THE SHERBROOKE RECORD

THE SHERBROOKE RECORD, FRI., NOV. 5, 1971

RECORD BREAKER: Tony Ross, 14, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Ross of Sherbrooke, crosses the finish line Wednesday afternoon to set a record in the annual Bishop's College School cross country run. Ross completed the three-mile junior course in 20:25 minutes, closely followed by Henri Busse of Pointe Claire, who also bettered the previous record. The senior race, run over a five-mile course, was won by Graeme Magor, 17, of Montreal, in a time of 28:02. More than 170 boys competed in the two events. (More sports see Pages 6 and 8)

Lapalme support

CNTU to demonstrate here

By LEWIS HARRIS

SHERBROOKE — Members of the Sherbrooke City Council met with representatives of the Canadian National Trade Unions (CNTU) in a special session of council last night and thrashed out an agreement with the CNTU on a demonstration planned for this evening.

Last Wednesday evening City Hall withheld permission to hold tonight's march on the grounds that it would break bylaw 820 article 21 which holds the city legally responsible for any damage caused by such demonstrations. According to this bylaw the city is also responsible for the free flow of people and traffic on city streets. Since the demonstration was planned for Wellington St. at 7:30 this evening, the city refused to grant a permit to the CNTU on the grounds that they might lose control of the traffic at busy intersections along this street and would be held responsible for any resulting damage. "It is not a question of a complete refusal but a question of applying the bylaw," councillor Diziel told the meeting last night. Mayor Bureau, just back from vacation, added that the city has "never granted a permit on a Friday night before." Both men were trying to correct the impression made when certain of the media reported that the city had "forbidden" the demonstration.

But the main bone of contention between the city and the CNTU was the choice of busy Wellington St. for the original demonstration. After discussing three possible alternatives, agreement was finally reached on a route which would see the demonstrators start their march from 180 Acadie then move to Evangeline, continue along Evangeline until Belvedere, along Belvedere to Galt St. W. from there to Laurier, along Laurier to Wellington and finally from Wellington south to Acadie. The city felt that this route, while not obscuring the march, would minimize the possibility of any disruption or inconvenience to citizens of the city.

The CNTU and the city had little difficulty in reaching agreement. The CNTU undertook responsibility for the march which one of their spokesmen described as "peaceful" and "symbolic." Except for a disagreement on the original wording of a joint communiqué, which council ironed out in caucus and then issued to the press, no insurmountable problems were encountered. The march of CNTU members and their affiliates in support of the "Lapalme drivers" is on for tonight.

Studies French law

QUEBEC (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette said Thursday his department is studying a French law which makes demonstration organizers responsible for damages caused during a demonstration.

Aurene Audet (Cred—Abitibi West) had asked whether "the different organizations or unions" involved in "riots" in Montreal last Friday would be held responsible by the justice department and ordered to pay the costs.

Mr. Choquette said Mr. Audet seemed to be referring to a French law "which will be one of the alternatives we will examine ... to ensure that liberty is exercised legally."

Agrees to subscribe

HAUTERIVE, Que. (CP) — About 3,000 students ended a six-day boycott of classes Thursday after the department of education promised a parents committee a new school by September, 1974.

Therese Baron, head of an education department delegation, told the parents Wednesday night steps would be taken immediately to improve the condition of the existing high school.

The students left classes last Friday to protest overcrowding in four schools and one high school in this community 215 miles northeast of Quebec City. A meeting of 500 parents and 1,000 students decided earlier to take action forcing the government to speed up construction of a new school.

A parents committee also occupied the high school for a time.

Hockey lottery smashed

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police say they have smashed a hockey lottery ticket operation with the arrest of three persons and the seizure of 15,000 pool tickets and printing presses valued at more than $20,000.

Police in the Laurentian community of Lesage seized two presses, a machine used for cutting tickets, 15 staplers and 50,000 blank tickets ready to go to press.

A 36-year-old man was arrested and will be arraigned in court at St. Jerome on a charge of printing illegal lottery tickets.

Another 15,000 hockey pool tickets were found by police in a suburban St. Leonard home, where a man and a woman were arrested.

Choquette is studying plan to compensate crime victims

QUEBEC (CP) — A bill providing compensation to crime victims in Quebec was given third reading in the national assembly Thursday.

The bill extends compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act to crime victims and can be applied retroactively to Nov. 1, 1966, in some cases.

Justice Minister Jerome Choquette, who introduced the legislation, added a provision before the bill was given final approval to enable crime victims or their dependents to receive "advances" to tide them over while their claims for compensation are being dealt with by authorities.

Another amendment, suggested by Robert Burns (PQ—Maisonnette), makes the justice minister responsible for carrying out provisions of the legislation.

Durocher meets baseball enthusiasts

By LEWIS HARRIS

SHERBROOKE — In a short ceremony at Amedee Roy Baseball Stadium yesterday morning, representatives of the 'Sherbrooke Baseball Enthusiasts Inc. (SBE)' met with city hall officials and signed a lease for the stadium thus officially confirming the return of professional baseball to Sherbrooke next spring.

On hand to take part in the ceremony were Gerard Diziel, Pro-mayor of Sherbrooke, Paul Thibault, president of the recently formed 'Sherbrooke Baseball Enthusiasts Inc.' and Bernard Durocher, president of the team.

The team will be known as the Sherbrooke Pirates. Players will be provided by the parent Pittsburgh Pirates, this year's World Series champions, who will operate the team as their class double A farm team in the Eastern League. The team uniform will be identical to the uniform worn by the Pittsburgh team.

Sherbrooke joins Quebec City and Three Rivers in the Eastern League and with half the teams in the league now located in Quebec, natural rivalries should develop quite easily.

Paul Thibault, president of the SBE hoped that the return of professional baseball "would bring a little action to the city." The SBE is an important link between Sherbrooke's citizens, City Council, and team President Bernard Durocher.

Originally from Waterbury, Conn. and a recent arrival in Sherbrooke, Durocher would have inevitably run into difficulty in selling season tickets and ironing out the difficulties inherent in opening a new baseball franchise. But with members of the SBE Inc., all local businessmen, handling ticket sales and representing the local government no major problems are anticipated.

Anyone interested helping the new franchise started need only contact Paul Thibault at 200 Wellington St. E. "The door is not closed for anyone wishing to work for baseball," the president of the company said yesterday. Season tickets may be purchased from the company and will cost $100 for the 70 home games scheduled this year. On a game to game basis, a reserved seat will cost $2.00 with less expensive unreserved seats being sold as well.

Durocher told The Record that he was "generally satisfied with stadium" although parts of it "needed work." He was referring to repairs which will be made to the mound, infield, and players dressing rooms. He expected next season's attendance to be "around 80,000." But with the Pittsburgh Pirates assuming all financial responsibility the City of Sherbrooke cannot be called upon to subsidize any losses the club may incur. Any money spent on renovating the stadium will be more than offset by added amusement tax revenues.

Amchitka test

177,000 Canadians telegram protest

WASHINGTON (CP) — A half-mile-long protest telegram containing an estimated 177,000 Canadian names was delivered to a presidential assistant Thursday, but a White House spokesman brushed aside opposition to the proposed Amchitka nuclear test just a few hours later.

The Canadian telegram, rolled up and tiling three cardboard boxes, was wheeled into an executive office next door to the White House by Charles Templeton and Pierre Berton, Toronto jacks-of-all-media, and given to John Wesley Dean, described as "counsel to the president."

The two Canadians quoted Dean as assuring them that the protest "would be brought to the attention" of President Nixon, although Templeton said later he wasn't sure it would be. Their reception was "courteous but non-committal."

Later, at his daily briefing, presidential press officer Ronald Ziegler said he could not give any figures on the number of calls and messages the White House has received about the test. But he said it should be kept "very carefully in mind" that close study had been given to all aspects before approval was given the test for over-riding interests of national security.

The five-megaton underground device, largest ever for the U.S., is scheduled to be detonated Saturday on the remote Aleutian Island of Amchitka.

Berton and Templeton, who started the protest rolling on their joint radio program, said some 130,000 people in Toronto, 27,000 in Vancouver, 20,000 in Ottawa and more in Edmonton had paid from five cents to $100 to have their names added to the protest.

Money left over from the telegram cost was used to buy some 60 spot announcements on Washington radio stations.

MESSAGE LONGEST

Western Union described the telegram as the longest it had handled anywhere in the U.S.

The telegraph company had set aside up to three teletype machines to receive the flood of names after they began arriving Monday. While Berton and Templeton were delivering their batch, other names continued to pour in.

The Toronto pair expressed dismay at finding relatively little press coverage here about Canada's reaction. Their own activities, including a press conference in the offices of Senator Mike Gravel of Alaska, were only sparsely attended by American reporters.

The telegram accused Nixon of "playing Russian roulette next door to where we live" and asked him "in the name of sanity and common sense to stop it now."

Berton said the telegram was designed "to bring forcefully to the attention of the president and the people of the United States that the U.S. does not live alone on this continent." If the test went ahead, "it will not help Canadian-American relations, which have reached the lowest point I can ever remember."

NO HOPE TO STOP IT

Templeton said they did not expect to be able to stop the Amchitka test, but hoped to put an end to the "continuing proliferation of nuclear testing."

The telegram, he said, was signed by members of Parliament, city councillors and people from all classes and professions—"people who wanted to say that, since we are your good neighbors, you should be concerned about our concern."

Senator Gravel, leading congressional opponent of the test, told the press conference: "I'm glad the Canadians are protesting, because they have just as much at stake as we have."

He accused the White House of arrogance in withholding information about possible hazards from the detonation and said the U.S. is going ahead despite protests because Nixon "chooses to believe" his defence adviser, former Canadian John S. Foster, "who is wrapped up in his own paranoia."

100 MPs protest

OTTAWA (CP) — A telegram carrying the names of more than 100 MPs was sent to U.S. President Nixon Thursday asking him to cancel the five-megaton nuclear test scheduled to take place Saturday on Amchitka Island.

Although Prime Minister Trudeau told reporters Wednesday that he felt MPs signing the telegram were undermining the parliamentary system, the telegram was signed by several government members.

Included were Environment Minister Jack Davis and Manpower Minister Otto Lang. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux, who was originally elected as a Liberal but now sits as an independent, also signed.

Mr. Trudeau's contention was that the Commons overwhelmingly approved a motion on Oct. 15 opposing nuclear tests in general and the U.S. test in the Aleutian Islands in particular. That motion should have been the strongest protest from the Commons, he said.

The text of the telegram read:

We the undersigned members of the House of Commons of Canada wish to remind you of the resolution adopted by our House on Oct. 15, in which we urged the cessation by all nuclear powers of the testing of nuclear devices, and we urge you, even now, in the name of humanity, to cancel the Amchitka nuclear test which has been set for this Saturday, Nov. 6.

Members from all parties signed the telegram.

Other leading MPs who signed the message were Urban Affairs Minister Robert Andras, Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin, and NDP Leader David Lewis.

It was not signed by Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield, who was away from Ottawa, or by Social Credit Leader Real Caouette.

Only one MP, Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current—Maple Creek), voted against the Oct. 15 resolution.

Mr. Trudeau rejected another opposition appeal Thursday to speak directly to President Nixon about Canada's opposition to the Amchitka test.

U.S.—Canada debate sparks name-calling

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal political parties ripped into one another Tuesday over Canada-U.S. relations even as senior officials of the two governments were arguing trade problems in private nearby.

A special Commons debate is based on a Conservative non-confidence motion suggesting both that the government is anti-American and that it should be doing more to promote Canadian economic independence of the U.S.

NDP speakers damned the Conservative resolution as a sellout to the Americans and for making the Liberal government look like defenders of Canadian independence rather than "do-nothing continentalists."

Paul St. Pierre, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, criticized the Conservatives for "trying to have it both ways."

He assailed the NDP for not recognizing that Canada can maintain friendly, co-operative relations with the U.S. without being dependent on that country.

RELATIONS STRAINED The Commons debate, in its second and last day, and the trade negotiations in the neighboring East Block of Parliament reflected the dilemma of U.S.-Canadian relations, strained badly since Aug. 15 when President Nixon announced protectionist economic measures.

The Conservative motion, to which the party allotted two of the opposition days available to it under House rules, condemns the government for "failing to employ and improve firm and constructive economic and political relations with the U.S."—and for failing to "strengthen our economic independence."

Doug Rowland (NDP—Selkirk) berated the Conservatives for "making the do-nothing continentalists on the other side of the House look good" with the motion.

The government has taken no bold initiatives contrary to what the U.S. would like, he said. Canada had the lowest tariffs in its history and had floated its dollar, both measures favorable to the U.S.

The Liberals had "lain supine" while the Americans had taken over the Canadian economy.

CALLS PCs STUPID

Mr. Rowland accused the Conservatives of "intellectual dishonesty motivated by the crassest political cupidity" in moving the motion.

They were trying to get election contributions from U.S. subsidiary corporations in Canada and attract votes from Canadian immigrants fearful of Canadian friendship with Communist countries, he charged.

Mr. St. Pierre said Canada can grow up and quit depending on the spontaneous affection it has always counted on from the U.S. without discontinuing friendly and co-operative relations.

The Conservatives, he said, were saying: "We must stand up to the Americans but we must never tell them anything they don't want to hear."

The Americans don't want Canadian policy identical to U.S. policy, Mr. St. Pierre said. They wanted clear, frank expression of what Canada wants on a businesslike basis, and they wanted co-operation.

Mr. Rowland moved an amendment to the Conservative motion deleting reference to the need to improve political and economic relations with the U.S.

Lennoxville man injured

LENNOXVILLE (DT) — A man was rushed to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital yesterday afternoon after being found unconscious in Lennoxville.

Jean Luc Pare of 234 Queen Street, Lennoxville, is resting in satisfactory condition after being transported to hospital by a Corps de Securite du Quebec ambulance.

Hospital officials said Mr. Pare is suffering from minor head injuries sustained in the fall.

The most freakish hand of the Culbertson-Sims match was held by Dorothy Sims.

Culbertson commented that Sims' system failed to show to advantage. Somehow or other they might have been a trifle more enterprising in their bidding.

Culbertson commented that his system would have gotten to the slam but his only suggestion was that South should jump to four spades instead of merely re-bidding to three spades.

We doubt it that rebid would have elicited any further action from North. We wonder how modern bidders would get to the easy slam. One way would be for South to make a fancy rebid after his partner's two no-trump call. Should he rebid three clubs, North would probably go to three diamonds to show a maximum two no-trump response including the diamond ace. South could move to the spade slam after that.

A better way would be for North to forget about the two no-trump response and just respond two clubs. South would jump to four spades and after that North could go into Blackwood. South would forget about his club void and simply bid five diamonds to show one ace, whereupon North would go to the slam.

The hand makes seven if West opens a club—otherwise, six.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Some pills cause impotence

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would taking sleeping pills and tranquilizers cause a man in his 50s to be impotent?

Dear Reader—It might depend on how tranquil the pills made him. There are a number of medicines that will have this effect, including some medicine used in treating high blood pressure. There are many other causes though. A man with this problem taking medicine should obviously talk it over with his doctor.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have a problem which is very embarrassing to me as I work in an office all day. I have gas which I do pass all day long and it's very embarrassing and I don't know just what to do. I do not sit down much so it's not from that. I do eat a lot of fruit and drink a lot of coffee. I have taken medicine but that did not help. Could you please tell me what I can do or take to help me?

Dear Reader—I think you know what one of the problems may be. Stop that coffee drinking and see if that won't solve the problem. Many people have excess gas from using excess coffee. Often what people need to do is correct their living habits, not take more medicine. Don't switch to tea either or use colas. If you just love the taste of coffee, use one of the decaffeinated products. Also, fruit is excellent for the diet but excess amounts in some people cause gas. Some people do not tolerate milk and using milk may cause them to form excess gas. Try these simple measures and if you still have trouble see your doctor for an examination.

Scouts elect new slate of officers

On Tuesday, October 26, 1971 the Council's annual meeting was held at the Lennoxville Town Hall with an attendance of thirty-nine (last year's figure - 42) to witness the installation of the new District Executive for the coming year. Stan Lothrop, Prov. Vice President and Chairman of this District's nominating committee presented the new slate of officers to the Council.

(No further nominations from the floor) those elected were: —
Harry Grundy — Honorary President
Archie Christiansen — Council President
Ed Mills — 1st Vice President
Lee Brown — 2nd Vice President
Miss Eunice MacIntyre — Treasurer
Mrs. Barbara Edgcombe — Secretary

The appointment by the council of a District Commissioner has been deferred to a later date. The new executive were installed by Rev. A. B. Lovelace, Clarence Blake, Hon. Prov. Vice President conveyed best wishes on behalf of Reg Groom, Prov. President and congratulated the retiring executive for their contribution to Scouting over the past year. President elect Archie Christiansen then spoke to the members of the Council. He announced that the executive structure of the Council will be foregoing a change in its administrative policies. This was being finalized at the moment and would be officially announced at the next Council meeting on November 16. The District Camping and Outdoor Activities Committee has undergone a complete reorganization structure. This committee will be headed by Ken Robertson, Chairman and Merritt Andrews, Co-Chairman with a representation of two members from each group in the District. To sum up, I would add this comment, as the President pointed out at the meeting, "There are areas we must improve on". By this, I don't mean we are alone in this category; any organization such as ours, must from time to time, take a good hard look at itself. This is what the President has done. He has chartered a new course for the coming year; some will agree, others will disagree.

3RD SHERBROOKE CUB PACK — NORTH WARD
On Friday, October 29 the pack held one of its most important ceremonies, that being, the Investiture Ceremony. Special guests for this occasion were Assistant District Commissioner, Fred Pessig and District Cubmaster, Ken Edgcombe.

After the pack had been called into the Parade Circle, Akela Deborah Chilvers welcomed all those present and then called on Fred Pessig A.D.C. — Cubs to say a few words to those boys who were about to be invested as Wolf Cubs.

The investiture is essentially the ceremony in which the new cub solemnly repeats the law and promise of the Wolf Cubs and hence becomes one of the Worldwide Brotherhood of Scouts. He is then presented with a tenderpad badge, group neckerchief and cub cap. The ceremony ends with the Grand Howl in which the Tenderpad is able to join in for the first time.

Those invested as Wolf Cubs were Daniel Bergeron, Joe Bolduc, Daniel Brown, Gary Budning, Dave Caron, Tony Christiansen, Doug Connor, Billy Crosby, Lorne Harmer, Richard Hume, Ravi Prabhu, Rex Rosales, Gary Talon and Mark Wright.

During the game period, the boys challenged a team of fathers in a "Vitamin Pill Relay" race.

At the campfire, a group of boys put on a skit. Following this everyone joined in on campfire songs.

At the close of the meeting, Scout Calendars were distributed to the boys.

By REG CHILVERS

Points for inspection were Grey 60, Tawny 59, Red 57, Blue and White 56, and Green 53.

On Saturday, October 30, the pack enjoyed an Outside Activity Day which included a climb up and down Mount Orford, an "observers outing, a collectors outing, a delicious cookout, a campfire and some very active outside games.

Special thanks are extended to our drivers — Mrs. G. Crosby, Dr. V. Imperial, Mr. H. Sorensen and Mr. M. Knudsen as well as our cooks: Mrs. M. Knudsen, Mrs. A. Christiansen and Mrs. G. Crosby. Very special thanks goes out to Mr. and Mrs. M. Knudsen for the use of their summer home and grounds.

7TH SHERBROOKE CUB PACK WEST WARD

On October 29, in lieu of the regular meeting Friday night, a costume party was held. A number of games and events took place, the first being a parade of costumes so that the judges could choose two winners. The winners were Fred Chinn as Snoopy and Geof Page as a dead man. The judges were guests of the pack — Mr. and Mrs. Russell Biggs.

Apple bobbing followed the parade with everyone getting his prize within minutes. A peanut race, pumpkin hunt and a game in which contestants chewed kisses and tried to say the promise following this.

Refreshments were served, prizes awarded and then the boys were each given a bag of tricks and treats to take home with them.

7TH SHERBROOKE GROUP — WEST WARD

On Saturday, October 30 a number of cubs and scouts left Sherbrooke for the Massiwiwi Conservation Park in Hatley. Upon arrival, they were greeted by Mr. Erno and Mr. Getty, two members of the club.

The first thing the boys did was feed the fish which they enjoyed and then were taken on a tour of the Park. A few of the older scouts went and dug up the trees for planting later on, (ie transplanting).

During lunch period instruction on how to build three different fires were given: 1) hunters 2) fire lit from top and 3) bonfire. Then some of the boys cooked their lunch.

A collection of natural articles followed on the way back to the area where we were to plant trees. Each boy was assigned a few trees to plant after a brief talk was given by the two above members. After this, the boys and leaders thanked both men for helping them complete several tests on stars and badges.

NEW ZEALAND

The Quebec Province has received an invitation to attend the sixth National Boy Scout Jamboree of New Zealand. The jamboree will be held in Auckland, New Zealand at Pukekohe, approximately 30 miles from the centre of Auckland City. All scouts and venturers between the ages of 13 and 16 years of age are eligible to attend. The jamboree will be held from January 1 to January 8, 1972 and has an expected attendance of 8,000 boys from around the world. Inquiries and additional information is available from the Scout Center, 2001 Trans Canada Highway, Dorval, Que.

ANDERSON SPORTS CAMP

For the past two years, Anderson Sports Camp — Choisy, Quebec has operated an exciting and fun-filled winter sports camp during the Christmas holidays between Christmas and New Years. This year, we will operate our third Anderson Sports Camp winter program from December 26 to December 30. The program is open to all scouts, venturers and their friends between the ages of 11 and 16. The capacity for this special winter camp is 60 campers. The all inclusive fee is $40.00 per person. For further information, contact the Scout Center (Camping Service) 2001 Trans Canada Highway, Dorval, Que.

CAMP JACKSON DODDS

The Wolf Cub Camp Jackson Dodds at Lac Cloutier (65 miles from Montreal) offers good winter and spring camping opportunities for all Cub Packs. The camp provides winterized indoor accommodations including a large lodge and sleeping cabins. All buildings are fully equipped and include beds, mattresses, cooking utensils and dishes. The camp's winter and spring capacity is thirty - six people per weekend. The following dates are still available: November 13 - 14, November 20 - 21, April 1 - 2, April 29 - 30, June 17 - 18. Anyone wishing to reserve a weekend for Cubs at Jackson Dodds or requiring additional information are asked to contact the Scout Centre (Camping Service), 2001 Trans - Canada Highway, Dorval, Quebec.

UNITED CAMPAIGN COMMUNITY CHEST

The 1971 "United Campaign" with an objective of $150,000.00 will be used to subsidize 21 services under the "United Campaign" which is not covered by the government's social welfare plans — included are the Boy Scouts Association (Sherbrooke & District Council), Sherbrooke Welfare Agency, YM - YWCA, The Sherbrooke Library, only to name a few.

In order that these agencies are able to continue their work and render services for the benefit of our community as a whole, the "United Campaign" under the chairmanship of Mr. Henry Leonard has appealed to the public at large, as well as industry and commerce to support the campaign with understanding.

Each of the twenty - one services have undertaken to canvas on behalf of the "United Campaign". The Boy Scouts (Sherbrooke & District Council) are presently working to campaign for their contribution towards this year's objective of $150,000.00. The scout representative at Campaign Headquarters, 1144 King St. West, P.O. Box 396, Sherbrooke is Council President Archie Christiansen. On behalf of the Boy Scouts of Canada (Sherbrooke & District) I would appeal to all concerned for the betterment of the scout movement and all other agencies under the "United Campaign" to give generously.

SHERBROOKE DISTRICT (SIXER) RALLY

On Saturday, November 20 a Sixer Rally will be held in the Lennoxville Town Hall from 2 to 5 p.m. The purpose of the rally is to more clearly define the responsibilities of a Sixer (Junior Leader) in order that he may look at the cubbing program objectively, thereby performing and executing his responsibilities toward others with a better understanding.

NURSING GRADUATES AT DOUBLAS HOSPITAL — Fifty-one psychiatric nursing assistants graduated from Douglas Hospital, Montreal, November 2. Those from Sherbrooke and environs were: left to right Frances Jones, of Foster; Diane Turnbull, of 944 Fulton Avenue, Sherbrooke; Miss Iola Bean, assistant director of nursing at Douglas Hospital who is formerly of Sherbrooke; Miss Sandra Mathers, of North Hatley; and Mrs. Brenda Moore Strohmeier, of 491 Vimy Street, Sherbrooke.

Foster girl wins prize

MONTREAL — Change seems to be the essence of the hospital today, according to Rev. Lawrence Scyner, administrative chaplain of Douglas Hospital. He was speaking to the last graduating class of 51 psychiatric nursing assistants at Douglas Hospital last night. Classes are being phased out to high schools.

This is the last class of nursing assistants to graduate, marking the end of a tradition which dates back some 40 or 50 years," said Rev. Scyner. "There were periods during the 1930's and during the second world war when the nursing assistants program was temporarily suspended but since 1946 there have been classes every year. This school graduated more than 800 nursing assistants in the last 20 years."

Rev. Scyner said the authority structure is moving away from the bureaucratic, vertical model, the chain of command system, toward the concept of the therapeutic team.

"You as nursing assistants are still the laborers of the work force, but you have more independence, more freedom than before," he said. "You will soon be called upon to exercise greater initiative to think and to plan in a creative and perhaps unorthodox way. You will be expected to contribute your strengths, your competence and yourself to the team and in turn will be treated more as a co-worker by other team members than was previously the case."

Miss Nessa Leckie, director of nursing, who chaired the graduation exercises, said: "The changes taking place in nursing education on both the professional and auxiliary levels are going to create problems for the hospitals until such time as the new programs in CEGEP's and high schools are well under way."

At the present time nursing assistants are being phased into polyvalent high schools slowly and the schools which have given up their programs will be looking forward to the new type of graduate.

In the field of mental health, Miss Leckie said, it will be necessary for the mental hospitals to have a very intensive inservice education program.

Students from Quebec and the Caribbean islands captured the six top prizes awarded at the graduation exercise. The class included 38 females and 13 males.

Miss Frances Jones, of Foster, Que., won the prize for the highest standing in theory (female) presented by the Quebec Division of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Nigel Thomas, of St. Vincent, won the highest standing in theory (male) presented by the auxiliary of Douglas Hospital.

Mrs. Emelda Phipps, of Outremont, was presented with the female prize for general proficiency presented by the nursing staff while Edward Franklin, of Montreal won the male prize presented by the medical staff.

A special prize for "outstanding contribution to patient care" presented by Mr. and Mrs. Colin Webster, was won by Callis Rousseau, of Trinidad, and the Life Governors' award "in recognition of demonstrated progress and ability," went to Ronald Whitehouse, of Verdun.

Valedictory was given by Sandra Mathers, of North Hatley, Que. Presentation of certificates and pins and the Life Governors' prize were made by J. E. Birks, president of the hospital, with the assistance of Miss Iola Bean, assistant director of nursing education. Mrs. J. E. Birks presented the prizes.

Another Gilbert, Robert, the town butcher, is opposing incumbent Marcel Groleau, the milkman.

All seats are expected to be closely contested particularly in the majority race. Mr. Largy has been a prominent figure at all council meetings for the past eight years now, though he has never been on the council or ran for office.

Contests, not acclamations, in Compton

COMPTON — For the first time in at least 20 years all seats up for election in the municipality of Compton are being challenged.

The only other municipal election which has taken place in the municipality in the past 20 years was last year when Jean Cote challenged incumbent Marcel Fournier. Mr. Fournier won the election but had to resign shortly afterwards because he went bankrupt and moved to another town.

The majority race is being fought between Gerald Largy and incumbent Napoleon Beaudoin. Beaudoin was appointed mayor when Rene Megre was forced to resign, because a municipal bylaw stipulates that no member of the council can operate a business which is under contract by the municipality. Mr. Megre had the town contract for the disposal of garbage and hence resigned.

The main issue of the campaign is the exorbitant water tax which residents have to pay. Mr. Largy claims that the municipality has not taken the measures at its disposal to reduce the tax.

Mrs. Madeline Doyon Letourneau is contesting the council seat presently being held by Gerard Prevost. Mr. Prevost had stated publicly and privately that he would not seek re-election.

The other council seat eligible in this year's election is being contested between two new

Amchitka

The United States' atomic test at Amchitka is scheduled to be conducted at 5 p.m. EST tomorrow, and this week has seen an increase in the number and volume of protests by various conservationist and leftist groups both in the U.S. and in this country. Among these protests is one set for today at the Stanstead international border crossing by three busloads of students from Bishop's University in Lennoxville.

While objections to the test on ecological grounds are understandable, the conservationist groups have become excessively alarmist about what they consider to be the possible effects of the detonation.

The bomb will be exploded underground in accordance with the treaty signed by, among other nations, the U.S. and the Soviet Union banning atmospheric nuclear testing. Warnings of tidal waves and earthquakes will prove tomorrow evening to have been those of concerned but over-reactive individuals.

The objections of the liberal-left possess nothing approximating the foundations upon which the ecologically-minded base their protests.

The rationale of the Canadian leftist participation goes thus:

The United States is conducting a nuclear test at an Alaskan island site. This affords another excuse to attack the U.S., with the added bonus of the opportunity to fabricate charges that the test "poses a direct threat to the quality of the Canadian environment."

Recognizing the anti-American, Communist-sympathizing views of this group, one must question how they are not guilty of the basest hypocrisy in this action.

How is it that their voices are raised in objection now and yet remain silent when the Red Chinese, who have recently been admitted into what is supposed to be a community of peace-seeking nations, conduct atmospheric nuclear tests which produce levels of radiation measurable in this country? There will no doubt be reports of seismic measurements of the Amchitka blast in Canada, critical to evaluating the bomb being tested, but there will not be U.S.-produced fallout in our air.

Even the Soviets disguise more effectively the double standards inherent in their thinking.

While one is obligated to treat with consideration and respect the objections of conservationists, according them the respect due them while attempting to allay their fears, no such obligation exists towards the leftists who possess no moral grounds whatsoever for their protest, demonstrating as they do for the sake of demonstrating.

One can only hope that the test itself is sufficiently innocuous that the objections presently being raised are revealed with perfect clarity to have been groundless.

In the case of the conservationists this outcome should satisfy them that underground testing is indeed safe. In the case of leftist obstructionists it will hopefully do much to discredit further their precarious position. They will have cried wolf — or more specifically, "imperialist Yankee aggressor" — once again without grounds.

When the safety of the underground testing program conducted by the U.S. becomes apparent, it will be interesting to see what measures are taken by some of the current protestors to gain the signature of the Red Chinese on the atmospheric nuclear test ban treaty. And that campaign should, in turn, do much to reveal the sincerity — or lack of it — of Communist Chinese protestations of concern for the reduction of international tensions.

French press opinion

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal Le Devoir: One woman dead of asphyxiation. Two hundred citizens and some 60 policemen injured. About 30 arrests. Considerable material damage to private and public property. In nearly two hours, an indescribable melee with repeated acts of vandalism and brutality.

Faced with this preliminary accounting of an evening Montreal will long remember, it is rightly asked who can be held responsible for such an ending?

Until the arrival at the corner of Craig and St. Denis streets, Friday night's march on La Presse was made in impeccable order and remarkable good humor.

On the average the marchers were older than those seen in similar demonstrations; they were composed for the most part of bona fide workers.

Another observation: These workers were profoundly discontented, but nothing among them indicated the least desire to mount assaults against persons or property.

Among those who threw projectiles and incited the crowd to break down the barriers were figures well-known at demonstrations. As far as is known, they are not part of the police, but rather professional demonstrators... who seem to have as their prime objective the provoking of clashes with police.

That the police were allowed to get carried away by an inadmissible excess of fury, is undeniable and should be the object of a detailed inquiry by the Quebec Police Commission. That it was necessary, on the other hand, to force a rapid evacuation of the area where the violence was growing also cannot be doubted.

In calling their colleagues to that area that night, the union leaders showed at best a reckless attitude to public safety.

In spite of that... in view of the very doubtful legality of the bylaw on which the order banning demonstrations in the La Presse area was based, the text approved Wednesday by the city's executive committee appeared to be dangerous provocation.

While informing those involved and their supporters of the dangers inherent in their plan, the municipal authorities would have shown more democratic realism by defining, in consultation with the leaders of the demonstration, certain precise rules to reduce to a minimum the risks involved.

To have acted that way would be, for Mayor Drapeau, proof of weakness. Today, the poisoned fruits of the mayor's logic can be seen again. Following the 1968 St. Jean Baptiste events, the police honestly undertook to refine their methods... We have unfortunately fallen, in the last six months to a lower level, than in 1968.

The principal responsibility for this slide lies not with the police—who follow as well as they can their orders—but with the political authority, which, closed in its ivory tower, decides through its sole information chief what the citizens need and closes the door on all serious dialogue with opposition forces.—Claude Ryan (Nov. 1)

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: Despite numerous protests by the Canadian, Soviet and Japanese governments and a long string of American opponents, the United States government has nevertheless given carte blanche to the American Atomic Energy Commission to proceed with the underground atomic explosion planned for Amchitka Island in the Aleutians.

It is hard to understand how the American president can so easily turn his back on the different governments which made known their opposition.

Is it simply a sweet revenge the White House leader wants to take out on friendly countries that refused to endorse his two China policy at the United Nations?

The American decision appears on the international scene as a provocation. Everyone knows that at the moment we are seeing an important detente in the field of nuclear tests and that countries like the Soviet Union want to find a compromise to end this course.

How will France and the U.S.S.R. or Japan react to the dilemma posed by the Americans? It is known that the situation is even more difficult for Canada, which for some time has made remarkable efforts to have the Soviets stop the arms race and nuclear escalation.

In their infinite wisdom, the leaders of the United States want to smash this to pieces. Here lies the danger.

If it wants to prove its sincerity and talk of peace, it is high time the Nixon government placed its two feet on the ground and acted truly like a peaceful government.—Rejean Lacombe (Oct. 29)

Moncton L'Evangeline: There was a time when relations between the two great countries of North America, Canada and the United States, were much friendlier.

Canadians were content to enjoy the benefits of American prosperity and were very happy to see American businessmen and entrepreneurs exploit our natural resources and create thousands of jobs.

It is only in the last half of the 1960s that true Canadian nationalism has been born. Businessmen, economists, teachers, journalists have raised a cry of alarm that Canada is becoming a United States satellite.

The Maritime Provinces are always the most affected by an economic crisis. Our three provinces are the last to benefit from an economic boom and the first to suffer the consequences of an economic crash.

The political leaders of the three provinces recognize that our best future lies in a greater commercial exchange with the states of the U.S. eastern coast.

But that does not excuse the laziness of too many Canadian multi-millionaires who prefer to see Americans take all the risks. Canadians must have a little more confidence in their capacity to develop a more Canadian economy.

Canada is going through a period of uncertainty in its relations with the United States. Although it would be close to disastrous for Canada to try to wage economic war with the Americans, pressures on the Canadian government for reprisals will be heard from one end of the country to the other to the extent that they will damage the economic situation.

If the Americans continue to ignore Canada they risk quickly losing their best northern friend... It is to be hoped that the visit of President Nixon in the spring will mark a thaw in the cold war between our two countries.—Claude Bourque (Oct. 29)

Sherbrooke La Tribune: The wave which submerged six provincial governments in 1971 struck Newfoundland and did not spare that old fox, Joey Smallwood, Liberal party chief in power for 22 years. Old Joey feels today the bitterness of the vanquished. His star has paled appreciably and Newfoundlanders have ceased to believe his repeated promises of "If I do not create 100,000 jobs, I will resign."

More than all their other Canadian cousins, the islanders have groaned in the misery to which they have been driven by haywire policies and chaotic legislation of which the greatest beneficiaries can be found in the entourage of the millionaire premier.

Joey Smallwood and his clique... have been compared with the thick fog which covers the island during the year: Their promises are everywhere, masking the problems and lulling the poor fishermen.

The Newfoundland elections have proven once again that one cannot govern with single-minded habits and age-old experience. To administer better in politics, it is necessary that all classes of the population be heard.

The thirst for money and power lend themselves badly to constant and useful contact with the electors. That is the lesson Joey Smallwood can get from his defeat.—Jean Vigneault (Oct. 30)

READER FORUM

Defence

Dear Sir,

On Friday, Oct. 8, there appeared in Reader Forum a rude letter from Mr. Jacques Lafleur, concerning Place Belvedere and some of the operations carried on there.

I would first like to say that Place Belvedere is the nicest, most attractive shopping centre in the Eastern Townships. The new refreshment stands of which Mr. Lafleur complained were added to the centre in answer to customer needs. People working and shopping in the centre do get hungry and therefore need food and refreshment of the type that is served at the new stand.

Mr. Lafleur then complained about the practice of preventing shopping carts from leaving the stores. Carts are designed to help customers shop in the store. Leaving aside the question of loss of carts, once they leave the store they become a hazard to other people in the elevator and to cars in the parking lot. This is the reason for the existence of the "car-order service," which the very great majority of customers like to use.

Contrary to Mr. Lafleur's allegation, the refreshment stand and the practice concerning the carts exist because Steinberg's do care for the needs of Place Belvedere customers. This is our policy, as advertised regularly in The Sherbrooke Record, year after year, and it is our intention and interest to keep on serving the Eastern Townships community as well as we can.

Thank you for giving us the opportunity of making our policy clear.

Yours very truly,
Marcel Inkel,

Call to action

Dear Sir,

The crisis in India-Pakistan has reached such proportions that only massive government intervention can effect any tenable solution. It is because of this belief that Oxfam Canada is urging strong government action to be taken immediately.

Mr. Alan Leather, assistant to Raymond Cournoyer, Oxfam field director for East India during the present refugee crisis, was in Canada the first week of October. During his visit, Mr. Leather and Oxfam Canada personnel met with Mr. P. Gerin-Lajoie, president of the Canadian International Development Agency which is a crown agency under the department for external affairs, to discuss the current situation in India-Pakistan.

Discussion centered around the question of further government aid to the refugees in India. It was urged that the government of Canada initiate immediate placement of the Pakistan situation on the agenda of the UN General Assembly; that Canada press for a much expanded UN aid program to include UN negotiations with the Pakistan authorities and the Bangla Desh for safe conduct of food and relief supplies within East Pakistan and the appointment of senior UN personnel to operate the program; and the urging of a cease-fire as a temporary solution to the problem to allow the introduction of massive amounts of relief supplies into East Pakistan.

On October 19, Dr. Robert McClure, former moderator of the United Church of Canada and a member of Oxfam's Board, addressed a special committee of the House of Commons. In Oxfam's brief, Dr. McClure stressed the need for political settlement, the need to encourage voluntary agencies such as Oxfam to increase public awareness of the India-Pakistan problem — an awareness that could be increased by the application of matching grants to agencies from government sources — and the need for the Canadian government to act immediately both in a financial and peace-making role.

It is Oxfam's hope that concerned members of the public will endorse our stand and write individual letters to their Members of Parliament in Ottawa urging the government to respond to the current crisis in a strong and definitive manner.

There are over nine million refugees within India. A famine of staggering proportions is imminent in East Pakistan. This is not an "internal matter." It is a matter which must actively involve the entire world community. If we turn our backs it will be to our everlasting shame.

Yours truly,
Derek Hayes,
Chairman,
Board of Directors.

Prince William of Orange landed in England 283 years ago today in 1688 to assume the English throne, displacing unpopular Roman Catholic King James II. The 38-year-old Dutch prince had a valid claim with his wife, the daughter of the deposed James, and they were crowned in 1689 as joint monarchs.

1956 — Color television was tried for the first time in England.

1951 — Nevada's ratification enforced the 22nd amendment to the United States constitution, making two presidential terms the limit.

1949 — Six leaders of an alleged plot to overthrow the Czech government were hanged in Prague.

1940 — Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected for an unprecedented third term as president of the United States.

1930 — Sinclair Lewis was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

1914 — Britain annexed Cyprus.

Researching a novel

Junkie on a junket

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sixty-two-year-old David Hochman, president of a large wholesale distribution company operating in Western Canada, has been seen stalking the ghettos and back alleys of half-a-dozen large North American cities trying to purchase illicit drugs.

He is doing research for a short novel on today's youth and the drug scene; he doesn't use the drugs he finds so readily accessible and he says it grieves him to see how many young people do.

The novel, which deals with a fictional couple in New York City, was rejected by a publisher who said it lacked realism, particularly in the area of drugs and drug abuse.

"So I set out to learn about it through personal experience," Mr. Hochman said in an interview. He is working on a rewrite of the short novel and will return it to the publisher for a second look.

"And that's how I got started on the purchasing of drugs—so I could get first-hand information..."

He has bought drugs and talked to young drug dealers and users in New York, Montreal, Toronto, Chicago, Ottawa, Winnipeg and Minneapolis.

Arriving in a city, Mr. Hochman would check into a hotel, do a quick change in his room from suit to blue jeans and go down to the street. Within hours, he usually had found a supplier and obtained drugs.

BOUGHT FROM BOY

He has purchased marijuana from a 10-year-old boy in Toronto.

"The very sight of the little boy selling drugs turned my stomach. He wasn't stupid—he was a bright boy from a nice family."

In Chicago, he purchased heroin from "a clean-cut young man."

"I didn't let him go after I made the purchase—we went into a restaurant and had a cup of coffee, sat around and talked a while. He told me that he had completed his stint in Vietnam and started using heroin while he was over there."

It was a conversation that showed graphically the frustration and isolation felt by youth, Mr. Hochman said.

RAN RISK

Mr. Hochman might have been arrested if he had been caught with drugs in his possession, a risk he was willing to take for the sake of his interest in the problem.

In any case, he said he found that police departments in Canada and the United States lack the manpower to wage an effective war against drugs.

"They can skim the top pick off the obvious ones, but there just aren't enough men to go around and get to the roots of the problem."

He says he "can't blame the kids entirely" for the "break-down of morality, this drug psychology and use of drugs."

The people of "my generation aren't helping any, but there just aren't enough men to go around and get to the roots of the problem."

"A lot of my friends think I'm nuts. But somebody has to keep the communications going. Somebody's got to care. I've got the time. Why not me?"

Athletic situation like Thanksgiving

By TERRY SCOTT

COWANSVILLE — The athletic situation at Massey-Vanier Regional High School, can at this moment be likened to a Thanksgiving meal. The appetizers have been done away with, and there remains eager anticipation of the main course.

In the case of MVRHS, the choice morsels relate largely to endeavors in the basketball and hockey areas. These two activities, combined with an earlier start in wrestling, are rapidly captivating the attention of the students.

A quick glance backward reveals that the fall athletic events, while perhaps not producing outstanding results visible in the won-lost figures, served an extremely important purpose.

"We feel that the program, in most instances, was the beginning of something," offered physical education director Bill Busted recently. "The records will show that the results were just average, but, on the basis that we were building with an eye to the future, the program was successful."

Another factor which must be seriously considered is that two sports made their initial appearance at Massey-Vanier. One of these, field hockey, comprised youngsters from Grades 7 and 8, who, in competition at the senior level, registered a 1-5 won-lost mark.

The other inauguration provided MVRHS with its first representative on the gridiron and proved more successful in respect to victories won. After beginning their exhibition slate with a defeat, the juniors launched a winning streak and might have continued their good fortune had they not lapsed in the final quarter of an encounter with Richelieu Valley Regional High School.

After padding a 19-3 cushion by halftime, the locals completely collapsed in the final 30 minutes and finished on the short end of a 21-19 count. The demoralizing setback seemed to haunt Jim Beatt's youngsters for the remainder of their schedule, which saw them falter 12-6 before Alexander Galt Regional High School of Lennoxville and 38-6 at Richelieu Valley. The football season can aptly be termed inconsistent.

COACHING CHANGES

Most of the students' attention, however, is now focused on the approach of the basketball and hockey seasons, a couple of sports which have always been prominent at Massey-Vanier. Practices for this year's edition of the basketball squad are slated to begin Nov. 9. The hockey program has been underway for several weeks as a result of a four-team intramural setup from which the varsity team will be chosen.

Although a host of faces will be missing from last season's lineup in both activities, the major changes have occurred in the coaching ranks. Foremost among these is the appointment of Lionel Butch Staples, a recent graduate of Springfield College and former collegiate star with Bishop's University in Lennoxville, to the coaching duties of the senior boys' basketball squad.

He replaces Bill Busted at this position, who, because of extra duties this year at MVRHS, has stepped down to pilot the junior boys, a task which should constitute a lesser demand on his time. "Anyway, with Wayne Nugent gone, it just won't be the same anymore," he quipped, referring to Alexander Galt's departed coach.

The new senior mentor will be faced with the immediate task of filling the gaps left by the graduation of Dale Hunter and Dezi Neil and the ineligibility of Hugh Perkins, all of whom were vital cogs in last year's success.

Busted offered at least three juniors whom he feels may have the material to reach the senior ranks this year. "After all," he said, "this is the main purpose of a junior squad ... not to win ball games, but to develop players for the big club."

Graduation had an even greater effect on the break up of the senior girls' lineup, which boasted a powerful unit in last year's basketball activities. The coaching duties are once again in the capable hands of Joan Longtin, but she must now construct a contending ball club with the second stringers of last season. The entire starting lineup has been wiped out and, with the junior crop not likely to produce an immediate yield, the sparkling record of the last three years may not be approached.

The addition of an excellent leader at a lower level may work in their favor, however. Richard Staples, with proven coaching credentials at the senior boys' level, has consented to mold some future material from the junior girls and, although he will likely be starting with raw material, there is every indication that there will be results in the future.

HOCKEY TEAM STRONG

Another new figure stands behind a coaching bench in the hockey ranks in the person of Howard Johnson, a knowledgeable hockey man who should meet with success handling the senior charges.

The intramural activities have brought forth several promising youngsters, a fact which has moved the physical education department to declare this year's edition the best high school hockey team they've assembled.

Most notable among the impressive individuals are netminder Kim Norris, who has performed brilliantly in intramural competition; Tommy Foster, a veteran on the hockey scene at Massey-Vanier; and a pair of former Eastern Townships Junior B Hockey League products, Robby Steingruber and Rick Stowe.

Other sporting activities which are included in the winter program include volleyball, which this year will enable many students who might otherwise not be involved in interscholastic activities to compete. This is due to the fact that basketball players will be ineligible to participate in the volleyball program. The boys' squad will be piloted by Dave Wood, while the girls will likely have Pat Reynolds at the helm.

The wrestling team, which will be boosted by almost an entire complement of returnees, is once again headed by Gary Allen, who anticipates much greater success in the second year of the sport's existence at Massey-Vanier. The feeling is that an earlier start will also be beneficial towards building a competitive squad.

For the moment the athletic activities are of a calm nature, but with the approach of the winter program the action is heating up fast.

QMHA president visits

BOUNDARY (JH) — Roland Rancourt, president of the Quebec Minor Hockey Association, will be here at the Boundary tonight to meet with the local league coaches, referees and parents as well as friends interested in hockey promotion.

Deziel addresses Optimists

SHERBROOKE (LH) — Pro-

mayor Gerard Deziel, standing in for vacationing Mayor Marc Bureau, entertained members of the Sherbrooke Optimist Club with a small reception at City Hall yesterday as club members kicked off their annual "youth appreciation week."

The Optimists, who have always closely associated themselves with youth by supporting such activities as bicycle safety programs and mosquito league hockey have been active in the Sherbrooke area for 24 years.

Deziel told members of the Optimist Club that youth appreciation week was a good opportunity for the residents of Sherbrooke to show their appreciation to youth for their achievements in Cultural, Artistic, as well as sporting activities. He also took this opportunity to announce that an official reception would be held at city hall on Wednesday Nov. 10 for all medal winners in the last summer's Quebec Games. He then congratulated the Optimist Club on their work and "Youth Appreciation week" was officially underway.

The first planned activity is a hockey game between the Sherbrooke Castors and Laval. It will take place this Sunday at 8:00 p.m. at the Sports Palace. A cheque for $1,000 will be presented to the Association of Minor League Hockey in Sherbrooke, and 500 youngsters have been invited to watch the game and help out.

The annual father and son banquet will be held on Monday Nov. 8 at 6:30 p.m. while earlier in the day a "junior fire-chief" and "junior police chief," will lead a parade starting from Pie X School and ending at city hall. The "junior mayor" will also be along and of course ride in a limousine.

On Tuesday Nov. 9, members of the Optimist Club will make their annual visit to Pie X School present the authorities of the school with a cheque to help finance sporting activities. They will attend a reception organized by the students and distribute candies and chocolate to them.

President of the Optimist Club Jean Marie Dionne will be honored at the closing banquet at the Sherbrooke Country Club on Saturday Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

The 50 members of the Optimist Club, who support such worthy projects as little league baseball are counting on your support this week as Sherbrooke salutes its youth.

Farnham

FARNHAM (JD) — All signs point to a hot election here Sunday when the electors go to the polls. Two seats were acclaimed, however the major fight is for the chief magistrates' position with Gilles Desrosiers challenging incumbent Mayor Gerard Harbec.

Jean-Paul Couture was returned in seat two. Leopold Laque was acclaimed in seat four following the registration of alderman Albert Meunier.

Seat one sees Emilien Desbiens trying to oust incumbent Normand Laque. There is a three way fight in ward number three with Jean-Louis Beauchamp trying to save his seat from Madeleine Auclair and Gerard Martin, while Maurice Gaudet is attempting to upset Normand Arcand in seat five. Ward six is being contested by incumbent Francois Martin and Lucien Laque.

OBITUARIES

MR. ALFRED THERRIEN of Sherbrooke

Thomas French dies

SAWYERVILLE — A well known citizen of Sawyerville, Thomas C. French, passed away at his home here on Nov. 3, the morning after he celebrated his 73rd birthday.

He had been a local undertaker for the past 31 years and owned and operated a garage on Cookshire St. for 47 years.

He married Violet Hurley; they had celebrated their 48th anniversary on Oct. 30 of this year.

The funeral will take place on Saturday, Nov. 6, at 2:15 p.m. at the funeral home, and at 2:30 p.m. at the United Church. Interment will follow in the East Clifton cemetery.

MRS. LUCIEN TETREAULT of West Charleston, Vt.

Ivy Hatch - 876-2083

The communities were saddened by the tragic death of Audrey Lee, the wife of Lucien Tetreault and only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bowen, of Derby Line, on Wednesday evening in a motor car accident.

Audrey was born at Newport, Vt., on July 12, 1948. She lived a happy life, as she grew up to become a member of Stanstead South church in Rock Island and the Derby Line Girl Scout Troop.

She attended and graduated from Derby Academy, taking part in many of the school activities following graduation she attended and took a course at the New Hampshire College of Accounting in Manchester. She had been employed for a time at the Orleans Manufacturing Company in Orleans, Vt.

Audrey possessed a cheerful disposition which made her a popular person. March 23, 1968, she was united in marriage to Lucien Tetreault of Holland, Vt., and to this union was born two children, Scott, age two and a half and Angela, age 17 months. The family had latterly resided at West Charleston.

The funeral was held at the Converse Funeral Home, Derby Line, where Father Ronald Benoit, of St. Edward's Parish church officiated. Attending also was Msgr. Joseph Dussault, Newport. The bearers were Audrey's brothers, Lance and Larry Bowen, a brother-in-law, Paul Tetreault, a cousin, Marcel Lamoreux, Andre Letourneau and Roger Plante.

The interment took place in the West Charleston cemetery. Audrey is survived by her husband, Lucien, their two young children, her parents, Harold and Bertice (Burroughs) Bowen, two brothers, Larry and Lance, her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Fred Burroughs, and more distant relatives plus a host of friends.

The many floral pieces and the Masses offered were tributes of respect to the deceased and the family.

Among those to attend the funeral were relatives and friends from Springfield, Mass., St. Edwidge, Ste Anne de Bellevue, Hudson, Coaticook, West Charleston, Morgan, White River Jct., Newport, Holland, Vt., Albany, N.Y., Holyoke, Mass., and the Boundary Villages.

Card of Thanks

THERRIEN — The family of the late Alfred Therrien wish to thank all who expressed their sympathy by visits to the home and hospital, with flowers, masses or visits to the Funeral Parlor. All was gratefully appreciated.

Town boasts rich and storied past

Knowlton is named after its first settler, largest landowner and prime developer, Paul Holland Knowlton. The exact date of the village's foundation can be set either at 1815, when this Vermont born entrepreneur first settled in the area now part of Brome township, or at 1834, at which time P.H.K. built the first saw mill on the Coldbrook River and moved his domicile from the log house east of the town—the site of the present golf club—to what is now the town of Knowlton.

The Township of Brome was originally deeded, on Aug. 18, 1797, to Asa Porter of New Hampshire, the leader of a group of 50-60 associates. As was usual in grants made at this time, one seventh of the land was reserved for the clergy, and another one seventh for the crown. It was one of these reserved tracts that Paul Knowlton bought from the crown in 1815.

When he first began clearing land for a farm, vast quantities of Indian artifacts were discovered on the site, some of them of great age. Members of the Abenaki tribe appear to have camped by the shores of Brome Lake, probably to hunt and fish. When P.H.K. first arrived there was a "band of the St. Francis Indians" at the Big Inlet.

By 1837, the year an eyewitness account of the "Village of Coldbrook" appeared in the Montreal Herald and Commercial Gazette, P.H. Knowlton's energetic development of the town was already well started. "Mr. Knowlton's improvements, besides materially enhancing the value of his wild land in the neighborhood, directly yield a handsome reward even at this early period of their existence." A saw mill was built in 1834. With lumber from this, a large residence, "Darley Place", shoemaker's and Blacksmith's houses and shops, a pearlshery, a fourth house for its superintendent, a store and a grist mill were all built between 1834 and 1837. "His grist mill in particular, from its superior excellence, drains at least twice as extensive an area as Mr. Knowlton's most sanguine expectations had anticipated—actually drawing business past the doors of other mills." The grist mill was operated successfully for half a century, but changing conditions, among them the gradual replacement of the old-time farmers who ground their own meal and flour by "Gentlemen Farmers from Montreal" slowly reduced its market. From roughly the turn of the century the mill was used only as a feed store and grain storage place, until it was finally demolished in 1949.

Paul Knowlton operated a store east of his house in his first location near the lake. One of his potato harvesters reported that he sold flour, codfish, tea and tobacco there in 1832. Some of the potatoes, incidentally, were made into potato whiskey in a distillery near the lake which Colonel Knowlton worked.

In 1835, the Colonel and a Captain James Ball, also from Vermont, opened the first store in Coldbrook, probably on the site of the present Band of Montreal building. "Uncle Lester" Ball, son of Captain Ball, recalled those early days, "When I was 17 or 18, I used to go to Montreal with a wagon with wooden axles and lynch pins through the ends to keep the wheels on; carry in pot and pearl ashes, cross the St. Lawrence on an old horse boat with 19 horses, bring goods for P.H. Knowlton's and my Father's store. Butter 10 cents, cheese 5 cents, geese 25

BROME COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM A STOREHOUSE OF INFORMATION

Knowlton donated eleven acres of land and erected a one storey building on it on England Hill to the Anglican Church to be operated by them as a school. Rev. Robert Lindsay started the "select school or academy." A high school was built on this site in 1854, and a second storey was added in 1867 for an elementary school.

The Brome County Fair was first held in Knowlton on these eleven acres in 1856. It was held here annually until it was moved to Brome in 1891.

The village of Coldbrook was solidly established by 1851, when its first post office was opened, under the name "Knowlton," and administered by Albert Kimball. When the village was incorporated in 1888, it retained the name of its founder. Col. Paul Holland Knowlton died in August, 1863.

The village he founded and gave his name to did not die with coming of the railroad—the first train reached Knowlton in 1875—brought a fresh wave of expansion, and made the recreational potential of the lake and area suddenly more accessible to Montrealers. As early as 1867, the Canadian Tourist Guide was commending the excellent hunting and fishing. "Near the head of this lake (Brome) is Knowlton, a place which bids fair to become a permanent summer residence of the Montreal bon ton; and certainly a more sequestered and yet accessible spot could scarcely be had."

A pity that the founder of Knowlton should have died only seven years before the village was honored by a visit of a member of royalty. On June 13, 1870, Prince Arthur—later to become Governor-General of Canada in 1911—visited Lt. Col. Dunkin in Knowlton. According to the account that appeared in

In 1843 Israel England bought a lot with an already existing tannery and house on it. He built up and improved the tannery, which stood by the Colbrook River where Crandall's Auto Body shop is now. The stone house he built for himself up the hill from the tannery still stands; it is Knowlton's Masonic Temple. The building that now houses the Tudor House Restaurant was first Mr. England's jewelry and novelty shop.

The thriving village had long been without a church or school. In 1843 St. Paul's Anglican Church was built on land given by Col. Knowlton, who had long wanted "a protestant place of worship." In 1854 or 1855, the Methodists built their first church of stone on land donated by Paul Knowlton. Both churches were demolished in the 1890's to make way for larger buildings. The second St. Paul's burned in January of 1941, and was rebuilt in stone. Land for the first Catholic church was donated by Knowlton's first mayor, H.S. Foster; The Lake View Hotel now occupies the site. The present St. Edward's was built in 1868.

Coldbrook's second failing was remedied in 1850 when Colonel him. The first hotel was built by a man by the name of Blin in 1848 when the Bolton Pass road from Sweetburg was completed. Albert Kimball built what is now the Stage House Hotel in 1857, and the Lake View Hotel was erected in 1870's when the the Waterloo Advertiser, the townspeople worked from 2.00 a.m. to 2 p.m. of the fateful day and "All was hurry, bustle and confusion." The Prince planted an oak seedling on the grounds of the Dunkin estate.

Paduano fights to draw

MONTREAL (CP) — Fernand Marcotte of Quebec City and Donato Paduano of Montreal fought to a draw Monday night in the main event of a five-bout card at Paul Sauve Arena.

Both boxers slugged it out from start to finish in the 10-rounder and were given a standing ovation for their efforts by a standing-room-only crowd of more than 6,500.

Marcotte proved the aggressor in the opening minutes of the early rounds, stinging his opponent with overhand rights and crisp left hooks.

The 148-pounder from Quebec City stiffened Paduano, who weighed in for the middleweight bout at 153 pounds, early, but in each of the first five rounds, the Montreal fighter pressed back with solid counter-punching.

Bruins roll over Blues 6-1

The spotlight doesn't focus on Don Awrey all that much, what with playing in the shadows of Orr, Esposito, Green and such.

In fact, the Boston Bruin defenceman goes about his business in such a methodical fashion he's known as the quiet man of the National Hockey League club's defence corps.

But he proved again Thursday night why he's such a solid force in the Bruin fortunes, coming up with key plays as the Bruins rolled 6-1 over St. Louis Blues.

In the only other game, Buffalo Sabres came from four goals down to tie Detroit 4-4 and remain two points ahead of the Red Wings in their East-Division battle for sixth place.

The Bruins got two goals each from veteran John Bucyk and 21-year-old Reg Leach and were ahead 6-0 in the dying moments when Frank St. Marseille spoiled goaltender Gerry Cheever's shutout with 20 seconds left in the game.

But Cheever, who turned aside 30 other shots, got a lot of help from blueliner Awrey, especially in the second period with team-mate Dallas Smith in the penalty box.

The hustling Kitchener, Ont., native dropped in front of three St. Louis shots before they could reach Cheever as the Blues put on their best skating effort of the night but were unable to dent the 2-0 margin Bruins held at that point.

Quiet and modest, Awrey, who attracted few votes in last year's all-star poll, believes in letting his skating and checking talk for him.

To this end, he observes, it's necessary to work a lot harder between games.

"Working hard is all-important in this game," he said following a workout at Boston. "If you don't work hard in practice you can't do it in a game."

Meanwhile, coach Tom Johnson has a pleasant problem: What to do with three kids who believe the game is to score.

Leach and his linemates, centre Ivan Boldirev, 23, and left wing Garnet Bailey, 23, accounted for three goals while seeing only part-time action as the fourth attacking unit.

"I guess the only way I'll be able to keep them on the bench is to tell them to stop scoring," Johnson said jokingly.

"They're doing everything well. . . . They're young, aggressive and hungry. . . . fore-checking, hitting and backchecking. You can't ask for much more."

HAD 4-0 LEAD

After a scoreless 20 minutes, the Red Wings appeared geared to give new coach

Johnny Wilson his first win as they roared into a 4-0 lead by 13:32 of the second period on the strength of two goals by Bill Collins and a goal and two assists from linemate Nick Libett.

But the Sabres recovered and scored two of their own before the period ended, including rookie Richard Martin's 10th of the season, and tied it up on Danny Lawson's score at 12:49 of the third period.

Wilson, who replaced Doug Barkley behind the Red Wing bench last Sunday and saw his team drop a 6-1 score in Toronto the next night, had the Detroiters working strenuously through the week for the Buffalo game.

The Wings peppered Buffalo goalie Roger Crozier with 14 shots in the first period and 15 more in the second but apparently ran out of steam.

HAMILTON (CP) — Coaches of the two teams that meet here Sunday in the Eastern Football Conference sudden-death semi-final have seen their teams undergo significant changes during the last couple of weeks.

Coaches Al Dorow of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Jack Gotta of Ottawa Rough Riders have apparently saved their jobs in the immediate future by reaching post-season play at the expense of Montreal Alouettes, last year's national champions.

Both clubs had less than spectacular seasons but showed signs of recovery late in the schedule. The Ticats scored a 23-15 victory over Toronto Argonauts Sunday to take second spot and the Riders edged Montreal 9-7 Saturday to squeeze into third place.

But both are experiencing long-term problems as they prepare for the game that will qualify the winner to meet Toronto in the two-game, totalpoint EFC final starting Sunday, Nov. 14.

Dorow's biggest grief is generating an offence that can keep pace with the defence. Gotta's problem has been acquiring Canadian talent to replace lost after Ottawa's 1969 Grep Cup victory.

The Hamilton defence has been nothing less than spectacular in recent games and over the schedule turned the ball over to the offence 65 times, including 34 turnovers mean little, however, unless the offence can capitalize, as the Riders proved during their last visit to Hamilton. They turned the ball over to the Ticats 10 times in that game, including seven fumbles and an interception in the first half, yet walked off 40-16 victors.

Hunting and fishing in the E.T.

By NORM NICHOLL

The registration stations being operated by the local Wildlife Service report for October 30-31, November 1 show that 39 adult deer and 16 young were brought in for examination. In the adult category 15 bucks and 24 does while in the young group nine males and seven does made up this total.

A buck was weighed in at 266 lbs., dressed and was aged at 4½ years of age. This beauty was taken in Stanstead County. The most disappointing section was the new one for rabbits and partridge where during the period covered by the report none had been registered. The partridge tail will show if the bird is a male or female while the wings will help establish the age. In the rabbit the eyes will help in establishing the age. Both will be of help in establishing the quality and quantity of our small game here in the Townships.

New hours for the stations have been established to make it easier to have game brought in. Magog will be open Monday to Friday until 8 p.m., Bichon and Sherbrooke until 7 p.m. on the same days while on Saturday and Sunday all three will remain open until 9 p.m.

Whether your game be large or small all can help in this study of and preservation of our game. Please help.

Saturday will see the 2nd annual meeting of the Northern Eastern Townships Conservation group at Thetford Mines under the sponsorship of the Thetford Fish & Game Club. The meeting is to be an all day affair commencing at 10 a.m. at 800 St-Alphonse St. East, Thetford.

During the past couple of months several meetings have been held in Sherbrooke regarding the combining of the various Fish and Game Clubs and Associations in the Townships into a formidable group to voice opinions of the various sections via one large group. One of the main topics of this meeting will be to discuss such a merger and offer a common front.

Many of the local organizations have during the past couple of years shown disappointment in the Quebec Wildlife Federation. This new organization would in fact bypass the former and present themselves as the voice of the groups in the Townships.

It has been proposed that the new group would function in sections with a local slate of officers and a central governing body representing each as a centre of operations.

All those interested groups are invited to attend the meeting. A $2.50 registration fee is being charged which includes supper where Gabriel Loubier, former minister of tourism, fish and game, and now leader of Unite-Quebec party is slated as guest speaker.

ISLAND BROOK FISH AND GAME CLUB "Hunter Supper" will be held this Saturday, November 6, commencing at 5 p.m., in the Island Brook Town Hall. Oysters, beans and ham will be on the menu. Besides you don't really have to be a hunter to enjoy the fine meal being offered.

CAUSE FOR WORRY

And since the Hamilton defenders accounted for nine touchdowns this season, six on fumble recoveries and three by pass interceptions—one-third the Ticats' total TD output, Dorow has reason to be worried going against Ottawa's rejuvenated Rough Riders.

There were few, if any, who would have given the Riders any chance of making the playoffs as they wallowed along in the CFL cellar at mid-season.

PERFECT HAND JOB—Tortoise shell jewelry is hand engraved to give it a life-like quality and dimension. Here, a worker at a Nassau workshop uses a fine steel saw to engrave one popular item—a starfish pin.

Bonus on your trip

Bahamian great with hands

NASSAU, Bahamas — Hand-crafted arts of the Bahamas are known worldwide. Bahamian straw goods, carvings and the like are international symbols.

One of the most unique local arts, however, the manufacture of tortoise jewelry, is perhaps the most highly polished, literally and figuratively speaking, of all Bahamian handicrafts.

Of the many local arts and crafts featured in Nassau, Freeport and the Out Islands, this jewelry ranks as one of the most popular items with visitors and residents alike. Deceptively simple in appearance, the finished product must go through a series of vigorous buffing and grinding stages before it takes on the familiar satin finish responsible for its popularity.

The story of tortoise jewelry began in 1944, when Curtis Johnson began making jewelry as a hobby. Soon, his items were in such demand that he formed Johnson Brothers Ltd. and his hobby turned into a full-time occupation.

The jewelry is made from the hard shell of the Hawksbill turtle. Mr. Johnson differentiates between tortoise and turtle in that the tortoise is a land-based mammal, while the turtle is a sea or water-based mammal. Nevertheless, Bahamian tortoise jewelry is made from the turtle shell.

Turtles are purchased from local fishermen either directly or through auction by the energetic Mr. Johnson. Sometimes he will buy the entire turtle and use the meat for one of the specialties at the snack bar at his Seafloor Aquarium in Nassau — turtle burgers.

Mr. Johnson inspects some 300 shells a year. He decides what each will be used for — some for earrings, others for bracelets or rings, or perhaps attractive pins or hair clips. The most popular items according to the busy businessman, are angel fish, seahorse and seagull pins.

Each item is cut by hand with a fine jig-saw, then goes through a grinding process to create a uniform thickness. The items are then scraped with glass, sanded, buffed, sometimes engraved and buffed again to a high shine.

The items are now ready for matching and assembling, a painstaking process that requires sharp eyes, good light and patience. Cufflinks and earrings must be matched perfectly. The finished products come in a fantastic variety of hues from almost white through every shade of tan, brown and amber to almost black.

The designs are sometimes etched out on the shell before it is hand cut. Others, especially in the popular fish, seahorse or sailboat designs, are done with what Mr. Johnson refers to as templates — various-sized metal cutouts which are placed alongside the shell in a vice. The craftsman simply cuts out the shell along the perimeter of the metal design, assuring a high degree of uniformity.

In all the years of his operation, the most attractive single item Mr. Johnson has produced is a large hibiscus blossom. Each paper-thin petal is made from a different color shell. He made it himself for a flower show and it's definitely not for sale.

Visitors to Nassau's colorful and exciting Seafloor Aquarium can look through one-way glass and see tortoise shell jewelry being made at the back of the shop. Hundreds of pieces of tortoise shell jewelry are on display and for sale, both here and throughout the Bahamas, as souvenirs or gifts for friends back home.

Just where is Bermuda?

HAMILTON — Bermuda is an island in the North Atlantic.

Well, no. Actually, Bermuda consists of more than 100 isles and islets, the largest of which are connected by causeways and bridges, that create a tiny country of some 21 square miles in the middle of nowhere.

Those who have confused this oldest of self-governing British colonies with Barbados, Barbuda or the Bahamas are in excellent and abundant company. In point of fact, however, Bermuda is closer to New York than to Nassau in the Bahamas.

How can a string of islands less than two hours from Kennedy International Airport boast sub-tropical vegetation — including flower-bearing banyans in November?

It seems the Bermudians have somehow cleverly deflected the flow of the Gulf Stream toward their islands, so that this river within an ocean curves to the west and north of Bermuda, bringing with it refreshing breezes in summer and warming waters in winter. Ocean temperatures range from 60 in February to 84 in August.

Indeed, passengers arriving by ship in early spring or late fall, having become accustomed to the somewhat inhospitable weather of the North Atlantic, are astonished by the appearance on their wisely closed portholes of...

Steam?
Dew?
Mist?

It is, of course, condensation caused by the rapid rise in temperature once their ship has entered the Gulf Stream. When the less timid open their portholes, they behold the waters suddenly a vivid blue-green rather than gray. The sky often reflects the change in brightness and the scent of flowers in certain seasons carries for miles out to sea.

By reason of its southern climate in a northern latitude, Bermuda has become a golfer's, as well as swimmer's, paradise. With six 18-hole courses and three of nine holes each, the resort claims some 40,000 yards of fairway or nearly 22 linear miles. When one considers the entire island is only 21 square miles in area, the paradox becomes tantalizing indeed.

Passengers in transit from London to the Bahamas or other Caribbean lands, touching down at Bermuda for refueling, upon spying both Union Jack and palm trees, occasionally assume they've arrived at their destination. Whereupon they have been known to approach puzzled airport officials requesting confirmation of their reservations at a hotel unheard of here.

Visitors often post mail from Bermuda bearing American or British postage. And incoming parcels and letters are frequently misdirected to "Bermuda, U.S.A." OR "Bermuda, British West Indies."

Two history professors in the American southwest wrote the Bermuda Government Information Office recently requesting literature "in English." And a student in Alberta wrote to Bermuda: "Dear Sir: I was assigned a country project at school and I chose the West Indies. Please send me information, pictures and a map on Bermuda Islands."

Both replies were tactfully instructive. An ambitious young man from India expressed a desire to garner "newspapers of all languages of your country," since the intelligentsia of his nation felt his previous exhibits "wanting in newspapers from African countries."

Misconceptions about Bermuda can also be serious, as two venture-some young tourists discovered after setting out in a tiny Sunfish sail-boat on the second day of their visit. A fisherman trolling along the Challenger Banks, about 15 miles southwest of the nearest point of land, spied them in full sail heading further into the afternoon sun about a quarter a mile away.

Busy with hooks and lines at the time, he thought about the situation and after a bit decided he'd better give chase, since the young men didn't appear to know a great deal about Sunfish-sailing. The lads insisted they had no problem, expressing certainly that they would sight land at any moment, obviously intending to beach at some exotic tropic isle just over the horizon.

After a brief geography lesson wherein the boys were informed that the Virgin Islands, nearest land in the direction they were sailing, were close to 1,000 miles distant, they reluctantly consented to being towed back to shore, since neither had the foggiest notion how to sail against the wind.

Sailing conditions are, indeed, superb in isolated Bermuda, with countless bays, coves and inlets to explore. There is hardly a vista not entrancingly beautiful. The land twists and curves in roughly a fishhook-shaped ledge of limestone stretching northeast to southwest along the edge of an extinct underwater volcano.

The nearest land to this tiny archipelago is Cape Hatteras, N.C., some 570 nautical miles to the west. Bermuda's dainty string of islets totals less than 22 miles in length and is more or less the half-way mark in a straight line between Halifax, N.S., and St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Geographically, Bermuda is located in the western North Atlantic.

Poetically, Bermuda may be found —

From snowflakes to flowers.

CP times change

FARNHAM — Revised schedules for CP Rail passenger trains operating between Montreal and Farnham, Ste. Therese, Ottawa and Quebec City took effect Oct. 31 with the change to Standard Time.

The most significant changes occurred on the Montreal to Quebec service. Daily trains 154 and 156 now leave Windsor Station at 1:30 p.m. and 6:35 p.m. respectively instead of 1:40 p.m. and 6:40 p.m.

Arrival time in Quebec City will remain the same for train 154 but will change for train 156 to 10:00 p.m. from 9:55 p.m.

Train 152, providing service daily except on Sundays, will leave Montreal at 8:30 a.m., 10 minutes earlier. Arrival time in Quebec will remain at 11:40 a.m.

Montreal-bound trains from Quebec will leave daily, train 153 at 1:30 p.m. and 155 at 6:40 p.m., arriving at Windsor Station at 4:50 p.m. and 10:00 p.m. Train 151, operating daily except Sunday, will depart at 8:20 a.m. Arrival in Montreal will be at 11:55 a.m.

On the Montreal-St. Therese run Monday through Friday, train 180 will depart three minutes earlier at 7:27 a.m., arriving at Windsor Station at 8:22 a.m.

Train 213, providing daily service except Saturday and Sunday between Farnham and Montreal, will depart from Farnham at 6:40 a.m. in place of 6:45 a.m. and will arrive in Montreal at 7:50 a.m. instead of 7:53 a.m.

More complete information concerning revised schedules can be obtained from CP Rail offices and customer service centres.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
SUNDAY AFTERNOON
NOVEMBER 7, AT 3:00

How contemporary problems can be tackled effectively through an understanding of man's essentially spiritual nature, will be set forth by a Christian Science lecturer on Sunday afternoon in the auditorium of the Y.W.C.A. building on Dorchester Boulevard at Crescent Street in Montreal.

Charles M. Carr, C.S.B., of New York City, will undertake to show that a "correct view of man" as defined in Christian Science is a long step toward the solution of "frustration, prejudice, social unrest and crime that still fester in our society". Mr. Carr is on tour as a member of the International Christian Science Board of Lectureship, and his local address is sponsored by the Christian Science church on Cote des Neiges Road in Montreal. This lecture, which is open to the public free of charge, is entitled "What Is Man?"

Senior Citizens meet

Ivy Hatch - 876 - 2083

STANSTEAD — A goodly number of Community Senior Citizens gathered on Thursday afternoon, October 14 at two thirty o'clock in Stanstead South church hall for their monthly party.

With Mrs. Gordon Johnston at the piano, three hymns of the autumn and thanksgiving were sung. Mrs. Geneva Lyons read two of her interesting poems. What If, and The Members are Going to have a raise in Pay, the latter in reference to the Canadian politicians in a humorous vein.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent playing cards and games.

A pot luck supper was served. The table, decorated by Mrs. Harry Goodall with in Halloween motif with jack-o-lanterns filled with late summer flowers.

The next meeting will be on November 11 at 2:30 p.m. to which all interested friends are invited to attend.

Legion LA Branch 165 meets

Mrs. Verne Wilson - 889 - 2932

SAWYERVILLE — The Ladies Auxiliary Branch 165 held their regular meeting in the Legion Hall on Oct. 13, with some members of the Legion also present. Comrade Wilson presided in the absence of the President. The Flag was carried by Com. Cragg. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and treas. report given.

The Annual Oyster supper on Nov. 10 was discussed, the men having set the price at $2.00 and $1.00 this year. There will be Ham and scallops also.

A committee of Comrades M. Ord, F. McLeod, L. Forgrave and A. Wilson to look after the soliciting for food.

The Ladies are to look after the Card parties for a while. Comrades Hall and McLeod to look after the kitchen and Com. Wilson the Tables for the card party on the 23rd.

The auxiliary and the Legion will go to buy a wreath for Armistice. All members to meet at the Hall on the 11th and parade to the Cenotaph for Service at eleven o'clock. The members will return to the hall for dinner.

The Ladies will hold their Nov. meeting in the afternoon on the 11th.

THE FAMILY

November bride showered

COOKSHIRE — A very pleasant miscellaneous shower was held Oct. 31 for a prospective November bride, Miss Elaine Lebourveau, at the home of Mrs. Frank Hurd, assisted by Mrs. H. V. Burns, Mrs. S. McVetty and Mrs. H. Hodgeman.

Miss Lebourveau was lured to the house of Mrs. Hurd on the pretext of seeing about the wedding cake. As she entered the living-room a corsage was pinned on her, and Mrs. Heatherington played the Wedding March as she was led to the guest of honor's chair, which had been decorated for the occasion. Autumn flowers were used to decorate the rooms.

Mrs. Hodgeman welcomed the prospective bride, and stated that her friends were gathered there to honor her approaching marriage. She then brought in a large basket filled with prettily decorated gifts of all kinds and presented it to the guest of honor. The basket was replenished many times. Mrs. Lebourveau and Miss Eleanor Jackson helped in the opening of the parcels, which were then passed around for all to admire.

Miss Lebourveau expressed her thanks and appreciation to all for their lovely gifts and for the party.

Refreshments were then served, which included two bride's cakes, which had been made and decorated by Mrs. Hurd.

"Forgive and forget" saves marriages

By Ann
Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm back from a trip and am just catching up with the letters from women who are mad at you because of your advice to the Infamyman's wife. I thought your answer was great. You pointed out what can happen when the guilty party is told repeatedly what a skunk he is.

As the guilty party (and the skunk) may tell you how it feels when a wonderful wife is willing to forgive and forget? Every married man who cheats has periodic nightmares of what it would be like to be caught by his wife. I mean really caught. That nightmare turned into reality for me 10 years ago. I remember it as if it were yesterday. My wife simply said, "We'll talk later" — and we did. She told me if I wanted another chance I could have it — that she would forgive me and not mention it again. She kept her word. I felt like the lowest creature in the world. My love and admiration for her grew tenfold. That incident strengthened our relationship and heightened my respect for her. The psychological scar is still there — but it's a scar, and not an open wound because she let it heal and didn't pick at it. So stick by your guns, Ann. Maybe not every woman is capable of forgiving and forgetting, but I'll bet most wives could do better if they gave it a try.

—Mr. Lucky

Dear Mr. Lucky: In a book by the late Dr. Eric Berne, "Games People Play," he described a game called "Now I've got you — you S.O.B.!" It's the approach most wives use against a caught husband. It's the wrong one.

Your wife used the right one and my hat is off to her. Instead of tossing out the lemon, she made lemonade.

Dear Ann Landers: You printed a letter about a young woman who bathed twice a day, used anti-perspirants, deodorants and colognes — but still she was sure she had an unpleasant odor. She had even gone to several doctors and they could not detect the offensive odor which she said was ruining her life. You told her she needed a head doctor, not a skin doctor.

The person I am writing about has the reverse problem. She really does have an offensive odor and is not aware of it. Those of us who work with her are appalled by her insensitivity.

She's smartly dressed and attractive — what my mother used to call "clean on top, dirty underneath." Please tell us what to do. Would an anonymous letter be in order? There are five women in this office and four men. Thanks from all of us.

—Tongue-Tied

Dear T.T.: Decide among yourselves which woman in the office communicates most easily with Miss Clean On Top. That person should then tell her how she, herself solved the very same problem after someone was good enough to give her the word. Easy to do? No. But suffering in silence is not easy either. Someone should speak up.

Midis mean backache

TORONTO (CP) — The passing of the miniskirt may be responsible for an increase in backaches among women, says Kenneth Wood of Clinton, Ont.

"With minis they had to bend from the knees to preserve their modesty."

"That's the secret in lifting and carrying. People must be taught to use their legs more and their backs less because there is more strength in the legs. We bend from the waist which puts a strain on the back."

Mr. Wood is president of the Ontario Chiropractic Association and as such, concerned with the back, with the spine and the nervous system.

He says most people are in bad condition for doing the lifting and carrying chores most people have to do, putting up storm windows, shovelling snow, carrying boats and motors at a cottage, leaning from a badly balanced position to paint or clean an eavestrough.

"It's our way of life. Most people work at sedentary occupations. If they don't drive, they don't go."

"There has been an increase in back problems that I ascribe to our lack of physical conditioning."

HARD CHAIR BEST

He says most people take their backs for granted unless they have a problem. He says they should not do so—there are things anyone can do to help maintain a back in good condition.

When you sit, use a hard chair and put your spine up against it. If you can, keep one or both of your knees higher than your hips.

When you stand, try to keep your lower back flat. When you work standing up, if you put one foot on a low footrest it can help relieve swayback. When you lean forward, bend your knees.

Women's shoes with moderate heels put less strain on the back than high heels.

You should sleep on a firm mattress or put a bedboard under a soft mattress. If you sleep on your back, put a pillow under your knees. If you sleep on your side, keep your legs bent at the knees and the hips. Don't sleep on your stomach.

TELLS HOW TO LIFT

Lift properly, with your knees bent and your leg muscles taking the strain. Try not to lift anything heavy over your head.

When you carry something heavy, carry it close to your body.

If you work at a desk all day, get up and move around when you have a chance.

Get regular exercise such as walking or swimming, but don't try anything strenuous unless you are in condition. Then give your muscles a chance to warm up and loosen before you start.

Mr. Wood says he is especially concerned about the effects of snowmobiling on people's backs.

Engagement announced

The engagement is announced of Miss Gail Charlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Miltimore, of Happy Valley, Labrador, to Mr. Philip Norwood, R.A.F. Goose Bay, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Norwood of Aberdeen, Wales.

Wedding to take place on Dec. 11 at Happy Valley United Church, Labrador.

Personals

Mrs. Noble Smith has returned to her home on Park St., Lennoxville after spending the past month with relatives in England.

+++

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Simons and Mrs. Robert Kirby, of Birchton, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lefebvre at their home on Queen St., Lennoxville.

Mrs. George Cole of Lachine was a guest at the same home, and of Mrs. Noble Smith, Park St.

Au Bon Marche, the leading bargain store in the Eastern Townships, has completed one of the largest footwear purchases in the history of the store.

This is a wholesaler's stock, so the merchandise is perfect in every way; it was shipped directly from the wholesaler's warehouse, pictured above, to the Bon Marche Warehouse. The wholesaler, Monpa of Quebec City, was in business for just over one year, so there's no out-of-style footwear here; everything is up-to-the-minute in style.

Represented are complete stocks of good quality men's, women's and children's shoes. Most of the stock is Canadian made, but there is also a very good selection of stylish Italian shoes. The retail value of the stock is $137,000. It will be sold at the Bon Marche Warehouse, 121 Depot Street, for $69,000. This means that Au Bon Marche Warehouse customers will save 50% on the purchase of men's, women's and children's shoes. Don't miss this opportunity! This is the greatest shoe sale in the history of the Bon Marche Warehouse. It begins Wednesday of next week. Watch for the big advertisement in Tuesday's Record.

LES LOISIRS, St. Damien of Bedford presented a check for $5,000.00 to the town of Bedford towards the repairing of the roof of the town's arena. The presentation of the check was made by Mr. Bernard St. Onge, president of Les Loisirs, assisted by the secretary Mr. Rodrigue Cote. The cheque is being handed to Mayor Richard Craighead. On the extreme left is councillor Lino Marzilli of the Les Loisirs committee, to the right of Mayor Craighead are Gerard Fontaine, president of Les Loisirs and Raymond Tougas, secretary-treasurer of the town of Bedford.

Bedford notes

E. J. Craighead — 248-2488

BEDFORD — Bruce Cook of Stanbridge Ridge, together with Graham Jones of Bedford, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Muncaster at Moe's River.

The death took place suddenly at her home on Bridge Street of Mrs. John Caron on Oct. 30. Mrs. Caron had recently sold her home on Church Street. Born in Sutton, Mrs. Caron was in her 72nd year and had been a resident of Bedford for many years. Her husband passed away some years ago. Mrs. Caron is survived by three sons living in Bedford, also a daughter, Mrs. Romeo Grenier, also of Bedford, and a daughter, Mrs. Ferdinand Hebert, of Mystic. The funeral was held at 2 p.m. on Monday afternoon from the Dion Funeral Home to St. Damien's Church, where the funeral mass was sung by Rev. Father Despres. Interment was in the Bedford Catholic Cemetery.

Nominations were held on Sunday (Oct. 31) at the town house for the municipal council of Bedford. The present council, who have served for almost four years, going out of office. Lino Marzilli was returned by acclamation as mayor, succeeding R. W. Craighead. Fred Gilman has been a member of the council, was also returned by acclamation.

In the remaining seats Kenneth Best will run against L. Brouillette; Marc Morin will be opposed by R. Beaulac; L. Guilbeault against Lionel Cusson; Gerard Fontaine against Roger Cordeir; Jean Maurice Bedard against J. Oumard. Elections will be held on Sunday, Nov. 7.

Mrs. R. S. Grevatt has returned from Delson where she was the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Shaffer.

Mrs. Alfred Nicholson has returned from St. Albans, Vt., where she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Greenwood.

The opening meeting of the St. James Church Bridge Club was held on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw as hostess. The prize for the highest score went to Mrs. Richard Craighead. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Roy Cook.

A successful rummage sale sponsored by the St. James ACW was held in the parish hall, when $304.00 was realized. Mrs. John Pope was in charge of the sale, parcels were sent to the Butters Home, also to the Salvation Army in Montreal.

On Friday, Nov. 12 from 2:30-3:30 p.m. in the St. James Church Parish Hall, the Christmas tea and sale of the ACW will be held. Tickets are available from members or may be purchased at the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Smith with their children Mark and Allison of Baie d'Urfe were weekend guests of Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw.

The men of St. James Church will carry out the every member visitation on Nov. 14. The men will start out following the 11:00 a.m. service. If you are not going to be at home, please notify the wardens or let the visitors know.

Mrs. G. A. Caron of Montreal was a recent guest of her cousins Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones. Other recent guests at the same home were Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Hazeltine of Moe's River.

The marriage took place in Chicago on Saturday, Oct. 30 of a former Bedford resident, Miss Isabel Wanzler, daughter of the late John Wanzler and of Mrs. Wanzler of Bedford to Mr. J. Fisk. Mrs. John Wanzler, mother of the bride, attended the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Dion, together with Mr. and Mrs. T. Baker of Stanbridge East, left on Monday for Florida, where they will fly to Jamaica, where they will visit their children, Mr. and Mrs. H. Baker.

A general meeting of the Bedford Horticultural Society will be held on Monday evening (November 8) in the United Church hall at 8 p.m. preceded by a meeting of the executive at 7:30. Miss Margaret Cockerline will show films taken on her trip to Japan.

Order of the Eastern Star honors the Fowlers

LENNOXVILLE — "Tonight my cup runneth over" were the opening remarks of Mrs. Alex Fowler, better known in the Order of the Eastern Star as Sister Alta, Worthy Grand Matron, and her husband, Brother Alex, Grand Sentinel, Grand Chapter of Quebec, OES, to well over 300 Fraternity Sisters and Brothers and others who had come from near and far to attend a reception honoring this popular couple, held on Saturday evening, Oct. 30, in the Gertrude Scott Hall. All were the guests of the couple's home chapter, Sherbrooke Chapter No. 22, OES.

Five units of the United Church Women of the Lennoxville United Church served a tasty family style turkey dinner which left nothing to be desired. The head table, where the Grand Chapter family of the honored couple, also the Sherbrooke Chapter Worthy Matron and Patron were seated, was centred with a beautiful arrangement of mums in the emblematic colors of the order, blue, yellow, white, red and green. This was a gift from Miss Dorcas Bailey, a member of Sherbrooke Chapter, residing in Stratford, Ont., a dear friend of the Fowler family. Candles in silver and crystal in the five colors and potted Star of Bethlehem plants with autumn flowers decorated the tables.

Rev. A. B. Lovelace, pastor of the church, spoke the blessing. Mrs. Bernice Besson, WM and William Shaw, WP of the Sherbrooke Chapter welcomed the large assembly who had come to pay homage to a grand couple.

Mrs. Besson presented in story a brief picture of Mrs. Fowler's life from her days as a child to that of Worthy Grand Matron of the Province of Quebec's Eastern Star Chapters.

Mr. Shaw, as emcee, called upon several of the members present to propose toasts and responses to the Queen; to the General Grand Chapter; and to the Grand Chapter of Quebec.

Mrs. Fowler WGM, in her address said, "Our beautiful Order is a true symbol of love and of kindness and fellowship." To her own Chapter members she said, "You have stood by me through the years, given me courage to face my problems and my difficulties" and added, "If any honors are mine, I gladly share them with you."

"Our order is three million strong," she said, "a great force for good," adding, "we must each be an example to our communities for Eastern Star depicts charity, truth and loving kindness. We must have God with us, let us be concerned with reaching for the hearts of the people."

She spoke many remarks of appreciation to one and all, then introduced the head table family of Grand Chapter, Robert Moffat, WGP; Mrs. Claire Winkley, Assoc. Gr. Matron; John Barnett, Assoc. Gr. Patron; Mrs. Esther West, PGM, Gr. Secretary; Miss May Wallace, PGM, Gr. Treasurer; Mrs. Helen Ramsay, Gr. Cond; Mrs. Marjorie Baker, Assoc. Gr. Cond; Mrs. Ruth Kerr, Gr. Marshal; Miss Viola Moranville, Gr. Organist; The Star points, Mrs. Ruth Sniler, Gr. Adah, Mrs. Else Syberb, Gr. Ruth; and in absentia, Gr. Esther, Mrs. Ruby Muir, Gr. Martha; Mrs. Vivian Thompson, Gr. Electa; Mrs. Lorraine Moffat, Gr. Warder; Alex Fowler, Gr. Sentinel. Also present at the head table were John Syberg, Miss Willow Lavery, Gr. Trustees; Miss Dorcas Bailey; Mrs. Rita Beaudin, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnston, Mrs. Muriel Humphrey, Mrs. Sylvia McKergow, Mrs. Betty Tomlinson, all Grand District Instructors, Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Lovelace.

Also missing was the Gr. Chaplain, Mrs. Gwen Sexton, of Valleyfield.

Mr. Fowler, Gr. Sentinel, said he was happy to see so many at the reception and remarked, "We'll soon see you as Sister Alta and I make our rounds visiting the Chapters."

Others to speak were Mr. Moffat, WGP; Mrs. Winkley, Assoc. GM; Mr. Barnett, Assoc. Gr. P.; and Harold McCullough, PGP, who on behalf of Sherbrooke Chapter presented their honored member, Mrs. Fowler, GGM with the gift of a substantial cheque.

Rev. Lovelace spoke a welcome to the visitors to the church hall. In his words of tribute to Mrs. Fowler and to Mr. Fowler, also including Mrs. Alice Rowat, PGM, he mentioned their life within his church. Referring to the words of Mrs. Fowler, WGM, he said her cup runneth over because she, like the other two, had received spiritual benefits because they had given. In conclusion he asked, "God's blessing be upon you, may you have more power to give and to spread the good work you are doing."

Mrs. Lionel (Daisy) Allison, a sister of Mrs. Fowler, spoke for the family which had been presented by Mrs. Fowler. She said, "We are proud of our Alta and proud of our Alex who has fitted so well into our family."

All the speakers offered good wishes for a happy year ahead, with good health to carry on the work of a Worthy Grand Matron.

Mrs. Stewart Snow and Mrs. Wayne Crack, co-convenors for the dinner, and all who worked so hard to make it a success were given a hearty hand of applause after Mr. Shaw had spoken words of thanks.

Mrs. Fowler, WGM, was wearing a gown of gold satin and a blue tinted miniature carnation corsage with matching ribbons, a gift of her son, Bruce. The Grand Chapter officers were in colored gowns and the Sherbrooke Chapter officers in white gowns, which added and blended with the colors used to decorate.

All assembled in an upper hall for a program. Mrs. Besson with Miss Moranville at the piano led the group singing of many old popular songs.

Mrs. Besson was mistress of ceremonies. She introduced Mrs. Irene Price who sang "My Task," David Heath, who sang "A Song of Blessing," and later "Ten Thousand Angels." Mrs. Irene Williams, as Skinny Mary Hopkins, a real country gal from the hills, kept every one laughing with her recitation and solo, much in motion.

Then came the big event of the program, a mock wedding between a Masonic groom and Eastern Star bride. These two kept everyone in gales of laughter with the special written script and costumes, in keeping with Halloween.

The ushers were Arthur Smith and Phoebe Bailey, the guests were distinguished people from political "high brass" television stars. They were portrayed by Alicia Patterson, Lillian Pike, Doris Dufresne, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Estelle Saunders and Hazel Cinnamon.

Rudy Nelson was the minister, Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw, the groom and the bride, Lorraine Swinden, the bridesmaid, Bill Ross, the best man; Johanne MacDonald, the groom's mother; Conrad Bailey and Hilda Nelson, the bride's parents. Irene Price, as soloist, sang "Here comes the bride, with much pride" — accompanied at the piano by Miss Moranville.

In conclusion of the ceremony, the actors and actresses marched around the hall then to the front with everyone joining hands and singing Auld Lang Syne.

Among the distinguished Fraternity to attend were Mrs. Frances Kemp, PGM General Grand Chapter committee member; Alex Tomlinson, PGP; Mrs. Margaret Irving, PGM; Mrs. Doris Smith, PGM; Harold McCullough, PGP; Clarence Hill, PGP; Eric Kemp, PGP; Miss Amy Millington, PGM; Alvin Williams, PGP; William Lunn, PGP; Mrs. Isabelle Tannahill, PGM; Howard Walsh, PGP; Mrs. Alice Rowat, PGM; Henry Barlow, PGP; Mrs. Mildred Wheelock, PGM; Edward West, PGP; all of the Grand Chapter of Quebec, OES; Clifford Newton, PGP, Gr. Chapter of Vermont; WP and Mrs. Newton, WM, Lakeside Chapter, Newport; all of whom were introduced.

Among the relatives attending were Mr. Bruce Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Allison, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Pease, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Pease, and several others as well as a few close friends.

They came from West Peabody, Mass.; Lynn, Mass.; Troy, New York; Bromfield, Mass.; East Lebanon, Maine; Rochester, N.H.; Lakeside Chap, Newport, Vt.; St. Lambert; Coronation, LaSalle; Friendship, Chambly; Maplewood, Chateaugay; Sherbrooke and Queen Mary, Sherbrooke; Mizzpah, Westmount; Cascade, Shawinigan; Cowansville; Carlton; St. John; Electa, ORDER OF THE EASTERN STAR honored Mr. and Mrs. Fowler at a reception in the Gertrude Scott Hall recently. Front row, Mrs. Alex Fowler, Sister Alta, Worthy Grand Matron and Mr. R. Moffat, Worthy Gr. Patron; second row, William Shaw and Mrs. B. Besson, Worthy Patron and Matron of Sherbrooke Chapter 22; back, Alex Fowler, Grand Sentinel of the Grand Order of Quebec.

Montreal No. 20, Rosemount; Rob Morris, all of Montreal; Sutton; Cookshire; Victory, Hemmingford; Golden Star, Stanstead; Fidelity, Pierrefonds; Concord, Otterburn Park; Patricia, St. Laurent; Beaver, Waterloo; Richmond, Brockville, Ont.; Valcartier Village; Maple Leaf, Stanbridge; Connaught and Pinnacle Chapters.

Hockey school operating in Lennoxville

Youngsters benefit from Optimism

LOUIS GOSSELIN CONTEMPLATES DAY HE'LL SCORE STANLEY CUP WINNER

By DON MONTGOMERY

LENNOXVILLE — More than 110 young hockey players from Lennoxville and Sherbrooke will lug their equipment to the Bishop's University rink tomorrow for the second of five sessions of a hockey school sponsored by the Lennoxville Optimist Club.

First class begins at 8 a.m. with others to follow until 12 noon. It's a morning of strenuous work, mixed with a large amount of fun, for boys 6-14 years old.

Along with many of the boys come the fathers who are awakened at sunrise by their offspring to participate in the program. The fathers usually gather in the lobby to talk or pace the floor, much like expectant fathers, occasionally peering through the glass windows of the doors to see their sons "experiencing life" on ice.

The school is entering its third year, a dream which has come true for the organizers. Instruction is given under the direction of Jimmy Moore, former professional hockey player, and his five assistants, who are either Optimist Club members or interested citizens of Lennoxville.

David Bruce, eight years old and a Grade 3 student at Lennoxville Elementary School, has been a student at the hockey school for two years now. Entering his second year of organized hockey in Lennoxville, he has hopes of becoming as good a player as his favorite National Hockey League performer, Dave Keon. As for his favorite NHL team, David spoke very definitely, saying, "Toronto Maple Leafs."

Hockey school is David's most active weekend activity, one that he loves. He likes the skating practices most of any of the exercises on the ice but in his shy voice adds "the soft drinks after the class."

"I hate getting up in the morning at 6:30 but..." was David's final comment on the sacrifices of an aspiring hockey player.

Marc Delorme is an 11-year-old student at St. Anthony's School in Lennoxville. Though in the sixth grade at elementary school, he is in his first year at hockey school. He has played four years of organized hockey in various towns.

"I was up at 7 a.m. to be at practice and we had a good workout."

Marc attempts to do the best he can while on the ice and works hard in the skating and scrimmages. "I have the hardest time turning around to skate backwards, but one of these times I'll do it with grace," Marc continued.

Marc is an all-Canadian fan. It's the former Montreal captain and centre Jean Beliveau whom Marc idolizes, along with the whole team. Then it was off to the dressing room for the keen youngster.

Leslie Evans, a third-year hockey school veteran, is 12 years old and a Grade 7 student at Lennoxville's Alexander Galt Regional High School. He has played for the last four years in leagues organized in Sherbrooke. Most Saturdays it is rise and shine at 7 in the morning for Leslie so he can put in two practice sessions during the day.

"Hockey school has helped my skating most of all but at the moment I'm working hard on shooting practice and accuracy," Leslie said, removing his skates after practice. "The teachers are great too and that sure helps," he continued.

He gave the impression that start-and-stop practices were the exercises that he enjoyed the least.

Leslie is a Bobby Hull fan and the team that is No. 1 in his mind is Montreal.

The Lennoxville Optimist Club is a dedicated group of individuals organizing to provide recreational outlets for the youth of the town. Appreciation of their efforts is evidenced by the happy, healthy expressions of the youngsters benefitting from their work.

YHY downs barriers

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Youth Helping Youth is a volunteer group, started by 18-year-old Melanie Laptuta.

It's an information centre, a referral centre, a crisis intervention centre, which was open 24 hours a day during the summer and now is open every night and on weekend afternoons.

It began when Melanie volunteered at the Distress Centre and was turned down because she's still in high school. She then talked to the community consultant at the Addiction Research Foundation and was referred to someone who helped her form a committee.

The committee did research, recruited an adult advisory board and got $7,600 from Opportunities for Youth, used to hire 11 people for the summer. Recently the Oshawa board of control has recommended Youth Helping Youth get $3,800 that has been given to the youth drop-in centre.

Melanie says her group gets kids with personal and family problems, VD and pregnancies and kids on drugs.

ACT AS MEDIATOR

"Drug use is only a symptom. If you treat the symptom and not the problem, you won't get anywhere. And then drugs cause other problems.

The kids get even more mixed up than they are.

"A lot of people have misconceptions. They treat kids all the same. If people don't really know what we're doing, they have misconceptions about how we're helping kids. They have a tendency to think we're going to side with the kids, but we're a kind of mediator."

"One thing I really dig about this. It really brings people close together. I kind of think if everyone were close and wanted to do something for the community, we would have a better place to live. But everyone wants to put up barriers."

YOUTH BEAT

Patriotic Bee Gees regrouped

By ROGER DOUGHTY

BEE GEES BOUNCE BACK—The Bee Gees (better known as the Brothers Gibb to their dear old mom and dad) are back, and then some. The guys broke up awhile back, "that with all three of them having big egos and larger tempers, but all that is forgotten. The reason? "What with the Beatles out of the way and the Rolling Stones in disfavor and Tom Fogerty leaving Creedence Clearwater," says Brian (known as the good-looking one to those who groove on such things) "we saw a great chance to make a lot of money." Not that the guys are after the gold for themselves, no indeed. "We want to make all we can," claims Robin, "so we can pay a lot of taxes and save the British Empire. It's our duty to make a lot of money so Prime Minister Heath can sleep well at night." And, as Maurice points out, "With the new decimal system in England, we're not sure just how much we have to make to insure Mr. Heath his proper rest, so we're trying to make a bit extra, just in case."

The Bee Gees
Love of country?

FORE!—Spiro Agnew, everybody's favorite golfer, now has the honor of having had a comedy record about his life and times cut by Stanley Myron Handelman, another household word. If you haven't heard it on the air, it figures. Radio stations seem to be afraid to play the disc since Mr. Agnew has been known to get a bit up-tight about what gets said and printed. But it's really a good-natured thing and the Vice President, who has a pretty good sense of humor of his own, would probably dig it. Stanley should send him a copy.

PASTA NICE—Youth Beat salutes the nation's macaroni makers and eaters who set a record in 1970 by churning out (and consuming) 1,542,991,660 pounds of macaroni products (like spaghetti and egg noodles and stuff). "We owe it all to the youth of America, who groove on macaroni products," says a spokesman for the National Macaroni Institute. Take a bow, youth of America, if you can still bend over.

WHO'S NO. 1?—According to the Gallup people, the college students of the United States pick New York's Mayor John Lindsay as the politician they dig the most, with Eugene McCarthy, Edmund Muskie and George McGovern running behind. Personally, the Youth Beat staff believes that no elected official will ever come close to doing as many good things as Millard Fillmore accomplished (after all, he did open rock palaces on both coasts), but you may have other ideas.

WOODSTOCK REVISITED—Let's hear it for Linda Behrens of Woodstock, Ill., who, along with roughly 275 other readers, came up with the correct answer to our famous Quiz No. 362, which was the one about which rock star is really named Reginald Dwight. Of course, it's (suspenseful music, please) Elton John. For reasons that we haven't figured out yet (except maybe that everybody knows that the one he's using can't be his real name) we got almost as many letters from people who thought Engelbert Humperdinck was really Reginald Dwight. Actually, Engel is named Jerry Dorsey. Neil Diamond's real name is Neil Diamond.

Jazz alive and well

By MICHEL BENNETT

Jazz is not dead. It's alive and well and living under an assumed name in groups like Weather Report and The Fourth Way—the only things that have changed from the halcyon days of Charlie Mingus and Thelonius Monk are the lines of distinction.

"It kind of started to come to the public's attention with Miles Davis and his album Miles in the Sky," says pianist Mike Nock, one-quarter of The Fourth Way.

"That was like a signal almost, for lots of jazz musicians, that there were good elements in rock and it wasn't necessarily square. It was like the seal of approval.

"There's a music around nowadays that people who have been associated with Miles Davis play that's a new form of jazz. It's gone somewhat unheralded—like there was the music of the 1950s, the '40s and the '60s, and I think this is the music of the '70s."

Jazz in the last decade seemed to reach the point of no return. It went as far out as Cecil Taylor and found it had nowhere else to go.

The music of Wayne Shorter and Joe Zawinul, and Nock, drummer Eddie Marshall, bassist Seward McCain and Mike White on amplified violin, has transcended a lot of categories: Good jazz players have become good rock players.

"One of the things that I feel rock music has done—is that it has helped me personally—is that rock musicians, where they may not be as good musicians individually, percentage-wise, as jazz musicians, they seem to have a more creative concept and awareness of the group as a whole," said Nock.

"And I see this coming back into jazz. I really see a new kind of music which is really a group music and which has elements of pop and electric music and all the rest of it."

"This is one of the reasons I'm disappointed when radio stations say: 'This is jazz and this is not jazz,' because more than ever today the boundaries are disappearing."

The only thing this new music needs is a home, and a little hyperbole.

"The people who have made it in jazz have been around for a long time, like Miles Davis has been around for 20 years. What happens is jazz, which is kind of esoteric—there really isn't much consciousness about it—doesn't get exposed."

"A lot of people hear it for the first time in college, maybe, and there are a few names that stick out—the whole Coltrane thing and Miles and a few people like this—and they'll buy a few records to put in their collection."

LIKES TAYLOR, DAVIS

Nock listens to James Taylor and Davis for enjoyment—music that hasn't become so introverted it excludes the listener, and this feeling is an intrinsic part of the new jazz. "The concept I'm really interested in is like saying: 'Come on in. It's like wooing the people instead of hitting them over the head.'"

Before he closed down their Fillmore West, Bill Graham put together shows which exemplified the blending of the best in jazz and rock. There were a few disasters before he achieved a balance.

"He had Cecil Taylor play with a group like Ten Years After and, of course, the kids didn't know what was happening. They ended up throwing things and I can understand it," said Nock.

Four daughters, wife help Pat on family crusade

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Former rock 'n' roll idol Pat Boone is crusading on behalf of the family and old-time religion. Teaming up with his wife and their four teen-age daughters, he is making appearances with The Pat Boone Family Show.

The Boones made their first Canadian appearance in October.

The 37-year old singer, whose records have sold more than 30 million copies, is busy these days telling of his religious experience.

"I've found out that Christianity is a miserable thing if you don't live it," he told a Kitchener news conference prior to his concert here.

Mr. Boone explained that he always had a "goody-goody" image in the film community. Comedian Don Rickles has referred to him as "Mr. Clean", "Pat Bland", "Goody White Shoes", and "The Teen-aged Billy Graham."

Looking back on these days, he contends that he was "a nominal or middle-ground Christian." That was all changed in 1969 when he determined that, career or no career, he was going all-out for God, he says.

HAS SECULAR TUNES

He narrates that experience in the book, A New Song, which was released last year, and has already sold more than 400,000 copies and has been printed in nine languages.

Has he given up show business? No, and he says he sees no reason why he should.

The Pat Boone Family Show includes a good proportion of secular hit tunes plus some of the gospel music that's become popular.

"A lot of kids today whose language is music will hear the gospel only in that medium," he contends.

Mr. Boone adds that adult condemnation of youth music is too sweeping.

"I refuse to indict a beat or a whole field of music or a volume level," he says. "The important thing is who's doing it and what's his motive."

The singer has no time, however, for the drug-oriented lyrics or the so-called "acid rock." The easy-going, mild-mannered performer stiffens at the mention of the drug culture and says that severe penalties should be given the pushers. "maybe even the stocks or a public lashing," he suggests.

SUPPORTS CHURCH

The Boones' Beverly Hills home has become a familiar rendezvous for "the Jesus people" and for anyone seriously interested in religion.

"Our swimming pool is a busy place these days," he says. "We now keep it heated all winter, and not long ago, we baptized five people in one week."

Palatinate and Loyalist emigrations studied

By IVY HATCH
Tel. 876-2083

STANSTEAD — A large number of members of Sir John Johnson Branch, United Empire Loyalists, and guests from the area met in the Council room of the Registry Building Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23, where all were welcomed by the branch president, Herbert Derick of Lennoxville and, on behalf of the Boundary communities by E. J. Struthers, mayor of Stanstead Village.

Two historic papers were given, one by Mrs. C. (Frances Embury) Harris of Magog and the other by Mr. Struthers.

Mrs. Harris gave The Palatine Story. The first migration of "some of our ancestors" began in 1709 in the Lower Palatinate of Germany, she said, thence to New York, to County Limerick, Ireland, to New York State and finally to homes in Canada.

Rev. Bowman Tucker wrote of these Protestants in the Lower Palatinate: "Their characters — solitary like the mountains, reflective, self contained, strong and resolute — were fitted to receive and retain the doctrines of liberty."

Mrs. Harris, in her account, took the assembly back to the early days of the migration in the vicinity of Spire, the town where the term "Protestant" had originated and near Worms where Martin Luther had taken his stand against the corruptions of the Roman church, and the families who lived under the hills along the tributaries of the river Rhine.

The two German provinces were known as Palatinates, Upper and Lower. Hardships were noted through war which ended in 1684. King Louis of France revoked the Freedom of Protestant religion in 1685, with war still in Lower Palatinate. In the face of exorbitant taxes, disgusted with their rulers and the King of France, between perhaps 15,000 persons fled the country, later to arrive in England.

The winter of 1708-09 in the Palatinate was long and bitterly cold, and talk went on for a long time of leaving. None could speak English, but events happened suddenly and, after a night of terror, it was in April, 1709, that the migration began to move in earnest on the great River Rhine, flocking by early June into the Dutch port of Rotterdam, then to England where the refugees were camped on open heaths or commons, one of which was Blackheath.

Palatine women and children with their meagre belongings in more than 100 wagons and the men afoot, on Aug. 9 passed through London on their way to Chester, a distance of about 120 miles, where they embarked for Ireland. It took them about 24 hours to cross in schooners to Dublin.

They settled on farms and grew flax, hemp, oats, potatoes and wheat and earned a reputation for the high quality of their produce.

It was in 1720, after the death of a major benefactor, Lord Southwell, that changes came about and, for economic and innate independence as well as sentimental reasons, they opted for America and The New World. Some friends were already in America. Uncles and cousins whom they had never seen were in New York and Pennsylvania. It was on Aug. 18, 1760, that the ship Pery, after a voyage of 63 days — three days fewer than the Mayflower took — arrived in New York from Limerick with a number of German-Irish whose fathers had settled on the Emerald Isle 50 years earlier.

Mr. Struthers' story concerned the migration to the Eastern Townships from the seignories of Faucault, Noyan and St. Armand.

He mentioned that frequently the Townships are described as having been settled by United Empire Loyalists. True, he said, a number of these Loyalists did come to the Townships, but the greater number went to these three seignories near the present United States border, along the Richelieu River and Missisquoi Bay.

The reason for this trek was that at the end of active fighting in the American Revolutionary War in 1781, the European population of Canada did not exceed 120,000 people, of whom 75 per cent were of French origin. Quebec City, Montreal and Three Rivers were the only important towns in Lower Canada, and Upper Canada was a vast, unexplored wilderness.

French seignories had been surveyed from the 1600s and early 1700s along the St. Lawrence river, up the Richelieu and Lake Champlain, nearly as far as Burlington, into what is now Vermont, and quite far up the Chaudiere River. Some regions were only minimally settled. Thus the lands east and west of the Richelieu seignories were uninhabited wilderness areas at the end of the Revolutionary War. There was no survey in the Eastern Townships area until that of Barnston in 1793, a 10-year lapse of time from the end of the war.

Loyalists began arriving in great numbers in Canada, and it was imperative that place be found for them. Governor General Frederick Haldimand, on May 26, 1783, gave a letter of instruction to surveyor-general Samuel Holland, probably the first survey ordered in what is now Ontario. It was for the area around Cateraqui and Kingston.

Major Holland had an interesting history, having been born in Holland on an unknown date and buried in Quebec in 1801. He was a true Loyalist and engaged in many surveys in the American colonies. He came to Canada after the war and became surveyor-general of Lower Canada.

His son, Samuel, was killed with a pair of dueling pistols March 29, 1795.

Mr. Struthers' story was of Sir Frederick Haldimand's experiences as governor-general of Canada from 1778-1786, Lord Dorchester, Sir Guy Carlton in 1786 and the passing of the Constitutional Act in 1791. He reported that the Townships was opened to survey in 1793 with Barnston, Hatley and Stanstead surveyed in 1793, Brome and Compton in 1797 and Brompton in 1801.

Jesse Penoyer was a grantee of Compton County, and Penoyer's Mills was an early name of Waterville. Mr. Struthers noted several names and activities of our early pioneers of the Townships.

Of the three seignories of Noyan, Faucault and St. Armand and from Merrill Denison's book The Barley and the Stream, mention is made that it was in the summer of 1782 that a party of 197 Loyalists, then camping at Burlington, agreed to come to Caldwell's Manor, the name given Faucault. There were no land grants given the Loyalists in the three seignories, so they purchased land.

Colonel Henry Caldwell announced Jan. 1, 1784, in the Quebec Gazette his possession of land, sufficient for settlement of several families, he was willing to "let out" on most reasonable terms. This was an area of some 50,000 acres, mostly laid out in lots of 100 acres. The purchasers had to pay annual dues even to recent years.

It was from the three seignories that survey petitions were made for land in the Townships, many from Loyalists and others not. From these petitions much information was derived that has been valuable from a historian's perspective and, some of which was given by Mr. Struthers in his address.

In addition to British and American Loyalists, there were several Palatine families in the three seignories. One family, the Dericks, were so numerous that nearly every resident had some family connection. Herb Derick, the branch president, has a record of over 2,000 descendants of that family.

The talk continued about a Sociological study of early families, and the names in our history.

Mr. Mason thanked Mr. Struthers for his paper, as well as Mrs. Ruby Moore and Mrs. Harris.

Mr. Derick, who presided at the meeting, spoke on in the historical note, reading from historic books short items, and called upon J. D. Ferguson and A. E. Curtis, president and executive president of the Stanstead Historical Society, both of whom spoke briefly.

Mr. Derick said an executive meeting of the Sir John Johnson Branch will be held shortly. He asked the members to consider the suggestion made to make a summer celebration of a weekend United Empire Loyalist meeting in the Richelieu Valley where so many early events took place. This would likely be in June and will be one of the items of business on the executive agenda.

Remarks of appreciation were expressed to the local members of the UEL for making it a pleasant gathering. Visitors toured the Stanstead Historical Museum and enjoyed refreshments served.

Fifth birthday party

Ivy Hatch - 876-2083
STANSTEAD — Cathy Dustin observed her fifth birthday on Tuesday, October 12. That afternoon she was the honored guest at a party given by her mother, Mrs. Melvin Dustin, assisted by Miss Linda Dustin.

The guests came early in the afternoon, they were Bonnie and Lisa Davis, Linda Thayer, Andrea and Vanessa Nugent, Brett Nugent, Judy and Todd Rever and Cathy's sister, Cindy.

It being a cool day the young folk had a good time playing indoor games. Cathy received gifts from the guests and from members of her family, all of which pleased her.

Supper was served, the table with a birthday cover being centered with a gingerbread man all decorated for a birthday, made by Mrs. Dustin, there were balloons and favors on the table for all.

Mrs. Arnold Rever and Mrs. Arnold Nugent joined the young folk for the party, Cathy's Dad, Mr. Dustin and Arnold Rever came for the supper. Afterwards Mr. Dustin escorted the gracious little ladies to their respective homes.

UCW plan Ecumenical tea

Mrs. Rudy McLellan
842-2630

NORTH HATLEY — The October meeting of the North Hatley United Church Women was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Sharman. Owing to the absence of the president, as well as the program convenor, Mrs. R. Olson, Mrs. R. E. Allworth conducted the meeting and took the devotional period.

A letter of thanks and appreciation for used stamps was read, followed by the program which dealt with the history and facts regarding the origin of the Leprosy Mission in Toronto and great work done by missions in 35 different countries.

The treasurer reported a good amount on hand and Mrs. Chester Powers volunteered to act as observer representative in place of Mrs. C. Smith, who found it necessary to resign.

All bills were voted paid. During October, Mrs. R. E.

Allworth and one other member will visit the Connaught Home.

It was planned to assist the Baptist ladies in decorating the church for Thanksgiving.

A most gratifying report on the Antique Show was read.

The Forgotten Patient in Douglas Hospital will be remembered in October by Miss E. Morrisette.

The Ecumenical Christmas Tea was discussed and plans were made.

The meeting was adjourned and tea was served by the hostess Mrs. Sharman.
