Heated Discussion on Moving Of Bus Terminal at Special Meeting of Council

No Decision Reached as to Where Bus Terminal Be Located—Two Propositions Offered

A special meeting of the Huntingdon Town Council was held on Monday night, at the County Building, with all members present and two or three delegations. The special business of the meeting was to consider a change in the Provincial Bus terminal in town.

This matter had been discussed at the regular meeting of the council held earlier in the month and meanwhile correspondence had been received and also a petition from the business men on Chateauguay Street, which demanded attention. Mr. Turcq, representing the Provincial Transport Company, was present and also Mr. Aubin, owner of the Drug Store at which the present terminal is situated. There were also several ratepayers as delegates to protest the proposed location of the alternative terminal.

Secretary Martin read the correspondence received as follows: The first letter was from the Provincial Transport Co., acknowledging receipt of the resolution passed by the council and promising to take the matter up. The second letter was also from the above company stating that a new location had been found for a terminal and this would be situated at the Bowling Alley and Restaurant, on Chateauguay St., opposite Braithwaite Bros. store. The buses would park behind these premises on Hunter Street when not loading or unloading passengers. This letter was dated May 19th and stated that the matter had been discussed by the interested parties. A letter was read from Aubin Drug Store, dated May 11th, protesting the resolution passed by the council and stating that the moving of the terminal would be a loss to them and also to other business men on Chateauguay Street. The bus has always been well looked after and the patrons attended to and that during the war when more buses than now came to Huntingdon, there had been no protests. Since the resolution had been passed, Mr. Aubin had visited the Provincial Transport offices in Montreal and requested that the drivers be asked to see that the buses are parked as close to the curb as possible while loading and unloading passengers. The letter stated that it was not considered fair of the council to try to change the location of the bus terminal. A petition signed by business men on Chateauguay Street and other parts of town and dated May 25th was read. This petition stated that the removal of the bus terminal from its present location would affect the business of those who had signed the petition and they were opposed to its removal.

Mayor Leo Cappiello stated that the town had a traffic problem on its hands and he was of the opinion that the bus terminal being on Chateauguay Street did interfere with the proper circulation of traffic. He called upon each alderman to give his opinion on the matter.

Alderman Lefebvre said he did not approve of the removal of the bus terminal because the matter came up in council only and had not resulted from a protest on the part of the citizens or any body of citizens. If the bus is taken off Chateauguay Street, then two-way traffic on that street should be resumed and that was the only condition he would agree to.

Mayor Cappiello reminded the council that the business under discussion was as laid out in the notice calling the special meeting and that two-way traffic on Chateauguay Street was not involved. He said he knew that indirectly it was, but the reason for calling the meeting must be the matter under discussion.

Alderman Foisy: The bus should move off Chateauguay Street and there should be two-way traffic on that street.

Alderman McWhinnie: The bus problem has always been a bad one ever since the bus came to Huntingdon. We must look ahead to traffic increasing and the bus should be off the main street and off residential streets. There should be a good terminal built here.

Alderman Tinker: Felt the same way as Alderman McWhinnie. The bus should not be on Hunter Street and one person had already been refused a taxi stand on that street. Should find a more suitable place.

Mayor Cappiello corrected Alderman Tinker by saying the taxi stand had not been refused, but permission to erect a sign had been refused.

Alderman Fournier: The traffic question was no worse at Aubin's Drug Store than at any other place on Main Street. He had voted against the resolution at the last meeting. Council should not give a terminal on the same street if it was not right at another point.

Apparently a mistake had been made in sending in the resolution to the Provincial Transport Co. for it lead them to believe that the terminal could not be placed in that part of Chateauguay Street from the Bank of Commerce to McCoy's corner. This caused some discussion as to the terminal being just moved down the street a short distance farther and in just as narrow a part. Alderman Fournier protested that the original resolution should be thrown out and a new resolution made. Mayor Cappiello argued that the resolution stood as it was and it was merely an error that had been made which did not have any real effect. Alderman Fournier said he had been of the opinion that the resolution read off Cha-

A. W. Lang Retires From Teaching After 40 Years

Mr. Arthur Lang, of Willingdon Elementary School in Notre Dame de-Grace, will say good-bye to his last class when the school term is over this month. He will have had a term of nearly 40 years teaching in the Province of Quebec.

Over 20 years ago Mr. Lang took over as principal of Willingdon and as far back as 1906 he was teaching at home in Ormstown, Que. In an interview Monday, smiling cheerful Mr. Lang, nobody's idea of a stern headmaster, recalled a few of the changes he had seen in 40 years of Canadian education.

Things have changed a lot since young Mr. Lang took over his first class in Ormstown in 1906. Then he taught everything from "Music to Matric," for a salary of $190 a year.

Monday in his large, efficiently run office Mr. Lang admitted that he is more of an administrator than a teacher.

He was asked what he would do when he retires, he smiled and said, "I've always been busy." Mr. Lang owns a piece of land near Lake St. Francis and it is quite possible that he will be found there as near to nature as he can get. He has always been fond of an outdoor life and here is one place where he can enjoy it.

The people of Ormstown and this district, who know Mr. Lang very well, will wish him every success and enjoyment in his days of retirement and hope that he will have many years to enjoy this period when he can relax from the cares of everyday, workaday life.

"Industry on the Hoof" Is Topic of Talk by Doug. Ness

Addresses Huntingdon Rotary Club Meeting at Weekly Luncheon

"Industry on the Hoof" was the topic Douglas A. Ness of Howick spoke upon before the Rotary Club on Monday. Since Doug. Ness was a lad of 14 years, when he exhibited the famous Burnside herd of Ayrshires at Columbus, Ohio, he has been an outstanding figure in livestock circles. The success of Burnside Farms has been due to what Douglas Ness calls, "Industry on the Hoof."

Doug. Ness presented a real success story at the Rotary meeting when he showed what "Industry on the Hoof" means to the Chateauguay Valley, Canada and the world at large. Mr. Ness complimented the Rotary Club on its achievements in the way of community work and how he personally had enjoyed meetings to which he had been invited to attend. He hoped the Club would see their way clear at some time to have a number of the "Future Farmers" at just such Rotary meetings as I have enjoyed with you. If you can get some of the junior farmers together and assure them of your interest in their occupation and help to make them more conscious of their responsibility to this community, you will have done a great service to the industry of agriculture.

Mr. Ness made reference to a recent visit he made to Quebec when their shipment of 29 head of purebred Ayrshires, from Scotland, arrived and the problem it was to get the shipment of 133 head from Scotland off the boat and placed in quarantine. To accomplish this it took the many helpers present as well as the owners all day and night until 7.30 a.m. to complete the task. That is just a bit of the hour work that has to be expected when in the business of "Industry on the Hoof", said Mr. Ness.

The breeding of live stock is not only a science, but it is an art. Few men have enjoyed such prestige and respect as those who have developed great herds of superior live stock. Theirs has been a position of leadership in man's time-honored efforts to live well and to enjoy the satisfaction that comes with success in coping with the secrets of nature.

The breeder's objective is to make the good better. This he does by selective planned breeding, by advanced methods of feeding and management.

The quality of the food that you eat will depend for the most part on the farmer's ability to produce it in a satisfactory way.

Mr. Ness, a director of the Ormstown Exhibition, reminded his audience of how the show came into being and how it was financed; and that was by the farmers and friends who subscribed small amounts of cash. With many confronting problems the farmers earnestly worked for the welfare of Ormstown Exhibition and as a result of that work done year after year, this exhibition is now second only to the Royal Winter Fair as far as "Industry on the Hoof" is concerned. This hotel, "The Chateau", has a group of cattle buyers here nearly every night who are here with a view to purchasing cattle for export to the United States. Do you imagine these buyers would be coming here had it not been for the favourable livestock publicity created through the Ormstown Exhibition?

The Ormstown Exhibition has an exceptionally well balanced show of livestock. The show of cattle and cattle parades will be wonderful but don't think for a moment it is only a cattle show; for here you will see next week the greatest show of light horses to be seen in Canada, other than at the Royal Winter Fair. The Saturday night show will see the high jumping classes for the big stakes take place and 27 horses are entered in this competition. There will be plenty of humorous incidents take place that will appeal to the many.

Mr. Ness made an excellent appeal for community support to the Ormstown Exhibition and he has good reason to feel his time and effort at the Rotary meeting did not fall on deaf ears. Undoubtedly the Rotarians to a man will use their influence to encourage people to attend the 1949 show and for more than one performance.

Dr. George Fisher, Chairman of the Publicity Committee, accompanied Mr. Ness.

The Huntingdon Calf Club appealed to the Rotary Club to again donate them a calf for their annual benefit drawing. Mr. Gilbert McMillan selects a calf each year and though Mr. McMillan was absent on Monday it was announced the calf for 1949 would be from the Holstein herd of Mr. W. A. S. Ayerst. The calf is being donated by Mr. Ayerst, who is to become a member of the Huntingdon Rotary Club.

A letter was read from the Ogilvie Flour Mills of Canada Limited informing the Rotary Club that the shipment of their "Bran Muffin Mix" had been shipped to Huntingdon, England, Rotary Club as a gift from the Rotary Club of Huntingdon, Quebec.

Don Moore, in behalf of the Huntingdon Boys' Band expressed the thanks of the boys to the Rotary Club for taking the band membership to Malone to hear the U.S. Navy Band.

Children of St. Andrew's Present Play Robin Hood

Large Cast, Appropriate Costumes, Make Presentation Outstanding

The children of the Maple Leaf Mission Band delighted an enthusiastic audience with their versatility and charm, as they presented their interpretation of Robin Hood in St. Andrew's Annex, on Friday evening. The costuming, lighting and scenery formed a striking background for the production itself.

After a brief resumé of the period, the play opened with a frolic in the greenwood performed by the youngest members of the band, costumed in period dresses of rainbow hues and crisp bonnets. Then entered Robin Hood and his band. Friar Tuck, that roly poly member, with his apparent love for the ladies, was the subject of a song by the chorus. Stories and songs entertain the band until they join Robin Hood in the hunt.

Maid Marion, determined to be with her lover, enters the green wood. The happy denouement ends with their joining in the duet, "Love is More than Gold." His archers, back from the chase are then introduced to Maid Marion. In the midst of the welcome enters a stranger telling his troubles to the Men of Sherwood. Allan-A-Dale who loving Ellen has been bidden to say farewell and leave her to be wedded to a wealthier suitor, seeks the help of Robin Hood, who as any true Knight, rides off with his band to the rescue of the maiden.

The second act opened with a picturesque maypole dance performed by the junior members of the cast, while one of the young ladies sings, "Come Lassies and Lads." As they make their exit Blondel and Richard Coeur de Lion enter the scene. Richard rescued by Blondel seeks to discover what has been going on in England during his absence and why the Earl of Huntingdon has turned outlaw. On hearing the approach of the wedding party they hide.

Happiness fills all hearts as they join in the song, "Rejoice we say" and Friar Tuck proclaims it "The funniest wedding I ever performed."

But as in real life once the girl is his, off Allan goes with the Men of Sherwood to seek adventure, leaving behind a disgruntled group of young ladies determined to create adventure for themselves.

From the bushes appear the King and Blondel disguised as monks, only to be taken very willing prisoners by the maids who proudly display their captives when the archers return.

Robin Hood offers to free them if they pledge their loyalty to the King. This Blondel does enthusiastically but not so the other monk. Threatened by Robin he discloses his identity to the surprise of the band. Blondel follows his master's example, revealing himself as the King's Minstrel.

The King acknowledging the loyalty of Robin Hood restores his lands and title and gives his blessing to the union of Robin and Maid Marion. To the joyful notes of the chorus, "Wedding Bells shall ring Ding Dong" the curtain drops.

The cast as a whole deserve much praise for their performance—Robin Hood, Marion, Friar Tuck, Ellen and Allan-A-Dale, The King, Blondell, Will and Edythe, Bertha, Much, and Little John all gave splendid interpretations of the character they were portraying.

To those who worked behind the scenes doing the many backstage tasks, to the costumers, directors of music, dances or script, much of the success of the production can be attributed.

The characters were:

Commentator, Dinnie Beaudin; Robin Hood, Randy Welburn, John Rankin; Maid Marion, Sylvia Baird; Much, Russell Thornton; Will Scarlett, Bobby Boisseau; James, Terry Bingley; Arthur, Noah Beaudin; Bertha, Denise Robertson; Edyth, Barbara Tillotson; Joan, Violet Ross; Helen, Nola Goodger-Hill, Carolyn Radioff; Friar Tuck, Gareth Goodger-Hill; Little John, Haroid Merson, Terry Bingley; Allan-A-Dale, Bobby Keith; Ellen, Phyllis Baird; Richard, Bruce Amyot; Blondel, George Stark.

Maids of Sherwood: Ruth Barrington, June Amyot, Catharine Thompson, Kathleen Beare, Barbara Ferry, Hazel Forget, Catharine St. Marie, Bernice Johnston, Judy Dahms, Bernice Beaudin, Patty Dahms, Judy Montgomery, Sandra White, Betty Moore, Sandra Stark, Susan Faille, Sonja Garayt, Susan Perns, Carmen Ruddock, Iris MacLean, Heather Robb, Norma Beare.

Small animals of Sherwood: Paul Beattie, Joe St. Marie, Jimmy MacLean.

Usherettes: June McWhinnie, Patricia Irving, Dorothy Noel.

Lighting Technicians: George Irving, George Tannahill.

A further presentation of this musical play will be given in St. Andrew's Annex, this Friday evening, June 3rd, and those who did not see it before, should do so on this occasion.

A COUPLE OF NICE LITTLE PUPPIES?

Here are a couple of frisky little puppies and puppies always attract the attention of young and old alike. They look just ready for a romp, but don't go too near them, they are not as friendly as would seem. Notice the heavy chain that holds the pups to the post, notice the claws stretched out. These are not playful little puppies, but wolf cubs that were found at Ste. Barbe a few weeks ago. If you can creep up behind them, you may be safe, but try to approach in a frontal attack and you may regret it. They are cute little fellows, though.

Trophy and Prizes Awarded Winners Valleyfield Track Meet

In the recent track meet held at Valleyfield, under the auspices of the Valleyfield Branch of the Canadian Legion, Huntingdon High School contestants were the runners-up with a score of five points over Ormstown contestants. On Tuesday morning, Principal J. B. MacMillan distributed the individual prizes and awarded the trophy won at the meet, to the winners.

The following boys won medals for running: Gordon McIntyre, George Irving, Billy Robb; for relay racing, boys over 16: Billy Travisee, Gordon McIntyre, George Irving and Billy Robb.

Baseball Throw—Girls: Peggy Stark and she also won a medal for the high jump.

Running—Girls: Eileen Gordon and Beverly McCracken each won pencils.

High Jump—Boys: George Irving, a medal.

It was quite a voluntary entry that was made by these students of Huntingdon High School and there was no previous preparation to fit themselves for the events. It is therefore even more creditable that they should have reached the runners-up position and to have won the trophy. They will retain the trophy for one year. Well done, boys and girls.

All Roads Lead to Ormstown Exhibition Next Week

Promises to be the Best Array of Exhibits and Amusements Ever Presented

All thoughts in this district are being turned toward the big event that comes annually in the month of June — Ormstown Exhibition. Next Tuesday evening will see the opening of this great exhibition and it will continue from then on until Saturday, June 11th. During the next few days vans will be rolling along from all directions from as far away as 500 miles and the destination will be Ormstown.

In this cavalcade will be no less than 960 head of cattle and horses to be offered in competition with top calibre animals, both local and afar. The 960 head is made up of 310 horses, 388 head of cattle, 200 sheep and 60 head of swine, but still this will be only a small part of the great show. Everything humanly possible is being done to make things pleasant for this livestock and to have them properly housed while at the exhibition. It must be remembered that this is a very valuable cargo and must be taken every care of.

At the same time the exhibitor and the visitor to the show is going to be well looked after. They will be able to find plenty to eat, plenty to see and plenty to do while they stay in Ormstown. The Ormstown Memorial Community Centre Committee is again doing the catering in the dining hall just inside the main gate. Patrons can be assured of getting the finest in home cooking during the whole period of the show. Visitors will have plenty to see on the midway, at the race track, in the arena and from the grandstand. Then there will be the industrial exhibits, and the general exhibits in the various departments. They will have to be there every day if they wish to see all that goes on at this exhibition.

It is no small task that the judges will have at this year's show. There are increased numbers of entries in all departments and it will keep the judges busy to get through them all. The exhibit in the Domestic and Handicraft Division promises to be something out of the ordinary, with entries already larger than ever before. In this same location will be displays of work done by the students of St. Malachie School, Ormstown; Ormstown High School, and a combined exhibit from Howick High School and Huntingdon High School. In the downstairs part of this building (the Industrial Building), will be found the many industrial exhibits that always attract a great deal of attention. Outside will be found the larger and heavy industrial exhibits such as machinery, cars, trucks, tractors.

The new race track is just about perfect. Those are the words one hears from the men who have the race horses. From this angle every indication points to the 1949 Ormstown Exhibition Race Meet being the largest and best ever witnessed here. Race fans can be assured of plenty of excitement at the race track and many a thrilling finish will be witnessed.

Also before the Grandstand there will be many free vaudeville acts to please and amuse the patrons and no fair visitor should miss these acts. They promise to be the best that have ever been presented at the Ormstown Exhibition. There is a dog act, a high wire act, an acrobatic act and a musical programme on an electrical organ. All are highly praised by those who have seen them at other points. Then there is the midway with all the thrilling and exciting rides, the sideshows and the games of skill and fortune. We must not forget to mention the hot dogs, hamburgers, chip potatoes, soft drinks, ice cream, candy apples and that foamy candy. An exciting time if ever there was one.

The horse show in the arena each evening will attract a great number to see the many fine horses do the high jump, the trot and the canter. See the drivers handle these horses and make them do just what they want them to. See the kids on their ponies and the potato race. You will get laughs, thrills and excitement every night if you want to go to the horse show that often, for it is on each evening from Tuesday until Saturday. A different program every evening and for this you will need to buy one of the programmes which will be on sale at the door, at a nominal price. You need a programme in order to follow the events properly and to make your scores.

If you need any information as to seats, tickets, exhibits and so forth, go to the secretary's office which is located in the Industrial Building on the fair grounds, during the course of the whole show. Mr. Carlyle Dickson is the secretary-manager and he will be pleased to do anything he can to make your visit to the fair an enjoyable one.

Robin Hood and His Merry Men of Sherwood

Above is the view of the stage with the young artists who took part in the musical play "Robin Hood", at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Annex, on Friday evening. The annex was well filled for the occasion and the children of the Maple Leaf Mission Band did a marvelous job of presenting the various characters in the play. It will be noticed that all are appropriately costumed for their parts. The scenery in the background lent a realistic woodland effect and this work was done by Miss G. Herdman, for which she is to be complimented upon the effect attained. The story of the play appears elsewhere.

Civic Guide For Huntingdon

THE Huntingdon Junior Chamber of Commerce is to be complimented upon many of its activities since its formation and especially with regard to the compilation of the first Huntingdon Civic Guide. For many months now the members have been working on this Guide and gathering data that will prove valuable to all in Huntingdon and more especially to those who may be interested in Huntingdon, or strangers seeking to know more about our town. The head of every household has been listed together with street address and telephone number. A map of the town in the centre of the book shows the streets and principal manufacturing sites with an index to name them. Between these two, it should be comparatively easy for even a stranger to find his way to the home of any resident within the town.

The population figures show the increase in the number of persons now residing in the Town of Huntingdon as follows: 1941 census — 1,952; estimated in 1947, 2,400, and in 1949, 2,770 which includes Garden City. Garden City is actually in the municipality of Hinchinbrook, but is so close to the Town of Huntingdon that it generally is reckoned as a part of it. The population has so changed in the past few years, that many of the older residents are not familiar with all the people as they were in days gone by. The figures above give some reason why there appear to be so many new faces. These figures also give some evidence of why there has been such a demand in recent years for more housing accommodation. It has created a building boom here that still shows no sign of decline. Indications are that more new houses will be built this year and there are some additions still being made to existing stores and mills.

The guide gives much more valuable information as to history, services, highways, means of transportation, communication, water supply, power, customs, banking facilities, etc. This information is printed in both English and French and should acquaint all with the particulars of the town in which he resides. Photographs of many of the important buildings and places in the town are shown and this should prove of great worth to those who may wish to locate here at any time. Also throughout the book are advertisements for the various businesses in the town and district and these also provide a wealth of information as to where this or that may be obtained. It is just as important to know these facts as it is to know where the individual lives and may be reached. Incidentally the revenue from these advertisements will help pay for the cost of printing the guide, the books themselves will be sold to the public for the price of 50 cents each and it would be advisable that as many as possible purchase one. There are 92 pages in the book and it has an attractive heavy paper cover printed in two colors.

Last Call For Ormstown Exhibition

BY this time next week, Ormstown Exhibition will have opened once again for the annual show. The officials have planned a really good show this year and with fine weather it should be a marked success. An extra evening has been added to the period of show time and many new exhibitors have made entries this year. All of this bids well to the success of this annual exhibition.

Last minute arrangements are now being made to assure the success of everything in connection. In this edition of the Gleaner will be found special pages of advertising and features in connection with the annual exhibition and the business people of Ormstown are bidding all welcome to their town during the week of the show. It is open week in Ormstown next week and the town's population will be considerably increased for at least the next ten days. Exhibitors from a distance will be arriving daily now and bringing with them their various exhibits. Local exhibitors will be moving in during the forepart of next week and so also will the midway shows. All of this makes Ormstown a very busy town indeed. It is only natural then that the business people should want to tell everyone that they are in business and the nature of their business.

Soon the noise and bustle of the fair will be heard as one approaches the Exhibition Grounds and there will be plenty inside the gates to keep both old and young amused. Apart from the entertainment angle there will be much of educational nature to be seen and learned. The exhibits in livestock always provide the people in the dairying district such as this is, with plenty to make notes about. The children will not be so interested in this as they will want to be around the midway. Then there are some other patrons who will be interested in the horses and the horse show, still others who will want to see the industrial exhibits. There will be plenty to see and hear, plenty to think about and plenty to learn while visiting Ormstown Exhibition. It will be five crowded nights and three crowded days for all who attend. It will be a full time job early in the morning until late at night for all who have to look after the arrangements. Thus we suggest that the people of the district lend their encouragement by attending the show in large numbers and thus show their appreciation of all that has been planned.

Election Quiet Yet

GENERALLY speaking, the election is quiet so far in this district and there is not a great deal of excitement in other parts of Canada unless it be results of the first provincial election in Newfoundland. These results announced on Monday gave the Liberal Party the charge of forming a government. It was probably somewhat of a surprise at that, but it should help that party to gain encouragement in the present Federal campaign.

Locally, there has not been much activity since the conventions were called and the candidates have been chosen. It is not likely many meetings will be held before Ormstown Show, as it is likely that most people will be busy with the fair. Then again, the constituency is much larger than formerly and this will call for a greater number of meetings to be held in order to cover the territory and the candidates to make themselves known.

Radio is being used extensively and the principal leaders seem to be covering a lot of territory which is intended to stir the people up into thinking which of the various parties will be the best to support. Despite the popularity that the C.C.F. seemed to gain in the Ontario election, the chances of their gaining ground today look very slim. It would seem that the big issue will be between the two old line parties—the Liberals and the Progressive-Conservatives. There does not seem to be any big issue involved, there is merely a conflict as to what one party thinks should be done and what the other thinks should not be done. The record of Liberal government has been generally good, perhaps taxation has not been reduced as much as some people think it should have been, but this cannot be called bad. The Progressive-Conservatives believe that they can reduce taxation and make certain other changes, but the program does not present anything very startling that the people would seek a change about. At the present time Canada is experiencing a very prosperous era and during such times the people do not think too badly of the government. There are indications that the present conditions will remain for a time at least, there being no signs of an immediate breakdown. There is some talk of Canada losing some foreign trade, but this has happened before and the general process is that what is lost one place is gained in another. This could be particularly true today when so many countries are needing our goods and there is a ready market for all we produce. The great trouble is the ability of other countries to pay for our goods or to exchange others of equal value that would be useful to Canada. Under present conditions there will be markets for many years to come, but many of the countries have not yet regained their ability to trade under normal conditions. Therefore to pick on this particular aspect, is unfair and unjust. But during elections there is much that is unjust and it must be the one with the strongest appeal who will win.

Russians Not Relenting

IT looked a few weeks ago as if the trouble with the Russians over the Berlin question was about to be ended, but conditions since that time seem to point out that this was only just another ruse of the Soviet. It just seems that nothing these Russians do or say can be relied upon. The blockade has been lifted, but it is immediately followed by a strike and other restrictions that in effect mean the blockade is still on. Hundreds of trucks started out to take loads of goods to the other sectors of Berlin, only to be halted because other papers were required to make their passage legal through the Soviet sector. Then there followed the strike of Berlin railroad workers and trains were left stranded at various points. Meanwhile in these stranded vehicles were tons of perishable foodstuffs that were being spoiled when people needed them so badly. Even during the blockade we doubt if so much was spoiled at any one time.

Still the difficulties are continuing and while there is no more blockade, Berliners are dependent upon airlift supplies by which to live and it is a good thing that this service was not stopped immediately. Perhaps this is what the Russians would have enjoyed. Meanwhile talks are going on in Paris with an idea of having a democratic government set up to rule all Germany and end the four power government. It is thought that more progress would be made and Germany would regain her feet and become self-supporting. Russia is blocking this idea for all she is worth as she wishes to stay in Germany with full say in the matters. It has been suggested that a vote be taken, but if one is taken, Russia wants it to be along Russian lines. Knowing Russia as she is now known, such a procedure would not bring satisfaction.

Russia claims she is seeking peace and the fact that there is no war already, is because she has tried to settle all difficulties with an eye to peace. We are of the opinion that so far the western block has been able to outwit her manoeuvres and short of Russia actual showing force, the peace has been maintained. It is possibly due to the fact that the Russians are a placid people and do not outwardly show emotions, it is very hard to discern anger or any other emotional feeling by looking at a Russian's expression. But can they maintain this attitude for ever, can we continue to play this cat and mouse game forever? Some time there will be an explosion and the fat will be in the fire. While the airlift has done a splendid job it cannot go on indefinitely while the Russians have it all their way. There are signs of exasperation at the Paris meeting and Russia has been told pretty plainly that she has to do something different than using the veto. Agreements have to be reached so that amicable settlement can be made.

The Barber's Pole

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

While having my hair cut the other day I got to thinking about the barber's pole, and I asked the scissors-and-comb artist if he knew what it originally symbolized. He admitted his ignorance, so I learnedly informed him that the red spiral in the pole represented blood, and that if he had been a barber a hundred or more years ago he would not only have been relieving men of superfluous hair, but also of superfluous blood.

Barbers were the first surgeons, and their business must have been a pretty gory one. They not only practised bloodletting, they also pulled teeth and performed superficial operations. The business was so gory that at the end of the thirteenth century an act was passed by the British Parliament forbidding barber-surgeons from displaying bowls of blood in their shop windows, "or in view of folks, but let them have it carried privily into the Thames under pain of paying two shillings into the use of the Sheriffs."

The origin and theory of bloodletting is rather obscure. It seems to have been based originally on the barbaric superstition that a demon was causing pain or swelling, and an exit had to be provided if the patient was to be relieved. A hole in the skull let the demon out of the head, and a hole in the flesh removed the demon from the arm or leg. Bleeding was employed as a last resort in the Great Plague. It was practised in the great yellow fever epidemic of 1793 in the United States, and Benjamin Rush, a famous physician, who attended George Washington in the fever, was accused of hastening the death of the first President by "copious bleeding followed by a violent purge."

Bloodletting is no longer practised by physicians, except in a minor degree in the form of cuppings for local relief. But the practice is being more and more applied in these days to the body politic. Copious bleeding and violent purges are now regarded as a sure cure for all economic and social diseases. Oddly enough, in this connection, I have just received a copy of a New Zealand paper, in which a writer, Ken Alexander, humorously describes the process of bleeding by taxation in that Socialist Utopia. He mixes his metaphors somewhat, and this is how he begins:

"It's a fortnight since New Zealand dug deep into the family sock for its Nash-ional burden of taxation." (The pun refers to Finance Minister Walter Nash). "Well, the Ides of March have gone with the wind and so has a tremendous chunk of New Zealand's earnings. The blood-drained taxpayer, saddened by his financial bereavement, now proceeds to "raise the wind" against next windy March when Walter will again set out with his merry men to wring the last farthing out of the old brown sock . . . that is, of course, unless New Zealand takes the only opportunity it will have for the next few years to save its soul and its 'roll' from the savage onslaughts of Labor's taxation blood-bank."

Mr. Alexander goes on to say that "everybody knows it's a good thing to take a fair amount of revenue from the people in a fair proportion; but anybody who thinks that the blood this Government of ours thinks it reasonable to drain from the patient is fair would have to believe that red corpuscles were as unnecessary to the health of the body-public as 'red' legislation."

I have always believed there is something in mental telepathy, and the above quotations seem to confirm it, for my cogitations on the barber's pole had led me along the same lines of thought before the New Zealand paper came to hand. The coincidence at least goes to prove that all great writers think alike! I am obliged to Mr. Alexander for providing me with an example of the effects of Socialist bloodletting. There is no need to cite other recent examples. The idea that social welfare and national prosperity can be improved by copious bleedings of the national income is just as foolish and fatal as that practised by the old barber-surgeons.

THE NATION'S BUSINESS
by ottawa observer

One Nation

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent at Chicoutimi, Que., reminded a large enthusiastic audience that the Liberal party has "one policy for all the provinces, and in both languages."

The Liberal party was the only one to have leaders from both French and English speaking races.

As he saw it, "This is an example that the other political parties ought to follow. That is why we are the only truly national party in Canada."

A typical day in Quebec, during his "meeting - as - many-Canadians-as-possible" trip, found the Prime Minister lunching with Hon. Charles G. Power at St. Pacome, having tea at Montmagny, and talking in eight different places.

Before he left the Maritimes, he announced the Liberal program in a trans-Canada radio address. Highlights were full employment, social security for all, expansion of trade, and a Dominion-provincial conference which would work out amendments to the constitution.

"Under a Liberal government, Canada has won a high place among the nations of the world. Our people have shown they were the equal of any others at any task."

Observers in Quebec note the uncertain line taken by the Union Nationale in the general election campaign. The impression is gaining ground that the people of Quebec stand with St. Laurent. Enthusiastic meetings and huge friendly crowds greet the Prime Minister wherever he goes.

No Nonsense About It

Finance Minister Douglas Abbott squashed claims that the budget meant nothing because Parliament did not have time to pass it.

Income taxes had been lowered, he pointed out. Soft drinks, chocolate bars and jewellery taxes were off. This was in line with the age-old practice of Parliament.

"I don't think the people of Canada believe nonsense," said Mr Abbott.

National Health

Viewed in retrospect, here is a typical week in the national health program:

Monday — Four New Brunswick hospitals receive some $56,000. to buy X-Ray and other equipment for cancer diagnosis; $234,000. is allocated for a new hospital at Peterborough, Ontario.

Saturday — The mental health clinic at Hamilton, Ont., and the travelling mental clinic which is operated from the Ontario hospital in the same city were allocated about $10,000. for extra equipment and staff.

Friday — Four New Brunswick hospitals receive over $40,000. for equipment to fight tuberculosis.

Thursday — Grants of $34,759. for hospital construction in Saskatchewan.

Tuesday — The University of Toronto was granted more than $18,-000. for research, by means of radio-active isotopes, into malignant diseases.

Trade

Figures of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed that Great Britain's adverse balance of trade is easing up.

In March the imports from Britain were $28,343,000. A year before they were 33 percent less. Canada still retained its balance of credit with Britain, but it was $11,300,000, instead of $37,700,000. for March, 1948.

The result was both encouraging to Britain and Canada, economists agreed. Britain would continue its purchases from Canada on the same scale, confident that both Countries would benefit.

The week's news provided another example of the way the Agricultural Prices Support Act puts props under farm income. In recent months a surplus of dried skim milk has piled up which threatened to depress all dairy product prices during the producing season. The government has now authorized the Agricultural Prices Support Board to take the surplus off the market,

Chinese Communists marched into the heart of Shanghai last week and took over control of the sprawling Asiatic metropolis without a major battle.

Resistance of the Nationalist forces lasted three days after the victorious green-clad Reds entered the world's fourth-largest city Tuesday.

In some sections sharp—but minor—resistance was encountered by the Communists. Nationalist troops held some bridges for two days, but the small pockets soon crumbled.

After the gunfire ceased, the Communists methodically set out to take over the government of the city and control of its 6,000,000 inhabitants.

Soon the streets were a snarl of traffic, hawkers crowded sidewalks and money-changers invitingly clinked their silver dollars. Asia's greatest city was back to near normality. The fighting phase of the Communist take-over had ended.

Some political organizers arrived but politely declined to talk to correspondents. "We are too busy to talk; come back later," they said.

Banks, business offices and a few stores reopened. Shutters were taken off windows and barbed wire barricades were rolled up.

Pictures of Mao Tze-Tung and Gen. Chu Teh, the Communist chairman and military commander, began to appear on many large buildings. Communications with Communist China were restored and train service was expected to be resumed this week.

Most Nationalist forces appeared to have made good their escape, but no estimates were available on how many fled and how many were captured.

There was no way of determining how many were killed in the fighting within the city. Some sources put the dead at about 200. The Chinese press said casualties totalled "several hundred," mostly Nationalist soldiers.

American Economic Co-operation officials announced that further shipments of food to Shanghai have been cancelled. The E.C.A. officials estimated Shanghai had about a week's supply of E.C.A. rice and enough oil to run its power plants 10 days when the city was captured.

The city's population probably will suffer from lack of food once E.C.A. supplies run out. But eventually the food sources of Communist-held North China should relieve the food situation.

A London court on Friday freed Gerhart Eisler, official of the United States Communist party, in extradition proceedings launched by the United States in an effort to gain the return of Eisler who jumped bail when he fled the country recently.

Eisler immediately went into hiding to be, as he said, "same from Americans." In Washington Attorney-General Tom Clark said the United States government would "not give up efforts" to get back Eisler, who had been convicted and sentenced to prison for falsification of a visa application and refusing to testify before the House Un-American Activities committee.

The American Embassy in London had pledged to abide by the British court decision on the German national, who was taken forcibly from the Polish liner Batory at Southampton.

Eisler told reporters he plans to stay in Britain for a few weeks and eventually settle down as a professor in Leipzig, in the Soviet zone of Germany.

A Berlin railway strike, which has paralyzed movement of workers and goods within the divided city, may have to be settled by the governments of the four occupying powers if no agreement can be reached by occupation officials.

James W. Riddleberger, U.S. official in Germany, said on Saturday the problem "may have to go to the government level" if it is not settled soon.

The strike, on Berlin's elevated railway, developed after the Russians lifted their blockade of land traffic into Berlin. The air lift, in operation for almost a year, has been continued but Russian authorities Friday announced they might interfere with it.

Red officials warned that air lift corridors into Berlin would have to be narrowed because Soviet gunners would start aerial target practice in the area. American and British authorities countered with the statement that the corridors would be unchanged.

Foreign Ministers of France, Britain and the United States presented Andrei Vishinsky, Russian foreign minister, with their proposals for a united Germany government on Saturday. The proposals of the three Western powers came at the end of the first week of the meeting in Paris of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

It was not expected that Vishinsky would reply to the plan until early this week. Basic idea of the Western powers is to extend over all of Germany the governmental system now in force in the western zones of occupation. It would make the Bonn Constitution applicable to the Russian zone of Germany.

No indication was given as to whether the Russians would agree

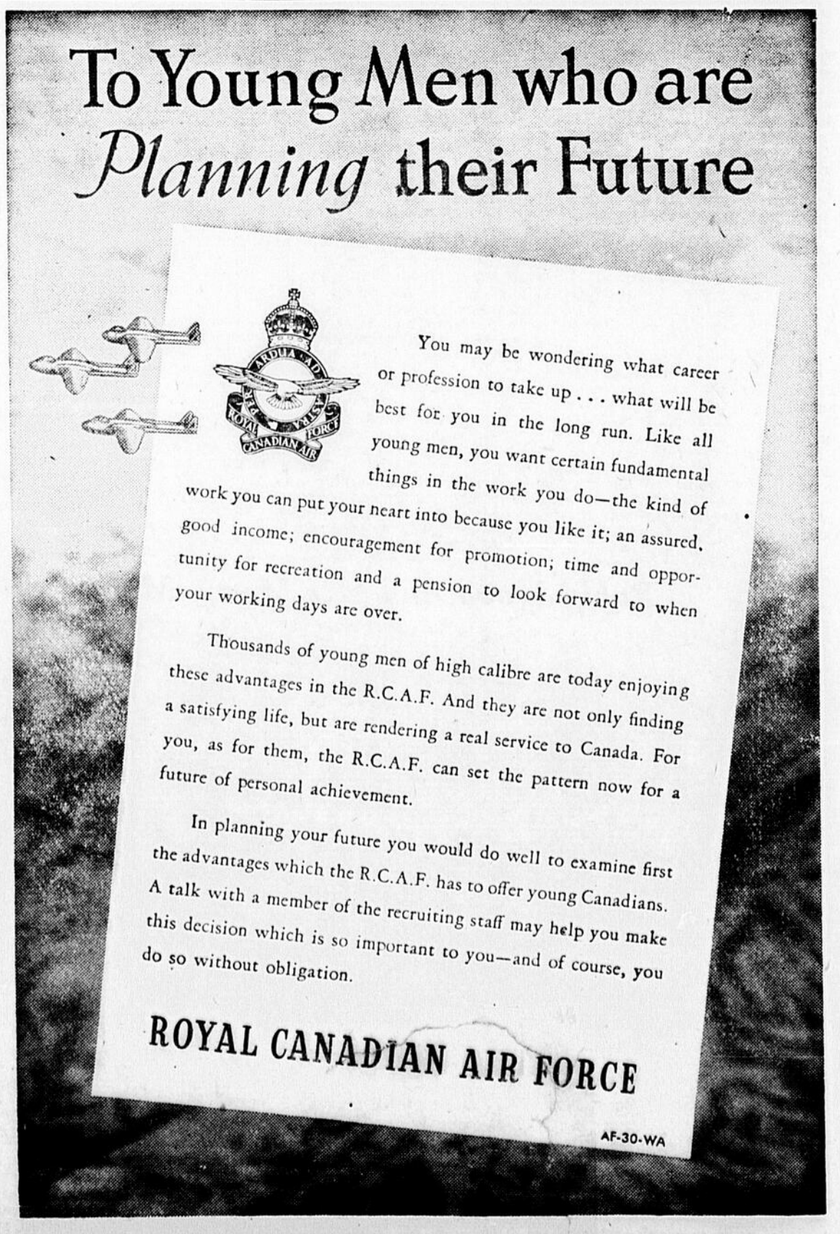
While some people see depression just around the corner, business keeps going up. This week's business indicator from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics is department store sales. They were seven percent higher in the week ending May 14th than in the same week a year ago.



Day's Hoeing Done In An Hour On Three Continents

WITH REPUTATIONS for doing the equivalent of a day's hand hoeing in an hour, British-manufactured rotary hoes are on their way to the U. S. Named Gems, the machines are also being imported by Canada and 43 other countries. Pictured here are Gems at work on three continents—making irrigation furrows in Africa (left), cutting overgrowth in Europe (top right), and working in a rice field in Asia (bottom right). Manufacturers claims for them are: self-sharpening blades which lift, break up and aerate the soil and mix it with cover crops, fertilizers or manures; a special safety clutch which prevents damage by hidden rocks or other objects. With special attachments, Gems are reported to be capable of rolling, furrowing and being power units for sprays, pumps and saws.

Old Timer Recalls West's Early Days

WINNIPEG, (CP)—One of the great sights of the springtime in the old days of Winnipeg was to see stern-wheelers docking at the foot of Main street to take on about 150 settlers heading up the Assiniboine River to homesteads at Souris and Brandon, says John J. Conklin.

Mr. Conklin came here from Hamilton, Ont., in 1881. His uncle, E. G. Conklin, was one of Winnipeg's early mayors. At 80, Mr. Conklin is probably the city's oldest newspaperman. He joined the staff of the Free Press in 1888 and except for a brief interlude in the 90s remained with the paper until his retirement in 1940.

One of the big events of those early days was the trial of Louis Riel at Regina for leading the Northwest Rebellion. Although this took place before Mr. Conklin joined the newspaper, he recalls the stories of the trial and the uneasy tension after Riel was hanged.

"The railway sent a special train to Regina to bring Riel's body back to Winnipeg. There was a lot of tension in town and some people were afraid the Orangemen would raid the train here. The railway cleared the tracks and let her go right through the city at top speed and across Louise bridge into St. Boniface."

Culturally, the city was better supplied in the 1880s than it is in the 1940s, Mr. Conklin says. There were five bookstores in the downtown area, every one "very finely stocked."

A "Limited" Company

The word Limited (abr. Ltd.) after the name of a company is short for limited liability. It does not mean that the number of members of the firm is limited but that their financial liability is limited. The liability of each partner or stockholder is limited to the amount of his stock, or to an amount fixed by a guarantee. In the United States the equivalent is Corporation. Therefore, after the name of an American firm we see Corp. or Inc., (incorporated) instead of Ltd.

Legion Log

Notes from the Convention

One of the most interesting points about the election of officers was that with the exception of three members, the entire Provincial Command was composed of Veterans of World War II. Comrade Charles Kench, Sherbrooke, as President, formerly with R.C.A.F.; Commander Al. W. Heron, Montreal, formerly Honorary Secretary of Command as 1st Vice-President; Comrade Ed. Aronovitch, Montreal, as 2nd Vice-President; Comrade A. Munich, Montreal, as 3rd Vice-President; Comrade G. Cote, Quebec City, as 4th Vice-President; Comrade J. Gilbert, St. Lambert, as 5th Vice-President; Comrade Ted Round, Montreal, as Chairman of the Council; Comrade John Shierbeck, as Assistant Chairman; Comrade Ed. Struthers, Stanstead, English reprres., Dominion Command; Comrade Louis Daoust, as French speaking representative, Dom. Command.

The next convention will be held in Sherbrooke.

Comrade John H. Wright reported $15,825. was collected for Polio in 1948, of which Huntingdon Branch subscribed $611., making us fifth on the list of Branches.

Comrade Ted Round was made Life Member in reward for his services during the past decade.

Each committee report showed considerable progress in every phase of Legion work.

It is reported that Comrade Fred Tredinnick, the Huntingdon delegate, was very much in evidence on the floor at the convention at all sessions.

The wind up of the Convention was a dinner at the Auditorium of the Legion Memorial Building. The speaker was Mr. A. A. Gardiner, who spoke on Canadian Citizenship. The officers of the year were installed by Gen. C. B. Price, C.B., D.S.O., M.C., D.C.M, V.D.

So much for the convention — now let's get down to local activities within our Branch. No doubt the most important date for the coming month will be June 21st, when Dr. Weill, R.V.H., and Mrs. Ina Montgomrey, Chairman Canadian Legion Blood Bank, have arranged a Blood Donor Clinic in our Legion Hall. This clinic will be held afternoon and evening, so keep your eye on the Gleaner for our advertisement.

At the June meeting final plans will be made for July 1st celebrations. Let's all plan to attend that evening and help make Dominion Day a really big success.

We regret to announce that Comrade Pope was unable to continue his duties as Treasurer owing to pressure of business and the Branch has elected Comrade Lorne Fennell to assume these duties. Congratulations, Lorne, we hope the members of the Branch will assist you by paying their dues promptly.

Bouquets to our Comrades at Valleyfield Branch and Ladies' Auxiliary for the wonderful Field Day which they held May 21st. Community work of this kind is one of the main objectives of the Legion.

With over 2000 branches spread across Canada, the Legion is indeed making a tremendous contribution to Community Welfare throughout our country.

River-bed Gives Up Rich Bomb Harvest

OTTAWA, (CP)—When commercial fishing fell off in their old haunts two years, two Picton, Ont., fishermen began fishing for bombs.

They've dragged more than 24,000 practice bombs from the bed of the Ottawa River since then and sold them for scrap metal. The bombs were dropped on Shirley's Bay, 12 miles from here, during wartime R.C.A.F. training operations.

Mel and Ray McIntosh began dragging for the practice bombs near Picton on Lake Ontario when their fish catches fell sharply in 1947. There were several old bombing ranges near Picton, and soon fishing became just a spare-time occupation for the two brothers.

Now they own four power-boats and have done no fishing since 1948.

The business is highly competitive. Other fishermen have joined in and the hardest job is to find an untapped bombing range. The McIntoshes brought two boats to Shirley's Bay and took the cream of the crop before competition arrived. Within two weeks, the old range had been cleaned out. The bombs are dragged up with special rakes.

Some 35,000 bombs were dropped there from a service flying school at nearby Uplands and the big R.C.A.F. base at Rockcliffe. Many of the bombs are buried deep in the mud of the river. Some of them failed to explode when dropped and become hazards for the fishermen.

One type of the nine-pound bombs—with a lead core in a cast-iron casing—is worth 40 cents in salvage and they have been sold for as much as 75 cents. The other kind—solid cast iron—is worth eight cents.

But the McIntoshes say the old bombing ranges are becoming harder and harder to find.

"We can always go back to fishing for fish, I guess," said Ray McIntosh. But he agreed he wasn't too happy about the idea.

Inspectors Are Kept Busy

Inspectors of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, who check on the supplies which farmers use, are busy men. Those of the Plant Products Division inspect a variety of supplies, including seeds, feeds, fertilizers, pesticides, binder twine, hay and straw, and flax fibres. Most of these are stocked by the same dealer and so, by having the same inspector capable of checking all these products, cost of inspection is reduced considerably and inspectors do not have to go too far afield from their homes for over-long periods.

But this arrangement means that inspectors must be right up on the job, and must not only know the particular product but also the regulations governing its sale or production as laid down under the different Acts.

Technical developments have complicated inspection work and even though a university degree is necessary, inspectors must study continously to keep abreast of new developments to keep ahead of their jobs.

Exceptionally heavy seasonal demands for such services as field inspection of registered and certified seed crops, and the grading of hay, have to be met by the employment of temporary inspectors.

More Speed — More Money

Most of us did not become conscious of the effect of speed on the mileage obtained from gasoline until after the introduction of rationing during the Second World War. Other things being equal, more mileage is obtained from a gallon of gas when the car is driven at a slow speed than when it is driven at a high speed.

A motorist who speeds up to reach a filling station when his tank is running low is just kidding himself. Experts have determined that the most efficient and economical speed of a car is about 25 miles an hour. The following statement concerning the relation between fuel economy and automobiles was prepared by the United States Bureau of Standards: "More force is required to propel a vehicle at a high speed than at a low speed, chiefly because wind resistance increases approximately as the square of the speed." Every type of gasoline-driven vehicle or airplane has its own fuel-saving gait.

This is just one more reason why you should drive slowly and carefully. You will save money and you may even save lives,—including your own.

Entrance to Ormstown Exhibition Grounds

Thousands of people will pass through this Memorial Arch, built in memory of those men of Ormstown who laid down their lives in the first Great War, and which is the main entrance to the Ormstown Exhibition Grounds. It makes an imposing entrance and all who pass through it will be reminded of what it stands for. Directly inside on the left is the dining hall which is operated by the Ormstown War Memorial Community Centre, which is sponsoring the building of a suitable memorial to those who served in World War 11.

EMIGRATION TO COMMONWEALTH COUNTRIES

The most recent figures on emigration from Britain to the Commonwealth were given by the Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations in the Commons May 23. The number of British men, women and children who sailed under organised schemes or otherwise to live in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa during the period April 1947 to March 1949 was approximately 180,000. Individual figures are: Canada 58,500, Australia, 54,8000, New Zealand, 13,100, and South Africa, 54,300.

General Scenes of Activity at Ormstown Exhibition

Here are a few general scenes in composite form of what goes on at Ormstown Exhibition. There is the race track, various stock judging rings, the grandstand, the midway, industrial exhibits of machinery, etc., all of which will make up the activities of Ormstown Exhibition from June 7 to 11. You won't want to miss a single bit of it.

Board of Trade Names Officers

The Huntingdon Board of Trade executive met on Thursday and named Adam L. Sellar president for 1949-50, Francois Cleyn, vice-president, N. F. Manning, sec'y.-treas. In view of the fact that the newly named president was absent, due to illness, it was decided that at an early date a meeting be held when various committees would be named and the programme of work for the year be drawn up. Indications are that the programme will be one based largely upon cooperative lines with the municipal council, for there appear to be several things the Board of Trade and Council can achieve toward the welfare of Huntingdon. The Junior Chamber of Commerce will undoubtedly be quite willing to lend their valued assistance along such lines.

Bowling Green Soon Ready

The Huntingdon Lawn Bowling Green is about ready to play on for the season and if weather conditions permit, playing will start on Monday evening, June 6. Indications point toward an excellent membership amongst the men; what the ladies will do in the way of active playing has yet to be announced. With 6 greens and plenty of bowls there is no good reason why good large memberships of both men and women are not enrolled. The larger the membership the more active the club will become, thereby making the sport all the more interesting to all.

Long Distance To be Improved

Mr. L. Moise, manager for the Bell Telephone Co. for this district, called at the Gleaner Office on Thursday and stated that it will not be long now until service on Long Distance calls will be greatly improved. Certain new equipment is now being installed and this will make for faster service. He said he knows that many people have been annoyed when their calls have taken a long time to get through, but the time is coming when this will be changed. The company is continually receiving new equipment that has been in scarce supply and it has thus taken considerable time to make the changes required. It will be only a matter of weeks before this new equipment is installed and in operation, then the service will be greatly speeded up.

Obituaries

The Late James Andrew Hampson

Tuesday, May 17, 1949, a kindly old gentleman in the name of James Andrew Hampson passed away. Mr. Hampson was a native of Huntingdon, being born here Sept. 10, 1860, his father being the late James Hampson and his mother the late Mary Jane Jamieson. Mr. Hampson was an unusually friendly man and always ready to converse or listen to the topic of the moment. He was one of genuine goodness of heart and whenever able to do something that was within his power and means to assist, was found most willing to co-operative. He was a member of St. John's Anglican Church, and as his Rector, the Rev. W. S. Hatcher, stated at his funeral service — whenever the church bell tolled you could count upon Mr. Hampson being present. He was indeed a devout religious man as was also his wife the late Martha Rankin, who passed away ten years ago.

Mr. Hampson was a carpenter and cabinet maker by trade and for years worked in the Piano Factory and Organ Factory, when they operated in Huntingdon. For some 16 years he was employed at the Central Hotel. No doubt Mr. and Mrs. Hampson became more generally acquainted with a greater number of the general public during the years they operated a restaurant in the O'Connor Building.

Being a father of a family of boys and girls it was but natural he should be interested in athletics, but few parents maintain such keen interests in sports once their family has grown up. Such was not the case of James Hampson for when in his death bed he managed with much discomfort to sit up and listen in on broadcasts of the hockey finals. Throughout his life the lacrosse, baseball and hockey clubs could always bank on Jim Hampson being willing to be an executive, and not one only in name. For many years before his retirement he officiated as a member of the directorate of the Huntingdon Skating Arena.

All was not rosy at all times for the late Mr. and Mrs. Hampson for they had untimely breaks in their family when death took away a daughter, Inez, in 1912 and a son, Walter, in 1913; who were scholars attending the Academy. George Hampson, the eldest son, died in 1948.

The surviving members of the family are Miss Gertrude Hampson, who so tenderly cared for her father and the home; the eldest living son, E. E. Hampson, Montreal; Stanley of Dundee; and Arthur C. of Huntingdon. One sister, Mrs. Wm. MacDonald, of Ottawa. To this devoted family, daughters-in-law and grandsons Larry and Don, the sympathy of the community goes to them in this hour of bereavement.

The great profusion of floral tributes received were indeed a testimony of esteem held toward the deceased and the family.

to scrap their occupation system for that of the West. A counter-proposal by Vishinsky was that the old Allied Control Council be re-established to create a new German agency capable of handling subjects passed on to it by the four powers. He would have the council's decisions subject to the veto of any of its members.

Failure of the four powers to agree in the original control council resulted in the decision by France, United States and Britain to set up the separate system for their western zones.

More than 3,500 British dock-workers were on strike during the week-end in a tie-up resulting from the strike of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) Another strike, to last for one day, was called Friday on the vital London-to-Scotland rail link.

Rail union officials said it would be a "token" strike in protest against new railway schedules that allegedly interfere with the workers' home lives, and would continue every Sunday until the schedules were withdrawn.

The 10-day dockers' strike has halted unloading of food ships in four British ports, but on Saturday dock-union leaders ordered the stevedores to return to their jobs.

Aubrey - Riverfield

AUBREY-RIVERFIELD—On Saturday evening, May 28th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Craig, a very pleasant surprise party was held, in the form of a kitchen shower, in honor of Miss Ruth Orr, whose marriage is taking place shortly. Joint hostesses were Mrs. Wallace Craig, Mrs. Mervyn Craig, and Mrs. Wm. Rorison, aunts of the bride-to-be. Ruth, on arriving at the house, accompanied by her brother Leslie, who had supposedly come on an errand, was invited in to wait for a few minutes. As the door opened, she was greeted by the strains of "Here Comes the Bride" played by Mrs. Chester Orr, and about thirty friends and neighbors. She was escorted to a special chair, beautifully decorated and topped by a parasol, with streamers and rosettes of all spring colors. A large table over which hung a watering can, with streamers reaching down, was filled with lovely aluminum kitchenware, and other articles. After unwrapping these, which were admired by everyone, Ruth thanked one and all for their kindness. A pleasant social hour was enjoyed with music and singing, and a few special songs by Berta Orr. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses, after which all departed, amid showers of good wishes for the future bride.

Heated Discussion

teauguay Street entirely and therefore the matter of a terminal on that street could not be discussed.

Mayor Cappiello asked how many of the aldermen were in favour of moving the bus terminal from the present location. No one would answer the question. He then called on those who wished to make representation to the meeting.

Mr. Aubin addressed the council as follows: More buses were leavnig Huntingdon during wartime than now and that no member of the council should be interested in changing a business. It was against the law to do this. There was one man who wanted to do this and he should not be sitting on the council and taking a vote on the matter. He could not see the object of changing the terminal to a few hundred feet away on the same street. The otehr business men on the street did not want the change. He would like to study the minutes of the last meeting and also those of this meeting. It should not be the duty of the council to hurt any business. It looked to him that a member of the council wanted to have the bus terminal at his own place.

Mayor Cappiello said he had always been opposed to the bus terminal on Chateauguay Street and he was still opposed to it. Four years ago when he had been on the council it was his duty as chairman of the police committee to lok after traffic problems and the matter of changing the terminal had come up time and again. It was news to him that anyone on the council was wanting the business.

Mr. Aubin said that in several other towns that he named there was no trouble with the buses and they were on the main streets.

Alderman McWhinnie said that in the other towns the buses just unload and then go on their way, but here they wait for some time.

Mrs. Thomas as a ratepayer on Hunter Street stated she wished to object to buses being parked on that street. It is bad enough now she stated that since the new theatre had been opened, cars were parked across the driveways and even up on the lawn, making it impossible for residents to use their driveways. That has to be stopped too.

Alderman McWhinnie said he thought that Mr. Smellie had another alternative.

Mr. Smellie said that he had been approached regarding accommodation for the bus and said it could be done by using his showroom on Dalhousie St. when the bus would be out of the way of all traffic yet close to the business section. If this site were chosen he would be willing to fit up a waiting room. He wanted it understood however, that he was not asking for the change, but merely that he had been asked and only in the case that other places weer found to be unsuitable.

Mr. Turcq was asked for his opinion and he said he would like to know what was meant by a real bus terminal. Mayor Cappiello asked Alderman McWhinnie to explain. Alderman McWhinnie said he meant a place where the buses could stop without being an interference to the regular traffic. Mr. Turcq said he was just waiting for the council to make a decision and the bus would move to wherever they said.

Mrs. W. K. Philps on behalf of her husband who could not be present, wanted to know where the buses would be parked on Hunter Street and how many and for how long. The sidewalks were so broken that the residents could not walk on them and a public utility has reecntly taken poles out on the other side and left holes so that it was dangerous. If the buses are to be parked on the street where would the public go. It was bad enough that cars were parked all along the street now so that driveways were blocked.

Alderman Foisy said that Mr. Aubin had mentioned someone being interested in getting the business. He was placed in the same position as Mayor Cappiello had been some years ago, he is chairman of the police committee and is interested in the traffic problem from that angle. The changing of the terminal means nothing in his pocket as the place in question is rented and he would not get any of the proceeds.

Mr. Turcq said that the Provincial Transport Co. is satisfied with the present terminal and they had no desire to move it except that the council had passed a resolution regarding it and they had been willing to co-operate.

Mayor Cappiello then asked for a vote in favour of moving the terminal to the site at Chateauguay Street. There was no response. He asked for a vote to take it to Mr. Smellie's place and only two agreed and this was not conclusive as a heated argument ensued.

Alderman Fournier said that the Transport Co. did not want to move the terminal and that a petition had been sent to the council asking that it not be removed, so there was no point in discussing the matter. Mayor Cappiello replied that the resolution still stood and there was need for the bus to come off Chateauguay Street, as the matter now stood the meeting may as well be closed. Alderman Fournier maintained that the petition was worth something and the discussion should be continued until a decision could be reached. Mayor Cappiello saw no point in continuing the meeting. Alderman Fournier flung at him that because he could not get his own way he wanted to close the meeting. The meeting threatened to develop into a hot fray at this time and Mayor Cappiello decided to close it with the intimation that the matter would be discussed on broader lines at the next regular meeting which will be on June 6th.

Students Visit to Montreal, Saturday

by Tommy MacNaughton

Twenty-four students of Grades IX, X and XI of Huntingdon High School, under the supervision of Mrs. MacGregor, went to Montreal last Saturday in order that they might visit the planetarium at the Montreal High School. All enjoyed a very interesting and helpful lecture on the heavenly bodies and the earth's movements. This talk was given by Miss Edith Baker. Following this lecture they proceeded to Dorval airport where they were conducted through the various departments dealing with the operations of Trans-Canada aircraft. They then visited the weather stations at Trans-Canada and B.O.A.-C. and were shown how the weather is forecast. After this visit we should be more lenient and considerate with regard to the poor weatherman who truly has a difficult job in predicting the unpredictable weather. Before going home they revisited the airport, where all were thrilled by the incoming and outgoing aircraft. While there they were conducted through one of the aircraft and shown the cockpit and the very complicated instruments. This very constructive and entertaining day came to a close with the return home.

This Week in Quebec

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT

QUEBEC, (CP)-Canadian hospitals are short 8,200 nurses.

The stark figures were revealed in a report last week at the 10th biennial conference of the Canadian Hospital Council here.

The shortage, moreover, is "permanent, not temporary," said the report, prepared by Miss Edith G. Young, director of nursing at Ottawa Civic Hospital.

The report continues that the nurse shortage situation "will grow progressively worse in spite of the fact that student enrolments have been higher in recent years."

The situation is such that "luxury private duty nursing" is something hospitals are beginning to frown upon.

"The whole picture forms a vicious circle.

"Many of the conditions in the hospital cannot be improved until there are enough nurses, and until conditions are improved, graduate and student nurses will continue to leave the hospital," the report stated.

In spite of the shortage the number of nurses in ratio to the nation's population has improved. In 1943 there was only one nurse to every 543 Canadians, while by 1948, there was one for every 312 Canadians.

The report on the nurse shortage stirred a number of suggestions.

Dr. Owen C. Trainor of Winnipeg suggested hospitals take in girls who have not been through high school and train them as auxiliaries.

Dr. Gilbert A. Turner, superintendent of Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital, thought nursing courses might be cut from three to two years. This on the other hand made one delegate exclaim that courses shouldn't be trimmed down too much.

The report asked that a national nursing survey be made with a view to examining the situation as a whole.

It was pointed out that 10 provinces were working along independent lines and a common pattern would be hard to find.

Dr. G. D. W. Cameron, Deputy Minister of National Health and Welfare, did not think a national survey would "add one nurse in the next two years—and that is the time you will need them most."

When asked if the government could divert national health money for nurses' accommodations Dr. Cameron suggested hospitals put their requirements before the Government.

But, he added, a great deal had to be done in this respect by local municipal support.

Lt.-Col. W. J. MacCullum, Assistant Civil Defence Co-ordinator for the Department of National Defence, gave the Canadian Hospital Council some pointers last week on preparations in case of war.

He suggested building of satellite hospitals on the fringe of big population centres; planning of reserve hospital buildings; underground hospital chambers. He also favored stockpiles of equipment and supplies.

Behind these suggestions were possibilities that blast, fire or flood might knock out essential services, disrupt supplies and wreck hospital buildings. High energy rationation and contamination by chemical and biological methods might immobilize hospital staffs.

Another danger: the threat of saboteurs which would make all regions insecure.

Gratien Gelinas, Montreal playwright and actor whose hit play "Tit-Coq" played 200 times before Montreal audiences, was honored by the Quebec Section of the Canadian Authors Society Saturday Night when his played moved to Quebec. He was presented with a bronze plaque by Jean Bruchesi, Assistant Provincial Secretary and president of the Quebec section of the society.

THE RECREATION HABIT

Our pioneer ancestors spent most of their time in the many strenuous tasks that were necessary in carving a civilization out of the wilderness. They had little difficulty keeping physically fit. But modern Canadians who earn their daily bread by toiling over a desk are not so fortunate. For these desk-bound people, carefully planned exercise is a daily necessity.

BIG GAME SHOT

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., (CP)—Some 2,267 moose and caribou were shot last fall by 5,057 licensed hunters in Newfoundland. Officials of the Natural Resources Department estimated that about 1,000,000 pounds of meat were taken from the animals, some of whom weighed half a ton.

"Red Shoes" Finally to be Shown Here June 11 to 14

"Red Shoes", a film in color by Technicolor, starring Anton Walbrook, Marius Goring, Moira Shearer and Albert Basserman, is finally to be shown at "The Huntingdon" here on June 11th and until the following Tuesday, June 14th — four days. It has had a terrific run in the Snowdon and Outremont United Theatres in Montreal and it is this that has delayed its being shown in Huntingdon.

This picture has been acclaimed the biggest attraction ever to be shown in Montreal and other large cities. The run it has had in Montreal seems to indicate that public opinion has the same idea. It is understood that people have come back twice and even three times to see this great attraction. It must have something when this happens. The people of Huntingdon will have their opportunity of seeing this great show in their own town on the dates mentioned above, you have not long to wait and it will be worth it.

SUPER-HYDRATED WATER

"Wetter water", among the newest weapons used to combat fire, is ordinary water with chemicals added to give it power to penetrate burning materials to combat combustible gases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON BEAUTY

Q. Should the scalp be treated with cosmetic aids, as well as the complexion?

A. Definitely, yes! Use a good tonic or pomade, and a good shampoo mixed to treat your particular scalp condition, such as too dry, too oily, dandruff, itching, etc.

Q. What can I do for freely-perspiring hands?

A. Wash your hands in cool water and put a drop or two of good quality of witch hazel into palms.

Q. Can you give me a good home remedy for excessive freckles?

A. One which has been recommended consists of one ounce of lactic acid, one ounce of glycerine and six ounces of rosewater, mixed together and applied with a bit of fresh cotton two or three times daily.

Q. What is an easy way to increase the gloss in my hair?

A. The beaten white of an egg added to the regular shampoo helps.

Q. What can be done for blackheads and whiteheads on the back?

A. Frequent scrubbings with a stiff brush and soap after the back has been soaked in cream or oil for a half hour will help wonderfully.

Q. Is overweight really due to heredity?

A. No. If overweight, it's usually due to family eating habits, rather than heredity. Or, it could be due to some glandular disturbance. If in doubt, consult your doctor.

Q. My neck seems to have a darker appearance than my face. What can I do about this?

A. Try bleaching the neck with buttermilk massages.

Q. How can the dry condition of my hair be corrected?

A. Either hot castor oil or olive oil treatments are in order. If the hair is bleached, the hot oil softens it before re-bleaching. The oil should be applied to the scalp with small cotton pads, and then a hot turkish towel wrapped about the head. Let it steam for at least five minutes, then shampoo.

Q. What is the best eyebrow-plucking technique?

A. After first softening the skin with cream and cotton pads dipped into hot water, extract the unwanted hairs by pulling quickly in the direction of its growth, at the same time stretching the skin to reduce the pain. Then apply an astringent lotion.

Q. Please give me a good underarm deodorant.

A. Chloramine, an antiseptic preparation, deodorizes without suppressing the natural function of perspiration. A little boric acid dusted under the arms helps to preserve your peace of mind.

Q. What is the test for determining whether the hair is entirely free

A. Grasp a lock of hair between thumb and forefinger, and pull on it. If a tiny squeaking sound results, the hair is clean and free of soap. of soap after the shampoo?

Liberals Sweeping Victory in Newfoundland

The Liberal party of Premier Joseph R. Smallwood by Tuesday morning was holding 19 of Newfoundland's 27 provincial ridings and will form the government in the island's first Legislature as a province of Canada. The Progressive Conservatives carried five seats and an independent, one. Two ridings are still to be heard from.

A near-landslide for the Liberals in Friday's balloting piled up the biggest majority the party has ever held in Newfoundland. Progressive Conservative leader Harry News was himself defeated in the riding of St. John's West. Most of the Liberal seats were won with heavy majorities — Premier Smallwood received 3,576 of 4,852 votes in his own riding of Bonavista North.

The first Legislature will open June 24. One more district has still to elect a member — Labrador, which will go to the polls July 25.

Ford Motor Company's 106,000 workers in the Detroit area began a gradual return to work this week following settlement of the 24-day strike by the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.). Two weeks will be needed for total production to be resumed and all of the strikers to return to their jobs.

The strike was called over union charges that the company was speeding up its assembly line in the big River Rouge factory. It ended Sunday with a peace agreement between company and union and a decision to name an arbitrator to decide the speed-up issue.

Still to be decided between Ford and the U.A.W. are terms of a new work contract. The union is seeking a $100.-a-month pension plan, wage increase and health and accident insurance.

Foreign ministers of Britain, France and the United States met Tuesday in Paris to plot their next move in reply to Russia's rejection of their plan for a political union of East and West Germany. It was believed that the West would seek to achieve some form of economic unity, if political union fails, during the meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky on Monday gave a flat rejection to the proposal that all of Germany be united under the Bonn Constitution which applies to the three occupation zones of Western Germany.

A further indication of Communist opposition to the democratic Bonn Constitution was seen in Berlin, where a Communist-led People's Congress adopted a Russian-type constitution which they said would apply to the entire country. The 2,000 delegates at the Congress handpicked 400 candidates for a "People's Council" to act as government, and chose a 22-man delegation to go to the Paris Conference of Foreign Ministers.

Kensington

KENSINGTON — The May meeting of Kensington W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. D. L. Brown; the afternoon was spent quilting the quilt donated by Miss I. Lindsey. The meeting was led for devotional part by the Pres. Mrs. E. Salter in hymn singing, Bible reading and prayer. A request was made for Christmas cards and used calendars to be brought to the next meeting. The Hymn "Oh Master Let Me Walk With Thee", was the closing hymn. Refreshments were served to members and visitors. Collection amounted to $8.25.

What Should I Do?

Q. How should feathered pillows be aired?

A. Do not sun feather pillows, as the heat brings out the oil of the feathers. Instead, hang them on the line on a windy day so the air can penetrate.

Q. How can I kill the odor of perspiration?

A. The odor of perspiration can be killed by bathing with a solution of bicarbonate of soda in water.

Q. How can I loosen the tightness of shoes that pinch the feet?

A. Tight shoes that pinch can be relieved by laying a cloth, wrung out in hot water, over the area that pinches. Leave on for several minutes. The warm moisture will cause the leather to stretch and ease the discomfort.

Q. How can I make use of the leftover roast?

A. If a good portion of a roast is left over, soak it for thirty minutes in cold water, and then roast again for a short time. It will be like a fresh piece of meat.

Q. How can I clean linoleum thoroughly?

A. To loosen dirt on the linoleum add a few tablespoons of kerosene to the water with which it is to be washed.

Q. How can I get rid of earth worms?

A. Earth worms in potted plants can be exterminated by thrusting unburnt sulphur matches, heads down, into the earth around the plants. Use from two to six matches, according to the size of the plants.

Q. How can I make soup crotons?

A. Soup crotons can be made easily in the corn popper. They will crisp very quickly. Cut the bread the desired size, place in the popper and toast.

Q. How can I remove paper that has become stuck to the top of a table?

A. Remove it by putting a few drops of sweet oil on the paper and rubbing lightly with a soft cloth. Then polish with furniture polish.

Blood Donor Clinic to be Held at Beauharnois

BEAUHARNOIS—The Canadian Red Cross Society is holding a Blood Donor Clinic on Thursday, June 16th, from 2 to 5 P. M. in the English School on St. Catherine St., under the auspices of the Beauharnois Branch of the Society. The Beauharnois Branche is appealing to the citizens of Beauharnois to volunteer as blood donors on this date..

Many of the local industries have been contacted and are canvassing their employees in order to obtain as many volunteers as possible. The Junior Board of Trade and the Knights of Columbus are also behind this drive, while the Beauharnois Red Cross Branch is getting in touch with old donors and making every effort to add to this list. Any individual wishing to volunteer should telephone Mr. Wilson McRae, Chairman of the Blood Donor Committee of the Beauharnois Branch, Office, Tel. 202, and give him his or her name. An appointment at the convenience of the donor will then be made. Any man or woman between the ages of 18 and 65 inclusive is eligible to volunteer. No special diet is necessary. Each volunteer will be given a haemoglobin test before registering and only those in good health will be allowed to donate.

A number of citizens in Beauharnois have already benefited through this service and in fact at the present time one of the patients in the Montreal General Hospital is from Beauharnois and is progressing favourably after a serious operation, largely due to a considerable number of transfusions provided by the Red Cross, free of any charge whatever.

The great value of blood transfusion therapy was proved during the war, when thousands of our fighting men owed their lives to the blood donations of volunteers. The use of blood transfusion therapy among the civilian population has grown steadily since the close of the war. The vital value of blood and plasma in the treatment of haemorrhage in childbirth cannot be exaggerated. Right here in Canada in one yar, over 21% of all maternal deaths were due to haemorrhage. It is safe to say that fully three-quarters of these might have been saved had prompt and adequate transfusion therapy been available. In one year, too, over 6,800 Canadian civilians met violent deaths. Experience in the battlefield has shown that many of these lives could have been saved if adequate transfusion therapy could have been provided. These are only two examples of the need for a Dominion-wide service, and there are many more.

In order to meet this great need, contracts are being drawn up with civilian and military hospitals whereby the Canadian Red Cross undertakes to provide blood and plasma on the understanding that this benefit will be passed on to their patients free of any charge whatever. Laboratories and subdepots are being set up at key points across Canada for the safe collection and grouping of blood, and a 24-hour service provided. These laboratories are staffed by medicall directors, nurses, technicians, V.A.D.'s and transport drivers. The second and perhaps the more vital part of the programme is the provision of the "raw material" without which the best technical facilities and trained personnel would be of little use.

In the Greater Montreal area the following hospitals have already signed contracts with the Canadian Red Cross and others will be added to the list shortly:

Montreal General—Central Division; Montreal General—Western Division; Miséricorde; Queen Mary Veterans' Hospital St. Anne's Military Hospital; Children's Memorial, Hôpital Beaulac, Catherine Booth, Grace Dart, Shriners, Hôtel Dieu, Herbert Reddy, Notre Dame, Verdun Protestant, Radium Institute, Notre Dame de la Merci, Notre Dame de l'Esperance, St. Hyacinthe D.V.A. Hospital, Hôpital de le Reparation.

Mobile clinics are being organized at various points throughout the Province, and as the donors are obtained hospitals outside Greater Montreal will be approached.

Don't forget the date: Thursday, June 16th, 2 to 5 p.m. in the English School, St. Catherine St., telephone Mr. Wilson McRea, Office Tel, 202. Give him your name. Blood is Life and YOUR donation could mean the saving of a life.

Prizes Distributed to B. L. H. & P. Company Men's Bowling Club

The members of the Beauharnois Light, Heat & Power Men's Bowling Club received their prizes during a reception held in the new dining-room of the Beauharnois Hotel on Saturday, May 21, 1949.

The evening opened with dancing while Bill Jones took pictures of the guests and prize winners.

The President of the league, Mr. E. P. Amy, welcomed the gathering in English and called on Mr. John E. Clark, Secretary-Treasurer, to address the French-speaking guests.

Mr. J. Lamarre, President of the Beauharnois Light, Heat & Power Recreation Club presented the various prizes.

The winners of the Bowling Trophy were the Mechanics. In addition each of the six regular players, Emile Bolduc, Captain, Thomas McNicol, L. P. Laberge, L. Lefevre, O. Cuerrier, and M. Haineault, was presented with a small silver cup and the spare players, A. Leduc, J. Mallette, and R. Cauvier were each presented with a mounted silver bowling pin.

Thanks were extended by Mr. E. P. Amy to Mr. Laplante, proprietor of the Royal Bowling Alleys for donating these individual prizes.

Odds and nds

The week started off with a bang! indicating Victoria Day and fireworks, the children had a wonderful evening with sparklers, whizz bangs, even watched the old school house going up in a puff of smoke (the old school house being one of the newest type firecracker) — there is always a fascination about this kind of celebration, the children with their eyes full of excitement and many oh's and ah's as the stars pop up toward the skyline, the adults with their thoughts of other Victoria Days and all the historical dates passing in a cavalcade through the kaleidoscope of colour before them.

You might be interested to know if you are a platter lover that those very fine recordings of Gracie Field's (with the male choir in the background), the beautiful orchestrations are led by Canadian-born Bob Farnum, a one time "Happy Gang" member. Nice to hear Lamonte Tilden's voice on the air again after his four months' trip abroad.

Gradually from behind the scaffolding and repair work that is being done on St. Lawrence Street there is emerging a new facade to quite a few of the buildings.

There will be a new photographic studio opening on Ellice Street in the very near future — nice going, Roger, and good luck.

I'll be leaving you next month. See you in July. Cheerio!

Dairy Tests Keep Taste of Fodder Out of City Milk

Herds, Farmers Regimented by Taste-conscious Experts; Milk Flavour Standardized

by Rennie Taylor

SAN FRANCISCO — AP — A cow's lunch can leave a bad taste in your mouth.

You don't have to share bossy's feed, or even be anywhere near her. The undesirable flavor of feed — in your bottle of milk. People with alfalfa for example — can turn up a keen sense of taste and smell can detect it.

Because so many things can effect the flavor of milk, the dairy cows which supply most large cities have become regimented.

The grade A dairy cow must take her alfalfa at certain times of the day. She must not graze too late in the afternoons. She may have to eat carrots. If she is about to go dry, she must be put with other cows not near the end of the milk-giving period.

The delicacy of milk flavor also dictates the dairyman's actions. He mustn't allow the milk to come into contact with copper or iron. He must not allow the fumes of gasoline, kerosene, tobacco or fly spray in the barn during milking time. He must keep the milk far away from contact with fish or rfuit.

The milk must not stand in warm places or in sunlight; it must not go through abrupt changes in temperature. It must not be shaken violently on the way to market.

Milk Sleuths

A few hundred people with sharp tastes and keen noses are checking up constantly on dairy cow conduct. They can tell pretty well what a cow has been doing simply by sipping a jigger of her milk.

Utilizing these discriminating human palates, the big dairy companies have virtually standardized the taste of milk.

When tasters find an off flavor the dairyman concerned is notified and asked to make the necessary changes. Sanitation usually is a state or local government matter. The populous states have a long list of regulations. Off taste, however, is strictly a problem for the dairyman and the processor.

Sometimes the taste defect is plain enough but the underlying cause is hard to spot.

In one instance the cause was domestic trouble. The milk had a feed flavor. A company expert visited the dairy farm and found the to graze all afternoon in an alfalfa farmer had been allowing his cows pasture while he argued with his wife. Alfalfa flavors the milk if fed less than four hours before milking time.

Ten minutes of sunlight can give milk a tallowy flavor. The expert can detect saltiness in the milk from a cow with udder inflamation. A cow with insufficient carotene in her diet gives milk with an oxidized or metallic taste. That's where the carrot diet comes in.

Milk tasters as a rule are not epicures. Their main equipment is a good set of taste buds, a sharp nose and a spittoon. Tasters never swallow the milk.

They like to have things quiet. A ringing telephone or the buzz of an electric fan can affect a taster's sense of values.

Forget all about the bickering and legal entanglements going on as Joe Louis and his associates go about taking over control of the world's boxing picture. Ask yourself, instead, just how this new organization is going to draw customers in large enough numbers to compare with Mike Jacob's era.

Where is the combination of Louis, James Norris and Arthur Wirtz ging to find a fighter or two to approach the class of Louis? There isn't one around anywhere. Yet it's obvious that either another Louis or Dempsey is needed to pull in the $1,000,000-dollar gates.

Jacobs, through business shrewdness and the potest fists of a former Detroit street urchin, built up the world's greatest fight empire.

In 1937 he secured sole right to the then 22-year-old Louis. Then he manoeuvred heavyweight champion Jimmy Braddock into laying his title on the line against Louis in Chicago instead of New York where Braddock was scheduled to fight Max Schmeling under Madison Square Garden sponsorship.

Louis belted out Braddock and from that time on until he retired this spring, Jacobs was boxing's overlord.

It wasn't Jacobs himself who pulled the fans through the gates, but Louis, a stalking fighter with killing fists, who the crowds loved to watch as he slugged his way through more than a score of title-defence bouts. From 1937 until 1948 the Brown Bomber drew almost $4,000,000 in gates.

Before Jacobs, it was Tex Rickard, often referred to as the man who built Madison Square Garden. Rickard found his gold mine in Jack Dempsey who pulled in more than $5,000,000.

Rickard's promotion culminated in the Dempsey-Gene Tunney fight at Chicago in 1927 that drew a gross gate of more than $2,500,000.

Fans wanted to see either Dempsey or Louis fight, and were willing to pay for the privilege. It cost $100 a ringside seat at the Joe Louis-Billy Conn fight in New York in 1946, and $60 at the Dempsey-Jess Willard bout.

These fighters could draw the crowds and did. But who has Louis to do it now? Who, and how many, would pay those prices to watch Jersey Joe Walcott, Ezzard Charles, Freddie Mills, Marcel Cerdan, or any others you can name now?

It's getting so bad it's not funny any more—this trespassing on various sports on each other's seasons.

During the middle week of May, hockey, baseball, football, and racing all appeared prominently on sports pages across the Dominion.

The Memorial Cup hockey finals were being played in the west, while professional baseball got under way in Toronto and Montreal. Racing, too, began another big season in the east while football teams in both east and west began spring training periods and clinics.

And to think that National Hockey League governors are considering expanding their schedule to 70 games!

Give us a chance boys! We like sport but can be in only one place at a time.

PROVIDING MORE AND BETTER TELEPHONE SERVICE

TO-DAY, WE HAVE twice as many employees as five years ago because more people want more service than ever before. Eager, capable, courteous — our operators, installers, the girls in our business offices — all bring to their jobs the same friendly spirit that means better telephone service for you, makes it of greater value than most other things you buy.

In the past five years, our payroll has gone up from 20 million to over 50 million dollars. Yet, up to now, despite higher costs on all sides, there has been no increase in the basic telephone rates established 22 years ago.

To-day's expansion program is breaking all records, but there are still orders we haven't been able to fill. We will keep right on working and building to make your telephone service a bigger bargain than ever — to continue to provide more and better service at the lowest possible cost.

Valleyfield Home and School Assoc. Completes Season

VALLEYFIELD—The Valleyfield Home and School Association completed a very successful season with a meeting which was held on Monday evening in the Gault Institute.

This thriving Association was organized in March of this year and subsequent to its inaugural gathering two public meetings have been held in the United Church Hall, at which the respective featured speakers were Dr. Travis E. Dancey, Chief Psychiatrist of the Queen Mary Road Veterans' Hospital, and Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education for the Province of Quebec. These were both attended by a number of visitors from Beauharnois, Howick, Huntingdon and Ormstown. The latter coincided with the official taking over of the Gault Institute by the Department of Education when representatives of the industries which contributed toward the renovation of the school were guests of the Home and School Association at a dinner in the Domestic Science Room.

The last meeting of the season, though not thrown open to the public, was one of the most successful and was exceedingly interesting and instructive. It took the form of a Panel Discussion, based on questions which members were encouraged to contribute in regard to Health, Education, Vocation or any question likely to foster interest in our Association. The panel was made up of a parent, a member of the medical profession, of the teaching profession, a clergyman and a businessman, in the person of Mrs. C. L. Roman, Dr. John A. McDonald, Mr. John Ferris, Principal of the Gault Institute, Rev. J. H. Lynn and Mr. D. C. Turner, respectively. In response to the appeal sent out to all members by the Chairman of the Program Committee, Mrs. J. Bouchard, many interesting questions were received. The questions were most ably discussed by the five members comprising the panel; two questions were referred to Mrs. Jas. Cooper and Mr. A. J. Wishart respectively for additional details. The President, Mr. L. J. Robb, thanked all those who contributed to the decided success of the meeting.

During the business session it was decided to sponsor an art class and a swimming class during the summer months under the direction of Mrs. C. P. Lattin and Mrs. J. A. E. McDonald, respectively. Anyone interetsed in these should contact either the instructor or the President, Mr. L. J. Robb.

The meeting was brought to a fitting close with a social time and refreshments served in the Domestic Science Room under the convenership of Miss G. L. Getty.

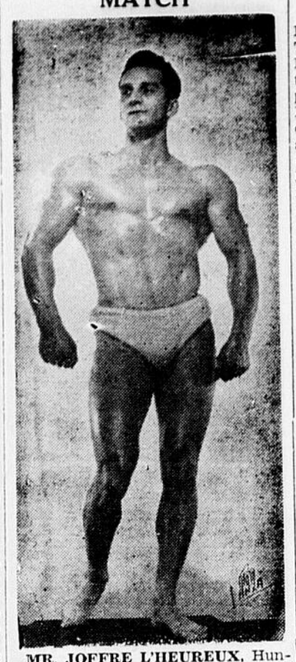
WINS WRESTLING MATCH



MR. JOFFRE L'HEUREUX, Huntingdon, who has won many consecutive victories in wrestling at Valleyfield Arena. On Sunday he had a bout with the famous wrestler, "Le Diable Rouge" and obtained the decision.

Written Speciall for The Huntingdon Gleaner

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa kept a wary eye on the coming general election last week, but most of the activities in the capital had little direct bearing on the vote.

It was a week of expectancy. Most people were waiting for voting day, but many were keeping an eye on other big developments in the making.

The end of the week also brought an end to one of the British Commonwealth's longest political careers—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King made his last political speech.

On Friday, the former prime minister drove 80 miles south to Alexandria to attend a Liberal nominating convention in Glengarry—the riding that elected him to the Commons in 1945 after his defeat in Prince Albert in the 1945 general election.

In a voice filled with emotion, he said only age and ill-health were keeping him from the hustings this time. But his absence from the campaign, he said, did not mean there were any differences between him and the Liberal party.

But for those two reasons "I would be out at the side of Mr. St. Laurent, fighting this election from coast to coast and assuring the people of my complete confidence in him and his government.

"I am solidly behind Mr. St. Laurent and his administration and solidly behind the priciples and policies of the Liberal party as they now are being carried out".

Someone at the meeting nominated him as candidate. He said he appreciated the compliment—but his friends knew he was out of politics for ever.

At 74 and with nearly 50 years in Canadian politics behind him, he said he had no regrets and no recriminations.

Transport Hearings Again

The capital also kept its eye on Winnipeg, where early in June the Royal Commission on Transport begins to probe the thorny problem of Canadian transportation. It's empowered to look into all forms of transport under federal control and it may be next year before its report is finally completed.

It follows nearly two years of hearings by the Board of Transport Commissioners into applications by Canadian railways for freight-rate increases — bitterly opposed by all Canadian provinces but Ontario and Quebec.

Coming before the commission will be a variety of suggestions for equalization of freight rates as it holds public hearings across the Dominion. Under its terms of reference, it also must look into inland waterways and air lines.

But the biggest item probably will be freight rates. In March, 1948, the Board of Transport Commissioners awarded railways a 21-percent increase and the railways followed this up with a number of increases in below-ceiling rates. The board now is working on a decision on the railways' application for an additional 20-percent boost.

Against the increase—for British Columbia and Alberta—is the board's order for removal of the contentious mountain differential on some hauls over the Rockies. That is estimated to save western shippers nearly $3,500,000 a year.

Food For Peace

A prophet of peace, who said the answer was more food for more people, visited Ottawa last week.

He was Lord Boyd-Orr, director-general of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization, and he said agricultural prosperity is the "only road to peace".

He called for international stabilization of prices and a fair income for farmers. That meant a stronger international farm organization. He said there must also be some guarantee that farmers' markets don't dry up, leaving them with surpluses they can't sell, and there must also be stores of food ready for any famine.

This was the only way, he said, to check the spread of communism.

He called the communist uprising in China a "revolt against hunger". An Asiatic did not know the difference between communism, and democracy and fascism—but he did know the meaning of hunger.

Lord Boyd-Orr is en route to Guelph, Ont., for the annual meeting of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers. The meeting will consider a proposal from the Canadian Federation of Agriculture for disposal of food surpluses through an international subsidy to be shared equally by the governments of the surplus country and a United Nations agency. The food would be made available to needy countries at less than cost.

Labor Trouble

Labor had its share of the week's news. And most of it centred around the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.), alleged to be led by communists.

It has been striking against east-coast deep-sea shipping operators since March while the Seafarers International Union (A.F.L.) has been trying to man the vessels.

Trade Minister Howe told a meeting of the Canadian Shipbuilders' Association that if the S.I.U. hadn't challenged the C.S.U., Canadian shipping would have been driven from the seas because ships' officers would not have been able to get a fair day's work from their men.

He said communists had taken over the C.S.U. leadership and with a Red-dominated union, an efficient merchant marine was impossible.

There were so many laws being broken in the strike, he said, the government could do nothing but it it take its course and keep the peace.

Meanwhile, the 400,000-member Trades and Labor Congress—whose executive recognizes the C.S.U.—was taking another look at the situation. Its executive met behind closed doors, but labor circles said it was debating the possibility of suspending the C.S.U.

The week before at Cleveland, O., A.F.L. executives had tried to bring peace to the T.L.C., split by the anti-C.S.U. policy of Frank Hall, Montreal rail union head who had asked the T.L.C. to recognize the S.I.U.

One compromise reported to have been proposed by the T.L.C. executives at the Cleveland meeting was that the voting system at Congress conventions be made similar to that of the A.F.L., a method which would give Mr. Hall's group considerably more policy-making power. Mr. Hall is backed by several big international unions.

Recipes

SALADS FOR SUMMER

A successful salad presents a picture: crisp, cold and colourful, suggesting the coomess of a dewy morning on the most sultry summer day. Salads are therefore an ideal summer food.

Lettuce is the standard salad green and green leaf lettuce makes the basis of most summer salads. The average garden offers several greens which add texture and flavour. These are spinach, chard, parsley, nasturtium leaves and the young tops of beets or turnips. Other plants such as pepper-grass, cress, chinese cabbage, romaine and endive are worth trying.

Sometimes shredded greens are a more interesting background than the whole leaves. The home economist of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, have an excellent idea for shredding. Roll several leaves into a tight roll and slice crosswise in thin slices to make fine even shreds.

Jellied salads or jellied meats may be made, when there is a spare moment, and be ready to serve on the salad plate. Jellied meat loaf is party-like for cool summer eating. It is a good way to use the end of Sunday's roast.

Cottage cheese is an excellent choice for the more substantial summer salad because it gives the sensation of coolness and blends well with almost any other food.

Much of the success of a salad depends on the dressing. It is better to have the dressing on simple salads, fresh and tangy, rather than rich.

JELLIED MEAT LOAF

1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups meat stock
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento (optional)
¼ cup chopped sweet pickle
1 hard-cooked egg
2 cups chopped cooked lean meat (beef, veal or pork)

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes, add to hot stock. Add vinegar, salt, onion, pimiento and pickle. Slice hard-cooked egg and arrange in the bottom of a wet or greased mould, pour in ¼ cup of jelly mixture. Let stand until set. Add meat to remaining jelly mixture, pour over eggs and set aside until firm. Turn out to serve. Yield: six servings.

ALBANIAN SALAD

1 lb. fresh young spinach
4 slices bacon
1 tablespoon bacon fat
1 tablespoon malt vinegar
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
¼ cup French dressing (about)

Wash spinach thoroughly. Use only the spinach leaves; discard stems. Dry spinach well, then crisp in refrigerator at least one-half hour. Meanwhile fry bacon slowly, pouring off fat as it collects. When bacon is partially cooked, cut in small pieces. Continue cooking until crisp. Shred spinach. Add cooked bacon, a tablespoon of the hot bacon fat, vinegar and black pepper, add French dressing slowly and mix lightly until spinach is well coated. (A quarter of a cup may be too much). Allow to marinate in refrigerator about 20 minutes before serving. Yield: six servings.

EGGS IN TOMATO ASPIC

1½ tablespoons gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups tomato juice
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
3 hard-cooked eggs
1 tablespoon salad dressing

Soak gelatine in cold water. Combine tomato juice, onion juice, sugar and salt. Heat to boiling point, add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Half-fill 6 individual moulds with jelly mixture. Remove shells from hard-cooked eggs, cut eggs in half, remove yolks and mash, season and mix with salad dressing. Pack yolk mixture into whites. When jelly is partially set, place half a devilled egg, with yolk down, in each mould. When jelly is completely set add remaining tomato-gelatine mixture. Allow to set. Unmould on crisp lettuce. Garnish with watercress or asparagus tips. Yield: six servings.

THE PRESIDENT

is the man who heads the organization behind the Ormstown Exhibition and on whom much responsibility rests for the proper carrying out of the arrangements for a successful show. He must be constantly in touch with the various committees and he must have frequent meetings with his secretary-manager and the whole board. Mr. McMillan has been doing this job for many years and his guiding hand has so far brought the annual exhibitions through to complete success.

Again this year, President McMillan extends a hearty welcome to all visitors and exhibitors to the Ormstown Exhibition and urges the people of the district to lay aside their work and cares and attend the show on at least one day during the period. Everything possible has been done to make this year's show an outstanding one and to provide a maximum of entertainment together with benefit for the exhibitor and general benefit to the community at large. The extension of one evening to the period has entailed much more work for the officials, but it is hoped that it will be found that more benefit will accrue for all patrons and exhibitors. Accommodation for horses has again been increased this year and has acquired this title through years of experience playing all kinds of organs for all types of musical background and entertainment. Playing organ since 1920, as a very young man, he has developed a style and technique that is superb in playing all types of music, from classical to jazz and boogie-woogie.

Hear Herb, (Master of Moods at the Organ) play the old Waltzes and Love Tunes on his New Hammond Organ, with the sensational new vibrato.. Also hear Herb play his sizzling hot boogie-woogie (for which he is famous), and also his interpretation of the popular songs of the day, at ORMSTOWN EXHIBITION —JUNE 7th to 11th.

Added Attractions at Horse Show This Year

More Competitions — More Events — Several New Trophies — Five Nights

What beautiful horses! Is an exclamation that is often heard during the Horse Show at Ormstown Exhibition. There will be plenty of room for this exclamation this year as many new entries have been made in this show. An extra night has been added to the show time in order that patrons may have a better opportunity to see the events. A grand trophy is being given by the Maple Leaf Riding Club for the Jumping Horse Stake, valued at $500. If this is won by the same owner for three consecutive times, it will become the property of that owner. The Shawinigan Water and Power Co. is again offering a trophy for the best lady rider in Beauharnois. There are many other beautiful trophies and prizes to be competed for and all will make the events that much more interesting.

Patrons will have five nights on which to see the various events in connection with the horse show, this year. It was decided early in the year that there were far too many events in this great attraction to crowd them into the four nights as in previous years. It was considered unfair to the midway that the horse show monopolize the whole of each evening and until such a late hour. By adding the additional evening, the additional events could be spread out so that the horse show will conclude earlier and allow more time for a visit to the midway before going home. Nothing will be missed and the arrangement is liable to lead to a much better presentation of the events.

There will be many new competitors this year and the various competitions should therefore be that much more interesting and perhaps bring about far different results than formerly. There is no doubt that the horse show is one of the greatest attractions at the Ormstown Exhibition each year and this year will probably prove to be one of the best on record to date. The arena is always crowded for seating room and the advice is to be early for rush seats and also to book reserve seats well in advance; these bookings are snapped up quite early for each and every night.

Industrial Exhibits On Display

Be sure to visit the industrial exhibits in the Industrial Building and also the larger machine exhibits around the outside of this building. You can learn much by studying what you see in these exhibits and you may find something that you have been wanting for a long time. Numbers of new exhibitors take space here each year and the space is always at a premium.

In this building also you will find the secretary's office and the men's and ladies' waiting rooms. Upstairs will be found exhibits of ladies' work, articles made by the various schools in the district, home cooking, flowers and so forth. There is plenty to see and learn in this building, so make a point of visiting it some time during the show.

On the outside, the mechanically minded will find much to cheer their hearts in the new cars, trucks, tractors and other machinery that will be on view. Perhaps you will give your order for one of the various pieces you will see, it may be just what you have been looking for.

Don't leave Ormstown Exhibition without at least one look at many industrial exhibits in and around the Industrial Building, you'll learn by viewing.

the horse show is bigger than ever before. New exhibitors have made entries this year, which shows the growing popularity of the show to the exhibitor class. Fine weather and a good attendance will make for the final success of the entire exhibition.

Be Sure to Visit the Midway

Model Shows will have twenty carloads of midway shows set up at Ormstown Exhibition for the five nights and three days commencing June 7th to June 11th. This in one of the largest midways to visit Ormstown Exhibition and many new rides have been added since it was here last year. There will be plenty of fun and amusement for everyone on the midway and as the Horse Show is being spread out by the addition of an extra night, there will be more time after the show to visit the midway before the crowd starts to leave for home.

No exhibition is complete without a visit to the midway to try your skill at the many game booths and take home those lovely prizes; to ride on at least one of the various rides, or to see some of the sideshows. You won't be able to resist the calls of the showmen and the free exhibits they will stage to entice you into the sideshows. In some of them you can stay as long as you like and in others you will see them all too soon. Bevies of girl dancers, freaks, various acts and so forth will all be offered for your entertainment. You can take them or leave them for you can stroll through the midway free if you wish. But not many do, for the spirit of recklessness bids you try your luck, buy a hot dog, and heed the cry of the barker, before you have gone very far. Young or old, everyone enjoys the midway and won't need any urging to visit it during the exhibition. The kids, especially, will enjoy the rides and will be thrilled through and through.

A VERY BUSY MAN
CARLYLE DICKSON

Secretary-Manager of the Ormstown Exhibition, is a busy man these days just prior to the opening of the exhibition on June 7th, and he will be very busy until a while after the closing on June 11th. Practically all of the arrangements are in this man's hands from the time the word is said "Go". This does not mean just on the opening day, it starts months before. The various attractions must be booked early in the year before all the best ones are taken; numerous meetings are attended and recorded; prize list is compiled and revised ready for the printers; advertising matter is arranged for and decided upon; entries are received and booked; programs are arranged for the printers; advance sale of seats and reservations have to be looked after. These are a very few of the things that the secretary-manager has to look after. Between times he tries to look after his own business during the rush weeks of the show. Yet you will always find Mr. Dickson courteous and ready to attend to you and your wants before, during and after the show. He also works late at night and is on the job early each morning during show week, so make his work as easy as possible by being considerate when making complaints, or requesting information.

Racing Events Will Attract Many Fans

The race track at the Ormstown Exhibition this year is in fine condition and a far greater number of contestants will provide thrills afternoon of Thursday, Friday and in the three races to be run each Saturday. A large number of patrons gather at the fair each year to witness these races and they will not be disappointed this year.

Men have been at work on the track and already many of the entrants have been trying it out. They report that is one of the fastest tracks in Canada today. In these days preceeding the show, it is common to see harness rigs racing around this track in an endeavour to get the horses and drivers accustomed to it. Roger Larocque is to be the official starter and is well known to those who attend the fair and have entries in the various events. Last year the track was quite new as it had been changed to a new location, but this year it is in much better condition for the seasoning. Located as it is, there is much less interference from cars crossing the track, so the drivers can put their horses over it at a very fast clip. This will make for much better events and provide greater thrills for the fans.

Everyone likes to see a good horse race and there are sure to be some exciting ones at Ormstown this year. More entries than ever have been registered with the committee in charge and the entrants will be eager to get in on the prize money that is being offered.

Horse racing will not be the only attraction offered for patrons in front of the grandstand, there is an array of free acts which promise to hold the attention of all who witness them. Scattered through these pages will be found individual highlights of many of these acts and all of them look to be quite good. As in the arena for the horse show, the advice to patrons is to secure their grandstand seats early if they wish to view these events with comfort. The crowd is so big that the seats are soon filled, despite the fact that extra seats have been erected.

Then you must not fail to see the animals being judged in the arena during the day. This is where you really get a good view of the stock exhibits and take notice of the many fine points as the judges do. For a view of the prize winners, there is the stock parade which takes place during the show in the arena in the evening. June 7th to 11th will be a full period if you want to see all that goes on at this greatest little exhibition at Ormsown.

Household Hints

To take the wrinkles out of a garment when in a hotel, hang it over the rack in the bathroom, close the door and windows, and turn on the hot water. Let it run until the room is filled with steam. Leave the garment hanging in this vapor for an hour then open the room and let the article dry in the fresh air. The appearance of the garment will be freshened surprisingly.

Added Gloss

A pound of white soap dissolved in a gallon hot water and added to five gallons of whitewash will add a glossy finish to the whitewashed walls.

Prevents Curdle

Salt will curdle milk. It is therefore the wiser plan to add it after the dish is prepared.

Feather Pillows

When refilling a feather pillow, crush a small block of camphor and mix with the feathers. This will keep the feathers "fresh" and will help to preserve them.

Protecting Hands

The hands may be protected from stea mand hot pans if the pan holders are fashioned in the form of thick pockets.

White Enamel

A flannel cloth dipped in garden mud will remove yellow spots from white enamel.

Varnished Paper

Varnished wall paper can be cleaned by using a melted bar of yelloy soap poured into a pan of warm water. Apply with a soft whitewash brush. Do not have the brush too wet.

Sewing Hints

If a small piece of adhesive tape is applied to the finger, it will prevent it from being pricked by the needle when sewing or embroidering.

Blending Dates

Dates will blend better with other ingredients in cooked dishes if they are first covered with a little hot water or milk. This will soften them.

Alabaster

To remove any stains from alabaster, sponge with a flannel moistened with spirits of turpentine. Wash with tepid suds of white soap, and wipe dry. Then polish with a soft dry brush dipped in plaster of Paris.

Finger Nails

Apply a little cold cream to the roots of the finger nails every night, and it will promote their growth, also keeping them in the pink of condition.

Whipped Cream

Add a teaspoon of strained honey to whipped cream. It sweetens it and gives it a delicious flavor. The cream will stay firm longer.

Walking a slack wire with ease and dexterity is no small job but when Don Francesco steps out onto the unsteady wire the task becomes twice as difficult.

Handsome Don Francesco who will be one of the featured acts at the ORMSTOWN EXHIBITION on JUNE 7 to 11, does his wire walking the hard way. He pretends to be not a little inebriated and with his body limber and swaying he lightly treads over the wire.

He walks jauntily over the wire, hands in pocket and his face wreathed in smiles when his legs become unsteady and he starts swaying. One of the difficult feats he does on the wire is a split.

OBITUARY

The Late Dougald Fraser McIntyre

Dougald F. McIntyre, retired blacksmith and hardware merchant of Ormstown, Que., passed away at his home on May 19, 1949.

The deceased was born at Allan's Corners, the son of the late Archibald McIntyre and the late Catherine Rutherford, one of six sons and two daughters.

A blacksmith by trade, he was an apprentice of his brother, the late Malcolm McIntyre, Allan's Corners, and worked with H. H. Chambers until he set up his own business in Howick in the year 1904.

In September, 1904, he was married to Eliza Luces, whom he leaves to mourn his loss. In 1912, Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre moved to Ormstown and continued his trade for about twenty years. He then began a hardware business which he operated until the time of his death.

Mr. McIntyre was a very public-spirited citizen and served faithfully and constructively on the Village Council for seventeen years. He was a member of St. James Anglican Church and served as minister's warden for fourteen years. His loyalty to his duty and his church were highly commendable. While health permitted, the deceased was an active sportsman. He was an enthusiastic curler and outstanding in the skill of quoits.

McIntyre's Hardware was a centre where townsmen often gathered to discuss various topics of the day and found their host an interested participant.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, two sisters, Miss Fannie McIntyre, Huntingdon; Mrs. J. J. McWhinnie, Allan's Corners, and one brother, Mr. John McIntyre, New Westminster, B.C.

Funeral service was held on Sunday, May 22nd, at St. James Anglican Church conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. T. Payne. Interment in the Anglican Cemetery.

Canadian Garden Service

By Gordon Lindsay Smith

Add Something New

Those who get the most fun and satisfaction always plan to add something new each season. In this way they become familiar with the steady improvement plant breeders and experimenters are making, and they also make valuable discoveries for themselves.

It should be remembered that the work of plant improvement has never stopped. Old favorities among the flowers and vegetables have been wonderfully improved in color or quality and what is of great importance to Canada, there are far hardier sorts today than were in existence a few years ago.

As a result of this new hardiness it is now possible to grow such tender things as garden corn, melons, tomatoes, cucumbers, etc., in areas where the old strains would not have had a chance. And the same applies to many formerly tender flowers.

New Discoveries

Then there are brand-new discoveries, too, at least brand-new to the average gardener. A great many people have never tried things like borecole, Brussel's sprouts, Chinese cabbage, endive, watermelons, or even Swiss Chard, peppers or egg-plants.

Few of us have ever tried to grow any of the herbs like dill or sage, or things like garlic, horse-radish or leeks. Practically all of these are hardy and easily produced.

By selecting new, hardy varieties, or in some cases getting started plants or forcing along under paper caps and with a little quick-acting fertilizer, these things can be grown safely in a great many parts of Canada. And the list of new or improved flowers is almost endless, as any good seed catalogue will reveal.

It is not advisable to plant the whole garden with new things or novelties, but certainly the systematic introduction of two or three each year will provide new interest and very often the discovery of a valuable and permanent addition.

For a Big Show

Most of us have envied those long brilliant shows of petunias or other flowers flanking some farm lane or country estate. "It must take a lot of time and money to look after them," we say. Actually, however, it doesn't. Of course a long bed of perennial flowers is a different proposition. Here there must be a good deal of tedious weeding and other attention. But if we have fair length of lane or driveway, or even some extended frontage along the street, it is possible to have a long bed of one or two brilliant annuals without much trouble.

The first thing is to get the bed cultivated thoroughly and because it is usually straight and long we can do that with a tractor or horse. Then by setting out the annuals fairly well apart we can do much of the later cultivation also by power. By sticking to one or two suitable flowers, things that bloom early and continuously, and avoiding fancy clumps, the necessary cultivation is simplified and much hand weeding avoided. Once the flowers get well started they will usually have little difficulty in crowding out any weeds.

How to Spend A Happy Year $64 Question

With $10,000 and Only One Year to Live

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP)—Almost anybody can tell you what to do with $10,000. But almost nobody seems able to tell you how to spend a year happily.

Oklahoma City's "Mrs. Heart" has more than 12,000 letters, telegrams and telephone calls to prove the point. They were the replies to her question:

"What would you do if you had only a year to live and $10,000 to spend?"

The woman, whose true identity remains a secret, told the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman her doctors had informed her that she would probably die in one year of a heart ailment.

Letters, telegrams and phone calls started pouring in by the hundreds. The overwhelming majority tell Mrs. Heart how to make others happy by giving them all or part of her money. Some ask for themselves. Hundreds seek aid for relatives, or friends or institutions.

"Loan me $400," a typical letter said, "then I can pay my bills and you'll have the satisfaction of knowing you made an old woman happy."

In all seriousness, an Oklahoma City woman suggested that $10,000 should be spent publicizing her patented flea powder. She thought that would make thousands of dogs and cats happy.

Letters Sympathetic

Most letters—from practically every state and several other countries—did offer the 51-year-old widow sympathy.

Most of the letter-writers ignored or overlooked the explanation in in news stories that Mrs. Heart already had provided in her will for her charities.

But there were a few hundreds of well-wishers who concerned themselves solely with the widow's own plight. Dozens wrote and telegraphed that they had been living on borrowed time for years and still had no intention of dying soon.

A Milwaukee woman wrote: "I wouldn't have any theories about how to spend $10,000. But I would have a definite theory about how to go about living and enjoying life... I certainly would want to live—not die—and I would investigate every avenue that would help in that direction."

It was the letters from other heart sufferers, still living despite warnings such as she had received, that made Mrs. Heart elect to "see some more doctors."

She got a lift from such letters as the following: "For shame on you for looking at this wonderful life in such a negative way. Why, if I were told I had only a year to live I wouldn't think of throwing it away on anything so sterile as a fling.

"I would be thinking that each day might be the very day when the cure for MY ailment would be discovered. I sincerely hope I may read about you again in about 10 years—healthy and happy. And I really think that I will."

OBITUARY

The late Mrs. A. K. Cleland

Mrs. Angeline Keddy Cleland, one of Hemmingford's oldest residents, passed away, after a lengthy illness, on May 20th, 1949, at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. McKay. She was in her 88th year.

The funeral service, which was held from St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on Sunday afternoon, was largely attended and conducted by the Rev. Dr. Allan Reid, of Montreal. There were many beautiful floral tributes.

She leaves to mourn her passing, three sons and three daughters: Nettie (Mrs. A. F. McKay) and John S., both of Hemmingford; George W., of Alburg, Vt.; Thos. Alex., of Quebec City; Cassie, (Mrs. Hugh Magill) of Hemamka, Alta.; Pearl, (Mrs. D. R. Her husband died in February, 1915.

RUBBER SPONGE

A rubber sponge is good for cleaning the porcelain in the bathroom. It retains the scouring powder and produces a splendid friction. It is easily rinsed out for the next using and does not retain odors as it washes out nicely.

COTTONS

You can prevent the colors from running by stirring into the first suds in which they are to be washed, one tablespoonful of black pepper, or three tablespoonfuls of turpentine.

PARSLEY

Parsley will be easier to cut if it is washed in hot water, instead of cold.

UMBRELLA RIBS

Save the ribs of discarded umbrellas. They make very good and lasting supports for trailing flowers. If they are painted a soft green, they will hardly be noticed in the garden.

Lacolle Tennis Club To Show Tennis Film

LACOLLE — The first of the Tennis Club's social events of the season is due to take place on Friday, June 3rd, in the form of an Opening Social and Dance, to be held in Lacolle, P.Q.

As a 'feature' of the occasion, the executive have been successful in procuring from the National Film Board in Ottawa a special film on tennis, for this one night only. Demonstrating the numerous strokes at varying speeds is Don Budge, classed by many as one of the greatest players of them all.

This is a film that has earned high praise from tennis authorities all over the American continent for its instructional value, not only for 'beginners', but also for the experienced players who would like to improve and smooth off their game, and at the same time see what it takes to make a champion like Don Budge.

In view of the nature of this film, a cordial invitation has been extended to neighbouring Tennis Clubs, and to those interested, to attend. It is also purposed to supplement this film with suitable, entertaining shorts. For the benefit of members of other Tennis Clubs, the feature tennis film will be shown at approximately 10.15 p.m.

In keeping with the Club's policy of encouraging and helping beginners and new members, another special instructional programme is being planned for the near future, details of which will be announced by the executive.

At The Movies

"Little Women" at O'Connor Theatre, June 5-6

The entertainment . . . is in the drama, romance, comedy, character . . . pathos and tragedy, all emotionally human and tenderly sentimental . . . The Production is clean, sweet and beautiful all the way through to the point of being ideal.

Contained within its own framework, LITTLE WOMEN has to recommend it a very first-class production, tastefully enhanced in Technicolor effectively applied to New England in the days of the Civil War. It has four attractive and competent young women—June Allyson as the hoydenish Jo, Elizabeth Taylor as the mildly ambitious Amy, Janet Leigh as the budding Meg and Margaret O'Brien as the wisp-like and fragile Beth. Mary Astor, as their mother, suffers in well-mannered gentility. Peter Lawford, who unsuccessfully woos Miss Allyson, is gentlemanly beyond compare. Richard Stapley, who wins Miss Leigh, is the exempler of all the manly virtues. Rossano Brazzi, who suffers until Miss Allyson is his, passes on much of it to the audience. The girls and their little adventures as they approach young womanhood are lacey trifles and as delicately unfolded.

Easy Credit Terms Help You Purchase Farm Improvements

The more modern your farm equipment, the less you labor and the more money you make. Your wife, too, can speed her round of chores with new work-saving devices. But, perhaps, your progress toward a better-equipped farm and home is barred by lack of ready money. If so, let a Bank of Montreal Farm Improvement Loan overcome this obstacle for you.

These loans are available to farmers for many useful purposes. Thousands have met the easy repayment terms out of the greater profits thus made possible, and they have increased efficiency and comfort at the same time.

You will find your B of M Farm Improvement Loan an economical way of getting ahead, for the only charge is interest at five per cent. Whether you want a tractor or a washing-machine, livestock, a new building or road repairs, you will be wise to talk it over as soon as you can with Ken Pope, B of M branch manager at Huntingdon.

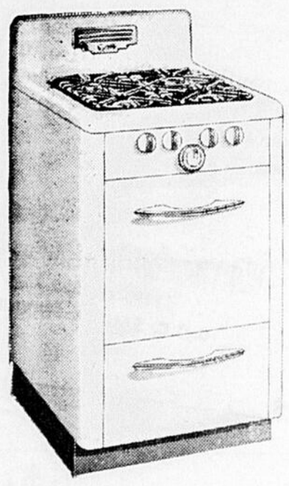
LP-GAS THE MODERN FUEL MEANS BETTER LIVING beyond the Gas Mains

-- IT'S TRUE! IT'S HERE TO MEET YOUR NEEDS --

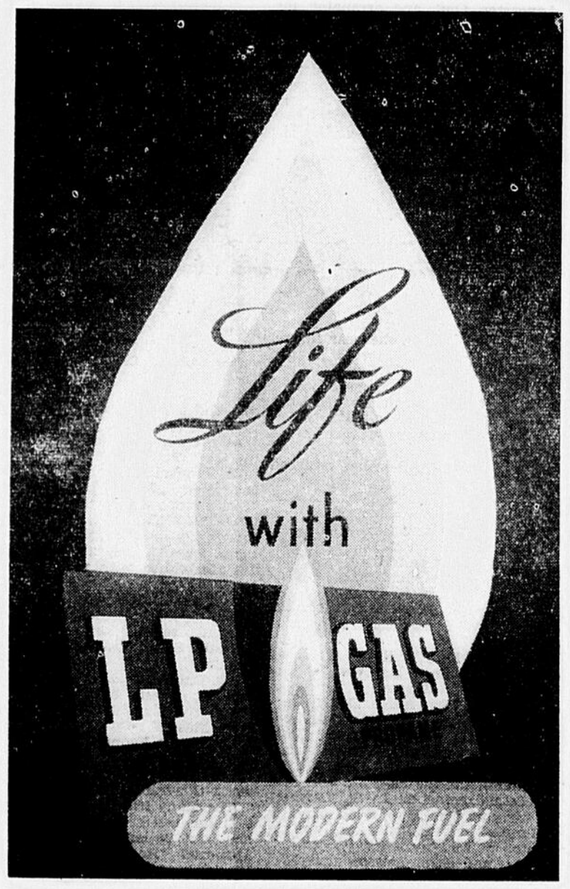


Illustrating Gurney Model 14 G 60 finish with oven heat control and speed plus simmer burner.

Cooking

Mr. Blue Flame says, "I produce a hotter flame instantly." The finger-tip control of the modern gas range and the quicker, more even heat of LP - GAS makes possible tastier, more healthful meals. Light, fluffy cakes every time; crispy brown roasts done to a turn! All broiled meats retain more juices – more flavor.

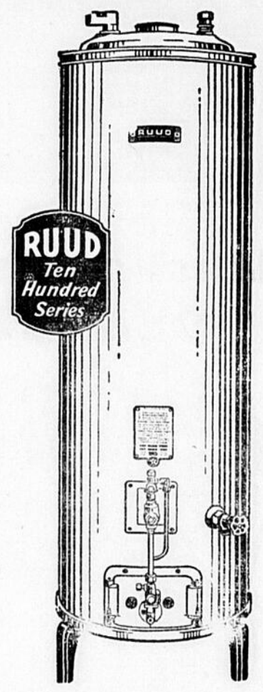
MR. ARCHER of Northern Appliances Limited will be at MARCHAND FRERES STORE to demonstrate the many uses of LP - GAS.



Hot Water

Mr. Blue Flame says, with a smile, "Wherever she is, I can keep her in hot water all the time". Wherever hot water is needed for shaving, dish-washing, washing machines or other purposes, the LP – GAS flame serves superlatively. No matter where you live, you can depend on my service day after day through the year.

Don't fail to see the demonstration of the many uses of LP-GAS, the modern fuel, at Marchand Freres this week and next week.



Ruud Six Hundred series automatic storage water heater. The Rudd Six Hundred series is without a rival in its price class.

We all agree with you "MR. BLUE FLAME" you simply cannot deprive yourself of the many modern comforts, conveniences, and necessities of life that L P - G A S has at last made available to you.
