TO THE AFFLICTED.—I wish to state that I have removed my consulting rooms to the Mechanics' Bank Chambers, No. 194 St. James street; and that I will, as usual, pay special attention to chronic diseases of all kinds, particularly those of a character that need not be mentioned, resulting in more misery than all the other sins in this world put together: Nervous Irritability, Morbid Sensitiveness, Loss of Memory, Lack of Confidence, Indecision of Character, Depression of Spirits, Incapacity to apply the mind to any Occupation, Imbecility, Impotency, and sometimes almost total depravity. All of which can be corrected by restoring the vital forces, which can be done without the usual drug and nostrum treatment, by which thousands have been injured or murdered. I have practised my peculiar mode of treatment for eight years, and during that time have treated an immense number in all parts of the world, in the best walks of life, and not one can say that I have ever done them an injury, and nearly all can say that I have cured them. Patients can be treated without my seeing them, no matter how great a distance, but those in the city must call and see me at my office. Office hours from 9 to 11 a.m., 2 to 4, and 7 to 10 p.m. Private and confidential.

208-12m M. H. UTLEY, M.D.

COUGHS, SORE THROAT, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS and CHEST, are speedily and permanently cured by the use of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, which does not dry up a cough and leave the cause behind, but loosens it, cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials it has received. The genuine is signed "I. Butts" on the wrapper. SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, PROPRIETORS, Boston, Mass. Sold by dealers generally.

TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE.

TUSKS.—Along the banks of the large rivers of the Russian Empire, and more particularly those of farther Siberia, thousands of tusks are annually dug up which once constituted the weapons of defence of a species of elephant or mammoth now extinct. These form what is called fossil ivory, which supplies almost the whole of the ivory-turner's material manipulated in Russia.

THE PEASANTRY OF NORWAY—The peasants of Norway and Sweden add to the narrow agricultural resources of their country by drawing upon their forests for food. The birch trees, with which large tracts of land are covered, furnish not only boards for dwellings but board for the dwellers. The sawdust boiled and macerated in water, is dried and reduced to powder, then heated repeatedly in an oven and ground. In this state it possesses the smell and taste of oatmeal. It has a rich yellow color, and ferments on the addition of yeast. When baked it yields a uniform, light, nutricious bread; when boiled in water it makes a jelly like that of wheat starch. So it appears that the hygienic institutions of our country have no monopoly of sawdust pudding.

THE GREAT WALL OF CHINA.—Seen from the Chinese side, the Great Wall resembled a huge earthen mound, crowned with battlements built of brick. Everywhere it had an old and dilapidated appearance. In some places it had been altogether destroyed. On the Mantchsorian side, on the other hand, the Great Wall seemed constructed of bricks, resting upon a pavement of stone. It is flanked by square towers throughout its whole length. These are placed at the distance of about two bowshots, in order that the enemy may be everywhere within range. It descends into the sea in two parallel piers or jetties, which slope so gently that one can ascend to the top from the water flowing between them. The largest ships may approach within two miles of the wall, and, indeed, it is the very place at which visitors should in future disembark.

AN EGYPTIAN CUSTOM.—Herodotus, in his history, tells of a custom of the Egyptians which seems so incredible that critics have agreed in thinking the credulous traveller imposed upon. He says that when provisions were exhausted in travelling, the Egyptians were accustomed to cut a slice or two of meat from a living cow or bullock, sew the skin over the wound and leave the animal to recover from the injury by the healing of the flesh. The inference was a natural one that the natives were hoaxing the good-natured historian. But James Bruce, the African traveller, says that he saw a similar act performed. While journeying from Adowa to Gondar, he saw three men trip up a cow. One of them sat across the neck of the fallen beast, another twisted the halter about her fore feet, while the third, getting astride, cut a couple of large beefsteaks from her side. They then fastened the edges of the skin together with small skewers, made her get up, and drove her along as if nothing had happened.

CHILDHOOD IN JAPAN.—When he is three years old the Japanese youth is invested with a sword belt, and four years later with two diminutive swords, if he belong to the privileged class. The child's head is completely shaved until he is close on four years old, and then three patches are grown, one at the back and one at each side. On this occasion the record of ceremonies ordains that "a large tray, on which are a comb, scissors, the hair in a knot, cotton-wool, and the bit of dried fish or seaweed which accompanies presents, one of each seven rice straws—these seven articles must be prepared." In another year's time the child is put into the loose trousers peculiar to the privileged class, and he is then presented with "a dress of ceremony, on which are embroidered storks and tortoises [emblems of longevity; the stork is said to live 1,000 years, the tortoise 10,000] fir trees [which, being evergreen and not changing their color, are emblematic of an unchanging virtuous heart,] and bamboos [emblematic of an upright and straight mind."] Soon after the child has reached his fifteenth year, a forunate day is chosen on which the forelock is cut off, and at this period, being considered a man, he is entrusted with a sword of ordinary size; and on this occasion family festivities and rejoicings take place in honor of the auspicious event. The lad then comes of age, and casting away childish things, adopts the dress of a grown-up man in every particular. Japanese youths are said to be quite equal to the occasion, and even at this early age, to adapt themselves most readily to the habits of manhood. At the stages in his life which we have alluded to, the child has a sponsor, and certain wine-drinking customs and prescribed festivities have to be carefully attended to. Some Japanese must have a string of names awful to contemplate, if strict custom be always adhered to; for, besides the name which he receives shortly after his birth, Humbert tells us that "he will take a second on his attaining his majority, a third at his marriage, and a fourth when he shall be appointed to any public function, a fifth when he shall ascend in dignity, and so on until the last, the name shall be given him after his death, and inscribed upon his tomb—that by which his memory shall be held sacred from generation to generation."

HISTORICAL ITEMS.

The Phœnicians were the first people who had fortified cities.

Queen Mary signed the death warrant of Lady Jane Grey. On account of her royal blood she was allowed to suffer death within the precincts of the Tower.

The iron steamship London was wrecked in the Bay of Biscay, with the loss of 220 lives, on January 11, 1866. Nineteen persons survived. Among those who went down with the ship were G. V. Brooke, tragedian; Dr. Woolley, principal of the Sydney College, Eng.; the Rev. Daniel Draper, Wesleyan minister; and Mr. Palmer, editor of the English Law Review.

The names of Queen Victoria's children are as follows: 1. Victoria, Princess Royal, married to the Crown Prince of Prussia. 2. Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, married to Princess Alexandra of Denmark, 3. Princess Alice, married to Prince Louis, of Hesse. 4. Prince Alfred, married to Marie, daughter of the Emperor of Russia. 5. Princess Helena, married to Prince Christian. 6. Princess Louise, married to Marquis of Lorne. 7. Prince Arthur, unmarried. 8 Prince Leopold, unmarried. 9. Princess Beatrice unmarried.

Some few years ago the Greek government sold to two foreigners, their right over the rubbish heaps at the Laurium mines, which were first worked several thousand years ago by the King of Athens, from the profits of which Pericles is said to have built the Parthenon. A company was formed to rework them, for it was soon found that even the debris which had been cast aside by the ancients as worthless, possessed great value. Extensive beds of scoriæ, the refuse of the silver and lead mines worked during eight centuries by the Athenians, now yield to the modern metallurgic skill of some 7,000 to 8,000 tons of lead annually, which contains silver in the proportion of about one-half per cent. The company now conduct their operations on so large a scale that a town containing 4,000 inhabitants has sprung up on what was formerly a solitude.

James I. was the first who united the lion and the unicorn heraldically, adopting the latter beast from the supporters of the Scottish sovereigns. The conjunction of those animals on an ecclesiastical vestment of the period of the Reformation must be attributed to religious symbolism rather than to any heraldic arrangement; the lion typifying fortitude and strength, while the unicorn is typical of fortitude and chastity. As such the former may have reference to the Lord, "the Lion of Judah," and the latter may be an emblem of the blessed Virgin Mary. The tradition with regard to the unicorn, that it never would be caught, except by a virgin, and that if its skin was defiled it pined away and died, is well known. Its capture was a favorite subject with the medieval artist. I have before met with these animals as a powering for a vestment, I think, among the inventories in Sir William Dugdale's "History of St. Paul's."

During the reign of Joseph II., the sexton of St. Joseph's Cathedral at Vienna, being a man of extraordinary nerve and boldness, was accustomed to stand on a pinnacle of the tower, whenever the Emperor made a grand entrance into the city, and wave a flag as the pageant passed by. When, however, Leopold II., who had just been chosen Emperor at Frankfort, was about to enter the city, the loyal sexton, still anxious to be true to his old custom, but finding that years had told against his nerve, declared that any one who would take his place successfully should win his daughter. Gabriel Petersheim, who was disliked by the sexton, but beloved of the daughter, at once accepted the offer, to the disgust of the sexton, who then arranged with two villians to close the trap-door of the upper stair way while Gabriel was above thinking that, as the Emperor was to enter toward evening, no one need be the wiser, and the lad must certainly fall before morning. The two accomplices did their foul work, and their intended victim was then confronted with the alternative of clinging to the slender spire, through a cold and wintry night, with his feet resting on a surface hardly ten inches in circumference, or of precipitating himself to the pavement at once, and thus ending the matter. Gabriel was a youth of firm will and hardy constitution. He clung to the cold column till morning. But the story goes that when he was released his curling locks were as white as snow, his wonted rosy cheeks yellow and wrinkled, and his eyes, before so bright, now sunken and dim. One night of horror had placed him forty years nearer his grave.

The historical island of St. Helena is falling into insignificance and decay, and its Governor sees "nothing in the circumstances of the station to indicate a probable return of prosperity." The resident population of the island was never much above 3,000, one-half being black; and during the past two years 280 white men have emigrated to the Cape of Good Hope, and 261 liberated blacks have been forwarded to Lagos and Sierra Leone. The revenue has decreased from $80,000 to $70,000 in the same time, and rents have fallen one-third. Landed property has consequently depreciated enormously in value, until owners of real estate may be likened to those Virginians mentioned by Governor Wise—"the poorer the more land they possess." ... reports that a property which has twice within the past eight years sold for $2,000 recently brought only $400, and another, assessed at $4,000, was lately disposed of for less than $1,000. The health and morals of the inhabitants, however, seem to improve as their material prosperity wanes. The whole number of deaths in 1872 was only 67, and no cases of serious crime occurred; the entire business of the Supreme Court being limited to two convictions for larceny. Although St. Helena is of little importance from a commercial point of view, the island would be invaluable to Great Britain in case of war with a great naval power. It is situated almost midway between the continents of Africa and South America, and, as its Governor says, "two or three war vessels stationed there would be able to intercept the whole returning trade of the East."

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

Scepticism has never founded empires, established principles, or changed the world's heart. The great doers in history have always been men of faith.

Bad company is like a nail driven into a post which, after the first or second blow, may be drawn out with little difficulty; but being once driven up to the head the pincers cannot take hold to draw it out.

Give not thy tongue too great a liberty lest it take thee prisoner. A word unspoken is like the sword in the scabbard, thine; if vented, thy sword is in anothers hand. If thou desirest to be held wise, be so wise as to hold thy tongue.

The day when a boy begins to feel uneasy at being dependent upon somebody else is the day when his boyhood begins to give way to manhood. The day when a girl finds somebody on whom she is able to depend is that from which she passes from girlhood to womanhood.

The two most precious things on this side the grave are our reputation and our life. But it is to be lamented that the most contemptible whisper may deprive us of the one, and the weakest weapon of the other. A wise man, therefore, will be more anxious to deserve a fair name than to preserve it, and this will teach him so to live as not to be afraid to die.

What do men know about martyrdoms? We should go mad had we to endure the hundreth part of those daily pains which are meekly born by many women. Ceaseless slavery, meeting with no reward; constant gentleness, met by cruelty as constant; love, labour, patience, watchfulness, without even so much as the acknowledgement of a good word; all this, how many of them have to bear in quiet, and appear abroad with cheerful faces, as if they felt nothing.

Be kind to all, rich and poor alike. The great duty of life is not to give pain; and the most acute reasoner cannot find an excuse for one who will voluntarily wound the heart of a fellow-creature. Even for their own sakes, people should shew kindness and regard to their dependents. They are often better served in trifles, in proportion as they are rather feared than loved; but how small is this pain compared with the loss sustained in all the weightier affairs of life. Then the faithful servant shows himself at once as a friend, while one who serves from fear shows himself as an enemy.

Two charming women were discussing one day what it is which constitutes beauty in the hand. They differed in opinion as much as the shape of the beautiful member they were discussing. A gentleman friend presented himself, and by common consent the question was referred to him. It was a delicate matter. He thought of Paris and the three goddesses. Glancing from one to the other of the beautiful white hands presented for his examination, he replied at last: "I give it up, the question is too hard for me; but ask the poor, and they will tell you the most beautiful hand in the world is the hand that gives."

LIABILITIES OF CARRIERS BY WATER.

Since the several Provinces now composing the Dominion of Canada were confederated, no provision has been made to assimilate the laws existing in each, concerning the rights and liabilities of carriers by water, and Hon. Mr. Smith, of Westmoreland, has undertaken to frame a set of rules, which, with the authority of Parliament, shall furnish a guide in this matter. Carriers shall receive and convey goods and persons, at the times and according to the terms of which they have given notice, unless there is a reasonable cause for not doing so. They shall be responsible for goods received on board their vessels, and for goods delivered to them for conveyance, and they shall be bound to use care and diligence for their safe keeping and punctual conveyance.

They shall be liable for loss or damage, unless it occurs without their fault or privity, by reason of fire or the dangers of navigation, on account of a deficit in or from the nature of the goods themselves, or from armed robbery or other irresistible force. No liability shall exist for the loss of gold, jewels, securities, etc., not being ordinary merchandise, unless the true nature and value thereof has been declared in writing at the time of delivery for conveyance, and entered in the bill of lading. As regards the personal baggage of passengers, carriers by water shall not be liable beyond the value of one hundred and fifty dollars, unless the nature and value of the baggage has been specified in the same way as was mentioned for goods. The oath of the passenger will be prima facie evidence of loss or damage of baggage, and of its value. The same definitions apply to goods and to valuable securities in the proposed act as are defined in the act respecting larceny.

IS FOOD OR DRINK MOST ESSENTIAL.

A Pennsylvania paper, the Hanover Spectator, reports that a stonecutter named Peter Breitler, of Gettysburg, whose mind for the last year or two has been considerably affected, has steadily refused to partake of a morsel of food for a period of fifty-eight days up to Tuesday, its latest date, only sustaining life during this period by drinking small quantities of cold water. There is said to be a case on record in which a man lived eighty days without partaking of food. Breitler, being in reduced circumstances, was an inmate of the Adams County Alms-House for some months, and while there, he asserts, some supernatural influence or personage told him he ought not to eat, and he has since stubbornly persisted in refusing to allow any food whatever to enter his mouth.

On the other hand, the Montpelier Argus says that ten years ago Timothy Wheeler, of Waterbury Centre, Vt., adopted a strictly vegetarian diet, and five years ago became impressed that nature did not require so much liquid to quench thirst as is commonly used. The result has been that the first year thereafter he went 38 days without taking any liquids into his system; the second year 70 days; the third, 130; the fourth, 170; and up to Thursday of last week he had gone 128 days in the fifth year without drinking anything whatsoever.

A HERO.

(From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.)

... this journal the particulars of the tragic death of young Sutton, who fell from a train at Burgettstown and sustained injuries which afterwards proved fatal. It appears that the unfortunate young man had been instructed by the conductor of his train, Mr. Peter Wynne, to go to the rear and flag another train. While proceeding to comply with these orders he fell upon the track and was run over by five cars and the caboose. His legs were cut off just above the knee, but young Sutton remembered his orders, cleared the track of the dismembered portions of his own body, and taking a flag from his pocket, waved it until he had stopped the train, which was fast approaching. But for this heroism other lives must certainly have been lost, as a collison was inevitable.

THE QUEEN AND THE SOLDIERS.

A London paper of the 1st inst. says: The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice, arrived at Windsor Castle from Claremont on Monday. The Court will remain at Windsor Castle until about the 18th of May. Her Majesty, after visiting Netley Hospital, sent to one of the wounded, the narrative of whose career in the Crimean and Indian campaigns, as detailed by the medical man, affected her to tears, a copy of "Leaves from my Journal in the Highlands," with the autograph, "Presented to Sergeant-Major John Barclay, 42nd Highlanders, Victoria R., Osborne, April 17, 1874."

HON. MR. DORION AND RIEL.

Relative to the Minerve's statements, the National says Mr. Dorion simply telegraphed to Gov. Morris to inform Mgr. Tache that it would be better if Riel in the interests of his friends would not be a candidate at the late general election. Mr. Dorion refused to see Riel and declared openly before and since he entered the Cabinet, that Riel should not take his seat.

A Costly Navy.

To the general observer it might seem that the substitution of iron-clads for the "wooden-walls" would mean the substitution of a style of naval architecture which though costly at first would eventually prove more economical than the old style, but experience has proved such an assumption to be anything but correct. According to a recent debate in the Imperial House of Commons it appears that the gross sum asked for the Navy exceeds £10,000,000; and though the figures are nearly the same as those arrived at by the department before the change of Government, some of them are of a truly startling nature. This remark applies with special force to the outlay required for the repair of the ironclads. Mr. Ward Hunt expressed his determination not to be content with a navy merely on paper, and hinted pretty broadly that he would soon be asking for more money. It was pleaded by Mr. Goschen, in reply to some severe strictures by Mr. E. J. Reed, that the late Government had found the armoured ships of modern construction required a most stupendous amount of repair after a short space of time. The figures are astounding. The Warrior originally cost £350,000; she has been seven years and a half in commission, and her repairs have already cost £120,000, more than a third of the sum spent on her construction. The Defiance originally cost £230,000; she has been nine years in commission, and her repairs have absorbed £65,000. The Resistance cost £240,000, and the repairs have already amounted to £68,000. Three ships have just been put into repair, and six others at the least need considerable repair, the estimates for their refit being on the same amazing scale.

A Work for Disraeli.

Numerous as were the radical reforms accomplished during Mr. Gladstone's rule, he left one for Mr. Disraeli which is certainly not dwarfed by any that have now passed into history. We allude to the scandalous practice in connection with the State Church of England of selling livings to the highest bidder—the "cure of souls" for so much in pounds, shillings and pence. This astounding practice has long been denounced by the dissenting press of Great Britain, but Parliament has not yet shewn any disposition to deal with it. In the House of Lords the other day the Bishop of Peterborough, Dr. Magee, brought the subject up, but not with the intention of abolishing the system. His Lordship's contention is merely that the Bishops have not power enough to prevent inefficient or unworthy persons from filling clerical livings.

For instance, at present a Bishop has no power whatever to prevent the appointment of any clergyman on the ground of his physical unfitness to perform the duties. It matters not though a new incumbent be eighty or ninety years of age, deaf, half blind, and able to go about only in a Bath chair. It matters not that he will never be able to read a word of the service, to preach a single sermon, or to make one sick call. It matters little though he should have been appointed precisely because he is tottering on the brink of the grave, and because the patron has chosen him merely to keep the living open for some young relative who may be studying at the University. In each of these cases the Bishop is powerless. There are agents and auctioneers who make this traffic a speciality. In certain religious publications advertisements are to be seen setting forth the attractions of livings for sale just the same as a snug shooting box or country mansion is described in the columns of the Times. The reader is informed that the manse is comfortable and in good repair; that there is good trout fishing in the locality; that the society is very select, &c., &c.

By means of these agents and agencies, a judicious silence and a few equivocations, it is complained that almost any clerical aspirant may pass the questioning which is alone the means at present possessed by a Bishop to control the guardianship of the various flocks comprised in his diocese.

The result of the Bishop of Peterborough's speech was the appointment of a Select Committee to enquire into the whole matter. We should say the re... sweeping measures of reform.

We are glad to see that the secular press of the old country is speaking out, The London Telegraph truly says:—

"When a patron sells the reversion to a vicarage or a rectorship, he uses his own legal power to make one of the most flagrantly disgraceful bargains ever devised by the wit of man. There could not be a more astonishing satire on our belief in Christianity than the fact that the right to teach it in the national churches is sold for hard cash. The giving of bribes to Members of Parliament was a great scandal. So was the selling of commissions in the Army. But commission by purchase in the Church is one of the most astonishing institutions ever seen among civilized men. If the Church of England has survived that, a satirist might say it will survive anything."

Mr. Disraeli has a chance to out-Gladstone Gladstone here.

PUBLIC OPINION.

To the Editor of THE STAR.

DEAR SIR:—In your answers to correspondents this day I notice the remark, "A roomy boat making frequent trips to either place (i.e., St. Helen's Island or St. Lambert) would earn a snug sum for her owner."

Your opinion is no doubt a wise one and it certainly indicates a great want of enterprise, energy and business foresight that not even one boat is running to either of the above places, when there should be at least two. Only fancy that St. Lambert is within two and a half miles of the business centre of the city, as pleasant a place to live in as natural advantages can make it, should be a place of only some two or three hundred inhabitants, land being sold for two cts. a foot when it ought to be worth at least twenty or twenty-five. You strike the key note when you say "frequent trips." Were there a regular ferry running frequently to St. Lambert it must of necessity pay with good management.

It will be said the old boat did not pay—true, but why not? It was not adapted for the work, burnt too much coal, was constantly under repair, did not make regular trips, and charged too high fares. What is wanted to make St. Lambert to Montreal what Brooklyn is to New York, is:

1st. A medium sized boat, which could carry over a few farmers' carts at a trip, drawing not more than three and a half feet of water, and which could go to the new wharf, making trips from each side every hour or half hour from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m., charging single passengers five cents per trip, or $5 for a single season ticket.

2nd. For the Grand Trunk Railway to pursue a liberal policy not only by granting reduced fare—and while on this subject I must not omit to say that we are under obligations for the reduced scale of prices which the Company announce they will this season make to purchasers of a large number of tickets—but in running trains at hours which will suit business and working men.

There is not at present any train from Montreal to St. Lambert between the hours of 5.15 and 10 p.m., and the former hour is one which the majority of business men find it impossible to leave work at.

With cheap and frequent means of communication with this city St. Lambert would soon, in my opinion, be abreast of Longueuil, and would furnish healthy and pleasant homes for many who are now pent up in wretched nooks and corners of this city.

Apologizing for the length of my letter,

I am, Mr. Editor,

Yours,

ST. LAMBERT.

The Irish Railways.

One object of the Irish Home Rulers is to persuade the Government to purchase and operate the railways of the Emerald Isle. A few days ago the subject was brought up in the House of Commons by Mr. Blennerhassett, who moved "that it is expedient that measures should be taken to obtain possession of the Irish railways and place them under Government management."

In amendment, Mr. Goldsmid moved "that the purchase of the Irish railways by the State would be financially inexpedient, would unduly enlarge the patronage of the Government, and seriously increase the pressure of business in Parliament."

In the course of the debate, it was stated that there were in Ireland, 1,968 miles of railways, which were managed by thirty-nine distinct corporations, thirty-nine secretaries, thirty-nine engineers, seventy auditors, and three hundred and thirty-three directors. It is complained that the railways do not "pay." Seeing the way they are cut up and burdened with heavy expenses for salaries it is hardly to be expected that they would. Mr. Gladstone's advice, given some time ago, was that an effort should be made to get the companies to amalgamate, and thus reduce the working expenses, and secure a better and uniform system of management.

The Home Rulers, however, do not care for such a common-place mode of settling the difficulty, they desire that the British Government shall buy out the thirty-nine companies, with their retinues of hangers-on, and assume all responsibility. Sir Michael Beach, on the part of the Government, expressed his surprise that Home Rulers should ask for a measure of centralization which would remove the Irish railways from Irish management, and the Marquis of Hartington thought the agitation was due to the shareholders. Mr. Connolly denounced the motion as a gigantic job of which, as an Irishman, he was thoroughly ashamed, and Major O'Gorman followed suit in an extremely lively speech. He said it was necessary for him to explain his reasons for being hostile to the motion. At present only Irishmen were employed on Irish railways, but he did not require praeternatural powers to prophesy this: that if Irish railways were delivered over to the English Government, three weeks would not elapse before every single man employed upon them would be sent about his business—("Oh, oh," and laughter)—and every man, from the chief superintendent down to the lowest porter, would be brought over from England and put into the places of those who were dismissed, who would be told either to go to America with a vengeance, or to hell or to Connaught. (Loud cries of "Oh," much laughter and confusion, in the midst of which the [illegible] the hon. member that such language exceeds the usual licence in paliamentary debates.

Major O'Gorman: I sincerely beg pardon—[hear, hear]—but I must say that I don't think my language was much worse than that of the hon. gentleman who the other evening called the right hon. gentleman the member for Greenwich a "trickster." [Opposition cheers.] I made use use of language which is perfectly well-known—[laughter]—and perfectly historical. [Renewed laughter.] It was used by the man who took the mace off that table. Though, Sir, I bow to you with the most sincere pleasure, and beg pardon of the House if I have gone beyond the rules, I must say that I am not sure that I am much mistaken. ["Oh, oh," and laughter.] I tell this House plainly that if the English Government is allowed to dabble in Irish railways, Irish railways are at an end. We are told by the member for Limerick that the only railways in Ireland which are grossly mismanaged are those which have an English connection, and that those which are conducted solely by Irishmen are respectable. What are we to deduce from that? Why simply this; keep Englishmen away from them. [Laughter.] That is all I want to do; and, therefore, although I have the the most sincere respect for that talented young gentleman, [Mr. Blennerhasset]. [Laughter]. I must say that I am bound, as an Irishman, to vote against the resolution. I shall on all occasions vote against the introduction of Englishmen into Ireland. [Loud laughter.]

Mr. J. Goldsmid offered to withdraw his motion, but the House refused.

On a division the motion was negatived by 241 to 56, and Mr. Goldsmith's amendment was carried by 235 to 53.

In commenting upon the debate, the Standard says:

The commercial interests of Ireland would not be served by a stretch of the paternal principle in Government, which would check enterprise and weaken the national sense of self-reliance. In spite of the agitators who mar her peace, Ireland is winning her way to prosperity by her own exertions. It is not worth while to call in the aid of the State at a time when she is learning to be self-sufficing, and it is to her interest as well as to the credit of the House of Commons that Mr. Blennerhassett's motion was rejected by so decisive a majority."

SOME NEW BOOKS

JOHN WORTHINGTON'S NAME, by the author of "My Daughter Elinor." Harper Bros., New York; Dawson Bros., Montreal.

Mr. Benedict's novels are always entertaining; this is one of his best.

ENGLAND, POLITICAL AND SOCIAL, by Auguste Langel, private secretary to the Duc D'Aumale, author of "Studies in Science," the "United States during the war of 1861-5," &c., &c. Translated by James Morgan Hart. Putnam, New York; Dawson Bros., Montreal.

As might have been expected of a foreigner, this review contains many sweeping statements and exaggerated deductions, but in the main it is fair and good reading.

THE EDUCATION OF AMERICAN GIRLS. By the same publishers.

This is a series of essays by American women of wide and varied experience.

THE EXPANSE OF HEAVEN, by R. A. Proctor, B. A., author of "Other Worlds than Ours," &c., &c. Appleton & Co., New York; Dawson Bros., Montreal.

A most entertaining and instructive series of essays on the wonders of the firmament.

ROUND TOWN.

—Customs receipts yesterday were $27,141.44.

—The Shandon arrived in port this morning.

—The concert of the Caledonian Society in their new hall, last evening, was quite a success.

—The Montreal Telegraph Co. have opened their office at River du Loup wharf for the season.

—The members of the Natural History Society will make an excursion to Beloeil Mountain on Queen's Birthday.

—Mr. Woodley, of Quebec, was yesterday elected President of the Council of Arts, and M. Levesque, of this city, Vice-President.

—Elzear Brochu, a joiner, who arrived at the Albion Hotel yesterday afternoon from Boston, was given in charge to the police, as he is deranged.

—This being Ascension Day the Courts are closed; the prisoners confined in the Police Stations for simple drunkenness were this morning, according to custom, discharged.

—A laborer named Sexton, employed on board the ss. Quebec, had his arm and his body badly crushed in a winch yesterday afternoon. He was removed to the General Hospital.

—The closing receptions of the various classes which have met during the season at Hazazer's Academy have been very pleasant affairs. The last, that of the Thursday night Private Receptions, takes place this evening.

—The favorite soprano, Anna Granger Dow, will assist the Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston at the two concerts to be given in Mechanics' Hall, Thursday and Friday evenings, the 28th and 29th inst. Tickets at C. C. De Zouche's.

—Mrs. Scott Siddons and "Sepraphael" presented themselves last evening before a very large audience in Association Hall. Mrs. Siddons read her selections very acceptably, and Master Walker was encored on each appearance. They conclude their present engagement this evening; the demand for tickets is very great.

—A meeting of the City Council will be held next Monday evening to consider unfinished business. It is to be hoped that something will be done regarding the meat inspection, which has been for some time discontinued. Mr. Moore states that meanwhile a very large quantity of unwholesome meat is being sold in the city.

—The Eaton-Webster case was resumed yesterday. Theodore Lemaire, carpenter, of Sherbrooke, was examined. He testified that during the winter of '69-70, while he was in the service of Nath. Beach, contractor, in the village of Magog, he had made at the instance of the accused, Webster, the pattern of a machine of the nature mentioned. Webster had told him that this was an improvement on an American machine which he had seen.

—Mme. Emilie Masson, third daughter of M. Damase Masson, and member of the religious order of the Sacred Heart, died on Sunday last at Detroit, aged 35 years. The remains arrived in the city yesterday evening, and will be interred to-morrow evening in the vault of the Order of the Sacred Heart, Sault au Recollet. The deceased returned in November last from Paris, where she remained eight months to take the cross of the Order.

PLAYFUL PARLIAMENTARIANS.

As Dr. Tupper was passing from the Chamber of the House of Commons after the debate on Wednesday morning, a heavy blue book, rolled up in a compact parcel, was hurled at him, striking him on the back of the head, and causing a severe contusion. [illegible] that on Dr. Tupper asking Mr. Blake who threw the book he was refused the information. At the next sitting of the House, Dr. Tupper absolved the hon. gentleman from the charge.

Mr. Holton said he regretted the practice of hon. gentlemen resolving themselves into a company of boys, and throwing blue books and papers pell-mell at each other. There could be no doubt that the hon. member for Cumberland suffered very serious personal injury. The practice which he had referred to was one fraught with danger to the persons of hon. members, and it was unworthy of the dignity of members of Parliament. He hoped they had now seen the last of it.

Hon. Mr. Blake said he did not know what was stated in the paper referred to, but he could only say that when the hon. member for Cumberland applied to him to know who it was that threw the book, he told him he did not know. That was the only answer he could give, as he was not aware who threw the book.

MONTREAL YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

This Association is continuing to carry on its work vigorously. A house has been taken which for situation and comfort must prove a great boon to those women amongst us whose avocations keep them in the heat and dust of the city for a large portion of the day. A matron has been appointed who has entered upon her duties, and it is hoped that, in the course of a few days, the house will be ready for occupation. In endeavoring to exercise an influence over the temporal, moral and religious welfare of our young women, in teaching them habits of industry and frugality, and in elevating the tone of their evening recreations, the Association is doing a work which is urgently called for among us. The committee have to thank many liberal-hearted citizens for donations of furniture, &c. There still remain bedrooms, parlours, hall and kitchen to be furnished, and we would make a further appeal on behalf of the Association. Donations will be thankfully received by the Committee at the House, 47 Metcalfe street.

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND.

A Co-Operative Dunning Establishment Broken Up.

For sometime past an association has existed in the city, whose objects are lucidly stated in the following card, which was issued for the information of proposed subscribers.—

The Retail Trader's Protective Association, George Bell & Co., managers, Head offices, 154 St. James street, Montreal. The undersigned for the consideration of ten dollars, hereby agree with ——to take in hand such accounts as may be placed in their hands for collection; and they further agree to report to the said —— regularly every month, the names, occupations and addresses of such parties whom it is unsafe to credit; the same report to be held strictly confidential, and in no case to be indicated to any of the parties mentioned therein.

In witness whereof, we have hereto set our hand this — day of May, 1874.

(Signed), GEO. BELL & Co.

This is to certify that we have contracted to act as agents and collecting attorneys for the Retail Traders' Protective Agents' Association; we further agree to make a prompt return of all moneys received.

TRENHOLME & McLAREN, 13 Hospital street.

Another card issued runs as follows:

The Retail Traders' Protective Association, George Bell & Co., Managers, [illegible] all the principal cities of the Dominion. Instituted to check fraud, collect debts, and caution retail merchants against dishonest and unprincipled persons. Head office 154 St. James street, Montreal.

References—Wm. Clendinneng, Geo. Armstrong, J. J. McLaren, N. W. Trenholme. Toronto—W. H. Howland, President of Dominion Board of Trade; Ed. H. Kertland, Imperial Building and Savings' Association. Books were printed in large number for distribution among subscribers; the names of the citizens, among whom are several judges, quite a number of advocates, at least one Alderman marked as bad pay, were arranged in alphabetical order; each book was prefaced as follows:

Report. Strictly Confidential. Not to be Loaned.

Complaint was lodged by gentlemen who were thus branded as "dishonest and unprincipled" at the Police Court a day or two since, and yesterday the High Constable, armed with a warrant issued for black-mailing, made a descent upon the manager's office; the birds had flown, it is said, having been forewarned, but the papers, books, accounts, &c., &c., &c., were seized and removed to the High Constable's office, where they remain. It may be particularly mentioned as a matter of considerable interest to a number of citizens that the lists of citizens marked as bad pay, &c., were found in the handwriting of those by whom they had been furnished.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Senate.

OTTAWA, May 12.

The bill to permit foreign companies to lend and invest money in Canada was passed.

It was remarked that a vast deal of the business brought before Parliament should be attended to by the Local Legislatures.

House of Commons.

After the conclusion of the Premier's speech on the Pacific Railway resolutions, the bill was read a first time.

The bill to amend the Act relating to the Montreal Harbor Commission was read a second time, the Government going back upon the recently announced concession, the Premier stating that he had "changed his mind."

OTTAWA, May 13.

The injustice and absurdity of the present copy-right law was discussed, and the Premier expressed the hope that the Imperial Government would sanction the Canadian Act of 1872.

Mr. Cameron moved for a return of militia expenditure, and remarked that it was both absurd and wasteful to spend one-tenth of our revenue upon such service.—Carried.

Mr. Bowell brought up the dismissal of Dr. Strange from the Kingston Battery on account of alleged political activity against the Government, and charged the Premier with gross inconsistency.

THIRD READINGS.

The following bills were read a third time and passed:—A Bill to incorporate the Provincial Steam-ship Company—Mr. Domville; a Bill respecting the Federal Bank of Canada—Mr. Kirkpatrick; a Bill to change the name of the Victoria Bank of Canada to that of Manufacturer's Bank of Canada—Mr. Jette; a Bill to amend an act respecting the Bank of Nova Scotia—Mr. Jones (Halifax); a Bill to amend the act passed in the 34th year of Her Majesty's reign, intituled an act to amend and explain the act to amend the charter of the Ontario Bank—Hon. Mr. Cameron, Cardwell; to amend the Act 36 Vic., chap. 3[illegible], intituled on Act respecting Insurance Companies.

Mr. Mills moved the second reading of the bill for the removal of obstructions from navigable rivers. He explained the bill which was to provide for the removal and sale by auction of sunken lumber in navigable streams, about which complaint had been made.

The bill was read a second time on a division, 81 to 56.

The Libel bill was read a second time.

AUCTION SALES

By Benning & Barsalou.

IN CONSEQUENCE of THURSDAY being a holiday, the following sale will take place on FRIDAY MORNING, 15th, at ELEVEN o'clock.

VALUABLE PROPERTY

West side of the Mountain.

The subscribers have received instructions to sell at their Rooms, Nos. 126 and 128 St. Peter street,

On FRIDAY, 15th instant, that valuable property known as "Thornhill," Cote des Neiges, containing about 18 arpents, with a neat STONE COTTAGE and OUT-BUILDINGS, bounded in front by Cote St. Luke Road, in rear by Captain Raynes, on the east side by the property of Mr. Wm. Gunn, "formerly Judge Day's," and on the West side by Mr. John Lowe. This is one of the choicest spots on the Island. The property can be very advantageously divided into Building Lots. The Little Mountain is now wooded, but is adapted for Fruit Trees; it rises gently from the house, comprises a part of the property, and is a natural feature of the greatest value for Villa Residences, and one which, in other circumstances, could not be purchased for money. The drives are good, the roads in Winter being much better than streets in the City. The New Park, the Boulevard, the improving of the Mountain road, &c., are all things that add considerably to its value.

To be sold in one block. Commuted. Title perfect.

Terms—One-fourth cash; balance in ten years, with interest at 7 per cent.

Sale at our Office at ELEVEN o'clock.

BENNING & BARSALOU, Auctioneers.
107

BANKRUPT STOCK BY AUCTION.

The subscribers have been instructed by John Whyte, Esq., to sell at 980 St. Joseph street,

On SATURDAY, the 16th instant,

the Bankrupt Stock of Harris Greenburn, consisting of READY-MADE CLOTHING and GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHINGS. To be sold at so much in the $. Terms liberal.

Sale at ELEVEN o'clock.

BENNING & BARSALOU, Auctioneers.

SALE OF BUILDING LOTS

ON THE WESTERN MOUNTAIN.

The subscribers have been instructed by Mr. WM. BROWN to offer at public auction, on the ground,

On SATURDAY AFTERNOON, May 30th,

about 80 Building Lots, each 50 x 150 feet, part of the beautiful and well-known grounds of the Marchmont Nurseries and Fruit Gardens. The terms of sale will be exceedingly liberal. Descriptive circulars and plans are now ready, which may be had from the Auctioneers, from Christie & Pulton, Accountants, Union Building, St. Francois Xavier street, or from W. F. Lighthall, Esq., N.P., No. 44 St. James street.

Parties desiring to see the Lots will please call at the gardens.

Sale on SATURDAY, 30th May, at THREE o'clock.

BENNING & BARSALOU, Auctioneers.

The Post-Office Deficit.

It appears likely that the Government will not call upon Mr. Freer to make good the deficit recently pointed out. The Globe has an article affirming that as Post-office employees were frequently appointed without Mr. Freer being consulted, that gentleman cannot be held responsible for the loose state of the accounts.

The News of the Capital.

[Special to the STAR.]

OTTAWA, May 14.

The Government's Pacific Railway policy is variously commented upon; some holding it to be utterly impracticable even in the modified form of a mixed railway and water route; that the expense would be almost ruinous, whilst it would be a hard thing to turn away officials in the winter when the water ways were closed. It is hardly known what course the Opposition will take when the bill comes up to-morrow for the second reading. It is most probable that they will hardly be in a position to oppose the scheme entirely, but they may taunt the Government for having entered into a scheme which they hold to be more expensive and no more practicable than their own.

The Reciprocity in course of negotiation by Mr. Brown at Washington is very much like the last, and will, it is said, be agreed to.

The only real business before the House is the Pacific Railway Bill, which will occupy to-morrow and Saturday.

To-day being Ascension Day all public offices are closed.

A number of members have already left for home.

The Earl and Countess of Dufferin will be present at the cricket match at Rideau Hall to-day. Commons vs. Carleton clubs.

Yesterday two ladies were swinging vis-a-vis at Sandy Hill, when the swing broke, and they were precipitated to the ground, both sustaining internal injuries.

The "slaughter of the innocents" will commence in good earnest on Monday, when a large number of motions will be struck off the notice paper. The House will certainly be prorogued next week.

SAD FATALITY.

OTTAWA, May 14.

Dobbin, Chief of the Hull Police, was drowned this p. m, while gallantly trying to rescue a boy who had fallen into the creek at the old brewery, Hull Village. The bodies were recovered. The wife and three children of the brave fellow only arrived from Quebec last week.

FIRE.

THREE RIVERS, May 14.

A fire broke out at ten o'clock last night in a frame shed in rear of Hart street, which was totally destroyed. The loss is trifling; no insurance. These fires occur frequently; this is the fourth within fifteen days.

ROUND TOWN.

— Celina Legris was sent to St. John's Lunatic Asylum on Tuesday

—The 6th Battalion parades this evening at the Quebec Gate Barracks.

— There are 338 prisoners in the jail at present, 102 of whom are females.

— Arrivals to-day: brigte. Octavia, Pernambuco, and barque August, Maceio, sugar; SS. Althea, Barrow, rails; schr. Sea Bird, Quebec, light; SS. Prussian, and ship Shandon, Liverpool, general; brig Glengarry, Havre de Grace, Nfld., sundries.

— Capt. Dutton, of the SS. Prussian, will lecture to-morrow evening in Association Hall on behalf of the Ladies' Association in connection with the Ottawa street Wesleyan Church; his subject will be "Tales of the Sea," one upon which his long and varied experience amply qualifies him to speak with profit.

— The first anniversary of Lorne L.O.L. was celebrated by a dinner last evening in the Lodge Room, Point St. Charles. The room was handsomely decorated, and the festivities, which were conducted on temperance principles, passed off very pleasantly. The usual toasts were honored. The Deputy Grand Chaplain, Rev. Mr. Doudiet, was present.

— The lumber trade in the city is dull and purchases by large dealers have not been extensive during the present season, owing to the extent of the stocks wintered. Prices, compared with those of last fall, are not greatly changed. It is said that shipments will not be made to the South American Market, at least before the close of next month. The American trade is also depressed.

— Gratifying progress is reported on the Montreal, Chambly and Sorel Railway; 200 men are employed between Chambly and St. Mary's, and an equal number between Stanbridge, Upper Village and Province Line, where the road will connect with lines running through Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts, forming an independent line to Boston and Portland, a matter of very considerable moment to our commercial men.

— As will be seen on reference to our advertising columns, Messrs. S. P. Stickney & Son's World's Circus will open in this city on Thursday, the 21st inst. This is a purely Canadian organization, having been equipped and furnished in this City. Among the artists may be mentioned Mlle. Minnie Seamen, female rider; Mlle. La Rul, a Canadian female gymnast; the three Missco Brothers and Mr. Sam. Stickney, who has the reputation of being the most irresistible clown in the profession.—Com.

— Gold remained steady at 112 1-8. The stock exchange did not meet today; no quotations.

American Securities continue to decline:—

Pacific Mail, 43¾, 43; W. U. Telegraph, 70¼, 70; N. Y. Central, 97½, 97; Erie, 35¼; Michigan Southern, 75½, 75¼; Rock Island, 96½, —; North-West, 42¼, 42; North-West Preferred, —; Union Pacific, 27 1-8; Ohio and Mississippi, 22¾; 5-20 Bonds, 115 1-8; C. C. & I. C., 19; Toledo and Wabash, 37; St. Paul, 33¾; Delaware, 107.

Exchange rated at $4.88, and interest to carry gold rated at 3 per cent.

A NOVEL RACE.

A few days ago, as the engineer of the morning passenger train going West on the Detroit and Milwaukee road had reached a point three miles beyond the junction he saw a horse on the track ahead. He "tooted" at the animal, but the horse waited until the locomotive was at his heels, and then started and ran. The bell rang and the whistle screamed, but the horse kept the track for a full mile, and then leaped off and let the iron monster rush past him He was there next morning to repeat the same operation, and continued it with the same regularity until Wednesday morning. He then extended the race farther than usual, being in unusually good spirits. Coming to a cattle-guard, he hesitated an instant before making the jump, and the cow-catcher caught him. He was in the air making the leap when he was struck and thrown as high as the smoke-stack, but came down in a pond of water, and was seen to jump up and gallop off as if unhurt.

STICKNEY'S WORLD CIRCUS

second to none. Every effort will be made to please and amuse. While making no show of waggons and used up horses, our performance will be the very best in the country, rendered by the following ladies and gentlemen, the best in the profession:

MLLE. MINNIE SEAMAN, the graceful and dashing Female Rider.
MLLE. ELISE DE LA RUL, the Canadian Female Gymnast.
LITTLE ALICE, the smallest Child Rider in the world.
THE THREE MISSCO BROTHERS, the only successful rivals of the Hanlon Brothers, as the Three Flying Men of the Air.
MR. SAM STICKNEY, the irresistible, the mirth-making, laughter, provoking and altogether unapproachable CLOWN.
THE GERMAN BROTHERS.
MLLE MARIE, the Daring Corde Elastique and Volante.

SIX O'CLOCK.

The Retail Trader's Protective Association.

The developements in connection with this institution will tend to stimulate those who are agitating to bring such agencies within legislative control. In this instance it is alleged that the manager or managers have gone to work most recklessly and spitefully while the war rant issued points to a yet more serious charge—even blackmailing Of course, so far, all this is but one side of the story. It remains to be seen whether "George Bell & Co." will go into court to give their version of the case.

Doubtless there could be adduced plenty of evidence to show that such associations are desirable, and, looking at the question broadly, we may concede that point, but if the disease is bad the remedy is one not to be carelessly resorted to, and there certainly should be a law to guard the community against the scheming of any adventurous and unscrupulous persons who see in the system a way to "raise the wind" at the expense of their neighbors' reputation.

News of the Capital.

[Special to THE STAR.]

OTTAWA, May 14.

Mr. T. H. Grant, of Quebec, is here in connection with the graving dock scheme.

Mr. Costigan has abandoned the idea of bringing up his New Brunswick School resolutions this session. It is said to be on the advice of the clergy, and in view of the approaching local election which might give rise to serious complications.

Mr. Lamere, of the Richelieu Company, and Mr. Millov, of the Canadian Navigation Company, who have been here for several days on business in connection with their respective lines, left for Montreal to-day.

There are a number of office seekers in the city.

News of the West.

[Press Despatch.]

TORONTO, May 14.

Two fires occurred here early this morning. One destroyed the wood sheds of E. Coatsworth on Parliament street; damage $1,000, the other destroyed the premises of Samuel Nesbitt, bung manufacturer, on Pine street; loss $1,800. Insured in Queen City for $800, and in the North British and Mercantile $1,200.

Late last night Michael Hughes, living on Duchess street, was thrown out of a buggy and died very soon afterwards.

Two hundred guests are expected at the Brydges dinner at the Queen's Hotel to-night.

A telegram from London this morning states that the County Council are likely to reconsider their action in the matter of the sale of the Exhibition grounds and that arrangements will be made by which the annual fair will be held as usual.

The general feeling here with respect to the South Oxford election is that it will be a close run, and that Mr. McCaughey, the Conservative candidate, will be elected, but by a small majority.

A private meeting of the leading Grits will be held this afternoon to fix on an eligible candidate for West Peterboro.

FIRE IN A FREIGHT TRAIN.

PHILADELPHIA, May 12.

A car of oil on the first Harrisburg freight train East this morning took fire at Highspire, six miles east of Harrisburg, at noon to-day, and before it could be extinguished entirely consumed two other cars loaded with oil, and one car loaded with live hogs. About thirty hogs managed to escape. About 200 feet of track was destroyed, the rails being badly bent by the heat. The telegraph wires were broken down, the poles being burned off.

Maritime Intelligence.

CAMPBELLTON April 24.

The Harewood ship, of Newcastle, Black, from Greenock for Quebec, (coal), drifted on Scarbrock Sanda, in a fog at 11 a.m., but floated off at 4 p.m. and proceeded in tow of a tug, without apparent damage.

RECORD OF WRECKS.—The number of wrecks reported during the week ending April 25, was 63, making for the present year 701.—Shipping and Mercantile Gazette.

PUBLIC OPINION.

THE LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.

To the Editor of THE STAR.

The License Commissions are certainly deserving of praise for having diminished the number of tavern licenses. The amount of pressure and interest which has been brought to bear on them to grant licenses to certain individuals must be counteracted by a strong pressure of public feeling. A reconsideration of applications would induce the public to think that the Commissioners doubt their own judgments, or that influences of a peculiar kind are brought to bear upon them. Let the Commissioners stand firm.

CITIZEN.

ROUND TOWN.

— The laborer, Sexton, was not so seriously injured as supposed; his arm was dislocated.

— The S.S. Quebec, Dominion Line, formerly belonged, under another name, to the Cunard Line.

— Rev. Canon Baldwin will address Sunday School teachers this evening in the Lecture Room of Trinity Church.

— To-day being a fete, and to-morrow being mail-day, the ordinary weekly meeting of the Board of Harbor Commissioners has been postponed until Saturday afternoon.

— According to the "Bell & Co." list there are, at least, 532 "Dead Beats" in Montreal. Bell is from Toronto, originally from Ireland. The "Co." is at present unknown.

— The SS. Quebec, 1,403 tons, sailed this afternoon for Liverpool with a general cargo; brigte. Pierre Nolasque has left for Campbelltown, laden with engines for the Intercolonial Railway.

— Grand Trunk employees are in the habit of leaving cars on the revetment wall track; thus effectually blocking a favorite promenade and thoroughfare. Mr. Hickson's attention is requested to this matter.

— The young man, Bagg, is progressing favorably; he has disclaimed having entertained any intention of committing suicide, and says that he was endeavoring to get on board of the train, but fell through being drunk.

— A matter previously unknown in the annals of this port is the arrival within two days, on Monday and Tuesday of this week, of ten steamships in rapid succession; another steamship arrived yesterday and a third this morning. The first sailing vessel did not reach port until yesterday.

ATTENTION is directed to the sale of fine fruit and ornamental trees and shrubs to take place at Mr. Shaw's stores, Craig street, on Friday (to-morrow) at two o'clock.

BOOTS AND SHOES.—To-morrow, Friday morning, Devany & Co. sell at No. 303 Notre Dame street, the large stock in trade, fixtures, safe, &c., belonging to the estate of A. Brodeur, insolvent. By order of assignee. The hour is ten o'clock.

THE CROPS IN CALIFORNIA.

A letter from San Francisco, dated May 6th, says:

The season here is cold and backward compared with other seasons; yet, the crops in general are looking well and healthy and bid fair for a bountiful harvest.

FIRST ARRIVALS.

The first ocean sailing vessel that arrived in the year 1852 was the ship City of Manchester; '53, ship Shandon; '54, ship America; '55, ship Ottawa; '56, ship Queen of the Sea; '57, ship Montreal; '58, ship Toronto; '59, ss. United Kingdom; 1860, ss. United Kingdom; '61, steam barge Jura; '62, ship St. Lawrence; '63, ship City of Quebec; '64, ship Hardmann; '65, ss. Peruvian; '66 ship Gleniffer; '67, ss. Moravian; '68, ss. Hibernian: '69, ss. Nestorian; 1870, ship Havana; '71, ship Lake Superior; '72, ss. Scandinavian; '73, ss. Peruvian; '74, ss. Quebec.

THE POPE-MACDONALD LETTER.

It will be remembered that Dr. Baker Edwards examined the writing on the now notorious envelope and slip, and testified that the writing was not Mr. Palmer's. In consequence of a letter written by Mr. Paine, the New York expert, Dr. Edwards writes to a contemporary as follows:—

"I was not, however, left long alone in my researches, for after several hours of careful examination and annotation, I was joined in my investigation by the well-known and skilled microscopist, Rev. C. Bolles, of Salem, who after prolonged examination fully confirmed my opinion in every particular, and would have given evidence to the effect had his engagements elsewhere permitted. In an informal interview with the Commissioners he stated his firm opinion that the address and slip in question was not the handwriting of Mr. Palmer, and that these were written with a fine quill pen."

ALLEGED EMIGRATION SWINDLE.

How the Dominion Gets a Bad Name.

A couple of Swiss immigrants came to town yesterday from Cornwall, and stated that recently they, with seven others, one of whom was a woman, on landing at New York, and reaching Castle Garden, had met some agent who induced them by the promise of $2, or $2.50 a day each, to take passage for Cornwall, where he assured them they would find work; previous to starting they were furnished tickets and required to sign an agreement written in English, which they were told in German was only a reasonable obligation, although they did not understand its contents. On reaching Cornwall they were provided with work, but receiving only between 60 and 80 cents per day, they became speedily discontented, and secretly all but the woman, an Alsatian, who was very scantily supplied with funds, absconded; they were obliged, they discovered, to pay for their passage, the sum to be deducted from their wages. The men in question, one of whom is a weaver, and the other a mechanic, having tried in vain in this city for work, left this afternoon for New York, where they have friends; very material assistance was given them by their countryman, Sergt. Dreifuss. The tenor of the letters which these emigrants will write to their relatives and friends in their native land may be easily inferred. It is certainly the duty of the Government to endeavor to find out who the Cornwall agent is, with a view to putting a stop to further practices of this nature.

A SPLENDID AFFAIR.

A Glimpse of the Mansion House Ball-Room.

A London paper of the 29th ult., alluding to the preparations for the ball given by the Lord Mayor of London in honor of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, says:—

Covered awnings protect the steps leading to the centre baclony, and over this, between the pillars of the facades, are arranged the several crystal devices which will illuminate the various busy cross-roads converging at the Lord Mayor's hospitable home. In the centre is a monogram in which the letters A. and M. are separated by a blue anchor, and around the device are wreaths of oak and palm. On either side of the centre device are Prince of Wales feathers, and underneath it an illumination of the arms of the City of London. But let us follow those tree-ferns and palm trees and curious shrubs which have arrived from South Kensington, and are being assisted under the striped awning and up the Mansion House steps.

On either side of the great central doorway, before the grand saloon is approached, are retiring rooms for the Princesses on one side and the Princes on the other. The grand or centre saloon, surrounded by massive pillars wreathed for the occasion with laurels, firs and flowers, will be occupied by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, who from thrones will receive their guests. This will be one of the most imposing sights of the evening. Behind the chairs of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress a beautiful fountain has been arranged which springs from a rich bed of growing flowers. Flags and banners hang down from crystal chandeliers, and everywhere the heavy and solid character of the architecture is relieved by coloured flags, green festoons, and the gayest of flowers. Once more on each side of the pillared saloon are supper-rooms, drawing-rooms, and retiring-rooms. The Royal supper-room will accommodate about sixty specially selected guests, and here, on a buffet opposite to the door, will be placed the gold plate for which the city of London is pre-eminently distinguished.

The Mansion House drawing-rooms, with their fountains and the panels of the walls decorated with amber satin will remind visitors of the revived "School for Scandal" at the Prince of Wales Theatre, and confirm the accuracy of the decorations now attached to Sheridan's play. High over the fountain in the reception saloon has been artfully focussed a limelight with many coloured rays, which play upon both fountain and flowers with charming effect. When the moment has arrived for the reception of the Royal guests, a space will have been cleared in front of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, and the visitors will have been carefully roped back under the heavy pillars of the reception hall. The arrival will be announced by a flourish from the City silver trumpets, and when the Royal party comes under the heavy curtains, and is ushered into the saloon, a procession will be immediately formed and the Lord Mayor and his guests will proceed in state to the Egyptian Hall, where the dancing will take place.

The rude and bold character of the architectural design of this room, heavy as it is, with dark gold and darker painting, has been admirably relieved by banners hung aloft between the pillars, after the fashion of the Chapel of St. George at Windsor and the choir of Westminster Abbey, which are specially dedicated to the Knights of the Orders of the Garter and the Bath. Under the painted window of the Egyptian Hall will be arranged the special dais, and this when finished will be the central point of the decorations of the ball-room. Pillars of what appear to be coloured marbles and bright crystals rise over the thrones of state, and everywhere in profusion are flowers, flags, devices, and the richest of drapery. In compliance with numerous requests which have been made to him, the Lord Mayor has consented to give the general public an opportunity of beholding the magnificent decorations provided for the ball. The doors of the Mansion House will be thrown open from six to ten o'clock on Thursday evening, and admission will be obtained by tickets, which can be procured in the secretary's office, from eleven until four o'clock the same day. About 500 couple were present at the ball.

BOSTON AND MONTREAL.

(Boston Globe.)

The bill before the Dominion Parliament, looking to the incorporation of the International Transportation Company, with a capital of $5,000,000, is one in which Boston has a deep interest. The design is to unite the interests of Canada and the Western States for utilizing the great lakes and the St. Lawrence River as their outlet to the ocean. Persons who are interested in this scheme assert that products moving to market from the upper lakes, by way of the St. Lawrence through the ports of Montreal or Quebec, or from Montreal by way of the Richelieu to Burlington, Vt., and thence to the markets of New England, principally to Boston for shipment, would gain from ten to twelve days in time, and the cost would be from twenty-five to thirty per cent. less in freight and charges than by way of the Erie Canal, Albany and New York; and that imports from England can be laid in Chicago via Montreal cheaper than from New York.

The Dominion scheme is to establish lines of propellers on the lakes, and steamships on the ocean, together with through lines of freight cars, so as to attract the export trade to these new channels. For many years the question of making Boston the winter port of Montreal has been entertained; and from a combination of circumstances it is now brought into unusual prominence. The export of grain from Montreal in 1873 reached 13,000,000 bushels out of 14,000,000 bushels received. During the months from December to April, or early in May, navigation of the St. Lawrence is closed by ice, but previous to this "shut down," and preparatory for it, a large stock of grain is stored for export during the winter.

Early in December last, a delegation of the Boston Board of Trade visited Montreal, and views were exchanged with the grain shippers of that city, as was reported at the time, respecting how to secure closer business relations between the two cities. Montreal is the point on the St. Lawrence towards which converge great water and railway lines, and from which radiate lines of communication with various sections, including New England. In view of the Dominion scheme to facilate transportation quickly and cheaply, Boston has little to do except to carefully examine the field, and establish facilities and offer such inducements as may afford relief to Montreal shippers, and for its own commercial advancement. It is also evident that Montreal shippers must hereafter look to Boston as a principal outlet, especially in the winter months, for a large share of its freight. The completion and improvement of the Vermont Central and the Montreal, Portland and Boston roads will provide these outlets to Boston. There is no good reason why Boston should not ultimately possess much of the trade of the St. Lawrence River at all seasons of the year.

THE LIVING WONDER.

CHAPTER XLVI.—Continued.

He continued his task placidly as steps were heard in the hall, and the key was grated in the lock, and he did not even stir when the door was opened and Lord Adlowe entered, after a preliminary knock.

"Ah, a fire!" said his lordship, frowning. "Well, it's a well, perhaps. You shall have a fire, Miss Giralda. Your attendant," he added, "is come."

"My attendant!" said Giralda, arching her brows.

"Yes: the woman who will take charge of you in my absence. I shall not stay here longer than nightfall, lest I bring discovery on myself. I intend to make an apparent search for you, and throw off any suspicion that I may be concerned with your disappearance from Dalton, otherwise than having frightened you away by my presence there. I cannot conceal that. I am going back to Dalton with the horses myself."

"And Wigby?"

"Will stay here to act as assistant guard. Should Lord Grosvenor, as is almost impossible, succeed in tracing you here, I shall have force enough here to resist him."

At this juncture a step was heard on the stairs, and soon after a woman made her appearance, bearing a tray well laden with food.

Giralda recognized her instantly as the mistress of the bluff-cottage, Mrs. Bittly.

She came in, set down her tray, made a curtesy to Giralda, and started at Fay in apparent surprise.

That small individual having recovered his equanimity under the combined soothing influences of sleep, food, and fire, returned her stare with interest.

Giralda gave the woman no greeting. The sight of that hard-featured face, with its expression of greed and shrewdness, made her sick at heart.

"Oh, very well, miss!" said Mrs. Bittly, tossing her head. "I don't pretend to be rich and grand; but one thing I do pretend to be—mistress of this ere house, which my lord sent for me and asked me to come. If folks is scornful, they must have made up their minds to marry my lord, which I do say is the best and handsomest man in the United Kingdom."

Adlowe saw that Giralda turned away her head to conceal her aversion to this woman, and he secretly exulted, believing that Mrs. Bittly's corseness and vulgarity were so many scourges to drive Giralda to accept him.

"I leave you and Bittly invested with authority to seperate these two whenever you think it best," he said, maliciously. "Should the young lady signify at any time her willingness to marry me, Wigby will come for me at once. You are to keep her very close, Mrs. Bittly. She will make every attempt at escape, and on that account I think you had better spend much time with her in these rooms. Wigby and Bittly can be continually on the watch both against her escape and against intrusion. Should Lord Grosvenor ever make his appearance in this vicinity, you know what to do and how to meet him?"

Mrs. Bittly signified assent.

Giralda had listened to these remarks with a paling face, and with a growing sense of trouble. She had not felt how powerless she was till now, when she knew that the Bittlys and Wigby were to be employed constantly to watch against her escape or rescue.

"Giralda," said her persistant and unwelcome suitor, approaching her, "you have driven me to this course by your coldness and refusal to marry me. Remember that you have but to speak the word to be restored to your friends. Remember that on you depends your father's happiness, your father's safety, your mother's peace. The fate of your entire family is in your hands!"

He turned and quitted the room, followed by Mrs. Bittly, who locked the door.

CHAPTER XLVII.

If her enemy had been keen and swift in his pursuit of Giralda, her lover had been no less keen and earnest.

He had not known of her flight from Trevelyan Park until the next morning, when he had called, at the hour he had appointed, on his way to London.

He had happened to arrive in one of Lord Trevelpan's brief seasons of rest during his search, and the marquis, with haggard eyes, told him the story of the preceding evening's events, declaring that he had already thoroughly searched the neighbourhood, and that it was his opinion that Giralda had sought her mother in London, or her father at The Evergreens.

"At any rate," said Lord Trevelyan, "I am sure that Pumpton is with her, and that she is safe. I will find her if I have to hire a detective to search for her. I am going up to London."

Lord Grosvenor made no attempt to combat this resolution, although having more light on the subject of Giralda's family, he did not for an instant believe that Giralda had gone to London. He had told her that The Evergreens was deserted, and she was not likely to go there. She would not, of course, imperil the Lady Beatrice by going to her. He decided in her own mind that Pumpton had taken her to some secluded place, where she would be safe from pursuit, and that he should hear from her at the earliest opportunity.

"I should like you to let me know if you hear from her," said the marquis, in a troubled voice. "Of course all is over between you and her, Grosvenor. You will never link your name to that of the daughter of Geoffrey Trevelyan——"

"And why not?" interrupted Grosvenor, with flashing eyes. "I love her and she loves me. As to her father, he is the noblest, the purest, and most injured of men. One of these days you will know the truth—that you have foully wronged one of the truest souls that heaven ever made. It will be a terrible hour for you when the truth comes out."

"The secret of Giralda's parentage, then, is not new to you this morning?"

Lord Grosvenor replied in the negative.

"Giralda told me all her story on the the night I rescued her from the bluff cottage," he said. "She never knew that her father was Geoffrey Trevelyan until you took her up to London. It was some strange Providence that guided her to you—that made her love you. Her parents would sooner have suffered her to enter the den of a lion than to enter your house."

Lord Trevelyan's face paled, and his lip quivered.

"I think Giralda really loved me," he murmured.

"Loved you, my lord! She was never tired of sounding your praises. Her love for you was genuine, and she dreaded nothing more than being sent from you."

The marquis averted his face.

"You have seen him?" he asked, after a brief space, in an altered voice; "Geoffrey?"

"I have seen him."

There was another silence. Lord Trevelyan leaned more heavily on his staff, and continued to avert his face.

"How does he look?" he asked, at length, huskily. "What does he say of me?"

"He looks older, and changed, of course, from the boy you knew, my lord. He looks like a true-hearted, pure-souled man. He said nothing of you."

The marquis sighed heavily.

"Giralda is not his only child?" he questioned, still in that husky voice.

"She is not. Mr. Trevelyan has two sons. The younger is a fair-haired little fellow, who will make a poet some day," said Lord Grosvenor pitying the lonely and misguided old marquis from his soul, and being willin to impart the knowledge which he knew the vindictive old nobleman longed and thirsted for. "He is a boy to love and cherish."

"And the elder?"

"He is one to be proud of, my lord. He must be nearly fifteen, tall for his years, brave, manly, and spirited. He has your black eyes, your hair, your complexion. He is a true Trevelyan."

"He looks like me?" and the marquis's voice fluttered with surprise. "Strange! What do they call him?"

"Rupert—Walter Rupert."

"My name!" muttered the old lord, under his breath. "They have given their boy my name!"

"And that fact alone proves Geoffrey Trevelyan's innocence!" cried Giralda's lover. "If he had been guilty he would not have named his son after you, when every utterance of the name must have brought back the memory of his attempted crime. Lord Trevelyan, you have been wronged and deceived most grievously; but the man who has wronged and deceived you is Lord Adlowe, and not Geoffrey Trevelyan!"

The marquis shook his head obstinately, resolutely conquering the softening emotions Lord Grosvenor had aroused.

"Geoffrey has won an able advocate in you, my lord," he said, his voice gathering strength and harshness. "He has successfully imposed upon you. He cannot impose upon me. I am made of sterner stuff. But if Giralda will return to me I will forbear to prosecute him. I promise nothing further. To forgive him would be impossible!"

Lord Grosvenor did not prolong the conversation. He decided to defer his visit to town, and to engage in the search for Giralda, less because he feared she had not found safe refuge than because he feared Adlowe might trace her and molest her.

From one of the Park servants he found out the address of Pumpton's relatives, and those of the friends she was most in the habit of visiting; and during the day he called upon them, but, of course, without success.

In the evening he returned to the Eyrie, half expecting to find a letter there from Giralda; but in this he was disappointed.

At daybreak he was in the saddle again.

This was the morning on which Lord Adlowe encountered Mrs. Pumpton as she was coming out of Dalton, and it was on the evening of this day that Adlowe effected his capture of Giralda and Fay.

The day was passed by Lord Grosvenor in fruitless search, and in the evening he returned home, only to be disappointed anew in his hope of a letter or message from his betrothed.

To be Continued.

WIT AND HUMOR.

A woman's modesty is like her color—exceedingly becoming if it is not put on.

Ducks have decided opinions of their own; they never hesitate to come out flat-footed.

"Come out here, and I'll lick the whole of you," said an urchin to some sticks of peppermint in a confectioner's window.

Somebody advertises a preparation for keeping a lady's hands free from chaps. A report that she has no money would do the same thing.

There is one rascal in Chicago whose photograph does not adorn the rogues' gallery. The photographer hadn't a plate large enough to take in his cheek.

During an examination, a medical student, being asked, "When does mortification ensue?" replied, "When you pop the question, and are answered No!"

"Dried tongue," was the answer which a minister, just going out to "exchange," gave to some one who asked him what he had in his carpet-bag—which contained seven sermons.

A lecturer was dilating on the powers of the magnet, defying any one to show or name anything surpassing its powers. A hearer demurred, and instanced a young lady who used to attract him thirteen miles every Sunday.

A lady had her dress trimmed with bugles before going to a ball. Her little daughter wanted to know if the bugles would blow when she danced? "Oh, no," said the mother; "papa will do that when he sees the bill."

"What's your business?" asked a judge of a prisoner at the bar. "Well, I'spose you might call me a locksmith." "When did you last work at your trade?" "Last night, when I heard a call for the police, I made a bolt for the front door."

"Do you mean to say," said a traveller to a Missouri sheriff, "that a man was shot here yesterday because he was caught in the act of carrying off a rope?" "Yes," quietly answered the sheriff, "but there was a horse at the end of the rope."

A modest young husband sent the following message over the wires to friends in this city the other day: "See ninth chapter of Isaiah, sixth verse." The dusty old Bible was hauled down in an instant, and the above chapter and verse were hunted out and found to explain all. The verse reads, "For unto us a child is born—unto us a son is given."

SPICE.

The hatters have kept ahead.

Tailors say they mean to give their customers fits.

Butchers complain of being asked to work at killing prices.

Upholsterers complain that hangings have gone out of fashion.

Candle-makers urge that wick-ed work ought to be well paid for.

Bakers say they knead more, and don't like to see many rich loafers.

Painters complain that they have become literally hue-ers of wood.

The paper-makers say that their business is such that it brings them to rags.

Printers say they are tired and can't "set up" any longer—that's what's the matter.

A labor strike is said to be impending. The carpenters say they don't get enough to pay their board.

Boiler-makers say that Congress has kept the country in hot water to such a degree that they have no chance.

Shoemakers say that it takes their awl to keep them at work, and their sole dependence is often in their last job.

Wheelwrights say that all the spokesmen in Congress vote I more pay before retiring, and they expect to do as well as their fellows.

And finally, the plumbers propose to have their customers do the work, and charge double price for superintending it themselves. Each superintendent will have three tenders, one to fill his pipe, another to hold his hat, and a third to act as substitute when he goes out "to see a man."

RADWAY'S MEDICINES.

THE WONDERS OF MODERN CHEMISTRY.

Sarsaparillian and its Associates.

CHANGES AS SEEN AND FELT

AS THEY DAILY OCCUR

After Using a Few Doses of

DR. RADWAY'S

Sarsaparillian Resolvent,

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

1. Good spirits, disappearance of weakness, languor, melancholy; increase and hardness of flesh and muscles.

2. Strength increases, appetite improves, relish for food, no more sour eructations or waterbrash, good digestion, calm and undisturbed sleep, awaken fresh and vigorous.

3. Disappearance of spots, blotches, pimples; the skin looks clear and healthy, the urine changes from its turbid and cloudy appearance to a clear sherry or amber color; water passes freely from the bladder through the urethra without pain or scalding; little or no sediment; no pain or weakness.

4. Marked diminution of quantity and frequency of involuntary weakening discharges (if afflicted that way), with certainty of permanent cure. Increased strength exhibited in the secreting glands and functional harmony restored to the several organs.

5. Yellow tinge on the white of the eyes, and the swarthy, saffron appearance of the skin changed to aclear, lively, and healthy color.

6. Those suffering from weak or ulcerated lungs or tubercles will realize great benefit in expectorating freely the tough phlegm or mucous from the lungs, air-cells, bronchi or windpipe, throat or head; diminishing of the frequency of cough; general increase of strength throughout the system, stoppage of night sweats and pains and feeling of weakness around the ankles, legs, shoulders, etc.; cessation of cold and chills, sense of suffocation; hard breathing and croupy sens of cough on lying down or arising in the morning. All these distressing symptoms gradually and surely disappear.

7. As day after day the SARSAPARILLIAN is taken new signs of returning health will appear; as the blood improves in strength and purity the case will diminish, and all foreign and impure deposits, nodes, tumors, cancers, hard lumps, etc., be resolved away, and the unsound made sound and healthy; ulcers, fever sores, syphilitic sores, chronic skin diseases gradually disappear.

8. In cases where the system has been salivated, and Mercury, Quicksilver, Corrosive Sublimate, have accumulated and become deposited in the bones, joints, etc., causing necrosis of the bones, rickets, spinal curvatures, contortions, white swellings, varicose veins, etc., the SARSAPARILLIAN will resolve away these deposits, and exterminate the virus of the disease from the system.

9. If those who are taking these medicines for the cure of Cancrie, Scrofulous, or Syphilitic disease, however slow may be the cure, "feel better," and find their general health improving, more flesh and weight increasing or even keeping its own, it is a sure sign that the cure is progressing. In these diseases the patient either gets better or worse—the virus of the disease is not inactive; if not arrested and driven from the blood, it will spread and continue to undermine the constitution. As soon as the SARSAPARILLIAN makes the patient "feel better" every hour you will grow better and increase in health, strength, and flesh.

The great power of this remedy is in diseases that threaten death—as in

CONSUMPTION OF THE LUNGS AND TUBERCULOUS PITHISIS, CROFULA,
SYPHILOID DISEASES,
WASTING,
DEGENERATION, and
ULCERATION OF THE KIDNEYS,
DIABETES,
STOPPAGE OF WATER (instantaneous relief afforded where catheters have to be used, thus doing away with the painful operation of using these instruments), dissolving stone in the bladder and in all cases of Inflammation of the Bladder and Kidneys, in chronic cases of Leucorrhea and Uterine diseases.

In tumors, nodes, hard lumps, and syphiloid ulcers; in dropsy; in venereal sore throat, ulcers, and in tubercles of the lungs; in gout, dyspepsia, rheumatism, rickets; in mercurial deposits—it is in these terrible forms of disease, where the human body has become a complete wreck, and where every hour of existence is torture, wherein this great remedy challenges the astonishment and admiration of the sick. It is in such cases, where all the pleasures of existence appear cut off from the unfortunate, and by its wonderful, almost supernatural agency, it restores the hopeless to a new life and new existence where this great remedy stands alone in its might and power.

In the ordinary skin diseases that every one is more or less troubled with, a few doses will in most cases, and a few bottles in the more aggravated forms, work a permanent cure.

Those afflicted with chronic diseases should purchase a package containing one dozen bottles. Price $9 per dozen, or $5 per half dozen bottles, or $1 per bottle. Sold by druggists.

PURE, FRESH MILK.

THE MOTHER'S BLESSING AND THE CHILD'S HEALTH.

The proprietor of the Grey's Creek Dairy, Cornwall, Ont., having increased one hundred and fifty cows (which have daily arrived in the City of Montreal, where he has erected commodious, well ventilated stables by the canal side, is now ready to deliver, every morning and evening, pure fresh milk in any part of the city, in quantities from one gallon to a hundred gallons, within one hour from the "milking time." The cows are foddered with the best cut hay, moule and bran, steamed at every meal. No brewers' grains or swill of any kind used. The vessels in which the milk is collected are scrupulously scalded by steam, and thus kept constantly, after use, absolutely clean. These remarks strictly apply to the stables, fodder and dairy at Grey's Creek, from which the milk is sent to Montreal every morning and evening by Express.

The proprietor having over three hundred cows, is prepared to supply, daily, one thousand gallons of milk among the hotel-keepers, hospitals, public institutions, confectioners, milk-vendors, and others consuming large quantities. The proprietor is not only anxious but willing to have every test applied to the milk in order to prove its purity.
