Day.

FLOAT COMPETITION.

Franklin School Awarded
First Prize For Attractive
Float.

"To-day we are celebrating the greatest event in Canadian history; we have great ambitions and a greater future because we are proud of our place within the British Empire, loyal and proud of the Union Jack." These words, spoken by Mr. John Sullivan, K.C., on Dominion Day, at the Farmers' Picnic at Cairnside, expressed the sentiment of the gathering. The day was warm and the fields showed that the farmers could ill spare the time from their work, but a representative gathering of Old Country and French Canadian farmers came to the beautiful grove at Cairnside to picnic together, listen to a few addresses and watch the games.

Float Competition
The directors this year offered prizes for the best floats prepared by the schools and sharp on noon the Beatharion Band headed a short parade into the grounds. The judges awarded the first prize to an attractively prepared float sent down by the school at Franklin. In design it represented the ship of Confederation with the body part of it filled with school children. Second prize was awarded to a float gotten up by the Cairnside and Tutuochogum people. It was horse-drawn, and as there were twenty-five children on it, attention was held by their cheerful faces, rather than by the attractively arranged bunting. Later in the day the Aubrey float arrived. Unfortunately it had been delayed, so was not in the competition.

The Speaking
Mr. M. Greig called the gathering together shortly after two o'clock and brief addresses were given by Mr. John Sullivan, K.C., Dr. Lattimer and Dr. McTaggart of Macdonald College and Watson Sellar.

In his opening remarks Mr. Sullivan said that unfortunately he had not been able to attend the picnic last year a professional business necessitated that he go to England to plead a case for the income tax. He said that he had been very pleased to see the many and rich and came away with a feeling of satisfaction that while he had seen many places, none pleased him as much as Canada, and also that wherever he went it was noticeable that British passports, and British representatives were held in the greatest of respect.

"While in Brittany," said Mr. Sullivan, "I visited the churches and monuments, and in one quaint old church I came across a familiar name, of a man who had been canonized, so there in that church I said my prayers to the memory of that man—it was Mr. Ness, father of the able secretary of this association, Mr. David T. Ness."

Dr. Lattimer of Macdonald College told the gathering that they need not expect much from him, as he had not expected to (Continued on page 8)

CONSOLIDATION OF TWO LOCAL SCHOOL BOARDS

Protestant School Municipalities of Godmanchester and Huntingdon Joined.

NOMINATIONS MONDAY
Term of Office of Messrs. E. C. McCoy And Roy Biggar Expired.

Nominations will be received by Mr. W. K. Philips, Secretary of the Huntingdon Protestant School Board, on Monday for two commissioners. The event is noteworthy chiefly because it is the first election following the consolidation of the Huntingdon and Godmanchester schools.

In the Official Gazette of the Province issued last week appeared a notice that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council "has been pleased, by order in council dated June 13th, 1928, to annex the Protestant School Municipality of Godmanchester, except District No. 11, in the County of Huntingdon to the Protestant School Municipality of Huntingdon, in the same county, for the purpose of maintaining a consolidated school." This is the official action long pending in connection with the consolidation of the activities of the two Boards.

We are informed by the Secretary of the Huntingdon Board that the appearance of this notice gives the ratepayers of Godmanchester a direct interest in the affairs of Huntingdon Academy.

As a rule little interest is taken at the nomination proceedings for vacancies on the School Board, and frequently the officials have to go out on the street and get enough people to come and make the necessary nominations. In view of the fact that the people of Godmanchester have now a direct interest in the proceedings, it is hoped that a representative gathering at the Academy at 10 a.m. on Monday.

The commissioners whose term of office has expired are Messrs. E. C. McCoy and Roy I. Biggar. Both gentlemen have served for many years on the Board and are eligible for re-appointment. In the event of there being more candidates put on nomination than there are seats, an election will take place.

DUNDEE
In connection with our Jubilee on July 1st, the Rev. Dr. Robert Harkness of Cornwall was the special preacher. Two splendid sermons were delivered, morning and evening. Dr. Harkness has had a wide experience in Christian work. He has lived in China and Japan, Ontario and Quebec, and is a thorough Bible student. Listening to him preach impresses one with the thought that he has searched the Scriptures and they have revealed to him the beauty and the need of Christ as a Saviour. Such preaching helps men to see the pearls of truth hidden within the sacred page.

MOTOR-CYCLIST IS DEAD FROM MISHAP SUNDAY

Machine Capsized in Ditch on Montreal Highway Near Valleyfield.

TWO OTHERS ESCAPED.
Deceased Leaves Widow And Six Children.

Filipe Latour, 45-year-old time-keeper in the Montreal Cotton Mills at Valleyfield, was instantly killed early Sunday morning when his motor-cycle, for a short time, he was riding, capsized in the Valleyfield-Montreal highway a few miles out of his home town. Ernest Houle, of Montreal, who was driving the cycle, escaped with slight injuries and Oscar Latour, 25-year-old brother of the dead man, also of Montreal, was not injured.

Young Latour and Houle drove into Valleyfield from the city to visit Filipe Latour and his family. They arrived at about ten o'clock on Saturday night and two hours later suggested that all three drive out along the highway for a short time. Filipe Latour had never been in a motor cycle before and accepted the invitation with relish. He and his brother sat in the sidecar.

About two miles out of Valleyfield the cycle rounding a curve suddenly skidded off the road into a ditch. Oscar Latour was thrown on top of his brother and Houle fell clear of the cycle in the ditch. Houle was unable to explain how he lost control of the cycle. First aid was rendered by farmers living nearby, brought to the scene by Oscar Latour. Filipe Latour was dead by the time aid arrived.

The dead man leaves a widow and six children. He was born in Valleyfield and lived there practically all his life.

W. I. MEETING AT HOME OF MRS. SELLAR

Arrangements Completed For Short Course in Domestic Science.

CONVENTION REPORT
New Scholarship to School of Household Science.

The July meeting of the Huntingdon Women's Institute was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Sellar.

New contributions were received for the Maternity Loan Basket, which is now complete and ready for service. This can be obtained by any person requiring such equipment by applying to Mrs. T. S. Gardiner.

Mrs. J. T. Ewart, Convener of Home Economics, read a list of utensils and materials required for the Short Course in Domestic Science to be held July 10th, to 13th, and arrangements for providing same were completed. Several members volunteered to take an active interest in the course and visit the classes.

On the afternoon of the final day, Friday, July 13th, a display of work will be held and tea served to visitors. This will be a public reception and program being arranged. Classes will be held at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Dining Hall, in the Fair Grounds.

President, Mrs. T. S. Gardiner and Mrs. W. L. Carr gave reports on the Convention at Macdonald. One of the most important features brought to the attention of Institute members, was the very great personal interest displayed in this work by Dr. C. F. Martin, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, McGill University, who gave the address of welcome. "It is a great privilege for a University to be allowed to help in community work," stated Dr. Martin. "The very practical side of your work is what appeals to me. Your organization represents the very essence of practical help to the whole nation."

"So much am I personally impressed with the work being done in Household Science," continued Dr. Martin, "that I would like to see more students from the rural districts take advantage of the courses. While there is a large attendance it is not one-tenth of what it should be from one of you to encourage a better attendance. Mrs. Martin will be very glad to add another scholarship for the purpose of encouraging that work. The details of which I will leave to those in charge of the school to decide upon."

Refreshments were served on the lawn by Mrs. W. A. Hunter after which the ladies spent a profitable half-hour inspecting the delightful gardens of Mrs. Sellar and the Misses Macfarlane.

DR. HARRIGAN ACQUITTED ON SATURDAY

Jury in Franklin County Court in Manslaughter Case Render Verdict of Not Guilty.

SECOND TRIAL OF CASE
Shannon Case Had Stimulated Much Interest in Surrounding Community.

At two o'clock Saturday afternoon, after two hours of deliberation, the jury in the case of People vs. John D. Harrigan, charged with manslaughter in the second degree, came into county court at Malone, N. Y., and announced their verdict as "Not Guilty."

The jury was at once discharged, with the thanks of the court, and Judge Lawrence declared the term of County Court adjourned without date.

Although the case was closed at noon with the court's charge to the jury, the court room was thronged with people from that time until the jury announced its verdict, everyone anxiously waiting for the final outcome of this trial, which has attracted wide attention and interest, especially since the former trial last April resulted in a disagreement by the jury.

When the verdict was announced Saturday afternoon Dr. Harrigan was instantly surrounded by smiling and happy friends who warmly congratulated him.

The jury left the room at five minutes to noon and returned at 2 p.m. with their verdict. Attorney P. J. Tierney of Plattsburg was the counsel for the defendant and District Attorney Main for the prosecution.

Forty-Four Floats, Cavalcade, Two Bands, Champlain Guard And Scouts in Parade.

10,000 on Fair Grounds.
Open Air Concert, Display of Fireworks And Banquet Other Features.

The Dominion Day celebrations at Valleyfield were an unprecedented success. With the weather favorable, the program arranged by the organization committees was carried out in elaborate form. A large number of strangers joined with the local citizens to enjoy the celebration. The homes were attractively decorated with flags and bunting. Great crowds applauded the historical personages represented on the floats and the distinguished guests in the parade. The conveyance of 44 floats preceded by a cavalcade of 2 bands, the Champlain guard, and the Boy and Girl Scouts presented a most interesting appearance.

In the afternoon a crowd of 10,000 people thronged the exhibition grounds to witness horse races, foot races, baseball and other games. Five hundred dollars in prizes were distributed for the above events. The Cercle des Fermiers graciously took charge of all the children and supplied them with candies and sweets of all kinds.

An open air concert by the massed bands of Valleyfield and Beauharnois made the evening's proceedings very enjoyable. There was a display of fireworks over the bay, a fairy scene to look at, with the massed population of the city sitting on the banks and singing good old-time songs. The celebration ended after midnight to the great satisfaction of all concerned, who purpose holding another next year.

A banquet was tendered the guests and many others at St. Thomas' College at noon. The committee in charge were: Mayor Donat Lehoucq, O. P. Frier, N. A. Ostiguy, Adelard Raymond, Daniel Dion, John Lowe Jr., S. Potter, Dr. S. W. Laroché, R. Reid and A. MacDonald. Among the guests were: Senator Beaudry, Legislative Councilors L. O. FARM BOYS' WEEK PROVES POPULAR

Registration at Macdonald College is Heavy And Well Distributed.

20 FROM HUNTINGDON.
Of Practical Educational Value as Well as a Holiday.

"Farm Boys' Week" opened Monday at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue. A few of the boys arrived in the morning, the numbers gradually increasing during the afternoon, but the evening was the period of greatest registration.

Attendance is distributed among the counties of the province as follows: Argenteuil, 16; Brome, 29; Chateauguay, 27; Compton, 24; Hull, 25; Huntingdon, 20; Missisquoi, 21; Megantic, 4; Pontiac, 21; Rouville, 5; Richmond, 10; Sherbrooke, 13; Stanstead, 13; Val-d'Audouville, 5; Drummond, 3; Terrebonne, 3; Soulanges, 2; Wolfe, 1; Papineau, 1; Bonaventure, 1; Rimouski, 1; Iverville, 1.

Farm Boys' Week is an experiment and primarily it has been arranged as a holiday for boys between the ages of 15 and 20 from rural districts, and it should also be of considerable educational value.

Cut-and-dried classroom periods are not on the programme, but, instead, visits will be made to the outside and inside departments of the college, where experimental work will be explained and demonstrated.

In addition to these, leading farms and estates will also be visited. Organized sports have been arranged, too, so that by the end of the week each boy will have had an opportunity to enjoy a wide circle of acquaintances, besides having been able to study methods carried on outside his community.

The shooting was the aftermath of a drinking bout, but the man the young boy killed was not the one he intended to, according to eye witnesses. Assistant United States District Attorney John W. Genaway, who will prosecute the case, said that other Indians in the party told him they had seen the man with a gun lifted and addressing John Moore, said: "John, I'm going to shoot you." There was an explosion and Joseph Lazore fell to the ground mortally wounded. John had been standing almost directly in front of the victim but the shot missed him. The young boy declares he did not intend to kill, but merely hoped to frighten the men who had stolen his beer.

The youth waived examination and was held for the July 2nd term of U. S. federal court which convenes in Malone today.

INDIAN BOY IS HELD FOR MURDER

Peter Grey, Jr., Aged 15, Accused of Murder of Joseph Lazore, Aged 23.

IN COURT TODAY.
St. Regis Indian Affair Aftermath of Drinking Bout.

An Indian boy, Peter Grey Jr., 15, of the St. Regis Indian reservation was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner M. H. Burne, at Malone Monday afternoon, on a charge of murder. The boy shot and killed a fellow tribesman, Joseph Lazore, 23, a few rods from the Grey home, between 2 and 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

The shooting was the aftermath of a drinking bout, but the man the young boy killed was not the one he intended to, according to eye witnesses. Assistant United States District Attorney John W. Genaway, who will prosecute the case, said that other Indians in the party told him they had seen the man with a gun lifted and addressing John Moore, said: "John, I'm going to shoot you." The Rev. Mr. Steers of Kensington told of the beginning of things in certain congregations in the West and supposed the beginning of things here in religious matters were of a similar nature full of difficulties.

The Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, delivered the following interesting address:

This gathering, to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Zion Church, coincides with the sixty-first anniversary of a confederation, the union of the provinces of Canada. Prior to 1867, separate colonies withered in the Empire. Today, while proudly proclaiming our continued allegiance to the British Crown, we are equally proud of our recognized status as the senior of the self-governing dominions within the Empire. In striking contrast with the prevailing conditions of 1867, nowhere in Canada is there today any trace of public opinion unfriendly to the union consummated in July 1867. We are today a united people. Sixty-one years of confederation has proven the wisdom of that far-sighted statesman, Sir Alexander Gait, who in 1858 induced the Carleton Place, Ontario, which he was a member, to send a mission to England to advocate a union or confederation of the then divided provinces and colonies of Canada. Like all new movements for reform the first met with considerable opposition, but after much negotiation and many conferences both in England and in the different provinces of Canada in which leading men of all political parties—men of different persuasions—met, a splendid party, Confederation was brought about and by Act of the Imperial Parliament given Royal Assent on March 29th, and the following July 1st, 1867, the Dominion of Canada, consisting of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, entered on its career as a dominion within the Empire.

Every student of Canadian history knows that the early years of confederation were stormy ones. Our fellow citizens of the Maritimes were far from united. In the northwest there was rebellion. In 1870 Manitoba was admitted as the fifth province. In 1871 British Columbia entered the confederation. Thanks.

The directors, committees in charge and the exhibitors who made the Ormstown Show such a success deserve the congratulations and thanks of all the people of the District. It is no easy task to look after all necessary details and to make the Ormstown show a real national event. Small minds could quickly ruin it, and its continued growth is a tribute to the men, past and present, who have laboured to build it up. The Ormstown Show is an advertising scheme on a large plan, encouraging purchasers to think of this District when they are on the market for cattle, and at the same time advertising the possibilities and the value of purebred stock. It is a fine thing to see the show go ahead; it would be a fine thing if more people lent a hand in the undertaking.

The Democratic Convention.

Governor Smith of New York last week at Houston was selected as the Democratic candidate for the United States Presidential election. The nomination has some unusual factors which may be felt later on in the campaign. First of all, was the nominating on the first ballot. Four years ago ballot after ballot was taken before a compromise candidate could be found. Then there is the fact that Mr. Smith is a Roman Catholic and a "wet." Thirdly, as unusually high tone was taken by the convention in its meetings. The Democrats have not the stolid attributes which are associated with the Republicans. They still retain that Celtic fervour of the Irishmen who for many years thronged to it. Oft have they been divided, angered and pugnaciously aggressive. This year the convention acted as a unit despite the fact that for many months and years there have been discordant camps under the banner.

A shrewd observer of United States politics traces the Democratic dove of peace to the Senator who brought forward Mr. Bower, a newspaperman of New York city. At the time in question the Democrats were dispondent and appeared to be lacking in hope. The Senator arranged a dinner in honour of an early president of the United States and was able to attract leaders of the party from all parts of the Union. After the dinner was over they settled back in their chairs in anticipation of wearisome speeches, but Mr. Bower surprised them and made a flaming speech in which he recited the rottenness of certain events during the regime of President Harding and linked the traditions of the Democratic party a hundred years ago with the situation of today. With such possibilities before them the party leaders commenced to think and a general coalescence followed with the result that harmony, which has been lacking for years, now exists.

We generally associate bombast with political conventions, but in the speech which nominated Mr. Smith, Franklin D. Roosevelt struck a finer note and the following paragraph is not open to criticism:

"It is that quality of soul which makes a man loved by little children, by dumb animals, that quality of soul which makes him a strong help to all those in sorrow or in trouble; that quality which makes him not merely admired but loved by all the people—the quality of sympathetic understanding of the human heart, of real interest in one's fellowmen. Instinctively he senses the popular need because he himself has lived through the hardship, the labor and the sacrifice which must be endured by every man of heroic mold who struggles up to eminence from obscurity and low estate. Between him and the people is that subtle bond which makes him their champion and makes them enthusiastically trust him with their loyalty and their love."

Provincial Elections.

Three vacancies in the Ontario legislature were filled last week, all of the seats being won by the Conservative Party. It frequently occurs in by-elections that seats go to the party in power, but the clean-cut decisions can undoubtedly be taken as votes of endorsement of the policies of Premier Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson has the most sought for attribute among politicians—colour—and when people think of the government of Ontario they think of Howard Ferguson the premier.

Two of the seats had previously been represented by Conservative members, while the third had returned a Progressive. Success in this seat perhaps points to the future, showing as it does that the Progressive movement in Ontario is now a thing of the past. Miss Macphail may argue for group government, but the average Canadian shuns the fear of "class rule", preferring the broader merging of policies under the banner of two large parties.

In a few days the people of British Columbia go to the polls. The present Liberal government has been in power for twelve years, most of that time under the leadership of the late John Oliver. His successor, Dr. Maclean, was his Minister of Finance and is respected by all who come in contact with him. The Conservative party goes to the polls under the leadership of Hon. Dr. Tolmie, who recently resigned his seat in the Dominion House of Commons. Dr. Tolmie can honestly say that he cannot name his enemies, for as far as the political world knows he has none, coupled with this is his reputation as administrator of the Dominion Department of Agriculture previous to 1921. These qualifications make up for any lack in a party platform. The platforms of the two parties have little to distinguish them; both are generous in their promises, and apparently the desire of both is to unload the P. G. & E. railway onto the shoulders of the long-suffering Canadian National. The construction of this white elephant by the people of British Columbia, coupled with grandiose schemes, which crumbled when the War brought a wave of depression to the Province, have resulted in heavy tax burdens in the Province. In fact, no province in Canada pays heavier per capita taxes than do the people of British Columbia. No matter which party succeeds to power little change in that regard can be made for the major part of the taxation revenues are paid into trust funds to be used in meeting interest charges and the gradual paring down of the principal.

You
loving

The last few years have brought to town-dwellers many new conveniences and comforts.

They are making town life particularly attractive to a large number of home-loving people to whom city life with its higher cost of living does not make sufficient appeal.

Home-loving people are naturally strong for the holidays, and for keeping up friends. Long Distance enables them to keep in touch with a wide circle of friends in the surrounding territory, and the low rates are an inducement to do so.

Even where circumstances carry town-dwellers away from the recollection of the "home-town," of friends and neighbours is always present, and they look forward to talking with them, from time to time, by Long Distance.

60TH. ANNIVERSARY OF DUNDEE ZION CHURCH CELEBRATED MONDAY

There is any record was held at the home of one Malcolm Smith, dated July 16th, 1868. Present at that meeting were the Rev. D. Moody, Moderator, James Fraser and Donald MacFarlane, Elders.

Whether the Elders were ordained here or in Scotland, there is no means of knowing, though it is possible they were ordained Elders before Mr. Moody's arrival. Other members were added from time to time.

The first reference to the organization of a Scotch church in Dundee is dated in the year 1835. The Township of Dundee was settled principally by people from the Highlands of Scotland. But prior to 1835 no church organization had been undertaken. In that year, however, the Rev. Duncan Moody, a licentiate of the Presbytery of Ayr, Scotland, was inducted into the charge as its first minister. Previous to this the comfort was greatly indebted to the Rev. John MacKenzie of Williams-town, Ont.

No particulars of Mr. Moody's induction appear in the records further than the fact of the induction in December, 1835. His labors in several schoolhouses in the Township till 1837 when a church was built.

This church stood on the ground opposite the present place of worship, about where the burial lots of Rev. D. Ross and Patrick Buchanan are located. It was called St. Andrew's Church.

In 1836 and later meetings of Session were held to deal with delinquent Elders who failed to attend public worship, and who were excommunicated. It is recorded that "they showed nothing of the spirit of Christianity."

The root of this trouble seems to have been differences of opinion about the disruption in Scotland, which were unwisely introduced into Canada.

In those days the Session seem to have attended to the temporal as well as the spiritual affairs of the congregation. This is evident from a minute of Session dated Nov. 10th, 1839, where it was unanimously agreed that each head of a family should give $1.00 to purchase two stoves and pipes for the new church.

Church affairs ran along for a few years—with ups and downs—as usual in every congregation until Jan. 31st, 1855, when Mr. Moody died.

The last meeting of Session to which his name is appended is dated in August, 1853. He was much respected and the congregation flourished in his time. His remains lie in the cemetery among the people to whom he preached and for whose welfare he laboured. A monument erected by his family marks the place where he lies, and a beautiful memorial window in the south transept of the church reminds those who remain of his labor of love.

The next pastor of the church was the Rev. John Livingstone, a native of Nova Scotia, who was settled over the congregation in 1859. The people were tenderly attached to him and sincerely mourned his untimely death, about 9 months after his induction. He was only 27 years of age.

The Rev. John Cameron, a native of Nova Scotia, succeeded him. Mr. Cameron was ordained in Scotland, received by the Presbytery of Montreal in 1861 and inducted into Dundee in 1861 and 1862. He was a man of great ability and was highly esteemed by his charge. In 1865 he received a call from the parish of Castlehill, Campbellton, Scotland, and later was transferred to Dunoon, Scotland.

The Rev. Donald Ross was inducted as next minister on March 6th, 1866. He too was a native of Nova Scotia.

It was during his pastorate the present church was erected, the cornerstone of which was laid on July 1st, 1868, by the Most Worshipful Alexander A. Stevenson, Grand Master of Masons of Canada.

The basement was occupied in the winter of 1868 by the congregation having resolved not to enter the auditorium permanently until the whole indebtedness should be provided for. The church was formally opened in the summer of 1870 and was one of the finest structures to be found anywhere in a country place.

In 1873 the Session was largely increased as will be seen by the names at one meeting held in 1874, viz: Rev. D. Ross, Moderator; Alex. Cameron, James Macfie, Donald Fraser, Donald Sutherland, John J. Fraser, Peter Ferguson, Angus McMillan, Duncan MacKae, John Cruickshank, Elders, also D. McGregor Moody.

At this Session meeting it was agreed that a choir should be formed and that Mr. Wm. Stevenson be appointed leader—that the Scottish hymnal be used in praise, that an organ be introduced and Miss Mary Smallman be appointed to take charge of the same. And just at a meeting or two prior to the Session of that day accepted unanimously the basis of union with the Canada Presbyterian Church, which finally took place in the year 1875. These matters of progress which caused serious trouble in some places, were quietly and wisely accepted here.

In 1876 Mr. Ross was transferred to the Presbytery of Glenoraigh. His ministry was highly successful and his salary was raised through the envelope system.

The statistics show that in 1873 the number of families stood at 118. Number of Elders 13. Number of Communicants 220. Number of Baptisms 26. Number of Marriages 2. Number of Burials 7.

Those were days too when the Communion services were considered of great importance. Fast day was kept like the Sabbath, and Thanksgiving services were continued on the following Monday, and the services were conducted in both Gaelic and English.

The Rev. John C. Cattanach succeeded Mr. Ross as minister. He remained from 1877 to 1882. The minutes of Session during that period record nothing of special mention.

From 1882 to 1887 the Rev. D. MacEachern ministered to this congregation. According to Session minutes a sincere effort seems to have been made to get some of the Elders to attend church service a little better.

The Rev. John C. Martin followed Mr. MacEachern in the year 1888. Mr. Martin being called to the Foreign Field in Turkey left the congregation after two years and five months service.

On July 2nd, 1891, the Presbytery of Montreal met in Dundee for the induction of the Rev. Dr. McDonald. At the beginning of this ministry Mr. Jas. A. Arnold became Clerk of Session, following the resignation of Mr. D. McGregor Moody. It is worth noting that 24 members were added to the church during that year.

Montreal, July 1.—Lachine Rapids, one of Canada's most savage stretches of turbulent waters, were conquered by a lone youth, paddling a flimsy craft, on Saturday afternoon, while hundreds of spectators looked on, fearful at first for the outcome of the daring attempt.

Later by the courage and skill of the youth as he battled with the raging rapids, and jubilant a few minutes later when he passed the final whirlpool and swept into the comparatively smooth water below the rapids.

Axel Thygesen, a Danish immigrant, only two and a half months in Canada, accomplished the solo triumph. The craft in which the daring journey was made is known as a kajak, a Danish boat, much smaller than a canoe.

Saturday's feat was said to be the first successful conquest of the Lachine Rapids by one man in so small a craft. Some veterans in these parts stated that the rapids had been traversed by larger boats, but none so small as the present one. And no one had done it alone along the central path taken by Thygesen.

DICKENSON-WOODS

A very pretty house wedding was celebrated on Wednesday afternoon, June 27th, at 2:30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rowe, Franklin Centre, when their grand-daughter, Violet Laura Woods and John Harold Dickson were united in marriage by the Rev. Mr. Ross of Ormstown. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion—the parlor in pink and white and evergreens and white bells; the dining-room in blue and white with white bells and evergreens. Beautiful flowers were placed around wherever available. The bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father, Mr. Wm. Woods of Montreal, to the strains of the Wedding March played by Mrs. W. J. Gibson of Rockburn and stood under a beautiful white and evergreen arch with large white bell. She was gown in a white silk georgette dress, lace veil embroidered in silk, with a wreath of orange blossoms, white kid pumps, white chiffon stockings. Her only ornament was a string of pearls. The gift of the groom and she carried a large bouquet of Columbian roses with sweet peas. Mr. Duncan Lindsay acted as best man and Miss Hazel Dickson, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and was dressed in pink silk crepe, black satin slippers with blonde stockings, carrying a bouquet of carnations. The bride's going away dress was light pink gown silk trimmed with white roses and a large lace veil. She wore a hat of panama straw to match, honey beige slippers with stockings to match and she wore a mink marmot neckpiece and carried her bouquet and a sport coat. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a silver compact and to the best man, a Watman's pen. Mr. and Mrs. Dickson left by motor travelling through northern New York, returning via Plattsburg and Montreal and will be at home after July 7th, at Franklin Centre. The gifts were numerous and beautiful including a horse shoe class—1. R. Ross, 2. L. Ross, 3. J. Oliver.

Plants—1. Franklin Cress, 2. Cairns and Tullochgorum, 3. Aubrey.

Are you sure you got ALL the Mileage out of them?

You can tell a good driver by the mileage he gets from his tires

SOME fellows are sure rough on tires—slam on the brake and slide a yard or two in stopping—drop in the clutch and spin the rear wheels in starting—speed round corners and skid.

It may save a few minutes running time—it may even look a little "showy" to the man on the sidewalk—but the real driver knows that it means miles off the running life of the tires.

Good tires will give unbelievable miles of service if you treat them right. Drive sanely.

Come in and let us put the gauge on the valves once a week—under inflation means certain trouble. Let us examine the casings regularly for embedded flints and nails. This service will save dollars on your year's car expense.

REST

During the summer vacation, when school is closed, there is a tendency to change the usual routine of life that is followed during the school term. The idea is a good one in a general way, because the change gives a sense of holiday freedom which is good for everyone, including the children.

Holidays are given with the idea that a rest for the body and mind is a good thing. The best work is done after periods of rest and relaxation. In order that school children may receive the greatest benefit from their summer vacation, it is necessary that parents realize that sufficient rest is essential. It is not a kindness to allow children to stay up late at night. Sleeping late in the morning does not make up for staying up late in the evening.

The necessary hours of sleep, with windows open, are:

Age	Bed time	Hrs. of sleep	Rising time
5-6	6.30	13	7.30
6-8	7.30	12	7.30
8-10	8.00	11½	7.30
10-12	8.30	11	7.30
12-14	9.00	10½	7.30
14-16	9.30	10	7.30

Children who have plenty of sleep, who play out of doors, who drink plenty of milk, and who eat fresh fruits and vegetables are the ones who grow up strong and well.

Children who are not physically strong, who are not gaining regularly in weight, need extra rest, and they should lie down for one hour at least after the noon meal.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.

GLENELM

The closing of Victoria School was held Friday, June 29th. The teacher and scholars presented a short program of songs, recitations and dialogues which were appreciated by all. Mr. John Scriver acted as chairman. A vote of thanks was given to Miss Jane Elliot for her services during the past term, moved by Mr. James Anderson, seconded by Mrs. Wm. Crawford.

Miss Elliot was then presented with a pearl on amber necklace set, a white gold enamel bracelet and an eversharp pencil. Miss Elliot made a suitable reply. The program was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. Owing to the unfavorable weather the lunch was served in the school room.

Women Drivers Are Not Reckless

By Erwin Greer
(President Greer College of Electrical and Automotive Trades, Chicago, Ill.)

Paris is alarmed by the increasing number of women driving automobiles, and there is a growing agitation in favor of revoking women's motor licenses.

There are 6,000 women possessing permits to drive cars in Paris, whereas some three years ago there were only 600 feminine motorists. The French men claim that the increase in accidents is due to the French women's habit of "running wild."

The truth, however, is that the French men are responsible for the accidents arising from women drivers. Instead of looking where they are going, the pedestrians prefer to watch the woman at the wheel. The Parisian cannot get accustomed to the idea of the Parisienne driving a car.

A woman driver has just been fined in a Paris court $6,000 for an accident caused to another woman. The feminine motorist was driving her car in the Boulevard Saint-Michel when another woman crossed the road in front of her. Instead of putting on the brakes or turning the wheel the woman driver simply flung up her hands in despair, and the unfortunate pedestrian was so seriously injured that she is seriously unable to walk. The accident took place two years ago, but French courts seldom hurry their decisions.

Women drivers as a class are careful and law-abiding. I think it must be conceded that the accident statistics indicate that women generally are more careful and law-abiding than men.

The beauty whose high-powered sport model breaks all the city speed laws as well as the bones of unwary pedestrians and whose devastating charm disarms the motorcyclist and even the stern judge is rarely met with except on the screen. Police departments, chambers of commerce and automobile clubs seem to agree that the hand that rocks the cradle is quite competent at the steering wheel. One thing is certain, the number of men involved in motor accidents greatly exceeds the number of women.

THE POWERS OF THE INTELLECT

It is only in recent years that scientists and psychologists have begun to build up a bold and promising synthesis regarding the functions and powers of the intellect. The old idea that mind was distinct from and had no correspondence with the body has been discarded, and although the modern investigator approaches the human mind with less certainty than the old, he is more prepared to find new states, new problems, and new wonders in it. The Russian brain specialist Bekhterev, who last year suggested the founding of a brain museum, did not imagine that his own brain would be among the first to be studied. Five specialists are now to study his brain, and it is hoped to find some clue to his extraordinary scientific attainments. Our own Professor Haldane, one of the most brilliant biochemists in the world, has already bequeathed his brain to a scientific colleague in order to help on after his death the study of the brain and the advancement of physiological and psychological knowledge. Some of the acutest thinkers of the day believe that, wonderful as are the promises that lure investigators of the atom and the cosmic rays, the most outstanding achievements will be made in regard to the mind of man. Today our exact knowledge of it is infinitesimal, but it is growing. The more we know the more we find there is to be known, but also, the more we are enabled to control and condition the mind. All our conquests are really mental. Before a machine goes through the air across the Atlantic a mind has made the journey. Before an orchestra plays a symphony a mind has planned and heard it inwardly. Before photography gave readers the pictures they now enjoy day by day a mind had mastered an intricate and tortuous problem. The secret of mastery lies in the mind. It may take years to wrest it from that elusive abode but it is there that science wages its biggest and loneliest battle.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at nine o'clock, on Monday, July 2nd, at St. Joseph's Church, Huntingdon, Que., Rev. J. A. Derome officiating, when Marie Yvette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Leduc, was united in marriage with Omer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Arcand, of Montreal. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of Nile green georgette, fashioned in drapery effect with an elaborate shoulder ornament of natural forget-me-nots. She wore a picture hat of white lace and tulle, and carried a shower bouquet of drab pink roses and lily-of-the-valley with ribbon effect of white lovers' knots. Vocal selections during the ceremony were rendered by the Sisters of the Convent and the Immaculate of the church. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where a delicious dinner was served on the lawn, to about 75 guests. The bride was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts. Later in the afternoon, the happy couple left for a motor tour to Old Orchard, Boston, and New York City, the bride travelling in a cocoa kasha flannel suit with knitted straw hat to match.

Mrs. Anderson, mother of the bride, was gown in sand colored silk and wore red roses and ferns.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Brossard left by motor for Montreal and the Saguenay. The bride wore an ensemble of grey hat, shoes and handbag to match. Upon their return they will reside in Montreal.

LAW AND LIGHT AND LOVE

Dallas Lore Sharp.

Conscious of how far and fast we must go in order to save the remnants of our wild life, we are likely to forget how fast and far we have already gone. We have been fatally slow. We still stop short in education and legislation. Our love is not yet perfect. And when it is made perfect, and all powerful, it is impotent in the presence of extinction, powerless to call back a vanished race. But what I have seen with my own eyes of the growth of light and love in our dominion over the beasts of the field, the fowl of the air, and even the fish of the sea, gives me not only hope for the future of all wild life, but fresh hope and confidence in man himself and human-kind.

I came into Conservation, if I may so speak, when the tide of wild life was still at flood. I can remember when the marshes along the river of my boyhood in southern New Jersey were white at times with American egrets, and snowy herons I have seen on the sky above those marshes spanned from horizon to horizon with an unbroken band of migrating blackbirds as wide as the Milky Way. And in what dusty swarms, flocks for numbers like the locusts out of Egypt, did the bobolinks in the autumn sweep down upon the ripened reed-flats of that childhood river.

That happened to be a critical moment in the tragic history of American wild life. As a child I became conscious of this moving scene about me just as the flood tide turned. I was six or possibly seven years old. When one day out with my step-father gunning, I saw him bring down from the top of a tall dead tree a rather large, long brownish bird, wonderfully beautiful, which had only one leg. The other leg he told me had been shot off some time, but the stump was healed, and perfectly feathered over now. I also remember, as he put it in his hand, that he said he thought that it was a passenger pigeon.

That was the only live passenger pigeon I ever saw; and I saw that one shot. The year was 1876 or possibly '77, and October. Today in my reading I came across in the life of John Burroughs a curiously parallel experience. In a letter to his wife dated October, 1876, he writes: "Rose and I have been out hunting today and got a partridge, a pigeon and a gray squirrel." That was the last wild passenger pigeon he ever saw, and he shot it. Its one-legged mate got away from Burroughs along the Hudson, and far south as the swamp along the Maurice River, and my step-father killed it there. So perished that once abundant and divinely beautiful race.

"So perished" is spoken figuratively, of course, and yet it is all too literally true. It was the year of 1878 that the last great nesting of these birds was reported from the woods of Michigan when 300 tons of the nesting birds were killed and shipped to market, and altogether "more than a billion birds were destroyed there." That was not the slaying of the end, for the slaughter of passenger pigeons had been going on ever since the white men came to America; but 1878 does mark the realized beginning of the deadly effect of the wholesale slaughter. For fifteen years after that the professional netters followed the flocks wherever they were reported and the country. Then the business failed.

As late as 1881 twenty thousand live passenger pigeons were killed at one trap-shooting tournament on Coney Island, held under the auspices of the New York Association for the Protection of Fish and Game. The last known passenger pigeon to be killed for market came to St. Louis in a shipment of ducks from Black River, Missouri, in 1906. He was the market fowler who turned the mighty tide. Then across the diminishing years it was the millions of shot-guns in the hands of lovers of wild life like John Burroughs, and my step-father, and the single stray birds here and there that completed the extermination.

There are still millions of shot-guns, licensed by law, afield in this land every fall. There are still many "Associations for the Protection of Fish and Game," whose level of protection has not risen far above the five-pigeon tournament, where twenty thousand birds of an almost vanished race were killed in cold blood for sport. We must go fast and far if we are to save some of the other vanishing races from the fate of the passenger pigeon.

This Game Protective Association did not realize that he was exterminating the passenger pigeon. There had always been plenty of passenger pigeons! John Burroughs did not realize that he was killing the last wild pigeon he should ever see. There had always been so many passenger pigeons! My step-father, a lover

CEREAL ICE CREAMS

By Jane Eddington
Chicago Daily Tribune

In grooming ourselves for the Summer demand for ice cream recipes without cream, we tried out one sent us by one of the publicity people for a great food industry and were rather well pleased with some of the varieties we found it easy to make with this start.

The introductory statement to the recipe was: "A simple, wholesome, and easily made dessert for the children, or for any delicate old person who cannot easily digest rich ice cream, is one made with any cooked cereal."

The recipe that we started from read thus: "Two cups sugar, two eggs well beaten, two cups cold boiled cereal, four cups of milk, one lemon, juice and grated rind of lemon. Freeze and serve. This makes about two quarts."

But see how easy it is to divide this recipe, and not too difficult to make it smaller yet, or for a small family a half of it may be made and one-half of that saved and used with some variation like the addition of cocoa to make a chocolate ice cream, etc. Always one may add a little cream and often just a bit makes a world of difference.

First, we used rolled oats long cooked in the top of the double boiler with the sugar added to it while it was warm. Because this cereal was cooked long enough to jelly, it almost lost its identity in the mixture, but the frozen product looked a little as though it contained chopped nuts. Because of the lemon we could say that it was like a lemon sherbet, but no sherbet ever stands up or is as stiff as this when frozen.

When cocoa was added—it added to the quantities above about half a cup would be required—it was exceedingly hard, perhaps too much so unless it was to be called frozen pudding. The stringiness that was noticeable because of the jellyed oatmeal disappeared with the addition of the cocoa.

We tried white corn meal mush and found the product more like frozen milk. We flavored this with vanilla.
