New Delhi—(AP)—Mountaineering experts speculated today that the British Everest expedition has completed its assault on the world's highest peak. Success or failure remains the secret of the backward Himalayan communications.

Four weeks and three days have passed since Col. John Hunt and his 14-man team reached their base camp 18,000 feet up the mountain. The final ascent was originally due to begin May 15, leaving time for another attempt in the event of initial failure, before the monsoon drives the climbers from the mountainside.

Property Damage Will Run Into Millions Of Dollars; Sarnia Bears Brunt Of Blow

Three Fatalities Reported Near London, One In Sarnia, Other Across U. S. Border.

By The Canadian Press

A tornado struck a sledgehammer blow at industrial Sarnia, Ont., late Thursday and left five dead, scores of injured and millions of dollars in property damage as it twisted across northern Michigan and southwestern Ontario.

The Indiana-born storm suddenly leaped across the international boundary at 5:43 P.M. EDT, and smashed into Sarnia. One woman died of injuries today in that city of 42,000, 51 were injured and estimates of property damage ranged as high as $3,000,000.

Then it snaked its way across southwestern Ontario, leaving injury and destruction wherever it touched. Just outside London an aged woman, a municipal official and his young daughter died in their shattered homes. The other fatality was in Port Huron, Mich., just across the St. Clair river from Sarnia.

The storm swirled into Lake Ontario four hours after its first appearance on the Canadian side. In its 150-mile wake were shattered buildings, tangled communications and utility lines and tree-strewn roads.

The damage wrought by the storm brought a demand from Harry White, a member of Parliament for Middlesex, for federal aid. He sent a telegram to the acting prime minister, Defence Minister Claxton, asking that Western Ontario be declared a disaster area. He sought allocation of part of a $1,500,000 fund left in the hands of a special government committee for aid to stricken areas.

Fred Wheeler, sports editor of the Sarnia Canadian Observer, watched the twister approach. An hour after it hit he telephoned The Canadian Press in Toronto. The telephone girl who put through his call was bleeding from cuts by flying glass.

Only two of the Sarnia's Bell telephone night staff of 20 were able to remain on duty through the night. The remainder were taken to hospital for treatment of glass cuts.

Mac McKenzie, CHOK sports editor, watched the storm approach.

"We noticed a storm cloud that had a peculiar rotating motion," he told The Canadian Press. "Then we noticed what looked like birds flying around in the cloud. Suddenly we realized they were not birds but pieces of debris."

The wind blew the top floors off Sarnia's Hotel Vendome and left only the first-storey front wall of the Imperial Bank of Canada building standing. All buildings in Sarnia's downtown area higher than one storey were damaged.

Parked cars were crushed by the falling debris and emergency crews bulldozed a path for firemen and city officials.

Business leaders and city council mmebers worked throughout the night in city hall under the light of flickering lamps. Outside city hall city engineers set up a map of the city and by the light of flares directed operations.

Many Sarnia residents, with their radio station out of action, were unaware that the storm had struck elsewhere in Ontario and

Wreckage At Sarnia Was Ghastly Sight

By R. J. ANDERSON

Sarnia, Ont.—(CP)—I picked my way along Sarnia's Front street.

In the midnight darkness six hours after a tornado had struck this bustling industrial city it was an adventure.

In the eerie light of flares and portable floodlights steelhelmeted workmen were silhouetted as they labored to clear away the worst of the debris.

Occasionally masonry would crash to the pavement as demolition crews tore away a wall or projection that threatened to collapse.

It was so quiet. There were no shouts of workmen calling one to another. Just the crash of a cornice or a metal sign being torn away.

At midnight the roadway and pavement were all but cleared. The volunteers had done a quick job of piling the rubble for the trucks to cart away.

Gaping windows of evacuated apartments above wrecked stores spoke mutely of 30 seconds of tornadic destruction. No doubt the interiors were ruined—armed soldiers prevented entry to make sure.

I walked down the centre of the street—as far as possible from tottering walls on either side. Every hundred feet or so I was required to present credentials to prove a right to be where Sarnia's citizens were prohibited from entering.

The Vendome Hotel at Front and Cromwell was a ruin. The roof and top floor had been torn away. Every window had not merely been broken — the frames had been blown away clear to the red-brick facing.

Streams of water ran from what had been a doorway of a large furniture store. The automatic sprinkler system had gone into operation during the storm. The stock seemed ruined.

So it went for four blocks, perhaps the hardest hit area of the city. Metal street signs had been cut off as though by a sharp knife, so clean was the break. Traffic-sign supports were bent. Power lines—dead now with hydro service gone—overhung the street.

Houses in the residential area, just a block or two east of Front, were destroyed or badly damaged. Hundreds of the stately trees that lined Sarnia's streets were blown over.

It was a ghastly sight.

Dulles Calls For Sincerity By Russians

New Delhi—(AP)—State Secretary John Foster Dulles of the United States called on the Russians today to show the sincerity of their peace overtures on three fronts—Korea, Laos and Austria.

As President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and the French government prepared for a Big Three meeting on east-west questions next month in Bermuda, Dulles told the first press conference on his Middle East tour

"I doubt very important results could come out of any high level conference including the leaders of Soviet Russia as long as the Soviet bloc of nations is promoting the wars in Korea and Laos, and as long as they refuse to restore freedom to Austria."

Dulles met with some 100 Indian and foreign newspaper men as he wound up a three-day visit here prior to his departure for Karachi, capital of neighboring Pakistan.

All Dulles' questions were prepared in advance on the basis of questions submitted to him and he refused to answer on-the-spot queries, a procedure which aroused considerable resentment among the Indian newspaper men.

Although India attempts to be neutral in the east-west cold war, Dulles said he did not find the nation neutral "on the question of democracy vs. totalitarianism in the world."

"I am thoroughly convinced," he said, "that India is acting according to its best judgment to promote democracy in the world and prevent the spread of totalitarianism. There can be differences of opinion concerning some methods employed but I feel your government and the vast majority of your

Women's Rights Rank High With Sen. Jodoin

By CHRISTINE SIROIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal—(CP)—French Canada's first women representative in the Senate, Mrs. Marie-Anna Beauchamp-Jodoin, is known as a dynamic social and political worker, a tireless defender of the rights of women.

For more than a quarter of a century, the causes of women and of the Liberal party have been championed by the matronly, stately woman whose youthful appearance belies her 71 years.

"I am not ashamed to tell my age, because I do not feel my years," she said in an interview after Prime Minister St. Laurent announced her appointment to the Senate prior to his departure for the Coronation.

Although she once had ambitions to become a lawyer, she never considered the possibility of a Senate appointment. Now that she has the appointment, she plans to carry to the floor of the Senate her fight for recognition of the rights of women.

There are three other women members in the 102-seat chamber-Senator Muriel McQueen Fergusson (L—New Brunswick), Senator Cairine Wilson (L—Ontario) and Senator Iva Fallis (PC—Ontario).

Mrs. Jodoin said she will take a general interest in all problems coming to her attention but will limit her activities to the "feminine domain."

"There are enough men in politics to defend other causes," she said. "I have worked to assure family allowances for mothers and I will continue along those lines in the Senate."

Member of a family of 15, Mrs. Jodoin has one son and three daughters. She is particularly proud of her seven grandchildren.

Daughter of a lawyer and wife of a lawyer, Mrs. Jodoin confessed that she once hoped to enter the legal progression. However, she "honor to myself, my family and her day, women were not allowed to attend university.

Her social and political activities date from 1926 when her children were all of school age and she found spare time on her hands.

Now she is Quebec president of the National Federation of Liberal Women of Canada and member of so many organizations she hesitates to name them in case she might overlook a few.

She is founder of the 27-year-old Wilfrid Laurier Club, an organization devoted to the political education of women. She was awarded an MBE for her work with the prices board during the Second World War.

Mrs. Jodoin said she found she could never say "no" when an organization sought her support or assistance.

That habit was still with her when Prime Minister St. Laurent made his "surprise" call offering her the Senate appointment. She accepted the appointment as an "honor to myself, my family and to French-Canadian women."

New Constitution Being Prepared For Egypt Will Bring End To Monarchy

Cairo —(Reuters)— A Republic will be announced in Egypt soon, informed Egyptian sources said today.

No official statement has yet been made but a 50-man drafting committee is believed almost ready to announce a new constitution for the country.

The sources said the president of the Egyptian Republic will hold the post of prime minister.

The posts of deputy prime minister and of commander-in-chief of the armed forces will be taken by the second in command.

The constitution will bring the final end to the monarchy of King Farouk, ousted by Premier Mohammed Naguib a year ago. Though Farouk abdicated his infant son Fuad technically has remained king.

It is also intended that the ministries of the interior, of war and marine, and of communications will be occupied by senior military officers.

Naguib declared himself in favor of a Republican regime for Egypt in an interview with an Egyptian official journal May 6.

Egypt now is ruled by a "congress" of a 13-member army committee and civilian cabinet ministers, with sovereignty vested in Naguib.

Though the country has remained a monarchy under six-months-old Fuad II, many symbols of monarchy have disappeared in recent months.

For instance, "royal" was removed from the title of the Egyptian Air Force.

U.K. Reply Sought To Ship Charges

Washington—(AP)—Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S.D.) said today "Britain owes the free world a reply" to testimony that British-owned ships have transported Chinese Communist troops during the Korean war.

"I am not inclined to wait too long for them to volunteer it," Mundt added in an interview, "and the answer had better not be 'yes, so what?'"

Mundt is a member of the Senate investigation subcommittee headed by Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.). A staff investigator told the group Wednesday that British-owned ships of the Wheelock Marden Company of Hong Kong carried Chinese Communist troops on two occasions during the Korean war. The investigator, Robert Kennedy, said there have been other instances.

At Hong Kong, F. H. Hormann-Fisher, the firm's manager, denied that Wheelock-Marden vessels carried troops for the Reds. He said three of the firm's vessels have been seized by the Communists and it no longer owns a fourth mentioned as engaged in the Communist trade.

Francis D. Flanagan, chief counsel to the sub-committee, said it would be glad to hear officials of the company "under oath" if they also would agree to produce complete records of the firm's operations.

Mundt, acting chairman of the sub-committee in McCarthy's absence, said he will propose that the state department demand comment by Prime Minister Churchill or the British foreign office if there is no official statement with in "the respectably near future" on the troop carrying question.

19 Injured In London By Tornado

London, Ont.—(CP)—The tornado which spun through south-western Ontario Thursday night injured at least 19 persons—some severely—in the London area.

Doctors said some were so badly injured they could not be x-rayed.

One critically hurt woman, Mrs. Annie Thompson of Parkhill, was not aware early today that her husband and six-year daughter were killed in the storm.

Mrs. Thompson's husband, Simon 50, reeve of East William township, was one of five persons killed in Ontario during the twister. Her daughter, Dorothy, was also killed in the family's home at Springbank. Another daughter, Ruth, 13, was brought to hospital here with a possible skull injury.

Stratford, Ont.—(CP)—J. D. Thistle and his hired man were getting ready to milk the cows in the barn on Thistle's farm near here Thursday night.

The tornado which swept through southwestern Ontario struck suddenly. The barn blew away. The men and the cows were left unharmed.

London, Ont.—(CP)—An 11-roomed house was lifted off its foundation by a tornado which swept through southwestern Ontario Thursday night. Two women, who were inside were unhurt.

Milton Charlton, 25 said he was just leaving the barn when he saw his house fly into the air. His mother and sister Minnie, sat rooted to their chairs where the kitchen was located.

The barn disintegrated but three horses, 28 cattle, 18 swine and about 100 hens in the building, were unharmed.

Critical Test Faces Big Three Leaders At Meeting

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington— (AP) —Big Three leaders meeting next month face a critical test of their ability to forge new Allied unity for firm dealing with Russia—in or out of a conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov.

Unless they can close ranks, some observers here doubt that they would dare undertake subsequent Big Four negotiations and give Russia an opportunity to try to exploit their differences.

Presumably they will also have to decide on what terms they might be able to do business with Malenkov—what they could offer and what they could request in the event of a Big Four conference.

That the Western alliance is beset by difficulties and differences became apparent all over again Thursday.

Hardly had the announcement been made that President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Mayer would meet in mid-June in Bermuda, when Mayer's government collapsed.

This was the 18th French cabinet since Second World War liberation. Some time, diplomatically speaking, will now be lost while France puts together a new cabinet—time which might have been used in working up an agenda for the conference and carrying on preliminary diplomacy.

In the announcement about the conference, differing views became clearly apparent. Mayer said the three would discuss the feasibility of a session with Malenkov, and Churchill said he hoped the meeting would pave the way to such a session.

But in Washington the White House declined to link the meeting of the three with a possible Big Four get-together. At the state department all emphasis was placed on the chance that the Western chiefs of government will have to develop greater unity among the Western powers.

President Eisenhower took the initiative in suggesting the Big Three talk.

Preliminary considerations have not been disclosed. But it is known responsible officials have been increasingly concerned that the Western powers are pulling apart and that such a situation can only benefit Russia.

Recent differences, all of which seem likely to come up in some manner, include the transatlantic word battle between Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) and Britain's Clement Attlee, French and British support for a meeting with Russia under conditions not favored here, British advocacy of eventual Red Chinese membership in the United Nations, and some apparent controversy over U.S. conduct of the Korean truce negotiations.

Diplomats also report friendly foreign governments are not sure of the strength and direction of the Eisenhower administration's leadership. They had hoped, for example, for a stronger stand on lowering American tariffs and upping European imports to achieve Western Europe's goal of "trade, not aid."

The British government also is reported to have been worried about whether the U.S. was developing a new, tougher policy in the Far East which might lead to greater American involvement in war there.

France and the U.S. were unable to agree in past weeks on how, diplomatically, to deal with the Communist invasion of Laos.

In the past the Kremlin or some Communist satellite usually had under way a threatening project which caused the Western powers to submerge their inter-family disputes in the interest of a common resistance.

With the death of Stalin and the launching of the Kremlin's spring offensive keynoted on peace, this outside threat seemed to recede somewhat and the urgency of maintaining a common front appeared, especially in Europe, to recede with it.

Disaster Was Worst In Sarnia's History

By R. J. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sarnia—(CP)—Stricken Sarnia woke today to a scene of grim desolation.

Block after block of destroyed or damaged houses, torn-out store fronts, and wrecked upper storeys of business buildings were the visual evidence of a tornado that ripped the city of 42,000 late Thursday.

But in the light of a new day, with a bright sun in a cloudless sky, Sarnians seemed agreed: its bad, but it might have been worse.

City officials termed the low casualty figures "miraculous."

One person was injured fatally, 51 others received hospital treatment.

Mrs. Margaret Clarke, 72, of Watford, Ont., died in hispital shortly before 8 a.m. EDT.

It was believed Mrs. Clarke was visiting relatives in Sarnia when the tornado struck.

Her three-year-old granddaughter, Frances Clarke, suffered chest injuries and was reported in only "fair" condition.

Also in fair condition was Roy Kent, 63, who suffered compound fractures of the arm.

Those were the only severe casualties of the storm that swept a path across the city from the south to the north-east at 5.45 p.m. EDT Thursday.

Official estimates of the damage, admittedly "sheer guess," ranged from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000.

But it seemed today, as Sarnia continued the work of clearing away the debris of the worst disaster to hit it since it was incorporated as a city in 1914, that this estimate might be revised upward sharply.

First wild unofficial guesses at the storm damage ranged as high as $80,000,000.

The storm toll won't approach that figure but Sarnia today is a city of storm-wrecked office buildings, gaping store fronts, demolished homes, and tangled utility and communication lines.

Trees as tall as 40-foot maples are strewn over side streets. Ten-foot steel traffic signs are bent over sidewalks as though pushed by a giant hand.

The city woke this morning to bright sunshine that swept away some of the depression of the night A tour of the streets showed damage was extremely heavy but not as bad as was thought before daylight.

Many homes were flattened, some torn off their foundations and others punched by flying tree limbs. But it was surprising how many were still intact though large oaks and elms were uprooted on their lawns. A large greenhouse lost only a few panes of glass. All TV aerials seen were bent or crushed.

Teams of assessors and engineers were ready to move early into the badly damaged Front street area along the St. Clair river to decide whether any demolition of buildings is necessary.

The general public was barred from the downtown area and a sound truck toured residential streets warning them away.

Sarnia, built around an industrial complex of refineries and chemical plants, lost little time in making plans to clear up damage.

City Council and business leaders met in city hall in emergency session. They talked and made plans throughout the night, the council chamber lighted by flickering lamps. Each man had a flashlight at hand.

Quickly 100 active-service troops were brought into the city from London and 100 local reservists were ordered out to patrol the streets and guard against looting.

Meanwhile, acting mayor Clayton A. Saylor read the Riot Act from Sarnia's city hall steps to disperse crowds of sightseers who thronged into the devastated downtown district, hampering clean-up squads.

Eight hours after the storm struck, all of the main streets had been cleared of debris. Sidewalks were piled high with rubble swept there by bulldozer. Generally, Sarnia took the disaster calmly.

Citizens, whose homes had escaped the storm opened them to the tornado victims.

The Salvation Army and Red Cross workers patrolled the streets where clean-up work was going on, offering coffee to the workers.

Here are some jottings from this reporter's notebook after a tour of the streets:

Not a pane of glass was left intact on Front street. Some stores were filled with shoppers as the tornado blasted the city and the relatively small number of injuries was amazing.

In one furniture store the sprinkler system was turned on by the storm and the stock was ruined.

The top of the Vendome hotel was wrecked and the hotel itself appeared damaged beyond repair. Names of streets were blown off buildings and posts and it was difficult for an out-of-town reporter to find his way.

Only two girls of a night staff of 20 at the Bell telephone company office remained on duty The others were taken to hospital for treatment of glass cuts. Only emergency calls were handled.

The Imperial Bank of Canada was blasted, with the top floor blown off. A few of the big gilded letters in the bank's sign were carried away and the bank's name was unrecognizable. From the wrecked apartment above the bank a bridge lamp dangled grotesquely over the street.

Many Seats Are Still Left Along Coronation Route

London — (AP) — With only 11 days to go before Coronation Day, the signs are there'll be an estimated 2,000 or 3,000 empty seats along the procession route the Queen will take from Westminster Abbey to Buckingham Palace.

The gaps in the crowds will be where they hurt most—in the stands and balconies set aside for overseas visitors bringing dollars to Britain.

Unless there's a last-minute rush from abroad—unlikely because of transportation difficulties—the Coronation will not be the sell-out the authorities hoped for months ago.

Some of the unsold seats are in good positions and reasonable in price. These are the ones held by the reputable ticket agencies, who charge a top price of about £30—and throw in a packed lunch as well.

Nearly 500 of these still are unsold in one stand alone the huge structure built by the government in Whitehall and reserved for overseas visitors. The British Hotel and Travel Association, which has been disposing of these seats for the government, say: The total of seats unsold is about 10 percent.

"We were afraid something like this might happen," an association official said. "People thought it would be impossible to get seats, so many just didn't apply. Then we had the usual cancellations—people had made double bookings, or died, or couldn't come over for other reasons. We are putting the seats on the home market now, but I don't suppose many people can afford the £30 for them."

One world famous ticket agency, which has a 6,000-seat stand at Hyde Park corner and several other smaller blocks of seats reserved for overseas visitors, said it has had about one per cent of its bookings cancelled, but emphasized this was about the normal figure for a big event.

It's the small time operators—the London "spivs" trying to cash in on the thousands of Americans coming here for the Coronation—who have been caught with most of the unsold seats on their hands.

These are the seats that cost all the money—one mushroom agency has been asking as much as £70 for a position jammed in a third-storey window. Others are tucked neatly away behind trees or statues, or perched on top of buildings with only a bird's eye view of the route.

At least one block of seats was discovered to be in a side street, where the spectators would have to hang out of the window by their toes in order to see anything.

Another mushroom agency advertised good Coronation seats—location unspecified—for as little as £5. People who fell for it received the seats through the mail shortly afterwards—rickety portable stools painted in red, white and blue.

Bogota, Colombia — (AP) — Landslides caused by heavy rains smashed two houses and killed 15 persons near Santa Isabel, and the overflowing of a small river destroyed 220 homes in Carmen, the newspaper El Tiempo reported Thursday. In Cali four persons were drowned and between 2,000 and 3,000 lost their homes.

Mr. And Mrs. Albert Parker Guests Of Honor At Reception In Sawyerville

Sawyerville, May 22. — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parker were guests of honor on Wednesday evening, May 7, at a reception held in the I.O.O.F. hall by their family on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

A granddaughter, Miss Beryl Coates, played a bridal chorus as Mr. and Mrs. Parker entered the hall. They were accompanied to their chairs, which were decorated in gold and white, by Mrs. David Ewing, a bridesmaid at their wedding, and William Parker, who acted as best man in place of the late Charles Pope.

Mrs. Parker wore a gown of twilight blue French crepe, trimmed with white tatted lace. Little Miss Judy Ewing, the youngest granddaughter, presented her grandmother with a corsage of red roses and to her grandfather she gave a white carnation.

Upwards of 175 friends and relatives congratulated the honored couple and they received many beautiful presents and a sum of money, also cards and money sent by mail. Rev. William Dunn, of Cookshire, voiced the best wishes of the gathering, after which Mr. and Mrs. Parker led the grand march to music furnished by Clem Lowry, Billy Graham and Mrs. Carrie Brazel, which was enjoyed by all.

Friends and relatives assisted in serving the refreshments, the table being decorated with flowers and centered with a lovely wedding cake, donated by their daughter, Mrs. Albert McCormick, of Jefferson, N.H. Many of the flowers were given by Mrs. Olive Masters, of Lancaster, N.H.

Guests were present from all surrounding districts, including Lennoxville and Sherbrooke. Among those from out of town were, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Ingerson and Mr. and Mrs. Albert McCormick, of Jefferson, N.H.; Mrs. Olive Masters, of Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Stone and daughter, Joyce, of Berlin, N.H.; Mrs. Dick Burnell, of Northumberland; Mrs. Maude Parker, son, Bill Parker, and daughter, Marion Parker, of Gorham, N.H. All their children and grandchildren were present.

Hollywood — Close-ups and Longshots: Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, who made coast-to-coast headlines with their "television" baby, are now going to play newlyweds—and there may be coast-to-coast howls from video fans.

The stars go to MGM next month for a theater movie version of the book, "The Long, Long Trailer," but the studio has rewritten the plot. Instead of a middle-aged married couple trying to get away from it all, the movie-aged married couple trying to get away from it all, the movie version will have Lucille and Desi playing newlyweds.

Maybe I'm wrong, but I believe the charm of Lucy and Desi on TV is the fact that they've been married long enough to know each other's failings.

Glimpses Into The Past

By BERTHA WESTON PRICE

When we were children we were thrilled by being told the story of Goliath, the wicked giant of Biblical days, whom David slew with a stone from his sling-shot. But that was long ago and the children of today do not make much ado about Goliath—he is pretty well forgotten. Giants have figured in weird stories of the long ago but today they are rather out of date, though we may read of one who is not very popular and we pass him by. But when older folk in Quebec province recall the story of the giant, a real, honest-to-goodness giant who lived in Quebec one hundred and fifty years ago, we have proper pride in knowing that there was a real giant who lived among smaller people in a friendly way and no one feared him.

Mr. Edward Andrew Collard, who writes such interesting stories about "All Our Yesterdays," has learned about this famous giant and has taken him out from under the leaves of yesterday that we may have glimpses of him and his surroundings and again remember him as the only real giant of this province.

Modeste Mailhot was a French Canadian who lived in the little village of Deschaillons, on the south bank of the St. Lawrence River some fifty miles west of Levis. The people of that village were proud of their giant for he was a good man, and really good-looking, which giants are not supposed to be. He was seven feet, four inches tall and weighed 619 pounds and was described by those who told about him as "a good-looking man, with massive frame and magnificent shoulders. He stood on two immense feet, that anyone who doubts can see, even today, in the museum at Laval University in Quebec City in a glass case a pair of 'souliers sauvages,' his homemade boots."

Though of great strength Mailhot was a peaceable man and lived among his neighbors as he should. People were always coming to see him and he received them with true French courtesy. He knew he was well worth looking at and took their admiration, when offered, with true respect, as it was intended. But sad to relate he had one neighbor who did not measure up to what was expected of him. This man was a militia captain by name of Adam who liked to pick and quarrel and we may think that he was jealous of the good-looking, friendly giant.

One day he started a dispute about a ditch that was too near his property and when he found he wasn't getting anywhere with it he "stumped" the giant to fight. Mailhot who faced him and was in good temper said to him: "See here, Adam, if you are stronger than I am you can knock me down but if I should fall on you it might be that you never got up. Well, are you ready to die?"

Capt. Adam decided that he had better call off the fight and be a decent citizen. All the men of the village, in those days were obliged to take part in the "corvee," the method they had to keep the King's Highway in good repair. This was so many days of work a year, and this rule existed when our pioneers worked on the road to pay their taxes. While the crew were working in the village there was a very large stone too close to the road and a hazard to travellers. The crew decided they would try to dig it up and roll it into a deeper ditch away from the road. They talked it over and decided to get some long heavy timbers to pry it loose then roll it down.

They were discussing the matter at the conclusion of dinner and Mailhot went outside, apparently to light his pipe. He came in the door and said :"All right, my friends, come and see." They went out to find that Mailhot had done the job by himself. Many were the feats of strength performed by this good giant, and one day he surprised them by saying he had decided to cross the Atlantic in a ship. His friends cheered him as he went aboard and begged him to come back to his home.

This was about 1830 and King William was on the throne of England. He received his strange visitor in a friendly way for he had been a sailor and knew all kinds and conditions of men. When bidding Mailhot farewell the King made him a gift of 100 pounds. Mailhot returned to his home and in 1834 he died. His funeral was an exceptionally large one and the cure of Lotbiniere conducted the service. The cure was a large man, six feet tall and weighed 400 pounds. The giant Mailhot was buried with honors, and is still remembered in the village where he spent his peaceable life. There is nothing mentioned about his family except that his wife was Catherine Lafloeur, and we hope she was a devoted one. As late as 1927 the parish priest wrote that the Giant's Stone was still marked, also his grave in the cemetery, and both are reverently observed by the villagers.

And we appreciate the courtesy of Edgar Andrew Collard in his moving the leaves of yesterday in order that we may see into the life of the only giant who lived in this province.

SHERBROOKE DAILY RECORD

The RECORD SHOP

By RICHARD KLEINER

New York — What's a recording session like? Come on along to the big RCA-Victor studio, hard by the clattering Third Avenue El, and watch.

Sunny Gale is recording "Send My Baby Back to Me." Henri Rene and a pickup band back her up. RCA recording director Hy Grill is at the controls, with two recording engineers in the next booth. A sprinkling of unexplained hangers — on stand around, snapping fingers and looking important.

It is 2 p.m. The musicians are rehearsing their parts. Rene dances around, batonless, gesturing to demonstrate the feeling he wants his men to get. Yellow-haired Miss Gale is off to one side, singing to herself. The engineers are checking the things engineers check.

It is 2.30. The four mikes are set, and the delicate process of "balancing"—getting each section of the band at the right distance from the mike—begins. Grill works hard, especially with the rhythm section. "Back off, Billy," he tells the guitarist. "A little less on the cymbals, Jack," he tells the drummer. "You're booming," he tells the bass man.

It is 2.45. "Sunny, on mike," Grill calls. Miss Gale goes to her spot, behind a big, sound-deadening, plywood - and - insulation baffle. The red light signaling the tape is rolling, flashes on. "B 3 BB 1093, Take A," the engineer reads into his mike. They play it through. Then they listen to it.

"It sounds dead," says Grill "It sounds like an old dead fish," says Miss Gale. "Something's wrong," says Rene.

It is 3.15. They are working on B 3 BB 1093, Take D, meaning the fourth run-through of the numbers. "It's still dragging," says Grill. "It's too fast," says Miss Gale. "Let's split the difference," says Grill. They decided, besides a tempo change, the band needs to be rearranged. They move them around and that means a complete rebalancing. "B 3 BB 1093, Take E."

They play this one back, with all the musicians tapping their suede shoes as they listen. "Try it with a shuffle rhythm," somebody suggests. "Sunny, watch your 'Ps,'" the engineer says, "they're popping."

It is 3.45. They run through with the shuffle rhythm. "That's "B 3 BB 1093, Take F." They're a little tired. "That does it," says Grill, "but, Sunny, the ending was weak. Let's do the last eight bars again, and, Sunny, get mad." "B 3 BB 1093, Take F, work part." It's over. They'll spice that ending on later. Grill is happy, Miss Gale seems pleased.

It is 4.04. Two hours and four minutes to do a side that will run a bit under three minutes. That's a record session.

Bussard, a life member of Optimist International, is past president of the Frederick Optimist Club, and a past governor of the 16th District. He is the owner of the Farmers Feed and Supply Company at Frederick.

Service club officials here regard Bussard's address as an important highlight of this year's district convention vital to the expansion of the activities of Optimism as a "Friend of the Boy." District Governor John Allen of Montreal declared "international co-operation of Optimists can have a far-reaching effect in our efforts at youth rehabilitation. Mr. Bussard's visit is an example of the kind of co-operation we must have if we are to progress in our aim to properly arm the youth of today to meet the demands of tomorrow."

The 28th District of Optimist International includes Optimist Clubs in Ontario, Quebec, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Ninety-two out of town registrations are expected to be made this evening.

Registration will be followed by a District Board meeting and a pre-convention mixer although program activities take shape tomorrow beginning with the Old Timers' Breakfast.

Opening sessions will begin at 8:30 a.m., with a series of special sessions to follow tomorrow morning.

Special sessions will include those of the president, secretary, boys' work, ways and means and new club building.

A luncheon for delegates when Daniel Johnson, member of the Legislative Assembly for Bagot constituency, will be guest speaker, is to provide an intermission period before the second and final session to be held during the afternoon.

This post-luncheon period will include the oratorical contest, international representatives talk, awards and presentations, election of district officers, induction of district officers, convention reports, life membership report and inter-club visiting report.

A meeting of the newly-elected Board will be held prior to a reception for all members before the president's banquet in the evening when the guest speaker will be the Hon. Paul Beaulieu, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The Governors' Ball following will end the day's program.

Sunday, May 24, the convention will close with the Lieutenant-Governors' session in the morning.

Grocery Owner Has Lost $700

Eddie Laflamme, proprietor of a meat and grocery store on Denault street, has announced that his loss to burglars Wednesday night was in the neighborhood of $700. Of this, $500 was in cash, and about $200 in checks. Thieves entered the store by breaking a cellar window and smashing through a trap door to the main floor. They then carried a safe into the refrigerator, broke it open and took the money, which was not insured. It was the eighth break-in to come to Municipal Police for investigation in less than a week.

Sleeping With Cigaret Going Sets Fire Here

Director W. P. Donahue, of the Fire Department, brings a little matter to public attention which he believes proves that Fire Prevention should not only be observed one week a year but every day in every year. Firemen from No. 1 station this morning put out a blaze in a mattress of a Montreal street apartment. The fire started because someone in the apartment fell asleep with a cigaret going in "the party's hand."

Fortunately, another person was still awake in the apartment, smelled the smoke which didn't rouse the sleeper and called the firemen. The person was roused before injured and prompt work by the brigade, who used fog applicators saved the apartment from everything but a little smoke and the mattress was only slightly damaged. The firemen responded to the call at 2.32 a.m. and were back at their posts at 3.10 this morning. What might have been a serious fire was stopped but that isn't always the case. An ounce of prevention. . .

Hate Will Not Bring Victories, Father Lord Tells Audience Here

"The U. S. had the funny idea that it could buy the love of the world for money but today she is more unpopular than at any time in her history," it was stated in an address last night by Rev. Daniel A. Lord, SJ, before a capacity audience in St. Patrick's Church hall.

The noted American priest-lecturer was presented here by the Sacred Heart radio program and sponsored by the Parent-Teachers' Association of St. Patrick's parish. Richard Hoye, PTA chairman presided at the meeting.

Father Lord said that the United States is disliked by France and Britain, two of the countries whom she helped with money and will be disliked just as intensely by Tito, whose country the U.S. is trying to butter up at present.

Of people's trying to beat others into loving them, Father Lord was equally scornful and hinted that the present tendency of bigger and bigger bombs will not work. "If force is the means of getting people to love you then the Irish should be crazy about the English, The Africans should be crazy about the whites and the people of France should be crazy about the Nazis."

Of the disturbances in Kenya, Father Lord said: "The chickens have come home . . . I sometimes wonder if we are not on the edge of the colored age."

He added: "The reason why communism will not succeed is that it is impossible to in if your basis is hate. The reason why there is a communist-today is because somebody didn't love him enough to give him a home or a job and because he didn't know God.

"If we had the courage to love as Catholics should love we would convert the world in 20 years, to love as those early Christians did when they prayed for Nero even as their flesh was being torn by Nero's lions."

Father Lord said that the answer to all the world's problems lies in that terribly simple world, Love. We shy away from the word today because of Tommy Manville and King Farouk. But St. Ignatius said: "You can express love only in deeds."

"You love your country not by flag-waving but by some (tangible) action, such as paying your income tax," Father Lord said.

The speaker stated that we have a tendency to over-emphasize the 10 commandments, you Must not steal, you Must not kill, you Must not commit adultery. There are only three commandments, really, he said: "Thou shalt love thy God, thy neighbor, as thyself."

"Prejustice," Father Lord said, "is the insanity of the sane, because it is insane. We must tolerate other races, other religions, even communists. Other religions have rights and it is our duty to see that they get them.

Father Lord said that the UN is fumbling but that it is a happy fumbling. They are trying to get together."

Most of his speech was in lighter vein. "We live without doubt in the greatest age in history, the 'good old days' are today. The enemy has defaulted. Today the Negro problem is not so grave as it was 50 or 25 years ago. The Negro is an accepted part of our life. We have more interest in our neighbors all over the world."

Tremendously impressed as he is with modern conveniences, Father Lord's speech bubbled over with personal joie-de-vivre at being alive in this era.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. Julian Clark, curate of St. Patrick's and thanked by Rev. J. R. Moisan, pastor of the Church. Rev. Thomas Walsh, SJ, who came here with Father Lord, also spoke briefly. Father Walsh, a native of Sherbrooke is the brother of Miss Ave Walsh and Jack Walsh of this city. Father Moisan picked out the winning ticket of a radio raffle in aid of the PTA. Louella Lauzon won the radio.

Engineering Institute Of Canada Is Told About Local Ball Stadium

Halifax, May 22. — The prestressed concrete grandstand at the baseball stadium of Sherbrooke, is a 100 per cent Canadian accomplishment. The building was completed, through the use of prestressed concrete, with a saving of thirty-five per cent in steel as compared with grandstands constructed by other methods.

The construction of this stadium was described by G. M. Demarque, M.E.I.C. of Montreal, today at the sixty-seventh annual general and professional meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, which is now being held here. The speaker said "This structure was entirely designed and built by Canadians, with Canadian material and equipment, and methods developed in Canada. The construction required only very careful supervision and honesty and understanding from the men on the job, and these qualities are not so difficult to find in this country."

The new grandstand was designed for 4,000 seats and its covers a total area of 21,130 sq. ft. A little more than half of the stand is covered by a cantilevered roof. In shape it is similar to a boomerang, and the developed length along the outer line is 407 feet.

The reinforced concrete parts were all poured in place, including the foundations.

Special prestressing cables were made of cold drawn high carbon wire and they were furnished by the mill in three foot diameter coils. A special machine was designed and built in the shop of the Preload Company of Canada Limited for straightening and recoiling the wire to 7 feet diameter, prior to shipment to the job in Sherbrooke.

Removeable side forms for the concrete were made of one inch board panels with a quarter inch plywood facing. The heaviest panel could be easily man-handled and, for each element, five bottom forms and two and a half sets of side forms were used.

The same forms were used all through the job and they were protected with several coats of a special compound to provide permanent protection against damage by water. They were greased with a special oil before each concreting operation.

The speaker said "The successive steps in the prefabrication of the different elements of the frames were essentially as follows:

1. Preparation of the form: installation of reinforcing; placing prestressing cables and anchorage blocks.
2. Pouring concrete.
3. Curing.
4. Partial prestressing and moving from the bed.
5. Completing the prestressing."

Describing part of the prestressing process the speaker said "Live steam, produced by a centrally automatic controlled boiler is circulated under the tunnel through perforated pipes. The temperature is gradually brought up to 150 degrees F. and this accelerated curing is continued for twelve hours until the concrete has attained a sufficient strength. Sample cylinders are cured at the same time to give an effective control on the operation. After the concrete has attained a strength of 300 pounds per square inch, the heating is stopped, the tunnel is removed and the tension apparatus is released. The wires are cut off between the separation plates. These operations release the tension forces, which are transmitted to the slabs by the combined effect of bond and wedge action at the ends. Then the slabs are lifted from their moulds and brought into the storage yard, where the free ends of the wires are hooked. From there, they are ready to be loaded on floats and shipped to the job."

The speaker said "Saving in steel can be estimated at about sixty-five percent of the quantity which would have been required, had ordinary reinforced concrete been used." The total cost of the job to the City of Sherbrooke was $7.35 per sq. ft. of project area, bleachers plus roof; this figure includes the cost of plumbing, electricity and of the seats.

Alma Demers Gets Six Months For Infanticide

Miss Alma Demers, 37-year-old mother charged with infanticide, pleaded guilty before Judge Joseph Marier here today and she was sentenced to six months in jail.

The woman was held criminally responsible in the baby's death by a coroner's jury a week ago today.

Dr. Louis Gagnon, coroner for the district of St. Francis, presided at the inquest and heard Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, provincial medico-legal expert, testify that the infant, born to the woman on May 3, had been strangled.

According to testimony of witnesses, the woman called the nurse-in-charge at St. Sacrament Hospital, said she had had a baby and sought admittance to recuperate.

Miss Demers entered the hospital, carrying two paper bags and a purse. She was taken upstairs to a room to undress and the nurses noticed that one of the bags was heavier than the other. When asked what was in the bag the woman said "my baby."

The nurses testified that the baby was dead. They told of asking Miss Demers whether the baby had been stillborn and she replied "no."

Lawyer Benoit Turmel represented the accused and after a legal discussion with crown prosecutor Roland Dugre, Q.C., and the judge, it was decided that Miss Demers did not have to have a preliminary hearing if she wanted to plead guilty.

She elected to have a summary trial, pleaded guilty and received her sentence in private chambers.

A crowded courtroom was surprised when they learned that the woman had already appeared in private chambers.

It was not established what Miss Demers used to strangle her child.

"The child had been strangled," Dr. Roussel said of his autopsy. "There was evidence of that about the neck. Strangulation might have been effected by a rope, string or shoelace. The baby, a boy, was normally built, had breathed lived and was strangled.

There are more than 400 different frozen foods on the market, including such items as Chinese egg roll, borsch, shark's liver, tortillas, and whale meat.

Two E. T. Girls Sailed Today On Weston Tour

Montreal — Fifty Coronation-bound teen-age girls sailed from here today aboard the Empress of France, amid a scene of swirling bagpipes and throngs of well-wishers, for a month-long tour of Great Britain as guests of W. Garfield Weston.

The girls, chosen several months ago from all sections of Canada in cooperation with provincial educational authorities, will arrive at Liverpool three days before the Coronation.

Leading the girls, who will see the Coronation procession from bleachers specially built on a bombed-out site in London, are two of Mr. Weston's six daughters — Miriam and Wendy.

In London, the Canadians will meet members of a similiar group of British girls, coming to Canada in June also as guests of the Canadian-born international industrialist.

During the British tour, the Canadian group will visit England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. Mid-way in their trip, the girls will visit France. They will lay a wreath on the Canadian war memorial at Dieppe after seeing Paris.

Purpose of the tours, which Mr. Weston has sponsored on three successive occasions, is to foster closer Commonwealth relationships.

Two girl from the Eastern Townships — Louise Des Rosiers, Drummondville, and Jeannine de Montigny, Sherbrooke — are among the 50 girls chosen. Another of the girls is Eleanor Duckworth, of Halifax, granddaughter of Ezra Ball, resident of Magog.

Man Gets One Year For Theft, Judgment Delay

Maurice Leclerc, 25, of Sherbrooke charged with theft, was sentenced to one year in prison here yesterday by Judge Joseph Marier.

Leclerc pleaded guilty to the theft of a car here but the sentence will run concurrently with a two-year term he is serving for passing false cheques.

Judge Marier stated that the judgment in the Belmont Spread case, scheduled to be released today, will be announced a week from today.

Odeon Leclerc, of St. Claude, charged with driving a car while his mental faculties were affected by the absorption of liquor and with reckless driving, had his summary trial here yesterday before Judge Joseph Marier.

After hearing the evidence Judge Marier took the case under deliberation.

Another man, Arsene Crete, of St. Malo D'Auckland, charged with failure to stop at the request of a policeman, was acquitted. Judge Marier dismissed the action on the lack of evidence.

C. G. Bryant Is Elected President Of Local Institute For The Blind

C. G. Bryant was elected as president of the Sherbrooke and E. T. branch Canadian National Institute of the Blind at the 13th annual meeting held last night at the MacKinnon Memorial Hall.

Wilfred Gregoire was elected as president of election and he presented the following officers: vice-presidents, J. A. Charpentier and A. Julien; secretary, Miss Thelma Crawford; treasurer, N. L. Amirault.

Others elected were: Honorary Patrons: Hon. J. S. Bourque, Rev. Canon J. N. Codere, Maurice Gingues, M.P., Senator C. B. Howard, Senator Jacob Nicol and Mayor Emile Levesque; Honorary President, Wilfrid Gregoire; Honorary Vice-president, C. W. Dunn; Honorary Treasurer, B. N. Holtham, Q.C.

Miss Crawford, in presenting the report of field secretary Neil Tracy, said that the $20,000 objective of the Institute in its recent campaign may not be reached. She said that this is largely due to the change in the economic situation in the past year.

In her report on social service, she said the Institute is aided on the social side by the existence of the Oasis Club. Last year a summer camp, largely organized by the club through the untiring efforts of Miss Dolorez Dufresne, was held at Katevale.

Miss Crawford also expressed her gratitude and that of the Institute to the local Lions Club for their continued support always forthcoming in money and attendance in sponsoring the Oasis Club's bowling activities. A camp is also projected for this summer, at which all expenses will be met by the Sherbrooke Lions Club, for every blind person who wishes to attend.

In the prevention report, it was announced that several operations have been undertaken over the past year which have proven more or less successful. For this the Institute has called upon the services of both local and Montreal oculists. Recalled at the meeting was the case of a Windsor Mills boy who had recently had a successful removal of congenital cataracts by needling.

In the direct relief, $75 is given each month to certain cases where illness or incapacity seem to render such service valuable and necessary. Besides direct relief in cash many proteges of the Institute have benefitted by other assistance such as fuel, clothing, emergency groceries.

Thanks was also expressed to the Laramee Bus company for free transportation for local blind persons and their guides. Theatre passes, it was announced by Miss Crawford, to both the Granada and the Rex are being issued to an ever increasing number of blind persons.

In concluding the Field Secretary report, Miss Crawford pointed out that the Institute finds itself more and more cramped in its present quarters.

The new president, Mr. Bryant, proposed that tribute should be paid to Mrs. Winslade, who is leaving town, for her appreciated support for many years. Sympathy was expressed to Senator Howard on the recent passing of his wife who had had an ever-growing interest in the Institute.

Among the committee members elected last night were: A. Allard and N. L. Amirault of Sherbrooke, Mrs. Myrtle Aulis of Ayer's Cliff, H. S. Ball of Waterville, L. A. Baskerville of Coaticook, Mrs. L. R. Boisvert, Dr. Viateur Bolduc of Lake Megantic, Roger Bouchard, Q.C. of Coaticook, Miss Aileen Brady of Windsor Mills, Canon Russel Brown, John Burns of Richmond, C. G. Bryant, Dr. T. A. Cadman, A. THE CROWN TAKES OVER

The British Government is finally taking action to retrieve many ancestral estates whose stately homes are in danger of being torn down. The sum of two and a half million pounds has been set aside to buy up many of these homes before they fall under the wrecker's crowbar. As a preliminary step the Government already agreed in February to accept art treasures in payment of estate duty.

This latter step eased the lot of those who have inherited large estates, but who are unable to pay the steep inheritance tax. This is so large a percentage of the inheritance that two deaths involving an entailed estate within a couple of years can wipe out practically the whole value of the estate. Turning over Romneys and Constables in lieu of succesion taxes has proved satisfactory. The treasures become state property and are housed in museums for the public's pleasure, while the heir of the estate laments the loss of his painting, but still has a roof over his head.

The recent proposal to buy up the estates and turn them likewise over to the public domain is another step in the same direction. One hopes, however, that some use will be found for the buildings and that they are not reduced to providing shelter where tourists can pass a few hours when it is raining outside. Converted into schools, hotels, or rest homes, they would continue to serve a useful purpose; in fact in many cases a much more useful purpose than they have served heretofore. This policy presupposes, of course, that no disfigurement is involved.

As for the grounds round about, this should be turned to cultivation and housing projects. Much has already been done in this sphere. This is as it should be, but a few acres of parkland should be retained with terraces and trees to set off the buildings. Otherwise the prospect of a Tudor wing and Queen Anne gallery surrounded by flax and vegetables might make the more sensative wish for the complete leveling of the castle in preference to unsightly compromise.

EGYPT BLIND TO RESPONSIBILITIES

The rapid deterioration of British-Egyptian relations over the Suez Canal has startled western statesmen.

Reliable accounts from Cairo are that Premier Naguib and other Egyptian leaders are totally preoccupied with just one thing: Forcing British troops out of Suez.

Secretary of State Dulles is said to have heard little talk from them about Middle East defense arrangements, and slim appreciation of the canal's strategic value in the free world's defense.

That is exactly why Anglo-Egyptian negotiations on the issue have broken down. The Egyptians insist Britain agree to the withdrawal of its troops first, before any discussion is undertaken on protection of the vital British base at Suez.

The British, however, are unwilling to withdraw until they have assurance the base will be maintained, and made available to the West in the event of war.

Dulles has taken a stand in Cairo substantially like the British, and the Egyptians promptly have hailed this as evidence an American-British "conspiracy" exists.

Apparently the Egyptians have passed beyond the reasoning stage. If they were reasoning, they would see a few things better than they do. For instance:

The British have shown every sign of intent to withdraw their troops once the Suez base is properly secure. So withdrawal itself is not really at issue. Only the timing and conditions are in debate.

Egyptian insistence that no conditions be attached represents a narrow, provincial outlook which cannot be justified by modern statesmen facing the world as it is today. The Suez base is one of the most vital on earth. The Egyptians are behaving as if the transfer of a corner gas station rather than a great military bastion was at stake.

The free world has genuine sympathy for the aspirations of the Egyptians toward greater independence and self-reliance. It can have slight patience, however, with an attitude of total blindness such as the Egyptians are showing toward their wider world responsibilities.

If Russian communism were to invade the Middle East successfully, the independence the Egyptians now seek with single-minded frenzy would vanish with astounding speed.

GOP FISCAL POLICY CONFUSED, SO CONGRESS SPELLS ITS OWN

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — President Eisenhower's television and radio talks to the nation can do a great deal to clarify public understanding of what has become a thoroughly confused presentation of the administration's fiscal policy.

On Feb. 9 the President announced his 11-point, high-priority legislative program for action by this session of Congress. Item No. 2 called for all appropriation bills to clear the House of Representatives and be ready for Senate action by May 15.

To date, the House has completed action on only three of the 14 money bills for the next fiscal year. They are the Department of Interior, Post Office-Treasury and the Independent Offices appropriations. Four others have been reported out by the Appropriations Committee and are ready for action when the House gets around to them. They cover State-Justice-Commerce Departments, Agriculture and Labor-Health, Education and Welfare Departments.

But the whopping big National Defense, Foreign Aid, Army Civil Functions and other appropriation bills are just now emerging from the egg. And the Senate hasn't taken action on a single money bill for next year.

Earlier this year, the President had announced that all recommended appropriations would be in the hands of Congress by the first week in May. That target has been missed by 10 days.

These delays in the Executive departments haven't helped the Congress in its work. In general, however, the congressional appropriations committees have been going ahead on their own ideas. They have based their cuts on the budget estimates prepared by the Truman administration. There has been little regard for what the President may have had in mind.

Estimate Wasn't From Budget Bureau

When President Eisenhower on April 30 told his press conference that "we can see our way clear to ask the Congress to appropriate at least $8½ billion less . . . than the previous administration had asked for," the Bureau of the Budget had not completed its review.

When questioned about this figure, Bureau experts actually working on budget revision had to confess they didn't know where the President got his estimate.

The President's statement had not been prepared by the Budget Bureau and so it was not in the jargon that fiscal experts use. The President's statement made no estimate of actual expenditures, which is the important figure.

This is the figure that must be determined before it is possible to say with any accuracy whether the budget can be balanced or how big the deficit will be. And until then everybody is just talking or working in the dark.

This situation in Washington has been so bad that even the U. S. Chamber of Commerce tax letter has been forced to admit that "all is confusion as to whether sufficient cuts can be made to balance the 1954 budget."

Administration officials and congressmen have made conflicting statements on this point, and the confusion is made worse by the fact that seldom if ever have these statements distinguished between the cash and the administrative budgets, even though they differ by more than $3 billion.

Officials Talk In Different Terms

The statements of Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey have been at odds for this very reason. One has talked in terms of estimated expenditures, the other in terms of estimated appropriations. One in terms of tax cuts, the other in terms of no tax cuts.

Secretary Wilson declared the budget couldn't be balanced before 1956. Secretary Humphrey at first said the budget couldn't be balanced before 1955. Then he revised that and said it might be balanced before June 30, 1954.

Incidentally, Secretary Humphrey is emerging as the top administration spokesman on all money matters — far more so than his Democratic predecesors. The new budget director, Joseph M. Dodge, hasn't been heard from publicly since a press conference shortly after he took office.

On Capitol Hill, however, there have been numerous self-appointed spokesmen on the administration's fiscal program — with just as many conflicting statements.

The Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue released a staff study saying the budget for the year ending this June 30 would be over $7 billion and $6 billion the year following.

Sen. Robert A. Taft's estimate is that the deficit for next year will be $11 billion.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd disagrees with all these experts and says the budget can be balanced this year, if there are no tax cuts.

Rep. Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, is insisting there will be tax cuts. He has many backers.

It was to reconcile all these conflicts that a clarification from the White House, in a couple of air-conditioner-side chats, became necessary, to cool everybody off.

NATIONAL CATALYST
Halifax Chronicle - Herald

The great national catalyst is this country herself with her rich and growing life in which all Canadians ,old and new, may share. And while it is only natural that immigrants of the first generation should seek to keep alive a consciousness of the homeland from which they are sprung, it is their children and their children's children who will be the true Canadians of the future.

The schools and the universities are the crucibles in which is being compounded the future of the Canadian nation. Put a youthful Canadian Scot and a youthful Canadian Dane in blue jeans and flapping tail shirt, let them sit at adjacent desks in the classroom, make double dates at the same corner drug store, let them play on the same basketball team — and where is the difference? Their parents may be the fiercest of nationalists, but to the youngsters that is vieux jeu; they are Canadians, bound in the uniformity of youth, acknowledging a common life because they know no other.

If Canada today is to grow and flourish, her people must be compounded of many nations, and the stronger for that, yet out of many, one.

Though we should not like to pass judgment on his mental capacity, we were duly impressed by the aerobatical skill of the man who flew his plane under London's bridges. The portion of the report on this achievement which impressed us most was this:

Members of parliament and peers were in the vicinity getting ready to begin their deliberations. They, too, were speechless.

Truly, an amazing feat.

There is a great deal of organization needed for a Royal visit. There is tremendous advance excitement and detailed preparation. All the local dignitaries get out their robes or have their best suits pressed. Their wives are thrown into a frenzy of ironing and other activity.

Those responsible for the ceremonies of the occasion are busy too. Precedence of presentation to Royalty is a matter of great importance to them.

If the Princess was to arrive by train there was an official welcome to prepare, police arrangements to be made at the station, and then the planning of a day packed with visits, speeches, and drives.

This was the day of days for the town and its citizens; but for the Princess this was her life, day after day. She can look forward to a future of similar functions; the trip by train or car; the loyal speech of welcome: her gracious reply — everything falling into a set and familiar pattern. Local newspapers filled their columns with descriptions of her smile, her voice, the names of people who had been presented to her, the decorations in the streets, the crowds.

For every one of the many thousands who flock to see her the visit of a Queen is a great occasion.

Unforgettable for them! But what of her, who must be somewhere else tomorrow, walking the aisles of another cathedral, listening to the Dean's reminiscences, inspecting more walls filled with paintings, and making bright and memorable remarks about them?

Surely the wonder is that she remembers any of the hundreds of people she meets in a week of such visits.

But she does remember. To keep names and faces in her mind is part of her task. And her memory starts working even before she comes to a place.

This may be her first visit to the town, but she knows that her father or her grandfather visited it long ago. Perhaps he received a gold casket or some other memento.

Memento is for memory, and Queen Elizabeth is careful to recall the gift in reply to the Lord Mayor's loyal address. She knows his name and the names of other local notabilities who may be presented to her. And she will recall their names and faces if ever they come before her again.

No one who has seen her on one of these visits has felt for a moment that it was just routine for her. Because it was not so, really. It was meeting people — and she likes people.

I have seen her stand for hours at the window of her apartment in Buckingham Palace from which she could see, through the lace curtains, Big Ben's face and look right down the Mall to the Admiralty arch. Then she would look down to the scattered sightseers in front of the Palace gates. They would look up, asking one another which room is the King's, where the Throne room is, trying to imagine what is behind each window.

They little thought that at the same time a Royal Princess was wondering about them!

It was the same in Canada, where Princess Elizabeth was undertaking the first State visit of her career, as the respresentative of her father.

To the King and Queen at home the daily news of the progress of their daughter's tour of the Dominion must have recalled vivid memories of their own visit to Canada and the United States in the summer of July, 1939.

Queen Elizabeth knew for 15 years the dignity and responsibility that the Heir to the Throne must carry.

Although she could not have realized then all that the change would mean to her, she certainly did know that in leaving the old home at 145 Piccadilly, after the Abdication, she would be leaving some of her childhood behind.

She was no plaster saint, but always a human little person — sometimes quick-tempered and inclined to be a little overcritical. The curious thing, however, was that she was quick to see her own faults when they were pointed out to her, and eager to correct them.

Seeing her so perfectly dressed, whether for a military parade or for a garden party, it seemed strange to me to recall that in her teens she was never particularly concerned about her appearance. But since wearing the right things at the right time was a duty, she conformed without demur.

At one time she had a great deal of fun experimenting with various styles of make-up. One day she came down with a vivid splotch of crimson caked round her lips. This apparition in the sober surroundings of our schoolroom at Windsor Castle was as startling a splash of red as a poppy in the snow.

She saw me looking rather dubiously at her. "Crawfie," she exclaimed, "what is the matter with you this morning? Why have you been staring at me?"

"It's your mouth," I said firmly. "You look as if you'd dipped it into a pot of plum jam. It doesn't go with your coloring at all. You need a light cherry lipstick."

Nothing more was said. She did not wipe the paint off at once, but before the end of the morning the smear had become a little less obvious.

Letters To The Editor

SOCIAL ILLS

Dear Mr. Editor:

There was plenty to think about in The Record's editorial "Curing Man's Social Ills," and which dealt with some of the conclusions of Arnold Toynbee in discussing the dangers to western civilization. I was struck particularly by these two signpoints in the thoughtstream: "He (Toynbee) didn't stress the obvious external threat—Russia. He emphasized the free world's internal weaknesses. These, he said, are the real peril. . ."; and, "In other words, according to Toynbee, social injustice, disunity and the lack of understanding between western peoples and the African-Asiatic groups are the vulnerable spots in our armor. Here the Communists will probe for their own new ground, advancing as disease advances in a weakened part of the body. . ."

It seems to this man-in-the-street that the above authority would readily admit that the weaknesses and social principles to which he points, can easily spill over into the market-place—where the global ideological struggle proceeds endlessly at the economic level? In the philosopher's mind: "The laws of health and disease respond to positive and negative principles with the same rhythm and precision" (Emerson in Compensation"). I am one of your readers who was reminded of this inter-relationship by reading of the aim of the grain traders in Great Britain to "break the world market and set wheat prices tumbling" (AP story from London, May 3).

Here, it seems to me, is a classic example of the aforesaid "lack of understanding" and disunity"—with, alas, this unusual difference, between western peoples and western peoples!

Frankly, it gives me no spot of pleasure to read that "British grain men have their eyes on Russia and the Iron Curtain lands of southeast Europe." All this has happened before—as doubtless you are more aware than I am—and the fact which was burned into my memory, i.e., of 100 million bushels of near-slave Russian wheat in 1930—dumped into the world's open wheat market at "12 cents under the market" or whatever the stuff would fetch, is that it led us straight into the grimmest depression bog in the whole history of the modern world. It is sincerely to be hoped that this tragic economic fumble by the free men and women of the world is not going to be repeated?

THE ROAD AHEAD.

USE DECEPTION; WIN MANY GAMES

Fifty-six teams entered the recent Industrial and Commercial Team Contest in the Eastern States Regional Tournament. The members of this league are various commercial and industrial companies in the neighborhood of New York, and each player on a team has to be an employe of the company that he represents.

The standard of play in this tournament is very high since some of the best players in New York for big companies and are thus eligible to play on these teams.

Today's hand was played in this contest by Wellington I. T. Sun, once of Shanghai, but now with the George S. Colley Associates in New York. Sun ambitiously bid four spades with the South cards and managed to "steal" this contract by means of a deceptive play.

West opened the king of hearts and continued the suit when East signaled encouragement. Sun ruffed the third round of hearts and quietly played his ace of clubs.

West couldn't tell from which direction the attack was going to come. It was possible that South held the ace-king-ten of clubs and was planning to finesse for the queen later on. Hence West played his low club—a grievous error, as it turned out.

Declarer next played a spade to dummy's jack in order to try the finesse of the diamond queen. When this held he cashed the ace of diamonds, entered dummy with the ace of spades, and ruffed dummy's last diamond.

The stripping process now complete, Sun led a low club from his hand.

The defenders were now helpless. If West held the trick with his queen of clubs, he would then have to return a heart or a diamond. In their case, dummy's last club would be discarded while South ruffed. If East overtook with the king of clubs in order to rescue his partner, dummy's jack of clubs would become established.

If West had dropped his queen of clubs under the ace, the contract would have been defeated. East would be in position to win two club tricks with his king and ten, and the end play would therefore fail. If declarer had led the ace of clubs late instead of early, West might have seen the danger and thrown his queen. The early play of the ace of clubs trapped West.

CARD SENSE

Q—With North-South vulnerable, the bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
3 Dmds.	Double	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades A-J-9-7-2, Hearts 8-5, Diamonds 9-3-2, Clubs Q-5-4. What do you do?

A—Bid three spades. You are glad to respond to your partner's takeout double, and you hope that he can make a further bid. You cannot make a jump response, however, because you are unlikely to have a good play for game unless your partner has more than a minimum takeout double.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South hold: Spades Q-J-9-7-3-2, Hearts Q-5 ,Diamonds 9-3-2, Clubs K-5. What do you do?

THE MATURE PARENT

"PUBERTY" IS FORTHRIGHT WORD; "ADOLESCENCE" AN EVASION

Ngala lives in a certain primitive community. Soon after his 14th birthday, its customs allowed him to give formal announcement that he was done with childhood.

To the secluded hut set aside for his "puberty" rituals, came his mother and the women of his village for a traditional ceremony. With flaming branches and wild cries, they tried to herd him back home like a little boy. He felt no guilt at resisting them. As he defied his mother's flaming branch, they felt no bitterness toward each other.

Each knew that childhood treatment was to be resisted because Ngala had become a physically mature man.

"Puberty" is a more honest word than our pussyfooting term, "adolescence." It means "the age at which a person can beget children." Unlike our civilized term, it does not seek to evade this fact. Blunt and forthright, it forces us to revise our treatment of the physically mature offspring right now instead of postponing revision through a vague number of years called "adolescence."

This vagueness is partially responsible for the plight of the 14-year-old correspondent who writes, "My mother won't realize that I'm going through adolescence. She gets mad because I sometimes want to be alone, get irritable and don't want to talk. She can't see I'm not a baby any more. Please tell her to treat me like my age."

If Ngala's culture is easier on him than this, it's easier on his mother, too. His "puberty" ceremonies are psychologically helpful to her. They inspire pride and acceptance of her son's new status. She's not afraid of it as we are. And she finds it easier to accord it new respect and dignity.

In primitive societies, anthropologist Margaret Mead tells me, parents' treatment of children becomes "modified" at puberty.

It should be modified in civilized societies, too.

We don't have to live in Central Australia to be aware that passing time brings changes that reconstruct the child in our home. We can be aware of it right here on Maple Avenue. If we are, we won't pretend that the Jimmy of two years ago is the same person who now argues in a baritone voice and shaves fuzz from his chin.

Civilization expects us to take a little responsibility. It doesn't provide us with "puberty" rituals to draw the clear, unmistakable line between the two Jimmys, but it expects us to know when biology has drawn it for us. And it expects us to accord the new person new respect and dignity on our own initiative.

Our own tribal taboo of so-called "civilization" upon honest recognition of the line that separates childhood and sexual maturity is one of the deep sources of "adolescent" anger and sexual irresponsibility.

SHORT STORY

Fifty Grand A Year

By FREDERICK MEDLIN

They still wonder why Johnson went mad so suddenly after he got out of stir. That is, all but Leo, the fence.

3-Minute Fiction

Johnson remembered it all as he strode feverishly through the hot, breathless night. The black curtain of darkness that pressed upon every side could not hide those things that had gone before. Even their memory increased his furious pace, and it was an effort not to cast a furtive glance over his shoulder as he drew near the spot on which the great oak should stand.

He remembered the night of ten years ago that he had stolen the Alsmeyer jewels. It had been a desperate thing to do, and he had half expected to be caught. His mind's-eye saw himself crawling up those precarious tracers of ivy on the high black wall of the Alsmeyer mansion. He recalled how cautiously he had opened the window with a glass-cutter and a file, how carefully he had placed the charge of explosive against the cleverly-concealed wall safe, how feverishly he had hurried through the acrid smoke to the battered door after the muffled explosion had shaken the room.

Then down that sweep of ivy again to the ground and over the wall and along the hard road as the uproar behind him steadily grew . . . the car with the fingering searchlight darting down the road . . . his dogged flight across the field to the momentary haven of the huge oak . . . His fingers trembled convulsively again as they had when he had tumbled the jewels quickly into the leather bag and buried it safely, far back under the upcurled root. He heard again the deep-throated baying of the hounds, growing always closer, as he had heard it that night, hour after hour, twisting and dodging and hoping, knowing in his own heart that he would be caught, and and fearing it with hysterical terror.

He had half expected to be caught.

And that capture! The quick shots . . . the rapid whine of the bullets . . . the huge dogs dragging him down . . .

But they had never found the jewels. He had hidden them well, and for that he had been grateful for ten years.

He came quite suddenly upon the clump of trees. They seemed in the thick darkness to be the same stand of ten years ago. He moved about quickly with the flashlight until he found the peculiar root that curved outward and looped upward slightly, just as it had so long ago. He dug back through the loose earth under it; his fingers tingled as they touched rotten leather, and there were the jewels spread out. They were dull —but they were the Alsmeyer jewels.

An hour later they were shimmering on velvet in Leo's back room that he used for business of secrecy; and Johnson was trembling with excitement.

Johnson paced the floor. "Five hundred grand!" he gloated. "That's fifty grand a year in the big house, and still they say crime don't pay. Why, Leo, I know lots of big guys that don't make fifty grand a year. I'm up in the big money now and it feels wonderful."

"You know what these are worth?"

"Yeah. Sure I do. So do you." Perhaps he only wanted to bargain. Some of the dread died in Johnson's heart. "Ain't you the best fence in the East? That's why I came to you. I know you'll give me a square deal."

"You know that I'm honest?" Leo's query was very grave and very earnest.

"Sure. You always have been."

"The Alsmeyer jewels," said Leo slowly, almost sadly, "are just imitations. They might be worth five hundred dollars."

They still wonder why Johnson went mad so shortly after he got out of stir, that is, all but Leo, of course. Leo would know, for he is a very shrewd judge of human psychology—and jewels. It is said, by those who know, that Leo made almost half a million dollars out of the Alsmeyer jewels.

Police Remind Parents That Curfew Exists

Police Chief Edouard Moreau wishes to remind all parents that there is a curfew by-law in Sherbrooke statutes, number 946, which prohibits children aged 15 years and under from being on the streets after nine o'clock each night.

The by-law, he points out, is not intended to keep the youngsters from night baseball games or other entertainments, but they must by accompanied by an adult.

Coronation Day Celebration To Be Discussed

A definite decision as to whether Sherbrooke will stage any Coronation Day celebrations will be taken at a public meeting to be held in the auditorium of the City Hall on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The meeting has been called by Mayor J. Emile Levesque at the request of several local organizations who feel that Sherbrooke should take its place with other cities in Canada in honoring the accession of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth to the throne.

While the public generally is invited to this meeting, a special invitation is extended to all public organizations, service clubs, etc., to send two or three representatives to this meeting.

HEREFORD NEWS

Methods used in Breeding Programs and the selection of Show Prospects are similar to those used by cattle men of other beef breeds. Some Hereford breeders make the raising of better Herefords their life's work. The principals that hold the most importance may be of interest to breeders yet young in the Hereford Business.

First of all a very definite program must be visualized and what constitutes the ideal Hereford must be very plainly stamped in ones mind before a herd is started. And with the different schools of thought as to what is the ideal, the beginner is very likely to become confused.

A breeder's life is too short to start with one type of Hereford with the idea of changing this type to another of better quality. Of course it can be done to a certain degree, but the few good animals produced through the mating of different type parents have little value as breeding animals as they lack the power to produce themselves consistently. They may have a few calves like themselves, but many more that resemble the different type ancestory that the parents represent.

Before a herd is started one should definitely decide on type and size that is regarded as practical and then selections should be made accordingly. One extreme of type should never be bred against the other extreme. When one type is selected, there should be no place for either over size, coarse, slow maturing cattle, or under size, quick maturing ones. It has been experienced by Hereford breeders who are convinced that the early maturing animal of medium size is the answer to present day conditions.

With the establishment of type there is of course the ever present problem of individual improvement. The search for improvement is probably the one thing that causes the most headaches, but will produce a great deal of fascination in the breeding of livestock. At this point we arrive at the problem of eliminating the defects of breeding.

Once a common weakness is recognized, the next move is to secure another herd bull, of the same type that you have been using, but strong character where the female element is weak. This all sounds and seems very simple when analized, but the hard facts remain that where such an animal is to be found — there are really few good Herefords. So a careful effort should be maintained to combine the best we have, a continual search for animals strong in what is lacking, and also ones that will not reduce the good already established.

The conditions set forth should not sound discouraging to breeders but a challange that offers encouragement due to the fact there is such a demand for animals that are a little better. Many more good ones are needed to improve the breed.

A breeder on selecting his show animals, is faced with the "Day of Judgement" on his breeding program. He can only select as good as he has produced.

On making selections, calves are selected with good heads showing breed character, well balanced, closely coupled, heavy quartered, with as much thickness and depth as possible, and on good short straight legs. They should have strong backs, straight body lines with plenty of natural style and smoothness, which are great assets in the Showring. Calves which fill these requirements should be of the same general type as their brothers and sisters. Cattle of the right kind will get fat enough over a long feeding period without heavy feeds.

Fishing On Memphremagog Has Big Start

Magog, May 22.—Fishermen have been flocking to Lake Memphremagog since the beginning of May in quest of rainbow trout. Tuesday, with the opening of the season on brown trout, and the splendid weather, saw fishing armadas starting out on all parts of the lake.

One outfitter at Georgeville told a Record reporter that there was a steady influx of anglers from the opening of the fishing season. Tuesday's opening on browns, saw a 5¼-pounder caught. There was also a 5½-pound rainbow caught the same day, but larger ones have been pulled in so far this year.

PROPERTY DAMAGE

across the river in Michigan.

In tornado fashion, the storm's course was erratic. At one point in Southwestern Ontario a new car was hurled out of its garage a distance of 300 feet. At another point a three-ton truck was moved 50 feet.

Near Stratford, Ont., J. D. Thistle and his hired man were about to start milking the cows when the black cloud appeared. The barn was snatched off its foundations, leaving the cattle unharmed in their stalls.

In London township, Milton Charlton, said he saw his 11-room brick home fly into the air, leaving his mother and his sister still sitting uninjured in their kitchen chairs.

The dead in Ontario are:

Simon Thompson, 50, reeve of East William Township, about 20 miles west of London; his six-year-old daughter, Dorothy; and Miss Sara MacIntosh, about 80.

Reeve Thompson and his daughter were killed in their rubbled home at Springbank. His wife was taken to hospital with serious injuries. Five other children, ranging in age from four to 12 escaped injury.

Miss MacIntosh's body was found 200 feet from the levelled home in the Springbank area.

The great concentration of injuries and property damage appeared to be in Sarnia. R. J. Anderson, Canadian Press staff writer, reported from there that the casualty total seemed amazingly low in view of the fact that some stores whose front windows were blown in were crowded with shoppers at the time.

Sarnia's acting mayor, Clayton A. Saylor, read the Riot Act when crowds of sightseers crowded into the downtown area where two blocks of business buildings were smashed. The citizens were ordered to disperse and 200 active service troops and local reservists patrolled the area augmenting Sarnia's 42-man police force.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow of Ontario called the disaster "one of the worst ever to strike the province."

The death toll, however, was lower than in the last great tornado to strike Canada when 16 died as a twister swept through the Windsor, Ont., area in June of 1946.

In Port Huron, the wind knocked over 15 cars of a 45-car freight train. Power was cut off there and one hospital sent out a plea for flashlights.

As the storm moved across Southwestern Ontario it was accompanied by torrential rain and followed by hail with stones as big as marbles. At Forest, 32 miles northwest of London, the ground was coated with ice 45 minutes after the storm passed.

Much of the storm's toll was in rural districts north and west of London. The loss in livestock could not be counted and the number of barns and outbuildings destroyed was difficult to estimate. Glass in tobacco greenhouses was smashed in the area south of Tillonsburg and young plants were damaged.

people are opposed to totalitarianism."

New Delhi— (Reuters) —John Foster Dulles assured the Indian people today that U. S. policy will be formulated with full respect for the opinions of other nations.

In a broadcast over All-India radio, the U. S. state secretary said the United States is fully conscious of its world responsibilities and will continue to see "the views of other countries with whom we share the common objective of assuring peace."

Dulles, concluding a three-day visit here, said the United States feels its carries a "very heavy burden and responsibility in world affairs."

"We did not seek that responsibility and indeed many Americans regret we have it. But since we do have it, we want to act wisely."

Dulles said this meant discussing common problems with other countries and getting first-hand knowledge of their views.

Drum'ville Girl Wins Scholarship

Elizabeth Moore, of Drummondville, an Arts student at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., has been awarded the Edgar Forrester Scholarship in oral French, it has been announced by the University. The scholarship is for $20.

St. John's Guild Annual Report At Brookbury

Brookbury, May 22 — Under the able presidency of Mrs. O. Dougherty, St. John's Guild concluded a very satisfactory season. The total enrolment numberd twenty-five members, seven of whom joined during the year. The new members included Mrs. Sidney Ward Jr., Mrs. T. Lowe, Mrs. R. St. Laurent, Mrs. H. Pehlemann, Mrs. Annie Allison, Mrs. James Marshall and Mrs. Hollis Cairnes. Two active members, Mrs. R. Coleman, and Mrs. Judge, moved away to new homes as did Rev. and Mrs. Foreman.

Twelve regular meetings were held with an average attendance of twelve. The president, Mrs. Dougherty had a perfect attendance record.

Of these meetings the annual was held in Januardy, at the home of Mrs. William Batley, two meetings each at the homes of Mrs. G. Pehlemann, Mrs. S. Ward and Mrs. O. Dougherty, and one each with Mrs. H. Pehlemann, Mrs. L. Martin, Mrs. Judge, Mrs. S. Clark and Mrs. H. Downes. Various members were co-hostesses at these meetings. Proceeds from the teas totalled $30.31.

Forty-three items of correspondence were received and read. These included letters of thanks from friends who had been remembered at times of illness and bereavement; for money given as scripture prizes to the Bury High School; from a veteran, at St. Hyacinthe Hospital; and from members who were presented with gifts on leaving for new homes. Others were letters of thanks for convalescents and greeting cards for boxes of Christmas Cheer.

Thirty-nine items of correspondence were mailed by the secretary. These included letters soliciting donations and letters of thanks, four of which were sent to local merchants for gifts given in connection with the card party in aid of the Cemetery Fund. Others were greeting cards sent to former members and to "shut-ins," also convalescent and sympathy cards. A letter of thanks was also sent to the Brookbury W.I. for the free use of their hall for card parties and socials. Two cards signed by all members present at the October fifteenth meeting were sent to friends in hospital, while one similarly inscribed was forwarded, with a letter from the secretary, to a friend in the Wales Home. Thanks were extended to Mrs. S. Ward and Mrs. C. Sylvester for cleaning St. John's Church. A bill of $6 was paid for building fires in the church, and a cheque issued to defray the electric lighting therein to August 1953. The Guild also expressed their willingness to supply the funds for the wood to heat St. John's Church.

Among the activities of this season, the one of major importance was the forming of the Sunday School at St. John's. It opened June 8 with an attendance of 23, with Mrs. Olive Batley, the superintendent.

On July 1, a float entitled "Church in the Wildwood," was entered in the parade at the Bury Dominion Day celebrations. Building material for the church was donated by Newton MacLeod, who with Osborne, Durwood and Delbert Dougherty and Douglas Judge constructed the building. Mr. William Batley loaned his truck; Mrs. Claude Morrill, the Dougherty family, Mrs. S. Ward, Mrs. Della Clark and the Misses Belva Batley and Guerita Clark assisted in the decorating. This float won the first prize of $20, also the grand prize of $5, and two sets of pyrex glasses for which $11.90 was received. Expenses in connection with this project were $3.80.

In August the Sunday School picnic was held at Batley's Pond. The Guild donated $10 towards prizes and treats.

On August 16, an ice-cream social was held in Brookbury Hall. This was followed by three card parties in September. A total of seventy-eight dollars was realized from these projects.

The Harvest Thanksgiving service was held in St. John's Church, September 28. The church was appropriately decorated with fruit, flowers and vegetables by members of the Guild. The Sunday School attended in a body. This was also Rev. Foreman's farewell service. The hand-tooled initialed bill-fold which was a farewell gift to Mrs. Foreman from the Guild was forwarded to her.

On October 10, a card party was held in Brookbury Hall, the proceeds were in aid of St. John's Church Cemetery Fund and $25 were realized. At this time three plastic table covers were donated to the W.I. by the Guild.

A remembrance was sent to an aged friend, Mrs. Diantha Batley, who on October 5, attained her 90th birthday, and also to Mrs. Maria Newman, on her 90th birthday, on November 6.

At the November meeting committees were appointed to buy the fruits, candies and nuts for the Christmas treats. Plans were also made to send cigarets and a box of chocolate bars to a soldier in Korea.

The Guild in conjunction with the Brookbury W.I. bought a wreath which was placed at the memorial monument in Bury in memory of our fallen heroes at the Armistice Day service.

On December 20, several Guild members met at Mrs. William Batley's home, and packed one hundred bags of Christmas treats for children in the community, the expense of which was shared equally by the Brookbury W.I. and St. John's Guild. At the same time several boxes of Christmas Cheer were packed by the Guild for the aged and "shut-ins." The Guild members also forwarded to the patients at Verdun Hospital, the Christmas Cheer cup-cakes.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD

The St. John's Guild met at the home of Mrs. William Batley with Mrs. Osborne Dougherty as co-hostess. The meeting was opened with the singing of two hymns followed by the "Lord's Prayer" repeated in unison.

One minute's silence was then observed in loving tribute to the memory of the late Queen Mary. Six members answered the roll call, and one new member, Mrs. S. Allison, was enrolled.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were adopted. These were followed by the minutes of the annual meeting and 26 items of correspondence. Several items of business were discussed and all outstanding bills were ordered paid. The sum of $5 was voted to the Bury High School for prizes in scripture.

The annual reports were called for. Owing to the absence of the treasurer, her report could not be given. However, the secretary read her report.

The president closed the meeting with prayer. A bountiful and delicious tea was served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will also be held at the home of Mrs. William Batley with Mrs. L. H. Martin and Miss Guerita Clark for joint hostesses.

MORRIS CAR SETS WORLD RECORD

Only car on the road ever to achieve 10,000 miles non stop. Road test of Morris Minor's new overhead valve engine proves economy . . . Efficiency.

At Goodwood Race Track, England, 10,000 miles non-stop proved that the Morris Minor is built to last . . . built for trouble free driving. At the end of a 9 day, 8 hour test — the most gruelling road test ever made — engineers checked every part. They found: the car ran as smoothly as the day it came off the assembly line.

During 224 hours of continuous turns on the circular track (turns required extra power equal to climbing 66 miles) gas consumption averaged 43 miles per gallon!

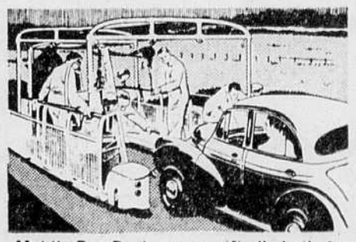

New Overhead Valve Engine was used in test car. The new 4-cylinder engine is a standard feature of all new Morris Minors. Engine has mixture control and throttle interlocked — gives faster starts, even in cold weather.

Daily Progress Chart kept by test engineers shows performance of car at every stage of test. Mileage column (right) shows steady improvement in miles per gallon as test progressed.

Mobile Dry Dock was specifically built for non-stop test. When car entered dock both vehicles synchronized their speeds. Workmen fueled and serviced test car while driving crews were changed.

Resignation Of Art Coles, Guiding Hand Behind Australia's Olympic Plans, Causes Plenty Of Worry

Melbourne—(AP)—The resignation of Arthur W. Coles, the guiding hand behind Australia's plans to stage the 1956 Olympic Games, left their city shocked and bewildered today.

No one seemed to know just which way to turn.

One official said weakly that he did not think Coles' resignation as chairman of the Olympic Games Control Committee would affect the situation.

Another said he would appeal to Coles to reconsider. Out of the maze of conflicting statements and arguments that have harassed Coles for the last six months, there emerged one clear-cut fact—that this latest internal dispute well could mean the end of any chance Australia has of staging the games.

When told of Coles' resignation, Avery Brundage, President of the International Olympic committee, said in Chicago that the IOC executive committee may hold an emergency meeting to consider another city for the games.

"There must be something seriously wrong," said Brundage. 'Mr. Coles is a conservative business man. He certainly did not resign unless something seriously was wrong.

"Whatever this means, I don't know. But the IOC executive committee may be very much out of patience with the Australian handling of the games.'

He added that he would have to await official word on the status of the games, but that the executive committee possibly would hold an emergency meeting unless the question can be handled by mail.

Brundage is one of the most influential members of the committee and his dark hint that the executive committee "may" be losing patience with Australia did not need any interpretation here.

The chance of Coles changing his mind appeared slim. He has worked almost without letup and on numerous occasions has surmounted obstacles that would have discouraged a less determined official. But when the Victorian state government declined to build the Olympic swimming pool in Fawkner Park, the site which was accepted by the IOC at its meeting in Mexico City last month, he decided he'd had enough.

"There was nothing left for me but to resign," said Coles. "My position was untenable. Twice I went away and made promises to the IOC meetings at Helsinki and Mexico City. On both occasions my promises were backed by the Victoria state government. And twice on my return, the same government repudiated my promises."

Coles said the first promise that he had to break was on the Olympic stadium at Carloton.

"Now it is the swimming pool at Fawkner Park," he said bitterly. "It was on the proposed swimming pool at the park that we helped save the games for Melbourne at the Mexico City meeting. Now the government has scrapped the whole plan."

Alouettes Make Offer To Les Lear As Linesman; Led Bombers And Stampeders To Six Grey Cup Finals

Calgary—(CP)—Les Lear, former coach of Calgary Stampeders, reports he has been offered a 1953 player contract by Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Big Four football union.

Lear said he was approached several weeks ago by Fred Skelcher, part-owner of the Alouettes, and the official offer came last week in a letter from Montreal general manager Lew Hayman. No mention was made of salary.

Lear, whose last full playing season was in 1947 with Detroit Lions of the United States National Football League, would not say whether he intends to accept Hayman's offer.

"I really don't know what I'll do," the 36-year-old native of Grafton, N. D., said "I'd like to get back into the game and I guess I've still got a few kicks left in me. I'll have to think it over."

Lear, who participated in six Grey Cup finals with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Stampeders, coached the cowboys from 1948 to 1952 after a four-year hitch as a top lineman with Cleveland and Los Angeles Rams and Detroit Lions of the NFL.

He led Stampeders to Grey Cup victory in 1948 against Ottawa Rough Riders and the following year took his team to the Grey Cup final against Montreal Alouettes. After last-place finishes in the next two seasons, Lear brought Stampeders into third place in the four-team Western Interprovincial Football Union in 1952.

Lear's contract was not renewed after Stampeders frittered away a 19-point bulge in their two-game, total-points WIFU semi-final with Edmonton Eskimos last season.

1956 Olympic Games Will Go To Rome If Melbourne Falls Down, According To Dan Ferris, Secretary

New York — (AP) — Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the U. S. Amateur Athletic Union, said Thursday the 1956 Olympic Games probably will go to Rome if Melbourne falls down on the job.

Commenting on the confusion raised by the resignation of Arthur W. Coles, chairman of the Olympic Games control committee in Australia, Ferris said:

"The situation doesn't look good at all. The folks down there seem to be working at cross purposes. If it should be decided that Melbourne can't hold the games, then they'd have to be shifted to the city in the best shape to handle them.

"That would have to be Rome. From what I hear, Rome could take over the responsibility on very short notice. The city has wonderful facilities and apparently the money and the desire to throw into such a big project."

Olympic officials everywhere were bewildered by the action of Coles, who quit in a huff when the clined to build a swimming pool at the Fawkner Park site approved by the International Olympic Committee.

Otto Mayer, chancellor of the IOC, said in Lausanne, Switzerland, that he wasn't surprised by Coles' action, Mayer said further action by the IOC would have to await notification of Coles' resignation. Then an emergency meeting could be called by Avery Brundage, president of the IOC.

Brundage, in Chicago, expressed concern over the latest bottle-neck in Melbourne's preparations and said an emergency meeting may be called if the matter can't be ironed out by mail.

Melbourne's acting lord mayor, Oliver Nilsen, called Coles' resignation "a national tragedy." A meeting was scheduled Thursday in Melbourne in an effort to get Coles to change his mind.

Yanks And Tigers Talk Trade With Houtteman And Norven Main Figures

New York—(AP)—The long-brewing player deal between New York and Detroit, in which Tiger pitcher Art Houtteman and Yankee outfielder Irv Noren are the leading pawns, may be consummated before the June 15 trade deadline, The Associated Press learned Thursday.

Negotiations began as far back as last December when a last-minute change of heart by Detroit general manager Charlie Gehringer killed the deal.

Talk was resumed in Florida during the spring training period, and picked up again two weeks ago when the Yankees were playing in Detroit. On Wednesday, manager Freddy Hutchinson of the Tigers and Roy Hamey, assistant general manager of the Yankees, were together for an hour before the game at Yankee Stadium.

Neither side was eager to disclose what they had talked about, but a source said the Yankees suggested a package deal involving four Yankee players for two Tigers. According to the source, they offered outfielder Art Schult, infielder Johnny Pesky.

The Tigers insisted on Noren instead of Schult.

Noren came to New York from Washington last year in exchange for Jackie Jensen, Frank Shea and a utility infielder. Brideweser recently was optioned to Syracuse in the International League, but can be recalled at a moment's notice. Blackwell, the former Cincinnati Ace, and McDonald are veteran righthanders who have seen little service this year.

Houtteman, only 25, was one of the brightest pitching stars in the game before he was called to service in 1951. A fast-balling righthander, Art won 19 games in 1950 but hasn't been the same pitcher since his return from the army last spring. He dropped 20 decisions while winning only eight last year and has been even less effective this season.

Pesky, 33, still is a valuable hand who is equally at home at second, third or short.

Bisons Take Over IL Leadership With Win Over Chiefs

Buffalo Bisons scored five runs in the ninth inning Thursday night to edge Syracuse Chiefs 7-6 and take over first place in the International Baseball League from the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

Syracuse starter Art Hartley was given a six-run third inning, in which Johnny Blatnik and Carden Gillenwater homered, and had a 6-2 margin going into the fatal final frame.

Montreal Royals mauled three Springfield pitchers for 13 hits and as many runs to set back the Cubs in their first appearance in Montreal. A two-run triple by Taft Wright gave Ottawa Athletics a 7-3 victory over Baltimore Orioles in a game halted by rain in the eighth inning.

At Syracuse, an infield out in the ninth by Al Restaino and singles by pinch hitter Frank Bolling and Ken Chapman tallied one run. Buddy Hicks doubled for two more and Bill Tuttle's single off reliefer Lynn Lovenguth tied the score. Eddie Kazak, who homered in the sixth, singled across the winning run.

At Montreal, a six-run outburst in the opening inning against Gene Long paved the way for an

MARRIAGES

ATTO—GILMOUR

Saskatoon, Sask. — The marriage of Miss Jean Lorraine Gilmour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gilmour, of Saskatoon, Sask., to Mr. James Wilson Atto, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Atto, of Winnipeg, Man., and grandson of Mrs. E. L. Atto, of Lennoxville, took place in a candlelit service in the St. Thomas-Wesley United Church, Saturday, February 25. Mr. John Whelan, organist, played the wedding music, and Mrs. Peggy Jakes, as soloist, sang "Devotion." Baskets of pink carnations, pink snapdragons, blue iris and mauve heather were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory brocaded satin, having rosepoint yoke and sleeves. Her embroidered nylon net veil was held in place by a pearl studded tiara, and her bouquet of white gardenias and white hyacinth tips was attached to an exquisite ivory fan. The fan and wedding gown material were sent from Hong Kong by the bride's sister.

Mrs. W. Long, matron of honor, was gowned in blush rose satin, and Miss Connie Gilmour, bridesmaid, wore tawny copper satin. Their gowns were made ballerina length and each carried a muff to match, to which their corsages were attached.

Mr. Fred Byrne was groomsman and Messrs. William Long and Harold Mercer acted as ushers.

Mrs. Gilmour wore a silver grey brocaded satin jacket dress with azure blue hat and gloves, with a corsage of Talisman roses and blue hyacinths. Mrs. Atto was gowned in a pearl embroidered dress of pale yellow sheer and wore a flowered hat and waistlet corsage of mauve and purple freesias.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table, which was covered with a linen and lace cloth, was centered by the bride's cake in the shape of two hearts, decorated in yellow, surrounded by pale green tulle and flanked by pale green candles. Between the cakes was a low vase of white freesia and pink Sweetheart roses.

Mr. A. D. Cavers proposed the toast to the bride.

The buffet supper was attended by more than sixty guests. Mrs. A. D. Cavers and Mrs. T. T. Seddon presided over the tea and coffee cups. Dr. G. M. T. Hazen and Dr. W. S. Kinnear carved.

For her wedding trip the bride wore an imported navy and white suit with white hat trimmed with navy and she wore a white gardenia corsage. The couple will make their home in Regina.

KIRKDALE

There was not a very large attendance at the card party in the church hall on Friday evening, May 8, owing to the number of social events taking place on the same date. Nevertheless there were enough out for five tables of cards. Those winning prizes were Miss Weare, Mrs. P. Blanchette, Mrs. W. Patrick, Messrs. C. S. Bogie, Alvah Cross and Emile Turner.

Rev. H. Church, of Drummondville, was calling at the Woodburn home and also visited his parishioners at Ulverton.

The ways and means committee of the Guild has arranged another dance in the Kirkdale Hall for Friday evening, May 22.

Despite the wet day a number from here attended the auction sale for Mr. Clifford Johnston on May 15.

Deepest sympathy is given to the Booth family of Melboro in the loss of a dear wife and mother.

Several farmers in Ulverton have finished their seeding but the heavy rains of the past few days have delayed the Kirkdale farmers for at least another week or ten days.

The Doctor Says:

COMPLICATIONS IN ANEMIA ARE MANY AND ALWAYS SERIOUS

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

I am frequently asked to discuss anemia and what should be done for it.

It must be emphasized first that anemia is not a single disease. Many different things can result in some form of anemia, and the term really means a deficiency in the red blood cells, or hemoglobin (coloring matter) of the blood, or both.

The bloods contains small round disks called red blood cells, or erythrocytes. Normally, there are about 4,500,000 or 5,000,000 of these cells in each cubic millimeter of blood. (There are more than 16,000 cubic millimeters in a cubic inch). These cells contain oxygen and hemoglobin, both of which are necessary for human life.

Pernicious anemia, or primary anemia, is one kind. The cause of this condition is complicated, and all that can be said here is that the discovery of the value of liver—and more recently Vitamin B12—has changed it from a disease which used to be fatal into one which can be successfully treated in almost all cases.

With the exception of pernicious anemia, the problem boils down to finding out what has caused the lack of red cells or hemoglobin, or both.

One of the most simple, and yet a frequent cause, is bleeding from somewhere in the body. If a person loses more blood than the system can replace, anemia develops. If the bleeding is sudden, as from a wound, the difficulty can be remedied promptly by stopping the hemorrhage and giving a blood transfusion.

If hemorrhage is slow, it is necessary to find where the bleeding comes from and to stop it if possible. When this so-called secondary anemia is severe it may be necessary to give transfusions or take other measures, including the use of iron preparations, iron being an important part of hemoglobin.

Another kind of anemia comes most commonly in women between 30 and 50 years old. The cause of this anemia is a deficiency of iron resulting from several things probably including defective diet and poor absorption due to disturbance of the stomach and intestines.

Energy Is Lacking

This causes a feeling of weakness, shortness of breath, nervous disturbances, dry hair, sore tongue and paleness. Fortunately, once it has been identified, it can be successfully treated by giving iron.

Anemia may result from the failure of the organs which make the blood to meet the needs of the body. The difficulty lies principally in the bone marrow and is much like the anemia which comes from certain poisons. There are many other forms of anemia, too.

Anemia means something is seriously wrong with the body. A person with severe anemia feels poorly and is lacking in energy. The cause should be tracked down and proper treatment employed.

OBITUARIES

MRS. E. P. BROCK, OF TRENHOLM

Trenholm, May 22 — The Trenholm United Church was filled to capacity on Sunday, February 22, 1953, with sorrowing relatives and friends, who had come from near and far to pay final tribute of one Trenholmville's oldest residents, Mrs. E. P. Brock, who died peacefully at her home on February 20, in her 80th year.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Leslie Dean, of Richmond, who spoke words of comfort to the bereaved family. Hymns sung were three favorites of the deceased, "Now The Laborer's Task Is O'er," "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Rock of Ages." The floral tribute was numerous and beautfiful.

The bearers were six grandsons, Messrs. Everett Lariviere, Orvis Taylor, Royce Taylor, Walter Stevens, Weldon Stevens and Edmond Hannon. The burial was made in Trenholmville Cemetery, beside her husband, who predeceased her on January 24, 1951, and one daughter, Alice, Mrs. Russell Stevens, who predeceased her 12 years ago.

Edna Harriett Rowe was the daughter of the late Henry Rowe and Mary Williams. She was born in Kingsbury, on September 5th, 1873. She grew up and spent her entire life here.

In October 1896, she was married to Edmond P. Brock, of this union eight children were born, Gladys, Alice, Lilith, Jessie, Percy, Melvin, Alvin and Effie.

Mrs. Brock spent her entire life at home with her family, whom she loved and tenderly cared for.

She lived quietly and simply and was never as happy as when tending her flowers. Those who had the privilege of seeing her grow old so gracefully can truly say:

You took life severely to the very last
It never lost for you its lovely look.
You kept your interest in the thrilling Book
To you as death came at the end,
You merely smiled to greet another friend."

NOW—A NYLON CORD TIRE

for only a few dollars more than a standard tire!

NYLON CORDS MEAN UP TO 80% MORE STRENGTH!

Up to now, only Goodyear has made an All-Nylon cord tire, and it has been available only in Goodyear's highest priced line.

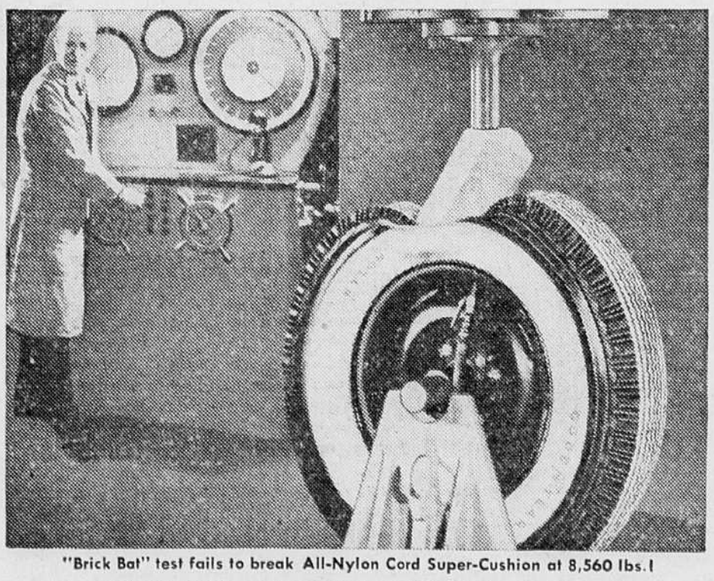

But now Goodyear brings you the miracle strength, amazing safety of an All-Nylon cord tire . . . for only a few dollars more than a standard tire.

All-Nylon cords mean greater sidewall strength—longer tire life—greater freedom from blowout worries. And Goodyear puts this new strength, new safety, well within your reach!

NEW TREAD RUBBER, TOO! UP TO 21% MORE MILEAGE!

This new All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion tire features a newly developed tread rubber that actually gives you as much as 21% more mileage than old style tread rubber!

Think what this means to you! Now, you'll get as much as an extra 1,000 miles for every 5,000 miles you used to get—and all at a price just a few dollars more than you pay for standard tires!

"Brick Bat" test fails to break All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion at 8,560 lbs.!

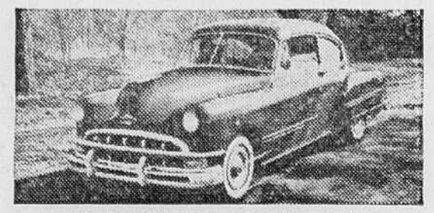

An ordinary brick was mounted on this hydraulic press, then slammed into a Goodyear All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion with a force of 8,560 lbs. The tread was driven clear down to the rim, but the tough, All-Nylon cord body bounced back without a break! A tire with standard cords broke at 4,040 lbs.! All-Nylon's extra strength means longer tire life, greater safety against impact blowouts.

See your Goodyear Dealer today! Although he may not have your tire size right now, because of a limited supply of Nylon cord, he will gladly accept your order for future delivery.

Tests prove new tread rubber gives up to 21% more nonskid mileage.

Both tires above—an All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion (left) and an ordinary tire—were driven the same distance. But, the All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion tread still has thousands of miles of safe, nonskid driving left! This new Super-Cushion actually gives you as much as an extra 1,000 miles for every 5,000 you get with an ordinary tire!

Miracle-Strength All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion gives smooth comfort on roughest roads!

Nylon cords have more resilience—flex easier, safer—cushion the shocks you get with some other tires. And because All-Nylon cord tires run cooler and are as much as 80% stronger than other tires, they are ideal for today's faster driving, higher powered cars.

Beulah United Church, Ayer's Cliff, Has Four New Memorial Windows

Ayer's Cliff, May 22 — The officers and committees of Beulah United Church have been working for some months on the project of Memorial Windows.

Some time ago Miss Brenda Newcomb presented one in memory of her aunt, Mrs. Susie Rowell; the Senior Women's Association installed one in memory of J. B. Shurtliff, founder of the church, and during the past week the other four were completed. One in memory of Mr. A. G. Clough, by Mrs. Clough and nephews, Roy B. and Guyle H. Clough; and one for Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Clough, given by their sons and families; and one in memory of Rev. and Mrs. Churchill Moore. Rev. Mr. Churchill was pastor of Beulah United Church for twenty-four years. This was presented by their sons; and the sixth window was in honor of those from this community who served in the two World Wars, 1914-18 and 1939-45. This was made possible by donations.

These have added so much to the appearance of the church, and the officers, members and all interested persons are highly appreciative, to all who have given them.

St. Johns Edge Indians 4-3; Braves Move Into Top Spot

Thetford Knocks St. Hyacinthe Out Of First Place; Granby Edges Yanks; Tangle Again Tonight In Second Tilt

Quebec Braves turned on the power Thursday night, downing the cellar-dwelling Drummondville Cubs 6-0, to take over sole possession of first place in the Provincial Baseball League.

The sixth-place Thetford Mines Miners spoiled St. Hyacinthe's chances of taking over the top spot as they downed the Athletics 6-3.

In other league games, a single run in the final frame gave the third-place Granby Phillies a 6-5 edge over the fourth-place Three Rivers Yankees and the seventh-place St. Johns Canadians edged the fifth-place Sherbrooke Indians, 4-3.

At Drummondville, the Braves got to Tony Develis and Bill Anderson for seven hits while John Ambrose went the route, allowing only three safeties. Develis was pulled in the sixth. Three runs were charged against both Develis and Anderson.

Thetford got their win behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Diemer and three runs in the sixth spelled the difference. Diemer helped out his own cause by driving in two runs and Jim Metcalf of the Athletics bolstered St. Hyacinthe with a homer.

At Three Rivers, Mike Burack took over from Gilbert in the seventh and was credited with the win. The loss went to starter Charlie Rodriguez who was pulled for Mark Mainini in the ninth.

St. Johns Canadiens collected only seven hits, but it was enough for the one-run edge. Charlie Malcolm, replaced by Foote in the 8th, as credited with the victory while Wilf Sirois was tabbed with the loss. Sherbrooke picked up only five hits and committed one error while St. Johns made two miscues.

Mills Ready For Battle Of Words With Dr. Summerhill

London — (AP) — Freddie Mills, former world light heavyweight champion, has challenged anti-boxing crusader Dr. Edith Summerskill to a "battle of words" in public.

Mills Thursday night invited Dr. Summerskill a Labor member of Parliament into the debating ring after her hard-punching attack on boxing in the House of Commons Wednesday night.

"The boxing business is conducted in a kind of boxing underworld with which most MP's would be ashamed to be associated," she said in a debate on whether professional boxing should be tax-free.

Mills, now a promoter, came out fighting.

"I can prove to her she is wrong. No underworld methods are used. I will answer any questions she cares to ask," Mills said.

Native Dancer And Dark Star To Lead Field In Added Preakness Tomorrow; Seven Entered In Event

Baltimore — (AP) — They dropped the names of seven colts into the entry box for the 77th running of the $100,000-added Preakness Stakes Saturday, then continued the argument whether Native Dancer can gain revenge for his defeat by Dark Star in the Kentucky Derby.

The Dancer, Alfred Vanderbilt's powerful grey galloper, contributed to the speculation with a sparkling three-quarter mile workout that had rival trainers shaking their heads and wondering what they were doing in the race.

A fog lay over Pimlico as the Dancer flashed around the oval, and varying times were reported. Trainer Bill Winfrey of Native Dancer had it 1:11 4-5, while the track clocker made it 1:11 3-5. At any rate, it was a super effort, for the track record is 1:10 1-5 set by The Pincher in 1948.

Dark Star, from the Cain Hoy stable, is expected to be made the second choice in the mile-and-3-16 classic although narrowly beaten by Eugene Constatin Jr's Royal Bay Gem in the Preakness Prep Monday.

The Cain Hoy entry who beat the Dancer by a head in the Derby, is quoted in the early odds at 4 to 1. However, controversy was stirring even on the probable price of Native Dancer and the others.

Native Dancer, who has been odds-on in every race since his first, is listed at 3 to 5 for Saturday, but he may be even shorter when the expected crowd of around 35,000 goes to work on the mutuel machines. He was 1 to 20 last week in winning the Withers Mile at Belmont Park, his 12th victory in 13 starts.

Royal Bay Gem was made third choice at 5 to 1, while Jim Norris' Jamie K., who didn't race in the Derby, was tabbed aat 10 to 1.

Other entries are Mrs. Gordon Guiberson's California contender, Correspondent; Ben Whitaker's Tahitian Kings, and Bruce Campbell's Ram o'War.

Tahitian King is the only other horse that didn't start in the Derby three weeks ago, when Native Dancer was bumped on the first turn by Money Broker as Dark Star was running on the front end and out of trouble all the way.

Cotton League Rumpus Over Racial Problem Blows Over As Club Head Resigns And Transfers Stock

Hot Springs, Ark— (AP) —The class-C Cotton States League has apparently smoothed over a racial problem which threatened its existence.

Hot Springs Bathers reoptioned Negro pitcher Jim Tugerson to Knoxville, Tenn., of the Mountain States League and were reported to have made a change in club executives.

League president Al Haraway said Thursday night:

"The Hot Springs matter has cleared itself up."

A reliable source said Lewis Goltz, Bather co-owner and president who had led the fight to introduce Negroes to the Arkansas-Mississippi-Louisiana circuit, had resigned and transferred his stock in the club.

Announcement early this spring that Hot Springs had signed Jim Tugerson and his brother, Leander, righthanders, touched off a storm of reaction in the league.

Haraway and others said the league would dissolve if the Negroes were played.

League directors first voted to kick Hot Springs out of the circuit. This action was overruled by George Trautman, minor league czar, who held that a club could use Negroes if it saw fit.

Then according to Haraway, the directors entered a "gentlemen's agreement" under which Hot Springs would dispose of the Tugersons in return for certain concessions.

The Bathers optioned the Tugersons to Knoxville on a 24-hour recall basis.

Jim was recalled Tuesday, and Hot Springs attempted to pitch him against Jackson, Miss., Wednesday night. Haraway ordered the game forfeited to Jackson. He said Hot Springs officials had violated the "gentlemen's agreement."

Hot Springs gave in Thursday and sent the hurler back to Knoxville.

How To Play Par Golf

Majority Use Overlapping

By JULIUS BOROS
U. S. Open Champion

Despite my personal preference for the interlocking, the grip employed by the majority of golfers is the overlapping.

I endorse the overlapping for most players, teach it to most of my pupils.

I recommend this for most beginners because it is easier to learn and generally feels more natural to the new player. It is very important that the grip feel natural. You can never develop a good swing if it feels cramped or otherwise uncomfortable.

Nine out of 10 golfers use the overlapping technique. The forming of the overlapping grip is quite similar to the interlocking. The club should be placed diagonally across the left hand in the same combination finger and palm grip. Close the left hand over the shaft with the left arm extended as to form a straight line with the club.

You will know your left hand is properly placed when you look down on the shaft and see the two, or even three, knuckles of the hand.

Your second check point can be used in this instance, too— the pointing of the V of your left thumb and forefinger over your right shoulder. The right hand should be placed slightly under the shaft, with the right arm relaxed. Then your overlapping technique is applied by overlapping the little finger of the right hand over the forefinger of the left.

As in the case of the interlocking, your right hand V pointing over your right shoulder is assurance of proper placing of the hand. Those are the elementary steps to follow in forming a sound grip. Uncomplicated, they are worthy of complete concentration for at least one or two lessons, and many hours on the practice tee.

As your game progresses and improves, you will learn to check your grip automatically before every shot, the same as you will your aim or stance.

NATURAL — The overlapping grip generally feels more natural to the new golfer. (NEA).

NEXT: The stance.

Typical National League Race As Giants Stage Winning Streak But Fail To Gain On Leading Phillies

New York Giants are ready to start a petition demanding more room in first division in the National League.

They think they belong there, just like the experts said before the season started. But it's a typical National League race with almost everybody trying to get in front. And it's so tight even a five-game winning streak and nine successes in their last 12 starts isn't enough to get the Giants higher than fifth.

The league-leading Philadelphia Phillies thumped 7-2 by Pittsburgh Thursday night, lead Milwaukee by half a game. St. Louis is a half game back of Milwaukee with Brooklyn's off-and-on Dodgers another half step behind the Cards.

That brings it down to fifth place and the Giants, who knocked off Brooklyn 7-2 Thursday night to creep within three games of the top.

In the American League where New York Yankees are threatening to run off and hide from the rest of the clubs, the margin is more than that from first to second.

The Yankees stretched their lead to 3½ games over the idle Chicago White Sox by edging Washington Senators 6-5 on a three-run, seventh inning rally. Philadelphia Athletics, hitless for five innings, overpowered Boston 9-0 in the only other American League game. The Cardinals made up deficits of three and six runs to defeat Cincinnati 11-9 to round out the National League action.

The Giants who slammed out five runs in the first inning against Brooklyn's Joe Black and Ben Wade on a pair of back-to-back triples, a single, double and Bobby Thomson's home run.

Brooklyn disposed of Giant ace Sal Maglie with one out in the first inning when Duke Snider followed Pee Wee Reese's single with a home run and Jackie Robinson added a double. But Al Corwin stopped the Dodgers until the fifth and Dave Koslo held the lead to the end. The victory went to Corwin.

The roof fell in on Karl Drews in Pittsburgh in the sixth inning. The Philadelphia righthander was breezing along with a 2-0 lead when the Pirates suddenly found the range for seven singles and were aided by two walks and a pair of errors.

The Cardinals wore their hitting suits against Cincinnati and needed them. The Redlegs jumped away to a 6-0 lead. The Cards tied it at 6-6 only to find themselves trailing 9-6 after Cincinnati batted in the seventh. The Cards came back with four more in the seventh and frosted the cake with a single tally in the eighth.

The Yankees' victory, too, was a come from behind effort against the battling Senators. Down 5-3 after four innings, the Yankees rallied for three runs in the seventh on a pair of singles, two doubles and a walk.

The Athletics' triumph over Boston may have been a costly one since they lost the services of lefty Bobby Shantz for an indefinite period. Shantz, pitching shutout ball, strained a muscle in his arm with two out in the fourth and had to retire.

Carl Scheib took over and combined with Shantz to hold the Sox to three hits.

Burke Emery Meets Marcel Piau In Boxing Final Tonight

E. T. Middleweights Clash For Bunny Sabbath Trophy At Windsor Mills; Special Buses Leave At 7:30

Promoter Les Connors with the assistance of organizers Clement Robitaille and Raymond Murphy have lined up a top-notch boxing program for 8:45 this evening at the Canada Paper Mills Arena in Windsor Mills.

The main bout featuring two E. T. puglists who have made a very favorable showing in Eastern Canadian boxing circles brings together Burke Emery of Sherbrooke and Marcel Piau of Windsor Mills.

This bout promises to be a thriller from start to finish as both boys are very strong punchers and don't know the meaning of the word "quit."

Piau, 1953 Golden Gloves champion, has only one mark against his brilliant record and that is the losing of the Sabbath trophy a year ago.

This trophy which is presented annually to the outstanding boxer of the E.T. was won last year by Emery over the same Marcel Piau on a close 5-round decision.

However, Piau has different ideas as to whom will hold the trophy for the next 12 months, at least, much to the Sherbrooke boy's disbelief. Both boys will weigh in at or about 165 lbs. for the 6-round affair with Emery having the advantage of height and reach.

In the semi-final Maurice Everett, of Sherbrooke, tackles Jerry Phelps, of Montreal. Phelps is regarded as one of the most outstanding amateur boxers to come out of Montreal during the past year.

The quarter-final will feature Pat Supple, of Montreal, present Canadian 112 lb. champion and Real Gagne, the 1952 titleholder.

This bout, which is of main bout calibre should give boxing fans of the Eastern Townships something long to remember.

Three other bouts have been lined up to complete the card.

The heavyweight fight between K. O. Bower who is said to carry a knockout punch in either hand faces Jim Burns, of Montreal.

It has been quite some time since the heavyweight division has been represented on E.T. boxing programs and will add variety to an already star-studded card.

The other two bouts of the evening, both welterweight scraps, shows Bob Gagne, Asbestos against Kenny Hughes, Montreal, while Arcer Emond faces Kid Lepage, of Drummondville.

Special buses for Sherbrooke boxing fans will leave the local terminal at 7:30 p.m. for Windsor.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

Chicago—(AP)—Desperately eager to take the so-called minds of boxing fans off something that happened a week ago tonight at Chicago, the International Boxing Club will shortly announce plans for a heavyweight title fight here in September between Rocky Marciano and Roland La Starza.

This will come as bad news to the several managers of Ezzard Charles, a former champion, but the IBC really has little choice. It wishes to hold the next big one in a local ball park for a number of reasons, and the men who run the cauliflower cartel regard Charles as a poor draw in these parts. They have reasonable hope that La Starza, a Bronx boy, can be ballyhooed into a business-getter in his own right.

We believe Al Weill, Marciano's manager, when he declarers he has no choice between the two foremost challengers. He firmly believes that Rock is good enough now to whip both of them the same night.

Actually, if the Marciano forces are to be suspected of fearing either man, the more logical choice would be La Starza. Back three years ago he gave Rocky the closest brush of his unbeaten career.

Where La Starza is young, 25, and at his physical peak, Charles has been putting on the years and there are those who seriously doubt the Cincinnati bull fiddler player would like Marciano's game.

At anly rate, what we started out to do was tell you something about La Starza. For a boy with his record—55 fights, 52 wins, 24 knockouts—the butcher's son has gained remarkably little fame and has made but little money up to now.

Both La Starza and his worried-looking manager, Jimmy Deanelo showed up at Chicago the first of last week and for five days spent most of their waking hours sitting around the hotel suite where the fight clan gathered. Boxing writers were there from all over the country, and it was obvious the pair wanted to get acquainted. You might say they were lobbying. They did a good job for themselves.

They aren't building heavyweights like they used to. Standing next to former champion Jimmy Braddock, La Starza looked no bigger than a middle-weight. He's depceptive, though. His 190 pounds are beautifully distributed over his 5-10½, and only his wide shoulders, seen front view, give him away.
