

Fidel Castro Says U.S. Sparking A Revolt

HAVANA (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro accused the United States today of trying to set up in Cuba a "fifth column" aimed at sparking a revolt against his revolutionary government.

In a 3½-hour television speech running well past midnight he declared that recent statements by President Eisenhower and State Secretary Herter were "all part of a preconcerted intent to create a fifth column to encourage a counter-revolutionary struggle against the (Cuban) government."

He also accused the U.S. of trying to organize some sort of action within the Organization of American States against Cuba.

Castro rejected Eisenhower's charge that he betrayed the Cuban revolution.

"If we had done that," he said, "the American president would have called us loyal friends."

IKE'S WARNING

In a recent letter to the Chilean Students Federation, Eisenhower warned against communism and said democratic ideas of the Cuban revolution are being betrayed. The students replied that they felt a true revolutionary process is developing in Cuba.

Castro pointed to actions by his government, some of which have hurt American investments here. If they had not been carried out, he declared, "that would have been a betrayal of the Cuban revolution and its people."

"If we had not done this, Eisenhower would have called us friends of democracy and might have given us the same embrace he gave Francisco Franco (of Spain)."

Castro appeared weary and reportedly, as if suffering from a cold.

Fog A Hazard On Land, Sea And In Minds

By JANE SCOTT

The moan of a foghorn is a dismal sound to the ears of a land-lubber but it is music to the ears of the seaman, fog enshrouding mariners.

Fog is a hazard on land or sea and any instrument, be it sound or light, that helps a man or a ship to find the way through the fog is a boon to travelers.

Fog is a mysterious element. It is one of the intangible things that can come between us and other objects on the material plane completely concealing great and massive areas.

Many an airplane has been wrecked on a mountain during a fog.

But a more mysterious fog creeps into the minds of men and women cutting down their insight into moral and spiritual realities, just as the atmospheric mist cuts down the range of vision for the human eye.

Tonight's The Night

Change Your Clocks It's D.S.T. Again

Clocks in the Eastern Townships will be turned ahead one hour at midnight tonight, ushering in Daylight Saving Time.

Most municipalities in Quebec, and in seven of the other ten provinces will join in the switch to daylight time.

It will end for most of them — including Sherbrooke — Oct. 30. For others, it will end Sept. 25.

Alberta and Prince Edward Island will remain all year round on standard time. They have laws forbidding daylight time. The Yukon and Northwest Territories also will stick to standard time.

In British Columbia and Newfoundland, daylight time is mandatory. It is optional in the remaining provinces. For most of B.C., daylight time will continue until Sept. 25.

SPLIT TIMES IN SASK. In Saskatchewan some centres will observe central standard time and others mountain standard time. Eastern Saskatchewan is in the central zone and western Saskatchewan in the mountain zone.

Regina will go on MST permanently Sunday. This was approved last fall by the voters. Last year the city went on daylight time the last Sunday in April and returned to MST the last Sunday in September.

Greater Winnipeg starts daylight time early Sunday and ends Sept. 25, a month earlier than last year when daylight time stretched from April 26 to Oct. 25.

In Ontario, most municipalities will observe the six-month daylight time period from April 24 to Oct. 30. Exceptions are Chatham and eight area municipalities in St. Thomas and Sarnia. In Northern Ontario, the community of Bruce Mines will return to standard time at the beginning of October.

REMAIN ON STANDARD Port Arthur, Fort William and

Windsor and its nearby communities of Wheatley and Tilbury will stay on standard time.

Riviere-du-Loup, a small Quebec community, plans to remain on daylight time all year and won't change this summer. However, most other municipalities, including Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke, Drummondville and Granby, plan daylight time from April 24 to Oct. 30. Dolbeau will revert to standard time Oct. 23. In New Brunswick daylight time in most centres, including Saint John, will last until Oct. 30. Exceptions will be Bathurst Oct. 3, Woodstock, Sept. 25, Hartland, Sept. 4. Edmundston will remain on standard time.

In Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, most centres will observe the April 24 to Oct. 30 switch to daylight time.

The Asselin boy was first taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital, Sherbrooke, but was taken to Montreal during the night.

The car collided with a Richmond Pulp and Paper transport truck driven by Odel Winslow, 44 of Lennoxville.

The fatally injured man was on his way home to Rock Island to spend the weekend with his parents and to attend the silver wedding anniversary of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bouchard, Rock Island.

Jean Lesage Will Run In Quebec W.

QUEBEC — Provincial Liberal leader Jean Lesage will run in the strong Liberal riding of Quebec West in the forthcoming provincial election.

Mr. Lesage, 47, a Quebec City lawyer, was unopposed Friday night at a nominating convention for which 700 supporters crowded the basement of a lowtown church.

He promised that a Liberal government in Quebec would press the federal powers for icebreakers to assure winter navigation from the ocean. The Union Nationale, now in power, had buried the subject because the Progressive Conservative federal government did not want to offend the Maritimes, he said.

He said the Union Nationale party is divided and "incapable of new political thought" while the Liberal party offers Quebec "a complete program of government."

Political Roundup

Belief Grows Quebec Election May Not Be Held Until The Fall

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record Staff Writer)

The failure of Premier Antonio Barrette to announce the dissolution of the Legislature prior to or shortly after his grand dinner in Montreal Tuesday night strengthens the belief held in some quarters that the elections will be delayed until after a special session to be held this fall.

Those arguing in favor of the delay maintain that the strong plank in the Government's platform is its promise of a hospital insurance plan. But this has not been implemented, rather being referred to a special commission for study. It certainly would be a stronger support for the administration if it were implemented than by being just an election promise.

One does not have to be too astute a politician to see the reasons for delay in fixing the voting date.

RETURNS TO FIGHT—Another Union Nationale member, Robert Bernard, has announced his intention to seek another term in the Legislature representing Drummond County.

Mr. Pinard gave his announcement to a delegation which presented him with a petition signed by more than 10,000 electors asking him to stand for another term.

He will be opposed by Bernard Pinard, a former Liberal member defeated by Mr. Bernard in 1956. Mr. Bernard was also representative of the county from 1948 to 1956.

SHEFFORD LIBERALS TO MEET — Shefford County Liberals gathered at the Christ Roi school auditorium in Granby Sunday afternoon at two to select a candidate to do battle with Armand Russell, Waterloo mayor, would lose their jobs and be banished to Negro reserves if they joined the boycott, the police announced they were rounding up "gangsters" and the sitting Union Nationale representative. Early reports that Liberal Leader Jean Lesage would offer him as a candidate have been denied by events, Mr. Lesage having agreed to contest his home constituency of Quebec West.

But the delegates are expected to have an ample choice when they come to make their selection.

Some doubt appears about the position of Marcel Boivin, Liberal M.P. for Shefford. Strong pressure has been brought upon him to resign his Ottawa seat and seek election to Quebec, but at latest reports he had given no indication as to his plans.

Supporters of the idea he transfer his activities from the federal to provincial fields is that with his extended experience at Ottawa.

Ottawa Offers Assistance In Setting Up Hospital Plan

The Federal Minister of Health has offered the services of his departments specialists and technicians to help Quebec set up its proposed hospital insurance program, Maurice Allard, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Sherbrooke, said today.

In a release from his office here, Mr. Allard said the offer has been made without any conditions, "allowing Quebec to set up a plan which suits the province best."

He said the services would be made available, if Quebec wishes them, regardless of the fact that the province has signified no intention of joining the Federal hospital insurance program.

"The offer," Mr. Allard said, "raises hopes for eventual discussions between the Federal and Quebec governments on a problem of major importance to all residents of Quebec."

He said it also indicated the policy of the Federal government to aid the provinces while at the same time respecting their autonomy.

Set Up Caretaker Cabinet

SEOUL, South Korea (Reuters) — Syngman Rhee ended his 12-year iron rule of South Korea today as he gave up his presidential powers and planned to disband his ruling Liberal party.

Rhee, 85, bowing to rioting countrymen and strong United States pressure, will remain president in name only to become symbolic head of state.

Newly-elected Vice-President Le Ki Poong—who also left office—announced Rhee's resignation after a three-hour meeting. A caretaker cabinet consisting of Conservative members headed by a premier will be formed shortly, Lee said.

Rhee ventured outside his presidential palace today for the first time since April 19 to visit students wounded in violent rioting against his government. His bullet-proof car was surrounded by police vehicles and crowds, normally instructed to clap, stared stolidly as he passed.

After Rhee's stepdown, it was announced he will disband his ruling Liberal party. Deputy National Assembly Speaker Yi Jai Pak said this would pave the way for formation of a unified Conservative party.

NO PARTY

Rhee, as head of state, will have no political affiliation.

More than 100 students have been killed this week in violent rioting across South Korea to protest the March 15 elections which returned Rhee to a fourth term as president and elected Lee as vice-president.

The opposition Democratic party and the rioting students protested that the elections were rigged. The disturbances brought a state of martial law to five cities.

Democrats have demanded that Rhee not even hold office as the symbolic head of state.

ANOTHER RESIGNATION

Opposition Leader John M. Chang, still technically in office as vice-president, also resigned today because he wished "to have nothing to do with the Rhee administration." He accused Rhee of irregularities and police brutality.

Martial law commander Lt. Gen. Song Yu Chan announced that 43 demonstrators from three cities were under official arrest charged with destroying government property.

He said emergency law would be relaxed in a few days and the five cities under martial law would be placed under a security emergency law—meaning press censorship would be lifted.

The most immediate job for the National Assembly now is to revise the constitution so that a responsible cabinet system of government can be introduced.

SUMMARY: South Korea rocked by riots. Work boycott fails in South Africa. De Gaulle lauds Canadian defence strength.

KOREAN STRUGGLE

Wild anti-government demonstrations in South Korea, mostly by students, went into their second week and grew in violence as police and soldiers battled back fiercely.

The fight reached particularly bloody proportions Tuesday and martial law was proclaimed in Seoul, the capital, and other major cities. The students and other citizens charged that elections last month were rigged in favor of 85-year-old President Syngman Rhee's running mate.

Rhee's 12-man cabinet resigned but this didn't satisfy the angry crowds and violence continued Friday. There was even fist-fighting in the national assembly between supporters and opponents of Rhee.

Rhee, criticized by the United States for taking "excessively repressive" measures against the demonstrators, promised to investigate and correct "major causes of discontent"—but his words were almost lost in the din.

BOYCOTT FIZZLES

South African police and troops were mobilized and went into action on many fronts to crush a work boycott that had been called for this week by the outlawed African National Congress.

state of emergency was declared March 30 in the face of demonstrations against racial laws.

DE GAULLE VISIT

Ending a four-day Canadian visit that took him to Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec and Toronto, President Charles de Gaulle stressed the kinship between France and Canada, which he termed a strong country in the defence of freedom.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker earlier issued a statement on his talks with de Gaulle, saying the French leader welcomes the forthcoming East-West summit meeting as an opportunity to lay the basis for understanding. He also sees hope for control of nuclear weapons.

De Gaulle flew to Washington Friday when—as an indication of the pace of diplomacy these days — Diefenbaker was already in Mexico City to return a visit made by Mexican President Adolfo Lopez to Canada last year. Diefenbaker returns Sunday.

All About Stamps

A great deal has been written and many words spoken about the scarcity of used Ghana stamps, and consequently I feel that I may as well get my feelings off my chest. In the first place, Ghana is one of the better nations of Africa as far as education is concerned and this means that many, many people are able to write letters to friends overseas, this will make the lower and airmail values comparatively easy to find. In the next place we must never forget that the commercial life of Ghana is tied very tightly to Great Britain and this means the movement of registered mail will see a great number of higher values used, in this respect I can only refer to you the Gold Coast stamps and how the used copies were low in price. The next thing to be considered is the business of the large stamp firms in Great Britain who have specialized for years in the new issues, both mint and used. It is common practice with these dealers to supply used copies, cancelled in the colony of origin, at a flat rate over face, for instance, 15%. The thing to do, if you want used copies, is to book them with your favourite new issue dealer and get them complete as issued. You can also explore the possibility of getting those used stamps from First Day Covers, right now the Airways set is priced at about 80 cts. on First Day Cover, wholesale of course. I do not say that the first overprinted set is easy to get, but it was when issued. This same thing may be applied to any small country in the Commonwealth, with the airmail service of today used copies can be obtained very quickly, but never forget, get them when issued, and don't pay a fancy price.

THIS PHOTOGRAPH MAY BE REPRODUCED FOR PHILATELIC, EDUCATIONAL, HISTORICAL, AND NEWSPAPER PURPOSES IN BLACK AND WHITE IN ANY SIZE

The next meeting of the Coaticook Stamp Club will be at Coaticook on Thursday the 28th at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall — we will look forward to seeing you there. The program will be short and interesting I am sure.

The World Refugee Year stamps have really started to be issued — and as usual there are several countries that are scarce. To date a total of 67 countries have definitely stated they will issue stamps, and these countries will add 175 values to collections. It is expected that a total of 85 countries will eventually issue stamps with a total of 210 values. Those of you who plan to collect these desirable stamps would be wise to start at once.

ODDS AND ENDS — the Vatican has issued a set of stamps to commemorate the removal of the Body of Pope Pius the Xth, another attractive set from this extremely popular country, and at a very low price for the complete set. The United States will issue a stamp honoring "The American Woman" on June the 8th, is this a political move to win some of the votes from the fair sex for the Republican Party in the coming elections? It would be a natural to follow this up with a stamp honoring the "American Male", and picture a muscle bound character, I wonder if this is an impossibility? Collectors have a problem with the mounting of Miniature Sheets — it is better to use hinges or mounts, frankly, I would use one of the acetate envelopes or large size mounts manufactured by several companies. Collectors who are looking for new worlds to conquer should investigate the stamp issues from the U.A.R., they are priced low and sufficient issues are available to keep your interest up. Several concerns will have special albums for the new Refugee Year stamps and one of the first in the field is Minkus with a so-called de luxe unit. Saw several of those fantastic postcards that were made in Japan years ago and illustrated with postage stamps cut into different shapes, they were apparently very popular in the past — a word to the wise here, don't give any of them to junior to play with, they are worth a little bit. See you all next week with more news and views.

Eighty-three visits were made to patients in the city and surrounding district, financial help was given in 34 cases amounting to $621.55 and 45 patients were remembered at Christmas when 84 articles were distributed, the annual report of the welfare committee showed.

As each Scout is presented, he receives from the Queen's representative a certificate bearing this message: "As a Queen's Scout you have prepared yourself for service to God and your fellow-men and have shown yourself a worthy member of the great Scout brotherhood. May you continue, under God's guidance, to gain courage and strength to enable you fully to discharge your duty to your Country."

The certificate is signed by Major-General Vanier in his capacity as Chief Scout for Canada, and the name of each Queen's Scout is hand-lettered on his certificate, the work of a Boy Scout of 50 years ago, W. Innes Cunningham of Dorval. It was designed by Earl Alexander of Tunis, a former Governor-General and Chief Scout for Canada.

Flash For Flower Close-Ups Better Than Natural Sunlight

The first flowers of spring are the crocuses. If we choose to photograph them, we will probably find busy bees already there, as there are not too many flowers for them to work on at this time of year.

When using black and white film, select a group of flowers that have some form of stripe. Plain colors or just white are not as interesting, unless in color. Some of the equipment needed includes a close-up lens or a camera able to focus down to three feet, a tripod (not absolutely necessary), and your flash equipment.

The photograph here was taken on a sunny morning, but the sun was not the light used. It is not needed and this is why when photographing flowers, close-up as shown, I use a flash, held at the same angle from which the sun rays would normally come. If the shadow of the flash reflector is over the flower, it would indicate a correct position, which gives a natural effect.

The flash head used has a long cord to the shutter, the lens was closed down to F22 and the exposure was computed for flash at this opening. This gives good depth of field even at close range and when using color film this system has many advantages. So many subjects in our fields and meadows come to life on our color slides or in good salon prints that it would be a shame to pass them up for the want of "know-how." Wild flowers will soon be making an appearance, so try your luck.

Chamber Of Commerce Deserves Support

National Chamber of Commerce Week, which opens tomorrow, is designed to give Canadians a better insight into the work being carried on by the 400 Chambers of Commerce spread across the country, both on the national, provincial and municipal levels.

During the past year, the Quebec Provincial Chamber of Commerce held its annual convention in Sherbrooke and many local citizens learned at first hand of the many-sided activities of the provincial group. One of the major undertakings of the Provincial Chamber was the preparation of a report on traffic conditions and prospects in Quebec, with recommendations on highway and bridge improvements aimed at clearing up present and future traffic bottlenecks.

In the federal field, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce has been carrying on an active campaign for fiscal reform, including a simplification of the Canadian tax structure and a curtailment of the non-essential functions of government to permit a reduction in the tax burden.

But the central groups are no stronger than their component parts and to assure their most effective operation, the local groups must have the entire support of the business section of the community.

The Chamber of Commerce is one of the few groups that is representative of all the business and industrial segments of the city and with its membership expanded to cover all these interests it can truly speak as the representative of business.

The Sherbrooke Chamber and its active president, Claude Genest, are asking for the support of all Sherbrooke citizens for this important undertaking.

Daylight Saving Time

Daylight Saving Time, which starts in this province at midnight tonight may have the simple purpose of giving us more daytime in the summer months, but the device itself has had — and still has — a rather complex and perplexing career.

In 1918, records show, the Federal Daylight Saving Act was passed. "Apparently," the records say, the act lapsed at the end of the year.

In 1940, an Order in Council was passed extending Daylight Saving Time in Quebec and Ontario. Another Order in Council passed two years later provided DST for all purposes in Canada from 2 a.m. February 9, 1942, Standard Time. It was revoked in 1945.

Since then, the Federal government has let Daylight Saving Time fall where it may.

It was undoubtedly one of the most prudent moves ever made by any Federal government.

Daylight Saving Time has become something like local customs — only to be tampered with by those directly affected.

Riviere-du-Loup, for example, plans to stay on Daylight Saving Time all year round.

This will undoubtedly give rise to complications for those Riviere-du-Loupians who travel outside the community after the rest of the province has gone back to Standard Time, but as much daylight as possible at home apparently is what they like.

In places where there is no over-all law governing what kind of time to use, it's almost a case of every man to his own taste.

Many farmers, for example, stick to Standard Time all year round, regardless of what the nearest community has.

And the railways insist on keeping to Standard Time to the great confusion of many summer travellers, and doubtless, the irritation of many railway information desk clerks.

All others in this area will be turning their clocks ahead one hour tonight. All that is, except those who get things a bit muddled and turn their clocks back.

They'll turn up at church tomorrow two hours after the service is over.

ON EATING EASTER BUNNIES

(Ottawa Journal)

Shortly before Easter we indulge in our annual sentimental journey. A tour of the candy shops becomes a return to childhood's favorite exhibitions, the Easter art of the sculptors in chocolate.

Then the rabbit was the king of beasts. Nothing could test our observance of the injunction, "Thou shalt not covet," like the sight of one of the really big ones, seated among a dozen or so eggs in a handsome wicker basket lined with purple or yellow straw.

Those rabbits seemed to have been made with the craftsmanship of a glass-blower. The chocolate was paper-thin and melted on the tongue like a snowflake with a special flavor that couldn't be matched by any ordinary chocolate.

Eating them was almost a ceremony. We began with the feet, nibbling evenly around the base so the rabbit could be set back in his basket still looking perfect—to begin by devouring the ears and head was the mark of a barbarian. And so he nestled lower and lower in the gay straw, and when he was gone it was time to start thinking about firecrackers for the 24th of May.

Few of the rabbits and chickens we see today have much of the old magic. Too much mass production know-how and too little love seems to have gone into them; and the baskets are more apt to be pressed paper than wicker. But this may only be apparent to adult eyes. Perhaps the real change has not been in them, but in us.

DURABLE PEN

(Windsor Star)

A well-made product is a valued one. It is an economic asset. But, perhaps more important, because of its durability it becomes part of one's life. It becomes a sentimental possession. A piece of furniture will serve as an example.

The one we have in mind, however, is a fountain pen. It is a "life-time" pen, presented to the owner by his friends at an important juncture in his life. For more than 25 years it had served him faithfully, with only a new inner tube required to maintain it in fine working condition.

Not long ago the device for filling the pen came apart. A "pen doctor" thought nothing could be done about it, because of the age and style of the pen and the nature of the failure. But he sent it back to the manufacturing company just in chance.

It was returned, completely fixed and as good as new. The owner could well afford to have purchased a new one but nothing could have replaced, in sentimental value, the old one. He is indebted to the company for having been able to make the repair.

It still serves its practical purpose of writing. But, more important, it is a reminder of past incidents and old friends. It, itself, through the years has become a friend, even though an inanimate one.

Watch the Birdie

Saturday's Sermon:

One Wonderful Sunrise

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

Did you see the sunrise of Easter Day April 17th? That sunrise like all the other risings of the sun pale when we think of that one which ushered in that first glad Easter morn.

To describe its magnificence is beyond me; after all sunrises are to be seen and not described. I do believe that whilst the heavens, on that happy morning, were telling the glory, might and blessing of God, sunlight of a rare spiritual quality entered the hearts of those seekers who came very early in the morning the first day of the week, to the sepulchre at the rising of the sun (Mark 16:2).

BEFORE THE DAWN — WORSHIP

Such a wonderful discovery of that empty tomb in Joseph's garden forever made that sunrise of Easter most memorable. I like our Canadian vogue of sunrise services very early on Easter Day. Somehow out of doors, on the hillside, in a park, even beside the sea, in the dark before the dawn of day forms a most suggestive setting in which we can rethink and recapture some of the drama — the magic — of those seekers who came to the tomb expecting to find Death as conqueror. But — and that's the Easter story!

Well do I remember one such service when in the dark everything was so still and silent that I found myself brooding. If the sun did not rise? What then? If Christ did not arise? My soul that would have been a dire calamity. The minutes seemed like days even though I cherished within my heart the knowledge that Jesus arose!

Then, at what seemed the darkest possible moment, the sound of the bugles on the hillside announced that the sun was coming up! Suddenly the darkness within the shell on the stage turned to a white cross and the children began to sing, Christ is Risen! And when the thousands of voices sang, All Hail the power of Jesus Name, I could understand why those pre-dawn visitors were so perplexed, on that first Easter morn! So overwhelming had been the demonstration of Christ's power over death.

Good Friday with the death of their Master seemed to be the supreme hour of the world. But, with the rising of the sun, which revealed the empty tomb, they were obliged to regard Easter

Day as the supreme hour! And rightly so for death had failed to destroy or end Christ or His plans and work in the world. And if death could neither destroy nor hold Him, nothing — no one — then or now — can defeat Him!

SIN — A SHADOW

Sin did not! Neither death. So on this LOW Sunday — low — in comparison with the high mood of Easter Day — on this Low Sunday then, of the risen sun of Easter which dispels the gloomy shadows of sin and death, I am thinking.

I know that you know that as the sun, in triumphing over the shades of night, continue his unwearying work of supplying energy and revitalization, so Christ, by the power of His resurrection, performs a similar function in the spiritual realm. And, by the light of His resurrection, we, too, see LIGHT and thereby make the great discovery that Christ still dispels the gloomy shadows of sin and death.

Now anyone who thinks straight-about sin is aware that because of our sinful nature the guilt of transgressing against the will of God hangs over us and fills the soul with fear of the judgment to come. Nor need we stop there. The Risen Lord has promised to whomsoever willeth to make a faithful repentance and henceforth be ordered by the Holy Spirit, there is peace and forgiveness.

According to the Scriptures, God is reconciled through the cross of Calvary. Jesus' resurrection proclaims to sinful man that the risen Lord defeated the powers of hell and set us free. So with heart and voice we shout Alleluia!

DEATH — ONLY A SHADOW

Alleluia are also forthcoming for the tremendous fact that not only the shade and gloom of life are fled but also that Death is dead. Because of the resurrection we now pass through the shadow of death into the presence of God. So death is only a shadow!

Sometime on the hillside or in the garden, pause and watch shadows. What are they? Partial darkness in a space from which light rays are cut off. I suspect that as you watch them you will be convinced they are unsubstantial. And harmless too. Who ever feared a shadow? Rather are people fascinated by them. Likewise death! I like that famous Twenty-third Psalm reference to the valley of the shadow of death. With Christ, the Good Shepherd, Who is the Sun of our souls, Thou Saviour dear, walking beside us all will be well. The soul will need no candle of earth; fresh breezes from glory shall drive away the death damps and the music of angels shall make the heart forgetful of all pains. Then surprise of surprises! Think of stepping on shore and finding Heaven. Of taking hold of a hand and finding it God's hand — of waking up and finding it HOME. I am aware there is much about death we do not know. If, however, we KNOW the Good Shepherd, Our Companion and Pilot Unerring, Jesus, the Conqueror, of Death and trust Him, nappy — safe — shall we be. And Death though losing none of its solemnity will be greeted as man's last adventure which must end in the attainment of everlasting life. When and if the mists — the shadows of death overcloud our faith, turn to Christ, the Light of the World and do not doubt or fear; Just remember that dark lonely shadows cannot hide God's dear face if we trust in His grace; they are only shadows! Fear not to die then, for death is but a

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

EXPERT PLAY NEEDED HERE

West selected the double dummy opening of the club ten against the three no-trump contract.

South won in dummy and played the king and another diamond. The finesse of the jack lost to West's queen and a second club lead knocked out South's king. He cashed his three good diamonds and led a low heart, but West was once more equal to the occasion. He rose with the king; took his ace; and exited with a spade. South had no way to get to his two good hearts and wound up with only eight tricks.

Could South have made the hand? Yes! Should he have made it? I leave that to you to decide.

The winning play is simply to take the club in either hand and duck a spade. West will probably continue clubs and South wins the second club; cashes dummy's ace and king of spades, discarding any small red card and goes after the diamonds.

All the play from then on will be in the red suits. West will make his queen of diamonds and ace and king of hearts, but that will leave a total of nine tricks for South.

Somewhat double dummyish but reasonable when you consider that West did stick in the heart overall somewhere along the way.

key to more stately mansions for the soul. Be sure that you are alive unto God, then will your life here be a continuous path of peace, joy and triumph, in which not even the valley of the shadow of death (Psalm 23; 4) has any terrors and then, oh! glorious sustaining truth, I will dwell in the House of the Lord forever.

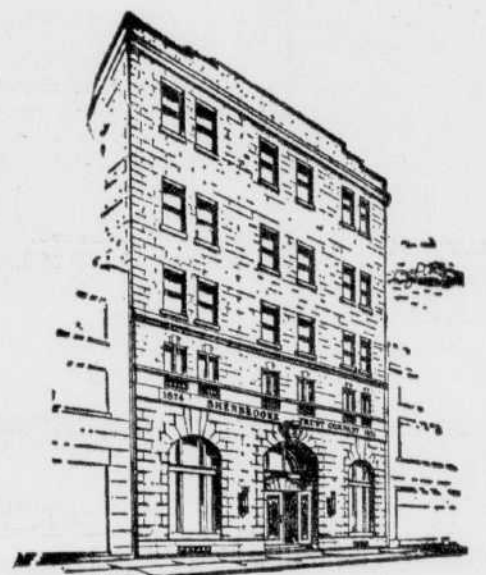

O RADIANCE DIVINE!

In the afterglow of the WONDERFUL sunrise of that first Easter morn, I hope that we will discover that by Christ's rising on the third day, the gloom associated with sin and death was—dispelled. For they are, as we have just observed, shadows. Nor behind, in fact traceable to, shadows in light. And so behind, in and through all worthwhile experiences, there is the Light of the world, Jesus. His light shining through man dispels the darkness and blackness of sin. Believe me our sin-ridden, sin-sick, inharmonious, unhappy world needs to bathe itself in the sunrise of His penetrating and revealing light.

Then, too, as the rising of the sun floods the earth with light and life so Christ and His Church are to flood the world with spiritual light and life. Therefore you and I must shine through union with Christ. To do this, the Easter faith makes possible our establishing a personal relationship with an Eternal Person—Jesus—whose principles are of such quality and quantity that when applied they endow life with both meaning and power.

Here then is my post-Easter invitation addressed especially to you to turn to this Source of Light Divine, the Sun of Righteousness (Mal. 4:2) Jesus, Lord of light and grace (John 8:12) and by living, thinking and walking in His light experience a life that is new and ever-expanding, rich and beautiful, purposeful and fulfilling.

In 5 years

...what?

Five years may see a big change in your responsibilities. Five years may see a big change in your life insurance needs. For these very reasons, Sun Life of Canada offers its new ADJUSTABLE POLICY, the policy that gives you four options at the end of five years so that you can decide what type of life insurance coverage best suits you at that time.

For example, will you still be insurable? One of the options offers you increased coverage with no further medical evidence . . . will you want a larger income for your retirement years? Another option allows you to change your policy to an endowment at age 65 . . . or . . . will you want to reduce your premium outlay without reducing your protection? Then you can change your policy to a lower premium, whole life policy . . . Or you also have the option of keeping your original policy — which will be fully paid for at age 65 — in effect. This plan may meet your personal and family insurance needs for a lifetime.

With its four valuable options, Sun Life's Adjustable Policy looks to your future and considers

- your financial circumstances
- your family's protection
- your retirement income
- your insurability

Let the Sun Life agent in your neighborhood put you and your family on the right road to security. Why not ask him today for full details of this flexible new policy?

Nail Polish Remover Often Harms Carpets

Use of nail polish remover to take spilled nail polish from rugs or carpets may be ruinous to some modern floor coverings, according to technicians of the National Institute of Rug Cleaning, Inc.

A simple remedy is amyl acetate, obtainable at any drug store. It should be applied to the stain a few drops at a time, and then blotted up with clean white tissues or terry cloth.

The choice of delegates to the convention to be held in Sarnia, Ont., the latter part of May, and one in Hamilton in June, was discussed. The names are to be selected at a later meeting.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Clifford Wright and Miss Thelma Graham.

Light Floral Scent Is Right For Spring

If you've ever been staggered on a warm spring day by the overpowering scent of a musky, exotic perfume, you know the need for light perfumes in springtime.

As the weather changes, what seemed a delightful perfume in winter suddenly becomes as heavy as a fur coat. This is the signal to dispense with it for the time being and to go hunting for perfume, toilet water or cologne that carries with it the freshness of woodland greenery.

You won't have to hunt far. A famous French house has translated one of its most loved perfumes into an eau de toilette that's exactly right for spring. It has a lavish floral bouquet that includes orange blossom and rose, muguet and hyacinth, jasmine, heliotrope and honeysuckle.

If this sounds like rather a lot, just bear in mind that, blended by experts, it's delightful. It strikes just the light and airy note that's compatible with warm weather.

Butter Tarts

2 eggs, 1-1/2 cups corn syrup, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup seedless raisins, 2/3 cup chopped walnuts, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup butter (or part butter, part margarine) melted.

Beat eggs slightly, mix with remaining ingredients. Fill unbaked tart shells half full. Yield — 24 small tarts.

NOTE: Corn syrup may be increased to 2 cups for runny butter tarts.

First Stages Of A Great Talent

THE LOVING SPIRIT by Daphne du Maurier — Doubleday & Co. Inc., — 309 pp. — $4.50 — THE LOVING SPIRIT, published originally in 1930, was Daphne du Maurier's first novel, and in this re-issue it is interesting to see a tremendous writing talent in its first stages of development before complete mastery and sophistication replaced naivete.

The book was written by an eager, sincere and youthful author, whose qualities overflow with abandon into the story; the result is a readable and ingeniously moving novel.

Daphne du Maurier is a first-rate story-teller, and THE LOVING SPIRIT attests to the existence of that ability — and a recognizably personal one it is, too — thirty years ago.

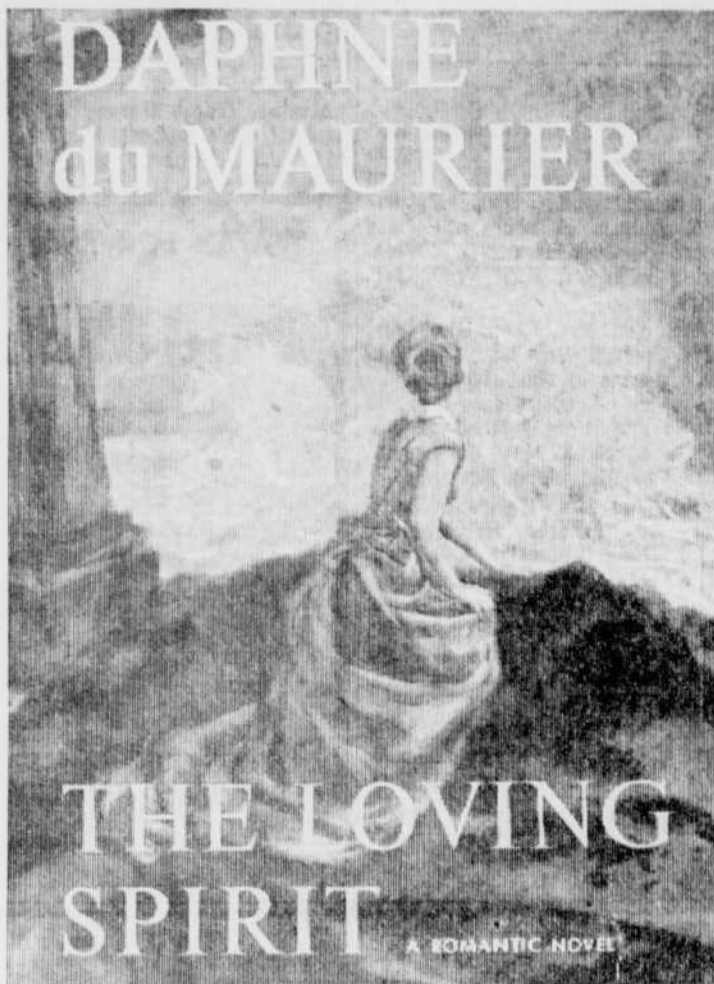

By now it has been polished and perfected, but the ingredients in her books are basically the same now as they were then. Take several interesting characters, add a touch of mystery, mix well into the Cornish sea-coast, and out comes another du Maurier best-seller.

This is a tale of four generations of one Cornish family, the Coombes.

In each generation there is one particular member of the family in whom the "loving spirit" exists to such an extent that the search for fulfillment results only in snatches of joy, rather than constant peace of mind. "Janet—Joseph—Christopher—Jennifer, all bound together in some strange and thwarted love for one another, handing down this strain of restlessness and suffering . . . uniting in one another the living presence of a wise and loving spirit."

This is the theme of the book, in the author's own words, it is a very romantic concept, imperfectly executed, as Miss du Maurier would probably be the first to admit.

But the imperfections of the book are mitigated by the undeniable enthusiasm with which the author attacks her subject, and that enthusiasm is so contagious that as you read the book you, too, will become vitally concerned with the ups and downs and the comings and goings of the Coombe family. Any devotee of Daphne du Maurier's other books will enjoy THE LOVING SPIRIT, and will find in it a temporary enchantment, and a lasting memory.

Her Dragons May Be Mischievous But They're Not Bad Or Horrible

By EDNA BLAKELY
TORONTO — Benjamin Franklin once wrote that "in this world nothing is certain but death and taxes." Had he lived today, he could have added—"and a happy ending for Mary Grannan's stories."

"I don't believe in making little folk afraid or sad," explained Miss Grannan, the writer of Just Mary and Maggie Muggins radio and television programs and the author of more than two dozen books.

The dragons in her stories may be mischievous but they are never bad or horrible.

Written primarily for children, her Just Mary stories have been followed on radio for 21 years. This month the program made its television debut. Miss Grannan has plotted the life of Maggie Muggins for the last 12 years. The program switched to television from radio five years ago.

RETIRE FROM CBC
Mary Grannan retired last February after 21 years with the CBC. She will continue to write the programs on a freelance basis and plans to write more books.

The plots for her programs evolve from simple things, walking along the street one day Miss Grannan noticed a mail box. It gave her an idea for a Maggie Muggins story in which one of the puppets, Fitzgerald Fieldmouse, tried to mail himself to the moon.

Once the plot has been thought through, Miss Grannan says the "dialogue just seems to fill itself in."

All writing is done in the kitchen of her seventh-storey Toronto apartment. Her typewriter sits inconspicuously on the kitchen table and a filing cabinet snuggles the kitchen sink. Reference books on shelves in the living room share wall space with oil paintings by Miss Grannan and her friends.

ALL ORIGINALS
"I'll bet there are not many Canadians with as many originals," she laughs.

Work on television scripts is more painstaking than for radio. The movement of television characters must always be in mind. "You can go anywhere with words," she says describing the freedom of writing for radio.

Miss Grannan has been telling stories to children since she began teaching public school 41 years ago in her hometown, Fredericton.

"I couldn't get enough books with the kind of stories the children wanted to hear," she began to write down the little phrases the children would say, then write a story around the phrase.

$1.50 A WEEK
Her talent of story-telling was recognized and she was asked to write a radio script for Education Week. The program's success led to Miss Grannan being asked to direct a women's radio program. This was followed by a comedy series, Aggravating Agatha. She earned $1.50 a week for the program—75 cents for writing the script and 75 cents for playing the lead role.

Several of the scripts were sent to Frank Willis, then eastern region superintendent for the CBC. He liked the dialogue but advised Miss Grannan that the CBC was looking for children's stories.

It was in 1938 that school teacher Grannan wrote the first Just Mary story. The series ran for a year on the Fredericton radio station before Miss Grannan obtained a year's leave of absence from her teaching position to go to Toronto.

That was in 1939. Since then she has written 26 books as well as the radio and television scripts.

Miss Grannan says one of her greatest compliments came from a young boy in Ottawa who said some stories make him dream, but not hers.

A Look At India

THE CHILDISH BRIDES

By M. P. Deane—published by Doubleday Publishers—Price $4.50—The Childish Brides, the story of an American couple in India was written by a husband and wife team, Philip and Molly Deane.

The Deanes have tried with some success to weave together the lives and foibles of an American couple in modern India with that of an Indian employee and his family.

This book is very aptly named. One young wife is indeed a child and the other, extremely childish in her outlook.

I found the plot of this book highly incredible. As an example of this: Richard Gavin had spent an adulterous week with a free-lance photographer named Cecile. When his wife heard about it she made Richard agree to take the Indian family to a religious festival where they hoped to have their baby cured of an incurable disease. This excursion ended in the grimmest of disasters.

The most interesting parts of this book lay in the comparisons the reader makes between the two cultures, that of the older Indian way of life and the newer, disturbing influences of the presence of Westerners and their ways.

The dustjacket tells us that the authors have lived in India and are therefore well equipped to write this novel. One can only suppose from this that most of their material is based on observation and fact. If this is so, this reader cannot help but feel that North Americans should consider leaving their drinking habits at home when taking posts in other countries.

The bit in the story about Mr. Gavin giving his librarian his first drink at a Christmas Party, and that despite his cultural and religious beliefs Krishna felt honoured by the gesture, is shocking.

There is also too liberal a use made of Indian terminology. It may add to the authenticity of the story but it does not add to the readability. SHIRLEY SIMPSON.

MONTLENNY, France (AP) Paul Fort, France's "prince of poets," died Wednesday at the age of 88. Fort went back to the middle ages for his poetry form—the ballad—and some of his verses have lasting popularity.

"I am the light of the world," said Jesus. "he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." John 8:12.

God has given all men the light of conscience. This He flicks on to caution us to move slowly. He does not speak a word but, like the signal lights, He makes signs to keep us out of the path of danger, and to guide us to our desired haven.

At times we wonder why He allows the mist to envelop us and retard our progress.

traveling through patches of very heavy fog.

We kept in line following the red tail lights of the car ahead, moving cautiously on and on into the gloom, praying: Lead kindly light amid the encircling gloom,

Lead thou me on,
The night is dark and I am far from home.
Lead thou me on.

How kindly was the tail light on the car ahead! And, how we trusted the driver ahead to move circumspectly!

We got our signals for a slowdown or a turn by the flashing of little lights. It was not a wise time to open the throttle and let the car speed on its way.

For anyone in his right mind knows that fog is the signal to slow down and pay attention to the little lights and the moaning fog horns that have been set in strategic places to guide the wayfarers through the gloom.

ONE STEP AT A TIME
Cautiously the driver piloted the car through the miles of mist as we reflected on spiritual experiences.

All of us run into fog patches in our spiritual wanderings. Sometimes, like the car driver, we don't know where we are, because something has come between us and God's plan for us.

And in such circumstances it has forced us to take one slow step at a time and follow whatever light we saw in the encircling gloom.

In such times we find direction on our spiritual route by reading the Bible. "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path," wrote David.

As we followed the little tail light on the car ahead, coming home through the mist and the rain, I thanked God for those who had gone on before and placed the lights and the signs along the dreary road.

I thanked him too for the cautious drivers ahead who were leading on through the night. Actually we did not hear them utter a word, though every inch of the way their light signals gave direction.

"STOP!" said the red tail light. "Left turn," said the yellow flicker as it poked out its white finger into the gloom.

"Dim your lights!" a blinking headlight warned.

And so we drove in silence catching the message of the lights at every crucial turn and stop sign.

When one car turned off the highway always another tail light appeared just ahead to guide us on our way as the fog hugged the pavement and limited our view.

REASONS FOR HEAVY FOG
"I am the light of the world," said Jesus. "he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." John 8:12.

God has given all men the light of conscience. This He flicks on to caution us to move slowly. He does not speak a word but, like the signal lights, He makes signs to keep us out of the path of danger, and to guide us to our desired haven.

The recent brouhaha about toll-bridges in Montreal reminds us of one of our favorite stories.

A man driving a horse and wagon approached the toll-gate of a bridge and was immediately stopped by a pompous official who said "That'll be 25 cents!"

"Twenty-five cents?" echoed the man. "But I thought that was just for motor vehicles!"

"Listen, buddy," roared the toll-keeper. "That's for any kind of vehicle. So pay up!"

"Just a minute," said the man. He turned his horse and wagon around, went back down the road, dismounted, unhitched the horse, placed the horse in the wagon and then pulled it over the bridge.

"It won't work, buddy," said the toll keeper stopping him again "that'll be 25 cents!"

The man smiled and pointed to the horse in the wagon and said . . . "Talk to the driver!"

Our Glasgow correspondent cables us about the thrifty Scot who needed money so badly, he drew it out of the bank.

We understand that the waiters at a certain Toronto restaurant went on a slowdown strike but had to give it up after three days. Nobody noticed the difference.

SOCRATES SCHWARTZ, our friendly neighborhood philosopher, says people are funny. They work like slaves and save all their money so when they're 80 they can have all the things only young people can enjoy.

We just met a rock 'n' roll star whose records will soon be collector's items . . . garbage collectors.

The late W. C. Fields had a great collection of stories about tipplers. One of his favorites was about the American tourist in Switzerland who had had 10 too many and fell into a snowdrift in the Alps.

As he lay there in a stiff condition induced partly by the snow but mostly by the alcohol, he saw a St. Bernard dog coming towards him with the traditional keg of brandy hanging from his collar.

"Hooray!" roared the inebriate. "Here comes man's best friend with a large dog!"

A typical Torontonians, we are informed, is a man who takes a coffee-break even when he's out of work.

We understand the Consumers' Gas Company is sending one of its inspectors to Cortina for the 1960 Summer Olympics. He holds the record for 5,000 meters.

Professor Waynegartner, the distinguished mad scientist, has just discovered a wonderful new way to improve the flavor of salt. You just sprinkle it over a thick steak.

Definition of a husband — a man who was once in love.

Morey Amsterdam, the cello playing wag, has a friend who just joined Tobacco Anonymous, a newly-formed organization. If you suddenly feel the urge to have a cigarette, they send over a man to get drunk with you.

Reasons for heavy fog and enveloping mists, in either the natural or spiritual realm, so that we must accept these as part of His wiser plan for us and our world.

And content ourselves to watch the signals our Lord flashes through the gloom.

Some day we may discover that following the misty way has been much safer than the known way.

In the meantime we must learn to move within the limited circle of light given us in the full knowledge that with every step forward God will give us the light signal for the next move.

The road of life is enshrouded in fog and mystery. But God has never left His children to grope alone in the fog. And so we step out in faith praying:

Lead kindly light amid the encircling gloom,
Lead thou me on.

And after long adventuring with Him we have found that He is the light that never fails.

Reading Habit, Like Gift of Love, Starts in Nursery

By VIRGINIA SORESEN

PETERBOROUGH, N.H. — (NEA) — "How can I help make readers of my children?" In a world where even books have become competitors, this is a question parents everywhere are asking — and asking anxiously.

What techniques experts advise I have no idea, but I can speak from simple experience.

Like the gift of love, which brings with it the power to love, it seems to me the gift of literature can hardly be given too soon. One begins to give it in arms, in the nursery, during that short shift we have and sometimes grow impatient with because it often seems longer than it really is.

We parents have a privileged time of feeling-making — one might call it memory-making — that leaves for a child, around certain activities, an aura of pleasure or an aura of pain.

THE FIRST READING should be in the shelter of loving arms, on the lap, against the breast, and, of course, it is not reading at first, but reciting, singing, telling.

Think of the first exciting characters the child meets — his family of toes, their engaging adventures accompanied by gestures and the most delicate touching of fingertips. One little child may go to the market with mother, but one must stay at home; one eats and one goes hungry — situations of terrible importance and drama — and the poor little one must cry all the way home.

THE IMPORTANT THING is how it is done, always cozy and unhurried if a child would think of books gratefully all the rest of his life. From the first real books, verses and stories rise magically as incense, not in arms any longer (he is too big for that) but at the bedside, under the lamp.

As soon as he wishes, he may choose what to read, but why not a feeling of sharing something wonderful? He will often return to a story first brought to him as "one I loved when I was your age."

To know about his parents as children gives a child a feeling of friendship and common ground. And ground for confidence that indeed he will grow up in his own time and that maturity will be a very fine thing.

If he carries good stories into his dreams from the beginning, later he will choose stories himself that carry well into larger dreams of who and what he is be always abundantly there, so that he may turn pages, look, smell, touch, leave and return at will. Presently he will want to take his turn at bedtime and then he will begin to read alone — if quiet time in a quiet place is provided with respect.

And he is off to school in the meantime and is introduced to the library down the street as the new home of old friends, while his parents move out into the arena of P.T.A. and Friends of the Library and all the rest, to see that things are as they should be where their children go.

Once given, the gift of reading faithfully remains. Through busy years it may seem lost, but it comes back in quiet times and quiet hours. On the inevitably long nights and empty days of every life, old friends and new ones forever fresh arriving will continue to live on the shelves and in that library down the street.

AS HE GROWS, books should street.

PRESIDENT CLAUDE GENEST

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

DEAR FRIEND,

I would like to take the occasion of National Chamber of Commerce Week to contact you about the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce.

As President, it is indeed a pleasure to mention first of all the great progress that your local Chamber has recently made. This is particularly due to the considerable amount of work put out relentlessly by the Executive and the members of the Board.

These men meet with remarkable regularity every Monday morning at 8.00 a.m. for a meeting of the Board, and, in addition, the Executive meet every Friday noon.

Your Chamber pays great attention to all problems of interest to the community in which we are all happy to live and has set up various committees that work untiringly on matters such as:

- the Textile Industry,
- the proposed Sherbrooke-Montreal Toll Road,
- Municipal By-laws,
- City traffic and parking problems,
- the drinking water supply problem,
- the City Budget,
- plus various others matters.

You have certainly noted by reading your local newspapers that your Chamber is very active, extending its influence to the Provincial and Federal Governments, assisted on occasion by the Quebec Provincial Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce respectively.

However, your local Chamber needs more new members not only to maintain but also to increase its good work.

I am therefore writing particularly to you.

All business men and professionals, in one word, every one of you should be interested in joining the ranks of the Chamber.

Rather than working in various organizations, each on its own, you should join the Chamber, bringing with you your co-operation and your personal experience, to defend your common interests and your personal ones, but subordinating the latter to those of your community.

Your Chamber is your best public body to defend and promote your interests with the authorities at all levels.

In closing, it is your interest that I am actually outlining when I do appeal to you to join our Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce and I only hope these few words will have been of help to better understand what your Chamber stands for.

Yours very truly,
CLAUDE GENEST, president,
Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce

The farmer, the merchant, the professional man, the employer, the employee — all must be prosperous if your community is to progress. Each must be interested in the welfare of all.

The Record's Farm Report

Price support for whole milk powder was the new element added to the price support plan for dairy farmers announced recently by Agriculture Minister Harkness. Otherwise the support program continues much the same as last year beginning May 1.

This leaves butter and cheese to be supported by government purchase and leaves support levels at 64 cents a pound (basis Montreal) for butter and at 32 cents (Ontario) and 31½ cents (Quebec) a pound for cheese.

Whole milk used for manufacturing (condensed, powdered, etc.) will receive 25 cents a hundredweight except when the farmer selling it also sells fluid milk for bottling.

Butter stocks are expected to give some concern later in the year. The 324 million pounds produced in 1959 were 20 million pounds over Canada's consumption needs so butter stocks on May 1 are expected to be close to 75 million pounds. An advertising campaign will be started by Mr. Harkness's department to stimulate the declining consumption of butter.

If stocks of butter continue to mount beyond seasonal requirements, the Stabilization Board has been authorized to purchase quantities of whole milk powder Mr. Harkness said. The amount purchased will depend on trends in price of butter and skim milk.

How the purchase of this whole milk powder will be handled has yet not been decided. It is planned to have it packed in vacuum tins to preserve it. Only about 12 processors in Canada are now equipped to handle the milk this way. The product will contain about 27 per cent fat and the balance skim milk powder, and can be reconstituted for drinking. It is expected that the vacuum pack will make this an attractive product in other countries, where most of it is slated to go.

Government Moving Pork Holdings

Prospects are for government stocks of canned pork to be disposed of fairly rapidly in the next few months. Agriculture Minister Harkness told the House recently in answering a question from the Hon. Paul Martin (L. Essex East) that starting April 18 the government's canned pork would be sold as fast as the market could take it.

This may be less disturbing to the industry than it appears at first glance. Actually of the 99 million pounds in government stocks announced by Mr. Harkness last March 8, there is only about 60 million left for the market.

The rest is expected to go to domestic welfare agencies that would not otherwise buy it (20 million pounds are already spoken for by the provinces and other agencies and more is expected to go to this use) and to international relief agencies (a maximum of 20 million will be allocated to this outlet of which 10 million pounds is already allotted).

Hog marketings are expected to fall seasonally over the next few weeks and hog prices should soon rise and hold above support price levels. Under these circumstances the government sees an opportunity to move its stocks of canned pork into consumption before fall. Expect good buys on canned pork for most of the summer.

Japan Trade Scrutinized

Officials of Trade and Finance departments continue to keep a close watch on the level of imports from Japan. The increase of roughly five per cent agreed upon for Japanese textile imports appears to be causing no difficulty to the domestic industry so far. If difficulties should arise from imports of textiles or other products departmental officials are alerted to take prompt action.

Friends Fete Bury Couple On Anniversary

BURY — A pleasant surprise party, arranged by the groom's sister, Mrs. Clayton Sylvester, and attended by some 50 guests was recently tendered Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Martin, better known to their friends as Fred and Pearl, on their 19th wedding anniversary.

The couple were lured to the party under the pretext of accompanying Mr. and Mrs. N.H. McLeod to Bishop. On entering the home, the hostess, Mrs. Sylvester, presented Mrs. Martin with a corsage of lilies of the valley and the assembled guests sang, For They Are Jolly Good Fellows.

The spacious rooms were in readiness for an evening's entertainment, 500 being played at eight tables. Prizes for high score went to Miss Sylvester and Mr. E. Barter, while Miss O. Mosher and Mr. L. Mosher received the consolation prizes.

The hostess and her daughters, assisted by several other ladies, served bountiful refreshments. The bride's table was centered with an attractive three tiered anniversary cake, a gift from Mr. and Mrs. N. H. McLeod. This cake was topped with a large white rose, over which were three large hearts in pink and white, and two smaller hearts with the figure 19.

Nineteen smaller hearts interspersed with numerous roses, were artistically arranged on and around the cake, the creation of Mrs. Al Goode.

Dear Sirs,

I purchased from you a Vauxhall Victor. This is the best car I have ever owned. It is a doublefree starting, without using my block heater. On the highway I get up to 40 miles to the gallon, (plus the comfort and handling characteristics of a much better car.) I can truthfully say that any car I have owned has given me such satisfaction, economy and dependability.

Please feel free to use this letter to support any advertising of your Vauxhall sales.

Yours truly,

NHL ALL-STAR SQUAD CAUSES SURPRISES

The selection of the first and second All-Star teams certainly brought forth plenty of comment regarding the choices. In the first place Glenn Hall of Chicago nosed out Jacques Plante, five-time winner of the Vezina Trophy for the goalkeeper's position, to the big surprise of many fans.

It must be pointed out here that the voting is based only on the schedule and not the playoffs. Hall picked up 106 points to Plante's 105 which was very close. In the first half the Canadian netminder had 68 points to 22 for Hall but in the final half the Chicago boy picked up 84 out of 90 while Plante earned 37 for the difference.

The only repeater on the team was Jean Beliveau while the other members failed to make even the second squad. Howe and Hull are two good choices to go with Gros Bill while Pronovost and Harvey complete the team with Hall. The second had Bernie Geoffrion and Plante from the Canadiens with Stanley and Pilote on defense with Horvath at centre and Prentice.

It is hard to understand how Henri Richard missed the second team as we think he is one of the best centre men in the loop and deserves serious consideration. We don't know on what they are picked for, or how, but sometimes it is hard to figure. Anyway the two teams are the pick of the writers on the beat and maybe some of the good performers just didn't show against certain teams.

The Emery-Baldwin fight is certainly gathering plenty of interest around the country judging from the various comments and a good crowd should be on hand for the championship bout. It is next Sunday, May 1, when it is scheduled so if you haven't got your tickets yet now is the time before the good seats are all gone. Promoter Pee Wee Berwick has a good program lined up and fighting fans should witness some very good bouts.

General Manager Perry Moss of the Montreal Alouettes left no doubt regarding how he felt about the NFL exhibition game which is slated to take place in Montreal this fall. It seems it is a private promotion which is primarily to put money in the coffers of the New York Giants.

It seems funny to us that two teams of the National Football League would stage an exhibition game in direct competition with a regular Big Four game. It seems no one in the Canadian loop was consulted for permission to play the game.

One can't but think that the scheduling of this game indicates NFL's tendency to violate the unwritten understanding that has existed between the two leagues. When Bert Bell was alive no club would have dared do such a thing but it seems now that the owners are running the league and not the new commissioner.

Manager Moss states that unless the game is called off the NFL can rest assured that the Alouettes will take whatever steps are available to compete against the venture and others which may follow. It looks as though Ray Walsh, General Manager of the New York Giants, will have his hands full before it is over.

It is going to be interesting to watch how the two deals Frank "Trader" Lane made the past week will work out. So far the boys involved have failed to show anything outstanding although it seems that the Tigers have obtained the best so far.

It is the first time in history of the game that a major league home-run champion has been exchanged for the batting champion. Lane certainly traded away a lot of power and he must have plenty of faith in someone else to make up for 63 homes and 293 runs-batted-in which he dealt away in sending Colavito to the Tigers and Minnie Minoso to the White Sox.

It seems that Lane and Manager Joe Gordon have tremendous faith in Walter Bond to produce at the plate. Casey Stengel figures Lane made a good deal in getting Kuenn who will help the Indians in more ways than one. Time will tell how things will work out and who got the best of the trade.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Townships section of the Quebec Minor Hockey Association will be held tomorrow afternoon at the New Sherbrooke Hotel. It is slated to commence at 2:00.

Maurice Parsons, District Minor Convener, has called the meeting to present a report on the season's activities and to present trophies to the winning clubs as well as the Robin Hood Trophies. An election will take place to appoint officers for next season and don't be surprised that Parsons is returned with flying colors. Maurice is a one-man organization and how he does it is beyond us but he gets the results. It will be interesting to hear his report for the season and see how many youngsters he has under control.

See where Marv Jensen, Fuller's manager, states that Joey Giardello won't get another chance to fight Fuller. He figures that Harry Kessler, the referee, should have stopped the fight when Giardello deliberately "batted" Gene. Wonder where he was looking when Fuller all evening long was pulling his rough-house tactics and getting away with them.

We think that Fuller was a little leery of Giardello and was trying all the tricks of the trade. On several occasions he would have one arm around Joey's neck and hitting with the other. We wonder if Jensen calls that boxing. Once Gene started his funny work it was only natural that Joey would give it back to him. Anyway it was a real old-fashioned slugfest and the rematch should be another humdinger.

See where the Canadian Trotting Association turned down Lionel Racicot's appeal on the one-year suspension which they handed out last winter and what makes us laugh is the reason, we quote, "IN THE BEST INTERESTS OF RACING."

If that's not the best joke of the year we would like to know what is better. Having a little knowledge of the CTA, we understand it. Any association, or organization, that acts in this manner is peculiar. Racicot didn't have a chance to present his side of the story, to defend his actions, but on the written word of a few "sore-headed" owners and drivers he is suspended.

We know that maybe he didn't make a few entries on some of the eligibility papers but just the same he gave the local fans some very well balanced races. We understand that an official of the CTA was in town and contacted the local representative on the board about it and maybe it was on this they decided to reject the appeal.

Lionel has always been very out-spoken about the CTA and we are sure this didn't help his case. It seems the only reason President Proudfoot would give was that he was suspended under Rule 6 with no further comment.

In any court in the British Commonwealth a person is innocent until proven guilty, after listening to the case with both sides represented but it seems that the CTA has never heard of any such manner. They find an individual guilty right away.

We wonder if the testimony was given under oath, we doubt it very much. Everyone is entitled to a hearing before sentence is passed. How about it gentlemen? Why proceed in such a manner?

Olympic Trials To Be Held Next Month In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Dennis White, a national chairman for amateur boxing in Canada, announced Friday that the combined Canadian championships and Olympic trials will be held in Montreal May 24-26.

The 10 regulation weight-classes will be contested for the championships, after which five of the boxers will be selected as Canada's representatives at the Olympic games in Rome next August.

White is national chairman of the boxing committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

He said entry forms have been sent to all branches and other affiliated bodies. Much interest has been shown in all provinces, and the Canadian army expects to enter a strong team.

The program the first two nights will be held at Palestre Nationale, the big sports organization which is sponsoring the tournament. The finals, on the third night, will be held at the new civic centre — Sherbrooke Street and Pie IX Boulevard — coinciding with opening of the centre.

Tigers Edge White Sox 6-5 In Home Opener

53,563 Fans Jam Briggs Stadium As Tigers Post Third Straight Win; Yanks Blank Orioles, A's Top Indians

A record opening day crowd of 53,563 jammed Briggs Stadium in Detroit Friday afternoon and thrilled to every pitch as the home-town Tigers edged defending American League champion Chicago White Sox 6-5 on a two-out ninth inning single by Lou Berberet.

Detroit thus remained atop the standings with a clean three wins and no loss mark.

A half-game back are New York Yankees. Veteran southpaw Whitey Ford kept them in that position as he blanked Baltimore Orioles 5-0 before 35,645, the largest Yankees home opening crowd since 1952.

CONSECUTIVE HOMERS

In other AL action, ex-Yank Norm Siebern and husky Bob Cerv slammed consecutive home runs to start Kansas City Athletics to a 4-1 win over Cleveland Indians in the A's home opener.

One day game was played in the National League, with leading San Francisco Giants using home runs to spoil the home opener of Chicago Cubs 10-8.

CLUTCH HIT

At Detroit, chunky catcher Lou Berberet lined one of Bob Shaw's pitches into centre field with the bases loaded. The hit scored Al Kaline from third and provided Detroit with its first home opener win since 1954.

Home runs by newcomers Rocky Colavito and Steve Bilko and another by Eddie Yost kept the Tigers in the tense struggle.

In Yankee Stadium, Ford failed to go the distance, retiring after seven innings, but young Ralph Terry preserved the shutout, New York's second in succession.

The Yanks rapped three Baltimore pitchers for nine hits, including home runs by Mickey Mantle and Hector Lopez.

Hoyt Wilhelm, who hurled a no-hitter against the Yankees Sept. 20, 1958 and whipped them three times last year, was the Baltimore starter and loser.

THIRD LOSS FOR TRIBE

Ray Herbert, Kansas City right hander, limited the visiting Indians to nine scattered hits as the Tribe went down to their third straight defeat.

Tito Francona doubled off Herbert in the second and scored on Russ Nixon's single to give Cleveland a 1-0 lead. Then Siebern led off the home half of the inning with a tremendous clout that cleared the centre field fence at the 421-foot mark. Cerv followed with his blast over the left field barrier.

Cerv drove in another run in the third with a triple to centre and the die was cast.

Herbert was aided by four sparkling double plays.

Loser Wynn Hawkins, making his first major league start, was shaken by the Siebern, Cerv shots and walked three batters before he was taken out.

ILL WIND AT CHICAGO

The Giants slammed five home runs in their win over the Cubs. A wind blowing toward centre field, also dished up a pair of round-trippers for the losers.

Jim Davenport hit two homers, Willie McCovey one, Dale Long, an ex-Cub, another, and Ed Bresnahan one.

For the Cubs, it was a three-run blast by Frank Thomas in the third and George Altman's solo effort in the fifth.

Winner of the three hours and 17-minute game was Billy Loes, third of four firemen who followed starter Sam Jones. The loser was Don Elson, second of three successors for starter Glen Hobbie.

Experts Can't Find Any Serious Challengers For Stanley Cup For A Few Years, Too Many Replacements

By JACK SULLIVAN

The Stanley Cup post-mortems are in full swing these days and, of course, most of the talk centres around Montreal Canadiens. The opinion, even among hockey men, is that there isn't a serious Cup challenger in sight and there probably won't be for a few years.

Even Jack Adams is getting around to that theory, and he is from the school of diehards who believe that a good club disintegrates about every five years. His mind was changed after Canadiens whipped through the Cup finals in the minimum eight

Billy Carter Is Picked As Top EPHL Sportsman

OTTAWA (CP) — A player who was thumped to the penalty box only once in 70 games has been named the player best combining playing ability and sportsmanship in the Eastern Professional Hockey League, league headquarters announced Friday.

Centre Billy Carter of Hull-Ottawa Canadiens was picked for the honor by four of six league governors and also received votes for second and third place, giving him a total of 24 points.

Runner-up with 22 points was rightwinger Orval Tessier of Kingston Frontenacs, the league scoring champion who set two new professional scoring records in goals scored and total points.

CORNWALL NATIVE

Carter, 22, a native of Cornwall, scored 42 goals and added 60 assists for 102 points in 70 games, good for a third place tie with teammate Bob Courcy in the league scoring race. He received one minor penalty, midway through the season.

Tessier, 26, who also hails from Cornwall, grabbed the other two first place votes and the remaining four judges picked him as runner-up.

He ended the season with a record 39 goals and 67 assists for a total of 126 points. He served only 10 minutes in the penalty box.

Don Laz And CBS Settle Damage Suit

GENEVA, Ill. (AP) — Don Laz, 1956 Olympic pole vaulter, has settled a $840,000 damage suit against the Columbia Broadcasting system, Ford Motor Company and others out of court.

A suit by Laz alleging invasion of privacy was dismissed Thursday in Kane county circuit court on his motion in consideration of a $35,000 settlement.

The former University of Illinois pole star who is now an architect in Urbana, Ill., filed the action after films which showed him clearing the bar in a pole jump were telecast as part of an advertisement for the auto firm.

games with four-straight decisions over Chicago and Toronto.

Adams, regarded as a master of trading and a genius in hockey shrewdness with 44 years of the game behind him, isn't convinced any more that the Canadiens are just about ready to fold after five straight Cup victories.

A couple of years ago Adams was pretty sure that time was running out on Maurice Richard and Doug Harvey. "When the Canadiens lose those two they are going to have trouble," he warned. "They are the men who kill you and when they go the Canadiens are going to suffer."

THEY'RE LOADED

Now, he concedes, Canadiens are loaded even without the 38-year-old Richard.

They've got the best farm system in the National Hockey League and, according to big-league scouts, they have the best prospects of any team down on the farm. For instance, there are juniors Wayne Connolly of Peterborough Petes and Bobby Rousseau of Brockville Canadiens.

And since the 1954-55 season they've brought up—all from farm clubs—goalkeeper Jacques Plante, defencemen Bob Turner, Jean-Guy Talbot and Junior Langlois and forwards Henri Richard, Phil Goyette, Claude Provost, Andre Pronovost, Don Marshall and Bill Hicke.

Any other NHL club would love dearly to latch on to any one of these fellows.

ROCKET WON'T TALK

And the Rocket? Well, he has scored only one goal in two play-off years and Canadiens still are regarded as probably the greatest all-around club in the history of professional hockey.

The talk still continues that the Rocket may hang up his tack this year. Only Richard knows what he will do and he isn't talking, but one thing is certain: he will be protected in the annual draft in June, if he doesn't announce his retirement before then.

Every club would be willing to spend $20,000 to pick him up. But they'll never be given the chance. Phil Watson, the one-time talkative ex-coach of New York Rangers, had a pat answer about what he would do if Rangers ever had an opportunity of picking up the Rocket, even if he couldn't play.

"I'd put him in a glass cage in the lobby of Madison Square Garden and charge people a quarter to see him. We'd make a pile of money."

REMEMBER WHEN . . .

Charlie Gardner, then with the Winnipeg team in the American Hockey Association, was signed by Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL 33 years ago today. The great Scottish-born goaltender won the Vezina trophy in 1932 and 1934, but died two months after helping Chicago win the Stanley Cup for the first time in 1934.

All Seats To Be Reserved For June 20 Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Every seat in the Polo Grounds will be reserved for the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout on Monday, June 20, Humbert J. Fugazy of the promoting Feature Sports, Inc., said Friday.

Ringside seats will sell for $100 each with seats in the upper and lower boxes commanding $50. Seats in the upper and lower grandstand will sell for $30, $20 and $10. Fugazy said ticket applications would be accepted starting Friday.

Meanwhile, Johansson's business relating to the fight last June 26 in which he won the championship by flooring Patterson seven times in three rounds finally was cleared up, 10 months late.

The $153,000 held in escrow was released to him upon his signing Thursday for the return battle. The contract for the June 20 bout calls for the promoters to place $200,000 in escrow for him in a Swiss bank four days before the fight.

Natural GOLF

By JIMMY DEMARET

Suppose we have just taken a table in the Masters Room at my club, The Champions, in Houston, and you ask me about the grip.

Well, when it comes to the hands on the club, it will have to be a case of do as I say, not as I do, because I no longer consider the overlapping grip the most fundamentally sound.

The most important thing you can learn about the hands is the part they play together, and this definitely calls for the full-fingered grip, which I now recommend and teach. My muscles are too sensitive to their roles in the overlapping grip for me to think about changing, but if I were just starting I would.

Taking the little finger of the right hand off the club entirely and moving the right hand that much closer to the left, Harry Vardon, the British master who developed the overlapping grip more than a half century ago, reduced the tendency of his big hands to work separately.

The chances are better than 100,000-to-1 that you don't have to reduce power in favor of control. So let's begin by teaching you a grip using your full potential of control and power by employing all the fingers of both hands, as I stress in my Golf-To-Music Lessons album.

Referring to the full-fingered as the "baseball grip" is completely misleading. A batter holds the bat more in the palms of his hands. If you were to hold the club in a "baseball grip," both thumbs would be around the shaft just as the fingers are. The palms would control and more directly power the club. The full-fingered grip employs all the fingers separately but in unison.

It's ridiculous to suggest that a grip like the overlapping, which makes the two hands more like one, and takes one of the controlling fingers entirely off the club, can be as strong as one emphasizing the use of each hand, and allowing every finger to make its most substantial contribution.

NEXT: The stance.

C. V. Whitney's Tompion Rams Home Winner In Forerunner Purse To Beat E. P. Taylor's Favored Victoria Park

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — C.V. Whitney's Tompion proved his Kentucky Derby favorite's role logical Friday as he rammed home over seven other Derby eligibles in the seven-furlong Forerunner Purse at Keeneland.

The son of Tom Fool, held off the pace until entering the turn, bettered Winfield's Farms' Victoria Park by a length and a half in a tight stretch duel. Victoria Park is owned by Toronto industrialist E.P. Taylor.

Calumet Farm's Pied d'Or, the pace setter, finished third ahead of Bourbon Prince, STARTED SLOW

Tompion, slow from the gate, began a slow move in the backstretch and continued to drive as Victoria Park closed on the outside at the wire.

The Tom Fool colt was timed in 1:21 4-5, one-fifth of a second off the track record. His fractions were :22 2-5; :45; and 1:09 3-5 for six furlongs.

Behind Mrs. Adele L. Rand's Bourbon Prince Calumet's Hillsborough, Lurullah, Tony Graff, and El Zag in that order.

The winner, with Willie Shoemaker in the saddle, returned $4.40, $2.60 and $2.20. Victoria Park paid $2.80 and $2.20 and the Calumet entry paid $2.20 to show.

Victoria park, for a time appearing a possible winner, continued another one-eighth mile after the finish and was timed in 1:35 flat.
