Chamberlain Plans Early Declaration

Declares Necessity of Respecting Interests of Other Governments Concerned Prevents Immediate Declaration Although Negotiations Are Being Conducted with "All Possible Despatch"—Polish Situation Under Review.

London, May 1.—(P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today told the House of Commons that conversations with Russia involving the Soviets' enlistment in an anti-aggression bloc are being carried on "with all possible despatch."

Following a special cabinet meeting at which the progress of the conversations with Russia was discussed, the Prime Minister went to the Commons where Opposition Leader Clement Attlee asked for an explanation of the "long delay" in the negotiations.

The Prime Minister said he realized the desirability of making a statement at the earliest date but was not prepared to do so at once. "Proposals have been received from Russia and the conversations are proceeding with all possible despatch."

"It is not a very simple matter and one in which other governments have to be considered besides our own."

Bills calling for military conscription of men aged twenty years for six months of training and enabling the Government to call up reserve forces when it deems necessary were introduced in the House.

The texts were not published immediately but it was reported the conscription measure included Northern Ireland.

Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of Eire was understood last week to have expressed to the British Government his opposition to extension of conscription to his northern neighbor.

Poland's reaction to Hitler's speech, in which he renounced the German-Polish non-aggression pact and disclosed the terms of his "one offer" concerning the Free City of Danzig and the Polish corridor, was transmitted to London by Sir Howard Kennard, British ambassador at Warsaw, after a talk with the Polish Foreign Minister, Colonel Joseph Beck.

It was understood it emphasized the following points:

- 1.—Hitler's account of German-Polish negotiations over Danzig was "inaccurate."
2.—Germany definitely did not offer Poland a twenty-five-year pact of non-aggression.
3.—Germany did not mention a joint German-Polish-Hungarian guarantee of Slovakia.
4.—Poland did not finally "reject" Germany's Danzig proposals but merely put up counter-proposals.

Col. Beck, who is expected to answer Hitler's speech formally this week, was reported to have told Sir Howard that Poland was convinced Germany's proposals for an extraterritorial road and a railroad across the corridor between Germany proper and East Prussia were made.

Length Of Budget Debate To Govern Possibility Of Royal Prorogation

Ottawa, May 1.—(P)—Parliament Hill today conceded a slight change that sessional work may be completed in time for the King to prorogue Parliament May 19.

Both Houses face an appalling amount of unfinished business in the short time remaining, but there were signs of a willingness to get through the work if at all possible to do so.

One of the obstacles to a Royal prorogation has been insistence of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation and the Social Credit group on ample opportunity to present their criticism of Government policy and, in the case of the Social Credit group, to expound their monetary theories.

Hint of a compromise attitude by Social Credit members was shown last week when J. C. Landrevou (Social Credit, Calgary East) suggested that if the Banking and Commerce Committee provided opportunity for his colleagues and himself to talk monetary policy and finance in the committee room it might not be necessary to discuss them in the House.

INVESTIGATING MYSTERY DEATH OF LUMBERJACK

Foul Play Suspected in Death of Albert Dagenais, Once Implicated in Murder Case, Whose Body Was Found Near Hull.

Hull, Que., May 1.—(P)—Suspecting foul play, local and provincial police today continued investigation into the death of sixty-four-year-old Albert Dagenais, of Ottawa, who was acquitted with four other men of the murder of Alex. Mondou, a lumberjack, here in 1933.

Dagenais' body was found Friday floating in the Ottawa river at nearby Gatineau Point and an autopsy performed by Dr. J. M. Roussel, Montreal medico-legal expert, disclosed a deep gash in the victim's head, and a fracture of the skull. Dagenais disappeared last December.

Dr. Doussel was unable to determine whether death was due to the skull fracture or drowning owing to decomposition of the body. He is taking essential parts of the body to the Provincial medico-legal laboratories in Montreal for detailed analysis. He is expected to report on his findings in about two weeks.

The body of Mondou, in whose death Dagenais was acquitted of murder, was found six years ago in a bush on the Aymer road about two miles west of here. Before his disappearance, Dagenais had been living at the Union Mission in Ottawa.

DEATH CLAIMS ONE-TIME U.S. SOCIAL LEADER

Mrs. Maryon Andrews McCarter, Mother of Anne Cooper Hewitt, the "Sterilized Heiress," Dies in Comparative Poverty.

New York, May 1.—(P)—Death at fifty-five came yesterday to Mrs. Maryon Andrews McCarter, mother of Anne Cooper Hewitt, the "sterilized heiress."

Mrs. McCarter, the most spectacular society glamor girl of her day, died in the one-room apartment in which she had lived since filing a bankruptcy petition a year ago. The cause of her death was not given.

The red-haired one-time Virginia belle during her involved marital career was married to five men, four of them reported millionaires, and divorced four times. Her spending won her in France a reputation as the "greatest woman gambler" and society circles knew her as the woman who had been invited to become leading lady in the Shah of Persia's harem.

Often sued on charges she had failed to pay clothing, jewelry and hotel bills, Mrs. McCarter's legal difficulties were climaxed in January, 1935, when her daughter charged the mother had duped her into undergoing a sterilization operation.

The twenty-one-year-old girl's charge was met in a California court during a $500,000 damage suit. She testified her mother had had the operation performed to tighten her own hold on a $10,000,000 trust set up by Ann's great-grandfather, Peter Cooper.

Investigation disclosed the doctor who performed the operation had been paid $3,000. A warrant charging the mother with mayhem was issued, but she was never extradited to California to face criminal charges.

RECORD BREAKING GOLD SHIPMENT ARRIVES IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, May 1.—(P)—A shipment of gold reported to be the largest ever to reach Ottawa, arrived in the city today.

Closely guarded by twelve plainclothes officers, the shipment was believed to be from Great Britain. Bank of Canada officials maintained their customary silence, declining to disclose any details of the shipment.

Extensive plans have also been made for the entertainment of the Rotary Ann's attending the conference. These include a bridge schedule for the afternoon of May 4th; the presentation of a one-act play by the Montpelier Theater Guild; and a tea in honor of Mrs. Richard H. Wells, of Pocatello, Idaho, wife of a Rotary International director.

Mrs. E. P. Hamilton, of Montpelier, is chairman of hostesses for the two days.

The conference nominee for district governor will be formally ratified by the convention of Rotary International to be held in Cleveland, O., June 19th to 23rd, and the new governor will take office July 1st. The person chosen for this position, in his capacity of district governor, is the official representative of Rotary International in the 195th district, which comprises Vermont and part of New Hampshire and the Province of Quebec.

STILL DIGGING

Uniontown, Pa., May 1.—(P)—Miner L. F. Wiley is still digging despite shutdown of the bituminous fields but it's his own grave instead of coal that's occupying his time.

The forty-nine-year-old man said he had no fear of immediate death but wanted to be prepared. Wiley obtained State Board of Health approval of his plans a year ago but didn't find time to dig the grave in a cemetery near his home until the wage deadlock left him without work.

CONY ISLAND GOES ON

New York, May 1.—(P)—World's fairs may come and go, but Coney Island goes on forever.

Whalen estimated his $100,000,000 plan on Flushing Plains, pre-viewing the "World of Tomorrow," drew 600,000 opening day customers on Sunday. Only a few miles away, 250,000 persons thronged Coney Island, home of the hot dog and the boardwalk.

Compromise Arranged In Command Of Vessel Carrying Royalty

London, May 1.—(P)—The problem of who should command the liner Empress of Australia, the Captain or the King's Equerry, during the voyage of the King and Queen to Canada this month has been settled by state officials.

The answer is a diplomatic one—to avoid creating a precedent which might cause resentment between the navy and the merchant marine. It was decided the Equerry, Vice-Admiral Sir Dudley North, Commander of the Royal Yachts, should carry the "King's Orders" to Captain A. R. Meikle, who will remain in charge of the personnel of his own ship.

Maritime law is that the captain of a ship has complete control of the vessel, under the owners' orders. But Sir Dudley was appointed to the command of three ships, the liner and two naval escort vessels, and the problem arose.

Their Majesties spent their last week-end before leaving for Canada, where they are due May 15th, at home with their two daughters.

They gave final instructions to governesses and, it was said, replied affirmatively—"If the weather is good"—to many requests by the Princesses for permission to go swimming, ride ponies and have picnics during their parents' absence.

BELATED SNOWS CAUSE DAMAGE IN MARITIMES

At Least One Death Resulted From Heavy Snowfall in Nova Scotia—Highway Traffic Blocked in Many Districts.

Halifax, May 1.—(P)—A belated snowfall measuring from two inches to four inches covered parts of the Maritimes today under a warm sun. It was one of the latest heavy falls on record in recent years.

At Truro, in the central part of Nova Scotia, ten inches had fallen by midnight. Near Glasgow, further east, reported seven inches and Halifax had the same. Cape Breton Island was visited by rain, snow and sleet but the Annapolis Valley district got off fairly lightly. Snowfall there was only about two inches.

A two-inch fall was reported in Prince Edward Island and Moncton, N.B., had about the same. Temperatures during the storm stood at about thirty-two degrees.

The wet, heavy snow disrupted traffic on Nova Scotia highways and some abandoned their automobiles. Numerous fishing parties were reported marooned.

One man drowned at Shelburne Lake, a few miles from Halifax. Harold Clarke, twenty-nine, and two others were fishing from a pier during the storm when it overturned. Clarke, a poor swimmer, drowned.

A west-bound freight train was derailed at Grand Falls, twenty-five miles from here on the main line of the Canadian National Railways. Thirteen cars left the tracks and derailed their contents over a eight-foot-of-way, 100 feet of which was torn up. Emergency crews were twenty-six hours repairing the line.

ARTIE SHAW IMPROVES

Los Angeles, May 1.—(P)—Artie Shaw, band leader, was reported by his physician today to be making satisfactory recovery from a throat infection. The infection followed an attack of pneumonia which he suffered shortly before he came here from New York three weeks ago.

Russian Fliers Blame Frozen Instruments For Flight Halt

Special Plane Chartered by Russian Government Brings Trans-Atlantic Fliers from Moncton to New York—Large Section of Five Thousand-Mile Journey Made Through Use of Instruments, Aviators State.

New York, May 1.—(P)—Two Russian aviators, Brigadier-General Vladimir Kokkinaki and his navigator-radio operator, Major Mikhail Gordenko, reached their objective today—the New York World's Fair—after having been forced to break their projected non-stop flight from Moscow at bleak Miscou Island on New Brunswick's eastern shore.

The Soviet airmen landed here last night from Moncton, N.B., in a fourteen-passenger plane chartered by Russian officials and piloted by Russell K. Thaw. Earlier yesterday Kokkinaki and Gordenko were "ferried" to Moncton by Canadian Airways planes from the scene of the crash-landing.

They said through an interpreter here that they lost their course over Labrador while flying through a thick fog and went up to 27,000 feet to escape it. When they returned to their normal altitude they discovered their compass was frozen. This they said, caused them to set down late Friday on the marshes of Miscou Island, damaging their big red monoplane so badly it could not take off.

Kokkinaki said their average speed for the Moscow-to-Miscou flight was 180 ground miles an hour, or 220 air miles, despite strong headwinds during much of the trip. About seventy per cent of the hop was flown by instruments.

The fliers were whisked from Floyd Bennett field to the Russian consulate for the night. Awaiting them were congratulations from Joseph Stalin.

"We ardently congratulate you on the happy accomplishment of the outstanding flight from Moscow to North America," said the message. "Your flight of 8,000 kilometers (5,000 miles) covered in twenty-two hours and 56 minutes proved that courageous, daring Soviet airmen can solve successfully the most difficult problems of world aviation."

It had at first been reported Kokkinaki broke one or more ribs in the crash-landing but one Russian official said the pilot suffered only bruises.

The aviators, who had hoped to reach the World's Fair Friday night, could have left their damaged plane Saturday but decided to remain by their ship awaiting instructions from Soviet authorities.

Finally Pilot Joe Anderson ferried Gordenko to Moncton yesterday in a Canadian Airways plane and later Pilot H. S. Jones brought out Kokkinaki. The monoplane, its wings and propellers damaged, was Continued on Page 2, Col. 2.

ORDER INQUIRY INTO SHOOTING OF VILLAGERS

Official Communique Claims 31 Killed and 22 Wounded in Shooting Affray in Gangpur State.

Bombay, May 1.—(P)—A communique published by Gangpur State disclosed today that thirty-one persons were killed and twenty-two wounded in rioting April 25th, when troops opened fire following attempts to arrest a Hindu leader.

British authorities started a judicial investigation into the shooting by soldiers commanded by a British officer.

Nirmal Munda, whose arrest was resisted by villagers, was leader of a group that protested rents they claimed were excessive. When police arrived with an arrest warrant, villagers surrounded him. Troops rushed to aid the police and firing started.

Gangpur, a tributary state of Orissa Province, has a population of 350,000. The present Rajah is fifty years old and his mother, the Rani Sahiba, is the regent.

JAPANESE LIFE DISRUPTED BY HEAVY EARTHQUAKE

Akita, Japan, May 1.—(P)—An earthquake, described as the strongest in twenty-five years, today disrupted traffic, cut communication lines and caused other damage throughout northern Honshu, the main Japanese island. The shock lasted twenty-seven seconds. Its epicentre was believed to be in the Japan Sea.

Several fast tanks raced across the square at forty miles an hour, as Joseph Stalin, according to Soviet officials, reviewed the parade of armed might from the top of Lenin's tomb. From the press and diplomatic sections of the grandstands, however, he could not be seen.

Klementi Voroshiloff, Defence Commissar, opened the celebration with a speech emphasizing Soviet preparedness for war.

The present international situation, he said, "is like a tangled web of bloody intrigue and cowardice of rulers."

He added: "The world's toilers easily realize that the Soviet Union is the only country whose Government is fighting for peace throughout the world."

"Everyone knows except those who do not want to admit it that the Red Army is a great power which does not fear any menace from outside."

"Whoever dares to step on the thresholds of our home will be destroyed."

"A bloody spectacle is taking place in the East and West. The U.S.S.R., however, foresaw all this and created a strong army and navy."

MAN KILLED IN ALBERTA CAR CRASH

Pincher Creek, Alta., May 1.—(P)—Fred Morris, twenty-one, was killed here yesterday when his motorcycle crashed head-on with an automobile. Harry and Margaret Gate, riding in the car, were seriously injured.

It was reliably reported that Chancellor Hitler had followed up his demands of last Friday regarding the Free City and the Polish corridor with more details of what he wants, including setting the width of the proposed trans-corridor German highway at no less than 25 kilometers (15.5 miles). The additional details were said to have been conveyed privately to Poland.

(In his Reichstag speech and in a note to Poland, Hitler denounced the 1934 Polish-German non-aggression treaty and said his "one and only offer" had been that the Free City be returned to Germany and that Germany be given a highway and railway connection across the corridor to connect East Prussia with the rest of Germany. In return a twenty-five year non-aggression pact was to be given. Poland rejected the offer.)

The League of Nations, although possessing full legal authority over Danzig, is inactive. The High Commissioner is on indefinite leave and the governing power has been assumed by Nazi party members, many of whom were said to have been sent to Danzig from Germany for that purpose.

Gazeta Polska, in commenting on the possibility Poland might seek control, recalled how Germany annexed Memel, denounced the Anglo-German naval treaty and abolished the Polish-German non-aggression pact.

On April 27, the day before Hitler's speech, the Polish Government let it be known it was willing to re-

Hitler, Disclaiming Idea Of War, Seeks To Leave Peace Up To Democracy

Addressing German Youth Organizations, Der Fuehrer Declares that Democracies Menace Peace Germany Needs to Carry Out Ten and Twenty-Year Programmes—Press Efforts to Isolate Poland from Hungary.

Berlin, May 1.—(P)—Chancellor Hitler today disclaimed any desire for war shortly after he had told 100,000 members of German Youth organizations that they must be prepared to "conquer to win our rights and, if necessary, to defend them."

Speaking to the Reich's "brawn and brain" workers, the Chancellor hit out in the second of his two May Day addresses at charges that Germany desires war and asserted: "We love peace. I have enough grounds to want peace to complete enterprises that need ten to twenty years."

"International agitators," the Fuehrer told the workers, "are working against Germany with all their means and I am arming Germany with all my means."

The remark was greeted with loud applause.

As the Chancellor spoke, Nazi diplomats pressed efforts to isolate Poland in an attempt to make her yield to German demands.

The Chancellor and his lieutenants seized upon May Day celebrations to unify the Nazi Reich and strengthen the offensive against "international enemies" which Hitler began with his Friday speech.

The Chancellor told 132,000 members of the Hitler Youth organizations to place no faith in "slogans poisoning peoples and seeking to destroy us."

"The world speaks of rights; but for long years it denied them to us," the Fuehrer said. "The national resurrection has put an end to this epoch. It is you who will terminate it, definitely."

"Others are not thinking of giving our people their vital rights. If some day they try to attack our liberty, the youth who stand before me would become millions of men. The world will fall, as it has always fallen, thanks to German unity."

Participating in the demonstration were special units of the youth aviation groups, the motorized corps, and the youth naval organizations.

Premier Paul Teleki and Foreign Minister Stephen Tisza of Hungary were among the guests, as were delegations of Hungarian youth organizations and the Italian ballistas.

As the German Fuehrer met Hitler youth and workers he hammered away with sentences like this: "Germany is one of the most heavily-armed nations of the world today, thanks to our strength and thanks to our friends."

He said that German unity and the absence of class struggle characterized this Nazi May Day.

"The May Day of class fights, organized by parasites in our midst is over," he declared. (In pre-Nazi times May Day was celebrated by labor organizations and leftist political parties.)

A new German community has arisen over hate," he cried. "Germany's problems, Hitler said, was one of "production, not money."

BRITAIN TO EJECT GERMAN JOURNALIST

London, May 1.—(P)—Dr. Gottfried Rosel, correspondent of the newspaper National Zeitung of Essen, has been instructed by the Home Office to leave England within four days. The National Zeitung has close connections with Field Marshal Hermann Goering.

Rosel also is the head of the English-German Information Bureau which supplies news on the Nazi regime and distributes a paper printed in English and German at Essen.

RECORD WEEK-END FOR MONTREAL FIREMEN

Montreal, May 1.—(P)—Firemen in the Montreal area had a busy time during the week-end, when they answered the record total of 179 calls. Of the total, 136 were grass fires, thirty-three were minor blazes and eight were accounted for the remaining ten.

The mechanized army corps will make the 200-mile strategic move north from Aldershot to Yorkshires by road and rail. Special trains will be run, as they would in wartime, carrying ammunition, food and other supplies. The Royal Air Force will co-operate.

FRIENDS PAID FINAL TRIBUTE TO CHURCHMAN

Representative Gathering Attended Funeral Services for Dr. Walter S. Lennon— Many Members of Clergy Present.

Members of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery of the United Church of Canada and of the Sherbrooke Ministerial Association and large numbers from Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and many other points in the Eastern Townships filled Douglas Church, Lennoxville, this morning to bid farewell to Reverend Walter Stanley Lennon, B.A., D.D., for over forty years a minister of God and throughout his life a man who drew to his side innumerable friends who mourn his sudden death.

Dr. Lennon had entered the Sherbrooke Hospital April 17 following a lingering illness, but ten days after entering hospital, having made steady progress toward recovery, he was taken to his home by his son, Eric, in Lennoxville, on Saturday morning, April 29, he died while asleep, and his death came as a distinct shock to the members of his family and to the hundreds of friends who had loved him and had watched anxiously and then continually his progress toward recovery.

Dr. G. Ellery Read, pastor emeritus of Plymouth Church, Sherbrooke, and a close associate of Dr. Lennon during his ministry at Trinity Church described the deceased in these words: "My brother, my fellow-worker and fellow-soldier." Dr. Read said that the ministers of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery had known Dr. Lennon as a true Christian brother, a man who had worked for the good of the church as a whole, and told of his intimate friendship with the deceased.

An indefatigable worker, Dr. Lennon felt the insistence of the church upon him, stated Dr. Read, and brought to his work in Presbytery and in the churches in which he served a well-trained and disciplined mind and a constant desire to guide his congregations along the upward way.

His life entirely devoted to the service of God, Dr. Lennon set an example for his fellow-ministers and for his congregations, and drew to his side all with whom he came in contact.

Born in Montreal on August 6, 1872, Dr. Lennon was in his sixty-seventh year. He was educated in the Montreal public school system and at McGill University, graduating with first class honors in 1896, and graduating from Wesleyan College in 1898.

His service in the ministry was inaugurated at the former Methodist Church in St. Lambert, where he served until 1901. After remaining at the Mount Royal Avenue Church in Montreal until 1905, Dr. Lennon was stationed at Shawville from 1905 until 1909, and then came to Cookshire, his first Eastern Townships charge.

From then until 1924 Dr. Lennon served at Granby, Ganoquoque, Ont., and Kingston, Ont., and in 1924 came to Sherbrooke, serving at Trinity United Church until 1937.

His concluding service to the church was at West Shefford, where he fulfilled a superannuated charge until the illness which subsequently caused his death forced him to enter the Sherbrooke Hospital. Dr. Lennon was president of the Montreal Methodist Conference before and after his return to Montreal and Ottawa Conference after union. He had been chairman of the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery and was twice a member of the General Council of the United Church.

Dr. Lennon married Bella Jane Dixon in Montreal in 1898, and is survived by his wife, three sons, H. L. Lennon, of Montreal, Eric, of Lennoxville, and Ayton, of Quebec; a daughter, Gladys R., of Montreal; two brothers, Andrew and Harry, of Montreal; a niece, Mrs. Gordon Tarlton, of Montreal, and a nephew, Arthur Lennon, of Montreal.

Rev. F. R. Matthews presided at the church service, and was assisted by Rev. A. E. Hagar, of Sawyerville, Rev. John Carlton, of Dunham, Rev. W. E. Long, of Danville, and Rev. E. D. Mitchell, of Knowlton. Prayers were said at the Sherbrooke Undertaking Parlors, where Rev. Albert Johnson, of Coaticook, and J. D. McFadden, of Ayer's Cliff, presided.

The service was Rev. Albert Johnson, Rev. H. A. Carson, of Rock Island, Rev. W. Carr, of Cookshire, Rev. L. O. Bunt, of Birechon, Rev. Fred Williams, of Sherbrooke, and Rev. F. A. C. Dossie, president of the Sherbrooke Ministerial Association.

Musie was provided by an augmented choir, the hymns being "Still, Still With Thee" and "Sun Of My Soul." Burial was made in Mount Royal Cemetery, Montreal.

Out-of-town relatives in attendance in addition to members of the immediate family were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lennon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lennon, Mr. James Meldrum, Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lennon and Mrs. Gordon Tarlton, all of Montreal.

Also present were Col. the Rev. A. H. McCreer, M.A., D.D., O.B.E., principal and vice-chancellor of the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, and George Macdonald, of Montreal, Quebec superintendent of The Canadian Press.

Miss Mildred E. Woolfrey, of Montreal, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bagley.

Mr. Idris D. Jones was in Asbestos for a week-end.

left on the Gulf of St. Lawrence ice under Royal Canadian Mounted Police guard.

Bad weather delayed the rescue work as ice and a stiff wind made landing and taking-off at the island hazardous. As he left the rescue plane at Moncton Gordienko handed a locked metal box to Russian officials who flew to Moncton from New York. It apparently contained instruments taken from the disabled plane. He graduated from Lym Public school in June 1928 and entered Brockville Collegiate Institute. In September 1936 he entered Kemptville Agricultural School, graduating in April last year with first class honours. Last September he entered the Intermediate year at Ontario Agricultural College. He is already known for his excellent work for breeders at various fairs, including Toronto and Ottawa.

From Macdonald College comes Leonard Moncrieff, of Arundel, Quebec. He was educated at the Arundel Intermediate School, entered Macdonald in the Fall of 1935 and graduated in the Diploma Course in 1937. Early last year, he returned to Montreal to enter a special course in Provincial Government cooperative work and assisted W. L. Carr with the showing of his splendid Holsteins.

Both young men interrupted their training here in accepting the offer to participate in the Borden exhibit at the World's Fair because they realized the splendid opportunity which they will have of meeting outstanding agriculturists from the various colleges in Canada and the United States, and of meeting the best breeders of the five dairy breeds from both countries as well as leaders in dairying and agriculture throughout the world.

Rev. F. R. Matthews presided at the church service, and was assisted by Rev. A. E. Hagar, of Sawyerville, Rev. John Carlton, of Dunham, Rev. W. E. Long, of Danville, and Rev. E. D. production must be increased in all spheres."

With restricted living space, he said, Germany "can not afford the luxury of divided forces, there is none "classes have been destroyed and the people placed above everything."

"But," he said—and the workers shouted to a man at this—"What am I without you?"

Hitler said that 9,000,000 Germans had returned from foreign lands to live in the new Germany, where "classes have been destroyed and the people placed above everything."

The real revolution, he declared, had brought about "one people, one Reich, one leadership."

On the diplomatic front, Germany sent her ambassador, Hans von Helldorf, back to Paris to keep a close eye on the tense Polish-German situation. In diplomatic circles Germany was understood to be trying to win support of the Hungarians by offering them a further slice of Slovak territory on condition that Hungary dovetail her foreign policy completely into Germany's.

Such a plan would be calculated to destroy traditional Polish-Hungarian friendship which was demonstrated when Hungarian troops, marching through Carpatho-Ukraine, reached the Polish border after dismemberment of Czechoslovakia.

Hitler declared Germany "of the most heavily-armed nations of the world, thanks to our own strength and thanks to our friends." He exhorted his hearers to be on constant guard, and asserted:

"If the hour should come that the world believes it can reach at Germany's freedom, then a millionfold will rise, so tremendous that the world will know unmistakably that the time of Germany's weakness is definitely past."

"However, man shall not destroy what the Almighty created. And this is the prayer guiding our future."

He admonished the children to lead healthy and abstemious lives and to become "hard men and upright women who know that fortune does not distribute her gifts lavishly but that everything must be fought for."

Brief addresses by Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels and Youth Leader Baldur von Schirach preceded that of Hitler. Dr. Goebbels said youth was the "guarantor of the new Europe" and asked, "What can an old democracy do, facing Nazi youth?"

Hitler's speech was one of two the Fuehrer had scheduled for today—the second set for noon in the Lustgarten before massed workers in Labor Front uniforms, gathered around a 180-foot maypole which came from a pine forest in Sudetenland.

From as early as 4 and until 8:30 a.m., the hour of Hitler's address, columns of schoolchildren converged on Olympic Stadium, accompanied by field kitchens and brass bands.

The ceremony which took place at the Windsor Mills Roman Catholic Church was featured by the attendance of the Sherbrooke Frontiersmen who formed a guard-of-honor and an arch through which the bridal couple marched on their exit from the church.

Led by Constable Laramée, of the Provincial Police, the local detachment formed up in Sherbrooke and proceeded by car to the paper town where they disembarked at the town limits to parade to the church. After the wedding ceremony the unit also paraded to the home of the bride, where an informal reception was held.

Constable Dignan Brady acted as best man, while Lucille Bruneau, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. Among those present were Major W. W. Foote, the Sherbrooke, E. Kingsland, E.D. O.C. the Magog Squadron of Frontiersmen, brooke Squadron of Frontiersmen, Lieuts. Jack Hitman and V. Adams, Sgt.-Major R. Waller and N. Kingsland and Lieut. E. C. Cabana, M.D., Medical Officer of the Magog Squadron.

After the wedding breakfast Constable and Mrs. Bell left for Newport, Vt., where they spent the night before proceeding on to New York City.

R.C.M.P. HEAD GUEST OF HONOR AT GATHERING

E.T. Mounties and Frontiersmen Fete Sgt. T. S. Moore at Canadian Legion Headquarters.

Sgt. T. S. Moore, retiring on pension from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, was the guest of honor on Saturday night at a smoker held in the Canadian Legion Hall, Woodward avenue. The affair was attended by the members of the Eastern Townships detachments of the R.C.M.P. and the local Squadron of the Legion of Frontiersmen.

During the course of the evening the guest of honor was presented with a complete set of fishing tackle by Major W. W. Foote, who spoke on behalf of all present and thanked Sgt. Moore for his interest and co-operation he had given the Frontiersmen. Also heard were the officers of the Mounted Police, all of whom expressed their regret at the loss of their superior and friend.

Sorrow at leaving Sherbrooke where he had made many friends was expressed by Sgt. Moore when he thanked the members for their manifestation of good-will. He paid particular tribute to the members of his staff for their work, and to the Frontiersmen for their help when needed.

For their convenience the Canadian Pacific Railway will operate special low-fare excursions to Quebec City from stations in the Province of Ontario, Smith's Falls, Brockville, Prescott, Ottawa and east; from stations in the Province of Quebec, except those from Ceramic to Angliers, and from Little Lake Masog to Megantic; and from all stations in New Brunswick, and Digby, N.S. Low fares are good from May 15, 14, 15, going, to midnight, May 16, 15, returning.

Although their Majesties will be in Three Rivers for only a short time in the forenoon of Tuesday, May 16, many residents of Berthierville, towns from Berthier to Portneuf, and the Grand Mere and Grandes Piles subdivisions are expected to take advantage of the low fare excursions to witness the state appearance at Three Rivers. The fares are good, going, from May 15 to 16, and returning, up to midnight, May 17.

Montreal's welcome to Their Majesties during the afternoon and evening of May 16 will be of particular interest, estimates having been made that an additional 1,000,000 persons will spend that day in the city. Low-fare excursions are being operated to Montreal by the Canadian Pacific Railway from Smith's Falls, Brockville, Prescott, Ottawa and cities east in Ontario, and from stations in the Province of Quebec, excluding those from Ceramic to Angliers. Low fares apply from May 15 to 16, going, to midnight, May 17, returning.

Inquiries already received at Canadian Pacific headquarters indicate that the visit of Their Majesties to Quebec Province will result in unusually heavy travel. Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, men's and women's associations, clubs, and in some cases entire communities will move by rail to points being visited by Their Majesties, creating a unique traffic problem for the railway.

COATICOOK. The Mission Circle of the Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Otis Sylvester. About fifteen ladies were in attendance and assisted in the reading of a paper, "Baptist Church Fellowship," based on the study book by Mrs. J. May. The "Watch Tower" was taken by Mrs. Charles Bryan. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

Mr. Armand Boulay, of Waterloo, who was the guest of his brother, Mr. Florien Boulay, for a few days, was called to Coaticook by the death of his brother, Rev. Father Boulay, has returned to his home.

Mrs. Murray Mason, of Cowansville, and Esther Coward, of Dixville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen.

Miss Bertha Allen instructed of music in Sherbrooke and at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, who has been convalescing in Coaticook for several months following a serious illness and operation, has resumed her classes.

Firemen were called out twice to put out chimney fires, neither of which resulted in great damage.

Only a fair attendance was noted at the Rivoli Theatre when the Coaticook Band gave a very enjoyable concert.

Mrs. Albert Johnson and Miss Dorothy Johnson were in Sherbrooke where Miss Johnson was a guest artist at a meeting of the Schubert Music Club.

Mr. Dannie MacLeod, of Hartford, Conn., was visiting his uncle, Mr. Norman Matheson, and other relatives.

Mr. Murdo Murray spent a week-end in Montreal where he visited his niece, Mrs. Charles Armstrong, who is a patient in the Montreal General Hospital. Friends of Mrs. Armstrong are pleased to learn that there is a slight improvement in her condition.

Many local residents listened with interest to the first of a series of addresses concerning regional libraries given by Mr. H. Grundy, of Sherbrooke, and Mr. Alex. Sim, of Lennoxville. It is interesting to note that a Town Library has been established here sponsored by the Women's Institute, with a nucleus of 235 books which have been since augmented by donations of used volumes.

Mrs. S. Edgcombe, of Waterville, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. J. Gustafson, and Rev. Gustafson, St. Andrew's manse.

not for economic but for military reasons. (Hitler disclosed Friday he had demanded the return of Danzig within the German framework and a highway and railroad connection between East Prussia and the rest of Germany.)

(In return, he said he offered recognition of the Polish corridor and Poland's western frontier, conclusion of a twenty-five-year non-aggression pact, security of Poland's economic interests in Danzig and consideration of Polish interests in connection with the security of the independence of Slovakia.)

"These roads obviously were for military purposes," Colonel Beck was reported to have told the British ambassador, "and Poland sees no reason why she should co-operate with Germany's military plans."

The Polish Foreign Minister also was reported to have expressed the opinion that Germany aimed to cut Poland off from the Baltic.

Poland was understood to have informed Great Britain that Germany's renunciation of the German-Polish non-aggression pact undoubtedly modified Poland's stand against co-operating with Russia in the next few days to obtain "final negotiations" with Soviet officials.

Meanwhile, Russian-Turkish negotiations and Britain's and France's talks with Russia all must be concluded and co-ordinated before any announcement may be expected.

In informed quarter it was expected Sir William Seeds, ambassador at Moscow, would be instructed in the next few days to open "final negotiations" with Soviet officials.

Constipated? Get rid of the cause!

Doctors know that the cause of your constipation is probably easy to find, if like too many people, you eat—bread, meat, potatoes. Perhaps your diet does not form enough "bulk." And "bulk" does not mean quantity of food, but the kind of food that is not completely assimilated and leaves a soft "mass" in the bowels, that helps the bowel movement.

Another Session Of Police Probe Slated For This Afternoon

The City Council will hold another sitting of the investigation into alleged irregularities in Sherbrooke's Police Department this afternoon at three o'clock, it was learned from official sources this morning.

The surprisingly prompt follow-up of Saturday afternoon's secret session was no doubt spurred by recent expressions of public disapproval of the delay which so far has characterized the handling of the probe. In spite of the suspension of Chief H. O. Camrond and Deputy-Chief Joseph Premier the municipal fathers have not seemed particularly anxious to finish the enquiry, and, as a result, little has been done so far.

Rev. C. B. McLaughlin, of the United Church at Magog, was the guest preacher at the Lennoxville United Church last evening, when the service was conducted by members of the Young People's Union of that church. The choir of the Union, under the direction of Miss Jean Campbell, organist and choir director, led the congregation in the singing of the hymns, and a male quartette, composed of Allen Willard, Frederick Fox, Stanley Penau and Charles Greenfield, sang the old favorite, "Crown Him With Many Crowns." In the morning, Rev. F. R. Matthews, pastor, gave a fine sermon on the two texts, "For the nation and kingdom that will serve thee shall perish; ye that nations shall be utterly wasted," from the twelfth verse of the sixtieth chapter of Isaiah, and "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," from the fifteenth verse of the sixteenth chapter of St. Mark. The anthem, which was sung by the regular choir, under the direction of Miss Jean Campbell, was the lovely, "O Saviour of the World," by Sir John Goss.

Constipated? Get rid of the cause!

Doctors know that the cause of your constipation is probably easy to find, if like too many people, you eat—bread, meat, potatoes. Perhaps your diet does not form enough "bulk." And "bulk" does not mean quantity of food, but the kind of food that is not completely assimilated and leaves a soft "mass" in the bowels, that helps the bowel movement.

LOOK AT THE SUBSTANCE; FORGET THE WORD

Our political words are getting all scrambled. Some of them have come to mean practically nothing at all.

When men understand widely different things by the same word, then that word is no longer of much value.

Two words ring in every ear today, and all day long. They are "democracy" and "dictatorship."

Are we all talking about the same thing when we use these words? Let's see. Democracy. Why, that's a country where the people govern themselves!

Is it? Well, the United States is not, never was, and never was intended to be, a pure democracy. It is a democratic republic.

The people govern themselves, but not directly. They are governed by popularly-chosen officials who have certain powers as long as they are in office. People can replace them with others if they don't like what is done. That is a republic, but it is not pure democracy.

Is Sweden a democracy? Of course not, we say. It is a monarchy. The king is head of the state, and he rules because his father ruled.

Yet in Sweden everything of importance is done by popularly-elected representatives of the people. The king walks about town or rides the trolleys like anybody else. And the Socialists think he is swell. In many ways Sweden is more democratic than France is under a republic.

Is Russia a democracy? It is a government set up and run by the members of a single party. They alone have power. They alone have rights. That is a theory that works like this: A small party of highly-trained people decide that the great bulk of the people are dopes, and unable to govern themselves.

So they say, "With the best motives in the world, and in behalf of those voiceless millions, we appoint ourselves their representatives. We will seize power and rule for them until some day they are able to do it themselves."

But your most rigid South American dictator always insists that he also is merely a trustee of the people's power, ruling for them until they are able to do it themselves. And that is dictatorship.

So whenever we hear those words "democracy" and "dictatorship" today let us stop and ask ourselves, just what do we mean?

Better than either word today is "a free country." Every Canadian has defiantly asked the question, "Well, it's a free country, isn't it?" He knows what this means.

And the important thing about any country today is not "Is it a democracy?" or "A dictatorship?" or "A monarchy?" but "Is it free?"

THE RUSSIANS' FLIGHT

Once again the bleak shores of Eastern Canada have provided a haven of refuge for hard-pressed trans-Atlantic fliers who have been forced to land short of their destination for one reason or another. This time it is a party of Russians who were forced down on Miscou Island off the shores of New Brunswick on a scheduled non-stop flight from Moscow to New York. From this isolated spot they were conveyed to their destination by Canadian and United States planes.

While Canadians will join in the general thankfulness that Brigadier-General Vladimir Koltkinaki and his companion, Major Mikhail Gordineko, escaped from their mishap comparatively unharmed, and also in the congratulations being extended for the portion of the trip actually completed, flights of this nature cannot help but create certain misgivings. When one considers that these two men actually covered five thousand miles before being forced down, the answer to the claims of the isolationists who declare that Canada need not become involved in a European struggle becomes immediately apparent. If two men on a peaceful mission can travel by air within a few hours from Moscow to the Eastern Coast of Canada, what is to prevent a group of planes less friendly-spirited from causing extensive damage in a series of raids from some nearer and secret base?

Aviation has proved of inestimable value in opening up the mining areas of northern Canada, it has also created a number of serious problems for the Dominion, the chief of which is in the field of defence. Every advance in the art of flying has brought Canada a step nearer Europe and the Orient and consequently has increased the interest and dangers from these quarters.

A DEFINITE AIM

By Grenville Kleiser.

The secret of many a man's success is that he has one definite idea which he keeps clearly before him. He constantly thinks of that one idea, and plans and works for it. You have seen such a man, and you have wondered how anyone lacking in so many other desirable qualities could achieve such success.

The secret was concentration. When you hold a definite mental picture before you of the thing you wish to accomplish, that picture will serve to keep you in your true course. And the more you concentrate upon that one object, the more quickly you will achieve it.

Men differ in their way of thinking. Some men go directly to a subject, work it out in all its details, and reach a clear and definite decision. Many other men are uncertain and vacillating in their way of thinking. They seem incompetent to seize their thought with a firm mental grasp.

To cultivate definiteness of thought accustom yourself in your daily mental habits to concentrate upon one subject, and to continue thinking about it until you have reached a satisfactory conclusion.

Another good way to cultivate definiteness of thought is to read a newspaper editorial, or magazine article, and then try to express the substance accurately and concisely in your own words. This exercise in recollection and condensation will wonderfully sharpen the quality of your thought.

Begin the day with a definite purpose. Having made your choice, carefully think out the best way to accomplish it, and then apply yourself to it with energy and resoluteness. The habit of having a clearly defined purpose for each day will multiply the practical results of your work.

Concentrated effort, in its strongest and most efficient form is marked by earnestness and self-reliance. There must be implicit belief in yourself and in your own powers. There must be a spirit of readiness and determination in your action. The stronger your purpose and the greater your goal, the easier it will be for you to concentrate your best efforts.

Don't be like a blind man with a gun. Be wide-awake, aim at a definite target and make the working hours contribute substantially to your chief purpose in life.

If you think there is difficulty or hardship about your present work, congratulate yourself that in just such work you have one of the most important aids to the development of personal efficiency.

It is through such discipline and experience that you can rise above mediocrity. Let the other man bemoan his limited opportunity if he will, but you should put increasing faith and enthusiasm into the work from which you expect to reap the best results.

Decide for yourself which you intend to be: An optimist, or a pessimist. The optimist is defined as one that believes everything is ordered for the best and takes a cheerful view of life. The pessimist thinks this is the worst possible world and takes a gloomy view of everything.

The chronic pessimist dwells on depression and despair; sees only black spots on the national horizon; is filled with anxiety and suspicion; yields readily to discouragement; thinks business is going to the dogs; and gloomily declares that the worst is still to come.

The wise optimist is fully aware of the problems and perils of every-day life, but faces them courageously. He is clear-eyed, sensitive, alert, and hopeful. He does not flinch. His courage and cheerfulness are contagious.

CHANGED NEUTRALITY LAW WOULD HELP

(New York Times)

At the critical stage of affairs in Europe, when the British and French Governments are attempting to create a barrier to new German conquests, Senator Pittman has proposed an amendment to our own Neutrality Act which would have a direct bearing on the situation which is now developing abroad. Under the Neutrality Act in its present form, Britain and France are permitted to purchase in our markets in time of war such necessary materials as cotton, copper, oil and iron, though the President would have discretionary power to require that they pay cash for these materials and that they transport them in other than American vessels. But Britain and France are not permitted to purchase in time of war, even on the "cash-and-carry" basis, actual arms, ammunition and implements of war. The amendment which Senator Pittman has proposed would wipe out this distinction. It would permit any nation to buy from us in time of war, on a "cash-and-carry" basis, not only such materials as cotton and copper but also arms and ammunition. Since Britain and France would have control of the seas, in the event of a general war in Europe, the practical effect of the Pittman amendment would be to enable these two countries (and their allies) to buy guns and munitions in this country, while Germany (and her allies, if any) would lack this opportunity.

The outbreak of a general war in Europe is conceivable only in the event that an aggressive Germany (or possibly a disappointed Italy, egged on by promises of German help) should push ahead to some new conquest at the expense of France or Britain, or at the expense of a smaller nation whose integrity these Powers would defend. In such a war, with totalitarian Germany on one side and democratic France and Britain on the other, there can be no question where our own interests would lie. They would lie on the side of the nations engaged in defending our own way of life. We would serve American interests best by permitting the democracies of Europe to acquire in our markets the weapons of self-defense which they would need in case of an unprovoked attack.

The enormous potential output of American war industries is a factor of immense importance in the world today. It is so large a factor that adoption of the Pittman amendment could in itself be expected to play a part in resolving the present crisis in Europe. It would give Germany one additional important reason for not taking the risk of involving all Europe in a general war. And to that extent it might help to keep the world at peace.

POOR MEN IN PARLIAMENT

(Christian Science Monitor)

The great change that has come over the British House of Commons during the present century is indicated in the plan for providing pensions for needy Members of Parliament who have served some years in the Lower House. The small salaries which are paid to members (recently raised from $400 to $600 a year) are quite insufficient to allow any margin for saving. The modest proposal accepted by the House is really a provident scheme, under which deductions from the existing salaries would provide a fund for members or ex-members who find themselves in need of assistance. That such a scheme should be thought necessary is the clearest sign that the House of Commons is no longer a rich man's preserve. A majority of the Labor Members in the House have no means beyond what they get from their official salaries or such supplement as their trades unions may allow them. There is no doubt that the payment of members is far more beneficial to the Labor Party than to the Conservatives, who for the most part could afford to be without it.

VERY SERIOUS LESSONS

(London Times)

Many unforgettable lessons are contained in the story of the last four years. The first is that any nation which allows its productive capacity and its supply of skilled labor to decline imposes upon itself a terrible handicap when it is suddenly called upon to expand its Air Force to immense proportions. It is most earnestly to be hoped that the time will come when a halt can be called to the vast development of the Air Force in this country, can again dispense with the power to produce the most modern types of aircraft in large quantities. Let us pray that the bulk of the machines actually produced may some day be civil machines; but the power to produce machines must be there.

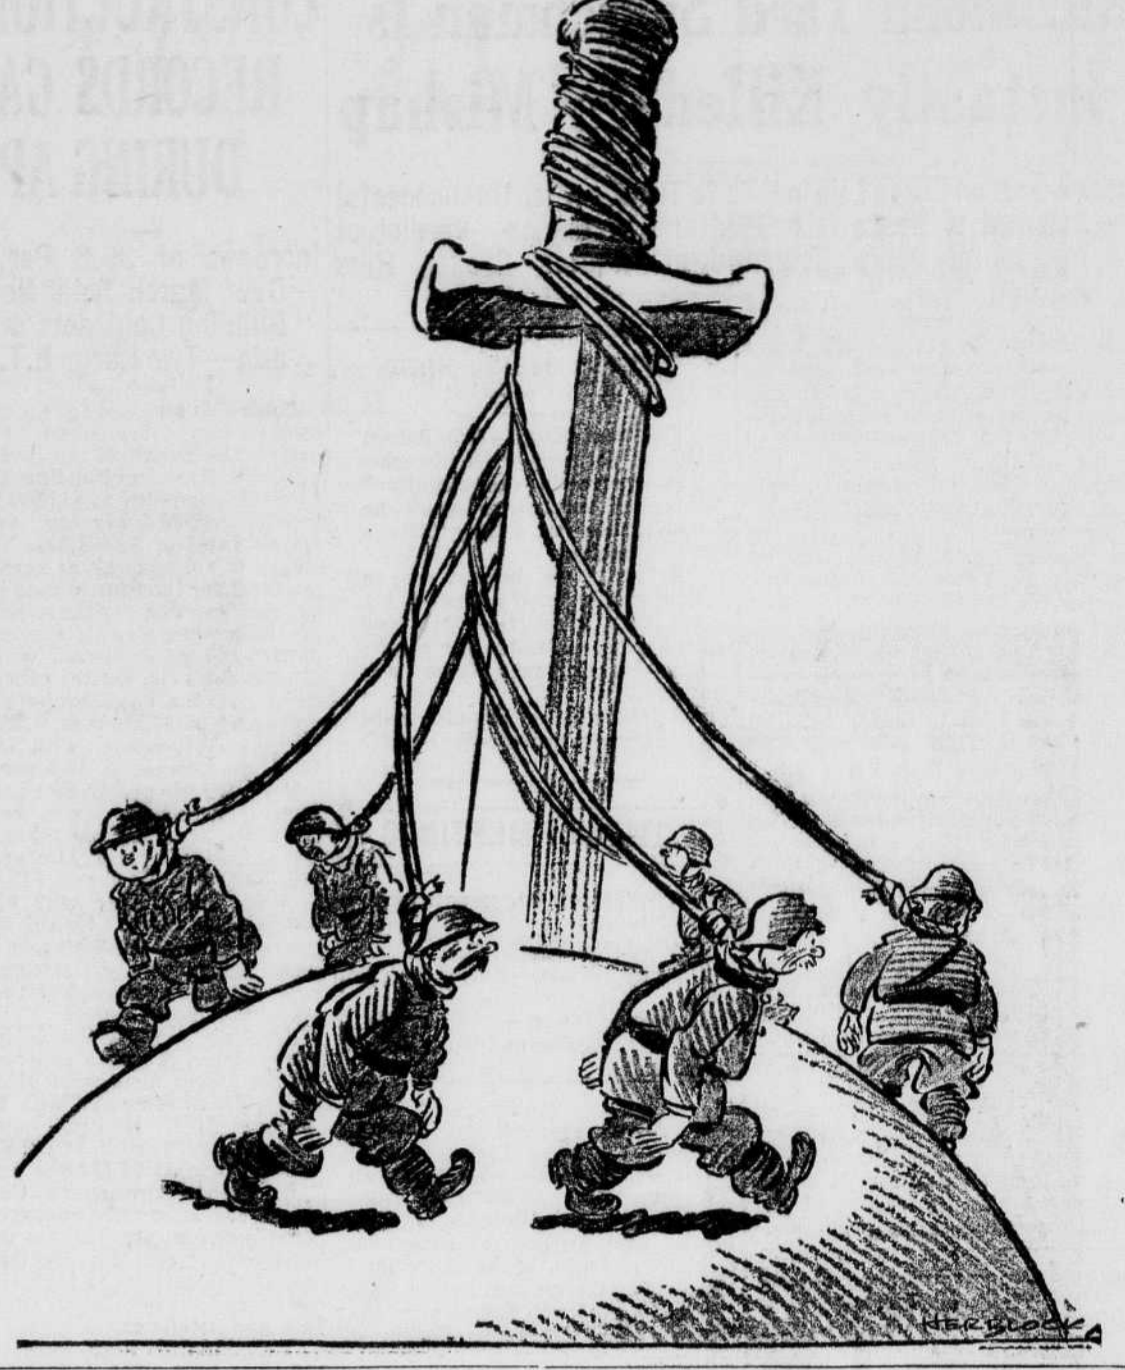

The second lesson is to create a competitive level of productive power takes years rather than months, particularly when expansion must take place in time of peace.

Should Cossack join with Frank to beat thee dead. And lift toward thee his hostile spear and dare Do violence so much as to one hair. Thy giant son, bone of thy very bone, Incensed would come with vengeance, and in wrath Would move the base of Europe's every throne!

URGES GREATER INTEREST IN INDUSTRIES

(La Presse, Montreal)

It cannot be a matter of indifference to the population of the Province of Quebec that the development of the riches of such and such a region of Canada has been undertaken with more or less success.

All Canadians should be interested in what happens in the different parts of the country, as all are destined to benefit by the progress realized over the whole extent of the national territory.

To a certain extent, to take an example, the development of mining exploitation in British Columbia or in the Maritimes is of almost as much importance to the people of Quebec as the work accomplished in their own Province, in Abitibi-Temisquiing or elsewhere, in getting out of the ground the precious or useful metals which have been found there for some time.

Provincial Administrations, for their part, even if they recognize the unity of interest in the country, keep account of it, are reduced to taking a part only where the expansion of the mining industry situated on their own territory is concerned. This threatens to involve a diversity of effort from which all Canada will suffer.

CHAMBERLAIN WAS RIGHT

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

What would they (the enemies of Mr. Chamberlain) have done had they been in his place last September? Would they have declared war at once on Hitler and Mussolini at a time when neither England nor France was prepared?

At the present moment Paris, London, Prague, Berlin, Rome and a number of other European cities would probably have been in ruins or in any case they would have suffered and still be suffering disastrous aerial bombardments. Thousands of men, women and children would be dead and, up to the present time, the German-Italian combination would still have been ahead.

We know very well that this war, like that of 1914, would have been a war of attrition and, in view of the progress of aviation, much more murderous than that of 1914. The six months gained since September have saved hundreds of thousands of lives.

Truly, how can anyone be angry with Mr. Chamberlain for having done what he did? He acted as he should have acted. Now they say that Hitler fooled him. That remains to be seen. Hitler has been placed in a bad position, having proved his bad faith, and he has put Mr. Chamberlain in the excellent position of being now able to insist to his own people that they should prepare for any immediate eventuality.

CANADA'S TOURIST TRADE

(Le Nouvelliste, Three Rivers)

Tourists from other countries spent $269,000,000 in Canada during 1938, while expenditures by Canadians travelling in foreign lands totalled $120,000,000, according to preliminary statistics prepared by the Federal Bureau of Statistics.

Corresponding figures for the year 1937 were $292,000,000 and $124,000,000—giving Canada a favorable balance in each case of $149,000,000 in 1938 as against $168,000,000 in 1937.

While tourists travelling from the United States to Canada showed a decrease, there was an advance in the number going from Canada to the United States in 1937. And according to customs officers the number of automobiles going to the United States in 1938 was 788,291, as compared to 756,429 in 1937. Expenditures were about the same as in 1937, however, roughly $49,000,000.

WISE DEFENDER CAN DEFEAT CONTRACT IF HE SELECTS HIS OPENER CAREFULLY

This is the thirteenth of a series of 25 bridge quizzes. Par is 100. Deduct 20 points if you answer incorrectly question No. 1; 15 for No. 2; 10 for No. 3; and 5 for No. 4. Keep your tally score and see how high an average you can maintain.

1. Should South's opening bid be one diamond, one club or one no trump? 2. Over one diamond, should North bid one heart or one no trump? 3. How should South respond to North's bid of one heart? 4. If South had been the declarer at three no trump and West opened the seven of spades and dummy played low, do you know why East could play the five and know that the seven would hold the trick?

Solution to Bridge Quiz

1. South has only one correct bid, one diamond. One no trump should never be bid on a hand containing a weak doubleton. With two four-card minor suits, the higher ranking one should be bid first. 2. While North could not be severely criticized for bidding one suit held in the North, East and no trump, one heart is a better bid. East has three, therefore declarer can have none. Thus a spade opening would defeat the contract. With North the declarer, however, if East made the natural opening of a spade, declarer can win nine tricks. The only way East and West can defeat North's three no trump have the spade suit stopped. He is with a diamond opening and a should bid two clubs, hoping that spade shift.

It's a rare treat to talk—years after she has stepped from the spotlight—with a woman who has made feminine history.

What woman wouldn't give her eyes to have a chat with and a first-hand check-up on the Duchess of Windsor a few years from now?

And so, woman-like, I got a peculiar thrill out of sitting in Irene Castle's hotel suite, admiring the curly brown locks that were responsible for my own (and your) bobbed hair, being amused by the wit that made Irene Castle "the toast of two continents" in the tranquil days before the World War, watching the grace that won ministers, civic leaders, and college presidents to the opinion that ballroom dancing was not an invention of the devil.

Irene Castle... "is middle-aged, but not frankly middle-aged."

She is now middle-aged, but not frankly middle-aged. Her figure is lovely and lissome, her clothes feminine enough to please the most "little-girl"-minded fashion writer, and her blue eyes sparkle when she talks. Her hair (except for the conventional top curl) is just as it was when she first had it cut—thereby scaring strong men into protesting "Women will be wearing pants next," and sending women running to barber shops.

Though she started a style that made the beauty salon business lucrative, she says, "I haven't spent two dollars on my hair in all these years. I just wash it and let it go the way it wants to go."

She is pleased with "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle," in which Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire step into the pre-war dancing shoes of the famous Castle team.

She acted as technical advisor for the motion picture which she hopes "will turn jitterbugs into graceful dancers."

"I hate for Europeans to think that all Americans who like to dance are jitterbugs," she says.

"Because it isn't a true picture at all. Swing enthusiasts are mostly high school kids. They don't represent the majority of dancing Americans."

If the picture in which Irene Castle stars—through the medium of Ginger Rogers—does calm down the jitterbugs, it will be the second time that the Castles have swung the dance from the ridiculous to the beautiful.

Before they introduced the fox-trot to the American public, the awkward "bunny hug" was hailed as the American dance.

EASY DIET CAN CUT WAIST TO FIT FASHIONS

Make no mistake about it, the spring clothes which look more 1939 than all other types really do focus attention on the waistline. This is truly a season when the most exciting dresses and suits appear to have been designed for the slim-waisted.

If you are very much over-weight, diet as well as exercise probably will be necessary for achievement of that waist look through the middle. However, you'll have a much easier job than, say, one who wants to lose inches about her hips. The waistline generally is the first part of the body to show the results of eating less food.

In fact, a sensible diet and just a fair amount of the right kind of exercise usually will make the waistline considerably smaller in a surprisingly short time.

Simply decide to have only fruit, a slice of lightly buttered toast, and a hot, moderately sweetened beverage for breakfast each day and only clear soup, a large green salad, fresh or stewed fruit and something hot to drink, for lunch. For dinner you may have one portion of everything on the menu. But no second helpings. If you get too hungry between meals eat a bit of fruit or a few stalks of celery or a raw carrot or drink a glass of milk.

Do Simple Exercises

In addition, do limbering and stretching exercises, especially designed to slenderize the waistline, for fifteen minutes each day. Or do them ten minutes and skip rope during the other five. If you are not overweight and simply wish to take off an inch about the waistline, leaving your other dimensions as they are, forget about dieting and to exercise correctly and regularly for fifteen minutes a day.

Relaxing the body, then bending backward as far as possible is a good routine. Stand with feet apart and hands on hips, then lean backward until your head touches the wall. Repeat five times the first day, six the second, and so on until you are bending fifteen times a day with your head touching the wall at a slightly lower spot each time.

Then stand erect and bend to the left as far as possible, to the right and forward to touch the floor, meanwhile keeping knees stiff. Afterwards, lie on the floor, kick legs upward toward ceiling, support hips with hands, then ride an imaginary bicycle. Repeat twenty times a day.

CHILD BEARS BRUNT OF MOTHER'S NERVES

I met them casually at a summer resort, this family of three, father, mother and Junior.

She struck up a front porch acquaintance. The waves that rolled so endlessly were no more active than mother's tongue. She talked all the time. And she talked about Junior. I was interested in Junior because he was such a good little fellow as he played about with bucket and shovel. Junior was no trouble to anybody.

I listened to his case history and learned all about his illnesses. His mother spoke most sympathetically about his little faults and how she dealt with them. She said he was to go to kindergarten in the fall and how lonely she would be without him.

Father was as much of a Junior admirer as she was. He had grand ideas and I thought, "Here is a particularly fortunate child indeed, with such intelligent parents to guide him."

I had not anticipated mother's nerves. In her pretty sports clothes and with a fine husband dancing attendance, there was not the slightest symptom of the truth. In a very few days I was to learn.

I noticed that Mrs. Lodger, let us call her, often spoke sharply to her boy. She would call him up to her, brush off his sun suit and say, "What a sight you are." Or, if he came to say he had to go to the bathroom, she would sit quite still and say, "There is your father. I am tired of waiting on you. You mustn't be such a nuisance."

Her Nerves Give Way

Things got worse, too. One day she jumped to her feet and fairly screamed, "Get out. Go away at once. You are driving me crazy."

Her husband tried to calm her. The more he said the worse she got. It was the literal truth. The child was driving her crazy.

Mr. Lodger explained that his wife was very high strung and confessed that he had spent months trying to get her to take life easier. "She has worried herself into this

"Let me tell you how I got my C.C.M. BICYCLE"

"LIKE every boy, I always wanted a bicycle and used to coax Mother and Dad to buy me one, but they always had excuses. Then one day I noticed a 'Bike' advertisement in our daily paper and, of course, I read it. It was a C.C.M. advertisement and from it I learned many things about a 'two-wheeler' I never knew before.

"The following Friday another C.C.M. advertisement appeared in the paper and, you may be sure, I read it, too. It convinced me that if I ever did get a bicycle it would simply have to be a C.C.M.

"Then I got the idea of showing these newspaper advertisements to my Dad—he's always reading 'his newspaper' and quoting from it. So Friday night after dinner I kept an eye on him as he read 'his paper' and when he came to the page with the C.C.M. advertisement on it I said 'Look, Dad! a bike advertisement—let's read it'. Dad read it and said 'Humph', and then I showed him the next week's advertisement and others that appeared later.

"Then one Spring day I coaxed him again for, not just any bicycle, but a new C.C.M. bicycle and to my surprise he asked me why I wanted a C.C.M. especially, so I told him all the things I had read about in the advertisements and he listened. When I finished, what do you think he said? 'Good boy, I see you've been reading the ads—well, so have I'.

"To make a long story short, I made promises to Dad about doing my homework and going to bed early, so I got my wonderful new C.C.M. bicycle and Oh Boy! how I love it, but I know I never would have got it without those C.C.M. newspaper advertisements. They 'sold' Dad and believe me he's 'tough' to 'sell'."

SAINTS DEFEAT DRUMMONDVILLE IN EXHIBITION

Jim Irving's St. Hyacinthe Nine Downs Henry DeMeo's Tigers 7-5 at Drummondville—7 Flingers Trudge to Mound.

DRUMMONDVILLE

Drummondville, May 1.— Amid bright sunshine and chilly breeze, St. Hyacinthe and Drummondville of the Provincial Baseball League swung into action at Drummondville in an exhibition game yesterday. The Saints of Jimmy Irving coming from behind to edge out Henry DeMeo's Tigers by the score of seven-five.

Seven pitchers were used in the game, Irving sending in Ted Veach, Swan and Connors, well-known Provincial Leaguers, and DeMeo tossing Mallett, Provencher, Dixon and Gravel into the breach.

Tigers stepped away fast, scoring two runs in the first inning and three in the third to take a five-nothing lead, but St. Hyacinthe pushed a single tally across the platter in the fourth, three runs in the fifth and three more in the seventh to tuck the decision away.

Each team collected eight safeties at bat and committed two errors in the field.
Score by innings:
St. Hyacinthe 000 130 500—7 8 2
Drummondville 203 000 000—5 8 2

WRESTLING GO

Championship of the Eastern Townships in the 160-pound wrestling class was retained by Valmore Viens, of Granby, Saturday night as he spilled Lester Paquette, of Magog, on a card presented by the Amateur Wrestling Club of Sherbrooke at the 54th Armory.

Viens took the first fall after thirteen minutes of even grappling, lost the second after four minutes when Paquette applied a punishing armlock and then came back to take the decider in six minutes.

A Sherbrooke boy, Henri de Lesleuc, triumphed in the battle royal, outlasting Kid Langlois, Chief Kinawaki, Frank Thibault and Kid Doucette. Langlois went out after two minutes of hectic jamming, and the Indian was tossed out of the battle four minutes later. Doucette and Lesleuc finished off Thibault, and then de Lesleuc overpowered Doucette in four minutes.

In a wild slugfest match, Frank Thibault, weighing 126 pounds, defeated Kinawaki, of Granby, who tipped the scales at 125, while Kid Langlois, 136, of Granby, downed Young Paquette, 140, of Magog, taking the fall at the seventeen-minute mark.

Up State New York editors: Get ready for a wholesale House of David invasion.

Frankie Frisch: The baseball writers say they can't help missing the sight and sound of you on the Cardinal bench.

Honey Boy, a 100-lb. Kentucky black bear, now working the southern wrestling circuit, is in bad with the promoters. He simply refuses to lose.

Dan Parker of the N.Y. Mirror is driving wrestling promoters nuts the way he is printing the results of their matches a day ahead of time.

Gabby Hartnett took a few puffs and puffs in batting practice the other day and almost blew the park down. One of Dizzy Dean's pitches landed in almost the same spot as did the famous Hartnett homer of last year against the Pirates. Another cleared the pailings. A third damn near tore the fence down. Gabby hauled towards 'til Cub bench. "That's just to keep Hank Cossy hustling for his job."

Paul Derringer of the Reds, has designed a pitching glove that laces up the back of the fingers instead of along the sides.

Royals Split Series With Newark's Bears

Re-organized Montreal Team Wins 1-0, Loses 5-4 in Doubleheader with International Baseball League Champions—Travels at Better than .500 Clip on Trip Around Southern Half of Circuit—Little Giants Stay in Front, Stopping Toronto Twice.

ROYALS SPLIT SERIES

Now that they've nearly completed the first swing around the southern half of the International Baseball League, Montreal Royals are beginning to look as if they really had the stuff to stick up with the leaders—currently Jersey City Giants.

There was more than a little doubt about the reorganized Royals before the campaign started, but seven victories in twelve starts on foreign fields can't be laughed off. If the Royals had been able to take Jersey City's measure, they probably would be in the lead now.

So far Montreal has lost a series only to the Giants, whipping Baltimore and Syracuse and breaking even in yesterday's doubleheader with Newark Bears, who are coming back after losing four of their first five games. Kemp Wicker, who has won three straight, Bobby Porter and Marvin Duke, form the nucleus of a fine mound staff, and if Barleigh Grimes can develop one of his youngsters into a consistent winner, the Royals should go places.

Wicker turned in another fine elbowing job in yesterday's opening duel with Marius Russo, giving only five hits and fanning six for a one to nothing victory.

The Bears came back to take the nightcap five to four as Johnny Haley outpitched Duke, who "blew" his own game after prolonging it to eight innings. Frank Kelleher belted a homer with two aboard in the third to tie the score for Newark and he made the winning run on Duke's error.

Jersey City increased its lead to a game and a half by whipping Toronto Leads twice before a remarkable crowd of 29,322. The Little Giants won the opener six to one when they backed up Hy Vandenberg's six-hit flinging with a sixteen-hit attack. In the nightcap, Jersey City won one to nothing.

Two big innings gave the Buffalo Bisons two victories over Syracuse Chiefs, four to two and six to three. The Rochester-Baltimore doubleheader was rained out.

In Saturday's games Toronto shutout Newark three to nothing while Montreal Royals were held three to nothing by the three hit hurling of Roy Joiner of Jersey City. Baltimore Orioles came from behind to defeat Buffalo nine to eight by scoring eight runs in the ninth inning. Rochester Red Wings also had a big day by swamping Syracuse Chiefs eleven to nothing.
