Replace Rod service

May hire new truckers

MONTREAL (CP) — An official at the city's main post office says attempts may be made today to hire men to replace striking employees of Rod Service Ltd.

He ordered postal officials in Montreal to restore service in the city as fully as possible today. The postmaster-general also ordered that the service be handled by other trucks and drivers.

Mr. Kierans accused the union that bargains for Rod Service employees of walking out of settlement talks Saturday night. The postmaster-general said the drivers had been offered two options—a cash settlement of a week's pay to all permanent drivers or arbitration under a provision in their contract.

to pick up mail at letter boxes, carry it between post offices and transport it to rail or air depots. Mr. Kierans said the strike is illegal because the workers did not exercise all the options available to them before walking off the job.

Wreckage of the car in the autoroute accident which claimed four lives.

Four teenagers killed in ET autoroute accident

An automobile accident which occurred Saturday afternoon on the Sherbrooke-Montreal autoroute just ten miles out of Magog claimed the lives of four youths, three of them from Sherbrooke.

Lennoxville who passed the scene of the accident a few minutes later, told the Record that he noticed that only the top of the guard-rail had been sheared off. This must have meant, he said, that the car had flown over the railing, after crossing over the ditch. The coroner's inquest was held at 7 p.m. Saturday evening in Granby.

At least 88 persons died in weekend accidents across Canada, 70 in traffic mishaps.

A survey by the Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday, local times, also showed 10 persons died of drowning, three by fire and five in other accidents.

Quebec had the worst toll with 33 fatalities — 28 in traffic deaths, one drowning, three killed in a fire and one in a fall.

Many dead

CHARLESTON, W.Va.—(CP) — (AP) — The death toll in Saturday's Piedmont Airlines plane crash reached 35 with the weekend deaths of three critically-injured passengers, leaving only two survivors. "I thought it was all a bad dream, just a bad dream," said one of the survivors. Barbara Schiller, 19, of Cincinnati. "I wasn't even looking out the window when it happened. I blacked out and when I woke up they were throwing foam all over me."

Mig's land

TEL AVIV — (Reuters) — Two Syrian Mig-17 jet planes landed at an Israeli airfield today.

An announcement by a military spokesman here said the two jets landed at 8:45 a.m. 2:45 a.m. EDT at an airfield in northern Israel.

There was no indication of why the jets landed in Israel. Observers here noted that some dramatic action by Israel was expected following Algerian refusal to release unconditionally an Israeli airliner hijacked to Algiers by Palestinian gunmen.

Fight the Cong

SAIGON — (AP) — US troops guarding the southern approaches to Saigon battled the Viet Cong today at two points nine miles apart.

Helicopters landed more than 1,000 men in rice fields 24 miles south of the city in an attempt to encircle a force estimated at more than 100 guerrillas.

Pope defends

CASTEL GANDOLFO — (AP) — Pope Paul defended his ban on artificial birth control again Sunday and asked God's blessing to convert those who oppose it.

Addressing the crowd assembled at his summer residence for his Sunday blessing, the Pope said his July 29 encyclical has drawn varying reactions throughout the world.

"And may all those who oppose it be blessed, so that their conscience may be illuminated and guided by moral, true and superior doctrinal rectitude," he added.

Humphrey sees huge support

Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, expressing confidence he'll win the Democratic presidential nomination on the first ballot has pegged his delegate strength at 1,600 votes.

Before his election as governor in January, 1967, Maddox, 52, became known as the Atlanta restaurant owner who closed rather than comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act to serve Negroes.

He was shown in photographs brandishing a pistol at would-be Negro customers and handing out axe handles to whites.

And Gov. Lester Maddox, a Democrat who supported Barry Goldwater in 1964, says he may make the Democratic party race for president a four-way affair by running himself. He said he wants to show Americans the party "offers more than liberal and socialists."

The governor will head Georgia's 42-vote delegation to the Democratic convention. The Democratic nomination in Chicago in two weeks will require 1,312 votes and Humphrey was asked Sunday if his estimate of delegate strength means he thinks he has the first-ballot nomination sewed up.

"Let me tell you I feel rather relaxed," he replied. "I feel good. I think we ought to be looking forward to November." Maddox, who previously has expressed admiration for third party candidate George C. Wallace, branded all three declared Democratic candidates "liberals and socialists."

Seventh Sherbrooke Scout troop returns from PEI jaunt

IT'S NICE TO BE HOME — The 20-man Seventh Sherbrooke scout troop returned home Saturday afternoon after a two-week jaunt, roughing it in Prince Edward Island. The yellow bus in the background was the symbol of a trip which the boys won't forget for a long time to come. (Record photo)

The yellow bus turned into St. Patrick High School yard with all flags waving and the parents, brothers, sisters, relatives, friends and curious on-lookers watched in anticipation.

The boys were then treated to a day of deep-sea fishing with equipment provided by John Skinner, a local distributor.

Ojibwa which was docked in Charlottetown harbor. This was followed by three days of swimming and general relaxation on the campsite.

to help. When some canvassing broke, it was repaired at no extra cost. Ferry service for all the boys was free.

The 20 Scouts and four leaders, looking weary, tanned and happy after the troop's two-week tour of Prince Edward Island, paraded out of the bus under the scorching sun of the Saturday afternoon and were welcomed by those present.

The two previous draws brought about $900,000 profit each to city coffers. The scheme was devised by Mr. Drapeau to help offset a predicted budgetary deficit of $28,000,000 in fiscal 1968.

Mr. Bougie backed this up when he said that the Maritimers went out of their way

Mr. Bougie also pointed out with pride that they had eaten only one restaurant meal during the entire two weeks, and that was necessitated by the fact that they had to return home on time.

Andy Bougie, trip co-ordinator, wiped his brow and said, "We're all a little tired, but it was a great trip."

The following day, the troop was taken on a guided tour of the Canadian submarine HMCS

According to one Scout who had just stepped off the bus Saturday, the hospitality in the Maritimes was the most remarkable facet of the entire trip. "Everywhere we went, the people were waving and cheering us. It was great."

The boys loaded their gear into their parents' cars, said good-bye to their fellow troopers, and drove away to their respective homes.

The Scouts left Sherbrooke late Monday, July 22, after an official send-off by the mayor and made stops in Edmundston and Moncton, New Brunswick before they reached their destination: Charlottetown.

Arriving there on July 30, they were greeted by the mayor of Charlottetown to whom they presented a set of cuff links, courtesy of the city of Sherbrooke.

Mr. Bougie backed this up when he said that the Maritimers went out of their way

An hour later, the only signs of humanity on the school yard were a handful of newspapermen and photographers and the same curious onlookers who were now fully satisfied that something pretty good had just ended.

In return, that city's mayor gave them a plaque to take back home as well as free tickets to the summer theatre production of "Anne of Green Gables."

The day was topped off by a visit to Covehead Harbor and a fireside clambake, also organized by Mr. Skinner.

Oswald: "Your Dallas-based 'Orange Team' seems to be coming along mighty well."

Jim: "It isn't my team. It was organized by Ira Corn of Dallas in the hope that if a group of players worked steadily together they could develop unbeatable bidding methods. In furtherance of that idea Mike Lawrence has moved here from California, Bobby Wolff from San Antonio, Billy Eisenberg from New York and Bobby Goldman from Philadelphia. We haven't set the world on fire as yet but we are getting better and in our last two practice matches we have defeated a couple of very strong teams."

Oswald: "Lew Mathe's California team which you beat in June included Harold Guiver, Ron von der Porten, Don Krauss and Bob Hamman. Since four of that team have represented America in World's Championship play, you can't be accused of picking soft spots."

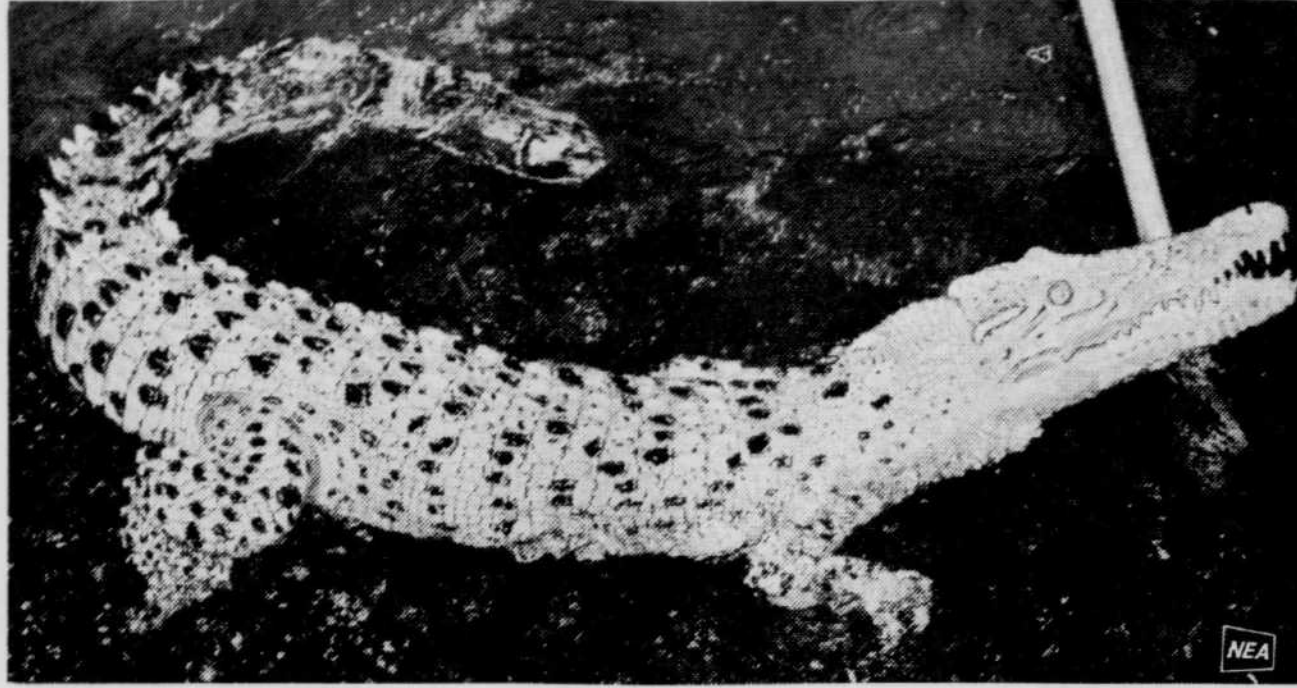

Jim: "Here is the first slam hand of the match. I was South and Bobby Wolff North."

Oswald: "It was not an easy slam to bid. You had to worry about your singleton spade and Bobby had only a singleton diamond. A lot of pairs might stop short of slam."

Jim: "They're far too good to miss a slam merely because of singletons. Both sides made seven because West had to protect both spades and hearts and let two clubs go, whereupon the club finesse brought in the whole suit."

Lennoxville gals send Indians to big fair

Sparked by the activities of a group of Lennoxville girls, four young Indian boys were treated to the day of their lives Friday when they visited Montreal and the site of Man and His World.

The reserve may never be the same.

The charitable project got off the ground about a month and a half ago, June 21 to be exact, when the girls of St. George's Junior Auxiliary put together a vivid stage production of The Song of Hiawatha.

The purpose of this theatrical venture was to raise enough money to send George Chescapio, a young Montagnais Indian from Schefferville, to Quebec Lodge Camp on Lake Massawippi for two weeks.

Well, as good things go, the young 'players' overshot their objective and collected about $125 with receipts and a concurrent raffle.

Near the end of July, then, George arrived at the camp and spent a pleasant two weeks among the sun and trees and water.

But the girls were left with a surplus of $15 and the question arose — what will it be spent on?

The answer came quickly. Why not take George to see Man and His World. Then it was discovered that there were three other young Indian boys at the Camp and the final project blossomed.

The funds, however, were insufficient for four so a note was written to Mayor Jean Drapeau, explaining their predicament and asking for help.

Back through the mails came four passes to the fair. So it was off to Montreal with George and his three friends: Andrew Elnish, George Guanish, and Judas Sandy. Mrs. John Bell, leader of the Lennoxville Auxiliary, and Rev. A. B. Slavert, Schefferville minister, accompanied them.

So the Song of Hiawatha did have a happy ending.

Will hold pollution talk Friday

In last Friday's Record, it was erroneously reported that a meeting would be held that night at the Community Hall, in North Hatley at which the question "Is Lake Massawippi Polluted?" would be discussed.

This town meeting open to anyone "who care enough to attend" will actually be held this coming Friday evening, 7:45 p.m. August 16.

Tony Lasauteur, a chemist attached to the Quebec Department of Health will be on hand to answer any relevant questions on the problem of pollution and its prevention or elimination.

Mr. Lasauteur was the man responsible for the organization of the anti-pollution campaigns at Lake Archambault, Lake Manitou and Lake Memphremagog.

The meeting has been arranged by the North Hatley Village Improvement society.

MARBLETON — (Staff) — Fairgoers in this tiny community can gratefully raise their hands up in thanks to the 'Somebody-up-there' who's partial to annual exhibitions.

The threatening skies which lurked over this year's Marbleton fair on Sunday never fulfilled their threat. The rain held up, and the hundreds of visitors, competitors, and exhibitors had an enjoyable day.

There was something for everyone. The ladies put up exhibitions of cooking, knitwork, fancy-sewing, and embroidery. Cattlemen from all over the area showed off their herds.

And the die-hard rough-riders put on a rodeo display that kept all eyes riveted on the central 'corral' during the afternoon.

A ferris wheel which revolved to the music of popular country-and-western crooners kept the kiddies amused as the crown and anchor wheel attracted these with enough loose change to make it interesting.

A peculiar tent which featured "grotesque displays" failed to arouse the expected interest although promises of a special "guillotine routine" and "nature's mistake" (half man, half woman) waved in the breezes.

Among the ladies, however, Mrs. Germain Royer of St. Camille stole the show, walking away with top prizes in the knitting, embroidery, weaving, sewing, and floral competitions.

The Robert family of Bishop-ton was only slightly less spectacular. Daughter Suzelle amassed the highest total of points in the cooking category, mother Mrs. Ephrem Robert wove the most attractive rug, and the children took all the ribbons in the special Children's Section which included painting, handicrafts and an old-time favorite: building with popsicle sticks.

Leading off the list of special prize-winners, George Etienne Girard of St. Fortunat won, for the second consecutive year, the Dominion Lime Silver Cup. This cup is awarded to the best hitched-up team of horses.

Weedon's Firmin Gagne carried away the Agricultural Society's trophy for the best horses exhibit. The best horse on the fair grounds belonged to Henri-Luc Poulin of Weedon.

Henri-Paul Cournoyer of Weedon proved himself to be the best over-all cattleman at the fair as he won the trophy for the best dairy cattle herd, the Purina Trophy for the best heifer in the competition, and the prize for the best Holstein calf on the site.

Winner of the Agricultural Society's trophy for the best beef herd was Raymond Nadeau of Marbleton. Alexandre Grenier of Bishop-ton won two, 50-pound packages of powdered milk for showing the best calf of the day.

The prize for the best dairy cow was won by Marbleton's Jules Giguere; best Ayrshire calf, Alexandre Grenier; best Hereford calf, Roland Lessard of Bishop-ton; and best Bacon Hog, Leopold Gouin of St. Camille.

The rodeo results were as follows:

Barrel Race: 1) Dancer, Bob Pare, St. Elie d'Orford; 2) Topper, Yvon Ouelette, Weedon.

Post Bending: 1) Dancer, Bob Pare; 2) Tequila, Bob Pare.

Pick-up Rider: 1) Fury, Gilles Tousignant, Weedon; 2) Dancer, Bob Pare.

Flag Race: 1) Dancer, Bob Pare; 2) Tequila, Bob Pare.

Women's Barrel Race: 1) Cleo, Christiane Savage, Weedon; 2) Dancer, Mrs. Camille Pare.

Pony Express: 1) King, Armand Marcotte, Stratford; 2) Jenny, Jean-Claude Nault, St. Adolphe.

Key-hole Race: 1) Topper, Yvon Ouelette; 2) Princess, Marc Gagne, Weedon.

Half-mile Race: 1) Topper, Yvon Ouelette; 2) King, Gaetan Marcotte, Stratford.

Special Class: 1) Tequila, Bob Pare; 2) Fury, Gilles Tousignant.

The trophies for the best horses of the day were handed out to Dancer, ridden by Bob Pare and Topper, ridden by Yvon Ouelette.

Temperature drops over weekend

Eastern townshippers over the weekend had a preview glance of nippy autumn evenings as the temperature skidded to 42.5 degrees at midnight Sunday.

A weather watcher at East Angus said the temperature plummeted to 45 degrees at midnight Sunday.

The chilly temperatures are apparently the result of a large mass of cool air currently over eastern Canada. The weatherman said a warming trend is expected today.

The shivery temperatures over the weekend were well spread as some areas throughout northwestern Quebec and northeastern Ontario registered drops to the freezing mark.

Warns about bogus bills

Royal Canadian Mounted Police officials have sent out a warning to everyone in the area to be on the lookout for counterfeit bills because of an increase in false bills found in circulation recently.

Corporal Real Denis of the Sherbrooke RCMP said the false bills are being found everywhere in this district, especially in Sherbrooke and Magog.

He explained they were mostly $10 and $20 bills and that about 10 a week were being turned up.

He said it was probably a group of individuals who obtained the bogus bills in Montreal who were putting them in circulation and said he didn't think it was the work of a large organization.

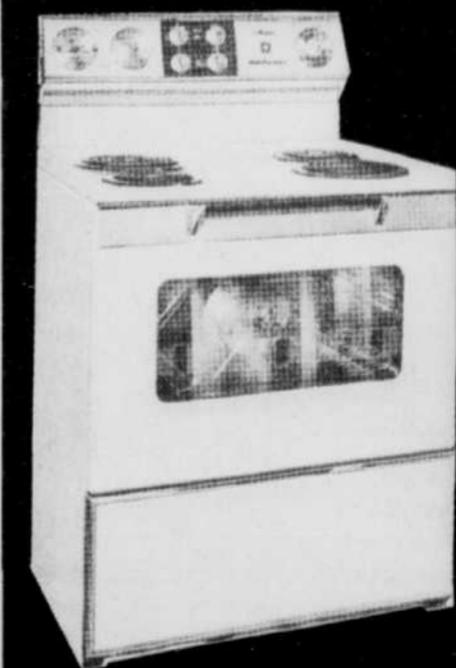

Cpl. Denis pointed out many points to study when trying to identify a bill as legal or counterfeit.

The best way, he said, was to compare the suspect bill with a real one of any denomination. Check the face of the Queen on both bills, the corporal said. On the real bill, her face seems alive, it is clearer.

On a counterfeit bill, her face seems dull, it misses what Cpl. Denis called "that third dimension."

The color of a bogus bill is paler than a real bill's. The little green spots on a real bill can be taken off with a pen-knife. They seem to be superimposed upon the bill. On a bogus bill, these spots are missing or are printed onto the bill and cannot be scraped off.

Public relations part of fire department job

Not too many people connect a fire department with public relations.

But an important part of the work of the Sherbrooke Fire Department is very much concerned with public relations. Some of it takes the form of public education on matters of fire prevention — a program that reaches its peak in October during fire prevention week.

Other equally important parts of the program involve demonstrations given by the department periodically to school age children. One such example was the demonstration put on at an East Ward park early last week. A small wooden shack was set on fire, under close department supervision, and children were invited to help a fireman handle the hose to put the flames out.

Big fire trucks then roared up to the park, and a fireman was lofted into the air aboard an aerial ladder.

All of this, of course, is very exciting and very glamorous as far as the youngsters are concerned. But a continuing program of this kind, accompanied as it is by fire prevention information disguised as games and songs, gives youngsters a very real awareness of the importance of a fire department to their lives, and of the dangers from fire that exist everywhere.

There are not very many metropolitan fire departments that regularly conduct fire prevention programs for children as imaginatively and as effectively as the Sherbrooke department does.

Perhaps more should emulate our public-relations conscious smoke-eaters.

Our fire department's reputation, both nationally and internationally, is an extremely good one. In large measure this is due not so much to its actual fire-fighting prowess as to its success in fire prevention.

Up generation sings out

On Wednesday and Thursday 160 young and concerned people from all over the world will express their convictions in song.

The young men and women who belt out the strong and joyous songs of the Up With People program are more than just singers, they represent the members of the young generation of the world who are deeply concerned with the world's problems but have not despaired of solutions.

Up With People started in the United States two-and-a-half years ago when 130 young men and women concerned about the world's future decided to do something about it.

They saw as the greatest problem in the U.S. the lack of motivation in their own generation.

Since then the singers have toured the five continents and criss-crossed the United States. There are now three international casts of 150 singers each touring the world. The group performing at the University of Sherbrooke for example have just returned from a tour in the Congo.

These young people present a new and buoyant image of young America as they sing out the hopes and desires of modern youth throughout the world.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Amati, Guarneri and Stradivari families, who worked in Cremona, Italy, from the 16th to the 18th centuries, created the world's best violins, notes The World Almanac. Their secret, in part, was absence of haste. They sun-dried carefully chosen Balkan wood; they gave their fabled varnishes time to sink in; and they were great artisans dedicated to making the best possible musical instruments.

Few changes expected Ottawa quiet on possibility of Nixon winning the presidency

By HENRY HEALD

OTTAWA (CP) — Official comment on the Republican nomination victory of Richard M. Nixon and the possibility of a Nixon presidency is almost non-existent in Ottawa.

In government offices the many civil servants who deal with the U.S. are taking a wait-and-see attitude. Few expect any significant changes in Canada-U.S. relations if Mr. Nixon wins the U.S. presidency in November.

Views of parliamentarians cover the whole spectrum from "he is a dangerous man, he would be the most reactionary president the U.S. ever had" to "relations under his presidency would be favorably improved."

One veteran MP called Mr. Nixon "arrogant" and said he acts as though Canada doesn't exist. Asked how Mr. Nixon and Prime Minister Trudeau would get along together, this same MP said "Nixon wouldn't know what to do with Mr. Trudeau — they live in different worlds."

Relations between Canadian prime ministers and U.S. presidents have always been cordial, but not always friendly. Prime Minister Diefenbaker got along well with President Eisenhower, but didn't hit it off so well with President Kennedy. Prime Minister Pearson got along famously with Mr. Kennedy, but raised President Johnson's hackles with his call for a pause in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

It is in the field of relations with Communist countries and East-West trade that strains might increase between the two countries. Despite the image-rebuilding Mr. Nixon has undergone since he started his political comeback two years ago, the feeling persists in Ottawa that he is a politician of a by-gone era.

One view is that he has the stereotyped, inflexible approach of an earlier decade of U.S. politicians; that his views reflect the beginning of the cold war period.

SEEK CONTROLS The Republican party platform calls for strict controls of exports of strategic goods and East-West trade only with Communist countries that prove by their actions that they genuinely seek world peace.

This strong, anti-Communist view has also been reflected in Mr. Nixon's speeches. But Canada's trading patterns with Communist-bloc countries are well established and fresh U.S. pressures are not foreseen under a Republican president. In the event of a new Canadian initiative in East-West trade or a decision to recognize Communist China, a Nixon administration might react more strongly than the present or a future Democratic president.

The Republican platform also calls for freer trade with the free world, hard-headed bargaining to lower tariff barriers, strengthening the dollar by adjusting overseas commitments and by restraints on government spending rather than by restraints on investment.

But the party platform is not binding on the candidate and not much change is expected in economic relations. President Johnson's balance-of-payments program is working and is as satisfactory to U.S. businessmen as it is to Canada.

Richard Nixon is no stranger to Canada and has dealt with the Canadian government as legal counsel for U.S. business promoter John Shaheen. He developed a close friendship with Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland and the two visited Finland and Russia together.

How to build one Igloos are still the 'in' thing

BATHURST INLET, N.W.T. (CP) — In this inlet 650 miles north of the Arctic Circle, igloos are the "in" accommodation—even if they don't measure up to NHA standards.

Don't worry about it collapsing. The higher you get, the better they stick together. At least, they do when Eskimos build one.

COLD AIR TRAPPED

Eskimos in the Arctic still use the snowhouses in the winter because they are warm and comfortable when it's 50 below outside, and they can be replaced in a matter of hours.

After the centre block is fitted —by pushing it up from below and juggling it into position—a door is cut on a side which the wind blows across.

The Eskimos use about 40 blocks for a house to hold a family of four, and about 20 blocks if there are no children in the family.

Next step is the sleeping platform.

Each block weighs about 30 pounds and measures approximately two feet high by six inches thick. Length depends on the builder. The block should be just long enough for comfortable handling.

Size is determined by lying down with your feet extended to the wall opposite the door. Then remove the snow to a depth of two feet in a trench between your head and the door. This makes a trap for cold air.

While the natives have the knack of laying the first row of blocks in a seemingly perfect circle, beginners should use a stake and some twine to draw a circle in the snow.

Supplies, grub box and primus stove are kept in the cold trap.

SNOW IS PROBLEM

There is one problem. That's finding the right kind of snow. "Iglukhak" as the Eskimos call it, is hard to find at the best of times.

Warm air from the stove rises and heats the upper portion of the igloo, where the sleeping platform is. Cold air stays in the trap.

When you walk on iglukhak, there's a characteristic creaking sound best described as being like the noise you get by dragging a finger across an inflated balloon.

With sleeping bags and a mattress of sorts—preferably a double layer of caribou hide—you're all set for a comfortable night.

Blocks cut from soft snow or from a hard drift of many layers will crumble and break.

Kent Island, N.B. petrels are strange birds, says professor KENT ISLAND, N.B. (CP) — A wonderful bird is the pelican, says part of the popular rhyme, but petrels are much stranger.

Dr. Charles E. Huntington, associate professor of biology at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Me., can vouch for this. He visits Kent Island every summer to study sea birds, including the shy petrel.

The nesting area is a narrow strip 1 1/4 miles long in the Grand Manan archipelago off Maine's Bay of Fundy coast. It was presented to Bowdoin in 1935 by John Sterling Rockefeller of New York City for use as a scientific station. He bought it a few years earlier to provide a protected breeding place for the eider duck.

Dr. Huntington joined the Bowdoin faculty in 1953 and was appointed station director. One research program related to Leach's petrel, among approximately 80 species of petrels ranging all the oceans.

Of the North Atlantic species the most common are the storm-petrel and the Leach's, or fork-tailed, petrel, named after a British Museum director in the early 19th century.

LIVE OFF SEA
Leach's petrel, dark-colored and about eight inches long, prefers northern areas for breeding grounds and in summer is found along the shores of the Arctic Ocean, the Bering Sea and Labrador. Up to 10,000 nest on Kent Island, also the home of some 30,000 herring gulls.

The Leach's petrels get all their food from the sea and nest on islands where predatory mammals cannot reach them, as isolation is their only defence. Because they live in remote places, most facts of their life history were unknown for many years. The Maine professor, 48, who graduated from Yale in 1942 and received a doctor-of-philosophy degree in zoology from that university in 1952, obtained considerable information by catching the birds in their burrows and in nets and banding them, as well as observing them in the dark with an infra-red "snooper-scope".

Two legends disproved long ago were that the oceanic birds lay their eggs at sea and hatch them under their wings and that when tired they float on their backs, using the wigs for sails.

In early June the male petrels fly to Kent Island after journeys all over the Atlantic from the Equator to Iceland. The species spend most of their lives far out at sea, coming to land only to breed.

ONE EGG ANNUALLY
The males dig turf burrows in tunnel form often three feet or more long. Then females flying over the island are enticed by calls from below. Only one white egg a year results from each mating and incubation occupies both birds more than 40 days, each sitting on the egg four consecutive days in turn.

The chicks, concealed in the burrows, require more than 50 days before they can leave, meaning about 100 days for the whole process. Burrow visits by the food provider are only at night.

One hypothesis for the single egg a year, says Prof. Huntington, is that it is nature's way of maintaining the population at a stable level. He thinks the petrels may locate their own burrows by smell but how they find their way to a tiny island in thick fog on a moonless night is still unknown.

Their life span could be up to 15 years. Few have been banded as nestlings to determine the age when breeding begins, but it is believed never less than four years.

Bowdoin College is the only institution of its kind owning a facility such as Kent Island, where the tremendous Bay of Fundy tides constantly renew plankton food.

"Kent Island research has made the name of Bowdoin known to ornithologists in parts of the world where Bowdoin would never be heard of otherwise," Prof. Huntington says.

The station has seven buildings, including a laboratory.

Hats make fashion comeback via berets

NEW YORK (CP) — If millinery is to survive as a fashion feature it can thank the beret and leather.

Hats used to be as important as the costume. Medieval ladies and courtiers always wore interesting headgear. Ill-fated Queen Marie Antoinette of France owned hundreds of hats. Edwardian matrons wore cartwheel-brimmed creations with feathers even in the daytime.

The Second World War dealt a severe blow to hats. Kerchiefs were donned by women working in factories. Money went for war bonds rather than hats and finery.

After the war, fashionable women still considered hats essential for restaurant wear, for cocktail parties and even for shopping. Then came the supermarkets where casual dress, even to slacks and a sweater, ousted the dictum that hat were worn while shopping.

The final blow came with the beehive hairdos. Women didn't want to pay for those back-combed, high-riding sets and immediately crush them down by a hat. The millinery trade reeled and has never completely rallied. Fashion still insists that a hat is essential for the total look of a costume but many women have rebelled.

millinery. But now they have almost assumed the role of a hat.

Furthermore, a whole teenage generation has grown up without the hat habit, except for church.

Then, presto, last fall a movie brought the beret back. Suddenly all the teen-agers wanted the beret that Bonnie Parker wore in Bonnie and Clyde. The beret was back indeed. Wearing berets, the youngsters discovered a new fact to them—a hat can be important.

pletely profile style in black leather. A pouff beret is tight to the forehead. Another slightly tilted style is in white stitched leather.

Mr. John has a halo beret worn straight on, at the back of the head. Several fur berets made dramatic appearances, including a Russian sable. A red velvet beret for late-day was edged with gold nail heads.

Leather: Leather is used in many shapes besides the beret. These include a white dough boy, a mushroom shape, a high toque, a padre and, of course, the popular fedora.

Fur Hats: Fur will continue to dominate the winter scene. This year it takes on lavish proportions. Mr. John, for example, took six Russian sable skins for a huge portrait hat, to sell for about $800. Others were more modest as to size and price. Adolfo used grey lamb for a Nehru toque. Mink appeared in everything from cloches to halos. Even opossum and fox are used. Several milliners included matching fur muffs.

Late-Day: Velvets with feathers seem to lead the parade. A black velvet cap is flirty with black ostrich sprays; a wine velvet combines jet and feathers.

This year, too, leather became fashion's darling. It seemed natural to wed the beret to leather. Then, with Prime Minister Trudeau photographed wearing leather jacket and hat, the rush was definitely on. Leather fedoras were added to both male and female wardrobes. Hats are staging a big revival and the milliners are happy again.

But it's a cautious jubilation. The hat-wearing public may prove fickle again.

VARIETY PREVAILS
Hats are definitely important for this fall and winter and here are the trends as viewed at the showing by the Millinery Institute of America:

WIGS WORN INSTEAD
Then, too, foreign travel added to the millinery decline. More and more tourists were going to Europe and discovering that women there didn't wear hats. England was the last hold-out but now even English women are appearing in elegant restaurants without hats.

Also, to be well hatted usually meant travelling with two or three hats. You needed at least one hatbox to accommodate them and every extra piece of luggage is a nuisance.

Finally came wigs. At first they were a minor threat to her dress.

Miss Janice Curtis, as maid of honor for her sister, was in a princess-line pale pink dress of bonded crepe, trimmed with tiny embroidered flowers. Her headdress was a pillbox of matching fabric and nylon net and she carried a nosegay of white pompon mums, variegated pink carnations and fern.

The bridesmaid, Miss Doreen Tryon, cousin of the bride, wore a dress and headdress identical to that of the maid of honor, but in bright rose pink.

Mr. Ken Douglas, brother of the groom, acted as best man and the usher was Mr. Bill Curtis, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Curtis, chose a blue and green print A-line dress, beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses and carnations.

Mrs. Douglas, the groom's mother, wore a rose print shift dress and white accessories. Her corsage was of roses and carnations.

Rev. Mr. Jackson officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the wedding music, which included 'O Perfect Love' during the signing of the register, was played by Miss Joan Weir, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length princess-line gown of white chevron pique with German guipure lace trim, featuring a scoop neckline and soft gathers at the waist sides. Her long sleeved fitted over-jacket was also of lace and her shoulder length veil of scalloped nylon tulle was held by a head-piece of fabric flowers and pearls. She carried a crescent bouquet of delicate pink roses surrounded by white carnations, stephanotis and trailing ivy. The bride designed and made

Unsuccessful ocean-crossers found

HALIFAX (CP) — Two Toronto actors were heading back to port here early today in a fishing trawler after their attempted crossing of the Atlantic in a balloon ended in failure.

Mark Winters, 35, and Jerry Kostur, 29, left the shoreline near here at 8:16 p.m. (ADT) Saturday in a 15-foot reinforced plastic boat hung beneath a helium-filled balloon.

About 24 hours later, the air-sea rescue centre here reported that the balloonists had been spotted in the water about 45 miles east southeast of Halifax by a Canadian Forces Argus aircraft returning from patrol.

The centre said the Argus was asked to fly over the area after residents at Tangier, N.S., reported seeing something on the horizon.

The Karen Dawn, a fishing trawler in the area, picked up the two men and took their boat in tow about 11:30 p.m. (ADT). They were reported in good condition. There was no immediate word on how they were forced into the sea.

The discovery of the downed balloon ended hours of mystery surrounding their location. They had last been sighted Saturday night about 45 miles from Harlow's Point—the nearby department of national defence property where their launching site was established—by a Canadian Forces Albatross aircraft.

SEE FLARES
Early Sunday, the tanker Imperial Quebec reported sighting distress flares off Sheet Harbor, N.S., near the area where the balloonists were found. However, a search of the area by a helicopter failed to find anything.

Jim Thomson of Toronto, ground crew chief, flew out on a private plane Sunday morning, but a four-hour search failed to spot the balloon.

The two men expected the trip would take about two weeks. They had hoped to land on the British Isles, the European continent or Africa, setting records as the first to cross the Atlantic in a balloon, the longest balloon flight over water and the longest balloon flight by Canadians.

The take-off Saturday night followed several snags which delayed them for 12 hours.

Mr. Kostur said he had had about 95 hours flight time in balloon, while Mr. Winters had a little more.

NORTHERN AND CENTRAL GAS Corp expects a new price bid soon in its negotiations for the import of liquefied natural gas from Algeria, President E. C. Bovey says. A difference of about seven cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas separates proposals between the company and Societe Petroliere International. Mr. Bovey says his company believes a compromise is possible and is hopeful of receiving a counter-proposal "quite soon." The deal could result in an order for between 300,000,000 and 400,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day.

N. W. T. firefighters regroup during calm

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Calm weather allowed firefighters to regroup and strengthen firebreaks Sunday but no one feels out of danger from a forest fire threatening this community of 2,500 persons on two sides.

A drought has left surrounding timberland and a muskog round-cover so dry a spark from any of countless small, smouldering blazes can cause a flareup. One broke out Sunday 150 yards from the town's hospital. Inuvik is about 1,200 miles north of Edmonton.

Tom Butters, publisher of Inuvik's weekly newspaper, The Drum, described the forest fire's two major blazes as like crouching giants. The slightest breeze whips them to life.

Only 1-5 of an inch of rain has fallen here in the last three months, although annual precipitation averages more than a foot.

Mr. Butters said that 80 persons cut off from the town Saturday were able to return Sunday afternoon. The fire passed through an eight-acre national defence installation, leaving several radio antennas damaged, and skirted the north end of the town. None of the 80 were injured.

The northern fire, or hotspot, went by less than half a mile from a Hudson's Bay Co. warehouse where about 70 per cent of Inuvik's winter food supply is stored.

Mr. Butters said the only way the fire will be extinguished in the muskog is by heavy winter snowfall.

An Otter waterbomber, sent Sunday from Yellowknife, 600 miles southeast, was prevented by a foot-high pall of smoke from flying more than a few token runs.

A witness told Mr. Butters that one water load dropped by the Otter turned to steam before reaching the fire.

The fire swept out of the Actic barrens southeast of Inuvik late last week, headed directly for the town. A wind shift sent it east of the town, leaving smaller blazes behind it. The town now has been more than half encircled by the fire.

ROTARY OUTING — Members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club enjoyed an unusual meeting Saturday when they gathered with their wives at the farm home of president Paul Nadeau near Waterville for a day of swimming, horseback riding and other outdoor activities. Here, presiding over the supper period at which box chicken lunches were served, are, front, little Francois Nadeau; from the left, Mr. Nadeau, Mrs. Nadeau, vice-president Wilf Crowley and Doug Patrick, of Pat's, who provided the chicken dinner. Former ball player hits out at Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Robinson, quitting as an aide to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, says he'll back any Democrat against Richard Nixon.

His turnout highlights the expressed unhappiness of some Negro Republicans with the Republican ticket in the Nov. 5 presidential election.

Robinson, 49, who broke the color line in major league baseball, said Sunday that Nixon heads a ticket that is "racist in nature" and that the former vice-president "has prostituted himself and sold himself out to the bigots in the South."

The former Brooklyn Dodgers great declared:

"I intend... to support the Democratic nominee, and pray to God that every black man and every minority in this country does the same thing."

BLACK MAN FIRST
"I'm a black man first, and American second and then I will support a political party—third."

Dissatisfaction with his own party was expressed by one Negro delegate to the Republican convention in Miami Beach, Fla., who commented at a private meeting: "The black voter has generally been disenchanted with the Republican party for so long that, in order for the Republicans to recapture any significant numbers of blacks, they will have to offer far more than they have to date."

Negro Republican resentment against the Republican ticket sometimes centered about the selection of Maryland Gov. Spiro Agnew as Nixon's running mate.

William Walker, an alternate delegate from Cleveland, said of Agnew: "The thing that disturbs me is how his selection was brought about. This was done by Nixon selling out to South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond."

Wendell Freeland, an alternate from Pittsburgh, termed the choice of Agnew "a horrible mistake."

But other Negroes expressed support.

FIGHTS FROM WITHIN
Chester Gillespie, delegate from Ohio, has urged Negroes to stay within the Republican party "and fight for what is right." He said "it is stupid for all Negroes to be Democrats."

Alvin Dyson, an alternate from Richmond, Va., said: "We can live with the ticket and work with it."

If Nixon is elected, Robinson said: "I am firmly convinced that there is going to be more violence, simply because of the threats that he's making in terms of law and order."

"Mr. Nixon has said to us that there must be order in this country before there is progress. I think it's just the other way around."

In 1964, Robinson refused to endorse the candidacy of Barry Goldwater and campaigned for President Johnson.

Watts people fire at police

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police said Watts residents fired on officers as a disturbance broke out late Sunday night after a festival commemorating the third anniversary of the Watts rioting in which 34 died.

Police Chief Tom Reddin said one civilian was killed. Three police officers and two other civilians were reported treated for gunshot wounds.

Shooting continued into the early hours today spreading over 20 blocks of the 98-per-cent Negro area.

The policemen were not wounded seriously, doctors said.

Lieut. George Morrison called the disturbance "a planned attack" that began when persons threw rocks and bottles at six officers directing traffic.

Morrison said a crowd of about 1,000 at the festival dropped to the ground as officers moved to disperse it, then rushed the policemen.

AUTOMATIC WEAPONS
Police reinforcements were "met by a heavy burst of fire from automatic weapons," Morrison said.

Authorities said the initial rock-and-bottle throwing led rapidly to shooting and arson.

People cursed as police cars with windows protected by metal plates cruised the streets on the fringe of the area. A police helicopter flew about 500 feet overhead searching the ground with a brilliant spotlight.

Police cordoned off several blocks centring on the park, just down the street from the area devastated by 1965 rioting that destroyed $40,000,000 in property.

FORT SMITH, N.W.T.—(CP) — Northern Development Minister Chretien was to arrive here today in the wake of a massive landslide feared to have taken one life. Damage is estimated at $250,000 and officials fear additional slides.

Mrs. Peter Ferguson, missing since Friday, was not found Sunday in the remains of her home, which overturned when it toppled down a hill to lowland bordering the Slave River. The river borders the western edge of the community of 2,500 persons.

Herbs basis of modern medicine says herbalist

EDMONTON (CP) — Brokers, university professors, social workers and "even a nurse" are among the customers of New Life Herbs, says proprietor Edward Low-On.

Mr. Low-On, whose father started as a herbalist in Calgary in 1917, says herbs are the basis of modern medicine.

"The type of society we live in is a stress-producing one. People come into my shop with emotional strain from political, religious and social pressures, to name a few."

The shop does most of its business in nerve tonics. Ginseng root, the main ingredient, may cost as much as $40 an ounce.

To become a qualified herbalist, Mr. Low-On spent a year at a wholesale herb outlet in Toronto learning the basics of blending and grinding.

He says there is no such thing as an instant cure.

"I must rely on what can be done for each customer in a two- or four-week period. I then estimate or evaluate the individual's personal reaction to the herbs."

DAVID J. REID, OF SUFFIELD, CONN., Formerly of Bedford

BEDFORD — The death occurred on July 21 of David Jack Reid of Suffield, Conn., a former resident of Bedford, who, together with Mrs. Reid, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ross Preston in Bedford. Mr. Reid, who was apparently in good health, died suddenly.

He was in his 79th year. Born in Scotland, Mr. Reid came to Massachusetts with his parents when two years old, and spent his early years in Pittsfield, Mass. Entering the employ of the Torrington Company of Torrington, Conn. Mr. Reid came to Bedford on his appointment as manager of the local factory, following the purchase of the Corey Needle Company of Manchester, N.H., of which the Bedford plant was a portion. At that time the plant was small, employing less than one hundred, today it has been greatly enlarged and has 500 employees.

During his residence of over 50 years in Bedford, Mr. Reid was a most public-spirited citizen, serving as mayor of the town also as a member of the local school board and was a staunch supporter of St. James Anglican Church. On his retirement from the Torrington Company, Mr. and Mrs. Reid lived at their home on the Stanbridge Station Road, until five years ago when they went to live in Suffield, Conn. Their departure from Bedford was deeply regretted by their many friends here and in the surrounding district. Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. Reid celebrated their golden wedding anniversary by a trip around the world.

A memorial service was held on July 23 at three o'clock at the D.ion Funeral Parlors, which was largely attended by friends and Torrington employees. The funeral was held the following afternoon at Suffield, Conn., with interment in Suffield. Officiating at the service in Bedford was the Rev. Kenneth Trickey, rector of St. James Church, which for so many years Mr. Reid had attended.

In addition to his wife, the former Florence Perkins, Torrington, Conn., Mr. Reid is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Barbara Scott Payne of Bethesda, Md., Mrs. Elizabeth Buss of Wheland, Mass.; and a son, David J. Reid, of Suffield, Conn.

Mr. Reid is also survived by his youngest brother, Charles Reid, of North Adams, Mass. He was predeceased by three sisters, Margaret, Jean and Agnes and by two brothers, William Reid, president of the Torrington Company of Torrington, Conn., and John Reid, of Amherst, Mass.

Painting CNR Iron Horse is agent's hobby

ST. JACOBS, Ont. (CP) — The Iron Horse may never be seen again on Canada's railways but it lives on canvas.

Douglas King, station agent-operator at the CNR station at this community about 10 miles northwest of Kitchener, has plenty of time to indulge in his favorite hobby — capturing the romantic age of steam on canvas.

Mr. King, 51, has had ample time to study the iron beasts during his 16 years with the CNR although he has little training in painting.

"I attended the night school classes at Elmira high school but that's the only formal training I've had."

He has painted six of the 10 basic types of engines the CNR used—the Hog, Mikado, Hudson, Northern, the mountain type and the switcher.

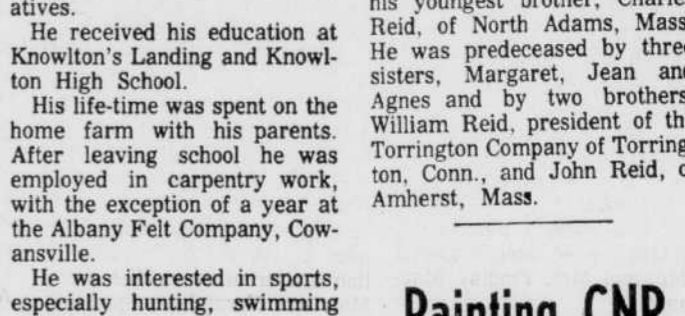

He tries to make them come alive, painting them in action. One picture shows the 4100 series double-heading a heavy drag around a lakeshore. Another shows two engines working in a switching yard.

Mr. King takes great care with the accuracy of his paintings.

"I don't want an old railroad buff to see these and find something wrong with them technically," he said.

"I'd like to go into commercial art," he said. But a wistful look comes into his eyes when he glances at his first love—the big trains of a soon-to-be-forgotten era when steam was king of the road.

The first contingent of 500 left in mid-July for the island off Cuba's south coast which legend says was the site of Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island.

Renamed the Isle of Youth, the island now is being run by young Communists with the aim of building Cuba's first all-Communist society. Ten tent cities have been constructed with dining halls, nurseries, recreation centres and health services.

DRIVING FINISH — Adios Caretaker, (4), is seen nosing out Morry Dares, (3) at the wire in the main dash on the racing card last evening at the Sherbrooke Race Track. The Ayotte

Adios Caretaker wins Invitation Pace in 2:08 1/5, Morry Dares good second Adios Caretaker, owned by Clement Ayotte and driven by Ernest Herbert, emerged the winner in the Dumas Service Station Invitation Pace at the Sherbrooke Race Track Sunday evening before 1,136 fans. It was a wide-open battle between the winner and Fern Desrochers, who teamed Morry Dares to finish a close second. Yves Baillargeon's A. G. Mir set the early pace but faded badly in the second half to trail the six-horse field under the wire. Gilles Jutras, who was driving A. G. Mir, caused a recall in the first attempt when he couldn't hold his steed. On the second try Jutras got his horse on the gate and the field got away in good style. The three favorites in the class finished out in front with Adios Caretaker leading and Deauville Stable's Morry Dares second and Guy Jutras' Abe Campbell pulling in third. The field went to the half in 1:04.4 to come back in 1:03.2 for a 2:08.1 mile. In the third race Poulin's Speed Lasso fell on the final turn right in front of Stanley Kidd, who was driving Deane Cash. It was on the first trip around and both horses fell throwing the drivers but no one was hurt except for a slight shake-up. The biggest payoff of the evening was in the fifth race when Herbert's Yonder Way emerged the winner. He paid $43.20, $13.70 and $16 across the board. Numbers one and six were the lucky ones on the Sunday card as the horses with the former number finished ahead of the field three times while the six pulled in front on four occasions.

In the other semi-final the Athletics of Drummondville rolled over the Indians to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven affair. The A's are rated to take their series in straight games. The Olympics turned in one of their better games with John Hansen, Jean-Pierre Groulx and Richard Dagenais chalking up two goals each. The team was at their best and they held their own with the heavy checking Braves. Each club dished out some hard checks while being on the receiving end also. Jean Franche, Andre Despard, Denis Dagenais, Bobby Dagenais and Remi Fleury notched the others for the

Sher-Lenn Little League ends season, All-Stars in Windsor

Indians winning 11-5 and Twins taking a 9-7 win over Yankees, finished out the regular league season of the Sher-Lenn Little League, Friday night. The league play-offs now are set with Indians meeting Tigers and Red Sox taking on the Yankees in the semi-finals which will be a two-out-of-three series. The Sher-Lenn Little League All-Star team departed for Windsor, Ontario, on Saturday evening to take part in the Dominion Finals. They meet Ontario Champions Tuesday evening the game starting at 6 p.m. A large crowd assembled at the Parade Grounds to see the youngsters off and wish them luck. The boys were pretty excited over the plane trip to Windsor and were all set to give a good account of themselves in the finals. Two years ago the Sher-Lenn All-Stars took part in the finals at Victoria and only lost out by a single run. Coach Amedee Roy is hoping that lady luck will ride with them this year and that they go on to Williamsport. Coach Roy will probably have Norman Houle on the mound with Pierre Provencher behind the plate, at first base will be Yves Longpre, at second base

Denis Rose, at third Robert Laforest and at shortstop Roger Roy. The outfield will see Denis Choquette, Conrad Deschens and Randy Warner. This team has chalked up six wins on the road to Windsor and are hoping to take the big one on Tuesday. In Friday's games the Indians did not have too much trouble with the Red Sox but it was noticed that Amedee Roy was giving his younger players an outing and they played very well against their strong opponents. Longpre, playing first base for the Indians got three hits, two of them home runs. Young J. C. Roy, pitching for the Red Sox, also connected for a homer. It was 2-2 at the end of the first inning, 7-2 for Indians at the end of two, 7-5 after four and they got four runs in the last two innings to take the decision. Yankees with a chance to take over third spot in the final standing muffed their chance by losing a close 9-7 loss to the Twins. Bases on balls issued by the Yankees pitchers Goyette and Wells and errors were a big factor in the Yankee loss. It was a tied ball game at the end of two, 6-2 for Twins at the end of three. Twins added two more in their part of the third. Yankees made an attempt in the sixth to get back in the game. In the sixth they got four runs but lost out 9-7. Goyette had a home run for Yankees as did Labbe for Twins. Red Sox 202 100—5 6 3 Indians 250 31x—11 12 1 J. P. Roy and D. Roy; Lambert and Halle. Tigers sweep two from Red Sox to extend lead

In this age of specialization Detroit's Gates Brown has found his niche. His specialty is destroying Boston Red Sox. Brown did it twice Sunday as the Tigers stretched their American League lead to a fast seven games with a 5-4, 6-5 sweep over the Red Sox. In the first game Brown tagged a 14th inning pitcher homer for the winning run. It was his fourth pinch-hitting appearance against Boston this season and his third homer. The other time he only doubled. In the nightcap, Detroit manager Mayo Smith played unfairly, inserting Brown in the starting line-up. Sure enough, Gates delivered a ninth-inning single that climaxed a four-run rally and gave the Tigers the sweep. Elsewhere, Minnesota walloped New York Yankees 11-2, California rocked Baltimore 11-1, Oakland whipped Washington 8-3 and Cleveland swept a doubleheader from Chicago White Sox 6-1 and 2-1.

LOLICH GETS WIN

Brown, who batted only 91 times last season and has been to the plate just 52 times this season, connected against reliever Lee Stange in the first game and made a winner of Mickey Lolich. Before Brown connected, Wayne Comer and Bill Freehan had homered, helping the Tigers wipe out Boston's early bulge. Joe Foy and Dalton Jones tagged two-run homers for the Red Sox. Two Reggie Smith homers had helped Boston to a 5-2 lead in the second game before the Tigers rallied in the ninth. Jim Price walked and moved up on Freehan's single. Then consecutive singles by Dick McAuliffe, Mickey Stanley and Al Kaline
