Hoboes In Exhibition Tilt At Local Park On Sunday, April 29, In Ball Opener

The supporters of the Sherbrooke Baseball Club will have an opportunity of seeing the 1951 edition of the Athletics in action on April 29 when they will tangle with the New England Hoboes in an exhibition tilt.

The game will take place on Sunday, preceding the opening of the 1951 season, which will be inaugurated on Thursday, May 3, against the Cubs of Drummondville.

The New England Hoboes are presently considered the top attraction in baseball entertainment and are also a very well balanced club. The local fans will remember the splendid exhibitions provided by the House of David teams, and their many antics which provided lots of laughter with excellent ball.

The Hoboes have patterned their play along the same lines and come here with a better reputation than their former confederates. They have many former big league stars in their lineup and wherever they play they draw top crowds. Last year in Burlington, Vt., a city of similar size as Sherbrooke, they drew 7,000, and this was their second appearance in the Granite City.

The directors of the local club tried last year to reach terms with this famous gang of ball players but failed. This year however they are taking a gamble on the weather and booked them for April 29.

"This will be the first of many attractions which the local executives will present to their fans and will afford them a wonderful opportunity of looking over the team which will represent the City during the coming season in the Provincial Baseball League.

Bucky Harris Rates His Senators A Better Fifth-Position Club This Year In American Baseball League

Jacksonville, Fla., April 7. — (AP) — Manager Bucky Harris rates his Washington Senators a better fifth-place club than last year. That just about tells the story.

Harris, of course, aims toward the distant first division. Everybody does in the spring. But he is realistic about the 25-game gap between fourth and fifth last season. Only a complete collapse up front could ease Washington into the select four.

"We're going to have better balance," said Harris. "Irv Noren, Gil Coan and Eddie Yost all should improve. And Mike McCormick will be a big help."

"I think the race is among New York, Boston and Cleveland. A few breaks and any one of the three could win it. I think we'll win more games than last year. We have a real good spirit."

Catching is the Senators' weakest department. Unless Clark Griffith makes a deal before opening day, the club will go into the season without a proven first-line receiver. Mickey Grasso (.287) a fine rookie last season, is the nearest approach.

The infield should be stronger than last season with first-baseman Mickey Vernon (.281) and second-baseman Cass Michaels (.266) available from the start. Bucky didn't get Vernon from Cleveland until June 14 and Michaels from Chicago until May 30.

Host (.295) at third and Sam Denon (.239) at short round out the infield. Yost had an exceptional season in 1950 when he was Kell among the third-basemen. The outfield is Harris' strong point, with Coan (.303) in left, Noren (.295) in centre and Sam Mele (.274) in right. McCormick, a veteran National League who hit only .232 with the Chicago White Sox last summer, is one of the reserves.

Bob Kuzava (.9-10) can be the ace of the pitching staff. The 27-year-old lefthander, who came to the Senators last May, is considered one of the top young southpaws in the league.

Harris will start Kuzava. Gene Bevens (.4-8), Sid Hudson (.14-14), Sandalia Consuegra (7-8) and Al Sina (.4-5) or Conrado Marero (8-10), Mickey Harris (5-9) again will be the relief man with Joe Haynes (7-5) available for spot duty.

With Hudson working on a new "down under" pitch, the Senators should get good pitching from the front liners. Bevens began to show flashes of his sensational 1948 form after he was waived to Washington by Cleveland last August.

Won't Have Pollet On Team, Says Fred Saigh

St. Louis, April 7. — (AP) — Fred Saigh, fiery owner of St. Louis Cardinals, said yesterday he doesn't want pitcher Howard Pollet on his squad and will make every effort to trade him.

Angered by a statement attributed to the holdout pitcher, Saigh said "I don't like a player who blames the rest of his teammates for his own failure."

The 29-year-old southpaw, resisting a cut from his reported salary of $22,000 last year, was a 20-game winner for the Cardinals in 1949 but had a 14-13 record last year.

"We had a sound club in 1949," Pollet is said to have told a reporter. "Last year our club was unsound, with a lot of fellows hurt. How could anybody have won 20 games with that club?"

Premier McDonald To Discuss Olympic Games

Melbourne, April 7. — (AP) — State Premier John G. B. McDonald yesterday called a conference of political leaders Tuesday that would have discussed a suggestion that Melbourne forego the 1956 Olympic Games.

McDonald announced Thursday that Victoria State political leaders would meet to discuss dropping the games. The suggestion was discussed today in some quarters as "a policy of despair."

"Australia's amateur athletics are not going to allow their Olympic birthright to be sold by any politicians' messing and pottering," said Kent Hughes, a member of parliament and W. Uren, Victoria Olympic Council chairman in a joint statement.

"THE AMAZING CANADIENS DO IT AGAIN"

Running true to this year's Stanley Cup semi-finals pattern, that no home team wins on its own ice, the surprising Montreal Canadiens came off the floor Thursday evening at the Detroit Olympia to dump the league-leading Red Wings 5-2 and take a game lead into tonight's fixture at the Montreal Forum.

Previous to Thursday's tilt nobody in the country, who saw Tuesday's game in Montreal, would have given five cents for the Canadiens' chances of taking the Wings at home. The Dick Irwin club played so badly that everybody figured it would be nothing to it, but the vets, aided by the kids, put on a real fight and before the Wings knew what hit them they were behind the proverbial eight-ball and trailing in the series by one game.

If the pattern still holds out tonight then the final game goes back to Detroit, and it seems that anything can happen there. No doubt the Canucks will do their best to try and wrap up the series this evening but you can rest assured that Wings will also be fighting to keep their hopes alive.

Since the start of the series the Canadiens have failed to turn in a good performance on their home ice and they should really be due for one now. It seemed that the Wings made them look pretty bad at the Forum, over the weekend, but in the tilt at Detroit the roles were reversed, after the initial frame. Hockey is a funny game and from the looks of things most anything can happen.

By the way the games are going no doubt all the fans are beginning to wonder if the series are not fixed. Put on your party you may rest assured that there is no such thing. The boys are playing their best to try and cop the games but Lady Luck seems to be against the home teams in this set-up.

One thing which comes to the fore in our mind and is that at least the boys are playing cleaner hockey than in the Toronto-Boston affair. They have the odd lapse but on the whole it has been pretty good hockey, and that is what the fans want.

We suppose that everybody and his brother will be around the Forum this evening, in fact it should be a good place to steer clear from. Tickets will be at a real premium and the scalpers will aren't caught. They can ask most any price and we think someone will be crazy enough to pay it. Why, is beyond us, but that is the way things go.

The Canadiens' third line seemed to be the unit which came through. In the previous tilts they were just around to do some checking but Thursday they took over the spotlight and settled the issue. According to the radio report Richard's little bout with Lindsay seemed to take the steam out of the Wings' big line and with a man advantage for five minutes they failed to click for any goals. This is unusual for the Wings but the Canucks held on and from then in went to town.

Tonight's tilt should be a real honey and perhaps Irvin's clan may upset the applecart and come through with another surprising win. Anyway they are in the driver's seat and the Wings will have to tread caution to the wind and go all out to cop the affair or otherwise it will be curtains for Jack Adams' Famous Wings of 1951.

The Eastern Townships Junior Badminton tournament takes place today at the Sherbrooke Regiment Armoury on William Street and from advance reports it should be a good one.

Juniors from all over the Townships will be on hand to try and cop the crown. We understand that tries are in from Danville, Windmill, Mills, Waterloo, Granby, Bishop's University and the Sherbrooke Regiment, to name a few, and that it will be a hard tussle before the 1951 champion will be crowned.

Business Manager Amedee Roy seems to be in pretty high spirits just at present and why shouldn't he. This week he received contracts back from three of last year's ace hurlers on the roster and from the looks of things the A's are building up quite a team.

We understand he is expecting to hear from another top tosser in the very near future and if the boys all come through then things will be kind of rosy for the 1951 season. The team is after a couple of more top players and with these in the fold then Coach Roland Gladu will have a pretty strong outfit to compete with the rest of the circuit. One thing certain Manager Roy is after a good team and the fans will really have something to take in and shout about. Keep up the good work Amedee and here's hoping you get what you want.

Files showing the Olympics and the British Empire Games will be on display. High jumping, pole vaulting, shot putting, long distance running, sprints and starting techniques, girls' and women's events with world champion performers, will parade before our young hopefuls, and along with these an experienced commentator, Maj. Jack Davies, will stop the films at graphic points and patiently go over those points that are the difference between a good performer and a great performer. Myrtle Cook and her helpers will do likewise for our girls, and that will be a great boon for the mere male coaches in this locality working on female talent to championship proportions.

In the evening the boys will sit down to a good banquet sponsored by leading township citizens led by Warwick Fox and the Bruck Silk Mills. At this dinner representatives from all points in our Townships will receive a sports charter affiliated with the A.A. of U and called The Eastern Townships Athletic Ass'n. The purpose of this organization is to promote sports throughout this area, and to back up and encourage individual athletes in this area. Stocks and John Turgeon from Cowansville, R. MacPhail from Farnham, and our Knowlton delegation headed by Gus Reglin, Oliver Suitor, Gordie Wright, George Rogerson, Pat McNinis, Ed. Perry et al. will comprise the heart of this new enterprise. Altogether our gang should be off to a good sports start.

SPORTS OF SORTS

By GLEN BROWN

Morrie Bruker, president of Quebec's Branch of the A.A. of U., has taken the proverbial "bull by the horns" in instituting the first off the island Sports Clinic at Knowlton this afternoon and evening. Morrie has always been a devotee in all his efforts to improve sports around Quebec. One of his pet contentions is that movies well shown and commented on can do a great job of coaching to large bodies congregated together. This afternoon the high school boys and girls will have a chance to test this theory.

Files showing the Olympics and the British Empire Games will be on display. High jumping, pole vaulting, shot putting, long distance running, sprints and starting techniques, girls' and women's events with world champion performers, will parade before our young hopefuls, and along with these an experienced commentator, Maj. Finals In Pat Lid Tournament, Sponsored By Sherbrooke Curling Club To Be Held Today At 4.00

Ossie Goyette's rink will take on Stan Gallinger and his foursome this afternoon at 4.00 in the finals of the Pat Lid tournament, being staged by the Sherbrooke Curling Club.

Nineteen rinks competed in the tournament which commenced on Monday and some very keen curling was witnessed in the different matches.

Skinner Goyette won his way into the coveted circle when he downed Bill Hammond's quartet 8-4 in the semi-finals while the veteran pilot Stan Gallinger guided his crew to a 12-4 verdict over Jim Fuller's squad.

In the quarter-finals, of the upper bracket of the draw, O Goyette came through with a 9-5 win over Guy Bishop's team and Bill Hammond's rink eked out a 9-8 decision over Rus Neville's aggregation.

In the lower half of the draw Jim Fuller's foursome dumped Nelson Lothrop's quartet 12-7 and Stan Gallinger chalked up a 9-5 victory over D. J. Salls' rink.

In the finals of the McLaue Cup Hubert Armstrong and his squad registered an 18-5 win over Rolli Badger's team. Skipper Badger and his rink failed to show any of the form which carried through to the finals and were an easy mark for Armstrong's foursome. They fought the whole way but were outplayed at every turn as they kept missing with crucial shots.

This evening a mixed bonspiel will be held, followed by curling, and next week a mixed bonspiel will commence Monday evening and last the week winding up the club's activities for the season.

The closing dinner of the Lennoxville Curling Club will be held this evening and the presentation of trophies and prizes, won during the season, will be awarded to the different winners.

Tonight's final gathering will be preceded by a dinner to be attended by all members, ladies and men, and immediately following a mixed evening of curling will take place.

In the Homer White competition H. Maguire's rink downed Charlie Parkin's foursome 12-5 while in the consolation Bob Blake and his quartet came through with a 13-6 win over L. Gneadinger's team.

In the Pat Lid tournament, sponsored by the Club, President Stan Hamilton guided his squad to a close 14-12 win over George McCintock's foursome while in the Forbes trophy event Bob McMurphy and his crew came through with a 16-5 verdict against Stan Hamilton's rink.

The winners in all three events will be presented with their trophies and prizes. In the Homer White trophy, Mr. White will present the prizes while Mrs. G. Scott will attend to the winner in the Forbes trophy. In the Pat Lid the winning rink will be presented with prizes by the club.

H. Maguire's rink consisted of C. Lendrum, Dr. H. Way and A. Hurd while Bob Blake's foursome, who copied the consolation of the Homer White trophy, was comprised of P. Jackson, W. Elwood and W. Sawyer. In the Pat Lid Stan Hamilton's winning rink had G. Loveland as third, R. Coombs, second, and C. Boudreau as lead. Bob McMurphy's foursome in the Forbes trophy had H. Montgomery as third, A. Doiron as second and E. Denison as lead.

Lynn Patrick Figures Bruins Will Knock Off Leafs From Stanley Cup Play; Strange Hex Backs Him

Toronto, April 7. — (CP) — Lynn Patrick had the silent support of one of hockey's strangest hexes yesterday for an outspoken prediction that his Boston Bruins will win out in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Not that Patrick was counting on an automatic continuation of the jinx that has plagued all four playoff teams on the home ice. There hasn't been a home-ice win in nine games so far. The Leafs, who hold a 2-1 edge over the Bruins, have only one more game in Boston. They came closest to overcoming the hex with a 1-1 home-ice tie.

"All I hope is that it keeps up until we go back home Sunday night," said Patrick. "But home ice doesn't count much in playoffs any more. The players are keyed up and play as well away as they do at home."

His regular squad was in better shape than on Thursday night when it went down, 3-1, at Boston. The four Hershey players—goalie Jim (Red) Henry and forwards George Sullivan, Jack McIntyre and Silvio Bettio—worked out with the regulars here yesterday.

A decision would be made later on what use would be made of the Hershey four.

The Leafs will play tonight with the same squad that last Saturday won the game in Toronto and won two in Boston. It loses the opener here, 2-0. Old Turk Broda, getting closer than ever to his 37th birthday May 15, will be in goal.

Boy or Girl

THOSE WHO LIKED the article "Boy or Girl? The Mystery of Sex" in the March Reader's Digest may be interested in our own little personal theory on the subject. It's simple. The more that the parents are away from each other, the greater the probability that their children will be girls.

WE SPEND A LOT of time with commercial travellers, because buying is a most important part of running a store which features style. We noticed that these men liked to talk of their families, but they rarely spoke of sons. Inquiry revealed that their offspring were disproportionately female. We've discussed the situation with doctors, and they say they would like to see the figures for a larger number of cases, but the more cases we see the more convinced we are that there may be something in it. We've even found that sons are a rarity among the children born to ex-servicemen's families within a year after the father's return from the last war. We suggest that you will find it an interesting study to check our theory with your own acquaintances who fit into this situation. You may even be able to win a few bets, but please don't blame us if it doesn't always work. This whole thing is simply a side line for us.

WE DO CLAIM to know more about men's apparel, and Rosenbloom clothing is always a safe bet. That's why well dressed men prefer Rosenbloom's.

KEEP OUR RED CROSS STRONG!

You Know what the Red Cross meant in wartime.

You Know that numberless soldiers and civilians owe their lives to the Red Cross Blood Transfusion services.

You Know that millions of food and comfort parcels were sent to prisoners of war through the Red Cross . . . that extra care and comfort was provided for our armed forces, especially those in hospitals . . .

and that enormous quantities of medical supplies and clothing were sent to civilian victims of war . . .

and surely a bomb doesn't have to fall to open your eyes to the tremendous part the Red Cross Disaster Service is prepared to take in civil defense!

- Red Cross Nurses assisted in the birth of 3,600 new Canadians
- Over 20,000 school children received regular health examinations

Your contributions to the Red Cross also serve:
In Veterans Hospital Work.
In Red Cross Disaster Services.
In extending Free Blood Transfusion Service.
And in many other ways that save lives and soften human suffering.
