Malenkov Says In Funeral Oration That Policy Of New Government Is One Of Peace

Calls, However, For Uncompromising Struggle Against External And Internal Enemies.

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

Moscow — (AP) — The body of Joseph V. Stalin was entombed today in Lenin's mausoleum on Red square after his successor, Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov, in a funeral oration said his new government's foreign policy is one of peace.

Speaking beside the bier of the dead leader of world communism, Malenkov declared in ringing tones that the Soviet Union desires international co-operation and business ties with all countries, and that the chief task of his government is to prevent a new world war.

Malenkov called on the Soviet people, also, for an "uncompromising struggle against external and internal enemies." It is their "sacred duty," he told the Russians, to "strengthen the Soviet armed forces and maintain their readiness against enemy attacks."

He was echoed by his chief deputy premier, Lavrenti P. Beria, who said the Soviet soldiers "have modern equipment and are able to ward off any aggression."

"Our enemies think our loss will bring disarray to our ranks They will be disappointed," he declared. The No. 3 man in the new government, V. M. Molotov, was the third funeral speaker.

Stalin's coffin was moved on a gun carriage to the flower-banked Red Square just before 1 a.m. today Moscow time from the Hall of Columns of the House of Trade Unions, where it had lain in state since Friday, the day after his death.

There millions of sorrowing Soviet citizens had filed past the bier to say farewell to the man who in 29 years at the head of the Soviet government had become a god to them.

A vast throng stood silent as military bands played Chopin's funeral march and the cortege made its slow way to the rostrum at the mausoleum. On the rostrum were party and government leaders, top communists from Russia's allies—including Chinese communist Premier Chou-En-lai —and diplomatic representatives.

The top leaders of the Soviet communist party and the government carried the coffin to a white-draped platform. After the orations, they slowly descended from the platform, bearing the coffin to the mausoleum, as the Soviet anthem was played.

At noon, the hour of interment, every steam whistle in the Soviet Union blew for five minutes and the big cities across the country rocked with artillery salutes in Stalin's memory.

Then, as the nation's leaders returned to the platform, troops of the Moscow garrison and of the funeral cortege marched past the mausoleum, paying last honors.

The bodies of Lenin and Stalin will lie in the mausoleum until construction of a vast new pantheon—a shrine of communist "immortals"—is built for them and for other dead Soviet leaders.

Malenkov's oration was his first pronouncement of his new government's program. He said he supports the doctrine of Lenin and Stalin that capitalist and socialist countries can long live in peaceful "co-existence and competition" with one another.

He called also for further strengthening of the Soviet state and its armed forces, and of friendship between the Soviet nationalities, with Communist China, and with the "peoples' democracies" allied with the Soviet Union.

His government and the Communist party, he continued, must and will develop Soviet industry and agriculture and improve the material, cultural and living standards of the people.

The new premier demanded party unity on the home front and an "implacable" struggle against internal and foreign enemies.

"The Soviet Union protects peace is against war and is for friendly relations with peoples," he asserted. "The peoples want peace. We must avert bloodshed and secure peace. We must avert war and live in peace with all countries. We consider the policy of peace among all nations is correct and proper."

Malenkov concluded:

"We have everything needed to build a Communist Society.

"No force exists in the world to arrest our advance to communism.

"Farewell—our dear leader.

"Glory to Stalin!"

Beria described the Soviet Communist party as "united and unshaken" and said the Soviet people "approve our internal and foreign policy." The head of the state's new interior ministry and of its internal security forces promised co-operation with Communist China, and the peoples' democracies, and said the government "will strengthen friendly relations with workers in the capitalist and colonial countries."

Future Is Bright Says St. Laurent

Toronto. —(CP)— Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed confidence today that Canadians will justify Sir Wilfrid Laurier's prediction that the 20th century belongs to Canada.

But things were not always this bright for Canada, he told a Toronto luncheon meeting, and quoted at length a melancholy editorial written in Britain in 1881, about the time he was born, to prove it.

The editorial in the London Truth referred darkly to the building of the CPR and to Canadian prospects generally Fifty railroads, it said, could never "galvanize British Columbia into prosperity." It was a land not worth keeping.

Canadians were a sly lot who milked Britain of money they themselves wouldn't invest by playing on loyalty to the crown. Men and cattle were frozen to death in great numbers. The country was one of the most overrated of colonies, crushed with debt and marked by collections of shanties known as cities.

In the end it would go bankrupt. Ontario would go over to the U. S. and the Dominion would be exposed as the fraud it was.

So, Mr. St. Laurent said in a speech prepared for delivery to a combined meeting of the Empire and Canadian club's believed "one outside observers at the beginning of my own lifetime."

"We sometimes feel we have difficulties today but in the face of that kind of picture, the risk is rather than we may become too well satisfied.

Canada had come a long way in the last 30 years in building a national spirit. It was because "we have learned to respect one another and to conserve our heritage that it has been possible since the war to admit 800,000 immigrants without disrupting or even disturbing the basic character of our national life . . .

"But a word of caution is necessary. The realization of our happy future depends upon a continued faith in our country, the vigorous and adventurous development of our great resources and the expansion of all our national activities within Canada."

"If our people do face the future with the united courage Canadians have displayed in the first half of the 20th century, I for one have no doubt we shall justify Laurier's prediction."

204 Soldiers Will Go To Coronation

Ottawa—(CP)—Three Canadian reserve army regiments can count on sending men to London in June to guard the parade route at the Coronation of their colonel-in-chief, army headquarters announced today. These men will be among 204 reserve force members to be chosen for that duty.

The three units—the 48th Highlanders of Toronto, the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders of Hamilton and the Chaudiere Regiment—are the only one in Canada of which the Queen is honorary commanding officer.

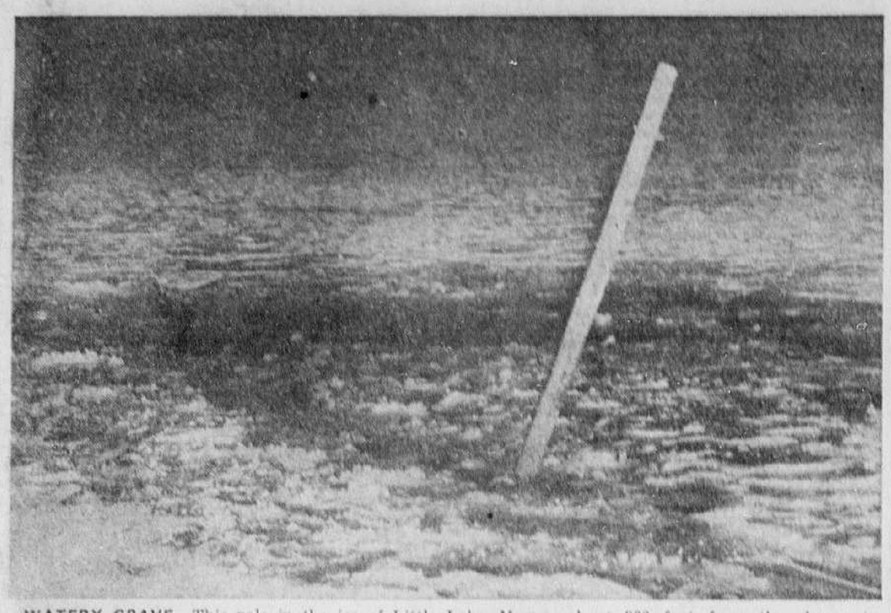

As such, the army said, they will be represented by either an officer or senior non-commissioned officer.

The announcement said members of all corps in the reserve army will be chosen for the London trip. With two exceptions, their part in the ceremony will be to line the streets in front of Canada House while an active force contingent of similar strength will take part in the parade. The exceptions are one nursing sister and one member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps who, while members of the reserve force, will march with the active force group.

The 204-men group will be composed of 134 corporals and privates, 50 non-commissioned officers and 20 officers headed by a lieutenant-colonel.

Selection will be based on such factors as decorations, total service and overseas service, the army said. Those chosen will be on full duty from about April 25 to June 25.

The Royal Canadian Infantry Corps has been given 70 places, followed by the artillery with 50, armored corps 23, engineers, signals, service corps, medical corps and electrical and mechanical engineers each with 10, ordance corps four, prevost three, and pay corps, dental, intelligence and CWAC one each.

WATERY GRAVE—This pole in the ice of Little Lake Magog, about 300 feet from the shore at Katevale, was set up by Provincial Police to mark the spot where a car containing William Croteau, 68, of Sherbrooke, fell through the ice yesterday afternoon. Not far from this spot is another hole where a second car fell through at the same time. Six persons managed to escape with their lives but Mr. Croteau's body, trapped in the car, remains under the ice.

Man Is Drowned, Six Others Rescued When Two Cars Go Through Lake Ice

Two Women Are Slain At St. John's

By The Canadian Press

Two women, apparently bludgeoned to death at St. John's, Nfld., and three children who perished in a Quebec fire were among 11 persons to lose their lives violently in Eastern Canada during the week-end.

A survey showed that six died in Ontario, three of them traffic, four in Quebec and two in Newfoundland.

The St. John's victims were Mrs. E. Kelly, 68, and her boarder, Esther Heffernan, 65. Thomas Kelly, 34, was charged with the murder of Miss Heffernan after the bodies were discovered in the hall of his mother's home.

Three children were burned to death when fire raced through their wooden home at St. Omer de l'Islet, Que. They were Lucien Choinard, 4, Lise, 3, and Fernande, three months.

Alfred Chouinard, the father, returned home in time to save a fourth child, two-year-old Herve. The child, in hospital with severe burns, is not expected to live.

Cause of the blaze, which broke out shortly after noon, was not known.

The father, a taxi driver, was at work and the mother had gone out about 10 minutes before the fire broke out. Mrs. Chouinard returned just before her husband but the flames prevented her from entering.

An inquest is scheduled to be held later.

St. Omer is about 50 miles east of Quebec City on the St. Lawrence River south shore.

William Croteau, 68, of Sherbrooke, was drowned Sunday in Little Lake Magog when the automobile in which he was driving went through the ice.

One man was drowned and six other persons saved their lives yesterday afternoon when two cars fell through the ice of Little Lake Magog at Katevale.

The body of William Croteau, 68, of Sherbrooke, was still underneath the frozen-over lake this morning as Provincial Police awaited a diver from Montreal.

Those who clambered to safety from the sinking automobiles are:

Roland Croteau, 38, of Rock Forest, son of the missing man; Mrs. Roland Croteau, 36, also of Rock Forest, daughter-in-law; Antoni Binet, 26, Rock Forest; Mrs. Antoni Binet, Rock Forest, his wife; Denise Roy, 24, Aberdeen street, Sherbrooke, and Marcel Roy, her 18-year-old brother, of Scotstown.

According to eye-witnesses Donat Fortin and Lionel Theberge, both of Sherbrooke, the two cars were driving on the ice at about 40 miles per hour at four o'clock yesterday afternoon when the ice cracked underneath them about 300 feet from the Katevale shore.

The cars fell through the ice about 100 feet apart and the passengers immediately started to clamber out.

Mrs. Binet, Roland Croteau, Denise and Marcel Roy were in one car, driven by Mrs. Binet and the drowned man was in the lead car, driven by Antoni Binet and carrying Mrs. Roland Croteau as a passenger.

According to Roland Croteau, the elderly man might have been saved if he had accepted the offer of help from one of the passengers in the other car. However, William Croteau replied: "I can get out by myself. Save the others."

The other passengers of the two cars got out through the doors and windows of the cars and hurriedly and confusedly gave help where they could to those still inside.

Although suffering from the extreme cold, the temperature on the lake was below zero, and drenched to the bone in the icy water, the six survivors were otherwise uninjured and were allowed to proceed to their homes after first-aid treatment at the lakeshore by Dr. R. D. Gerd, of Katevale.

Det. Guy Dupont, assisted by Traffic Officers Rosaire Daigle, Gilles Grenier, Marcel Lapointe and Roger St. Hilaire, investigated for Provincial Police, under the direction of Sgt.-Det. Stenio Brasseur.

Police say that the water where the two cars went under is nine feet deep and that the ice was only "a couple of inches" thick, although the ice on the Lake at this time of year may be as thick as 25 inches.

What the people were doing driving on the ice is anybody's guess just now. Earlier in the day the party had gone fishing through the ice.

An inquest will be held when the body is recovered. Police feel the body is trapped in the car.

Roland Croteau was one of the first to get out of the second car and when the other three passengers had been rescued he ran to the lead car and assisted in the saving of his wife and Mr. Binet.

His father attempted to break a

Railways Get Increase In Freight Rates

Ottawa. —(CP)— The board of transport commissioners today awarded the railways a general freight increase of seven per cent, the fifth and smallest of the post-war series of hoists.

The $38,500,000-a-year increase is the second in three months. On Dec. 20, the railways obtained a nine-per-cent boost to compensate them for wage increase to non-operating employees.

The board's judgment granted the full amount asked by the railways as an "immediate" increase. The board authorized the railways to put it into effect March 16.

Apart from the seven-per-cent application, the board still has before it a railway request for a further nine-per-cent general increase and for a new method of setting rates which would involve additional but unspecified increases.

Today's board decision was unanimous on the part of Mr. Justice John D. Kearney, chief commissioner, and the other members of a three-man panel. It authorized a seven-percent hoist all along the line except for coal and coke on which the board granted flat increases of between 10 and 2 cents a ton.

Customary exemptions also were provided for such types of traffic as the movement of export grain in Western Canada, on which rates are fixed by statute; certain forms of traffic with the United States, and export-import rates touching Canadian ports that are kept at parity with U. S. ports.

The new decision brings to 98 per cent the cumulative total of general increases granted since the war. These increases have been applied to roughly half the railways' $1,000,000,000-a-year freight business.

In determining the amount of the increase awarded today, the board against made use of a formula it had previously adopted, under which it regarded as "reasonable" for the yardstick Canadian Pacific Railway to be able to obtain rail earnings of $46,600,000 a year to meet fixed charges, dividends and surplus.

Even with the full seven-percent increase, it said, the company will not be able to reach that figure in 1952, or ever in a full year at the new freight-rate levels because of increased operating costs.

However, the chief commissioner wrote in the judgment that adoption of the formula in this case "should not be taken as indicating that I am disposed indefinitely to perpetuate its use."

Ceremonies In Red Square Described By Eye Witness

(Editors: Eddy Gilmore, chief of the Associated Press Moscow bureau, was the only American news agency correspondent present in Red Square today to get an eye-witness account of the ceremonies. Here is his dispatch:)

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow—(AP)—They laid the body of Joseph Stalin beside Lenin today.

So now the two great figures of the Russian revolution—of the 10 days that shook the world—lie side by side in the big marble tomb in old Red Square.

Beginning at the beginning, here is the way Stalin's funeral went:

Georgi Malenkov and other top men of the party and government gathered early at the Hall of Columns where the dead leader's body has been lying in state since Friday.

Chou En-Lai, the Chinese premier and foreign minister, and party and state leaders from Eastern European and other countries were there, too.

And the Moscow diplomatic corps was there representing their governments or the leaders of their governments.

I stand shivering in Red Square beside the tomb.

The troops in long gray overcoats stand motionless on the cold cobblestones.

A 750-piece band is just before the tomb. It, too, is silent.

Thousands of civilians holding black-bordered portraits of the dead leader are in the square. They are very quiet and it is difficult to imagine how 25,000 can be quiet.

Another 10,000 people are in the stands where I am standing stamping, stamping, stamping to keep our feet from freezing.

It is 10.38 a.m. Moscow time (2.38 a.m. EST).

Long black cars roll out of the Kremlin and head toward the Hall of Columns.

At 10.42 two more automobiles roll by.

Everything is still, very silent. The great gilded clock on the Spassky towers chimes every 15 minutes. At its first note, a military guard before the tomb changes—every 15 minutes.

The slug, slug, slug from their booted feet is the only sound in the spacious distances of Red Square.

Faintly in the distance comes the sound of music. It is the stately and awesome Chopin funeral march.

The music swells. It is 10.30, and up the slight hill into Red Square there comes a procession from the Hall of Columns.

The soldiers turn eyes right. The big band before the tomb joins in the dirge-like music which now fills the huge square.

The red flag of the USSR flutters over the Kremlin just behind me. I look out over the square and the mourners with their black and crimson banners of death blowing in the cold March winds.

It is 10.45 and the procession marches very slowly while Chopin's music rolls through the square.

First in line are the masses of flowers. Wreaths 10 feet high. Banks of flowers entwined in palm leaves and evergreens. They are so big and heavy no single person can support them. Sometimes two, sometimes three people carry them along.

It looks like a moving field of spring's first blossoms.

The wreath bearers—at least 150 of them—turn right before the tomb and divide into two lines. They put the wreaths against the base of the tomb. In just a few minutes the building is banked high with flowers.

There is a long, white-cloth-covered platform before the tomb. There is nothing on it. The silk cloth flies in the wind.

To the left is Marshal Semeon Budyenny walking very slowly in time to the music. Before him he carries a red silk pillow. On it lies one of Stalin's medals.

Two abreast behind Budyenny march other military leaders. I can't recognize them all. Each has a pillow in his hand before him. On it is pinned a medal of the fallen leader.

I recognize Marshal Leonid A. Govorov and Marshal Semeon Timoshenko.

Just behind them comes a single soldier on a black horse.

Behind him, eight horses—just as black—pull a gun carriage. On it lies the coffin of Stalin.

Curb On War Shipments To Red China Is U.S.-U.K. Aim

Washington— (AP) —Britain and the United States today planned to seek prompt help of other free countries in tightening an economic blockade against ocean shipments of war-useful goods to communist China.

The first move, informants said, will be taken through a secret international group which has headquarters in Paris and which is concerned with preventing flow of strategic goods into communist countries. Members of this group are American and European countries and Japan. Its existence is known unofficially but its operations are secret.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain and State Secretary John Foster Dulles, winding up a round of political and economic talks here Saturday, announced new steps, primarily by Britain, to disrupt maritime shipments of strategic goods to the Chinese Reds.

A communique issued Saturday afternoon quoted Eden as promising the British would set up a new licensing system for ships registered in the United Kingdom and the colonies to prevent such ships from carrying to Red China strategic materials from non-British countries. The export of materials of this kind from Britain has long been banned.

Eden also told Dulles the British government has decided to make certain no Russia ships or ships of any other nationality carrying strategic cargoes to China should be refueled or supplied in a British port.

The agreement to crack down on oceanborne supplies to Red China will nick but not sever the flow of war material that country is receiving.

The difficulty is that China gets, by rough estimate, about 75 per cent of its imports overland from Russia and about 25 per cent from Russian and all other sources by sea.

The American-British agreement was officially reported to have covered these other points:

1. Dulles endorsed as "reasonable and fair" British proposals submitted to Iran's Prime Minister Mossadegh Feb. 20 for settlement of the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

2. Eden and Dulles swapped opinions about the Soviet government shakeup following the death of Joseph Stalin. No results were announced.

3. The two agreed that the European Defence Community treaty, under which West Germany would be armed, must be "ratified as speedily as possible."

Egyptian Frigate Sinks, 54 Drown

Alexandria —(CP)— Fifty-four men died Saturday in the sinking of the Canadian-built Egyptian navy frigate Sollum in a fierce storm off this port.

A Polish freighter, the Czech, rescued 61 of the Sollum's crew of 114. One of the men picked up died later in hospital. Only one victim's body was recovered. The captain was among those saved.

The Sollum was built in Canada in 1941. A 672-ton Bangor class minesweeper, it was commissioned in the Royal Navy as the Wedgeport. It was turned over to Egypt after the Second World War.

BEDFORD

Bedford, March 9 — The regular monthly meeting of Missisquoi Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held one afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. Deleuze.

The meeting was opened with the prayer of the Order by the first vice-regent, Mrs. Richard Craighead, in the absence of the regent, Mrs. F. E. Best.

The minutes of the previous meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw were read by the secretary, Miss Nettie Lovering and were adopted as read.

The matter of when to hold the April meeting was discussed, as the regular day of meeting falls on Easter Monday. It was decided to hold the meeting on Tuesday, April 7, to allow for arrangements to be made for those members, who wish to attend the semi-annual meeting, which will be held in Sherbrooke on April 14-16. Mrs. Richard Craighead was appointed as the delegate from the Chapter.

A letter was read by the secretary in reference to the annual meeting.

The treasurer, Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw reported a balance on hand of $126.65. Several bills were presented for payment, for wool and materials to make violets. The annual Violet Tag Day will be held during the week preceding Easter. The afternoon was spent in making violets.

The report of the convener for Service at Home and Abroad, Mrs. Craighead, showed that 62 books had been sent to the Naval Hospital at St. Hyacinthe, 40 knitted articles to Provincial Headquarters, in Montreal. The Chapter has taken up a new branch of work this year, working for the B.M.P. Hospital at Sweetsburg. 22 baby nighties, 3 pairs of bootees and 3 sweaters have been sent in. At the Monday meeting more work was given out for sewing.

A letter was read by the secretary from the Order of the Easter Star, in Cowansville requesting a donation for the Easter seals. It was voted that the treasurer send a check for $10. for this most worthwhile work.

The matter of obtaining articles for the hope chest, which is the summer project of the Chapter was discussed. It was decided that the contents this year would be donated by the members. The following committees were appointed to look after the hope chest and contents, Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus purchase the chest, Mrs. Cavers, of Philipsburg, and Mrs. E. Piche, Sr., of Stanbridge Station, to look after the obtaining and collecting of the articles.

The drawing for the hope chest and contests takes place on the last day of the Missisquoi County Agricultural Exhibition.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served by the hostesss, assisted by Mrs. E. Piche, Sr.

Bedford, March 9 — The bi-monthly meeting of the St. James W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus, "Dutcholm Farm," with an excellent attendance of members.

The meeting was opened with the W. A. Prayer by the president, Mrs. Stanley Rider, after which the minutes of the preceding meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. Grant Lauer, assisted by Mrs. E .Corey, were read by the secretary, Mrs. Richard Craighead and approved as read.

The treasurer, Mrs. George Harland reported a balance on hand of $108.14. Regret was expressed by the members over the illness of Mrs. Ralph Van Horn, who has returned home from the Royal Victoria Hospital, where she underwent an operation.

The Dorcas secretary, Mrs. H. Derick, reported that several articles of sewing for the bale, which this year goes to the mission school at Prince Albert, Sask., had been turned in. It was decided that at the next meeting a quilting would be held, to complete the quilt, donated to the Branch by Mrs. William Taylor. The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Richard Craighead. The members were requested to come to the meeting at seven o'clock in order that as much work could be accomplished as possible.

It was decided that some woolen garments on hand be ripped up and sent to be made into blankets to be sent to Pangirtung. Mrs. Grant Lauer kindly offered to look after this.

A letter was read from Miss Hasell regarding the Sunday school Caravan Mission, which is carried on from May 15 to October of each year. Drivers are urgently needed for this work, which is very important as it reaches many, who otherwise would be without any religious instruction or guidance. The qualifications as stated in the letter are, a driver must have had a license for at least one year, previous to applying, must be over eighteen years of age, a regular church communicant, and must take a course in repair work on a one ton Ford truck. Teachers, which are also greatly needed, must be trained for Sunday School work and a have a good working knowledge of the Bible and the Prayer Book.

At the recent Diocesan W. A. annual meeting in Montreal, a memorial fund was set up in memory of Mrs. Ruth Laws, who for many years was an officers of the Diocesan Board, and was well-known to the W. A. members in the country parishes, through her faithful attendance at the deanery meetings. Mrs. Laws was greatly interested in visional education, and wished to purchase a projector which could be used for both films and slides. Knowing Mrs. Law's' plan, it was considered that the purchase of this projector would be a fitting memorial to her. This will be for the use of all those wishing to use it in the diocese. A motion was made that the treasurer send $5.00 to this memorial fund.

In place of the usual selection from the study book, read at the meetings, the president called upon the various members, who had attended the annual meeting, for reports on differents phases of W. A .work.

Mrs. W. B. Bradshaw gave a report on the first day of the meeting, which opened with a celebration of the Holy Communion in Christ Church Cathedral, at which time the Life Memberships were presented; Mrs. Bradshaw received one from St. James Branch. Prior to the conferring of these the dedication of two brass vases given by the Clergy Wives' Association, in memory of the late Mrs. John Dixon, took place. The Free Will Offering presented at this service amounted to $1,698.26, an increase of $169 over the previous year.

This fund is used partially for the missionary retirement fund, for cost of living bonus and for the training of women missionaries. This year there is a candidate, Miss Thelma Horsey, of St. Matthew's Parish, Montreal, who is training in the Anglican Women's Training College, in Toronto, Ont., In the dioceses there are 105 branches (women) with a membership of 2,657; 26 branches for girls with 395 members; 26 junior girl branches, with membership, 548; 22 Little Helpers branches, 300 members.

Mrs. Bradshaw then gave a resume of the address delivered by Dr. Constance Jackson, a medical missionary from Kangra, India. Much difficulty has been caused by the division of India into two countries, which took places in 1947. It is very difficult to travel from one country to another. Another difficulty has been caused by the change of language from Urdu to Hindi. This has been a great drawback to education and has affected tthe whole educational system. Large refugee camps had to be set up to accomodate the millions who fled from one country to the other.

Dr. Jackson and her assistants were swamped with work, visiting the camps five days a week.

To-day Dr. Jackson is stationed in Kashmir, where she holds six wayside clinics weekly, where preventive medicine is stressed.

Owing to the difficulties of the past years, people have become weakened from lack of food and prone to all kinds of diseases. Dr. Jackson stressed the point that it would be impossible to carry on this work, if it were not for help received from Canada, and thanked the W. A. for its aid.

Mrs. Sinclair McIntosh reported on the work of the Girls' Auxiliary. It was regretted that at present, there is no prospect of having a G.A. camp this year, as Quebec Lodge, at North Hatley, which has been used jointly by the Dioceses of Montreal and Quebec as a summer camp for G. A. girls, has been sold.

In 1952 there was an increase in the membership of the G. A. of 128. For Dorcas work 275 articles were received from the various Branches. Miss Hall, G. A. supervisor for the Dioceses of Montreal and Quebec, expressed herself as greatly concerned over the need of leadership courses. A G.A. alumini has recently been formed, it is hoped that this will bridge the gap between the G.A. group and the senior W.A.

Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus reported on the meeting of the Life Members group. At the present time there is a good surplus in the L. M. Fund, which is supported by voluntary contributions. Life members are to give their affiliation fee of .25 to the Branch to which they belong. The sum of $2,070.65 was obtained from the Free Will Offering and the Life Membership fees.

Mrs. Malcolm McCaw, retiring Educational secretary reported on educational work. Miss Norris, Diocesan Educational Secretary stated that only 10 per cent of the women who are church members belong to the W.A. This information was based on the results of a questionaire sent out by Miss Norris. It was proposed that this year one study book would be used for both the W.A. and G.A. Branches, as a means of cutting down expenses. During the past year 1,000 books have been sold, and this year it is hoped that this amount will be increased. Sales took place at board meetings and deanery meetings. Church calendars were sold to the number of 9,123. The profits realized from the sale of these was used for work among the Chilean Indians and for work in the Arctic.

Flannegraphs have proved most popular, they were shown 42 times, depicting 18 different stories. They are much enjoyed by children, who are greatly interested in watching the story grow before their eyes. The film, "Looking South" has been shown 37 times during the past year. The new film "Thine is the Glory" has also proved very popular, and it is hoped that it will appear in the autumn in Bedford. The jewelled map, made by Mrs. Dore and her son has proved very excellent, and has been shown in connection with 75 addresses on mission work in the west. Mrs. Dore and her son are now engaged in preparing one showing the mission work in Africa.

The president expressed the thanks and appreciation of all the members to the members of their most concise and interesting reports.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Neil Creller and Mrs. Sinclair McIntosh.

After listening to the broadcast the group divided in three smaller groups to discuss the topic under discussion.

It was agreed that in this district schooling conditions compose favorably with urban schools and that to make the teaching profession more attractive to young people higher salaries should be paid more in keeping with the expenses incurred to obtain a teaching diploma also that a bursary loan should be available to those whose parents are not able to assist financially to further their studies.

OUT OUR WAY — By J. R. WILLIAMS

1946 Encounter At Football Game Led To Good Enterprise

London — (CP) — A chance encounter at the 1946 Ontario intermediate football finals led to the globe-girdling enterprise that genial Edward Peckham of Niagara Falls, Ont., now heads.

Then a major on leave from the Canadian army, Peckham bumped into the holder of Canadian rights on a little-known process for "sewing steel."

Today, he's chairman, and managing director of Metalock, Ltd., a British firm. The process that he has spread around the world turned over $280,000 last year.

The technique is a heatless system of mending broken or cracked iron and steel machinery, with short strips of nickel alloy worked across fractures in much the same way as medical sutures are used. Peckham says the process, invented in the United States by an oil field employee about 1935, makes the repaired portions better than new.

The 45-year-old executive doesn't know why what he calls the "gospel" has spread no further than Canada. But he promptly cut short his army leave to take a course in the process and then set up a Trafalgar Square office in London in 1947, correctly estimating that Britain's abundance of war-weary machinery offered a ripe market.

Results convinced sceptical British industrialists that costly equipment replacements and long repair delays could be eliminated by his method, Peckham says.

Started with gratuities and all the money that could be borrowed, the business has expanded from 60 to 80 per cent annually and the founder can see no slowing up in sight.

He spends half his time travelling to line up foreign agencies. If an agency isn't handy for a job workmen may be bundled aboard a plane here for jobs in South African gold mines or Italian shipyards.

Peckham married an English girl during the war, has a nine-year-old son and served with the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, 4th Armoured Division, during the Second World War.

Peckham is surprised at the number of Canadians in London "just slogging away in their Canadian fashion and making a go of it."

As a Canadian who should know, he says he has always found it an advantage to be from Canada, perhaps because Canadians aren't as "brash" as some Americans, yet with "more push" than the average Briton.

"Marvellous Job" Is Description Of New Lennoxville High School

"You have done a marvellous job." That was the way in which Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education for Quebec, summed up the work of J. S. Hamilton, chairman, the other school commissioners, indeed that of all the citizens of Lennoxville at the official opening and dedication of the extension to Lennoxville High School.

Dr. Percival was principal speaker at the official opening, before a large Saturday-night audience in the gymnasium of Lennoxville High School.

Two Provincial Cabinet Ministers, Hon. J. S. Bourque and Hon. C. D. French, were present on the platform and spoke briefly.

In his address, Dr. Percival stated that "this very magnificent school originated in the mind of Mr. Hamilton, grew up in the minds of the other commissioners and these people have lived day and night with the school."

Speaking of the greater opportunities being given school children today, Dr. Percival said that the small, box-like structures of old are being superceded by luxurious, but not wasteful, schools such as Lennoxville High School.

"In the old schools, the children in the center of the room sizzled while those in the corners froze. Today, we have oil furnaces, thermostats and presto! It may have been all right for Socrates to teach open-air classes in Southern Greece but can you imagine the 589 children of Lennoxville High School outdoors on a windy day."

Dr. Percival rapped the current series of articles on the schools in Canada appearing in a national magazine. "I won't tell you the name of the magazine," he said "for you will only rush out and buy it."

He took particular exception to the magazine quotation: "The schools are creeping towards chaos."

"Not only are we not creeping towards chaos but we are going in the opposite direction. The same magazine stated a year ago that 'we are putting our children into slums.' This magnificent school is some slum!"

Dr. Percival also disagreed that there are more juvenile delinquents in Canada today. "These are your children," he said, aren't you proud of them."

He defended the practice of teaching subjects in schools "which will be of some use to the students."

"We teach mathematics today in such a manner that the students will be able to master chemistry and physics to make atom bombs so you will be free. We teach Household Science and I maintain that good pies have done more for monogamy than all the languages that have died."

Dr. Percival said that teachers, on the whole, are well trained and able to impart their learning well.

In his brief remarks, Mr. Bourque, Provincial Minister of Lands, Forests and Hydraulice Resources, spoke of the many schools which had been opened with the help of the government. "We have had five blessings of schools in the past week. In Sherbrooke County in the last few years, 13 or 14 new schools have been opened.

"I won't call the financial assistance grants. It is your money coming back to you. Lennoxville received it. Lennoxville deserved it."

Mines Minister French said that since 1944 "it seems that just about every school in the Province both Roman Catholic and Protestant, had to be rebuilt. I believe about 60 large new schools have been built in the Province during the last eight years.

"In Compton County, alone," he said, "we have 15 new schools of three, four and five rooms, one of 51 rooms and in the Townships, three new schools.

"As for your own school, I don't think the people of Lennoxville can thank Mr. Hamilton and his commissioners enough for their efforts. You can thank your stars that you have men like Stan."

In the chairman's remarks, Mr. Hamilton thanked the "very sympathetic" Department of Education which had granted 60 per cent of the more than $500,000 for the new extension to Lennoxville High School.

While over $200,000 would have to come from the ratepayers themselves, Mr. Hamilton said, and would necessitate an increase in taxes, there has been an increase of at least 100 per cent in the cost of education as compared with eight or ten years ago, and large increases in the cast of everything else.

"We have spent a lot of money in buiding and equipment for this new school and in the remodelling of the old part. Many of us have spent a lot of time and effort to accomplish this end. Tonight we say to you the citizens of Lennoxville. 'This is your school. We hope your are proud of it.'"

Mr. Hamilton thanked Mr. Bourque for his efforts in getting the Quebec grant, the Building Fund Campaign, whose members raised more than $40,000, under Mr. Melton and Mr. McMurray, the Building Committee, under H. J. Wark and composed of Gordon MClay, Howard Moffatt, George Loveland, E. E. Denison and Reginald Baker.

"The Home and School Association has been at our side from the start and has been of great assistance in many ways. To you Mrs. Moffat and your members our sincere thanks. In this period of building we came into contact with many people in the building trades. In this case I will mention only the architects—Audet, Tremblay and Audet and A. Leslie Perry of Montreal, the general contractor, J. A. Verett, A. R. Wilson, plumbing and Ross-Biron Electric.

"To my fellow commissioners—Dr. A. N. Langford, Randolph Lindskou, Mrs. D. A. McElrea, H. J. Wark and W. R. Baker, and to Mr. Denison, our supervising principal, I say your co-operation and help has been wonderful. To the citizens of Lennoxville, on behalf of the Board, I say it has been a pleasure to work for you and with you."

Ven. Archdeacon Albert Jones made the dedicatory prayer and Rev. L. M. Outerbridge gave the benediction. Greetings were brought from Provincial educational organizations and other schools.

Mrs. Roswell Thomson of Montreal, brought the greeting of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education of the Province, Robert Flood of Waterloo, president of the P.A.P.S.B., L. McArthur of Shawinigan, vice-president of the P.A.P.T., L. Mowbray Clark, president of the Quebec Home and School Federation, and Dr. J. D. Jefferis of Bishop's University were others who gave brief greetings.

A telegram of greeting was read from C. L. O. Glass, headmaster of Bishop's College school, who was out of town.

Mayor L. M. Watson of Lennoxville welcomed the distinguished guests on behalf of his fellow citizens and Mayor W. W. Nichol of Ascot brought the greetings of his municipality.

Mayor Nichol was particularly impressed with the beautiful new cafeteria at the High School, where almost 200 meals are served daily. "In my school days," he said, "We used to eat our sandwiches and cocoa in the furnace room, sitting on the wood pile.

Howard Aikman, a former principal of Lennoxville High School, expressed his pleasure at the many changes of the school since his days there.

E. E. Denison, supervising principal, expressed his appreciation of the fine building. He pointed out that unless more persons went into the teaching profession the time would come "when our present staff is too old to teach and there will not be enough replacements."

Judith Lennon, president of the students' council, said that "the senior students are envious of the younger ones because they will stay in the new school for a longer time than we."

Mrs. Clarence Campbell, supervisor of music of the Stanstead County Central School Board, and possessor of a beautiful mezzo-soprano voice sang two songs, with Mrs. Robert Bell at the piano.

At the outset, Mr. Hamilton said that while a number of dates for the official opening were considered the Board felt the function should co-incide with Education Week.

D. G. H. Melton thanked the three principal speakers, Dr. Percival, Mr. French and Mr. Bourque.

After the ceremonies, light refreshments were served and the large gathering was invited to tour the building.

Canadian Club To Hear Plan For National Capital

A subject to great interest to all Canadians "The Plan for our National Capital" will be discussed at the next meeting of the Women's Canadian Club of the Eastern Townships, to be held as a luncheon at the New Sherbrooke Hotel this Friday, March 13th, at 1 p.m.

The speaker, Walter Bowker, is well qualified to explain the plan, having been a member of the National Capital Planning Committee since 1947. It is the intention of the Government to build Ottawa to become a capital on a par with Paris and Washington. Since 1947 Mr. Bowker has been responsible for the production of two films, an illustrated booklet, and a large travelling exhibit of plans and models, of which the latter was shown in Sherbrooke some time ago.

Mr. Bowker was born in England in 1911. He spent his early life in Calgary, and came to Ottawa in 1930. After five years on the editorial staff of the Ottawa Citizen, he became engaged in free-lance journalism and magazine work. He is a member of the Governor General Foot Guards, and served in England and northwest Europe as Regimental Brigade and Divisional Staff Officer from 1939 to 1945.

In 1945 he joined the staff of the National Film Board in Ottawa. In 1947 he was asked by the National Capital Planning Committee to suggest a program of public information about the plan for the National Capital of Canada, and subsequently was borrowed by the committee from the National Film Board to carry it out.

Mr. Bowker takes along to illustrate his talk, a number of beautiful colored slides showing the national capital both as it is and as it will be.

Mr. Bowker replaces the distinguished Arctic explorer, Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, who was supposed to speak to the Women's Canadian Club on this date, but unfortunately had to cancel his speaking tour on account of illness.

Mr. Bowker is highly recommended by the National Office of the Canadian Clubs as a most interesting speaker.

Local Escapee Is Recaptured

Montreal — (CP) — A 35-year-old convict, who escaped from St. Jerome, Que., jail last July, was recaptured here Saturday.

Quebec provincial police said the man, Paul Paquette of Sherbrooke, Que., who had been serving a sentence for theft, was arrested at a firm where he was employed.

Paquette escaped by lowering himself from a cell window with knotted bed sheets and climbing over the prison wall.

Postmaster General Alcide Cote Opens Armoury At Drummondville

Drummondville, March 9—The Drummondville armoury, headquarters of the 36th anti-tank regiment (reserve), was formally opened Saturday by Postmaster General Alcide Cote.

Mr. Cote, speaking on behalf of Defence Minister Claxton, spoke of the growth of reserve units and of the contributions of Canada to the United Nations forces in Korea.

The menace of communist aggression, he said, has united free and Christian people to take joint action for their common defence. In Korea, 16 different countries of the United Nations have contributed forces to stop aggression.

The Canadian brigade includes French-speaking Canadians and they, like their compatriots of other origins, "have added to the lustre of Canadian arms and to the good reputation of Canadian people."

There never before has been so great a demonstration of international team work as in Korea, Mr. Cote said. In Canada this effort has meant a large contribution of men, money and materials.

This has included armouries and since the tend o fthe last war, "for the reserve army alone we have constructed 24 new buildings, leased 223, purchased 27 and converted 289." Since 1939 the psace available for reserve units has been more than doubled.

"We must have Canadians who give part of their time to the country as well as those who give all their time," he declared "Members of our reserve forces are citizen soldiers and they are, I hope, better citizens because they are good soldiers."

Mr. Cote said the reserve army provides officers and men to the active force and since Korea the number so provided totals more than 10,000, "a notable contribution that includes personnel of this very unit."

"The object of our defence, whether in Korea or Germany, in France of Canada, is defence of a Christian way of life, defence of our freedom, defence of our security, defence of our homes and defence of our native land."

Mr. Cote expressed the hope that "this armoury will have lots of business in training our young men and in giving members of the community the opportunity, when training permits, to use it for community purposes."

"I hope, with you, that with our allies we shall be so successful in building up our strength for peace that it will never be necessary for us to use our strength for war."

Armand Cloutier, member of parliament for Drummond-Arthabaska, introduced Mr. Cote and said that the armoury was a two-year project that cost almost $300,000. Units of the regiment are the 140th batery, of Drummondville, the 139th and 141st batteries of Victoriaville and Sorel.

Mr. Cote's address followed an inspection of the regiment. The inspection party included: Maj.-Gen. J. P. Bernatchez, officer commanding Quebec command, Brig. J. Bibeau of Sorel and Lt.-Col. J. E. Vessot, officer commanding the regiment.

Man Is Injured In Ski Mishap At North Hatley

Guy Kelly, 23, of Iberville, received a compound fracture of his right leg early yesterday afternoon in a skiing accident at North Hatley. Kelly was blazing down Hillcrest's "Atomic Trail" at a 50 mile-per-hour clip when he crashed into a tree three inches in diameter and uprooted it.

He was taken to the Sherbrooke Hospital by Bishop's ambulance. Hospital authorities said this morning his condition is good.

Joseph Deslieres Is Choice Of Brome Liberals

Knowlton, March 9 — Joseph Deslieres, member of parliament for Brome-Missisquoi, was nominated by the Brome county Liberal association as it's choice for candidate in the next federal election, at the annual meeting of the association held here Saturday.

Maurice Halle, a candidate for the nomination when Mr. Deslieres was chosen candidate before the latter's election, moved that the Brome county association recognize Mr. Deslieres as the candidate. Bruce Bailey seconded the nomination.

A change in presidency was another feature of the meeting, held in Knowlton High School. Fyrol Marsh of Iron Hill, who is warden of Brome county, resigned the office because of ill health. He was elected honorary life president.

Christmas Disease To Be Given New Name By Scientist

London — (CP) — Following widespread protest, a new name will be found for the recently-discovered malady dubbed "Christmas disease," after the first person to contract it, five-year-old Stephen Christmas. It is a form of haemophilia, or a failure of the blood to clot normally.

Doctors generally have urged a change in the name to one less closely associated with the traditional holiday. The International Haemophilia Society also has lodged a protest.

A spokesman for the group of seven medical scientists that discovered the disease said: "At least our name for it seems to have

Importance Of Air Defence Stressed By AVM Morfee In Address Here

The best way to avert war is to be prepared to fight war in the air, Air Vice Marshal A. L. Morfee, CB, CBE, said here Saturday night.

AVM. Morfee, national president of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association, spoke at the third anniversary banquet of the local wing of the Association. More than 175 members of the wing, their ladies and their guests attended the banquet at the New Sherbrooke hotel.

The last war saw the build-up of a strategic air force which was so effective that Germany was largely defeated before the allies landed in Normandy, AVM Morfee said

In the event of another war "we must gain air superiority first." With air superiority almost anything is possible; without it almost nothing is possible on land, on sea or in the air.

The Russians, AVM. Morfee said, understand air power very well. They have good aircraft and they also have extremely good intelligence and "know our thinking and our preparations."

But "if we are prepared they will not strike."

AVM Morfee quoted Britain's prime minister Churchill as saying that the Russians would have marched before now had it not been for the Atomic bomb.

However, AVM Morfee said, it is no good having an a-bomb unless we have the vehicle to carry it, air superiority over the area through which that vehicle must fly and superiority to ensure safe passage home.

"On top of that we need good intelligence to know what targets to hit. We must get the man in the air or the a-bomb is useless."

AVM Morfee told of the increasing importance of aircraft in the world today and of the possibility that the aircraft's latest development, the jet, may be taken over for aggression.

The aircraft has reduced the size of the world to the point where distance is measured now in hours; not miles. This is causing a revolution that could mean good or evil.

Many countries which lack rail and road facilities are being developed by air. The aircraft is a means of spreading trade, commerce and culture and of enabling people to get to know one another better.

But in view of the world situation, "we must be prepared against aggression."

It is the duty of all Canadians to be interested in the safety of their country, AVM Morfee said. Members of the RCAF Association are better informed about aid defence than the average Canadian.

One main object of the Association is to keep the public well informed about our defence which, AVM. Morfee said, rests more with the air force than ever in the past. Air force strength, in fact, is now only a few thousand below that of the army.

Introduced by D. A. Stevenson, AVM. Morfee was thanked by Eric T. Webster, both members of the advisory board of the Sherbrooke wing.

Eric Fuller, president of the wing, presided at the banquet, held in the Mayfair room which was colorfully decorated with the flags of the United Nations.

Following a sing song led by Bill Black and Syd Hart, with Mayor Emile Levesque directing the singing of Alouette, vocal selections were rendered by Miss Mimi Bachand and Marcel Dufresne, accompanied by Mrs. G. Fauteux.

Mayor Levesque, Rene Gauthier, president of the Quebec group of the Association, and FO. Carl Friberg, conductor of the RCAF Central band, which gave a concert Friday night, spoke briefly before the main address.

A social evening followed the banquet.

E. T. Telephone Co. Announces New Rates

The Quebec Public Service Board has rendered judgment on the application the Company made on July 3rd, 1952, for our first general rate increase in many years. The Board has ordered a new general schedule of rates effective as of December 16th, 1952, for telephone service and equipment, and effective as of February 26th, 1953, for long distance, replacing rates which have been in effect for 31 years for 80 per cent of our subscribers.

The revised rates for local and long distance service are on file in all telephone exchanges of The Eastern Townships Telephone Company serving:—

Asbestos, Danville, Richmond, Windsor Mills, Waterville, Compton, Coaticook, North Hatley, Ayer's Cliff, Rock Island, East Angus, Bishopton, Cookshire, Sawyerville, St. Malo, East Hereford, Bury, Scotstown, La Patrie.

In a large number of cases the rates for long distance service remain unchanged. In some instances, however, long distance charges between certain exchanges of our telephone system and exchanges of other telephone systems have been increased. Where increases arise they vary from 5c to 15c depending upon distance and class of call.

You'll find that the cost of your telephone service has not gone up as much as most other things you buy. Then, too, more of your friends now have telephones. You can call them all just as they can call you. When you think of the telephone's many advantages and its greater scope and use today, telephone service certainly gives you big value for your money.

Every hour of the day the telephone in your home stands ready to serve you for only a few cents. What else in your daily living means so much yet costs so little? The most anyone will pay for a home telephone is 13c a day, and, actually, most subscribers will pay much less. Few things you buy can give you so much real value at such low cost as your telephone.

RUSSIA AND THE SATELLITES

Stalin's death appears to have changed nothing in the Soviet satellites, writes Richard O'Regan from Vienna.

There is hardly a one-in-a-thousand chance of a popular uprising against Georgi Malenkov and the new rulers of the Kremlin. There is scarcely one chance in a hundred that a new Tito will appear among the bosses of Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Albania.

But if something should happen in the Balkans it would most likely be in Albania or Bulgaria.

There might have been a chance for satellite defection had there been a period of uncertainty about Stalin's successor. But Malenkov's speedy appointment dispelled that. Possibly the idea of using such uncertainty to stir Balkan unrest was in Marshal Tito's mind when he speeded up plans to visit London after learning of Stalin's death.

If so, Malenkov appears to have been too smart for Tito and also for any satellite Communist leaders with whetted ambitions for power in the international Communist hierarchy.

He appears to have foreseen the possibility of disturbances within the satellites and made sure with months of ruthless purges that there would be no new Titos.

In retrospect, Czechoslovakia's Rudolph Slansky, Poland's Wladyslaw Gomulka, Romania's Ana Pauker — all old-time Communists — appear to have been removed lest they rise to contest the control of Malenkov and the Communist party of the Soviet Union.

Further satellite purges may be necessary as Malenkov moves to consolidate his succession over his old rival Molotov.

But even if power rivalries continue to shake the satellites, two factors prevent ideological desertion of the satellites: The presence of Russian troops and the long arm of Beria's secret polcie. These are the forces that really cement East Europe to Russia.

Poland can hardly rebel with Soviet troops in East Germany. Nor can Czechoslovakia with Russian troops north, south and east and thousands of ever-watchful Soviet "technicians." Hungary and Romania support tens of thousands of Soviet troops.

INTERNAL STRUGGLES COULD BAR FURTHER RUSSIAN AGGRESSION

Premier Joseph Stalin ranks as the most crushing tyrant in human history. He was the architect of Russia's rise to military and political domination of vast non-Russian lands. He was the instrument whereby territorial ambitions long dreamed by the czars were finally fulfilled. He was the supreme symbol of the Communist dream — the most tantalizing yet the most fraudulent hope ever held out to the world's millions of downtrodden people.

To consolidate his personal power he visited upon his own countrymen wracking, bloody purges unrivaled anywhere, any time. He brought his land through famine, kept the Soviet Communist experiment working in a hostile globe, then took the helm as supreme military commander in the great war that put Russia in its greatest peril.

After World War II he seized the advantage that grew out of the free world's hesitations, its precipitate demobilization of its mighty armies, to spread the Soviet tentacles across eastern Europe. Soon he was fingering menacingly the throats of other European and Asiatic peoples.

Only the surprise and shock of the West's violent reaction to his pressure upon tiny Korea put Stalin in some check. For essentially he was for riskless gains. He seemed not to want to endanger all he had acquired in the holocaust of another great war.

Prime Minister Churchill once drew dramatic parallel between Stalin's sprawling adventures and the marauding conquests of Ghengis Khan, chief of the Mongol hordes who spilled eastward across the Asian steppes and overlapped the fringes of Europe itself. In an American speech in 1949, Churchill said:

"It seemed nothing could avert the doom of the famous continent from which modern civilization and culture have spread throughout the world.

"But at the critical moment something happened — the great Khan died.

"The succession was vacant and the Mongol armies and their leaders trooped back on their ponies across 7000 miles which separated them from their capital, to choose a successor. They never returned until now."

Will history repeat itself? Again and again in dictatorships, the passing of the leader has made the house of tyranny shambles as his heirs grasp desperately for the strands of power. Confusion reigns.

It happened in the Soviet Union on the death of Lenin in 1924. A bitter contest for power between Stalin and Leon Trotsky ensued, a test that was not finally ended until 1938, when the bloody purges struck down many of Stalin's pioneer comrades.

In that long interval, Russia was immersed in the great internal struggle. Its strains and confusions were a bar to the exercise of external ambitions. It must be the hope of all free men that the story now will be the same.

The experts on Russia for the most part believe such a struggle will indeed follow. Many feel the recent purges in Russia and the satellites were the first rumblings of that.

Stalin may have scrupulously prepared a plan of succession, may have fingered his individual successor. But in states which live by power alone, neatly laid plans have a way of going awry. It is possible that with no one left who possesses the force of Stalin's personality, the battle may be intense and prolonged and may even make the holding together of the Soviet empire extremely difficult.

To the Russian analysts in America and the West we leave the speculation over the succession and the specific course of the struggle. Here it is important to note chiefly that the path will not be smooth, and that its rocky prospect is the West's great opportunity.

This is no moment to sit back and allow Stalin's heirs to resolve their rivalries without harassment. This is the time for the western allies to assert a new, dynamic policy to take full practical and psychological advantage of the fate that has struck the Kremlin.

Let us exploit this chance by every fair and reasonable means short of war.

At the same time, let us not relax our guard, for we cannot ignore the menace that Stalin's passing will throw power into the hands of extremists who would reach for more at the peril of losing all.

The world equation has been altered, and free men's hopes may now rise righer.

McKAY'S OWN BRAND OF HOKUM MOVES POLITICIANS, CAR BUYERS

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — New Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay will probably get along all right in Washington. At his first appearance before the Washington press corps he proved himself as corny as a congressmen and chock-full of humorous political hokum that voters love and investigating committees on Capitol Hill lap up.

He didn't have much of a statement to make, he said. Reminded him of a farmer out in Oregon, where he came from — and where, incidentally, it is now easy to understand why he was such a popular governor.

This farmer went to the doctor and complained that he was losing his hearing. Doctor asked him what he had been drinking. The farmer said that, well, he had a big crop of prunes he couldn't sell, and he had squeezed the juice out of some of 'em to keep them from spoiling. But some of the juice was fermenting a little, and he had been drinking that.

The doctor told the farmer to stop drinking that stuff right away. If he didn't, he would soon be stone deaf.

Couple of months later the doctor met the farmer on the street and spoke to him, but the farmer didn't answer and it was obvious he hadn't heard. So the doctor turned around and stopped him, and with great difficulty made him understand that his medical advice had not been heeded and this was the consequence.

"Yep!" the farmer admitted. "But I liked the stuff I been drinkin' so much better than the stuff I been hearin' that I decided it didn't make any difference."

Master Of Storyteller's Approach

Now this story is importnat because it's a perfect example of a brand of political prune juice which will move mountains, build dams, dig irrigation ditches and resolve political differences like magic.

It's an old rule of politics that when you're on the spot and don't know all the answers, tell 'em a funny story, make 'em laugh. The storyteller gets the reputation of being a great guy and a character that way. Enemies melt into friends. Controversies become compromises, things get done, and peace reigns.

Secretary McKay is a master at this approach to politics. He was a Chevrolet dealer in Salem, Ore, before he got into politics. He was one of the biggest and most successful Chevrolet dealers in the country, and that's easy to understand, too.

About his new job, he said he had learned that the Department of Interior had more parts in it than a Chevrolet. All the parts in a Chevrolet were necessary. But he didn't know about all the parts in the Department of Interior.

Everything in Interior was controversial, he said, and everybody also knew more about it than he did. "They know all the answers, and give 'em to me before I can get my mouth open to ask a question," he admitted.

McKay Doesn't "Knock" Competitors

Secretary McKay's genius as a harmonizer was shown in a refusal to get into arguments over Truman administration policies.

"I've sold merchandise all my life," he said, "and I never made any money knocking a competitor. It's more profitable not to. I used to knock Ford automobiles. I'd tell people how lousy Fords were — to go on over and have a look and see for themselves. Then some smart salesman over there would get hold of 'em and sell 'em a car.

"But I'm not here to knock Oscar Chapman," secretary McKay continued. Oscar Chapman was McKay's prdeecessor as Secretary of Interior. "Oscar's a good friend of mine," he observed. "We just differ."

He wouldn't say how much the Department of Interior budget could be cut, but it could be cut some. He said it was important, however, to cut the budget before cutting taxes.

"They say McKay is a private power man," he observed. "There are no private power companies. There are privately financed public utilities.

And being let go, they went to their own . . . — Acts 4:23

Walk in the light — and thou shalt find
Thy heart made truly His,

In Whom no darkness is.

A path, though thorny, bright;

TODAY'S MESSAGE

Bound! Bound hand and feet! Most of us, most of the time, are just that. But when we are let go, when by some circumstance we get out of our various prisons; when we are for once free to do what we really wish, watch us then! For then we go to our own. Then we go where we fit, where we belong!

People who at last are "let go" from financial burdens, go into snobbishness or spendthriftness — or service. All depends on which is "their own." People who at last are "let go" from subordinate places in life becomes, "drest in a little authority," domineering — or decent. All depends on which is "their own."

Suppose now that you were "let go." Suppose your true self could run free course. Where would you go? To your own company. You would seek your level. It is your voluntary association that counts. That shows you up — or down. Once men are really free, do they "let go" God and good and graciousness? Those early Christians did not! They went to their own company, which was God's company, the company of the world's saviours, the company of those who lift the inner levels of life!

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

USE DUMMY'S ACE, WIN FIRST SPADE

After North's raise in today's hand, South counts 16 points in high cards, 2 points for the singleton, and 1 point for the fifth heart. (When your suit has been raised by your partner, you may count 1 point extra for each cards over four in the trump suit.)

With a count of 19 points, South needs only 7 points from North to bid a game. North has already promised about that, much for his raise to two hearts, so South bids the game without further ado.

The play for the game contract is simple, but worth looking at. If South draws three rounds of trumps after winning the first trick with the ace of spades, he will lose his game contract. No matter how he struggles, he will then wind up losing three diamonds and a club.

Nothing can prevent the loss of the three diamond tricks, but South can prevent the loss of a club. If each opponent has three clubs, declarer's last club will be good. If the clubs are 4-2, or worse, however, South must plan to ruff his low club in dummy.

For this reason the correct line of play is to win the first spade with dummy's ace, draw exactly two rounds of trumps, and then proceed to lay down the three top clubs! If both opponents can follow to all three rounds of clubs, South can then draw a third trump and cash his last club.

If the clubs fail to break evenly, South must hope that the player with the long clubs will also have the last trump.

In this case South's hope is rewarded. He gets away with his three top clubs and can ruff his last club in dummy. He therefore succeeds in making his game contract.

What would happen if one of the opponents had only two clubs but three trumps? In that case, the opponent would trump the third high club, and South would be defeated. No other line of play could make the contract, however, so South loses nothing by making his best attempt.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Heart	Pass	1 Spade	Pass
2 N.T.	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades K-Q-10-2, Hearts 6-2, Diamonds K-Q-8-5, Clubs K-9-4. What do you do?

A—Bid four no-trump. Your partner's jump bid shows, theoretically, 19 to 21 points. Your own 13 points in high cards should provide a play for slam if he has 20 or 21 points. Moreover, four no-trump should be a safe contract even if your partner has made a slight stretch with only 18 points.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding has been:

3 Hearts	Pass	?

You, South, hold: Spades K-J-7-5-3, Hearts 4, Diamonds J-6-3-2, Clubs 7-6-4. What do you do?

IT'S YOUR DEAL...

TOWIE IS GOOD BRIDGE GAME

By Oswald Jacoby and Alfred Sheinwold

There are many fine three-handed games, but dyed-in-the-wool bridge players will probably find greatest enjoyment in Towie, a form of bridge for three players. It isn't as good as regular four-hand bridge, but it's a splendid game for a bridge player with low blood pressure.

Deal the cards out as though for a regular game of four players. One hand, dealt to the empty chair is the dummy. The dealer turns up six cards of the dummy, leaving the other seven cards face down.

The bidding proceeds as in ordinary contract bridge, except that only the three players bid. (If there's a ventriloquist at the table, he might have a bit of fun speaking for the dummy, but this wouldn't be part of the game.)

If nobody bids a game (a contract of two hearts doubled would be a game-going contract, and so on for other doubled contracts), the hands are piled one on top of another, and the cards are cut once, but not shuffled.

The same dealer then hands out the cards five at a time, five at a time again, and finally three at a time. In a "goulash" deal of this kind, the cards of the dummy are shuffled face down before the usual six cards are turned up.

Whenever the final contract is a game-going contract, the player at the left of the final bidder leads. The dummy is placed opposite declarer, and the whole dummy is turned up. The play then proceeds as in regular contract bridge.

The dummy is likely to be full of surprises, sometimes welcome and sometimes rather unpleasant. For example, the dummy's unknown seven cards may turn out to be trumps or high cards—or they may turn out to be worthless low cards in the side suits. This uncertainty provides one of the great charms of the game.

The scoring was originally the contract bridge scoring of twenty years ago. There is no need to follow that forgotten scoring table, since modern contract birdge scoring will do just as well. Just change one item: a player gets a bonus of 500 points for his first game, and he gets a bonus of 1000 points for his second game of a rubber.

Each of the three players has his own scoring column. When declarer is defeated, the penalty is written in each opponent's column. Penalties are frequent and heavy, since most Towie players are incurable optimists, so leave plenty of room above the line in your scorepad.

Glasses Become Latest British Fashion Fad

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London — (CP) — Spectacles are Britain's latest fashion fad. There are heavy, gold-rimmed ones to go with chunky jewelry, straw-rimmed ones to match Easter bonnets and gold lame numbers worn with the latest thing in ball gowns.

Frames come in a variety of colors. One shade is designed to match a lime-green veil picked for wear in Westminster Abbey at Coronation time. Another, shown at a recent London spectacle fashion show, is an upswept "stardust" model in crystal plastic trimmed with imitation pearls and hand-wrought silver.

Heavy, gold-rimmed spectacles also were featured at the Paris dress shows, along with wide slave bracelets and big gypsy earrings. They lent sophistication and charm to slim black afternoon and cocktail dresses.

In London, a 20-minute fashion show given by a well-known firm of opticians emphasized that the minimum spectacle wardrobe for fashionable women is three pairs—one for day, one for evening and sports wear.

"I know of one American dowager with 84 pairs," said Lillian Whitaker, director of this firm, which dates from 1820." "One debutante has 20 and there is an Italian countess with a pair to match every room in her house, most of her dresses, and a peach pair to match her bedroom sheets."

Prices for fashionable hand-made frames range from four to 15 guineas. Shape hints are: shallow frames for a short face, a deep upsweep for a long face and a low bridge for those with a long nose.

Spectacle fashions are also interesting school children over the age of 12. For more than three years opticians have been complaining that school children refused to accept nickel-framed glasses with thin frames and round lenses.

This is the only style open to school children under the free national health scheme, so more and more children are talking parents into buying spectacles with up-to-date frames. This results in quarrels due to the jealousy of those who must wear school frames.

In Wales, Glamorgan's national health executive asked for a free issue of "superior-framed" spectacles at a cost to the ministry of £1 11s 5d each. No decision has been taken.

In Cardiff, however, education officers say the rough-and-tumble of school life causes too many breakages and nickel frames are more practical. "It's spoiling the children to give them luxury frames," said Philip Williams, of the school health service.

SHORT STORY

Knolton's Case

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

Knolton's act was the result of two year's of planning. There was little chance that anything would go wrong. He had served as clerk at the lumber camp for two long years. And from the moment he first saw the payroll left unguarded in the office while the bank guard went out and a camp paymaster came in—from that moment Knolton knew that some day he'd steal that payroll and make a get-away.

The day that Knolton had chosen for the robbery was not unlike a thousand others. At exactly noon the payroll car drove up. A guard stepped into the office and deposited the heavy bag by Knolton's chair. Knolton greeted him carelessly, nodded at the bag and bent to his work. The guard went out.

The moment the door closed Knolton's head came up. He listened intently. Outside he could hear the bank guard in conversation with Raymond, the camp paymaster. There wasn't a moment to lose.

By now he had grown a beard.

Quickly Knolton lifted up the cover of his desk, removed from inside a bag almost identical to the one on the floor and equally as heavy. He made the transfar deftly, unhurriedly.

The door opened and Raymond came inside. He nodded briefly to Knolton, picked up the decoy bag and went out again.

Knolton stepped outside and walked leisurely toward the river. Unobserved he climbed into the canoe which was hidden there and pushed off.

By mid-afternoon Knolton reached a tributary and turned off the main stream. He paddled up this smaller waterway for more than a mile.

He set the canoe adrift and headed inland, swinging southward. By dusk he had come to a virgin stand of timber, mighty monarchs of the forest as yet unscathed by th the lumberman's axe. His steps led him to a huge pine, larger than the rest with thick undergrowth at the base. He parted the growth pulled at a tuft of dirt. The tuft came away, revealing a shallow hole. Knolton had dug the hole months before, allowed the under growth to grow over it so that no trace of his recent visit would be in evidence.

He deposited the bag in the hole and carefully replaced the dirt.

It was a month before Knolton reached his destination; a tiny village hundreds of miles south of the lumber camp. Here he paused to rest with a friend. By now he had grown a beard. The friend provided dye, and Knolton changed the color of his hair from light brown to black.

Six months later Knolton, now known as Carl Hedman, with no trace of the one-time clerk showing beneath his perfect disguise, rode leisurely back toward the scene of his crime.

The lumbermen gave him no more than a passing glance.

Satisfied that he had not been recognized, Knolton followed the river to the mouth of the tributary.

With pounding heart he mounted the ridge and paused to look. It was as if a hand had suddenly reached out and was squeezing him in a powerful grip. He stood rooted mouth ajar, staring in stupified incredulity at the country below. With a sense of horror he realized what had been logged by the lumber company, swept bare of every standing tree and piece of timber.

Every tree stump looked alike; none was larger or different from its neighbor. He surmounted great piles of slash, tearing at them frantically, hunting for the stump the stump of the great pine tree.

Thus unmindful of his direction he came again to the river bank. And when at length he reached the top of another hill be paused to rest, overcome by fatigue. Too late he felt the slash pile beneath him slipping away. Too late he realized that the slash had been thrown on the brink of a precipice overhanging the river.

Knolton, with a pitiful cry on his lips, went over the brink. Far, far below he lay, a broken human body on the jagged rocks.

Rail Service Is Delayed By Freight Crash

By Gordon Harmer

Train service on the C.P.R. line between Sherbrooke and Montreal was restored to normal around 7 a. m. today after a close to 14 hour delay— result of a head-on-crash between two freight trains between Magog and Orford around 5. p. m. yesterday.

Only one man was injured in the wreck as both crews jumped to safety.

Two cars and the second engine of the west-bound, double-engined, train were derailed while the lead engine was buckled. The single engined east-bound train, carrying mainly wheat, was least damaged.

Georges Duval, 35, 27 Depot street, Farnham, a fireman on the west bound train, jumped to saiety but suffered minor injuries while doing so. He is confined to La Providence Hospital in Magog where his condition is reported as good.

The wreck occurred some 500 yards west of the cement trestle over the Milletta Road. The Milletta Road is the old Montreal highway and the trestle is located about two miles north of the present Montreal highway.

Wrecker auxiliary workers from Farnham and Sherbrooke sped to the scene and several trains bound for Saint John had to be rerouted via Newport and Sherbrooke while the tracks were cleared.

C.P.R. men toiled throughout the chilly night, repairing track, cutting steel with acetylene torches, shunting, pushing and heaving. The entire operation was carried out calmly and without a mishap. The numerous men, each with a job to do, worked in orderly fashion and their dark figures passing the bonfires, spotlights and flashlights made a weird sight from the hill-side.

Eye-witnesses to the wreck were: Mrs. Eddy Courtemanche, Donald Camber, Donald Courtemanche, Hugh Camber, Mrs. Margaret Courtemanche, Miss Claudien Langlois, Normand Courtemanche, Mrs. Sylvia Perreault, Miss Suzanne Perreault and Denis Perreault. These people were located in the home of Mrs. Eddy Courtemanche, 50 feet from the tracks and some 300 yards from the scene of the accident.

Donald Camber and Donald Courtemanche, out taget practising, foresaw that an accident was about to occur with two trains on a single track and headed in opposite directions.

"It was some crash as we heard and saw the two trains collide," Donald Camber said.

Mrs. Eddy Courtemanche said "We saw a couple of men jump to safety. We all had a ringside seat to the spectacular crash."

A C.P.R. official said that he believed that the westbound train was stopped and that the eastbound train was travelling around five miles an hour.

Hugh Camber said: "It appeared that the westbound train was stopped and the other train was not travelling very fast. It was certainly an unusual sight."

One boxcar on the train going west was pushed in like an accordian and it resembled a pile of splinters rather than a freight car.

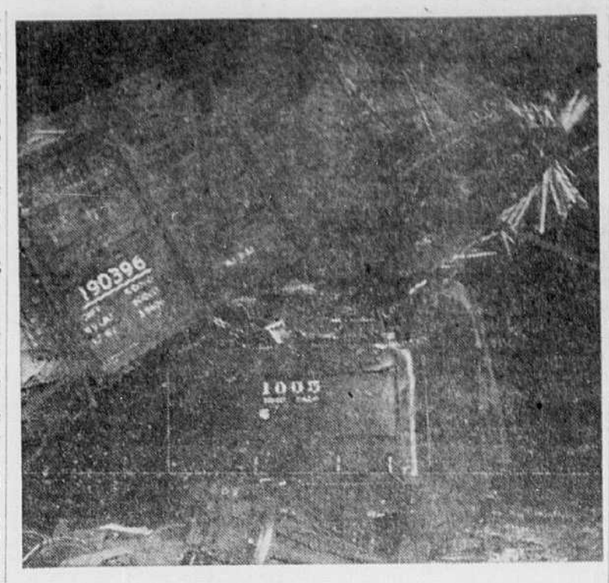

C.P.R. wrecking crews set up a generator for spotlights but there was some light thrown from a fire which broke out at the rear of the second engine of the westbound train.

Acetylene torches ripped through the heavy steel columns of the engines to make it possible for the crane, "the big hook," to get a grip in order to pull the heavy mangled mass of steel.

The C.P.R. had members of their own police force at work guarding the wreck and keeping curious onlookers from getting too close to the debris. Constables T. L. Cotreau and Lewis were on hanl and kept order and received the co-operation of the spectators.

This morning at 7 a.m. the trains were running on schedule thanks to the hard-working members of the two wrecking crews from Farnham and Sherbrooke.

FREIGHTS COLLIDE: Rail service on the Montreal-Sherbrooke C.P.R. line was blocked for 14 hours last night between Lake Orford and Magog when two freight trains collided head on. Fortunately injury was limited to one man. Two engines and two cars were derailed. The upper picture shows one of the damaged engines while the lower picture shows a smashed box car piled up on an engine tender. (Record photos by Gerry Lemay).

CEREMONIES IN RED

The coffin is covered in crimson cloth but through a rounded section of glass you can see the features of the fallen leader.

Just behind the gun carriage and its coffin walk Stalin's closest friends and companions.

You can recognize them all, those familiar faces. Just behind the gun carriage is one row.

Georgi Malen'ov, dressed in a black coat with gray fur walks in the centre. On his right is Lavrenti Beria. On this left Chou En Lai.

I pick out the others.

The bands have shifted slowly into another tune. It is something by Rimsky-Korsakoff, great Russian composer of the last century.

Behind the Soviet and party leaders there come the foreign guests.

The procession halts before the white, cloth-covered platform. Gently — ever so gently — Stalin's companions lift his coffin off the gun carriage. They handle it so tenderly. Very, very slowly they set it down.

Next in the procession are the leaders of Moscow's diplomatic missions — tall, thin Jacob Beam, American charge d'affaires; silk-hatted Sir Alvary Gascoigne of Britain; Mario di Stefano, the Italian ambassador, Argentine ambassador Dr. Leopoldo Bravo, French ambassador Louis Joxe, Luxembourg minister Rene Bloom, the Danish minister, tall, spare Hugo Hergel.

They walk to the platform where Stalin's coffin now rests.

By now, there is movement at the foot of the tomb.

The party and government leaders are going up the flight of marble stairs leading to the tribunal atop the tomb.

From where we stand you can get a very good view of them and their faces. They look like men heavy with brief. Their faces are sad and set.

Malenkov leads the procession which goes up single file. Behind him comes Beria, in a black coat. Chou en-Lai follows. There is Marshal Klimenti Voroshilov in unifrom, and Molotov, now the foreign minister, Nikita Khruschev and Lazar Kaganovich are there, as is Andrei Andreeyev.

I recognize Matyas Rakosi, the Hungarian leader; Petru Groza of Romania, Harry Pollitt from Britain. They go up to the tribune.

A few minutes later the diplomatic corps headed by the Swedish ambassador enters the tier just below the tribune. They all stand there silently.

At 10:58 an announcer introduces Georgi Malenkov.

Malenkov has a vibrant voice. He speaks without hesitating in clear strong tones. Loudspeakers bring his every word to the thousands in Red square and the millions in Moscow.

The radio takes his voice to every corner of this broad land, and by short wave to the countries of the world.

Malenkov never hesitates. He speaks out over the crowd. Every eye is on him. He finishes promptly at 11:15.

There is the slightest of pauses, the announcer presents Lavrenti Beria. He starts out in strong mesaured tones. People hardly grief-stricken his voice almost move.

Beria finishes at 11:30 just as the Spassky chimes are striking. Molotov is introduced.

The foreign minister begins, and breaks. He goes on.

At 11:55 Molotov has said what he had to say.

There is a pause. The announcer says that the funeral orations have finished.

Movement on the tribunal. Malenkov leads the procession back down the marble steps and out in front of the tomb in Red square to the platform where Stalin's coffin stands.

His comrades gather around him. They move over and take the coffin in their hands and lift it slowly.

They take it up and move off toward the wide-open metal doors of the tomb.

It is 11:58, the first gun roars over in the Kremlin — the beginning of the salute. The bands begin to play again the funeral march of Chopin. Chimes ring out high noon.

Softly at first and then louder and louder go the whistles of the factories of Moscow, and the whistles on boats in the nearby Moskva river, moving through channels cut in the ice.

Cannons fling their fiery volleys into the March sky. The clock rings out the last strokes of 12.

The whistles are very much louder. The chimes, Chopin, roaring guns and whistles — Stalin's requiem.

At precisely five minutes past noon the last cannon sounds its 30th shot. The whistle die away and the final strains of Chopin fall from the brass horns.

It is strangely silent again.

Then there is a slight movement in the massed bands. Trumpets to a hundred lips. A great blast over the square. The first note of the Soviet hymn. The troops stand even fore rigidly than before, if that is possible.

Hats came off. The party and government leaders come to salute.

With the last notes of the hymn, I look back over my shoulder at the Kremlin. The red flag of state which has stood at half staff since Stalins death is slowly rising. Two men pull it to the top.

Woman Guerrilla Given Life Term

Ipoh, Malaya—(AP)—The sultan of Perak today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed by a British judge on Lee Meng, Chinese woman guerrilla whom communist Hungary recently tried to save by bargaining with the British government.

The tiny, sullen 25-year-old ringleader of Red terrorism in Malaya had been sentenced to be hanged on a charge of carrying a grenade, a capital offence under the state of emergency here.

Her case was taken up by world communism several weeks ago when Hungary offered to release an imprisoned British business man, Edgar Sanders, in return for her freedom.

Prime Minister Churchill tentatively turned down the offer, saying "there can be no question of bartering a human life." He added, however, that this did not rule out further consideration once the question of clemency appeals had been decided by the Malayan authorities.

MAN IS DROWNED

window of the sinking auto but was unable to do so. "Let me go, I'll get out by myself, father yelled to us," stated Roland Croteau. But the car disappeared too quickly. Earlier he had heard Miss Roy cry: "Save me Roland," and he did so.

William Croteau resided at the Royal Hotel in Sherbrooke. He was a retired C.P.R. employee. He is survived by three sons: Roland, Adde and Leo, the last two of Montreal; three daughters: Mrs. Robert Gosselin (Giselle), Granby; Mrs. Donat Auger (Gertrude), Drummondville; Mrs. Henri Pellerin (Fernande), Waterville; and two sisters, Mrs. P. Sargerie and Mrs. George Auger, both of Sherbrooke.

The tragedy recalls the last time anyone in this district was drowned while in a car. This occurred in Kee Brook, on the road from St. Denis de Brompton, in April 1951. Six persons were drowned in that mishap when their automobile crashed through a wire guard rail and plumetted into the swollen waters at a 20-foot depth. Only the driver survived that, through an open window.

"English" Taught Foreigners At A Victoria School

Regina — (CP) — The sign above the door to room 17 at Victoria School here is printed in three languages—Chinese, German and Dutch. They say "Fon Yen Loy Canada," "Willkommen Zu Canada" and "Welkom in Canada."

Inside that door Mrs. P. F. Winters helps new Canadians to say those words—"Welcome To Canada"—and many others, in English. The most frequent nationalities of the children she teaches are Chinese, Dutch and German.

Her classes begin with objects and pictures which are identified by their English names. Verbs are learned by moving the objects about and encouraging the students to describe story-pictures.

On occasion they use tape-recording machines to listen to their own speech.

The classes began last autumn on the advice of G. J. Lee, assistant superintendent of public schools. He said most of the immigrant children have the fundamental in science, arithmetic and health. But their standard of English makes it awkward to find their proper level.

So they learn English in Mrs. Winters' classroom, and in the other half of the school-day they try to keep up with the other subjects.

MELENKOV SAYS

"We are friends of the heroic Korean people" he added.

Of Russia's armed might, he declared: "Let no one think our enemies can rout us. Our soldiers have modern equipment and are able to ward off any aggression."

And the Soviet people, he added, "approve the appointment of Comrade Malenkov" as Stalin's successor and the accompanying "government changes."

Molotov,third member of the top government triumvirate, repeated Malenkov's call for vigilance against possible attack and "against spies and agents of the imperialist powers."

"We mant peace and we do not want to interfere in the affairs of other countries," he declared, reiterating the first public statement of his foreign ministry on Saturday that Russia will continue Stalin's policy of "consolidating peace and co-operation in business relations with other countries."

Washington— (AP) —A Congressional investigation into reported ammunition shortage appeared likely today to be expanded to take in other phases of the war in Korea—but not the whole war.

Democratic Senators made it plain they will fight any effort to expose what they regard as military secrets to public view in a broad-scale inquiry such as that suggested by Senator Robert Taft.

And Senator William Knowland, chairman of the republican policy Committee in the senate, said Sunday "it would not be profitable at this time to have a general investigation of the Korean war.'

Night flying migrating birds offer a major problem to airplane pilots because they are larger and fly at about the same altitude as commercial airliners. Windshields have been developed, however, to withstand impacts from the flying fowl.

Coronation Medal To Be Viewed Soon

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London — (CP) — The Coronation Medal—the Queen's personal Coronation memento—should be on view shortly.

A special committee has been appointed to attend to details, including selection of a suitable likeness of Her Majesty. The Duke of Edinburgh has conferred with the committee.

The medal goes to a chosen few, comparatively speaking, in the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth.

Canada was allocated 10,000 of 90,000 medals struck at the Coronation in 1937 of King George VI. Australia received 6,673. Two per cent went to the military forces and 1,200 Commonwealth troops, who were in London for the Coronation, received the medal at a mass parade attended by the King, Queen, and Dukes of Kent and Gloucester.

How many will be struck and allocated this time hasn't been made known. As for the recipients a spokesman said, the basis on which they are picked in the United Kingdom has never been published.

"What the Commonwealth countries do with their allocations is their own business," said Sir Robert Knox, secretary of the Coronation commission both in 1937 and 1953.

"As for the basis of the award, it's a matter for the sovereign to decide since it's her medal—at least in this country."

One large U.K. group honored in 1937 was 2,000 metropolitan police, largely long-service personnel.

The decoration is a fairly recent one, dating back only to 1902 and the coronation of King Edward VII. The Commonwealth is believed to have had its own choice of recipients starting with the 1937 coronation.

That crowning also marked the simplification of the medal from the 15 types that King George V had struck, to the one type his son chose. It's considered likely that the precedent will be followed by the Queen.

The 1936 medal was typical of the two earlier medals with likenesses of the King and Queen hung on a blue-centred ribbon, bordered on each side by a red and white strip.

In order of precedence it ranks about midway between the highest award ,the Victoria Cross, and the foreign decorations over which all native decorations take precedence. it is included in the jubilee, coronation and durbar medals class initiated by Queen Victoria and is highly prized.

After the 1937 coronation there was an ironical story about the importance that is attached to the coronation medal.

An officer serving in Africa wanted one so badly that he wangled his way back to London and into a coronation parade assignment. But he didn't get a coronation medal.

What's more, the story goes, he returned to his African unit to find that everybody there had been given one.

Tito Leaves For Visit To U.K.

Belgrade. — (AP) — President Tito, accompanied by military, economic and political aides, was enroute today to Britain, presumably by sea.

The British foreign office had announced in London last week that Tito would arrive for his five-day visit with government leaders March 16, one week earlier than had been expected previously.

A British admiralty announcement said Tito was expected to make the entire trip in the Yugoslav naval vessel Galeb, under escort of British ships from the vicinity of Malta.

Belgrade radio said today the Yugoslav people are following his visit to Britain with great interest and hope the talks between Tito and Prime Minister Churchill will "contribute to strengthening friendship and economic ties between the two countries."

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — Preparations are near completion at Sydney airport for the arrival of the first of Canadian Pacific Airlines' new Comet jet airliners. An 8,000-foot runway, first stage in a £12,000,000 expansion program, is ready and a second right-angle strip is under way.

When this is finishedand the new buildings are ready, the airport, named in honor of the famous Australian flier Charles Kingsford-Smith, will be one of the world's most modern. Already it is one of the busiest, with more than 140 planes using it daily and nearly 1,000,000 passengers a year.

The site, on the edge of Botany Bay, which bites into the southern suburbs of Sydney, was one a dairy farm but now is greatly altered. A river has been diverted, miles of sandhills have been flattened. 2,500,000 cubic yards of sand were pumped from the bay to reclaim land and another 5,000,000 cubic yards of material is being used to fill in low-lying areas. The runways and taxiways are being built to withstand a wheel load of about 50 tons, or twice the load of present aircraft.

The oceans contain enough salt to make a pile larger than the volume of all land in Africa above sea level. The water of the seas also contains enough gold to give every person in the world about nine pounds of it.

The materials that capture the sunlight's energy in the blue-green algae are concentrated in particles within the living cells, very much [illegible] other green plants.

Many Edmonton By-Laws Not Enforced

Edmonton — (CP) — In a city heated almost entirely by natural gas, there still exists an Edmonton firewood by-law regulating loads and sales and providing for prosecution of firewood salesmen short-weighting customers.

While many such regulations rarely are used, they remain on the books, either because there is no hurry to repeal them or because of the possibility they may become useful in future.

One city legal official suggested that most of these horse-and-buggy by-laws are allowed to lie idle because it would require too many policemen to enforce them.

One antiquated by-law requires the pound-keeper to know how to milk a cow. Under a law never repealed he is required to milk impounded cows twice daily, getting use of the milk as compensation.

Besides being an offence to permit a horse, mule, bull, steer, cow, goat, sheep, swine or poultry to run at large in the city, it is illegal to let pigeons loose.

Exercising the pitching arm with snowball throwing is as much against the law as throwing stones and ice, or using bows and arrows or sling shots.

One by-law which seems to contradict even civic practice says that salt is not to be used on sidewalks or roads for dissolving snow and ice. Also, there is a much-abused law which states that it is an offence to wash your car on the street.

Teachers Seek Greater Representation

Montreal— (CP) —The Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers during a week-end meeting passed a resolution requesting that the association have greater representation on provincial education bodies, including the central board of examiners and the Protestant committee.

President Margaret Haight, of Sherbrooke, Vice-President G. A. MasArthur of Shawinigan Falls, and delegates from 25 Quebec groups attended.

The council also decided that standards in the teaching profession should be raised but referred this question for further study in committee.

Other recommendations adopted were:

1. That an information service be set up to supply details on jobs, salaries, living conditions, housing and shopping facilities.

2. That the advisability of establishing an employment service be studied.

3. That public relations in the profession be improved by teachers taking a more active part in community affairs.

OBITUARIES

MRS. GORDON BOYNTON, OF BURY

Bury, March 9. — The funeral of Edythe Irene Stokes Boynton was held at Bury United Church, on January 22, with the Rev. P. W. Jones conducting the service.

The deceased was born in Bury on May 26, 1911, and attended the High School until she received her A.A. certificate. The next year she attended Macdonald College, in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, receiving her diploma.

After teaching one year in Roxton Pond, two years at New Carlisle, on the Gaspe Coast, a number of years in Sherbrooke, in the Mitchell School, and in Magog High School, during which time she passed the required examinations in French, receiving her French specialist diploma, and continuing to teach in that capacity, she returned to Bury.

She married Gordon A. Boynton, on July 20, 1946.

Left to mourn her loss are her husband, and two little sons, Roger, aged four years, and Everett, aged two years; her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stokes; many aunts, uncles, cousins and many dear friends.

MRS. W. J. MELROSE, OF EDMONTON

Richmond, March 9.—A pioneer Edmonton citizen and an active worker in hospital, charities and women's clubs in that city, Mrs. W. J. Melrose, aged 77, passed away in the hospital on Friday, February 13.

Mrs. Melrose took an active part in helping to raise funds to build the Royal Alexandra Hospital and prior to that she canvassed the district with other women for eggs, butter and other supplies for the old Boyce Street Hospital, the fore-runner of the Royal Alexandra.

When Mr. Melrose died in 1920, Mrs. Melrose took his place on the hospital board for three years. She also held executive offices in many women's clubs and church organizations.

Mrs. Melrose, the former Lottie Hines, was born in Actonvale, Que., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. E. Hines. She taught school for several years in St. Francis College High School before leaving to make her home in the west in 1906. She had returned several times to visit her many friends in the Richmond district, who were grieved to learn of her passing.

The funeral service was held in the Holy Trinity Church on Monday, February 16, with Canon W. M. Mainby officiating. Burial took place in the family plot at the Edmoton Cemetery.

Salt was as valuable as gold in ancient China, and salt cakes stamped with a ruler's head or crest were used as money.

The Doctor Says:

SEEK DOCTOR'S ADVICE BEFORE DECIDING TO ADOPT A CHILD

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

In most respects there are no important differences between the health problems of adopted children and those who are not. There are, however, several problems connected with adoption, or questions concerning adoption which make a great deal of difference both to the child and to the adoptive parents.

First, and most important, the question of adoption usually comes up for couples who desire children but do not seem able to have any of their own. Furthermore, there are many infants or children who are deprived of normal family life by their parents' death or perhaps economic disaster, and who can be given their birthright of family life only if they are adopted.

Thus it is frequently desirable both from the standpoint of the child and of some married couples to join together and form a normal family unit of parents and child or children.

It is perhaps too easy to decide, "Let's adopt a child." It cannot be emphasized too often that adoption is not a step which should be taken lightly.

The physical condition both of the prospective adopted child and of the prospective parents should be given serious consideration in advance if much grief is to be avoided.

Unhappily, the files of welfare agencies contain many instances in which an adopted child has some physical defect or disease which brings much unhappiness to the adoptive parents, and the reverse is also the case to such a degree that the couple making the adoption are unable to supply a reasonably satisfactory home life.

In other words, this column recommends that adoptions be made only with the best of advice from physicians and welfare agencies, since this would greatly increase the chances of suitable matching of the adoptive parents and the adopted child so that both would receive a good break towards happiness and health.

Two other questions concerning adoption frequently come up. One of them is whether an adopted child should be told that he or she is adopted.

Tell Them Early

Most of those who have studied this think very definitely that a child should be told as early as he or she can understand it. If this is simply and kindly done there is not only no harm, but much good, accomplished.

The second is whether a couple is more likely to have a natural child soon after an adoption.

I do not know of any statistics on this, though there are certainly many instances in which a couple has gone childless for many years, adopted a child, and then shortly thereafter had one of their own. If there is any connection between these two events rather than pure accident, it is certainly hard to explain on physiological grounds.

the Queen's beasts

Visitors to the Coronation this year will have a chance to see the Queen's beasts. They will form a line of sculptured animals, sitting upright, six feet in height, in the Annex of Westminster Abbey. Here they are:

The Lion of England, the Unicorn of Scotland, the Falcon of the Plantagenets, the Griffin of Edward III, the Bull of Clarence, the White Lion of Mortimer, the Greyhound and the Dragon of the Tudors, the Yale of the Beauforts and the White Horse of Hanover.

The study of Heraldry is an ancient art and a fascinating one. For example, we learned from an expert that a Yale hasn't anything to do with a university, or the boys that play the "Princetons" and the "Harvards". A Yale, or Jall, or Eale is a fabulous creature with horns and tusks. It's white with yellow spots and used to support the arms of the Lady Margaret Beaufort, who was the mother of Henry VII. And we'd rather see than be one.

Another ancient art is brewing. It's ancient right here in Quebec, where the ale that's preferred over all other brands combined has been brewed by one family on the same site since 1786. For that's the date when Quebecers first began using the amiable phrase: "Make Mine Molson's". And you don't have to travel to the Coronation to find the interesting evidence.

GRAY—CARPENTER

Canaan, Vt., March 9. — Miss Verda Gray, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Gray, of Canaan, Vermont, became the bride of Alton Fredrick Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest K. Carpenter of East Burke, Vermont, on Sunday, January 18, 1953. Rev. G. Stackley Hurst performed the double ring ceremony in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Canaan. A. D. Seaver, teacher at Lyndon Institute, Lyndon Center, Vermont, presided at the organ, playing the traditional wedding marches and accompanying A. P. Welcome Club Meeting Held At Beebe Plain, Vt.

Rock Island, March 9 — The Welcome Club met at the clubhouse at Beebe Plain, Vt., on Friday evening, February 27, with sixteen members present. The meeting was opened by the president, Miss Mae Bean, and Dick Sloan gave a most enjoyable reading. This was followed by the reports of the secretary and treasurer.

Discussion took place about a play, one being decided upon and arrangements were made to send for the books. The date was not decided but it will be held soon.

It was decided to purchase more wood for the clubhouse and the necessary arrangements were made for this. The president gave the explanation of "Community Council for the 4 H", stating it consists of parents being interested in the 4 H children, boys and girls, and giving them assistance in any of their projects, to be always ready to provide transportation for their activities when required.

A vote of thanks was given to Hector Roy for keeping the club yard cleared of snow this winter, and to those who cleared snow from the skating rink and tried to flood the ice for skating, the later proving not too successful owing to the many weather changes. Special mention was given to Thea Parenteau, Rudy Bean, Armand Gagnon, Bill Jones, Andrew Cote and some of the 4 H boys and girls.

The next meeting will be held on March 13, at which time the roll call will be answered by a suggestion to better the meetings or community. Games were enjoyed, as was the lunch served by the committee in charge, which included two birthday cakes made by Mrs. Theo Parenteau and Mrs. Hector Roy. The cakes were in observance of the following who had birthdays in the month of February, Mrs. Bill Jones, Miss Leah Lorimer, Mrs. Theresa Cote and Mrs. Emerson Peavey.

WESTERN JAMBOREE

Plaids shirts, cowboy hats, six shooters and spurs were the order of the day, or rather evening, when the teen agers of the Three Villages gathered at the Odd Fellows' hall in Rock Island on Saturday, February 28.

The cowgirls and cowboys upon arrival threw themselves in true western style into a lively square dance. Music for the evening was supplied by "Cactus Jim and his Sunset Boys." During the evening Tommy Richer, the master of ceremonies introduced several cowboy singers of local talent, namely, Jimmie Webb, Junior Smith, Jim Belnap, George and Jimmie Mackay and Norman Bronson. Doreen Munroe and Robert Laberee also gave a few songs which were much enjoyed by all.

Lunch was served by the Misses Faye Channell, Barbara Kezar and Joan Peasley. Members of the committee for the Jamboree were the Misses Lois Hartson and Joyce Chamberlain and Messrs. Jimmie Webb, Robert Laberee and Thomas Richer.

The party was so enthusiastically enjoyed by the young western group that another Jamboree has been planned for March 28.

PINK AND BLUE SHOWER

Mrs. Gerard Lacroix and Mrs. Camille Gilbert were hostesses at a "pink and blue" shower held at the home of Mrs. Lacroix on Monday evening, February 23, the guest of honor being Mrs. Millard Mosher, of Rock Island.

After the guests had all assembled, a message was sent to Mrs. Mosher, that some one wished to speak to her on the phone. Upon entering the home she was greatly surprised to find a shower arranged for her, as she was escorted to a chair prettily trimmed in blue and white.

Mrs. Mosher was presented with a number of "Lullaby" wrapped packages, which were opened and passed around for all to admire. In a few well chosen words she expressed her appreciation to all her friends for the lovely and useful articles.

A pleasant evening of playing suitable games was enjoyed. Later the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. W. Rollins, served a delectable lunch. This included a pretty "stork" cake which was cut and passed by Mrs. Mosher.

CRYSTAL REBEKAH LODGE

Crystal Rebekah Lodge No. 14 met in regular session in the Odd Fellows' hall on February 24, with the V. G., Sister Miller, in the chair. Seventeen members were present, most of the degree team being absent.

Committees gave their reports on sick members and that the proceeds of the recently held card party amounted to seven dollars.

The meeting closed in regular form after which entertainment was provided by Sister Vera Brevoort. The round robin basket was passed and won by Sister Hattie Gignac.

A new instrument has been developed to detect underground radioactive ore, its quantity and quality, more quickly and efficiently than comparable Geiger instruments. The instrument contains a detecting element sensitive to gamma rays and can be lowered into drill holes at least 200 feet deep.

Mansonville Brownies Led By Their Brown Owl & Tawny Owl Held A Tea

Mansonville, March 9. — The Brownies, of Mansonville, under their leaders, Misses Alice Theyer, Brown Owl, and Alice Jones, of this place, Tawny Owl, held a tea and social hour at their "Thinking Day" meeting, in the gymnasium of the new Intermediate School, in Mansonville. A program entitled, "Brownies in other Lands," was given. Mothers and friends of the Brownies attended and plans were discussed with them for a "pack" holiday during the summer. The sum of $21.85 was realized from the tea and will be donated to the Netherland Flood Relief Fund, an "Apple Day" is being held this week.

They also had a farewell party in honor of Bonnie White, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. White, of the United Church, who is going to McMasterville, with her parents. Bonnie was presented with a book, "The Bobsy Twins and Their Schoolmates."

Coronation Look Popular With Our Women

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coronation-conscious Canadian women are finding much that pleases in the 1953 spring fashions.

Most centres report great popularity for the "Coronation look"—hats, coats and dresses all liberally sprinkled with a variety of sequins, pearls and other gems, a Canadian Press survey shows.

In Western Canada the crown motif is featured in bright prints and throughout the country the perinnial favorite, navy blue, takes on added significance as a Coronation color.

Despite the royal theme prices are remaining at the '52 level and fashion centres find brisk demand on spring designs, probably due to an extremely mild winter.

Cotton prints, denims and linens are finding favor among dress enthusiasts although all materials and weaves have been incorporated into the new lines. There is a definite swing to smaller, finer designs in prints, away from the large florals of recent years.

Pastels are the leaders in the color parade from Montreal to Vancouver. Pale blues, pinks, cream, greens, whites, greys and yellows are popular with an occasional dash of bright gold.

Suits are simple with light lines while many feature a square-cut "box" design, particularly in jackets. Tweeds are well received and also gabardines and worsteds. Most practical is the straight, slim shirt for combination with a light sweater or blouse.

Solid-color coats in mohair, tweed, cashmere or the ever-popular macel hair are the spring stars and here again the pastel tints are tops.

While there is no definite trend in hats they are sure to be tiny and tipped, either to the front or the side. Lighter shades are dominant and they should be decorated with jewels or flowers.

The spring stroller will probably sport bright shoes with matching bag, both in patent leather.

Arizona, with a total area of 113,956 square miles, is surpassed in size only by California, Montana, New Mexico and Texas.

Plans Made By Board Of Trustees To Enlarge Coaticook High School

Coaticook, March 9 — At a recent meeting of the board of trustees of the Coaticook High School held at the home of the secretary Mrs. S. A. Meade, the initial steps were taken in regard to the proposed addition to the school building.

The meetings was under the board chairman, A. A. Hopkins. Besides the two other members, James Barron and Alex Gill, there were several visitors present, Charles Akhurst, Stanley Beerworth, L. M. Thomas, Winston Adams, Leonard Akhurst, Stanley Cromwell, Andrew Thompson, president of the Home and School Association, and Hugh Sanderson, of Ayer's Cliff, secretary of the Stanstead County Central School Board.

It having been felt some time that the present facilities of the school are entirely inadequate and that recreational space for the children is badly needed as well as greater classroom area and a room for assemblies and group presentations, the board has been laying the groundwork for increasing these facilities and this special meeting was called to hear a report of their progress.

Mr. Sanderson outlined the steps required by the Board of Education and the provincial government in any proposed alternation or addition to a school, especially in the question of obtaining government assistance by a grant of money for the project. He also gave several suggestions whereby difficulties and delays, such as other towns in the county have experienced in recent alterations of their schools, might be avoided.

A resolution was duly passed indicating that the board is considering proposals of "an intention to build" and copies have since been posted at the Town Hall and at the home of the secretary informing the ratepayers of this intention as required by law. Authorization to contact an architect to prepare rough sketches for presentation to the authorities concerned for approval was also decided on.

Members of the school board have since this meeting visited schools at other centres in the area to get ideas and view some of the modern equipment being used at other educational buildings.

While definite plans have not been drawn up as to the size or style of the intended addition, it is expected that extensive alternations in the present building will be made and an annex will be added to the north side, which will include a large gym and a room for concerts and public meetings, as well as rooms for lab and domestic science work. The estimated cost of these alternations will be around $90,000.

CANADIAN LEGION

The March meeting of the Coaticook branch of the Canadian Legion was held at the Home on Monday evening. There were twenty members present. President Jack Brown was in the chair and in the absence of the secretary, Cde George Sarrasin, the minutes were kept by Cde Stan Beerworth.

Two visitors, S. A. Meade and Dr. W. L. Shurtleff, were introduced to the gathering by the District Commander, Ivor Whitehouse. Mr. Meade gave a report of his findings in connection with a recent land survey of the property owned by the branch made by himself. It having been ascertained that the east boundary line is not quite clear, Mr. Meade very generously offered his services free of charge to search the deeds of years past and put the matter to rights. Dr. Shurtleff kindly gave information on the legal aspects of the situation and advised that the matter been seen to and the lines cleared to the mutual satisfaction of all parties concerned. Mr. Meade and Dr. Shurtleff were heartily thanked by Cde Whitehouse on behalf of the members for their valued assistance.

The minutes of the February meeting and those of an executive meeting were read and approved. Cde Whitehouse reported on the cost of Legion official crests and blazers from various quotations.

President J. Brown gave a report on the cost of folding chairs for the Home and a sample was shown. He also reported that the wreaths had been cleared from the Cenetoph. These will be burned and the ashes scattered on the graves of departed comrades shortly. President Brown also stated that he had represented the branch at the recent farewell gathering held for W. J. Therriault.

A prospective member, Roger Stitchman, was welcomed to the meeting. His application is pending, awaiting further documents re military service.

The financial report was read and approved, and the receipts of the Mardi Gras dance were given. A vote of thanks was made to Cde Hubert Clowery for his work in connection with the dance. A vote of thanks was also given to Cde Gilbert Aulis for his donation of a covering for the president's table.

The House Rules were amended and adopted. A motion to purchase fifty new low price chairs for the Home was defeated. A subsequent motion to buy twenty five chairs of a better quality was passed. The entertainment committee, under Cde Wilfrid Lepitre is planning a St. Patrick's Day effort. Cde Bristol Smith gave a report of the canteen fund, and Cde Whitehouse gave a summary of the monthly activities of the welfare committee.

The meeting was closed by the benediction, given by the branch padre, Dr. W. B. Perry.

In spite of a number of conflicting events in the Boundary communities, there was a sizable group present, testifying to the appeal of the singers.

Extra entertainment was supplied by means of three specialty acts between the groups of numbers sung by the Meridians. "Pegtus and Cue-Ball," billed as traveling minstrels and actually [illegible] Graham and Ross Firth, appeared after the first group of numbers, and entertained the audience with humor and music (?).

Don (Sleepy) McNally appeared between the second and third groups of songs, and kept everyone laughing with his humor and singing. Larry Wheeler was the special attraction between groups three and four, and entertained the audience with his singing.

The numbers sung by the Meridians were as follows: "The Bells of St. Mary's," "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," "Whiffenpoof Song," "Cool Water," "Kentucky Babe," "Hallelujah," "Deep River," "The House by the Side of the Road," "Softly and Tenderly," "The Lord Is My Shepard," "The Lost Chord," "The Lord's Prayer," "Old Man Noah," "Roadways," "Home On the Range," and "The End of a Perfect Day."

For encores, the Meridians repeated "The Lost Chord," and "Cool Water," both numbers requested by the audience. The concert opened with the singing of "Oh! Canada," and closed with "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Jack St. Sauveur was the director of the Meridians, and Mrs. St. Sauveur furnished the accompaniments. Earl Heath acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the specialty acts, and expressing the thanks of the Derby Line Parent-Teachers Club to the Meridians for sharing their annual concert with them.

Waterloo Kiwanis Club Were Hosts To The Mayor And Councillors At Meeting

Waterloo, March 9—The members of the Waterloo Kiwanis Club were hosts at their regular weekly meeting on Tuesday night to the Mayor, His Worship Raoul Deragon, and to his group of councillors. Seven of the eight members of the council were present including Messrs. Jack Draper, pro mayor; Maurice Lalumiere, Theodore Lagrandeur, Armand Boulay, Mederic Audet, Albert Norris and Albanie Casavant. Mr. Yves Tranchemontagne was the only who was unable to be present.

President Butch Bouchard was in charge of the meeting, and there was on hand a very good attendance of members. One other guest, Mr. Clare Raymer, who attended with Kiwanian Tom. Wilkinson was present.

Mayor Deragon spoke briefly, thanking the club for their very kind gesture toward the council and mayor in having them attend a meeting of this sort, and also asked that full co-operation continue to exist between the Kiwanians and the council.

"It has always been a pleasure working with the members of your club", His Worship stated, "and it is our wish that this type of relationship shall continue to exist."

Mr. Deragon stated that it was an objective of the present group of councillors to do something to enlarge the town, and to bring here some industry that will give more citizens work. "We have had difficult times in trying to secure new industries in the past few years" Mr. Deragon continued, "but it is now our hope that shortly we will have some good news for all."

The president thanked the mayor and his members of the council for attending this meeting, stating that the Kiwanis club had always been well received at any council meeting and any demands they had to make were always well considered, and it was his wish that such may continue to be so.

The president gave a brief resume of the type of work the Kiwanis club does in town, much of it would have to be the work of the council, and the mayor noticed this fact.

Another question was brought up in connection with the wanton destruction of the beautiful trees in town. Many trees seem to be cut down, when it does not seem necessary to do so. It is true many are condemned, and must come down. Others interfere with the power lines and must be destroyed, while others are cut down for no apparent reason.

The mayor stated that he would like to see two trees planted to replace any tree that is cut down, and Kiwanian Wes. Parkes stated that the Southern Canada Power will give two trees for every one they have to cut down. It was mentioned that Waterloo had been famous for its beautiful trees, but in the last two or three years many of these beauty spots had been destroyed with apparent little reason, and this is what it was hoped could be prevented. However, if new trees are made available to anyone who has to destroy trees that are condemned then there should be little reason why the beauty of the town cannot be conserved.

If anyone in town wishes to replace trees, or to have new ones to plant, they may contact the president of the Kiwanis Club, or any member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce who can furnish trees.

Notary Armand Boulay of the town council also stated that he would be very pleased to act in this capacity as a member of the council.

The citizens of the town are requested to keep this in mind, and to act quickly in order to maintain the balance of trees in Waterloo and to help to that extent in maintaining the beauty as well.

Next week there will be a colored film on the 1952 Golf Tournament to which all golf lovers are invited to attend, at the Legion Hall, at the regular hour of six thirty.

MR. AND MRS. F. ROLLINS (Stanstead Journal Photo)

Mr. And Mrs. F. Rollins, Rock Island, Feted On Silver Wedding Anniversary

Rock Island, March 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Forest Rollins, of Rock Island, were honored guests at their silver wedding anniversary celebration held in the Beebe town hall on Saturday evening, February 21.

For the occasion the hall was artistically decorated with silver wedding bells and "25's," the windows being adorned with white garlands. At one end of the hall a long table was arranged, covered with a white cloth, embossed with silver orchids and lily-of-the-valley, and centered with the tiered wedding cake decorated in white and silver and topped with a miniature bride and groom within a wreath of tiny white blossoms. Surrounding the base of the cake were also white blossoms. White tapers in silver holders flanked the centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollins were at home playing canasta with neighbours when they were invited by their son, Dale, to accompany him to Beebe on an urgent errand. Upon arriving in Beebe they were taken to the hall where they were delightfully suprised to find a party arranged in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage which they were to observe on March 3.

Mrs. Rollins was attired in a black crepe frock, and on entering the hall was presented with a corsage of roses by their daughter, Ruby, Mrs. Roland Sheldon, who also presented her father with a carnation boutonniere. They were then escorted to two chairs decorated in white and silver. Between the chairs was a bouquet of twenty-five American Beauty roses in a silver colored basket, a gift from their three children, Ruby, Evelyn and Dale, their grandson, Bruce Sheldon, and son-in-law, Mr. Roland Sheldon.

Mrs. Rollins was presented with a lovely bouquet of spring flowers from Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bliss and Mr. Rollins with cigars, with the enclosed card "To Mr. and Mrs. Journal Kitchen from Mr. and Mrs. Editor."

Congratulations were then extended to the honored couple by relatives and friends from Rock Island, Beebe, Stanstead, Georgeville, Graniteville, Newport, Magog, Knowlton, Fitch Bay, North Hatley, Massawippi, Tomifobia and Sherbrooke.

The evening was spent dancing, with music supplied by Miss Florence Rever, Messrs. Dean Corbett, Philip Probert and James Webb, Jr. During the evening Mr. Robert Laberee sang "I Went to Your Wedding" and other selections. Duets were also rendered by Miss Mary Lou Rever and Miss Gladys Hatch, Miss Ethel Mae Lloyd and Miss Lorna Wood. The songs of these young people were much enjoyed by all.

At midnight, delicious refreshments were served. Seated with the bride and groom of the quarter century were his brothers, Mr. Howard Rollins, and Mrs. Rollins, of Fitch Bay, Mr. Harold Rollins, and Mrs. Rollins, of Stanstead, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sheldon and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bliss, of Beebe.

Mr. Sheldon had been master of ceremonies for the square dances and at the midnight hour, on behalf of the many friends gathered and others who were unable to be present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Rollins with a lovely tea service, consisting of sugar, creamer, tea and coffee pot and tray, a pair of candlesticks and a pair of salt and peppers, all in the grape design, a substantial sum of money, and a crystal bowl with silver deposit from their godson, Arthur Halsall, Jr., and his sister, Ann.

In a few well-chosen words both Mr. and Mrs. Rollins expressed their appreciation to all. The couple then made the initial cut of the wedding cake which was passed around.

RECTORY HILL

Friends of Mrs. Joseph Miles are glad to know that she is able to be up and around again, after spending several weeks in bed.

Messrs. Ralph Patterson and Antonio Turcotte spent a day in Plessisville, on business.

Georgeville, were married in Sherbrooke on March 3, 1928, Rev. G. Ellery Read officiating at the ceremony. The couple have been blessed with three children, a son Dale, who is employed at the Stanstead Journal office, and two daughters, Ruby, Mrs. Roland Sheldon, and Miss Evelyn Rollins, who is employed in the office at the Union Twist Drill Co., Rock Island.

The hundreds of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Rollins join in congratulating them on their anniversary.

MANSONVILLE

One Fourth Night, the F. F. members met with Mr. and Mrs. R. Tomuschat for a social evening. Cards were played at two tables and after the games, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next Forum meeting was held at Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lamoureux's with the topics, "Rural Schools Still Lag", "Survey Shows" "Is Equality in Education Possible."

The answers were (a) Yes. We think that rural children have as good education opportunities as town or city children, up to Grade X.

(b) We have an Intermediate (consolidated) school and having the new school, better teachers are enticed to teach there. Rural children an brought in by school buses.

(c) Shortage of teachers—give higher wages and attract more men teachers and we have better schools.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to 14 guests present.

Mr. John Young and son Robert were business visitors in Waterloo and Knowlton.

What makes a toaster get hot, Daddy?

"Resistance makes a toaster get hot. When you try to push your way through a door and Jim resists you or tries to push you back, you get hot. And when electricity tries to push its way through some metals, they resist and get hot too. The wire in toaster elements is made of a mixture of nickel and chromium, and gets hot just like the filament in an electric light bulb."

"Why doesn't it melt, Dad?"

"Wire made of some metals like iron would burn away in a second. In the early days they had trouble finding a metal that would last. Certain nickel alloys heat up very quickly, and can stay very hot over long periods of time without scaling or warping. That's one of the reasons why nickel from Canadian mines is so much in demand."

Thetford Mines Wins Basketball Championship Of E.T.

Mining Town Crew Edges Battery, 42-41, To Take Game Series, 2-1; Travel To Quebec City On Saturday

Thetford Aces are champions of the Eastern Townships Basketball League.

The mining-town crew defeated 35th Battery of Sherbrooke 42-41 before 300 fans at the Belvidere Street Armoury Saturday night.

Previous to that, Battery had whipped Aces 45-39 in the first of the best-of-three series. After that the miners had defeated Sherbrooke 66-51.

Even so, many fans thought the Thetford win was a fluke, since the Battery had gone through 15 games without a defeat, two wins being against Aces, one by one point and one by a dozen points.

But Thetford clung tenaciously to their confidence and with a thrilling zone defence took Battery 2-1 in games to advance into the Provincial playdowns.

Thetford Aces will represent this region in the Quebec playoffs against the regional champions to decide the Provincial Intermediate winner.

The finals are being held at Quebec City this week-end.

The veteran Eric Pharo paced Thetford to victory with 13 points. Eric, who played center up to this season, switched to guard, and was a standout both offensively and defensively.

Guy Samson and Albert Nakash, both with 10 points, were other high point-getters for Thetford Mines while Bob Moore and Irwin Komery were other stars for Jack McCammon's men.

The entire Thetford team played heads-up ball to win and in the dying minutes of the game George McCammon, brother of the Aces' coach, intercepted several passes which might have gone for Battery scores.

Thetford led 19-16 at the half and with three minutes to play Aces had a 5-point margin. Miner Irwin Komery had two free throws but missed both of them. Battery tied the game on field goals by George Beaulieu and Al Hunting and a foul throw but after Battery had scored another free throw and missed the second Marcel Samson scored a phenomenal rebound shot that put the visitors ahead to stay.

George Beaulieu with 14 points and Al Hunting with 10 points were best scorers for Ken Jackson's Battery crew.

Summary:

Thetford Aces: Marcel Samson 1, Irwin Komery 3, Guy Samson 2, Nakash 10, George McCammon 4, Pharo 13, Bob Komery, Moore, Vaudry, McNaughton. Total—42

35th Battery: Beaulieu 14, Hunting 10, Petts 5, Stafford 4, Boland 1, McFarlane 1, Ethier 6, Evans, Goodhue, Smith. Total—41.

Referees: Emmett Jones, Montreal; Dave Turnbull, Sherbrooke.

Jean Lessard Wins E. T. Combined Title With Brother Rolland Second; Hillcrest Captures 7th Team Title

Jean Lessard, the Hillcrest whiz, chalked up a percentage of 289 out of a possible 300 to win the Eastern Townships Combined title on his home grounds yesterday.

The blond speedster blasted the giant slalom in 52.4 seconds, away ahead of his nearest rival brother Rolland Lessard, who had 58.2. Another Lessard, Rodolphe, also had 58.2.

Jean had to take a seventh place in the slalom as his brother Rolland and Ian Thorburn, St. Johns, tied with 35.0 seconds.

Jean blasted the Atomic Trail twice for a total time of 77.4 seconds while Ray Kelly, St. Johns, was second with 79.1 and Rolland Lessard was third with 79.4.

For the seventh consecutive year the Hillcrest Ski Club won the team championships. Each club enters teams of five men each with the four best to count. A club may enter as many teams as they wish but the skiers must be named prior to the race. The Hillcrest No. 1 team, winners of the title, were: Jean Lessard, Rolland Lessard, Rodolphe Lessard, Andy Bruygom and Captain Robert Therrien.

Two teams tied for second place in the standings, the Hillcrest No. 2 team and the Manoir Orford No. 1 team. Incidentally, the Hillcrest No .1 team had 1115.7 per cent while the runners-up had 975.8 and the third place Mt. Orford No. 1 team had 953.0. The Mt. Orford No. 2 team had an even 800 points while St. Johns with 709 took sixth place. The St. Johns team, however, were minus the services of one of their star skiers and two of their skiers were disqualified in the closed slalom—a real tricky course which sent more than one skiers to his doom.

Guy Kelly Hurt

Guy Kelly, a member of a famous skiing family from St. Johns, suffered a compound fracture of the leg when he ran into and uprooted a three-inch in diameter tree after failing to turn at the finish line. The brave speedster was taken to Sherbrooke Hospital by ambulance.

Blast Atomic

The some 45 skiers who took part in the meet really tore down the Atomic Trail. Jean Lessard on his first trip down the speedway covered the three-quarter mile trail in 38.1 seconds. He was not wasting any time.

The giant slalom was set on the slip and the closed slalom on the Rocket.

In addition to the E. T. open meet the Hillcrest Club championships were held with the same race.

Needless to say, Jean Lessard won the combined title and the only trophy he missed out on was the slalom, won by brother Rolland.

In the ladies' division Mrs. Mary Pitt, E.T. ladies' champion, won the club title for women competing over the same courses as the men.

Pierre Bertrand won the junior club and junior open titles while Harvey Lothrop was the runner-up, in both events.

Following the races the trophies and prizes were presented to the winners at a banquet held in the Lodge.

The banquet was also the club closing and both the E. T. and club awards were presented.

Invited guests for the occasion were: Mayor Emile Levesque and Miss Claire Levesque, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Therrien, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Legare, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Croteau, Miss Constance Roy and Johnny Morgan, Charles Kelly, St. Johns, and Charles Bergeron, chairman of trails and competition for the Eastern Townships.

Gordon Harmer, president of the E.T.S.Z. and president of the Hillcrest Ski Club, presided.

Codere Ltd., of Sherbrooke, generously donated a pair of skis and Walter Blue and Co. Ltd. donated a sweater—both awarded as prizes. There were some 25 trophies and cups presented.

American Trio Cops Invitation Mile

Hamilton — (CP) — The Grand Street Boys of New York — Mal Whitfield, Andy Stanfield, Herb McKenley and George Rhoden — put on a dazzling exhibition of running Saturday night at the Hamilton Armories.

The United States quartet — running against McGill University and University of Toronto in an invitation mile relay — covered the distance in three minutes and 19 and fourth-fifth seconds. They spotted the two Canadian colleges eleven-second starts but when McKenley, running as an anchor for the U. S. squad, crossed the finish line he was some 40 yards in front.

Stanfield broke another record in the 300-yard invitation, finishing in 32.1. He beat McKenley, former holder of the record, by about two feet in establishing the new Canadian mark.

In the 60-yard open event, Mary Macdonald of Toronto's East York club, established what is believed to be a world's record for women when she stepped the distance in 6.8 seconds. The previous mark of 6.9 was sent in 1928 by Helen Stephens of Fulton, Mo.

Bob Gilmour Cops Ski Championships

Fort William, Ont.— (CP) —Bob Gilmour, 18, a student at Mount Royal high school, Montreal captured major honors at the two-day Canadian ski championships during the week-end.

The team championship was won by Ottawa. They built up a total of 813.168 points. The combined Fort William-Port Arthur team was second.

Saints Come Up With Fighting Display To Edge Royals

Jacques Locas Gets Winner As Locals Win 4-3 In Overtime; Dube Notches Two As Dion Stars

By LEN O'DONNELL
Sherbrooke Record Sport Editor

Montreal — Sherbrooke Saints came up with a fighting display at the Montreal Forum yesterday afternoon in the closing minutes of the game to chalk up a 4-3 overtime decision over Pete Morin's Royals and post their first victory in the quarter-finals four-out-of-seven series before 10,000 fans.

The Royals lead the series 2-1 in games and the fourth tilt will be played at the Sherbrooke Arena tomorrow evening at 9:00 with the fifth returning to the Forum Thursday evening.

Jacques Locas tallied the winner after three minutes of overtime while Gilles Dube got the equalizer in the third period. Dube also registered the first goal while Tod Campeau accounted for the other. For the Montrealers Jimmy Moore, Gerry Desaulniers and Lulu Denis were the marksmen.

The Saints came through with a real fighting display as they were forced to come from behind after holding a 2-0 lead in the first frame but the Dugre men rose to the occasion and outfought the Royals in the third and overtime to post their win. The defense lead by Bob Drainville and Pete "Big Train" Wright turned in a fine exhibition of blocking and rushing with Guy Labrie and Ronnie Matthews clearing well in the clutches.

The new changes effectived by Coach Dugre when he reshifted his lines work well as all three lines played good sound two-way hockey. The locals packed plenty of fight and spirit and after a good start and after the Royals took over the Saints came through with plenty of drive and fight to knot the count and then win out in the overtime.

Roger Leger drew a penalty just after the opening minute but the Saints couldn't get organized in fact Gerry Plamondon and Cliff Malone were in alone on Dion but their efforts were kicked aside.

With both sides back at full strength Lewar Thompson came back with a hard drive to lift Douglas' stick just in front before he could let go with his drive. Frampton got the thumb for tripping and the Saints took over.

Saints Tally Two Quick Ones

While the Royals' winger was sitting out his enforced rest Gilles Dube pulled the trigger on the first goal when he let go with a pass which hit McAtee's stick to deflect into the meshings. A minute later Guy Labrie rifled one from the blueline and Tod Campeau just tipped it in the opposite corner to fool McAtee completely.

Pete Wright went off for charging and although Douglas was close Ronnie Mathews came up with the save on the edge of the goal crease. Moore and Matthews went off together for roughing but Wright returned to ease the situation. When the boys returned Cliff Malone went off for holding and just after a faceoff near centre Jimmy Moore snared a loose alone with McAtee at their mercy the gong sounded saving the sorrell-topped net minder.

Play had barely opened in the middle period when Rene Pepin was fooled at the blueline when Frampton stole the disc and relaid it over to Emundson and his shot hit the post to trickle in and tie the game at 2-2. Clune and Plamondon came right back as the Royals were forcing the play.

Edmundson got away and he rifled his shot Lulu Denis broke in fast to snare the rebound and put the Royals out in front 3-2 on a fast play.

Guy Labrie went off for interference when a Royal broke out alone and during his absence Bob Drainville rushed away after stopping a hard shot with one man back and Tremblay. The lanky rearguard faked a shot and laid over a pass but his mate missed the golden opportunity when he had McAtee at his mercy from close range.

Douglas led the Royals back but Drainville and Dion held onto the loose rubber right in front of the nets. Tod Campeau was right in and after picking up a loose puck he couldn't lift the disc over McAtee's extended leg as the red-headed goalie finally managed to snare the disc.

uJst before the gong sounded Nils Tremblay and Gary Edmundson went off together for using their elbows on each other and that was the way the final period opened with both sides playing minus a player.

Notches Equalizer

GILLES DUBE

Locas got in close but McAtee cut off the angle and saved. Right after Wywrot got the nod for charging but he got back before anything happened. Saints commenced to drive at this stage but they couldn't get the disc behind McAtee.

Pete Wright went off just after the halfway mark and the Royals were all over the Saints but Dion and company stood the pressure and came through. Wright returned and the Saints took to the attack.

Gilles Dube Gets Equalizer

Bobby Pepin stopped a shot and broke away with one Royal rearguard back. He relaid it over to Matthews and the defenseman made a perfect pass to Dube who drove the rubber between McAtee's legs to even the count just after thirteen minutes of play.

Pete Wright got clipped in the face just after this and withdraw to the clinic for repairs. Bobby Frampton got away in the clear but his shot missed the corner. Locas got away but his drive was stopped by McAtee. He came right back but again his effort was turned aside.

Frampton was away but Dion stopped him in his tracks from 10 feet out. Gilles Dube was away but instead of passing he tried for a shot and Leger fell to save. They came right back but nothing happened before the gong sounded for the overtime.

The overtime had got underway when Edmundson put Denis in the clear but Dion got the drive on his toe to turn it aside. The Saints kept driving but failed to click.

Locas Gets Winner

Jacques Locas missed three times right in front of the net but then he came back after taking passes from Pete Wright and Nils Tremblay for what proved to be the winning goal. Connie Dion came up with three top saves right after this from the edge of his crease.

In the last minute of play Coach Morin yanked McAtee and although they had the extra man they failed to accomplish anything with two faceoffs deep in Sherbrooke territory. With seconds left the Saints got the disc out and held on till the final gong to end the game.

Wynn And Doby Agree To Terms

Tucson, Ariz. —(AP)— Pitcher Early Wynn and outfielder Larry Doby ended holdouts early today and signed contracts with Cleveland Indians.

Wynn put his name on the dotline for $36,000—$4,000 less than he asked and $1,000 more than general manager Hank Greenberg had offered previously. The new pact represents a $4,000 boost for the big righthander who won 23 games last season.

Doby's salary terms were not known immediately. Reporters said he had turned down a $25,000 offer earlier. That would have been a $4,000 boost from last season.

The Tribe's only remaining first spring holdout—second baseman Bob Avila—is expected to sign Tuesday.

Tigers Edge Maroons 2-1 After Thirty-One Minutes Of Overtime; Cop Series In Four Straight Games

Waterloo, March 9—A goal by Bobby Newton after thirty-one minutes and fifty-four seconds of overtime gave the Victoriaville Tigers a 2-1 decision over the Waterloo Maroons in a heavy checking, wide open fixture here yesterday afternoon before a sellout crowd.

The victory enabled the Vigneau men to wrap up the series in four straight and they now wait for the winners of the Drummondville-Magog series to be determined.

Ab Norris' team put up one of their best fights of the season and kept pace with league champs the whole way. Ed Murphy opened the scoring for the Tigers but Billy Mcdonald knotted the count and sent the game into overtime. Each team had good opportunities but the goalies kept them at bay.

After the regular ten-minutes of overtime neither side had managed to break the stalemate and after a rest they opened the second overtime period. Guimond and Marchand drew penalties but their mates held the fort during their absence. In the second overtime Champagne got the nod but once again the Tigers held the fort and kept the Maroons off the score sheet.

Red Wings Coast To Fifth NHL Hockey Championship By Dumping Maple Leafs Twice; Canadiens Split

Until a better one comes along, Detroit Red Wings will do as the best hockey team of the 1950's, and possibly of the next decade or two to follow.

The Wings coasted to their precedent-shattering fifth straight National Hockey League title during the week-end, wiping out the record they previously shared with the Montreal Canadiens of the mid-1940's and the Boston Bruins of approximately five years earlier.

The way they did it underlined their supremacy. Up against Toronto Maple Leafs desperately fighting for a playoff spot, in a home-and-home doubleheader, they whipped them 3-0 at Toronto Saturday, even though the Leafs checked top-ssoring Gordie Howe to a virtual standstill. Line-mate Ted Lindsay fired the first and winning goal.

At Detroit Sunday the Leafs turned their attention to Lindsay, who had scored nine goals in his last four games. They kept him off the score-sheet, but Howe broke through to score the winning goal and the Wings went on to a 3-1 victory.

And while Howe and Lindsay were firing the pay-off goals, others were adding to the victory margin. Defenceman Red Kelly slapped home his 10th goal Saturday, drawing within one of the record set for blue-liners by Flash Hollett of the 1945 Wings. Reg Sinclair took a pass from Kelly for the third tally.

On Sunday it was Harcel Monin and Tony Leswick, both generally known as deefnsive forwards, who made the grade. Tod Sloan gave the Leafs a brief lead in the second period.

Toronto's only break was that their chief rivals for playoff positions had the minimum of success in their week-end campaigning. Chicago Black Hawks, in third place, stayed three points ahead of the Leafs by losing 1-0 to Montreal Canadiens and 2-1 to Boston Bruins.

The Bruins blew a 2-1 verdict to the last-place New York Rangers before breaking their fourth-place tie with the Leafs with their victory over Chicago. Meanwhile the Rangers, shorn of their last mathematical chance for a play-off spot, knocked off the Canadiens 4-3.

A first-period marker by Billy Reay stood up for the Canadiens' victory over the Hawks as goalie Gerry McNeil stopped 29 shots in chalking up his 10th shutout of the season-tops in the NHL. But on Sunday he had rougher going.

Wally Hergesheimer, who had fired both New York markers against the Bruins the previous night, beat him in the early seconds of the second period after Maurice Richard had put Montreal one up with his first Madison Square Garden goal in more than a year.

Then Ron Murphy, Nick Mickoski and Harry Howell all scored within nine minutes of third-period play to salt the game away for the New Yorkers. A second tally by Richard and one by Floyd Curry made it close before the game ended.

The Bruins split a couple of hairbreadth decisions, as they struggled unsuccessfully for the tying goal against the Rangers after Johnny Peirson had matched one of Hergesheimer's goals Saturday night, then successfully overcame a Chicago lead to win their Sunday contest on Jerry Toppazzini's last-period tally.

The Hawks' Jimmy McFadden and Boston's Peison had scored within less than half a minute of each other in the opening game.

All teams are idle until Wednesda ynight, when the Wings will sek to stretch their current winning streak to eight games at the expense of the Rangrs in Nw York.

QSHL QUITS QAHA TO OPERATE INDEPENDENTLY

Quits CAHA To Carry On; Relations With Pro Leagues Will Be Accorded; Can't Be Suspended By Parent Body

Montreal — (CP) — One of the greatest upheavals in Canadian hockey came into clearer focus today with a clean break by the powerful Quebec Senior Hockey League from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Under threat of suspension by the CAHA, the league decided yesterday, without a dissenting vote, to set out as an independent organization.

Representatives of the seven clubs were told by president George Slater that he is satisfied all rights and protection enjoyed by the QSHL in its relation to professional leagues through the CAHA will be accorded under the new set-up.

To bring about the break with the CAHA, the QSHL had to resign from its own governing branch, the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, with which it has no quarrel whatever.

The QAHA was suspended Feb. 28 by the CAHA for defying an edict of the CAHA. The dispute involved the playing status of 18-year-old Ron Attwell, now with Montreal Canadien juniors of the Junior Amateur Hockey Association.

The QAHA maintained it was within its rights and within regulations of the CAHA by issuing Attwell a playing certificate. The CAHA held otherwise.

Component leagues of the QAHA have stood by the Quebec branch's decisibn. No league or club was suspended by the CAHA when it took this action against the branch. But all are threatened with suspension of they don't align themselves with the CAHA on the issue by March 10.

It was this prospect that brought about the league's resignation—effective immediately the motion was carried.

President Slater said if the league were suspended there would be complications over the CAHA agreement with professional leagues. Also, if the QSHL wanted to engaged in a series with a pro league, the agreement again might be affected.

"If we are an independent body we cannot be suspended by the CAHA," he said. As to the professional leagues, "I have satisfield myself that our rights will be protected."

Hockey observers assessed by QSHL's action and the possible results this way:

1. The CAHA has lost its most powerful major circuit, whose annual gates in schedule and playoffs rate it a $1,000,000 concern. The Maritime Major League is the only other circuit of that rating left. Ontario teams do not operate in the major series. The Western league has been a pro loop for a couple of years.

2. The annual Alexander Cup series—between the two major leagues—is wiped out.

3. The new QSHL, controlling 200 players at least of minor league professional calibre, can remain amateur as a separate amateur entity still working in agreement with the National Hockey League and other pro leagues. It can also arrange playoffs series with one or more of the minor circuits. A playoff this year with the Western league has already been talked about.

4. The new organization, continuing as an amateur body, can rejoin the QAHA—possibly by next season—if the dispute with the CAHA is settled.

5. The final status of the junior and lower-rank senior sections of the QAHA is not yet determined. If satisfactory agreement is reached with the CAHA, they can enter Memorial Cup and Allan Cup play after their current playoffs.

The resignation resolution was moved by Frank Carlin of Montreal Royals and seconded by Roland Herbert of Chicoutimi Saguenens. When it passed, QAHA president Martin Conway said it was accepted and gave the new independent organization his blessing.

In Midland, Ont., secretary-manager George Dudley of the CAHA reaffirmed a statement he made Saturday, saying "The CAHA does not recognize the right of any league to withdraw this way at any time it desires."

Unless QSHL "signifies its intention to continue with the CAHA by March 10 it will be suspended," and the CAHA will insist the National Hockey League recognize this suspension as the agreement between the two bodies provies."

Letters confirming the resignation were sent out by Slater. One to Dudley said suspension action "against our league and our clubs would be completely unwarranted and unfair."

A letter of Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL., said the new league will carry out all obligations to professional bodies and will enter a new agreement if necessary. Recognition of the new league was asked.

Intent Cops Top Capistrano Classic

Arcadia, Calif.—(AP)—Brookfield Farm's favored Intent captured the $100,000 San Juan Capistrano Handicap for the second straight year Saturday and with the triumph went a grand slam for jockey Eddie Arcaro in Santa Anita's four richest races this season.

Returning to the winning form he displayed a year ago, the five-year-old Intent, a Kentucky-bred chestnut, played hide and seek for the greater part of the race with first one, and then another rival.

Then, in the turn for home in the long mile and three-quarter battle, Arcaro sent Intent into a drive and they coasted in by five lengths.

The El Refgugio Ranch of Mexico saddled the runner-up, Don Rebelde, another Kentucky horse who won his chief fame in Mexico last year.

Trusting, owned by Mrs. Rea Warner, ran third, three-quarters of a length behind the Don.

The time was 2:55 3-5. Intent paid $5.70, $4.10 and $2.90; Don Rebelde $6.90 and $3.90, and Trusting $2.60.

All the goals were scored in overtime.

Twenty-one seconds after the overtime period started, Jack Irvine completed a passing play with Larry Kwong and Georges Bougie, and beat Gelineau from the Aces' blue-line with a low, hard shot.

But Quebec came back quickly and at 1.05, Gay Stewart was sent into the clear by Eddie Harrison and Joe Kraiger and deadlocked the count with a back-hand shot from 10 feet out.

Then came the payoff play. Carnegie led a rush, fed the puck to Jean Brillant. Brillant shoved it ahead to Kraiger who gave it back to Carnegie, parked five feet in front of Leclerc. His shot beat the Valleyfield netminder clearly.

Paul Brunet, Coaticook, President Of Stanstead County Fish And Game Club

Ayer's Cliff, March 9. — Paul Brunet of Coaticook was named president of the Stanstead County Fish and Game Club at the annual meeting held on Tuesday evening, at St. George's Hall, Ayer's Cliff. Mr. Brunet succeeds Charles Crawford, who has served as president for four years and has given generously of his time and labor for the good of the Club and the conservation of wild life within the county.

The meeting was called to order by President Crawford, who called upon the secretary Paul Picard, for the annual report. Mr. Picard gave the highlights of the year's activities, which include the screening of Crystal Lake, Stanstead, the purpose of the screen being to prevent fish going into the outlet brook. Last May the Club joined the Film Club, and on July 1, entered a float in the Beebe Dominion Day parade, this was also entered in Newport parade on Independence Day, July 4, and the float won a trophy. This was since been suitably engraved by the club.

The club's annual banquet was held last May with a good record crowd attending both the banquet and the meeting. In September the annual chicken shoot was held at the T. A. Peasley farm at Dufferin. The Wallace Pond dam was built but has not yet been paid for. The membership of the past year was approximately 600, a little lower than the previous year.

Harold Hall, treasurer, gave the financial statement, showing a cash balance of $870.92. However a number of bills were presented at this meeting.

It was reported that three game wardens will be sworn in at once in the Magog district. It was decided to write a letter to Gustave Prevost in Montreal asking the government to again clean out undesirable fish in Lake Lester at Baldwin's Mills.

An article written by William Hebert, of Beebe Plain, was read. As this was a story on fish stocking it was especially interesting to the club. Later a vote of thanks was given to Mr. Hebert for the mention of the work of this club in the article.

The retiring president, Mr. Crawford, expressed his thanks to the all members who had given him their support the past years he was in office. Mr. Crawford also thanked the two men who had guarded Crystal Lake against unlawful fishing during the ice cutting season, namely James Kenrick and E. Parenter.

Albert Young, chairman of the nominating committee, taking the chair presented the following slate of officers for the ensuing year: President, Paul Brunet, Coaticook; vice-president, Grover Dustin, Magog; secretary, Stanley Cromwell, Coaticook; treasurer, Harold Hall, Rock Island. Directors: Stanstead, Charles Crawford, John Boucher, Albert Young, and Roland Roderique; Rock Island, Maurice Bushnell; Beebe, Clayton Wing and Raymond Peacock; Tomifobia, Arthur Gosselin; Georgeville, M. Rolfe; Ayer's Cliff, George Simoneau; Hatley, Ronald McClary; Magog H. Whittier, Ernest Fields, W. McGill, Leonard Deseve, R. E. White and H. Tanguay; Coaticook, Gerard Lessard, A. Thibodeau, Mr. Jackson, R. Favreau, A. Duquis, and D. J. Lessard.

These named were all accepted by acclamation. The newly elected president taking the chair, first thanked the retiring president for his splendid work with the club within the county the past four years and all members gave Mr. Crawford hearty applause. Remarks were also given by the new vice-president, Mr. Dustin.

Mr. Brunet asked the continued co-operation of all club members and proceeded to name the following committees. Membership: secretary to be in charge of the membership cards, assisted by Ernest Fields, Magog, Raoul Favreau, Coaticook, Maurice Bushnell, Rock Island; construction committee, Moise Joyal, Rock Island, H. Tanguay, Magog and Andre Dupuis, Coaticook. Mr. Brunet explained what the Film membership meant, that the Film Club was made up of films from the the National Film Board and this club was entitled to have one film showing each month. The committee was composed of D. Jacques, Coaticook, Donald Jenks, Magog, Gordon Stuart and Charles Crawford, for the Border villages.

Albert Young was named to be in charge of making the arrangements for the annual banquet to be held on June 16. It was decided to hold it in Ayer's Cliff as this is the most central place for all members. Warren Soutiere was named to be in charge of the raffle of a boat, motor and mixer and toaster to be raffled at the banquet.

Discussion was held regarding doing something about stocking Lake Memphremagog with larger fish. Remarks were made by Mr. Brunet, Mr. Dustin and Mr. Crawford and it was thought it would be more beneficial to the waters for fishing if the fish deposited were 12 or more inches long. Nothing definite was decided and a directors' meeting will be called following a conference to be held Sunday, March 8, in Magog.

Mr. Fields stated that as long as application has been made to the government to open O'Malley Pond for fishing on May 24 of this year, the building of a road to the lake should receive attention from the club. Remarks were heard from Douglas Lee who owns the land, giving right of way to the lake, from Mr. Fields and others, it was decided to have Mr. Tanguay form a committee of his chosing and investigate costs of building a road, etc., and report at a later date.

Arrangements were made for the printing and distributing of posters regarding the coming open fishing season. A motion was also made that a letter be written to Charles Fremont, Quebec, asking that the limit of one day's catch from all county stocked lakes be placed at five pounds or ten fish, instead of the present catch of eight pounds.

Discussion was held regarding Abbott's pond for the children within the county where kids can come one day a week and catch the limit under supervision of a club member, some members suggested Saturday, others Sunday as the day for fishing. It was suggested that the limit be three fish each, all over seven inches in length. The pond is at present stocked only with 800 fish and a number of these are less than the legal seven inches. Charles Crawford was named to be in charge and name a committee to work with him.

It was decided to have a roll call of all the officers at every regular meeting. The meeting adjourned.

A county game warden wishes to make public an occurance the later part of February. He received a call stating that in the "Owl's Head Mountain" district three dogs were chasing a buck deer. This is, of course very much against the laws for the conservation of wild life. The warden, picked up a couple of deputy wardens and went to the place. As reported, there they found the buck breathing its last. However, he had in some way managed to kill one of his attachers, the dog. The owner of the dog was notified and a fine imposed. The deer meat was taken to an Old Folks Home within the county. The warden wants this story known as a warning to all dog owners to beware of their dogs and to try to prevent a re-occurance of this incident.

Quebec Book Store Established In 1844 Has Changed

By BERTRAND THIBAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec — (CP) — A Quebec book store which has not changed much since it was established in 1844 is run by a spry 82-year-old man who is apparently unimpressed by high-pressure sales methods.

J. P. Garneau has retained his store's traditions and customs of the last century when there were no clients and clerks as such, but only friends who haggled over books on display.

There is no catalogue for the 40,000 titles—400,000 books—in the store founded by Octave Cremazie, the father of French-Canadian poetry, but the clerks have been around so long that they have every title and author on their finger tips.

Mr. Garneau, who has a prodigious memory, has sold books to cardinals, members of the French Academy and leading international personalities who visited Quebec. The youth who earned $60 a year in 1891 as a clerk in his uncle's wholesale fruit and vegetable business at one time counted Prime Minister St. Laurent as a director of his firm.

Among customers of international fame who have come to shop in a leisurely fashion Mr. Garneau recalls British Foreign Secretary Eden and the former French Foreign minister, Robert Schuman, who bought books on Canada during visits here.

Others include Louis Bertrand and Rene Bazin, late members of the French Academy.

As a delivery clerk Mr. Garneau lacked the benefits of a profit-sharing plan such as he established for his own employees. He entered the book business when his uncle refused to raise his wages to $100 a year.

A starting out in partnership with Samuel Chaperon, who had acquired Cremazie's business earlier, Mr. Garneau became sole owner three years later.

"Librairie Garneau Ltee," a landmark of the Latin quarter in the shadow of Quebec's Notre Dame Basilica, may be the only place in the world where religious books are found in shelves above the "inferno," a small display of books with doubtful moral value.

If a book is suddenly listed on the "index," the Roman Catholic Church's list of banned books., those in stock—no matter how many—are dumped into the store's furnace to help heat the four-storey building.

Mr. Garneau recalled that when he became sole owner of the store he set out to make it the most complete in town. His first problem was to import books from France.

One day he ordered a few hundred copies of a biography of St. Francis of Assisi. He was sure he could sell them like hot cakes to Roman Catholic orders or lay members of the third order of St. Francis. He did, until a priest walked in waving a copy at arm's length.

It seems that a member of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd had been reading the biography aloud during meals when, all at once here were blushing faces around the table.

"This book," Mr. Garneau quoted the nuns' chaplain as saying 'is by Paul Sabatier, a Protestant who attacks the church and its dogma."

Mr. Garneau promptly committed to the fire all of Sabatier's books still in stock.

There have been "queer" customers, too. One man, equipped with a foot rule, measured out $400 worth of books to fit perfectly into a book case he had built for his living room.

Another, an old farmer, got down on his knees to plead with a clerk for a copy of "Le Petit Albert."

Little Albert a book on sorcery used by old time Quebecers. The farmer claimed a treasure was buried on his land and he hoped to find it through black magic methods alleged to be given in the book.

The clerk tried without success to explain the book was not in stock. Finally, he sold the treasure hunter a biography of Albert I, King of the Belgians, and sent him away.

Some years ago, Mr. Garneau established a touring exhibition of books with showings in colleges and seminaries in many points of Quebec province. A salesman then goes around to take up orders.

Mr. Garneau claims fewer novels are sold now than a generation ago. The demand for travel and adventure books is growing while religious books are popular among laymen.

The "flying typewriter," a printer which can reproduce "Gone With the Wind" from magnetic tape in two hours, has been designed to print a line at a time, 80 characters to the line, and to handle 300 lines a minute. It prints from coded tape directly, or from code signals sent over wires.

U. S. Statesman Pulls Gag But Gets No Laugh

By HOWARD GRAVES

Little Rock, Ark. — (AP) — It started out as a gag and harried state representative Jim Bruton wants everyone to know he was just kidding.

Bruton introduced a bill in the Arkansas house of representatives to slap a $750 annual tax on bachelors in the state. The bill defined a bachelor as any male, 21 or over, who has single or not living with his spouse.

The 39-year-old freshman legislator, a happily married man with two sons, suddenly found himself besieged with a deluge of mail, telegrams, phone calls and harsh knocks on his door.

A group of unmarried Little Rock girls quickly formed the Apasbbhauw-short for the Association for the Prevention of Alarming and Stampeding Bachelors Beyond the Hopes of Arkansas' Unmarried Women—and in radio interviews and newspaper columns vigorously protested passage of the bill.

Constituents and fellow house members pestered Bruton with pleas of "kill the bill, kill the bill." Newspaper editors wrote stinging editorials.

Some bachelors threatened to leave the state for positions elsewhere. This further worried the Apasbbhauw.

Hastily, Bruton declared the bill was "all a joke." He withdrew the measure and pleaded "let's drop the whole thing."

A bachelor member of the house, who declined use of his name, confessed the whole thing was designed as a joke on him.

"They were all kidding me, back in the rear rows of the house, about some marriage bill we were considering and telling me how much harder it was going to be for me to persuade some girl to take me on for life.

"Then somebody thought up the bachelors' tax bill and the first thing I knew they were telling me how much it was going to cost me to stay single another year."

Six Canadians In 72-Ft. Yacht Making Round-World Trip

Ottawa — (CP) — Seven young people, six of them Canadians, sailed through wild Mediterranean seas the first portion of their round-the-world cruise aboard a 72-foot ketch.

The voyage to the historic island of Capri was a side trip for the crew of the "Memory". They bought the ketch in England and planned to cross the Atlantic from Gilbraltar as the first major leg of their two-year world cruise.

They were successful on the Capri trip, although one of the storms nearly piled them up on the rocky shore of Sardinia.

The story of their travels is being written by Bruce Kirby, 23-year-old reporter on leave of absence from the Ottawa Journal, in periodic instalments.

The others are Cameron Rougvie, 30, and his wife, Marianne, Don Burwash, 20, and Eddy Hughes, 22, all of Ottawa; Kelly Brownson, 29, of Eldorado, Ont., and Ralph Menhenick, 28, of Hamble, England, who joined the ship before it left England.

The first storm struck Dec. 17, as the Memory sailed from Algiers toward Capri.

Chased by the storm, the boat reached the treacherous west coast of Sarnia about dusk. Caught between the storm and the coast, the crew headed south in hopes of covering the 15 miles to the southwest trip of the island.

Just before dark the base of the mizzen mast worked loose and sail had to be taken in to save the mast. That left them with only the little staysail to control headway.

"We were in a tight spot—the kind of a spot where a lot of searoom to leeward is a comforting thought," wrote Kirby. "We had only a few miles of sea room."

The auxiliary diesel engine was started as the Memory ran broadside to the gale. Wind and waves repeatedly rolled the hatch up, until water was knee deep on deck.

"Waves broke over her deck and slammed her topsides and starboard bottom with sickening thuds. She was knocked down and battered . . . Every third or fourth wave broke over her. The others just blanketed her with spray," wrote Kirby.

"She kept coming back for more and what was more surprising, she kept good headway through the whole thing."

The storm gradually abated. The light at the southwest tip of Sardinia was sighted and for the rest of the night the ketch circled close to the light until daylight arrived to show the way to the south-coast port of Cagliari.

After refitting, the crew set out Dec. 21, hoping to reach Capri 200 miles away by Christmas Day. That night they ran into another storm. This time with lots of open water they hove to and waited out the storm for 16 hours, leaving the ketch to keep her nose into a 45-knot gale as it drifted slowly downwind.

"It was a comfortable relaxed feeling riding out the gale in this manner," Kirby wrote. "But at midnight it became Dec. 23 and we wanted to be in Capri for Christmas."

After the storm abated, it took all one day and the next night to reach Capri. The morning sun on the day before Christmas "showed us Capri raising steeply out of the sea about five miles ahead."

"We sailed along the southern, or lee side of the isle of Capri, about 100 yards off shore. With the binoculars we scanned the high cliffs, the caves and grottes, the pinnacles of rock along the shore, the white villas dotted here and there . . .

"At 11 o'clock we were moored in the small, well-protected harbor . . . It was Dec. 24. We had made it."

Sepia, a fancy name for brown, originally was an organic coloring matter obtained from cuttlefish. In ancient times, it was used as a writing ink.

School Children Like To Be Made To Work Says Dr.

Calgary — (CP) — Dr. W. H. Swift, Alberta deputy education minister, has some tips for teachers. He says school children like to be kept under firm control and made to work.

He says that after 15 years of listening to his own children discuss their teachers, he has decided the most popular teachers are those who keep their classrooms under firm control, without being cranky, and those who keep their students busy, without overloading them with work.

Dr. Swift told a student teacher association convention here that teachers who wish to be popular with their students might consider the characteristics most often mentioned by children in discussing their favorite teachers.

He said children like teachers, who in addition to keeping firm control and keeping students busy, arrange tasks so that pupils know what they are being asked to do.

A further point was that teachers should return test papers promptly and discuss them with students.

Dr Swift says a teacher should include some summary or skeleton outline with his notes so that students can get notes in systematic order.

U. S. Cattlemen Taking Beating In Meat Prices

Kansas City — (CP) — United States cattlemen are taking a price beating and some speculators who jumped into the market have been hurt by the squeeze in recent months.

With prices more than 25 per cent off their 1951 peaks the high-profit period for cattlemen has been wiped out. Although some of the losses were paper losses, in many cases there has been a real financial squeeze on those who lacked the cash or credit to tide them over a rough spot.

Heavy cattle production, coupled with drought and high feed costs started the slide. Two years ago cattle were selling for $36 a hundredweight—even more for top-grade steers. Now the price is off around $10.

There are more cattle today on the ranges and in feed lots than ever before in U.S. history—93,696,000 head as of Jan. 1. And some cattlemen think the situation may get worse before it gets better.

Don Whitehead of The Associated Press made a swing around the West and Mid-West to survey the situation. He reports that most prominent cattlemen view the price shake-down as probably a good thing for themselves and the whole country.

Whitehead reports that cattlemen want no part of government price supports, subsidies or controls, and are confident they can work out their own salvation. One cattleman thought freedom from competition of foreign beef was preferable to government handouts.

In the summer of 1951, the high price of the beef was causing cries of anguish from consumers having a hard time finding a good steak in the butcher shop. The supply just couldn't meet the demand.

The U.S. government slapped on price ceilings and even ordered prices of beef cattle set back to former levels. Some cattlemen said then it would take three to five years for production to catch up with the demand.

But production outstripped expectations. Cattle began to flow towards the market, depressing prices. As a result growers and feeders were forced to unload their cattle even at unfavorable prices.

At Jan. 1, the farm value per head was only $120 compared with $179 on the same date a year ago. But even that is $31 better than the average value from 1942 to 1951.

Whitehead says the price slump has jolted the entire industry. But those who have been hurt particularly are what one old-line Texas cattlemen called the "bankers, oil men, barbers and soda jerkers" who put their money into cattle as a sideline. The squeeze caught them before they could unload.

Others who have been hurt are mid-west farmers who bought cattle for feeding at high prices, taking a chance the price would stabilize before they sold them.

Jack Roach of Amarillo, president of the Texas southwestern cattle raisers association, told him: "We have always felt that there can be no satisfactory or workable solution to our problems that would substitute subsidies for a fair and open market price . . . our only bellyache is over the meat that is being imported to compete with the homegrown product. We'd like to see something done about that."

And former governor Roy Turner of Oklahoma, a rancher himself, said:

"It has not been indicated in any meeting of cattlemen I have attended that the groups want a price-support program."

Africa's Political Force In Danger Of Becoming Red

Editor's note: For the last month, William L. Ryan has been surveying the Communist line in Africa. Today the AP's specialist on Communist affairs presents the first of three stories depicting the situation from Kenya to Cairo.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Nairobi, Kenya, — (AP) — The lengthening shadow of the hammer and sickle of world communism is creeping across the heart of Africa. Here in Britain's Kenya colony, the shadow is still faint but it is growing.

White men hunt down a gang of black men called Mau Mau and build themselves a formidable legacy of hate in the process.

As far as can be made out, the secret, ritualistic Mau Mau is not the direct result of Communist activity. It is a native rising, dedicated from frustration to expelling the white man by terrorism.

The biggest and practically the only organized native political force is the Kenya African Union KAU, it is not yet Communist-controlled but there is danger it will be unless there is intelligent action by white settlers and British authority.

KAU has at least 100,000 members. Its president is Jomo Kenyatta, mystery man of the Kenya problem who denies being Communist inspired.

Last October Kenyatta was arrested on charges of managing and assisting the Mau Mau. The trial of Kenyatta and five other natives has been going on for a month in Kapenguria.

His acquittal will rank in the African mind as a defeat of white authority. Conviction will make him a martyr. At most he can get a seven-year sentence.

Some of Kenyatta's background arouses suspicion among anti-Communists. He was not back six months from 15 years in Europe before he took over the presidency of KAU, reorganized it with a "central committee" and introduced discipline.

The timing of the Mau Mau rising coincided nearly with Moscow's turning major attention to "colonial and dependent peoples."

Kenyatta, about 50, attended a church of Scotland mission school until 1914 and then worked as a houseboy and as an interpreter in the Supreme Court. In 1922 he began his political career in the East Africa Association, now the Kikuyu Central Association. The Association sent him to England in 1929 with a list of grievances.

Kenyatta left for England again in 1931 and stayed in Europe 15 years, claiming funds for his support were furnished by the poverty-ridden Kikuyus. Two years, through 1934, were spent in Russia where he studied at Moscow University. His white wife and son are in England.

Kenyatta insists he is an enemy of Mau Mau; that he led 30,000 Kikuyus in pronouncing a curse upon it. The prosecution says he simply told them to go underground.

After the arrest of Kenyatta a mysterious traveller told Joseph Marumbi, general secretary of KAU, to ask a Negro organization in the U.S. for help. The organization quickly sent financial help and promised more.

Marumbi seemed surprised when he learned the organization is operated by Communists.

What KAU stands for, Marumbi said, is more equitable treatment of the black man. There are 5,500,000 of them, as against 120,000 Indians and 35,000 whites. The whites run the government and have taken all the fertile highlands. The Indians have taken over all mercantile establishments. There are relatively few educated Africans and even they have a scant chance, economically.

The legal minimum wage in Nairobi is about $7 a month, plus a housing allowance of just under $1.

Coronation To Mean Good Business For Cloth-Renting Firm

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London — (CP) — Coronation year means big business for Britain's clothes-renting firms.

In discreet premises in London's West End, peers and peeresses are fitted with robe and coronet at a charge of £25. Full-dress uniforms and evening dresses for wear under the robes can also be hired for eight guineas and under.

If a peeress wishes a gold-and-satin gown in the latest style and material, for wear in the Abbey, eight guineas covers a model that has not been worn before. Prices drop with the number of times a dress has been worn. All clothes, however, require a deposit of £20, refundable when garments are returned unharmed.

"We have already had requests for more robes than we have in stock," said a representative of one of the best-known hiring firms Moss Bros. The number of robes already hired was not given.

This firm is finding it a bumper year for hire trade from royal banquet crinolines to the ordinary evening dresses hired at £2, favorite choice of working girls for that special date.

Many women whose families are traceable in Debrett's Peerage are keeping coronation costs down by hiring clothes, in advance, for the numerous functions that will be part of a glittering "season."

Most society women consider a London season requires at least six evening dresses of notable design. Stylish numbers costing £40 to £60 each and hired for six to seven guineas mean a fair saving on a dress bill that would otherwise mount to around £300-£600 if the dresses are couture models.

Clothes-hire companies, as they are called in Britain, say that many orders have come from the provinces and overseas, including Canada. Popular demand from overseas is a grey topper and striped pants for wear at Buckingham Palace garden parties, race meetings at Ascot and the Derby course at Epsom.

For such events women are not so lucky. Afternoon dresses are not for hire; trends change too quickly. But each big race meeting means a last-minute rush to hire fur capes and stolen as a guard against the generally inclement weather.

Overseas requests include evening suits—especially white tie and tails. Current requests show increasing popularity for the old-fashioned evening cape with its red or white lining.

Coronation Tickets Still Available For Right Price

By STERLING SLAPPEY

London — (AP) — If you are thinking about coming over for the Coronation, here is some good advice:

Go right away to a travel agent, ship line or air-line ticket office to make your reservations and arrangements.

Literally, you have not a day to lose. The Coronation is still months away on a distant June 2, but according to the men who should know, your chances of making reservations after another 30 days will be practically impossible.

You must consider first, ocean transportation. Complete your booking, and the battle to watch history is half won.

British Overseas Airways Corporation claims the situation during the critical May-June period "is as tight as can be," but the airline plans extra service.

Trans-World Airlines says, "right now we are not fully booked, but it looks like we will be very soon."

Pan-American Airways has plenty of space for early May but toward the end of the month you must join waiting lists.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, which expects capacity bookings, has 2,000 reservations already to fly over here in May. TCA plans to add extra planes if necessary.

The situation on two big ships lines is better.

United States Lines—operators of the American and the blue ribbon speedster United States, report first-class booking are available. But on the big liners all cabin and tourist-class accommodations are sold.

Cunard, which operates the Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, and other plush liners, reports extremely heavy bookings but some space in all classes remain open on most ships.

The burning of the Canadian Pacific Steamships' liner Empress of Canada in Liverpool Jan. 25 was a tough blow. She was scheduled to carry about 7,000 passengers between Montreal and Liverpool to the Coronation.

Parade-view space along the five-mile Coronation route is almost as scarce as ocean transportation, and the few seats for sale are expensive. But there will be quite a lot of space at a window overlooking the parade. And free standing room along the curb—if you're willing to take up an ironman vigil the night of June 1.

Canada has been allocated 8,000 seats along the procession route and in addition is building 500 of her own at Canada House, the office of Canada's high commissioner in London. About 7,000 Canadians have already applied for seats and still more applications are rolling in.

You can forget any idea of staying in a London hotel unless you had space confirmation months ago. Alert travel agents dashed over here last summer and signed up entire floors.

However, there is abundant space in private London homes and in small hotels in towns within 90 minutes by road or rail.

There will be plenty of food even though Britain still is hounded by some rationing and shortages left over from the war. But there is hardly any question but that you will have to get in line for some meals.

For evening entertainment in London, one of your best bets is to get your travel agent to make reservations. Otherwise, you may be doing a lot of night-time window shopping.

Window shopping in London can be great fun. Shops here are colorful and well stocked and, somehow, they seem different from those any place else.

London is a city where you can operate big. It also is a city where you can watch your shillings and still have a high old time.

Canadian Painter Recalls Obstacles Of Early Career

Calgary — (CP) — Walter J. Phillips, 68-year-old Canadian painter, recalls many obstacles in the path of his early career. Now the tall, grey-haired artist is well-known for his water-colors, wood engravings and color woodcuts.

Son of a Methodist minister, he was born in Lincolnshire, England, and as a youth went to South Africa where he worked as a reporter, trader, surveyor's assistant lawyer's clerk and diamond digger.

Even diamond digging did not provide him with enough money to go to Paris to study art. He returned to London, working as a free-lance artist, and got his first big opportunity when he was appointed art master at the Bishop Woodsworth school at Salisbury.

There, in 1911, he held his first one-man show.

Some of his works were displayed at the Royal Academy and the Anglo-German Exhibition in London before he came to Canada. He first settled in Winnipeg where he was art master at St. John's Technical School.

His first sale in Canada was a real accident. "In Winnipeg, I sold my first print in Canada," he said "A woman driver and her car landed in the local art dealer's show window in which my work was exhibited. Her husband paid for the damage and became the owner of my print."

Diligence and perseverance are characteristics of Phillips, one of the comparatively few Canadians able to make art their exclusive profession.

Since 1945, he has painted 332 water-color pictures and has completed many sketches and prints.

Intensity of the sound of a jet engine, 50 feet away from its tail assembly, has been measured at 134 decibels, the loudest industrial noise today. Inspectors and other workmen have to go closer to the engine than 50 feet.

Travel Films Were Shown At Boundary Rotary

Derby Line, March 9. — Films of Oxford University, Switzerland and the Canadian West featured the regular Monday evening meeting of the Rotary Club of the Boundary, held at the Del Monty Hotel, with the president, Rene Monty, presiding.

Rev. Peter Farrell, of Beebe, was the scheduled speaker, but explained that he had been unable to prepare a talk and was accordingly going to show some of his own movies. The movies were in color and proved to be very interesting.

Perhaps the most striking scenes were those of sunrise on Mt. Matterhorn in Switzerland and a number of the scenes of the Canadian West, but the pictures of Oxford University gave a good idea of that great college and also of many of its activities.

Besides the pictures of Mt. Matterhorn, there were many other delightful pictures of Swiss winter sports, homes and villages. The film of the Canadian West showed scenes in Banff, Lake Louise, and of ranch life.

Rev. Mr. Farrell was introduced by Rene Monty and thanked for his pictures by Douglas Jones. The singing was led by Lawrence Tilton, and the accompaniment played by Miss Aline Ricard.

Visiting Rotarians present at the meeting were George Froats, of Renfrew, Ont., Henry Downs, Jr., Gerry Miltimore, John Knutson and Claude Willard, of the Sherbrooke club.

A committee was formed to make plans for a manual to guide those operating the annual Boundary Rotary Fair, and to report at the March 23 meeting. Maurice Moore was appointed chairman, with the following members: Roland Roy, Gordon Petrie and Earl Heath.
