

EUROPEAN OUTLOOK IS NOT BRIGHT

Fresh Incidents In Mediterranean Add To British Worries

Russia to Discontinue Payment of Share of Non-Intervention Committee Expenditures Indicating that Soviets Will Abandon Obligations Under Agreement—Little Prospect Held for British Foreign Secretary Arranging a Compromise Formula.

Paris, October 25.—A Havas News Agency dispatch from London today said it was reported there the Soviet delegation to the London Non-Intervention Committee will announce at tomorrow's session that Russia has decided to discontinue payment of its share of the expenses of the Committee.

This, the dispatch said, was viewed as indicating Russia had decided to abandon its obligations under the non-intervention agreement.

NEUTRALITY TALKS FACE COLLAPSE

London, October 25.—Foreign Secretary Eden sought a compromise formula today to save European non-intervention in Spain from collapse, but the outlook was gloomy.

Amid efforts to bring the bickering powers into harmony, two new incidents in the Mediterranean were reported.

The 2,413-ton French freighter Oued Mellah was bombed by an unidentified plane off Barcelona, Spain, yesterday, and abandoned at sea by her crew.

The master of the British liner Kaiser-I-Hind reported by wireless from off the North African coast that a seaplane was seen "dropping two heavy bombs from which columns of water shot up at a great height" as a submarine which "apparently submerged."

The Admiralty first announced a British flying boat was observed dropping bombs "to discover direction of the wind." Later, reiterating denials that a submarine was involved, the Admiralty said the seaplane was engaged in bombing practice.

France and Italy, long at loggerheads in the Non-Intervention Committee, were committed yesterday to policies that may keep them apart in negotiations over the withdrawal of foreign fighters from Spain.

Authoritative Fascist publications in Rome asserted that refusal of the Non-Intervention Committee to accept Italy's figure of 40,000 as the number of Italian troops in Spain would mean the collapse of negotiations.

Premier Camille Chautemps, of France, warned France was determined to defend her interests, by force, if necessary. "Especially in the grievous affair of Spain," he said, "violations of justice cannot be renewed without constraining France and Great Britain to renew their liberty of action."

Well-informed quarters expressed belief that the many-sided situation left Mr. Eden little hope of finding a compromise before the Non-Intervention session tomorrow.

JURY SUMMONED TO HEAR CIVIL SUIT NOVEMBER 2

Court House Officials Announce No Court of King's Bench Term Will Be Held This Fall.

Twenty-eight jurors have been summoned by Sheriff J. P. C. Lemieux for a civil action that is slated to be heard in the local Superior Court on November 2nd, when Alfred Guertette, of this city, will seek to obtain $15,000 damages from Herbert Clark, of Montreal, as the aftermath to an accident that occurred at the intersection of the Montreal and St. Elie d'Orford roads on August 8th last.

The collision between Clark's automobile and a motorcycle operated by Alfred Guertette claimed the life of Jean Baptiste Dumont, of St. Elie d'Orford, who was astride the rear seat of the bike. Napoleon Dumont, of St. Louis du Ha-Ha, Kamouaska District, father of Jean Baptiste, is also suing the Montreal motorist for $10,000 damages for the death of his son. This second case will be heard at a later date.

Sheriff Lemieux and Clerk of the Court Hertz O'Bready stated to a Record representative this morning that they had been notified by the Attorney-General's Department at Quebec that a Court of King's Bench session would not be held this fall. The Court will be opened as customary on November 4th, however. It is probable, if Prosecuting Attorney Antonio Drolez deems wise to do so, that the appeal cases will be heard. These do not require a jury.

JARROW YARD BUSY

Jarrow, England, Oct. 25.—Keels of three warships were laid down almost simultaneously in a Jarrow shipyard.

MOVE TO HALT REPRISALS BY HAITIANS AGAINST DOMINICANS

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Oct. 25.—Haitian authorities acted today to prevent possible reprisals against Dominicans in Port-au-Prince and Cap-Haitien as the result of border fighting.

Reliable reports said at least 300 persons were killed and as many more wounded in fighting on the frontier between Haiti and the Dominican Republic ten days ago.

Most of the casualties were Haitians whose heavy emigration into the Dominican republic was said to have stirred resentment across the border.

BUSY LONDON STATIONS

London, Oct. 25.—More than 7,000 passenger trains arrive and leave London's seven main railway termini every day—an average of five trains a minute.

Tokyo's Apology Considered Inadequate By Great Britain

Britain to Await Report of Special Inquiry into Killing of British Soldier at Shanghai Before Deciding Next Step in Far Eastern Crisis—Events in Far East and Nearer Home Are Causing Greatly Increased Concern.

London, Oct. 25.—Great Britain considers the Japanese apology over the shooting of Private W. McGowan, of the Royal Ulster Rifles, to be inadequate. A full inquiry has been ordered into the incident.

Until this report is received the Government cannot determine the next step. But British troops in Shanghai, in the meantime, have received orders to fire without hesitation in self-defence against aircraft attack.

Events both in the Far East and nearer home create increasing concern. Evidence grows that Italy, Germany and Japan, apparently working in concert, are determined in their policy of expansion.

Italian "concessions" before the Non-Intervention Committee have disappeared. The Committee, with Germany and Italy on the one side and Russia on the other, seems as far from ever from agreement over the withdrawal of volunteers from Spain.

Italian propaganda has stirred the Arabs against Great Britain in the Near East. It is causing trouble for France in French Morocco. The French are worried over their communications with North Africa and turn a troubled eye on the impending fate of Minorca, last outpost of the Valencia Government in the Balearics.

Criticism of what it termed Great Britain's lack of decision grows among members of the French Popular Front. Its left-wing sections, particularly, see in the delays in the Non-Intervention Committee only the means of assuring for General Franco victory in Spain.

JEAN BATTEN SET A NEW DISTANCE MARK

London, Oct. 25.—The aviation world pulsed today with praise of Jean Batten, daring New Zealand distance flier, as the twenty-seven year old pilot rested from a record-smashing flight from Australia to England.

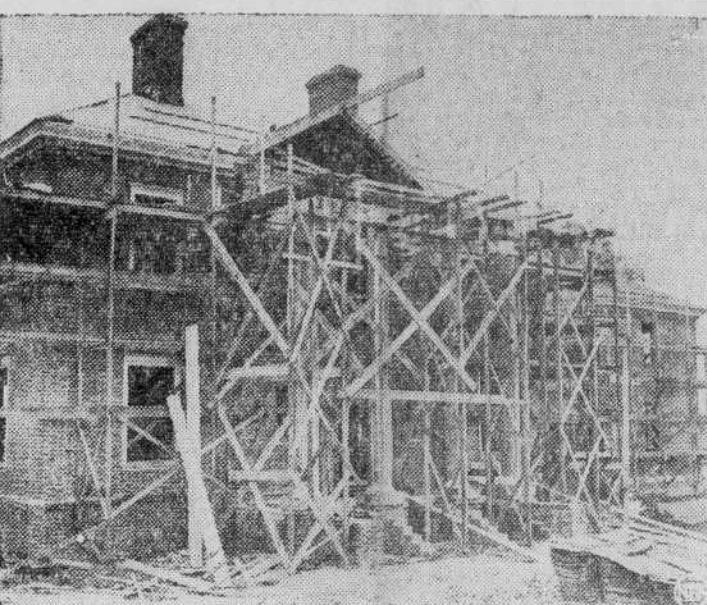

She dropped her little silver monoplane down on Lympne Airport yesterday afternoon exactly five days, eighteen hours, fifteen minutes after leaving Port Darwin in Northern Australia.

Her time was sixteen hours and forty minutes better than the previous record set last May by H. L. Broadbent, Australian aviator who took six days, ten hours, fifty-five minutes for the same journey.

Miss Batten faced a severe storm for the last stage of the journey from Marseille, France, and was nearly exhausted when, after a brief stop at Lympne, she came on to Croydon where 10,000 gathered to welcome her.

She was carried from the field, her legs stiff with cramp and her face tired and near tears. Friends took her to a London hotel for a long rest.

POINTED OUT AS WINDSOR'S U. S. HOME

The speed made in restoration of the old Governor Pava Mansion on the Wye Island estate of Wellesley Stillwell in Chesapeake Bay is accepted by many observers in the vicinity as an added indication that it will become the American home of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. Though scaffolding stills the front above, little more work is required to put the structure in livable condition.

ANOTHER "PIRATICAL" ATTACK AGAINST FRENCH SHIPS

Port Mahon, Minorca, Oct. 25.—An unidentified seaplane today bombed and set afire the French submarine chaser No. 91 in the western Mediterranean off this Spanish Government held port. It was the third "piratical" attack against a French ship in three days.

Another ship, a repair boat of the Air France Company, was also bombed in the vicinity today. A fire started aboard the ship but no casualties were reported.

CANON OPENED NEW SPAN OVER BLACK RIVER

Gingras Bridge, Modern Cement Structure Crossing Black River Near Ste. Cecile de Milton, Opened and Blessed in Impressive Ceremonies.

Granby, Oct. 25.—With fully three-quarters of the population of the village of Ste. Cecile de Milton, eight miles north of here, assembled to celebrate the new facilities supplied by the structure, the recently built Gingras Bridge was officially opened and blessed yesterday afternoon. Two miles west of Milton, the new cement span crosses the Black River, replacing an old wooden bridge which was built over fifty years ago, and is named after one of the district's oldest families.

Following the opening and blessing ceremonies, conducted by the Rev. Canon Desmarais, parish priest of Ste. Cecile de Milton, guests from many ranks of life in this section of the Eastern Townships gave short addresses of congratulation on the recent enterprise of the Town Council of Milton.

Rev. Canon Desmarais, who replaced Bishop F. Z. Decelles, of Ste. Hyacinthe, delivered the special service in the open air, warmly commending those responsible for the erection of the new bridge and speaking briefly on the pioneers of the Milton Township.

Britain Orders Drastic Action Against Further Aerial Raids On Troops

All Defence Posts Ordered to Fire Without Hesitation in Self-Defence Against Any Airplanes—Japanese Tender Formal Apologies for Killing British Soldier—Strengthened Chinese Army Halts Juggernaut Advance.

Shanghai, October 25.—General Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese troops stopped the Japanese juggernaut offensive today after six days and nights of heavy fighting on the Shanghai front.

The Japanese army spokesman admitted that the general Japanese advance of "more than 100,000 men" aided by tanks, planes, and continued bombardments was "slowed down."

Destruction of bridges, mining of highways, and acres of barbed-wire entanglements halted the Japanese assault.

British authorities, as an aftermath of the slaying of a British soldier by a Japanese warplane yesterday, issued orders to all their defence posts to fire without hesitation in self-defence against any airplanes.

Simultaneously, British officials lodged two protests on the incident. Seven Americans and about a score of other foreigners were endangered yesterday when a Japanese plane sprayed machine-gun bullets near the western edge of the International Settlement.

Bitter fighting amid the ruins of Tazang, strategic communication point about five miles north of Shanghai, still was in progress. Japanese asserted they had occupied villages west of Tazang.

Japanese succeeded in crossing Tsaoatang (Trotting Pony) Creek after costly hand-to-hand fighting and dug in on the south bank in the face of reinforced Chinese resistance.

Foreign military experts said they believe the Japanese will take a breathing spell to bring up heavy artillery with which to attempt a new drive toward Nanzhang, well to the rear of the Chinese lines.

The experts said they considered Chinese defending Kiangwan, north-west of Shanghai, in a dangerous position because of the possibility of their being cut off by a Japanese advance on Nanzhang.

Informed observers estimated that 160,000 Japanese with superior mechanized equipment, planes and warships were engaged against 300,000 Chinese.

After Japanese warships bombarded the Kiangwan race course with considerable damage to the clubhouse and grandstands, Japanese infantry advanced from the civic centre and asserted they occupied territory on each side.

Naval Spokesman Claims Victories

The Japanese naval spokesman asserted Chinese still were falling back in the vicinity of Nanzhang, while Japanese airplanes strafed them from the air.

Japanese Threatening Direct Measures Against Communists

Former Japanese Minister of War Declares Japan May Be Forced to Strike "Directly" at Russia to Eliminate Communist Influence Which Many Japanese Charge Is Root of Present Turmoil in China.

Tokyo, Oct. 25.—General Sadao Araki declared today that "it probably is necessary to strike directly at Russia" to eliminate the Communist influence which many Japanese claim to be the root of the present turmoil in China.

General Araki, who was Japan's fiery Minister of War during the Manchurian incident of 1932, advocated stern military measures. He castigated Russian Communism.

There are two principal causes of the present Chinese-Japanese conflict, the General told the Associated Press.

"The first comes from Chinese violation of the agreements signed after the 1932 fighting which provided a demilitarized zone about Shanghai," he said. "As soon as possible Chinese built permanent fortifications and moved garrisons into them."

"Beneath this tangible fact lies the invisible influence of Communism," he continued. "Premier Chiang Kai-Shek first used Japanese aid in unifying China. Now he has decided to cast his lot with Communists. He has switched from one to the other several times in the past. Undoubtedly he merely is using Communists now, and when they no longer are available he will turn elsewhere—perhaps to Japan."

"Therefore it probably is necessary for Japan to strike directly against Russia."

Using a lacquer teacup cover as a body and cigarettes radiating in different directions as arms, the General constructed a "Russian octopus."

He touched the teacup and said: "Here's the Third Internationale." (The International Communist organization with headquarters at Moscow.)

He pointed to the cigarettes and said: "Here are China, Japan, India and America." Then he explained: "It will do not good to amputate any single arm. Obviously we must attack the body. Japan is solving her problems in the Far East. America and England should co-operate with Japan in solving the world problem at attacking the heart of the octopus."

GOOD READING ADVOCATED BY MISS M. HALEY

Radio Address Given by Y.W.C.A. Secretary, Contained Valuable Advice Concerning Literature.

"Good reading is the best corrective for the standardization and the short cut tendencies of this highly mechanized age. For good reading enlarges one's acquaintanceship with the lives, natures and wants of other people. It is amazing how one can get out of one's self through books," observed Miss Marjorie Haley, recently appointed secretary of the Sherbrooke branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, in an interesting address, entitled "The Pleasures of Reading," given over the local radio station last night. The broadcast was under the auspices of the Sherbrooke Public Library.

Miss Haley told her listeners that not only do the ideas in books mold the reader's thoughts, but through them the reader lives in an ever-enlarging circle of book friends, gaining an insight into the "best which has been said and thought in the world."

Referring to the urge to travel, the speaker suggested that those who are not in a position to travel by air, train, plane and ship, adopt the "arm chair method"—at home by the fireside with an interesting travel magazine or book. Publications can be easily obtained which relate the experiences of seasoned travellers.

Systematic reading was also advocated by Miss Haley, who suggested the reading of one good book a month on biography, history, music, art, science or travel. By following this plan the reader will have in his mental storehouse at the end of the year twelve good books that are non-fiction.

Taking the words of Milton, "A good book is the precious life blood of a master spirit," Miss Haley showed how, with books, the reader may spend an hour with a statesman and see him through a constitutional campaign; follow a general through a battle; and through the eyes of a secret agent, probe the secrets of nature with the captains of science."

"It does not matter how many books you read, but how many good books you read," declared Miss Haley. "This is the spirit in which books should be approached for they will yield to you who read the experiences of the present, the example of the past and the promise of the future," she concluded.

New B.C. House Faces Lengthy First Session

A report by Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald who investigated the situation in 1934 after coal interests asked protection against roads into their markets made by the sale of petroleum as fuel.

The session also will see creation of a new portfolio of Trade and Industry. The Premier has dropped no hint as to who would be placed in the new cabinet office but has said it "might" be filled by one of the present ministers.

It was considered possible that the legislature might be asked to discuss establishment of a racing commission but what direction such a discussion might take has not been indicated.

While no final action will be taken on either the Yukon annexation or Health Insurance projects—pending the report of the Royal Commission studying Dominion-Provincial relations—both probably will come up for discussion.

Observers believed the Health Insurance Commission, established during the last session, might be asked to continue its study of the project which was endorsed in principle by a plebiscite held simultaneously with the last elections.

The plebiscite called after a compulsory Health Insurance Act, brought out by the last house, snagged upon opposition from the medical profession and other sources on the eve of its implementation. It was never brought into effect.

The Yukon annexation scheme still is subject of negotiations between the Dominion and the Province. In an event definite action would await the report of the Royal Commission on inter-governmental affairs.

Premier Pattullo's Government comes to its new legislature faced with a new opposition. The Social Constructives, a section of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation group which broke away under the leadership of Rev. Robert Connell and formed the opposition during the last part of the last legislature, was wiped out in the last elections.

The Conservatives with eight members—one more than the C.C.F.—under leadership of Dr. Lyle Telford—will file into the opposition benches behind their leader Dr. Frank Patterson. One laborer and one independent also will occupy opposition seats in the 48-member house.

A few Sneakers, Norman W. Whitaker, will occupy the Speaker's chair for the first time. He succeeds H. G. T. Perry, of Fort George, who resigned that office after the last session.

Gordon Sylvester Wismer, of Vancouver, will have his first session as Attorney General. Elected at the polls, he takes the portfolio of the hands of the Premier who took it on after the former incumbent, Gordon Sloan, was elevated to the Appeal Court Bench.

IMPRESSIVE CELEBRATIONS OVER WEEK-END

Trinity Church Marks Half Century Of Work

Large Congregations Present at Fiftieth Anniversary Services Yesterday—Special Music and Impressive Sermons.

With the vigorous challenge of their pastor, Rev. Fred Williams, to carry on the battle for the real triumph of Christianity in the world of today, members of Trinity United Church congregation yesterday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the dedication of the present church at the corner of William and Court streets.

Mr. Williams, who was the preacher at both services was assisted at the morning devotion by Rev. G. Elery Read D.D., pastor emeritus of Plymouth United Church, while in the evening the congregation was swelled by the adherents of Plymouth Church and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, whose services had been withdrawn. Rev. J. R. Graham, M.A., B.D., minister of St. Andrew's read the lesson and Rev. F. A. C. Dosses, B.A., minister of Plymouth, led in prayer.

In the morning Mr. Williams took "A Salute to Yesterday—The Path of the Pioneers" as the subject of his sermon and reviewed the early establishment of Methodism in Sherbrooke nearly a century ago by a small band of pioneers. Despite the many difficulties which this band faced the pioneer community, consistent progress was made and twice the congregation was forced to vacate its property and seek larger quarters. These noble people had left a definite heritage, he continued, and it was up to the present generation to carry on the fight against the forces of mass materialism.

The theme was continued at the evening service, the sermon subject being: "A Challenge to Tomorrow—The Old Time Religion, is it Good Enough for 1937?"

The musical portion of the morning service was supplemented by a vocal solo by Mrs. J. Mackie, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and an anthem by the choir under Prof. R. Howard, "Worthy is the Lord" (Handel).

The organ offertory was "The Chambered Nautilus" (Stewart), the organist being Miss Bertha Allen, L. Mus., who gave "Adagio" (Stanley) as a prelude and the "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel) as a postlude.

An impressive feature of the morning service occurred when, at the suggestion of Mr. Williams, the congregation stood in silence to honor the memory of the Sherbrooke residents who lost their lives in the Grand Central Hotel fire last Monday morning.

Following the announcement period in the morning service, Dr. Read, who acted as relieving minister at Trinity during the summer months, brought a message of goodwill from the Plymouth congregation, stressing the friendly relations that had always prevailed between the different denominations during the thirty-two years of his ministry in Sherbrooke. Letters of congratulations were also read from the Moderator of the United Church of Canada and from all the living former ministers of the congregation.

The evening service opened with the organ prelude "Benedictus" (Schubert), and the postlude "Procession" (Grimm) closed the service. The soloist, Mrs. J. Mackie, sang "Beneath the Dawn" and the anthem, "Softly Now the Light of Day" (Heine) was given by the choir. During the offertory the organist rendered "Offertory" (Dubois).

The public celebrations continue this evening with a turkey banquet followed by a public meeting at which addresses will be given by His Worship Mayor Emile Rioux, Rev. Canon J. C. McGee, of St. Patrick's Church, Hon. J. S. Bourque and Charles B. Howard, M.P., while the musical portion will be featured by vocal solos by Mr. Ernest M. Armistead and others.

On Wednesday evening, the golden jubilee concert will be given in Wesley Hall, the soloists including Miss Kathleen Shea, Mrs. J. Mackie and Miss Doris Campbell. The Junior Choir will also play an important part in this musical festival. The celebration concludes next Sunday evening with a unique platform service, at which some of the early members of the church will recount the problems the congregation of half a century ago had to face.

"In all my years in the ministry, this is the greatest tribute to a young man I have ever seen," said Rev. J. R. Graham, M.A., B.D., in addressing the hundreds of friends and sympathizers who crowded St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon in tribute to Lancelot Stewart, Sherbrooke boy who lost his life in the Grand Central Hotel fire last Monday morning. Every available seat in the church was taken, besides extra chairs which were placed in the aisles, and many were unable to gain entrance to the church. Persons from all walks of life who had been won by Lancelot Stewart's winning personality and ever-present smile were present.

An orchestra composed of Norman Goff, Granville Goff, Lloyd Dods, Bud Cook and Harold Knapp, members of Rolfe Badger's orchestra in which the deceased gave sterling service for several years, combined with Ted Croft, Rodney Sterling, Henry Harris, John McNally, Wallace Gailick, Paul Sylvestre and Angus Smith, of Gize Gagnon's orchestra, in playing the hymns "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Rock of Ages." Leonard MacIver, another member of Badger's orchestra, conducted the musicians, who also accompanied Mrs. E. McLaughlan and Miss Ruby Mercereau as they sang one of Lancelot Stewart's favorite hymns, "The Old Rugged Cross."

Among the numerous beautiful floral offerings was a design of white and red roses in the shape of a drum, a tribute from his fellow bandmen recalling "Lance's" many years of valuable service as a drummer.

With the exception of Ozzie Lewis, former leader of the Mayfair orchestra, who came from Montreal to attend the service, the bearers were all members of the orchestra in which Lancelot Stewart had been featured. They were Roland Badger, Lindsay Woodward, Allan Wark, Lloyd Dods and Raymond McHarg.

The pallbearers, all intimate friends of the deceased, were chosen from the various local orchestras. They were Leonard MacIver, Bud Cook, Harold Knapp, Norman Goff, Granville Goff, Leon Eichenberg, W. White, Henry Harris, Lloyd Hayes, Gerard Gagnon, Rufus Stafford, Noble Smith, John McNally, Ray Woodward, Arthur McHarg, Sam Leavitt, Joseph Setiano, Louis Carver, Wallace Gailick, Guy Boisvert, Fred Poole, John Northey, Thomas Coley, Ted Croft, Rodney Sterling, Clifford Woodward, Angus Smith, Paul Sylvestre, Bud Harris and Mozart Vallee.

Referring to the disastrous fire which had claimed five lives, Rev. Graham observed that the sacrifice of this young man was in the nature of a protection offered to the community in general and it was to be hoped that the catastrophe would result in more drastic supervision of buildings and the erection of structures which would be as fireproof as possible. Rev. Graham also paid tribute to "Lance," as he was known to hundreds, for his courage and cheerfulness under all conditions. Although physically handicapped as the result of an accident a few years ago, he never lost his courage or his smile. "Lance" was liked by so many because he was so likeable," said Rev. Graham. Rev. Robert Robertson assisted in the service.

The mourners were his mother, Mrs. James Stewart, of Montreal, three sisters, Mrs. Rena Geddies, of Montreal, Mrs. Leslie Price, of Sherbrooke, and Mrs. Maude Peterson, of Toronto; his fiancée, Miss Joyce Smith, of Sherbrooke; his only brother, Ashford Stewart, of Sherbrooke; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ashford Stewart; a brother-in-law, Leslie Price; and Mrs. James Honey, of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Bouchard, of Sherbrooke, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stewart, and Mrs. N. Jackaberry, of Montreal, aunts and uncles.

The remains were laid to rest in Elmwood Cemetery.

At the coronation of King George VI, when the sovereign was given a copy of the Bible, these words were repeated by the Archbishop of Canterbury, "Our gracious King, we present you with this book, the most valuable thing this world affords; here is wisdom; this is the Royal Law; this is the lively oracles of God." The speaker reminded the congregation of the great blessing the Bible has been to the British Empire and to the world. "King George V in his youth made a resolution that he would read a chapter of the Bible each day, and his resolution was conscientiously kept throughout his life. He came to the throne in a critical time, yet he grew in power, influence, and in the love of his people, and when statesmen were worried, this quiet, steady man, with his persevering and great faith, held them to their tasks," said the speaker. "For he was, day by day, reading God's Book and listening for His will, and was therefore given the assistance which he needed. At one time, he said, 'I have said, "The distribution of the Scriptures has done more perhaps than anything else for the morals of the people."'

STRESSED GREAT VALUE OF BIBLE TO THE WORLD

Interesting Sermons Delivered in Lennoxville Churches—King George V Read a Chapter of Book of God Every Day.

Members of the congregation of the Lennoxville United Church last evening listened with keen interest to a splendid address by Rev. James Adams, B.A., B.T.H., secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, who stated, "I have only been in this work between two and three years, but the longer I stay in it, the more I realize its vastness." Continuing, Rev. Mr. Adams said: "Were I to choose a text tonight, I would turn to the thirty-first verse of the 37th Psalm, 'The law of his God is in his heart, none of his steps shall slide.'"

At the coronation of King George VI, when the sovereign was given a copy of the Bible, these words were repeated by the Archbishop of Canterbury, "Our gracious King, we present you with this book, the most valuable thing this world affords; here is wisdom; this is the Royal Law; this is the lively oracles of God." The speaker reminded the congregation of the great blessing the Bible has been to the British Empire and to the world. "King George V in his youth made a resolution that he would read a chapter of the Bible each day, and his resolution was conscientiously kept throughout his life. He came to the throne in a critical time, yet he grew in power, influence, and in the love of his people, and when statesmen were worried, this quiet, steady man, with his persevering and great faith, held them to their tasks," said the speaker. "For he was, day by day, reading God's Book and listening for His will, and was therefore given the assistance which he needed. At one time, he said, 'I have said, "The distribution of the Scriptures has done more perhaps than anything else for the morals of the people."'

"When asked what the secret of the British Empire's greatness was, Queen Victoria handed a Bible to the enquirer. Former Premier Stanley Baldwin has also been heard to say, 'So much of our time we seem to be drifting into fog, and nothing but light from the Bible can dispel the darkness; it was because the law of God was in his heart that his steps did not slide when he was called upon in a critical time. But aside from these testimonials, it is because we know personally the value of the Bible that we want to bring it to many times to such persons as we are here tonight. The Bible brings comfort in sorrow, help when nothing else in life can bring help, but above all, it brings us Jesus Christ, the beauty of the life He lived, the words He spoke, His suffering for us, and His resurrection for us to worship a living Christ, not a dead one. This book brings us all we need in life. It is the foundation of our Christian life and hope," stated Rev. Adams.

The speaker stated that he has no right to withhold the Bible from anyone. The least we can do, he maintained, is to let them read it for themselves. "In the past few years I have read more Scriptures distributed in China than in any other country," he said, "and in war-torn Spain, even in Madrid, in spite of the conditions that exist there, we are still distributing Bibles."

The speaker was introduced and thanked by Rev. F. R. Matthews. The beautiful anthem, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," was sung by the choir under the direction of the organist, Mrs. F. S. Brown, with a bass solo part by Charles Greenfield.

At the morning service, Rev. F. R. Matthews preached a fine sermon from the subject, "The Undying Fire," and the anthem, "Rejoice, the Lord Is King." Cowper, with a soprano solo part by Miss Maud Cole and a bass solo part by Charles Greenfield, was sung by the choir.

The beautiful flowers on the communion table were the gift of Mr. H. L. M. Vaudrey.

PAIN WARNS US OF DANGER

The twenty-second verse of the eighth chapter of St. Paul to the Romans, "For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now," formed the basis of Venerable Archdeacon Albert Jones' sermon to his congregation at St. George's Church on Sunday morning. To the question which is so often asked: "Why does God let us suffer?" the rector told his congregation that "Pain is a most important part to play in our lives against danger."

The beautiful flowers on the communion table were the gift of Mr. H. L. M. Vaudrey.

DEATH TOLL IN HOTEL TRAGEDY REACHES FIVE

J. Raoul Dion, Grand Central Hotel Employee, Succumbed to Injuries in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital Saturday Afternoon.

The death toll in the tragic Grand Central Hotel fire was increased to five on Saturday afternoon when J. Raoul Dion, fifty-five year old bachelor and bartender at the ill-fated hostelry, succumbed to his burns in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

Dion was known to have been in failing health before the fire and the nervous shock that accompanied the severe burns he received in escaping from the blazing building early last Monday morning proved too much for his frail constitution and he died at three o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The other four victims claimed in the worst conflagration in the history of Sherbrooke were Stewart Grose, Oswald Charlewood, Lancelot Stewart and Robert Cooper. The first three were trapped in the building, while Cooper, who dropped from the ledge above the third storey windows to the pavement, died in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

Medical attendants at the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital this morning reported the condition of Armand Filion, local telegraph operator, as satisfactory, while Mrs. Clovis Lacroix, of this city and Mrs. Victoria Robins, of Portland, Maine, are progressing favorably.

An improvement was also noted today in the condition of Miss Alma Hudon, of Sherbrooke, who was severely injured when she jumped from a second storey window into a fireman's net. Miss Hudon is confined to the Sherbrooke Hospital.

Dion, who had been bartender at the Grand Central Hotel for many years, had planned to retire in the near future. His funeral was held this morning from the hospital to the Compton Catholic Church, with interment in the Compton Cemetery.

est pleasure is not that which we seek in itself. It is the pleasure which comes from the doing, and not in the result, that gives satisfaction. A man may even welcome pain if it gives him the opportunity of showing a deep feeling or devotion for that which he is fighting for. Therefore, the thing which brings us the greatest pleasure is that which brings us self-sacrifice. This was true of Our Lord. His happiness was gained through toil, labour and suffering. Pain also gives an opportunity to offer sympathy and help."

In conclusion, the rector said: "God does not want us to suffer. He would rather we did so if we are enabled thereby to find ourselves. If the meaning of pain is something far-reaching, we must not expect to fathom it in a moment, or in a lifetime, and even if we can't fathom all its meaning we can see that it has a meaning."

In the evening the rector spoke on "The Wondrous Works of God." The music was under the direction of the organist, Mrs. A. Jones.

Canadian Exports.

Canada led the world last year in exports of wheat, newsprint paper and asbestos. In shipments of wheat flour the Dominion stood second, being exceeded by Australia only. Canada ranked third in exports of automobiles, and fourth in exports of rubber tires and wood pulp. The Dominion also ranks high in the world's exports of many other products, such as lumber and timber, fish, copper, barley, cheese, raw furs, whiskey, meats, farm implements, cattle, gold, silver, rye, oats, rubber footwear, leather and hides.

Canada has held first place in exports of wheat in four out of the last five years. The margin last year was very high. According to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, exports of wheat from Canada in the calendar year 1936 totalled 243,042,000 bushels. Australia came second that year with 12,050,000 bushels; followed by the Argentine at 59,171,000 bushels and Hungary at 20,981,000 bushels. In 1935 Canada came first with 165,673,000 bushels with the Argentine second at 141,831,000 bushels.

In exports of wheat flour Australia has held first position steadily during the last five years. Canada has held second place in four out of the five years. Shipments of wheat flour from Australia in 1936 totalled 3,736,000 barrels, while exports from Canada were 4,850,000 barrels. The United States stood third last year at 3,660,000 with Japan fourth at 1,438,000 barrels. In 1935 Australian exports of wheat flour amounted to 6,993,000 barrels and Canada came second at 4,881,000 barrels.

Sweden has led the world in exports of wood pulp during the last three years, and Canada has been fourth in each of these years. Exports of wood pulp from Sweden in 1936 totalled 3,695,774,000 pounds. Finland came second at 2,994,246,000 pounds, and was followed by Norway at 1,943,231,000, Canada 1,508,993,000, Germany 1,499,774,000 and the United States 1,386,970,000 pounds. Shipments from Sweden, Finland and Canada were mainly in the form of chemical pulp, as were also those of Germany and the United States. Exports from Norway were predominantly mechanical pulp.

Canada's exports of newsprint are larger than those of the rest of the world combined. In the calendar year 1936 exports of newsprint paper from Canada totalled 5,986,478,000 pounds and Finland came second at 754,063,000 pounds. Newfoundland held third place at 625,758,000 pounds, and was followed by Sweden 397,007,000, Germany 367,841,000, Norway 341,113,000, United Kingdom 172,364,000, Austria 83,338,000, Japan 80,406,000 and United States 29,147,000 pounds. In 1935 Canadian exports amounted to 5,149,974,000 pounds and Finland stood second at 618,132,000 pounds.

Tranquil They Lie.

One week ago today Sherbrooke experienced the worst tragedy in its history. One week ago today fire swept through the Grand Central Hotel claiming the lives of four of Sherbrooke's younger citizens.

Throughout the past week the grief-stricken citizens of this city kept watch as the debris and wreckage was combed for bodies. One by one they were secured.

And then came the sad farewell. Four funerals in as many days. First it was to Robert Cooper that a tribute of a sorrowing community was paid. The following afternoon relatives and friends assembled to pay their respects to the memory of Oswald Charlowood.

On Saturday afternoon a sorrowing people filled Trinity United Church to say farewell to Stewart Grose and to accompany his mortal remains to Elmwood cemetery, where they were laid to rest beside those of his life-long friend, Robert Cooper.

Yesterday afternoon many of the same people joined with the family of Lancelot Stewart in honoring his name and memory as his remains were laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery but a short distance from the other two flower-covered graves.

Now they have been committed to their eternal rest. In the minds of the citizens there lingers the memory of four sterling youths whose lives were a credit to the community.

There also dwells in our memory today the message delivered at the funeral yesterday of Lancelot Stewart by Rev. J. R. Graham, who stressed the fact that their deaths would not have been in vain if the community saw to it that fire hazards were removed and homes, offices and public buildings made safe.

Today we go about the routine business of another day. There is a vacancy in the community. Four familiar faces are gone. Four fine young men will never walk these streets again, will never meet their friends in this world. Four smiling faces are gone, but death cannot rob their friends of the memory of these lads.

They rest in peace. Seasons will come and go. Others will carry on their work, but their memory remains. To their last resting places they have been committed. May God accept them and Christ receive them.

St. Peter's Thankoffering Campaign Launched.

Today marks the formal launching of the $3,000 Thankoffering campaign by the members of St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, the object of which is to place this church completely out of debt.

On November 21st, St. Peter's Church will observe its 115th anniversary and it is the hope of those in charge of the campaign that the objective will be more than realized so that the work of the church may continue uninterrupted.

It is interesting to note that since 1929 St. Peter's Church alone has paid out $18,808.26 in various forms of relief. Of this amount, $7,006.34 was given to the sick, poor and unemployed for food, fuel, clothing, medicines and rent. The Church also contributed $430 to Western relief during 1933 and 1936. A total of $1,923.15 was contributed to the Restoration Fund of the whole church for lost endowments of missionary dioceses, and $9,148.87 went to missions in Canada, Japan and China, and to educational and medical work.

This is a record of service which the congregation of St. Peter's may well feel proud.

And now goes the appeal for assistance to the church itself. In spite of the years of the depression, the people of St. Peter's have every reason to feel grateful to God for His blessings. For nearly one hundred and fifteen years this Church has been privileged to labor for the Master and to spread His Gospel.

That the appeal for the present campaign will not go unheeded is assured. The people take a pride in their Church and have always hearkened to its appeal.

Thirty-five canvassers will interview only the members of the congregation and it is essential that the response will be generous. Rev. Cecil King, curate of St. Peter's Church, is general chairman of the campaign, with Guy Bishop acting as chairman of the Finance Committee.

The people of St. Peter's Church realize the urgency of the present appeal and there is no doubt of the successful outcome of the campaign.

It will be gratifying to every member of the campaign to enter into the 115th Anniversary services, which will be graced by the presence of the Primate of all Canada, with the knowledge that their Church is free of debt and in a strong position, spiritually and financially, to carry on its great work in the Master's vineyard.

A FATHER'S LOVE.

The sunlight of a father's love
Sweet memories recalling,
The golden blissful hours of youth,
With solitude entrancing.

A character simple and so grand,
A heart so kind and gentle
A mind alert, a ready hand,
For tasks both hard and simple.

A reunion sweet, with such love complete
From life's cares and stress shielding ever,
With God's guiding hand,
To meet in a land,

Where eternally naught can sever.

No Man Is Ruined Until He Has Lost Courage.

(By Lowell Thomas in "Your Life")

Though I have already written and talked much in many places about Lawrence of Arabia I'm not going to apologize for beginning with him as an illustration of this theme. He was the greatest man I have ever known. Volumes have been printed about his intelligence, his pliability, his genius. But he never would have been Lawrence of Arabia without a courage well-nigh incredible. He was not only the greatest man I have ever encountered but also the most courageous.

It was all the more extraordinary when you consider the man's personality. In appearance he was the last man you would ever expect to find engaged keenly and eagerly in warfare. Small of stature, apparently not actually frail, studiously sensitive, retiring, an artist by temperament, you would have said his place was in the library writing scholarly but fascinating recreation of past civilizations. Instead, when opportunity came, he deliberately applied all his gifts of intellect and spirit to most arduous fighting.

What but the most dauntless courage enabled him to put over his ideas for the campaign in the desert in the teeth of the scowling objections of regular British Army officers? They resented him in the first place because he was totally unorthodox and unlike them. They resented still more, and quite understandably, being taught their business by a second-lieutenant. (As Bernard Shaw says they made him a colonel because it was obviously intolerable to be ordered about by a nobody.)

It was nothing but sheer spiritual courage that enabled him to out-ride, out-walk, outlast strong Arabs in their own deserts.

The Arab revolt was threatened at one crucial juncture because the Arabian leader, Feisal himself, grew faint-hearted and was on the verge of compromising with the Turks. It was the slim young English archaeologist from Oxford who talked him around and reinvigorated the princely Son of the Desert with his own courage.

Here, to my mind, was Lawrence's outstanding demonstration of that superlative quality. It was necessary to find out all about the course there was a price on his head. In ragged peasant clothes he went inside the Turkish lines, saw what he wanted to see and suddenly was arrested. They didn't recognize him and he explained his white skin by pretending to be a Circassian. Now some Turkish officers were nothing short of bestial. Lawrence was subjected to unprintable tortures. Beaten until senseless he was thrown into the hospital, whence he contrived to escape when he recovered consciousness.

After he died his friends said that he never entirely got over the horror of that experience. Nevertheless some months later he disguised himself as a gypsy woman, consoling his face in a hood and accompanied another important stroke of espionage. Again, he came within a hair's breadth of suffering the same infamous experience. Only a man of courage beyond words would have made that venture a second time.

"But," you may object, "that was war. One takes courage more or less for granted in soldiers." One shouldn't. Bravery is almost a commonplace in battle. Courage is another and a higher quality.

It is in civil life, in the so-called piping times of peace that the importance of courage as a saleable commodity, becomes prepotent. I'm thinking of such instances as William Wrigley, Jr.

Wherever you go, you can't escape seeing the name of Wrigley in large letters. The Wrigley fortune is among the big ones of America. It was not just once, nor twice but a dozen times that William Wrigley found himself in the condition that most men describe as "ruined." But, as I hope to demonstrate, no man is ruined until he has lost his courage.

After small beginning Wrigley, early in his career accumulated the tidy sum of $100,000. He came East, plunged into an advertising campaign and lost it all.

"Aha!" said his sympathetic "friends" after the immemorial fashion of their kind: "You will, you will!"

"You bet I will," retorted Wrigley and went back to nickel-chasing until he had piled up another $100,000. Again he invested it in advertising, again he was wiped out.

"Now, maybe that will teach you a lesson," said the friends.

"Of course it has taught me a lesson," replied Wrigley. "What we're here for, to learn lessons."

So he repeated and repeated. Each time, as he showed afterwards, he learned something. Finally he licked his problem and Wrigley's product became known, and consumed, in ever wider and wider territory.

In 1907 as the history books recall us, there started the depression precipitated by the "Roosevelt panic." As in the recent years from 1930 to 1934, every advertiser acquired a painful attack of cold feet. "Retrench, retrench!" they screamed.

William Wrigley, Jr., came to New York with $1,500,000 and put it all into the most sensational publicizing campaign the seven Americas had ever seen. That hunk of bread thrown upon the waters of a depression came back to him in the shape of millions upon millions of dollars.

"If I were to wake up tomorrow penniless I wouldn't have a single worry," said Wrigley to my friend Merle Crowell.

"What would you do?" asked Crowell.

"Begin to make another ten millions," was the reply. He was well into his fifties when he said it.

In Gloversville, N.Y., there was a young man, brass glove cutter. His name was Samuel Goldfish, which he subsequently changed to Goldfish and later still to Goldwyn. The glove business soon proved to be too small potatoes for him. He became fascinated by the then infant movie industry.

"They can be made fine," he preached in his broken English. Everybody jeered. It was easy to jeer at Sam, whose malapropisms and comic manipulations of the language have become proverbial—with his own help. Woefully few people were able to see genius behind that over-eager young Jewish salesman whose lack of education was equalled only by his pathetic admiration for those who had it.

Only recently the story has been told of his earliest important venture, how he with Jesse Lasky and Cecil De Mille put all they could scrape, beg or borrow into the first filming of a real play and thereby founded the Lasky Pictures Company. The episode, which to my mind showed Sam Goldwyn's most enviable quality, occurred after he had been bought out of the Lasky company for a handsome sum and, without hesitation, risked it all in a new concern, the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation.

It was tough sledding. Goldwyn had to fight Lasky, Zuehl and all the other firms, by that time quite well established. He had spent all his capital and the funds which his partners Edgar and Archie Selwyn and Margaret Mayo, had put in. The banks had shut down on them. Their pictures weren't doing so well. The Selwyns and Miss Mayo had had enough. They decided to get out. They called upon Goldwyn. Goldfish he still was then—and started to work upon him. They found him in bed, racked with pain from neuralgia.

"We've got to quit, Sam," urged one of them.

"I see nodding but roses," replied Sam, a grin emerging painfully through his wincing.

"But we'll be ruined, Sam."

"I see nodding but roses."

And that was all they could get out of him. Goldwyn today, as anybody knows, is acclaimed by everybody but his rivals—and even some of them admit it privately—as the finest producer of pictures in the world.

In 1923, coming down to more recent times, prospects were dismal in the aircraft industry as in almost everything else. But none was weaker than the builders of planes and engines, the youngest and most vulnerable group in all America. Among those with their back to wall, panting, was the Wright Aeronautical Corporation. At the same time there was a crying need for a new and more powerful high speed motor.

"We'll have to play it close to the vest and take no chances," said advisers.

"On the contrary," said Guy Vaughan, president and general manager: "I'm going to put everything into the development of a new motor."

Arguments were long and acrimonious. A cool million was so spent before there finally emerged the now famous Wright Cyclone motor. After hours of tests the fact stood clear. The new engine had 850 horse-power and would stand up under any ordeal.

Still there were anxious months ahead. It's one thing to make a new motor, another to sell it. Upon the outcome depended Guy Vaughan's reputation and future. Not until late in 1933 did the break come: Trans-continental and Western Airlines announced that all their trans-ports were to be equipped with the Wright Cyclone engine. American Airlines followed suit. The victory was complete when K. L. M., the Royal Dutch corporation, bought this American motor and Uncle Sam's Army Air Corps adopted it for their fighting planes. Army aircraft today, of course, have engines with 1,000 horse-power.

There again, I submit, is courage as the most invaluable commodity in our lives.

PRESS COMMENTS

THE WHITE FLAG

(The New Yorker)

There was a brief flurry of excitement at the Gotham Hotel upon receipt of a telephone call from Mr. Henry Dreyfuss, of the twenty-sixth floor, 501 Madison avenue.

Mr. Dreyfuss had just started his morning's dictation when, while trying to crystallize a thought, his eye roved out of the window and he saw what appeared to be a white flag floating from the Gotham's flagpole. He telephoned the hotel, but the girl couldn't give him any explanation at all. Almost immediately afterward Mr. Dreyfuss saw several men hurry across the roof of the Gotham and lower the flag, and a little while later he got a call from the manager of the Gotham.

It was a nightgown, ladies, and the Gotham had no idea in the world how it got up there.

A FALL FAIR STORY

(Fergus News-Record)

There was a certain fall fair where the poultry prizes mostly went to one individual. He did not live in the place, but he would bring in about fifteen kinds of fowl and made a clean-up. The directors decided to do something about it. They passed a new rule that no person could show more than four breeds of poultry. The next year, the same man arrived with his trail full of his fifteen varieties, and went into the office to make his entries. He was told he could only enter four breeds. "That's all right," he said. "Four of them belong to me. The others are for my son, my son-in-law, and my uncle—six breeds in all. Two of them and three for the others." Nothing could be done about it, but the society did collect four memberships from him.

WERE NOT NEWS IN LONDON

(Ottawa Journal)

Some of us thought Ontario's election a pretty big thing. Most of us talked, or thought, or argued that way, anyway. But the rest of the world, apparently, refused to share our feelings. It practically didn't notice us.

There was the British press. There were three big evening papers in London: Evening News, Star, and Evening Standard. The day after Ontario's election only one of these papers carried the results—in one edition. The other two carried none.

Next day the Times had a half column, an editorial, but Lord Beaverbrook's Express, Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail and the Liberal party's News-Chronicle and the Labour party's Herald didn't even notice the event. Lord Camrose's Daily Telegraph told the story in five lines. Even the Manchester Guardian, which notices us occasionally, ignored us this time.

We hear a lot of talk about the need of Empire newspapers carrying Empire news. Well, Canadian newspapers carry a lot of British news, but London newspapers simply will not print Canadian news. If you scan British newspapers you will find lots of news from Rome, Paris, Vienna, Bucharest, Madrid, Constantinople. An Ottawa date line is almost an oddity. Canada is simply not news. Which is odd.

MR. BENNETT AND PATRONAGE

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

According to despatches from Ottawa at the next session of Parliament Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett is going to lead an attack on political patronage. Such attacks are made periodically, and Mr. Bennett, as leader of the Opposition, is in a nice, safe position. At the moment he has no patronage to bestow so he can paint the patronage system as black as he wishes.

MEXICO AIDING MADRID

(Le Nouvelliste, Three Rivers)

President Cardenas has just declared that during the past year Mexico has sent war materials valued at some $2,500,000 to the Spanish Government.

He has added further that Mexico intends to continue aiding the Valencia Government and that the Mexican Government will do all within its power to prevent General Franco from receiving war materials or cargoes of any other kind. The Mexican squadron doubtless intends a blockade of nationalist ports.

PRAISE FOR ABERHART

(L'Action Catholique, Quebec)

We do not extol Social Credit, but we pity those who condemn it without knowing it, thus playing naively the game of the economic dictatorship which they denounce in more or less sterile speeches. All that interests us in the Alberta imbroglio is the spectacle of a government leader who really takes up the fight against big finance. That is interesting because it is so rare. Even if he has many faults, even if he is clumsy, even if he is an opportunist.

Aberhart will have the merit of having given us a greater knowledge of the revolution, the domination of money. If this revolt is not organized in all capitalist countries, the capitalist regime will succumb soon under the weight of its own abuses.

AIR SERVICE IN REMOTE PARTS

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

Not only in the Northwest of Canada is the airplane establishing itself as the only means of transportation. Into the deepest parts of the province, which hitherto were believed inaccessible, the airplane has enabled penetration by the explorer, the prospector and the engineer.

Further, not only are these men and the accountant they need moved by way of air, but heavy merchandise and baggage is also transported. Into the mining district of Chibougamau, for example, great machines needed for the industry were shipped by plane.

The Hudson's Bay Company notes that aviation has done for it in the past three years, and shows pride in the progress of the past few years along the airlines. In another three years what will the air service be like?

For when the word "patronage" is mentioned, these people key in on practical politics, and belong to the same school referred to by Mr. J. M. Macdonnell, who thinks politics is "a dirty game." Many of these people are sincere, but when a politician talks about abolishing patronage we usually figure that he has his tongue in his cheek.

Patronage is always bad when the other fellow is in power. However, Mr. Bennett is going to have a hard time convincing people of his sincerity, for when he was in power he did little, if anything, to abolish patronage. When he was elected in 1930, Hon. Vincent Massey was already appointed High Commissioner to Great Britain. Did Mr. Bennett let him proceed to London? Certainly not. He gave his greatest political blow, he had at his disposal, to his chief-of-staff in the recent election. Hon. Howard Ferguson, and the next best bit of political patronage to his brother-in-law, Hon. W. D. Herdridge.

There is nothing wrong with patronage, when properly administered, except in the eyes of those people who would like positions or government contracts without doing anything for the party. Mr. Bennett, in a burst of evangelical fervor, may disclaim against patronage on the ground, when properly administered, except in the eyes of those people who would like positions or government contracts without doing anything for the party. In The Women's Sphere is always an inspiration to me to see work put on by sisters," he stated, "for they seem to be more proficient and take their work more seriously than members of the subordinate lodge. I have just returned from a Grand Lodge meeting in Maine, and I can report that this year seems to be the stepping stone to greater membership all over the country. Strive for greater membership," he continued, "but be selective. Be certain that the candidates are of the characters that will work for and live by the principles we stand for. Stop and ask yourself if you would care to take them to live with you and see by such means the principles will be demonstrated in the proper manner."

Social and Personal

Glowing candles in a crystal bowl and matching candles in crystal holders formed the effective decorations for the lovely table, which was covered with an exquisite lace cloth.

In conclusion, Brother Tyler said, "Rebekah Oddfellowship is on the threshold of the success it is entitled to. Carry its principles with you and live up to them as an example to those who might later become members. I wish you every success in your future work."

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the Grand Master by Sister Josephine Mead, who called on other Assembly, Grand Lodge and Encampment officers for brief remarks, and all these were listened to with much interest. MARRIAGES

STEWART-GOODWIN
Richmond, Oct. 25.—The marriage of Miss Ruth E. Goodwin, of Alfred, Me., to Donald M. Stewart of East Haven, formerly of Richmond, Que., took place on September 11th, in Bangor the residence of Rev. Steven Hole Frichman, of the Bangor Unitarian Church, Bangor, Me. The couple was attended by Miss Naida B. Sanders, of Falmouth Foreside, and Donald W. McNorton, of Brunswick.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stewart are graduates of the University of Maine. Mrs. Stewart was graduated in 1936 and was a member of the "All Maine Women's" Club, while Mr. Stewart was graduated in 1935 and returned to college in 1936 to receive his Master's degree in English. He is a member of Sigma Nu, Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi.

Mrs. Stewart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Sayward, of Alfred, and was graduated from the Alfred High School in 1932. Mr. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Etter, of East Haven.

Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, president of St. Patrick's Mission Circle, received the numerous guests who patronized the delightful tea and children in aid of underprivileged children in the club at which the luncheon was held on Saturday afternoon. The spacious hall, lighted with many candles, was gay with Halloween colors and symbols, all figuring in the seasonal decorative scheme. This popular social event, which is annually sponsored by the Circle, was exceptionally successful this year, the generous store of clothing and toys being gratefully received by Miss Wilhelmina Murray, who was appropriately costumed as a black cat.

The honors at the attractive tea table, which was effectively centered with a Halloween pumpkin, oak leaves and orange candles, were done by Mrs. Jos. Gilbert and Mrs. A. Boucher. Orange candles lighted the smaller tea tables at which the many patrons enjoyed the dainty refreshments served by members of the Circle.

The party was a decided success and members of the Circle are to be congratulated, not alone for its social triumph but for the deeper and higher motive which prompts them to help little children and make their Christmas brighter and happier.

NUMEROUS GOOD DEEDS BY THE BROMPTON W.I.

Reports of Many Activities for Benevolent Purposes Featured Largely Attended Meeting at Mrs. Goodfellow's on Saturday.

The October meeting of the Brompton Road Women's Institute at Mrs. Frank Goodfellow's home on Saturday afternoon might well be recorded as a chapter of "good deeds," so many were the activities reported for benevolent purposes. Miss Verna Hatch, the president, presided, and the singing of the opening W. I. Ode was followed by the reading of the minutes by Mrs. Gordon McElrea. Routine business disposed of, the members voted money to the Sherbrooke Hospital, the MacKinnon Memorial, the Lennoxville Short Course and towards helping needy families.

After listening to a most helpful talk on the work and activities of the V. O. N., by Miss W. Grieve, supervising nurse for Sherbrooke, the meeting donated a generous store of jam and pickles to the V.O.N. to be distributed by the nurses among needy families. Miss Hatch voiced the thanks of the members to Miss Grieve for her interesting address, which she said would be very helpful to W. I. workers.

Mrs. Samue. Clark, convener of the ways and means committee, reported great activity in her department, the recent ploughman's luncheon at the annual ploughing matches being cited as an exceptionally successful event, with very gratifying results. The convener expressed her personal thanks to all who had in any way helped to make the luncheon such an outstanding success, especially mentioning the Experimental Farm staff, Mr. Crawford and Mr. Richardson, whose invaluable assistance was greatly appreciated by the W. I. Mrs. Clark, who was delegate to the county quarterly meeting at the MacKinnon Memorial on October 15th, afterwards gave a most interesting review of proceedings on that occasion. These included a competition for the best Halloween costumes, the prizes for which were won by Miss Marion Goodfellow and Miss Elva Hatch.

It is a noteworthy fact that the W. I. roll call is not merely a form but rather an intriguing means of obtaining much valuable information. For example, "Health Habits," was the subject for Saturday's answers, and many members no doubt gleaned many hints from the clever responses of their conferees. The Club Women's Creed brought the business of the afternoon to a close, and following adjournment a delightful social hour was enjoyed. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, who was assisted in her pleasant hospitable duties by the Misses Vivian Clark, Alva Hatch and Marion Goodfellow. During the tea hour Mrs. Fred. Page added greatly to the enjoyment of the guests and members by telling clever tea-cup fortunes.

FIANCEE OF HEIR TO GREEK THRONE

You And Your Child

WHISPERING CAUSES JEALOUSY IN HOME

After supper, when the family retired to the living room, ten-year-old John grabbed the best chair for lounging and settled down with a magazine. Harry, three years John's junior, climbed upon the arm of Dad's chair, and after balancing himself there a while finally landed where he wanted to sit—on Father's lap. Mother watched these proceedings with amusement. Harry was her baby. Presently John looked up. Mother and Dad were laughing over something cute which Harry had said. The corners of John's mouth turned up too, although he had no idea what the fun was about. He came forward, eager to join in the merriment. But suddenly his muscles tightened.

Harry was whispering in Dad's ear, with one eye upon John. "What did he say?" Mother asked, and Harry accommodately whispered the secret in her ear also. A jealous glare filled John. "You think you're funny, Harry, don't you?" he said with contempt. "I'd like to show you!" He lurched forward with clenched fists, but Father yanked him back by the collar, scolding, "You ought to be ashamed. The idea of behaving so meanly to your little brother!"

John, however, had good reason for feeling jealous. A fellow has to believe that he is at least as good as the next fellow if not better. When anyone, brother or best friend, threatens to weaken his self-esteem, the green-eyed monster rears its ugly head.

Children like to have secrets, but wise parents discourage whispering in company. They suggest, "Can't you say it our loud? It isn't polite to whisper secrets in the presence of others." If for some reason whispering is unavoidable, they indicate by a wink or by some other sign that the secret is inconsequential. This helps the other child feel superior to the occasion.

It is truthfully said of the child at birth that he is a bundle of emotions. He becomes less emotional in growing up only as he learns self-control. Jealousy easily becomes a habit when such feelings are repeatedly stimulated at home. Watch for the symptoms and avoid jealousy. A jealous person is never happy. He often becomes mean.

MASSAGE, OIL CAN BEAUTIFY ROUGH HANDS

How are your hands, today? After a summer of outdoor activities, they may be anything but flattering to you. But cheer up! You can make them lovely again after a week or two of intensive care and a total of slightly more than an hour's attention each week thereafter.

Start the treatment with a warm oil manicure and a special hand and arm treatment. Scrub the hands and arms gently with soap and water and your complexion brush or hand brush, if the bristles are not too stiff. When the arms are clean and glowing with the aroused circulation, rinse thoroughly and dry.

Now dip strips of gauze bandage or soft cloth into warm olive oil, wrap these around your arms from shoulders to wrists, cover the arms with a Turkish towel and rest for fifteen minutes or longer.

Remove the strips and while the skin is soft and warm massage gently from wrists upward to the shoulders with nourishing cream. Wipe away the excess and rinse your arms with cold water to tone them. Or rub with eau de Cologne. When your hands and arms are well on the way to improvement, you can keep them on their good behavior by devoting five minutes every night to inspecting the nails, applying cuticle oil and a hand cream. On one day a week plan to give yourself a manicure and massage the hands and arms with a rich cream or oil.

This is the way you massage your hands: Take a generous dab of cream or portion of hand lotion and rub the back of one hand with the palm of the other. Do not neglect the fingertips. Massage the fingers with backward stroke as though you were trying to put on a pair of kid gloves. Use the stroking motion over the back of the hand, but massage the palm firmly with a deep, rotary kneading movement.

Dry your hands carefully after every washing and apply hand lotion. Pour on a little bit and work into the skin by wringing your hands together like you do when you wash them. Applying hand lotion takes but a few seconds, and you will be surprised at how soon your hands will begin to look soft and lovely again.

With the more vigorous scrubbing use a nail brush. A good brushing removes the particles of grime lodged beneath the nail tips and around the nails. It helps work back the cuticles and remove particles of dead skin.

Every time you dry your hands push back the cuticles with your towel. Hand lotion, the cream you use at night and cuticle oil or cream will all help keep the cuticles pliant and loose.

Buffing, incidentally, is a health as well as beauty measure for your nails. It insures a good circulation, strong, flexible nails and a good color. It keeps the surface smooth for your liquid polish or gives the nails a natural gloss if you don't like to use polish on your nails.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

KEEPING THE LEAD RIGHT

Declarer Often Can Succeed by Timing Trick-Taking So as to Nullify Power of Opponents' Cards

By Wm. E. McKenney, Secretary, American Bridge League.

Which defending player shall have the lead at a crucial point in the play often determines the success or failure of the contract. Sometimes the declarer is helpless in the matter, as fate has so distributed the cards that nothing he can do will avail.

However, there are many cases in which, by timing his taking of the only trick in a certain suit, the declarer can force the play of the hand to follow along lines that are bound to bring success.

In today's hand North's cards

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

With the knowledge that his partner's hand was filled with honors, North was justified in raising the second suit.

When the dummy was spread South saw that the contract was fairly safe, provided trumps could be drawn and the hearts established without letting East lead. With this in mind West was allowed to hold the first trick, but the suit was continued and the ace won.

Now the trumps were drawn, the third round being won in dummy. The queen of hearts was next played and fished, West winning with the king.

Now whatever suit he chose to return was immaterial. South was able to discard three losing clubs in dummy on his long hearts, and lost in all one diamond, one heart and one club.

TODAY'S POINTER: In planning the play of the hand, assume that the important cards are lying wrong, and govern your play accordingly.

DEATHS REPORTED

MRS. EARL GRUBB, COWANSVILLE.

Cowansville, Oct. 23.—The funeral of Mrs. Earl Grubb was held at her late residence Sunday afternoon, October 23rd, with Rev. Dr. S. W. Boyd officiating. A quartette composed of Mrs. S. W. Boyd, Mrs. W. Mandigo, J. McEwen and Walter Mandigo, with Clifford Johnston as accompanist, sang, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "Abide With Me" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Dr. Boyd spoke comforting words to the bereaved family, basing his remarks on Psalm 23.

Interment was made in the family lot at Bullsburg Cemetery. The bearers were David and Leonard Grubb, Nelson Ring, Manchester, N.H., Earl Ring, Sutton; Lawrence Smith and J. Persons.

The deceased passed away, after a short illness at the early age of thirty-six. She is survived by her husband and nine children, to whom sincere sympathy is extended in the loss of a devoted and loving wife and mother.

Beautiful flowers covered the casket, silent tokens of love and esteem.

There was a very large gathering of relatives and friends present to express sympathy.

EARLY RETREAT GIVES WAY TO QUICK ADVANCE

Initial Losses of One to Five Dollars a Share Converted into Gains Before End of First Hour of Trading at New York.

New York, Oct. 25.—A wave of aggressive buying on the Stock Exchange today quickly turned an early retreat in share prices into a fast advance.

Initial losses of one dollar to about five dollars a share before the end of the first hour of trading had been converted into gains. Westinghouse Electric, for instance, rebounded from $90 to around $97 for a net gain of $7 at one time.

Buyers found offerings scant after the initial supply had been absorbed and brokers saw little recurrence of the forced liquidation which hit the market last Tuesday as weakened margin accounts were sold out.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK MARKET

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Today's livestock receipts totaled 1,263 cattle, 1,540 calves, 2,100 sheep and lambs, and 2,471 hogs.

Early sales of cattle were made up of canners, cutters and top steers. Top steers sold at $9 to $9.25, and canners and cutters from $1.75 to $2.50. Prices were not established on other grades of cattle.

Calves were steady to twenty-five cents higher. Good quality veals made $9.25 to $9.50, with medium good kinds up to $9. Common light veals were $8.50 to $8.75, drinkers ranged from $4.50 to $7.50. Good grassers were from $3.50 to $4.00, with the bulk between $3.75 and $4.

Lambs were stronger. Good ewes and wethers were $8. Lambs weighing 100 pounds or more were $7 and culls and bucks $6. Sheep were from $2 to $3.75, averaging around $2.50.

Hogs were unsettled. The bulk of the sales were $8.50 for bacon, fed and watered. Selects drew one dollar per hog premium, with the usual cut on off grades. Sows were easier, selling from $6 to $7.

"Fathers provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." The preacher made an earnest appeal to the parents to instruct their children in Christian principles both by precept and example, and to take seriously and sincerely their responsibilities.

"Destructive criticism of sacred things," he continued, "had wrought incalculable harm to the sensitive hearts of children and lessened the possibility of their developing deep spirituality."

Mr. Johnston made a very suitable reply, thanking those present for all their congratulations and good wishes as well as for their kind presentation, ending as follows:

"Now we live in Chapel Hill. In plain sight of the old stone mill. My mind goes back to days that have long since passed. When I first met my better half. But now our youthful days have gone.

Still for all we feel quite strong. Though our thoughts go back and stand again. When we think of those happy days fifty years ago.

Later delicious refreshments were served from the dining room, the table being covered with a lace cloth centred by a beautiful wedding cake decorated in white and gold, lighted with tall gold tapers in silver holders and was presided over by Mrs. J. B. Deuel and Mrs. Archie Hastings, who poured coffee. Other assisting in serving were Mrs. Volney Ingalls, Cowansville, Mrs. Knight, Boston, Mass., Mrs. W. Corey, Up-Bedford, Mass., Mrs. Crawley, Montreal; Messrs. E. Spencer, E. Johnston, Elden Spencer and Norman Deuel. Two of their children were present, Mr. Earl Johnston, Swanton, Vt., and Mrs. E. H. Beware Kidney Germs if Tired, Nervous, Aching

Are you Run Down, Nervous, suffer Aching or swollen joints, do you Get Up Nights, or suffer from Burning Passages, Frequent Headaches, Leg Pains, Backache, Dizziness, Puffy Eyelids, Loss of Appetite and Energy? If so, the true cause often may be germs developed in the body during cold, or by bad teeth or tonsils that need removing. These germs may attack the delicate membranes of your Kidneys or Bladder and often cause much trouble. Ordinary medicine can't help much because they don't fight the germs. The doctors formula Cystex, now needed by all druggists, starts fighting Kidney germs in 3 hours and must prove entirely satisfactory in 3 weeks. It's exactly the medicine you need or money back. Ask your druggist for Cystex (Blue-Jet) today. The money back agreement protects you.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Lovely Margit Agnew has her long island home, her dress-making establishment and her emotions under perfect control. Her sister, Irene, a more impulsive type, is engaged to Waldo, a young inventor, who has spent a probationary year in the Agnew home. Irene is out shopping one afternoon when she meets Charlie, a sidewalk artist, who takes her to Spike's saloon. Receiving the shattering news from Keough, the butler, (who has secretly been studying detection), Margit goes to "Spike's". There she finds Irene, Waldo, Charlie and the Italian proprietor "rehearsing" a movie scene. Suddenly, Charlie grabs her. She is just the type they want for the haughty society girl.

CHAPTER VIII.

The next few minutes in Margit's life were the most bewildering she had ever spent. She was in a saloon. Her sister was tight. Waldo was tight. An obviously insane, if rather good looking young man—a young man with newspapers tied around his legs—a young man who wore a cap backwards—was dragging her into an absurd charade and talking so continuously that her most imperious "Stop this!" did not faze him.

"Yes," Charlie continued, "You're a top-notch filly but one with so much animal magnetism that the primitive ruthlessness of Scar-face Nick has lured you from the security of your yacht and car. Irene, get out of the stage! You sit here, Margit." She was pushed on the "divan." If there was, somewhere in Charlie's eyes, a glint of remote amusement, nobody except possibly Spike detected it. If his continuation of the silly moving picture scenario was a deliberate effort to ruffle the suave self-assurance of Margit Agnew, he kept his intention fairly secret.

Margit plunked on the "divan," immediately stood up, Charlie pushed her down again and she kept on talking. "Look! The scene changes! This is no longer the boudoir of a gangster's moll. It's the lobby of a tough hotel in Chicago. Now the roles are reversed! Margit—you're waiting for Nick! Nick comes into the hotel with his chopper to erase the Petronis. You see him! He jerked her head around. You leap to your feet! He pulled her up. "You throw your arms around him. He put Margit's arms around himself. "Nick you exclaim, 'Nick! At last! You kiss him.'"

Charlie kissed Margit soundly. Then he stepped back. "Shall we shoot it?"

There was silence. During Charlie's mad manoeuvres Margit had been fighting furiously for an opportunity to say or do anything. Now that she had it, she stood perfectly still, her lips compressed, her eyes flashing, her face pale.

Charlie turned with an apparently genuine sigh to Irene. "I guess your sister won't play."

Irene looked frightened. "Margit," she began, and her voice cracked. "I'd like to introduce Charlie—"

She realized that she did not know Charlie's last name—and not knowing made things worse.

Waldo rushed idly to her aid. "Yes Margit this is Charlie." He too broke off.

"Charlie Jones," said Charlie. "An uncommon man travelling under a common name. We're the Baltimore Joneses."

Margit finally spoke. "Irene, get your hat and coat! Waldo, come along!"

To her further amazement Waldo shook his head. "I don't think Irene wants to go home yet."

Margit was already numb, and weaving, but this shock brought her up short. "You don't think—what?"

Charlie looked at his wrist watch. He spoke in the politest possible tone, but his eyes still gleamed as he looked at Margit. "It is a bit lateish. Perhaps you'd prefer to withdraw to my place for the balance of the evening?"

Margit looked at him stonily. Thank you, no—Mr. Jones. I'm taking my sister and my fiancé to my house, where they should have been hours ago. I certainly have no more intention of spending more time in this—"

she looked at Spike, "place, or in any other—"

she looked at Charlie, "like it."

Nobody seemed to be getting hats or coats. Charlie gazed at Margit sympathetically, but he shook his head. "I'm afraid you don't understand, Miss Agnew."

"I understand that you're all drunk!"

"I mean—since you last saw your sister, something has happened to her."

"I should say so!" said Margit. "Charlie's voice was like that of an older person trying to explain something to a small child. "I mean she's fallen in love with me."

Margit gaped.

"Don't you see, Margit, you just can't say 'It's half-past one and we had better go home now' to people who are in love? After all, your sister's twenty-eight. I'm twenty-eight. We might decide to go on a ferry-boat ride to Staten Island, for instance."

Sit on the deck and look at the moonlight. You know how love is. Nothing wrong with that, is there? You couldn't very well stop us—"

Margit was standing. She turned to Waldo. To her intense dismay, she observed that Spike had just handed another high ball to him and he was drinking it rapidly.

"Waldo!" she said frenziedly. "You'll just have to help me get Irene out of this!"

Waldo stopped drinking. His face was mild. "You can't do anything about it," he said slowly, if a bit thickly. "It's just one of those things. Irene said it was like a brick falling on her. She saw him and she loved him."

His voice became wistful but heroic. "I, too, love Irene. But I wouldn't stand in the way of something real and deep and genuine. Besides, Charlie's a fine guy. Hell of a good director."

Margit's raving eye came to rest on Charlie's face and he nodded. "He spoke like a man of the world, Spike."

She realized that she was dealing with a group of people who had temporarily gone mad. "I'll simply have to call the police," she said.

There was a little silence.

It was broken by the man in the grey suit who had once again awakened. "By jolly," he murmured. "You folks are really getting the idea! This is pretty good." His next observation was addressed obviously to Margit. "Lady, I don't know where you came from, but you sure can look peeved. You look just like my wife when I eventually get home. Spittin' mad!"

His gaze travelled glassily toward Charlie. "I know what you've done! You've rung in some professional talent! You can't fool Artemus Shrank!"

He stared a moment longer, sighed appreciatively, and went back to sleep.

Margit started for the door. Charlie intercepted her. "Where you going?"

Her answer was grim. "To get the police."

"What for?"

"So that I can take my sister and Mr. Beaver out of this place."

Charlie widened his eyes. "But the police won't help you do that. Margit's voice belied. "Oh, they won't, won't they?"

Charlie shook his head slowly. "No they won't, won't they. The police, my dear Miss Agnew, occupy themselves with enforcing the law. This is a legitimate restaurant. Spike serves the finest spaghetti in New York. Your sister is of legal age. I daresay Mr. Beaver could establish his sanity—although it might require some effort on his part. I am a responsible citizen. We are all slightly drunk—that I admit. In fact, I proclaim it. But we're not operating vehicles, committing misdemeanors, or disturbing the public peace, and there is no law in the world which prevents you from getting as auric-eyed as you like in the company of friends and pleasant surroundings. Calling the police, my dear Margit, would only be an embarrassment to you."

She said, "Will you kindly let go of my arm?"

He ignored the command and went on pleasantly. "Irene told me you were something of a Tartar. Since you're to be my future sister-in-law, I must do what I can to amend your disposition. You haven't spoiled our party—yet—but you've disrupted it. However, we are all in an indulgent mood. We'd be delighted to have you join us. If you don't care to, of course—" he shrugged.

Irene and Waldo had listened to the last part of his speech with goggling eyes. What happened next made their eyes goggle even more. They had imagined that Margit would murmur a few cabalistic words and melt Charlie Jones into a small inconspicuous puddle. It was obvious that her rage had reached that point whereat only the working of miracles would assuage it.

Instead, she burst into tears.

Nobody had ever seen Margit crying. It was said, indeed, that she had not even cried when she was a baby. Just looked at things—and thought about them. But now she was crying—and crying hard.

Is Margit merely pretending so that she can appeal to Charlie's better nature? Or has her control finally broken at last? Be sure to read tomorrow's exciting installment.

NEW SCHOOL IS TAKEN OVER BY DUNHAM BOARD

Tribute Paid to Noted Organist During Impressive Tree-Planting Ceremony at St. Helen's School, Dunham.

Dunham, Oct. 25.—The school commissioners of Dunham have accepted the new school of building in District No. 12 and it is now being occupied. Mr. Ulric Russell is the teacher. The building is up to date in every way. Hardwood floors, a sanitary water tank and the lighting is excellent and it is properly ventilated and will be found very pleasant for both scholars and teacher.

The meeting was opened with prayers and the singing of a hymn, "Children of the Heavenly King," with Miss Ruth Egerton at the piano. Miss Florence Gillender, who has been appointed secretary to fill the vacancy created when Miss Lorraine Lucia moved to Burlington, Vt., read the minutes of the previous meeting and the roll which was responded to by twenty-one members. Motions were adopted to have letters sent the rummage sale committee expressing appreciation for the gift of a sum of money and to Miss L. Lucia, who is out of school owing to an epidemic of scarlet fever in the school she attends in Burlington, Vt.

At the conclusion of the business the superintendent, Mrs. R. B. Mosey, pronounced the benediction after which Mrs. Melvin Chartier and Mrs. Norman Egerton served refreshments.

Miss Wade welcomed the members and in her remarks said she felt it a great honor that the school should be chosen for the memorial.

Dr. Whithead, organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, paid a tribute to his memory. The chairman, a warm personal friend of Dr. Farnum also spoke in tribute to him. The tree was taken from the farm formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Farnum, nee Bertha Wood, which made it very suitable and quite in keeping with the event.

After the tree was placed the people went to the United Church where they were privileged to hear a recital. The first number was by Mr. J. J. Weatherseed, A.R.C.D., of St. George Church, Montreal. The choir from St. Helen's accompanied by Dr. A. Egerton sang several hymns. Mr. Graham George, of St. Peter's, Sherbrooke and Dr. Egerton each delighted their hearers. The organ in the United Church was presented by the late Mr. R. P. Small and on its being installed the late Lynwood Farnum opened the organ. It all seemed to be very fitting to his memory.

Among those who entertained Mrs. Hall and Miss Annie Yates were the Misses A. and E. Selby, Mrs. W. A. Doherty at a dinner on Sunday, guests of Mrs. H. O. Martin and family on Monday. Mrs. H. Godfrey was hostess at the tea hour on Tuesday in their honor.

STANSTEAD UNDEFEATED IN SCHOOL LEAGUE

Jackson Led Locals To Victory Over Bishop's

Sherbrooke Independents Took Full Advantage of "Breaks" to Chalk Up Their Second Victory Over Collegians to Tune of Twenty-One to One.

Sherbrooke Independents defeated University of Bishop's College to the tune of 21-1 in an exhibition rugby contest at the College field on Saturday. It was the second victory Sherbrooke has scored over the College this season.

Bishop's showed a little raggedness in their play, but on the whole their teamwork was much better than in the first game with Eddie Wolfe's men. The ability of the Sherbrookers to make use of the breaks, coupled with the amazing kicking ability of Ken Jackson, caused the downfall of the Collegians. Jackson, who can always be counted on for a fine game, outdistanced himself on Saturday. Not since the days of Ogie Glass has such kicking been seen on a local field. Jackson's boots totalled for sixty-five yards time after time, while his catching and running was faultless.

The kick-off was received by Knox at midfield. The College team attempted a shutout when Gray kicked a rouge from that point, just as the final whistle sounded. The score was Sherbrooke 21, Bishop's 1.

Line-ups and officials follow:

Bishop's: Knox, half; Gray, half; Lyster, half; Rogers, quarter; Morris, snap; Starnes, inside; Carter, inside; Greenwood, middle; Willis, middle; Carmichael, end; Heath, end.

Sherbrooke: Jackson, half; Boser, half; Brooks, half; Wyatt, half; Rogers, quarter; Foley, snap; Jones, inside; Veal, inside; Simpson, middle; Tomlinson, middle; Cartwright, end; Heath, end.

Officials: Bredin, Bennett, Flintoft, Tulk, Scott, Dempster, Mager. Sherbrooke subs: Sinclair, Cathcart, Nieschowski, Glass, Simms, Daniel, Miller. Referee: R. Dunsmore. Sherbrooke: Umpire, L. Tomkins. Line-ups: Headlinesman, R. M. Fyfe. Linesmen: W. Sutherland and S. Ball.

Play was fairly even until the end of the quarter. Gray kicked to the Sherbrooke fifty yard line just before the teams changed ends.

The third quarter showed some fast and hard rugby, although no points were scored. "Dusty" Miller was bucking well and tore some great holes in the Bishop's line. The Purple team fought back, however, and took advantage of a Sherbrooke fumble to avert any score.

Knox, Bishop's captain, was hurt just before the quarter ended, and was forced to leave the game. Bishop's used Doug Bradley, running half, unopposed, and Bennett kicked out of danger as the halftime whistle blew. Halftime score: Sherbrooke 7, Bishop's 0.

From Sherbrooke's ten, where Jackson received the kick-off, he threw a pass to Boser, which made first down. A blocked kick was recovered by Gray in his own territory. Carmichael's pass to his left end failed, and Gray booted to the fifty-two. After a buck by Brooks was offside, Jackson laced out one of his best kicks of the contest, a lovely spiral that went sixty yards in the air. Dago Knox had to run back for it to the five-yard line, and on the first down Gray kicked out of danger.

Sherbrooke now had the ball in a commanding position and Knox was roused on Jackson's next kick. It was after this point was scored that Bishop's made their most threatening advance on the goal. Gray made thirty yards around the left end, carrying from the twenty-five to midfield. Boake Carter, who played the game of his life, kept the ball rolling with a thirteen-yard plunge to "Independents' forty-two. Seeing that the Sherbrooke defence was weakening, their coach sent in six replacements to fill the breach. Greenwood, however, made two more yards before the advance was finally stopped.

Doug Bradley, Bishop's half, faded back on a forward pass play, and passed diagonally to Walters on the right end. Eric Fuller dashed in, intercepted the pass, and ran eighty-five yards to the other end of the field, where he scored standing up. Jackson place-kicked the extra point to raise the Sherbrooke total to 14 to Bishop's 0.

The kick-off went to Sherbrooke's twenty, and Jackson, after taking a few steps, returned the kick. The ball sailed for almost seventy yards in the air, and bounced about twenty more, actually rolling to within a few feet of the line. Bennett booted to the forty, where Carter intercepted a forward pass from Colheart, thus giving Bishop's possession as ends were changed for the last quarter.

Bennett hoisted to Miller who ran it back to Sherbrooke's fifty. Sherbrooke were penalized shortly after when they failed to allow Bradley the necessary five yards on a catch. Bishop's scurried the ball on the twenty. Carter, then Greenwood, carrying to the forty-two.

Sherbrooke held Bennett and Knox in two successive rushes and on third down Bishop's gambled on a forward which was grounded thus giving Sherbrooke possession at the last point of scrimmage, Bishop's fifty.

A Jackson-to-Miller forward was unsuccessful, but when Miller lateralled to Sinclair the ball was carried to Bishop's fifteen. Jackson tried a placement from there. His kick missed the posts but went to the dead-line for a point.

Shortly after, Independents scored their third touchdown of the game. Jackson passed to Miller, who managed to fall across the line as he was tackled. This touchdown was converted by Jackson.

Bishop's kick-off was returned to Knox at midfield. The College team attempted a shutout when Gray kicked a rouge from that point, just as the final whistle sounded. The score was Sherbrooke 21, Bishop's 1.

Line-ups and officials follow:

Bishop's: Knox, half; Gray, half; Lyster, half; Rogers, quarter; Morris, snap; Starnes, inside; Carter, inside; Greenwood, middle; Willis, middle; Carmichael, end; Heath, end.

Sherbrooke: Jackson, half; Boser, half; Brooks, half; Wyatt, half; Rogers, quarter; Foley, snap; Jones, inside; Veal, inside; Simpson, middle; Tomlinson, middle; Cartwright, end; Heath, end.

MAJOR PROBLEM OF MAROONS IS THEIR DEFENCE

Tommy Gorman Confident Maroons Are Really Going Places in N.H.L. this Season — Not Worrying About Holdout Proceedings of Gracie.

Lake Placid, N.Y., Oct. 25.—Take it from Tommy (T. P.) Gorman, his Montreal Maroons are really going places in the National Hockey League this season.

He came to this ice resort during the weekend to look over his team that has been training here under Frank (King) Clancy and expressed himself as highly pleased after seeing the so-called yannigans knock his regulars off by five to four Saturday night.

Gorman said he liked the way his boys "core into one another." But then Gorman has always been known for his fighting teams. And nobody would ever argue but what the battle-scarred Clancy has been anything but a fighting hockey man. So much "tearing in" tactics were bound to please.

and Gorman said they were not worrying about the holdout proceedings of Bob Gracie, stellar Maroons' forward, as much as they were over rounding the defence into shape.

Gorman expressed belief Gracie would come to terms over his salary differences and turned his attention to filling the gap left in the forward formation by the retirement of Lionel "Big Train" Conacher who this year turned to politics instead of hockey.

Cy Wentworth, St. Evans and Allan Shields are the regular defence men returning from last year's squad. Candidates for the other defence posts are Roger Jenkins, Paul Runge, Des Smith and Maurice Grogan.

Grogan, scheduled to arrive today, was expected to be the choice for the position. He was considered one of the best defencemen in Montreal senior hockey last year.

Shannon is being groomed to take the place of Gracie should the little speedster from North Bay, Ont., fail to show up. Shannon has been working at centre with Gus Marker on one wing and Herbie Cain on the other. Shannon, Clancy said, could take over any position on the front line if necessary.

Paul Runge, another all-round hockey man, has been working out at both the front line and defences in the training sessions.

During Saturday's exhibition game Dave Trotter scored twice for the yannigans and Tommy Cook bagged a brace of goals for the regulars.

The Maroons are scheduled to play New Haven Eagles of the International-American League in Cornwall, Ont., next Saturday.

CRICKET TRADITIONS AND SOCCER RULES FOR EMPIRE HOCKEY

London, Oct. 25.—English hockey trips along daintily these days to a chorus of whistles as referees seek to instil traditions of "cricket" into the game.

In an effort to minimize rough play, the British Ice Hockey Association introduced a penalty shot rule similar to that used in National League competition, while they have also adopted stringent "anti-riot" legislation.

"Why they'll have us bowing to attacking wingers next," said husky Hazen McAndrew, Toronto boy who plays defence for the Greyhounds. He thinks the "clean play" legislation too severe and says some things frowned on in England would be considered good strategy in Canada.

McAndrew recalled a case where he drew a three-minute penalty for whacking the ice with his stick. He made the harmless gesture after an opponent had held his stick.

But the new penalty shot from a line thirty-five feet from the goal is welcomed by the netminders for it replaces one that gave them the jitters. Under the old free shot, the player could withhold his shot until he reached the goal crease.

"A goalie's job is tough enough without that kind of stuff," said Charlie Teno, Earl's Court Rangers netman, last year with Sudbury's champion Tigers. "They let them skate in that close the goalie is either going to be knocked through the back of his net or seriously injured."

The new legislation to prevent battles royal deals harshly with offenders. If a disciplinary committee considers the offence serious, the offending player is suspended for an indefinite period. In event of repetition of the offence the suspension may become international and the man's playing certificate cancelled.

Soccer rules are also being introduced into the game. Replacing the penalty face-off in front of the net which used to be given when a roaster failed to clear the puck, the attacking side will be allowed to shoot a "corner" as in soccer at a distance of twenty feet from the goal in a line with the posts.

BRIBERY CHARGE
Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 25.—Charged with offering a bribe to a police officer, Thomas Chang, Kingston man, was fined $20 or two months' imprisonment with hard labor.

NEED MORE EQUIPMENT
Sydney, N.S., Oct. 25.—Increased demand for fluid milk and cream has made it necessary for the Cape Breton Dairyman's Co-operative Society to make arrangements to procure additional equipment.

SPORT CHATTER

Well, the wizardry of this column is at last coming to light. Two predictions of "three right again" this week, Sherbrooke proved themselves just too good for Bishop's, and those kicks of Jackson couldn't be topped.

Stanstead overwhelmed Sherbrooke High to get a stranglehold on the school league. So far they have been undefeated this year in any league game. It is pleasant to have these two Monday afternoons tally so well with Friday's predictions. Not only wonderful, but very strange.

The difference of one point in the Ashbury-B.C.S. game, made this corner wrong. Too bad, especially as the Bishop's College School team had a touchdown called back. Having been to Ashbury myself, I should have realized that they are a big, bad, bold bunch in their own back-yard.

Taking a keen interest all four nights at the Horse Show was Foxhall Keene. Mr. Keene was the greatest rider in the world for thirty years. During those thirty years he was a ten-goal man in the United States. He won point-to-point races in all parts of the country. When it came to jumping in shows he was unbeatable. Once in Madison Square Garden he cleared seven feet on his famous horse "Transport."

Kenny Dawes, racing owner and sportsman, was also seen on the sidelines the last night of the show. He was receiving congratulations on all sides for the victory of his horse "Westing" in the Midbrook Handicap at New York.

Earl Spafford, of Montreal and Knowlton, was on hand for the last night. His beautiful chestnut "Prince Getley," with Mrs. Walde up, gave some fine performance, repeating its victories of the Montreal Horse Show at the armory of the Royal Canadian Hussars.

"Soup" Blanchford, Bishop's rugby manager, was the saddest man at the game with Sherbrooke on Saturday. He could have wept as he watched the College hydrant, forward and dashed away on a level run for a touchdown.

His tears would have been welcome, too, as anything in the way of water was needed at the College. It seems as though some motorist backed into the College hydrant, the water supply was cut off. The boys were a bit peeved as they waited for their showers.

Ken Jackson played a lovely game. His kicking and catching were faultless. Gilliam, still suffering from injuries received in the Quebec game, did not play. Sherbrooke are lucky in that they have plenty of good subs.

Hockey news comes blasting in ahead of time, with St. Jerome and Patsy Seguin sharing the spotlight. St. Jerome, last year winners of the Provincial League, are not pleased with Senior rating and want to get back in the Intermediate ranks. After all the demands for senior standing made by the Provincial League, it seems a strange action on St. Jerome's part. Oh, well, one can never tell what the amateurs of today will do.

The latest report on Patsy (Sherbrooke-Concordia) Seguin, is that he will try for a berth with the New Haven Eagles, pro team in the International League. Sherbrooke hockey heads still insist that he will wind up here. Perhaps they are right, but maybe wingings of conspire to trouble Patsy, and after being paid for playing amateur hockey all these years, he is at last going to turn pro.

St. Jerome are after a franchise in the Montreal Intermediate Hockey League. It must be that they are having trouble to line up the men they had hoped for. I wonder if they have counted on the loss of pride they will suffer from their old Sherbrooke rivals who will taunt them with having a lesser ranking than the Eastern Townships players.

The reducing of the players' salaries in the English league has resulted in a great many of them returning to Canada to pick up their meal tickets at home. Bellefleur, who played with the Manchester Rapids last year, is back with Concordia. Roger Gaudette, last year with the Southampton Vikings, is with them also, as is Paul Armand, Manchester Rapids, and Roger Belisle, Southampton Vikings.

Maurice Bastien, whom Sherbrooke fondly hoped for, is turning out for Concordia. The line of Alexandre, Arcand and Gaudette, which sprang to fame with St. Francois Xavier some years ago, has been united under this same team's banner.

Tonight wrestling fans will have a chance to gander at Rob Wagner again. This corner wagers that the bad boy from Oregon will steal the show from champ Robert, who everyone realizes will win over Jack League. This Wagner is rapidly taking the place of Cy Williams, who was a terror in the ring. Wagner gives a wonderful show as he attacks everyone, including the referee. He has already started riots in Quebec and Montreal.

GENE LALONDE CHOSEN COACH OF CANADIANS

Hon. J. S. Bourque Appointed Honorary President and A. P. Blue President of Sherbrooke Canadians at Annual Meeting Last Night.

Gene Lalonde, one of the founders of the Canadian Hockey Club of the Sherbrooke Intermediate League, has been chosen as manager-coach of local talent, to experience difficulty in carrying on successfully. This year, however, with new material available, the club officials hope that a fine season will result.

At the meeting last night it was decided to sponsor a junior team, and thereby have a supply of younger players to feed the intermediate team. An amalgamation with Champlain Canadians of the Junior League was suggested. There is also possibility that the club will sponsor a juvenile team which Jean Carrier will manage.

"Gaby" Gosselin and G. Savard will act as assistants to Mr. Lalonde in his capacity of coach and manager. These three men have already started plans for the conditioning of the team.

The club officers for the ensuing year are: Hon. J. S. Bourque, honorary president; Dalma Landry, honorary vice-president; Dr. A. N. Dupuis, honorary vice-president; A. P. Blue, president; J. A. Savard, vice-president; Lucien Dugre, treasurer; K. P. Tetro, secretary; J. E. Lalonde, manager-coach; G. Gosselin, assistant coach; Gerard Savard, assistant manager; G. Genest, manager of the junior team, and Hilaire Letendre, trainer.

The following have consented to act on the Board of Directors: P. E. Couture, Jim Cameron, Tom Reidmond, J. A. Berton, J. A. Rouleau, L. E. Ramsay, Edgée Gervais, F. Salois, W. Fortier, Ephrem Beauchêne, Henri Courchesne, V. Hugo, Adolphe Dumas, Nova Boisvert, L. Proulx, A. Morin.

STANSTEAD TOO STRONG A TEAM FOR LOCAL HIGH

College Aggregation Took a Firmer Hold on Eastern Townships School Rugby Laurels with Thirty-One to Nothing Victory.

Stanstead College stepped a pace nearer the Eastern Townships school championship Saturday afternoon when they trounced Sherbrooke High School by 31 to 0 on the Parade Grounds. The Sherbrooke squad never once held possession of the ball within the visitors' thirty yard line, while Stanstead kept Sherbrooke constantly hemmed in by means of end runs, line plays, passes and some powerful kicking by Abbott.

Early in the first quarter Schofield, Gordon and Mackay advanced the ball to the Sherbrooke one-yard line and Schofield, diving behind a solid front line, scored the first touch of the game. Putney converted. As the quarter ended Pee hoisted over the Sherbrooke line for another Stanstead point. Stanstead 7, Sherbrooke High 0.

At the beginning of the second quarter Waterman fell on a Sherbrooke fumble. Mackay made twenty yards on an extension. Putney and Gordon advanced the sticks again, then Mackay skirted the end for another try. Putney again scored the extra point. With less than three minutes to go Balfry fell on a Sherbrooke fumble. A pass from MacInnnon to Kelley set the ball on the Sherbrooke ten yard line and with seconds to go MacInnnon kicked for the final point of the half. Halftime score Stanstead 13, Sherbrooke High 0.

Following the kick-off, Putney and Mackay made yards for Stanstead, then Schofield and Mackay advanced the sticks again. Waterman ploughed through the Sherbrooke line for Stanstead's third try. The convert failed. Towards the end of the third quarter Sherbrooke kicked short from their 25-yard line and Putney ran the ball back to the 30-yard line, Mackay skirted the left end and by some fine broken field running scored his second try of the game. The after point failed. As the quarter ended Abbott hoisted a long ball into the Sherbrooke goal area for a single point.

Halfway through the last quarter a forward from Abbott to Pare gained 25 yards for Stanstead. Waterman and Mackay followed this up with a first down bringing the ball close enough for Mackay to romp the game. Abbott scored the extra point. The game ended with a Stanstead pass being knocked down. Final score Stanstead 31, Sherbrooke High 0.

Barfield played a bang-up game for Sherbrooke, his slices off right middle being the best ground-gaining play in the Sherbrooke repertoire. Sherbrooke's best scoring chance came in the third period. The kick-off bounded off Waterman's chest and was picked up by D. Heath, who ran to Stanstead's 35 yard line before the surprised defenders brought him down. A few yards were then lost on a line play but Clowery sent D. Heath to the Stanstead 25 on Sherbrooke's only successful forward. The effort was nullified when Waterman, for Stanstead, broke through and smothered an attempted kick.

Captain Buddy Mackay was outstanding for Stanstead. In addition to scoring three touchdowns he was the visitors' most consistent ground-gainer. John Waterman also found the going to his liking and made several long gains. Young David Schofield, substituting for the ailing Tommy Millet, played heads-up football at quarter. John Ruge and Roland Racicot, Sherbrooke boys on the Stanstead squad, showed up to advantage for the visitors.
