FIRES CAUSE HEAVY LOSS IN TOWNSHIPS

World News In Brief

Cairo, May 6—(Reuters)—King Farouk of Egypt today issued an official announcement proclaiming himself a direct descendant of Mohamet the prophet, founder of Islam.

The King's ancestry was traced to the prophet by El Sayed Mohamed El Biblawy, president of "the society of the prophet's descendants."

Farouk timed his announcement to coincide with the 16th anniversary of his accession to the throne. He now is entitled to style himself "El Sayed" — descendant of the prophet.

Victoria, May 6 —(CP)— A court of inquiry is being held into the disappearance of an estimated $4,000 worth of supplies from the Gordon Head army camp near here, army officials revealed last night.

A long list of items, including everything from cook's aprons to sheets and blankets, has been reported missing. The losses covered a period between January of last year and March of this year.

Brig. W. J. Magill, commanding officer of the western command, said in a statement that the losses were "discovered in a routine ordnance check of Gordon Head army camp."

New Delhi, May 6 —(AP)— Rajenda Prasad won easy— and expected—re-election to office today in the first popular election for India's presidency.

Prasad, candidate of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's government, polled more than five times the combined vote of his four opponents. The second man in the race was communist-backed K. T. Shah, who now is visiting Peiping with an official Indian goodwill delegation.

Prasad was elected for a five-year term.

Seoul, Korea, May 6—(AP)— Hundreds of allied planes today bombed Sunchon, a North Korean rail junction, in a concentrated, day-long saturation attack.

"There'll really be a major revision of Red rail schedules tonight," a Fifth Air Force spokesman said.

The full strength of four fighter-bomber wings joined in the attack. Sabre jets guarded the area while the fighter-bombers roared out in repeated attacks on the vital railway link, 25 miles north of the North Korean capital, Pyongyang.

London, May 6—(AP)—Britain's new jet airliner, the Comet, came home casually today to complete its first regular round-trip flight to South Africa. It had inaugurated the world's first jet passenger service.

The Comet, which had left Britain Friday on the 6,724 mile trip to Johannesburg, returned to London airport in 23 hours and 40 minutes. The trip south had taken 23 hours and 38 minutes—about two-thirds of the time taken by regular commercial aircraft.

St. Isidore Fire Most Serious With $75,000 Damage

Fires in three widely-separated Eastern Townships centres last night and early today destroyed two restaurants, two stores, two private residences and a garage, with the total loss likely to exceed $100,000.

This was the toll in the three blazes:

St. Isidore d'Auckland — A restaurant, store, private residence, garage and a barn destroyed.

Inverness — A store and private residence destroyed.

Cowansville — A restaurant destroyed.

The major conflagration was at St. Isidore d'Auckland where high wind fanned a blaze that broke out at about 7 a.m. in Gaudias Tardif's general store. The store and Mr. Tardif's residence above it were completely levelled by the flames.

From the store, the fire spread next door to a garage, owned by Armand Bernier, and burned it out. Two cars which were in the garage were dragged out and suffered comparatively minor damage.

Mr. Tardif's barn, behind the store, also fell prey to the flames.

The wind, which showered sparks over a half-mile distance, carried the fire across the street to a restaurant owned by Bona Gagnon, and this building, too, was levelled.

Mayor Rosaire Doyon's home, next door to Mr. Tardif's property, also was threatened for a time, but the wind was blowing in the opposite direction and only the outside wall was damaged.

St. Isidore has no fire department of its own and aid was summoned from Sherbrooke and from Sawyerville. Director Percy Donahue, Captain Charles Audet and four firemen went from Sherbrooke with a hose truck and an auxiliary pumper.

The Sherbrooke firemen were still on the scene at press time.

An unofficial estimate of the total loss was in the vicinity of $75,000.

AT COWANSVILLE

Cowansville, May 6 — A flash fire this morning completely destroyed a restaurant on Depot Street, Cowansville, and occupied firemen from three o'clock until daylight in efforts to keep the flames from spreading to adjoining properties.

Damage was estimated by the owner, Mrs. P. Matton, as around $15,000.

The fire broke out in the rear of the restaurant, a popular spot with employees of the Bruck Silk Company across the street, and quickly spread to a garage behind the restaurant, destroying that also.

Flames spread to the adjoining home of H. Dion but the Cowansville Fire Brigade was able to extinguish that, with only slight damaged caused to the house.

The large restaurant was usually open late at night and Mrs. Matton had retired only a few minutes before the outbreak. She was able to evacuate the building and sound the alarm.

Debate On Budget Has Ended

Ottawa, May 6—(CP)—The Commons has completed debate on the budget after defeating two motions of non-confidence in the government.

The windup came with a closing-hour flourish last night when members voted 102 to 45 against a Progressive Conservative motion expressing non-confidence in the government's taxation policies.

The other non-confidence motion was proposed by the C.C.F. It was defeated 89 to 42 last Friday. It charged the budget ignored the wish of the House for removal of the four-per-cent floor on medical expenses deductible from taxable income.

Thus the Commons has given approval to the 1952-53 budget finance minister Abbott brought down April 8. The budget makes cuts in cigaret and luxury taxes and though it reduces income taxes, these cuts will be matched by the two-per-cent social-security tax the government will begin collecting July 1 next.

Financial policy still will be debated in the House, however. Resolutions and bills giving effect to the tax changes proposed in the budget must be passed.

End of the budget debate came just a few hours after Mr. Abbott announced that Canada's 17-months-old credit restrictions will end today. This means Canadians and the stores they deal with will be able to arrange their own time-payment terms on anything obtainable on credit.

The consumer-credit announcement came as the Bureau of Statistics reported the third consecutive monthly drop in the cost-of-living index — to 188.7 from 189.1. He warned, however, that if things get bad again, the credit restrictions will be restored. They affected almost everything from automobiles to household goods.

Housing was the main theme of the final speakers in the budget debate, which has been going on sporadically since April 22.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) set the theme early in the day when he warned that if private lending institutions didn't re-enter the mortgage field "on the double" the government must move in to provide money for house-building. And if the government moved in it wouldn't move out.

His plea for more housing was supported by Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Center), Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto-Davenport) and W. J. Browne (PC—St. John's West).

F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) said all the parliamentary talk about housing should have convinced Resources Minister Winters that

City Council Approves Use Of Meters For Taxis; Date To Be Set Later

At a date yet to be determined, Sherbrooke taxi users will have to pay their fares on the basis of the mileage they travel rather than upon a flat rate as in the past. At last evening's regular session of the City Council, By-law No. 761 providing for the use of taximeters on all taxis operating in the city was adopted on all three readings.

The rates under the new by-law will be 50 cents for the first mile or fraction thereof for four passengers and an additional five cents for each additional quarter of a mile. For each passenger over four, the taxi operator is allowed to charge 10 cents and is allowed certain surtaxes for trunks and valises when he has to load them in the luggage carrier.

With the exception of the provisions covering taximeters, the new by-law consolidates and clarifies no fewer that ten previous by-laws and amendments thereto covering the operation of cabs in the city—some of them dating back to the days of horse-drawn hacks.

The chief opposition to the new rates came from Ald. Eugene Thibault who thought the citizens were being victimized for the benefit of a few cab owners. He argued that the bus company had agreed to operate on pre-war rates and did not see why taximen should be given any privileges.

Ald. Cadorette expressed doubts that the bus operators could carry on long at the present rates and pointed to stories that the Montreal street railway operators were planning to ask for a 15 cent fare with two tickets for 25 cents.

Finally the by-law was passed with only Ald. Thibault dissenting.

Also adopted last evening was an agreement with the provincial authorities concerning the operation of the health unit, a report covering the purchase of fencing for the municipal zoo and the report of the parks committee on the use of parks by local softball organizations during the coming summer.

6,000 Are Aided By Red Cross

Toronto, May 6—(CP)—Major-General C. Churchill Mann, national chairman of the Canadian Red Cross Society, said today that nearly 6,000 victims of 792 disasters were aided by the Red Cross in Canada in 1951.

Reporting to the annual three-day meeting of the society's central council, he listed 20 major disasters including fires and floods in six provinces.

Dr. L. O. Bradley, chairman of the outpost advisory committee reported that during 1951 nearly 90,000 Canadians were served by Red Cross outpost hospital and nursing station staffs.

Two hundred and eighty-four registered nurses were qualified as first aid instructors during 1951—the first groups to be trained under 20 special short courses approved by the Canadian Nursing Association.

C. La Ferle, chairman of national transportation, said that $277,978 worth of supplies were shipped overseas last year.

Vernon C. Hale, chairman of the national blood donor committee, said that more blood donors are needed because of increased use of whole blood in medical therapy and surgery.

The number of donors increased 48 per cent over the previous year. A total of 261,899 bottles were collected.

Junior Red Cross members in Newfoundland, Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia supported a dental program in Newfoundland under which 1,006 children were examined.

Toronto, May 6—(CP)—Citations for 25 provincial members of the Canadian Red Cross Society were read today at the opening sessions of the annual meeting of the central council of the society.

The 25 members were present-

Primaries Are Held In Four States

Washington, May 6.—(CP)—Presidential primaries were put to the test by voters in four states today.

Florida held its first Presidential preference primary in 20 years and voters were settling state popularity of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and Senator Richard Russell of Georgia.

A record-smashing vote of almost 800,000 was expected and Russell was regarded as a slight favorite in the only Presidential preference contest to be held in the south before the November election.

In Ohio, the spotlight was on the Republican primary. Supporters of Senator Robert Taft were looking for his home state to vote solidly behind him. Republican voters were choosing the 56 delegates who will represent Ohio at the party's nominating convention in Chicago in July.

Senator Taft's only opponent was Harold Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota. Gen. Eisenhower is not entered in the Ohio race.

Ohio was also choosing 54 Democratic delegates and Senator Kefauver was making a bid to get a measure of support at the national convention. However, there were strong indications that the state party machine was likely to keep the delegation free to decide who to support when it reaches the convention.

Other states choosing delegates were Alabama and Missouri. There were no popularity contests in those states.

Maryland voted yesterday and Senator Kefauver won 18 convention votes. He was the only Presidential candidate on the ballot and he won support from 114,173 voters while another 39,746 indicated they wanted the delegation to go "uninstructed" to the national convention.

Restrictions On Consumer Credit Buying Are Lifted; Living Costs Index Falls

Ottawa, May 6.—(CP)—Restrictions on consumer credit buying ended in Canada today.

Finance Minister Abbott yesterday announced in the Commons the removal of the restrictions. A few minutes earlier it was disclosed that the cost-of-living index has dropped for the third consecutive month.

The index during March declined by four-tenths of a point to 188.7 from 189.1, the bureau of statistics announced. Further reductions in prices of foods, clothing and home furnishings were credited for the decrease.

The index is based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100.

The March decline, following larger drops in January and February, brought the three-month decrease to 2.8 points from last December's peak of 191.5.

Suspension of credit curbs became effective today, and their removal was cheered by retailers and industry. Business spokesmen said they expect the move will bring an upsurge in sales.

Mr. Abbott told the Commons he believed conditions are such that the government can "safely" suspend credit curbs.

But he warned he would not hesitate to reimpose them immediately if required, and gave notice he will ask for renewal of credit legislation which would otherwise expire next July 31.

Credit regulations were first imposed in November, 1950, as a means of curbing civilian buying to aid the defence economy. Last January, when Mr. Abbott eased the restrictions, he promised he would make further cuts when he was convinced inflation was being beaten.

Since January, regulations have called for a minimum down-payment of 50 per cent of the purchase price for automobiles and one-third down on other consumer goods such as furniture, electric stoves and washing machines. The balance had to be paid in 18 months.

Automobile makers and dealers in particular are looking for an upswing in activity following the end of the curbs.

A main factor in the March decline of the cost-of-living index was a drop in meat prices following the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease and the U. S. ban on Canadian cattle and meat.

Almost all foods eased, except fresh pork, oranges and vegetables.

The chief increase was in the miscellaneous index, due to increases in street-car fares, newspaper rates and costs of auto repairs and maintenance.

The composite wholesale index eased again during April to 257.6 on April 25 from 264.2 on March 28. The index for Canadian farm product prices at terminal markets dropped to 241.8 from 246.5.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Removal of consumer credit restrictions was hailed today by retailers and manufacturers as a boost for business.

Labor leaders, a Canadian Press survey showed, also praised the move, saying it would aid employment.

In an immediate aftermath of the lifting of the credit curbs, advertisers took newspaper space for such ads as "10 per cent down—up to 24 months to pay."

The restrictions, when first imposed, demanded a minimum down-payment of 50 per cent on automobiles and a third down on such consumer goods as furniture and electric stoves. The maximum time to pay was 12 months.

However a relaxation of the rules last January enabled payments to be spread over 18 months.

Finance Minister Abbott's suspension of the curbs yesterday pleased dealers who had demanded such action in the face of decreasing sales.

"Best news in the automobile industry in a long time," said George H. Jackson, vice-president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada. "Restrictions, coupled with heavy sales and excise taxes, have imposed a heavy burden on the automobile purchaser, dealer and manufacturer."

"It's bound to increase auto buying among the new low-priced British cars," said Louis Michelin, managing director of Austin of Canada. "Sales should increase throughout the industry."

"We are overjoyed," said J. A. Pardie, president of the Canadian Radio and Appliance Dealers. "This is just what we've been after for months. This spells the end of the phoney trade-in. The public was confused; now they can buy again with confidence."

A spokesman for Kelvinator of Canada Limited at London, Ont., echoed his gratification.

"Hundreds of thousands of young people are buying their homes today," he said. "They need ranges, refrigerators, washing machines and the like, but with their present obligations, they found it impossible to meet the one-third down payment."

Sale of television sets was expected to boom, with the suspension coming a few months ahead of Canadian-produced TV programs. Furniture, too, is expected to move.

"This is what we've been waiting for—it means a lot to us," said C. V. Fessenden, general manager of the Furniture Manufacturers' Association.

Vice-president William Jenoves of the Trades and Labor Congress said there was no doubt that credit restrictions had a serious effect on employment. Lifting them would benefit at least a segment of the population.

U.S. House Labor Committee Delves Into Steel Problem

By NORMAN WALKER

Washington, May 6—(AP)—The House of Representatives labor committee today began a broad investigation of the government's Wage Stabilization Board with special emphasis on its handling of the steel labor dispute.

Charles E. Wilson, who quit as mobilization chief in protest against the administration's handling of the steel case, was called as the committee's first witness.

Chairman Graham Barden (Dem. N.C.) told a reporter in advance his committee probably will delve into all phases of the W.S.B.'s operations, including its methods of recommending terms for settling major labor disputes.

Barden said the probe would cover the points outlined in a resolution by Representative Leo Allen (Rep. Ill) directing the investigation. Allen said one phase of the inquiry should determine whether the board has violated national labor policies as set forth in the Taft-Hartley law.

The board's steel recommendations touched off a series of spectacular events, including President Truman's seizure of the steel industry, a three-day strike last week, and a series of court battles now under way on legality of the seizure action.

The steel dispute still remains in dead centre, with settlement apparently as far away as ever.

The Supreme Court has banned any government-imposed wage boost for Philip Muray's 650,000 C.I.O. steelworkers in the basic steel industry, something Truman had promised to order this week. The high court's ban on a government pay-increase action lasts until the court has decided whether Truman's seizure was constitutional.

Hearings in the Supreme Court review of the decision of U.S. district Judge David A. Pine, who held the seizure was unconstitutional, are set to begin next Monday. Meanwhile, the industry-union negotiations have ended in deadlock.

The W.S.B. recommended an eventual 26-cent-an-hour increase in pay rates and vacation, holiday and shift differential allowances for the steel workers, along with a compulsory union-membership union shop proviso. The steel workers now receive a little under $2 an hour, including overtime.

Steel company executives have contended that the W.S.B.'s proposals amounted to more money than the union has ever before obtained in collective bargaining. The W.S.B., on the other hand, said its recommendations were in line with what other unions have obtained.

Allen and a number of other Congressmen were most concerned about the union-shop recommendation. They said Congress never intended that the W.S.B. should make recommendations on non-economic issues.

Wilson quit as mobilization boss after he classified the W.S.B.s' steel proposals as unstabilizing. He said Truman first okayed a price increase for steel to compensate for the W.S.B.'s plan, but then ruled against allowing any sizeable price boost.

U.S. Oil Strike May Lead To Civilian Rationing

Denver, May 6.—(AP)—A major part of the United States oil industry ended its first strikebound week today with government officials apparently in disagreement over the prospects for gasoline rationing.

Most seriously affected so far was air transport, both civilian and military. Motorists, however, were beginning to feel the pinch in some areas.

An encouraging glimmer came from California where the independent union of petroleum workers settled with two companies.

In an interview in New Orleans James K. Knudson, administrator of the defence transportation administration, said:

"If the oil strike goes on a few more days, we may have to put some restrictions on civilian transportation."

Interior secretary Oscar Chapman said the government is not planning national rationing of automobile gasoline, despite scattered shortages.

Chapman agreed with Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator of the petroleum administration for defence, that it would take too long to set up a rationing program.

A 30-per-cent cut in gasoline for civil aviation purposes was ordered by the P.A.D., effective today.

The U.S. air force earlier ordered a cut in training flights to conserve gasoline.

Airlines operating from the metropolitan airports of Idlewild and LaGuardia in New York city ordered fuel-saving measures. They included cancellation of some flights, consolidations, rerouting of Trans-Atlantic flights and elimination of unnecessary pilot training.

Trans-Canada Air Lines, which flies out of Idlewild, announced in Ottawa it has enough fuel on hand for 60 days and does not plan any curtailment of operations.

The second settlement in four days in California was reached when the I.U.P.W. and Union Oil Company came to an agreement for 1,100 employees.

Commissioner Oliver E. Goodwin of the federal mediation and conciliation service said the agreement calls for increases up to 19½ cents per hour in the average wage of $2.

O. A. Knight, president of the C.I.O. oil workers international with headquarters in Denver, issued a statement saying that anytime "an oil company will offer us 18½ cents in cash, the strike at that company's plant would undoubtedly end in a short time."

The strike was called April 30 after the union asked for an increase of 25 cents per hour, plus shift differentials. An estimated 90,000 workers responded to the strike call.

Only five states — Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada and Arizona — were free from limitation provisions as the government added 26 states to those where inventory restrictions on various petroleum products were put into effect.

In some portions of the middle west dealers planned informal rationing for their customers.

The Chicago transit authority cut 300 buses from rush hour service.

Gasoline deliveries to Detroit's street railways department were halted by the union.

Order Restored At Prison--Probe Begins

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Montreal, May 6.—(CP)—Bordeaux jail's subdued prisoners, nearly half their mates farmed out to police-station cells, went back to prison routine today while an official riot investigation gathered momentum.

For the first time since Sunday's riot — and yesterday's lesser outbreak that was choked off by tear gas — all prisoners at Bordeaux were locked in individual cells last night.

Their number was given as 327. The transfer of about 250 began early yesterday. They were placed in cells in city and provincial stations downtown.

The top-level investigation was expected to begin with the arrival of Solicitor-General Rivard following conferences in Quebec with Premier Duplessis, who is Attorney-General, and Finance Minister Gagnon.

These conferences followed detailed, telephoned reports on the rioting itself and on the situation at the jail, where unofficial estimates placed damage caused by prisoners as high as $400,000.

The investigation is expected to be focused on two subjects: Quality of food served and administration of the jail.

Protests over the food set off the Sunday riot but the Montreal Gazette in a front-page story today quoted a jail informant as saying the conduct of under-paid guards, who "connived with prisoners," was as much to blame for the rioting as poor food.

The informant said competent guards cannot be hired for $1,400 a year, and those now working in the jail are "half-starved and crooked" and allow prisoners to "run rackets."

A prisoner released yesterday on expiration of his sentence, despite still-unsettled conditions at the jail, told The Canadian Press the prisoners want two things: Better food and a new jail governor to replace Dr. Zenon Lesage .

This prisoner said the food is "terrible, crummy." He told of "mush for breakfast, bread and a few pieces of sausage for dinner and not much better for supper."

The Sunday rioting broke out when "Chinese pie" was served. It's "a pie with dirty old potatoes, a little bit of meat and a couple of pieces of corn" and was served "every Sunday."

Dr. Lesage, asked last night if he had a statement for the public, said: "Never mind public opinion. It has already been informed. The Attorney-General's department is all I have to deal with."

Mr. Rivard said last night at Quebec that punishment "according to law" will be given those responsible for the riots.

Late last night provincial police inspector Norbert Labbe reported all quiet at the jail. He said he asked the men to go to their cells and they did so without trouble. They entered cells in sections of the jail that suffered little or no damage in the rioting.

Labbe said regular prison routine will be resumed today, including outdoor exercise periods, and that meals will be the "usual prison fare."

Chief guard Armand Tessier, who reported the prisoners were locked up at 7 p.m., said egg and tomato sandwiches were fed the men. They were given soft drinks in paper cups.

Nearly 3,000 sandwiches were handed out in the prison yesterday to prisoners, policemen and guards. The wrecked kitchen was said last night to be ready for operation.

There was grumbling about sandwiches before yesterday's disturbances broke out. "We can't live on them," said some prisoners, tossing them into the air.

The trouble that brought the first use of tear gas — and spraying of the prisoners with fire hoses — broke out in a yard between two wings of the jail.

First there was a small disturbance that was quickly snuffed out

But a short time later the 250 prisoners in the yard began putting on a more serious demonstration. There was some stone-throwing and more protests over food.

About 15 police, both provincial and city, raced to the yard. They were joined by firemen, standing by as an emergency crew in the main jail yard.

The prisoners rushed towards a fence that separates the yards. Police then let loose three tear-gas bullets and firemen turned on the water. The prisoners fell back and ran for the cell block.

Yesterday's last transfer of prisoners was carried out about 8 p.m. when 80 were taken in police vans to cells in city police headquarters.

Once inside, they broke into shouts, songs and handclapping.

"We may be out of circulation," yelled one young prisoner, "but there's a big gang left back in Bordeaux and the big show isn't over yet."

Police said the men will be held "until peace is restored out there."

Atmosphere Aids Church Sculptor

Montreal—When sculptor Paul Barbaud picks up his tools, he slips into a 14th or 15th century mood.

The 38-year-old Parician has been commissioned to carve the main altar, pulpit, railings and two smaller altars in St. Mary's Polish Church here.

"It is the theme of the church decorations that does this for me," he said in an interview. "And when I get into this mood time passes quickly and it is easy to harmonized my work with the atmosphere of the church."

Barbaud has been decorating churches since he was 22. When he came to Canada two months ago he was offered jobs as a cabinet-maker at twice his present salary, but he is most content when working one of his 100-odd chisels, awls and other tools over a piece of basswood or oak.

Barbaud is of an artistic family. Two sons are studying sculpture painting and music at the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. His brother is a composer, one sister is a dancer and another is doing mosiac work at Saarbruck en.

In completing the main altar, Mr. Barbaud will use a technique new to this county—applying 24-carat gold leaf against a light green background on oak.

Hitler's Memorial Is No-Man's Land By Russian Order

By TOM REEDY

Berlin. — A strange and desolate memorial to Hitler has been created by Russian order in east Berlin.

It's a no-man's-land, levelled flat save for boulders, dirt, and a toppled concrete sentry box.

This is the plot of ground, two city blocks square, where the Reichs chancellery stood and where the underground bunker protected Hitler and his intimate until his suicide and the fall of Berlin, just seven years ago this week.

Everything has been razed. Nothing is built on this plot, the most valuable downtown site in Berlin.

Everywhere else in east Berlin the communists are trying to reconstrnct. Grandiose plans for huge building projects have been drawn for a half-dozen areas. Work has started.

There is no plan for laying even one brick on the Reich chancellery acres. None is contemplated. There might as well be a huge sign saying: "Look, Germans, at what happens when the might of the Soviets armies is challenged."

Rubble workers have been chipping away at the remains of Hitler's bastion since 1945. Piece by piece, the stone and marble has been carted away.

The bunker roof and sentry tower are the last "whole" pieces left. One afternoon's work would get rid of them. The order is never given.

Communist people's police are on watch duty on either end of the no-man's-land. Their job is to keep people away.

The lid of Hitler's bunker has long since been lifted, revealing the tiny underground cells in which he lived for months before he and Eva Braun committed suicide April 30, 1945.

The network of 30 rooms was set afire by S.S. guards after the bodies of the suicides were burned in the garden outside the bunker entrance.

For the first few weeks after allied entry to Berlin the bunker was visited by many persons. Then, without explanation, the Russians forbade any visits and blew it shut.

Story Of Anti-Biotics Told To Lions In Address And By Motion Picture

An address and film on anti-biotics featured last night's meeting of the Sherbrooke Lions Club.

Eugene Menard, representative of Ayerst, McKenna and Harrison, Ltd., was the speaker and told about the early discovery of anti-biotics—the so-called wonder drugs—and of the great strides that have been made in their development in recent years.

Commercial production of these drugs has brought them within the price range of everyone and consequently their benefit is widespread and not limited to the few who, in the early days, could afford to pay the tremendous cost.

There are still some diseases for which no cure has yet been found, Mr. Menard said, and one of these is the common cold which, in point of man-hours lost each year, is one of industry's greatest hazards.

Infantile paralysis is another disease for which no cure has yet been found.

The film dealt with the production of penicillin and other drugs at the Ayerst, McKenna and Harrison laboratories in St. Laurent. In technicolor, it traced the various stages of production, right through to the time the packaged product is shipped from the plant.

Mr. Menard was introduced by Leopold Chevalier and was thanked by Dr. Georges Saine.

The Lions also heard a brief talk by Eugene Gingras of the local Rotary Club who told about Rotary's safe driving campaign which is now under way. Through the insurance companies and car dealers, Rotary is distributing safe driving contracts between father and son and father and daughter.

The object of this, Mr. Gingras said, is to cut down the thousands of accidents involving minors.

Full support of the Lions in this campaign was pledged by president Alberic Julien, following Mr. Gingras' talk.

Dr. Saine, who is president of the Sherbrooke centre of the St. John Ambulance, told about the Ambulance's current campaign for $5,000 and asked the Lions for their support.

At the head table were: Dr. Saine, Mr. Chevalier, Mr. Menard, Mr. Julien, Mr. Gingras, Paul Tremblay, Eddie Caron and Alex Allard.

Canadian Y. M. Has New Boys' Work Secretary

S. C. SYMINGTON

Montreal. — John M. Pritchard, president of the National Council of Y.M.C.A.'s of Canada, announced the appointment of Stanley C. Symington, B.A., as national boys' work secretary of the Canadian Y.M.C.A.'s. Mr. Symington has been boys' work secretary of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A. for the past 10 years and will take up his new work with the National Council in Toronto on August 1.

Mr. Symington was born in Midland and for several years was on the staff of the Midland Y.M.C.A. boys' camp. He is an authority on camping, neighborhood "Y" Clubs and [illegible] program.

Mr. Pritchard said: "Stan Symington has shown outstanding leadership in Y.M.C.A. boys' work. The movement is expanding rapidly in Canada. We believe we have the right man for this very important position."

Mr. Symington is married with two children, a member of the United Church, and a Kiwanian.

Drummondville Funeral Service For Drowned Man

Drummondville, May 6.—Funeral service was held here yesterday afternoon for Alfred B. Crook, 54, who lost his life by drowning on April 6.

Rev. Harold Church conducted the funeral in St. George's Anglican Church. Burial followed in the Auglican Cemetery, on the Golf Road. Masonic rites had been held earlier in the day by Heriot Lodge.

Mr. Crook's body was recovered only Sunday noon, almost a month to the day he had disappeared through the ice of the St. Francis River while employed in trying to clear an ice jam which had piled up in the sluice gates close to the lower powerhouse of the Southern Canada Power Company. He was an employee of the company for more than 33 years.

The body was discovered by two fishermen almost 20 miles away from the sluice gates, in the Elphege River basin. Elaborate searches had been going on for the victim, by air and water. Dr. Gilles St. Onge, district coroner, ruled no inquest would be necessary.

A native of Richmond, Mr. Crook is survived by his wife, the former Jane Gilbert; four daughters, Mrs. Harry Roberts (Freda), of St. Hyacinthe, Barbara, Mary Lois and Linda, at home; his father, John Crook, Drummondville; and two brothers, Bearley, Richmond, and Hartley, in England.

Hotel Mattress Catches Fire

The fire department was called at 4.35 o'clock this morning when a hotel mattress ignited.

The fire occurred in room 232 of the LaSalle Hotel, occupied by Joseph E. Lachance. Mr. Lachance and night watchman Louis Legare succeeded in hurling the flaming mattress out of a window and when the firemen arrived they extinguished the blaze with twa gallons of water, in the yard.

The mattress was destroyed but no damage was caused the room or the rest of the hotel.

Director W. P. Donahue personally led the crew, assisted by Lieut. Gerard Roy, and the following firemen: Conrad Belisle, Clement Beland, Charles Descoteaux, Henri Provencher, Raymond Dumont, Leo Bonneau, J. M. Fortier and Sylvio Bellegarde.

The men returned to their post at 4.53 a.m.

Local Students Gain Research Council Awards

A. Lemay of Sherbrooke and J. A. Kuehner of Lennoxville have been awarded National Research Council scholarships for the academic year 1952-53, it has been announced in Ottawa.

Mr. Lemay has received a $900 Studentship for post graduate work at Laval University from where he graduated. Mr. Keuhner's award is a $600 bursary to further his studies at Queens University. He is a graduate of Bishop's University.

In the academic year 1952-53, the number as well as the value of National Research Council scholarships granted reached an all-time high.

Here is a comparison with last year's figures, which represented the previous record: the number of awards is 241 as against 215, and their total value is $227,900 as against $192,100. This year, 65 bursaries, worth $600 each, have been granted as against last year's 72; the number of studentships, worth $900 each, is 114 as against 92; and the number of fellowships, worth $1,200, is 39 as against 30.

Eighteen special scholarships at $1,500 have been awarded for study abroad, to be held in the following universities: four at Cambridge, three at Oxford, two each at Cornell, London and North Carolina, and one each at Chicago, California, John Innes, Edinburgh and Illinois.

Five overseas postdoctorate fellowships at $2,500 each have been granted for work at the following universities: two at Oxford, and one each at Cambridge, Dublin and London.

City Of Granby Host To Choirs This Saturday

Granby, May 6.—Approximately 1,500 Little Singers will be present in Granby Saturday when this City will receive the official delegates attending the International Convention of Manecanteries (junior choirs).

An elaborate program is being arranged under the supervision of Mayor Horace Boivin for the entertainment of the singers and members of the press and radio who will attend.

Visits are being arranged to the Zoological Gardens and other points of interest in Granby. The City will entertain newsmen along with honorary presidents of the choirs and other officials at a civic dinner.

Former Waterville Resident And Wife Killed In Accident

Waterville, May 6. — A former resident of Waterville, William Read, and his wife, Evelyn, were instantly killed when a blazing U.S. F84 Thunderjet hurtled from the sky over their home, which was located in the same building as their hardware store, in St. Peters, Broadstairs, Kent, England.

"Bill" Read was well known in the Eastern Townships, having been employed by George Gale and Sons, of Waterville. He will be remembered for the active part he took in sports.

He served overseas in the First World War, and returned to Canada and worked for the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co., Espanola, Ont., until he returned to England about 22 years ago, to make his home in Broadstairs.

He was 78 years old. He is survided by six children, four by his first wife, Beatrice Bray, who predeceased him 35 years ago, Dorothy, Mrs. Robert Reed, and Beatrice, Mrs. Celon Ball, of Waterville, Percy, of Auburn, Me., Herbert, of Sudbury, Ont., and Joyce and Pauline, of Broadstairs, Kent, several grandchildren including Mrs. Bruce Kelly, of Chaleurs, Que., Bill Reed, of Waterville, Patricia Ball, of Lennoxville, and Thera and Thelma Ball, of Waterville.

Aims Of Music Festival Outlined To Members Of The Optimist Club

Reasons for the inaugural of a musical festival here and continuing it were given the Optimist Club last night by Paul-Emile Fortier, a director of the Musical Festival.

Mr. Fortier said: "We are more and more realizing the importance of music and the other arts in the development of young people. Our object is not only to sponsor virtuosos but to encourage youths to play for their own enjoyment and the enjoyment of others.

"The object of the youth Music Festival is to better acquaint young people with beautiful works, for the development of their intellects and morality.

"We realize the importance of sport in the education of youngsters but we, perhaps, do not realize as much the value of music and art."

Mr. Fortier traced the development of the local festival from its humble beginnings in 1949 (patterned after the Burlington, Vt., Festival) to the present when there are 84 contestants.

"We had only eight participants in the first festival," he said, "and a mass concert."

Mr. Fortier was accompanied by two young artists from the current Festival, which concludes with a Grand Concert at the Arena on May 24th.

Roger Veilleux, saxophone, and Pierre Boux, 11-year-old violinist. The young artists played several selections each.

Mr. Fortier was introduced by Jacques Laliberte and thanked by Paul Delorme.

Two guests were present at the meeting, Earl Blair, of Windsor Mills and Roger Battry.

Henry Crochetiere and Gaston Roy were presented with life memberships by President Eric Marquardt. The President's Ball has been postponed until June 28.

"Millionaire Of Granby" Is Sentenced To 5 Years At Sweetsburg Courthouse

Sweetsburg, May 6.—George Dubois, "the Granby millionaire," was this morning sentenced to five years in penitentiary by Judge Patrick Delaney in Magistrate's Court here.

Dubois, 27, had previously pleaded guilty to obtaining more than $80,000 under false pretences.

He received two years on one charge, and one year each for three other charges. Sentence is to run consecutively.

Judge Delaney, in handing down the sentence, said: "I have no sympathy for you. You have received a large sum of money under false pretences and you have spent the money foolishly."

He referred to the prisoner's previous record—a suspended sentence in 1947 for a similar offence and one month in jail on another charge a year later.

Dubois has been in jail since his arrest by Provincial Police January 21. He was unable to meet cash bail of $10,000, later lowered to $5,000. He originally pleaded innocent but changed this plea on April 29.

Police said Dubois fleeced Adeodat Marquette, a 55-year-old Granby farmer, for more than $80,000. They said Dubois claimed he and his brother, Maurice, had an arrangement whereby they could get American automobiles for $1,400—without paying the usual customs duty.

Youths Appear On Charges Of Perjury

Sweetsburg, May 6 — At press time today, Roger Benoit of St. Johns and Jean-Luc Gagnon were deciding whether they would take speedy or summary trial at Magistrate's Court in Sweetsburg.

The two appeared before Judge Patrick Delaney this morning, Benoit to be charged with perjury. Gagnon had been charged similarly last week.

Sarto Fournier, Q.C., of Montreal, is representing Benoit, member of the Royal 22nd Regiment. Paul-Emile Brazeau, of Sherbrooke, is representing Gagnon.

The charges arise out of the murder trial last fall of Lucien Deschesnes of St. Johns, who was acquitted.

The confused situation arose with the finding of the body of Jean-Guy Beaudin in the woods of Missisquoi Bay, on September 30, 1950.

Lennoxville W. A. Meets For Business

Mrs. Ruby MacNaughton was in the chair at the Thursday meeting, when the Woman's Association of Lennoxville gathered in the Gertrude Scott Hall. The meeting opened with a devotional period, Mrs. W. J. Lane speaking on Faith, taking her text from the 11th Chapter of Hebrews. The minutes of the last meeting were then read by Mrs. C. L. Norwood, followed by a report on the finances of the group by Mrs. A. E. Abercrombie, treasurer.

Mrs. W. J. Lane gave a report on the United Church training school project and advised that a committee of three, consisting of Mrs. MacNaughton, Mrs. Norwood and Mrs. Elsie Smith had been appointed to take the matter up. The sum of $50 was voted to be put aside for the Training School Fund and an additional $50 was voted to be donated to the Anniversary Fund for Lennoxville United Church.

Mrs. Abercrombie read literature and gave a talk explaining the Dominion Woman's Association Council and after discussion on the subject it was decided to join the larger group.

Mrs. Elsie Smith gave an interesting talk on her trip to the west coast last year and showed snaps, folders and pictures with a view-master, which were very much enjoyed.

A food sale was planned for Tuesday, May 27, at Nichol's Store. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The hostesses were Mrs. L. W. Smith, Mrs. A. Willard, Miss K. Scott, Miss M. Scott, Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. W. Hyndman.

Roman Catholics To Demonstrate Faith At Rally

Montreal, May 6.—Catholics of the English-speaking parishes of the Archdiocese of Montreal have arranged for a public demonstration of faith to take place Pentecost Sunday, June first, at Molson Stadium, McGill University. The event has the approval of Archbishop Paul-Emile Leger and Bishop Lawrence P. Whelan and is receiving support from beyond the Montreal area in the English-speaking Catholic centres of Quebec and Eastern Ontario.

Members of the Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's parish, Sherbrooke, have been invited to participate in this demonstration.

Hon. Mr. Justice Frederick T. Collins is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements undertaken by the Holy Name Society of Montreal, and with the cooperation of all diocesan and parochial organizaitons numbering more than 150 units. The religious ceremonies are being arranged by Rev. John D. Purcell, director of the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society, and some 30 branches of the Society under John C. Creeley, president, have been enlisted in the work of preparation.

The theme of the gathering is: "I believe in God," the first affirmation of the Apostles Creed, and the demonstration is in accordance with the appeal of Pope Pius XII that all Catholic laymen should make known their faith in a world where great materialism prevails in some quarters.

Speaker at the demonstration will be Rt. Hon. Rev. Msgr. John J. McKenna of Philadelphia, Pa., where he is pastor of St. John the Baptiste Parish, and director of the Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society. He is known internationally as a forceful speaker.

Molson Stadium can accommodate 20,000 or more and should rain fall on Sunday, June first, the entire religious program will be transferred to The Forum where more than 15,000 can be seated. The Forum has already been used for imposing religious demonstrations and all the detail planned for the outdoor Stadium can be given in appropriate surroundings.

LIBERAL MEETING

Richmond, Que., May 6.—(AP)—A Liberal party convention will be held here May 14th to choose a candidate to contest this Eastern Township riding in the forthcoming provincial elections.

10,794 New And Changed Listings Appear In 1952 Phone Directory

Many changes appear in the 1952 Sherbrooke telephone directory, the first copies of which began arriving through the mails to subscribers today.

The entire Megantic Exchange List has been added to the book, according to H. E. Walker, Bell Telephone manager here.

In addition, listings for subscribers of six district telephone companies which connect service with the Bell Company have been added to the directory.

The Megantic Exchange Listings and the six connecting company listings have been transferred from the Thetford Mines directory where they appeared last year, Mr. Walker said.

Connecting companies whose listings have been inserted are: La Cie de Telephone de Piopolis, La Cie de Telephone de St. Hubert de Spaulding, La Cie de Telephone de St. Romain, La Cie de Telephone de St. Samuel de Gayhurst, La Cie de Telephone de Spring Hill, and Le Telephone Woburn.

Reference points added are; Lac Megantic — See Megantic, and Marsboro—See Megantic.

In all, 10,794 new and changed listings appear in the new book. Owing to these changes, Mr. Walker urged subscribers to check any personal lists of telephone numbers against the numbers listed in the new directory and to make any necessary alterations.

"Looking up the desired number before calling," he said, "helps to avoid the possibility of getting wrong numbers and saves time for both the calling and called parties. 'Information' should be called only when the number you are seeking is not listed in the directory."

Besides Sherbrooke and the territories added this year, the directory also contains listings for subscribers in Lennoxville, Magog and other nearby communities.

There were 43,902 copies of the green-covered book printed compared with 36,752 copies of the 1951 edition which had a buff cover.

The local directory is one of 50 the Bell Company will publish this year for distribution to subscribers in its Ontario-Quebec territory. These books range in size from the Montreal directory, with 1,548 pages, to the Maniwaki book with 48.

Meteorological Data Released

The average temperature last month was 42.95 degrees according to meteorological data released by officials at the Dominion Experimental Station, in Lennoxville, today.

Snowfall last month amounted to 0.8 inches. An identical amount of snow fell for the same period last year. The average monthly snowfall for the past thirty-eight years is 5.9 inches.

A total of 184.6 hours of sunshine was recorded last month compared with 92.0 hours for the same period last year.

Rainfall last month was 2.71 inches compared with 4.56 inches for the same period last year.

FOR A LITTLE IMITATION

One of the excuses given in behalf of Finance Minister Abbott's decidedly unpopular budget is that Canada cannot fairly reduce taxation at a time when other nations, especially the United States, are taxing heavily in the common cause. This prompts The Printed Word to publish the rejoinder of an old campaigner, albeit with no sons of draft age, to the effect that Canada should not refrain from compulsory military training as long as the United States maintains its forces by conscription. The article continues:

Aside from this, it would have been possible for Mr. Abbott to relieve the Canadian income taxpayer materially and still have kept the rates on about the same level as in the United States. Here's how:

The United States does not tax taxes. Canada does.

The United States allows deductions from taxable income of mortgage interest, municipal taxes, storm damage to the taxpayer's home, liquor taxes, gasoline taxes, excise taxes, theatre taxes, etc. Canada taxes all these.

The United States does not require a three-cent or six-cent tax on a cheque. Canada does it is the height of absurdity, as well as a nuisance, to compel a person to pay a tax for withdrawing his own money from a bank.

It also is a fact that the United States treasury has been incurring deficits year in and year out. They should be trying to balance their budget. Mr. Abbott, on the other hand, has been piling up surpluses.

CHILDREN AT PLAY

Motorists who are keeping their eyes open will observe that there is a growing hazard on the streets these days. Warm weather, or at least the snow-free streets, has brought children out in increasing numbers. Their safety makes renewed demands on gumption and driving skill.

A Michigan doctor has sounded the warning that accident fatalities involving children are one-third as numerous as deaths from all child diseases. And more often than not that traffic death was a result of recklessness on a driver's part.

There is a tendency to assume that the child problem on the streets does not begin until schools close in June for the summer holidays. Actually, that problem, that responsibility, is with us now, for motorists and parents to note. If that is generally recognized, more children's lives will be saved this year than would otherwise be the case.

NOW RUSSIAN LOOT

The world is well used to stories or romances of old masters and their now famed paintings but some of that romance has been eliminated in modern realism. One picture can tell the other side of romance, the great Sistine Madonna by Raphael. Prints of this are often found, the world over, and many old-fashioned parlors on this continent still have copies. Originally it was painted for the monks of Placenza in Italy, who kept it in the church of San Sisto there. It was bought from them by the Elector of Saxony and King of Poland in 1754 for what is now equivalent to half a million dollars and was resting in the dreary museum at Dresden in Germany. Now, apparently, there is only a copy in the Placenza church and the original work of art is missing from Dresden museum.

Recent catalogues of the art works in Dresden do not list Raphael's masterpiece, only nineteenth century German artists are there represented today. The important pictures are gone. Dresden is behind the Soviet Iron Curtain and it is most probable the best in the collection have been stolen by the Russians to prove the culture of her millions of peasants who mostly are illiterate.

PRESS COMMENTS

MR. THATCHER HAS PERFORMED A USEFUL PUBLIC SERVICE

Toronto Telegram

A speech in the House of Commons by Ross Thatcher, the CCF member for Moose Jaw, has caused excitement amongst his fellow members and unusual publicity in the newspapers by pinpointing the possibility of savings in departmental estimates. Amongst those who have been embarrassed by Mr. Thatcher's direct method are members of his own party, including his leader, M. J. Coldwell. The difference in the viewpoint of Thatcher and his party colleagues is that he is a business man who knows from experience the weight of taxation, while many of those who sit with him are professional politicians whose chief stock-in-trade is the slogan, "soak business."

Apart from committing the unpardonable sin in the politicians' lexicon of stating specifically where savings can be made, Mr. Thatcher has not said anything that is radical. In fact he merely gave words to what many people have been thinking.

He suggested that there be a five per cent reduction in the number of civil servants to save between $16 million and $20 million. This ought to be possible, considering the number of civil servants is more than three times greater than in 1939.

Mr. Thatcher has proposed that departmental publicity bureaus be amalgamated to save $4 million annually. Another suggestion is that $30 million be saved by stopping the payment of old age pensions and family allowances to those not in financial need. Curiously enough this suggestion seems to have been what shocked other CCF members most of all. But bearing in mind that cabinet ministers, Senators and MP's, to say nothing of thousands of others who are well-to-do at 70, are drawing pensions, is Thatcher's suggestion that they be cut off the pension rolls so shocking? Is it not more shocking that they should ever have got on the list of pensioners?

The Moose Jaw MP also suggests that $225 million be cut from the Defense estimates. It is altogether likely that with a spirit of economy in the department this much could be saved without harming the defense program.

Mr. Thatcher has performed a useful service in pointing out where real savings can be achieved. His example is one which other MP's ought to follow, rather than delivering themselves of windy generalities on the subject of economy.

POLITICAL DEMAGOGUERY COLORS FACTS OF STEEL SEIZURE CASE

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — All news that comes out of Washington these days is colored by political dyes. These dyes must be bleached out of the news fabric before it is possible to examine the warp and woof of fact in the weave beneath the violent coloring.

This is particularly true in trying to appraise the arguments over President Truman's seizure of the steel mills and the demands by Sen. Robert A. Taft, Rep. George L. Bender and others for the President's impeachment.

Union officials say the steel companies can pay the government-recommended wage increase out of the current earnings without increasing steel prices. The steel companies say they can't and they say they'll need a $12 a ton increase to cover the wage boosts.

Government stabilization officials have insisted up to now that the greatest steel price rise they could justify would be nominal — a Capehard amendment increase of $3 or $4 a ton. Steel companies there upon produce figures to show that the government-recommended wage and fringe increase totalling 30 cents an hour would really cost the employers 60 cents an hour.

Only a big firm of accountants, working on the figures for weeks and perhaps months, would be qualified to make any accurate finding on which of these contentions is correct. That is what makes this argument so completely baffling to the average citizen.

Emotional Speeches Make It Worse

It is on confusion of this kind, however, that political demagoguery thrives. And many of the highly emotional speeches now being made about the steel case have the effect of making the dispute worse instead of trying to get it settled.

To get some measure of this it is only necessary to reflect for a moment on what the shouting would be about today if the steel strike had been allowed to happen. It was originally scheduled for last Jan. 7. It was postponed for three months while the Wage Stabilization Board sought a solution. Suppose the strike had begun April 8.

There would today be loud demands that the President do something. Seize the industry. Put the strikers in the Army in Korea.

Another factor not clearly understood in this case is that President Truman is not being criticized for preventing the strike, but for the manner in which he did it. The President is lambasted because he chose to use his broad and largely undefined Constitutional powers as chief executive, instead of using the specific powers for handling labor disputes granted to him by the Taft-Hartley Labor-Management Relations Act.

The Democratic political angle in this is that if the President used the Taft-Hartley act, he would of course alienate the union officials who are a main prop of Truman strength.

But the course that President has chosen makes the issue an argument between lawyers. In this field the average citizen is head over heels in high legal grass and completely lost. For legal guides make their living by disagreeing.

Donald R. Richberg, a co-author of the Railway Labor Act and an adviser on the writing of the Taft-Hartley law, puts it this way in an opinion written for Committee for Constitutional Government:

Says Truman Adopted Lawless Course

"The seizure of the properties of the steel companies by President Truman is the most inexcusably lawless act of any President in our entire history. . . . Under the Taft-Hartley Act President Truman had the duty as well as the power . . . to stop a strike of steel workers for at least 80 days. . . . Instead of using his lawful powers to prevent a strike, the President adopted a lawless course. . ."

Other lawyers argue on the other side of the question.

Assistant Attorney General Holmes Baldridge, appearing before Federal District Court in Washington on the steel companies' petition for an injunction to stop presidential seizure of the industry, argued that seizures of private property in periods of national emergency dated back to the American Revolution and the War of 1812.

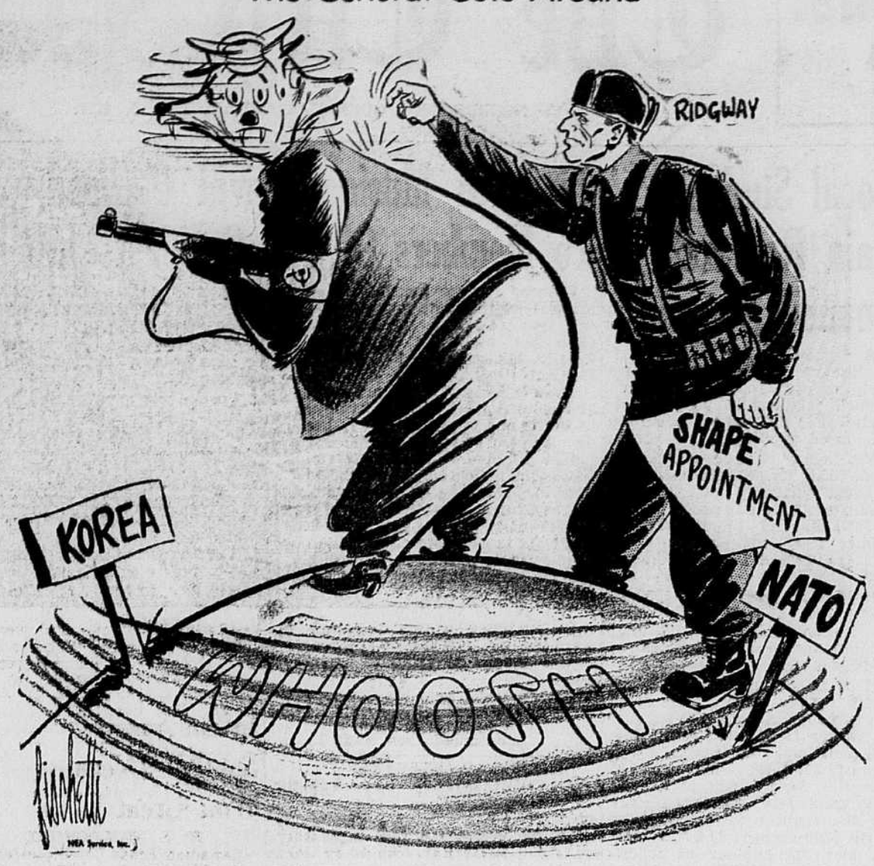

Seizures by President Lincoln were upheld by the Supreme Court and later confirmed by act of Congress, said Baldridge. President Roosevelt used the seizure power 13 times, and no way was ever found to stop him.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff, in giving his opinion on this petition to stop the steel industry seizure by President Truman, said he doubted whether any court could grant an injunction against any President.

Private citizens may have pronounced opinions on these matters but they can be decided only by a Supreme Court decision or by the Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment on charges preferred by the House of Representatives. But this might take months or even years.

The question of immediate public interest is whether a steel strike should be allowed to run its course while the politicians and lawyers are arguing whether the President has the power to do what he has already done.

Vancouver Squatter Once Hunted Bear And Deer In Stanley Park

Vancouver.—(CP)—The scenes of his boyhood are fading from his eyes, but old Tim Cummings still knows the sounds of Vancouver and beautiful Stanley Park —the place where he was born.

William Timothy Cummings, the last of the park's squatters, is older than the city itself. He was born New Year's day, 1881, in the same little cottage where he lives today.

His father was a Scottish sailor who jumped ship when his windjammed rode into Burrard Inlet some time after 1870. His mother was a Bella Coola Indian girl who was brought south to work in the fish cannery at Steveston.

When Tim was a boy he hunted deer and bear in the heavy forest of Stanley Park and vicinity. Now he saws logs on the beach and goes to town only once a week.

"What's the sense of going downtown when you can't see to get across the streets and you have to wait for somebody to take your arm," he said.

After the death of his parents, Tim stayed in a little shingled cottage near the Hallelujah Point lighthouse. Except for some minor additions over the years, it's the same old house.

The Vancouver parks board has ejected all squatters except Tim and his sister, Agnes. They don't know why they were permitted to remain.

They have a collie dog named Rex, coal oil lamps, outdoor plumbing, a rich garden of vegetables and flowers, and a boat.

His eyes are steadily failing and old Tim can no longer see the North Shore or Lion's Gate bridge.

"I could see the bridge when it first went up but it's gone now," he said. "Except sometimes in the morning when the sun is just getting up and I can see the light flashing on the windshields of the cars."

"I got walloped in the eye during the great war," he said.

"Then I was a stevedore. They paid us 15 cents an hour for 10 hours work a day and that was quite good enough. Why it costs me 15 cents to buy bones for the dog now."

In spite of his failing eyesight, Tim is content on his three-quarter acre plot of land. He likes to listen to the bells and sirens of boats in the harbor. He knows them all.

Thousands Ruined In Indian Drought

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

New Delhi. — More than 200,000 women, children and old people in famine-stricken Madras State are paying about one cent for a daily plate of watery gruel.

Without this relief food they would die of hunger.

In some villages desperate peasants besiege trains at the whistle-stops begging water from the engineers.

Without it they would die of thirst.

It is Madras State's worst famine for 75 years. At least 10,000,000 persons are hungry because, for five successive years, the rain-bringing monsoon has failed. The ruined peasantry are too poor to help themselves.

The combined drought and famine crisis is expected to reach its peak during the next six weeks.

The drought's toll on agriculture to date:

More than 10,000 square miles of rice—and wheat-growing areas arid under a scorching sun.

One million acres of orange orchards withering.

Countless cattle dead and dying.

There is food, plenty of it, in state granaries and ration shops. But few in this stricken area can afford to buy it.

Crop failures have exhausted the peasant's pathetic savings. Now thousands who sod their land in years gone by are destitute.

There is little outside aid can do except provide milk for mothers and children. Madras' government now has to provide enough work for peasants to enable them to buy food until anxiously awaited June rains permit farming again.

Relief work will probably cost the Madras government 6,000,000 rupees (about $12,000,000) before the crisis is over. But the money, it is also hoped, will provide some permanent relief against repetition of such a crisis.

SHIFT TO DIAMONDS WAS A REAL BONER

"I certainly thought I was going to beat that hand," sighed Hard Luck Joe.

Maybe he should have, and maybe you can find his mistake. Joe opened the king of hearts from the West hand, and continued with the ace of hearts. South ruffed the second heart with the eight of spades and calmly returned the nine of spades.

Joe thought about playing a low spade in the hope that his partner could beat the nine, but he eventually saw through the trap and won the trick with the queen of spades. Since dummy was out of hearts, Joe shifted to a diamond.

Dummy won with the ace of diamonds, and another low trump was ducked to Joe's king. Dummy still had a trump to stop the hearts, and it didn't make any difference what Joe returned. Declarer could easily gain the lead to draw two more rounds of trumps, and then the rest of the tricks were his.

Joe wasn't unlucky, of course; he pulled a boner. See of you can spot his mistake before you go on.

It was correct for Joe to lead two rounds of hearts and to win the first trump with the queen. He made his mistake when he shifted to diamonds. He should have kept leading hearts at every opportunity.

Suppose West takes the queen of spades and leads a third heart. Dummy must ruff to let South keep his length in trumps. But now dummy has only one trump. Declarer must let that trump out to give West the king of spades, and now West can lead hearts for the fourth time.

By this time dummy has no more trumps, and South is forced to ruff for the second time. This leaves him with one trump less than West. Hence West must make one of his low trumps as well as his two high trumps. He sets the contract with three trump tricks and one heart.

The Record Short Story

THE GENTLE SOUL

By SEVEN ANDERTON

I was sitting on my porch one Summer evening when old Sam Joyce came along and stopped to visit. Sam is Centerville's handyman, when he feels handy. He has made loafing an accomplishment. He works exactly as much as he has to, does that minimum of work well and gets it done as rapidly as he can. He knows Centerville like a book — and is something of a philosopher. Our conversation soon worked around to world conditions.

"Conditions," Sam said, "are all alike, only some are more widespread than others. The mess the world is in right now reminds me of Anna Hawley."

I waited while Sam filled his pipe and lighted it. When Sam is reminded of something, he will tell about it.

"Anna Hawley," Sam said when his pipe was going, "grew up on a farm east of town. After she graduated from town school she taught the Skunk Ridge country school for a couple of years. This was all quite a while back; before you moved here. While she was teaching at Skunk Ridge, Anna went to State Normal school every summer and built up her education. Then she landed the job of teaching the first and second grades here in town. She turned out to be a whizz. The little tykes loved her and she loved them. She kept them entertained and happy and still managed to teach them plenty.

"Anna was a solid, chunky little thing—not too pretty but quiet and ladylike. Everybody liked her and agreed that she was a gentle and understanding soul. She taught the primary grades for three years and it looked like she was set there for life. Folks admitted that their tykes would rather go to school than stay home.

Then a situation popped up. The thirteen-fourteen-year-old kids in the seventh and eighth grades got plum out of hand. In the first two months of the school term three teachers gave up and quit. That bunch of kids was holy terrors. Just imagine what a bunch of kids that age can do to make a teacher's life miserable. That bunch did all you can imagine, then thought up more.

"The chief reason for this outbreak of hoodlumism was a kid named Leonard Boden. His dad had moved here from River City to manage the Centerville grain elevator. This Leonard was a smart aleck city kid and proud of it. In no time he was ringleader of the town's kids of his own age. He picked Alvin Potter, the son of Marion Potter, who ran the drugstore, for his chum and sidekick. Well, these young hellions organized during the summer and when school started they was all set.

"Old Libby Green, their first teacher, only lasted ten days. She fainted when a stink bomb exploded in the wastebasket alongside her chair—and resigned when she came to. As I said, these young rowdys got rid of three teachers in two months, which sort of produced a crisis. After the third teacher quit, a meeting of the school board was called to deal with the situation.

"Now this Alvin Potter's dad was president of the board—which caused some complications later on. But the board got a surprise when Anna Hawley busted into the meeting and asked them to let her take over this obstreperous bunch of brats.

"The board was skeptical. They pointed out that while Anna was a whizz with the small fry the handling of this bunch of teen age rip snorters was no job for a gentle soul like her. But, as I said, there was a crisis and because of her study Anna was qualified, so the board agreed to let her try. They hired another teacher for the primary grades.

"When Anna took over the hellions on a Monday morning, she made a nice talk. She told them she was there to help them make up the grades they had lost with their monkeyshines. She told them flat that she hoped to be friends with all of them, but no matter what happened she was going to be their teacher for the rest of the year. Then she told them that they would go back in the text books and make up by triple lessons what they had failed to learn on account of their misbehavior.

"Well, the first couple of days wasn't too bad. The brats were sort of feeling out their new victim—and making plans. But on Wednesday morning they cut loose —with paper wads. Shot with rubber bands, the wads spattered onto the walls, windows and such while Anna wasn't looking and distracted the first class of the morning, which Anna was hearing on one side of the room. Anna left the class, went to the rostrum and called for order.

"She told them that on account of the distraction the history class would have to be heard over, which meant that the school day would be twenty minutes longer.

When she finished and started back to the history class, a juicy paper wad the size of an egg whizzed past her head and splattered on a blackboard. Anna spun around. Leonard Boden was bent over a book on his desk, but he was wiping his wet hand on his pants.

"Anna told Leonard to come with her and he looked innocent as all get out and asked her where she wanted him to come. She told him to just follow her. Leonard grinned at the other kids and went along. They were just about to the corridor door when there was a big haw-haw from somebody behind them. Anna whirled quick and saw a lot of kids still looking at Alvin Potter who was busy with a notebook on his desk. She told Alvin to come along, too.

"Well, sir, she took them two young devils to a little office down the hall and bolted the door after they were inside. Nobody ever did find out just what happened in that room, but the noises that came out sounded like a wrecking crew or a major operation without anaesthetics. Other teachers and Professor Wyatt, the principal, heard the racket and came running. They were just about to break in the door when Anna Hawley opened it. She was a mess. Her hair was down and her lip was bleeding. Her skirt was ripped and she was panting, but both of them young whelps was flat on the floor. One thing was sure, she had beat the devil out of them—and they were bigger than she was.

"Anna told Professor Wyatt that everything was all right and would he please not let other rooms be disturbed by something that only concerned herself and her pupils.

"But it didn't work out that way. Before it was over the whole danged town got into it. After Alvin Potter came limping home that night with a black eye and a swollen nose and a torn shirt, his dad called a meeting of the school board to fire Anna Hawley. But the folks of all the kids she had taught in the primary grades showed up, along with Anna who demanded a public hearing. The meeting had to move to the school auditorium. Most everybody was on Anna's side from the start. She told the meeting that she would much rather teach the tykes, but she had taken on the other job because it needed doing. And she said that, by golly, she would do it. She said that she would like to get along with her pupils the way she always had, but if they wanted it the rough and tumble way she would accommodate them.

"Yes, sir, Anna Hawley laid down the law. She said that, same as everybody else, she knew who was behind the devilment—and if she stayed as teacher she would slap the responsible parties to sleep every time they instigated anything contrary to the peace and dignity of the classroom. Then she demanded a vote. The result was that Anna Hawley stayed on her job with absolute authority and the guaranteed support of the school board and the P.T.A.

"Well, sir, the monkey business subsided and all of Anna Hawley's pupils passed the spring examination with high grades. The next year Anna went back to teaching the small fry—and stayed there until she married Paul Lawton."

"I see," I said, "and would this Alvin Potter kid be the Dr. Alvin Potter who now puts in about twenty-four hours a day looking after the physical well being of Centerville?"

"The same," Sam replied, "and in case it hasn't occurred to you, the name of the lieutenant governor of this state is Leonard Boden."

I told Sam that I was aware of the fact.

"So you see," Sam went on, knocking out his pipe, "Joe Stalin and that Polit Bureau bunch don't need to worry about warmongers. But one of these days some gentle soul is going to get tired of their shenanigans. Then they better have a big hole ready to crawl into."

"You may be right," I told Sam.

"I'm always right," he said as he rose from the porch steps, "only nobody pays any attention to me."

I sat there in the porch swing, thinking, until my wife came out and offered me a penny for my thoughts.

"I was thinking," I told her, "that what this country needs is a lot of gentle souls—in a hurry."

"I'm a gentle soul," she said, "unless somebody aggravates me too much. How about going down to the drug store for some ice cream?"

Upholds Advantages Of Modern Education

Montreal. — Are Canadian children smarter today than children were 50 years ago?

Dr. W. P. Percival, director of Protestant education for the province of Quebec, thinks the chances are that today's children are better in every respect.

He said in a speech during a recent visit to Macdonald College school for teachers that children today are healthier, taller, and better proportioned than they were 50 years ago.

"The boys of today are an inch and a half taller, and several pounds heavier than their fathers were at their ages. Girls are about an inch taller and five pounds lighter at their ages.

"Though one cannot prove the psychological and educational advances as conclusively as the physical, they are still demonstrable in some measure," he said. said.

"Fifty years ago the intelligence quotient was unknown. The causes of school failure had not been looked into scientifically."

If a child would not learn readily in the old days, Dr. Percival said, he was just written off as dumb, and teachers found a ready means to get these children out of their classes.

"Discipline was administered with a strap, the emphasis in school was on memorization—Town's speller and definer contained such words as ensiform, concatenate, decrepitate, graminivorous, and herpetology. Many of these words were beyond the power of pronunciation and understanding of many a teacher and so it was not uncommon for such words to be skipped—without much genuine loss to anyone."

Dr. Percival said he does "not uphold all the foibles and trivialities of many of the present day so-called "progressive educationists."

"But I affirm that as education becomes increasingly based on the findings of science, as the knowledge of the psychologist grows more precise, as more strenuous efforts are made to find the most effective methods of teaching and learning, we shall find more and more of the useful to teach, and also how best to teach it, whether it be reading, arithmetic or history, discipline, boralitl, or the plain knowledge of how to get along better with one another."

Newcomer Impressed By Women's Freedom

Saskatoon. — Canadian women go out a lot more without their husbands than do Netherlands women. That's one o fthe impressions gained by Mrs. A. A. Schryver since she emigrated here from Holland about a year ago.

Tall, dark and attractive mother of three boys, Mrs. Schryver thinks Canadian women have much more spare time than their counterparts in Holland. They go to more tea parties, belong to more clubs and spend more time shopping, she finds.

In contrast she describes Dutch women as home bodies, more inclined to limit their social activities to mixed functions. Mrs. Schryver thinks her countrywomen at home are more interested in knitting, sewing and embroidery than Canadian women. "They always have something on the needles," she said.

Mrs. Schryver believes that is the result of early training. Dutch children are instructed in handicrafts from the first grade on. Sewing and knitting are as important in Dutch schools as spelling and arithmetic.

Her husband was a Netherlands army officer and an official of the Dutch trading company in Indonesia before they came to Canada. They survived more than three years of interment in Japanese prison camps and they are deeply appreciative of life in Canada.

But they still note differences. They miss the relaxation, the leisurely life, that is found in some other countries. "You Canadians play as hard as you work," Mr. Schryver noted. "You don't take time to enjoy and appreciate your many comforts—your advantages and your blessings."

Ballets Win Acclaim Of Critics

Toronto, May 6.—(CP)—The fourth Canadian Ballet Festival was well under way today amid a chorus of friendly cheers from the critics.

Four of the 12 companies here for the week-long festival put on performances last night, providing an engaging evening for the first-night audience, despite nervousness on the part of some young performers.

"Last night's bill was both interesting in accomplishment and a pleasant promise of performances to come," said Rose Macdonald of the Telegram, after viewing the efforts of Winnipeg, Montreal, Ottawa and Halifax companies.

Said Jack Karr of the Toronto Daily Star: (They showed) "enthusiasm in work, vigor in individual performances, devotion to work in hand."

Herbert Whittaker of the Globe and Mail was most taken by the Winnipeg ballet's presentation.

He said:

"There were some interesting performers and some admirable work earlier in the evening from Ottawa, Halifax and Montreal groups, but it took the Winnipeg ballet's 'Shooting of Dan McGrew' to make the audience forget that they were attending a ballet festival and enjoy a handsome serving of showmanship.

"Robert Service's poem has been put into a sort of musical comedy ballet by Gweneth Lloyd, with Eric Wild remembering some old tunes of the '90s for its score. The result is bouncy, funny anl burlesque, with Eva von Genscy adding sex appeal to the evening as Lou."

"However, "the ballet which showed off its dancers to best advantage . . . was 'The Vision,' presented by Gotshalks Halifax ballet, with occasional bursts of brilliance—principally from Irene Alpine in its leading role . . ."

Mr. Whittaker called the Ottawa company "attractive" and said it paid the penalty of opening the non-competitive festival. It was obviously nervous. Montreal's "Mount Royal Fantasy," danced by the Elizabeth Leese Ballet, was "the most provocative" and supplied the best acting.

Miss Macdonald called "The Vision" the "most charming" and noteworthy because of the youth of the Halifax dancers. Despite a lack of opportunity to view professional ballet, "they made a very pleasing impression indeed." With the other critics, she commented favorably on the striking bright red costumes of the Ottawa group.

The Star critic summed it up: "People on both sides of the footlights had a good time."

Says Posture Aid To Healthy Body

London. — Most women don't know how to carry themselves properly, says Charles Neil, chief instructor at a London centre for physical and mental re-education.

Some don't even know the right way to push a baby carriage, says Neil. Many mothers push the pram with the head back and chest thrown forward.

"All wrong," says 36-year-old Neil. "Carry the head level and push with the whole body."

Another tip: If you let your body sag while carrying your shopping bag, you're just making things harder for yourself. It's less tiring to walk erect, spreading the strain over the body."

And never pick things up without bending the knees just to save your stockings. The knees are bent much more when you sit down.

Toy Library Aids Crippled Children

Edmonton. — A library with a "heart" has been established in Edmonton. It lends toys . . . toys for the use of Alberta's cerebral palsied children.

The library is sponsored by the American Women's Club in the city. It was opened in April in the new cerebral palsy clinic.

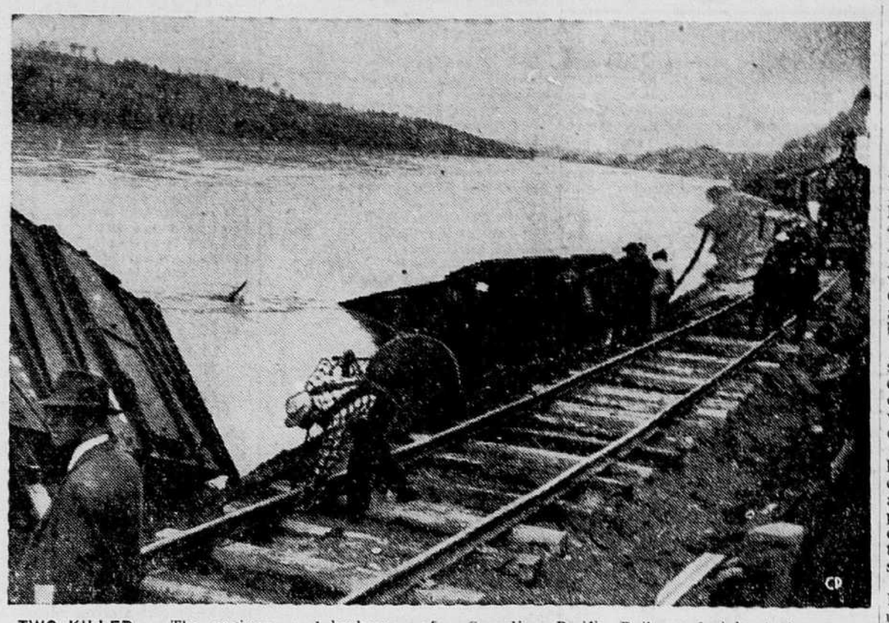

Toys for the cerebral palsied child are not mere playthings. A two-fold purpose is served when the correct type of toy is made available. Usually of an educational nature, the toys teach the children elementary counting and the alphabet as well as helping them unconsciously to regain control of crippled muscles.

The cost of such toys ih high and the children require more advanced items as their recovery progresses.

Secretary Mrs. W. W. Peterson of the Edmonton American Women's Club told a meeting last January of the need of such a library. The library was an opportunity to watch the results of their efforts, so instead of supplying drapes for the new clinic, they set up the toy-lending work.

A toy may be borrowed free of charge for a two-week period and then must be returned. But a new one may be taken out. The club hopes to extend the service of its library to children in all parts of the province.

Kiddiscales which teach a child addition and balance, building beakers, eggs in a variety of sizes which must be fitted together, and other toys of a similar nature are circulated.

TWO KILLED — The engineer and brakeman of a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train were killed when the locomotive and 10 cars were derailed into the St. John River near Woodstock, N.B. by a landslide. 11 Are Killed In Plane Crash

Oslo, May 6.—(AP)—A chartered Norwegian transport plane, bringing 25 sailors home from an Antarctic whaling expedition crashed and burned before dawn today in the rugged, wooded Telemark district 150 miles southwest of Oslo.

Police reported 11 persons — nine passengers and two members of the crew — were killed and 10 others were injured, some seriously. A total of 29 was aboard.

The plane, operated by the Fred Olsen charter airline, left Amsterdam last night for Jarlsberg airport, about 25 miles from Oslo.

It carried a crew of four and the 25 whalers from the 18,000-ton Antarctic whaling factory ship, Kosmos 3. The ship arrived in Rotterdam Sunday with a cargo of petroleum which it brought from the Persian Gulf after finishing the winter whaling season.

The crash occurred in the dense Solberg woods a few miles outside the village of Drangedal.

Police said the plane had plowed through the trees and apparently caught fire soon after.

This was the second air crash to hit the Olsen company in little more than a month. On April 2 another of the lines DC-3's crashed near Bordeaux, France, with a Swedish soccer team bound for Gothenburg, Sweden. No one was killed.

London, May 6—(Reuters)—Richard Butler, Britain's treasury chief, told industrialists here last night he hoped they would learn to think of Canada as one of Britain's "great markets of the future."

"Hitherto, we have sometimes failed to secure orders for capital goods (in Canada) simply because our delivery dates were too long," he said, adding restrictions on home consumption should improve this situation.

Butler spoke at a dinner opening the British Industries Fair and stressed Britain must seek foreign markets for several years to come.

German Steel Workers Help Run Plant; Fire "Anti-Union" Manager

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

Duesseldorf.—(AP)—Ever hear of a big steel-plant manager being fired because his workmen complained that he was anti-union?

It happened in West Germany, where "Mitbestimmungsrecht" — or co-determination—has reached a lusty first birthday.

"Mitbestimmungsrecht" means that workmen have a direct voice in the operation of plants which employ them.

Under West German law, it applies only to the iron, coal and steel industries centered in the great Ruhr valley.

Labor is striving to spread it to all major industries.

Briefly, it works this way:

A plant with more than 1,000 workers must have five representatives from labor, and five from management on its board of directors. An 11th man, who works as a balance wheel in cases of stalemate, is selected from three candidates put up by the board itself.

Such vital problems as production, policy, working conditions, wages, hours and workers' security are dealt with by this board.

In its first 12 months of existence, co-determination has made both friends and foes, its friends are not numbered among labor alone.

An official for the Kloeckner steel works, which produces 1,000,000 tons of Ruhr steel annually, is for it.

"There have been no major differences at our plant," he said. "We find, too, that co-determination has helped morale among the workers. They feel they have a direct hand in their own industrial future—and they have."

The concept of co-determination is not new. Its practical application heavy industry is.

The program came at a time when it was most likely to get popular support. Anything to keep labor and capital going was better than watching many Ruhr furnaces stand cold, the coal pits partly closed.

The powerful West German trade union federation with its 6,000,000 members pressed hard.

Uneasily, many West German industrialists watched co-determination come into being. They called it "socialization the cold way."

This the trade union federation sharply denies.

Management is afraid that a victory by the socialists in the 1953 government elections would see nationalization of industry sweep the country—on the groundwork laid by co-determination.

There is some bitterness among management. A steel-plant director, for example, was fired because the workers thought him anti-union. He was reinstated on probation and is holding his job almost on sufferance of the men who work for him.

"Co-determination," he said, "is nothing more than bringing socialization of industry through the back door. They got at me by saying I was anti-union. That was untrue. But the 11th man on the board finally voted for me and I am back. On six months' probation. Imagine that, probation. I have run this plant for years."

AT INVERNESS

Inverness, May 6—One of the last remaining buildings of 100 years ago in this Megantic county town was destroyed last night when the general store owned by John Hoy and the adjoining residence of A. Charest were burned to the ground.

The fire broke out at about 10 o'clock last night and only the super-human efforts of volunteer fire-fighters prevented the flames from spreading to other parts of the town until the fire was finally checked by reels which came from Laurierville, Plessisville and Victoriaville.

Lack of water and fire fighting equipment hampered the volunteer fire-fighters in their efforts to control the blaze and the men were on the job until after 6 o'clock this morning.

The log frame store, built more than a century ago, was best known here at the R. and J. MacKenzie store. Before that it had been known as the Stewart store.

Debate on Budget

the time had come to overhaul the National Housing Act.

Mr. Croll, a former Ontario minister of public welfare, said there have been estimates that Ontario needs 450,000 more homes and that Canada needs another 700,000. There was a need for more rental housing, more mortgage money, lower down payments and for longer periods to repay loans.

Mortgages were the traditional field of the private companies. But they were now using their funds to buy "chunks" of real estate and long-term leases on chain stores.

If they weer more interested in clipping bond coupons and collecting rents, they were vacating a field the government would have no alternative but to enter. If the government did enter the mortgage field it could make money available more cheaply than private institutions.

A highlight of the Florida campagin was the statement by Senator Russell last night that he will not lead any bolt from the Democratic party.

He was commenting on a suggestion by Kefauver that Russell would lead a revolt if the national convention adopted a compulsory Fair Employment Practices Commission plank in its platform. The commission is violently opposed by the south.

"I will not walk out of the convention on an F.E.P.C. fight," Russell told reporters later. "I intend to stay right there and fight it out."

Some southern leaders walked out of the 1948 convention when the party endorsed F.E.P.C., which bars job discrimination against Negroes or other minorities.

Infant Survives Spell In Ocean, Wins Great Fame

By D. W. LOCHORE

Canadian Press Correspondent

Auckland, N.Z. — "The luckiest boy in New Zealand" is the name won by five-year-old John Cassidy.

Unable to swim a stroke, he fell from his father's launch into the Rangitoto channel outside Auckland harbor on the evening of Easter Sunday. After being in the water more than 30 minutes without a life-jacket or any aid to keep him afloat, he was picked up because a woman persuaded her husband to make a search when she thought she heard a child's voice calling "daddy" from the sea.

John's disappearance was not discovered until his father's launch had almost reached its mooring two miles away at 5:30 p.m. The boy's father, Frank Cassidy, explained: "We were returning from a day's fishing and as dusk was coming on and it was getting chilly I sent my two boys into the cabin.

"But John, the young tyke, must have got out through the forward hatch, as we were all cleaning fish aft, we did not notice him. Somehow or other he slipped off.

"We did not realize he had disappeared until Franky (his brother) asked where he was. Immediatey we turned back and organized a search. I could hardly believe another launch party who told he nearly an hour later that John had been picked up in the meantime."

John's story was simple and to the point. "I went to paddle my feet in the water," he said. "Then I falled in, and the water went all over my head. I hit the side of the boat.

"When I came up, I floated on my back."

What did he think of while he floated? "I didn't think of anything," he said. "A lady pulled me out of the water. She gave me some bubber clothes. I'm not going to wear them every day."

John told his parents when he got home that he was sick while he was in the water, but he had not cried.

The child was rescued by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Macindoe who were out fishing in a rowing boat. Mrs. Macindoe said she heard a voice calling "daddy." At first her husband did not believe her, but after rowing around for five minutes, they found the boy floating on his back and still conscious.

When John reached home, the family doctor gave him a sedative and ordered him to bed. He went to sleep in his cot with his toy yacht beside him as if nothing had ever happened.

John proved quite unharmed by the experience. He and his parents have had many callers and received hundreds of congratulatory messages from all parts of New Zealand.

Corgi Nearing Top As Britain's Pet

London — Figures issued by Britain's kennel club show that the Welsh corgi, a favorite of the Royal family, is becoming the most popular family pet.

The corgi has moved up to fourth place in the annual popularity poll of pedigree pups, displacing the wire-haired terrier which has been one of the first for more than 30 years.

The corgi's popularity dates from 1933 when the late King George VI bought a pup for his daughter, Princess Elizabeth. Now Elizabeth as Queen has a corgi called Sugar as nursery pet for her two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne. The pup is daughter of the reigning pet of the Royal household, Susan.

London, May 6—(AP)—Meat-hungry Britain's outbreak of foot - and - mouth disease spread yesterday to the home of one of her most famed cattle breeds—the island of Jersey.

Half the British Isles is already under a tight ban on the movement of cattle because of the disease. Today Jersey was included. The wave first struck Nov. 14 and now has reached into 241 separate areas of the United Kingdom.

Under agriculture ministry orders, 14,089 head of cattle have already been slaughtered in efforts to stem the spread of the disease.

Britain's meat ration these days averages about one good-sized chop per person per week.

Boosts Battleford As Historic Centre

Battleford, Sask.— (CP) —The historic town of Battleford has been suggested as one of the chief centres for official observances when Saskatchewan celebrates her 50th anniversary in 1955.

Town councillor Joe Kuffner has launched a movement to have battleford, a capital of the Northwest Territories when they included Saskatchewan and Alberta, play an important role in the province's golden jubilee celebrations.

As early as 1800 the Hudson's Bay Company established posts at the junction of the Battle and North Saskatchewan rivers in west-central Saskatchewan about 75 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police established their regional headquarters at Battleford and it was from that fort that R.N.W.M.P. went to quell the disturbance at Duck Lake after the Riel Rebellion broke out in 1885.

After a defeat at Duck lake and being besieged at Fort Pitt, the Mounties withdrew to Battleford. As the fortunes of battle changed they received the surrender of Poundmaker of the Stoney Indians at Battleford.

It was in Battleford that the Saskatchewan Herald, the first newspaper west of Winnipeg, was published in 1878. The town also boasts the oldest Roman Catholic and Anglican churches in the province.

Battleford people take their town's history casually and the town of North Battleford has become the commercial centre of the area but councillor Kuffner feels that the town's colorful part in the province's history deserves recognition.

North Hatley, Que.

I wish to thank all my friends from near and far who so kindly remembered me while I was a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, and since returning home. I wish to thank Dr. Ellis and Dr. Quintin and all the nurses on the third floor who were so kind to me; also Dr. Stubbing, of Scotstown, and Nurse Christine MacIver, R.N., and my efficient chauffeur, John Matheson. Their kindness is much appreciated.

MRS. RUPERT C. VAN

Scotstown, Que.

IN MEMORIAM

SMITH—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Gladys Emelia Smith, who passed away May 5th, 1951.

Always remembered by

HER HUSBAND AND SON

Melbourne, Que.

BELLAM — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Alfred A. Bellam, who departed this life on May 6th, 1943.

As years roll on and days go by,
Loving memories never die,
Deep in our hearts a picture is kept,
Of the one we loved and will never forget.

The Doctor Says:

CASES OF SEVERE PHOBIA CALL FOR PSYCHIATRIC TREATMENT

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

A correspondent writes that she has a neurosis of fear and is always depressed with everything. She says that she has been fighting this horrible thing for years and wonders what can be done about it.

Now, fear can be either normal or abnormal. Doubtless, there are few living persons who have not sometime been afraid in the presence of real risk, but when there exists a fear of something which is imaginery, or which carries only slight danger, the reaction is called a phobia or obsession.

In severe cases which persons cannot overcome by themselves, this may be a symptom of real mental disease, and the aid of a psychiatrist should be sought. There are many kinds of fears and I shall mention only a few of them.

One fear is called acrophobia, which is fear of great heights. This seems to be quite common—probably so much that it is almost "normal." There is another fear called bathophobia, which means fear of great depths. If it really meant the way it sounds it would be common enough among children!

There are other phobias with long and astonishing names and even stranger meanings. At the risk of making this sound like a list, here are a few: apiphobia—fear of bees; automysophobia—fear of being dirty; bibliophobia—dislike of books; cherophobia—fear of gaiety, and necrophobia, or fear of death. Obviously, the last is a fear which nearly everyone has. It is a true phobia only when a person things about death almost constantly.

May Dominate Lives

Real phobias make the victims miserable and can completely dominate their lives and point of view. Even when the nature of fear seems humorous to the outsider, it is a constant source of annoyance to the person involved and causes untold mental distress.

Should anything be done about these abnormal fears? The answer is yes, if possible. But being afraid of something is abnormal only when it is excessive and there is no good reason for that fear.

Laxative Slave
regains youthful regularity

"For two years I was troubled with constipation," admits woman in West Hill, Ontario. "Then I started eating ALL-BRAN regularly. No trouble of this kind since!" If you, too, suffer from irregularity due to lack of dietary bulk, why not try toasty Kellogg's ALL-BRAN? It's helped thousands to regain youthful regularity. High in iron and protein, it's not habit-forming. And the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. Eat ½ cup every day; drink plenty of liquids. Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

The Leah Echenberg Chapter of Sherbrooke occupied a booth at the giant Hadassah Carnival held recently at the Cote des Neiges Armory in Montreal. A large group met at the home of Mrs. I. Steinman, Portland Ave., where a workshop was set up to make fancy decorative plates and salt shakers. Under the able convenership of Mrs. J. Bordoff and Mrs. D. Echenberg, the members prepared an enormous quantity of these articles, which were widely commented on at the Bazaar, and which attracted great crowds of customers all the time. Many merchants and manufacturers of Sherbrooke and Montreal gave generous donations to the Sherbrooke Booth, and the members were pleased that everything was completely sold out at the end of the Carnival.

Musical Tea By Convent Alumnae At Windsor Mills

Windsor Mills May 6. — The annual musical tea, given by the Notre Dame de Fatima Alumnae in the music hall of the convent of the Congregation de Notre Dame, in Windsor Mills, was a brilliant success, on Saturday, April 26.

The president, Mrs. W. Frank Dearden, with Mrs. A. Cote welcomed the hundred attending guests.

Decorations, unnder the supervision of Miss Aileen Brady, the vice-president, assisted by Mrs. W. Ward and Mrs. M. Pye, were carried out in springtime fashion with big urns of pussy willows on the stage, and daffodils in a silver basket centred the tea table, with pink tapers in silver candlesticks completing the color scheme.

Mrs. A. Simoneau poured tea and Miss Jeanne Gagne coffee. Rev. Canon J. A. Lemay with Rev. Fathers A. Bernier and R. Miron were guests of honor. Rev. Mother St. Antonio, superior of the Academy, with Mother S. Emile directress of the Alumnae mingled amongst the guests.

A most delightful musical program was head during tea hour.

Recitation: "La jeune veuve," La fontaine, by the pupils of the 9th grade.

Violin obligato: 'Selections from the opera "Martha" and "As So Pure" by Miss Marielle Charland, accompanied at the piano by her sister, Miss Carmen Charland.

Vocal quartet: "Bless This House" and "I Passed By Your Window," Mrs. B. F. Quinn, Mrs. M. Pye, Mrs. W. Ward and Mrs. A. Houghton; and at the piano, Mrs. Ernest Dunn.

Piano solo: "Selection from Show Boad," by Mrs. Ernest Dunn.

Piano solo: "Nocturne— Boelman," by Mrs. Hilaire Sheridan.

Vocal solos: "La Legende Du Petit Navire," and "Les Oiseaux Dans Le Soir," by Mrs. Oliver Lemire, soprano, and at the piano was Mrs. L. Lahaye.

The Chorus, "L'Echo Enchanteur," with Mrs. Albert Paquette for the musical directress, brillantly rendered a few selections of its repertoire, with Mrs. L. Lahaye at the piano. Miss M. A. Ayotte was the soloist.

Mrs. Conrad Charland acted as mistress of ceremony. Mrs. G. Defosses, Mrs. Ray Cloutier, Mrs. P. Turgeon, Mrs. R. Dubois, Misses Madeleine Baril, Therese Morin, G. Fouquet, R. Dubreuil, Aline Cote, G. Pelletier, all members of the executive, served tea.

Mrs. Leo Allaire was the winner of the fruit juicer set donated by Mr. H. Morin, as a door prize.

The drawing of articles, which are to be drawn for the students' library will take place as soon as the desired objective is reached.

General Notes

Mrs. F. Dearden has left to spend several days in Montreal.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

From the Collection of 24 of the World's Greatest Cookbooks

SPONSORED BY THIS NEWSPAPER

Frosted Sandwich Loaf Is Something Special To See, To Eat, For Party

Garnish the sandwich loaf with slices of stuffed olives, grated egg yolk, watercress or parsley.

It is easy to serve sandwiches for a party but to make them attractive is another story. For any number of wonderful fillings and counless striking and unusual ways of serving sandwiches, you must see "500 Tasty Sandwich Recipes," the fourteenth cookbook in the series of twenty-four Culinary Arts Institute Cookbooks available to readers of this nswspaper.

Like the other books in the series, the Sandwich Book covers the field completely with step-by-step instructious, delicious, concise recipes, and photographic illustrations that suggest any number of unusual ways of serving or trimming sandwiches.

Most of the recipes are accompanied by many variations and alternate suggestions so that every taste and pocketbook can be satisfied. A whole column of other fillings for the recipe below appears in the Sandwich Book but for lack of space only the basic recipe is given:

FROSTED SANDWICH LOAF

1 unsliced loaf sandwich bread
Butter
Mayonnaise
Sliced tomatoes
Minced Ham Filling
9 ounces cream cheese
Milk
Parsley

Remove all crust from a loaf of day-old bread. Cut 4 lengthwise slices about ½ inch thick and spread with butter. Place a slice on a platter, spread with mayonnaise, then cover with sliced peeled tomatoes. Spread another slice with mayonnaise and place it mayonnaise side down on tomatoes. Spread top of this slice with minced ham, cover with third slice of bread. Spread it with mayonnaise and cover with lettuce. Spread fourth slice of bread with mayonnaise and place it mayonnaise side down on lettuce. Press firmly together. Soften cream cheese with milk, beat until fluffy and frost the outside of the loaf. Garnish with parsley. Chill at least 1 hour. Slice crosswise to serve. Serves 8.

Girl Should Take Initiative To Interest Nice, Too-Bashful Boy

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I make a boy interested in me? He is, like myself, a senior in high school. I know his mother and sister very well and get along beautifully with them. My would-be beau, however, never seems to know I'm around. One of our teachers told us it was up to the girl to go after a boy who is too bashful. Do you agree? I've never chased a boy and think he should do the pursuing.

BEA

ANSWER: By all means, go after your prey! If girls simply sat with folded hands waiting for men to make the first move—not to mention the follow-up—marriage license bureaus would be almost out of business. The trick, of course, is to chase the man, but make him think he's doing the pursuing. A little subtlety, some finesse here and there and your purpose is accomplished.

Leap Year provides a golden opportunity for the aggressive female, and woe to the boy who wants to retire into a shell and stay there. Spring is here, and with it the traditional round of dances and outings. Many of these affairs are sponsored as Leap Year parties, with the girls inviting boys.

GIVE A PARTY

If no organization in your community is sufficiently wide-awake to help the girls out, why not have such a party yourself? Or induce your church group or some civic club to have one? With the object of your affections as your guest for the evening, you'll have plenty of time to impress him with your charms. If you have the party at your house, the role of a gracious hostess offers a rare chance to be beguiling.

If the boy has a special talent or hobby, develop a terrific interest in the subject—even if it's raising white mice! Nothing flatters a male as much as to have someone share his enthusiasm on a favorite topic.

Senior year is a time for particular achievement. If your friend is the recipient of any senior honor, offer him warm congratulations; if he is in line for special awards, or anything of that sort, let him know you're on his side.

Opportunities for making him notice you are not lacking, but you must be on the lookout for every one and make the most of each chance. Don't be obvious; just show interest! Seldom can anyone resist a friendly overture. We all like to have others like us, and often waste valuable time, and friendship, waiting for the other fellow to make the advances. Don't just sit back hoping the telephone will ring; do something to make it ring. A warm smile and cordial greeting may be all that's needed to rouse the lad from his lethargy, but if you need more intensive campaigning, don't be afraid to try it!

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is always making me the brunt of his so-called jokes. He humuliates me cruelly in company, criticizes and embarrasses me in public. I try to be a good sport, not get upset, and take it with a smile, but it's getting awfully hard. Even more maddening is his habit of spreading our private business around. He betrays every little confidence we have.

ADELIA

ANSWER: Your husband labors under the delusion that by belittling you he is, by contrast, making a veritable giant of himself. What he needs is a good dose of his own medicine, which could best be administered by one of the friends he is trying to impress. Have you an ally among your intimates who would enter into a conspiracy with you? If, on just one occasion, every barbed, so-called witticism your husband turned on you could be twisted around to backfire on him, he might lose some of his sense of humor.

His whole attitude is one of complete childishness, and the only cure is to treat him as a child. Very few people enjoy seeing a man make this sort of spectacle of himself; once he realizes that he is the entire appreciative audience for his own humor, he'll have to stop in self-defense.

HALF-SIZE STYLE

GOOD SPORT! Good worker! This dress is designed for action! And those tucks at front and back, the eight-gore skirt are fashion news as well! Designed for the shorter, fuller figure too—makes you look slimmer! No alteration worries!

Pattern R9126: Half sizes 14 1/2, 16 1/2, 18 1/2, 20 1/2, 22 1/2, 24 1/2. Size 16 1/2 takes 4 yards 39-inch fabric.

This easy-to-use pattern gives perfect fit. Complete, illustrated Sew Chart shows you every step.

Waterville Guild Heard Final Lenten Lecture

Waterville, May 6.—The Ladies' Guild of St. John's Church met in the Jubilee Hall with Mrs. C. E. Burton for the hostess.

Rev. Mr. Beaufry opened the meeting with prayer.

The president, Mrs. H. W. Loomis, presided over the business session, and the secretary, Mrs. C. E. Burton, read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved.

The treasurer, Mrs. Fred W. Ayer, gave the financial statement and all bills were voted to be paid.

The correspondence consisted of a Thank-you letter from Mrs. D. Urwin Canterbury, England, for a food parcel, she had received from St. John's Guild.

Mrs. F. A. Burton reported that she had written a letter of thanks to Mrs. F. H. Rowe, of Sherbrooke, for the beautiful cut flowers she sent to St. John's Church for the Easter Sunday service.

Rev. Mr. Beaufoy expressed his sincere thanks to the Guild ladies and other members of the church for the two pots of lilies which adorned the altar and for cleaning the church for the Easter service.

At the close of the business meeting, Rev. Mr. Beaufoy addressed the Guild members and chose for his subject, "Burials," which concluded the series of talks he had planned for the Lenten season.

The president thanked the speaker for his instructive and interesting talks.

At the tea hour the hostess served refreshments to the members and several guests. Mrs. Beaufoy, Mrs. Ayer and Mrs. Pessig assisted the hostess.

General Notes

The beautiful flowers on the altar of St. John's Church, on Sunday, April 20, were in loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lowe and were given by their son, Mr. William Lowe, of Winnipeg, Man.

Use Novel Lures To Entice Labor In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

Auckland, N.Z. — Employees in New Zealand are constantly thinking up new ways to attract workers in the present desperate labor shortage. Despite the growing immigration program the labor scarcity shaws little signs of improvement.

With no unemployment listed in New Zealand, there are more than 30,000 jobs which cannot be filled. In many industries the wages paid are well above the rate fixed by agreements, but as other employers also offer higher pay this method of attracting workers soon nullifies itself.

Free permanent waves have become a common inducement in factories employing skilled women operatives. Some firms in hard-to-reach localities offer free taxis to work. The free hairdo movement has spread to male workers. One firm employs a full-time barber to give free haircuts in working hours.

The latest development is the payment of bonuses for recruiting new workers. A lingerie firm pays $15 to members of its staff for bringing along a new recruit who stays three months. Some women have made $45 to $60 in rewards. Another clothing factory goes one better—it gives away a new costume to each member of its staff for introducing a new worker.

In spite of all these inducements, firms are still not able to fill their staff requirements. Instead of advertising their product, many companies spend a large part of their display allocation in appealing for workers and listing the advantages of work with the firm.

Every building project has a large notice outside offering jobs to carpenters, bricklayers, plasterers and laborers. Many factories have adopted the same practice and have big permanent boardings outside listing vacancies in many categories of jobs.

A Solve-It-Yourself Tale

BY HAROLD GLUCK

THE CHALLENGE: Are you wide awake? Can people fool you? If someone told you a story with an error in it could you spot what was wrong? Paul Husted is your age and he is in the same class as you are in school. You are going to match wits with him. He listened to a story and knew just what was wrong with it. See if you can do the same.

• • •

ARTHUR ZORN, reporter on Centerville's one and only leading newspaper was finishing a news item he had just written. There was a knock on the door to his office. Without taking his eyes off his typewriter he said,

"Come on in. The door is open."

A friendly youngster with the kind of smile that came from a good heart was soon inside the room. He handed a note to Arthur Zorn and remained quietly at the side of the desk as the reporter read. When finished Arthur Zorn turned to the boy.

"So you are the lad Mrs. Olins sent to me. The smartest boy in her class. And you want to see how a newspaper reporter works. I expect to interview a man in half an hour. I'm not certain who will do most of the talking. He is Sir Henry Keatling, the famous explorer and hunter. Called me up on the phone yesterday. Has an idea about raising money to preserve wild life in Africa. Now you just sit in the chair and keep your lips closed. Your job is to listen carefully to both of us. And you will see how a reporter works."

Exactly at 3:30 a tall well built man, with a touch of gray in his black hair, entered the office. He shook hands with Arthur Zorn.

"It really is a pleasure to meet a famous explorer and hunter like yourself," said the reporter. "Now what can I do for you?"

"Nothing at present," said Sir Henry Keatling. "I just wanted to meet you. I flew in the early part of this week from British South Africa. Had a wonderful trip to the interior. I killed two tigers. One of those tigers almost got my gun bearer. But as you Americans would say—in the nick of time I placed a well-aimed bullet where it killed the animal. And I have two tiger skins. Suppose we meet tomorrow for lunch. There are some plans I would like to discuss with you."

• • •

THE explorer left the office with a promise on the part of Arthur Zorn to meet him for lunch at the Redington Hotel. Then the reporter turned to Paul Husted and asked in a gentle voice.

"Now Paul, tell me what you learned as you sat there very quietly in the corner."

"Two things," replied the youngster. "First he did all the talking. You couldn't get a word in edgewise. As for the second, please take me to the zoo. There is something I must show you. Sir Keatling made a terrible mistake in his story. I think he is a phoney trying to convince you and others he is a real explorer."

The reporter saw the boy was in earnest. So he grabbed his hat and soon both were on their way to the zoo. Arthur Zorn parked his car and soon both were inside the zoo. The reporter stopped at a refreshment stand.

"What would you like?" he asked. "Peanuts? Soda pop? Or a nice hot dog? I came with you because as a kid I always liked to come here. What can be so important?"

• • •

INSTEAD of answering, Paul merely took the reporter's hand and guided him to the tiger cage.

"See that animal," he said. "We learned all about tigers in Mrs. Olins' class when she taught us geography. There is a sign on the tiger cage. Read every word on it."

Slowly Arthur Zorn read the sign. And then his brain began to click. This little school boy has spotted the error in the story told by the man in the office. Sir Keatling must be a fake. Someone was impersonating the famous explorer.

"I'll call up the consulate," he shouted, "and check on that man. Thanks a million for saving the town from a big fraud."

QUESTION: What was the error in the story told by Sir Keatling?

"Just flew in from British South Africa," said Sir Henry Keatling as he started his interview with the newspaper reporter. Paul Husted later discovered he was a phony.

Offer To Highest Canadian Bidder Dome Of Discovery

London. — The Dome of Discovery, magnet last summer for millions of visitors to London's festival of Britain exhibition site, is to be offered for sale to the highest bidder in Canada.

The huge, saucer-shaped structure, erected two years ago on the south bank of the Thames at a cost of about £160,000, has been purchased from the government by a British firm of engineers anxious to turn its investment into dollars.

Decision to scrap the exhibition show-piece was reached after London county council failed to exercise an option to take it over for some other use. The home office decided the site must be cleared to make room for gardens before the coronation, expected next year.

Cyril Cohen, chairman and managing director of the company which bought the dome, described it as an outstanding example of modern structural engineering, apart from its historic value.

"We feel there must be a Canadian municipal authority, sports promoter, exhibition organizer or circus proprietor who would find good and profitable use for this unique building," Mr. Cohen said. "Several English municipalities have already expressed keen interest in it but, quite frankly we would prefer to have some of your coveted dollars."

Cohen said the dismantling job, involving many delicate operations, already is under way. If a sale in Canada is closed, the dome could be shipped ready for re-erection within five months.

The diameter of the dome, constructed of aluminum alloy steel, is 365 feet and its height at the centre of the roof, 87 feet. Total weight of the material that would have to be shipped is 550 tons.

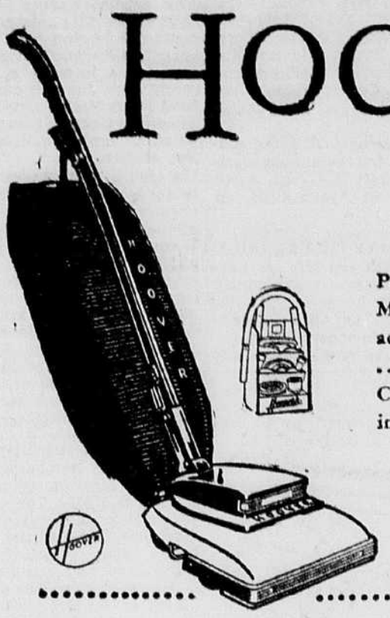

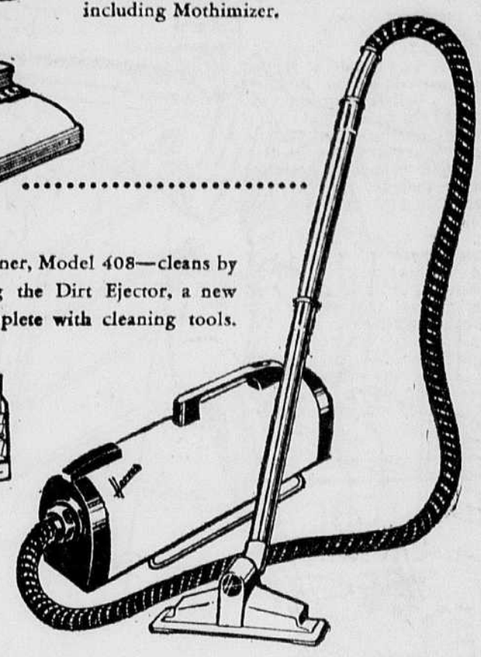

During the festival the building was used to house a display unfolding the history of British scientific discovery as well as land and sea explorations down through the ages.

Monthly Meeting Of W.C.T.U. Held At Ayer's Cliff

Ayer's Cliff, May 6. — The monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held, as usual at the home of the president, Mrs. Temple, with a good attendance.

Members were happy to greet Mrs. Buck again, after her absence during the winter.

The president conducted the worship service, followed by the roll call and routine business, leading up to the business of the annual meeting.

Following is a resume of the annual reports of the year's work:

Regular meetings had been held every month since re-opening in September, with almost a perfect attendance.

At each meeting, there has been a worship service and some form of program. There was a Frances Willard meeting in February. Pastors had been approached with regard to observing a Temperance Sunday.

Cards and Christmas Cheer had been sent to shut-ins. A contribution had been made to the Quebec Temperance League, and to the National Hospitality Fund, and all obligations had been met.

Six comfort bags for sailors had been made and filled, and all meetings had been reported in the press.

Election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Temple; vice-president, Mrs. Crook; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Johnston; Evangelistic and Sabbath Observance, Miss Kezar; Flower Mission, Mrs. Berwick; Soldiers and Sailors, Mrs. Crook; Temperance in W.M.S. and Press, Mrs. Johnston.

Some discussion took place concerning plans for the annual meeting of the County W.C.T.U., which will be held in Ayer's Cliff, on May 9.

80TH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mrs. G. Smith and Mrs. A. Keeble were hostesses at a birthday party given in honor of Mrs. W. H. Norrie, who, on April 25, celebrated her 80 birthday.

Mrs. Norrie received many cards from relatives and friends, and many nice gifts, of which, she was very appreciative.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Allan Norrie, Mr. Claude Norrie, Mrs. Nellie Place, Mrs. Warren Place, Mrs. Marjorie Robinson and three children, Mrs. Glen Little. Those from a distance were Mrs. Lilla Sharon, Mrs. R. Norris, Mrs. D. Norris and daughter, Patricia, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bilton, and Mr. Fred Lewis, of Sherbrooke.

The guests wished Mrs. Norrie many more Happy Birthdays.

General Notes

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Johnston were guests of Mrs. M. W. Johnston, at Stanstead.

"I put away my hard-earned money"

This young bank depositor recently wrote to his bank manager:

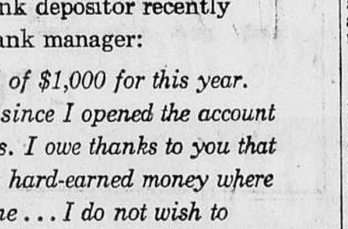

"I made a goal of $1,000 for this year. It is two years since I opened the account with two dollars. I owe thanks to you that I put away my hard-earned money where it will benefit me . . . I do not wish to touch it for the time being."

Building up a bank account means work and sacrifice. But Canadians know the value of having savings handy in time of opportunity or need: they maintain 7½ million savings accounts in the chartered banks—almost twice as many as ten years ago. At the same time bank staffs have almost doubled. That, and higher wages, have increased bank payrolls almost three times.

More people use the banks, more people work for the banks than ever before.

Granby Kiwanians Sponsor Radio Forum Over CHEF

Granby, May 6. — A Radio Forum took place on April 26, over the Granby C.H.E.F. Station, that was most interesting to all Kiwanis members and others.

The Granby Club is supplying milk to give 400 school children a half pint a day at a total cost of $16,915.35.

In 1947 the Granby Club gave $370 to provide playground equipment for the "Colonie de Vacances," which camp is situated on Missisquoi Bay.

A total of 9,220 bottles of cod liver oil have been distributed to underprivileged children at a cost of $2,210.

The club contributes $75.00 each year to the C.N.I.B. with the stipulation that this money must be spent in supplying eye glasses to the children of Granby. 100 pairs have been furnished to the children of needy parents.

The Granby Kiwanis furnished a 15 bed ward in St. Joseph's Hospital, when it was first opened, in addition to an operating table and a portable X-Ray unit and mechanical resuscitation equipment which were given to the hospital at a cost of $3,854.

Equipment including tents and cooking utensils were furnished to Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and Youth Hostels. He also bought flags and furnishings for the Canadian Legion.

The club runs an annual garden contest for boys and 75,000 trees have been planted by farmers in this vicinity of Granby.

The club took over the Christmas Seal Campaign for the benefit of T.B. patients, also the Easter Seals for the benefit of crippled children.

There have also been Mile-of-Penny Drives, Ice Carnivals, Hockey matches, Sugar Socials in August, Peanut Drives, Concerts, Dances and many other ways used to swell the funds of the Club.

Kiwanis is an Indian word and means "I serve." The motto of the Club is "We Build." The first

Are YOU One of these People?

YOU MAY NOT KNOW HOW WELL YOU CAN FEEL

UNTIL you make up your mind to look after yourself—right now. If you think your trouble is organic, then see your Doctor for a check up at once.

IF IT IS "NERVES", or you are doing a job which makes heavy demands on your Nervous energy, then go after your trouble with the medicine you know has proved it can help you—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

WHY? Because this well-known product is specially effective for people with "Nervous" troubles. It will help you to regain your vigor and high spirits. It will help to improve your energy and good health so you can do your work with enthusiasm.

NOT A SEDATIVE

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is Not A Sedative to quieten your nerves for one night's sleep, but which might leave you feeling still more nervous and restless the next day.

INSTEAD—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, containing Vitamin B1, Iron and other essential minerals, is a time-tested formula which helps to bring not only quick relief, but a constructive building up of your body and nervous system—your general all-around health and vitality, which should help you to sleep better, feel better, look better.

START TODAY to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food on the 6-week PLAN.

RESULTS IN 6 WEEKS or $10.00

To encourage you to carry through the 6-week Plan and thus enjoy the maximum benefits, we make this offer.

You must be delighted with how well you feel after taking 6 small ($4.74) or 2 large boxes ($3.96) of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. If NOT, return 6 direction sheets from small boxes, or 2 top carton flaps from large boxes, and you will receive $10.00 from the Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Oakville, Ont.—over twice cost of the Nerve Food.

REMEMBER—either we pay you over double the cost of the plan, or you find out it's worth ten times the cost to you to enjoy better health.

THE IDEAL TIME...

to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is right now — to help relieve that tired-out "Spring" feeling. 92

Granby Citizens Honor Victims Of 1869 Disaster

Granby, May 6. — The memorial service for the bridge disaster on April 21, 1869, was observed on Monday last, April 21.

Those losing their lives at that time were Mrs. S. H. C. Miner, Miss Cora Miner, Mrs. E. H. Park, Mr. B. Sargent, Mrs. John Badford, Miss Minnie Bradford, Charles A. Bradford, Mrs. Z. Harvery, Miss Sarah Harvey, Edward Gilmour and Patrick Hackett.

Citizens gathered on the bridge last Monday, while Mr. W. H. Minor, sole relatives of those who perished 83 years ago, placed a wreath of flowers upon the waters of the Yamaska River.

Scotstown W. I. Sewing Class Was A Success

Scotstown, May 6.—A very successful sewing class was sponsored by the Scotstown Women's Institute and was held in St. Alban's Church Hall from April 21 to May 2, under the supervision of Miss F. Elizabeth Campbell, of Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

The course was a five-day one, but classes were held on alternate days with a class held in Canterbury. Fourteen ladies attended the afternoon and evening classes.

On Thursday evening, the last night of the class, Mrs. D. Waters, home economics convener, on behalf of the members of the sewing class, presented Miss Campbell with a small gift in appreciation of the very instructive course she gave. Even the older members who have been sewing for several years, learned many helpful hints on altering a pattern and putting a garment together. Miss Campbell thanked the ladies for their gift and spoke of how much she enjoyed being with the ladies.

All appreciated the use of the Singer sewing machines, which added to the enjoyment of the sewing class.

While in town Miss Campbell was a guest at the Scotstown Hotel.

Plan Sales Drive At Toronto Fair

London. — Britain's modern merchant adventurers will set out for Toronto's international trade fair in June with new ideas of drumming up business.

They discussed their plans at a reception given to prospective British exhibitors by R. P. Bower, commercial counsellor at Canada House.

J. S. Byam-Grounds, manufacturer of heavy machinery, said he would leave for Canada next month to look over the country's steel industry. He believes Canada offers a potential market worth thousands of pounds once Canadian steelmen see the high standard of machinery produced in the United Kingdom.

Sir Holland Goddard said he will take over an exhibit of woodworking machinery worth £10,000.

Another guest was Maurice Paynter, representing five packaging-trade organizations. Just returned from the inaugural meeting of the new institute of material handling, he said he would seek to put across a plan he believed would save British industry £50,000,000 a year in more efficient handling of export goods.

Veteran Horseman Trains Mounties For Musical Ride

Regina. — Richard R. Van Patten, like many country youngsters, had his own horse to ride to school during his childhood days at Kylemore, Sask.

Today Van Patten, a sergeant in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, is still riding after more than 19 years with the force. As riding master at Regina barracks, he will train 32 mounted men for the famous R.C.M.P. musical ride which is being revised for a tour of Canada and the United States this fall.

The ride was a popular feature at fairs and other large gatherings throughout Canada and the United States before the Second World War. There were no more musical rides until the fall of 1951 when a brief performance was given at Regina barracks for Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh.

There is nothing new about musical rides to Sgt. Van Patten. He toured with the riding policemen in 1933, 1934, 1936 and 1939. He has ridden in Toronto, New York, San Francisco, St. Louis, Portland, Ottawa and other places.

The mounties' prestige is high in the U.S. Sgt. Van Patten recalled that when their train stopped over a couple of hours in Spokane, Wash., the entire riding squad was treated to a chicken banquet.

Most of the horses to be used in the ride were raised on the force's ranch at Fort Walsh in the Cypress Hills of southwestern Saskatchewan. Many are descended from steeds that toured previously.

The horse is not used as extensively by the force as in former days, says Supt. J. C. Story, who, as officer commanding Regina depot division, is in charge of the musical ride. But the animal still comes in handy.

Although R.C.M.P. highway patrols are usually undertaken by automobile, Supt. Story says a mounted man still is tops for handling crowds.

Since the recent announcement that the Mounties would revive the ride, requests have poured in from many parts of the United States and Canada.

Performance points already scheduled include San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Los Angeles. And the ride will be a major attraction each night at the provincial exhibition in Regina July 28 to Aug. 2.

LUCKY ESCAPE—Five-year-old John Cassidy was called the "luckiest boy in New Zealand" after a miraculous escape from drowning earlier this month. Unable to swim and with neither life jacket nor any other aid to keep him afloat he was in the sea for more than 30 minutes. He had fallen unnoticed from his father's launch into Rangitoto Channel outside Auckland harbor. He was picked up only because a woman in another boat thought she heard a child's voice calling "Daddy" from the sea and persuaded her husband to make a search. Little John, shown asleep in his crib with his toy boat after the ordeal, told his parents he had been sick while in the water, but he had not cried. (CP Photo)

CAN CLEVELAND'S BIG-FOUR PITCHING STAFF MAINTAIN PACE?

Experts Figure They'll Fold But Wynn Turns In Fine Relief Job As Indians Edge Sox; Giants Nip Cubs

Can Cleveland's vaunted Big Four, rated the most formidable pitching staff in baseball, continue it's iron man role?

Will Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia, doing double duty, be able to finish strong, pitching at this workhouse pace?

Time will tell, of course, but based on last year's results, the answer is no.

A year ago, the Big Four carried the light-hitting Indians all the way until mid-September. Starting and relieving, it finally broke down under the stretch run burden despite the 20 or more victories racked up by Feller, Wynn and Garcia.

The same four are working at a more killing pace this season. In 19 games, Feller, Lemon, Wynn and Garcia have started all but one. They've also been used in relief four times. Their over-all record is 10-6. Last year, none of the Big Four was summoned in relief until the 22nd game.

Manager Al Lopez has been forced to use his big guns in relief because Lou Brissie, his No. 1 relief artist, has been slow getting started. The southpaw has pitched only 2½ innings thus far and has been whacked for six hits and six runs.

Lopez had to use Wynn in relief of Lemon yesterday and the move paid off as the Indians came from behind to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 4-2, in 10 innings. Wynn, who started and was knocked out Sunday, yielded one run in three innings and was credited with his fourth victory against one defeat.

A 10th inning home run by Bobby Avila followed by successive triples by Al Rosen and Ray Boone, produced three tribe runs, snapped a 1-1 deadlock and hung the season's first defeat on Mel Parnell. The victory boosted the second-place Indians to within one game of the American League-leading Red Sox.

It was Wynn's first relief assignment. Garcia had relieved twice and Lemon once. The Indians won all four games.

Righthander Frank Shea and outfielder Archie Wilson, obtained via trade from the New York Yankees Saturday, teamed up to give the Washington Senators a 13-1 victory over the skidding St. Louis Browns in the only night activity in the major leagues.

Shea surrendered one run before retiring in the eighth inning because of a cramped finger. Wilson rapped a double and two singles and drove in five runs to lead the Senators' attack against starter Ned Garver and two relievers.

New York's Giants maintained their slim half-game margin over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League, making use of their four hits to nip the Chicago Cubs, 3-2. Wes Westrum's two-run homer and Bobby Thomson's run-scoring triple, plus the brilliant relief pitching of Monte Kennedy, earned the Giants their seventh straight victory and 11th in their last 12 games. Kennedy yielded only one hit in 6½ innings.

Ralph Branca limited Pittsburgh to four hits as Andy Pafko and Gil Hodges paced the Dodgers to a 5-1 victory with home runs.

GOOD GOLF'S EASY . . . No. 3

Jackie Burke Worked Two Years On Grip To Be Straight Off Tee

By JACKIE BURKE
Golf's Newest Star

When Jimmy Demaret took me on my first tour in 1941, I was far from being straight off the tee a good deal of the time.

I was making a basic mistake. My grip, perhaps the most important fundamental, was wrong.

I never saw a good golfer with a poor grip.

My left hand was being carried well over on the shaft. On the address, I could see all my knuckles. The result was a big hook, and I spent half of my life in the rough on the left of the fairway.

Demaret noticed this, and taught me to carry my left hand more on top of the shaft, so that only one or two knuckles are visible on the address. This is the grip that was used by Walter Hagen, Harry Cooper, Byron Nelson and most of the great shotmakers.

I worked two years ironing the kinks out of my grip to be straight off the tee.

Hand action is the cause of trouble in your swing about 90 per cent of the time. If you are off your game, look to your hands.

Maybe you're gripping the club too firmly with the right hand.

Perhaps your hands and forearms are not coordinated. That will throw the hips, shoulders and pivot out of skelter.

If the hands and forearms do their work properly, timing will be correct.

GET THE HOOK—Jackie Burke was carrying his left hand well over on the shaft, and the result was a big hook.

So if your game is off, check your grip and hand action before doing anything else.

Break down your stroke and check each factor individually, one at a time.

Don't try to correct several things at one time.

If you do you'll wind up with an even worse stroke and score.

NEXT: The stance.

Nova Scotia To Form Amateur Athletic Union

Halifax, May 6—(CP)—A meeting to form a Nova Scotia branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada will be held at Truro next Saturday, Hugh Noble, Physical Fitness Director for the Province, announced last night.

Mr. Noble, who recently conferred with A.A.U. officials, polled Provincial trackmen on the subject of forming a branch. Representatives are expected from the Antigonish Highland Society, Sydney Athletic Club, Glace Bay Firemen, Halifax Wanderers and North Sydney Sports Club.

Efforts also are being made in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island to form Provincial branches. The old Maritime branch was dissolved last year.

George Araujo Gives Caulet Boxing Lesson

Boston, May 6 —(AP)— George Araujo, Providence, R.I., contender for Jimmy Carter's lightweight title, gave Auguste Caulet of France a lusty two-fisted beating while spoiling the dogged Frenchman's United States debut in their 10-round feature bout last night at the Boston Garden.

Araujo, who carried nine of the rounds, weighed 136½ to Caulet's 136.

In a scheduled six-round preliminary bout, Willie Cee, 137¼, Hartford, Conn., knocked out Noel Paquette, 137½, Montreal, in the second round.

Johnny Lujack Denies He Signed With Esks

South Bend, Ind., May 6—Johnny Lujack, former quarterback with Notre Dame and Chicago Bears, denied last night that he has signed a contract with Edmonton Eskimos.

"My days as a player are over," Lujack said through a Notre Dame publicity official.

Lujack has been a backfield coach at Notre Dame under Coach Frank Leahy. The University said he will return to his job as a Chicago insurance salesman after spring practice ends next Saturday but he is to return next fall to rejoin the Irish staff.

His wife and daughter are still living in Chicago.

The Regina (Sask.) Leader-Post said today Lujack had signed with the Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

Lujack did not say whether he had negotiated with the Edmonton team, but did deny any plans to join it.

The Leader-Post says it was told Lujack signed for $15,500 with an Edmonton firm paying part of the salary.

Al Anderson, manager of the Eskimos, said last month after a visit to the United States that he had talked with Lujack but the Eskimos were in no hurry to sign him to a contract.

Lujack and the Bears parted company after a reported salary disagreement and the quarterback later signed as an assistant to coach Frank Leahy at Notre Dame University.

In Edmonton, business manager J. Ingram of the Eskimos said today the Leader-Post's story is "news to us."

Sherbrooke Intermediate Athletics To Have "Player Of Distinction" Award Presented By Lord Calvert

Following requests from club officials and fans that the "Player of Distinction" voting idea be renewed in Sherbrooke, Calvert Distillers, sponsors of the campaign, today agreed to put the famed Lord Calvert Trophy into competition for the Sherbrooke Athletics Intermediate club this season.

Bill James, the club's business manager, headed a delegation to get the "player of Distinction" system back into active competition after it was learned that Sherbrooke would have no senior entry in the Provincial League this campaign. "We went after Calvert's to get this trophy to stay in Sherbrooke because it means a lot to the team, the players, and the fans," James commented.

Since the move was approved by Jack Clifford, Eastern Canada sales manager of Calvert Distillers, this means that the Lord Calvert Trophy will be at stake for the second baseball season. Last year, Sherbrooke fans picked Silvio Garcia as the winner. The "Player of Distinction" idea has gone over successfully in hockey as well with Gilles Dube the winner last season and Roger Bessette the previous.

"After having had numerous requests to put the Lord Calvert Trophy into intermediate competition this season, we decided that Sherbrooke fans have proven their interest and should be afforded the judging privilege even though there is no provincial league entry in Sherbrooke this season," stated Mr. Clifford.

The "Player of Distinction" system will follow the similar pattern established during the past hockey and baseball seasons locally. The fans will again be the sole judges, picking their most valuable players and placing their program ballots in the Lord Calvert voting boxes located at the exists of the ball park. Weekly releases will be sent out disclosing the identity of the fans' top choices.

At the end of the season, the player with the most points will be awarded the Lord Calvert Trophy. Three points go to a first-place selection, two for a second, and one for a third.

57 Bidding For Berths On Olympic Wrestling Squad; Scoring System Too Complicated For Average Fan

Winnipeg, May 6.—(CP)—Officials of the Olympic wrestling trials today scanned a 57-man entry list which it must pare down to manageable size for the final.

The wrestlers squirmed through three rounds of bouts in some classes and a fourth in the 14-entry middleweight class.

Under the complicated scoring system, it's hard to tell whether a man is "in" or "out," even if he loses a second or third-round match.

A wrestler is eliminated when he receives five "bad" points. Any loss is three "bad" points. A man winning a decision receives one "bad" point. A win by a fall is scored "0."

By the end of four rounds, the populous middleweight ranks were down to the semi-finals.

Winnipeg's Gordon Nelson had a perfect zero to lead the four contestants remaining. Montreal's B. Hornblower was second with two points, while George Kusyi of St. Catharines, Ont., is third with three points.

Another Montrealer, Harry Hudson, is hanging on the ropes with four "bad" points.

The featherweight competition was down to the semi-finals after three rounds. Armand Bernard of Montreal and Robert Wilson of Toronto were tied for first place with no points.

Nick Mohammed, flashy Vancouver grappler, and Bob Langois of Montreal, paced the welterweight class, each with a single point resulting from decisions. Four wrestlers in the class lost out.

Three entries in the lightweight division — Lindy Primo, Toronto; Mickey Nicholas, Edmonton, and Rudy Loffler, Vancouver—had no points with two rounds gone.

No one was eliminated at the end of the second round in the bantamweight class. Adrie Poliquin of Montreal led with no points.

All four heavyweights remained after the first round. Dave Burnett of Winnipeg led the field with no points.

In the light heavyweight division Bob Steckle of Guelph, Ont., led with no points followed by Vern Plett of Winnipeg with one.

Gordon Nelson of Winnipeg with no points led middleweight class. B. Hornblower of Montreal was second with two points. Only five of the original 14 entries remained at the end of four rounds.

New Miracle Grass Will Help Golfers---Especially Joe Duffers; U. S. G. A. Experimenting With Seed

New York, May 6 —(AP)— Hey, Joe Duffer.

How'd you like to play golf on a fairway so tough that you can't take a divot out of it and so smooth that every shot is from a "Brassie lie?"

If you should be strong enough to chop a divot out of it—and most ordinary golfers haven't that much power—just let it lie. The mowers will chop it up for fertilizer and new grass will grow better from the roots than if you press the divot back into place.

You don't have to water the stuff, either, unless you live in a very dry climate, and it is resistant to heat, disease and insects.

Eventually (not for several years) you can have the same grass growing in your own back yard. Boy, imagine that. You can practise iron shots all day long without leaving a mark. And you can trim it short and smooth enough for a putting green.

This miracle grass was described yesterday by Dr. Fred Grau, head of the United States Golf Association Green Section as he announced plans for opening a new West Coast regional office at which still further experiments in turf development will be carried on.

It doesn't even have a name yet and seed is so scarce it isn't likely you'll be able to buy it for a few years. The Green Section experts now are describing it as "combination grass" because they're approaching the same results with several different combinations of grass varieties.

The "combination" now being used is Zoysia, an Oriental turf grass which grows in Japan, Korea and Manchuria, and Merion blue grass, another rather new development. When they're grown together, the Zoysia spreads its roots underground, the blue grass mingles with it, literally choking out weeds and pesty crab grass. One variety flourishes in the hot summer months, the other in the cooler spring and fall. Together they provide a smooth, tough cushion of turf the year around.

Italy Downs Argentina In Tennis Competition

Milan, May 6.—(AP)—Italy swept the final two singles matches from Argentina yesterday to complete a 4-1 victory in their international tennis series patterned on the Davis Cup type of competition.

Rolando Del Belo clinched the match for Italy by defeating Alejo Russell in the first contest, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

Then, with the pressure off, Fausto Gardini, Italy's singles champion, conquerod Enrique Morea, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

New York—Johnny Cesario, 148, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Carmine Fiore, 145, New York (8).

Boston—George Araujo, 136½, Providence, R. I., outpointed Auguste Caulet, 136, France (10).

E.T.I.H.L. Annual Meeting Postponed

The annual meeting of the Eastern Townships Intermediate Hockey League scheduled for tomorrow evening has been postponed until Thursday May 15, stated President Eugene Lalonde this morning.

Mr. Lalonde left town this morning and will be away for the rest of the week attending a special Rotary convention at Schenectady, N.Y.

The meeting will be held at the Richmond Hotel in Richmond and main item on the agenda will be the election of officers for the coming season and all clubs are requested to have representatives on hand.

Braves Edge Yanks In Only Provincial Tilt

Three Rivers, Que., May 6—(CP)—Quebec Braves, capitalizing on five runs scored in the fourth inning, last night edged Three Rivers Yankees 8-7 in the only scheduled Provincial Baseball League game.

Both teams went scoreless until the fourth when Braves let loose. The Yankees managed one run in the fifth and both teams crossed the plate once in the seventh. Braves sent one man home in the top half of the eighth, but the Yankees broke out with a five-run inning of their own in the bottom half of the frame to tie it up. A singleton in the ninth gave Braves the edge.

Cordrio went to the mount first for Braves but was repiaced in the eighth by Wilson who was followed in the same inning by Shankman. Mainini started for the Yankees and was pulled for Osofsky in the ninth.

80 Applications Made For Spots On Olympics

Montreal, May 6—More than 80 applications have been made for the four places open to shooters on the 1952 Canadian Olympic team, K. N. Morris, executive director of the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen, said here today. Some of the applicants are among Canada's leading marksmen.

"When the Canadian Olympic Association first offered to include four marksmen on the team representing Canada at the games in Finland this year, we decided that we could accept their offer only if shooters could be found who were of Olympic calibre and at the same time able to make the trip," Mr. Morris said.

"However, the list of applicants includes many shooters fully qualified for world competition and there is no doubt that Canada will be creditably represented."

Arrangements are underway to have Olympic shooting trials completed before the end of this month.

Cubs Edge Bisons 1-0 In Only Scheduled Tilt

It's tough on a pitcher to lose a no-hitter after seven innings, but it's even tougher to lose both the no-hitter and the ball game at the same time.

That's what hapened last night to Lynn Lovenguth of the Buffalo Bisons.

For seven innings Lovenguth held Springfield without a hit. But his opposing moundsman, Bill Padget, held Buffalo scoreless, and the two teams were locked in a 0-0 tie entering the eighth inning.

Then Nels Burbink, Springfield catcher, broke Lovenguth's spell with an infield single. Burbrink took second on a sacrifice and romped home with the game's only run when Gene Hooks rapped a double after two were out.

To make it even worse, Lovenguth, who gave up three hits altogether, struck out the side in the ninth, but Springfield's 1-0 edge stood up, anyway.

For Padget, it was his third win against one loss. It waes Lovenguth's first setback. He has yet to win.

The only other game scheduled—Syracuse at Baltimore — was postponed because of wet grounds.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Columbus, Ga.—Willie Pep, 130, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Kenny Leach, 134, Baltimore (10).

Richmond, Va.—Richard (Doc) Watkins, 141½, Pittsburgh, knocked out Roland Nobors, 143¾, Hartford, Conn., (2).

Umpire Scotty Robb Resigns From National League; Giles' Action Regarding Late Fine Behind Move

Cincinnati, May 6.—(AP)—"The mystery of the resignation of Umpire Scotty Robb" was the National League's "best seller" today.

Robb, a senior loop arbiter since 1947, sent League President Warren Giles a terse note yesterday that he was quitting "as of today."

Neither he nor Giles offered any explanation but the gossip immediately went back to the night of April 22 when Robb and manager Eddie Stanky of the St. Louis Cards got into a ruckus in a game here because Robb had ordered Solly Hemus of the Cardinals out of a game.

They did some shoving around and Giles happened to be in Crosley Field to see it.

The next day Stanky was fined $50, Hemus $25 and Giles said Robb was "disciplined" and fined a sum "much greater than the combined fines of the players."

Everything seemed to be reasonably peaceful after that until Robb's sudden resignation yesterday.

As far as could be determined no major league baseball umpire ever quit his job during the season as abruptly as Robb.

Statements issued by both Giles and Robb last night did little to clear the mystery.

Giles said:

"Robb is a splendid gentleman and I told him we would like to have him continue as a member of the staff if he felt he could work efficiently. Since he feels there is an existing situation which prevents this, we accept his resignation."

Robb said:

"My resignation as a National League umpire speaks for itself. There is absolutely nothing more I will say. As far as I am concerned, the matter is a closed book."

The umpire refused to comment on the punishment that was given him as a result of the Stanky incident.

At St. Louis, Stanky expressed regret over Robb's resignation and said "We were as close as a player and an umpire can get in baseball and the incident between us didn't affect that friendship."

Sugar Ray And Joey Maxim Finally Reach Terms For June 23 Battle In Yankee Stadium; Sign Tomorrow

New York, May 6—(AP)—Middleweight Champ Sugar Ray Robinson and Light Heavyweight Champ Joey Maxim finally were matched yesterday in a 15-round fight for Maxim's title Monday, June 23, at Yankee Stadium.

After months of hemming and hawing over terms while Robinson's resistance to the bout was being worn down, the attractive match of two champs was announced by Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club. Norris also revealed there was a return bout clause, calling for another fight within 90 days if Robinson won the title.

The actual contract signing will take place today or Wednesday when Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, returns from a trip to Memphis.

Norris estimated the first big bout on the New York Summer schedule will draw "from $500,000 up" and Managers Jack Kearns (Maxim) and George Gainford (Robinson) smilingly predicted "it will do a million." No decision was made on television plans for the bout. Theatre TV, movies and live TV probably will do some lively bidding for the rights.

Robinson shied away from the match for weeks, at least in public statements, while Gainford and Kearns continued to bat the breeze with Norris, hoping for the best.

May Have Got 35

Originally Maxim was to have received at least a 30-30 split in receipts but a series of compromise moves probably resulted in Sugar Ray getting at least 35 to Maxim's 25. Norris promised to reveal the exact terms tomorrow when the gladiators visit Madison Square Garden.

Gainford, known as "Emperor George" around the fight business, said he finally convinced Robinson to take the bout yesterday. The chance of losing a piece of a $250,000 payday has been giving the emperor many sleepless nights.

"I've been his manager a long time," he said. "And I never made any mistakes yet. Unless you consider the Turpin match a mistake. And we did pretty good on that.

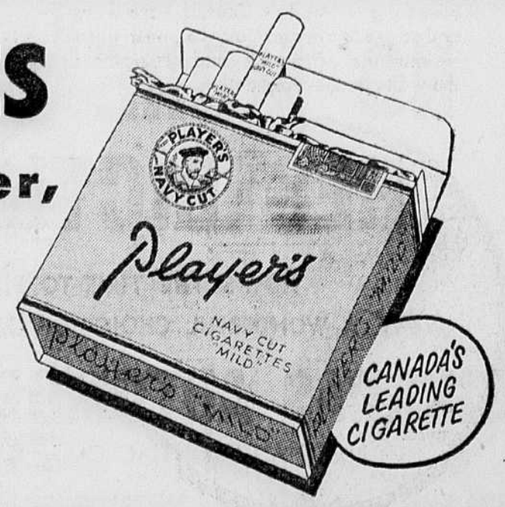

"Those sidewalk managers have been telling Ray he don't want no part of this Maxim. They tell him he beat Walcott. He fought Charles. You don't want no part of him.'

"It came down to that—the sidewalk managers or me. I don't know anyplace else you can get $250,000 without holding up a bank."

For Kearns this was the result of months of maneuvers, trying to arrange a big money bout for his champ. "Old Doc" has been away from the big dough for years—ever since the days he managed Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker. Maxim probably did a jig for joy when he heard the news.

Head Man Now, Sal Maglie Accepts "The Barber" As Identifying Tag

New York — (NEA) — Bryan Field, the Delaware Park racing man, wants to know where Sal Maglie acquired the nickname, The Barber, and why.

Salvatore Anthony Maglie at first resented the appellation. "People will thing I cut hair and never stop talking," he said. "I have a tough time even shaving myself."

As for bending ears, hello and goodby practically is a conversation with the Giants' right-hander.

Now that he has achieved greatness, however, Maglie accepts The Barber as an identifying tag.

A combination of things designated Maglie as The Barber. Some say the moniker dates back to his first start for the New York Nationals after his return from Mexico and Canada. That was in mid-July of 1950. Although he gave 13 hits, he managed to edge the Cardinals in St. Louis, 6-5, in 10 innings.

Following the performance, a writer, remarked: "You sure shaved 'em today, Sal."

Perhaps the best reason for the title is that he wins all those close shaves. Also he doesn't hestitate to shave a batter taking too much liberty in the way of crowding the plate.

Maglie's appearance lends itself to The Barber, too. He's a ringer for Ed Pinaud. Like Jack Dempsey, his blue bristle makes it appear as though he is always in need of a shave.

Maglie's Games Could Be Played On Tennis Court

Maglie is now recognized as baseball's top pitcher.

Maglie's first three games this year could just as well have been played on a tennis court. All the other side did was bounce the ball around and half the time they couldn't get it over the net. In one inning he had three assists himself. Only three balls were hit well off him in the three outings. Del Ennis hit a ball over Don Mueller's head that should have been caught. Willie Mays bounced into the Ebbets Field fence catching a Roy Campanella blast. Hank Edwards swatted one into the seats in Cincinnati.

The Barber yielded only nine hits in the three efforts, four to the Phillies, two blanking the Dodgers and three to the Reds.

His over-all record for two years and this Spring's fraction is 44 and 10. His earned-run average were 2.71 in 1950, 2.93 last trip and right now stands at a magnificent flat 1.000. He is the fifth infielder and anything but an out fellow at bat.

Maglie was one of the handful of players who benefitted by jumping to the Mexican League. He had kicked around in the minors for a half dozen years without getting anywhere in particular.

The Barber Could Hit The Scientist Behind A Tree

Maglie was strictly a curve ball pitcher when he hopped to the Pasquels, and the hook didn't work too well in the high altitude and thin air of Mexico City, Torreon and the other cities south of the border.

So Maglie worked on getting a piece of the plate with his fast ball, inside and out.

Also in tequilaland, Maglie was managed by Adolfo Luque of whom his pitching style is now so remindful. The old professor taught him a trick or two.

Maglie now gets the curve inside and outside as well as the hard one. One curve busts off, another turns around the corner of the plate, down and away to a right-hand batter, in on a left-hand hitter.

When batters get to leaning for a curve, The Barber crosses them, or let's 'em have one under the chin, and they go down—just like that.

Right-hand batters haven't a chance. Left-hand batters are in a quandary.

Maglie's fast ball is good enough, but he still is essentially a curve ball pitcher.

The oldie in which a scientist says there is no such thing as a curve, that it is only an illusion, popped up again last season. A baseball writer took the case to the great Sal Maglie.

"Stand that scientist behind a tree and I'll hit him," said The Barber.

Two American College Stars Sign With Truro

Truro, N. S., May 6—(CP)—Truro Bearcats of the Halifax and District Baseball League announced the signing of pitchers John Brockwell and Bill Lore.

Art Hock, playing manager who will perform in the Truro infield, said Brockwell had a 25-7 record with Petersburg in the Class D Virginia League last year and Lore starred with University of North Carolina.

Sports Roundup

New York, May 6.— (AP) —The Australians have completed financial plans for holding the 1956 Olympic Games at Melbourne and are ready to move ahead with a vast building program to house the world sports carnival. Other cities which had hoped to grab the '56 Games by default may relax.

At a recent meeting attended by Prime Minister Arthur Menzies and other top Olympic and political leaders, it was agreed to raise a fund of £1,300,000 to promote the Games, of which £550,000 will be allotted to convert the Carleton Cricket Grounds into a modern stadium. An architect's drawing of the proposed arena indicates it will match anything in the world.

The government agreed to provide £500,000, with the City of Melbourne and the State of Victoria making up the balance. The State made a large sum immediately available to start promoting and organizing the organizing the Games. The Aussies are on their way.

Menzies, an ardent sports fan, appears to have got over the highest hurdle personally. Five months ago, when we made a survey of the problems facing the Olympic Committee in Melbourne, we were told that labor unions would balk at the construction of a big sports plant when the country still is far short of adequate housing.

The first thing Menzies announced at the meeting was that the government was underwriting the venture with full approval of the labor opposition.

The meeting was described as "entirely devoid of bickering," and when it ended the chairman of the organizing committee, Kent Hughes, told reporters: "I feel like celebrating, and in a big way."

The site of the stadium is in a great expanse of green park in the heart of Melbourne, only a mile from the post office and leading hotels and a matter of three or four blocks from an electric railway station. It is only another hop, skip and jump from Melbourne University, where it is planned to house some of the visiting athletes.

The plans also provide for the construction nearby of an Olympic swimming pool, a cycling track, dining room, locker rooms and an administration building. The dressing rooms will be connected with the stadium by a tunnel.

One of the brightest ideas yet: Plans for the stadium call for two 100-yard straightaways on opposite sides of the huge arena. This will permit a great many more spectators than ever before to see the sprinters close up.

Unfortunately, our Australian informant at no point thought to give the capacity of the plant, but an artist's drawing indicates it might run around 100,000.

Canadian Reports On Pakistan Life

Ottawa. — A. J. Boudreau, commissioner of the civil service commission, is working on a tough job.

Just returned from Asia, Dr. Boudreau is writing a report for the United Nations Economic, Social and Cultural Organization of how to raise the standards of living for some 80,000,000 people in Pakistan.

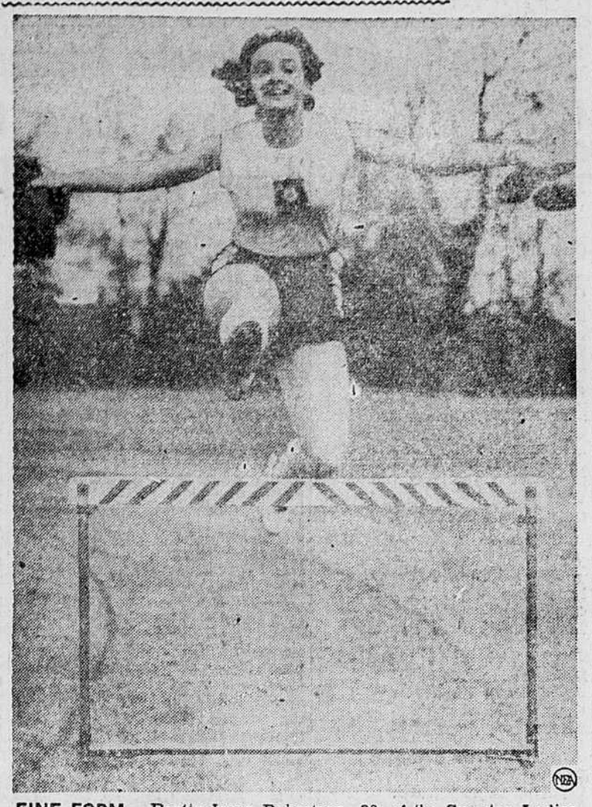

Mr. Boudreau headed a commission to Pakistan which included Dr. Rupert East of the United Kingdom and Miss M. Desbrisay of the United States, a member of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs.

Dr. Boudreau said the mission spent three months travelling in every part of the country. Only 13 per cent of the people are literate but leaders showed a very progressive spirit and held great hopes for the future.

Between 85 and 90 per cent of the people of the country are engaged in agriculture. They have a food surplus and the country's financial position is comparatively sound from an international point of view.

The people were greatly interested in better education, he said. But there is a shortage of buildings and teachers which keeps 30 to 35 per cent of the children out of school.

Railway Tapped Riches Of Northern Ontario, Started 50 Years Ago

North Bay, Ont. — The railway that opened up much of the treasure chest of Ontario's northland will be 50 years old this month.

The first sod was turned May 10, 1902, on the road whose steel rails were destined to link North Bay with Moosonee on James Bay, 500 miles to the north.

The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, its builders called it. The name remained until six years ago when the provincially-operated road changed it to the Ontario Northland Railway to put an end to confusion with the Texas and New Orleans line.

At first, plans were for the railway to go 114 miles from North Bay to the head of Lake Temiskaming to serve as a colonization line for the 16,000,000-acre Clay Belt farm area.

Within a year after construction started, silver was discovered at Cobalt. By the time the steel reached its original destination at New Liskeard, it had been decided to push on for another 100 miles.

By 1907, the order was to go all the way to Cochrane, 286 miles north of North Bay. As the railway moved northward, prospectors and adventurers followed it. In 1909, golden riches were found in what now is the Timmins area and more gold was struck in 1912 in the Kirkland Lake district.

The next extension of the railway was in 1922—70 miles beyond Cochrane toward James Bay to make possible the great Abitibi canyon power development of 275,000 horsepower, a salvation for the nickel smelters of Sudbury during the second world war.

Between 1925 and 1927 the railway branched 60 miles east from Kirkland Lake to the copper-and-gold mining camp of Rouyn and Noranda in northwestern Quebec.

In 1927, too, about 1,500 men began to push the main line from Fraserdale to Moosonee, a job finished July 15, 1932.

The driving of the last spike brought the railway's total mileage, with branch lines and siding, to 725.

Construction of the Cochrane-Moosonee link, 186 miles long, led to discoveries of gypsum, lignite, kaolin clay and even a deposit of coral rock in which sharks' teeth had been embedded since prehistoric times.

Within the last 18 months, $5,000,000 worth of asbestos has been mined at Matheson, between Kirkland Lake and Timmins.

The railway has led to development of minerals, pulpwood and farm produce that yield the line $10,000,000 in annual revenue. It employs 2,200 persons and 22 of its 52 locomotives are diesels.

The O.N.R. was the first railway in Canada to use all-steel passenger equipment on daily runs on its main line. It also was the first railway anywhere to use nickel-steel in locomotive frames and the first to design a restaurant car.

Earl Reibel Cops Rookie Award For A. H. L. And Garrett Trophy

New York, May 6— (AP) —A player who came into the American Hockey League for a tryout during the past season is the circuit's outstanding rookie of 1951-52.

Earl Reibel of Indianapolis Capitals was chosen by the coaches of the nine league teams to receive the Dudley (Red) Garrett Memorial Trophy and the $300 league bonus that goes with it. The award was announced through League headquarters today.

Reibel, who had less than a full season of previous professional experience, was not on the Caps' training camp roster last fall and the club planned to send him out for further experience. The 21-year-old rookie centre from Kitchener, Ont., impressed coach Ott Heller by his hustle and was rewarded with an Indianapolis contract. After failing to score in his first 13 games, he began to click and scored 33 goals and 34 assists for seventh place in the final league scoring list.

Reibel collected 23 of a possible 45 points in the voting on a 5-3-1 basis. Tied for second were Bob Hassard and Gordie Hannigan, both of Pittsburgh, with nine points each.

Others who figured in the balloting were Stan Long, Buffalo, 8 points; Frank Sullivan, Pittsburgh, 7; Bill Wylie, Cincinnati, Bob Armstrong, Hershey, and Leo Labine, Hershey, 5 each; Bob Chrystal, Cleveland, 4; Glenn Hall, Indianapolis, 3, and Cal Stearns, Cleveland, Eddie Mazur, Buffalo, and Jerry Toppazani, Hershey, one each.

NBC Pioneer Looks Back On "Magical" 25 Years In Radio

By GLADYS LENNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

New York. A mountie's daughter from the Canadian west set out 25 years ago to get her job in the pioneer field of radio broadcasting.

Her sleekly waved hair now steel grey, Margaret Cuthbert will retire June 1 as NBC's supervisor of public affairs, her enthusiasm for radio work undimmed after a quarter-century she calls "magical."

"I still get a thrill every time I come into this building," she said in her tiny office tucked among the studios of radio city. "I never know what I'll meet in the corrdor. Today it was a man in gorgeous red costume carrying a honey bear. Tomorrow it may be an elephant . . . "

Daughter of a major in the Royal North West Mounted Polce, Miss Cuthbert was born 60-odd years ago in Prince Albert, Sask. "Home" was wherever her father's work took him. From high school in Dawson City she went to Cornell University and after graduation returned home—then in Edmonton.

But western Canada didn't seem to have the opportunities she was looking for and she decided to try New York "because it looked like a good place for women to make a living."

"I wouldn't feel that way now, though," she said. "I think Canada has the best opportunities for the future of any country in the world. If I were young, I would go back."

It was while listening to a crystal set in a Greenwich Village apartment that she decided that her career would be in radio.

"I knew nothing about radio 25 years ago, she said. "There were few people who did except for the engineers. . . But I wanted to hear and know the people who have made these past 25 magical years.

"My friends were calling radio a 'tin-pan' business; H. G. Wells prophesied 'The broadcasting industry has no future.' But it thrilled me."

Miss Cuthbert set out to find a job. She had experience as executive secretary or Cornell's College of home economics and as a coder at the British embassy in Washington.

At station WEAF she found what she wanted—a job as director of speakers.

"One of the first speakers I had on station WEAF was John Galsworthy, who would not speak unless a screen was put around him so nobody could see him. The next was Prince William of Sweden. I remember sweeping out the studio and the ash butts before he came."

For many years Miss Cuthbert headed NBC's women's and children's programs division, and more recently has handled public service broadcasts.

Among program series she has developed and produced have been "Gallant American Women," "Echoes of History," and the long-run "NBC Theatre," which won a Peabody award for excellence in drama.

She has been president of the New York chapter of American women in radio and television and has won citations for achievement from a number of women's organizations.

Of these honors she says: "Perhaps the greatest was the opportunity to work in radio and become an executive with NBC. The other honor I care about was being born a Canadian. For that I claim no credit."

There are many things about her job that Miss Cuthbert "will be missing" after June 1. The deadlines to be met. The excitement of preparing programs for the air, from planning to tape-recording stage. The final editing to make a smooth performance, removing such rough spots as "the coughs of Lord Halifax" which, in tape-strips of varying length, hang from a book-shelf near her desk.

But in their place there will be a chance to "relax and lead the contemplative life," to "live out of doors by the sea," to "read all the books I have wanted to read, "The Magnificent Century," "The Suburb by the Sea," "Postmarked Moscow," "All This and Heaven Too!"

Austrians Grateful For I.O.D.E. Gifts

Toronto. — The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire has received a letter of thanks from the administrator of the Save the Children Fund in Austria, for clothing sent overseas last year.

"Your recent consignments have arrived in time not only to help us to relieve the growing need in the provinces of Carinthia and Styria but they also are enabling us to help many Italian flood-refugee children who had lost all their possessions in the recent catastrophe," said the administrator, Basil Gardner-McTaggart.

Mr. Gardner-McTaggart said diapers "are as valuable as gold" in the needy European countries. This is because "they are so expensive that no mothers in the country areas can afford them and therefore they are forced normally to wrap their babies in any old rags which they can find."

"The fact that the type of work which is being carried out with our help in this province is of real value has now been demonstrated by the figures which show that the province of Carinthia had in 1952 the lowest rate of infant mortality of all provinces in Austria," said the administrator.

He added hat in the neighboring province of Styria the figure has not yet decreased. Because of lack of necessary supplies and funds it had not yet been possible to institute the same measures now being developed in Carinthia.

Korea Commander Tips Off Canucks Coming Back Home

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With The Canadians in Korea — (By Mail) — Blunt-spoken Brig. John M. Rockingham these days is saying good-bye to his troops.

Every day at least one unit of his 25th Canadian infantry brigade group, which he took as a collection of recruits and fashioned into one of the smoothest fighting machines in Korea, is being visited.

Before going to Tokyo to meet his successor, Brig. M. P. Bogert, he called on units which would be having soldiers leave before his return.

His words, as usual, were straight from the shoulder.

"When you go home," he says, "if you are staying in the army let me give you the advice of a veteran who has returned from wars before.

"Don't shoot a line of bull—particularly to soldiers who've not been here.

"You never know. Some day they may serve in a theatre which you won't see, and you'll be the irritated one."

To those taking their discharge: "Remember you've earned yourselves a very high reputation. Generally speaking it is one of not only good fighting but good behavior.

"When we're back home, let's keep it up.

"Some people think that just because they've been in a campaign they can kick the cat around when they get back. Let's continue to be at home the same people we've tried to be over here."

And the professional soldier in him distrusts the ability of diplomats and politicians to resolve the world's problems.

"When I fight again," he concludes, "and I think I will—I don't think there's anything else for it the way things are in the world right now—I hope we'll serve together again."

The Brigadier also has been on the receiving end of the talking.

Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson-Smith, officer commanding the 1st battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, presided over a luncheon for Rockingham attended by officers representing every unit in the brigade.

After hearing himself eulogized the commander was presented with two gifts, one for his home and the other for his headquarters, wherever in future they may be.

Both have as their theme the song "Rocky's Army," which now is famous in the theatre.

A silver tray, accompanied by coasters engraved with the badge of each unit, has engraved on it the music and words of one line: "Why don't you join old Rocky's army?"

The other, for the headquarters wall, is a velvet plaque inset in which in silver, are a map of Korea showing the brigade's course since anding in May of last year, plaques recording its activities, and one with the existing only complete, authentic and unexpurgated version of the famous song.

Savile Row Is Hit By Textiles Slump

London. — Sales of men's suits reflect the current country-wide slump in the textile trade, say London clothing retailers.

"The public just isn't in a buying mood," said T. W. Hewitt, secretary of the National Federation of Merchant Tailors.

Orders held by firms in Saville Row, London's "main street" for men's tailoring, have seldom been so meagre.

Price cuts of five guineas or more on suits of a higher grade have evoked little response and so far, there's no hint of improvement.

"It means much unemployment and short time in the trade," said Hewitt.

"I'm an explorer and I always bring him along to get a waiter's attention!"

"He's crazy about music so he installed a calliope instead of the regular whistle!"

Set I. Q. Standard For Seven-Year-Old

London. — If a seven-year-old child is unable to tell the time to the nearest quarter-hour, he may be below the kindergarten standard, says the Surrey Teacher's Association.

A special sub-committee of the organization has worked out what average boys and girls should know before they leave what is described as the "infant's department."

A seven-year-old, the committee report says, should be able to carry out straight-forward instructions, deliver messages and read a simple story with enjoyment. He should be able to talk easily on subjects within his range of interest and express ideas in words and pictures.

Youngsters in the kindergarten class should also know how to count up to 100, play shopping games and give change up to the equivalent of 25 cents. If they can form lettering and spell their names correctly, they are not doing so badly, say the Surrey teachers.

The report suggests, however, that these standards cannot apply where shortage of school accommodation prevails and emotional problems are experienced.

Blouses Keynote Summer Costumes

Paris. — Blouses from the simple pique models to freshen up a morning tailor-made costume, through silk print blouses to formal models in organdy or lace are the keynote to variety in summer costumes this season.

Prices, starting at less than $3 go up to couture models which cost nearly as much as a dress itself.

Expert handling and a good cut have transformed the once nondescript blouse into one of the smartest items of the wardrobe.

Blouses with full billowing sleeves accentuate this summer's demand for a wasp waist.

Lanvin features frilled "dandy" shirtwaists of the early 19th-century beaux.

These immaculately-tailored blouses in white batiste and linen, feature prime high necks and long sleeves offset with frilly or pleated shirtfront ruffles.

Shantung and wild silk, besides small printed foulards and tie silks, are smartly styled in soft dressmaker blouses, with gilets or bow necklines which offset tailored suit revers.

The cocktail or dinner blouse in crisp organdy replaces the frilly lingerie models in chiffon.

"Wheel Of Fortune" Make Indian Lass Queen Of Jukeboxes

Hollywood. — A buxom Indian lass who can't read a note of music is queen of the jukeboxes.

Kay Starr, a girl with a big voice, spun the "Wheel of Fortune" into the country's No. 1 seller among popular records.

Capitol Records happily reports the Starr version already has hit the 1,000,000-mark and may go way over.

"Wheel of Fortune" is but the latest hit in a series from the 29-year-old southern miss whose throaty, coon-shouting style once was tabbed uncommercial among the record people. Musicians and jazz purists had discovered her long ago when she weighed 165 pounds and was singing her tonsils out in saloons for $35 a week.

She was compared to the late Bessie Smith even then but that's as far at is went until Capitol signed her in 1947.

Kay and the famed Negro blues singer have similar styles—best described by a word widely used among musicians—gutbucket.

She was born on an Indian reservation near Dougherty, Okla., but moved when she was three to Dallas, Tex. Her forebears are of Iroquois, Cherokee, Choctaw and Irish descent.

She was high school age when her family moved to Memphis—capital of the blues. Even while a student at Memphis Technical High School, she was good enough to be a featured soloist on a local radio station.

Summer vacations gave her a chance to sing with bands—one of them Joe Venuti's. When Kay finished high school at 17, she joined the famed jazz fiddler for a two-year tour.

Kay says Joe made one suggestion about her singing that she still thinks the most valuable she ever got:

"Old Joe told me to always sing loud. That way if I ever made a mistake the audience would blame it on the band."

She still sings loud, but with no mistakes.

Dieting has trimmed her figure to a svelte 120 pounds but not without much discomfort.

"I live on broiled lettuce," she moans.

Dancer Will Open Lethbridge School

Lethbridge, Alta. — Miss Joy Camden who came to Canada to act for a period as guest teacher and choreographer for the Ottawa Ballet Company has decided to remain in this country and open a ballet school in Lethbridge.

The English girl who is assistant ballet mistress of the Winnipeg Ballet Company has been struck by the "freshness" of Canadian ballet dancers.

"There is something new in their approach," she said.

Miss Camden who hopes to take students from all southern Alberta thinks that eventually the Lethbridge school will act as a feeder of fresh talent for the Winnipeg company.

Children may begin dancing any time after their third birthday, she said. Eight is the age to begin serious study.

"Ballet lessons are good for everyone," she commented.

The young English girl thinks there is nothing like ballet lessons to "straighten out the kinks" in children with knock knees, pigeon toes and other body-structure difficulties. But, she stressed, this applies only to the very young students.

The Winnipeg company is remarkable, Miss Camden said. She could scarcely believe so much had been achieved in so short a time.

Miss Camden who hopes to open the Lethbridge school early in September has appeared in British stage and television shows and was one of the dancers in the film "The Red Shoes."

Ex-Hitler Aide Strasser Presses Fight In Exile For German Citizenship

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

Frankfurt. — Dr. Otto Strasser, the former henchman of Hitler who fled Germany for his life in 1933, is asking the West German constitutional court to give him back his German citizenship.

An exile in Canada, Strasser for six years has waged a stubborn fight to re-enter German polities.

He complains that West German authorities "do everything to prevent my return, knowing very well that in a few years time, we would be the strongest party in Germany."

Strasser's extremist followers here call themselves the "League for Germany's Revival." He directs them by remote control.

Strasser's court action is based on article 116 of the West German constitution which says that former German nationals can be renaturalized on request—if they were deprived of citizenship during the Hitler regime on racial, religious or political grounds.

A court ruling is expected in a short time. Meanwhile, the league is busy distributing circular letters from chairman Strasser and deputy chairman Waldemar Wadsack, a Munich tax adviser.

Wadsack, who became a leader of Strasser's "black front" after the split with Hitler, predicts Strasser will return to Germany soon.

"The Nazis working in the Bonn foreign office fear Strasser's knowledge (about the Nazi party) and, of course, they fear Strasser as a politician," Wadsack claims.

The league's policy is "strictly national," Wadsack admits, although "we recognize the West German constitution."

Wadsack describes the league's ideas in foreign policy as similar to those of anti-rearmament socialist party, which opposes Chancellor Adenauer's program for a close integration with the west.

Even if the constitutional court rules in Strasser's favor, there are other obstacles to prevent his return.

Allied authorities in Bonn have emphasized he is banned from Germany and are confident of keeping him out. But this may be difficult after conclusion of the allied-German "peace contract."

Tiny Prematures Risk Blindness

Winnipeg. — A new cause of blindness, an offshot of modern medical facilities, is striking human beings, says Lt.-Col. E. A. Baker of Toronto.

Addressing a service club, the managing director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind said the blindness has been found in infants born more than two months premature and weighing less than three pounds.

Though advanced medical facilities such as incubators now make it possible for premature babies to live, many are becoming blind because their eyes haven't developed properly, he said.

The new blindness was an increasing problem but no cure had been found for it.

Col. Baker said 80 per cent of blind persons lose their sight in adult life and 50 per cent is caused by ill health which has been neglected.

The colonel said there now are about 19,000 blind persons in Canada. He, himself, lost his sight in the first world war and was one of the original institute founders.

"Our biggest job is to prove to sighted people that the blind can do the things they want to," he said.

"I like to think that in accomplishing so much and showing such fortitude the Canadian blind have furnished inspiration to other handicapped people in Canada."

X-Ray Corral Offers Key To Human Safety In Atomic Power Age

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Oak Ridge, Tenn. — An X-ray corral here offers keys to safety for humans in the coming atomic power age.

Animals are placed in the enclosure and sprayed from all sides with X-rays from radio-active cobalt. They can get small doses, or large.

What the rays do to the animals' health and physical fitness can answer some important unknowns about humans:

How good must be the shielding to protect men driving atomic submarines or planes, or running power plants? How small a dose of repeated radiation could they withstand without any bad effects?

How good are various medicines or materials designed to prevent or overcome radiation sickness? Just how much X-ray radiation, over his whole body, can a human take?

Burros are being used in the X-ray pen because burros are much like humans in general body size and position of vital organs.

The answers will be far more accurate than similar studies made in the past with mice or fruit flies They can pin down the facts about humans and tolerable and untolerable radiation.

The radiation study is one of the agricultural research projects being carried on by the University of Tennessee experiment station under a contract with the Atomic Energy Commission.

The X-ray corral is set in a natural amphitheatre of wooded hills near Oak Ridge. There is a wire fence, surrounding a round concrete flooring 50 feet in diameter.

Inside the corral are 19 smaller fences, like the protective fences put around young trees on city sidewalks. Each little fence protects a vault in the concrete. Deep down inside the vaults are steel cylinders containing pellets of radio-active cobalt, strong sources of X-rays.

After the burros are put in the pen, remote-controlled winches raise the pellets from the vaults, lifting them three feet into the air. The burros are sprayed with X-rays. The little fences prevent the animals from brushing against the cobalt charges.

The rays shoot out far in all directions. Planes detected the rays 2,000 feet up. The rays are absorbed safely by hills on three sides of the pen and by a great earthen bunker on the fourth. Behind the bunker is the control room for raising and lowering of the cobalt pellets. The cobalt, made in an atomic reactor, is a far cheaper source of X-rays than big X-ray machines.

Directory Lists 5,000 Free Films

Ottawa. — Clubs, study groups and associations who want to make use of free films now can find out what is available in a directory listing more than 5,000 different 16 mm. movies.

The movies listed can be obtained from 185 different sources and can be obtained by any motion picture projector owner who promises to take care of them and return them the day after using.

The directory, first of its kind ever distributed in this country, is a 15-page folder compiled and distributed by Crawley Films Limited of Ottawa. Its preface notes that Canadian industries, educational groups and associations are sponsoring an increasing number of films every year. Last year nearly 500 films and filmstrips were produced for such groups.

The subjects listed in the directory range from cooking recipes and sports to accident prevention and a variety of Canadian industries.

Urges Conservation By Prairie Farmers

Regina. — There are millions of acres of land in western Canada which will become Arizona deserts if the exploitation type of agriculture practised in this country is continued.

This opinion was expressed here by J. T. Kyle of the Saskatchewan agriculture department's conservation and development branch.

Mr. Kyle said conservation in agricuture has come to the fore in Saskatchewan in the last six or seven years probably more strongly than in any other western province.

"We had 10 years of very tough times during the 1930s and some of the things we neglected then have resulted in a great need for conservation," he said.

The forces of nature, wind and water are potentially one of the greatest sources of power. If they get the upper hand, however, they can carry away the crop-producing soil.

Methods used today in controlling wind and water erosion are summerfallowing so that the trash cover remains on top of the soil, contour farming, grassing of waterways and strip cropping.

Mr. Kyle said that in 1941 in western Canada there were 4,000,000 acres of abandoned land which formerly had produced crops. If that land had been in production since 1941 it would have produced more than 62,000,000 bushels of wheat.

To deplete the top inch of soil on one acre of land of all plant nutrients, 480 bushels of wheat would have to be produced. Taking the average wheat yield of about 15 bushels an acre in Saskatchewan, that would be the production of 31 crop years.

Survey To Assess Genetic Effects Of Atom Bombings

Montreal—(CP)—The greatest biological effects of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki may only be felt in the fifth to 10th generation, says Duncan J. McDonald of the atomic bomb casualty commission.

Mr. McDonald, a graduate of McGill University, Macdonald College, and Oxford University where he studied as a Rhodes scholar, took over his present assignment in July, 1951, when he was placed in charge of the Genetic research staff of 15 persons, a part of the entire staff of 1,000 of the atomic bomb casualty commission.

Writing of his work to his former professor and dean, Dr. W. H. Brittain, vice-principal of Macdonald College, the Canadian scientist says that "we attempt to see every baby born on Hiroshima and Nagasaki and record whether it is normal, and if abnormal, in what way."

Some 15,000 babies are born each year in the two Japanese cities, he says, and about half are children of parents, one or both of whom were exposed to the atom bomb. The other half are children of parents who moved into the cities since 1945.

"Thus we have a control population from which we can obtain an estimate of the normal occurrence of the various types of congenital defects," says Mr. McDonald. "Eventually, when enough babies have been seen — and enough has been estimated at 150,000 — we should be able to demonstrate any increase in the exposed group."

"Our study is, of necessity, limited to dominant mutations which will appear in the first generation, and this only a small part of the total genetic change which must have taken place," the scientist says.

"It is a rather frightening thought that the genetic effect of the bombs will appear maximally only in between five to 10 generations hence. Thus, if we can demonstrate any change in this first generation, we can state with some degree of accuracy what the total effect in the next 100 years or so may be."

Soviets Work Hard To Push Culture Campaign In India

By ARUNA MUKERJI

Bombay. — Soviet interest in India has been increasing during the last six months.

Outward Russian interest in India has been mainly cultural and has been characterized by visits by delegations, exhibitions and participation in a festival. There has also been an attempt to foster trade between the two countries.

A Soviet art exhibition, the first big exhibition of foreign paintings ever to be held in India, now is touring the country. Recently an eight-member cultural delegation headed by Russian poet and author Nikolai Tikonov visited the country for two weeks.

Important Russians have been visiting India during the last six months. M. B. Nesterov, chairman of the Soviet Chamber of Commerce, headed a 50-man industrial delegation. N. Semenov, Russia's deputy minister for cinematography, headed the film delegation who participated in the international film festival. Author Nikolai Tikonov, Stalin prize winner, was leader of the cultural delegation.

Soviet political literature is sold cheaply on pavements at bus stops and in bookshops.

The Russian art exhibition, which opened in Delhi last month, includes 60 large oil paintings, 18 sculptures, and innumerable sketches shipped by the Russians from Odessa at the request of the Indian fine arts society.

At the international industries fair which opened here last January, Russia's Nesterov said:

"Soviet Russia is prepared for close trade relations with all countries on the basis of equality and considerations of mutual profit."

He said Russia is prepared to supply capital goods to India like textile machinery, machine tools, transport and mining equipment and generators in return for Indian jute, textiles, tobacco and spices.

The Russian pavillon which drew crowds during the six weeks it was shown here exhibited streamlined cars, agricultural machinery such as tractors and harvester, textile machinery, cameras, surgical instruments and furs. The goods, especially machinery, had been so chosen as to have the greatest appeal to a people fast trying to industrialize.

During recent months, well-known Indian artists and writers have received invitations to visit Moscow.

A thirty-member team of Indian business men and economic experts attended the recent economic conference in Moscow.

BIRCHTON

The Christmas Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Oliver Todd one afternoon with a very good number present. The afternoon was spent in playing "500." At the close of the games, the president read two letters of thanks, one from Mrs. Edward Comeau and Mrs. Marion Dewing of Sherbrooke, who had received birthday gifts from the club. At the close of the business period a delicious basket lunch was served. Mrs. Todd was assisted by Mrs. Oscar Desruisseaux. The next meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Henrietta Hodgman, on May 1.

Mr. Ruben Sherman, Mrs. Louisa Beaton and Mr. Walter Hodgeman were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Shuman, in Scotstown, and called on Mr. Sherman's sister, Mrs. Lintot, who is ill.

Mr. Ernie Rowe, of Tamworth, N. H., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Oscar Desruisseaux, and Mr. Desruisseaux.

COMPTON

Miss Janet Grenier, of the Notre Dame Convent, in Sherbrooke, was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Grenier.

The friends of Miss Elizabeth Lane will be sorry to hear that she is a patient in the Hotel Dieu Hospital, where she underwent an appendectomy.

ROCK ISLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtis have returned to their home in North Stanstead, after spending the winter at the Del Monty Hotel.

Mr. Louis Monty is a surgical patient in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital and is reported to be doing nicely.

Mrs. George Hood has returned to her home, after visiting her brother, Mr. W. F. Hood, in Melrose, Mass.

Mr. Benjamin Woodard, of Georgeville, is visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Forest Rollins, and Mr. Rollins.

ASCOR CORNER

Mr. and Mrs. Pageau, Mr. Orin Pageau and Miss B. Pageau attended the funeral of their nephew, Mr. Daniel Downing, in Sherbrooke.

STANBURY

Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, of Newport, Vt., Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Teel, Mrs. Clarence Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James Hunter, all of Montreal, were tea guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hunter.

EAST PINNACLE

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Morrison, of Sutton, Miss Jessie and Miss Mary Fulcher, of Montreal, were visitors at O. W. Hancock's.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hancock were in Knowlton, calling on friends.

Mr Harold McDonald, of Montreal, was a guest of a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dymond.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Hancock were in St. Albans, Vt. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Morrison, of Sutton.

Mr. Robert Young and Mr. Sherman Young have both been ill.

Mr. Kenneth Sherrer was in West Charleston, for a day taking his nephew, Jimmy Wilcox to his home there, after spending the holidays here at his uncle's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Perley Lahue entertained a few friends last Sunday, April 20, on their 28th wedding anniversary.

Huge B. C. Ranch Ranks As Biggest In North America

Vancouver. — The largest cattle ranch in North America is not in Texas as many people believe but right here in British Columbia.

The Gang Ranch south of Williams Lake, in the province's interior, controls well over 1,000,000 acres of range land, of which 45,000 acres are owned outright.

It was founded in 1861 by Thaddeus and Jerome Harper, brothers, who came north from Virginia shortly before the American civil war.

In 1862 they drove their first herd, Texas longhorns, Herefords and plain scrubs from Oregon.

When Jerome retired in 1870 the brothers were full-fledged cattle barons and they had acquired more land, timber and mining interests.

Rich and tired of ranching, Thaddeus retired in 1888, selling to Western Canadian Cattle Ranching Co. of London, England, which in turn sold the holdings 60 years later to W. Studart of Philipsburg, Mont., and F. Skelton, of Idaho.

In the 1870s beef sold at $1.50 a pound or more, but gold was plentiful and high prices meant little to the miners.

There are several other large cattle empires around Gang Ranch, in the lower Cariboo and Chilcotin districts.

The Pavilion mountain, actually a giant elevated plateau, is occupied by Pavilion Ranch owned by Victor Spencer and Frank Ross The Lillooet and Clinton highway runs right through the range land.

Earlscourt ranch at Lytton has an interest in the Circle S at Dog's Lake and the Douglas Lake Cattle Company, whose ranch extends over 500,000 acres, has a herd of more than 10,000.

The Canoe Creek ranch near Big Bar mountain in the Cariboo, founded by Henry Coster, son of a German baron, is another well known B.C. spread. Some years ago it was combined with the Empire Valley ranch on the west side of the Fraser River and the name changed to B.C. Cattle Company.

There are many other ranches throughout the province, although not so well known.

Virtually all B.C. cattle, especially in the Fraser valley and on Vancouver island are free of tuberculosis.

Health officers said that they found only 1.5 per cent of all cattle in the Cariboo that showed any reaction whatever to TB tests, and none was actually infected.

B.C. cowboys are colorful and skilled. Ten-gallon hats and high-heel boots are their trademarks. Some, but not many, still carry guns. They are law officers guarding against rustlers.
