NINETY-FIRST YEAR — HUNTINGDON, QUE., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25th, 1954 — TWELVE PAGES

Huntingdon Fair Has Most Successful Run - Monday to Wednesday

Mrs. Sidney Barrington Winner of TV Set — Dave Rennie's Dance Team Wins Square Dance Contest

What was said of Huntingdon Fair in the last issue of The Gleaner with regard to the opening nights of this annual event still holds true — it was a most successful fair. Figures for the total of gate, dance and drawing receipts show $2,256.60. Broken down they read like this: Gate Receipts: Monday night, $231.; Tuesday afternoon, $231.75; Tuesday night, $222.15; Wednesday afternoon, $497.20; Wednesday night, $380.50. Net on dance, $159.00 and net on drawing, $335.00. It has been many a day since receipts like that could be recorded.

The judging went ahead at a fast pace in all departments on Tuesday and Wednesday and the stock parade on Wednesday showed a large number of winning entries as a credit to this district.

The patrons had plenty to watch and to do as they went from place to place on the grounds to search for all of interest. The grandstand both for the events of the Fair and the Horse Racing was well filled for all occasions.

Wednesday's gate topped the fair for both afternoon and evening which may have been on account of the interest in horse racing. There was no vaudeville show in the evening, the Square Dancing contest taking the place of this. In the early afternoon, the horse drawing contest drew quite a crowd and it proved to be a very good one, with five teams entered. All the teams were pretty well matched and it took almost until the last bag of sand before the final results. The draw started off at 3,000 pounds and each of the teams pulled that with the greatest of ease. The final pull was a load of 4,800 pounds and the winning team was that of Mr. Fred Carter of Ellenburg, N.Y. In fact all the winners were from New York State. The second and third respectively were: Mr. W. Sweet of Mooers Forks and Mr. W. Begore of Mooers Forks, N.Y. G. Goldie of Rockburn, Que., and J. Welburn of Huntingdon, Que., were the other entrants in the order of contest. The prizes were cash — 1st, $25.; 2nd, $15 and 3rd, $10. Mr. Campbell Paul was in charge of the contest. It required quite a number of pulls before the finals could be announced. There was much applause from the audience for the efforts put forth by both drivers and animals. Keen interest followed all stages of the contest and there seemed to be general satisfaction when the winners were announced.

Immediately following the above contest, the races started and there was a general trek to the race course to witness some very close and exciting finishes among the 24 horses which were entered in the various classes. The prize for each event was $100 and the following are the results:

The crowd was too busy with these events to witness the presentation of prizes by members of the Montreal Kiwanis to Junior Calf Club members, but nevertheless this also went on during Wednesday afternoon.

There was a flurry of excitement on the midway during Tuesday evening, when an overloaded circuit caused a small fire in a transformer on one of the poles. It was quite some time before lights and midway got underway again. The Huntingdon Fire Department was called, and little damage resulted.

The booths in the industrial building were all taken and were well patronized. Those having booths were: Perkie's Gift Shop, Athelstan Presbyterian Church, Laberge and Lalonde, Marchand Frere, Huntingdon W.I. The W.C.T.U. had a booth upstairs in the building and were busy handing out literature on temperance and kindred subjects. Outside were several machinery and car exhibits sponsored by the various dealers in the area.

During Wednesday afternoon, Mr. A. J. Tellier, Advertising Dept. and Mr. Gerard Hogg, representatives of Canada Packers, were busy packing baskets with provisions to be used as grandstand prizes during the evening. When the evening performance opened 900 tickets were distributed among the audience of the grandstand giving them several chances to obtain a basket of the choice provisions.

Eight teams entered the Canada Packers Square Dance Contest which was held on the stage in front of the grandstand and under the big lights, on Wednesday evening. It was not an easy matter for the judges to come to their decisions, but the finals resulted in Dave Rennie's team winning first cash prize of $40. Three other team shared in the balance of the cash prize amounting to $40, while all the remaining contestants received a box of soap valued at $2. The three other teams in the cash prizes were as follows: Basil Kelly's Team, Ord Taylor's Team and the Senior Grange Team. The judges were: Douglas C. Elder, Elgin; Wilbur Mannah, Franklin Centre, and James Sweet, Chateaugay, N.Y.

Winners of the provision hampers were as follows: Ticket No. 717, Mrs. Stanley Whaley; No. 675, Romeo St. Onge; No. 410, Henry Wallace; 820, Miss Margaret Arthur; No. 737, Austin Sproule.

Mr. J. Boisseau was Master of Ceremonies for the last evening of the Fair and the music for the square dancing contest was supplied by Wilson's Westernaires. John Lapointe, district representative for Canada Packers, at the conclusion of the contest, spoke on behalf of the company and thanked one and all for the parts they had taken in making the contest such a success. President S. Barrington also spoke and thanked everyone for making the entire Fair the success it was.

The closing annual dance on Wednesday evening was held in the dining hall and was attended by an over-capacity crowd. The music for this was supplied by the Prairie Rangers. During the dance the drawing for the television and other prizes took place. The tickets were drawn for by three ladies who had not participated in the event by buying tickets so had no personal interest in the drawing. The drawing took place first for the small prizes, with the television set being last. Mr. J. A. Normandeau won the radio with ticket No. 1417 drawn by Miss Jessie Small. Miss Ida Anderson won the wrist watch with ticket No. 1968, drawn by Miss Helen Collum of Ormstown. Mrs. Sidney Barrington won the television set with ticket No. 1117, drawn by Miss Giselle Legault. The committee in charge thanked all who had bought tickets for the draw and also the merchants who had purchased whole books of tickets and also the ticket sellers.

Thus the big event was brought to a successful conclusion and the general concensus of opinion is that the next annual Fair will be looked forward to with greater anticipation.

Mr. Bill Ryan was a busy man serving meals to fair visitors and others in the dining hall and satisfaction was registered in this direction all around.

It is understood that the same midway has been signed up for next year's Fair and the owners declared themselves as satisfied in every way.

The prize winners will be found listed on other pages of this edition as well as photographs of interest in connection with the Fair.

Howick Store Broken Into

Thieves Make Away With Cash and Goods

Thieves seem to be making the round once again in this area and several break-ins have been reported in the past few weeks. The night of . Tuesday-Wednesday, August 17-18, in the old Gebbie Store at Howick was broken into and a quantity of goods and cash stolen.

The store is presently operated by Mr. Murray Rudman and he owns another store at St. Chrysostome and also lives there. Apparently the thieves broke into the store by a side door, but they also broke several doors in the store and did considerable damage. No one heard the noise it might be supposed this would make and it was not until Mr. Kenneth Roy Younie, Postmaster, came to the Postoffice next morning that the break was noticed. He immediately notified the owner, who in turn notified the police at Huntingdon.

Det. Ruiter of Huntingdon answered the call and investigated the break-in immediately. It is reported that about $400. worth of merchandise is missing and also $50. in cash from the cash register. Some very good leads have been obtained and it is expected that those responsible will be quickly apprehended.

5,000 Woollen Workers Have Lost Their Jobs

Canada's wool textile industry was the first manufacturing industry established in this country and its history shows the usual periods of prosperity and depression. Like any business, external factors have had their good and bad effects. But never have they pushed the industry so close to the brink of disaster as in the past few years.

The level of employment in any industry is a fair indicator of the business health of that industry. In 1946, at the end of World War II, there were 17,600 employed in the Canadian wool textile industry. In May 1954, according to the latest available figures, employment in the industry was 10,640. More than 5,000 Canadians have lost their jobs in the wool textile industry since the end of the war.

At the same time Canadians are losing their jobs, foreign workers are turning out more and more textiles for the Canadian market. In the period from 1945-49, 68 per cent of the wool textiles sold in Canada were made by Canadian mills but to-day they are making only about half the wool textiles used in this country.

The mills shut down and the unemployment in the textile industry of the past few years are evidence that something is seriously wrong. The situation has grown steadily worse as more and more imports pour into Canada.

Canadian Textile Industry Is Modern, Efficient

Low wages paid in foreign wool textile mills enable foreign textiles to enter Canada at low prices. For instance wages of British wool textile workers are less than half Canadian wages. Since wages are a large part of the cost of producing textiles, British manufacturers can make fabric more cheaply than Canadian manufacturers can.

The only way Canadians can combat this advantage is to produce textiles in Canada as efficiently as possible. That is, to manufacture goods at the lowest possible cost. This can be accomplished by having modern, automatic machinery that will produce goods quickly and with little variation in quality.

Since World War II Canadian textile manufacturers particularly wool textile manufacturers have spent many millions of dollars on such machinery. These machines and research into new and more efficient methods are one way of fighting imports.

Another way of fighting import competition is by modern efficient selling and merchandising operations. Not only must the goods be made well they must also be sold well. Canadian wool textile manufacturers have taken vigorous steps in recent years to improve sales promotion and merchandising methods, but, in spite of all this, no amount of efficiency can by itself bridge the wage gap and stem the flood of imports.

Brief Submitted to Tariff Board Re Textile Industry

Presented by Mayor Cappiello on Behalf of Citizens and Town Council of Huntingdon, Que.

The following is the text of a brief submitted in behalf of the cause of the textile industry and on behalf of the citizens and Town Council of Huntingdon, Que., by Mayor Leo Cappiello. A meeting is to be held this week in Ottawa when the brief together with others of like nature will be taken under consideration.

Huntingdon, Que.,
and
The Canadian Wool Textile Industry
Presentation by:
Leo Cappiello, Mayor.
August, 1954.

The Town of Huntingdon, located in the fertile Chateauguay Valley of the province of Quebec, is a town where the textile industry is the mainstay of the whole local economy.

A census taken this year showed the population of Huntingdon to be 2,863 persons. This figure reflects normal growth during the past decade; there was no war or post-war boom in Huntingdon.

According to the local Unemployment Insurance Commission there are about 1,000 persons in the local labour force. This would include some people from outside the town proper. Of this number 690 are textile workers, practically all of them concerned with the making of woollen and worsted cloth.

Of the other 210 workers in Huntingdon some 20 are attached to the only other local industry, a printing plant, and the remainder are engaged in merchandising and servicing, and for the most part dependent on the pay envelopes of textile workers for survival.

During the past two or three years our textile mills have suffered severe depression. Of seven plants, two have closed completely and the others have, without exception, been forced to reduce operations.

There are now approximately 275 persons working in our textile mills, and about half of these are obtaining only part-time work. The remaining 415 people are unemployed.

There is no other industry in this area to absorb the unemployed textile workers. Neighbouring centres of Valleyfield and Ormstown are also primarily "textile towns" with similar problems of their own, and while the surrounding countryside is the finest dairy farming country in Canada there are already sufficient workers on the farms.

During the past few years the Town Council has actively worked to induce other industries to move here, to take up the labour slack created by the slump in textile mills. But because Huntingdon is off the main railway lines and highways some 20 interviews have failed to attract even one new business.

Therefore the effects of the reduction in the working force of Huntingdon have been drastic. Most people have already exhausted their unemployment insurance benefits; savings are gone; credit has been stretched to the limit; community projects — including an extensive programme of youth training — have been cancelled.

Without exaggeration, Huntingdon is in danger of dying.

The community has done all within its power to avoid what seems an obvious fate. Now our only hope for the future rests where our hope has always rested in the past — in the fortunes of the Canadian wool textile industry.

As businessmen and civic leaders of our community the Town Council is satisfied that the textile mills of Huntingdon are modern, efficient, well-managed and capable of producing materials of quality equal to those produced in other countries.

We are not satisfied, however, that the Government of Canada is doing all within its power and duty to help the return of prosperity and happiness to Huntingdon. It is surely no coincidence that during the past three years, while the woollen mills of Huntingdon have been unable to sell their products on the Canadian market, imports of wool fabrics from Great Britain have increased so much.

Every yard of wool fabric landed in this country from Britain has taken away from a Canadian worker, and the people of Huntingdon have felt first hand the effects of this. There is no one in this community who does not find unjust the conditions which were described in the letter by the Minister of Finance to The Tariff Board (May 12, 1954) as "anomalous and unrealistic".

The maximum duty under which English wool fabrics enter this country was obviously established in 1935 to perform a specific job, and not to give British fabrics an unfair advantage over our fabrics. Yet because of changing world conditions and prices this is precisely what has happened.

Rate of pay of our textile workers is 2½ times higher than that of their British counterpart and unless the tariff is adjusted to equalize these rates, workers in Huntingdon, and other such communities across Canada, will be the ones who will continue to suffer the greatest hardship.

The Town Council of Huntingdon urges The Tariff Board to give humane consideration to the plight of this community when hearing the economic arguments on what is undoubtedly a difficult problem.

Concert Sunday Evening

Huntingdon Citizens' Band will present another in a series of Sunday Evening Recitals in Prince Arthur Square on Sunday at 8 p.m. The concert will consist of marches, overtures, hymn tunes, waltzes, etc., and will finish at 9.30. As usual, there will be no charge. These entertainments have proved popular in the past and the public is urged to arrive a few minutes early as the programme will start on time. It is expected a member of the Town Police Dept. will be on hand to direct traffic during the playing. The Band hopes to present several more concerts before the evenings are too cool for outside gatherings, but the days are much shorter than a few weeks ago and too many fine evenings cannot be expected, therefore the public is urged to attend while the weather is favorable.

Friday Night

The Band has accepted an invitation to play at the Fair Grounds on Friday evening, when the local softball team meets the Ace Holden aggregation. The feature of this exhibition game is that the visitors' team has only four players while the home team will have the regulation nine. An advertisement appears elsewhere in this issue.

Week at Army Camp

Fifteen members of the band attended reserve army camp at Point Petrie, 15 miles south of Picton, Ont., the past week. Without exception, each man reports an enjoyable holiday and Bandmaster Moore reports one or two of the bandsmen would like to have stayed on for a week or two if this had been possible.

Up and out to play Reveille at 5.30 each morning, the band led the troops to the firing ranges at 8 o'clock and returned with them at 11. At 1.30 and 4.30 the procedure was repeated. The in-between hours were spent practicing and foot-drill. Each evening was free and judging from the routine as reported, the men were not overworked. Food was excellent and billeting consisted of two men to a tent equipped with beds, sheets, blankets, etc. Point Petrie is on the point of an island in Lake Ontario and much time was spent swimming. The "Sand Banks", a resort area, is far and away ahead of Plattsburg Beach, states Mr. Moore.

Those attending camp were Bandmaster Moore, Lieut. Duke, Sgt. McWhinnie, and Gunners Lorne McIntyre, George Tobin, George Lennox, Tom Vine, Melvin Harrigan, Gordon Grant, Earl Wilson, Clarence Montgomery, Billy MacDonald, Desmond Howarth, Gerry Brisebois, Hervie Tessier and two members of the Farnham Unit who helped out in the cornet and clarinet sections. Although the musicians were few in number, they did exceedingly well. The round trip was made by train, leaving Valleyfield on Sunday the 15th and returning Saturday 21st inst., with the exception of Messrs. Moore, Vine, Duke and Grant, who travelled by car.

Tenders Being Called For By Town

Bond Issue Being Offered and Works Projects

The Huntingdon Town Council met for an adjourned meeting on Thursday evening with Mayor Cappiello and three of the aldermen present.

It was decided to call for tenders for the sale of bonds valued at $117,000. It was further decided to call for tenders for the work to be done on the following projects of the public works program for which the above bonds are being issued. Kelly Street program, East and Chateauguay Streets program and the Cemetery and Wellington Streets program.

Discussion also centred on the matter of the new skating rink for Huntingdon and the council decided that if the rink is built this year, the town will give the lot on King Street for the sum of one dollar. It was further decided to make a grant to the Huntingdon County War Memorial Committee of $2,000. The first installment of such grant would be payable on September 1st, 1955, in the sum of $500 and similar amounts would be payable on September 1st for each year following until the entire amount of the grant has been paid.

New Telephone Directory Reflects Growth of District

16,120 Copies Mailed — An Increase of 1,215 Since Previous Year

Every Bell Telephone customer in Huntingdon received a bonus with the new green-covered directory delivered this week. With each copy of the regular directory was mailed a "Blue Book of Telephone Numbers".

The Blue Book is designed to enable the telephone user to compile a handy list of names, addresses and telephone numbers of both local and out-of-town residents he calls frequently, said M. R. Grégoire, Bell manager for this region.

"Using the Blue Book as a personal directory to record long distance numbers can save time and help to provide a speedier long distance service," said Mr. Grégoire. "When you give the operator the number of the telephone you are calling, the long distance connection can be made in as little as half the time it takes when the operator has to refer to 'Information' at the distant centre.

"The Blue Book is also convenient for recording the telephone numbers of persons served by the local exchange who acquire telephone service or whose numbers are changed after the regular directory is issued. Using the personal directory then eliminates many calls to 'Information' here. Incidentally, pocket-sized editions of the Blue Book are available at the Bell office."

Because the new directory contains 7,642 new and changed listings, Mr. Grégoire urged customers to throw away the old telephone book and use only the new one.

Listings for Huntingdon, Valleyfield, Beauharnois and surrounding territory are contained in the directory. The growth in this area during the past year is reflected in the increase in the number of copies of the book initially mailed — from 14,905 to 16,120. In Huntingdon itself the increase is from 2,000 to 2,060.

School Fair Sept. 17th

Flower and Vegetable Exhibits For Hospital

The annual school fair sponsored by the Huntingdon Home and School Association is to be held on Friday, Steptember 17, at the Huntingdon High School.

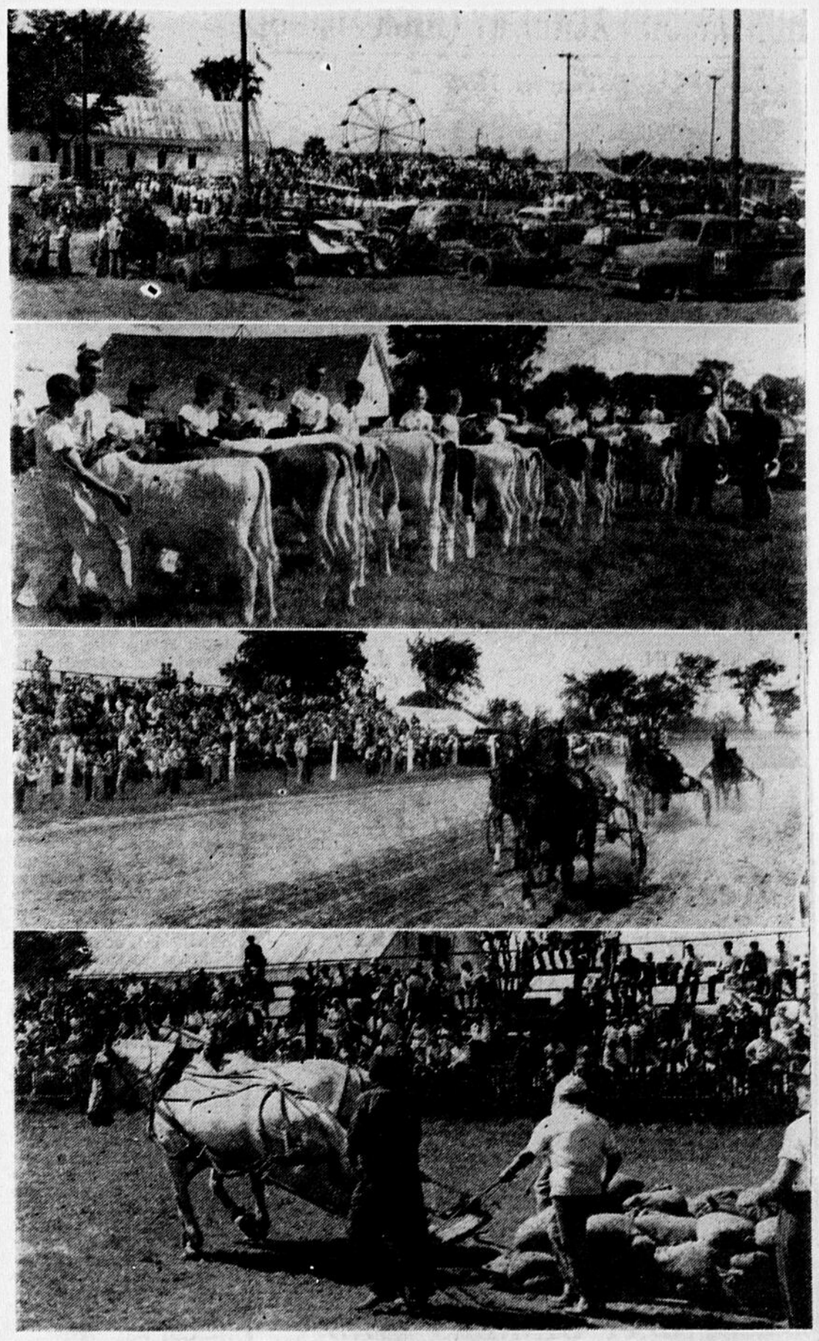
Due to the fact that there is little time left now, the children are urged to get ahead with the posters. These must be on display on the Monday previous to the holding of the fair for purposes of publicity. The boys and girls should therefore get busy on this right now.

The flowers and vegetables that will form the exhibits at the Fair must be left and these will be given to the Huntingdon County Hospital.

All pets except dogs may be entered at the Fair. It has been decided to hold a dog show at a later date.

Keep this School Fair in mind, more will be published about it in other issues of The Gleaner to keep you well informed.

SCENES AT HUNTINGDON'S 1954 FAIR



The top picture shows the grandstand at the time of the horse drawing contest. In the rear can be seen the midway while in the foreground is shown some of the farm machinery exhibits — a typical fair scene. Next lower —— Junior Judging and Showmanship classes of the calf clubs. An excellent looking lot of youngsters and animals. Next — is a close finish in one of the horse races and just as they were about to pass the finish line. Look at that crowd on the grandstand. Last — the final pull in the horse drawing contest, a load of 4,800 pounds, but they walk away with it. Another good crowd in the grandstand.

Observations

Written specially for The Huntingdon Gleaner by Robert G. Sellar, Grenoble, France

Florence, Italy.

Florence is one of the oldest cities in Italy, if one dates it as from the year 1 A.D., though during the Etruscan Empire (about 50 B.C.) it was a small village. The name Florence comes from Florencia meaning flourish, a hope that Ceasar's army had for this village.

Between the first and eighth centuries, Florence suffered many trials and tribulations at the hands of the Barbarian hordes but with the rule of Charlemagne, the city entered into a period of peace and prosperity. Though the rule of the city was under the Counts of Tuscan, actually by the beginning of the 12th century the city had responsible government. From this century on, the city became the home of beautiful styles of architecture, loosely called Florentian architecture. At the end of the 13th century the palaces of Vecchio and Bargello were built with the cathedral and churches of Santa Maria Novella and Santa Croce. First, there was the Romanesque style of wide and airy windows, then gothic, though the gothic style of Florence was not the same as in other parts of the European world.

From the middle ages, Florence has flourished on such industries as wool and leather. In the 14th century banks were added as an industry. Thus was the rise of two of the greatest families in world history, the family of Albigi and Mecidi. Under the Medici family, Florence rose as the most important centre for arts. Here the greatest of the great artists worked: - Michaelangelo, Massaccio, Botticelli, Filippo Lippi, Benozzo, Gozzoli, Leonardo and Raphael.

After the 16th century, Florence began to decline in importance. The Medici family became known as Dukes with the rule of the Grand Duchy of Tuscany. These dukes ruled until about 1750 when at that time the rule was passed into the family of Lorraine. Under the Lorraines the Duchy of Tuscany was a peaceful country. In 1860 it was annexed with Italy. Florence became the capital of Italy from 1865 to 1871.

During the 17th and 18th centuries, music was a chief art. During the 19th century, Florence was the centre of the painters known as the "Machiaviole" who led a revolt against the cold, academic art of the time and thus influenced all modern Italian art.

Florence, thus is a city with much old architecture dating back to the tenth century and much modern architecture especially noticed on the outskirts of the city. The older part of the city has many very narrow streets and old buildings. Most of the shopping districts are in this area. The widest areas in the older part of the town are the square in front of the Baptistery, which is used more as a parking lot rather than a street, and the square in front of the Palace Vecchio.

The Baptistery is the oldest church in Florence. It is actually called the first Cathedral of Florence. The church is a small eight sided building with a pointed roof which has eight sections. The exterior has a number of blind arches and the walls are of white and green marble.

The most prominent exterior features of the church are the three large bronze doors. The south door has bas-reliefs modelled by Andrea Pisano in 1330. Twenty panels tell the life story of St. John the Baptist and the other eight panels are about the Cardinal and Theological Virtues.

The north door was made by Ghiberti (1378-1455). The style of the bas-reliefs is that of Renaissance. The twenty upper panels are scenes from the New Testament and the lower eight represent the Evangelists and Doctors of the church.

The east door is the most famous. It is usually called the Gate of Paradise because Michaelangelo declared it worthy to be so called. It is also the work of Ghiberti. It is an amazing piece of bas-relief work in that it has the same depth as paintings. There are ten scenes illustrated from the Bible: the creation of Adam and Eve, the first sin and the expulsion from Paradise, the first human family, Noah and his family coming out of the ark and so on to the last panel depicting the Queen of Sheba visits King Solomon.

The interior of the Baptistery is rather austere in furnishings but this is offset by the brillant mosaic pictures of the cupola. The scenes are from the Bible with a large mosaic of Jesus Christ. Below the eight-sided dome there are two rows of mosaic pictures of great clergymen. The mosaic dates from the 13th century Venetian artists and later Florentian artists.

Within the church there are several tombs, the most interesting being the tomb of the anti-pope John XXIII by Donatello. There is also Donatello's statue of Mary Magdalene.

Easter Monday is a very important religious day in Italy and the rest of the Catholic world. Many weddings and baptisms are performed since this is forbidden during the 40 days of Lent. Within the church there is a large baptismal front. While I was there four babies were baptised and the priest had many more waiting.

Behind the Baptistery is the Cathedral of Florence, the Cathedral of Santa Maria del Fiore. The Cathedral was begun in 1296 and took some 140 years to build.

The greatest architectural feat of the Cathedral is the cupola which was built by Bruncelleschi in the early 1400's. The construction was done without the aid of a supporting timber frame work. It has the series of paintings representing the Last Judgment. Though they are considered somewhat rough but at the same time very interesting when you take in the vast size of the dome.

The exterior walls of the church show the original marble panelling in green and white.

The interior of the Cathedral tends to be rather somber and vast. There are very few pictures gracing the walls and very few altars for the size of the church. The high altar tends to be toward the centre of the church with a number of altars behind it. The biggest of the chapels has a large painting of the Last Supper above the altar.

Beside the Cathedral is the bell tower or campanile. This edifice took the best part of 200 years to build. It is interesting to notice the differences of architecture. The first zone of architecture was begun in 1334. It has hexagonal panels representing the symbolical personages of the Activities of Mankind. The second zone is adorned with diamond shaped panels representing the different planets, virtues, liberal arts and the sacrements. The third zone was built during the 15th century which has 16 niches. After this zone the next two zones are gothic - gothic windows with two lights. Topping the tower is a third zone of gothic this time one window divided into three lights. The roof of the tower is a projecting Balustrade.

Nearby the Cathedral is the church of San Lorenzo with its world famous Medici chapels. This church is considered to be the first Christian church built in Florence. The first church being built about 393 A. D. Later in the 11th century it was altered and enlarged. During the 15th century, under the orders of the family of Medici it was rebuilt.

The interior is considered to be one of the finest examples of Renaissance architecture with its slim columns, the round arches and the white and gray which fit in with the somber decorations. The ceiling in the nave of the church is gold leaf with four plaques with coats of arms.

In front of the high altar overhead is a cupola which has many paintings from stories of the Bible. The paintings here are much better than those painted on the inside of the cupola of the Cathedral Santa Maria del Fiore.

At the back of the Church of San Lorenzo are the Medici chapels which are entered by a separate door. The chapels are actually over a crypt in which there are numerous blocks of marble with the inscriptions of the great men who are buried there. Several of the members of the Medici family are buried in this crypt. Above the crypt are the Medici chapels - the Chapel of the Princes and the New Sacristy which contains some of the beautiful works of Michaelangelo.

The Chapel of the Princes is very costly and colourful. In it are the six tombs of the Grand Dukes of Tuscany (the Medici family).

The chapel is fairly large and is round. Everything is either costly marble or semi-precious stones. Overhead there is a cupola with eight beautiful paintings (eight scenes from the life of Christ).

The "New Sacristy" is quite austere and solemn. There are two tombs in this chapel, the tomb of the Duke of Nemours (son of Lorenzo Medici the Magnificent) and the tomb of Lorenzo, Duke of Urbino (grandson of the Magnificent). Above the two tombs are the works of sculpture art of Michaelangelo. The most famous is "The Thinker" or as the Italians say" Il Pensieroso". Facing the simple marble altars are three statues, the beautiful work of the Madonna and Child by Michaelangelo and the statues of Il Cosmos and Il Damian by Da Montorsoli and Da Montelupo, respectively.

Near the Medici chapels is the Medici Riccardi Palace which is now the Prefecture. Originally the Medici family built this Palace when as a family, they governed Florence as private citizens. The building is of rough stone blocks which at the second and third storeys become less prominent and blend in with the windows. About the walls of the building there are long stone benches. The palace was purchased during the 17th century by Riccardi who enlarged the building. Thus, I was able to see the coat of arms of the Medici family on each of the windows of the Medici palace and the coat of arms on the windows of the exterior addition added by Riccardi.

There are two patios in the building. One could be called the inside patio though it is open to the sky and the other is the outside patio or courtyard. The inner patio has many coats of arms, plaques and the marble busts of famous men gracing the walls. The outer patio has a number of fountains, gardens, orange trees and several hand set pebble walls similar to the type that I saw in Cordoba and Seville in Spain. With the Prefecture there is the Medici museum containing many of the treasures of the great family, an art gallery and a small chapel.

A few minutes walk from the Cathedral of Florence is Piazza Della Signoria with the high brown building of the Palace of Vecchio. The fountain of the Piazza, one of the most impressive remembrances of old Florence.

Piazza Della Signoria was one of the most important places for civil life during the medieval history of Florence. The Palace of Vecchio or to use the correct name, the Palace of the Signoria, was the seat of government of Florence from the middle ages to a period within the 19th century. The brown stone palace was built during the late 13th and early 14th cepturies. The most noticeable parts of the palace are the projected gallery and the clock tower. The tower is not in the centre of the facade due to the fact that it was built on another existing tower.

In front of the palace is a stone platform which holds a number of statues placed there by the people of Florence. The statues represent "Liberty over Tyranny and "The power and independence of the City". To one side of the palace is the group of Hercules and Cacus by Bandinelli. Nearby the palace is the "Fountain" by Ammannati which has the god Neptune surrounded by graceful statues of the gods.

Inside the Palace of Vecchio, there is a magnificent courtyard containing one of the most charming and famous fountains of the world, the "Cherub Clasping a Fish" by Verrocchio. Unfortunately the rest of the building was closed as repairs were being carried on. The other rooms of the palace are art galleries containing the treasures of Florence and the Medici family.

By the Palace of Vecchio is the long narrow piazza of the Uffizi which is enclosed on three sides by the Palace on the orders of Cosimo 1 in order that he could have all the administrative and judicial offices in one building. The building is now known as the Uffizi Gallery which houses many of the important works of Italian and Foreign art.

The palace or gallery Uffizi is quite striking in that there are many slender columns and many niches which contain statues of the most important science and political men of the Tuscan period. The square opens out to the Arno river and in the distance is the Hill of St. George.

By the Uffizi Gallery is one of the most striking and interesting bridges in Italy. It is the Ponte Vecchio, an ancient bridge which has a number of stores selling knick-knacks, trinkets, jewellery, etc. A favourite tourist pastime is to buy something from each store on the bridge. The bridge was built about 1345. Originally they were butcher shops but from the 16th century on only goldsmiths and jewellers were permitted to occupy the shops.

A few minutes walk from the Ponte Vecchio is a very imposing building housing one of the richest art collections in the world, the famous Pitti Palace. The palace was built by Luca Pitti in the 15th century to house one of the richest families of Florence. The family was also a bitter opponent of the Medici family. However, about a hundred years after the palace was built, the Pitti family was crushed by the Medici family and the building came into the possession of the wife of Cosimo 1.

The different rooms of the Pitti gallery contain some of the finest works of such artists as Raphael, Andrea del Sarto, Van Dyck, Rubens and the Spanish artist Murillos, etc. The building also has a number of museums containing silver, gold and precious articles and treasures of the Medici family. On recent examination this year they found the Pitti palace had been attacked by termites and there is great concern as a lot of damage has been done.

Behind the palace is the famous Baboli Gardens. These gardens surround a hill and are considered one of the finest examples of Italian style gardens. All the paths, trees and hedges are made to fit into an architectural design and there are many fountains and statues throughout the garden. Within the garden there is a large open amphitheatre which was built during the 17th century.

Overlooking the town are several parks on the hills. The largest is called Michaelangelo Square which has an excellent copy of the great artist's "David". From this square some excellent views of the city can be seen. At the foot of the square there is a vast garden which is actually a series of terraces. Above the square there are two churches, one the Franciscan Church of San Salvatore al Monte which Michaelangelo like so well. Beyond this is the Church of San Miniato al Monte in which the Cardinal of Portugal is buried. The Cardinal died in Florence in 1459. This church is noted for a very early Christian cemetery.

At the foot of these two churches a modern highway winds through one of the better residental sections of Florence. There are many large private villas built on the sides of the hills. Many are complete estates with land under cultivation, olive, orange and lemon trees, vegetables and grain etc. At the far side of this residental area lies the stadium. On Easter Sunday when I took this walk, there was a bicycle race in progress. Both the Italian and French love bicycle races. I suppose there was half of Florence lining the route for the race. There were perhaps seventy contestants. I have never seen so many motor bikes, scooters and motorcycles at one time. If I saw one scooter go by I saw at least 10,000 in three hours. If you think stock car racing is noisy, you should have heard the noise of those motors on Easter Sunday afternoon.

While I think about it, I would like to pass along a suggestion to any of the readers planning on visiting Italy or any country of Europe. It is the question of where to stay when a tourist visits the the city. For the person who is on a limited budget, hotels can be very expensive. However, pensions are just as good and much cheaper. Pensions are graded the same as hotels, first, second and third class. In some cities there is a fourth class. The first class pension is much cheaper then the first or second class hotel. Second and third class pensions, particularly the latter are the most popular and one is able to meet people of different lands.

During the two weeks I was in Italy I stayed solely in pensions. A pension (3rd class) offers a private room usually with hot and cold running water, breakfast and either dinner at noon or at night for about $3.25 a day including wine and gratuities. On the whole, pensions are up to date with modern bathroom fixtures, lounge room and a good dining room. You get marvellous meals, usually soup or spaghetti, meat,potatoes, sometimes another vegetable, always a green salad, cheese, fruit, bread and wine. Sometimes a pudding or a tart is served with the desert. There is plenty of food.

The proprietors usually speak French, sometimes English, German, Dutch and naturally Italian. The beauty of these pensions is that in many cities they are relatively near either the main streets or the railway station. In Rome I was about 15 minutes walk from the Vatican City while some friends were 20 minutes away by bus. Travel agencies do not have lists of pensions. These lists are supplied by either the Municipal Travel Bureau of the city or the Town Council of the city.

In the main cities such as Florence, Rome, Naples, etc. the water is drinkable.

However, at the same time wines are very reasonable. A quart costs about 30 cents, or less, ir it is a local wine. Imported wines, either from other regions of the country or from other countries are naturally more. There are also a large number of different mineral and bottle waters at very reasonable prices. Throughout many of the cities of Europe there are flowing water fountains or taps on the streets.

Perpetual Prosperity

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

We live in an age of mechanical miracles, but so far science has not solved the age-old problem of perpetual motion. That problem engaged the minds, mostly of crackpots, trying to generate a power that would continue of itself indefinitely by means of mechanism or the application of the force of gravity. Perpetual motion, however, was found to be impossible, and the search for it was abandoned.

But the curiosity and ingenuity of mankind know no bounds, and the latest search is for perpetual prosperity that would generate and maintain itself with the mininum of effort and the manipulation of "purchasing power." The latest proposal for achieving perpetual prosperity is annual wage guarantees, the advocates of which contend that if every employer were forced to keep on paying employees whether they were working or not, the national income would be maintained, sales volume for business collectively would hold up, and hence there would not have to be any layoffs. That sounds simple enough, but the unpleasant question arises as to who would want to work when he had the option to play?

Lord Beveridge, noted advocate of "cradle to grave" security in the United Kingdom, recognized the frailties of men as well as the needs of men to work for a living. In his report published in 1942, he stated: "The danger of providing benefits, which are both adequate in amount and indefinite in duration, is that men, as creatures who adapt themselves to circumstances, may settle down to them... The correlative of the State's undertaking to insure benefits for unavoidable interruptions of earnings, however long, is enforcement of the citizen's obligation to seek and accept all reasonable opportunities to work, to cooperate in measures designed to save him from habituation to idleness..."

Even if everyone went to work whenever and wherever directed by his employer or his union, that would not necessarily avoid drops in business. People are constantly varying the pace and directions of spending. To make the scheme ironclad, the consumer or the government would have to guarantee to take the products of industry off the market. The necessities for compulsions and regimentation were doubtless in mind when the United Mine Workers Journal, commenting on the guaranteed wage scheme, said:

"The whole program presages the junking of the American way of life and the forfeiture of our industrial liberties in return for a promised security which cannot be guaranteed — bureaucratic rule over our whole scheme of life."

In other words, in order to insure a perpetual annual wage for all industrial workers it would be necessary to institute slave labor, with fixed and probably lower wage rates and some means of compelling people to buy the products of industry whether they wanted them or not. Freedom of people to spend or save or to choose what they should buy would be gone, and human society would deteriorate to the flat and mechanical level of the ant-hill. All of which, in the first place would require a fundamental change in human nature.

Editorial Notes...

This Year's Successful Huntingdon Fair

ALL day on Monday, the opening of Huntingdon Fair, the weather man kept a threatening attitude and in the early afternoon sent a drenching rain in storm proportions that left the evening quite cool. However, the rain came early enough that the wind that followed pretty well dried up the grounds before the evening and opening performance From that time on, good weather prevailed for the fair and no doubt meant much toward the success. There was a large attendance right from the start and this kept up throughout the entire period.

The general remarks of those who attended were to the effect that is was a very good fair and one of the best yet in every way. Many remarked on the fact that children were admitted free and felt that this encouraged more family people to attend. In any event, the people certainly attended in greater number than for a good many years and the financial return from such attendance will do much toward putting the Fair on sounder footing. For many years it has been a struggle to pay its way, but for the past few years there has been a general easing of this situation. Confidence has now been gained that the Fair is at last "in the groove" and that from now on it will be matter of maintaining the reputation it has won.

There is no doubt that the added effort on the part of the officials of the Fair to obtain better attractions, has had much to do with the increased attendance and the general feeling of satisfaction among the patrons. The keeping of events moving and on time also had much to do with there being something going on all the time and with very few dead spots. There was a long drawn out period while certain types of horse contests were being judged on Tuesday evening and the crowd evidenced fidgetiness during this time. One thing that may have caused this, was the fact that a good number of the audience could not understand what was going on. A commentary on what was going on could have been given over the public address system and this would have provided an explanation of the various events and kept the crowd more interested. It is something to be improved for another year. A little more supervision of the seating of the people in grandstand seats would have helped to provide a better view of the proceedings. Persons standing along the fence in front of those on the seats prevented a clear view of all that was going on. No doubt much will be learned and improvements can be made to provide for more comfort of the patrons while watching the programme events.

There is no doubt that the Fair had more to offer the general public than ever before and it proves that this is what is required to attract a good financial return. These attractions were not secured without cost, but it can be said that the money was well spent. There is a very good saying that "you must speculate in order to accumulate". In this case we believe it worked well for the Fair.

We feel, and are sure that the public also feels, that the Fair Officials are deserving of praise and congratulations for their work and efforts with regard to Huntingdon's 1954 Fair. The reputation has now been gained, it is now the duty to keep it going.

Skating Rink Is Now Assured

WHILE announcements with regard to the new memorial skating rink may be slow in being made, progress is being made behind the scenes. It is assured that the rink will be built and the site has been announced as definitely being King Street. Plans are now being carefully studied in order to obtain the best and most suitable for a rink for this town. When this has been threshed out and a decision reached, no doubt tenders will be called for. Following the receipt of these and the award of the contract or contracts, the actual building will be started and it should not be too long after that before the rink will be in operation. It may be a short season for this particular year, but the rink will be there and its further enjoyment will be there in the years to come.

The decision of the Town Council to offer its lot near the old skating rink site, will do much to iron out many problems of having sufficient space. It will be well for the committee to accept this offer without too much delay. The further decision to make a grant covering a four-year period will also be looked upon with great favour and deeply appreciated.

The decision next to be reached is up to the citizens, and that is that they will pledge their support in every way to the end that not only will the building be completed, but that its future upkeep and maintainance will be well looked after. Such projects require effort and it has been the general trend of Huntingdonians that once they have put their weight behind any undertaking, they usually see it through to a successful conclusion.

The Base For Fluoridation

"WE are faced with the problem of deciding whether it is wiser to try to train three times as many dentists as we have to care for all the dental ills of the population, or to adopt what means we can to prevent the decaying of teeth," says Dr. Gordon Bates in an editorial in the current issue of Health magazine. Dr. Bates is General Director of the Health League of Canada, which publishes the magazine.

"In Canada, the fact that our national dental bill is nearly fifty million dollars a year provides adequate evidence of the need for preserving teeth," writes Dr. Bates. "It is stated that in spite of the fact that there are approximately 5,300 dentists in Canada less than one-third of the population receive dental care.

"The total extent to which decayed teeth may affect the general health of the population cannot be definitely estimated but the known results of dental caries are sufficiently serious to give thoughtful citizens some cause for concern. This alone is sufficient reason for the adoption of fluoridation of water supplies.

"A survey conducted by the Fluoridation Committee of the Health League of Canada was undertaken to discover the opinions of medical authorities in the Departments of Preventive Medicine in Universities of North America concerning the value of fluoridation of communal water supplies as a means of preventing caries in children's teeth. The result has been an overwhelming vote of confidence in fluoridation. We commend this article to our readers.

Attention has already been called to the fact that chlorination of water, pasteurization of milk, toxoid against diphtheria and fluoridation of water alike have each of them in turn precipitated controversies. To public health authorities there has seemed to be little rhyme or reason in opposition to measures of this type. It is significant that leaders of such opposition have generally been ill-informed persons who know little about the scientific basis of the opinion of health authorities.

An examination of the facts concerning fluoridation of water provides definite evidence of the fact that fluorine added to water supplies in proper quantities will prevent caries without damaging the human organism."

European Pact Hits Snag

THE pact for defence of Europe against Russian or other aggression and which is to include West Germany as a part of the armed forces, has never found much favour with France. With the change of leadership in France to Mendes-France at a time when ratification of the agreement was to be discussed by the French Government, this matter had to be postponed. Now new proposals have been made which change the original set-up and which if considered would have to be ratified by all governments participating in the plan. There seems to be no way of convincing France that the changes now being asked, should be dropped in the interest of a quick settlement of this long delayed total ratification of the plan. A conference on the matter at Brussels last week has failed to change the French attitude.

Great Britain and the United States have made overtures to the new French Leader to ratify the agreement on the original terms and get the plan into operation as soon as ever possible. Whether this will succeed is something that time will tell. If France persists in her present attitude it could lead to the death of the plan or it may mean that the plan would go ahead without the inclusion of France. It has long been seen that there must be a bolster against possible Russian aggression in Europe and there is a move for the re-unification of Germany, but such must be without interference from either of the opposing sides. Under present conditions this would be most difficult. Thus it is proposed to include only West Germany in present plans and this is the stumbling block as far as France is concerned, she opposes the re-armament of Germany. It is felt this can not be avoided if full security is to be assured in case of Russian aggression.

Delay in the matter of total ratification is considered dangerous and Russia is eyeing the situation with intensity. The Kremlin is naturally not in favour with the plan and would welcome anything that would nullify its unity. France has been urged on all these matters to give the plan full consideration and as quickly as possible. Several crisis have arisen which have delayed this consideration and now the new proposals threaten to further delay or perhaps ruin the plan entirely.

Ormstown — At the regular business meeting of the Red Cross Society, held in MacDougall Hall, on Monday evening, 577 articles were packed for shipment, 125 pairs of socks being amongst this number. More funds are necessary to keep material supplied to workers.

General satisfaction is being expressed that the macadam work on the River Road west of the village is to be completed this year.

Howick — Although the heat was excessive last week, the continued dry weather enabled many farmers to finish haying.

The cement walk in Howick village now extends from the bank along the front street to A Bryson's property. Work has been stopped on account of shortage of material.

Hemmingford — The Farmer's Club met on July 27th. Through the kindness of E. T. Blondin the club has been enabled to place their orders for binder twine on very reasonable terms, thus effecting a saving of from $20 to $25 for the members. The price is 28 cents per pound.

Huntingdon — The buying of autos does not seem to slacken owing to war conditions as Mr. B. W. Allen reports having placed 100 Ford cars in this district during the season.

Dr. Barrington, V. S., has told his farm on Trout River to Joseph Lauzon of Laguerre. Reported price $9,000. Lauzon takes possession October first.

A short time ago the wool growers of this section graded and shipped the present year's cut of wool. It was purchased by the Bates and Innes Manufacturers of cloth, at Carlton Place, Ont. through the Co-operative Wool Grower's Association of Canada. The secretary of the local Association, Mr. H. R. Graham, reports that the prices were as follows: medium combings, 80¾ cents per lb., low medium combing, 76 cents; medium combings, 73½ cents; coarse, 71 cents; black, 50 cents; black and pieces, 40 cents; seedy, 42 cents; matted, 41 cents and tags 10 cents. The Canadian prices are ahead of the prices fixed by the United States Government. Mr. Graham will shortly settle with the members.

An advertisement for a teacher reads in part as follows: Teacher wanted for District No. 11, Walker's Salary $350.

Valleyfield — Notice has been posted to the effect that an increase of ten per cent will be granted to the time workers and piece workers of the mills of the Montreal Cottons Ltd., together with a bonus of ten per cent fortnightly on wages payable to those who work full time.

August 29

Huntingdon — The placing of a small steamer, the Joan d'Arc on the Chaffrey's route is welcomed by all on the lake front. Since the Larocque road has been macadamized the travel from here to Valleyfield no longer goes by the river front. The Ste. Barbe sections of the Plank Road are worse then ever. Why do those who suffer from it not sue the Ste. Barbe council for the penalty?

Riverfield —Information has come from England that Willie Mcgregor has earned by study, a commission as Lieutenant. His many friends extend congratulations.

Under the harvest leave of absence, Driver R. W. Templeton of Petawawa Camp is home on 5 weeks leave to visit his father on the farm.

June 1918

Howick — The congratulations of this community are extended to Miss Jean Richie of Fertile Creek and the staff of the Howick model model school on the fact that Miss Ritchie won the J. C. Wilson prize of $20 — 2 ten dollar gold pieces, for ranking first in her class at Macdonald College, in the recent examinations for teachers, June 9, 1918. Miss Ritchie is a faithful student and the staff of the Howick model school is efficient and painstaking.

BEING INTERESTING NOTES OF NEWS IN COMMENT FORM

A few years ago a number of items created by the famous abstract sculptor Brancusi were held up at the American customs office so they could be identified. The masterpieces were finally allowed to enter the country classed as agricultural implements. I should not be surprised if something of the same difficulty were encountered when a very special kind of dance band from the West Indies reached the Canadian border for an engagement at the Canadian National Exhibition. The band uses oil barrels as musical instruments, and our own customs officials may be skeptical about letting this sort of equipment into the country as violins, trumpets and piccolos.

But that is in effect exactly what these oil drums are. People are always looking for something new in entertainment, and the steel band rage which has taken the Caribbeans by storm since the end of the war has now spilled over into the Anglo-Saxon countries. They say the music is sweet and basic.

The instruments are actually made from old oil barrels, salvaged from warehouses and dumps. With a great deal of dexterity, and knowledge of syncopation and voodoo drum history, steel band musicians fashion counterparts of conventional instruments by trimming the barrels with hacksaws and tuning them with sledge-hammers. There is really a bit more to it than that, but in the end these steel percussion instruments have a muted, bell-like tone when they are beat on with rubbertipped sticks. There are dozens of steel bands in the West Indies. They play for dancing in hotels and cafes and are capable of providing not only primitive rhythms but also do an acceptable job on more conventional classical music. There is a possibility that the ensemble might tour Canada.

Whenever it is possible these days I have kippered herring for breakfast. And I'll tell you why.

Although I am a native Maritimer, long since removed, I have been in the habit of refusing seafood which is listed on inland menus. "Too far from the sea to be good", I have said. Then one day an Ontario friend of mine took me to task for my unpatronizing attitude. He said he had noticed that all Maritimers scoff at frozen seafood and are suspicious of fresh fish when they are away from home. Yet they all know that the Atlantic provinces depend largely on the amount that they can sell to the people of the inland provinces. "How," says my friend, "Can you expect us to eat it if you won't eat it yourself?"

He is right, of course. And now that I have given it some thought and realize that modern methods of freezing and curing fish retain most of the flavor and all of the nutrient value in sea products I never miss an opportunity to set a marine example for my companions.

For one who has lived in the old places of this country it is exciting to live for just a few hours in the new town of Devon. It is an oil community in the heart of the Leduc fields, just south of Edmonton in Alberta. And less than seven years ago Devon was open prairie with nothing but wheat on it.

In Devon today there are about 1,600 people, most of whom work for the major oil company in the area. At the peak of the drilling operations a couple of years ago there were many more people there. It was a bustling, hustling town with dancing and singing, and perhaps even a bit of the roughness of a pioneer trading centre. Many people think that Devon is becoming a ghost town, and indeed, compared to the accelerated growth of those first days back in 1947, when Canada's oil potential became recognized, it does seem quiet. But it isn't because Devon in disappearing. The town is just settling down to a quiet, peaceful kind of life that is akin to older communities that have reached their growth and know it.

Devon is not another Dawson City. It is not like Balaklava, the thriving town of 19th Century Western Ontario that has now disappeared completely from the Bruce county landscape — because the railway by-passed it a lifetime ago. It is of a great family, this Devon. Like other places in Canada, Cornerbrook, the Bowater paper town of Newfoundland; Marathon, the paper town of Northern Ontario; Kitimat and Flin Flin, the towns which have recently come into being in the Canadian West; like these places, Devon is symbolic of this country's unlimited resources and of its assured future.

Leduc oil field is about drilled out now. This does not mean, of course, that the oil is all gone. But most of the wells are already in operation, and under strict conservation regulations will continue to operate for years to come. Right in the town of Devon there are oil wells, not the dirty geyser kind of wells people see in the movies, but an almost unnoticeable combination of pipes which occupy about 10 square feet of space over each well — and that is all. No one ever sees any oil in Devon town.

Devon was once a company town, but the residents bought it out. They now have their own council. The homes, which were bought for as little as $200 down with payments of $13 a month, are neat and clean. There is a school, churches, even a hospital. There is a community swimming pool and a golf course. The community hall was bought from Imperial Oil for $1. What a model town is this Devon!

The Week At Ottawa...

Ottawa (CP) — There is going to be no rail strike in Canada. There is going to be a big stretch of the St. Lawrence seaway in Canada. And there already is more grain in Canada this year than there ever has been before.

Last week was one of Ottawa's busiest this summer. It started with the resumption, at Prime Minister St. Laurent's invitation, of contract negotiations between four major railways, including the CNR and the CPR, and unions representing some 145,000 non-operating employees.

Their talks had broken off last June over demands for, not wage increases, but fringe benefits — longer annual paid vacations, more statutory holidays, overtime for Sunday work, and cumulative sick leave. After two days last week, the talks stalled again.

The union earlier had been empowered by their membership to call a strike if necessary to enforce their demands, but Mr. St. Laurent had made clear that an emergency session of Parliament would be called before such a strike became reality. The talks stalled for the last time one afternoon and after hearing about it over the telephone from Labor Minister Gregg, the prime minister flew from his summer home at St. Patrick, Que., that evening to personally intervene.

Busy Man

He told reporters bluntly there would be no rail strike when he arrived at Uplands airport. The next day was one the like of which no Canadian prime minister has ever spent. All morning Mr. St. Laurent shuffled back and forth from his separate conferences with the disputing parties, apparently carrying with him proposals and counterproposals.

It was a day of swift developments. The prime minister after one meeting with the 15-man union negotiating committee, told reporters:

"There won't be a strike and there won't be a special session of Parliament".

At another point he dramatically announced that the negotiations were off, but that at a cabinet meeting coming up that afternoon, he would bring up the question of what should be done to "justify my conviction that there isn't going to be a strike".

It was an abvious declaration that Parliament would be called on for no-strike legislation. Frank H. Hall, powerful union chief, immediately resigned as chairman of the labor negotiating committee and recommended that it save the country the cost of an emergency parliamentary session and agree to sending the dispute to arbitration.

"Compulsory Arbitration"

Mr. Hall said his resignation was a protest against the inevitability of compulsory arbitration in the light of Mr. St. Laurent's statements.

The union committee quickly accepted Mr. Hall's suggestion and agreed to arbitration but it turned down his resignation.

While union affairs were developing, the railway delegation had quietly left the East Block, centre of all the day's activity, after telling the prime minister they favored arbitration.

The government wound up the week working on the choice of a man to dictate terms of settlement, the way in which he will be appointed and what procedure will be followed in the big job he'll have.

With arbitration agreed on the

Winners Every One of Them at the 1954 Huntingdon Fair

Huntingdon Fair was a great event for everyone and of course the many exhibitors were especially pleased when their exhibits won a prize. The first of the photographs here shows the team which won the horse drawing contest on Wednesday afternoon. The team is owned by Mr. Fred Carter of Ellenburg, N.Y., and it won the first prize of $25.00. The next one shows Mr. G. Thompson, manager of the Huntingdon Branch of the Bank of Montreal, as he awarded the Bank Trophy to Mr. Donald Hamilton for the best exhibit of Registered Holsteins. They are shown with the aged cow Mercedes Clover Posch, Reserve Champion. In the next photograph still another Huntingdon Bank Manager is making an award. This time it is Mr. R. C. Morrison, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and he is making the award of the Bank's Trophy for the best registered mature Jersey cow to Mr. Myles Tillotson. Last, but not least, although a little on the small side, we come to the ponies and their riders. These were the winners in the pony class races held at the race track on Wednesday afternoon. On the left is Milton Boyle and on the right is Tommy Boyle with the ponies that rode to an exciting finish to win the race.

HOW AND WHY

A Column for Boys and Girls
By Harold Don Allen

XI: A LETTER FROM UP NORTH

Hello, Boys and Girls. . .

I'm writing this from the shore of a mountain lake fifty miles North of Montreal. There are hills all about me, and many of them are covered with woods of maple and cedar and spruce. Crickets are chirping; birds are singing. I shouldn't need to tell you more because most of you, I'm sure, know Canada's Laurentian Mountains well.

It's late evening as I sit on the balcony and write this by candlelight, and the lake is still and the woods are very quiet. There's a rustle in the bushes, a flapping of wings, and the call of a bird that hasn't yet settled down for the night. . . . Just now, I glimpsed a shadow move by the shore — I turned, but I must have been heard for, as I started down to the Lake a fleet brown rabbit, ears drawn back in his haste, leaped into the bushes like a flash.... This afternoon, as I walked by the water, I came upon a new set of tracks in the sand. They were like a dog's footprints, but the toes were long, and the claws had pressed deep into the sand. I thought of "visitors" I had the other night. . .

tion from two shining green eyes. I heard a low growl. It couldn't be a dog, I told myself, as I moved the light closer and came upon a long-furred brown and black creature, with pointed snout and black bands beside its eyes. A raccoon, of course — "coons" are woodland animals that most Canadians know to see. But why did this coon stay where I could follow it; why hadn't it simply run away?

Wild animals of all kinds can be interesting, and there's almost always a good reason for things that they do. The coon just stared and my flashlight — frightened — and when I turned the light off it didn't run: it just let a strange, low purring cry. (Have you ever heard a mother cat call to her kittens? Well, that's just the sort of noise the soon made.) The coon growled and snarled when I tried to move closer. It didn't run. I stepped back to see what it would do next.

It went a little farther, then stopped and looked back. Again the coon began the low purring call. I turned the flashlight back, to the place from which it had come, and there I discovered the reason for the unfamiliar call. Clinging to the trunk of a tree, not a foot above the ground, was a baby coon, no bigger than a squirrel. Like a live teddy bear he looked, except for the strange black bands across his eyes. I lowered my flashlight, the mother coon called again, and into the night the baby coon went along on his way.

Perhaps it was the mother raccoon who went to the Lake for a drink of water and left the peculiar footprints down on the sand.

I'm writing this tonight just to show you that reading about animals can be interesting but that going out and learning about them for yourself can be even more fun. Every boy and girl can learn from nature — and the things he finds out for himself he's not likely ever to forget.

So keep your eyes and ears open whenever you're in the country — or in city parks and gardens too. Did you know you could make a wonder collection of pressed wild flowers? It's quite easy when you know how, and that's something I want to tell about soon.

And by the way, if YOU should see or hear something interesting out in the country, be sure to write us in care of this newspaper and let other boys and girls learn HOW and WHY as well.

Have a pleasant summer.

Sincerely

Uncle Don.

P. S. The other day, down by the water, I saw a mother fish looking after their hundreds of tiny children — that's something we seldom see — and next week, in another "Letter from Up North", that's part of the story I'd like to tell.

LOOK AND LEARN: Boys and girls lucky enough to spend a weekend or a lifetime in the country can learn a great deal about Nature by being on the lookout for signs of nature all about. What story do these tracks tell, the footprints of an animal left in the sand? A night visitor — a racoon — read about him in this week's column of HOW and WHY.

It was this time of evening, when you can make out dark green hills against dull blue-black sky; just before the stars, one by one, begin to appear. I was sitting listening to a whole orchestra of frogs croaking when I heard loud crackling noises in the woods at my side. Something was walking, and very clumsily, rustling dead leaves and breaking twigs with every step. The sounds came closer. I picked up a flashlight and, curious, headed out into the night. After following the prowler for fifty feet, I stepped to the side and ahead quickly, turned on my flash, and caught the reflec-

With The Fringe On Top

"Pro-Strike Feeling Said Strong Among 135,000 Railwaymen." This headline in large type appeared over a Labor News story in the Toronto Daily Star, July 24, referring to nation-wide voting by non-operating employees of Canada's four major railways. The story stated that the actual results of the voting would not be known until after August 2, "the deadline by which members of the 14 unions involved must have their ballots returned to their own unions." So that there were still nine days to go before the voting was complete. The forecast was said to be based on "early and unofficial reports" which indicated a "strong pro-strike sentiment among rail workers.

The purpose of issuing such an "unofficial" forecast was obviously to influence the remaining votes in favor of what the news story described as "a crippling nation-wide strike that could engulf the nation at any time after August 2."

In the face of growing unemployment in Canada, it seemed to me incredible that 135,000 railway workers who were enjoying full-employment, would vote in favor of putting themselves out of work and crippling the nation-wide transportation systems, which in turn would throw hundreds of thousands of other Canadians out of employment. That to me was utterly incredible, and I cannot believe that even a minority of those 135,000 rail workers could for a moment entertain such a "sentiment." But the power of suggestion is mighty, and most people like to be on the side of the majority. Especially, as in this case, they are told that a vote in favor of a strike would not necessarily mean that the "rail strategy board would call a snap vote in the event a strike was sanctioned."

In other words, the present vote was merely in the form of a threat to "cripple" and "engulf the nation" if the union leaders failed to gain their demands in the "last-ditch bargaining sessions.... before the trains roll to a halt," as the labor story casually puts it. "Roll to a halt" is a neat and innocuous description of what would be a social and economic calamity for this Dominion. And why and for what are we put under this threat of national disruption?

We are told that no wages are involved in the present dispute. The union demands are said to be confined to "fringe benefits," including wages for unworked statutory holidays, longer vacations for veteran workers, penalty pay for Sunday work and provisions for sickness, which will cost the railways additional millions of dollars a year. The companies rejected them entirely on the grounds of inability to pay.

The railways, which include a big government-owned system, should know what they can afford, and these demands "with the fringe on top" would have to be paid for with money that the lines are not earning. A large of portion of those millions of dollars would have to be paid by the taxepayers who are already over-taxed. The many thousands of men who are at present unemployed would be happy to change places with those railway warkers without any fringes at all.

situation swings back to where it broke off last June. The degree of the compromise each side had come to during the last negotiations was not announced, but last June the unions were sticking with demands for eight paid statutory holidays a year, 18 days a year sick leave with pay, longer paid annual vacations and higher overtime wages for Sunday work. The companies' position then was that they could agree to none of the union demands.

Mostly Canadian Seaway

The long-awaited St. Lawrence seaway will be mostly an all-Canadian venture with the exception of an important four-mile stretch of canals and locks on the American side of the International Rapids section.

But even in this part — The Barnhart Island area southwest of Cornwall, Ont. — The Canadian government reserves the right to build a parallel Canadian link if Canada and the United States find they cannot get along in seaway operations.

The Canadian government in an exchange of notes with the U.S. made public last week, agreed to let the U.S. build the four-mile, $70,000,000 link at Barnhart and also do $2,000,000 worth of dredging in the scenic Thousand Islands sector.

But the International Rapids section will not be left to the U.S. alone. The Canadian note, signed by External Affairs Minister Pearson, that the U.S. also has been committed by Congress to build a canal on the American side near Iroquois. But Mr. Pearson expressed the hope that the U.S. "may subsequently decide not to proceed with this work at this time".

The $300,000,000 27-foot seaway, providing a water lane for ocean-going ships from Montreal to Lake Erie, is to proceed immediately, dovetailed with the $600,000,000 Ontario-New York power project which already has started. The seaway is to be completed by the end of 1958.

Most Grain For Sale

There's never been so much grain for sale in Canada. The bureau on statistics has estimated the total 1954 carryover stocks of wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed at a record 876,800,000 bushels. That's about five per cent more than the previous record of 832,300,000 in 1943 and more than 2½ times the 1944-53 average of 324,800,000.

But it's the wheat that's worrisome. There hasn't been so much in the elevators and on the farms in 11 years. The bureau estimated that on July 31, there were 587,487,000 bushels on farms and in elevators. That's triple the 184,000,000-bushel average for wheat carryovers since 1944 and just 7,100,000 below the record wartime surplus of 594,600,000 in 1943.

The estimated 1954 crop is 513,000,000 bushels. Put them together and there's the prospect of 1,100,000,000 bushels to dispose of this year on a tight world market.

Gradual Withdrawal

Canada is expected to start a gradual withdrawal of its 6,000-man brigade in Korea in the next few months and officials said a very substatnial proportion will be back home by the end of the year.

"We expect to reduce our forces in Korea proportionately to the Americans", said one authority, commenting on the United States Army announcement that four of its six divisions will be pulled out in the next several months. Two divisions were withdrawn by the U.S. earlier this year.

Exactly when and in what proportion Canadian forces in Korea — the brigade and three destroyers — will be withdrawn was being discussed here and at Camberley, England, where senior Commonwealth army commander were conferring.

Canada has never had any intention of keeping its troops in Korea indefinitely. Some time ago tentative plans were drawn up for gradual withdrawal when the situation was considered stable.

Three Brides-To-Be Invited To Own Showers

A rather unusual event took place in the dining room of The Chateau, Huntingdon, on Thursday evening, when three brides to be found themselves invited to one another showers. Miss Suzanne Boyer organized a shower for Miss Monique Dumouchel and was surprised when she found a group of friends gathered there by Miss France Barrett in her honour. Miss France Barrett in turn was also surprised when she found that Mrs. Jean Brunet had organized a similar party on her behalf. However, the three young ladies appreciated the thoughtfulness of their friends and a very delightful evening was spent. In the course of the evening, the brides-to-be were each presented with a Toastmaster, a few surprise gifts, plenty of good wishes and advice. Delightful refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Mr. John Chambers has now accepted a position with Riverside Motors. For some time he has been employed at an outside point, but he has now returned to Huntingdon and to the position as above.

Merchants Win Thriller 3-2 from Burke — Go Through Season Undefeated

With Rosie Lecompte pitching seven hit ball and striking out nine, the Huntingdon Merchants ended the regular season by winning their fourteenth straight game, to finish first in the Eastern Division of the St. Lawrence Valley League.

For Lacompte it was his seventh win of the year, against no defeats.

Burke scored the first run of the game in the fifth inning when Pop Poupore singled, went to second on an error by MacDonald when a pick off play failed and scored on Elmer Legacy's triple. Legacy was out trying to make home on his hit, from Watson to McCallum to Poupore.

Huntingdon tied it up in the last of the fifth when Lacompte singled and was forced at second by Senecal. Senecal stole second base and scored on Proudfoot's single to centre field.

Burke went ahead two to one in the sixth when Mastin singled, Henderson walked and both runners advanced when Lacompte committed a balk. Prevost hit a long sacrifice fly to score Mastin from third.

In the eighth inning Salter started off with a double which bounced once and went over the center field fence. Manager Gavin came into the game at this point to run for Salter and stole third on the first pitch. Poupore hit a ground ball to second base and Gavin slid to the plate under the throw to tie up the ball game.

In the last half of the ninth Lacompte walked for Huntingdon, Senecal singled and Gerry MacDonald was given an intentional walk to load the bases. Jon Proudfoot hit a short fly to center field and Rosie Lacompte scored from third base after the catch to win the ball game for Huntingdon 3 to 2.

Next Sunday, Aug. 29th, Huntingdon will play the first play-off game of the Eastern Division finals against either Chateaugay or North Lawrence. This game will be played at Cluff's Field in Huntingdon. Look for advt. in this newspaper for complete details.

4H Club Show

Without fanfare and with but a small gallery of spectators, the Junior or 4H Calf Club events were staged at Huntingdon Fair, on Wednesday, August 18. First was a judging competition in which the prizes were donated by the Montreal Kiwanis Club; then the judging of the individual calf classes; and, finally, the showmanship competition.

In the individual classes each member of the 4H Club must show his or her own calf of the current year, while there are also classes for heifers that members have shown as calves in other years. There is also a herd class for groups owned by members of at least 4 years standing. Each group must be comprised of a calf of the current year; a yearling heifer, a 2 year old heifer and a 3 year old heifer.

The 4H Clubs in Quebec are jointly sponsored by the Quebec Department of Agriculture and the Quebec Branch of Production Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, with the County or District Agronome in general supervision of his county or district Club. It therefore was that Leon A. Beaudin, Agronome for Huntingdon County, was not only in general supervision of the Huntingdon 4H. Club show this year, but also the representative of the Branches of the Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture concerned with this work.

The Club Leader.

During the past several years the Huntingdon Club has been fortunate in having Dan Murphy as its Club Leader - in effect its senior advisor and counsellor. This year, as in the past, a considerable part of the credit for the fine Club Show should therefore go to Dan Murphy. As Ring Master and general master of ceremonies Dan Murphy was assisted by Assistant Club Leader Basil Kelly.

A Fine Performance

The judge of the 4H. Show was the well-known Ayrshire breeder, Archie Roy of Balquhidder Farm, Howick, himself a farmer distinguished Calf Club member. In fact, he was one of the original members of the now long established Howick Ayrshire Calf Club, while he was also Leader of that Club for a considerable number of years after he had attained the age limit for Calf Club members.

In discussing the Huntingdon Calf Club show he stated that the boys and girls concerned had all made fine performances themselves in showing their animals, while they were also to be commended on the fitting and preparation of their entries.

The Jerseys

There was only one contestant in the Jersey section, Guy Daoust, and his two entries were respectively champion and reserve champion in that section.

The Holsteins

Altogether there were 15 individual entries in the Holstein section and the championship went to one of Claire Legault's entries. The reserve champion was an entry belonging to Ronald Mcdonald.

Groups: 1, Claire Legault; 2, Ronald McDonald.

The Ayrshires

There were 12 entries in the Ayrshire section and one of John Nolan's entries was champion of same. Marilyn Brown showed the reserve champion.

Groups: 1, John Nolan; 2, Donald Nolan.

Showmanship

There were seventeen contestants in the Showmanship contest in which members of the Jersey, Holstein and Ayrshire sections of the Club all competed together, and made a remarkably good showing. John Nolan of the Ayrshire section won first prize while Guy Daoust of the Jersey section won the second prize.

The other winners were as follows: 3, Winston French; 4, Donald Nolan; 5, Ronald McDonald; 6, Marilyn Brown; 7, Royce Beattie; 8, Stanley Reid; 9, Claire Legault; 10, Boyd Moneypenny; 11, Frank Nolan; 12, Faith Witthoeft; 13, Duncan Moneypenny; 14, Robert Mack; 15, Madeline Witthoeft; 16, George Robb; 17, John Keith.

The Kiwanis Winners

A rather perfunctory but nevertheless interesting ceremony was the presentation of the Kiwanis Club of Montreal special prizes to the winners in the Junior Cattle Judging Competition by representatives of that Club. This competition is open to boys and girls 16 years and under. The winners were:

First ($10.00 and Kiwanis Trophy) - Faith Witthoeft; 2nd ($8.00) — Winston French; 3rd ($6.00) — Donald Nolan; 4th ($5.00) — Boyd Moneypenny.

In addition the four winners will be entertained, along with similar winners from other Clubs, at the annual Agricultural Luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Montreal.

Consolation prizes of $2.00 each (from Kiwanis) were awarded to the following contestants:

Duncan Moneypenny; Claire Legault; Ronald MacDonald and John Nolan.

Just a Suggeestion

Perhaps it might be called presumption on our part but we would suggest that this might in future the special prize giving in the Junior Section be listed as one of the feature attractions of that part of that day of Huntingdon Fair. That is that the boys and girls be paraded with their calves before the grandstand for the presentation of Kiwanis prizes, probably also the championship prizes for the calves in each section. It is true that the judging competition does not include the contestants' own calves, that the animals used in that competition were loaned by several of the senior exhibitors. Nevertheless, we feel that any such parade and presentations would make a most interesting item during the course of the afternoon's grandstand events. As it was after the Weight Pulling Contest, most of those viewing same by-passed the Calf Club events in their rush to see the balance of the horse races; while only a handful of people watched the handing-out of the Kiwanis prizes.

Off to London

At the time of this writing Gilbert MacMillan of Huntingdon, will doubtless be in his old homeland, or rather in Ayrshire, Scotland, which adjoins his native county of Dumfries. He was scheduled to leave Dorval Airport, by T. C. A., on Monday morning, August 23, his air-line destination being Prestwick, Ayrshire, Scotland.

After his arrival in Scotland he intends to visit a number of his old friends of the Ayrshire cattle-breeding fraternity. From Ayrshire he will proceed to Manchester, England, to spend a couple of days or so with his nephew Robert MacMillan, incidentally his nearest relative in Great Britain. Robert MacMillan is one of the leading Field Representatives of B.O.C.M. (British Oil Cake Mills) probably the largest of its kind in Great Britain.

From Manchester, Gilbert MacMillan will proceed to London where, as President of Dairy Farmers of Canada, he will attend meetings of the Dairy Producers section (European Division) of I.F.A.P., on September, 1, 2 and 3.

He expects to fly back from London on the night of September 3 and on Sunday, September 5 he is scheduled to leave for Washington D.C. for another series of meetings. That is the meetings of the United States and Canadian division of the Dairy Producers section of I.F.A.P.

Mischievous Look

The growing disposition of publications in the United States to devote articles to the American discovery of Canada, at long last, is generally received with gratification by most Canadians. Canadian publicity in U. S. newspapers and magazines is good business for us, not only because this mounting awareness of Canada encourages U. S. capital investment in Canadian industry, but because it also booms the tourist trade and thus brings us more U. S. dollars and undoes some of the damage caused by the spending of Canadian visitors to the U. S.

Our pleasure at seeing ourselves in print is tempered with tolerance of the many factual inaccuracies in the texts of the articles describing America's young giant of a neighbour to the north. We can forgive the errors in the higher interest of the end result of making the American public even a little better informed about Canada.

However, the currant issue of "LOOK" picture magazine intrudes a new and distasteful aspect to Canada's new publicity in the United States.

It would appear that now that Canada has commanded the attention of the best of U. S. journalistic talent it cannot escape the fumes from the worst. A "LOOK" article entitled "The Boss of Quebec" runs in the usual vein of irresponsible tabloidism, smearing a public figure with less than half truths, tavern runours, outright fabrications and tiresome innuendo. These are not the honest errors of a reporter trying to tell a true story, but rather the calculated inaccuries of a writer trying to sell a sensation, with newstand circulation figures rather than truth as his guide. Canadians are not accustomed, and do not want to become accustomed, to seeing their public figures assailed in print in the yellow journalism tradition. The heat of election campaign debates often generates quoted remarked of scorn and derision between political opponents but never the epithets and innuendoes which seem so acceptable to some U. S. publications, even when the article has nothing to do with politics . . . . or has it?

In his assay of Mr. Duplessis, the writer of the article is singularly kind to the political opponents of the Prime Minister of Quebec. He hardly mentions them. Nevertheless, the diatribe reads something like an anthology of muzzy recollections of a convivial evening at the Reform Club.

Quebec's hasty chronicler obviously had no time for a glance at what the Duplessis regime has done to Quebec. He was not interested to learn that the market value of Province of Quebec bonds has risen from the lowest amongst Provincial issues to the highest; that the most recent Quebec bond issue was oversubscribed within an hour of being offered on a practical and unemotional market. It means nothing to "LOOK" that Mr. Duplessis has "bossed" Quebec industry to a thousand fold expansion his administration took charge. There is no mention of the new hydro electric power development which has made Quebec the most "powerful" province. There is nothing about the thousands of miles of multi-lane new highways throughout Quebec., the bridges, the winter maintenance of roads once chocked with snow for months at a time. It seems dull, too, apparently, to write of multi-million dollar grants to universities of both French and English instruction, of the financial assistance to rural schools, of the millions and millions spent and spending in building new hospitals and sanitoria, of the alltime production peaks attained by Quebec agriculture, increases in colonization and rural electrification. It would be mundane, too, to mention that under the guidance of Mr. Duplessis, Quebec has developed trade and technical schools far beyond the other provinces to build a skilled labor force in keeping with Quebec's new industrial leadership.

It is certain that U. S. readers find Quebec far more attractive under the leadership of Mr. Duplessis, for the annual tourist dollar volume has risen from $14,000,000 when he first became Prime Minister to $143,000,000.

Dundee

Mrs. A. S. Thompson and her daughter, Miss Joan Thompson, of St. John, N.B., also Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Calgary, Alta., are spending a week visiting at the Manse with Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod.

The MacLeods recently visited friends at Wales, Moulinette and Mille Roches, Ont., and also at Harrington and Kilmar, Que. Mr. MacLeod served as a student minister at these place before coming to Dundee.

On Friday evening, Mrs. T. Stowell and Mrs. A. H. Fraser were hostesses for a successful W.I. card party held at the latter's home. Cards were played at 12 tables. Prize winners were: Ladies' first: Mrs. W. S. Smellie; consolation, Miss Elizabeth McNicol; gents' first: Mr. Carl Stowell; consolation, Mr. Cecil McNicol; door prize, Mrs. R. Steven.

Last Thursday, Mr. Horace Johnson of Burke N.Y. spent the day with his cousin Mrs. H. A. Cameron.

Miss Jeannine McNicol, of Ormstown, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Jennie McNicol.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McNicol and family, Miss Elizabeth Raeburn also Master Kenny Halbert, of McMasterville, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNicol and Mrs. Eleanor McNicol.

Winston McNicol remained to spend another week with his uncle and aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Crawford of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mrs. George Sheard and son George.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip English, of Manchester, N.H., left last Friday after spending 10 days with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fraser.

Mrs. Junior Lacey and two daughters Anne and Laura Lyn of Aultsville, Ont., are spending 3 weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs W. S. Smellie.

Winners at the International speedway at Fort Covington, on Sunday afternoon were 1st heat, 50-50, Chas. Mitchell; 2nd. Heat, Wee 1, Squeaky Robinson; 3rd heat, 56, Bruce Scott; 1st Semi, No. 7, Richard Nephew; 2nd Semi, No. 40, Buch Holiday; Consolation, 90, Bob Leigler.

Feature — First Four, 1, Buck Holiday; 2, Allen Shirley; 3, Bob Leigler; 4, Bruce Scott

The first four winners of the feature race represent the cream of the North Country race drivers. Buck Holiday, the one-armed ace from upstate is well nigh unbeatable.

The feature race had to be started a second time due to a serious pile up in which 6 cars were involved.

As the ambulance, fire truck and wrecker raced for the scene it looked like someone would be seriously injured but those boys are tough and everybody came through with only minor cuts. Jas. King who attempted to get out of his car which was jammed to a standstill on the middle of the curve was hit suddenly from the rear by an oncoming car almost invisible in the dust. His safety belt being loose he was catapulted through the car window onto the track where dazed and bleeding he was picked up to be given medical attention. In the meantime 4 other cars joined the melee and cracked up. At another point in the feature number 67 hit a stalled car and rolled over sidewise 3 times finally landing on its wheels in the field just off the track. Not to be fazed, however, the driver stepped on it, climbed back on the track to continue the race without losing any appreciable time.

The Hell Drivers whose fame as daredevils held the spotlight for many years haven't got as much of an edge as you think on these race-drivers who stage an entirely unrehearsed performance to give the spectators a thrill a minute.

Press Nears 8 Million Circulation States Canadian Book of Facts

Canada's daily and weekly press has a combined circulation of more than half the country's total population. The 95 daily newspapers publish about 3,850,000 copies; about 1,000 weeklies have a circulation of about 4,000,000 according to a section on communications included in the 1954-55 edition of Quick Canadian Facts, the pocket-sized annual of facts about Canada. The 63 foreign-langage newspapers, published in 20 languages, have a total circulation of about 400,000. Also a major publisher in Canada is the federal government. In the catalogue issued annually by the Queen's Printer it takes more than 500 pages to list the titles and subject matter of government publications.

Radio service in Canada is via 170 broadcasting stations, 150 privately owned and 20 CBC stations. The non-government stations employ about 4,000 people, the CBC about 1,250. In the motion picture field are 31 private film producing companies and the government-owned National Film Board. The latter employs 543 persons, the private companies 386. In one recent year, output of private companies totalled 1,764 productions; of the National Film Board, 311 productions.

Among thousands of other facts about Canada noted in the 10th annual edition of Quick Canadian Facts are:

Canada is the only country of North and South America that gained nationhood and self- government without revolution;

Manufacturing today employs about 1,360,000 Canadians, more than 1½ times as many as agriculture.

The farmers of Nova Scotia have the country's highest production per acre of many crops;

This year Canadians will pay in taxes to all governments about $470 per person:

Canada has about 26,000 miles of paved highways, 44.000 miles of railway lines;

Canadians are spending considerably more on social security health and welfare services than on national defence.

The new edition of Quick Canadian Facts, carrying up-to-date information on all significant aspects of Canadian life, is released this week through newstands and book stores.

BESSIE HONORED

Navan, Ont. (CP) — Friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Rathwell gathered in this eastern Ontario community to honor their Goodyear Queen Bessie Keeno, 17-year-old cow and 10th to be classified Good Plus — a select group that has a lifetime total of 200,000 or more pounds of milk.

Household Hints

Shoe Polish

If the shoe polish has become dry and hard, because of leaving the lid off, moisten it with a few drops of kerosene.

Writing On Glass

To make an ink for writing on glass, ivory, or other smooth surfaces, use 3 parts nitrate of silver, 20 parts gum arabic, 30 parts distilled water. Dissolve the gum arabic in two thirds of the water, the nitrate of silver in the other third Then mix and add desired colour.

Syrup

When making syrup, just as it is coming to a boil add 1/3 teaspoonful cream of tartar to every 2 cups of sugar used. This will prevent a formation of icing, or a turning back to sugar.

Broken Cork

If a cork breaks and falls inside the bottle, transfer the content to another bottle. Then pour some ammonia into the bottle enough to float the cork, and allow it to remain for two or three days. The ammonia will consume enough of the cork to permit its easy removal.

BATTLE MOSQUITOS

Moncton, N.B. (CP) — City Engineer A. V. McQuarrie said city residents notice relief from the mosquito plague since two planes completed spraying about 5,000 gallons of oil spray on marshy areas surrounding the city.

MONTREAL—"A salad a day . . . is the summery way!" . . . 'Cos right now sun-ripened fruits and garden-fresh vegetables are at their best. And they are at their very best when served as a salad with the famous MIRACLE WHIP SALAD DRESSING. Nothing more delicious, nor healthful, than the vitamin-packed salads of summer—whether fruit, vegetable, meat, chicken or fish . . . when they are blended with Miracle Whip. Yes, you'll taste the difference with Miracle Whip! You'll find that Miracle Whip has that special flavor— a secret, exclusive formula found in no other salad dressing! . . . So, prepare your vegetables in the cool of the early morning . . . then both blend and crown them with a swirl of Miracle Whip—and sit back for family applause!

Have You Ever Longed For A "Fairy God-Mother" to give you "new" feet in exchange for the old? Well, I know a more practical answer to the problem of painful corns and calluses. It's Phenylium, the wonder-working ingredient in BLUE-JAY Corn Plasters. Phenylium gets right down under the corn and helps push it out from underneath . . . the first really new medication for corns and calluses in over seventy years! In actual tests, Phenylium went to work 33% faster and worked 35% more surely than other leading remedies. Why don't you enjoy this wonderful relief from painful feet? . . . ask for Blue-Jays with Phenylium at your favourite drug counter today.

Here's A Little Secret about washday products that you may not have known. Laundry Blue works differently from other products. In your rinse water, it becomes millions of tiny particles that weave through your clean clothes, catching light like miniature sequins—to give them new, brilliant whiteness. This is the secret of washing; soaps and detergents — regardless of their colour — take out dirt. Bleach takes out stains. But Laundry Blue adds whiteness to your clean, white clothes. It actually adds shades of sparkle to your white things. It works in an instant too. Get RECKITT'S BLUE or KEEN'S BLUE.

Had A Frantic Telephone Call last night from a friend of mine. She returned from a glorious holiday—only to find that thieves had broken into her home. She blames herself bitterly for the loss of valuables and important documents which can never be replaced. How sad, when she could so easily have rented her own personal Safety Deposit Box at the BANK OF MONTREAL! A B of M Safety Deposit Box costs so little—less than the price of your daily newspaper—yet it gives such perfect protection against fire or theft. Have you got valuable papers or jewellery lying around in a desk or drawer in your home? If so, why not place them in a Safety Deposit Box at "My Bank" today!

Make it a real meal... just serve Coke

Steaks, chops, spare ribs, glorified by charcoal . . . dishes seasoned to perfection . . . and ice-cold Coca-Cola—Ah, there's a meal! The frosty goodness of Coke points up the taste of food.

WARNING: Better have plenty of everything good including Coke! Handy cartons make it so easy.

RAIN and REVELLERS

ANYONE who ever visited London knows Piccadilly Circus, and the famous statue of Eros, God of Love, poised above its central fountain. This statue has taken a lot of punishment during the past sixty years, from both practical jokers and London smog. But because the sculptor cast it in aluminum—it was the first large statue to be cast in the "new metal"—it has come safely through the years. When it was cleaned up for the Coronation, it gleamed as freshly as ever. The enduring beauty of aluminum has meanwhile made it a favorite of modern architects, furniture designers, decorators too. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd (Alcan).

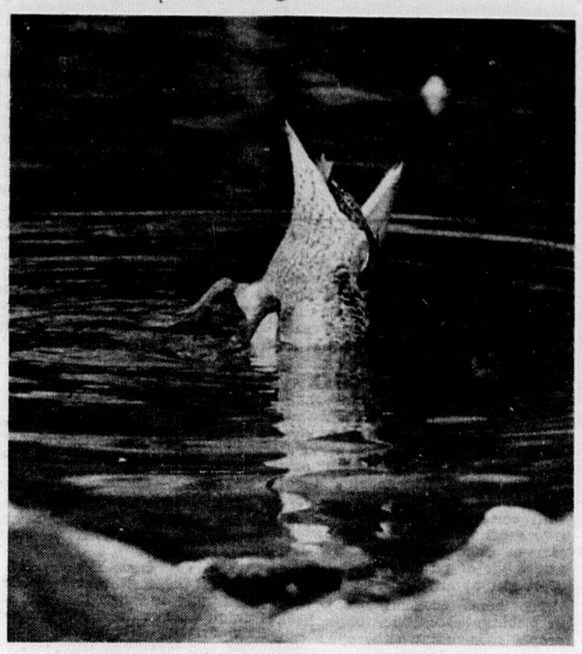
A Deep Dive



The Rotary Club "Duck Sweepstake" for the special benefit of the "Nurse Training Fund" is not going to take place on Saturday, August 28, for a very good reason. The race will take place during the month of September and we hope by the time the next Gleaner goes to press we will be able to announce the date and what attraction will be offered the public at the same time. Rotarians are all keeping their fingers crossed in hope that the grand attraction will materialize; for if good luck comes our way, the postponement will really be worth while in that the general public will be made very happy and the Nurse Benefit Fund will undoubtedly be enhanced.

If you have not already mailed your contribution toward the "Nurse Training Fund" under the supervision of the Huntingdon Rotary Club, it would be appreciated if you would do so without further delay.

Shower For Miss Irma Brown

On Monday evening, Aug. 16th, Mrs. Clarence Moore of Huntingdon (née Margie MacPherson) entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honour of Miss Irma Brown, whose wedding date is set for Saturday, Aug. 28th, at Hemmingford, Que.

About 35 guests were present to greet Irma on her arrival at the Moore home, and she was the recipient of many beautiful, as well as useful gifts.

After the bride-to-be voiced her appreciation to all present for their generosity and thoughtfulness, she extended an invitation to all to visit her and Keith when they become settled in their new home.

Bingo was played during the evening with a number of the guests winning prizes. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Moore, assisted by several other ladies, and all departed for home after wishing Irma many years of happy wedded bliss.

Miss Jeannine Quenneville Feted at Shower

On Sunday evening, Aug. 22nd the Misses Madelaine Quenneville, Lucille Leblanc and Alma Quenneville were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower for their cousin, Miss Jeannine Quenneville, whose wedding will take place Saturday morning, Aug. 28th at Huntingdon.

About 75 ladies were present at the shower which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donat Leblanc.

The guest of honour arrived about 9.30 o'clock and was escorted to her chair by Misses Alma Quenneville and Lucille Leblanc, and was presented with a corsage by Miss Madelaine Quenneville. Miss Lise Léger played the "Bridal March", and before the gifts were opened Miss Alma Quenneville delighted the guests by singing several songs.

Among the numerous gifts for which Jeannine thanked all present, was an electric mantle clock, presented by "La Société Jeanne d'Arc" of which the bride-to-be is a member.

Following the supper period, music by Misses Lise Léger and Marie-Rose Leblanc was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

New Fire Truck Ready For Work

The new Ford F-600 truck purchased some time ago by the Fort Covington Volunteer Fire Department has arrived in the Fort and the fire truck body with all equipment from the old Ford truck has been mounted on the new chassis. The outfit is equipped with a 500 gallon two-stage high pressure pump. The old chassis will eventually be converted to a tank truck which will be used to haul water to fires for an immediate supply when time is so vital and until other sources are tapped.

Richard Keeler, Bruce Cappiello and Leo Derochie went to Buffalo after the new truck. Delivery of the new vehicle was accepted at Chicago some weeks ago and en route to Fort Covington an accident occurred at Painesville, Ohio, in which the new truck was damaged. It was subsequently repaired at Buffalo. — (Fort Covington Sun).

The Study Book for this year has been completed. The one for the year to come is based on a study of India and should prove educational as well as interesting.

Valleyfield Golf & Country Club

Ray Plante defeated Ted Kennedy 5 and 4 Sunday, Aug. 15, to win the President's Trophy and Prize, emblematic of the Men's Senior Section of the handicap tournament. At the end of the first nine holes, the match was all even, with each player winning three holes and the other three being halved. On the tenth hole, Kennedy missed a short 4' putt that put Plante 1 up. On the 11th and 12th holes, Kennedy missed 1½' putts to give Plante an almost unsurmountable 3-hole lead. On the par 5 13th hole, Plante's second shot carried into the ditch to the left of the green and embedded itself in mud and water. Plante took his wedge and "blasted". Mud, water and ball flew dead to the pin, having a 1' putt which Plante dropped for his birdie 4. Kennedy, on the green in three, saw his putt for a birdie 4 curl agonizingly three inches past the cup. This put Ray 4 up with 5 holes to go and he finished the match on the 14th hole with a three to Kennedy's 4.

All in all, Ray Plante played a truly magnificent game. His shots were true and his ability to recuperate from trouble was excellent. Plante and Kennedy both played well, each shooting 8 over par 81's.

Congratulations, Ray.

Percy Reynolds advanced to the Class "B" Club Championship Finals after defeating Dick Tessier 4 up. This match was a see-saw battle in the first nine with first Tessier and then Reynolds winning a hole. Reynolds was two up at the end of the first nine and didn't look back from then on. He won the 11th, 15th, 16th, while losing the 12th and halving the 10th, 13th and 14th holes. This match was again a very close one in medal play with Reynolds shooting a 93 to Tessier's 97.

Good shooting, Percy — keep up the good work.

Recipe Suggestions For Zestful Living

TRIED AND TESTED FOR SATISFACTION

THIS WEEK — PICKLE POINTERS

Tasty Recipes

The home economists of Canada's Department of Agriculture suggest that the best time to make pickles is from mid-August to early September. And so they want to give homemakers some pickle pointers before they start to plan what pickles they are going to make and what they need to buy for them. Granted, pickles may not add much to our meals as far as food value is concerned but they do add new interest and flavour, and certainly the small amount of effort used in making them is well worth the satisfaction we gain from eating them. So now is the time for us to check our pickle-making supplies.

The first subject the home economists mention is spices. They do so because it may be that Mrs. Homemaker had some left over from last year that she plans to use. If such is the case it is important to be sure that they have a good strong aroma because spices lose their aroma and strength very easily and only fresh pungent spices can do a really good job. Any combination of spices may be used but caution is necessary because too much spice may give a bitter flavour and a dark colour. A homemaker can develop her own special recipes by selecting and blending spices which suit her own individual taste and using them in a basic recipe. But here again — she should be sure that they are fresh.

And now a bit about vinegar-for most pickles the home economist recommended the use of blended vinegar. It is a combination of two kinds of vinegar, usually cider and white, and the blended flavours are very pleasing. Many stores sell blended vinegar at pickling time, but if it is not available at your grocer's it can easily be made by mixing equal parts of the white and cider. Of course white vinegar is preferred when making light coloured pickles such as onions and cauliflower.

Sugar is used in nearly all pickles—if too much is added or if too much is added too quickly, the pickles will shrivel — so here again caution is necessary. As for salt, it used to be that when making pickles we had to be sure to use pure coarse salt rather than iodized salt. Ever since it became law in Canada that all free-running or regular table salt must be iodized — the home economists of the Consumer Section have been doing a great deal of work on the use of iodized and non-iodized salt in pickles. This work on the use of salt in pickles is now completed and the results show that either iodized or non-iodized salt may be used with equal success in pickles.

Homemade pickles add much to eating satisfaction but actually there is more to pickle making than that. It is a lot of fun making pickles. You can also get a great personal satisfaction out of making your own special pickles and having them right on the shelf ready to serve with certain foods. And think of how proud you can be of rows of jars of colourful pickles. By the way a jar of pickles makes a welcome gift at any time.

The home economists say that in pickling season they often have people inquiring whether you can make pickles in aluminum saucepans, certainly aluminum can be used and enamel or stainless steel are also good. But since vinegar and salt react with iron, copper or brass to cause discoloration they should not be used.

The Consumer Section has a booklet "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables" it has a lot of very good pickle recipes in it so if you do not have a copy write now to the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa and ask for a free copy. But as well as the excellent recipes in the booklet the home economists have a small folder with additional pickle recipes entitled "Conserves, Pickles and Relishes". A free copy of this leaflet can be obtained by writing to the same address, the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Now to get back to the pickle pointers — some pickles must be sealed air-tight for instance tomato chili sauce, and sweet relishes. With these pickles they must be packed hot in sterilized jars and then completely sealed. Other pickles may be kept in clean crocks or jars. If kept in crocks the pickles should be well covered with a vinegar solution and a plate or board should be placed on top of the pickles as a weight to keep them under the solution.

The last point about pickle making has to do with the raw ingredients—the vegetables and fruits you use. The home economists want to stress the fact that the finished product can be only as good as the raw products from which it is made so choose firm, fresh vegetables and fruits for pickling. Be sure that they are not bruised. Choose vegetable and fruits that are well shaped, if you plan to make whole pickles. Be sure that they are not over mature. The final, but perhaps most important point, make your pickles as soon after buying your vegetables and fruits as possible. Not longer than 24 hours should elapse from picking to pickling.

The car skidded as it took a curve in the road, overturned and rolled several times, finally slid off the edge of a large sluiceway and came to rest in the bottom of a ditch. The driver, who was alone in the car, managed to crawl through the windshield opening, which had all the glass broken out. He was found dazed and bleeding on the opposite side of the road, by two of his cousins who came along a short time later. They took him to the hospital in Malone for treatment and first aid. Examination showed only bad cuts and considerable shock. The car was towed away by the wrecking service from Fort Covington. Mr. Mayville is married and has two children.

Tatehurst

TATEHURST — Miss Dorothy Hooker returned home on Saturday from a trip through the Maritime provinces.

Misses Margaret, Phyllis and Shirley Whyte of Howick spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Rember and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Greer of Montreal spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Greer.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Naves of Westmount, Mrs. Naves Sr. and grandchildren Gerry and Susan, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johnston of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ovans and Mr. Cameron Wright.

W.M.S. Meeting

The Upper and Lower Ormstown branch of the Presbyterian W.M.S. met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ivan Rember. A program of singing and devotion was arranged by Mrs. R. Ovans and Mrs. Eddie Hooker. Rev. H. A. Pritchard of Rodney, Ont., conducted the devotions and the members cordially welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard who have been holidaying at Ormstown. A delicious buffet supper was served by the hostess to twenty-five members and guests.

WATER COWS

Yorkton, Sask. (CP) — Bill Wilkinson says his cows have taken up swimming and appear to enjoy their new sport. They cross the little White Sand river and report back at milking time. Two strands of wire strung in mid-stream are no hindrance — they dive underneath.
