GOVERNOR-GENERAL ROLAND MICHENER

Governor-General and wife greet new students.

BCS breaks with past, girls at school

LENNOXVILLE (CC) — Hundreds of parents and past students turned up Saturday as governor-general Roland Michener officially opened Bishop's College School as a co-educational institution.

"I am glad to see that you have become liberalized and have opened your doors to the opposite sex," the Governor-General noted.

"The boys love it," school administration officer Dick Medland said in reference to the school's new look.

"Some of the younger ones haven't gotten used to it yet but the older students like to have the girls around," Mr. Medland continued. Saturday's ceremonies officially marked the successful merger of King's Hall School in Compton with Bishop's College School.

The move by King's Hall to join with the Lennoxville-based, formerly all boys' school brought an end to 98 years of academic achievement by the Compton girls' school. And after 135 years of exclusively male students, Bishop's College School now becomes a co-educational institution.

Now boys and girls both seek academic achievement and individual development.

"I find that it has given me a chance to widen my understanding of life," one of the boy students said Saturday. "When I graduate I will be in a better position to cope with the outside world."

Mr. Medland agrees with him. "At last the boys here have sisters," he commented.

At present, the school enrolment is 257 with 190 male students. But BCS is looking forward to a period of development. Governor-General Michener was on hand to open new facilities representing an investment of more than $1.5 million. Saturday afternoon, he was present at the official opening of Gillard, a spanking new girl's residence. The new residence can accommodate 36 students.

Later he cut a ribbon at the doors of school house. The old building had been completely reconstructed and modernized. In the basement is the library which Mr. Medland described as "the most modern in Canada."

The Governor-General, accompanied by his wife, arrived at the school 45 minutes late Saturday morning. He was scheduled to fly to Sherbrooke airport from Saint Jean but poor weather and the advent of winter-like temperatures to the Eastern Townships made flying too dangerous. He motored to Sherbrooke.

But Saturday's opening does not mark the end of construction and development at Bishop's College School. Mr. Medland confided that many other plans had been formulated but said their completion would depend "on the rate at which the money rolls in." Most of the school's money is raised through a financial fund raising campaign.

Mr. Medland said new residences should be built and that new sports facilities including a gymnasium and a swimming pool were in the offing. He said new academic facilities might also be built depending "on the demand for enrolment."

Farmers across Canada, especially in the East and West, weren't sure about some blessings this Thanksgiving as the weather posed more problems for their crops.

Snow in the Peace River district of northern Alberta—about four inches Monday—was expected to spread over most of that province and into Saskatchewan further hindering unfinished harvesting.

And in Nova Scotia, fruit growers in the Annapolis Valley were reporting some crop loss following heavy wind and rain during the weekend.

Central Canada, however, reported few problems except in the Wellington County district of southwestern Ontario, where the risk of frost accompanied colder-weather forecasts.

Farmers in the southwestern Ontario county of Wellington suffered some frost damage to their grain corn. Agricultural representative Art Grubbe said some areas had snow Monday morning and the predicted low of 25 degrees Monday night might cause some more damage.

"Most of the hay, white bean and soft crops like tomatoes have been harvested and silage corn may benefit from the frost," he said.

In Alberta, where crop damage in September was estimated at $10 million, the weather office predicted that central regions north of Calgary would receive two to three inches of snow. Other areas could prepare for at least an inch, it said.

Winds gusting to 40 miles an hour and freezing temperatures also were forecast.

The Peace River region received up to four inches of snow about two weeks ago and farmers have been waiting for grain to dry before continuing their harvest. That storm left up to five inches of snow in southern Alberta and up to eight inches in southern Saskatchewan.

The president of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers Association said Monday that about one-third of the Annapolis Valley's crop had been picked. However, Keith Boates added that some losses were expected.

The Nova Scotia storm, with winds up to 65 miles an hour, knocked many apples out of the trees and caused power interruptions as trees and branches were toppled.

Tories win one, lose one

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The election music was both sweet and sour for Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield on Thanksgiving Day.

Premier William Davis of Ontario let it be known he will go all-out to support Mr. Stanfield's bid to become prime minister, even to the extent of campaigning in British Columbia, Alberta and New Brunswick.

But Robert Thompson, former Social Credit leader now running as a Conservative in British Columbia, predicted the party will look for a leader to replace Mr. Stanfield if his forces meet a severe defeat in the Oct. 30 federal election.

Mr. Thompson softened the blow somewhat by saying, "We're not going to lose."

Later he said that never in Conservative party history "has their been so much unanimity and support as there is for Mr. Stanfield."

He also said the Conservatives would consider a coalition with the Social Credit party if Mr. Stanfield forms a minority government after the election.

Mr. Thompson spoke at a news conference in Lethbridge, Alta., while Mr. Stanfield headed for Montreal and a Quebec tour.

ANGRY REBUTTAL

Donald Matthews, national president of the Conservative party, said in London, Ont., that Mr. Thompson should not talk in this manner about Mr. Stanfield.

"I happen to be president and not Mr. Robert Thompson. There is no reason to consider a leadership convention. We are going to form the next government."

All was outwardly quiet at Liberal headquarters on the holiday as Prime Minister Trudeau spent the day out of the public eye.

However, his office hinted that the goodies he promised in a speech at Shawinigan, Que., last week would be revealed at an Ottawa news conference today.

Mr. Trudeau and Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien were expected to unveil a recreational development program. In Mr. Trudeau's words, it would make those who love nature and hunting and fishing lose their breath.

Another announcement due today was the report from Statistics Canada on employment figures for September. David Lewis, the New Democrat leader, said they would show Canadians the country faces its most serious unemployment crisis since John Diefenbaker was prime minister.

92 dead: Worst toll in years

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada had its worst Thanksgiving weekend for accidental deaths in five years as at least 92 persons were killed across the country.

Road mishaps claimed 72 lives during the 78-hour holiday period, seven more than had been predicted by the Canada Safety Council.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday night, local times, also showed that eight persons drowned, five died in fires, and seven were killed in miscellaneous accidents.

It was the worst Thanksgiving weekend since 1967, when 105 persons died accidentally, 78 of them in traffic. Last year, only 65 persons, including 54 in traffic, were killed during the comparative holiday period.

Quebec, with 34 deaths, had the highest toll. The province had 28 traffic fatalities, four drownings, a fire death and a person killed when hit by a tree.

British Columbia had 21 deaths, 17, on roads, one in a fire, and three persons who died in the crash of a light plane.

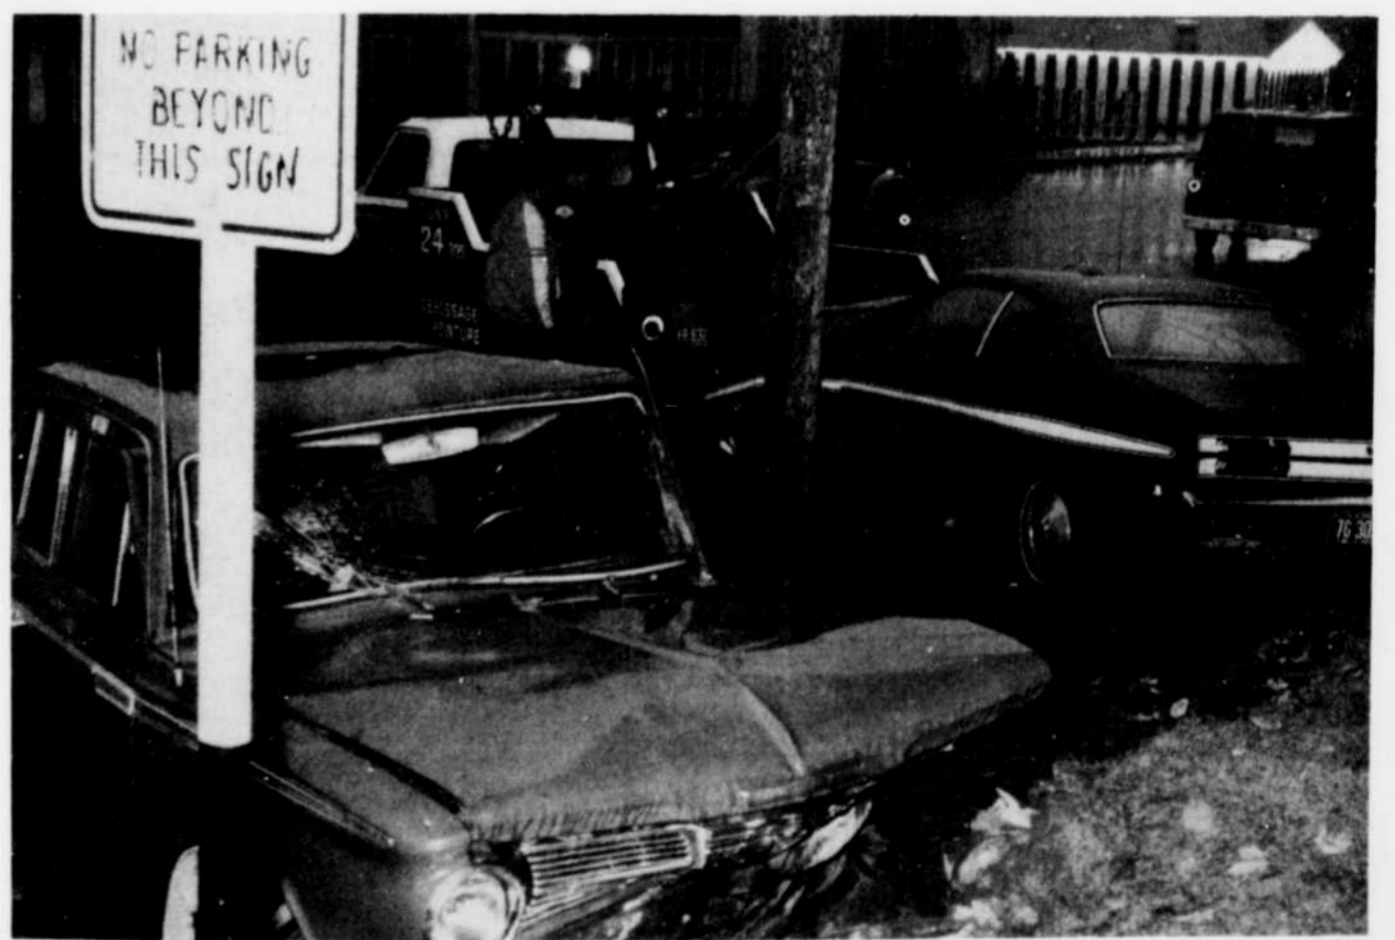

In Ontario, 10 persons died in traffic, three drowned, one died in a fire, and one was hit by a tree.

By Ann Landers

Servicemen not so low class

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in reference to the young lady whose mother objected to her going to the U.S.O. because it was a pickup spot for low-class servicemen.

Well, I am one of those "low-class servicemen" she spoke of. I am not happy in the military. In fact, I would be much happier going to college but like many other servicemen I joined the service because I didn't have enough money for college. I joined so I can get veteran's benefits when my time is up and then go to school. If it is low-class to trade four years in the service for a college education then I am low-class.

The civilian populace shouldn't consider all servicemen guilty of committing war crimes and such. I realize it isn't considered cool to be in the military these days, but for some of us, it is the only way we can see to get ahead.

I hope the young lady's mother will let her go to the U.S.O. and be a hostess. For servicemen it is a very important place to rap since most civilians don't want anything to do with us.

I agree with you, Ann. That mother owes several hundred thousand servicemen an apology, but I'm sure not going to hold my breath waiting for it. Sign me — Low-Class Serviceman at Keesler Air Force Base

Dear Friend: I salute you for a letter that tells it like it is. As for that mother, she sounds like the type whose brains go AWOL when her mouth goes on active duty.

Dear Ann Landers: Last weekend my husband and I gave a party for his new boss in our lovely new home. There were about 40 people, most of whom I had met just once or twice. I saw one of the wives pick up a china figurine and slip it into her purse. I decided to say nothing. The next day when I told my husband about it he was furious at me for not calling her on it right then and there. To be frank with you, Ann, I just couldn't do it.

Next week we are going to that woman's house for a similar party. My husband says I should look around for the figurine and if I see it, take it with me. I feel this would be wrong. Do you? — Mine and Not Thine

Dear Thine: Yes, I do feel it would be wrong. Somehow I just can't condone taking something out of someone else's home — even if you are certain it was stolen from yours. If you should see the figurine on display you might ask the hostess where she got it because you "misaid" one similar and would love to replace it. Perhaps she'll offer to give you "hers".

Dear Ann Landers, My husband died 20 years ago. I was in my 30's then. At that time I bought a cemetery plot consisting of four graves. After being a widow for six years I married again. Would it be proper for me and my second husband to be buried alongside my first husband? Or should I sell these plots and buy two plots elsewhere?

Looking to the Future
Dear Looking: You don't say whether or not you have children. Nor do you say how your present husband feels about being buried alongside your first husband, should he predecease you. If you predecease HIM how would HE feel about burying YOU alongside your first husband? Also, you're only in your 50's, and you might marry again. My advice is to sell the lots and buy two others and don't try to second-guess the Grim Reaper.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Is Tap Water Drinkable?

Some 'Impurities' Important

Dear Dr. Lamb — Regarding your column on tap water. It's probably safe from a bacteria standpoint, but what about all those chemical and industrial wastes. Are these sufficiently removed? Studies have shown less heart trouble in locations where there's hard water and lots of minerals.

Perhaps this is because of the calcium, magnesium, salts, iron, aluminum and other metals in the water.

Couldn't the person who drinks distilled water get these elements from vitamin pills?

prevent the growth or development of any significant bacteria even in the pipelines carrying water to different residences, and it includes being sure that the amount of chemical residues are within a range that will not be harmful to health.

Dear Reader — Yes, you're absolutely right.

Many of these chemicals and what we call "trace elements" are important in the body's function. Some of them are necessary for certain enzymes in the body.

In many localities this is a good source of iodine which is essential to the body. The only other common sources of iodine are in iodized table salt or in seafood.

The trace metals of importance to the body are not found in vitamin tablets. You can find vitamin tablets that contain iron, but that's about it. So you can't rely on taking a vitamin tablet a day to provide all of the trace metals and chemicals that the body might need. Most of them are also included in the fruits and vegetables that people should be eating. I'd like to emphasize again that city water right out of the tap is probably the safest water source available to us.

Dear Dr. Lamb — At least two years ago I began feeling a numbness at night in my thumbs and two forefingers. Sometimes both. My family doctor sent me to a neurologist who advised X-ray pictures of my neck and head and mentioned a possible pinched nerve. The picture showed nothing and my doctor prescribed nothing.

The numbness continues and I think it gradually gets worse. Should I pursue the matter or learn to live with this condition.

Dear Reader — Pursue it. Arthritis of the neck region of the spine or changes in the spine in this area can press on the roots of the nerves that go to the arm.

Other structures can also press on the nerves. In some people a muscle may be drawn tightly over the artery, nerve and vein, that goes to that part of the arm or in still other people, an extra rib (cervical rib) will create pressure.

In some people the position in which they sleep makes a difference. If you have the habit of sleeping with your arms above your head, try learning to sleep with them down at your side. With the arms raised, muscular pressure can cause pressure on the nerves which wouldn't show up on an X-ray.

Fund drive rolling along

By CROSBIE COTTON
Record Reporter
SHERBROOKE — Don't ever say the University of Sherbrooke doesn't try.

In an effort to arouse public support for the University's Operation Universtie, the fund raising campaign presently underway, organizers have come up with a novel project. Later this week, groups of students will leave Sherbrooke for a three-day tour of the Eastern Townships.

But they won't be driving or walking. They will roller skate 250 miles through the region meeting with the civic administrators of the larger municipalities. More than 30 students are expected to take part in the whirlwind, rolling tour.

Organizers hope that the tour will have a dual effect on the public. Firstly, they hope to set up regional committees in each area the skaters go through. Secondly, the hope to enhance the image of the fund raising campaign.

The objective of the campaign is $3.4 million with most of the funds ear-marked for construction of a sport's complex on the university's campus. Most of the students taking part in the tour are volunteers from the physical education faculty. Organizers thought it would be fitting to have student-athletes attempt to get the public involved in a financial campaign which will lead to a new sport's complex.

The tour Universtie will allow students to visit the principal towns in the region. Guy Cloutier, campaign president, said Friday at a press conference describing the project.

"It will allow them to meet the mayors, and seek the help of the municipal councils, industry and commerce in the principal urban centres of the Eastern Townships."

The tour will be divided into five stages over a three-day period and will wind up with a giant, free concert at the University of Sherbrooke Cultural Centre. Singers and performers throughout Quebec will offer their talents free of charge on Friday evening, Oct. 13.

The students will start skating Wednesday morning at 8 a.m. from the King street shopping centre. They will head for Granby where they are scheduled to be met at 1:30 by Mayor Jean-Louis Tetreault. After the civic reception they will head for Drummondville for a meeting with the town's Mayor scheduled for 8:30 p.m. In all, they will skate 95 miles the first day.

Thursday morning the group will leave for Victoriaville, 35 miles from Drummondville. After a reception with Denis St. Pierre at about 11:30 a.m., the skaters will push on towards Thetford Mines to meet with Mayor Louis Philippe Boucher. The skaters should arrive in Thetford Mines at 9 p.m. after a 50 mile run from Victoriaville.

Friday they will head home, 70 miles to Sherbrooke, for the giant, free cultural evening at the University.

Organizers hope Sherbrookers will turn up in large numbers in front of the Culturel Centre at 8 p.m. to welcome the tired skaters home.

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Quebec Liberal lieutenant Jean Marchand came to Sherbrooke Friday defending his department of regional economic expansion and criticizing Social Credit candidates in the area.

But the reception given Mr. Marchand was cool and not quite what Liberal organizers had expected. Friday evening only a handful of people turned up to meet Mr. Marchand at the Place Belvedere shopping centre. Only one week earlier, many more had been on hand to see and talk to Progressive Conservative leader Claude Wagner.

Even as Mr. Marchand was busy knocking the Social Credit party, organizers in the Maurice Couture camp were talking of a Social Credit victory in Sherbrooke riding.

There is no longer any problem for the Social Credit in Sherbrooke. Alexander Basque, a top aid for Couture told The Record. Any internal conflict which had existed in the local Social Credit organization had "been ironed out and now everyone has thrown their support behind Mr. Couture," he added.

Over the weekend, Adalard

Larose, the Social Credit nominee who lost to Liberal winner Paul Gervais by 128 votes in 1968, publicly threw his support behind Conservative nominee Dr. Alexandre Kindy.

Dr. Kindy, however, has already lost previous bids for the Sherbrooke seat. He has begun a door-to-door campaign throughout the country.

"I think it is better to try to meet each individual voter personally," he confided Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Marchand, along with Liberal hopeful Irene Pelletier, barnstormed the Sherbrooke area Friday. Replying to a caller on a local open-line radio program, Mr. Marchand said he did not think the Social Credit party would ever have a chance to take power in Ottawa.

"The Social Credit Party," he disclosed, "does not have a sound political ideology."

Later in the day he defended the work of DREE and pointed out how many jobs had been created in the region during the Trudeau administration. At the same time, he asked the public to return the Trudeau government to power.

City officials were hoping Mr. Marchand would promise a Special Zone status for Sherbrooke while on tour here but he did not. He would only say the matter was still being studied.

Sherbrooke Mayor Marc Bureau, who attended a meeting with the Minister, told The Record "nothing had been decided as yet."

During the day, Mr. Marchand participated on two open-line programs, toured three industries including Iruck Mills, which has been helped by a DREE grant, toured the King street west and Place Belvedere shopping centres as well as the downtown area of Sherbrooke and took part in a public meeting.

NO SHOPPING TODAY — The honorable Jean Marchand wasn't shopping for clothes at Place Belvedere Friday. He was shopping for votes. Regional economic expansion minister, Mr. Marchand was touring counties Friday and Saturday hoping to gain votes for Liberal candidates in the Oct. 30 general election.

Police holding two after attempted theft

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Two Montreal natives in their early twenties are scheduled to appear in court today to face charges of armed robbery, a Sherbrooke police spokesman said Monday.

The two were apprehended by the Sherbrooke police some 75 minutes after a local branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale at the corner of King and Windsor streets was robbed of an estimated $5,000.

Although police have not divulged the names of the two who were arrested, they have described the duo as "a 23 and 25-year-old pair from Montreal."

One of the men has a police record.

All the money has been recovered.

The two men were arrested in back of the LaSalle Hotel on King street at 3:45 p.m. Friday afternoon. The drama began shortly after 1:30 p.m. when two armed and masked men entered the branch at 29 King street east, jumped the counter and yelled "hold-up." They crowded the bank's seven employees into the vault and minutes later escaped with more than $5,000.

Police, alerted moments later, converged on the bank and began a thorough search of the immediate area near the bank.

Witnesses said the two men escaped in a truck. Nearly an hour later, the Sherbrooke police trio of detective Jean Marie Donahue, police photographer Roger Brule and constable Beauregard together in a police car spotted the truck entering the driveway of the LaSalle Hotel and soon arrested the men. The men attempted to throw the money away between two automobiles but were caught in the act by police.

A search of the truck revealed two masks, three weapons and other evidence.

No shots were fired. Fast and efficient work by the Sherbrooke police department led to quick apprehension of the men.

Annexation expected tonight

SHERBROOKE (AR) — City council is to meet this afternoon in special session to adopt a resolution calling for the annexation of parts of Ascot Township to within the boundaries of the municipality of Sherbrooke.

Following several fruitless meetings between representatives of the two jurisdictions, Sherbrooke Mayor Marc Bureau and the city councilors have opted to extend Sherbrooke's boundary to include the University of Sherbrooke. This move will now be made without the outright approval of the Ascot Township Administration.

The annexation should be regarded as good news for Sherbrooke taxpayers who are presently paying for numerous services at the University without receiving provincial subsidies. Under the present system, Ascot Townships receives Quebec monies for services it does not render.

In a communique issued Friday, Mayor Bureau said

Sherbrooke must find a way to alleviate the injustice which taxpayers here are suffering.

The only way to bring this about is to extend the territory administered by the city, he contended.

The communique also revealed that if the university falls within the boundaries of Sherbrooke, Sherbrooke would benefit to the tune of $140,000 while Ascot would lose only $10,000.

Shopping centre looks good

SHERBROOKE (AR) — An August opening is planned for Sherbrooke's new regional shopping centre, the Carrefour de l'Estrie, a spokesman for Morrie Rohrlack Associates told The Record in a recent interview.

Last week Simpson's Sears announced it is building 111,000 square feet of retail facilities and an eight-bay automotive centre on the site. The department store is expected to employ about 300 people.

In addition to Simpson's three other major chains have committed their participation in the Sherbrooke development to date. Eaton's of Canada will be housed in a split-level complex totalling 134,000 square feet.

Pascal's will occupy 80,000 square feet while Steinberg's is planning a supermarket with 35,000 square feet of space. In addition, two French and one English cinema will be erected in the shopping centre.

The Carrefour de l'Estrie, when completed in late summer 1973, will total 640,000 square feet of facilities in approximately 100 stores.

Morrie Rohrlack Associates, leasing agents for Smada

Developments, report that interest in Sherbrooke's newest shopping centre is high and that soon all the tenants will be known.

Construction doubles in Sherbrooke

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Construction has nearly doubled in Sherbrooke for the first nine months of 1972 compared to the previous year, a press release from the city of Sherbrooke reveals.

Demands for construction permits within city limits for the first nine months of 1972 totalled investments of $24,816,079. In all, the city granted 900 building permits as of the end of September.

The figure includes 294 permits for the construction of residential buildings representing an investment of $7,469,500.

At the same time last year, the city had only issued 750 permits representing a total investment of $13,960,221. That number included 230 requests for the construction of private residences.

Even the month of September was a better month for construction compared to 1971. In September alone, construction permits were issued for an investment totalling $1,689,500 compared to an investment of $1,368,255 last year.

A trespasser

Information Canada, which has done a less than inspiring job of telling Canadians about the federal government, has branched into a new field in which it is most definitely a trespasser.

It has established an agency known as Fotomedia to sell to newspapers a photo syndicate service dealing in special features. Its third production, now in circulation, presents a story and photos on Canadian actor Gordon Pinsent.

Nothing is offered which wouldn't, or hasn't already, come from the publicity departments of film companies producing motion pictures in which Mr. Pinsent appears. Other agencies exist which are quite capable of producing the sort of features Fotomedia intends to issue later.

The new venture contrasts sharply with the revised function of Information Canada as seen by its director Tom Ford as late as last month. He said then that Information Canada "is turning around and trying to be more useful to the departments (of government) and more useful to the public."

It is difficult to see how Fotomedia fits that policy, since it duplicates services provided by private entrepreneurs and violates the long-standing principle that government should not attempt to provide services already being provided adequately by the private sector.

But perhaps there is no need to worry. Information Canada's dismal record in telling the people of Canada about the Canadian government suggests that private photo syndicates and publicity departments have little to fear from the new competition.

National unity

A few years ago it would have been unthinkable. Today it is commonplace. During the past week or so each of four federal party leaders has discussed the possibility of Quebecers first electing the Parti Quebecois, then endorsing a referendum to leave Canada.

What, then, would Canada's federal leaders do? Not one has clearly thought out the answer. Or, if he has, it hasn't been articulated in public. Messrs. Trudeau, Stanfield, Lewis and Caouette all pay lip service to the freely expressed will of the people of that province. And so they must, to be consistent, because each man is responsible according to his lights, and each has in the past acknowledged that separatism must have a legitimate avenue of expression in order to limit terrorism.

From that point on, they differ. Caouette says that if Quebec separates it will do so without him. Trudeau says he would return to Quebec and fight from within for federalism. They all indicate that they wouldn't necessarily, as prime minister, accept the verdict of an election-referendum process in Quebec.

The Quebec issue has never been settled, any more than the issue of the West, with its perennial complaints about the federal system, has ever been "settled."

As the October 30 election campaign began a month ago, it appeared that the federal parties were prepared to downplay the issue of national unity which so dominated the 1968 campaign. Rene Levesque, leader of the Parti Quebecois, said no, he wanted it discussed.

If any additional proof were needed as to his skill as a politician, it resides in the fact that all the leaders are now discussing separatism — not as a dream, but as something that Mr. Levesque is capable of bringing about. In the last Quebec election he obtained 24 per cent of the popular vote. The old National Union appears to be disintegrating.

This may open the door to the PQ to form the next opposition to the reigning Liberals in that province — or even to form a government.

The problem of unbought tributes

I note that Mr. Mark Spitz has embarked on a five million dollar career, as adviser to the American community on what to eat, wear, drink, smoke, see, and hear. The fons et origo of his authority to counsel us on such matters is that he can move his body through a given body of water at approximately one second of time less than the runner-up, who will never be heard from again, whoever he is.

It is all quite customary, and accepted with good nature everywhere. There is going on, in the city I inhabit, a blitz these days featuring Mr. Joe DiMaggio. He is running on about the interest rate at a local bank.

Mr. DiMaggio knows about as much about interest rates as I know about baseball: never mind. One would think,

On the right

to judge from the television commercials, that Chet Huntley is an aeronautical engineer, whose career was briefly interrupted by NBC. Never mind.

At the national convention in Miami, a liberal academician given to uninhibited thought leaned over to the moderator of a national news program who introduced a forthcoming commercial by personally endorsing the product, and said: "Why do you do it?" "Because," he whispered, "they insist on it." "Try saying no," said the professor. I doubt that he will bother to try saying no: the producers would not take no for an answer.

It is all deplorable, and faintly dishonorable, I suppose, though it is quite generally excused, except by the most rigid keepers of the public probity. An exclusive club in New York City is reputed to have denied membership to an industrialist who innocently posed with a bottle of brandy whiskey in his hand in an advertisement in which he was identified as a Man of Distinction, enticed to do so by a procurer who promised in return everlasting patronage for the Red Cross, or the Boy Scouts, or whoever.

But the stigma, like the Scarlet Letter, is evanescent, and no doubt before too long the gentleman in question, who has since departed this vale of tears, will be elected to honorary, posthumous membership in the gentleman's club.

There is another problem, whose tentacles have choked me. It has to do with what is permissible in the way of gratitude. We all express our complaints (though not as often as we should). But how, publicly, to express our enthusiasms?

A year or so ago, freshly arrived in Switzerland, I pulled out the electric portable typewriter I bought ten years ago to keep there, plugged it in to the alien current apprehensively as I do at the beginning of every season, but it jumped instantly to life, performing with the precision of a TURN ROCKET. Impulsively I sat down and typed out a letter to the manufacturer: "Dear Sir: I have owned one of your typewriters, model so and so, for ten years. It has given me absolutely faultless service. You have reason to be very proud of your product. You may use this testimonial in any way you see fit. Yours truly, W.F.B."

I never heard again from the typewriter company. No doubt the clerk put the letter in the crank mail box. On the other hand, perhaps it was pondered and the decision arrived at that no unbought endorsements are worth having. No doubt the company will one day publicize an endorsement of its typewriters by Muhammad Ali.

That last sounds invidious, and is not meant to be. But it would be good to be able to speak one's mind uninhibitedly about the pleasures of certain goods of this world, and as a devoted consumer of them, I would love to hear the unbought opinions of others, on everything from cars that actually stand up (is there such a thing?), to television models that do not require maintenance.

The governing ethics as I say are vague on the subject, and it is so widely suggested that one does only what one is paid to do, I doubt one can safely really buck the problem.

One day I may try it: writing, say, a tribute to fine airline service, or to a ball point pen (I have discovered the world's best), or to a reference book.

But it isn't safe, and one cannot live dangerously in every field.

UIF freeloading an issue

BY RICHARD ANCO

TORONTO (CP) — Unemployment insurance freeloading, or whatever you call it, seems to have stirred the election fever of the ordinary Canadian more than any other campaign issue in the Oct. 30 federal election.

It has been labelled a national scandal by the Conservatives. Prime Minister Trudeau has promised a steady crackdown. No political party has missed a chance to take a swipe at it.

It dates back to June, 1971, when new unemployment insurance regulations gradually increased the maximum benefit to $100 a week from $58 and eased the qualifications for obtaining payouts.

Since then, and especially during the current campaign, critics have blasted away at the new program, charging that benefits are so generous and the administration so loose that people are being discouraged from taking jobs.

Defenders have shot back that the whole thing has been blown out of perspective. Sure, there are abusers, it is said, but there will always be some in any such program. They represent only a "minute proportion" of those receiving benefits and they are being caught and gradually dropped from the rolls.

Proof either way is hard to come by. There are no available statistics.

NOT MANY CHEATERS? — Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey has estimated that only four per cent of those currently drawing benefits are cheaters. That's roughly 24,000 people among the 560,000 registered for unemployment insurance benefits.

The rate had gone up to five or six per cent in the first few months of the new program, but has come down and compares with an eight-per-cent cheater rate in the United States. "Obviously we have a better system of detecting them," said the minister.

How do you determine whether a person is on unemployment insurance because he prefers not to work? How do you measure willingness to work?

The line is thin, different in almost each individual case. There are some cut-and-dried examples, reported lately in the media, but officials of the Unemployment Insurance Commission insist they are being weeded out.

Various checks are made on claimants to find out if they are "available, capable and willing to work," said Ivan Charlebois, director of public affairs for the UIC in Ottawa.

Mr. Mackasey said that in the 12-month period to last Aug. 1 about 185,000 Canadians seeking unemployment insurance payments were declared ineligible. This was an increase of 89 per cent over the previous period and resulted from "more rigorous examination of eligibility."

The UIC will increase its investigative staff to 307 from 227 by mid-November. A computerized detection system tested in the Ottawa-Hull region should become national this winter.

Random interviews with some claimants registered at a UIC office west of Toronto showed all were aware of a general tightening up. None wanted their names reported because, as a 35-year-old unemployed secretary said, "you might spoil my chances of collecting."

Three women insisted they are not freeloaders—they should weed them out, they'll spoil it for the rest of us.

"Why shouldn't I get unemployment insurance?" asked a former receptionist, 37. "I worked for eight years before deciding to quit for health reasons. I heard so much about freeloaders and how easy it was to get unemployment insurance. So I went. But it wasn't easy because there were a lot of questions and papers."

Business and management people have reacted strongly to jobless abuse, although even the typical unskilled worker wonders why he should be paying into a system that pays someone who avoids work. There is a nagging tendency to feel that if there are a few admitted freeloaders there might be many, many more.

And with that comes a stigma attached to those who legitimately claim unemployment insurance.

While commending the insurance program as a way "to cushion citizens against the financial shock of unemployment," Lew Cohen of Weldo Plastics Ltd., said Toronto, several former employees who worked for his company have refused offers of jobs.

"In all instances, which includes students who have worked for us in past summers, we have been blatantly told that they are quite happy to take it easy and enjoy themselves on the payments they are receiving from unemployment insurance."

Chris Elie, service representative for DOT Personnel Services, said she has had trouble getting girls out to jobs. "Most ask why they should go through the hassle of working an eight-hour day when all they have to do is sit back and collect unemployment insurance."

Roy Walker, president of Walker Welding Co., said, "I'm grasping at straws because I can't get people. I had a guy in here recently who was getting $100 a week on unemployment. He wanted a job. But I had to pay him $3 an hour to get him because he said it just wasn't worth his while to go back to work for less."

Mr. Mackasey said it's the unwillingness of some "sweat factories" to pay a decent wage that keeps employees away. And he welcomes any upward push unemployment insurance has on general wage scales.

It is difficult to find any consensus on what is a fair and reasonable scale of benefits for the unemployed. Is a maximum of $100 a week too high? Should it be cut to $80 or $60? How many more people would this force into jobs?

Responses are almost a matter of personal conscience or belief, of individual concepts on social responsibility. Is a reduction in jobless benefits fair to the thousands of legitimately unemployed, through no fault of their own, who must still support dependents?

Similar questions can be asked about any publicly-financed plan—medical care, welfare, hospitals, prisons, the handicapped. Where are the limits of social responsibility? How much is the plan worth?

None of the women interviewed at the UIC office collected near the $100 maximum in payments. They are entitled to two-thirds of the insurable salary they earned while working. In their cases they were getting $80-$85 a week in benefits, minus $10-$12 for income tax.

Mr. Charlebois said the average UIC payout weekly for the more than 500,000 registrants is about $66. This compares with an average of $36 under the previous program. Only about 8.9 per cent of present claimants are getting the maximum $100 a week "and in no way is this easy living when you consider many were making much more than $150 on their jobs."

"We moved up the maximum payout in the new program because average wages across Canada were rising rapidly," he explained.

Dear Sir,

I was pleased to see in The Record that the Sherbrooke Citizens have been asking for more and better bus service. I am quite surprised to hear that the Sherbrooke Transit Co. seems to consider the complaints of these people as "imaginary problems", and that the director and controller of the company plan to take their holidays before having a meeting to settle the situation.

While I am aware that the bus company has been operating under some difficulty in the past few years due to rising costs, and the fact that since more and more people have cars, the bus service is not used as much as in the past. On the other side, one might argue that the busses might be used more if they gave better service. This is useless discussion however.

Instead let us pick up the pieces where we stand now. Though pollution is not a problem in a town the size of Sherbrooke, perhaps the fact that money is not quite so plentiful for some people, as it was a few years ago, might be more of a consideration. Some people always put their cars away for the winter, I believe many more would do so, if they could be assured of good bus service, before winter came.

I don't think the existing routes should be changed, changes are confusing to the public and might result in still more people ceasing to use the bus service. Instead I would suggest adding busses, I think in some instances the bus company has concentrated on bigger and better busses where they should perhaps have concentrated on more busses.

I think the main reason of most of us waiting for a bus is to get to where we are going as soon as possible, and in the winter our main priority is to get some transportation before we freeze to death at the bus stop.

A few suggestions I would make are: First, busses running up to midnight on all major routes, to cover all parts of Sherbrooke and at least the central part of Lennoxville. Many people work from three to eleven and need a bus when they come from work. Also social gatherings often finish around eleven. More busses on Sunday as well as at night.

I would suggest that where extra busses are needed they should run half way between regular bus times. I think that a second bus should be run to Lennoxville going out Bowen South and going on to pick up passengers in some of the further parts of Lennoxville such as up on Belvidere and in the Winder St.-Massawippi area.

Since we do, definitely need more bus service I would suggest that the citizens of Sherbrooke and Lennoxville get behind the citizens group by writing to the Sherbrooke Transit Co. or city council telling them where you live and what service you would use if it were available.

Perhaps people who live in an area not served by a bus now could get up petitions to have a bus put on before winter.

Yours truly,
(Miss) D.M. Clouston

VEGETABLES CAN BE FUN!

It's so easy to "dress up" vegetables, it is a wonder it isn't done more often. Vegetables are so colorful, it's fun to "mix-and-match" their colors. Everyone knows about the proverbial Lima beans and corn, but few people serve yellow wax beans tossed with green beans... or hot sliced beets on mounds of green spinach... or a mixture of julienne carrots with French green beans... or green peas with corn. Try mixing vegetables and enjoy the color combinations.

It is also easy to give a tasty "ZIP" to vegetables: a squeeze of lemon on carrots, a spoonful of mayonnaise on spinach, a sprinkle of parsley flakes on corn, or a little diced apple added to red cabbage. Your family will think they are eating a "new" vegetable.

For an unusually hearty way to serve 5-minute cook frozen vegetables, cream them and serve them in a corn bread ring. Great for a grilled ham supper or even for hamburger nights. It makes a complete entree with the meat, as the corn bread takes the place of the starchy vegetable. And it's colorful, tasty, and eye-catching. Easy, too! Add grilled pineapple and fluffy mustard sauce to the ham, or grilled peach halves and relish to the hamburgers if time permits.

Mixed Vegetables in Corn Bread Ring

- 1 package (11 to 14 oz.) corn muffin mix
- 1 package (10 oz.) 5-minute cook frozen mixed vegetables
- 1/4 cup butter
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- 1 egg yolk, slightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon pimiento strips (optional)

Prepare corn muffin batter as directed on package. Bake in an 8-inch ring mold. Meanwhile, cook mixed vegetables as directed on package. Drain. Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, salt, and pepper. Gradually stir in milk; add onion. Cook and stir over low heat until sauce is thickened. Add a small amount of sauce to egg yolk, stirring vigorously. Return to saucepan. Cook 2 or 3 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Add mixed vegetables and pimiento; place corn bread ring on warmed serving platter. Pour vegetable sauce in center and around outer edge of ring. Yield: 6 servings.

three spades rather than take a chance with his ragged heart suit. South's three no-trump call started the fireworks. He realized that he probably should have bid no-trump the time before and was trying to correct.

East's double represented more fireworks. He did have an ace and had really made no bid at all with it.

West opened the queen of spades. At this point South should have won in dummy and rattled off six diamond tricks. After that start he might well be able to score a ninth trick if his opponents discarded badly but for some reason best known to him he decided to duck in both hands.

This started the pyrotechnics. West shifted to the king of clubs and continued with the queen and 10 after East signaled with the seven. East overtook, cashed the nine and led a heart. Meanwhile, South had let a heart go from dummy and the defense collected four heart tricks and 1,400 points.

Some of the most exciting fireworks can be found right at the bridge table. All that is required are four players and at least one vivid imagination.

There was nothing imaginative about the first round of the bidding except that South might well have tried a bid of two no-trump instead of three diamonds.

West's double was for take-out and East decided to bid

Shoplifting fought against

In modern parlance it might be termed "ripping-off the retailer" — a spate of shoplifting that has been costing merchants a staggering $10 million a day in losses to thieves. But times are changing. Once treated as a taboo subject, shoplifting is now being brought out into the open by store owners who are no longer willing to put up with the losses, and who are using increasingly sophisticated techniques to fight the shoplifter.

An article in the October Reader's Digest notes that the May Company in downtown Cleveland, for example, has installed 66 close-circuit TV cameras and two-way mirrors, secured merchandise under transparent plastic cubes, hired a squad of young detectives to patrol the store, and given all security personnel a 150-hour course in basic police training. In addition, clerks are rewarded for spotting shoplifters.

Along with more and better detection, stores are abandoning their traditional "slap-on-the-wrist" treatment of shoplifters in favor of vigorous prosecution. Macy's, for example, pressed charges against only 25 per cent of those caught shoplifting up to two years ago. Now that figure is about 75 per cent, one executive says.

Education represents a third approach to the shoplifting plague. Last year many communities — including such large cities as San Diego, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, D.C., Baltimore, Kansas City, Boston and Dallas — launched campaigns to make would-be shoplifters aware of the consequences of their crime. What gives significance to such programs is the fact that an estimated 95 per cent of shoplifters are amateurs — teenagers alone account for more than 50 per cent of thefts.

How a strong education program works is seen by Philadelphia's STEM (Stealing Takes Everybody's Money) project, in which radio and TV, newspapers, outdoor billboards and car-cards contributed $190,000 worth of time and space to spread the message that shoplifting is a serious crime. Merchants in that city have cut losses by an average 20 per cent, the Digest says.

The new crackdown is helping stores in other cities cut losses by wide margins, and in 1971 the shoplifting toll nationwide actually decreased for the first time in six years. But any loss is too much. For while merchants may be the immediate victims of shoplifting, eventually it's the public that pays.

Maple Copse Chapter IODE

LENNOXVILLE — On the fourth Monday in September, Maple Copse Chapter resumed activities for the fall season. The Regent, Mrs. John French, was in the chair and there was a good attendance.

The Regent welcomed a new member who is living in Lennoxville and although a life member of a Sherbrooke chapter, finds it more convenient to attend meetings nearer home.

A most interesting report by our delegate, Mrs. A.E. Roodhouse, of the National Annual meeting held in Vancouver was much enjoyed and received a hearty vote of thanks.

The treasurer, Mrs. D.M. Bennett, reported a satisfactory balance in the bank with no outstanding bills.

Mrs. D. Barnett, Educational secretary, was voted a considerable sum to be used for educational purpose at the Lennoxville Elementary School. This included the Marthe L. Stewart memorial bursary, money for supplies, and $50.00 for the school's hot lunch fund. Donations were also voted towards the Commonwealth Relations fund and the "Canadian Scene."

The Services report by Mrs. Sutherland showed that a great deal of clothing, new and used, had been distributed during the summer. Parcels had been sent to the Butters Home, the Dixville Home and a number of garments given out locally. Many hours were, as usual, spent by Mrs. Sutherland in cleaning and renovation of used clothing.

Mrs. D. Barnett had already received the 1973 calendars, some of which were sold at the meeting and more will be on hand at the next.

Members were reminded of the Provincial Semi-annual meetings to be held this year in Sherbrooke on October 25 and 26. There will be a dinner at the Le Baron Motel on the 25th and luncheon at IODE House on the 26th. The opening meeting will take place at IODE House at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, October 25, and it is hoped there will be a good representation from Lennoxville.

Mrs. Sutherland reminded the members that gifts for the Douglas Hospital and the Arctic should be in her hands shortly as they have to be shipped early.

Mrs. Roodhouse had closed her report with a quotation from the Chairman of the Crown of Canada Committee which she felt should be emphasized by the chapters. Part of this follows: —

LONG LIVE THE QUEEN
("The Country is the Queen"), and with this statement of delegates to the National Chapter of Canada they affirmed their loyalty to the Crown of Canada. Mrs. W.R. Morrison, chairman of the Crown of Canada Committee, stated "I am simply a Canadian holding an unshakable belief in Canada with the Queen as Head of State. So long as this situation remains, Canada cannot become a republic or a dictatorship." She urged IODE members to join the Monarchist League of Canada. We must guard and cherish the traditions we value.

"Her Majesty the Queen is the IODE's gracious Patron."

There being no further business the meeting closed. Hostesses were Mrs. C.T. Herring and Mrs. G.M. Sutherland. Mrs. Austin Scott volunteered to be the November hostess.

Typhoid in Bouchette

Gertrude Lapointe

Until May of this year, most people had not heard of Bouchette, a village 65 miles north of Ottawa. Almost overnight the name of the town became known, as many of its citizens came down with typhoid fever.

There are usually two or three cases of typhoid annually in Bouchette, but deaths are practically unknown. One person died a long time ago. Life in 1971 is a far cry from what it was in 1927, when Quebec experienced its worst typhoid epidemic. Three hundred people died before the carrier—the local milkman!—was found.

This spring the town seemed to split in two—the sick on one side, the sound and healthy on the other. However, everybody got together each Sunday at St. Gabriel's church, which is situated on the bank of the Gatineau River.

During April, the Gatineau River was swollen and congested. The smell of pulpwood mingled with the familiar, musty odor of melting snow and ice. Logically, "after church" conversation centered on the "bad water," the "good drinking water," the filth of the river, the good quality of the water from the artesian wells, the activities of the municipal council, "which was doing its best," and the prevalence of illness in the district.

The parish priest, Father Antoine Garand, pointed out one of the characteristics of his congregation "They don't come to the rectory to complain." They aren't grumblers." He found out about the epidemic from the local health unit. "There haven't been any deaths as yet," he said. "Last year, one man almost died, but he's working harder than ever this year."

Father Garand gets his water supply from the river, as do several of his parishioners. "They don't all depend on the river. A number of families have artesian wells."

Out of a population of 970 in Bouchette, 30 to 40 are farmers. At least 25 men are employed by Maki and Sogefors in Maniwaki. However, most of the working force is centered in Hull, Ottawa, and their surrounding districts.

Looking at the faces of the townspeople, no one can tell who is or who is not a typhoid carrier. Everyone is well aware, however, that Bouchette is no longer a forgotten corner of the earth. The knowledge that typhoid organisms are traveling regularly to Hull and Ottawa has seen to that.

"People here don't need their priest at their heels all the time," Father Garand said. "Just last Sunday I congratulated them on getting organized to petition for a town reservoir. They have asked for it several times already. This isn't a rich municipality—about $19,000 revenue annually.

"We shouldn't dramatize this Bouchette situation—the epidemic—too much. To begin with, the illness itself isn't dramatic. The townspeople is a beautiful one, and the people really have a good life. They get together and take part in things. They are united in their misfortune. Are you going to blame them for being patient?"

Bouchette is built on the side of a hill overlooking the river. It is on the same winding highway that leads to the ski slopes of Camp Fortune, Vorlage, Edelweiss, and Lac Ste Marie, as well as the towns of Wakefield and Low. As you leave Kazabazua, the road signs point to Whitefish, Cayamant, and Blue Sea Lake. Travelers to Maniwaki pass through Bouchette en route—usually without a stop—in their haste to reach greater attractions.

The first case

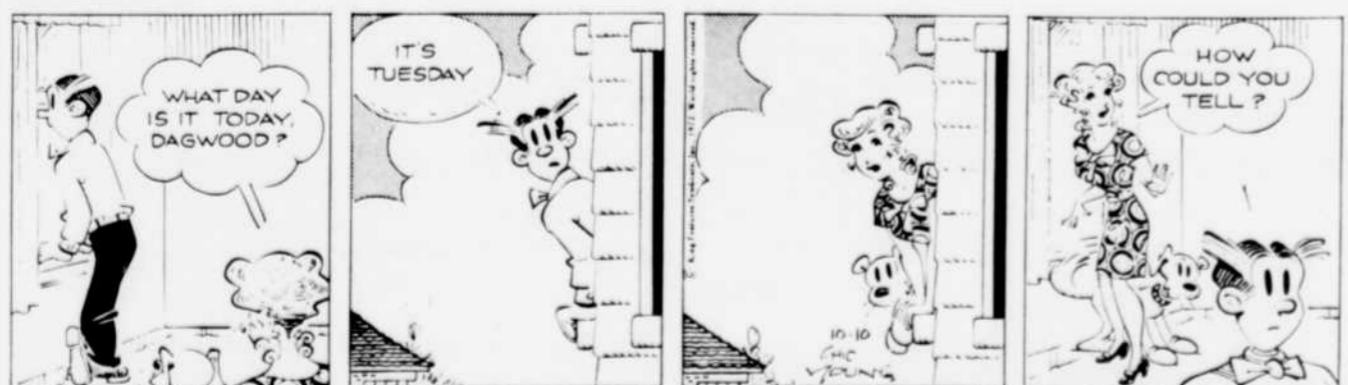

The first typhoid victim this year in Bouchette was a former hockey player with the Montreal Canadiens, Leo Gravelle. Until recently, Leo owned and managed an inn. Now he devotes his time to the sale of tickets for Loto-Quebec. (A lottery sponsored by the province of Quebec.) His wife, Yolande

They knew it was coming but couldn't stop it, Gaiters lose 17-12

By CROSBIE COTTON
Record Reporter
MONTREAL — Loyola Warriors have one play that has just about wiped out every other college team in the Quebec University Athletic Association.

It is a basic quarterback roll-out option but Loyola has crafted it down to an art. Against McGill two weeks ago the Warriors used it for four touchdowns. The quarterback rolls out towards the sideline in a moving pocket and he can either run with the ball, pass it or lateral it off to the running back.

Loyola quarterback Niel Greenly and fleet running back Wade Clare are very good at the play.

"We effectively cut off that play all afternoon except once," Gaiter coach Bruce Coulter explained following Saturday's Loyola-Bishop's tilt. "Only once, at the beginning of the game, did that play work. We stopped it the rest of the time."

But once was once to often. Greenly and Clare combined the second time the Warriors had the ball to romp 67 yards for the Warrior's first major. It also proved to be the margin of victory as the Warriors edged out defending champion Bishop's Gaithers 17-12.

The win allowed Loyola to take sole possession of first place — the first time that one team has been able to sit above the others so far this season. The win leaves Loyola the only undefeated team in the conference. The Warriors have three victories.

Of second place with a 2-1 record, McGill emerged from the cellar Saturday with a 37-10 victory over the winless Sir George Williams Georgians.

"It was a close game and maybe we didn't deserve to lose," Coulter continued, "even their field goal bounced in over the crossbar."

But Loyola was ahead all the way. The Warriors hit paydirt early in the game with the quarterback option play to Clare and went ahead 7-0 on Mike Lepensee's convert.

Bishop's hit back a few minutes later when Mike Munzar connected on a couple of passes to end Pat Commander totaling 45 yards and a touchdown but the convert attempt was no good.

STRANGE PLAY
Then came the Loyola field goal. The other Loyola major came on what has to be one of the strangest plays of the year.

A fake field goal try in the second quarter set up the major. On the try, Art Neiderbuhl connected on an end zone pass to Tim Bertrand. Bertrand had been left all alone in a corner of the end zone.

"It was a lucky play," coach Coulter lamented. "Our men were just about ready to clobber the passer when, in desperation, he lobbed the ball up in the air."

Bishop's other score came with six minutes left in the game when quarterback Munzar blasted over from a few yards out. The play had been set up on a great end-around run by Phil Oughton.

Bishop's puts its championship hopes on the line this weekend when the Gaiters meet Loyola on Lennoxville turf. Bishop's has to beat the Warriors by at least five points in order to retain the title it captured so handily last year.

TWO TEAM BATTLE
As the season approaches the halfway mark, the championship is boiling down to a battle between Loyola and Bishop's McGill is the only team with a chance to upset either of the powerhouses although both Loyola and Bishop's have defeated McGill in games this year.

If the teams end up with an even win-loss record, the championship will go to the team with the best point spread in games played between the teams. With the five-point victory over Bishop's Saturday, Loyola has the advantage.

"It may not be but it looks as if the championship will be decided this weekend in Lennoxville," Coulter commented. "We have to beat them by at least five points."

'BOYS READY'
"The boys are ready. They want to prove that they can beat Loyola," he continued.

Bishop's will have many advantages when the two teams meet at the Lennoxville football stadium.

Next weekend is homecoming and more than 2,000 loyal supporters are expected to be on hand for the opening kickoff. In addition, Saturday's tilt should mark the return of two Bishop's stars. Running back Mike Bookalam is expected to be in uniform for the tilt. He has missed the last two games because of a shoulder injury.

All-star quarterback Bill MacDonald will also return to the Gaiter lineup. MacDonald was sidelined Saturday. He sustained a charlie-horse in practice during the week and is still on crutches but Coulter thinks MacDonald will return in time for the next game.

Bishop's will be trying to cut down its penalties in the next game. Saturday, the Gaiters lost 140 yards in penalties out of a total game count of 230.

"We will have to cut down our penalties," Coulter noted. "We work too hard for the yardage to give it away."

Other than the attempt to decrease the number of penalties, the Gaiter's mentor is not planning anything extra for Loyola.

"Our offense is there and that is what we will use," he said. "It is going to be an exciting game. Probably the best of the year."

J.C. Just Cool in WHA

SHERBROOKE (AR) — Bryan Campbell's power play goal late in the third period gave Philadelphia Blazers a 3-2 victory over the Quebec Nordiques in World Hockey Association exhibition game play last night.

Quebec took a 1-0 lead early in the opening frame when J.C. Tremblay waltzed around four Blazers and put the puck behind a prostrate Bernie Parent. It was the only goal of the period.

The Blazers knotted the score at 57 seconds of the second period on a goal by Michel Plante before Les Nordiques took the lead again. With Philadelphia two men short, Andre Gaudette converted a J.C. Tremblay pass to give Quebec a 2-1 lead.

Mid-way through the finale Ron Plumb scored on a low shot from the point, setting up Campbell's tie-breaker.

In the final 15 seconds of play Les Nordiques julled their goalie and only the goalpost prevented the game from going into overtime. WHA teams play a 10-minute sudden-death overtime period in the advent of a tie.

Derek Sanderson did not play for the Blazers.

Philadelphia General Manager Dave Creighton declared before the game. "We've got too much money invested in Sanderson so we decided not to play him. We have to think about our season."

Sanderson was in Philadelphia Sunday to see the team doctor after his elbow puffed up with fluid. Creighton and player-coach Johnny McKenzie, who is sidelined with a fractured right arm, decided against dressing the team's prize star.

Only about 1,000 spectators turned up at the Sports Palace to watch the exhibition contest, the last to be played by the Blazers in Sherbrooke.

J.C. SUPERSTAR

Red army preparing for war but players hedging

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, executive-director of the National Hockey League Players' Association, hinted Monday a proposed series of three exhibition games by the Red Army team against three NHL teams in January may not get players' approval.

"After what happened in Russia they may not decide it is worthwhile," Eagleson said Monday when asked about a report the Soviet Army team was negotiating exhibition game in January with the Stanley Cup Boston Bruins, New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks.

Eagleson, who said the series was worked out by Chicago president Clarence Campbell during Team Canada's recent visit to Moscow, said the exhibitions need the association's approval.

"As of right now there is no indication we will approve the series, so they're whistling past the graveyard." He said it would be up to the players whether the series goes on.

IT'S NOT FINAL
Earlier in the day, Brian O'Neill, the NHL's executive-director, said in Montreal "to my knowledge" the agreement to allow the series had not been concluded.

"I was asked to look at potential dates and Jan. 16 was one of several submitted. But there's still a lot of work to do before it becomes fact."

"I think the potential date has leaked out and accepted as fait accompli."

O'Neill said the visit of the Soviet team to North America still must go before the NHL's board of governors at its next meeting in Miami on Oct. 30 for ratification.

Eagleson said he will attend the meetings, following which he will take a phone vote of player's representatives of each of the 16 NHL teams.

HEADWAY REPORTED
He said that in a phone conversation with Boston's Charles Mulcahy last week, the owners' representative told him the owners had made "some headway" in their arrangements with the Russians.

"But, added Eagleson, "everything is subject to our (NHLPA) approval."

NHL vice-president Don Ruck said in New York the announcement from Boston of the series opener, Jan. 16, was "a rumor that is terribly premature right now."

He confirmed, however, the Soviets had "requested the scheduling of three or four games in North America in the latter part of January" but that details involving arenas or travel dates for NHL teams had not been worked out.

Sherbrooke wins, loses, in Junior action

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Cornwall Royals and Quebec Remparts are in a familiar position — fighting for first-place honors in the Quebec Junior A Hockey League standings after a week of action in the circuit.

The Royals, defending Canadian junior hockey champions and holders of the Memorial Cup, remained deadlocked with the Remparts, the 1970-71 Memorial Cup champions, with a 6-4 win over Shawinigan Bruins Sunday night.

In other games, Quebec clipped the Montreal Red, White and Blue 8-3, Sherbrooke

Beavers edged Sorel Black Hawks 5-4, and Laval Nationals dumped Trois-Rivieres Ducs 5-2.

Both Quebec and Cornwall are undefeated in four games and have a four-point lead over Laval and Shawinigan.

Renaud Perron scored two goals and assisted on Francois Rochon's game winner as Sherbrooke held off the Black Hawks. Dave Dussault and Marior Desjardins were the other Beavers marksmen while Denis Desgagne, Carlo Torresan, Jacques Cossette and Michel Deziel scored for Sorel.

In Monday night's only game, Sherbrooke crashed 9-4 to Laval.

Marcel Lapierre fired two goals for the Nationals while Denis Martel, Gilles Therrien, Jean Trottier, Andre Therreault, Mike Haramis, Robert Sirois and Marcel Dumais had one each.

West Wiseman, Renaud Perron, Dave Dussault and Sylvain Parent replied for Sherbrooke who were outshot 40-35.

The league resumes action on three fronts tonight with Montreal travelling to Cornwall, Ont., to play the Royals, Sorel visiting Trois-Rivieres and Shawinigan playing in Quebec City.

Sharks still biting, getting hooked

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Los Angeles Sharks, heavily penalized in their World Hockey Association exhibition games, continued the trend Monday night in Regina and it paid off handsomely for Alberta Oilers.

The Sharks, laboring under manpower disadvantages most of the night, lost a 4-0 game to the Oilers who got shutout goaltending from Ken Brown and two goals from Bill Hicke.

In other games Monday, Ryan Campbell's power-play goal at Sherbrooke gave Philadelphia Blazers a 3-2 win over Quebec les Nordiques and Minnesota Fighting Saints hammered Chicago Cougars 6-3 at Duluth, Minn.

Winnipeg Jets edged Los Angeles 6-5 on Chris Bortolozzo's second goal of the game Sunday while Houston Aeros thumped the Saints 8-1 and New England Whalers dined New York Raiders 4-2.

In exhibition play Saturday, Chicago ripped Minnesota 5-1, the Sharks dropped a 4-1 score to Alberta, New England edged the Bench sees red following perfect peg

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
 CINCINNATI (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates are going to steal a lead from the book of Cincinnati Reds and try to win the National League pennant today with the help of sore-arm pitcher Dock Ellis.

The Pirates, however, hope they have better luck than the Reds.

Cincinnati pinned its hopes Monday on the ailing right arm of Gary Nolan, but the pressure of going all-out against the power-packed Pittsburgh lineup took its toll.

Nolan's arm stiffened in the sixth inning and he left with a one-run lead that the Pirates overcame 3-2 to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five pennant playoff.

"OUT OF GAS"

"I went as hard as I could for as long as I could," said the dejected Nolan, who had pitched 15 innings since the all-star game in July and hadn't completed a contest since shutting out Los Angeles Dodgers 5-0 on June 26. "I just ran out of gas."

Ellis' story is almost a carbon copy. The 27-year-old right-handed pitcher has a chronic elbow condition. He went six innings Sept. 30, and allowed one hit to New York Mets, but it was his first start since Sept. 13.

The Pirates' victory Monday was keyed by outfielder Rennie Stennett and catcher Manny Sanguillen. Relief pitchers Bruce Kison and Dave Giusti came on to check the Reds' big bats after Pittsburgh wiped out a 2-0 Cincinnati lead.

THROW NAILS BENCH

Stennett made the first big play Cincinnati's Johnny Bench tripled leading off the fourth with the Reds already up 2-0.

Pirates' starter Nelson Briles got Tony Perez on a running back-to-the-plate catch by shortstop Gene Alley. He then walked Denis Menke. Cesar Geronimo hit a fly ball to Stennett in left, and the outfielder fired a strike to Sanguillen to nail Bench trying to score after the catch.

"That beat us," said Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson, who still insisted the playoff would go five games. "I thought that was the turning point of the game."

"Our report was that Stennett had a better-than-average arm, but wasn't that accurate."

Pittsburgh manager Bill Virdon agreed with Anderson.

Stennett's throw was the biggest play of the series, "said the Pirates' skipper.

MANNY IN SLUMP

He also had praise for Sanguillen, whom he had benched in Sunday's second game on a hunch that backup catcher Milt May was the guy to play that day. Sanguillen had slumped the last two months of the season, dropping from a .325 average in August to .298.

Stennett's throw seemed to fire the Pirates. A half-inning later, Sanguillen engaged in a guessing game with Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench. The Pirates catcher guessed right. He figured Nolan would throw him fastballs and he socked one over the left-centrefield fence for a home run to make it 2-1.

Bench admitted he had been outgassed.

"I was thinking 'curveball,'" said Bench. "But Gary has a way of getting ready once he knows what he wants to pitch and I went ahead and called for the fastball."

Pittsburgh tied it in the seventh off relievers Pedro Borbon and Clay Carroll when Rich Hebner was hit by a pitch. Sanguillen singled and Gene Alley sacrificed to place runners at second and third. Finch-hitter Vic Davaillo was intentionally walked. Stennett then rapped a run-scoring single.

In the eighth, Willie Stargell walked and Gene Clines went in as a pinch runner. Al Oliver doubled Clines to third and Hebner was purposely passed to load the bases.

Up came Sanguillen again.

He hit a sharp grounder toward the hole between short and third that Cincinnati's Darrell Chaney reached and tried for a second-to-first double play. Sanguillen, however, beat the relay and the winning run scored.

Everyone uptight as Raiders bomb Houston

Hockey battle thickens

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A United States federal judge hinted Monday that professional hockey, unlike pro baseball, may be subject to antitrust laws.

District Court Judge Leon Higginbotham told lawyers arguing player contract disputes between the National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association: "Gentlemen, you can be sure that I'm going to rule that hockey is not immune from anti-trust regulations."

The fledgling WHA and its Philadelphia team the Blazers, are charging that the NHL has an illegal monopoly in professional hockey, and that the reserve clauses of NHL contracts perpetually prohibit players from negotiating outside the league.

In countersuits, the NHL and several of its teams claim star players violated their contracts by signing lucrative agreements to play in the new WHA.

All the major hockey suits have been consolidated and sent to Philadelphia for hearings before Judge Higginbotham.

Riders lick Stamps, post convincing win

By IAN MacLAINE
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

For a team that had just drubbed the defending national champions, Ottawa Rough Riders showed more concern Monday about their future.

The Riders romped over Calgary Stampeders 45-30 in a Canadian Football League interlocking game in Ottawa to reclaim a share of first place in the Eastern Football Conference with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

It's those same Tigers, who administered an earlier beating, who have the Ottawa players worried.

Their dressing room after the Calgary game took on an atmosphere of deep concern, rather than one of expected jubilation after their convincing win that regained a share of top spot.

"RIDERS 'PSYCHED'"

"They've got us super-psyched and we've got to take away their big plays to stop them," admitted linebacker Jerry Campbell whose key interception in the first quarter was converted two plays later into Ottawa's first touchdown.

The Riders have won all three meetings with Ottawa this year.

PADEFC LEAD

Cassata passed for two more major scores, to Tom Pullen and Gerry Organ, and Art Cantrelle ran 55 yards for another Organ converted the five scores, added three field goals and missed on another field goal attempt that went for a single. He padded his league-leading points total to 109.

Most of the Calgary scoring punch came from its defensive unit. Tackle Fred James and

Esks, Bombers tied

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos used a punishing ground attack and a stiff defence to defeat Winnipeg Blue Bombers 24-15 Monday and move into a first-place tie with the Bombers in the Western Football Conference.

Running behind an offensive line revamped due to injuries, backs Sam Scarber and Roy Bell ran over and around Winnipeg defenders to lead the Eskimos.

The Bombers and the Esks now are tied for top place in the West with identical records of 16 points on eight wins and four losses.

In the second quarter, Bell ran for a touchdown from the four while Scarber bulled over from the three for another. Quarterback Tom Wilkinson hit George McGowan with a 33-yard touchdown pass late in the first

The Stampede, who fought from a 28-0 half-time deficit with 24 points in the third quarter, got two touchdowns from Jesse Mims — held in check by the Riders Monday — and another from Gerry Shaw. Robinson converted the scores and added a 43-yard field goal.

SPARKS ARGOS

The Argos were trailing Montreal 2-0 on wide field goal attempts by Montreal's Don Sweet in the first quarter when quarterback Joe Theismann started moving the Toronto attack.

The offence, sputtering under Wally Gabler, suddenly came alive and Theismann responded with a touchdown strike to Eric Allen. Running back Leon McQuay later dove over for another score.

Ivan MacMillan, who added the converts, hit on two field goal kicks, the first set up by punter Andrusyshyn's 66-yard jaunt after he momentarily lost control of the ball in the Argo end of the field.

Andrusyshyn added a punt single to complete the Argo scoring and Montreal quarterback Sonny Wade accounted for the other A's point with a late-game punt.

The veteran wide receiver made only one reception in the game that gave him a touchdown. He was always a threat in the Calgary secondary where quarterback Chuck Ealey used him primarily as a decoy while directing traffic elsewhere.

Garney Henley and Dave Flemming each scored two touchdowns for the Ticats. Bob Richardson and Lewis Porter added the others. Ian Sunter converted all seven and added a single on a field goal attempt that went wide.

Roller derby arrives

SHERBROOKE (AR) — Roller Derby has come to Canada in a big way and Eastern Townships residents will get the chance of a lifetime when the Ontario Monarchs and the Quebec Fleurs de Lys skate into the Sports Palace tonight, Wednesday and Thursday.

Since 1935 Roller Derby has excited sports fans in the United States to the same degree as football, baseball or basketball. During the '50s, the sport attracted large television audiences.

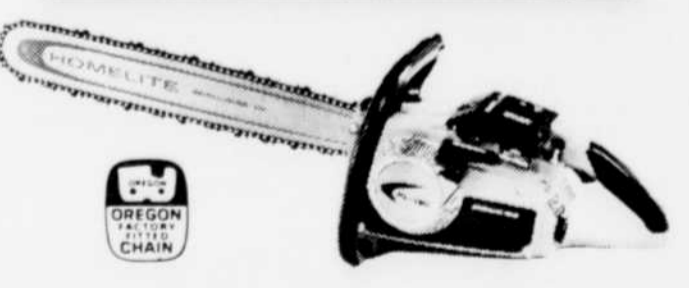

The sport's promoters need not dig too far to prove that roller skate acrobatics are just as popular today as ever before. Last September 20, 50,000 patrons paid $200,000 to see a roller derby match in Chicago.

Presently there are 12 teams in the International Roller Derby League, 10 of them across the border and two in Canada. Promoter Norman Olson told The Record over the weekend that two new Canadian teams will soon be in the thick of the fray.

The two Canadian teams will be touring Canada throughout the year as part of the regular roller derby season, playing against such popular American teams as the Texas Outlaws and San Francisco Bay Bombers. Promoter Olson promises that if interest is high in Sherbrooke, regular season encounters will be held at the Sports Palace once a month.

Athletics seek sweep

DETROIT (AP) — Right-hander Joe Coleman had the job of keeping Detroit Tigers' hopes alive as Oakland aimed for a sweep today in baseball's American League playoffs.

The Athletics, who took the first two games in the best-of-five series at Oakland, countered with left-hander Ken Holtzman. An Oakland victory would advance them to the World Series against the National League champion.

The Tigers, facing elimination, remained confident of a comeback.

"If we win tomorrow," said manager Billy Martin at Monday's workout, "we'll win three in a row."

"We've always risen up to the situation before and we can do it again."

Martin and the Tigers got one piece of good news before their workout. They learned that Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris had been suspended from the remainder of the playoffs and fined $500 for hurling his bat at Tiger pitcher Lerrin LaGroy in Sunday's second game.

MARTIN PLEASED

"Good," exclaimed Martin. "That's what he had coming."

Martin had led a Tiger charge out of the dugout after the Athletics' shortstop was hit by a pitch and responded by heaving his bat.

"I can go out and pitch my own ball game," said Coleman, "unlike if Campaneris was out there on the bases."

"Campaneris (and Joe) Rudi are the two keys to their team."

Coleman, like Holtzman, a 19-game winner, said he felt relaxed and confident.

"I felt more pressure in the Boston series than now," he said. "I think I've got my stuff together."

Paul ponders return

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Henderson, absent from the Toronto Maple Leafs lineup since his scoring feats for Team Canada against Russia in September, could be ready to start against Montreal Canadiens here Wednesday night, his lawyer said Monday.

"He'll likely be at Tuesday's practice," Alan Eagleson said. "He's supposed to return to Toronto some time tonight."

Eagleson explained that Henderson has been visiting his mother's home in Lucknow, Ont., since Team Canada returned home. He said Henderson indicated to him during the weekend he wanted to play in Toronto's next National Hockey League game against Montreal.
