World News In Brief

Ottawa, March 28. — (CP) — Canada's top military authority last night said it is essential to the future of this country that its youth adhere closely to Christian religion and its principles. Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff, told 175 teen-age delegates to the eastern Ontario and Quebec regional Hi-Y conference, that Canada's youth can play an important role in the ideological struggle between communism and democracy.

Four members of the Sherbrooke Hi-Y club are attending the conference. They are Ron Kouri, president, and Earl Hills, Bert Fritz and Don Griffin.

Berlin, March 28. — (P) — A British soldier, who 10 months ago deserted his occupation outfit in Germany to live with the communists, has come back "fed up" with life under communism and would rather face a court-martial than stay there. Cpl. John Waller, 21, surrendered last Saturday to face a desertion charge, authorities said yesterday. Waller told reporters: "My action was motivated by the anti-Soviet propaganda in British and American newspapers."

Belgrade, March 28. — (P) — Fleeing refugees from Bulgaria reported yesterday that Russia is sending thousands of secret police into their Soviet-dominated homeland. The Yugoslav government issued a special communique based on accounts furnished by 55 Bulgarians who fled their native land. The refugees were quoted as saying that thousands of persons had been turned out of their apartments in Sofia. Their places were taken over by the Russian secret police.

Auckland, N. Z., March 28. — (P) — An earthquake shook Wellington and other centres in New Zealand this afternoon. No damage was reported. The Carter observatory said the quake centre appeared to be about 350 miles distant and deep-seated. The shock was felt in Wellington at 1:57 P.M. (8:57 P.M. EST Tuesday). Waiouru, in the centre of North Island, and the Bay of Plenty on the east coast also reported a heavy shock lasting 30 seconds.

Paris, March 28. — (P) — The United States embassy announced today that France has agreed to location of a huge American military depot near Chateauroux, about 150 miles southwest of Paris.

The base will be used for aviation material to be supplied the French by the United States under the North Atlantic defence program, as well as for repairs and the furnishing of technical information on the equipment.

The aim appeared to be twofold: To clear the way for advancing allied infantry near the North Korean border, and to stall any Red attempt at a counter-offensive.

On the east coast, South Korean troops advanced behind a rolling barrage of naval gunfire to a point six miles north of parallel 38. They occupied Yangyang, first major coast town north of the border.

South Korean forces have occupied one border village and four North Korean towns since their drive began Sunday.

On the western front, allied forces north of Seoul pushed within seven miles of 38. They had full control of the road leading northwest from allied-held Uijongbu to Munsan.

Spring rains hampered the allied air attack and in places bogged down their mechanized ground forces.

The centre of communist troop-massing activity was the central front, north of Chunchon. AP correspondent William C. Barnard said 10,000 Reds were strung along the border and held a thin slice of land to the south.

Another 80,000 were backed up as far as the big communist supply base at Kumhwa, 20 miles inside Red Korea.

Front-line observers watched for any sign of a Red push down the

J. J. Carroll Charged On Tax Counts

Kansas City, March 28. — (P) — James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner, was charged today on 26 counts of failure to report to federal tax authorities payments totalling $52,688 made by him in 1948 and 1949.

The two informations against Carroll invoked a little known and rarely enforced section of the U.S. internal revenue code which requires:

1. That all persons making payments to other persons of more than $500 — other than those on which taxes are withheld by employers — are required to report those payments individually to the internal revenue department's processing division, which is located in Kansas City.
2. That all such payments must be listed collectively and reported annually to the processing division.

The informations cited Carroll as having paid the money to winning bettors and in the form of "commissions."

Classified as misdemeanors, each count carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail, a fine of $1,000 or both. Carroll could be sentenced to 26 years and fined $26,000.

Carroll recently stalked out of a hearing in St. Louis being conducted by the Senate crime investigating committee, objecting to the televising of the hearing. He appeared before the committee in Washington last week.

Washington, March 28. — (P) — Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) paid tribute yesterday to United States newspapers, radio and television for their reporting of the 11-month Senate crime investigation.

Kefauver, committee chairman, recalled that a group of large newspapers more than a year ago had recognized the growing crime problem and had "pooled" their coverage of crime news.

Kefauver said this action was one of the things which led him to propose that the committee be set up.

Miami, Fla., March 28. — (AP) — Coast guardsmen widened their search today for the 43-foot schooner Tropicair, unreported on a trip from St. Petersburg to Havana.

The Tropicair, sailed by L. E. Hederman of St. Petersburg, with an all-girl crew of seven, was last reported Monday about 15 miles due north of Reberca shoals, 100 miles north of Havana.

centre of the peninsula. If the communists counter-attack they may choose this rainy season as jumping-off time. Their lightly weighted forces would have some advantage over the more heavily burdened United Nations troops.

Elements of five regrouping Chinese armies and one North Korean army face the allies in this central sector. It was the forward wall of this force that was hit by American guns.

The artillery, hub-deep in sticky mud, opened up after probing U.N. patrols drew heavy fire.

The thundering barrage cut up one Red front-line division Tuesday night. Surviving communists withdrew rather than take further punishment.

Fighter-bombers of three countries swept out of the rain to add their bombs, rockets and machine-gun fire to the blazing attack.

American, Australian and South African pilots joined in pounding communist positions.

On the western front, tough Puerto Rican troops smashed a Red ammunition dump northeast of Uijongbu. Americans north of Uijongbu Tuesday night beat off a minor attack.

Red mortar and artillery shells landed in some allied sectors.

American patrols entered Chango, northeast of Uijongbu, and then withdrew. Artillery was called down to break up a communist attack east of the Chango road.

The bad weather Wednesday failed to stop allied bombers. B-29s hit two airfields and a troop replacement centre.

Succeeds Alderman A. C. Ross In Seat Number One — 48.34 Per cent Of Electors Cast Vote.

Climaxing a brief but decidedly hot battle, J. L. (Paul) Boulanger, automobile tire and accessory dealer, yesterday was returned as alderman for Seat No. One of the North Ward by a majority of 148 votes over his opponent, Paul Leclerc, an inspector for the Old Age Pensions Commission. He polled 884 votes to the 736 cast for Mr. Leclerc. The seat was formerly held by Alec C. Ross, who declined to seek re-election.

The total of 1620 votes cast represented 48.34 per cent of the total of 3,351 names on the lists for the eleven polls. The successful candidate secured majorities in six polls, the loser led in four and one poll at 328 King Street West divided its allegiance evenly.

The votes by polls and majorities were as follows:
Poll	Address	Boulanger	Leclerc	Boulanger	Leclerc
77-78	36 Dufferin	75	28	47	—
79-80	19 Montreal	93	23	70	—
81-82	34 Queen North	90	35	55	—
83-85	16 London	62	80	—	18
84-86	328 King West	61	61	—	—
87 A-K	568 King West	40	125	—	85
87 L-Z	568 King West	20	145	—	120
88	405 King West	77	111	—	34
89-90	186 Ontario	117	30	87	—
91	125 Dominion	164	46	118	—
92-93	226 Victoria	85	52	33	—
Total		884	736

The election returns were unusually fast in coming in, the count being completed by 7:20 p.m., barely twenty minutes after the polls closed. The reports of the Deputy Returning Officers were telephoned to City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers and his assistants at the City Hall.

The first returns gave Mr. Boulanger a substantial lead but this was wiped out when the reports were received from the King Street West polls and Mr. Leclerc for a few minutes held a slight majority. Mr. Boulanger's lead was restored when the Ontario and Dominion street results were turned in.

Although this was the first aldermanic campaign in the North Ward, it lacked few of those practices which are supposed to lend color to voting. Several cases of attempted "telegraphing" were uncovered and a survey indicates that every one of the eleven polls had one or more attempts at impersonation. Challenges were frequent as the agents for the candidates sought to halt persons believed willing to pass as somebody else for the benefit of the opposing faction. In one poll, the impersonation efforts reached such a point that a police detail had to be despatched to restore order. However, no actual arrests were made.

The official count of the ballots was made at the City Hall at ten o'clock this morning by City Clerk Deslauriers.

"Following the election, Mr. Boulanger broadcast a message of thanks to his supporters. He said: "My first desire is to thank you, the electors of the North Ward, for the honor you have done me by electing me to the City Council as an alderman for your ward. It is an honor I deeply appreciate and I will do everything in my power to justify the faith you have placed in me."

I know that I cannot carry out those projects which are so close to my heart without the co-operation of those men who are already sitting at the City Hall and without your continued support and, perhaps, at times, your criticism. After all, I am only human and am bound to make some mistakes. I hope these will not be too serious and that with your advice and suggestions I will be able to avoid those pitfalls which too often cause trouble for an alderman, especially when he is a newcomer to the halls of government.

I will renew my pledge to work for town planning, improved parks and playgrounds and providing our citizens with a safer and more adequate supply of drinking water.

These cannot be achieved overnight, but I hope to report substantial progress when I come up for re-election.

I wish to extend my personal thanks to my opponent, Mr. Paul Leclerc, for the square manner in which he conducted his fight.

In closing, I also wish to thank my supporters whose efforts were largely responsible for my election.

I also wish to thank the Sherbrooke Record, La Tribune, and radio stations C.H.L.T. and C.K.T.S. for the coverage they gave my campaign.

Aleutians May Be Site Of A-Tests

By ELTON C. FAY
Washington, March 28. — (P) — The United States may be preparing its fifth atomic-weapons proving ground, this one in a sub-Arctic wasteland.

A lonely spot on the Aleutian island chain, which stretches out 800 miles from the Alaskan mainland westward towards Russia's Siberian empire, appears a probable choice.

There, for the first time, the United States could test atomic bombs under conditions of climate and other factors which might be encountered should a war require use of such weapons against Russian cities.

Since Gordon Dean, Atomic Energy Commission chairman, hinted recently that new tests might be made at locations not used heretofore, there has been developing speculation that the Aleutians might be one of the sites. Reasons for this include:

1. Atomic-bomb tests to date have been conducted only in favorable weather conditions in areas unlike those which would be logical A-bomb targets in a war with Russia.
2. The area already is owned by the government and controlled by the military. There is no need for a transfer of authority or to enter an agreement with another country, as would be the case if Arctic tests were made in barren northern Canada.

British Doctors May Decide Tomorrow Whether They Will Quit Health Service

Propaganda Battle Is Continuing

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, March 28. — (P) — A conference tomorrow may determine whether Britain's family doctors decide to walk out on the national health service.

For nearly a year doctors have been saying they will quit the service unless the state does something about their salaries. It was originally decided to consider withdrawing by December, 1950, but action was suspended pending discussions.

Now representatives of the 20,000 doctors, or general practitioners as they are usually called, will meet in London to discuss developments. The expectation is that they will again postpone recommending a general withdrawal from the service.

Hope has been expressed by those who plead the doctor's case that the new health minister, Hilary Marquand, will prove more flexible than his predecessor, Aneurin Bevan.

When it was announced that Bevan was moving to the labor ministry, Harley Street danced with joy. Its anticipations were further roused when Marquand, a quieter personality than Bevan, said it appeared there was good ground for a review of salaries in the medical profession.

A recent newspaper survey concluded that one of the service's biggest needs is to move doctors from wealthier sections to poorer industrial areas.

A round sum of $50,000,000 ($150,000,000) is allocated to the 20,000 doctors. They receive about 18 shillings ($2.70) a year for each patient on their lists to a maximum of 4,000. It is often said that not many doctors have full lists, and that those who have are unable to do justice to individual patients because of overwork.

It appears to be widely recognized that under the health service the lot of the family doctor is not a happy one. He complains that he gets a status inferior to that of specialists and consultants, has no time for research, takes a beating from querulous patients who visit him more frequently than they do not pay directly, and sees no sign of the health centres that were supposed to be built to help him in his work.

"The conception of the free-for-all service is a good one," one family doctor told this writer, "but it has developed to be more of a sickness service than a health service."

On the other hand, no political party opposes the plan in principle. It is conceded that the service is an established part of the welfare state, and the job is to smooth out the rough spots and do as much as can be done with limited resources.

Debris Spurs Search For Lost Plane

London, March 28. — (AP) — Rescue aircraft searching the Atlantic for a United States air force transport plane missing with 53 persons aboard have sighted a "number of small yellow objects" some 600 miles southwest of Ireland, U. S. air force London headquarters said today.

The American Globemaster disappeared Good Friday on a flight from the United States to Britain. The objects are the same color as life rafts carried by American aircraft on over-water flights. Individual life belts — known as Mae Wests — worn by passengers on such flights also are yellow to aid in spotting them from the air.

Weather in the area today was moderate, with clouds at 2,500 feet and a 15-to-20-mile-an-hour wind.

Air force headquarters said the yellow objects and "some" long boards" were spotted approximately 35 miles southeast of the position at which a charred duffle bag belonging to one of the plane's passengers was picked up by a ship Saturday night.

The bag had been the only trace so far of the missing transport.

The pilot of an American rescue plane — one of more than 100 scouring the Atlantic area — first reported seeing the objects at 3:30 P. M. (10:30 A. M. EST) yesterday.

About two hours later, air force headquarters here said, another plane reported "debris" in the same location.

Surface ships were ordered to the area but no further information has been received here.

A U. S. destroyer which searched the area where the debris was sighted radioed at mid-day that she had been unable to find the yellow objects.

The number of planes participating in the hunt was reduced today to 55.

French President Will Visit Canada And United States

Washington, March 28. — (AP) — President Vincent Auriol of France arrived today on an unprecedented visit of state which promises to cause the biggest ceremonial stir the capital has experienced in years.

President Truman, Auriol's host during the five-day stay in Washington, arranged a personal welcome at the Union Station. A military parade and other ceremonies were to follow. Government workers were ordered dismissed early to swell the expected throng along Pennsylvania Avenue. President Auriol's scheduled arrival time was 4:25 p.m. EST.

Officials looked for possibly the biggest turnout since the King and Queen came here in 1939 when they visited Canada.

First formal visit of a French chief of state to the United States its primary purpose is to serve as a demonstration of unity and friendship between France and the United States.

There will be numerous opportunities, however, to exchange views on the whole range of cold war and other issues. Perhaps significantly, Auriol is accompanied by the French Foreign Minister, Robert Schuman.

Under the constitution of the French Republic the 66-year-old

Auriol, a Socialist, is not responsible for government policy and will avoid political commitments in the series of public address on his program. This will be left in large part to Schuman.

Officials forecast Schuman and Dean Acheson, U.S. Secretary of State, may take up in detail what the west wants to talk about with Russia, in case current efforts in Paris are successful in arranging a new meeting of the big four foreign ministers.

Winding up his Washington visit Monday, Auriol goes to New York for a two-day stay. He will visit Montreal and Ottawa before returning to France.

New York, March 28. — (AP) — Harbor craft whistled greetings and fire boats shot streams of water into the air today as the Ile de France bearing the President of France steamed up New York harbor.

A welcoming party boarded the ship at quarantine to greet Vincent Auriol, first French President ever to visit the United States. He is accompanied by his wife and a large official party.

The group will leave by train this afternoon for Washington where they will visit President and Mrs. Truman.

Ex-Farm Boy Given Army Vehicle Job

Ottawa, March 28. — (P) — A farm boy who ditched a pitchfork for a bank clerk's job and then pinned his dreams on the Model T has turned to a new adventure — making life easier for Canada's footsore soldiers.

John M. (Mike) Cochrane, 48, has come a long way since the days he pitched hay on a little farm near Strathroy, Ont. A vice-president in charge of purchasing for Ford of Canada, he's the new director of mechanical transport in C. D. Howe's defence production department.

A slightly-built, smartly-attired vehicle authority, the new army-vehicle production chief is stepping into government harness for the first time. He's got a lot ahead of him, but as he says in an interview, he's "quite happy to tackle the job."

His job is to develop the kind of army vehicle program the government wants for Canada, based principally on new vehicle patterns, standardized with those of the United States.

Mr. Cochrane doesn't elaborate too much on how the program is shaping up. He wants to take time to appraise the situation more fully before estimating what may lie ahead in the way of an army vehicle program for Canada.

But two things he's already certain of — whole-hearted co-operation of the Canadian automotive industry and the United States government.

Losing no time, he's already made his presence known by a personal visit to Washington and discussed, among other things, the standardized vehicles which the Canadian army will adopt — the quarter-ton, three-quarter-ton and 2½-ton models, designed along American lines.

Mr. Cochrane is cautious about saying too much about what impact defence production will have on civilian supply. He emphasizes, however, that the United States has cut back the amount of steel available for passenger car production.

"It is quite probable that such a limit on steel in the United States will reduce Canadian production in passenger cars because we rely on U.S. sources for body stampings and frames which are substantial steel-consuming items."

Mr. Cochrane, who also is a member of the Ford board of directors, comes well equipped for his new role. He was on the purchasing side of the Ford company during the second world war when the plant turned out 400,000 vehicles for the Canadian defence program.

Brussels, March 28. — (P) — Gen. Ernst Alexander Von Falkenhayn, Nazi military governor of occupied Belgium during the second world war, was released from St. Gilles prison here under cover of darkness early today.

Two other Nazi officials during the German occupation — Hans Reeder, former civilian administrator for the country, and Gen. Georg Bertram, former commander of the Liege area — were freed at the same time.

All three presumably headed for the German border.

Two Girls Killed At Lavaltrie

Lavaltrie, Que., March 28. — (P) — Two 16-year-old girls were killed last night when struck by a car as they were walking along the main highway near this Berthier county town, about 40 miles north of Montreal.

Dead are Louise Goyette and Claudette Deschenes, both of Lavaltrie.

Police said the girls were walking on the left side of the road when they were struck by a car driven by Aime Bourassa, 33, of Grandmeac, Que. It was believed that Bourassa was blinded by the lights of an oncoming car.

The Goyette girl died instantly while the Deschenes girl died two

NEW PREMIER THEATRE

Three Flames Also Popular For Public Service Work

In addition to gaining recognition in the popular music field, the Three Flames, currently dispensing their sizzling live rhythms at the "Sport Lounge" of the Union Hotel, have become known, as well, by virtue of their community-spiritiveness.

When New York City was troubled with a smallpox scare, these instrumentalists and vocalists came to the fore by writing a song called "Don't Wait, Get Vaccinated!" which was broadcast throughout the city. The Health Department awarded the trio a special commendation and the song was cited in the American Medical Association.

When the New York Herald Tribune began to make its annual appeal on behalf of the Fresh Air Fund — a fund which made it possible for poor children to spend two weeks in the country — the Flames came through with another song called "Send A Kid Away To Camp Today!"

During Fire Prevention Week in the same city, the Flames added fuel to the drive for fire safety by writing and performing a song called "Obadiah, Put Out That Fire!"

The Flames then wrote a number for the National Safety Council in its crusade against accidents. It was called "Get Hep — Watch Your Step!" It was adopted by the Council and utilized throughout the United States as a weapon against the dangers of carelessness.

They've just come through with a song that urges the public to enroll in civil defense work against an A-bomb attack. It's a live tune called "I'd Rather Be Gone Than A Goner!"

PREVIEWS: Someone tells Dick Powell, in UI's "You Never Know": "You don't look like a private eye." Replies Dick: "Do we ALL have to look like Dick Powell?" Bill Williams plays a Texas cattleman in his new movie. All the action in the picture takes place in Washington, D.C. The title of the picture is "Havana Rose." End confusion.

Now it's a lady pirate braver and bolder than Errol Flynn and tougher than Humphrey Bogart. Knock-out Louis Gomez's front teeth with the butt-end of a pistol. Slash Herbert Marshall with a cutlass. Lead a drunken pirate crew in hand-to-hand combat with defenders of three British ships. All to the tune of the "Tennessee Waltz?" Changeover

Career Switch: Tom Conway, brother of George Sanders, is playing his first comedy role in "Painting the Clouds With Sunshine" and shudders at the mention of his long screen career as a suave detective. "I saw the handwriting on the wall and quit the 'Falcon' series," Conway explains. "RKO offered me a nice piece of change to continue, but I couldn't see it. I didn't have to know the lines. I knew what they were going to be by the situation. All we did was do the same story over and over. The title was all that was new."

MEMORIES: Joel McCrea tells some hair-raising tales of his 20-year career as a flicker hero. He remembers a handsome extra who worked in one of his films. He suggested that the studio sign up the kid. The studio's answer was: "Pretty boys are a dime a dozen."

The kid turned out to be Tyrone Power. In 1932, there was an economy wave at RKO. Among those fired were Joel, who was getting $200 a week, and Irene Dunne, who was making $20,000 a picture. Three months later RKO had to re-hire Irene for $75,000 a picture and Joel went to work at another lot for $1000 a week.

Just before Joel started "Bird of Paradise," opposite Dolores Del Rio, John Gilbert came to him and pleaded:

"Look, Joel, they say I'm washed up in talkies because of my voice. But I don't believe it. I get $250,000 a picture. You're getting $200 a week. If you can talk the studio into letting me do 'Bird of Paradise,' instead of you, I'll take the $200 a week and give you $250,000."

Joel took Gilbert to the studio boss and suggested him for the role. The brass hat dismissed Gilbert with:

"It's no use, Gilbert. You've got a voice that sounds like a woman." Three weeks later Gilbert died of a broken heart.

Short Takes: Maureen O'Hara pleading exhaustion, has asked RKO to find another co-star for George Dolenz in "The Return of Zorro." . . . MGM's now wowing Jeff Chandler to take over the swashbuckling star role in "Ivanhoe."

Bob Hope's favorite radio comedienne, Irene Ryan, will collect $3000 a week for a Las Vegas night appearance. . . . There's talk of Don Taylor as Gary Cooper's buddy in "Distant Drums." . . . There's another movie cooking for Marta Toren and Humphrey Bogart, who click as a team in "Sirocco."

FAME: J. C. Penney's new Help Wanted ad reads: "Where Movie Scouts Look for New Faces! Debbie Reynolds worked here!"

JACOBY ON CANASTA

PLAY FOR ALL IN TOURNAMENT
By Oswald Jacoby
Written for NEA Service

Our discussion of Canasta tournaments earlier this week reminds me that several readers have asked, from time to time, what style of play is best for a tournament player to adopt. The general answer is: Play for all or nothing.

In most tournaments there's no glory in coming in second or third. You might just as well wind up at the bottom of the heap if you can't take the first prize. Therefore, there is no point at all in playing safe.

In a large tournament, some pair is bound to have a lucky streak. If there are five or six rounds, some pair is going to average about 2000 points per round. It won't do you much good to beat your opponents by a few hundred points.

For the purpose of winning the tournament, that small victory is just the same as getting beaten. At best, you can stand one such round if you have very big scores on all the other rounds, but you cannot hope to be a contender for first prize if you have two small victories.

The surest way to run up a big score is to fight desperately for the discard pile. If you get the pile, you will get the score; if you lose the pile, the opponents will get the big score. It's a free-swinging type of game that is not suited to everybody's temperament, but it's the only possible winning style.

Therefore, discard dangerously or trickily on hands that have possibilities. With a poor hand, discard ultra-safely in the hope that your partner can save the day. Freeze the pile, discard your deuces into it. Do anything—but don't sit tight.

That, at any rate, must be your

St. Elie Farm Forum Meets

St. Elie, March 28.—The St. Elie Farm Forum met this week with Mrs. Sarah Humphrey with an attendance of 19. The broadcast was heard and a discussion on "Pipe Lines of Information" followed.

The Forum thought that much of the literature and information it receives is written in a language that only a lawyer can read instead of plain words that everyone knows.

The Forum would like to have agronomes give demonstrations and lectures to the community on better farming tactics.

After the discussion, cards were played at three tables and supper was served at 11 by Mrs. Humphrey, assisted by Mrs. F. Smith.

The next and final business meeting of this season will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Arbery, with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Arbery acting as host and hostess.

Forthcoming International Convention Of Rotary Is Topic For Local Meeting

Personal impressions of the conventions of Rotary International were given to members of the local Rotary Club last night by Past President Gerald Wiggitt, who urged all Rotarians to attend the 1951 convention being held in Atlantic City shortly.

Mr. Wiggitt pointed out the advantages of attending the various assemblies at such conventions, saying that they are schools for higher Rotary learning, which also have a broadening influence and impart a knowledge of world affairs as well.

He said that on the occasions when he attended International conventions he was struck by the vastness of the organization, by the fellowship, and by the opportunity for friendship with people of so many different nations, colors and creeds.

Following Past President Wiggitt's brief remarks, a colored film on Atlantic City, depicting the beauty of that "vacation paradise" was shown to the members.

Past President E. W. Gilbey reminded the members of the 1951 Spring Conference to be held in St. Johnsbury, Vt., April 18, 19 and 20, and said that it is the duty of Rotarians, particularly new members, to attend these conferences. He asked the members to make their reservations immediately.

President Evans Joslin, in the chair for the meeting, welcomed two guests, H. A. Dale, of Montreal and Bill Perkins, of Sherbrooke. He also extended best wishes to the members occupying the birthday table, Nelson Lothrop, S. Cleary, Past President Lee Watson, Claude Willard, J. Thompson, Past President J. A. Archambault, Howard Thompson, Fred Kirby and Osmond Broadbent.

With a view to encouraging and developing more activity as far as international affairs are concerned, the District International Service Committee is launching a new project.

Past President Douglas Stevenson outlined the scheme and said that plans are being made at Plymouth, N. H., to hold a model meeting patterned on the lines of the General Assembly of the United Nations, and conducted by Howard Jones, of Lyndonville, who was one of the representatives to UNESCO. Each club in the district is asked to choose one outstanding student, boy or girl, from the local high school and send them to this meeting as delegates. These students will then be expected, after the assembly, to report on its activities to their school and the Rotary Club which sponsored them.

President Joslin advised the members that Past President Stevenson had been asked by the President of Rotary International, to act as co-sergeant-at-arms for the International Assembly at Lake Placid. He said that at the recent charter night of the Lyndonville Club, the Sherbrooke and Boundary Clubs had presented the American Rotarians with a Union Jack, Past President Stevenson extending the greetings of Canada.

May 14, he said, is the date of the Bristol, Vt., Charter Night and all Rotarians of 28th District are urged to attend.

At the head table were Everett Nicol, Past President Gilbey, Past President Wiggitt, President Joslin, vice-president Emile Levesque, Past President Stevenson, Past District Governor Ewing and Past President Everett Goodenough.

Refrigerator Deal Proves To Be Costly

Montreal, March 28. — A merchant of Granby, Que., testifying at the trial of Horace Diamond, Harold Marks and Roger Benoit of Montreal, accused of conspiring to smuggle 218 electric refrigerators from the United States into Canada in 1949, told Judge C. E. Guerin yesterday that he lost $4,800 in the deal.

The merchant, Rosario Couture, 40, reported that while operating a business in Valleyfield in 1949 he purchased 12 refrigerators from a salesman, named Arnaldo Ricci. He said he was led to believe the machines had been purchased from country dealers and re-sold to him. Some days later the R.C.M.P. seized them.

Ricci admitted having sold the refrigerators to Couture for Marks. He said he had no idea that the machines were smuggled goods.

Romeo Carriere, 32, of Valleyfield, who pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy, testified that he accompanied Ricci, a St. Timothee, Que., truck driver, on three or four occasions when they went to the U.S.-Canadian border to transfer electric refrigerators from one truck onto their own.

He said he and Ricci were paid $150 for each trip.

Arriving at the U.S. border, they found a parked truck without driver and transferred the machines from one truck to another under the orders of a man named Cushman.

The case is continuing.

Roads Will Be Closed Shortly

Exceptional Talent Is Revealed By 11-Year-Old Joan Githero

By MARGARET DOHERTY
Judging from the performance given in Lawrence School auditorium last evening, Joan Githero is a name which may well reach the top among the stars of the future.

The 11-year-old pianist, native of Montreal, revealed great potentialities, a sensitivity and musical taste well beyond her years. One had the impression, before meeting her even, that she lives and breathes music, that it is her whole world.

If any fault might be found with her recital last night, it is that it was all too brief, and we are willing to wager that the remainder of the audience shared our feeling.

Each is always the reliable program opener and the Prelude and Fugue in C minor showed the careful training and sound technique of the young pianist.

She admits a particular fondness for Beethoven which was quite evident in her fine interpretation of the first two movements of the Sonata Pathetique. In fact in this work particularly she showed a maturity of style not usually associated with one of such tender age.

News Briefs From Around The Province

Quebec, March 28. — Quebec truckers yesterday asked faster construction of a Bailey bridge to replace the collapsed Duplessis bridge at Three Rivers, Que.

In a brief to Solicitor-General Riard, the Canadian Automotive Transport Association, Quebec section, said the bridge will not be finished by March 31 as expected. The brief quoted engineers building the bridge for the public works department.

The 1,800-member section said trucking regulations during spring thaws were a "source of abuse." It asked for heavier truck loads of five to six tons instead of one to two tons.

The section also wanted load limits uniform with Ontario and other provinces. Ontario permitted heavier loads than Quebec.

Present limits prevented heavy trucking between Montreal and Quebec. In many cases they did not equal trucks travelling empty. As a result, several hundred employees were laid off.

Mr. Rivard said load limits were set by the roads and public works departments. The government would try to make spring regulations similar to nearby provinces.

The public works department could not fail to hasten construction of the Bailey bridge.

Montreal, March 28. — Count Jacques de Bernoville, fighting deportation, yesterday was granted a writ of habeas corpus by Mr. Justice Roger Brossard of Superior Court.

The writ orders Montreal immigration superintendent to bring the count to court Thursday to justify "deprivation of the liberty of the petitioner, Count de Bernoville, which the latter alleges is illegal."

De Bernoville has been sentenced to death in absentia for collaboration with the Nazis by a French people's court.

Montreal, March 28. — Donald MacLennan, 28, was electrocuted yesterday while working in the Lachine plant of Canadian

Her left hand is very well developed, her touch firm, and she has strength and power which with more experience should develop into great brilliance.

MacDowell's "To a Water Lily" was played with just the proper lightness and grace and the Debussy group was performed with a finish which would have been most acceptable in musicians of far greater schooling and experience.

Chopin's Nocturne in F and Fantaisie Impromptu closed the program and Miss Githero returned with a charming encore, "An Old Music Box."

Perhaps one of her greatest assets is her simplicity and unassuming manner. When asked following the recital why she did not play more than the one encore she answered: "I know lots more, but I thought perhaps the people had had enough."

The recital was sponsored by St. Paul's Church, and after her last group, the young pianist was presented with a colonial bouquet.

We hope to hear Miss Githero in Sherbrooke again and will follow her promising career with interest.

Allis Chalmers Ltd. Police said MacLennan and another employee dropped a heavy steel plate which severed an electric cable. The victim was standing in a pool of water at the time.

Montreal, March 28. — A simplified system of issuing licences for new cars was announced yesterday by the Montreal Automotive Trade Association Limited. The plan will allow dealers who sell more than 500 cars annually to issue their own licenses and act as an agent for the provincial government.

Montreal, March 28. — Montreal yesterday refused to pay stenographic costs of a probe into alleged police corruption 10 years ago.

City counsel John Ahern said Montreal was not bound by the decision of Mr. Justice Francois Caron, presiding judge who ordered the city to pay clerical costs.

The probe continues.

Montreal, March 28. — President Harry Davis of the Canadian Seamen's Union said yesterday that the federal government's plan to register and screen all lake seamen "will be used to blacklist and eliminate all active union men from the ships."

He said the plan was inspired by the ship owners in a move to destroy free trade unionism in the industry.

"We have already witnessed how the screening has worked in the United States," said Davis. "It has resulted in the blacklisting of active union men, as well as minority racial groups from U.S. ships."

The C.S.U. was decertified as bargaining agent for a Quebec company by Canada Labor Relations Board on grounds it was not a bona fide trade union. The union now has an appeal before Ontario supreme court.

Q—Did the author of Aesop's Fables really live?

A—About 2,500 years ago, there lived a man by the name of Aesop. He was of Greek descent, but spent most of his life on an island near the coast of Asia Minor. It is hard to tell which of the legends about his life are true. Aesop's name has been attached to scores of fables.

Phalanx Plans Dance For Young People

On Friday night of this week, at the McKinnon Memorial Y.W.C.A. Building on Montreal Street, a dance for young people will be sponsored by the Phalanx Fraternity of Sherbrooke Y.M.C.A.

This group of young men is undertaking its first service venture by attempting to satisfy an expressed need of the older teen age and younger 20's group.

A couple of weeks ago some young people expressed the wish that there were some place where they could go and dance without going to one of the local grills. This came to the ears of the Phalanx Fraternity who discussed it and decided to see what they could do about it.

There is no doubt that not only young people living and working in our City whose homes are elsewhere, but also young people whose homes are here feel the desire to associate with other young people under such conditions and enjoy a dance together.

Therefore the Fraternity has lined up Jerry Clement and his Trio for music and rented the Y.W.C.A. Building to try out the idea. If it is successful, they will plan to hold these get together regularly.

Any young men or young women of Sherbrooke or the District will be welcomed at Friday's party, in couples or singly.

All the members of the Chapter are working on the Committee under the leadership of Primus Dave Beers and Program Chairman Norman Fye.

Jewellers To Convene Here

The local branch of the Master Watchmakers and Jewellers Association of the Province of Quebec will be held here this evening at 8 p.m.

All members of the association from Magog, Coaticook, Windsor Mills, Megantic, Disraeli, East Angus, Rock Island and Sherbrooke are cordially invited to attend.

Highlight of the meeting will be the election of officers. Several other important business matters will be discussed.

Fire Department Director Warns Against Sounding Of False Alarms

The Sherbrooke Fire Department last night was called to answer two false alarms, the 10th and 11th since the beginning of the month and today Director Percy Donahue issued a statement in which he warned against the danger of such a practice.

"A false alarm may cost a life and the sander, if apprehended, would face a serious charge," Chief Donahue said.

"During the months of February and March 40 new fire alarm boxes were installed throughout the city to replace old type fire alarm boxes in order to improve the fire protection."

The Chief said that most of the false alarms turned in this month have come from the new boxes. "There is no need to send a false alarm to find out if the boxes are in good condition," he said, "because these boxes have been approved by the proper authorities and were inspected and tested before being put into service. They are reliable and ready to transmit real fire alarms and are installed for that purpose only."

"False alarms are troublesome. They cause unnecessary running of the fire apparatus, not only reducing the length of service of the equipment but also threatening danger to persons on the street. False alarms expose the equipment to accidents and lessen protection should there be a real fire while the equipment is out of the stations."

"As some of the false alarms have been turned in by children, I wish to recommend to school principals that they point out to their pupils the seriousness of these alarms. I also wish to call the attention of the boys who are members of the Junior Fire Prevention Brigade to their agreement to report to the fire department any information regarding persons who turn in false alarms, so that these persons may be brought before the court where they will be jailed, fined or both."

Richmond, March 28. — The course on farm management put on under the direction of the Eastern Townships committee for adult education and the Richmond, Athabaska and Drummond school board, has come to an end.

Beneficial to the farmers of this district, the talks by agricultural experts and prominent Eastern Townships farmers have included such topics as livestock management, pastures and forage crops and farm records.

Interesting discussions took place for and against pit silos and loafing barns etc. It is hoped that another course may be held at a later date.

Thanks on behalf of the district farmers have been expressed to Mr. Pickup of the adult education committee for his assistance in showing pictures furnished by the National Film Board and various other agencies and to C. W. Dickson, supervisor of the central school board for allowing the gathering to meet in the St. Francis College High School.

The course was rounded up with a social evening in which games, dancing and pictures were the highlights. Committee chairman for this program was W. R. Healy who, with his wife, contributed in a large measure to the evening's success.

Some of Sherbrooke's most prominent citizens received their papers only a few years ago.

Close to 100 applied for Canadian citizenship papers here last year and out of this number 60 were naturalized.

A good percentage of these applying were Chinese and Jewish-Russians. Only one Frenchman applied and he is waiting for his papers.

More and more people are seeking Canadian citizenship in this city annually.

SCHUMAN PLAN BRIGHT IN PROMISE FOR EUROPE

Six nations stand on the verge of an historic step toward European economic unity. Their representatives already have initiated the bold Schuman plan. If foreign ministers and parliaments ratify the action, the plan will take effect.

It is a treaty for the pooling of all coal and steel facilities in France, Western Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Nothing like it has ever before been seriously contemplated in Europe.

If the Schuman plan works, barriers to the free flow of coal and steel will be knocked down in the six countries. Rigid national cartels—groupings to fix prices and production quotas—will be wiped out. A free market featuring free competition will replace them.

The coal and steel industries of the participating nations would be governed by new international institutions. The high hope is that this proposed integration would boost production, improve and enlarge productive facilities, raise living standards in these countries.

Not to be overlooked is the prospect that this economic integration could serve as a preliminary to broader unity in the European economy, and as a basis for ultimate military and political unification.

The old European habit of living within a national shell will not die easily. It would be foolhardy to expect too much of this beginning effort, or to ignore the practical difficulties of the treaty's application. But unquestionably it deserves to be hailed as a courageous and constructive act of statesmanship.

The original credit goes to Robert Schuman, who as French foreign minister conceived the plan last May. But the real spadework has been done by Jean Monnet, chairman of France's delegation to the treaty-drafting conference. He has toiled long and devotedly to achieve this momentous objective.

The Schuman plan, if ratified, will be in force for 50 years at least. It will provide, too, the first great postwar test of Western Germany's intentions. In this treaty the Germans have been invited to become peace-loving, respectable members of the European family. The world will watch closely to see how they perform in this somewhat unaccustomed role.

The French had to be brave to volunteer the shelving of their ancient feud with Germany. They are breaking with the past and projecting a future for Europe along wholly new lines. Federation is proposed as the real way to end feuding.

The Schuman plan is open to all comers, especially to Britain, which is strong in coal and steel. Thus far the British have held aloof, fearing to handicap their insulated Socialist economy by entanglements on the continent. The French example ought to embarrass them considerably.

But this is no time for carping criticism. The occasion calls for warm expressions of satisfaction that there are men in this troubled era with the courage and imagination to attempt so striking an advance toward solving Europe's economic ills. Every lover of freedom and peace should hope the Schuman plan is ratified—and that it works.

HISTORIC PARALLEL

There is no more relevant chapter in history today than the genesis of the American Civil War, writes Sebastian Haffner in the London Observer. Southern slavery was a hateful thing to the majority of Americans but Southern slavery was not itself the cause of the Civil War. The issue was whether the Southern States were to be allowed to spread slavery beyond their borders into the recently opened territory of the Western plains.

Even that issue was for a long time fought by cold war rather than by actual war. War broke out only when the South, having lost the political battle, seceded from the Union and resorted to violence. But war had broken out, the gloves were off. Slavery was abolished by constitutional amendment in the Southern States themselves, and the first total war in modern history ended in the first unconditional surrender.

Red Russia for the South, Communism for slavery, Europe and Asia for the American West, and the United Nations for the American Union, and you see the pattern which governs and conditions the American approach to the problem of today. All concerned will be wise, during this year and the next, to study it deeply; none more so than Marshal Stalin.

TITLES DYING OFF Windsor Star

In the higher strata of society in the United Kingdom there is concern. Several of Britain's most ancient and prominent titles are in danger of dying out, because of a dearth of male heirs. These noble lines include the Cambridge, Stamford, Dartmouth, Huntingdon, Atholl, Beaufort, Leeds, Newcastle, Northumberland, Portland, Roxburgh, Rutland and Sutherland. In some instances, of course, where there are no direct heirs, there may be cousins or nephews who will acquire the title. In others, it will lapse.

We don't know where there is any reason for the winking of hands over the prospect. Many of these noble families originated centuries ago because some fellow or lass was smart enough to gain favor at court.

In Canada, no new titles are being bestowed and there certainly is no enthusiastic demand they be restored. But even if they were, it is one thing to grant such an honor to a worthy citizen who has done outstanding service to his country, and quite another to have hereditary titles.

Many a man has achieved great wealth, because of ability to accumulate wealth. But there is no assurance their heirs will have brains enough to use wisely the money left them. There have been plenty of cases where they haven't. It is something the same with hereditary titles. There is no assurance the heirs will carry it honorably. There have been plenty of instances, also, where they haven't.

This still leaves open the intriguing question as to why these noble lines aren't producing enough male heirs to sustain them. Is it because they have lost, through the years, their vigor and virility? Is Nature taking a hand in changing a system of society which has been becoming somewhat obsolete anyway?

A BOY AND A BB GUN Christian Science Monitor

A Fort Worth youngster wrote his city councilman protesting a women's good government league's campaign against air rifles—"BB guns."

Write Tommy: "Does she think we Americans are going to learn to shoot good to shoot Communists? I bet more men deer hunters are killed with high power rifles than people are hit with BBs and I would rather be shot with a BB and grown men are exposed to have good sense."

P.S.—Billy's pop nearly cut his foot off in his new lawn mower. Why doesn't Mrs. W. (the anti-BB drive leader) stop lawn mowers?

A lot of sincerity, sense, and nonsense packed into a few lines. If this letter didn't blurt out with boyish candor a line of reasoning that isn't limited to boys, we'd join in the chorus of kindly laughter and let it go at that.

Just in passing—we're sorry it didn't come to Tommy to say he wanted skill to defend his country instead of "to shoot communists." That's a sad commentary on the times. We join with Tommy, on the other hand, in his doubt about the "good sense" of grown men with high-powered rifles.

But let's get down to the lawn mower. Are lawn mowers and air rifles wielded by small boys around urban neighborhoods quite comparable? We would be sure that Tommy will discover the difference when he gets older if it were not that we come across so many adults who either don't or won't. They ask: Why blame liquor for beatings and murders—don't automobiles kill people, too?

All human devices present hazards as well as benefits. The only valid question is: What is the balance between their hazards and their usefulness to society?

How many of these grown-up quiz kids would be willing to debate the relative social value of a venture in a corner grocery (or even in the stock market) and a week's wages risked on Dog Biscuit's nose in the third? Or of the family car and a case of whisky?

B.C.'S HEAVY BURDEN Toronto Globe and Mail

British Columbians are proud of their social services. They are proud of the fact that their government spends $14.12 per capita on welfare, as against Quebec's $4.01. They are proud of the fact that their government spends $13.37 on education, as against New Brunswick's $6.60. British Columbia spends more, proportionately, on welfare and education than any other province. Its people also pay higher taxes than those of any other province.

The heavy burden of taxes carried by British Columbians may be estimated from the latest provincial budget. During the next fiscal year, the B.C. government will require $118 million for ordinary expenditures. The cost of the hospital insurance scheme will bring that up to $130 million. Ontario, with four times as many people, is spending just twice the $265 million. The Ontario government takes $59 per head in taxes, as against British Columbia's $114.

To the $114 paid in provincial taxes by every British Columbian, must be added the $257 paid in federal taxes. And on top of that come municipal taxes. It could be estimated from these figures that a family of four in British Columbia have a total tax bill, each year, of about $1,600—two-thirds of the average B.C. worker's pay cheque. In practice, taxes do not work out that way. But the figures suggest what a crushing load is being carried by the people of British Columbia—a load they have helped to place on themselves by their desire to have a bigger and better social services than anybody else.

NICE PEOPLE Sydney Post-Record

A 32-year-old Briton is coming with his wife and four children to live in Canada. So are many other Britons. What puts this family in the news is that they are seeking what seems wildly improbable. They haven't decided yet where they will settle in our country, the reason being that they are looking for a place "where people don't smoke, drink, swear or gamble." Is there such a place? It would appear that the people of some Canadian community will have to do considerable swearing off if they want these idealistic newcomers for neighbors. Of course, it is entirely possible not to smoke, drink, swear or gamble. A great many people don't do any of these things, but community-wide unanimity in any such four-fold negation, alas, seems most unlikely.

TOBACCO FOR PENSIONERS W. L. Clarke in The Windsor Star

Tobacco plants may be provided old age pensioners in Swindon. The English town has a plant propagation nursery and it has been suggested that tobacco seeds be planted and the plants given to pensioners so they can raise their own tobacco.

If they can do that sort of thing in Great Britain, where taxation is so high, surely the Dominion government could allow tax-free cigarettes to be sold to veterans in hospitals in Canada. The government could make this provision, if it wished. When it gets around to thinking more of the veterans, the tax-free smokers can come along.

Letters To The Editor

IN SUPPORT OF THE SMALL DAIRY FARMER

Dear Sir:—We would like a small space in your valuable paper to present the case of the farmer with the small herd of cows, who at the time of writing is being accused from all sides of being the cause of the high price of butter and milk, also of being one of the main reasons why margarine is being so widely used. We farmers, on the whole, are rather dumb bunnies, we rarely talk back and prefer to work along quietly and feed the world. But ever so often we feel justified in making a stand. Butter is 88 cents a pound; milk will soon be 20 cents a quart, and here on the farm we are being paid the "magnificent" price of $3 a cwt. for 3.5 milk, by the local creameries. From this is deducted 15 cents per hundred for haulage, and we are subject to the test variations. At this price our milk brings us 6 1/2 to 7 cents a quart, and at a recent meeting in Richmond, W. G. MacDougall stated that the cost of production of a hundred of milk ranged from $3.33 to $4.01. We sure are headed for the poor-house.

We are told over the Radio and in the Press that these high prices of milk, butter, cheese and meat are caused by the farmer selling his cows at the high prices of the present day, but has he any encouragement to produce milk at 7 and 7 cents a quart. We work 365 days a year, 12 and 14 hour days; no long week-ends; no vacations; with pay—no overtime pay—and no trips to Florida or California. If we are lucky we make around $150 per cow and have to deduct a year's feed and labor from that, and stand the loss of any stock from accidents, etc. So we are being forced into a new way of farming. We find that by milking fewer cows, raising more heifer calves and selling six or seven cows every year for dairy or beef purposes, we can make a living just as easily. Those cows bring $175 to $250 apiece, with less work and expense.

We older farmers do not like this way of doing business, we have been accustomed to milking 15 to 18 cows and keeping only a few young stock, as the fertility of our farms must be maintained, but we have no alternative with milk prices at old levels.

Our government prefers to give several million dollars to the western wheat-growers to keep the feed prices up, instead of putting a set price on milk of $3.50 to $4 per hundred everywhere, and, in consequence of this short-sighted policy, one of Quebec's oldest industries is gradually disappearing. There is scarcely now and it will become more so in another year, unless something very definite is done about the milk situation on the small farm. Farming is a good life, an independent life, and many of our young men in this district are taking over the home places, but they will not spend their time milking cows for $2.85 a hundred for milk, when there are easier ways of making a

Questions and Answers

Q—When were the "Mother Goose Rhymes" introduced into the United States?

A—In 1760, John Newbery of London issued "Mother Goose's Melody," which contained 52 nursery rhymes. Copies of the Newbery book reached the American colonies through an importer, Isaiah Thomas, and Mother Goose's New England popularity began. Twenty years later Thomas reprinted the rhymes in the first American edition of 1785.

Q—What was the first public reaction to the first performance of the opera "Madame Butterfly"?

A—This famous opera was generally pronounced an absolute failure when it was given its first public performance in 1900. A later performance in 1904 established the opera as a huge success.

Q—Who holds the major league record for most runs batted in in a single game?

A—On Sept. 16, 1924, Jim Bottomley, St. Louis National League, six times at bat got three singles, a double, two home runs, drove in 12 runs, to establish a big league record.

Q—By whom was the picture of George Washington praying at Valley Forge painted?

A—The apocryphal story that Washington was seen at Valley Forge kneeling in the snow has been the theme developed by many sculptors and illustrators. Henry Brueckner's painting depicting the episode is one of the most familiar.

living by raising and selling cows. The time has come for our Government to act, unless they wish to encourage scarcities and "margarine."

We farmers will not lack for milk, butter, etc. We were almost self-sufficient once and can become so again if necessary, but we hate to be blamed for what is not our fault. It is time someone took the stand for the small dairy farmer.

The Record Short Story

RIGHT TIME, RIGHT PLACE

By CHRISTOPHER KING

I finished reading the front page story in the newspaper about Sergeant Gilman nabbing the gunman, just as he entered the station.

It had been an easy capture. He had been sitting in the squad car, parked behind a truck at the entrance of an alley, and the gunman who held up the man in the alley didn't spot the police car. Gilman spotted him, however, and it was a simple matter of pulling his gun, and taking the guy into the station. There was no reason for the story to be on the front page, except for Gilman's name. He had solved so many cases with his super sensitive nose, that anything he did made news.

"If you wish, I'll autograph the paper for you," he said. I crumpled the paper up and threw it in the basket. "A dull day at the city room yesterday," I said. "Didn't have any news for the front page. Just a story about one of our fellow officers who was at the right place."

"My name always makes news," he told me. "And don't call me a fellow officer; makes me sound like a rookie like you."

"I realize you're old," I said. "Frankly, I'm glad to see you still up and around, but as far as that story goes, Bloodhound, you've got to admit it was nothing more than the right time, the right place. If anyone else made the capture, it would be a squib on page ten. Your name is news, but you're lucky."

"Lucky?" He laughed. "That shows how little you know about the police business. I make my own luck. That right time, right place routine, you call that luck. I tell you it's experience. I see to it that I'm in the right place at the right time."

His theory was working. The old man was in, and called him aside. The only words I caught were, "You're just the man I want to handle this. I'm glad you were here." The balance of the conversation was inaudible, but brief. Bloodhound turned away from the Captain, and motioned to me to follow him.

In the squad car, he gave me the details. "Sound like a simple death, no murder, no accident. The phoned the station, not homicide, but the old man is worried. Sam Jenkins was a wealthy man. His two nephews found him at noon, said it looked like a heart attack, but one of them insisted on calling the police."

Jenkins' house was just a few blocks away. We were met at the door by two men in their forties. The tall one seemed to be taking over. "I'm Doctor Hunt," he introduced himself. "This is my brother, also Doctor Hunt. Both doctors, but not medical men. I'm a psychologist, and my brother is a dentist. We arrived together a little after lunch, and found our uncle, Mr. Jenkins, dead. It appears that he suffered a heart attack, but I thought it best to call you. Mr. Jenkins has always been a very healthy man, and a very wealthy man, too."

"You called a doctor?"

"Yes, but he has not arrived." We entered the house and found Mr. Jenkins slumped in an overstuffed easy chair in the big living room. The room was expensively furnished, and everything seemed to be in place. No sign of violence. "Did you touch anything?" Bloodhound asked.

"We may have touched several things," the psychologist replied. "Both of us examined him."

"I mean the room itself," Bloodhound continued. "I'm interested in this case only if Mr. Jenkins' death was not a natural one. The room seems to be in perfect order, none of the windows are open. Did either of you move things around, close a window or do anything like that?"

Both answered a quick, "No." The two doctors looked alike. Edward, the psychologist was tall and thin, and John, the dentist was shorter and a little heavier. Both were partly bald, and very well dressed. As Bloodhound examined the body, and then the room, I followed.

"It wasn't your phone call, I called the medical examiner, too, told him to look for the mark, but I told him where to look."

"Where?"

"Inside the mouth. When I examined the body, I noticed a faint smell of that stuff dentists use as a mouthwash. I got the idea that the dentist might have come over in the morning, and asked the old man to let him take a look at a tooth or something like that. When the poor guy opened his mouth, the dentist sticks an empty syringe in, and forces an air bubble into the blood stream. I told you before, it takes experience to be at the right place at the right time."

Flynn May Have Alimony Pared

Los Angeles, March 28.—(AP)—Errol Flynn, who once remarked "I may have to print my own money unless my alimony is reduced," found sympathetic listeners yesterday in the district court of appeal.

The three-court judge ruled unanimously that Superior Judge Otto J. Emme was wrong in not giving the actor a full hearing when he tried last year to pare his payments to first wife Lili Damita. The case was sent back for retrial.

Involved is a complicated bit of financial history.

When Flynn and the actress were divorced, he agreed to pay her $18,000 annually in tax-free alimony and $1,000 back taxes for two years.

But Lili contends—on orders from the Internal Revenue Bureau—that the $11,000 is income, and that Flynn also must reimburse her for the tax she has to pay on that. Such a thing could go on indefinitely.

62-Cent Minimum Sought For Butter

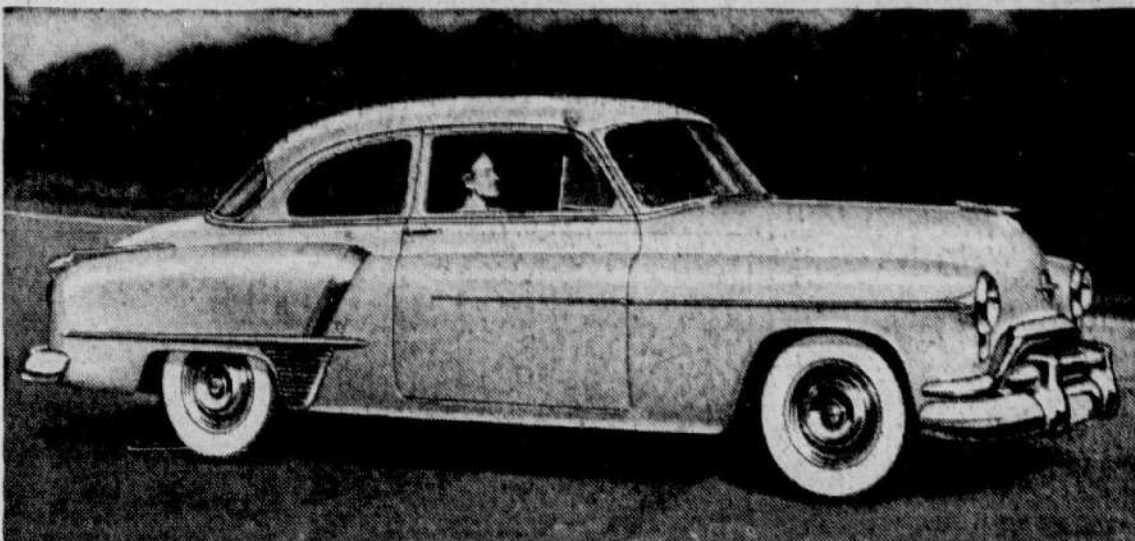

Winnipeg, March 28.—(AP)—Dr. H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said yesterday that the government must set a floor price of at least 62 cents a pound for butter to avoid another shortage and consequent price increase next winter.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Manitoba Dairy and Poultry Co-operative, he said present high prices of butter are due to the low floor price set last spring, which did not encourage farmers to produce larger quantities.

He also said that the refusal of the government to set a 42-cent-a-dozen floor price on eggs might result in lower production and higher prices next winter.

New Delhi, March 28.—(AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today criticized Gen. MacArthur's recent peace talk offer to the Korean and Chinese communists as an "extraordinary development fraught with grave consequences for all countries concerned."

"Certainly no field commander is going to lay down the policies of the government of India," Nehru told parliament in a foreign affairs debate.

Noted Soldier Dies At Quebec

Quebec, March 28.—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. Thomas Louis Tremblay, who led Quebec's royal 22nd Regiment to military fame during the first world war, died here today. He was 64.

One of French Canada's most decorated soldiers, he was still active in regimental affairs as honorary colonel of the Royal 22nd. Last November, when the regiment's second battalion paraded before leaving for Fort Lewis, Wash., to train as part of Canada's special force for United Nations service, he officiated at the ceremony.

Born in Chicoutimi, Que., he was educated in Quebec city and later attended Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., from which he graduated in 1907.

Tehran, Iran, March 28.—(AP)—A usually well-informed government official said today a number of persons were badly injured yesterday in a clash between oil strikers at the southern port of Abadan and government security forces.

Officials of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company here and other government sources said they had no knowledge of the clash. They reported calm in the strike-ridden oil-fields in the southern provinces.

The Markets In Summary

TORONTO

Toronto, March 28.—(P)—Industries eased in continuation of yesterday's declines at the opening on the Toronto stock exchange today. Papers headed the section downward with losses ranging from fractions to a point.

Base metals were about evenly mixed with small price changes. Western oils firmed with a few key issues up pennies and golds were irregular and quiet.

MONTREAL

Montreal, March 28.—(P)—Securities extended Tuesday's moderate decline in slow trading at the opening on the Montreal stock exchange today.

Losses ranged in fractions over a fairly broad front, while many issues held unchanged and the odd security firmed slightly.

Among losers were Abitibi, Bell, Canada Cement, C.P.R., International Paper, Massey-Harris, McColl, Price and St. Lawrence Corporation.

CURRENCY

Montreal, March 28.—(P)—The American dollar today opened at 53½ per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.05½ Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.94½, also unchanged.

WALL STREET

New York, March 28.—(P)—A narrow mixture of gains and losses was the dominating feature today in the stock market.

Prices spread out over a range of around $1 each with most of the major groups participating in the mixed trend.

Higher were Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, American Smelting, Dome Mines, Texas Co., and Certain-Teed.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, March 28.—(P)—Just 50 years ago this spring, a tall, husky rookie, fresh out of college, stepped onto the pitching mound for New York Giants' . . . Christy Mathewson wasn't 21 years old then. He had been a football and baseball star at Bucknell University and had undergone a couple of summers of minor-league seasoning, but he still was regarded as a raw, untried "busher."

If a present-day manager could find one prospect like Matty today, he'd probably spend the rest of his life congratulating himself—and winning pennants . . . For Matty went on to become one of baseball's all-time greats, a guy whose name still is mentioned in reverent tones . . . He won 373 major-league games, 37 in the 1908 season. He had three consecutive years in which he won 30 games or more . . . his fast ball was breath-taking, his curve one of the best and his "fadeaway" ancestor of the screwball, was a mysterious pitch that kept fans talking by the hour . . . and above all he was a man whose integrity and judgment were respected by older players even when he was a rookie.

PERSONAL TOUCH
This writer never saw Mathewson pitch, but we recall walking through Times Square on an early visit to New York and seeing him wave and yell a "Hi" to a big, handsome fellow driving past in a big, handsome car with its top down . . . later he explained it was "Big Six," who had just returned from Saranac where he had been fighting an illness brought on by gas during the first world war . . . seeing him provided a thrill that never was repeated.

MATTY AND MR. MAC
Although the Giants thought enough of Matty to trade Amos Rusie for him in 1901 after giving him a brief trial and letting him slip away, it wasn't until John McGraw became manager of the Giants that Matty came into his own . . . he had won 20 and lost 14 games under George Davis in 1901 and wasn't doing any better in 1902. He was playing first base with indifferent success when McGraw took over late in the season . . . McGraw, quick to recognize ability, rebuilt his team around Mathewson . . . it was a good choice. Matty won 30 games that season; he took the league strike-out title five times in the next seven years and he averaged one about one walk a game . . . The Giants jumped from eighth place to second in 1903, won pennants the next two years and took three more pennants before Matty's career ended.

BRAVE LETTER CARRIER SNATCHES SMALL BOY FROM FIERY DEATH

James Philpott, of Toronto, suffers severe burns rescuing youngster from blazing Scarborough home

1. Postman James Philpott, gray-haired veteran of two wars, was delivering mail on Meadow Avenue in Scarborough. While handing letters to a lady at one door, she suddenly pointed to a cottage-style house across the street. Flames were coming from several of the windows! Without a second's hesitation, Philpott dropped his mail-bag and raced across the road.

2. A roaring mass of flames met him as he wrenched open the front door. From a back room came the hysterical cries of a child—pathetic screams that gave Philpott new courage as he plunged into the inferno. Finally he found the 4-year-old boy huddled on the floor... the fire licking closer and closer to him. The back door was locked and Philpott, carrying the child, had to fight his way to the front again.

3. Despite the fury of the fire, he managed to calm the boy enough to find out that there were no others in the house. Then, although both had been burned by melted, falling paint, he dashed through three blazing rooms and out the front door to safety. We are indeed proud to add the name of James Philpott to the list of those who have won The Dow Award.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism, and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

FIRST QUARTERLY CONTEST—MARCH 1 TO MAY 31, 1951

EVERY SINGLE MONTH

a lucky woman will receive a $300 blended Russian sable scarf; and another, a dyed brown Russian squirrel scarf. And winners of these lovely prizes can still win a grand prize at the end of the 3 month period!

To enter, all you have to do is send your name and address with a Swift's cartoon top, or disc from a Swift's tin, or a reasonable facsimile of either. The more often you enter, the better your chance of winning one of these gorgeous prizes.

Here are the Simple Rules

1. Take the box top from a one pound carton, or a disc from a one or three pound tin of Swift's or a reasonable facsimile thereof. (A 3 pound tin contains 3 discs and entitles you to enter 3 times).
2. Print your name and address on the back, and mail to Swift's Fur Coat Contest, P.O. Box 446, Terminal A, Toronto, Ontario.
3. Enter often. Be sure you send a box top or disc or a reasonable facsimile with each entry. Mail each entry separately.
4. Every three months, 75 contestants will be asked to write not less than 25 words on "Why Good Cooks are Switching to Swift's." Every month 4 contestants will be given the same opportunity to win a monthly prize. The monthly and quarterly prizes—see left—will be awarded in order of merit. The decision of the judges is final.
5. No correspondence concerning the contest can be undertaken. All entries become the property of Swift Canadian Co. Limited.

DOROTHY DIX

Don't Be Hermits

Young Couple Should Keep Up With Old Friendships

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We have been married a very short time and the question of going about a bit and keeping up our old friendships has risen between us. My husband thinks that we should be all and all to each other. Never want any outside company and spend all of our evenings at home. He has dropped all his acquaintances, never wants to stir from his own fireside and says that if I really love him I wouldn't ever want any society but his. I do love him, but I am of a sociable nature. I like good times and I think that for complete happiness we have to have outside interests and friends regardless of how much we love each other. Which one of us is right?

PUZLED WIFE

Answer: You are, absolutely! No young couple can make a greater mistake than by turning hermits at the beginning of their married life. Friends and outside interests are the salt that gives savor to life after marriage just as much as it did before marriage.

The theory that a husband and wife should be all and all to each other, that they need no society other than their own, and should confine all their interests to the four walls of their home, is the most misleading propaganda that was ever preached. It has led many misguided youngsters who embraced it to the divorce courts. Because no two people in the world who are thrown solely upon each other for companionship can keep from boring each other to death or from quarrelling just to put a little pep into their conversation.

FURTHERMORE, our friends, in addition to making life more entertaining and amusing for us, are assets that no young couple can afford to throw away. Just as many business deals are put across over dinner tables as are over office desks. Half of us go to this doctor when we are sick, or that lawyer when we need one, not because he is superior to some other doctor or lawyer, but because we met him at the Jenkins party and took a fancy to him or because our wife likes his wife. Of course, there should be moderation in all things. A young married couple should not more be perpetual gadders than they should be stick-in-the-muds, but once or twice a week they should step out to get a little fresh air and a few new ideas.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man with a wife and three small children whom I love dearly, as I do also my father and mother, who live in the same town that I do. My trouble is that my mother and my wife cannot get along together. Both are high-tempered and sensitive, especially toward each other. They are always getting their feelings hurt and coming to me with their tales against each other and wanting me to take sides. What shall I do? Shall I give up the good practice I have and go to some other town?

DISTRACTED MAN

Answer: The strangest thing in the world is that the two women who love a man most in the world are willing to make every sacrifice on earth to him except to sacrifice their jealousy of each other. When a man's wife and his mother fight over him like dogs over a bone, they never seem to realize that he is the sufferer.

When a mother-in-law and daughter-in-law who dislike each other are compelled to live in the same house, it is understandable that they will get unendurable on each other's nerves. But any town or city is big enough to hold even enemies and any two women, no matter how discordant, should certainly be ladies enough and have enough knowledge of the world to be able to preserve an outward appearance of harmony when they are occasionally thrown together. Therefore, I should certainly advise you not to sacrifice your good practice by moving away from your home town.

FURTHERMORE, have one grand row with your wife and your mother separately and lay down the law to each. Tell each one how miserable she is making you and that you are not going to have your peace of mind shattered by their petty quarrels. Forbid either one to mention the other's name to you again.

DEAR MISS DIX: I dye my hair because I can get a more becoming shade than my own is. My fiancé raves about my black hair, but as he stresses that there should be no secrets between us shall I tell him before we are married?

MARION

Answer: Certainly. This is one time when the truth is indicated, because he would find it out as soon as you were married. Anyway, if he doesn't love you for anything but your hair you've got a slight hold upon him.

DOROTHY DIX cannot answer personal mail. Leaflet D-10, "Attention From Married Men," contains advice for girls faced with this problem. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

Deaf And Dumb Montreal Boys Keen Athletes

By MAX McMAHON

Montreal. — Some people might think MacKay school boy Scout troop a unique body but not scoutmaster Jim Archer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Scoutmaster Archer says his boys may be deaf and speechless. But not unique.

Constable Archer says you can have your cheering and shouting at big time hockey. He'll take the hockey games of his own boys.

There nobody says a word, nobody cheers or argues with the referees. Maybe it's the world's most silent hockey game. But it's one of scoutmaster Archer's big thrills.

The youngsters of the MacKay school live in a world of silence and Archer had to learn sign language and the manual alphabet to direct them. He did so because he felt there was a great need for such a troop.

"These youngsters have two strikes against them before they even start life," he said. "They badly want to be a part of society, not a group set aside, but most people, even their own parents, don't give them that chance."

"All children are protected by their parents when they are young. These kids are all too often coddled and sheltered from the world because of their 'invisible handicap'."

"They are handicapped in that they can't hear or speak but their other senses are even more acute than the normal person's. They want a chance to prove themselves and Scouting gives them that chance. At times they are even more keen than 'hearing' Scouts."

Last year three of the MacKay troop Scouts went to summer camp with another troop.

A baseball game was started and after some hesitation the three deaf boys were invited to play.

"You should have seen that team's eyes open up," said Archer. "The deaf boys are keen sportsmen and they soon showed themselves an asset. After that they were accepted all over the camp, no longer something to be wondered about or pitied."

Scouting helps their outlook on life, helps their school work and helps them in their association with others at the school.

"THE ROCKET" CLICKS FOR WINNER IN STANLEY CUP OPENER

Registers Marker After 61 Minutes Of Overtime To Give Canadiens 3-2 Victory Over Detroit Red Wings

Detroit, March 28. — (CP) — The underdog Montreal Canadiens are off to a zipping start in the Stanley Cup playoffs—thanks to Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, the Canadiens' colorful whiz on skates.

Black-haired Richard rammed in the spectacular goal that ended a two-hour marathon early today and gave the Canadiens a 3-2 victory over the mighty Detroit Red Wings, regular-season National Hockey Champions and Cup defenders.

Richard, the league's second leading scorer, swiped the puck just after the fourth sudden-death overtime period started. He did a solo dash down the ice and slammed one past Detroit goalie Terry Sawchuk.

Previously the teams had fought scoreless through three 20-minute extra periods.

Montreal, which finished third in league, now holds a 1-0 edge in the best-of-seven semi-final play-off.

Tonight the Stanley Cup scene shifts to Toronto where the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs and the fourth-place Boston Bruins open their best-of-seven semi-final series.

Richard's goal came with the clock showing 61:09 minutes of overtime play gone. It was 1:10 A. M. EST—almost 4 1/2 hours after the opening face-off—and 13,246 fans were wondering how much longer they'd have to stick around.

But it broke no records for overtime play. The league record stands at 116:30 minutes of overtime and the Detroit Olympia mark at 70:18.

The league record is Detroit and Montreal property. They set it in a 1-0 Detroit victory March 24-25, 1936.

Brilliant goaltending by Sawchuk and Montreal's Gerry McNeil kept the game going after Montreal came from behind to tie the score midway through the third period.

Sawchuk blocked 42 shots, 22 of them in overtime. McNeil halted 62 shots, 38 of them in overtime.

Montreal's game-tying goal in the third period was fired by Bert Olmstead, who took a rebound and arched a high shot in from only five feet out at 9:08.

Detroit's Gordie Howe, league-leading scorer, rammed in the first goal at 12:15 of the opening period. The Canadiens came back 70 seconds later when Emile (Butch) Bouchard connected. Leo Riege scored for Detroit just 1:10 minutes after the third period began.

Terry Sawchuk To Be Given Bonus By Wings

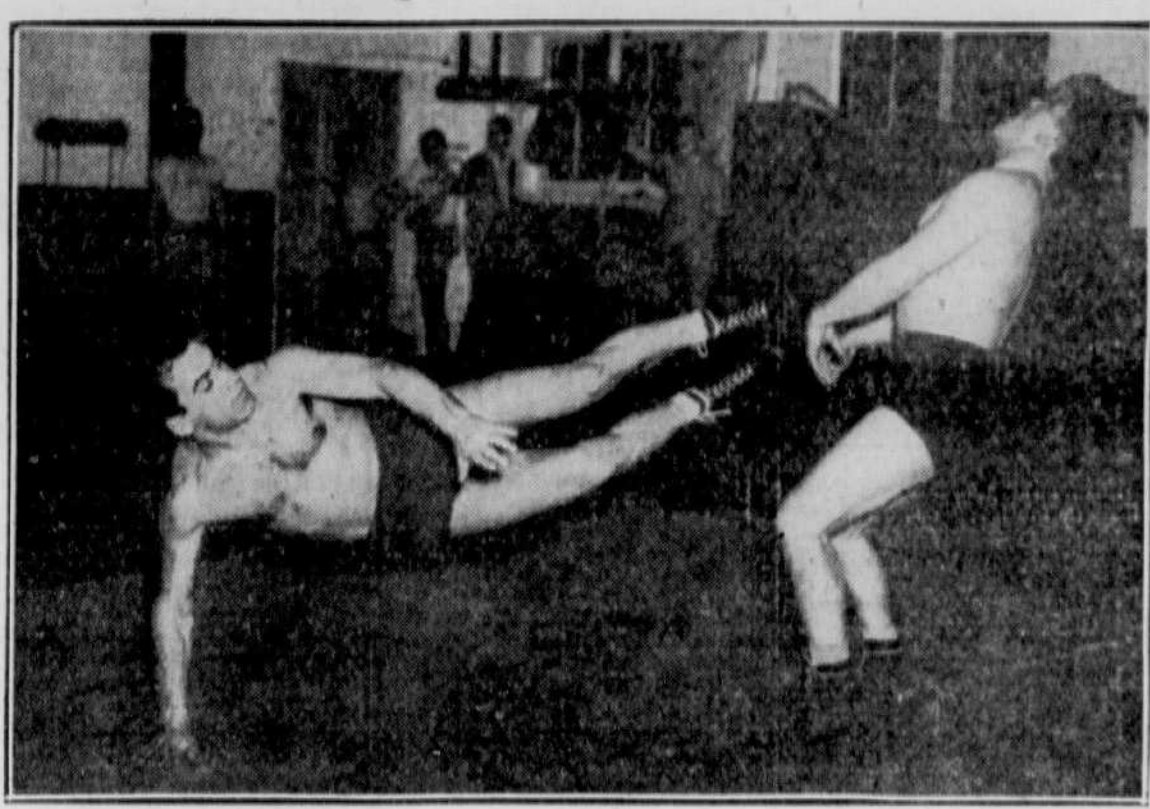

Detroit, March 28. — (AP) — Goalie Terry Sawchuk fell one goal short of the National Hockey League's Vezina Trophy but his Detroit Red Wings will give him a $1,000 bonus for a fine effort.

Vice-president James B. Norris of the Detroit club announced yesterday that the club would pay a consolation prize to its brilliant young rookie from Winnipeg.

Sawchuk, registering 11 shut-outs, lost out on the trophy to Toronto's Al Rollins. The Red Wings permitted 139 goals to 138 for the Maple Leafs.

The Vezina Trophy carries an award of $1,000 and that sum always is matched by the winning goalie's home club.

The officials named for the event will see Tiger Ryan in the ring as the third man while Edgar Stracchino and Moon Mullins will attend to the other details.

Four games are slated for each evening for the balance of the week and on Saturday the high scorers will meet for the privilege of entering the finals in the evening.

Phillies Ship Four To Baltimore Club

Clearwater, Fla., March 28. — (AP) — Four members of Philadelphia Athletics were sent to the minors yesterday and Eddie Sanicki, one of the promising members of the farm system, was recalled.

Manager Eddie Sawyer sent pitchers Andy Hansen, Steve Ridzik and Ken Trinkle and outfielder Jack Mayo to Baltimore of the International League.

Sawyer said he recalled Sanicki for his defensive ability and sent Mayo to Baltimore because he believes the Notre Dame alumnus should have an opportunity to play daily.

Sanicki, Mayo, Ridzik and Trinkle played for Toronto last year when the International League team was a farm club of the Phils.

62 Rinks Entered In Magog Mixed Bonspiel

(Special to the Record)

Magog, March 28. — Sixty-two rinks are entered in the first annual mixed curling bonspiel being sponsored by the Magog Social and Curling Club.

Valleyfield scored early in the first period, Schmidt counting and it wasn't until after the halfway mark had been reached that Hamilton tallied for the Aces to tie the score.

ever, and scored twice in little more than a minute to once more take the lead. The goalgetters were Corriveau and Schmidt.

GARTHBY AND BROMPTON TANGLE TOMORROW

The deciding game for the Eastern Townships intermediate "C" hockey championship will take place tomorrow evening at the Arena and judging from the previous games it should be a real top-notch attraction.

The best-of-five series is tied at present at two games each and the final tilt should be the best one of the series. Both teams are evenly matched and they have given the fans their money's worth.

Winner of tomorrow's tilt will receive the Bruck Mills Trophy, emblematic of the championship, and no doubt the clubs will be going all-out to win the trophy. The Brompton club won the Massawippi Valley Hockey League crown while Garthby copped the Wolfe-Compton leadership.

Brompton won the first game 10-5 but Garthby came back and copped the second match and then Parr's squad forged ahead in the third tilt to lead the series 2-1. Garthby staged a real rally to take the fourth game in a hard-fought contest, which was the best one of the series, to knot the series at two games each.

The teams have played good hard hockey with plenty of speed thrown in and the fans have had, in our estimation, more than their share of action and thrills in witnessing the games and tomorrow's tilt should be no exception.

So if you wish to see a good game, and one of the final ones at the local Arena, then take in the game tomorrow and we figure you will more than enjoy yourself.

The annual figure skating show of the Sherbrooke Winter Club will take place at the Arena this Saturday.

The show is staged by the members of the club and they have in the past put on some very good performances and this year's should be no exception. The members have been working hard the last few weeks and should come up with one of the best ever to be staged by the club.

The kiddies will put on their own act and the senior members of the club will stage the special acts on the parade.

Harry Webber, physical instructor at the Y.M.C.A., is staging a special wrestling show tomorrow evening and he has lined up four good bouts for the youngsters.

The main bout will bring together Juan Lopez and Steve Tomlinson while Gaston Bergeron and "Tex" Paquette will meet in the semi-final. In the preliminaries two bouts are listed on the card bringing together four good young wrestlers. So boys, don't forget tomorrow evening at the Y.

The Athletics have signed another player, in fact, two, in the persons of Gary Rutkay and Earle MacDonald. Rutkay performed last year with St. Johns while MacDonald played some with St. Hyacinthe and Sherbrooke.

Rutkay played second base for the Braves last year and was the top man in the runs batted in department on Steve Mizerak's club.

Overtime seems to be the topic and the Braves and Aces staged their own little party in Valleyfield last night. Toe Blake's squad came through with the tilt in the second overtime period when Larry Kwong registered the winning marker after eight minutes of play.

This series may develop into a real close affair before a winner is declared if the first game is any indication of what the future holds. During the season the Aces held a slight margin in games and we figure they stand a fair chance of coping the series.

Ottawa, March 28.—(AP)—Inkerman Rockets last night took a one-game lead in their Eastern Canada Memorial Cup playoff with Halifax by walloping St. Mary's 11-4 in the series' third game before 7,673 fans—one of the largest hockey crowds here of the season.

The win gave the Ottawa District Champions a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series, after winning the opening game in Halifax 9-7 and losing the second 5-2.

The fourth game will be played here Thursday night.

Jacques Limoges paced the Rockets with three goals and a pair of assists. Cliff Baldwin notched two while Wally Swords, Maurice Savard, Donnell Crowder, Ron Finnigan, Ron Trussell and Larry Romild potted singles.

Three Rivers Edged By Quebec Citadels

Three Rivers, Que., March 28.—(AP)—Quebec Citadels last night edged Three Rivers 2-1 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association final playoff.

Gord Haworth and Jean Dubeau tallied for Quebec and right-winger Al Mudge scored for Three Rivers.

Quebec drew first blood, Haworth counting at the 7:45-minute mark of the opening period and Dubeau brought the count to 2-0 just after the 16-minute mark of the middle frame. Haworth picked up an assist on Dubeau's goal while Jean Bellevue set up Haworth's marker.

Mudge, on a relay from defenceman Guy Talbot, scored the Three Rivers goal late in the final session.

Eight penalties, including two majors for fighting, were handed out in the opening period but both teams played clean hockey thereafter as there were no penalties in either the second or third periods.

were Wally Morrison, Nash Batten, Corkery Malcolm and Paul Evans.

Temper flared in the second period when Eldridge Bruce of Halifax was given a minor penalty for slashing. On his way to the penalty box he engaged in an argument with Inkerman's Brian McFarlane. He clouted McFarlane over the shoulder with his stick and although they never came to blows both were given 10-minute misconduct penalties. Nineteen other minors were also issued.

Inkerman took a 4-2 lead in the opening period, hammered in four more in the second without a reply and outscored Halifax three goals to win in the final period.

Inkerman started off strong but slackened near the end of the first period when Morrison tallied the Saints first goal at 17:16 on a play with Sandy McPherson.

Batten potted an unassisted goal before the period ended.

Halifax didn't score again until the 7:03 mark of the final period when Malcolm counted on a passing play with Ken Flynn.

Limoges flicked the red light again for Inkerman before Evans ended the Halifax scoring midway in the period on relays from Morrison and Orin McPherson.

Conny Smythe Ranks Bruins As Even-Money Choice In Stanley Cup Series With Toronto Maple Leafs

Toronto, March 28.—(AP)—Conny Smythe, canny boss of Toronto Maple Leafs, doesn't agree with the betting men who class his team 2½-to-1 favorites over Boston Bruins in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final. The two teams open here tonight.

"I said a while ago the Bruins are an even-money choice in this thing and I still think they are," said Smythe. He disclosed that starting goalie and that left-wing Harry Watson, who has a shoulder separation, will be the only Toronto regular to sit out the opener.

The Leafs are spending the week at their training-camp quarters at St. Catharines, Ont. They'll travel to Toronto tonight just before game time and return afterwards.

The Bruins left Boston yesterday and arrived here this morning. They'll stay here until after the second game of the series Saturday night. Their injury list includes centre Milt Schmidt, who will play in the opener despite a bad knee, and defenceman Murray Henderson, who won't be ready until the

New York Colleges To Still Play At Gardens

New York, March 28.—(AP)—Three of the five New York colleges who have served regularly as hosts to basketball games in Madison Square Garden—New York University, St. John's and Manhattan—decided to continue to play in the big mid-town arena.

Announcing the decision after a conference with Garden directors, presidents of these institutions termed as a "myth" the belief that the Garden is responsible for the widespread gambling scandal.

City College of New York was not at the conference. Harry N. Wright, president of C.C.N.Y., said City would play "if the board of higher education approves." The fifth college, Long Island U., has dropped intercollegiate sports.

At the same time, the colleges were given a bigger hand in running basketball at the Garden and in making policy for the double-header that have mushroomed into a $1,000,000 business.

The college presidents announced they would join with Garden directors in formulating top-level policy for the games. They will determine ticket prices, ticket allotments, team accommodations, radio and television schedules and other appropriate promotional details.

The university presidents said in a prepared statement: "It is our firm conviction that college basketball can be played in the Garden without our student players succumbing to corruption as disclosed in the recent scandals."

Fourteen players from four institutions—City College, Manhattan, N.Y.U. and Long Island University—have been involved in the widening betting scandal.

Three More Cage Stars Picked Up In New York

New York, March 28.—(AP)—One of this season's New York City college basketball players and two from last year were arrested last night in the mushrooming cage scandal.

They are Herbert Cohen of the 1950-51 team and Irwin Dambrot, New York University's star player of last year. They were questioned at length yesterday at the office of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan.

Hogan said they were arrested in connection with the fixing of three games in Madison Square Garden in 1949 and 1950.

The arrests brought the entire first-string line-up of last year's City College "Cinderella Team" under charges. This team won both the National Invitation Tournament and N.C.A.A. championships—a feat never before accomplished.

Dambrot and Mager were stars on the team and Dambrot was captain.

They were teammates of Al Roth, Ed Warner, Ed Roman and Floyd Lyne, who already have admitted helping to fix games, according to the District Attorney's office.

Dambrot, Mager and Cohen were charged with "shaving points"—that is, reducing the difference in the point score between the winning and losing teams—to aid gamblers.

These games were with Southern Methodist Dec. 8, 1949; the University of California at Los Angeles Dec. 27, 1949, and Niagara University on Feb. 16, 1950.

Cohen is 20 years old, Dambrot 22 and Mager 25.

Hogan said they worked with Roman and Roth to limit the "spread" in the three games.

Rangers Plan Tour Of Maritime Provinces

New York, March 28.—(AP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League left yesterday on a 15-day exhibition tour of the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, it was announced last night.

Described as a "goodwill" tour, it will be the first time the Rangers have gone on a post-season exhibition.

The New York club finished fifth during the regular season and missed making the Stanley Cup playoffs by one point.

They will play 11 games during the 15 days, with the first stop at Fredericton. The tour was arranged by Jerry Regan of Radio Station CKBW, Bridgewater, N.S.

Members of the touring club will be goalie Chuck Rayner; defencemen Frankie Eddolls, Allan Stanley and Gus Kyle; and two forwards—Don Raleigh, Nick Mickoski and Ed Slowinski and Buddy O'Connor, Tony Leswick and Reggie Sinclair. Coach Neil Colville will accompany the team and may play in some games.

Jack Corbett To Sue Organized Ball Group

Van Nuys, Calif., March 28.—(AP)—Jack Corbett, former owner of the Al Paso club of the Arizona-Texas League, said yesterday he will file a $300,000 suit in Cincinnati Federal Court attacking organized baseball's reserve clause.

A year ago, President George M. Trautman of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors) suspended Corbett and fined him $1,000 in a dispute over a player from the Mexican League.

Corbett said "the main issue involved in the ownership of the contracts of several ball players from Mexico which were declared null and void by President Trautman on order of Commissioner (A. B.) Chandler."

"This is not within the authority of the Commissioner or President Trautman. I have the contracts approved by the minor league office, but the rights to the services of the ball players were denied me."

"I have sent them a bill for $100,000 which I consider a fair value for the players. When the suit is filed it will be for triple damages under the anti-trust law, so it will be for $300,000."

In New York, Frederick A. Johnson, counsel for Danny Gardella, former New York Giant player whose suit over the reserve clause was settled out of court, said he had discussed the new suit with Corbett.

Involved in Corbett's dispute with Trautman were the services of Ventura Morales.

Trautman held at the time that Morales was under contract to the Mexican Baseball League and therefore ineligible to play with El Paso. The suspension later was lifted when Trautman said Corbett had submitted proof he had brought Morales' contract from the Mexican League.

Lorne Popein Wins Rookie Of Year Award

Regina, March 28.—(AP)—Lorne Popein, young Regina Cap left-winger, has been named Rookie Of The Year in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League.

League President Al Pickard last night announced the results of the balloting by sports writers and broadcasters in the four league cities. The award carries with it possession for one year of the Radio Station CKUA, Edmonton, cup.

Previous winners were Hugh Coffin of Calgary Stampers last year and Colin Kilburn of Edmonton Flyers in 1948-49.

The 20-year-old Popein received 11 of 15 votes cast. He was one of the few bright spots this season in the play of the Caps, who finished in the cellar. In 54 games he scored 21 goals and 19 assists for 40 points to finish 26th in the scoring lists.

Edmonton Meteors Beat Winnipeg In Cage Final

Edmonton, March 28.—(AP)—Edmonton Meteors last night came up with a thrill-packed 55-54 victory over Winnipeg Varsity Grads to move into the Western Canada Senior Men's Basketball finals.

The victory allowed Meteors to take the best-of-three series 2-1. They now meet Vancouver for the Western Canada title, the winner to play the Eastern Champions for the Canadian senior crown won last year by Montreal Y.M.H.A.

Cards Offer Pollet For Granny Hamner

Clearwater, Fla., March 28.—(AP)—Philadelphia Phillies, on the prowl for good left-handed pitchers, turned their backs on one of the best today. The price was too high.

They were offered shortstop Howie Pollet, St. Louis Cardinals' holdout pitcher, for Granny Hamner, the Phils' young shortstop.

Bucky Walters Gives Up On Aiming For 200-Game Winning Record, But Still Hopes To Remain In Baseball

Bradenton, Fla., March 28.—(AP)—Bucky Walters long ago gave up his dream of winning 200 major league games, but the former pitching ace and manager of the Cincinnati Reds wants to continue in baseball as long as some club will have him.

"Just being in baseball keeps me happy and contented," said Walters, who is starting his second season as pitching coach for Boston Braves. "I can't think of any better job than being in baseball."

Walters ended his active days in 1949 without winning a game that season, although he lost three. It was a heartbreaking year for him. Not only did he fail to pick up the two triumphs he needed to reach his goal of 200, but he was let out as manager before the season ended.

The 41-year-old Philadelphia has no intention of ever returning to the active list even in the event of total mobilization. As it is, he should have quit pitching two years before he did.

"The arm is gone," Bucky explained. "I tried to throw the other day and I could scarcely reach the plate. It hurt like the dickens every time I threw."

"Nobody realizes how much the arm pained me during those last three years of my pitching days. Many a time it felt like it was coming off with each pitch."

After winning 23 games in 1944, the slim right-hander hurt his arm in July of the following year and never was the same thereafter. Using his head more than his arm, Bucky managed to rack up ten wins in 1946 and added eight in '47 to give him 198 victories in 13 seasons. But he couldn't add another the next year.

"I might have made 200 if I had started pitching sooner," said Walters, who put in six years as
