Meeting will be 'head-on'

OTTAWA (CP) — Only one light Quebec-Ottawa skirmish developed at the three-day constitutional conference...

The slogan of the party I lead is 'Quebec d'abord' (Quebec first). It is not 'Quebec d'abord' outside Canada. It is 'Quebec d'abord' in Canada.

The new Quebec premier made his presence felt in the dying minutes of the conference when he tangled with Mr. Trudeau in what amounted to the only spirited exchange between the two men at the conference.

Treaty rights should be clear

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's reformed constitution should make "clear and beyond a doubt" rights of the provinces to sign treaties in areas within their jurisdiction.

subject but as a series of proposals that could be modified in negotiations.

The skirmish developed when Quebec presented a surprise resolution asking the federal government to stop making new expenditures within provincial fields of jurisdiction during negotiations on taxing and spending powers.

I hope that we will be able to deal head-on with the distribution of powers at the next conference because the very essence of federalism is in the division of powers.

And while the basic thesis appeared directly contrary to Ottawa's position, it contained a number of points not unlike those that Ottawa has put forward.

Prime Minister Trudeau rejected the proposal, arguing that acceptance would mean the federal government could not exercise its national role of equalizing opportunity across Canada.

Quebec's priority in constitutional talks is its appeal for greater legislative powers as "homeland of the French-Canadian nation," but this remains one of the untouched items on the conference agenda.

It also said the aim of the proposals is to resolve "internal tensions and misunderstandings" arising from Quebec's international activities.

When Quebec persisted, Mr. Trudeau asked Premier Bertrand if Quebec is prepared to accept a reversed proposal to the effect that Quebec abstain from spending in federal fields of jurisdiction such as international relations.

Cultural Affairs Minister Jean-Noel Tremblay, perhaps the most influential nationalist within the Union Nationale gov-

There was no immediate federal reaction to the proposals, although Prime Minister Trudeau commented at a news conference that there were indications of progress on the question of Quebec-Canadian representation at international

Provincial meets may not be needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Success of the federal-provincial constitutional conference, and a promise to hold others at more frequent intervals, means further provincial Confederation-of-Tomorrow conferences may not be necessary.

at the top government level to ensure we are really getting at the basic problems of the constitution.

gest political fraud ever perpetrated on the people of Canada.

But a constitutional review is "a complex task... You can't look for instant constitutional change. It will be a long process and we have set up the machinery for getting into that process."

Robert Nixon, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, was not available for comment as the conference ended, but the consensus paper produced by the government leaders was about what he had predicted a day earlier.

He gave Prime Minister Trudeau "formal notice" that Ontario, which is a non-participant, wants some of the tax money raised from its residents to pay for the plan.

Donald MacDonald, leader of the provincial New Democratic Party, said in an interview he was disappointed with Ontario's part in a conference that has been "little more than a holding operation."

Mr. Nixon had said in an interview that the conference would end with a "statement of views" and few, if any, greater achievements.

The attack on federal fiscal policies led by Mr. Roberts and Manitoba Premier Walter Weir resulted in approval of a study, "as a matter of priority," of distribution of powers including taxing and spending powers.

They may well have halted the deterioration in federal-provincial relations... but there was not enough consensus

Mr. Roberts defended the consensus paper as the record of a successful conference.

—A committee of federal and provincial ministers will study arrangements for programs needed immediately to reduce regional economic disparities.

Western premiers are heading for home quite happy

OTTAWA (CP) — western Canada emerged from the federal-provincial constitutional conference happy and a little surprised Wednesday night with Ottawa's willingness to talk over controversial fiscal policies and language rights.

The Strom style contrasted sharply with that of Deputy Premier David G. Stewart of Saskatchewan, who spiced his province's hard line on Quebec special status and financial matters with an incisive wit that gave the conference many of its lighter moments.

Premier Bennett, as usual, was in top form and puzzled the conference several times with lengthy discourses that wandered from economic aid to Eskimos to formation of a European-style Common Market between the Maritimes and the New England states.

"I'm going home a lot happier this year than I did after the last constitutional conference," said a beaming Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia as he left the final session.

Mr. Strom steered clear of major controversy and stuck close to the submissions outlined in his opening statement during the course of the three-day conference.

The West took an aggressive stance on fiscal matters, spearheaded by stocky Premier Walter Weir of Manitoba, a blunt-talking Progressive Conservative who tangled with Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday.

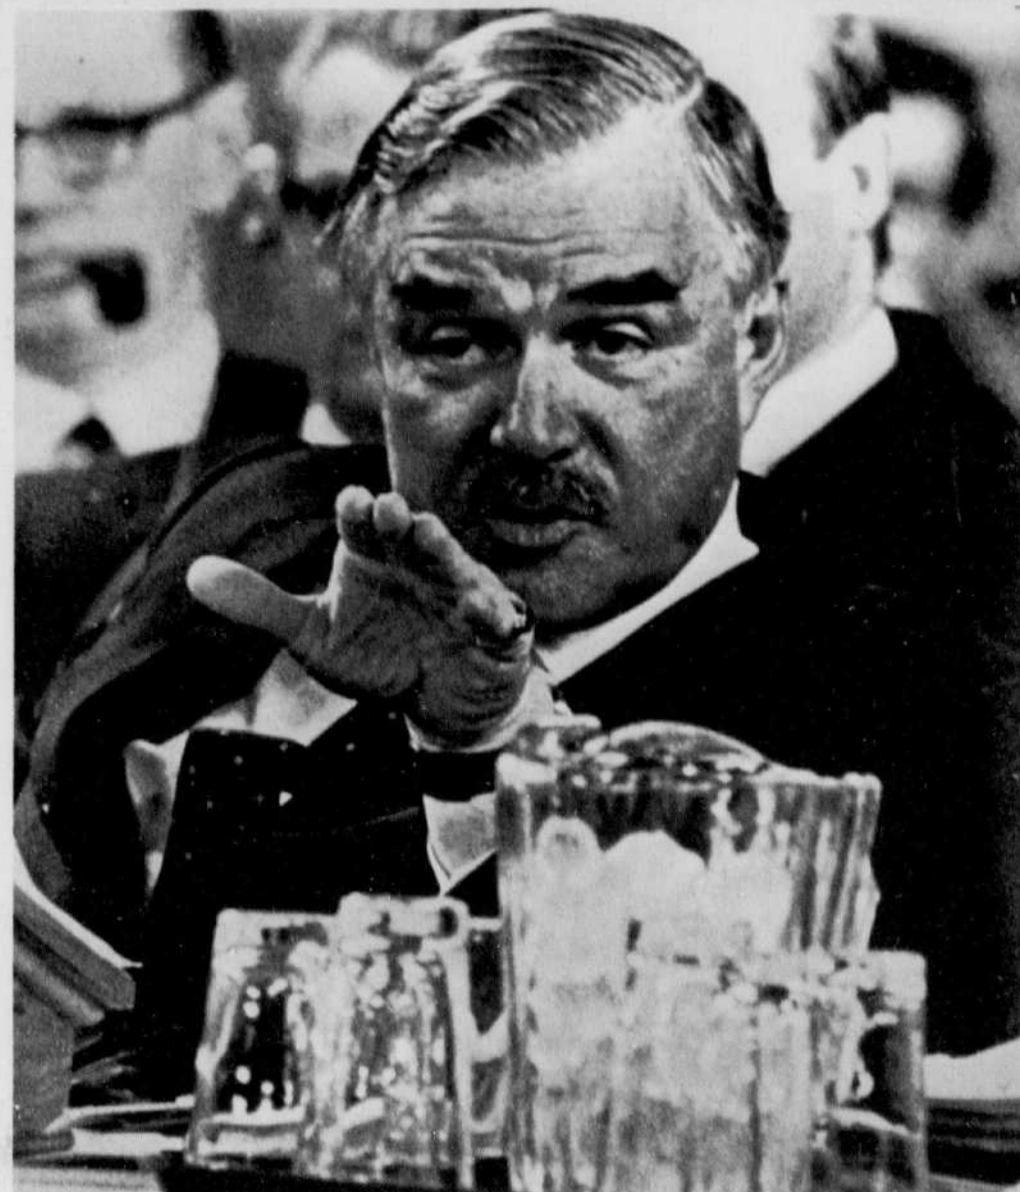

The B.C. premier's bouncy cheerfulness seemed to rub off on the leaders of the three Prairie delegations, who came to Ottawa with a fiscal sledgeham-

He left nothing to chance, airing his views in slow, deliberate fashion with carefully chosen phrases. Mr. Strom frequently called on the services of his attorney-general, Edgar Gerhart.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta said fiscal matters should be given top priority at the conference because they pose the greatest threat to Confederation.

Well received Maritimers are encouraged

OTTAWA (CP) — The Atlantic premiers came away from the constitutional conference Wednesday night encouraged by the attention they got for regional development problems.

—certainly as much as we expected. Newfoundland's Premier Joseph Smallwood called it a very useful meeting, "part of the process of educating the people of Canada in what Confederation is all about."

The reasons were these: —The conference agreed that "the full development of all parts of Canada is an essential goal of Confederation."

His main point was that although a causeway bridge from the island to the mainland would cost $160,000,000, it would save the country's taxpayers $1,000,000,000 in ferry expenses —Conference officials were told to give "special attention" to the constitutional aspects of regional inequalities.

English think Drapeau is still popular today

—Regional Development Minister Jean Marchand told the conference the long-awaited bill to set up his new department will be introduced in Parliament next week.

LONDON (CP) — BBC television devoted 50 minutes of prime time on one of its two networks Wednesday night to a detailed study of Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal.

All this followed a concerted appeal to the conference by four Atlantic leaders who said that while all provinces are in theory equal, some—namely the Atlantic provinces—are less equal than others.

The program gave the impression that criticism of Drapeau among Montrealers is mounting but that the mayor still has much popular support while himself expressing continued confidence in his position as city leader.

PLEASED WITH RESULTS Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia said: "No one is ever completely satisfied... but I think this conference achieved something Lucien Saulnier, chairman of the Montreal executive committee, termed "not completely unfair" a statement that one of his functions is to maintain some degree of control over the imaginative mayor in view of the city's current financial problems.

University rioters are denied bail

MONTREAL (CP) — Ninety-seven persons arraigned Wednesday on conspiracy charges resulting from a student rampage at Sir George Williams University were denied bail and will remain in jail for six days awaiting preliminary hearing.

Of those arrested at least 45 were described as non-Canadians. One is Cheddi Jagan Jr., 19, son of Opposition Leader Cheddi Jagan of Guyana.

The 97, including seven juveniles under 18, were arrested after a two-week occupation of the downtown university culminated Tuesday in the destruction of the university's $1,000,000 computer centre.

Forty-two of the 97 are black, including one juvenile, and at least 11 were not enrolled at Sir George Williams.

An estimated additional $1,000,000 damage was caused by water and smoke from fires set to smashed furniture and equipment.

Two other persons, arrested for disturbing the peace outside the university, were freed on $70 and $300 bail each.

The student unrest erupted over the makeup of a university committee hearing charges of racism levelled by six West Indian students against an assistant professor.

The 97 detained were charged with: —Conspiring to commit mischief that caused a danger to life by destroying or damaging property at Sir George Williams University through fire; —Conspiring to commit mischief in relation to private property by destroying or damaging computers and other equipment.

Bail was refused Wednesday to the 90 adults by Municipal Court Judge Maurice Johnson because they were liable, he said, to heavy prison terms if found guilty and "several are from outside Canada and might decide to return home before the trial."

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday. The seven juveniles were arraigned in social welfare court

A student occupation enters third day

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A student occupation of a section of the administration block at the University of Windsor went into its third day today after two public meetings on the campus failed to either support or condemn the demonstrators.

and were also denied bail. Of those arrested at least 45 were described as non-Canadians. One is Cheddi Jagan Jr., 19, son of Opposition Leader Cheddi Jagan of Guyana.

Fifty-five students barricaded themselves in the theology, classics and part of the psychology departments on the second floor of Windsor Hall early Tuesday. Since then their number has grown to 80.

Both Houses try to make it easier to get loans

OTTAWA (CP) — Both Houses of Parliament were preoccupied Wednesday with making it easier for some Canadians to get loans.

Mr. Davis has said outside the Commons that the rate will be one per cent more than the government pays for its money. If the change went into effect today, the rate would be 7 1/2 per cent.

East's double a real gamble. East might well have tried three hearts but he was out for a top score and he sure got one.

The defense started briskly. East signaled with the nine of hearts and West continued with the ace and eight. East was in with the queen and led back the eight of spades.

South went right up with the ace, led a club to dummy's king and finessed his 10 of diamonds. West took his queen and cashed the king of spades for down one. Then he looked around for new worlds to conquer or, specifically, for another trick. He could see that plus 100 for down one would not be a good score.

Finally he hit on the winning defense. He led his fourth heart. This play gave declarer a ruff and a discard but South knew that declarer had nothing worth discarding.

South could have ruffed in dummy and gone down two but South tried to make the contract. He ruffed in his own hand and led his last club. West ruffed and led a spade. East was extra careful not to ruff but declarer was down to trumps and had to, whereupon East still made his king of diamonds for down three.

The New Jersey Bridge League has a monthly publication called "The Declarer" which prints some very good bridge articles. One by Dick Budd, entitled "The Last Drop of Blood," is the basis of today's article.

This hand does not really belong in a publication entitled "The Declarer" unless you want to see a declarer hitting his head against a stone wall.

The game was match point duplicate and the bidding spirited, to say the least. North's three diamond call was quite enterprising and introduced Mr. MacLeay who, in turn, introduced his associates.

Mr. MacLeay had a replica of the new school which is under construction at Lennoxville and explained in detail about the different buildings, the system of teaching to be used, the curricula and other phases of education.

He stated that what we saw was the beginning of a long road ahead of us, a starting place to build a great system. This work cannot be accomplished solely by the school personnel he emphasized, but will require the help of parents as well. With the school completed, it will be a great building and with all working together, it will be a great system for the children. It is contemplated that the school will be completed no later than August 15, 1969.

The individual learning pattern for children will be adhered to very strictly; orientation is very important, also, this will make the girls and boys

Ian MacLeay gives details on new regional school

COOKSHIRE — The special feature of the A.B.C. Home and School Association meeting, held in the High School auditorium, was the interesting and informative talk given by Mr. Ian MacLeay, Director of Studies for the E.T. Regional School Board and principal-elect for the new school at Lennoxville. He was assisted by his associates, Messrs. Gale, Kendall and Lawrence.

The Cookshire High School principal, Mr. J. Garneau, inroduced Mr. MacLeay who, in turn, introduced his associates.

Mr. MacLeay had a replica of the new school which is under construction at Lennoxville and explained in detail about the different buildings, the system of teaching to be used, the curricula and other phases of education.

He stated that what we saw was the beginning of a long road ahead of us, a starting place to build a great system. This work cannot be accomplished solely by the school personnel he emphasized, but will require the help of parents as well. With the school completed, it will be a great building and with all working together, it will be a great system for the children. It is contemplated that the school will be completed no later than August 15, 1969.

The individual learning pattern for children will be adhered to very strictly; orientation is very important, also, this will make the girls and boys realize and appreciate the different types of work in the world of today. The courses of study will be designed to fit the child, and not the other way round as it has been done in the past. High School certificates will be issued to the graduates, and a child will be judged or marked on a system of credits.

The audience was divided into four groups, literature, the courses of study and elective courses were distributed, fully discussed and questions answered.

Mr. Schmidt thanked the guests for their time and their information and for coming out on a nasty night over such slippery roads. He also stated how pleased he was to see such a large number of parents in attendance, this showed they were truly interested in their children's education and welfare.

The next meeting will be in February and will be in the form of Meet the Teacher

Night, when parents will be given an opportunity to discuss with the teachers the problems of their children. There will be an executive meeting in the school on Feb. 13 at 7:30 to plan for the future programs. An invitation was given for more parents to become members of the association, thus supporting its work.

The meeting was opened and closed with the singing of O Canada and God Save the Queen. Mr. E. Schmidt presided.

Mr. Schmidt will soon be leaving to take up preaching duties in New Brunswick. He introduced the new director for Maplemount, Mr. Roger Gurnett from Edmonton, and the new house parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Rublee from Sherbrooke.

At the close of the evening refreshments were served.

THE DOCTOR SAYS
Rules for Avoiding Danger of Alcoholism
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

If we recognize that food, water, fire and alcohol are a part of life for a large proportion of the adult population, we must also recognize that any one of them can destroy a man unless it is controlled. The watchword is prevention.

In the case of alcohol it is well, first of all, to remember that persons who take only two drinks every day have a death rate that is 15 per cent higher than that of those who don't drink. There is always grave danger of alcoholism when a person drinks to get happy rather than because he is happy.

Dr. W. B. Terhune, an authority on the subject, lists the following rules for the avoidance of alcoholism:

If you need to unwind, take a short nap or a shower. Never take a drink in the morning.

An interesting experiment was conducted by a group of psychiatrists in Philadelphia on three alcoholics for whom all efforts at treatment had failed. They took movies of the men while they were drunk and showed them the films after they sobered up. Although this is not a guaranteed cure, these three saw for the first time that it was the alcohol and not some mysterious outside force that had caused their trouble. They all stopped drinking.

Non-graded elementary school sought

If a group of Lennoxville teachers and parents get the green light from the department of education, ungraded classes will be held in the elementary Protestant school starting next fall.

Forty-two parents and teachers at an educational workshop last night in the high school gave their approval to these classes being taught for five to 12-year-olds. The Lennoxville School Board has announced that it is ready to accept the workshop decision.

This ungraded method is in accordance with Regulation One adopted by the Provincial Government in May 1965, as one of the direct results of the report of the Royal Commission.

However, a history of ungrading in a small way at Lennoxville High School dates back to the late 1950's when a reading to level program was introduced.

Explained principal George Rothney: "A group of eight-year-olds may show some reading at the Grade One level and others at the Grade Four level." Teachers began working on the possibility of implementing Regulation One into the school during the winter of 1965-66. Since that time a math to level program has been introduced and school to parent reporting has been improved upon.

The criteria for grouping children will involve age, physical, intellectual, emotional and social status.

Additional costs involve $21,000 for the extra teachers and $4,000 for educational services which includes teaching aids and other materials.

The educational workshops, to consider the possibility of establishing a non-grading system into the schools, began Nov. 7 and so far five meetings have been held.

A directing committee of 20 teachers was formed as a result of the workshops.

At last night's meeting, members voted to hold four educational workshops a year.

UNRECEPTIVE — Veteran Montreal activist and editor of the left-wing journal OUR GENERATION Dmitri Rousopolous, left and West German socialist student leader Karl Dietrich Wolff gave an address to what proved to be

Student radicals' position explained to Bishop's group

A West-German student socialist leader and a veteran Canadian activist addressed a large Bishop's audience last Wednesday in what proved to be a rowdy session.

Karl Dietrich Wolff, president of the Socialist German Student Federation and a law student at Frankfurt, began his speech by saying, "I am here in Canada to inform the public of developments in West Germany, and of the forms of repression which exist there."

He stressed however, that many Canadian problems are similar to those of West Germany.

Referring to the Sir George University fiasco Mr Wolff said, "Never in my life before have I seen students cheering the police as they did in Sir George. People in Canadian universities do not know the function of the police yet — in Europe no one cheers the police any more."

Mr. Wolff explained that the radical student movement was organized for two reasons: because of the failure of the old left and the intellectual opposition to resist new repressive governmental measures, and the inadequacy of the "formal liberal understanding of politics to stop such a development."

The students first became radicals on questions of university reform. "Students at first," said Mr. Wolff, "demonstrated because they wanted a voice in the running of their university." They soon realized that the question of university reform involved much broader considerations. "There is no possibility of a free university in a society which is not free."

By TED KRAWCHENKO (Bishop's correspondent)

Several incidents served to mobilize the West-German students into action. One such incident was the passing of legislation by the Bonn parliament which gave the government the right to prohibit demonstrations and strikes. Commenting on this Mr. Wolff said, "the old autocratic, authoritarian forces were repressing democratic protest, and as a result were paving the way to extremism."

The situation in West Germany changed overnight with the killing of the Berlin student Benno Ohnesorg by the police in June 1967. Ohnesorg, a young married student who had never participated in a demonstration was shot in the back of his head. A nurse who tried to help him afterwards was also clubbed by the police. At least 15 witnesses have testified to the accuracy of this murder.

Following the burial, which was attended by over 20,000 students and sympathizers a congress on "The University in a Democracy" was held which brought professors and students together to discuss further strategy. The situation had the effect of radicalizing many students and brought "about a new solidarity among the politically conscious students, and increased the importance of its leading element, the SDS."

bilized considerable support among the young industrial workers and high school students after an attempted lynching of a student by a group of pro-American demonstrators. The demonstration in support of the American effort in Vietnam, claimed Mr. Wolff, was a result of the "anti-student hate campaign by the Springer press empire."

Mr. Wolff remarked that "there is a dangerous trend in western society where people think that liberal rules of the game defend the contents of democracy, when they can't." The young radicals' attack on western-liberal society is based on a criticism of the "power elite." "A small minority makes the decisions without any kind of consultation with the mass of people."

Mr. Wolff claims that most of the decisions are made in the interests of that small minority "the power elite." Because those in power are insensitive to change, which involves a threat to their established position, the "students have to go beyond the existing structures in their agitation." The existing structures are not responsive to, and cannot accommodate the demands of the radical element.

Mr. Wolff, pressed for time, did not elaborate on specific proposals towards the nature of the structures which would replace the "power elite." He did however affirm the principle of "participatory democracy," a term which the West German radicals interpret to mean a democracy based on "councils of workers and intellectuals." Throughout the SDS movement there runs a strong anti-authoritarian tendency, a tendency towards decentralization and democratic decision — making at the grassroots.

In closing, Mr. Wolff urged students towards a more critical, and a more responsible examination of society.

The Bishop's audience was mixed in its reaction to the oratory of the West German student. No one in the audience seemed to question Mr. Wolff's analysis of western society, although anger was aroused on more than one occasion.

One student accused the SDS president of being dogmatic for insisting that the oppressed were always right. Later in private conversation Mr. Wolff replied, "of course the oppressed are always right, because oppression is always wrong."

The second speaker, Dmitri Rousopolous, a veteran Montreal based activist and editor of the leftist journal Our Generation spoke briefly on the Canadian university scene. He

Judge postpones sentence

Sessions Judge Benoit Turmel yesterday postponed a youth's sentence on illegal entry until the boy could get his hair cut. Daniel Verpaest, 18, Stoke Center, pleaded guilty to being found sleeping in a home without permission.

Michel Cote, crown prosecutor, said the boy had no record and the crime wasn't serious. Judge Turmel said he would pass the sentence today after some of the youth's extremely long locks had been out.

Alfred Boisy, 59, was charged with menacing a priest with a knife. Preliminary inquiry was set at Feb. 19 by Sessions Judge Turmel.

Boisy was not released on bail because there was no place for him to go. Crown attorney Andre Langlais said he would check with the Franciscans, who formerly employed the accused, to see if they would take him in.

Jean Claude Faucher, 27, of Magog, yesterday pleaded guilty to stealing $276 from his employer and was ordered to post a $500 bond to keep the peace for two years by Sessions Judge Turmel.

Michel Cote, crown prosecutor, said the man had paid nearly all the money back and that a suspended sentence would be in order.

Three accused bandits were refused bail in the Bedford Mines Court of Sessions by Judge P. E. Baillargeon, Harold Martin, 25, of Verdun, Daniel Westover, 22, of Waterloo, and a sixteen year old who are accused of holding up the Royal Bank in Black Lake will await the Feb. 25 preliminary inquiry in jail.

RC teachers strike day-at-a-time

They're striking everywhere. L'Association catholique des enseignants de l'Estrie yesterday put into full force a series of one-day rotating strikes at schools in Sherbrooke, East Angus and Cowansville.

In Sherbrooke a total of 1,520 French speaking Catholic elementary school students from three schools were unable to attend classes following the one-day walk out by 50 teachers.

Schools involved were Bussiere, Carillon and Assomption. Four elementary schools in East Angus were unable to open their doors to 900 students when 38 professors went on the one-day strike. Fifteen teachers did not show up for work at Ste. Therese Elementary School in Cowansville and 500 pupils had to be sent to their homes for the day.

The first of a series of one-day rotating walkouts began last Thursday when the 51 teachers from l'ecole Montcalm failed to show up at the high school to teach.

President of the teachers' union, Olivier Tourigny told The Record that the one-day strikes will be continued at various schools throughout the city and surrounding areas. The rotating strikes here are in conjunction with similar ones throughout the province. Teachers have been working without the benefit of a government contract since Bill 25 expired last June.

Although negotiations will involve all teachers throughout the province at the English speaking Protestant and English speaking Catholic levels as well as their French speaking counterparts, decisions for the walkouts are made at each district level.

Mr. Tourigny said the one-day walkouts will continue until the government re-opens negotiations with the teachers.

The Up Tight Show in charge of Stewart Robins and Terry Doran, was transmitted live on closed circuit television. Six princesses were introduced, two from each visiting girls' school, each of whom presented a skit.

At five o'clock a buffet dinner was served then action continued with dancing and the awarding of prizes and crowning of the 1969 Carnival Queen by staff chairman of the Carnival, Robert McConnachie.

Strong action needed in Montreal rioting

Tuesday's disgraceful scenes at Sir George Williams University in Montreal which resulted in yet undetermined damage to that institution place a direct responsibility on both the officials of the City of Montreal and of the University itself — to make sure that the known participants in the rioting are prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Undoubtedly any move to punish the trouble-makers will bring protests from fuzzy-minded civil rights groups that the offenders are being subjected to unjustified persecution for presenting their views on the way the university is being managed — or mismanaged.

But Tuesday's troubles went beyond any justifiable demonstration and degenerated into acts of wanton vandalism and mob violence which cannot be condoned either by the government or the university authorities.

If the participating students are allowed to go unpunished the probable upshot will be an epidemic of similar incidents in other institutions of learning where any relatively unimportant grievance can be blown up into uncontrollable violence resulting in tremendous damage to property and perhaps loss of life.

Perpetrators of these outbreaks fall back on the old excuse of respecting minority rights.

But important as this principle may be there is another important right that must be respected — that of the majority to go about their business without fears of violence and property loss.

One tragic outcome of the rioting may be that the services of Sir George Williams may be crippled for many years to come.

Some of the damage caused by Tuesday's outbreak may be covered by insurance, but much of the money required to rehabilitate the establishment must come from one source — the provincial government.

And that body facing strong pressure for the establishment of a second French-language university in Montreal may be reluctant to divert a substantial part of its meagre funds to repairing the damage in an English university.

The climate of the French Riviera did not gain international fame until the 19th century, but what really put it on the map was the bikini.

MP's planning new raid

Canadian taxpayers may expect further raids on the federal treasury within the next few weeks unless an aroused public opinion compels the Members of Parliament to display good judgment by rejecting proposals, so far advanced unofficially, that they increase their own indemnities by $8,000 a year and also sweeten up their already lush pension plan.

Nothing but popular indignation can prevent the Parliamentarians from voting themselves this increase if they feel so disposed and judging from the past record of the MP's in this respect it will take a very loud protest to halt the raid.

Probably the main argument to be used in justifying the $8,000 increase — representing a boost of 44.4 per cent for the Commons — is that the cost of living, or of politicking, has gone up in recent years.

But it must be realized that the present incumbents have served less than one year of their five-year term and in effect are seeking a unilateral change in the contract they entered into with the people of Canada.

Hundreds of MP's whose contract expired last June sought a five-year renewal, while many more hundreds also sought the positions knowing full well the salary terms attached to the posts.

And the retiring Members who sought re-election were fully aware of the costs involved in holding the position but they still worked hard for a renewal of their mandate.

Any proposal to give a wage increase of this proportion makes a mockery of the pleas by cabinet ministers for individuals to show restraint in their demands for income increases and will be particularly grating to government pensioners whose requests for pension supplements have been rejected on the grounds that the money is not available.

The only families without skeletons in the closet are those with more ample storage room in the attic.

Dear Sir:

You will be interested in a move by the Cartier General Assembly Knights of Columbus Fourth Degree, to promote patriotism and an even greater love of country and its people. It is an accepted premise that the flag of our country is one of the outward symbols of this patriotism. As a result of this, the following motion was passed unanimously at a meeting of Cartier General Assembly.

"Moved by Sir Knight Mathew J. McGrath, Faithful Admiral, and seconded by Sir Knight Preston Hillier, Faithful Pilot that:

Whereas the flag of our country is an outward symbol of patriotism and whereas it is desirable to pay tribute to our National Flag as an expression of this patriotism and whereas our National Flag was proclaimed and first raised on February 15, 1965 and whereas the principle of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus is patriotism be it moved; that this Assembly encourage and urge the Government of Canada to proclaim February 15 as Canadian Flag Day and to commemorate this date each year in a suitable fashion that will engender patriotism in our people; and be it further moved, that we solicit support of all Canadians to accomplish this purpose."

We should ask you to support this program by writing to the Prime Minister of Canada, Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, and letting him know that you endorse the aim and intent of our motion.

Man frowns on drinking for youth

Dear Sir:

We've had some pretty wild statements made and comparisons drawn lately in "letters to the editor" on the subject of teenage drinking.

A person old enough to be drafted in wartime is not old enough to drink. It does not take a great deal of maturity to operate a machine gun. I know — I was involved with both machine guns and alcohol in World War Two. Because the law allows a child of 18 to vote, does not mean the child is mature enough to vote. It just illustrates that the law is stupid.

Sincerely,
OLD SWEAT

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA — (TNS) — A monarchy or a republic? A parliamentary or a congressional system of government? A federation of provinces or of the English and French-speakers? An entrenched bill of rights or supremacy of Parliament? More power to the provinces or to the central government?

These are some of the questions the continuing committee of officials examining the problems of constitutional revision hopes to get guidance on from this week's "constitutional conference" in Ottawa.

The continuing committee of Federal and provincial officials was set up after the first session of the constitutional conference last February at which the 11 prime ministers, under the chairmanship of Lester B. Pearson, decided to undertake a fundamental review of the century-old British North America Act.

Mr. Pearson's view at that time was that the review, resulting either in modernization of the BNA Act or in a brand new constitution for Canada, could be completed within two or three years.

The continuing committee of officials was to prepare detailed studies for the prime ministers who would then make the political decisions in the process of assembling a revised or new constitution from the available options.

Judging by the published summary of the work done so far by the continuing committee of officials, it's obvious that the whole project will take much longer than Mr. Pearson had anticipated. Even 10 years look like an optimistic forecast right now.

The trouble with this prospect is that no one can plan anything with any degree of certainty that far ahead. Both at home and abroad pressures for change of the existing socio-political structures are growing so fast that God only knows what our constitutional requirements, if any, will be in a decade from now.

Will, for example, Quebec be still with us by 1980? The way things are going this need not be a hypothetical question. Rene Levesque obviously does not regard it as such.

With the Trudeau Government's reluctance to reaffirm our adherence to the system of collective security, one can perhaps even ask: Will there be a free and independent Canada 10 years from now?

While these questions do not appear in the "briefing paper on discussions within the continuing committee of officials," they are implicit in the material the officials have prepared for the constitutional conference.

ference. And it's with these unstated basic questions the heads of our governments should come to grips first when they meet, for nothing much can be accomplished by weighing constitutional options in a vacuum of fundamental premises of national existence.

In other words, we must first know what our position is going to be in relation to the global struggle between the forces of totalitarianism and democracy before we can start overhauling our politico-economic framework with any hope of relevancy to the shape of things to come on the international scene.

For unless we resolve to contribute as best we can to the effort of our historical allies to preserve the essential conditions of political and individual freedom in our no longer invulnerable part of the world, discussions of our internal arrangements could soon become meaningless.

It goes without saying that if we were to become a part of the totalitarian system, the most perfect constitution in the world would not save us from the fate of slaves. Nor would it make a iota of difference whether Quebec would remain an integral part of Canada or become a separate republic.

There is, of course, a reverse co-relation between our international role and domestic conditions in the sense that we cannot very well make our fair contribution to the primary task of preservation of freedom in the Atlantic area without political and economic stability at home.

In this sense it is unfortunate that the undeniable need for a major revision of our constitutional framework happens to coincide with the Trudeau regime's decision to reappraise Canada's international commitments.

The result is that no one knows where Canada stands and what it intends to do, both at home and abroad.

Lacking the certainty of a clearly defined foreign policy, the constitutional overhaul conducted in a vacuum which cannot but hamper the formulation of foreign policy.

Needless to say, the resulting uncertainty in both areas provides a happy hunting ground for all the destructive elements in our society, from Quebec separatists to the nihilist young "revolutionaries" who promote anarchy.

In these circumstances the constitutional conference cannot but compound the growing chaos with agonizing questions that cannot be answered while the direction of our foreign policy remains in doubt.

Police ineptness was a big factor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police ineptness and a hard-line policy against Negroes were major contributions to the riot that erupted in Miami during the 1968 Republican national convention, a report to the national commission on violence says.

Four persons died in the looting, burning, and gunfire that broke out while the Republicans met to nominate a presidential candidate in neighboring Miami Beach the first week in August.

But the commission's study group on Miami, headed by prominent Florida lawyers Louis J. Hector and Paul L. E. Helliwell, also reported that there was little connection between the convention and the cause of the riots.

members.

The chairman of the literature and communications committee reported the study books have been received. and Mrs. Hilmar Krausser.

The group also plan to keep a Canadian diary noting various significant happenings throughout the year.

It was also Mr. Fred Jewett's eightieth birthday that day so when he entered the hall to call for the hostess, the ladies sang Happy Birthday and for he's a jolly good Fellow to this popular resident of the Vale

Friends help homeless family

SUTTON — (Special) — Thanks to the thoughtful action of Mrs. R. Jones, owner of Igloo Kennels, a few miles from Sutton, the Murray Demers family, made homeless by the fire last week that destroyed the house and all its contents, now is comfortably quartered for the remainder of this winter.

Mrs. Jones, who has sometimes employed Mr. Demers, has taken the husband and wife and their two children in to stay with her until a new house has been built in the spring to replace the burned one.

Help has been given generously by others, too. The children have been outfitted with necessary new clothes and have received other aid from organizations, relatives and friends.

In Sutton churches at morning services an appeal was made in an effort to obtain new tools for Mr. Demers, a skilled woodsman. He lost through the fire, his large collection that included power saws, axes and other needed implements. It is hoped that some such tools will be donated or lent to help him out now.

REGIONAL FIRE BRIGADE — The mayors of six municipalities recently signed an agreement establishing the first regional fire brigade in the province. The brigade will serve the area around Waterloo. Shown above in the

Six towns form a regional fire brigade and purchase new firefighting equipment

WATERLOO — (Special) — The mayors of six municipalities in the Waterloo area have just completed an agreement establishing a regional fire brigade. With income from the five towns of South Stukely, Warden, Ste. Etienne, Shefford and St. Joachim, the town of Waterloo will purchase new and necessary equipment to fight fires outside the town limits.

The five municipalities concerned will be charged annually at the rate of one dollar per thousand dollars valuation. This means a house owner will have to pay approximately five to ten dollars per year for full protection.

Waterloo will now buy a large 2,000 gallon tanker truck, with all accessories, approved by the provincial government. This truck would be the first to arrive at a fire, and it would be ready to pour water on the flames instantly. The tanker would be followed by a regular truck with the usual equipment.

In case of a major fire, a third rescue truck will be called. This unit is equipped with accessories such as a powerful portable water pump, a 2,000 watt gasoline generator equipped with spotlights, first aid kits, oxygen cylinders, stretchers, hydraulic jacks, metal cutting torches, etc.

Although most cities are equipped to fight fires quickly the country resident must go through his mayor and council to get proper authority in calling a fire brigade. Now every resident of the surrounding municipalities can make a direct call to the Waterloo Fire Department, and get the same quick service as the town's residents.

The new equipment to be purchased by the town of Waterloo will cost about $40,000. None of the six municipalities involved could afford such equipment by itself, but in such an agreement the cost is reduced considerably.

Fast work by ski patrol prevents serious injuries

SUTTON — (Special) — On Feb. 7 at 3 p.m. the sudden breaking of a cable of the T-bar at Ski Mount Sutton injured John Lawrence, an employee at the sports center.

At once, the ski patrol went into efficient action. When a doctor, after an examination, diagnosed the injury as a broken neck, the patrol men carefully packed Mr. Lawrence in sandbags before his removal by ambulance to the Neurological Division of the Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal.

An X-ray examination at the hospital showed the injury was less serious than had at first been believed, and due to the skilled work of the ski patrol members there had been no further injuries while Mr. Lawrence was in the ambulance.

Now, thanks to such efficient first-aid, the injured man is back with his wife and family at his North Sutton home to recover from what might have proved a fatal accident.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Sherbrooke IODEs celebrate anniversary

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, which holds an impressive record of service in many fields, is today celebrating the 69th anniversary of its founding.

In Sherbrooke the IODE chapters are not idle. They are always ready to give a helping hand to anyone in need. Last year new and used clothing, food, Christmas baskets and fuel oil were given to needy families to the amount of $2,500.

In education, a French library was given to Mitchell School, bursaries, money, book prizes, magazines and calendars sent to schools amounted to about $400.

Along with this, members fold bandages at Cancer Clinic and help on Daffodil Day. At the Sherbrooke Hospital, books are distributed weekly to patients from the IODE free lending library.

Money is raised by the chapters through curling bonspiels, fashion shows, card parties, rummage sales, teas and tag days.

The Provincial Chapter of Quebec IODE joins all members of the Order in celebrating the 69th birthday.

The members of the Provincial Chapter have worked with and for the sick, the needy, the handicapped, the aged and the underprivileged among fellow Canadians, to bring them material comforts and necessities, and to combat despair and loneliness.

Such institutions as the Clarenceville Home for Retarded, St. Anne's Veterans' Hospital, the Douglas Home, the Old Brewery Mission, Welcome Hall, Fort Chimo Indian and Eskimo schools and Kateri Memorial Hospital are among those which have been assisted with goods and services this past year. Many individual families have also been helped.

Another object of the order is to assist in the progress of education. In this field, the Provincial Chapter has supported National Chapter projects designed to aid education, art and literature.

Two Quebec students were recommended by the chapter for post graduate overseas work, memorial scholarships and both have been granted these scholarships, are studying in England. Here in Quebec, three young people are attending university, having received grants from the provincial bursary tuition loan fund.

Libraries and schools, including French, English, Indian and Eskimo, have been given many books in both languages. Pen Pals have been linked from Quebec to other parts of Canada and abroad, so that these young people will grow to know and understand one another.

The Provincial Chapter participated in a National Chapter Project which provided new X-ray equipment for Korea, as well as giving assistance to Save The Children Fund in Canada, Korea and Hong Kong.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Roller or Bamboo Rake Will Clean Shag Rug

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Toni wanted to know how to clean her shag rug as the fuzz clogged up her vacuum cleaner. Using a large brush roller that is intended for setting hair and brushing the rug in one direction will clean it very nicely. We use this technique in our home. Also Toni can throw her rug into her clothes dryer, on the gentle cycle, and she will find the fuzz will be removed.—JULIE

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Toni not to try to vacuum her shag rug. Go to the hardware store and buy an old-fashioned bamboo rake and rake the rug. This may sound silly but it really works. By raking the rug you pick up all the fuzz and lint. Each time you rake, go in the opposite direction from the time before. This was suggested to me by the carpet salesman who sold us our shag rug.—SUSAN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—In a final and desperate attempt to remove a chemical insect spray from our windows my husband used a steel wool pad. As a result the windows are all scratched. Is there any way to remove these scratches? We cannot afford new window glass.—G. M.

DEAR POLLY—As spices lose their strength with age, I always put a piece of white tape on each can when I buy it, and mark the date of purchase on it. Little used spices or those that have been on the shelf too long are easily spotted and thrown out.—NORMA

DEAR POLLY—I am 13 and enjoy helping my dad with home projects and thought something we did might interest your readers. My dad showed me that when installing wall paneling it is not necessary to measure for each electrical outlet. He rubbed petroleum jelly on the outer edges of each outlet box, held the paneling against it and a perfect imprint was left on the back. This eliminates the need for the tedious job of measuring the paneling before cutting holes for outlets.—RANDY

Examines babies' hip joints

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Michael Bell has examined the hip joints of 5,585 babies—the total number born at Vancouver General Hospital since March, 1967.

The object? Dr. Bell, an instructor with the University of British Columbia's department of surgery, was trying to determine how many babies are born with dislocated hips and to find out what to do about it.

He reported to the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in Vancouver recently that 43 of the 5,585 babies had "unstable hips"—a condition that can be difficult to correct if it is not treated early in life.

He said the joints returned to normal within two weeks in most cases, with the aid of casts or braces that keep the baby's legs separated and flexed.

He said that in some African cultures mothers habitually carry their babies with the infant's legs straddling her hips—a position similar to that of the corrective procedure applied in the West.

Because of this, few of them grow up with hip-joint defects.

Stork shower is held for Mrs. Allen Wing

STANSTEAD — Mrs. Claude Grenier and Mrs. Paul Tellier, of Stanstead, were hostesses at the Mexican Room, Imperial Motel at a stork shower for Mrs. Allen Wing.

The gifts included several hand knits, blankets, garments and others.

The decor in the room was carried out in colors of white, pink and blue.

A few games were played and the winners each received a prize.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Wing was presented with a stork cake, made by Mrs. Horace Doyon, in the design of baby playing blocks. Mrs. Wing will cut and serve this when the baby is christened.

Arrest four men after gun battle

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP) — Four men were arrested Tuesday night after a gun battle outside a wholesale grocery establishment they had been trying to break into.

Two of the men were shot and wounded by provincial police officers who were lying in wait for the men to arrive following a telephoned tip.

The wounded men underwent operations in Hotel Dieu hospital here and were reported today to be in satisfactory condition.

Police waited for several hours inside the Presto Grocery on route 11 near here. The men arrived at about 6 p.m. and began to hammer at concrete blocks with sledgehammers.

Two hours later they broke through and two men entered to be told by police to raise their hands.

The men replied with a fusillade of bullets.

The police fired back bringing both men down.

In principle

MONTREAL (CP) — Hydro-Quebec has agreed in principle to supply Ontario with a considerable amount of electric power between 1971 and 1977. It may also supply surplus power to New Brunswick.

The Quebec-Ontario agreement was announced jointly Wednesday by Jean-Claude Lesard, president of the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission, and George E. Gathercole, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

The heads of the two publicly-owned utilities said the letter of intent, or agreement in principle, also includes a mutual assistance pact and will be followed eventually by a formal contract.

It was estimated the deal between the two corporations involves about $100,000,000.

Following the announcement, Mr. Lesard told the Montreal Electrical Club "we believe we also will be in a position to supply surplus power to the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission from the fall of 1971 to the winter of 1975-76."

CAN BOOST SUPPLY

He said the amount of power involved could be progressively increased over the period from about 65,000 kilowatts to about 320,000 kilowatts. About three-quarters of a kilowatt equals one horsepower.

The agreement between Hydro-Quebec and Ontario Hydro provides for the sale of a total of 20,000,000 kilowatt hours during the six-year period of the contract and, in addition, any excess energy that may be mutually agreed upon by the two parties.

The announcement said the power delivered could reach a maximum of 750,000 kilowatts annually during the six-year period.

However, Hydro-Quebec reserves the right to interrupt delivery at peak load hours on the Quebec system during the winter months, but guarantees a continuous supply of 500,000 kilowatts of power annually during the last two years—from June 1, 1975, to May 31, 1977.

Mr. Lesard told the electrical club Hydro-Quebec plans to spend—between now and 1972—more than $1,000,000,000 on the expansion of generating capacity, transmission, distribution and other facilities.

The corporation's surplus power will come mostly from the Churchill Falls (Labrador) Corp. Ltd. project.

No reason

MONTREAL (CP) — There is no reason to believe that retail sales of liquor by private enterprise distribution in Quebec would be more efficient than by the Quebec Liquor Board, a royal commission inquiry into QLB administration and operations was told Wednesday.

Marc Boissonneault, a liquor board accountant, told the inquiry he based his observation on nine years service with the QLB.

He also had drawn the conclusion after studying about 10 reports on the subject of private enterprise moving into the Quebec liquor retail field.

Mr. Boissonneault said that with government control there is no danger, for example, of a price war which could happen under private enterprise.

The commission was established in December by Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand following a 5½-month strike by 3,000 liquor board employees last year.

Gain Control

MONTREAL (CP) — T. N. Beaupre, chairman of the board of British Columbia Forest Products Ltd., confirmed Wednesday that Noranda Mines Ltd. has acquired enough shares to gain control of B.C. Forest Products.

Mr. Beaupre said a letter has been sent to shareholders informing them he has been informally advised that Noranda has sufficient shares for a takeover.

Last month Noranda made an offer to acquire 400,000 shares in B.C. Forest in a stock-and-cash bid worth about $40 a share. The offer remains open until Feb. 17.

Mr. Beaupre said he assumed Noranda would now proceed with takeover plans. This could occur in April at the B.C. Forest shareholders' meeting when a slate of directors satisfactory to both sides will be appointed.

said that youth today were realizing the discrepancy between "the rhetoric of democracy and the reality."

He said the Canadian radical student movement as aiming for two goals: a new definition of value; and a new sense of national independence.

"A new society must evolve," he continued, "one of participation, and new commitments, and heightened consciousness."

He warned Canadians not to get too smug about their society. "We are not as free as we think we are. The United States is slowly spreading its tentacles into our society. We are slowly accepting the 'non-values' of American society."

That student attitude is changing in North America was brought out by a recent survey by Fortune magazine.

Quoting the magazine Mr. Roussopolous said, "American businessmen are worried that 40 per cent of the student population doesn't care about making money... and that Che Guevara was more popular a figure than any of the three American presidential candidates in the last election."

In Canada, Mr. Roussopolous concluded, "We have growing social contradictions as well." He cited as examples of this the problem of adverse poverty and of the Indians and Eskimos. Students, in his opinion, were coming to a realization of the role they could play in the solution of these problems.

But the process is not rapid enough. The universities are still "pastures for the privileged."

CORTINA

Deep inside this small car lives a big car.

1969 Cortina Deluxe 2-Door

There's a big list of standard features that includes front disc brakes, aeroflow ventilation with air extractors, a 4-speed fully-synchronized "sport type" transmission, (3-speed North American-type automatic is optional at a modest cost), a special Canadian Winter Driving Package comprising heavy duty battery and starter, high output heavy-duty generator and heater/de-froster, and lots more. There's a big model choice of 2- and 4-door Cortinas, 2- and 4-door Cortina Deluxes, 2- and 4-door GTs, and an incredibly roomy 4-door Deluxe Wagon. And they're all equipped with the North American Safety Equipment Package including headrests.

If you're a GT buff, the standard GT features will make you smile all the way to the bank. You get everything from a 1600 cc engine with a 2-V Weber carburetor, tach and full instrumentation, including a clock, to a special stiffened suspension, radial ply tires, and power brakes with front discs. The GT interior features a genuine wood-paneled dash.

Yet, with all this big car thinking inside and out, Cortina gives you small car thinking in two vital areas: a very low purchase price and economy of operation. Discover Cortina's big car hiding inside a little car at selected Ford and Mercury dealers. It's a lot more car for buyers of imports.

It may look like a small car, but where it really counts, the 1969 Cortina is a big car. And big in standard features. Consider this: last year's great sales success didn't come because Cortina is an ordinary import. Cortina is extraordinary.

Start with the trunk. It isn't import-sized. It's big-car sized. You get 21 cu. ft. to store your suitcases, hat boxes, duffel bags or what-have-you. Try the back seat: room for three... not two, three. Up front, there are two big bucket seats that are very, very comfortable—with big-car leg and shoulder room.

And Cortina is big in interior styling with handsome vinyl trim and fully-padded dash. The Cortina Deluxe and GT models feature deep-embossed vinyl seats, coloured keyed interiors and full loop pile carpet.

Cortina believes in delivering big car performance too. With a unique bowl-in-piston engine, bred in over 500 rally wins around the world. And thoroughly tested in tough Canadian winters. This great engine gives you better acceleration, higher top speed, and better performance with no increase in fuel consumption. In fact, you get up to 36 mpg.

Introducing Ford's 1969 Cortina: A lot more car $1899*

*Manufacturers suggested retail price of Cortina 2-door, Port of Entry Halifax not including Provincial and Local taxes, shipping charges, licence and suggested preparation and conditioning charge of $25.00. Illustrated Cortina Deluxe 2-door, slightly higher.

OBITUARIES

RICHARD McLEOD ROSS, OF SHERBROOKE

A well known and respected resident of the Eastern Townships, R. M. (Dick) Ross, died Jan. 13, 1969, at his home in Sherbrooke, after a short illness.

Born on Jan. 21, 1912, in Loch Winnoch, Scotland, the youngest son of R. McLeod Ross and Margaret Allen, he came to Canada at an early age, resided in Richmond and Melbourne and attended St. Francis High School.

He was married to the former Albertine Jondreville, of Windsor, in Aug. 11, 1934.

His business career began with the Canadian Bank of Commerce in many district communities and continued at the Canada Paper — Domtar Mill in Windsor for many years, where he became Steam Plant and Recovery Superintendent, after completing the many courses required to obtain his stationary engineman's and refrigeration certificates.

He was prominent in civic, church and social activities during his 29 years in Windsor, as a member of the IOOF Jubilee Lodge No. 31, the Richmond Historical Society, the Town of Windsor Band, the Choral Society, Chess Club, Past President of the St. Andrew's Society, Trustee, Steward and Choir Member of St. Andrew's United Church, Past President, one of the founders and an Honorary Life Member of the Windsor Curling Club, etc.

In 1965 he moved to Sherbrooke and continued in the paper industry as Steam Plant Superintendent for the Kruger Paper Company, at Bromptonville.

During the past year he supervised the completion of construction and the start-up of a large thermal power station, for the Federal Government, in Sukkur, West Pakistan, and on his return to Canada, represented several companies which supply services and equipment to industry. Left to right, Mrs. Buck, skip, Mrs. Claire Clavet and Mrs. Mary Johnson. In the rear, same order, Mrs. Edgar, who presented the winners with their prizes, and Mrs. Doreen Brazel.

Mrs. Edgar introduced each skip, Betty Wilson, Sutton; Eddy Hatrick, North Hatley; Marge Sundborg, Windsor; Evelyn Buck, Lennoxville; Mavis Delisle, Sherbrooke; Ruth Knutson, North Hatley; and Joan Miner, Granby and each introduced their teams.

This was the first visit of the Granby team to the Border Club. Games were played in the morning by Lennoxville, Sutton, North Hatley and Windsor with Lennoxville the winners. During the luncheon they were presented with their prizes.

In the afternoon, two North Hatley teams, Sherbrooke and Granby played. It looked like a three-way tie but the last stone, thrown by Sherbrooke, decided the winners. The scores of the four teams were nine, eight and seven plus.

Afternoon tea was served and the Sherbrooke rink were presented their prizes. One player of each of the losing teams claimed a door prize.

The pretty decorations and the luncheon were in charge of Mrs. Priscilla Fitch and Mrs. Mildred Caruthers assisted by others of the club. The tea arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Olive Wells, chairman; Miss Viola Moranville, Mrs. W. Todd and Mrs. C. Wright; Miss Moranville, vice-president, also assisted with the luncheon.

Sherbrooke Beavers continue their struggle for a playoff berth in Provincial Senior Hockey League tonight when they host Phil Watson's Chicoutimi Saguenens at 8:30 p.m. at the Sports Palace.

Victoriaville Tigers head the circuit with 55 points, one point better than Chicoutimi in second place. Granby holds down third spot with 46 points with Sherbrooke and St. Hyacinthe tied for fourth spot with 43 points. Ottawa Eastern Canada Nationals, having played only 13 games, are in sixth place with 15 points.

In one other crucial encounter tonight Granby Vics face St. Hyacinthe Gauls in Granby, Sherbrooke, having three games in hand on Granby would not doubt appreciate a St. Hyacinthe win but in either case Lou Poliquin's chargers must outscore Phil Watson's contingent this evening if they hope to keep the present drive alive.

The scheduled Victoriaville-Ottawa encounter slated for tonight in the Capital is cancelled. Ottawa will play no further home games this season and all the scheduled tilts have been cancelled. Lack of local enthusiasm in the Ottawa area was blamed for the move by the team's directors.

Real Viens, prolific St. Hyacinthe Gauls' forward, continues to lead the Provincial Senior Hockey League scoring Sherbrooke Beavers have four team members within the top 28 scorers: Bill Dupre, Rene Pepin, Jim Beckman and Andre Lagueux.

Real Viens leads all goal scorers with 30 while Mungar has the most assists, 48. Claude Cyr, brilliant Saguenens' shutout leader, leads in the shutout department with four.

At Toronto, the line of Dave Keon, Murray Oliver and Floyd Smith picked up nine points in the Leafs' rout of Minnesota. Keon and Bob Pulford each scored two goals for the Leafs. Smith, Oliver and Norm Ullman got the other Toronto goals.

Defenceman Leo Boivin got Minnesota's only goal late in the first period.

Nancy Greene, Canada's top female skier now retired, and Harry Jerome of Vancouver, Canadian sprint champ, took part in a speed skating race which Nancy won by a ski length.

Members of Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League participated in the affair before leaving for Detroit and tonight's game with the Red Wings.

Another facet of the event saw the Winnipeg St. James pee-wee hockey club beat Montreal CJMS 2-1.

Hawks and Flyers battle to draw, Leafs wallop Stars

Chicago Black Hawks have scored more goals than any other team in the National Hockey League except Boston Bruins, but they are still doormats in their division.

The Black Hawks played to a 3-3 tie Wednesday night with Philadelphia Flyers in NHL action — their seventh straight game without a win. They have not won a game since Jan. 30 when they overpowered the Flyers 12-0 at Philadelphia. Since then they have lost five and tied two.

The tie Wednesday night dropped the Hawks further behind fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs, who lead them by three points in the Eastern Division. Chicago, led by Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita, has scored 205 goals in 56 games this season. Only Boston, leaders in the Eastern Division, has scored more goals, 217.

But the Hawks have had 185 goals scored against them — the third highest goals-against mark in the 12-team league. This inability to stop the opposition has them battling for a playoff spot.

Meanwhile St. Louis Blues, who have not been charitable to goal scorers this season, blanked Pittsburgh Penguins 2-0 in a game between the two Western Division teams. The shutout was the seventh of the season for Glenn Hall, tops in the league.

Toronto Maple Leafs ended a winless streak of five games against Western Division teams when they downed Minnesota North Stars 7-1. Oakland Seals edged New York Rangers 3-2.

The Flyers scored two third-period goals to earn their tie against Chicago. Pit Martin of Chicago scored his 11th goal

10,000 turn out Minor Hockey night at Forum

MONTREAL (CP) — It was fun night at Montreal Forum Wednesday as close to 10,000 persons turned out for minor hockey night, sponsored by the Quebec Minor Hockey Association's fund-raising campaign.

The association now has reached the $100,000 mark toward a $250,000 goal it expects to raise by the end of the month.

The program Wednesday consisted of hockey at various levels, including an abbreviated B-1 rout by members of Parliament over their provincial colleagues.

The Ottawa forces led by Manpower Minister Jean Marchand easily subdued the group coached by Quebec Opposition Leader Jean Lesage.

Other games featured Montreal journalists against their radio and television counterparts and the mayors of suburbs against Montreal City council.

Saint John, N.B. stop Toronto Shopsy's bid second crown in International Pee Wee tourney

QUEBEC (CP) — Yvon Vautour of Saint John, N.B., destroyed all hopes Toronto Shopsy's had of again winning the AA division crown in the Quebec international pee-wee hockey tournament.

Vautour's third goal of the game 54 seconds before the final buzzer broke a 3-3 tie and gave Saint John a 4-3 win over Shopsy's, advancing the Maritime club to the AA quarter-finals.

Vautour also assisted on a goal by MacGregor Grant. The offensive star of the game put Saint John ahead 3-2 at 11:30 of the third period. Kevin Kennedy tied the score at 13:03 of the third period but Vautour backhanded a shot into the net at 14:06 of the third period to give Saint John the victory.

Daniel Djakalovic and Stephen Chapman were the other marksmen for Toronto.

Winnipeg and Toronto Young Nationals also advanced to the quarter-finals of the AA section. Winnipeg squeezed past Montreal CJMS 2-1 in a special game played in Montreal while the Young Nationals blanked Toronto Cedar Hill 2-0.

Pointe Claire, a Montreal suburb team, continued its bid for a third consecutive class A championship by blanking Thetford Mines, Que., 2-0.

The victory advanced Pointe Claire to the A semi-finals against Barrie, Ont., which won 1-0 against Levis, Que., Wednesday.

Gatineau, Arvida, Orsainville and Grand Mere, all Quebec teams — moved on to the semi-finals of the B division after posting triumphs Wednesday.

Gatineau dumped Dubergue, Que., 7-3. Orsainville won 5-3 over la Tuque, Que. Arvida defeated Pointe Gatineau, Que., 4-1 and Grand Mere walloped Charlottetown 6-1.

Caughnawaga, Que., and Les Saules, Que., made it to the semi-finals of the C category. Caughnawaga pummeled Labrador City, Nfld., 9-1 and Les Saules downed Murdochville, Que., 6-3.

CFL goes into college draft with tough TV contract and blackout problems unsolved

OTTAWA (CP) — A halfback from Waterloo Lutheran and a linebacker from Simon Fraser University are expected to be the first choices today when the Canadian Football League college draft gets under way.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers were expected to take both Doug Strong of Waterloo, Ont., and Bob McLaren from SFU in Burnaby, B.C.

As plans for the draft went ahead, the matter of television rights—which could be worth more than $1,000,000—still was undecided, with the spectre of cable television the obstacle.

The Eastern and Western conferences held separate and closed meetings Wednesday to negotiate contracts to replace those which expired on Grey Cup Day last year. Nothing was settled.

Neither conference would discuss the amount of money under negotiation but both said they were going after an increase.

Under the old pact, the East got $500,000 on the last year of their three-year contract with CTV. The West got $300,000 on a contract signed three years previously but which carried two one-year extension options which were exercised.

But today, all nine teams meet together to pick over the best of the 1968 crop of college players.

The Bombers, as the last-place club in the conference whose champion lost the Grey Cup game, get first choice. They also had access to Montreal Alouettes' first choice as part of the deal involving linebacker Rudy Reschke last season.

Alex Squires, a defensive end from University of Toronto, was also expected to be a high choice as will be John Kruspe, another Waterloo Lutheran backfielder.

However, some of the country's top college players won't be involved in this draft. These include students drafted last year when their classes graduated but who returned to university for further study.

In this category are Heino Lilles, a flanker from Queen's, drafted by Winnipeg, and Ron Wakelin and Don Bayne, both picked up by Ottawa Rough Riders.

Wakelin was a tackle at University of Western Ontario; Bayne was a Queen's quarterback.

Mike Raham of U of T, a half-back, went to Calgary. They were all members of the 1968 college all-star team.

In today's choosing, Saskatchewan Roughriders get two first choices—their own and that of British Columbia Lions, involved in the deal for linebacker Garner Ekstran who went to the West Coast after playing out his option.

Ironically, Toronto Argonauts—for years the doormat team of the CFL with first right in every draft—won't even have a first or second choice when their names are called.

Philip Aziz Work of Ontario artist goes on display

NEW YORK (CP) — The paintings and sculpture of Philip Aziz, 45-year-old London, Ont., artist, go on display this week at the Gallery of Modern Art. It is the first of a series of showings scheduled to criss-cross the United States.

The Thursday night premiere will take the form of a benefit for two sponsoring organizations — the National Pollution Control Foundation, Inc. and the Friends of the Henry Street Settlement.

Stops a moment The students may speak French or English

VANCOUVER (CP) — When Peter Tacon meets his students in the halls of York House private school for girls, he has to stop a moment and brace himself.

"I don't know whether they are going to start talking to me in French or English," says the bilingual headmaster of the school where a bilingual and bicultural program has been in effect since the term began last fall.

The program of French and English instruction was launched after five months of planning and involves 45 students—15 of them French-speaking—in Grades 1 to 6. The French-speaking students were originally from Quebec and France but now live in Vancouver.

"We felt it was our obligation as a school in Canada today to start this type of program," Mr. Tacon says. "We felt it was timely for us to get it started as soon as possible—it was not valid to defer its implementation."

"It is not an economic situation for the school, but it is something we felt was worth more than dollars and cents."

The French-language instruction started slowly in the lower grades but by January 50 per cent of all subjects were being taught in French in Grades 1 to 3 and students in Grades 4 to 6 were receiving two-thirds of their instruction in French.

STILL IS EXPERIMENT

Mr. Tacon says his school's bilingual instruction program is leading the way in Western Canada although he admits it still is an experiment.

"Education today is too stereotyped when actually we are more free to move

Many of the paintings and liturgical pieces, to be on display here for up to eight weeks, are on loan from Canadian individuals, galleries and churches.

Aziz, who describes himself as a "square" in the art world, is showing marble and bronze sculptures, sterling silver objects and a wide range of paintings covering his work from 1949, when he took his masters' degree in art at Yale University, to his present imaginative and modernistic style.

Among portraits he will display are those of Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, photographer Yousef Karsh, the late Solange Karsh, and Mrs. John David Eaton.

E. G. Shelton of Austin, Tex., executive vice-president of the National Pollution Control Foundation, said today his organization is planning to co-sponsor Aziz showings in Philadelphia, Washington, Palm Beach and Miami, Fla., Houston, Austin and Dallas in Texas, New Orleans, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Detroit and perhaps elsewhere during the next 18 months.

The foundation, which has elected Aziz as its first non-United States trustee, has been set up to promote research into water, air and thermal pollution and compile information on legislation and scientific articles covering the field.

All proceeds from the Aziz showings will go to the foundation and local co-sponsors.

Negro directs first major film

HOLLYWOOD—(N.E.A.)—It remains to be seen whether "The Learning Tree" is a critical success and a box-office winner. But already it can be called a sociological triumph. This is the first major Hollywood film to be directed by a Negro.

Gordon Parks not only directed "The Learning Tree," but he produced it, wrote the screenplay based on his own novel and is presently composing the musical score. This startling display of talent dexterly would be surprising in anybody but Parks. He is a world-famous photographer, a published poet and novelist, and his classical compositions have been performed by several major symphonies.

"The Learning Tree" is a fictionalized story of Parks' own youth in Fort Scott, Kan. It was filmed in Fort Scott, too, and for Parks the act of going home again was a traumatic experience.

He had been there only twice since he left as a 16-year-old boy. Once was a visit of a day, for his father's funeral. The other time was as a Life photographer, on assignment. But this time was different.

He headed a 150-person crew, shooting a film for a major studio (Warner Bros.-Seven Arts). It was an integrated group, and the unquestioned head was Parks—a black man. For a small town in a border state, this was a revelation.

Parks says he thinks the coming of the movie company to Fort Scott advanced the town 25 years. He and others attended parties in buildings where no Negro had ever been before. And everyone noted that the company functioned together, white and black, with complete disregard for color.

At first, the town was concerned. They felt the picture might be inflammatory—rumors had spread about sex scenes and violence scenes—but people who had read the book put a stop to them. The town realized it would be another kind of film.

As Parks sees it, "The Learning Tree" will be "the kind of picture where blacks and whites will leave the theater arm in arm." It tells with Standard Oil of New Jersey many years ago, when few major companies were hiring Negroes. But he says he never wore his color as a flag. He went in and showed his portfolio of photographs and was hired on the basis of his skill.

He became one of the outstanding photo-journalists of the country. Gradually, he came to believe that still photography had limitations as it is, but its message is not one of hate.

Parks is much the same. He has had his moments of physical and mental suffering—detailed in his fine autobiography, "A Choice Of Weapons"—but no bitterness shows in his face or his words.

He feels that talent, ambition, dreams transcend race. He applied for—and got—jobs with Vogue, with Life, and he felt the need to deal with pictures that moved. When "The Learning Tree" was published and attracted movie studio interest, he went with it.

He doesn't feel that he has succeeded in "a white man's world." He thinks of this as a world where anyone can succeed, if he has the talent and the drive. Admittedly, it is harder for a black man, but Parks has proven it is not impossible.

Unlike many Negroes who have made it, he has not been accused of Uncle Tom-ism by other blacks. There is, of course, some jealousy but that happens to successful whites, too.

As proof that the black community regards him still as one of them, he cites the fact that three times in the last several weeks, he has been approached to meet and do a story on Eldridge Cleaver. Cleaver is the writer who is being hunted by the law for jumping bail.

Parks would like to see him but cannot. He knows that if he did the authorities would demand to know where Cleaver is. Parks would never tell but doesn't want to go to jail himself—and a contempt of court conviction might put him in jail. So he has turned down the overtures.

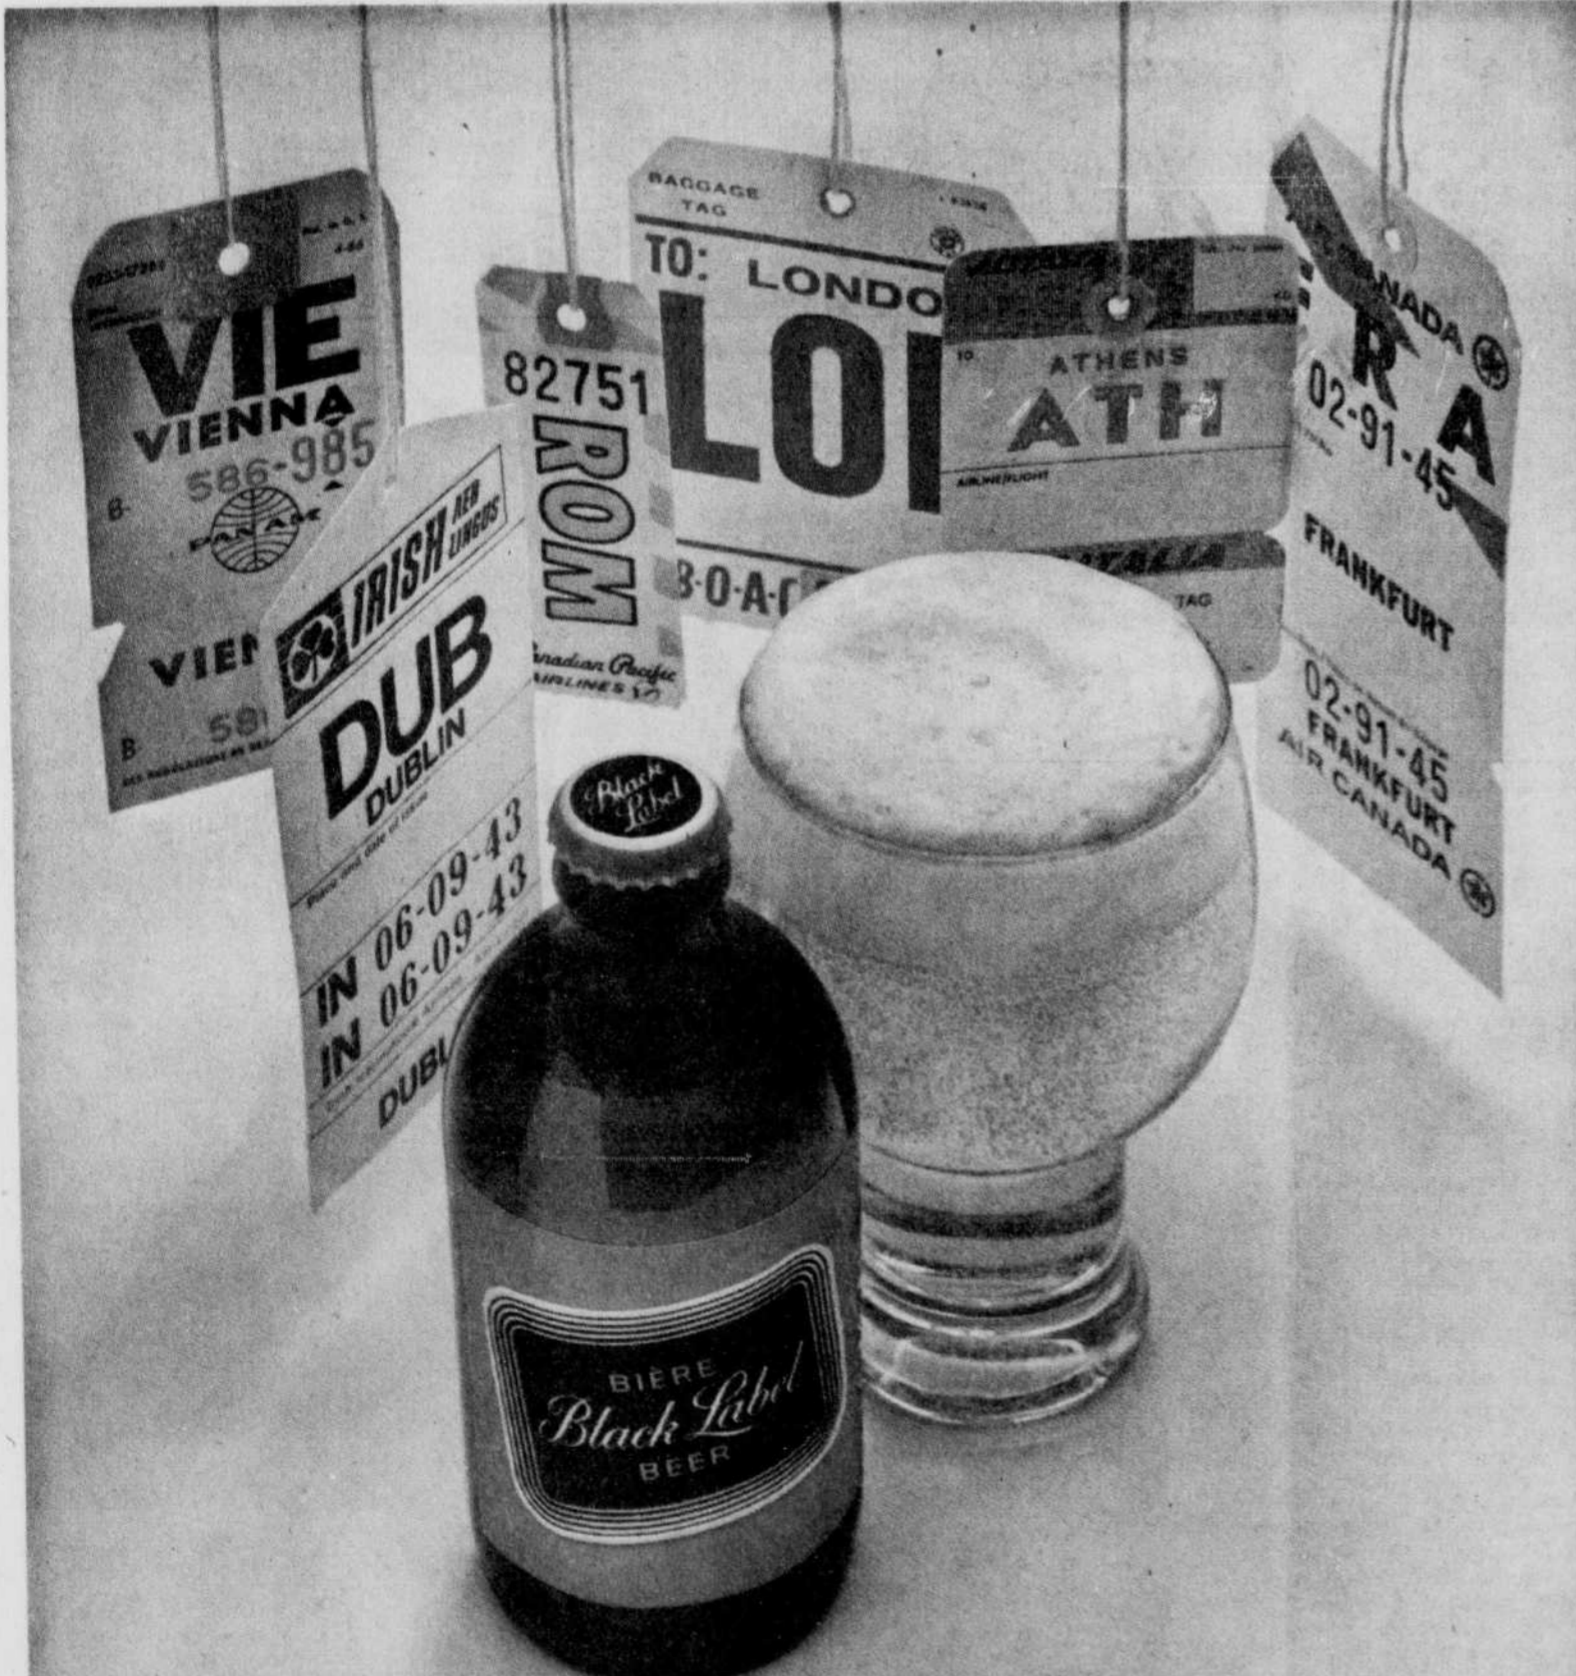

Meanwhile he is at work cutting "The Learning Tree" and preparing to add his musical score. He has a four-picture deal with Warner Bros.-Seven Arts, and would like to do a film every other year. In between, he wants to do an assignment for Life occasionally, write a novel or a book of poetry, compose a symphony or a concerto now and again.

It is a full life, which is only natural. Gordon Parks is a full man.
