Bushfire

A fire was discovered in the bush at Pilon Lake back of Sandy Creek, last Sunday, by Percy Young of Campbell's Bay and his two sons from Ottawa, who were fishing in that territory. They notified Mrs. Basil Pappin, who issues permits to travel in the woods and she in turn called Tony Kluge, the chief fire ranger. He gathered six men to fight the fire and though it is still burning today, it is well under control.

The fire at Gillis Bros. limits is now under control all except one big section of the fire at Indian Lake.

Westward Ho! Huge Grain Crop Takes Workers To Prairie Provinces

Farm workers from across the country have started their annual invasion of western Canada to help bring in the second largest grain crop in history.

The three prairie provinces have asked for at least 4,500 men and expect to have their quota filled by the end of this week. Some 50 to 100 workers a day are arriving at western areas, a Canadian Press survey shows today.

This year's wages are expected to range from $6 to $8 a day, a slight drop from 1952 when most workers were getting $9. Increased farm production costs are blamed for the decrease in the wage scale.

The general starting rate is expected to be $7, with combine operators slightly higher.

Cutting has already started in parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta despite a late start and higher than average hail losses. Reduced acreage in Alberta has cut production there, while Manitoba authorities predict higher production than last year.

There will be no Equity delivered after this month to anyone who's subscription is overdue. This we must do to be able to give an honest report of our circulation to advertisers. They are not interested in how many copies we mail out each week. They want to ascertain how many copies are bought by cash in advance by subscription. To ascertain this, the advertisers throughout the country have organized an Audit Bureau of Circulation. To be approved of by this Bureau is the aim of every self-respecting weekly newspaper in Canada and for The Equity it is the next natural step up the ladder of progress. So if you want The Equity, seriously that is, badly enough to pay for it, we will be glad to keep you on our list. Otherwise, we cannot.

SEWER BY-LAW DEFEATED

Lamb Born Labour Day At Hodgins Farm

Monday morning, September 7, at the farm of Lell Hodgins, R. R. 2, Shawville, a lamb was born. The mother and the lamb are both reported doing well, but the Hodgins' are having a hard time making people believe they actually have a Fall lamb. Spring is the usual time for these things. Someone should have told that to the Mother lamb last April.

Draft Horses Win

Charlie Liberman and Warren Campbell of Wyman, bring great honor to the Pontiac after winning Grand Champion and Reserve Champion in both light and heavy draft horse classes at the Ottawa Exhibition, and went on to take 21 firsts at Arnprior and 16 firsts at Perth, taking first in every class they entered in both fairs.

W. MacKechnie Receives Gold Medal

Heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. S. W. MacKechnie, who left on Sunday morning for Quebec City, where Mr. MacKechnie was presented with the highest agricultural honor the province gives to its farmers, the gold medal of the Order of Agricultural Merit and was decorated as Commander of the Order by Premier Maurice Duplessis at a special ceremony on Wednesday, September 9.

Glenlockie Nancy Rag Apple Brings Honor To Pontiac

Glenlockie Nancy Rag Apple, bred and owned by C. T. Brownlee and Son, has been graded excellent as a 6 year old. Nancy is the first Holstein in Pontiac County to be given top grading. She has been twice grand champion female at Shawville Black and White Day and 3rd in a class of 19 at Ottawa Winter Fair in 1952. She has a 4-year 305 day record of 14,068 lbs. milk, 3.9% 548 lbs. fat. Nancy was sired by Montvic Emperor Pot. She has two paternal sisters graded Very Good in the Brownlee herd. Her dam, Nora Korndyke Renee (UG) was also a Shawville Grand Champion.

'Gander' Alexander Drives To Top Place In A.D. McCredie's Hot Rod

Twenty-one year old Gordon (Gander) Alexander of Shawville holds an eleven point lead in the Beamishill stock car racing contest for this season. Last Sunday's mystery rider whose dramatic entrance onto the track by parachute was much advertised caused no serious threat to the

Town Road Paving To Progress Immediately

Out of a possible 330 voters, 147 went to the poll last Friday to vote in favor of the by-law and 149 stayed home or went fishing. Many voters came in from outlying parts of town where no change would be felt by the by-law one way or the other whereas a number of large taxpayers in the center of town refrained from voting at all.

The average assessment of those who voted for passage of the by-law was greater than the average assessment of those who voted against it, but by a large majority the by-law was defeated nevertheless. Total assessments of those against it was $313,000 out of a total town assessment of $696,925. The total assessment of those favouring the installation of sewers in Shawville was $130,600.

School Opens Despite Fire Classes For St. Mary's Students Start In Borrowed Rooms

Lessons will not be too long delayed for the children of St. Mary's School in Quyon in spite of the flash fire which totally demolished the school last Saturday. An emergency meeting was held Sunday night to make plans for the nearly two hundred children who will be starting school this week.

The use of the old school owned by the Protestant School Board of Onslow was offered to the Catholic School Board for the St. Mary's children by Harvey Steele, even as the school burned on Saturday morning. The Rev. Mr. Lawlor has also offered the use of the basement rooms of the Anglican Church to meet the emergency. Another small Pontiac school one mile outside of Quyon belonging to the Catholic Board will also be available as well as three rooms in an annex to St. Mary's on the river road.

The school which was burned comprised four rooms which were already overcrowded. The St. Mary's School Board has plans for an eight room modern school complete with auditorium which have been accepted, approved and will be built as soon as possible.

Merle Young of the Bristol School Board is seeing about extra seats and desks for immediate use of St. Mary's children. A hundred and fifty seats are needed and it is hoped these can be found in Shawville where new furniture has recently been purchased.

Blackboards and books are being ordered to replace those burned in the fire which destroyed all records and every piece of equipment at the old school and erased the scene of many fond memories for the Roman Catholic population of Quyon.

on the track. Aearoplane type shock absorbers and hydraulic brakes are installed and the body of the car is lowered by bending the springs downward. The steering is adjusted to a high ratio to facilitate coming out of spins and the whole inside of the car is braced with inch piping so it won't collapse in on the driver in case of upset or collision.

Strapped into a transplanted bus seat, wearing an army tank helmet and goggles, behind a windscreen of steel mesh, Gordon drives at about 70 miles per hour in high gear. His tie rods are reinforced with piping, he uses two batteries, one for the starter and one for the ignition, two radiators to cool the engine, one in front and one behind the driver's seat and for fuel uses 100 octane gas.

Winners at the stock car races at Beamishill Speedway share 40% of the gate receipts, according to how they place in each race. After seven races each Sunday each driver's total is added to his cumulative score with 6 points for first place, 5 points for second and 4 points for third place. Gordon now has 134 points.

Perfect Score Wins Award George Pirie Accepts Two Year Scholarship To Macdonald College

George Pirie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pirie of Maryland, was awarded a two year Diploma Course in Agriculture at Sherbrooke Fair, which was held August 30 to September 2, as he topped the nine other candidates with a perfect score in a general knowledge questionnaire on Agriculture. Donald Robinson, Fieldman, for the Calf Clubs in Quebec, chose George to be one of the ten most deserving in the province to compete for the award.

It is the first time that an English speaking calf club member has qualified for this honor.

The course may be taken at any college, so George in accepting, decided to attend Macdonald College. He also took part in the judging competitions held at the Fair, helping his team from the Shawville Calf Club to come fourth out of 21 teams competing. Well done George and congratulations.

Mine Uranium At Sandy Creek Earl Pappin Locates Rich Mine For Montreal Man

Fourteen year old Earl Pappin, grandson of the original owner of the old mica mines at Sandy Creek, north of Otter Lake, led James Meredith Yates straight to the mouth of the mine, where a very rich find of uranium has been made recently. This week about forty men are reported to be moving in to the territory to begin mining operations as soon as the preliminary chores have been attended to. Among these preliminaries are the surveying of the land, the opening of a road, building of a camp and then drilling for samples.

The mine, owned by an American firm, is located on two claims sold by Mr. Yates from his 6,000 acres previously staked and will be called the Yates Uranium Mine.

The story of this mine started many years ago, when Louis Derouin, prospector, sold the property for $500. For a while the mining rights in the property lapsed, but were later picked up by Joe Gratton. Mr. Gratton mined mica, which he drew out with a team of horses screened it on the property in an old shed and shipped it out in barrels. He and his partner, Martin Adams, now of Portage du Fort, also found fluorspar, which was much in demand for the hardening of steel. Joe Gratton, left the partnership and Adams sold out to Mr. Rougie, for $1500. Rougie let his rights in the property drop and the next man to stake was Mr. Yates.

Geologists and engineers from various sources had been up to the territory off and on for many months before Mr. Yates came last November seeking directions to the old mica mine. Mrs. Pappin, daughter of Louis Derouin, the first man to mine there, gave Mr. Yates directions, but after a day's futile attempts he went back to the Pappin's farm, unsuccessful. The next morning young Earl Pappin, took him straight to the spot and samples were brought back for testing with Mr. Yates' Geiger counter.

Since that day aerial surveys have been made of the whole area and many other people have been up to stake claims in the immediate vicinity.

This & That

A note from Gatineau Power Company: The little item carried in THE EQUITY on August 13 in re possibility of having to play "leap frog" over the fire hydrant before getting through the front doorway of our new office, is going to have a happy ending! Our engineers tell us that about three months ago arrangements were made with the Town to move the hydrant, and this work is expected to be done shortly,—upon receipt of a fitting that is now lacking.

Yours very truly,
H. J. McGreevy.

With the sewerage problem has come widespread discussion of the water supply for the village of Shawville. From remarks dropped by members of council as well as the Saturday night street corner orators there appears to be a question of adequate supply, not for the usual lawn watering and car washing operations but in case of such a water consuming emergency as a fire. Anyone having well-founded knowledge of this matter is invited to use this paper to inform the rest of us.

Fifteen and a half inches is some cucumber, and that's what Mrs. Woods found in her garden on Bristol Street, Shawville last week. Tending a large vegetable garden alone, Mrs. Woods boasts many unusually large specimens but this particular cucumber is a record that would be hard to beat.

Who was it that bet a hundred dollars that Gordon Alexander's car didn't use a standard motor in the race last Sunday and then backed off when the boys brought out their money? Too bad they didn't care to pay their bet. Gord and Duff Laviolette took the head off right then and there to prove the motor was what they said it was but the hundred dollars wasn't forthcoming.

Closing the country schools and bringing the children into town on buses has involved a great many people in heated discussions, most of which are unworthy of repetition, but one little item of interest to the ladies should be cleared up immediately. Apparently it is generally considered that if children are to come into town to school they must be decked out in special clothes for the occasion. This is nonsense.

Whatever a child wears to school is up to the parents of that child and whether he walks a mile down the road or rides five miles on a bus makes no difference in what the child will need to wear. On the first day of school it seems every little girl wants to wear her Sunday School dress and her good shoes but from then on the old overalls, sandals and sweaters are as acceptable at Shawville's new school as they are in the one room school on the back road.

Last week ladies attending the movies were asked to fill out cards for a drawing to take place Wednesday. The winner was supposed to receive a beautiful aluminum waterless cooking set worth close to two hundred dollars. The travelling salesman in charge of the draw decided to give out seven certificates instead, which entitled seven women to buy their sets for fifty dollars less than the listed price. None of the women contacted felt they could afford to take advantage of this offer which goes to prove you can't get anything for nothing.

What's this new C.T.C. Store opening soon in Shawville? Why Canadian Tire Corporation, of course.

There is no doubt in anybody's mind that sewerage is a good thing. In fact it is essential to the progress of the town. We must have it, in other words. Obviously, the way the problem has been approached is not the right way. There must be a proper way but we are not the ones to dictate what this would be. It is a problem for the best heads of the community. If a village council could draw up a plan for sewerage, acquaint themselves with it thoroughly, satisfy themselves to the last member that it was exactly what is needed here both for the present and for possible expansion later and then present it forcefully to the rate payers, that would seem to us to be the correct procedure. If the council would be willing to stand or fall on their proposition of a sewerage system for our town it would be much more likely to carry. When a town needs something badly enough they will work and fight for it.

Shawville is a village with a future. She stands in the middle for a rich and beautiful farming area, where the knowledge of the farmers is unexcelled. Her stores are modern, her hotels well equipped. Important mines are due to open in the neighborhood soon and everybody would be happy to see some large industry settle near enough to be of financial benefit to our town. But the story is now out in all the city papers: "Shawville turns down sewerage". Almost anyone you talk to admits readily that sewerage is a good thing and whenever we see the "honey wagon" trundle down the road we realize that sewerage is a necessity so apparently it is just the currently proposed plan that is at fault. The strongest detractors of the proposed plan circulated an anonymous leaflet, poorly written, sloppily typed and messily mimeographed setting forth six reasons why we shouldn't approve the proposed sewerage by-law. If they had stood up before the rate payers and stated their case, substantiating their claims, or had written a signed message though The Equity or had even put their names on the mimeographed leaflet, they would have gained the respectful attention of the town. As it was, the whole sewerage affair had a slight odor to it, worse, perhaps than the odor which emanates from the basements of those who need sewerage most. The next time a major forward step is proposed for our town let us hope those people most concerned will not be afraid to stand behind their statements.

Practically every periodical that is picked up on the newsstands these days includes some editor's reaction to that current almanac of femininity known as the Kinsey Report. It is not essential that The Equity should follow suit, but for the further education and elucidation of those of our readers who will not in the ordinary course of their lives happen upon a copy of this book we would offer a few remarks.

Mr. Kinsey made an exhaustive study a few years ago of the modern American male. Thousands of pages of tabulations were published to prove a fact which almost every schoolgirl knows—namely, that all men are fundamentally alike. Now, after several more years of even more exhaustive study this brilliant man has made another discovery which we venture to suggest is also commonly known—that is that no two women are the same.

One thing we must give Kinsey credit for and that is for having made everyone's favorite subject of conversation more acceptable. Wherever you go nowadays, whether it be among bookish people, scientists, writers or readers of the current magazines, everyone is talking about the sex habits of the American female as easily as they used to talk about such things as modern education and foreign markets.

We in Canada can stand a bit aloof, claiming no connection with the American male or the American female which gives us even more license to comment upon these strange species which require such statistical studies to comprehend. In our own merry way we go right on being males and females and hope and pray no learned professors take it into their heads to tell us how to go about it.

Last week there was an Equity published while the lucky old editor was out fishing. The lucky old editor takes this opportunity to thank the boys in the back, the gal in the front and the long suffering and hard working husband of the editor, who henceforth will be known as the publisher for working very hard through a very hot week to get the paper out regardless.

Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association Convention

For people who wonder what goes on at a Weekly Newspaper Convention, here's a brief summary. There are, of course a lot of big feeds and long drinks offered to us by those good friends of ours in the advertising businesses and by those who sell us our paper and our type and machines. And there are many long speeches by people for whom it is necessary to make a good impression on the newspapers of Canada. Then too, there are the informal debates over the breakfast table and the unscheduled all night conferences, the gay and wonderful sociable times that come when six hundred newspaper men and women get together away from the print-shops and in the relaxed atmosphere of a friendly town. For us, they did everything. There was a rodeo and a chuck wagon race; an RCAF fly past; a barbecue supper; three banquets; three luncheons, a concert by the Rose-town Fireside Girls, which is the finest girl's choir we have ever heard and is directed by Mrs. John Pinkney, wife of the editor of the local weekly newspaper; musical entertainment; a real western hoedown with high-heeled cowboys to lead the way; speeches by the mayor of Saskatoon, the premier of Saskatchewan the president of the CNR and many others.

But that was just one side of the convention. The reason for the convention is the sharing of views and experiences for the benefit of us all. Officers for the CWNA, which is the largest press club in the world, were elected and resolutions were brought forth and forum discussions were held on all the topics which concern weekly newspaper people.

At this 34th convention the discussions centered around five general topics: Advertising, Circulation, Editorial Affairs, Commercial Printing and Association and general affairs.

On the subject of advertising, we were interested to hear that our rates are comparatively low. We were strongly advised to eliminate the rate differentials between our national and local advertising and also informed that any changes in rates should be made on either July first or January first.

Circulation problems appear to be universal in this business and it appears to us that those papers which are audited by the Audit Bureau of Circulations have less headaches than the rest of us in the long run. We have taken this under serious consideration and have started keeping our records with a view to becoming an ABC paper as soon as possible.

Under Editorial Affairs we discussed country correspondents and their remuneration. Correspondents to THE EQUITY, it appears, are better paid than any others. Most correspondents receive only nominal remuneration, often nothing more than a box of candy at Christmas. We were also pleased to receive a nod of approval for our editorials. It seems many weekly newspapers do not print editorials and often when they do they clip them from other papers so there is little local interest. The EQUITY seems to have a rare capacity for getting into hot water with both feet at the same time, but one thing sure, we never lack for local interest.

Discussing commercial printing with the other Weekly newspaper people was most encouraging. We find everyone is beset by the same problems. Customers tend to think that when an item is ordered it can be taken off the shelf and wrapped up for delivery. There is little understanding generally of the complicated process involved in manufacturing such a simple thing as a raffle ticket or a wedding invitation. People wonder why such a small stack of paper should cost so much. But generally it has been found that people who live near a print shop know their good fortune when it comes to promptness and personal attention. Prices for printing were discussed at length and it was discovered that most print shops were arriving at approximately the same prices for most jobs. Of course those who use the CWNA Price List, as we do at THE EQUITY, were in complete agreement, but many shops find these prices too low and add to them for certain jobs.

As to Association and General Affairs, the discussions were mostly of a nature that would not interest anyone but weekly newspaper people. Newspaper and Printing Competitions were a topic of interest but since THE EQUITY joined the organization late in the year we were not eligible for any of these. Next year we will try to get entries in both these fields. The weekly newspapers of Quebec didn't show up too well generally in the competitions this year, with most of the honors going to those in the west. We were happy to notice, though, that the Hudson, Quebec, Lake of Two Mountains Gazette was rated by one of the judges as "the best all round newspaper."

And still that isn't the whole nature of the convention. There was the grand trip out by CPR with everyone going out of his way to see that we were comfortable—all the way from the porters who were medical students from Montreal to the head waiter in the dining car. And then there was the postconvention fishing junket to northern Saskatchewan by the courtesy of the government of that fine province. More of that fishing trip later. This column is about the convention which, in the opinion of this member, was a most useful and successful meeting and did worlds of good for everyone who attended. Next year the convention will be in Toronto and we'll be there with bells on.

Quebec Farm Forum

By Keith Russell, Secretary, Quebec Farm Forum Ass.

Monday night I had for the first time the pleasure of meeting with representatives from Farm Forum Groups in Pontiac County. This meeting, held at the home of the District President, Walter Kilgour, was called to deal with current business, to assess past accomplishments, and to draft plans for the future.

I am greatly impressed with the amount and scope of Farm Forum activity in Pontiac County. This is our strongest Farm Forum district in the province; due in great part to the efforts and enthusiasm of members like our Provincial President, Mrs. Gilbert Telford, and of course, many others in the County. The Co-operative Medical Services and the Mutual Fire Insurance Company, both outgrowths of Farm Forums in Pontiac have greatly added to security of their members. These, and other group activities, have helped to make Farm Forum a strong and valuable force in the local farm communities.

I feel that we might add still more to our groups of Forum supporters, if every farmer could be made to realize that besides the social benefits, he derives large economic benefits through his membership in a Farm Forum group. The Quebec Farm Forum Association is a member body of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, which means that a forum member is also a member of the C.F.A.

If it hadn't been for the C.F.A. we would pay more for our feed, and our hog prices would be even unsteadier than they are today. Why? Because it is the C.F.A. who went after the Federal Government for our freight assistance and the floor price on hogs. Feed is high enough as it is, but would be still higher if we had to pay the freight all the way from the west. The floor price on hogs, set last winter may have been low, but at least it saved hog producers from financial ruin.

These are only two instances where the C.F.A. has proved its worth. It is a fact that since the war, the Federal Department of Agriculture has not brought out one piece of major legislation without first discussing the matter with C.F.A. officials. In many cases it was the C.F.A. that initiated the legislation in the first place.

With the Department of Agriculture relying on the advice and opinion of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, we have this excellent opportunity of bringing our problems to the attention of those who are empowered to do something about them. Granted, the Government doesn't give us everything we want, all at once, and there is a great deal that we can do for ourselves, but the fact remains that we have this link, and it is up to us to make the greatest use of it.

Sometimes a single Farm Forum feels small and insignificant. But it is the thoughts and ideas of all these small groups that make up the opinion and policies of the Canadian Federation, and it is these that are passed along to the Government for consideration and action.

I feel that the Farm Forum movement in Pontiac County, strong as it is, could be much stronger if every farmer availed himself of the opportunity provided.

Assisting the Pontiac Lions Club, the Bryson Boy Scouts played host to the Shawville Units at a combined Guide, Brownie, Cub Scout and Rover Council Fire. In spite of the day getting off on the wrong foot through a mixup in instructions, regarding transportation for the Wolf Cub Pack, the event was an entire success. The Council Fire was opened formally by the commissioner, and Father Tait of the Bryson Group Committee led with the Lord's Prayer. The Girl Guides gave an example of their singing which was followed by the Dance of the Death of Sheer Khan by the Shawville Pack. At this point the Commissioner invited Dr. Rabb of Fort Coulonge as Assistant Scoutmaster of the 1st Bryson Troop, which was followed by the District President, Cliff Garrison, who congratulated Dr. Rabb on being admitted into Scouting and the Bryson Group in general. Father Tait then spoke on the meaning of Scouting, congratulating Dr. Rabb and assuring him of his support. The Bryson Brownies then gave one of their songs and when urged, an encore, which took the form of one of their dappes. The District Scoutmaster, Jack Tolhurst congratulated Eddie Rousche, the human Dynamo and Scoutmaster of the Bryson Troop on his accomplishments pointing out that by not only looking after his own Troop he took a Patrol from Campbell's Bay and a Patrol from Fort Coulonge each week which was certainly excellent Scout Missionary work. Back To School in Shawville

School opened with a flurry yesterday morning at Shawville with a record enrolment of 643 pupils and 25 teachers. Most of the grades are being divided into two sections each. Mrs. Cyril Watson and Mrs. Athol Dale are taking the two first grades with a total of 88 beginners. Mrs. Dale is also assuming the duties of Teacher Consultant for the section of the school on Victoria Street. Second grade, with 68 pupils, will be taught by Mrs. Clifford Strutt and Miss Morna Smith. Miss Beulah Findlay and Miss Noreen Crick have the third grade with 49 pupils and Miss Audrey Bishop and Miss Carol Smith are in charge of the 73 grade four students. "Don't Throw Stones"

As the school children return to their classes—full of vim and vigor—inulators on the poles of transmission lines appear to present an almost irresistible target.

Aside from the considerable expense to the Company in replacing broken insulators, especially in outlying districts, where work crews must travel many miles, there is another unfortunate result from broken insulators.

Very often the flow of power is interrupted, causing inconvenience to customers. Such interruptions coming at critical times can be most annoying to people who depend on electrical power to perform many functions around the home and farm.

At this time of commencement of school classes, the inconvenience and expense resulting from broken insulators can be decreased considerably if parents will kindly caution their children to refrain from this practice.

Remember—it may be your service which will be affected!

School Lunch Needs Hot Soup

GIRLS and boys go for hot lunches like this, after a morning in school. Cream of celery soup in wide-mouth vacuum bottle is the savory hot dish to eat with assorted sandwiches.

"CHAMPION LUNCH PACK-ER." That's the title you win when you pack noon meals that please the young fry and your man of the house.

Good ways to guarantee prize lunch boxes are these: Include plenty of food; should be about 1/2 of the total for the day. Have some favorite foods that your family enjoys—whether it's plenty of peanut butter, or cheese, or tuna in sandwiches. Put in crisp chewy tidbits, to contrast the soft sandwiches and other items.

Have a hot dish in the lunch too, and you're bound to hear cheers from the family. Hearty soups are fine for the hot dish. Their warmth and good flavor seem to revive spirits after a hard morning of studying or desk work. You've a wonderful array of soups to choose from in the condensed kinds. And besides the available varieties, you can have other inviting flavors by combining one soup with another. Send the soup in one of the new wide-mouth vacuum bottles; then it's easy to eat with a spoon right from the bottle.

Try some of these lunches with soup to brighten school days. And always have the soup heated well before pouring it into the vacuum bottle.

Next to knowing when to seize an opportunity, the most important thing in life is to know when to forego an advantage.

I Remember

by William Russell

In those days, as I remember them, everything depended upon the roads and the mails which were the only means of communication between one home and another. David Wilson was one of the early heroes of the mail route, lifting the mail at Sand Point and covering the route through Bristol to Shawville. In summer he met the boat at the Bristol Wharf.

American travellers came up then as they do now. They kept their horses at McLeod's Stables and would stay at the hotel which was run at that time by Nelson Johnston.

The roads that I remember in the early days were the same roads that now run in all directions out of Bristol. First there was the old wharf road running south. The first business there was just below the Memorial Church on the west side. This was a blacksmith shop, run and owned by a man by the name of Cole Down. On the left side was the famous playgrounds owned by the Craig estate at Hamilton Bay. Many games were played there. Baseball was a favorite as well as foot ball, but the one I remember most was Lacrosse. Harry Roy of Elmside, is the only survivor of that famous Lacrosse team that I never knew to be defeated and he will remember as I do that grand old gang. There was Peter Moyles, Peter Dumas, Dan and Sandy McCuaig, Alex and Jack McLeod, Walter Russell, Billy Graham, Alex Orr and Lewis Murray.

Down beyond the playing field was the wharf that has long since disappeared.

The next road was the east road along the Ottawa River. On the road was the Craig Farm. The first field that was cleared was called the Cricket Field and one of our fall fairs was held there. Afterwards, D. J. Craig, a great lover of trotting horses, had a track there for his own fine horses to compete against those from farms for miles around.

The next important farm was William King's. He was a bachelor who lived with his nephew, James Laird and a niece, whom we always called Miss Laird. William King had the first post office. It was a little log building on the left side of the road just as you cross the bridge and his home was on the opposite side. That building is still standing, but it has been moved across the road to the top of a small hill. Mr. King was born in 1800 and settled in Bristol in 1841, where he died in 1881. He was the first Magistrate and organized the Presbyterian Church in Bristol, of which he was one of the first elders. He organized the Sunday School and the first temperance society. William King also built the first grist and saw mill in Bristol. The mill used water power and the water wheel was about eight feet wide and the axle was twelve inches through. The troughs which the water flowed into had spokes about six feet long. It was a powerful wheel and also ran an upright single saw that made just one cut at a time.

In front of William King's mill there was a fine bush lot, which ran along the river. The oak that built the "Janet Craig" was cut from that bush.

When James Laird took over it was known as the Laird Farm and Mill. King and the Lairds kept up the two bridges, one on the Norway Bay road and one going north between the Craig farm and their own.

Up to where the second concession should have run there was a timber road from the Bay road called the McDonald road. It went to the river and ended where David McCredie has his summer cottage. It was owned and controlled by the township council and pointed the way to the grand summer resort now known as Norway Bay.

There have been quite a few ferry-men in the last few years, but the first I have any recollection of was John Macintosh. He ran a ferry boat to Sand Point and had a little cabin on the shore somewhere between the present wharf and the front of the Scobie House. The first power boat was—but no, I'm getting ahead of myself. To get back to the road leading out of Bristol.

The third road out was what they called the Main road. It runs like an old Indian trail in an eastward direction. It was the road to Ottawa and westward it went to Portage du Fort. On this road east there were many old settlers. The first was Thomas MacJanet. His farm has never been owned by any other family for about a hundred and fifty years. It is now owned by Charlie Russell who is a blood relative of the original owner. On the hill going towards the farm, Hugh McCredie had his first shanty. He was a tailor by trade and later moved onto a farm on the swamp.

The next farm was owned by a lumberman, called McDonald.

$100 For Hospital Nursery & Linen

The Radford Hospital Auxiliary met in the Pent House of the hospital on August 26. In the absence of the President, the vice president, Mrs. H. Hamilton, was in charge of the meeting. The 121st Psalm was read and the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. Several poems were read from Don McNet's book of poems. Mrs. Anderson met with the group and discussed the needs of the hospital. A motion was made that we turn $100 over to the Hospital Board to purchase supplies for the nursery and bed linen. Collection was $1.90 and fees .50. Mending was done for the hospital and some new work cut out and given out to be done at home. Mrs. W. J. Brownlee and Mrs. H. McCleary were hostesses and served a delicious lunch. The next meeting to be held in the Pent House September 16, with H. H. Hornr and Mrs. Clifford Horner hostesses.

Highest Award To Dr. G.C. Willis

Young Dr. George Christopher Willis, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hanna of Shawville, has been notified that he will receive the Gold Medal Award for Research from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada. This is the highest medical honor given in Canada. Married to Margaret Hanna, whom he met while she was nursing and he was interning at Montreal, Dr. Willis studied medicine at McGill University and has made a special study of heart disease for the past several years. He is now the chief physician at the Veteran's Hospital in Montreal and will go to London, England next year to further his studies in Internal Medicine. With him will go his wife and three baby daughters.

Born and raised in Shanghai, China, where his father was a missionary, Dr. Willis still writes 'home' to China. His father and sister are now located in Singapore where they operate a book store and his brother is the Officer of Health in Hong Kong.

The Gold Medal will be presented to Dr. Willis in a ceremony to be held toward the end of October this year.

This is now the estate of the late W. Drummond, having been bought from McDonald by John MacFarlane and then sold to Drummond Bros. This farm was about three hundred acres. The first home was burned down and the new house was built where it now stands. When McDonald had the farm he gave a right of way south to the second concession that connected the main road with the one that Laird lived on so the farmers from that section and eastward for some distance had a shorter road to the mill.

Along this road was found the first church the Presbyterians had in Bristol. One hundred and seven years ago it was built of wood with a fine manse by its side. The first occupant of that manse was Dr. David Wardrobe. That church was destroyed by fire and Tom Dodd was the builder of the next one. This time the structure was of brick and it was built on the Dodd farm which Howard Walsh now owns. The brick for the church was made from a clay hill just north of the Main Road. This is the church that William King took a great interest in.

About this time the templers built the hall in Bristol Village. That was a non-denominational congregation which was enjoyed by old and young alike.

Quite a few hunters in the district have been on the look out for them, but the bears have managed to elude them to date.

In 1945 he came to North Bay and he and Mrs. Horner have been residing with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Christofolakis.

Mr. Horner enjoyed good health until about a year ago, when he suffered a stroke. On Thursday, August 27, he became ill and was removed to hospital, where he was seized with a second stroke and passed away the following morning. The body rested at the Martyn Funeral Home until Monday at 2.00 p.m., when the funeral service was conducted by the Rev. F.L.H. Raymond and his companions, Laurier Becham, 13, and Bert Collins, had taken their lunches to the water's edge and decided to go for a short swim before returning to their classes at St. Alphonsus High School.

The boys were swimming less than 20 yards from shore when young Raymond cried out and sank below the surface.

James Poirier, operator of a nearby garage and Tommy Dunn, a customer in the garage at the time, attracted by the boys' frantic cries for help, rushed to the scene and brought Raymond to shore where they immediately applied artificial respiration.

Besides his parents, Walbert Raymond is survived by a brother, Leo, at home; and his sister, nurse in training at the Pembroke General Hospital.

Luskville Fire Victor Belisle Loses Saw Mill

A sawmill owned by Victor Belisle, about five miles west of Luskville, was completely destroyed by fire early last Tuesday morning. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The efforts of neighbors, who formed a bucket brigade, saved several cords of wood and slabs which were 120 feet from the mill.

Alec Wilson, of Beechgrove, discovered the fire at midnight, and summoned the Onslow fire brigade to the scene. The fire was brought under control about 2 a.m., but volunteers remained at the mill to prevent further outbreaks until 4 a.m.

The loss, estimated at about $8,000, was partly covered by insurance.

In Memoriam

Schwartz—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Bernard Schwartz, who departed this life, September 15, 1951.

It's lonesome at home without you Dad
And sad the weary way
For life is not the same with us
Since you have passed away.
If we had all the world to give
We'd give it, yes, and more.
To hear your voice and see your smile
And greet you at the door.
We cannot bring the old days back
Your voice we cannot hear.
But we have treasured memories
Of the one, we loved so dear.
— Wife and family.

Donald Gordon Addresses Weekly Newspaper Editors

With delivery of $50 million worth of new equipment, now being built Canadian National Railways' passenger accommodation will be as modern and comfortable as any in North America, Donald Gordon, chairman and president of the railway, told delegates to the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association convention in Saskatoon.

Speaking at the opening dinner of the three day meeting attended by editors from across Canada, Mr. Gordon said that the improved passenger car standards would apply not only to transcontinental service, but to all principal trains. "Our oldest branch line equipment, which has been pleading for retirement for twenty years will be set gently on the scrap heap, and will be replaced by cars now in main-line service," he said.

Delivery of the 302-car purchase, which is composed of 161 coaches and 141 sleeping and parlour cars, will begin this fall, he stated, and a car or two a day will be received from then on will be received from then on. "Once this has been done," Mr. Gordon continued, "some editors may miss a favorite topic for editorial discussion—the criticism of railway equipment. Objective and constructive newspaper comment, however, is always healthy and worth while. For I can say in all sincerity that your published criticisms are investigated promptly, and that is not infrequent for us to find your knowledge of local conditions a guide to appropriate and corrective action."

"We do not keep any 'box score' of newspaper comments, favorable or otherwise," he said, "so I cannot estimate how the Canadian National rates nationally in regard to favorite topics of discussion. The condition of some of our older railway stations, the state of our passenger equipment—particularly on branch line trains or in holiday traffic when we must press every available car into service—the whistle blowing of our locomotives at grade crossings, and the noise made by switch engines shunting at night are usually sure-fire subjects for adverse criticism. Our service generally, the introduction of new equipment and devices, and our declared intention to operate the railway as a business enterprise, rank among those subjects usually received with favor."

Newspaper editors are quick to praise constructive railway actions and policies, Mr. Gordon said. "Our dieselization program is one example of this," he said. "We embarked on it after careful study because it made economic sense; because it offered an opportunity to improve our services and to cut our costs. Nevertheless, the thoughtful analyses which accompanied much of the press and editorial comment have been most helpful to railway management in preparing the public mind for the inevitable readjustments which were bound to come in the wake of such a fundamental change."

Turning to the matter of freight rates, "the railway topic which has accounted for more tons of newsprint and pounds of ink than probably any other single item of public discussion," he said that this problem is bound up inextricably with questions affecting Canada's industrial structure, its geographic characteristics, its changing pattern of economic activities and other factors including road-rail competition.

In meeting competition, railway action is conditioned by a complex background of regulation, Mr. Gordon stated. Railways have to operate under a rate system which is complicated by every conceivable kind of vested and sectional interest as well as historical accidents. "To give you some idea of what this means," he said, "I may tell you that there are 271 published tariffs and 672 supplementary tariffs which contain 1,831,000 separate freight rates. These are specific point to point rates; in addition, we have rates set out on a mileage basis for general use to cover any eventuality."

Comparing the railway business with running a weekly newspaper, Mr. Gordon noted a sharp contrast in the methods of meeting competition. "In your case," he told the editors, "you are free to fight competition on any basis you choose. You may cut prices and stand the gaff until your competition gets sick of it, or you may raise prices on some of your products if you think that is best and reduce them on others. You can hit your competitor where he is most vulnerable."

"Now if you were in the railroad business," he continued, "and wanted to raise prices you would have to publish your tariff thirty days in advance of the date it is to be effective, and during that time anybody who objected to your action could claim a right to be heard by the tribunal. One of your customers, for instance, could charge unfair discrimination and automatically bring about an exhaustive semi-judicial inquiry. If you wanted to reduce prices you would have to give three days notice and would again be open to complaints of unjust discrimination. If you wanted to offer a specialized service or rate to attract a particular type of business you'd run the risk of having to make the same service or rates available to others even if it were poor business to do so. If you wanted to act quickly to protect existing business and offered a competitive rate, you would have to comply with the exhaustive requirements of Section 331 of the Railway Act.

"Altogether," Mr. Gordon said, "I have a hunch that if tomorrow the management of the railways were to be handed over to you, with your experience in business where freedom is the rallying cry, you would find many of the same frustrations, and take much the same kind of policy decisions as the railroad industry is doing today. And while I would be the

Steers For Hollywood

Major Fred Brewster, "Dean" of outfitters in Canada's Rocky Mountain region, is a man who gets things done in a hurry. The "impossible" takes a little longer to accomplish.

Brewster recently received a telephone call from Universal Studios in Hollywood to produce 50 horned steers to be used in a motion picture to be filmed near celebrated Jasper Park Lodge and starring Jimmy Stewart. There was no difficulty in locating 50 ordinary steers, but fifty steers with horns was another matter. The veteran outfitter went to work on it. A number of telegrams and telephone calls later, the Major had found 20 horned critters on one Paddle River district farm, 15 on another and 15 on a third. The next day all were en route to Jasper, and the following week they were taken to the Columbia Icefields—the largest ice deposit south of the Arctic Circle. There scenes will be shot for the film depicting a cattle drive across the ice and snow of the Yukon in the gold rush days of '98.
