NEW YORK ELECTION TO-MORROW.

Both Sides Profess To Be Confident.

HEARST NOT SPENDING MONEY —BETTING ODDS FAVOR HUGHES.

New York, Nov. 5.—The New York State political campaign has closed with great meetings and much excitement on both sides. Hughes and Hearst are equally confident of election, and it is difficult to predict the result. Hughes claims all the way from one hundred to two hundred thousand majority, while Hearst is somewhat more moderate. From inside sources it is known that the latter fixes his majority at about sixty thousand. Betting on Wall Street curb Saturday was about four to one on Hughes for large wagers, and 3 to 1 for small ones. Considerable money was offered at evens that Hughes will carry New York State by a plurality of 100,000.

Hearst's friends insist that Wall Street betting is wide of the mark, and that the gamblers there do not know what they are about. The Hearst people say their candidate will poll an enormous labor vote, and will certainly be elected.

HEARST NOT SPENDING FREELY.

Hearst's "dough bag" has not been opened wide enough to satisfy upstate Independence League men or Democrats. So far as money is concerned, Hearst movement is on the rocks of bankruptcy. It is said that at most only ten dollars for each election district has been sent from Gilsey House and State Democratic headquarters at Victoria Hotel to the men in up-state counties who must get out to vote on election day. It is pointed out that wealthy as Hearst is, it would take a greater millionaire than he is to finance his campaign in New York, California Chicago and Massachusetts. When a prominent Tammany leader yesterday heard that only ten dollars was being sent out to each district captain, he exclaimed:

"Well, it's all up, then; you can't win elections on sentiment."

DEMOCRATS EXPECT TO GAIN IN CONGRESS.

Washington, D.C., November 5. — With election day but a few hours away, the political situation has crystalized to an extent that permits a survey of the field, limited, however, to the point where the battle has waged the fiercest between the two dominant parties for control of the 60th congress and for state supremacy. The managers of both the Republican and Democratic campaigns agree that the Democrats are to make gains over their present representation in Congress. Both are also agreed to the states where the gains are to come from, and both are directing the energies of the closing hours of the campaign to the battlefields.

POLICEMAN A WOMAN.

SPANISH FEMALE MASQUERADED AS A MAN FOR 30 YEARS.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The Madrid correspondent of the Matin sends a strange story, resembling some which have developed in New York in recent years, of women successfully passing themselves off as men for long periods. The correspondent says that a policeman in the Spanish capital fell in the street in a faint. A physician found that the policeman was a woman. Investigation revealed that she had served in the marine corps for the usual period, and had afterwards been for thirty years a policeman, rising to the rank of sergeant.

She was never suspected of being other than a man.

STATE AND CHURCH IN FRANCE.

Latter May Forfeit $80,000,000 Worth of Property.

STATE'S POLICY IS ONE OF NEUTRALITY TOWARDS ALL RELIGIONS.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The Minister of Public Instruction and Worship, M. Briand, Saturday announced in an authorized interview that the Government did not regard the Catholic Church as being in revolt against the law providing for the separation of the Church and State, or against the State. The Catholic Church, having simply declined to take advantage of its privilege, under the law, as the other religions did, on December 11th would forfeit its $80,000,000 worth of property, and thereafter would live under the common law. There would be neither martyrdom nor persecutions of the faithful. The churches, as state and communal property, would remain open for Catholic worship. The object for which the Republican party in France had struggled for thirty years was achieved. The Concordat was at an end, the State would no longer contribute to the support of any religion, and the priests would no longer enjoy privileges. In both their duties and obligations they would be on an equality with other citizens. In other words, the State was neutral towards all religions and would permit the exercise of all of them, with special favors to none.

UNITED STATES TO HELP JAPANESE.

GIVES FEDERAL CO-OPERATION IN SAN FRANCISCO.

San Francisco, Nov. 5.—The Government at Washington has taken steps to aid the Japanese of San Francisco in their fight to procure admission to the public schools. Attorney General Moody has instructed United States District Attorney Robert T. Devlin to lend his aid to attorneys R. M. Fickert and Masuji Miyakawa, representing the Japanese community, in the injunction proceedings that have been brought in the Circuit Court to compel the Board of Education to allow Japanese children to enter any school of San Francisco to which white children are admitted.

Attorney Miyakawa said that he had gone before the Circuit Court and requested that proceedings instituted by him be suspended pending the result of the investigation now making by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor. "Attorney General Moody, however, has instructed the district attorney in this city to lend his aid in these injunction proceedings." Secretary Metcalf was closeted Friday with Japanese Consul Uyeda, District Attorney Devlin, Commissioner of Immigration M. H. North, Justice Henshaw of the Supreme Court and Justices Gilbert and Ross, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The result of the conference was not made public.

FUEL CRISIS IN RUSSIA.

MINISTRY OF COMMERCE CONSIDERING MEASURES FOR ITS ALLEVATION.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 5.—A conference was held at the Ministry of Commerce Saturday to consider measures for alleviating the fuel crisis. A project for the abolition of the duties on fuel oil, in order to permit the importation of American oils to compete with the Russian fuel residum, the price of which is now almost prohibitive, was discussed.

The abolition of the duties on fuel oil is advocated by the Minister of Commerce and the Central Russian Industrials, who claim that oil can be imported by way of Libau, at rates 20 per cent. below the present prices. The representatives of the Baku oil interests oppose the proposition.

THE HAGUE PEACE PALACE.

TRUSTEES TO BE SUED OVER ACCEPTANCE OF THE DESIGN.

London, Nov. 5.—The Hague correspondent of the Telegraph, says that the trustees of the Peace Palace, the funds for the construction of which were given by Andrew Carnegie, will shortly be sued for illegally accepting the jury's verdict in favor of the design submitted for the palace by M. Cordonnier.

It is claimed that the carrying out of this design can only be effected at a cost of nearly double the amount of Mr. Carnegie's gift.

IMMIGRANTS FOR THE TOWNSHIPS.

624 Have Been Secured by Mr. Brewster.

TOWNSHIPS MEMBERS INTERESTING THEMSELVES IN THE QUESTION — A DIFFICULT SITUATION.

Last spring, Mr. E. W. Brewster, of Compton, was appointed Immigration Agent for the Eastern Townships, and as a result of his efforts 624 persons have become settlers in the Townships since the date of his appointment. He has been accustomed to meet the boats at Quebec and has secured these results by talking with the immigrants and setting forth the attractions of the Townships. He has always been armed with many applications for farm help, so that the immigrants could be assured of immediate work.

The 624 settlers directed to the Townships by Mr. Brewster are divided as follows: Single men 487, married men 38, married women 38, single women 16, children 45.

They have been distributed by counties as follows: Sherbrooke, 131; Compton. 126; Stanstead, 78; Richmond and Wolfe, 88; Brome, 53; Missisquoi, 47; Shefford, 26; Drummond, 16; Huntingdon, 11; Chateguay, 5.

They have come by months as follows: April, 61; May, 129; June, 137; July, 109; August, 79; Sept., 54; October, 55.

Mr. Brewster's appointment was for the season only, being in the nature of an experiment. The first year's results cannot be said to be other than successful, indeed, remarkably so. His appointment will doubtless be immediately renewed and made continuous, so long as success like the above can be achieved.

The situation is a difficult one. Immigrants are ticketed through to Winnipeg or beyond. Fully 90 per cent. start out from England with some western point as their destination. Transportation companies naturally desire this. It means more money in their pockets. The Government, also, in its literature distributed in the Old Country has almost forgotten Old Canada in its mad rush to fill up the West.

Therefore, it is difficult to turn aside immigrants in their Western advance, and direct them to the Eastern Townships, a section of the country of which they have not heard, it never having been exploited in the Old Country.

An agent in England who would pay especial attention to Eastern Townships immigration, it is considered by many, would prove a great help.

It is understood that the Parliamentary representatives of the Townships are interesting themselves in the matter. The demand for labor in the Townships is increasing year by year. Every inducement is being made to induce Eastern Townships people to go West. But little is being done to bring people to take the places of those who have gone.

It is to be hoped the authorities will give their attention to this situation, which, in justice to a deserving part of the Dominion, demands a remedy.

MEAT FAMINE IN GERMANY.

PEOPLE IN REMOTE DISTRICTS EATING DOGS AND CATS.

Berlin, November 5.—The municipal council has taken the lead in the angry movement against the Government, which has arisen from the high prices of meat owing to the restrictions of the importation of foreign meats. The council, at a meeting on Saturday, passed vehement resolutions, demanding that the Prussian Government heed the voice of the people, and relieve the meat famine by opening the frontiers. Burgomaster Kirschner declared that unless remedial legislation was promptly enacted, the outraged people would rise up in the next Reichstag elections and crush the greedy agrarians and their official supporters. General Von Podbielski, Prussian minister of commerce, is held to be chiefly responsible for the present situation. He is accused of banning Russian, Austrian and Dutch meats in the interests of the agrarian party, of which he is the head, with the result that meat is excessively dear. It is entirely beyond the means of the poorest, while other commodities have risen similarly. It is declared that meat has entirely disappeared from workmen's tables, and that it is regarded as more or less of a luxury by the middle classes. The consumption of horseflesh is increasing enormously, and in the remote districts, where the pinch is felt the worst, dogs and cats are eaten. War times are predicted when the Reichstag reopens on November 13th.

LOSS BY STORM $5,000,000.

PROMENADES ON THE RIVIERA DESTROYED AND PLEASURE YACHTS SUNK.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The damage done on the Riviera by the recent storm was greater than the first reports indicated. All the familiar elegant promenades and favorite resorts were wrecked. The destruction extends along the coast for a distance of 90 miles. The loss is estimated at $5,000,000. Several pleasure yachts were wrecked or sunk. A number of submarine boats found refuge from the tempest by diving and remaining in the calm depths until the worst of the storm had passed.

Heavy snows throughout Italy have caused floods in various parts of the Peninsula. There is over a foot of water on St. Mark's square in Venice, and it is snowing in the Alps. Many roads are obstructed by landslides.

[ESKILSON IS MISSING.

SO IS $50,000 BELONGING TO DANISH BROTHERHOOD OF AMERICA.

Chicago, November 5.—J. Christian Eskilson, of Chicago, thrice supreme treasurer of the Danish Brotherhood of America, is missing, and, simultaneously, it is found that from $40,000 to $50,000 of the order's funds is gone. Eskilson has not been seen since October 20, H. H. Voght, of Davenport, Iowa, supreme president, and Martin Larsen, of Racine, supreme vice-president, Friday concluded an examination of Eskilson's account, which, they say, reveals the immense shortage. They declare that practically all of the reserve fund is gone. Seven thousand dollars of it is said to have been lost in the failure of Paul O. Stensland's Bank.

Mrs. Eskilson, at her home Saturday night, said that she would repay all the shortage that may be or has been found. According to reports from Racine, where many prominent members of the order reside, she already has turned over $17,000 worth of Chicago property. Eskilson, who has been a resident of Chicago for more than 40 years, was a business partner of John J. Wheeler, doing a general roofing business. According to Wheeler, Eskilson complained on October 20 of being ill. He left a note saying: "I am sick and tired. I will go to a sanitarium for a short time to rest and recuperate until I get my strength back."

STREET CAR MEN STRIKE IN HAMILTON.

Lines of Ontario City Are Tied Up.

MEN CLAIM COMPANY HAS FAILED TO KEEP AGREEMENT.

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 5.—(Special)—Differences between the Hamilton Street Railway Company and employees of its traction department culminated in the long threatened strike, yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, when the employees with the exception of two, voted in favor of a walkout, with the result that the city is without street car service to-day. Hamilton and Dundas employees went out in sympathy though radial line employees withdrew.

About 160 men are affected by the strike. The men gave as reasons for striking the failure of the Company to carry out agreement arrived at by arbitration. They claim that when the award was made the Company asked for time in which to secure men to put it into effect. They waited for a few days and approached company again, when the company asked for three weeks to secure and train men. This was agreed to. Three weeks expired on Thursday last, and since then the men have been threatening to strike unless terms of award were complied with.

It is said the company has about fourteen strike-breakers in the city from Montreal.

Mgr. Paul LaRocque and the Rev. H. A. Simard left to-day for North Stukely, where the funeral will take place of the Rev. L. M. Deschamps, parish priest of Notre Dame de Bonsecours de Stukely, whose death occurred on Saturday morning.

A MATE OF A NANCY BRIG.

LOUIS JOSEPH ARISTIDE AND HIS TRIP IN SCHOONER ON WHICH HE WAS ALL THE CREW.

Manned by only one man, the two-masted schooner Little Elva, lies in Machias, Me., after a perilous coasting trip, in which nearly all the Maine ports have been visited, and in which the small vessel was almost lost. The captain, cook and crew of the Little Alva was Louis Joseph Aristide, a weather-beaten mariner with an interesting history. In his seven-ton schooner he sailed from Portland early in September for Machiasport, and coming up to the coast he touched at nearly all the principal seaports of Maine.

Storms or fog had no effect upon the lone navigator. A reef or two was sufficient for him if the wind was quite fresh or some harbor was handy if it blew up a gale. At night, not being able to add the duties of a watch to his manifold tasks, he anchored his Little Elva, set his riding lights and turned in.

Nothing happened to mar the voyaging until he made Libby Island light off Machiasport. There he was unable to reach shelter before he was overtaken by a heavy southwest gale, and throwing out an anchor and making all snug on board Commander Aristide went below out of the wet. Until early evening the Little Elva bravely held her own against the gale but after sundown the wind increased, kicking up a tremendous sea. Slowly the tiny craft dragged her anchors. It was impossible for the single-handed crew to go on deck to look after his craft on account of the violent pitching of his boat, and a flood of water constantly poured over the schooner as she plunged her nose into some unusually big wave.

On one of the downward plunges Commander Aristide felt an ominous jar. The vessel had drifted in so far in shore that she was over an old fish weir and one of the piles had punctured a plank.

The water poured in so rapidly that the captain was forced to abandon his ship. Gathering a few articles from his cabin he clambered up on deck, only to be caught by a huge sea and washed overboard. Fortunately he had left his dory tied up astern and this had thus far escaped destruction. He managed to grasp it as he was carried by, and after an almost superhuman struggle guided his boat safely through the breakers and landed in an exhausted condition on the beach, where he spent the remainder of the night exposed to the storm.

The next day the gale abated and Commander Aristide found his little vessel still afloat just beyond the outer line of breakers. Launching his dory he went out to the schooner and after several hours' work in clearing her of water, brought the craft safely into port.

Aristide is a Frenchman, who left his native land fifty years ago and since that time has drifted around the world as cabin boy, seaman, mate and captain, on a small scale. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in the navy on the Union side, and served on the guardship North Carolina. Later he saw actual service on the frigate Vanderbilt and at Fort Fisher received many wounds, the scars of which he still bears. After his honorable discharge from the navy at the conclusion of the war, this sailor of fortune enlisted in the service of the Argentine republic, serving from 1875 to 1877 on the monitor Rio de la Platta. In 1888 he left the sea for a while and tried his luck in South Africa. But the call of the sea brought Aristide back on shipboard once more and again he beat around the world before the mast, in the galley or occasionally standing watch as a mate. Two years ago he purchased the Little Elva in Portland and has made several trips to New York and other Sound ports. In the winter he ties up his little venture and spends most of his time at the National Home for Disabled Veterans at Togus.

Aristide has a sailor's pride in his little craft, and says he likes being alone on her. His English is not of the best, but he finds little difficulty in making his way along the coast with the aid of charts and a tenacious memory that never forgets a rock or other landmark.

Nov. 5.—Mr. William O. Shufelt is just completing a two-storey house on his farm, near the family residence presumably for the occupation of his hired man and family.

MARBLETON.

Nov. 5—The funeral of Mrs. Lewis Bishop, who died in her 28th year, at the Protestant Hospital, Sunday, Oct. 28th, took place Tuesday, Oct. 30th, at the Methodist Church here. The service was conducted by Rev. Geo. McIntosh, assisted by Rev. I. N. Kerr, the text being taken from Phillipians, 1st chapter, 21st verse, "To die is gain." Ewing, Mr. Davidson, Quebec; Captain Levi Gilbert, Captain Richard Weyland, Messrs. E. J. Westman and Carlos Munkittrick. There were many beautiful floral offerings among them: Pillow by the staff of the E. T. Bank of Sherbrooke; wreath from her husband. Mr. L. P. THE FROCK COAT SUIT.

A New York Artist Delineates the Correct Style for Men.

In the book, "Manners and Modes for Men," there appears a reproduction of an oil painting by a New York artist, showing the front and back of the new frock coat as produced in Semi-ready tailoring. Frock suits, silk-faced, are sold for $25 and $30.

Frock coats are the bete noir of most tailors, for few of them can give the easy flow and yet retain the correct fit. It is easier to make a tight fitting garment than an easy fitting one.

The Semi-ready Overcoats are worth seeing, too, particularly the new French Chesterfield in the $25 and $30 patterns of "Semi-ready."

Boucher & Lacroix, of Sherbrooke, are the possessors of the Semi-ready franchise.

ELEPHANT PULLS HER FRIEND'S TOOTH.

To the uninitiated it may have looked like a tug-of-war between two elephants, when each end of the taut rope was in the mouth of the elephants, but, in fact, it was a plan devised by Peter Barlow, the elephant trainer, to extract an aching molor from the lower jaw of one of his elephants.

Tom, the clever elephant, that does a cake-walk, shaves an elephant beats the snare drum and is leader of the elephant band at Luna Park, had been suffering from an aggravated form of ulcerated tooth for several days. In order to reduce the swelling and relieve the pain Tom had been wearing in off hours a poultice on the side of his face, weighing twenty-five pounds. The poultice did not suffice, and therefore the only thing left to do was to pull the tooth.

But who could accomplish this, and where could a pair of forceps be obtained large enough for the operation, were the problems that puzzled the animal man. Barlow solved them by making one of the working elephants do the trick.

Tom sat on his haunches and opened his mouth, when Barlow used a drill to bore a hole through the side of the offending tooth, which was in the lower jaw. After this a piece of piano wire was passed through the hole and tied in a loop; a stout piece of rope was tied to the wire and the loose end given to Judy.

Judy took the rope between her teeth and at the word of command pulled with all her strength, and Tom leaned back to aid her, fully understanding what was being done. The tension was so great that Tom was pulled to a standing position, but the tooth came out, and he settled back with a sigh of relief.

Judy if one of the working elephants that were used in the construction of Luna Park. She has pulled with her teeth two tons with ease. Judy can lift a bale of hay and carry it as easily as a boy can lift an apple.—New York World.

—A professor, noted for his absent-mindedness, fell downstairs, and when at the bottom said, thoughtfully: "I wonder why I came downstairs. I cannot remember at all."—Il Mondo Umoristico.

BACK TO SLAVERY DAYS.

The short sleeves with which the winter gowns are being provided, in keeping with the fashion, if not with the season, have bid bracelets to rise from their long sleep. Their golden bangles rattle once more; jewels decorate them; and white arms stretch out willingly for these symbols of slavery days.

So important has the demand for bracelets become that eighteen of the most fashionable styles, both jewelled and plain, are shown on page twenty-three of Birks new Catalogue, about to be issued.

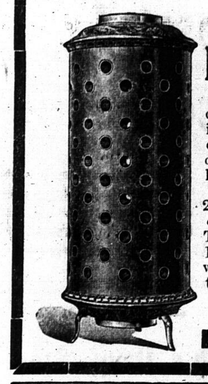
COAL

IS DEAR

Save Half Your Fuel by Using the



ROCHESTER RADIATOR

Scientists inform us that from 60 to 80 per cent, of the heat is wasted up the chimney, or in other words you burn FOUR tons of coal or cords of wood to get the heat of ONE. (If you doubt this, go on your roof and hold your hand over the chimney.)

By actual test, a brisk coal fire represents 1,200 degrees of heat. From this you have a hot current directly up and out of your chimney. This current will heat the cross tubes in the ROCHESTER RADIATOR. These cross tubes will heat the air circulating through them, and the hot air will heat your room.

Current Events.

A DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY.

To-day is rich in history.

On Nov. 5th, 1605, the Guy Fawkes gunpowder plot was discovered, and King James and his Parliament saved from destruction.

On Nov. 5th, 1855, was fought the great battle of Inkerman, in which the Anglo-French forces gained a decisive victory over the Russians in the Crimea.

This latter anniversary is of particular interest in view of the new understanding, amounting practically to an alliance, between England and France.

The combination is a strong one.

A century ago when these two powers were arrayed against each other in deadly warfare, thousands of lives were sacrificed and millions of money spent without material advantage to either.

Fifty years ago in alliance mighty Russia was forced to abandon her scheme of conquest and sue for peace.

To-day these two great nations standing together are one of the strongest guarantees of European peace, for in case of conflict, as the other powers well know these allies would be as invincible as they were in the days of Inkerman, of which the poet writes:

Hurrah for Merrie England, now!
Hurrah for France the Grand!
As we charge the foe together,
All abreast, and hand to hand.
Hurrah! the mighty host doth melt
before our fervent heat,
And against our side the ebbing flood does faint and fainter beat.

THE AMERICAN RACE PROBLEM.

The republic of the United States is, once again, concerned with its hydra-headed problem, the vast and increasing army of black citizens in its Southern States. It would seem that that long struggle of nearly half a century ago for the freedom of the slaves, instead of bringing any solution to their peculiar position in a young and free republic, gave birth to many problems where there had been but one. Possibly it would not have been so very difficult to have solved the problem at that time by a judicious disposal of the negroes in some colony, or in certain States of the republic itself. This, however, was not done, and the backs continued to increase in numbers until they had become the predominating population in many southern sections.

With such a state of affairs the inevitable would follow. The Northerners had fought for the personal freedom of the slaves; the descendants of the latter now fight for political freedom. Give a man freedom to think and work independent of others, and, inevitably, the day will come when he will demand recognition of his individuality. The laws governing the mental and moral influences are the same in all races.

When, after a race, which for centuries lived in the unenlightened country of Africa, had grown to great numbers, and had evinced, in many instances, marked ability, side by side with another race that had centuries of Anglo-Saxon blood behind it, when with such men as Booker T. Washington, Paul Lawrence Dunbar, and dozens of others, professors, students and thinkers, they claimed recognition from men as men, and received instead unjust and unintelligent discrimination because of their color, it was natural that a feeling of resentment might arise. But the utterance of resentment was left for the rabid and selfish whites, who, recognizing no justice for a negro attempted to turn public feeling against him.

Thomas Dixon, Jr., whose books and plays are fertile of wrong and prejudiced opinions, is a man of ability, but not of just appreciation of the true relation of one man to another. His play, "The Clansman," forced to discontinue in Philadelphia, is one that is calculated to rouse the very worst race feelings, to cause hatred where there should be toleration, and riot where there should be peaceful citizenship. Senator Tillman, in violent and unreasonable speeches, has repeatedly appealed to the same intolerance in his hearers. Dignified and fair treatment of a subject is difficult for him at any time, but when it comes to discussion of the race problem dignity and fairness desert him altogether. The journal in Atlanta that besmired its influence by appealing to all the baser passions of both races, and consequently disgraced its own city by instigating the citizens to a riot, has lost all sense of true journalism. And yet these influences are the ones that get at the heart of the disease and irritate it, appealing to men's prejudices, their race hatred, their intolerance of each other.

To produce order out of the present chaos of conflicting race passions in the South the States will need another Lincoln to give to the blacks a fair political freedom.

GOOD ROADS IN OTHER LANDS.

European Highways Kept in Fine Condition.

RECENT ACTION IN U. S. TO IMPROVE ROADS—THE VALUE OF GRAVEL AND STONE.

A superficial view of the road question inelines many to the impression that, as railways are constructed throughout a country, the need for common roads diminishes. A more untenable opinion could not be advanced. Railways develop a country, and experience in every land and age, has shown that development means that more and better common roads are needed. With the growth of a nation better roads are an ever-pressing, an ever increasing necessity.

The good roads movement is world-wide in activity. In France, Germany and all progressive European countries, there is a constant demand for the best methods and systems of road management and construction. In England the roads are excellent and are maintained in an efficient manner by county and parish authorities. Yet even there, it is felt that there is room for improvement. A Good Roads Association is actively carrying on a campaign in Great Britain, and there is now a widespread demand for a National Department of Highways, and for state aid in road construction.

An outstanding measure for road reform in the United States has been the creation of the office of Public Road Inquiries by the United States Government at Washington. As with the Bureau of Highways of Ontario, the work of the United States Highway Department has been to investigate all methods and materials of roadmaking, prepare and distribute literature, and in every possible way to aid in the movement for better roads. The Washington Bureau has worked largely on the plan of organizing state road associations and commissions, holding conventions, and building model sections of roads. In this work it has co-operated with the United States National Good Roads Association in connection with a good roads train. To the work of this department $50,000 is appropriated annually, but a strongly supported bill is now before the House of Representatives providing for a large measure of Federal aid to the actual work of road construction in the various states.

ROAD METAL.

Conditions with respect to road-making vary greatly throughout the province. In no feature is this more noticeable than in the kind of road metal available. In some districts gravel is plentiful, but there is no stone; some have stone but no gravel: other districts have neither stone nor gravel, while the quality of both stone and gravel where they do exist is variable. Municipalities are necessarily limited in these respects. As a rule, the problem is to make the best use of whatever local material is available.

Until the introduction of rock crushers of recent years, road improvement without a local supply of gravel was considered almost impossible. Where there is neither gravel nor stone within reasonable haul, many municipalities are merely making the best of their earth roads. Some, however, are bringing in gravel and stone by railway.

Gravel varies greatly in quality, some being too coarse, some having an excess of clay or sand while in other cases the stone itself is inferior. In chosing between gravel and broken stone consideration should be given to the quality of each obtainable, the cost laid down on the road, and the amount of traffic which the road accommodates. It has been estimated that under average conditions, one cubic yard of broken stone is worth two of gravel.

Municipalities having an abundant local supply of good gravel are in a much more favorable position to rapidly improve their roads than are municipalities which are compelled to use crushed stone, owing to the greater cost of the latter. This applies only to the first cost, however, and under certain circumstances of traffic and relative qualities of material broken stone may after a term of years be cheaper than gravel. While first cost is important in many ways, yet true economy should consider the ultimate cost after a term of years when the outlay for maintenance and repairs has been included.

The main difference between broken stone and gravel is: First, the crushed stone is angular, the gravel rounded and waterworn, so that the former consolidates more firmly, with a mechanical clasp, while clean gravel shifts and ruts more readily under wheels; and second, broken stone is free from earthy matter, while gravel contains more or less sand, clay or loam, that packs readily in summer, yet softens in wet weather and ruts under traffic.

SHOT WHILE HUNTING.

Brockville, Ont., November 3.— The careless handling of firearms may result in the death of Frank Frego, a popular young Brockville athlete, who now lies in the hospital in a critical condition. With Arthur Wilkinson a companion, he was duck shooting at Big Bay near Wolfe Island. Wilkinson fired at a passing flock, thinking Frego out of range, but he was not, and, in stooping position, received the contents principally in the head. One side of the scalp was terribly lacerated by the charge, and one hand badly torn. He was brought to Brockville in a weakened condition after receiving medical treatment at the island.

CITY NEWS.

Mrs. L. S. Kent has returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Moore, in St. Johnsbury.

Mrs. G. C. Batley, of Robinson, Bury, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Dearborn, in town.

A memorial service will be held at St. Patrick's church to-morrow morning for the late Oliver Bourque, who died one year ago.

Mr. Guy Lord has returned from the west, where he has been in the employ of the Great Northwest Wire Fence Co. for the past year.

Mr. C. E. Shedrick left town for Montreal on Friday with a car load of electrical apparatus, and accompanied by several of his workmen. Mr. Shedrick, who bought out the Whitney Electric Company some years ago, has formed the Whitney Rigby Co., of Montreal, for the manufacture of electrical instruments and heating apparatus, for which there is a great demand. Mr. Shedrick believes that electricity will soon supersede all other methods of heating and cooking and intends to devote himself to the invention and manufacture of suitable apparatus.

The regular meeting of the Teachers' Association of Sherbrooke, was held on Friday afternoon at the High School with a very large attendance which included the teachers of all the Protestant schools in the city and many interested friends. The Rev. C. S. Deeprose, of the Methodist church, Rev. T. B. Brown, of the Baptist church and Rev. G. Ellery Read, of the Congregational church, were also present. Principal Truell presided, and after the minutes of the previous meeting had been read by the secretary, several questions relating to the schools were brought forward. A letter was read by the Secretary of the School Board, Mr. H. A. Odell in regard to the adoption of the catechism approved by the clergy and sanctioned by the Council of Public Instruction. After some discussion the matter was laid over to the next meeting. A fraction chart was also displayed and its advantages were so apparent that it will be introduced in the rooms where the study of fractions is beginning. The matter of arranging for the essays and declamations was also taken up and referred to a committee of teachers. Short and pithy addresses were made by the Rev. Mr. Deeprose, Rev. Mr. Brown, Rev. G. E. Read and by Mr. H. D. Lawrence, chairman of the Board, interspersed with musical selections. Miss Bessie Odell rendered a violin solo very pleasingly, accompanied by Mrs. Odell on the piano, and Miss Kate Lawrence contributed a bright piano solo, both of which were much appreciated. Tea was served, Mrs. Odell and Mrs. W. A. Farwell being the hostesses. The table in the teachers' parlor was charmingly arranged with a yellow centre piece, a huge bunch of yellow chrysanthemums, and china of the same shade, and the refreshments were all that could be desired. The affair was most informal and was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

TOP COATS

That Mean

Something.

Be a new hat ever so smart,—though it may give added grace or comeliness to the wearer—yet it cannot alter one's whole appearance. It takes a Top Coat to do that, and the newer and more stylish the design, the greater and more striking the change.

Take for instance, one of those fashionable "Meltons" we are showing in our department at $30.00 to $40.00, that is the class of Coat we particularly refer to, although as complete and effective a change of appearance can be made by wearing one of a new lot of loose backed Tweed Coats that we're now showing at the special price of $10.00 each.

NO MORE DEFICITS ON I. C. R.

THIS IS THE CONFIDENT PREDICTION OF THE MINISTER OF RAILWAYS.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways, during the course of an address before the Ottawa Canadian Club, on Saturday afternoon, on the Intercolonial Railway, declared that there would be no more deficits on the Government system. The surplus for the present year, he said, would be larger than that of last year, and they would continue to grow in the future. The Intercolonial, Mr. Emmerson declared, is Canada's greatest national asset, for as a consequence of its construction and operation the Canadian provinces had been welded into one harmonious whole. Had the deficits of the past been ten times as great as they have been, still the road, from a patriotic and sentimental standpoint, would have been a good investment for the Canadian people. While predicting surpluses in the future, Mr. Emmerson vehemently combatted the idea that the Intercolonial should ever be expected to be a great revenue producer. The profits should go towards its improvement. Eighty million dollars had been spent on the railway for the development of trade in the same manner that one hundred millions had been spent on the canal systems, one hundred and seventy-five millions on railway subsidies, and 12 millions on steamship subsidies.

TELLS HOW HE WAS TAUGHT TO PICK POCKETS.

New York, Nov. 5—When Hyman Grossman, a fifteen-year-old lad was arraigned in the Children's Court recently on a charge of picking pockets he not only admitted the charge, but swore that a man had taught him to steal and sent him out at five oclock every morning to look for victims. The boy said his parents were dead and that he lived at 150 Ridge street with Harry Stein and the latter's wife.

"Does Stein know that you steal?" asked Justice Zeller. "He's the one that put me up to it and taught me," replied the lad.

The youngster then went on to tell how Stein instructed him for weeks in the art of picking pockets before he sent him out. He said he had to practise for hours every day on Stein and his wife, relieving them of wallets, pocketbooks, watches and jewelry until he became so adept that he could rob them without their knowing it. If he did the job in a clumsy fashion Stein would beat him. Stein, who was in the court, was placed under arrest. The detectives later searched his house and found a quantity of stolen goods.

THE TRAGEDY NEAR ST. JOHNSBURY.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE KILLING OF EDWARD MAGNIER, FORMERLY OF SHERBROOKE.

(St. Johnsbury Caledonian.)

Rum was the cause of another tragedy when the dead body of Edward Manning Magnier was found on Joseph Labree's farm last Thursday morning, and the trial at the December term of the Caledonia Co. court will determine whether or not Labree or Arthur Rogers were implicated in the deed.

Labree lives alone in a house about two miles from Danville Green on the road that heads from the Cole place, the latter being on the main road to West Danville. Manning came around Saturday and sometime the next day Rogers appeared. The latter had recently had a scrap with another party and had a black eye when he arrived at Labree's. They sent off for some liquor and Monday night received two quarts of alcohol and a bottle of gin. Throughout the night they proceeded to dispose of this with the natural result that by Tuesday morning they were well intoxicated. About the time that the liquor arrived two young men arrived to spend the night, Arthur LaBreck and "Mel" Labree, a son of Joseph Labree. Their testimony at the inquest brought out the fact that early Tuesday morning Rogers and Manning had a scrap and that Labree, senior, had advised Rogers to leave the place as there might be trouble. Rogers claimed that Manning left the place Tuesday afternoon and Labree says he himself went to Walden the same day and did not return until Thursday morning. Both say they never saw Manning alive again.

The body of Manning was found face downwards, the head covered with a hat that was not his own, and by his side a pipeful of dry tobacco and an unlit match. The face was bloody and the man's clothes were dry. The night before it rained quite hard, which would seemingly dispose of the story that the body lay outdoors over night. The selectmen took the body to the town hall and sent word to St. Johnsbury that thay wanted the officers. Deputy Sheriff Worthen drove at once to Danville taking with him J. Rolf Searles, who represented the state in the absence of State's Attorney Hill. A preliminary hearing was held before Ashley J. Goss, justice of the peace, and Rogers and Labree were bound over to the December term of the Caledonia county court without bail. They were brought here Thursday night by Officer Worthen and incarcerated in the county jail.

The physicians testified that this man's skull was twice as thick as the ordinary person and that he met his death by blows forcibly applied to the head. There was no fracture of the skull, but an examination of the brain showed that the skull had received heavy knocks. The lips were cut, some teeth knocked out, there was evidence of a hard blow on the back of the head, and one finger was either bitten or torn off.

Sheriff Winch, Deputy Sheriff Worthen and Mr. Searles made a careful examination of the Labree place and found many suspicious circumstances which lead the state to believe that Manning was murdered in Labree's house and the body taken out to the pasture Thursday. In the chamber upstairs they discovered a big pool of blood with drops of blood on the stairs and leading to the outside door. Manning's hat was found in the Labree house, hanging on a peg, and Labree's overalls were discovered bespattered with blood. Sheriff Winch took charge of the head to submit it in evidence when the case comes up for trial.

MULE FLED AT SHOCK OF BATTLE.

LONG-EARED WARRIOR CARRIED RIDER AND AMMUNITION TO WINDSOR ST. STATION.

(Montreal Standard.)

A curious hint of the state of warfare which prevailed in Montreal on Thanksgiving Day was wafted—if one could say so—into the Windsor Street station during the progress of the battle, at a time when the officials were particularly busy.

This was in the form of a runaway mule upon the back of which were two incumbrances—first, a lot of ammunition which it was intended to use in the fight; and, second, a gallant rider from the country parts, who was a little "under the weather."

The rider stated in somewhat incoherent sentences, that the mule had bolted at the first shot, with himself and the ammunition. The latter was vital to the operations. He was not.

What mortified the soldier was this—"The 'newspaper fellers' will get this thing all mixed up, and we'll see in the Standard that the 53rd Regiment has bolted through fear, instead of the—mule. What I want to point out is, that we are a loyal corps, even if we do come from the country; and the 53rd re able at any time to give an account of themselves; but this—mule!"

The rider said some vigorous things and then seemed to fade away.

It fell to the lot of Mr. Miller, station agent, to look after the mule, which was finally claimed by the colonel of the country regiment.

Atlantic City, N.J., Nov. 5.— Coroner Gaskill announced Saturday night that experts in his employ had decided that a loose rail caused the accident on the Pennsylvania Railroad thoroughfare draw last Sunday, in which more than 50 persons lost their lives. These men had been at work examining the bridge and cars all day. The details of their discovery were not made public. The inquest is continued to-day. The divers were not at work Saturday, and grapplers who did work failed to find the body of the missing boy, Joseph MacElroy.

CORRESPONDENCE.

"THE MYSTERIOUS EVENING STAR (?)"

To the Editor of the Record:

Sir,—I was much amused in reading in Friday's Record about "That Mysterious Evening Star," and at the same time astonished that a paper like the Record should allow such a misleading article to go without adding an explanation. Surely in this age of advanced education any school boy should know something of the heavenly bodies which nightly adorn the firmament, still the whims and moon theories are handed down from generation to generation. This particular star, Venus, has been visible above the western horizon since early spring. At that time it was closely followed by Mars and Jupiter. In the early part of May it was quite interesting to many to see these three planets each evening; the apparent close approach of Jupiter which kept coming closer and closer to Venus till it seemed to overtake and pass by this brilliant star, setting earlier and earlier each evening, until June 10th, when he appeared as a morning star. This planet now rises late in the evening and will be an evening star after Dec. 28.

Venus was brightest Oct. 25, and will disappear from the western horizon about Nov. 29. Then we are told that this beauty of the heavens will appear as a morning star. "This Mysterious Star" as it appears from time to time often brings to mind the "Star in the East," still it moves in its orbit, like all the rest no matter what men think or say, reminding us of the "Great Creator" who set all these in motion and keeps them going without a hitch. I am not an astronomer, still I watch with interest the planets as they change places, in the heavens, and ascribe all glory to the One who rules on high.

LAKE MEMPHREMAGOG AND SHERBROOKE POWER QUESTION.

Editor of Record:

Dear Sir,—In reference to your article in your issue of Oct. 29th, by Mr. John Redfield Cherry, I have been sufficiently interested to endeavor to check his calculation for the fall between Lake Memphremagog and the St. Francis at Sherbrooke. I have looked these altitudes up in the "Dictionary of Altitudes," published by the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, and which may be obtained free on application to the Department. This gives the following levels with the authority for each.

Memphremagog Lake, 682 ft., authority, C.P.R.

Sherbrooke, Grand Trunk Station, 185 ft., authority, G.T.R.

St. Francis River, high water, 482 ft., authority, City Engineer.

St. Francis River, low water, 461 ft., authority, City Engineer.

This makes the difference in level between Lake Memphremagog and the St. Francis at Sherbrooke at high water, exactly 200 feet. Mr. Cherry gives the difference in altitude as 320 feet, which is quite a difference. Even 200 feet, however, is a very fine head and the proposition is so interesting that it deserves to be carefully investigated.

Yours truly,

H. V. HAIGHT,

Sherbrooke, Nov. 1st, 1906.

THE INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY SURVEY.

(Stanstead Journal.)

The International Boundary Commission which began work at Hall's Stream in August, has completed the survey almost through to this place. For the greater part of the distance the "line" runs through forests and to get a clear "sky-line" a space thirty feet wide has been cleared. The old iron posts are being reset in massive concrete bases and many additional granite monuments have been set up, the plan being to provide a chain of intervisible markers along the "imaginary line," which separates the two countries. Fences have been moved in some places, but no buildings have been moved, although the commissioners have hinted that such a thing might follow. Besides the engineers, a large gang of choppers, laborers and masons have been employed. They live in tents which are supplied with stoves and all other camp conveniences imaginable. Maps and charts are being made showing all elevations, streams, roads, buildings, etc., along the entire "line." The work is in charge of Mr. G. C. Rainboth, Canadian Commissioner, his assistant, Mr. A.J. Rainboth, Mr. J. B. Baylor, United States Commissioner and his assistant, Mr. Blaine. The entire force numbers between twenty and thirty men. Several of the "aides" are young college men. Mr. O. Sills, of the Canadian party, left this week to enter Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., Mr. G. C. Rainboth has been staying at the Rock Island House during the past week. Mr. Baylor, who has been superintending the placing of markers in the vicinity of Canaan, arrived here last night.

WM. O'BREADY'S REPLY TO GOLDWIN SMITH.

IN REFERENCE TO FORMER'S VISIT TO CANADA NINETEEN YEARS AGO.

Goldwin Smith recently wrote a letter to the London Spectator against Home Rule for Ireland, or even Devolution, in which he alluded to Mr. Wm. O'Brien's visit to Canada and the Orange riots which occurred while he was there. Mr. O'Brien has published the following reply in the Spectator:

Sir,—Prof. Goldwin Smith in last week's issue, for some extraordinary reason founds his objection to the Government's Irish measure of next session upon an illusion to my visit to Canada nineteen years ago to appeal to Canadian public opinion against the Luggacurran evictions, which had just been carried out by Lord Lansdowne, who was then Governor-General. My fate on that occasion, as far as the Province of Ontario was concerned was to have one of my ribs broken by a mob in Prof. Goldwin Smith's city of Toronto, to be subjected to ferocious attacks with sticks and stones in Ottawa and Kingston, and to be the target in Hamilton for a fusilade of revolver shots, one of which pierced the hand of the driver of my hack—an Orangeman, as it happened—and necessitated the amputation of his arm.

At the present moment the Luggacurran evicted tenants have become peasant proprietors, and Lord Lansdowne is one of the most eminent of the Tory statesmen supposed to be implicated in the "mysteries" connected with Sir Anthony MacDonnell's despatch to Ireland upon a mission of conciliation and Devolution, and the Independent Order of Orangemen have been won over to the same order of ideas. If Lord Lansdowne is as willing to forget my Canadian mission as I am to forget my bruises, and if the Belfast comrades of the Toronto Orangemen have come to a better opinion of their Nationalist fellow-countrymen, does it not seem a pity for the sake of his own great past on the Irish question that Prof. Goldwin Smith alone should see reasons in the altered state of things for a fresh appeal to the distrusts and hatreds which in the minds of the principal parties to these old transactions, are peacefully dying away? I am, sir, etc.

THE PEOPLE AT THE GAME.

Some people suffer horribly at football games; yet you cannot keep them away. One of my classmates could never endure this dreadfully glorious opening moment. He always turned his face away, and then kept beseeching the rest of us in a low moan to tell him what was going on, which we never did. He is fat now and presumably phlegmatic, but I haven't happened to be near him of late years.

I know another man who always goes alone and will not allow any one he knows to sit near him if he can help it. He wears a cap and sweater and pays no attention to anything but football, yelling with delight when a thing pleases him and swearing quietly to himself when there seems need of it. Once upon a time he was the best football player of his department in the whole country, but that was so many years ago that they no longer call upon his services as a coach, so he sits in the grand-stand and has a lonely debauch of football emotion.

Most of us, however, need some one to talk to, some one to say the inane, obvious things to, such as "Ha! Third Down!" when every one knows it, and "Going to kick!" when fifty or sixty thousand other eyes can see the punter drop back for that purpose. Most especially do we need some one to pound on the back when things go our way, some one to exchange looks with when they go the other way. There is one man in our class, supposed by some to be without emotion, who is really dangerous at football games; he strikes out so hard and wildly.

There is another man, not in our class, who goes to every game, and though we always hope to avoid him, he turns up in our proximity with a regularity which makes us nudge each other and say "Of course." He is of the noisy breed; stirs up dissensions, gives the umpire advice before it is requested, and lets it be known to every one within four rows just how much he bet on the game and with whom; while we look the other way and pretend that he has merely assumed our college colors for the occasion.

There is one advantage of being near him, however; he never hesitates to bellow "Down in front!" to men, women or children.—Jesse Lynch Williams, in The Outing Magazine.
