GERMANY DETERMINED ON WAR.

London Post Correspondent States That Count Von Waldersee Will Present Ultimatum to Chinese Officials at Taku Demanding Surrender of Ringleaders of Anti-Foreign Forces.

If This Is Refused Germany Will at Once Declare War on China, Seize Wu Sung Forts, Yangtse Kiang Valley and Chinese Navy.

Two striking events have created a new situation in China. Orders were yesterday sent directing General Chaffee to retain under his personal command in Pekin a legation guard of one regiment of infantry, a squadron of cavalry and a light battery, and forthwith to despatch all other officers, troops, stores and war material to Manila.

Lord Salisbury, the British Premier, has despatched to Berlin a reply to the late German note, which, the despatches assert, is "identical in terms" with the American reply. The coincidence of these steps on the part of the American and British Governments is striking. Taken in sequence to the re-enforcement of the American naval force in the East, it is remarkable. If it shall be shown that the press despatches from London are worded advisedly and that Lord Salisbury's note is literally identical in terms with the American reply, the news may properly be termed sensational in that it will ring around the world. Of this latter view of the news, it is well, however, to be a little wary so long as its verity depends upon the wording of an unofficial despatch.

Lord Salisbury's adoption of the substance of the American reply to Germany is unexpected in view of the attitude of the British public prints, while if he has also adopted the wording of the Washington reply it will be regarded in diplomatic circles, jealous of even the smallest points, as of tremendous significance. Chaffee's marching orders mean that the United States, having rescued its minister and such of its citizens as remain alive in China purposes a military evacuation of the posts it was necessary to occupy, and does not intend to share any further military operations in China. England's decision to join the United States in what is believed to be the common-sense view of the German suggestion leaves Germany in an embarrassing position. France is against her.

The attitude of Russia and Japan is somewhat in doubt. Late despatches from London and Berlin represent their replies, which have been received, as rather favourable to Germany, but the wording of the statements made lends itself to much reading between the lines. Japan is said to "emphatically approve" and Russia to "assent in principle" to the punishment of the guilty Chinese, but it is well not to set either Power's position down as assured until the exact wording of their views as to punishment preliminary to negotiations is available or known to be approximated.

Both Russia and Japan had rather been expected to incline to the view of the case put forward by Washington; while Italy and Austria naturally favour Germany. In this juncture it had been agreed that Great Britain's decision was all-important. Germany had anticipated from the trend of English comment that it would be favourable. Now that it is adverse it would seem that Germany is put in a corner from which she can escape only by considerable modification of her views as to the drastic feature of punishment as preliminary to beginning peace negotiations, or come out into the open with a declaration of independent policy which will look war with China in the face.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, September 26.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Morning Post, in a despatch, dated September 25, says:

"Field Marshal Count von Waldersee is expected to arrive at Taku to-day.

"It is understood that he will immediately present an ultimatum demanding the surrender of the five leaders of the anti-foreign rising, only a few hours' grace being allowed.

"If compliance is not then signified war will be declared.

"Germany, taking advantage to the fullest of her position as the only power warring with China, is expected to seize Wu Sung and Kiangan arsenal, so as to enable it to dominate Shanghai, and also to seize the Kiang Yin forts commanding Yang-tse Kiang.

"It will be quite possible for her, with her force here, aided by the fleet, to effect this.

"It is also regarded possible that Germany will seize the Chinese fleet, including several valuable new cruisers.

"Failing this, Germany will at least occupy all of the Kiang Su province north of the Yang-tse Kiang, thereby controlling the north bank of the river at its mouth and establishing a strong claim to the Hinterland, including the northern half of the Yang-tse basin.

"France will support Germany.

"Such a policy will be a most serious menace to British interests, and prompt action is necessary to prevent the coup.

"There is reason to believe that the ultimatum was prepared here."

The correspondent adds:

"This is not a Shanghai rumour, but is reliable information. It will probably be confirmed by the Foreign Office."

REPORT SEEMS INCREDIBLE.

Nothing approaching confirmation of the Post's despatch has been received from other correspondents in Shanghai, and there is nothing from European sources to indicate that Germany intends to plunge headlong into such an enormous undertaking as declaring war, single handed, against China.

In the light of the information available here the report is incredible.

The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News quotes an official personage as saying that the cabinet did not intend Germany's proposal to be interpreted as insisting upon the surrender of the ringleaders of the anti-foreign revolt, but merely as an expression of her opinion on the subject, and as an argument by which she sought to explain her concrete proposal to instruct the representatives of the powers to designate those who were unquestionably guilty. The official added that for the present Germany did not want more than to ascertain who the ringleaders were, for if this were not ascertained she would run the risk of negotiating with the very persons responsible for the outrages.

LONDON, September 26, 3.30 a.m.—Only through the press advices from New York, published in this morning's papers, does the British public learn that the United States and Great Britain are once again ranged together in opposition to the Continental powers.

Apparently such a grouping was entirely unexpected in both Berlin and London; and, until an official statement is made, comment will be withheld.

The Daily Chronicle, however, devotes a brief editorial paragraph to the announcement expressing a hope that it is erroneous, and declaring that the "only way in which England can reap the fruits of her exertions in China is by standing shoulder to shoulder with Germany and Japan, as the only effective counterpoise to Russia-French machinations and the weak-kneed policy of America."

The Times, in an editorial on China's non-repentant mood, refers to Great Britain's reply in the same tone as the Daily Chronicle and says:

"The country would be both astonished and shocked if our Government did not warmly support the German proposal.

"It is simply inconceivable that the British, of all governments, should refuse to accede to a proposal at once so reasonable and just."

CHINA TO CONTINUE WAR.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, September 26.—A despatch to the Standard from Shanghai says that Chinese Officials there report that Prince Tuan has issued a secret edict in the name of the Dowager Empress informing the authorities throughout the Empire that the Court has decided to continue the war against the Powers at whatever cost.

The edict threatens that any official who does not support the Manchus will be beheaded as a traitor, his family destroyed and the tombs of his ancestors destroyed.

A despatch to the Daily News from Pekin, dated September 18, says it is persistently maintained that the Emperor has left the Dowager Empress and is now at Tathung, 150 miles west of Pekin.

AMERICAN FORCES IN CHINA ARE WITHDRAWN.

General Chaffee is Instructed to Retain Only a "Legation Guard" at Pekin.

REMAINDER OF THE TROOPS WILL BE SENT TO MANILA TO FIGHT FILIPINOS.

WASHINGTON, September 26.—The United States Government yesterday took the first step towards the redemption of its pledge made to the Russian Government August 28, last, by cabling instructions to General Chaffee to reduce the American forces in China to the proportions of a legation guard.

Nearly a month ago the Russian Government was told through M. de Wollant, its charge here, that if the Russian forces and ministry were withdrawn from Pekin, "we shall give instructions to the commander of the American forces in China to withdraw our forces from Pekin, after due conference with other commanders as to time and manner of withdrawal."

That time has come and, although some military force is to remain, it will not be of the character of an army, but under the conditions laid down in the order to General Chaffee, and especially under its official designation as a "legation guard," will be rather of the nature of a civil guard.

This small force will not be included in any military operations which may be conducted by the allied armies, and so will not fall subject to the direction of Field Marshal Count von Waldersee, the commander-in-chief.

Much thought has been given to the proper number of troops to be allotted for this purpose, and it is believed that the 1400 men selected will be quite sufficient to protect the American legation against any force that could be brought against it.

It is noteworthy, too, that the most complete arrangements have been ordered for the maintenance of the men, while care has been taken that there shall not be a shortage of ammunition as there was in the British legation during the siege.

It is estimated that about a week will be required to bring the 3500 soldiers away from Pekin, but the start cannot be made immediately, and it will be at least the end of the first week in October before the movement can be completed.

TROOPS WILL GO TO MANILA.

The text of the order to General Chaffee is as follows:

"Pending negotiations for a settlement, the Secretary of War directs that a legation guard of a regiment of infantry, four troops of cavalry, with rapid fire guns, and light battery, with complete equipment and reserve supply of ammunition, adequate for any emergency, be retained in Pekin under your command, and that you send the remainder of your force in China to Manila to report to MacArthur. The guard should be amply provisioned, etc., until navigation opens next spring. Retain such officers for staff duties as you deem necessary; all others of whatever corps or department will be sent to MacArthur for duty as soon as possible. All stores, transportation and materials not required for the legation guard send to Manila. Place yourself in close relations with our minister, acting with him on the lines that will best subserve our interests, keeping this department fully advised. It is important that you have the confidence of the generals of the other powers. Gen. Wilson, with his aides, will remain in Pekin for the present. Special instructions may be sent him. Cable MacArthur concerning requirements to carry these instructions into effect. Inform generals commanding forces of other powers of your intention to withdraw part of our forces. Show this to Conger.

"By order of Lieutenant-General Miles.

(Signed) CORBIN."

RUSSIANS ROUT ENEMY AND CAPTURE CHU LAN CHEN

ST. PETERSBURG, September 26.—The War Office announces that General Sacharoff (the chief of the Russian general staff), captured Chi Lan Chen, near the Sungari River, September 12, putting to flight 5,000 Chinese. It is added that the Russians sustained no casualties.

The Sungari (or Soongaree) River, of Manchuria, rises near the frontier of Corea, flows north and north-east and joins the Amur, or Saghalin River, 135 miles south-west of the influx of the Oosooree.

PIRACY ON THE WEST RIVER.

HONG KONG, September 26.—The German transport Gera and three German torpedo boats have arrived here.

Advices from the West River report that piracy and brigandage are increasing, and it is considered probable that the river will relapse into its old state of insecurity during the winter, unless active measures be taken. Several minor piratical acts are reported and it is also stated that villages near Kum Chuk have been burned by brigands.

CATHOLIC CHURCH DESTROYED.

NEW YORK, September 26.—A mob has destroyed the Catholic church at Tokaahang, a few miles from Canton, and desecrated the American Baptist mission graveyard, the Herald's correspondent at Hong Kong cables. Rowdies have also destroyed the American Presbyterian church, just outside Canton.

Feeling at Fatshan is intensifying.

FOLLOWING RUSSIA'S EXAMPLE OTHER POWERS MAY SEIZE CHINESE TERRITORY.

(Special to the Star.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The London correspondent of the New York Tribune at an early hour this morning reviewed the situation in China as follows:—Rumourmongers are still at work upon the cabinet, while the canvasses are in progress. Lord Lansdowne had a long interview with the Marquis of Salisbury before the diplomatic reception, and as this was the second time within a week that they were closeted together political gossips were convinced that they themselves were on the right scent in determining that Lord Lansdowne is to be the Premier's successor in the Foreign Office. There is at least a strong probability that Lord Salisbury in leaving the Foreign Office, will desire to find a locum tenens who will consult him at every turn of affairs, and the personal relations between him and Lord Lansdowne suggest this selection of a substitute. If Lord Salisbury is taking counsel from any colleague respecting China it is not from Mr. Balfour, who was temporarily in charge of the Foreign Office, from Lord Lansdowne. He has also had a long interview with the German Ambassador, and has talked with the Japanese minister and with Mr. Henry White, the American charge d'affaires, but the British policy in China remains an inscrutable mystery.

Lord Salisbury, it is expected, will accept the German proposals, but will suggest some changes in detail. There will be a week's diplomatic quibbling and finesse, and those powers which wish to do so will finally follow Russia's example in Manchuria, and punish China by appropriating to their own use the seaboard provinces. This is the cynical conclusion which the best informed men here have reached, after recalling Russian and German proceedings after the war between China and Japan.

Despatches from the Far East present an astonishing medley of contradictory reports. The Empress and Prince Tuan are reported to be in full flight, and also to be raising armies and preparing to recapture Pekin.

Li Hung Chang is providing a peace offering to the powers by hunting down the Boxers and cutting off the heads of the leaders. Additions are constantly being made to the lists of massacred missionaries, and fresh details of the manoeuvres of the allied forces are telegraphed.

The Empress is alternately coaxing and intimidating the allies by displaying zeal in punishing the Boxers with the death penalty at an hour's notice and displacing officials trusted by the consuls and preparing to resume military operations against invaders. While the powers are conducting negotiations over moves for position, Russia has been adopting a system of stern reprisals, occupying Manchuria, burning villages, destroying temples and slaughtering Manchus along the banks of the Amur. There have been no contradictions of the reports of these ruthless massacres by which the occupation of a large province of China has been secured.

The American Government is sharply criticised by the continental powers for breaking away from the other powers, and there are cavilling criticisms in English journals of what is described as amateur diplomacy. The St. James's Gazette is almost the only London journal to suggest that Europe cannot complain if the American Government shrinks from the vast, prolonged and difficult campaign which must follow a deliberate attempt to carry out the German proposals. Those who know China do not believe that there will be a campaign of this kind. They forecast a long period of helpless and baffled diplomacy, followed by a partial partition of the Empire.

THE FIRST FRUITS OF THE AMERICAN POLICY.

Germany Looks Upon Prince Tuan's Appointment as Head of Chinese Army

AS ANOTHER SLAP AT POWERS ENCOURAGED BY THE ATTITUDE OF THE UNITED STATES.

BERLIN, September 26.—The Cologne Gazette publishes a statement, evidently inspired to the effect that with the exception of Great Britain all the powers have replied to the German note and that all, with the exception of the United States, have replied agreeing to Germany's proposal in essentials.

"The appointment of Prince Tuan as the head of the Chinese Government may be regarded," says the Cologne Gazette, "as the first fruits of America's policy.

"The German note has evidently revived the courage of the Chinese and their cherished speculation regarding discord amongst the powers.

"The act of the Empress in appointing Prince Tuan is a slap in the face of the whole world; but China will deceive herself in this matter, as she has done in others.

"Even assuming that active work against China should be left to only a part of the powers that part will be strong enough to impose its will on China, and they state standing aside would never think of opposing the work of justice undertaken by the others.

"There is no denying that Prince Tuan's appointment has brought about a change in the situation. Many powers will ask themselves whether it is possible to enter upon diplomatic negotiations with the state headed by a man strongly suspected of being guilty of the gravest breaches of international law."

Proceeding to refer to the proposed instructions from the United States to Mr. Conger to arrange with the Chinese plenipotentiaries for a preliminary conference, the inspired statement runs as follows:

"One may well be curious as to how negotiations between Mr. Conger and Prince Tuan's plenipotentiaries will result. Mr. Conger had an opportunity while the legations were under siege, to become acquainted with Prince Tuan's methods against the representatives of the powers.

"The indulgence of the United States of late toward China cannot have softened the Chinese prince, who intends, if possible to impose as a condition that American missionaries shall hereafter be excluded from China.

"When it is said in a Washington telegram that Mr. Conger, Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang will arrange a rendezvous for the representatives of the powers for preliminary negotiations, it must be remarked that nothing is known in Berlin of any mandate for such negotiations as are suggested by the United States."

Stillwell's "Never Close" Dining Rooms, 711, 713, 715 Craig Street, near Victoria Square.
Warm weather is about gone, long evenings are at hand and "late suppers" are in order. There is nothing better in Montreal than Stillwell's Cafe for seasonable repasts. Oyster dishes prepared here are not equalled this side of Baltimore. 227z1

GERMANY HAS ALARMING NEWS

Waldersee Reports That Conditions in China are Very Grave—General Uprising Feared.

BERLIN, September 26.—Alarming news from China has reached the German Government, but it will not be published now as Germany intends to use it during the conferences in Pekin. Field Marshal Count von Waldersee has cabled to Emperor William direct that he has found the general situation more dangerous than he had expressed, having grown worse during the last fortnight and the consuls and in central and southern China are expecting a general uprising.

Advices from Dr. Mumm von Schwartzenstein, the German Minister in China, are of a similar tenor.

Rear-Admiral Von Bendemann has repeatedly cabled that the situation along the Yang Tse Kiang is very critical, and also expressing fears concerning the safety of Kiao Chou.

SET APART FOR PRAYER FOR CHINA AND MISSIONS

Foreign Mission Boards Name Last Sunday of October for the Purpose.

TORONTO, September 26. — The Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met here yesterday to consider the problems raised by the outbreak in China. The refugee missionaries from Honan were present, with the exception of Dr. Leslie, of Montreal, who is still under medical treatment. It was agreed that a statement be prepared for the church to be read from all the pulpits on the last Sabbath of October. Along with the churches in the United States, which have missions in China, it has been decided to observe that day and the week following as a week of special prayer for China and Christian Missions there in the present crisis.

PRINCE CHING PROTESTS AGAINST FOREIGN TROOPS

PARIS, September 26.—The Temps last evening published a despatch from Shanghai, which stated that the missionaries in Chi Li were threatened.

European troops having been sent against the Boxers, Prince Ching, it is asserted, has protested that the Yamen alone is qualified to carry out their extermination.

CHINESE WAR NOTES.

The German squadron with Dr. Mumm von Schwartzenstein is about to leave Shanghai for Taku to join Count von Waldersee.

A Vienna despatch says: The Austrian press bitterly condemns the attitude of the United States toward China, attributing to the course of the Washington Government the "arrogant defiance with which China is treating the allies." The Neues Weiner Tageblatt expresses the opinion that the upshot will be a war with China. The Fremdenblatt foresees extensive military operations, and possibly an expedition to the province of Shan-Si, but does not think that the defection of the United States will cause a lasting disturbance among the powers.

BIG NAVAL ESTIMATES.

Uncle Sam Begins to Learn What it Costs to be a Marine Power.

(Special to the Star.)

WASHINGTON, September 26. — The next estimates for the navy will be record breakers. From the data now before Secretary Long they will amount to about $72,000,000. The sums asked for and needed in a great many instances have been cut down and yet the big figures remain. It is argued in defence of this that the sum allotted for repairs of ships in commission is steadily growing. They set apart $10,000,000 for this work and it is already seen that it will be necessary to put in big deficiency item.

The tremendous naval forces in Asiatic waters, which the Chinese entanglement has made necessary will further run the estimates for repairs and maintenance for commission to the enormous figure which officials do not now care to consider or even approximate. It is probable that before the United States can withdraw its emergency navy from China the extraordinary expenses on that account will be dangerously near $25,000,000, which, it is stated, the army in China has already cost.

A GROCERS' EXCURSION.

The Purveyors of Newark, N. J., Arrived in Montreal by Special Train,

TAKING IN THE SIGHTS OF THE CITY TO-DAY AND WILL RETURN TO SARATOGA TO-MORROW.

Montreal was invaded this morning by the grocers of Newark, N.J. It is their custom each year to take a jaunt of several days' duration to some point of interest, and this year Montreal was selected. The party arrived by a special vestibule train of five cars over the Delaware and Hudson. Accompanying the party was Mr. F. B. Moffit, travelling passenger agent of the road, who saw that they lacked for nothing. The party numbered about 229, including in its ranks many of the leading citizens of Newark. This morning they took in the trip down the Lachine rapids, and this afternoon was devoted to Mount Royal and sight seeing generally. The party will return to-morrow morning to Saratoga, N.Y., where several hours will be spent, then going on to Newark. Unfortunately, the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association did not know of their coming, so could no nothing in the line of entertaining the visitors. The committee is as follows: J. Waferling, Chairman; R. L. Smith, Secretary; J. W. Cockefair, treasurer; W. H. Everett, J. H. Markey, W. H. Dealaman, A. McKinsie.

At High Bluff, Man., the house, stables and granary of Jas. Donnelly, jr., were totally destroyed by fire. Loss $1,000.

LOWERED RECORD.

Harry Vardon Covered the Dixie Links in 71 Strokes.

LOCAL GOLF MEN PLEASED.

Vardon's Visit Will do Much For the Future of the Game Here—Results of the Matches.

GOLF will certainly receive an impetus in this country judging from recent developments. And the visit to this city of Harry Vardon ought to place the game in a far more prominent position than it has heretofore occupied. This was obvious from the attendance on the links of the Royal Montreal Golf Club yesterday. In the morning there was a gathering of about 400 spectators and this had increased wonderfully in the afternoon. It was an intelligent interested audience, too, and Vardon expressed himself as being delighted in playing before such a gathering. The players were given every opportunity of displaying their skill without hindrance and every bit of good work was thoroughly appreciated, and the spectators were generous in their applause. The two exhibitions given by Vardon were most satisfying to the general spectators, though in the morning there was a wee mite of disappointment expressed by those who had been around the course with Vardon on the previous day's practice. The morning score of 77 did not compare well with his 73 of Monday. He proved most unfortunate in his putting. Though his driving and approaching was almost all that could be desired. One peculiar thing was that in the eight times the Plum Lane or eleventh hole was played for by Vardon, he landed on the low bunker abreast of the clubhouse just five times. This probably resulted from his endeavours to drive across the bunker when it would have been preferable to play safely on the smooth ground south of the railway track. There was a big improvement in Vardon's play in the afternoon and his total of 71 is a record that will stand for some time. The best ball tallied 81, although it is conceded that Messrs. Gordon Macdougall and Percy Taylor did excellently under the circumstances. Both were unfortunate in several instances. Of course, Vardon admitted in the evening that he was "rather tired." He certainly has had big work and ought to feel fatigued occasionally. Playing three matches a week is no sinecure and the strain of playing best ball is very severe. Add to the physical exertion the strain of entertainments and it will readily be understood what a severe task Vardon has before him in a season's work. Vardon is probably sporting character that has ever visited this vicinity and his short stay here will be remembered all the better. His quiet unassuming manner won for him many friends, and his affability made him a charming companion. His readiness to do favours is remarkable. This was amply illustrated on Monday afternoon when after covering the eighteen hole course twice, he readily agreed to play a foresome and added to this by playing left handed. It appears that Vardon can play a rattling good game on his "off" side. Indeed it is related of him that he has covered courses in 81 that most players found difficult enough to do in 86, and playing right handed at that. It certainly is quite a feat, but even on short acquaintance one easily expects great things from this wonderful man.

While on board of the train yesterday Vardon related a little incident which occurred when he was in Ireland. He and a friend were in the neighbourhood of Killarney and happening to overtake two gentlemen on the roadway when passing a golf course, asked, "What are these flags in that field for?" "Those are the golf links," responded that gentleman. "How is that game, played?" asked Vardon, trying to have a little joke on the gentleman.

"Well, you stand by the flags and try to drive the ball into one of those boxes," answered the gentleman, pointing to one of the teeing boxes. This explanation appeared to suit Mr. Vardon and his companion and the quartette proceeded along the road. Presently they met another party and when the newcomers addressed the questioner as "Mr. Vardon" and promptly identified him as the great expert, the companion of the gentleman who had attempted to tell the champion how the game was played may be easily imagined. When on the train Mr. Cox obtained a supply of New York Sunday papers and this started Mr. Vardon off again. "Wonderful things, the New York papers," he said, "when I get two of them it almost makes me tired to carry them." But he found interesting matter in them nevertheless.

Vardon's demeanour on the course is not a whit different from that at any other time. He goes at the game in the same quiet manner, and it does not seem that

ANYTHING COULD WORRY HIM.

He dresses neatly in a checked knicker, golf hose of a subdued pattern, and a regatta shirt with a neck kerchief of a colour approaching orange. No display and a serious attention to the performance of his duties are thoroughly characteristics of the man. He enjoyed his trip to Montreal, and expressed complete satisfaction in all that had been done. It was thought that Mr. Vardon would be able to remain here today, but Mr. Cox, his manager, has several important engagements which cannot be neglected, and the pair set off for New York last evening.

AN EXPERTS REVIEW.

Mr. Cox, who is considered the best golf expert in America wrote the following technical review of the day's play for the Star.

"In the morning round, Tom Smith, the professional of the Royal Montreal Golf Club, and G. Cumming, of the Toronto Golf Club, beat Harry Vardon by one up. The match was close and exciting, and it was not until Vardon missed a ten-foot put on the last green, to win the hole, that the best ball were declared the winners. Vardon commenced proceedings by driving a terrific ball down the centre of the course. Cumming and Smith both followed with good drives, and both carried the ditch on their seconds; Vardon got in a long second, but sliced it a little; Smith and Cumming both made the green on their thirds. Vardon was short, and his fourth lay within eight inches of the hole. Both his opponents approached dead, and holed out in five, Vardon duffed his eighth inch put and was one down.

Playing for the second, Vardon outdrove his two opponents fully 40 yards and both approaching badly and overrunning three puts, took a five each against his four and the match was all even. Vardon laid his drive to the third within ten feet of the hole. Smith pulled into the ledge and picked up. Cumming overran his approach put and missed his third; Vardon lay dead on his second and holed out. Vardon 1 up.

"All three

to the fourth and the hole was halved by Vardon and Cumming in five each.

Vardon and Smith halved the fifth in three each, Cumming finding the water to the right.

Vardon sliced a short pitch to the green for the sixth and was short on his approach; Cumming and Smith both made the green and were down in three. All even. There were three perfect drives to the seventh hole, Cumming found his ball half buried and topped his brassey, jumping the bunker into the fence. Smith laid his brassey within 20 yards of the green and Vardon pitched a high med iron shot on to the green. Smith laid his mashie dead, and the hole was halved in four. They were still all even.

All three men halved the next two holes, and Smith again on the tenth saved the hole for his side with another pretty mashie approach. Playing the eleventh, Vardon found the bunker with a 200 yard drive and lost the hole in six to his opponents five each. All three let out beauties to the 12th, and Vardon approached dead, holing out in three. Smith overran and then Cumming came down in twenty feet put for a half and the best ball was still 1 up.

Smith won the 13th with a well played five, Vardon being short on his approach and short again on his two puts. Playing the 14th Vardon laid his second dead and both his opponents failing to get up on their seconds, he won the hole in three to their four. And the best ball was again 1 up. The next four holes were all halved, and although Vardon on the 17th and 18th had a ten foot put to save the match, he failed to bring either of them off, and lost the match by one hole.

THE AFTERNOON'S GAME.

"In the afternoon Vardon played a best ball match with Percy Taylor and G. W. MacDougall as opponents and fortified by an excellent luncheon he started out to knock records into smithereens. As the score shows he reduced the previous record for the course eleven strokes and reduced his own record of 73 made on Monday by two strokes with a bit of luck he would have undoubtedly gone below seventy, he lost a stroke playing the 14th. Calmly remarking before he drove off, here goes for the green or over the road, and playing to get a hook on his ball, he overdid it and went over the road, he dropped a ball on the tee and with his brassy carried the brook, but the hole cost him five, again playing the fourth, he drove a terrific ball, but found a hanging lie and landed in the brook with his second. He dropped and laid it dead, but these are instances were two strokes might very easily have been saved. Both the amateurs played a good steady game, Taylor's driving being especially good and considering that it was the first time either man had been up against such a stiff proposition as Vardon, they made a most excellent showing, no one who has not played against this man who has been aptly described as the "Automatic Golf Machine" realizes how hard it is to play against Bogey or better on every hole, and what chances a man has to take in order to try for Vardon won by 6 up and 5 to play and 2 upon the bye holes making 8 up on the 18 holes. Too much praise can not be given for the excellent manner in which the crowd was handled and to the behaviour of the spectators, it is not saying too much to remark that it was the best golfing lot of women and men Vardon has played before since he reached the American Continent. The green was in very good shape and the course is as sporty a one as any man could wish to play over, the fourth, fifth and first and third greens being especially well placed and requiring first class golf to negotiate successfully."

AN OCCASIONAL HALF.

IN THE AQUATIC WORLD.

AMERICA'S CUP CHALLENGE.

Sir Thomas Lipton Will Probably Challenge for Next Year.

NEW YORK, September 26. — It has long been the belief of a few well informed members of the New York Yacht Club that Sir Thomas J. Lipton would again challenge for the America's Cup.

This belief was strengthened last week by a few words dropped by Mr. Hugh C. Kelly secretary of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, who was then in New York.

Mr. Kelly was the guest of Mr. Howard Gould on his steam yacht Niagara on her late passage back home, and during his visit ashore he met several members of the N.Y. Y.C., to more than one of whom he expressed the opinion that there would be another race for the cup next year, and that Sir Thomas would be the challenger.

It will be remembered by yachtsmen that Mr. Kelly was the representative of the Royal Ulster Y. C. on board the Columbia during her races with the Shamrock, and that he made many friends while here.

When Mr. Gould was asked if Mr. Kelly had said anything on the passage over about another challenge for the cup, he smiled and remarked, "Mr. Kelly believes there will be another race for the cup next year."

The challenging club, as is generally known, must give the N.Y.Y.C. ten months' notice to secure a match for the cup. A challenge, therefore, to meet this requirement, and to bring about a race in 1901, should be received here by the month of December.

Mr. Kelly remained in New York only four days, having returned by the steamer of last Wednesday.

What is Being Done on the Other Side.

John Fearon writes to the Boston Herald from Glasgow as follows: "All through the preliminary arrangements which have already been made with regard to the next challenge for the America's cup, the prime movers have been influenced by a firm, and in many respects a wise, determination to avoid as far as possible giving publicity to their plans until all things are in order. The reason for adopting this policy was that the designer, George L. Watson, and the prospective owner, Sir Thomas Lipton, have both a very wholesome appreciation of the task which lies before them, and while admitting that the 10 months' notice necessary under the rules of the contest is a fair enough condition, neither of them has been anxious to give any further warning of the attempt which they are planning.

In the course of the preliminary arrangements it was, of course, necessary to take a few more gentlemen into their confidence, but the number of these was kept as small as possible, and it is questionable whether there are at the present moment half a dozen men in Britain who know exactly how the arrangements stands. Even in the engagement of the skipper, after Mr. Watson and Sir Thomas Lipton had agreed to put Captain Edward Sycamore in charge, he was approached and induced to enter Sir Thomas' service without a single definite word as to a cup challenger being said. At the present time he ranks simply as sailing master to Sir Thomas Lipton, and his commission to visit the States was made simply in the form of a suggestion that he should go across to America and have a look at American yachting and the courses on which the America's cup contests were sailed, and see whether he could acquire any useful information.

One of the latest and most important matters to be fixed in connection with the new challenger is the appointment of a gentleman who will take charge of her during the whole time of trials and racing. No name has yet been mentioned, and I cannot yet say with certainty who it is has been chosen for this important post, but the indications point very strongly to John Jameson, of Dublin. Mr. Jameson—if it is really he who has been chosen—will have a position aboard equal in all respects to owner, and he will act as representing the owner in all matters concerning the challenge and the care of the boat. This will relieve the skipper—or skippers—of all responsibility except that pertaining directly to the sailing of the yacht. Capt. Sycamore will have absolute charge of Shamrock II., so far as saying when she will sail, and how she will be sailed, but all negotiations regarding races and conditions will be made by the representative owner, and he will also accept the responsibility of advising the captain in any unforseen emergency. For this purpose it is necessary that the representative owner should be a gentleman skilled in every turn of the game, and cool-headed enough to come through the most exciting turns with a clear idea of everything that happened.

Mr. Jameson can certainly claim these qualities, for he has owned and raced first-class yachts for the last 20 years, and in company with his late skipper, Capt. William O'Neill, he came through some of the keenest yachting contests ever sailed on this side. He is a keen man and takes advantage of every turn of chances.

Mr. Jameson's sailing match it was, Capt. William O'Neill, who was mentioned 10 years ago in connection with Sir Thomas Lipton's first proposal to try for cup honours. The story was revived when the Shamrock challenge was lodged, but Capt. O'Neill was even then suffering from an illness which came to a fatal termination last week. O'Neill was born at Kingstown, near Dublin, and was undoubtedly the finest match sailer that Ireland ever produced. He followed the sea from his earliest boyhood and was one of the few men trained in square-rigged ships, who afterward gained distinction in the sailing of racing fore and afters.

NEWS OF THE CRICKET CREASE

THE UMPIRE WAS FIRM.

An English sporting paper has a cricket story that is good enough to be quoted. It is told anent the futility of arguing with umpires. The occasion was a cricket match between neighbouring villages, where rivalry is at its keenest. The leading lights of the A—— village were in the local inn selecting an umpire. One proposed the blacksmith, Bill Cuttle—"'Cos he leans to'ards us." The compelling nature of the reason secured Bill Cuttle's unanimous appointment to the post, and in due time the match came on. The first ball bowled at the batting hero of the B—— team struck him on the leg when he was some yards from the wicket. Immediately a howl from eleven throats required to know how that was. "Hout!" said Bill Cuttle. The hero of B—— village, with all the philosophy of resignation before a vastly superior force, walked calmly away. But as he passed Bill Cuttle he said to him emphatically, "Bill Cuttle, you lie!" The umpire replied calmly, "I do, Jarge, but you goes hout all the same!"

HOW TO GET SIDEWALKS.

Ald. Chausse Submits a Proposition to the City Attorneys.

CITIZENS TO PAY EXPENSE AND LEGISLATURE WILL MAKE IT ALRIGHT.

On account of the bad state of many of the wooden sidewalks in the city, and on account of the city being short of funds, Ald. Chausse has a proposition to get sidewalks, which has been sent to the City Attorneys for legal opinion. Many members of Council think the scheme will not pass Council, as, after all, it means the putting down of sidewalks on the condition that the Legislature will approve of the expenditure at its next session.

The proposition, in brief, is that citizens shall pay for sidewalks; that they may deduct the cost from money they may owe the city, and that they shall take the risk of the Legislature making good their outlay. A similar scheme was tried some years ago, but it was decided that it simply meant encroaching upon the appropriation of the ensuing year. Such encroachment, of course, was declared to be illegal.

The following is the proposition of Ald. Chausse:

ALD. CHAUSSE'S PROPOSITION.

That authorization be given to proprietors in the city of Montreal to make their own sidewalks, upon the following conditions:

1.—That the City Surveyor, may, after being notified to that effect, and after ascertaining the necessity thereof, give to the proprietor a permit authorizing him to have one or more sidewalks laid at his own expense opposite the immoveables belonging to him.

2.—The cost of every sidewalk, the construction of which will have thus been authorized by the City Surveyor, shall not exceed the valuation thereof previ

Smash the Machine! If there are two Machines, smash them both!!

Imperial Reciprocity in Preferential Trade would make Canada rich.

PERMITTED TO GO.

The Hon. M. E. Bernier, the latest acquisition of the Laurier Government, explained to the Liberal meeting at St. Hyacinthe that the Government "had simply allowed the Canadian volunteers to go to Africa, just as Canadians had been allowed to go to the American civil war and to the Cuban and Philippine wars."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was present when Mr. Bernier made this explanation and did not correct his colleague.

Perhaps the Premier did not deem it necessary to contradict such an obvious misstatement; or perhaps he felt a delicacy about contradicting a mis-statement which after all was only a repetition substantially of one of his own tara diddles. Nobody knows better than Sir Wilfrid that there was no similarity between the cases of the few Canadians who fought for the United States in Cuba or the Philippines and the Canadians who fought for Great Britain in the Transvaal. The Government of Canada did not recruit, clothe or equip volunteers to serve in Cuba or the Philippines, nor even supply them with ground dog biscuit for emergency rations. No Canadian needed the "permission" of Sir Wilfrid Laurier or of Mr. Tarte to serve the Queen in South Africa or anywhere else; and this constant repetition of the ministerial statement that the Government allowed Canadians to volunteer for service in South Africa is a piece of offensive impertinence.

The simple truth as everybody knows, is that the Government sent the Canadian troops to South Africa because it was a question of sending the troops to South Africa or sending themselves into opposition. They would have sent Canadian volunteers to South Africa or to the devil rather than have sent themselves out of office.

NEVER TESTED IN A PERIOD OF WORLD-WIDE DEPRESSION.

Mr. Fielding is going about the country saying that when he first brought down his tariff in 1897 Sir Charles Tupper predicted that it would prove most injurious to Canadian manufacturers. He points to the present prosperity of Canadian industries as proof that there was no ground for the fears of Sir Charles, and says that the Conservatives now claim that the tariff which Sir Charles Tupper condemned is only a slight modification of the Old National Policy. Mr. Fielding neglects to mention two facts that should be placed side by side with Sir Charles Tupper's criticism of the tariff as first introduced by Mr. Fielding in 1897. One of these facts is that some of the manufacturers privately complained to Mr. Fielding that the tariff would injure them, and he made a number of alterations in it, making it much more nearly identical with the National Policy than it was in the first place. It was before these changes were made that Sir Charles Tupper made the prediction referred to by Mr. Fielding. The other fact is that Sir Charles Tupper did not know, and no one else knew, that the whole world was about to enter upon the most extraordinary period of commercial prosperity and industrial activity ever known. The tariff of 1897, as finally adopted, was only a slightly modified form of the National Policy, still retaining most of the protective features, but if the commercial and industrial conditions in the United Kingdom, the United States, Germany, France and Belgium had been normal, the changes that were made, although not very great, would have been injurious to Canadian industries. The Liberal tariff has never yet been tested in a period of world-wide depression. It has not even been tested under conditions of ordinary prosperity in the leading countries of the world. Ever since the Fielding tariff was passed the United States, England, Germany, Belgium and France, the countries whose manufacturers compete with ours, have enjoyed unprecedented prosperity. They have had all the orders they wanted at paying prices, and there has consequently been no temptation to slaughter goods in Canada.

HON. F. G. MARCHAND:

In the death of the Hon. F. G. Marchand the province of Quebec sustains the loss of a politician who had no stain on his reputation after thirty-three years of political life. As a soldier and a citizen he tried to do his duty to his country, and he will be remembered as an honourable and upright man. He was selected as leader of the Quebec Provincial Liberals at a time when the better element of the party had got the upper hand after the overwhelming defeat of the Mercier Government.

JOHN CHARLTON, M. P., TESTIFIES.

The October Forum, just at hand, contains a striking article from Mr. John Charlton, M.P., on "Imperial and Colonial Preferential Trade." It shows Mr. Charlton is decidedly at variance with his Liberal colleagues in Parliament, or, what is equally probable, that the party are fully aware of the folly of their course on the question of Preferential Trade and are simply keeping up a "bluff" on the subject until after the elections. Whatever the object of publishing such an article just now, it cannot but be regarded as letting a side light in upon the Liberal views of the Liberal policy and, incidentally, there is a tone of certainty that the coming elections will see a Conservative success, which from such a source must be regarded as particularly interesting.

Mr. Charlton starts in with presenting what he seems to consider conclusive evidence that no preference for Canadian goods can be obtained in the British market. In this he has not advanced any new reasons, merely giving those which have been made use of by other Liberal speakers and writers, that Great Britain will never give up free trade.

"In the present state of Britain's trade in the exports of the products of her skilled labour, it is evident that a tax upon the food of her artisans will not be resorted to. For half a century free trade has been a cardinal feature in British commercial policy. Cheapness of production is essential to the continuance of Britain's supremacy in the business of exporting finished wares. Cheap raw material and cheap food, the latter of which is practically a raw material in the production of goods, are essential to success. A tax upon either would do violence to the time honoured policy of the great free trade power, whose goods are found in all markets, and whose merchant marine performs three-quarters of the ocean carrying trade of the world. This supremacy in the export of manufactures is now threatened by the keen competition of Germany and the United States, and the struggle already in full play is certain to become more acute.

"The volume of export of manufactures from the United States has increased greatly in recent years. Already the Great Republic has practical control of the iron and steel trade in all neutral markets. This trade has slipped from the grasp of Great Britain with no prospect of its return. The intelligence of operatives, the vast aggregations of capital, and the methods of management in the United States, in pushing trade give promise that further inroads will follow. The manufacturing interests of the United States, if confined merely to the supply of the demands of that nation, are of vast magnitude. This market is secured to American establishments by heavy duties upon imports, which prevent foreign competition, and enable the realization of high prices and great profits; and surplus of production can be unloaded upon markets where British goods are the competitor, with little regard to the price received."

He argues that Canada is not likely now, or will be for years to come, prepared to accept the suggestion of an Imperial Zollverein embracing the admission of British imports free of duty. The loss of revenue, he claims, would be greater than this country could afford, "and the manufacturing interests, which are of considerable moment, and have been largely developed by a moderate system of protection, would be severely injured by such a policy, and would probably command a sufficient amount of influence to defeat the party proposing it." Verily these be strange words!

But when he comes to write of the effect produced by the Canadian preferential tariff in favour of British imports, Mr. Charlton "speaks right out in meeting." "The result thus far," he writes, "has been a disappointment to those who anticipated a large increase, on the one hand, of the importation of British manufactures, and a decrease, on the other hand, of the importation of manufactures from the United States. Two full financial years have elapsed since the differential rate was made 25 per cent., it having been 12 1-2 per cent. in the year previous. In spite of this change of policy, the importation from the United States has increased rapidly; and the state of trade at the close of the year 1899 showed large importations from the United States, a large free list applicable to those importations, and a larger balance of trade in favour of that country than in any previous year."

He then gives interesting tables of imports and exports in substantiation of this statement. He shows, or the figures show, that the export trade of Canada is not increasing so far as the United States is concerned, the value of our exports to that country in 1899 being $45,133,000, an increase over 1896 of about a million dollars, and less than in 1897, when it was $49,373,000. During the same years the exports to Great Britain showed a fair increase, being $99,091,000 in 1899 as compared with $77,227,000 in 1897. On the other hand the imports from the United States have increased enormously under the Liberal tariff, rising from $58,574,000 in 1896, to $93,007,000 in 1899; while the imports from Great Britain only increased five millions in the same period; and indeed the value of our imports from Mother Country in 1899 were not up to those of many of the years preceding 1895, when there was no preferential tariff in favour of Great Britain.

The closing paragraphs of Mr. Charlton's article should be read by every Liberal elector in Canada.

"As regards the preferential treatment accorded by Canada to Great Britain, the results under the application of the 25 per cent. reductions for the year 1899, as relating to the United States, are that the increase of total imports from the United States over the previous year were 18.07 per cent.; that the increase in the importation of manufactures from the United States over the previous year was 19.63 per cent.; that the balance of trade against Canada on total exports and imports was $56,500,000; that Canadian farm products were well-nigh shut out of the United States by duty rates ranging from 25 to 100 per cent.; and that out of a total of $64,618,000 of free goods imported into Canada for consumption, the United States furnished $48,535,000, or 75.11 per cent. This is a condition of trade matters that ought to be satisfactory to the United States. It can hardly be said to be satisfactory to Canada, chiefly for the reason that while she purchased 62 1-2 per cent. of her total imports from the United States, the tariff of that country seems to have been arranged with the purpose of preventing the sale of any of her products in exchange. Her scale of duties upon the total imports from the United States is 11.52 per cent., and upon dutiable imports for consumption 24.13 per cent.; while the general rate of the United States upon total imports is 24 1-2 per cent., and upon dutiable imports 49 1-2 per cent.

"The action of the Canadian Government in advancing the differential rate to 33⅓ per cent. is probably a mistake. The step meets with the general disapproval of the Canadian manufacturers, and there is force in the Conservative objection that the action is purely sentimental, as the British tariff presents no features applicable to ourselves that do not apply to all other nations. It is not at all improbable that in the event of Conservative success at the general election, now but a few months distant, the entire system of preferential duties will be swept away, unless Great Britain should reciprocate by granting preferential treatment for Canadian products in her markets.

"In the meantime it is gradually dawning upon the Canadian mind that there is a more direct road to securing a remedy for the great disparity existing between the volume of exports to the United States and of imports from that country than preferential duties in favour of Great Britain. As the fact becomes known that while we buy $48,000,000 of manufactures from the United States, we are only permitted to sell $6,000,000 of our farm products in return, this query is naturally suggested: If the American tariff continues to bar our farm products from the markets of that country in exchange for the goods we buy, why not put our duties up to the American standard of 50 per cent., and commence feeding the operatives that produce the goods by securing the production of the latter in our own country? Upon the action of the United States will probably rest, in the near future, the form of answer to this question."

It is gratifying to find that it has "gradually dawned upon the mind" of Mr. Charlton that there is something in the Conservative policy of protection after all; and also to hear the admission from so prominent a Liberal quarter that our manufactures have "been developed under a moderate system of protection." Time indeed works wonders.

What gives Mr. Charlton's views just now more than ordinary significance, is the fact that he was one of the Joint High Commission appointed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to negotiate reciprocity with the United States—a negotiating party who failed to negotiate—and must be regarded as the one member of all others in the Liberal party considered by them an expert on such questions as he is discussing.

A NEW ELECTRIC LIGHTING CONTRACT.

Although the city's contract for its electric lighting does not expire till about 1903, the City Council, at its session on Monday, decided it would give public prominence to the question at once. The idea was not to put off the calling for tenders till the expiry of the present contract, as it was pointed out such a course would simply be to place the city once more at the mercy of the company now controlling this great civic franchise. When it is explained that the present company got the franchise, the last time it was given out, without tenders being called, it will be seen how wise is the decision of Council not to be caught napping a second time.

In discussing the city's electric lighting on Monday, Ald. Ames publicly said Montreal was paying far too much for its lighting, and that, at the very least, fifty thousand dollars a year should be saved when a new agreement was made. Considering prices paid in the United States, and in many places in Canada, the above estimate is a small one as to what the city should save. What a tremendous burden the lighting of this city is can be realized when it is stated that the total amount paid for it every year exceeds a tax of fifty cents on every man, woman and child in the city.

For years past it has been the privilege of the city to pay $120 a year for each arc light, while many other cities pay less than $70. A pamphlet recently published in the United States, giving the prices paid for electric lighting of American cities, will be very interesting to our civic fathers at the present time. The pamphlet first treats of the prices paid for arc lights of 2,000 candle power, and quotes the following prices as paid in certain cities: Anniston, Ala, $75; Charleston, Va., $72; Chillicothe, O., $65; Dover, N. H., $67; Fort Madison, Ia., $67.50; Janesville, Wis., $65; Kingston, N. Y., $85; Belleville, Ill., $75; Davenport, Ia., $56; Easton, Pa., $49.50.

Figures are now quoted to show what 2,000 candle power lamps cost when operated by municipalities instead of being given out by contract; and as will be seen, they are much below the $120 per lamp rate paid by Montreal. The figures are as follows: Aurora, Ill., $64.55; Bay City, Mich., $53.25; Batavia, N.Y., $66.22; Decatur, Ill., $48.40; Dunkirk, N.Y., $63.33, Newark, O., $48.54; and Rochelle, Ill., $55.22

With information such as the above there should not be much difficulty, on the part of Montreal aldermen, in placing the city's new electric contract at almost fifty per cent. less than what is being paid at present.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier announces that within three weeks he is going to Toronto to brand Sir Charles Tupper as "vile and despicable." Can this be the gentleman with the sunny smile and the silver tongue, whose strong point according to his many admirers is his amiability and Chesterfieldian manners? When the Premier takes to using cuss words about his political opponents, he must be smarting under the sense of impending defeat.

BACK FROM THE WAR

A Royal Welcome "When Johnny Canuck Came Marching Home."

YANKEE BLUEJACKETS IN IT.

Joined With the Militia of Montreal in the Parade—Ontario Boys Remained Over For the Fun.

Montreal extended an enthusiastic welcome last evening to her brave soldier heroes returned from the privations and hardships of the South African campaign. The Star bulletin boards had informed the citizens during the afternoon that the majority of the boys would arrive at 7.30 in the evening by the I. C. R. The Bonaventure station, consequently, was packed to overflowing long before the hour of seven. The train was nearly an hour late but it was a good humoured crowd that greeted the veterans on the arrival of the train at nearly nine o'clock. Bonaventure station was packed with many thousand people and a dense mass extended far up Windsor street. A great cheer went up as the first members of the contingent appeared. The band played the touching strains of "Home, Sweet, Home" and the faces of the gallant boys who had stood hunger, and heat, the bullets of the Boers and the suffering of the hospitals, brightened up as the sound waves of the grand old melody broke on their ears—home after war—peace after toil and weariness endured for Queen and Country.

SCENE AT THE STATION.

At the station an immense crowd had gathered even at half past seven o'clock, the hour at which the train was expected to arrive. The delay of one hour in the arrival of the train had the effect of swelling the throng until it was almost impossible to move. There must have been between 3000 and 4000 people on the platform. The north-west men, who had reached the city by the C. P. R. at half past six o'clock, were tossed and bounced by the crowd, until at last they had to seek shelter in a neighbouring hotel. Some of the boys say the crush was worse than the fight at Paardeberg, and that dodging the kisses was a more herculean task almost than keeping one's head out of the way of bullets. A few minutes before the train arrived a provisional battalion made up of detachments from the Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars, the 2nd Regt. Canadian Artillery, the 3rd Field Battery, the Prince of Wales Fusiliers, the Victoria Rifles, the 5th Royal Scots, the 65th Regiment, and the Highland Cadets marched up and took up a position on the station platform. Lieut.-Col. Roy, D. O. C., was also present, with a staff, consisting of Lieut.-Cols. Labelle and Whittley, Majors Carr and Barton, Captain Ibbotson and Lieutenants Morris and Whittley. The utmost credit is to be paid to the city's militia; the order for the parade was only issued at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and yet nearly a full company turned out from each corps.

THE TRAIN ARRIVES.

The train pulled in at half-past eight o'clock. As the men alighted, some were lifted shoulder high by their old comrades, some were seized upon by their relatives, and carried off home, and all were greeted with enthusiastic cheers. Relatives and friends swarmed round the returned soldiers, seized and embraced them, and one of those who had come home before, was seen to kiss an old comrade in times of peril. As soon as the soldiers could be collected together, at the head of the column of troops, Ald. McBride addressed them. He said that he was there as the representative of the Mayor, who was unavoidably absent. In the name of the city, in the name of the municipal council, he welcomed them back. The city was proud of them; the Dominion and the Empire were proud of them; but while he said that he did not forget their comrades whom they had left behind, laid in a soldier's grave, who had sacrificed their lives for their Queen and their country.

AT PLACE VIGER STATION.

The Manitoba and North-West boys reached Viger Station at half-past six o'clock, and were warmly greeted by a small crowd which had gathered in the expectation of seeing the Montreal lads. The former were at once transferred to the Stanley Hotel, where they will remain during their sojourn in town. They will probably leave for the West by the Imperial Limited to-morrow morning. The detachment numbered nine, and was made up of the following non-commissioned officers and men:

Sergt. A. W. McLeod, C.M.R., formerly of "B" Squadron, R.C.D., Winnipeg.

Sergt. Rowan Johnston, C.M.R., Brandon, Man.

Pte. A. C. Beech, R. C. R., Victoria, B.C.

Pte. P. Greaves, R. C. R., Vancouver, B. C.

Trooper T. Harley C. M. R., Calgary.

Trooper F. Groat, C. M. G., Edmonton, N.W.T.

Pte. H. J. Cowan, R. C. R., Portage La Prairie, Man.

Trooper J. W. Fuller, Strathcona Horse, Fort Steele, B.C.

Trooper C. Farmer, of Boston, who enlisted with Roberts' Horse in South Africa, also accompanied the western detachment. He leaves for his home this evening.

THE MONTREAL BOYS.

The Montreal boys, together with the soldier lads bound for Ontario points, arrived at the Bonaventure Station by the regular Intercolonial express at half-past eight o'clock. The local detachment consisted of the following non-commissioned officers and men:

Corporal G. Downey, "E" Company, R. C.R., formerly of the 5th Royal Scots.

Pte. W. Frawley, E. Company, R.C.R., formerly of the 3rd Victoria Rifles.

Pte. R. L. Fisher, "E" Company, R.C.R., formerly of the Prince of Wales Fusiliers.

Pte. H. Proulx, "E" Company, R.C.R., formerly of the 65th Regiment.

Pte. H. A. McDougall, "E" Company. R. C. R., formerly of the 5th Royal Scots.

Pte. A. J. Tulloch, of "E" Company, R. C.R., formerly of the 5th Royal Scots.

Corp. MacTaggart, of this city, who belonged to the Montreal Company of the first contingent, but who was not a member of any of the local corps prior to his departure for the front, formed one of the local detachment reaching Quebec on the Dominion. He did not wait, however, until all of the detachment had been paid off at the Citadel, but arrived in town on Monday evening. He was the only Montrealer, therefore, who did not come in by the Intercolonial last night.

THE ONTARIO LADS.

The Ontario lads who accompanied the Montrealers were:

Sergt. W. T. Smith, C.M.R., formerly of "A" Squadron, R.C.D., Stanley Barracks, Toronto.

Corp. M. Stewart, R.C.R., Toronto.

Corp. J. F. X. Berube, "D" Field Battery, R.C.A., Ottawa.

Corp. A. E. Ryerson, R.C.R., Toronto.

Pte. L. P. Bailey, R.C.R., Toronto.

Trooper L. Glover, C.M.R., Chatham, Ont.

Pte. H. Bolster, R.C.R., Cobourg.

Pte J. C. Perry, R.C.R., Galt.

Gunner J. F. Brewer, "D" Battery, Woodstock.

Pte. H. Donoghue, R.C.R., London, Ont.

Pte. A. W. Woodward, R.C.R., London, Ont.

Pte. H. A. Smith, R.C.R., Toronto.

Pte. A. H. Anderson, R.C.R., Toronto.

Pte. J. C. McNair, R.C.R., Belleville, Ont.

Pte. J. Smith, R.C.R., Barrie, Ont.

Trooper W. E. Molesley, 1st C.M.R., Brantford.

Gunner L. Elliott, "D" Battery, Owen Sound.

Pte. H. A. Benbow, R.C.R., Ottawa.

Gunner W. R. Cartledge, "D" Battery, R.C.A., Guelph, Ont.

Pte. F. H. Graham, R.C.R., Aurora, Ont.

Troper S. S. Hubbard, C.M.R., Owen Sound.

SAILORS OF THE HAWK.

A pleasing feature of the demonstration was the part taken by the members of the Naval Reserve of the State of Ohio, now in port on the training ship Hawk. The amateur sailors became acquainted with the returning Canadians at Quebec, and reaching port last evening, heard of the demonstration which was organized, and immediately resolved to join in it. Some twenty-five members of the crew, including the officers, joined the turnout and marched through the city streets just in the rear of the men from South Africa.

After the evening demonstration was over, the Victoria Rifles bugle corps escorted the Naval Reservemen to their vessel. Here Lieut.-Commander Wirt was called upon for a speech, and he responded, addressing the assemblage from the bridge. His speech was graceful and courteous and was received with rounds of applause.

THE STREET PARADE.

The parade through the streets was quite as successful in point of numbers and enthusiasm as that which greeted the last detachment of local heroes on their arrival in this city. The streets were lined with people, and it was difficult at times for the troops to preserve their formation of fours. At the station and along Windsor street, the pressure was so great that the troops in front had to halt until a space had been made whereby those at the rear could join them. At the corner of St. Catherine and Peel streets, and St. Catherine and St. Lawrence streets the crowds were thicker possibly than at any other point along the line of march, and considerable trouble was experienced in forcing a passage through the mob. At the head of the parade marched an unauthorized contingent of small boys, bearing a banner emblazoned with the words: "There never was a minute when Canada wasn't in it." They cleared the way for the Victoria Rifles band and the officers, among whom were Lt.-Col. Roy, D.O.C.; Lieutenant-Colonel Labelle, Lieutenant-Colonel Whitley, Lieut.-Col. Dixon, Major Prenette, Major Carson, Major Barton, Captain Ibbotson, Lieut. Morris, Lieut. Whitley, and others. Ald. McBride, who represented the Mayor, accompanied the militia officers.

GENTLEMEN IN KHAKI.

Behind the officers walked the "gentlemen in khaki," and these were followed by a detachment of 25 sailors from the U.S.S. Hawk, which is at present in port. Then followed the men of the local corps.

Some of the houses along the routes were decorated with flags, and great enthusiasm was elicited by the waving on St. Lawrence street of a large Union Jack and a red ensign. As soon as the South African soldiers were seen, there went up along the whole route a volley of cheers and hand-clappings, so that the entire march was a veritable triumphal procession.

IN THE DRILL SHED.

In the Drill Hall another great reception was experienced. All the galleries were packed with spectators, and handkerchiefs were waved, and cheers were given to welcome the soldiers home again. All the troops were at once marched into the armoury of the Prince of Wales Fusiliers, and were formed up, and Lieutenant-Colonel Roy, D.O.C., addressed them. He said that he had no wish to detain them for long. They were no doubt, anxious to get home and tell their friends of their experiences and adventures, but he must say a few words to tell how glad he was to see them back again. They had proved themselves worthy of the name of soldiers, much as that name implied, and he trusted that those who did not belong to Montreal would feel themselves at home during their stay in the city. If it had been possible, and longer notice had been given, some sort of entertainment would have been prepared for them. He was, he said, most grateful to the city corps for the large muster at so short a notice, and when his time came to leave Montreal he would be sorry.

Ald. McBride said that the whole city welcomed the returned soldiers. They had conferred honour upon Montreal, the Dominion, and the Empire. They had served with the best Imperial troops, and had stood the comparison well. He trusted he should soon see them everyone enjoying the best of health, and living long to wear their well-earned honours.

THE CITY'S HOSPITALITY.

The Toronto and Ontario boys had intended returning to their homes by last night's G.T.R. fast train, but Montreal hospitality proved a little bit too much for them, and they willingly consented to remain over until this morning. Telegrams were despatched to their relatives by their friends here notifying them of the change which had been made in the hour of their return.

The boys had a lot of good stories to tell, and they were consequently the centre of groups of interested auditors during the evening. Most of the stories were entertaining and humourous to a degree, especially those told by Pte. Beech, of British Columbia, who, although in his 27th year only, has seen much of the world, and has taken part in no less than five campaigns. He was all through the Metabele and Bechuanland wars; he formed one of the detachment of troops sent to the Yukon by the Canadian Government, a little over two years ago; he subsequently enlisted with the American army for the Spanish-American war, and on his return again went to the Yukon. In October of last year he joined the first contingent, and was with the British Columbia company at Paardeberg, where he was twice wounded, one of the bullets passing through his chest and the other through both of his legs. He was removed to the field hospital and placed on a stretcher in close proximity to that occupied by the late Capt. Arnold. His wounds were considered mortal and he was given up by the surgeons. Contrary to general expectations he recovered and was eventually invalided to England.

Pte. Beech tells some amusing stories of the way in which the marksmanship and the lassooing performances of the Strathconas confounded and bewildered the Boers.

BODY WAS EXHUMED.

Dennis Driscoll, Well Known Horseman, Died Under Suspicious Circumstances.

(Special to the Star.)

BROCKVILLE, September 26.—Dennis Driscoll, a well-known horseman, aged 35 years, died at Prescott on Saturday night. He had some differences with some parties over the races held there the day previous and the report was circulated that his death was caused from injuries received in the quarrel.

It appears the difficulty took place about noon, and he afterwards went to the Revere House, complained of illness, and went to bed. At 5 o'clock he was found dead in his room. An inquest was immediately held and a verdict of death from heart disease was rendered. The body was taken to Merrickville yesterday and interred about noon.

The friends of the dead man in Brockville and Merrickville were not satisfied with the finding of the coroner's jury, and on representation being made to the Crown Attorney at Brockville he ordered the body to be exhumed.

A post-mortem was held last night by four doctors. The result of the examination has been forwarded to the Crown Attorney, but he declines to state what action the Crown will take in the matter. It is reported that evidences of foul play were found, and it would not be surprising if some arrests were made. The case has created much interest in this section, as the parties connected with it are well known. Driscoll was a native of Merrickville, and at the time of his death was employed at Kemptville. He was unmarried. The body was interred again this morning.

WATERSPOUT AND TORNADO DID GREAT DAMAGE IN IOWA.

DESMOINES, Iowa, September 26.—Four people were killed and several others severely injured in a waterspout and tornado at Fergusin, Marshall county, last night. The station agent and the telegraph operator were badly hurt. The railway station was badly wrecked, several cars were blown from the tracks and more or less damaged, and many houses were destroyed. Wire connections with Ferguson are interrupted, and it was impossible to learn the names of all those killed and injured.

Several waterspouts and much wind and rain are reported from the vicinity of Reinfield and Madrid, where tracks are washed out in many places. Towns along the Great Western road also report hard wind and rain this side of Marshalltown. From all sections of this quarter of the State heavy property loss is reported, but no loss of life is known except at Ferguson.

DEATH OF PREMIER.

Mr. Justice Loranger, a Former Colleague, Makes a Feeling Reference to it.

WHO WILL BE THE PREMIER?

A Division Between the Friends of Mr. Roudoux and Mr. Archambault.

Flags are flying at half-mast to-day over the Court House, Provincial Government offices and other provincial buildings, out of respect to the memory of the late Hon. F. G. Marchand, Premier of Quebec.

At the opening of the Practice Division of the Superior Court—the only high court in session to-day—Mr. Justice Loranger, a former colleague of the late Premier in the Legislative Assembly, and Attorney-General in the Chapleau Administration, made the following statement from the Bench:

"We cannot proceed with the business of the day without alluding to the painful news of the death of the Prime Minister of the province, and but for the urgency of the cases now before this court, I would adjourn the sitting as a mark of respect to the distinguished dead. An enlightened legislator, a devoted patriot, an honest and conscientious politician, he spent over thirty years of his life in the service of his country, and he at all times won the respect and esteem of all. I express in the name of my colleagues, the share which we take in this public mourning, and to the family our profound sympathies are extended, and in this I also am the interpreter of the Bar."

WHO WILL BE THE PREMIER?

Lieut.-Governor Jette, who was in Montreal last evening, left for Quebec to-day With His Honour rests the task of selecting, at least officially, the new Premier, and it is expected that either Hon. J. E. Robidoux or Hon. Horace Archambault will be called to form a new Cabinet, which, according to the constitution, has been dissolved by the death of the Premier. The Liberals in Montreal seem to have split in two camps one favouring Mr. Robidoux, and the other Mr. Archambault. The friends of the former claim that the position belongs to him by right of seniority, being the only member of the Mercier administration now in office.

On the other hand, Mr. Archambault's friends state that he is the leading member of the Cabinet and that he has shown his qualifications for leadership by the way in which he has handled the department of the Attorney-General, which he has had in hand since May 26, 1897.

Mr. Robidoux, it is generally understood, had made up his mind to retire from politics some months ago, and would have been raised to the bench had the Senate not thrown out the bill providing for the appointment of three new judges in Montreal. It is not known whether he is still willing to remain in politics or whether he would act only temporarily as Premier until a judgeship was secured for him.

There has been some talk in Quebec of Mr. Parent becoming Premier, but the Montreal Liberals state that they insist upon the Premier being taken from this district.

The old story of Lieut.-Gov. Jette resigning his office and becoming Premier and Mr. Tarte replacing him at Spencerwood has been revived, but it is not thought probable.

IN THE RECORDER'S COURT.

At the opening of the Recorder's Court this morning Mr. Donat Brodeur, advocate, arose and proposed the adjournment of the court out of respect to the memory of the Hon. Mr. Marchand. Mr. P. J. Coyle added a few words to what had been said and Recorder Poirier replied. He said he fully agreed with the sentiment of the motion, and would like to grant it, but so many cases had been set for hearing to-day and so many witnesses would be on hand that he could not grant the request. He promised to adjourn on the morning of the funeral.

TRIBUTE TO LATE PREMIER.

His Death Will be a Severe Loss to the Liberal Party.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 26.—The Chronicle, commenting editorially upon the death of Hon Mr. Marchand, says: "Mr. Marchand was a very high type of legislator. He was personally above and beyond the breath of suspicion, and was so unquestionably honest as to be a conspicuous object among his political associates. He was, moreover, in every sense a cultured gentleman, whose intellectual and literary achievements ranked very high among the foremost men of his time. As one who had sat in the Legislature ever since Confederation, Mr. Marchand grasped the financial situation better than any other Liberal leader had been able to do. He may be truly said to have been the father of the Liberal party in Quebec province, for he came to its rescue at a time when it was disorganized and disorganized and gave it new life."

FLAGS AT HALF MAST.

Quebec Mourns the Death of Premier Marchand.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 26. — Hon. Mr. Robidoux and Hon. Mr. Guerin arrived by boat this morning, and only learned here of the death of Hon. Mr. Marchand. Hon. Mr. Archambault is expected with His Honour Lieut.-Governor Jette this afternoon. It may be definitely stated that no one will be entrusted with the task of forming a new Government until after the funeral of the late Premier. The time of the funeral itself will not be decided until the arrival in town of Hon. Senator Dandurand this afternoon. Flags fly at half mast from all public buildings, as well as from all private flag staffs. With the return of Hon. Mr. Archambault Hon. Mr. Stephens will be the only Minister not in town.

A STATE FUNERAL.

Body of the Late Premier Will be Interred at Quebec.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 26.—Several members of the late Marchand Government met this morning and tendered the family of the late Mr. Marchand the honour of a state funeral for the deceased Premier, which it is understood they have accepted. It is also understood that the interment will take place in Quebec and not in St. Johns as some expected.

Madame Marchand has declined an offer from the ex-Ministers to have the body lie in state at the Parliament buildings, and it will remain at the residence of Mr. Marchand's son-in-law, Dr. Simard.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER EXPRESSES REGRET.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 26.—Sir Charles Tupper, speaking of the death of Premier Marchand, to a representative of the Star this morning, said: "I regret exceedingly to hear this morning of the death of the Premier of the province, Hon. Mr. Marchand, and I can quite understand that it has been prematurely hastened by his devotion to public affairs. So far as I know and can learn the unfortunate event will be regretted by men of all classes and all parties."

DEATHS.

LEBEAU—Funeral on Thursday, the 27th, at 7.15 a.m., from his sister's, 127 Lusignan street, to St. Joseph's Church.

FULTON SENTENCED

To Five Years Incarceration in the Penitentiary at St. Vincent de Paul.

A PETITION FOR CLEMENCY.

The Accused Recited Some Facts Which He Considered in His Favour.

John Napier Fulton was this morning sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for having stolen twelve thousand dollars from Mrs. Thomas J. Coristine, while acting under a power of attorney for her.

When Mr. Justice Ouimet took his seat in the Court of Queen's Bench this morning Mr. Sicotte read the judgment of the Court of Appeal dismissing the motion for an arrest of judgment.

Mr. Cramkshaw appued for an order that his client be detained in the Montreal gaol for a couple of months before being taken to penitentiary as he was an insolvent and his creditors wished to be able to consult him conveniently.

The Crown opposed the motion and His Honour decided that Fulton might remain in the gaol for a few days pending the filing of affidavits proving special circumstances.

Fulton was then asked whether he had anything to say before sentence was passed.

He had a few words, simply reading disjointed notes from a memorandum. Had Mrs. Coristine been a witness at the trial he thought the result would have been somewhat different. He was arrested twelve months ago and had already been in gaol four months. On May 10th his home had been sold out by bailiffs' sale. He was fifty-five years of age and had a wife and child. He never speculated a dollar in his life and had never said what Coristine and Grose had sworn he had said about the proceeds of the gas shares.

He referred to Mrs. Coristine's evidence at the enquete, that she had never asked Fulton for a statement, and had frequently instructed him to do whatever he thought best. Had Mrs. Coristine seen him in Boston many things would have been explained.

Mr. Justice Ouimet listened patiently and then proceeded to pass sentence. The prisoner had been given a fair trial and had been cleverly defended. The court had no doubt that the verdict of the jury was in accordance with the facts, as it was clear that Fulton had received at least $30,000 of Mrs. Coristine's money. Agents must remember that when they are handling other people's money they must be prepared at any time to give an account of it. A good many people might be in a bad position if suddenly called upon to do so. The maximum penalty for Fulton's offence would be nine years in the penitentiary. His Honour had received a petition from prominent citizens attesting Fulton's previous good character and praying for clemency. Under the circumstances the court felt called upon to impose what might be called a severe sentence—five years in the penitentiary at St. Vincent de Paul.

After sentence was announced, Fulton simply said, "Will Your Honour please let me see the petition, when you have done with it?" and the document was handed to him in the dock. He carried it with him to peruse at his leisure.

HOW HE GOT A SIDEWALK.

Sub-Chief Dubois Makes an Explanation.

Sub-chief Dubois, explaining more fully this morning how it had came about that he had firemen, and corporation horses, take out old planks to Cartierville, to construct a sidewalk for him there, said: "The old planks belonged to the corporation and were taken up from the old bridge that formerly spanned Notre Dame street near the Dalhousie station. These planks were dumped near old No. 7 fire station and were not considered worth carting away. During their idle moments some of the firemen at No. 7 station knocked the nails out of the planks; and then, after working hours, a couple of firemen took the planks out to Cartierville for me. A corporation horse was loaned to cart the planks. There was no objection a horse doing this seeing that frequently animals got in a bad state of health from want of exercise. As I have said the firemen who laid the planks did the work when they were off duty and so I did not for a moment think I had done anything which could be considered wrong."

HOCHELAGA COUNTY FAIR.

A Large Attendance and Over 600 Exhibits.

The County of Hochelaga Agricultural Society's Annual Fall Exhibition was opened this morning with a large attendance and over 600 exhibits. THE VICTORIA SKATING CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Victoria Skating Club will be held at the rink this afternoon. The annual statement shows a net increase of about $1700 over the previous year. Four officers, including Mr. Edgar McDougall, the president, will retire this year, having served their terms, and according to the by-laws they cannot be re-elected. This means a new set of officers throughout.

THIEVES STOLE FLOWERS.

Mr. Pinoteau, who is in charge of Logan's Park, complained at the City Hall to-day, that thieves yesterday stole every plant from the public square on the corner of Amherst and Ontario streets. Not content with carting away the plants a big quantity of earth was also taken away from the square. The police are to look into the matter.

IMPROVEMENT ON THE C. P. R.

A new line from Agincourt to Claremont, a distance of some eighteen miles, is about to be built by the Canadian Pacific Railway. This is one of the several proposed improvements in the main line between this city and Toronto, and its construction will overcome a considerable grade on the present line near Markham.

THE GOLF MATCHES.

Canadian Championship Begun To-day.

THE WEATHER WAS WARM AND SHOWERY ON THE DIXIE LINKS TO-DAY.

Special Staff Correspondence.)

DIXIE, Sept. 26.—The initial contests of the matches for the championships of the Royal Canadian Golf Association were commenced this morning on the links of the Royal Montreal Golf Club. After the vast gallery which was present at both of yesterday's matches in which Vardon participated, the links looked unusually quiet. There was no gallery and the players were the only persons on the links, save a few, a very few, members who sat on the clubhouse verandah. The weather was rather warm and the players were not treated to such a comfortable day as they had for the Vardon exhibitions on the previous day. Then a slight shower fell and threatened to make matters more uncomfortable. However, the rain soon cleared and left the players unhindered.

There are eighteen players in the first round so it was found necessary to have a preliminary round in addition to the first round. The players drawn in this preliminary were: Messrs. H. Budden and Fayette Brown, Royal Montreal Golf Club, and Messrs. K. R. Macpherson, Royal Montreal Golf Club, and Mr. A. Z. Palmer, Ottawa Golf Club. These two matches played this morning and in addition there was one in the afternoon round. The Metropolitan Club's contingent arrived on the early train and consisted of Rev. J. R. Dobson, Messrs. A. Purcell and A. L. Bonin. All of the Toronto contingent were about early. This consisted of Messrs. G. S. Lyon, Vere Brown, Rosedale, and D. Baxter, Rosedale. Messrs. Bonin and Purcell were paired and played their game this morning. None of the other players turned out for their matches and the remainder of the first round will be played this afternoon. In the draw Messrs. Lyon and Percy Taylor have come together which is to be regretted. Under ordinary circumstances both of these players would be in the final and now one or the other must be out after this afternoon's play.

The results of this morning's play follow:

H. Budden, Royal Montreal Golf Club, vs. Fayette Brown, Royal Montreal Golf Club. Won by Mr. Brown one up.

K. R. Macpherson, Royal Montreal Golf Club, vs. A. Z. Palmer, Ottawa Golf Club. Won by Mr. Macpherson three up and four to play.

Mr. A. Purcell, Metropolitan Golf Club, vs. Mr. A. L. Bonin, Mertopolitan Golf Club, won by Mr. Bonin four up and three to play.

THE CASE POSTPONED

And Mr. M. Davis Arrested on Another Charge—Gave Bail to Appear.

Mr. Moses Davis appeared in the police court this morning in company with his attorney, Mr. R. A. E. Greenshields. Mr. Greenshields asked that the case should be postponed for eight days, and this was agreed to.

A short time afterwards another warrant was sworn out by Messrs. Bastien, Cousineau and Bergeron, charging Mr. Davis with obtaining the sum of $301 from Mr. J. Bockstael, the cigar importer. Mr. Bockstael alleges that Mr. Davis manipulated a deal in the customs department, which resulted in him handing over to the defendant the sum mentioned for the purpose of paying duty on a consignment of goods. When the suspension of business of the defendant was announced he found that the money had not been paid over.

Mr. Davis appeared before Judge Choquet, and gave bail to be present when called on.

THE FLOOD LIBEL CASE.

The editors of the two Maritime Province papers which contained the story relative to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Flood, steward and stewardess of the SS. Ramore Head, have been in telegraphic communication with Mr. R. A. E. Greenshields. As a result it is probable that the issue of the warants will remain in abeyance pending a likely amicable settlement of the case.

HANG ON.

Coffee Topers as Bad as Others.

"A friend of our family who lived with us a short time was a great coffee drinker and a continual sufferer with dyspepsia. He admitted that coffee disagreed with him, but you know how the coffee drinker will hold on to his coffee, even if he knows it causes dyspepsia.

"One day he said to me that Postum Food Coffee had been recommended and suggested that he would like very much to try it. I secured a package and made it strictly according to directions. He was delighted with the new beverage, as was every one of our family. He became very fond of it and in a short time his dyspepsia disappeared. He continued using the Postum and in about three months gained twelve pounds. "My husband is a practising physician and regards Postum as the healthiest of all beverages. He never drinks coffee, but is very fond of Postum. In fact, all of our family are, and we never think of drinking coffee any more." Mrs. Mary E. Brown, Waterford, Va. 227 1

WALTER HERBERT AGAIN CONFESSES TO THE MURDER

Of Joseph Sifton—Gerald Sifton, Murdered Man's Son, Declares His Innocence.

SENSATIONAL TURN TO THE TRIAL OF TWO LONDON, ONT., YOUNG MEN.

(Special to the Star.)

LONDON, Ont., September 26.—A sensation was caused in the Assize Court here this morning, when Walter Herbert, charged with being an accomplice of Gerald Sifton in the murder of Joseph Sifton, the latter's father, pleaded guilty to the actual killing.

Both prisoners had been brought before His Lordship for trial, and Herbert was to be defended by Mr. Meredith, who was as greatly surprised as was the court at the young man's admission of guilt.

Gerald Sifton, in a clear, strong voice, declared that he was innocent a few minutes before Herbert gave his answer to the court clerk.

His Lordship asked if Herbert's counsel was in the room, and upon Mr. Meredith arising, the court stated that he did not think the young man was aware of the seriousness of his position. His counsel replied that as his client had once before made a confession, and now seemed determined to stick to it, he (the counsel) had nothing more to say.

The court then turned to the Crown Prosecutor, and asked if he was prepared to move for sentence. Mr. Lount replied that he was not.

Sifton's counsel moved for an adjournment of the trial, which was granted. His Lordship, before remanding the prisoner, added that he believed that an adequate defence should be provided for Herbert.

Both prisoners were then taken back to gaol.

SIR CHARLES AT QUEBEC.

Expresses Himself as Pleased With the Prospects There and Elsewhere.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 26. — Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Adolphe Caron and Hon. T. Chase Casgrain are at the Chateau Frontenac to-day.

Sir Charles is here for the purpose of conferring with his friends concerning the situation in this district, and is receiving them, in his private room. His callers are extremely numerous.

Sir Charles Tupper received the Star representative very kindly and stated that he was extremely pleased with the prospects here, and would be back at no distant date.

Continuing, Sir Charles said that since his return from England he had been in every province in the Dominion, and he was in a position to state that never before had he seen the Conservatives so enthusiastic or so united, or Liberals so lethargic. He had not the slightest doubt of victory in the approaching elections and knew that the feeling was the same from ocean to ocean. In Ontario he had never seen such wild enthusiasm as during the last few weeks. Himself, Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, have been everywhere acclaimed and their only difficulty was to find buildings large ehough to hold the crowds, the consequence being that they had been regretfully obliged to address many meetings in the open air. Hon. Hugh John Macdonald's speech at Stratford, Saturday, he considered equal to his father's best efforts, while he had never known a Canadian public man to meet with such a magnificent reception.

HUGH JOHN IN WINNIPEG.

He is Confident That Ontario Will Give a Conservative Majority.

(Special to the Star.)

WINNIPEG, September 26. — Premier Macdonald returned to-day from his eastern tour. He expressed great satisfaction with the result of his trip, during which he delivered one or more addresses every day. He is confident that Ontario will return a large majority for the Conservative party, and says he never saw the prospects so bright nor a better organization than that of the Conservatives. He will name his successor at a Government caucus to-day, after which he will go at once to Brandon constituency.

MR. QUINN'S ELOQUENCE.

(Mail and Empire.)

The Ontario audiences which have had the privilege during the recent tour of listening to Mr. M. J. Quinn, Q.C., the member for St. Anne's division of Montreal, have been delighted with the speeches of this eminent Parliamentarian. It was a pleasure to receive a personal message from the great province of Quebec, and an equal pleasure to return to Quebec expressions of fraternity and esteem. Particularly pleasing was it on all hands to exchange views through Mr. Quinn. A speaker of splendid presence, blessed with a singularly musical voice, rich in argument and eloquent in the best sense of the term, Mr. Quinn occupies a notable place on the public platform. A visit such as that which Mr. Quinn has made does great good. It adds to Ontario's respect for our fellow-citizens to the east of us, and makes for union and good feeling throughout Canada.

A by-law for the raising of $23,000 for the erection of a new City Hall was passed in Hull on Tuesday. Property owners were to vote on the by-law, and as no opposition was offered it was declared carried.

ANXIETY IN ENGLAND

About the Result of Lorne Currie's Challenge For Seawanhaka Challenge Cup.

DID NOT KNOW OF ACCEPTANCE

For That Was Cabled to Havre, France, Where Mr. Currie Is at the Present Time.

(See also page seven.)

The following cablegram received from the Star's special cable correspondent in London show the interest taken there in the future yacht race between Great Britain and Canada. When the cable was sent to the Star, it was not known in London that the challenge had been accepted, because the acceptance of the challenge was cabled by Mr. J. J. Riley, the secretary of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club to Havre, where Mr. Currie is at present.

(Special by cable from the special correspondent of the Star in London.)

LONDON, September 26.—Lorne Campbell Currie, through the Island Sailing Club, of Cowes, awaits anxiously the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club's formal acceptance of his Seawanhaka Cup challenge. General fears are expressed that the challenge of the White Star Yacht Club and the rumoured challenge of the Bridgeport Yacht Club will serve to postpone that match between Canadian-British boats which Mr. Currie desires. The Island Yacht Club including some of the keenest and most experienced British yachtsmen, enthusiastically support Mr. Currie in his challenge. One well known Solent yachtsman expressed his readiness even now to assist Mr. Currie by building another boat so that the challenger may have the choice of boats.

THE COLD STORAGE CASE.

Counsel Grows Warm Over a Misunderstanding as to the Date of the Hearing.

The enquete into the affairs of the Montreal Cold Storage Company, at the instance of the Merchants' Bank of Halifax, which was expected to be resumed this morning, was not proceeded with. Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick, representing Mr. J. G. Snetsinger, M.P., one of the shareholders of the company, and Mr. R. C. Smith, Q.C., were in attendance, and it was expected that Mr. Pease, manager of the bank, would be heard.

Mr. Percy C. Ryan, of the firm of McGibbon, Casgrain, Ryan & Mitchell, counsel for the bank, explained that Mr. Pease had gone down to the Court-house yesterday, accompanied by counsel, prepared to give evidence, but counsel on the other side not being present he had gone away. Mr. Ryan adds that his firm did not attend this morning, not through any lack of courtesy, but because they had not agreed that Mr. Pease was to be examined this morning.

Counsel will have to agree on a date on which Mr. Pease will be examined, as Mr. Fitzpatrick obtained an order some time ago for his examination previous to the bank beginning the enquete.

Mr. Chisholm, it is expected, will again be called to the witness stand.

CITY HAS LESS REVENUE.

The fact that the city will have some sixty-five thousand dollars less to spend next year is creating some uneasiness among the aldermen. In 1899 the revenue was some fifty thousand dollars less than what it was in 1898; and, as the custom is to appropriate the revenue of two years back, it will mean there will be a decrease, in the revenue of 1899 (which is available for 1901) of at least fifty thousand dollars. Added on to this decrease has to be added, in 1901 some fifteen thousand increase in interest charges, meaning a total decrease in revenue, over that was was available last year, of some sixty-five thousand dollars.

When it is considered that this year the city has scarcely had money to keep the streets cleaned and watered the outlook for the streets, next year, is considered to be very blue. What the various civic committees have to face is more economy, in wages, etc., so as to make up the deficit.

MR. JOHN RAFTER FINED.

Mr. John Rafter, real estate and financial broker, St. James street, was fined $20 and costs, or two months' imprisonment, by Recorder Poirier this morning for not having paid the real estate tax according to the city by-laws. He pleaded that he had not done any business in real estate for a year and a half, and was, therefore, not liable to punishment. His Honour replied that the license was not to be looked upon as a percentage upon the amount of business done, but, instead, was a tax upon the profession and there could be no doubt judging by the evidence that Mr. Rafter was a real estate agent.

The rain is said to be causing some damage in the Rainy River district. The water has risen to such an extent that the wharves are inundated, and the wood piled thereon is being carried off.

UP GO COAL PRICES.

Domestic Sizes of Bait Coal Again Advanced One Dollar a Ton.

MAY BE A COAL FAMINE.

Montreal Gets Its Supply by Boat and the Supply Is Short at Present.

Domestic sizes of hard coal have been advanced to $7 per ton throughout the city, and if the strike in the anthracite regions of Pennsylvania should last very much longer the price is bound to go still higher. A month ago stove and chestnut coal was selling throughout the city at $5.75 per ton. A matter of a week or ten days ago there was an advance of twenty-five cents per ton by the retailers, and now there is another advance of a clear dollar per ton.

The wholesale men in Montreal have issued a circular, stating that owing to the scarcity of hard coal, and the fact that they are unable to supply the demand, they are obliged to advance their price a dollar a ton.

There seems to be little chance for a letup in the price, even if the strike was declared off, and the miners returned to work almost immediately. There is practically no surplus at the mines or in store at such points as Perth Amboy, and as a consequence the mines if they should start within a week's time would be so rushed with orders that it would be impossible to catch up before the winter was well nigh spent.

Another feature of Montreal's position is the fact that a great share of the coal comes here in barges, and after the fifteenth of November it is hardly likely that any great amount of coal can be landed. The consequence is that the wholesalers have just about six weeks to complete their winter stocks or else get it in by rail. This would mean more money for transportation.

A prominent coal man stated this morning that he doubted if there was thirty thousand tons of hard coal in stock in the city to-day, in fact he felt quite positive that the amount would not reach anything like this figure. This is thousands of tons short of the usual amount, and should the strike prove a protracted affair there will be real suffering and inconvenience before the winter is over.

A strike among anthracite coal miners has always proved an unknown quantity, and the tide of fortune often turns in the most unexpected manner. The calling out of the militia instead of having the effect of inducing the men to go back to work, has had directly the opposite effect, and to-day the men are in a better position to gain ultimate victory than they have been since they went out.

Throughout the United States and Canada there is a clamour among all classes for arbitration between the contesting forces. This the men are willing to accept but the operators have so far held out, owing to the fact that arbitrating under the present conditions would mean the recognition of the United Mine Workers Union. For years the mine owners in the anthracite region have steadily adhered to the policy of never recognizing any union, and if they should be brought down to it, what the condition would be unique in the history of the country.

BRINGING COAL BY RAIL.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is about to make the experiment of hauling Nova Scotia coal from St. John, N.B., to Montreal, and the west, over its short line between this city and the New Brunswick port. The present high price of coal affords a tempting prospect for the profitable sale of the Nova Scotia product, and the C.P.R. will see what there is to be made out of it.

A contract has just been made by the railway company with the Springhill, N.S., mines for the immediate delivery of 80,000 tons of coal at St. John. The coal will be carried from Springhill to St. John in barges, and will then be brought to Montreal over the C.P.R. line. The cost of the latter transportation will be very small, in view of the fact that the freight cars which are used to carry winter freight from Montreal to St. John will be utilized on the return journey to carry the coal westward.

Heretofore these freight cars have come back from St. John empty, there being practically no return freight from that port to Montreal. By their present project the C.P.R. will have at once solved the important problem of return freight from the east and may accomplish a considerable development of the Nova Scotia coal fields.

DEATH OF MR. D. O'BRIEN.

Death notices were received here to-day announcing the death in Mexico of Mr. Douglas C. O'Brien, a son by a first marriage of Mrs. Wurtele, wife of Mr. Justice Wurtele. The Judge and Mrs. Wurtele and their daughter, Miss Estelle O'Brien, are at present in Europe, and the news of his death will be received with deep regret.

The late Mr. O'Brien had for some years past been engaged in a very profitable hardware business with his brother in Mexico, and Mr. Ansell, the Mexican Consul, says he was highly esteemed. He was a native of Montreal, and had visited the city two years ago, becoming a general favourite with all who met him. He was middle aged, unmarried. The cause of his death is not stated. The funeral took place at the English Roman Catholic Church in Mexico.

CORN ADVANCED SHARPLY WHEAT REMAINED FIRM.

(From the Star's Special Correspondent on the Chicago Board of Trade.)

CHICAGO, September 26. — An effort to cover short Sept. corn resulted in a very sharp advance in that option. As there was scarcely anything for sale Patten was reported an open buyer of October. The small local stocks of corn made the load of cash stuff on the market very light, and consequently as that to-day are therefore comparatively easy. There was some pressure of long wheat at the opening, resulting in lower prices, but the news situation was favourable for the bulls. Liverpool was relatively firm, closing ½d lower after our very sharp break of yesterday, and 700,000 cash wheat was reported worked here yesterday. There were also further rains in the North-West, though somewhat scattered. Local bulls made a determined effort to rally the market, and were successful, forcing some covering of shorts. The buying appeared to be nearly all for the local trade, and offerings of long wheat increased somewhat at the advance, but there was enough bullish feeling to keep prices strong during most of the session. The movement to primary markets compared favourably with last year.

MONTREAL MINING EXCHANGE.

The mining market was dull again this morning, there being just a trifle upward of ten thousand shares traded in.

Payne sold at 94, Montreal and London at 10½ and 11, and Virtue at 60.

The sales were as follows:

Virtue—1,000 at 60, 500 at 60.

Payne—1,000 at 94.

Montreal-London—1,000 at 11, 4,000 at 10½, 200 at 10½.

VERY FLAT MARKET.

No Change in Sentiment Regarding Stocks Was Observable To-day.

TRADING CONTINUES NARROW.

In Consequence There Were No Notable Changes in Prices.

There was no change in the sentiment regarding stocks this morning, and the dullness was unbroken. The London market for Canadian Pacific recovered ⅛ to 89½, and the local market improved to the same extent. Yesterday the market closed at 86⅝, but opened at 86¾ and advanced at the close to 87, so that the net gain is ⅛, the same as in London. Toronto Rails were down a half to 100½. In the mines Payne recovered one point to 95, Virtue dropped one to 61, Republic was unchanged at 74, and War Eagle was flat at $1.50.

The depression in Wall street is said to be a depressing factor with the local market, and until there is some change there it is considered that little may be hoped for locally until there is a change for the better.

Messrs. L. J. Forget and Co.'s London cable to-day quoted: Grand Trunk first, 85; second, 55; third, 23½; Canadian Pacific, 89½; Hudson Bay, 22; Anaconda, 8⅝.

London closing: Consols for money, 96⅛; do. for the account, 96 5-16; Atchison, 27¼; Canadian Pacific, 89½; St. Paul, 115¼; Illinois Central, 118; Louisville, 72; U. P., pref., 75¾; N.Y.C., 121; Erie, 11; Penn., 64½; Reading, 17⅝; Erie first pref., 33⅝; N.P., pref., 70¾; Grand Trunk, 6⅝; Anaconda, 8⅝; Rand mines, 4⅜. Bar silver uncertain, 29d per ounce. Money, 3 to 3½ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3 15-16 to 4 per cent.; do. three months' bills, 4 per cent.

The special correspondent of the Star in Wall street wires regarding that market as follows:

The stock market opened quiet, but generally at slight advances from yesterday's final level. Covering of shorts, which was a feature of yesterday's dealings, was resumed, and was again apparently induced by absence of any considerable liquidation or pressure of any kind upon the market. There was very little change in actual outside conditions. Reports from the coal region indicated more threatening conditions but neither the general stock market nor any shares particularly concerned was materially affected in consequence. The London market for Americans was shown at slight advances. Strong features were Sugar, Tennessee Coal and Iron, and People's Gas. Among the specialties and in the railway list, St. Paul, Union Pacific and Chesapeake, and Chicago and Manhattan advanced sharply, and Brooklyn Rapid Transit was in fair request.

PARIS, September 26. — Three per cent. rentes, 99 francs, 97½ centimes for the account. Exchange on London, 25 francs, 14¼ centimes for cheques. Spanish fours closed at 72.45.

BERLIN, September 26. — Exchange on London, 20 marks; 46¼ pfgs. for cheques. Discount rates: Short bills, 3½ per cent.; three months' bills, 4½ per cent.

PREMIER MARCHAND PASSES QUIETLY AWAY.

The End Which Came at Seven O'clock Last Evening in the Presence of Relatives Was Painless and Peaceful.

A Sketch of His Long and Honourable Career—Hon. Mr. Robidoux Will in All Probability Be Quebec's Next Premier.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 26.—Hon. F.G. Marchand died at 7 o'clock last night and the Government of which he was the head and leader died with him.

During the afternoon a fainting fit took possession of the enfeebled frame of the dying premier and all hope of his recovery was quickly abandoned. He soon lost consciousness and quietly passed away into his last long sleep so quietly and so gradually, in fact, that it was almost impossible to say exactly when life became extinct.

All the members of his family were at his bedside. The news quickly spread throughout the city, and though the sad event was far from unexpected it is deeply mourned by all classes of society in the Ancient Capital for here, where he has lived not only since his accession to the premiership, but also during every session of the Legislature since Confederation, Mr. Marchand was known to the entire population.

Two of his daughters are also married in Quebec, one to Dr. Simard, another to Gustave Grenier, clerk of the executive council. Final arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made. It is understood, however, that it will be a state funeral and that the interment will take place at St. Johns. The deceased is the only Premier of Quebec who has died in office.

Flags are at half mast on the Parliament House and other public buildings.

Honourable Felix Gabriel Marchand was one of the most distinguished sons of this province, and in him the people of Quebec had a Premier well worthy of the honour conferred upon him. He was a gentleman in the broadest meaning of the word, and this fact is testified by the innumerable honours that were showered upon him as a literary man, as well as a politician.

Many noticed the little violet button which he wore on the lapel of his coat. It was the distinguishing mark of the "Officer of Public Instruction" of France, which title was conferred upon Mr. Marchand by that society in 1881. The honourable gentleman was also a member of the Royal Society of Canada, the "Canadian Academy," as it is called.

He was elected a Fellow of this Society in 1882; became President of the French section in 1884; Vice-President of the Society in 1896 and President in 1897. As such he presided at the annual gathering held at Halifax.

Mr. Marchand contributed to the world of letters several widely circulated literary works, both poetical and dramatic, and his efforts in that direction had met with the greatest success, receiving praise from far and near. His best known works are "Lauréat de l'Universite," a comic opera; "Un bonheur, en attire un autre," "Erreur n'est pas compte," "Les Faux Brillants," "Fatenaille," and others. These works were very well received even in France, and entitled him to the title above alluded to.

CAREER AS A JOURNALIST.

He had a wide experience as a newspaper man, having edited for some time the newspaper Le Temps, the Liberal daily organ published in Montreal in 1883. He also founded and was for several years editor of Le Franco-Canadien, now called Le Canada Francais, at St. Johns. He had several other titles besides that of honourable. He had the title of "Doctor of Letters" conferred upon him by the Laval University in 1891, but that of which he was the proudest was his title of Lieutenant-Colonel. He won his spurs in active service, and loved to recall the incidents connected with his several years' command of the 21st Richelieu Light Infantry, a regiment now disbanded. This regiment rendered valuable service during the Fenian raid, and the young officer won an honourable special mention for his bravery. Lieut.-Col. Marchand commanded the brigade which moved to the front at the time of the engagement at Eccles Hill, in November, 1870, and his men made a splendid record for themselves. He retired retaining rank in 1880.

Hon. Mr. Marchand's father, the late Gabriel Marchand, was an old Quebecer, but in 1832 he settled in St. Johns, being one of the most prominent citizens of that town. The subject of this sketch was born at St. Johns on the 9th of January, 1832, in a quaint old house, which still exists on St. Thomas street.

SUCCESS IN COLLEGE.

As a young man he entered the St. Hyacinthe College and went through a course with high honours. At 23 he was admitted to practice as a notary and soon made his mark in that profession. In September, 1854, he married Miss Marie Herselie Turgeon, and is the father of eleven children. One of his daughters, Mme. Raoul Dandurand, has made a place for herself in the literary world.

Mr. Marchand was of English descent on his mother's side, and that accounts for his fluent use of that language. His mother was the daughter of the late John McNider, of Quebec.

The deceased had a remarkable political career. For thirty years he represented the old county of St. Johns in the Local Legislature. He was first elected at the general election of 1867, and for the next twenty-four years, until 1890, he was returned at each general election without opposition. In 1890 he had an opponent, but he was elected. He was appointed Provincial Secretary and member of the Executive Council in March, 1878. One year afterwards he was appointed Commissioner of Crown Lands, and this office he held until the fall of the Joly Government in 1879. He was elected Speaker of the Legislative Assembly in January, 1887, and re-elected in 1890. On the fall of the Liberal party in 1891 he was called upon to take the leadership of the somewhat shattered forces. He did so without hesitation, and succeeded in re-organizing the party.

As a result of the elections of May 11, 1897, which brought the Liberals into power, Mr. Marchand became Premier of the province.

RESIDED AT ST. JOHNS.

Mr. Marchand resided at St. Johns for over forty years practising his profession as a notary, in which profession he occupied a leading position, having been honoured some years since by being elected President of the Board of Notaries. At an early age he drifted into politics and at Confederation was elected to the Legislative Assembly and continued to occupy that seat for more than thirty-three years without interruption. It is only a couple of years since that Mr. Bourassa, who represented the same county for over forty years in the Canadian Assembly and House of Commons, passed away to the great majority. While Mr. Bourbassa was the doyen at Ottawa, Mr. Marchand filled a similar position at Quebec. As an evidence of the high esteem in which Mr. Marchand was held it will suffice to say that he was returned for his native county on nine different occasions. Mr. Marchand had no enemies in his private or public life, a fact which very few public men can boast of. Though a staunch Liberal throughout his career he was a moderate, conciliating man and no French-Canadian in the Provincial political arena was held in higher esteem by the English-speaking Protestant population of this Province. When the Liberal party needed to be defended before an English-speaking Protestant population in this Province an effort was always made to secure his presence and he was always certain of a respectful hearing. It was in the Eastern Townships, especially in the counties of his own district, that he had the largest number of friends and admirers among all classes and creeds. After the crushing defeat of the Liberal party following the downfall of the Mercier Administration and the subsequent withdrawal from further public life of the late Hon. Honore Mercier, the selection of Mr. Marchand as his successor was the only rational step which could be taken. Following a stormy period in which the atmosphere was loaded with scandals and charges of scandals and public men seemed to have nothing but charges to hurl at each other, it was a relief to the people at large all the advent of Mr. Marchand who throughout his entire career had earned and deserved the proud distinction of being "an honest man." Mr. Marchand had not the brilliant parts and magnetism of his dashing predecessor in the Provincial leadership, but he was deemed a safe man and it was as such that he led his party back to power. Though by no means eloquent and making no pretence of being an orator, Mr. Marchand was a pleasant and correct speaker who invariably scored the point which he had in view and his English was as pure as his French. His task when assuming the leadership of his party in Opposition was by no means an enviable one and this position was hardly improved when he became Premier, but there is no opponent of the dead Premier but will admit readily that he meant well, that he was sincere in his efforts to improve the standing of his Province whose interests he really had at heart. When the heat of party strife shall have passed away it will be realized that he was one of the best public servants which this Province has had. The English-speaking Protestant population, especially those who were in a position to know him intimately will gladly declare that he was a true friend of justice and fair play and that none did more than he to bring about a bonne entente among the various nationalities in this Province. No fair request of the English people was ever overlooked by him.

DEVOTED TO LITERATURE.

If the Liberal party feel that they have sustained a loss in the death of Mr. Marchand, his death will also be keenly felt in the ranks of litterateurs, for he was a devotee of literature in all its forms. In the midst of his political engagements he was never too busy to talk about literary questions, and many a struggling novice in prose and poetry will think kindly of him and remember the encouragement which he gave him. He was a man possessed of a great store of native wit, and several of his bons mots have become every day sayings at Quebec, more especially, where they had the greatest success. There was nothing which he enjoyed so much as cracking a good joke and he had an apparently unconquerable penchant for the pun. In every movement which tended to further the interest of literature in this province Mr. Marchand was ever ready to extend a helping hand, and it seemed as if he went into this kind of work with even greater pleasure than that of the political arena. In the work of building up the history of the province, saving interesting mementos or putting up monuments to those who had figured prominently in it, Mr. Marchand was always to the fore.

On the occasion of the inauguration of th monument to Samuel de Champlain at Quebec two years ago, the Premier received the decoration of the Legion of Honour of France through the Consul-General.

The late Premier's eldest son is Mr. Gabriel Marchand, a practising advocate at St. Johns, Que., and publisher of "Le Canada Francais." As stated above one of his daughters is Madame Dandurand, chief Lady Commissioner at the Paris Exhibition and a well known writer. Another is the wife of Mr. Gustave Grenier, the clerk of the Executive Council of this province, and still another is the wife of Dr. Simard, of Quebec, a leading practitioner.

A COINCIDENCE.

Rev. Father Garceau, of the Society of Jesus, who administered the last sacraments to Hon. Mr. Marchand, also attended the late Hon. Honore Mercier on his death bed.

Hon. Mr. Duffy has been acting treasurer since the illness of Mr. Marchand became serious.

THE LATE HONOURABLE FELIX MARCHAND.

THE LATE PREMIER'S CABINET.

On the formation of the Marchand Cabinet, May 26, 1897, it was composed as follows:

Hon. F. G. Marchand, Premier and Treasurer.
Hon. J. E. Robidoux, Provincial Secretary.
Hon. Horace Archambault, Attorney-General.
Hon. S. N. Parent, Lands, Forests and Fisheries.
Hon. F. G. M. Dechene, Agriculture.
Hon. A. Turgeon, Colonization and Mines.
Hon. H. T. Duffy, Public Works.
Hon. J. Shehyn, Hon. G. W. Stephens and Hon. J. J. Guerin, without portfolio, making in all ten Ministers.

Hon. Mr. Shehyn was raised to the Senate and not replaced and the death of Mr. Marchand reduces the Cabinet to eight members.

QUEBEC'S NEW Ppremier.

Hon. J. E. Robidoux Will Probably be Called Upon to Form a Ministry.

QUEBEC, September 26.— Lieutenant-Governor Jette has made no move so far in the matter of selecting a successor to the late Premier Marchand, and has given no indication of what his first step will be. His Honour was notified last night of the Premier's death by telephone immediately after it had occurred, by Mr. Gus Grenier, Clerk of the Executive Council, acting also on behalf of the family of the deceased, being himself a son-in-law.

Following the custom usual in such cases, the late colleague of the deceased Premier, notwithstanding that their tenure of office as Ministers was terminated by the death of their leader, will remain in charge of their respective departments until the appointment of their successors, in order that there may be no interruption of public business and that Her Majesty's Government may be continued.

The reconstruction is not expected to be difficult, and it is thought the personnel of the new Government will not differ much from that of the moribund one. The new Premier is likely to be the Hon. J. E. Robidoux, late Provincial Secretary. Quebeckers would much like to see Mayor Parent selected, but have now generally realized that the office will go to Montreal. Late Attorney-General Archambault has been prominently mentioned in connection with the Premiership and may be offered it. It is understood, however, in well informed circles, that if sent for by the Lieut.-Governor, Mr. Archambault will decline the task of forming an administration, and will advise Mr. Jette to send for Mr. Robidoux instead. This is because Mr. Archambault prefers his present office of President of the Legislative Council and would like no doubt to retain the Attorney-Generalship as well. He is fond of the social entertainment that he offers here in his apartments as Speaker of the Council and has no desire to retire from the Council and contest a seat for the Assembly, as he would feel that he should do if he accepted the Premiership.

Liberal leaders here attach importance to the fact that Mr. Robidoux is a professor of McGill University, and think that this should render him more acceptable to English-speaking people. It is doubtful if, like Mr. Marchand, he would be willing to accept the office of Treasurer as well as that of Premier. The prevailing impression is that he will remain Premier and Provincial Secretary, and call upon Mr. Duffy to take charge of the Finances. That would leave a vacancy in the Public Works Department, and as a new Minister will have to be sworn, a scramble for the position will doubtless follow. A leading Liberal, who ought to know, tells me that Mr. Gouin has the best chance of selection. The other Ministers, Messrs. Parent, Turgeon, Archambault and Dechene will doubtless be asked to resume their old portfolios. The opinion is growing here that the new Government is likely to ask for a dissolution and an immediate appeal to the electorate, believing it unwise to risk the chance of having to face the province next year after a probable Conservative victory in the Federal elections.

MUST WEAR HATS WHILE ATTENDING MASS.

A New York State Parish Priest Lectures the Ladies of His Congregation.

NEWBURG, N.Y., September 26.— Women parishioners of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, in Fishkill, who have been in the habit of attending mass without their hats received a vigorous reproof from their pastor, the Rev. J. J. McGrath, in his sermon Sunday morning. They were instructed to come to church hereafter in their best headgear. The best of clothing, Father McGrath said, was none too good for the Sabbath, and he bade his congregation bear this in mind. It has been the custom during the summer for most women of his parish to attend early mass without headgear. Inside the church few women have been seen with hats on. This fact has troubled Father McGrath for a long time. To-day it was cool, and he noticed that the women without an exception wore hats. He told them it was a mistake to think that any clothing would do to wear to mass, and added that good taste should be displayed in the matter of dress from the soles of their feet to their heads. Sailor hats and toques might be all right on occasions, but mass was not one of them, and hereafter he should expect to see them appear in their best bonnets. As for the shirt-waist man, Father McGrath declared he was an abomination. "I want to give warning," he said, "that now nor at any other time can a shirt-waist man attend services here."

MADE EIGHT DOLLARS IN EIGHT MONTHS.

Mining for Gold in the Nome District is Not Very Profitable.

(Special to the Star.)

CORNWALL, September 26.—Mr. Z. Roy, shoe merchant of this town, has received word from his son, who has returned to Vancouver, B.C., after an absence of about one year in the Nome district. In the letter Mr. Roy writes his father, he says: "We worked claims for eight months. There were three of us in the party, and when we came to wash up we had only eight dollars worth of gold to be divided among the three of us. We decided to get out of the country and return before our supplies ran out. The trip cost Mr. Roy and companions about eight hundred dollars besides the loss of time. Mr. Roy says the country is no good and there are thousands in the interior who would be glad to get out to civilization if they had any means of doing so.

ROYALTY MAY VISIT IRELAND.

Prince and Princess of Wales are Expected at eBlfast in January.

NEW YORK, September 26.—A London despatch to the World says the Prince and Princess of Wales will go to Belfast during the last fortnight in January, to lay the foundation stone of a Royal Victoria Hospital. They will be the guests of the Marquis of Londonderry at Mount Stewart, Newtonards, County Down. They probably go to Dublin for a few days later on and will be guests of the Earl Cadogan.

Free to the Ruptured

Dr. W. S. Rice the Well Known Authority, Sends a Trial of His Famous Method Free To All.

Out of the chaos of old-time failure comes a new and startling cure for rupture. Dr. W. S. Rice, Box C, 18 Victoria St., Toronto, Ont., has invented a method that cures without pain, danger, operation or an hour's loss of time from the day's work. To avoid all questions of doubt he sends free to every sufferer a free trial of his method and there can be no earthly reason why anyone, rich or poor, should not avail themselves of this generous offer. As an instance of this remarkable method the cure of Wm. Bigford, a well known and highly esteemed citizen of Bishop Mills, Ont., will be a welcome piece of intelligence.

WM. BIGFORD

Mr. Bigford says:—I am pleased to say that I have been permanently cured of rupture by Dr. Rice's remarkable method. I suffered eight years; tried all kinds of trusses without help and now I cannot be too thankful in expressing my appreciation of Dr. Rice's wonderful system of curing rupture, and will gladly recommend it to others as I know it will cure them.

Send him a Shilt free trial. Don't be backward. It will surprise you with its wonderful power to cure. And if you know of other ruptured people ask them to write or write for them. Do not fail to write at once; do so to-day.

CHAPTER XL.—(Continued)

If Stephen shot Giles with a bullet from the toy revolver, the bullet, if discovered embedded in his body would be clear evidence against the Master of the Moat House. Revolvers were scarce enough in the country side, and a revolver of that particular make and bore was absolutely unique. Fleetwood had purchased it half a dozen years previously in 'Frisco. He preferred, therefore, that he should not shoot Giles with the revolver, but rather than let him pass in safety, in his then frame of mind, Stephen would have stood his chance of subsequent detection.

Fortune in this respect favoured the watcher. Giles Underwood did not come. He must, therefore, have turned the other way from the station. Stephen determined to satisfy himself of this, after waiting much more than sufficient length of time. He dug the spurs into the gray, and galloped over three or four fields, making a detour. When he had gone a certain calculated distance, he once more turned towards the high road, and walked his horse beneath the hedge. Then he waited again.

In a few minutes his patience was rewarded. Giles was coming along the road. He was the first of the train folk to come that way. There were three or four others, two of them maidservants of the Moat House, and the other labourers on the estate following a little way behind.

Giles stopped to light his pipe right opposite Stephen. He even came down under the hedge and struck the match in his hat, so close to the gray that it started. But the turf had been recently turned by the plough and no sound reached the poacher, who was busied about the operation of pipe lighting, and certainly quite unconscious that anyone was so close to him. It seemed curious the contiguity of these two men, with only a hedge between them.

After he had lighted his pipe, Giles went on. Stephen waited until he was out of hearing and then galloped the gray at top speed across country, over hedges and ditches, through ploughed fields and standing corn, taking no heed of anything, to the Moat House. There was one prevailing thought in his mind, that he must be at the keeper's cottage on the moor before Giles could get there. He meant to ambush in the cottage itself. At top speed he reached his own stables. He jumped from his horse and tried the stable door. It was locked. All the men must have gone up to the house. Stephen rang the stable bell and one of the grooms came running down immediately. He had been on the "qui vive" for the Squire's return. Stephen was a master who was always well served. No man or woman dared keep him waiting As it was, Stephen swore at the man, as he flung the gray's bridle to him, for not being on the spot sooner.

Having got rid of the encumbrance of the horse, Stephen struck across the Chase. He calculated that the rapidity of his ride, combined with the way he had come, cross-country, and so avoiding the deviations and windings of the road, would give him just about half an hour's start of the watcher. The Chase was bounded from the open moorland by a stone wall six feet high. To cross this barrier wooden ladder-like stiles were set at intervals. Stephen went straight to one of them and got over. The purple heather-clad moor lay before him, bathed in the white moonlight, rising up to the steep shoulder of Nab's Head. The latter looked much nearer than it really was, a deception which is practised alike by moor and sea. Stephen, however, knew the exact distance he had to traverse to a nicety. Giles would not go up the way he was going, but would reach the cottage on the other side.

The way was only a trifle wider than the usual sheep tracks which traversed the moor in all directions, and was laid with white pebbly sand, which shone in the light. Every now and then a curlew arose with a shrill scream, and several times Stephen's footfall dispersed a covey of grouse, which rose up from the heather crying the best advice the birds could have given, "Go back; go back." Stephen was too familiar with the note to take any notice of it, or regard it in any way as a warning.

The last part of the way was sheer climbing. Every now and then the road would give a dip where a water course was, and then up it would go steeper than ever. The last climb was the worst, that to the cottage itself, which had to be approached up hill on either side, the immediate plateau in front of the cottage being bounded by a precipitous fall. On the left of the cottage was a clear spring of ice cold water, and below the stream dashed down in cascades of great natural beauty into the vale below. Some sheep were browsing on the plateau as Stephen came up, but they fled at his approach.

Even he paused for breath when he stood by the spring, and then went on to the house. It stood cold, deserted, and looked as it had done on the occasion of his last visit. Stephen went up to the low window and broke a pane of glass with the soft side of his fist. Then he put his hand in and turned the hasp; flinging the window up, Stephen vaulted into the cottage. The moonlight directed him, but he knew exactly where everything was. He could have found what he wanted in the dark. On a rack were three or four guns. In a cupboard high up on the wall was ammunition. Stephen selected a weapon, loaded it, and then went to the other window, not the one he had entered by. Flinging it open, he rested the gun on the sill. From there he could command the approach Giles would come by. He calculated that he would have about twenty minutes to wait.

CHAPTER XLI.

After Caroline Wrottisley had left him, Coutance strolled into the Park, and sat down. His mind was in a whirl. It seemed an age until to-morrow morning. The usual sights of that time of the day passed by the painter unheeded; the nursemaids and their querulous and quarrelsome charges, "the light brigade" of the Park army, the riders in the Row, the bright geraniums and calceolarias, what were they to a man who in maturity had suddenly found himself in love, and had fully eighteen hours to wait before he could take the necessary step to make the object of that love his own before the world! The older we are the deeper a first love strikes us when it is a genuine first passion, and the less patient are we of delay.

Coutance's thoughts had never lightly turned to love. Caroline Wrottisley had stormed a citadel, hitherto held to be impregnable by its master as well as other people, and, once stormed, the garrison had capitulated unreservedly.

A chapter of accidents had thrown this man, who for a period of years had chosen to be known only by one name, which was neither surname nor Christian name, but merely a pseudonym, upon the world without a home, or any definite spot to act as the fulcrum of his life. Houses he had, but no home. Other houses he had acquired, such as Ennismere for instance, decked according to his fancy, had lived in them for a time, and then abandoned them. He never deceived himself into thinking they were homes. He respected the word too much to grossly mis-apply it. Home meant hearth, and hearth meant a woman's presence, a woman's subtle influence, a woman's abiding charm. He never doubted or disputed that. Only he did not seek to supply, as he easily might, the vacuum he knew to be there. Some men set themselves deliberately to choose a wife, on that very ground—that it is a necessity to a man's existence, the thing which can alone turn him from a wandering luminary into a fixed star. Coutance was not one of these. The woman must come to him, sent by a gracious Providence. Of late he sent arrived at the conclusion that he was growing old—in point of years, he was only thirty-five, in experience fifty—that the woman would never come.

Then Caroline Wrottisley came into his life. The gentle dignity, the stately grace, the subtle charm of this budding girl won upon the painter, just as much as the leonine cast of his nobility made Coutance to Caroline as no other man could ever have been.

To-day she was his. To-morrow her decision would be ratified in her own domain, and she would know all—the truth about himself and his past, and his plans for the future, plans which in every way had altered during the past weeks.

He was strangely restless. The Park did not satisfy him; yet he had no definite work or engagement to call him away. He tried seat after seat under the pretence to himself that each in turn failed to satisfy his idea of comfort.

At last Coutance had to give it up. He must try something else. So he walked to Charing Cross and climbed the steps to the National Gallery. That picture-lined edifice had never yet failed to find the painter solace, comfort and company.

But it failed signally that Monday afternoon. His mind was jaundiced with joy. He was colour-blinded by Caroline Wrottisley. It was a terrible confession to make, but that day, at any rate, our national collection of pictures, of which we are justly proud, seemed to Coutance as dust and ashes.

How thankful the painter was when the doorkeeper came to turn him out! The Gallery was closing its doors for the night.

Dinner time found him alone. Storey had not come. Coutance felt hurt. He had meant to victimize his friend by talking Caroline to him the rest of the evening. Perhaps prescient of this, Reginald Storey had, very discreetly, stayed away.

On the Tuesday morning Coutance rose early. He had not slept much, and what little sleep had come to him had been of a troubled character. He had longed for the morning, and now that the morning was come, instead of brightness and hope there were heaviness and depression—a sense of impending disaster, which was foreign to his nature, and for which he could not account.

Long before ten o'clock Coutance was pacing Haggerstone Place. It struck him that No. 7 looked different from the rest. The windows were not thrown open to catch the freshness of the September air. Maids all the way down the Place were engaged by mutual consent in polishing up the steps and brass work about the doors. At No. 7 the customary activity of that hour of the day did not obtain. It struck the painter as singular; and in his present mood that which was singular was likewise ominous.

At a quarter to ten Coutance could stand the suspense no longer. Bruin was bearing him company. His master bade him lie down until his return, and then went up to the door and rang. Coutance waited with what patience he could muster. There was no answer. Then he tried again; this time knocking and ringing simultaneously. The result was the same as before. A chill came down upon Coutance's heart. Maids might be inattentive and Mrs. Hedger out, but it was not likely that Caroline would forget the hour; and by this time ten o'clock was striking out in dull monotone from a neighbouring church tower.

Coutance tried the door. The handle turned. He pushed the door and went in, regardless of the risk of being taken up as a burglar. On the right was the sitting-room Caroline Wrottisley used; Coutance guessed this as he glanced in. Work and books were about as usual. But Caroline was not there. The next room was a bedroom—Mrs. Hedger's. Coutance knocked and then threw the door open, when there was no response. The bed was made. The whole room suggested that it had not been used as a bedroom that night.

Coutance went on and descended some steps to the kitchen department. That was deserted too. A fire was burning dimly, lighted some hours ago but not replenished. The whole place was deserted, as if there had been a plague. Coutance shouted up the stairs, to see if anyone would reply from the storey above; but silence was the sole response.

LOCATED BOERS GUNS

A Few of Those Not Located Found by British Forces.

TRANSVAAL OFFICERS LEAVE.

More Members of Kruger' Government Sailed From Lorenzo Marques To-day.

LONDON, September 26. — Lord Roberts reports that Gen. Ian Hamilton found at the Crocodile River, near Hectorspruit, 13 guns, including several lost by the British. They were mostly destroyed.

TRANSVAAL OFFICER SAIL.

LORENZO MARQUES, September 26.—The German steamer Herzog, which sailed for Europe to-day, had among her passengers the Transvaal Postmaster-General, Van Alphen; the Assistant Secretary of State Grobler, the State Treasurer Malherbe, and a large quantity of bar gold.

The railway from Delagoa Bay to Pretoria is expected to be open for traffic to-morrow.

GROBLER'S LAAGER TAKEN.

PRETORIA, September 26.—General Paget, by making a forced march of 26 miles east of Hammans Kraal, captured the laager of Commandant Grobler, seizing 2,000 head of cattle and 5,000 sheep. Twenty men who had been left in charge of the laager, were made prisoners. Commandant Grobler was absent with his troops at the time, he being engaged in making an attack on the railway. Col. Plumer made a flank march for the purpose of co-operating with Gen. Paget in the event of Commandant Grobler defending the laager. General Cunningham's brigade, consisting of the Argyll Highlanders, the Berkshire Regiment and the Scottish Borderers, has returned here from the east. Since July 27 the brigade marched 700 miles.

When the British occupied Komatipoort the Boers who had been occupying that place, bolted across the frontier into Portuguese territory. They blew up their guns and destroyed their arms before evacuating the town.

LONDON, September 26. — The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts dated Pretoria, September 24:—

"Pole-Carew reports that he found at Komatipoort one Long Tom, 98 pounder and one Creusot, which had been destroyed, 300 rifles, 30 boxes of small arm ammunition, 40 Long Tom shells, etc.

"Barton has captured 720 trek oxen, 950 cattle and 1,000 sheep."

WAR "COMPLETELY ENDED."

Significant Words Used by the Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

LONDON, September 26.—"The war is completely ended," says the Lorenzo Marques correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

"Many guns have been destroyed and hundreds of waggons and thousands of tons of stores of every description have been burned.

"Burning wreckage lies in every direction in the Hectorspruit district.

"Any good police force of twenty thousand men can effect the complete pacification of the country. It will be impossible for the Boers in the future to mass a force exceeding 1,500. They are sick of the war; and the Irish American and other mercenaries are clamouring for payment and threatening the Boer officials."

STEYN CLOSELY PRESSED.

British Forces are Preventing a Junction of His Force With That Under Reitz.

LONDON, September 26.—The Daily Mail has the following despatch from Lorenzo Marques: "Heavy fighting is reported across the Sabir River. This means that the British are intercepting Steyn and Reitz who with their forces are attempting to push northward and to effect a junction. A command is said to be surrounded near Pietersburg.

COULD NOT GRANT REQUEST.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, September 26.—An application was made to the Militia Department yesterday asking that the body of J. Brothers, of Arthur, Ont., a member of Strathcona's Horse, who was killed in South Africa, should be brought home for burial, but such a request could not possibly be carried out.

RETURNS TO THE FRONT.

(Special Cable from the Special Correspondent of the Star in London.)

LONDON, September 26.—Lt. Harper, of the Strathcona Horse, has been discharged from the hospital and will rejoin the force at the front.

Private Smith, of St. John, N.B., is still dangerously ill at Cape Town.

HARD UP FOR CANDIDATES.

(Special to the Star.)

TORONTO, September 26.—It has been definitely decided that Dr. Spence will be one of the Liberal candidates in West Toronto. Dr. Spence, it will be remembered, was defeated by Thomas Crawford, M.L.A., in the Legislative campaign of 1898. Who his running mate against Messrs. Clarke and Osler will be remains undecided. The failure of the Liberals to induce any member of the Massey-Harris Company to enter the field has left them at a loss.

Miss Dunlevie, who is visiting friends in Montreal, returns to Ottawa shortly.

General and Mrs. O'Grady-Haly are expected in Ottawa on Thursday.

VICTORY FOR STRIKERS SEEMS TO BE IN SIGHT

Big Coal Companies Said to Willing to Grant Concessions to Miners.

BUT THE UNION UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES WILL BE RECOGNIZED.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., September 26.—According to the official report of General Superintendent Luther, of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, 14 of the 39 collieries owned by that company were in operation this morning. This is one more than yesterday, but as officials admit, it does not indicate that the company is making any headway. The additional colliery resuming to-day is the Wadesville, near Pottsville, which closed yesterday for repairs to the machinery.

Information this morning in effect is that the big companies are prepared to-morrow to grant concessions provided that at the time the men are actually working and in their employ.

But there is an understanding that, come what may, the compromise must not be effected through the United Mine Workers.

While many miners are anxious to settle the strike and return to work regardless of the means by which an amicable settlement is made, there is quite a strong sentiment to remain out until the union is recognized and until that organization is satisfied that work can be resumed advantageously to the union.

SCRANTON, September 26. — The first blood-shed which may be laid to the strike of the miners in the Lackawanna region was reported this morning from Sibley, a mining settlement at the foot of the mountains in Old Forge township, about six miles from Scranton. Three men were wounded in a row in which 20 revolver shots were fired. The participants were all Italians and were mostly men who had, before the strike began, been working as non-unionists but who became members of the union mine workers two weeks ago. Last night the men got into a fight on the roadway near Barbertown. Revolvers were drawn by several, and when the battle was over three men were down in the road, one so badly wounded that Dr. Timlin this morning had little hope for his recovery. Several arrests were made.

The strike situation throughout the Lackawanna valley remained practically unchanged to-day, the Lackawanna Company working its four washeries without molestation. But no coal was going out over the road at present, being held on the mine switches.

THREE MINERS SHOT IN LACKAWANNA REGION

Strikers Quarrel Among Themselves and Use Revolvers Freely.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., September 26. — The expected order for troops to go to the Hazelton district had not been received by General Gobin up to 8.30 o'clock this morning.

The condition in this region remained unchanged and everything was quiet and orderly.

GEORGE ARTHUR PEARSON,
The Hamilton Man Who Has Confessed to the Murder of Annie Griffin at Waterdown, on Sunday.

THE MANITOBA CABINET.

(Special to the Star.)

WINNIPEG, September 26.—It has been arranged that a caucus of the Conservative members should be held at the Government buildings last evening, but owing to the non-arrival of Premier Macdonald, who was expected yesterday morning, the proposed meeting was postponed until to-day. It is understood that at this meeting the organization of the Cabinet will be discussed, and it is expected that Mr. Macdonald will announce his recommendations as to the different portfolios in the new Government.

MR. SHAUGHNESSY TALKS.

(Special to the Star.)

WINNIPEG, September 26.—President Shaughnessy, in an interview, said that the prospects in Western Canada this year were not so bright, but that with dry weather things might yet turn out all right. "Of course," said Mr. Shaughnessy, "the C. P. R. is part and parcel of the country and anything that unfavourably affects the farmers must necessarily injure the country." Questioned as to the extensions in the West for next year, Mr. Shaughnessy said that nothing had been definitely arranged as yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harriss, finding that the alterations to Earnscliffe will take longer than was at first thought, have rented for the winter a house on Daly avenue, Ottawa.

LORNE CURRIE HAS IT

Acceptance of His Challenge to Race for the Seawanhaka Cup Next Year.

GREAT BRITAIN VS. DOMINION.

Action Taken at Meeting Held Last Night—Races Will Take Place in July of Next Year.

A British boat will come over here to contest the possession of the Seawanhaka Cup, during July, 1901.

That was arranged at the meeting of the Sailing Committee of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club last evening. That this will increase the interest throughout America in the Seawanhaka Perpetual International Challenge Cup for small yachts itself, and in the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club its holders, as well in Mr. George Herrick Duggan, the man who for so many years by his skill as a designer and his genius as a sailor, has managed to keep it here till now, a thousand fold, is without doubt. At times a certain faction of the membership of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club has almost openly expressed a desire that the cup might be got rid of, and that in the interest of local yacht racing it would be well lost, but even with them there was always in the background that hope that th y might have a bru-h with a

SAILOR FROM ACROSS THE WATER,

and that hope is now realized. The challenge from Great Britain was accepted because it was thought that the contest which would follow would greatly increase the interest taken throughout the yachting world, in the sailing and designing of small boats, and because the two clubs that have challenged also this year, felt the same in regard to the matter.

There is no doubt that the situation was a little embarrassing, when on the very day after which the limit for challenges had expired the cable challenge from Mr. Lorne Currie arrived. Here was a challenge much desired and hoped for, and just one day too late. An emergency meeting of the sailing committee was held, and at this meeting it was decided that as this challenge if refused might create an erroneous feeling that English

CHALLENGES WERE NOT DESIRED,

while the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club certainly felt that the acceptance of it would increase the interest in small-boat sailing enormously, it would be best to explain the circumstances fully to the two other clubs that had challenged, and to see if they would not in the general interest of the sport, release the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club from any liability in the matter and give it a free hand to do as it thought best. Then the work of Mr. J. J. Riley, jr., the secretary of the club, began. A frank letter was written to both the White Bear Yacht Club and the club from Black Rock Harbour, explaining the situation, yet at the same time giving them to understand that if they insisted on the letter of the agreement, the Royal St. Lawrence would

ABIDE BY THEIR DECISION.

The letter incidentally referred to the interest which such a race as proposed would create in the sailing and building of this particular class of boat, and cited the great changes and improvements which had been created by the International races for the America's Cup. In each case the reply was most courteous and considerate. In each case the club regretted for its own sake, that such a challenge should have come in the year when each was most anxious to measure designers and boats and sailors with the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, but each at the same time recognized that such a chance as the present should not be neglected under the circumstances, and begged that Mr. Lorne Currie's challenge, although it was a day late, should be treated the same as their own, and that the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club should take such action as they considered best in the interest of the sport. Both requests the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club to remember, however, that if the should fall through, they would be just as anxious as before to compete.

In view of all this, the British challenge was accepted without a dissenting voice.

The challenge has been officially backed up by cablegram and letter, by Mr. Herbert Whyatt, secretary of the Island Sailing Club of Cowes, and the challenger is Mr. Lorne Currie, of Havre, France, secretary of the "Societe des Regates du Havre," member of the Royal Northern Yacht Club and of the Island Sailing Club of Cowes. He has agreed to have the races sailed some time in July next.

WOMAN'S ART ASSOCIATION.

The Montreal Branch of the Woman's Art Association have an interesting programme drawn up for the coming winter. Art lectures of a high order are promised, and the standard of such lecturers as Professor Capper, Rev. W. S. Barnes and Fraulein Stolle will be maintained.

The life model drawing class will meet at the studio early in November, and the first of the regular fortnightly meetings of the art reading class, with Mrs. W. V. Kerry as convener, will be held at the studio on November 3.

The first general meeting is called for Tuesday next, and, as formely, the regular monthly meetings will be continued when short art papers, illustrated by photos, sketches or pictures, will be read by members or others, followed by a social half-hour and tea.

The out-of-door sketch class closes with a more successful season's work than any previous year.

The officers for 1900-1901 are: President, Miss M. M. Phillips; first vice-president, Mrs. F. Minden-Cole; second vice-president, Mrs. W. V. Kerry; treasurer, Mrs. A. F. Dunlop; secretary, Mrs. D. MR. VIRGIL'S LECTURE.

Mr. A. K. Virgil lectured in Karn Hall last evening before an interested audience on the science and art of pianoforte playing and teaching. Mr. Virgil was assisted by two clever young ladies, who gave technical illustrations on the Clavier and the piano. Miss Florence Wood gave selections from Lachner, Chopin and Remick, and Miss Winnifred Willet's execution was much appreciated. Both young ladies showed talent of a marked degree, and their efforts were received with great applause. Mr. Virgil has a pleasing and entertaining way of showing the advantages of his methods, and his lectures must result in gaining for him a large number of converts. Another lecture will be given this evening, when the musical programme will be completely changed.

The body of Joseph Belanger was found yesterday afternoon in the canal near the Imperial Oil Co.'s warehouse. Deceased was 75 years of age, and lived at 170 St. Martin street, with his wife and family. He disappeared from his residence on Thursday last, and his family have since been uneasy about his whereabouts. THE PARIS EXHIBITION.

Mr. R. G. Boville lectured at the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon on the Paris Exhibition. Mr. Bannell Sawyer presided, and the lecture was illustrated with good stereopticon views.

DO YOU FEEL TIRED IN THE MORNING?

Does Sleep not bring Refreshment?

Do you feel wretched, mean and miserable in the mornings—as tired as when you went to bed? It's a serious condition—too serious to neglect, and unless you have the heart and nervous system strengthened and the blood enriched by

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, collapse is almost certain to ensure. Mr. Fred. H. Graham, a well-known young man of Barrie, Ont., says:—"I have had a great deal of trouble with my heart for four years. I was easily agitated and my excitement caused my heart to throb violently. I had dizziness and shortness of breath, and often arose in the mornings feeling as tired as when I went to bed. I was terribly nervous. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done wonders for me. They have restored my heart to regular healthy action, giving me back sound restful sleep, and making my nervous system strong and vigorous."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25 at all druggists or by mail. The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

AUGUST BANK STATEMENT.

In Several Respects it Tends to Show Continued Expansion of Trade.

The Canadian bank statement for August certainly reflects no contraction in general trade so far as its items are a criterion. Circulation shows an increase of $1,000,000 over July this year, and is almost $5,000,000 in excess of August, 1899. Discounts to Canadian customers remain about the same as they were in July, but to borrowers outside of Canada they have increased over $1,000,000. Compared with August last year this item of trade discounts has expanded $39,000,000. Loans on stocks in Canada have increased half a million dollars since July, and out of Canada $2,000,000, and the banks have altogether $29,000,000 more money loaned out in this way than in August, 1899. Holdings of railway securities are $1,000,000 in excess of July this year and $9,000,000 greater than in August, 1899, and Government debentures nearly $1,000,000 more than in July and $6,000,000 in excess of August, 1899. Municipal securities held, on the other hand, have decreased about $4,000,000 compared with last year. Deposits both on demand and notice show further expansion compared with a year ago. The foreign balance stands $12,000,000 in favour of Canada.

CONNERS WILL GO ON

Buffalo Contractor Says He Will Begin Elevators Next Week.

CONFERENCE WITH THE BOARD.

Thinks With Foundations Completed He Can Work Through the Winter Season.

After months of inaction, so far as material results in the port of Montreal are concerned, Mr. William J. Conners, head of the Conners' Syndicate announces that he is prepared to go on with the construction of the elevators and storage warehouses, according to the plans and specifications agreed upon, and that he will proceed with the work within a week's time.

At the meeting of the Harbour Board yesterday afternoon the following letter signed by Mr. Conners, was read:

"In accordance with the expressed sentiment at the meeting of your honourable board, held on the 11th inst., that we make a definite report upon this date relative to the terminal structures for Windmill Point pier, I have much pleasure in notifying you that we will begin assembling material at once, and commence the work of construction next week. We will press the work to completion as rapidly as it can be done. We thank the board for the patience and consideration shown us up to this time."

When Mr. Conners, who was accompanied by Mr. G. T. Smith, his representative in Montreal, had been admitted into the room, the president of the Harbour Commissioners informed him that his letter had been read and asked if there was any verbal statement that he would like to make before any of the commissioners asked him questions.

MR. CONNERS IS CHEERFUL.

Mr. Conners replied that all he had to say was contained in the letter. He would go on and complete the work as soon as possible, breaking ground the coming week.

Mr. Torrance wished to know how much work they expected to do before the winter weather would stop them.

To this, Mr. Conners replied that they would probably be able to finish the foundation, and if this was the case they could then go ahead with the work of construction throughout the winer, without interruption.

In reply to Mr. Crathern, Mr. Conners said that all those who were associated with him when the application was made were still connected with the scheme, except Mr. Rogers who, it would be remembered withdrew some time ago, before the agreement was signed.

The Mayor—"We are satisfied; we want you to go on, that's all."

In conversation before the meeting Mr. Conners said that one of the elevators at Duluth had been constructed in the winter time. This was an elevator built from the plans of the firm which had the present work in hand, and he saw no reason why he could not go on throughout the winter without interruption, provided he could get the foundations in.

HARBOUR PLANS AT PARIS.

A letter was read from Mr. J. X. Perrault, Canadian commissioner to the Paris exposition, stating that the harbour plan had arrived in good condition. He desired to know if the commissioners would like the harbour plan to be sent to the Glasgow exhibition, and if so to let him know at once, so that it could be sent free of cost. It was decided to send it on.

To the Harbour Improvement Committee was referred a letter from the Civic Health Department accompanied by one from the Minister of Agriculture. The former intimated the willingness of the department to place at the commissioners' disposal, one of its officers to supervise the measures necessary to do away with the rats that infested the wharf. The communication from the Minister of Agriculture offered to supply the necessary poison.

FLOOD PROTECTION WALL.

The question of inserting in the flood protection wall, opposite the Harbour Commissioners' offices, a tablet commemorating the erection of the wall, was referred to the Harbour Improvement Committee, with power to act.

The Finance Committee reported having paid pay-sheets amounting to $32,183.92, and accounts of $25,374.19. In the case of Dan. Brosseau, one of the Harbour Commissioners' sweepers, who was accidentally drowned a few weeks ago while at work, it was recommended that his widow be given a gratuity of $50. The report was adopted.

WILL GO TO BOSTON.

That City Is Preparing for an Extension of Its Shipping Trade.

SENDS AN ENVOY TO EUROPE.

As a Result of an Embroglio Between Mr. Blair and the Canadian Pacific.

An announcement which comes from Boston, that Mr. A. S. Crane, foreign traffic manager of the Boston and Maine Railway, has gone to Europe to awaken in the minds of foreign shippers a greater realization of the advantages of Boston in handling trans-Atlantic business, has a significent interest for Montreal and Canadian ports of export at the present moment.

The Boston and Maine is one of the American connections of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the sudden departure of Mr. Crane for Europe is evidence that the officials of the former road see in the attitude of Mr. Blair and the Canadian Government with respect to the Canadian Pacific and the Intercolonial, good ground to believe that the result will be a large diversion of export business from Canadian winter ports to Boston.

Mr. Crane left Boston for Europe on Saturday last, and the Boston Herald in making the announcement said:

The Boston and Maine, with its increased facilities for reaching the West, proposes to utilize them to the utmost, and it is with the hope that an additional fleet of steamers may turn their prows toward Boston, when their owners fully understand the value of making this city a port, that Mr. Crane's mission has to do. Boston's most promising connection with the far western country is via the Canadian Pacific, and the prospects favour a traffic agreement with that system by which the bulk of its export business will be diverted in this direction. That the commercial growth of Boston will be greatly stimulated through the efforts of President Tuttle there is every reason to believe.

Officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway in this city, when seen this morning declined to say anything for publication regarding Mr. Crane's departure. The C. P. R. side of the case had, they said, been fully stated in the correspondence between Mr. Shaughnessy and Mr. Blair and there was nothing further to add. The C. P. R. desired to retain its export business for Canadian ports, but of course could not neglect the business aspect of the situation. If the Government persisted in its present attitude with regard to traffic arrangements St. John and Halifax would necessarily suffer in consequence, and Boston would gain at the former's expense.

Local railroad men in general interviewed in connection with the matter freely admit that if the Canadian Pacific should decide to abandon St. John and throw its export traffic over to the Boston and Maine Boston will obtain a very considerable addition to its present shipping at the expense of the Canadian ports. This they say would be much to be regretted so far as Canada is concerned. That it is regarded as a probable outcome of the present deadlock between the Government road and the Canadian Pacific, is evidenced by the sailing of the Boston and Maine official for Europe.

Where trying to please you is not 'trouble.'

First introductory days of Autumn fashions in Millinery, Coats, Costumes, Furs, Dress Fabrics and Silks, have caused a buzz of interest in these departments this morning. But, you haven't seen it all yet—not by any means, for each day brings its quota of newness and goodness to add interest in the showing. The best plan is to come most every day.

A Cut-price Cutlery Sale.

If the bargain-buyers knew how often their gain was another's loss they would be surprised. Now, some one loses considerable money on these knives and forks, but it's not you nor us.

They were made by a first-class cutlery maker in Sheffield, England. On the way over they were damaged by water—you'll notice the damage on some of them, but in most cases they were sufficiently protected by the packages—even the worst of them only need a little rubbing to make them as good as when their maker shipped them.

We purchased the entire lot of them—about one thousand dozen—and will clear them out at about half what they would regularly cost.

There are four styles, and our sale price for 6 knives and six forks (a dozen pieces) is 55c, 65c, 85c and $1.15.

Colored Linen Table Covers.

Coloured Linen Table Covers, fringed. We had quite a lot of them, but they went quickly. Now, as there are only a few left and only two colours, salmon and yellow, we'll sell them at these price cuts:
8-4 size, worth $2.25, for $1.69; 10-4 size, worth $2.75, for $2.06.

Linen Towels and Towelling.

New lots are coming in and crowding up our Linen Department. Odd lots and broken assortments must be cleared out at once Hence these bargains:
Damask Towels, all linen, size 34x17, worth 12c, for 7½c each; size 33x18, worth 15c, for 10c each.
Checked Linen Towels, 4c each.
Heavy Linen Roller Towels, 15½ ins. wide, 7c a yard.

Cotton Bargains.

It is only a store such as this that can offer you real Cotton bargains in these days of an upward jumping market.
Good Quality Unbleached Cotton, at 4½c a yard.
Mill Ends of White Cotton, with cambric finish, 5 to 10 yard lengths, worth 12½c, for 8c.

The Basement Store.

There is a magnitude about this bright Basement Store's offerings that draws the woman economist from all parts of the city. Such offerings as these are what keep the basement so busy.
Iron Preserving Kettles, porcelain lined, 14 and 18 quart sizes, worth 90c to $1.25, here for 75c each.

HAD HAULED LUMBER

Sub-Chief Dubois Admits Corporation Horses Were Used For This Purpose.

THE INVESTIGATION PROCEEDS.

Many Bickerings Between Legal Gentlemen Delay the Proceedings.

There was both a long and tiresome session of the Dubois investigation last night. This was caused by the determination of counsel to object to nearly anything in sight. It was in vain that the investigating committee, by divers means, tried to sidetrack the eloquence of the members of the bar—talk they would.

The only new evidence adduced was at the close of the evening. Sub-Chief Dubois admitted that corporation horses had drawn lumber for him, and that firemen, when they had been on their holidays, had built a sidewalk for him.

THE FIRST WITNESS.

Sub-Chief Dubois was the first witness and continued his evidence from the previous session. Witness, as per request of the committee, gave the names of those who had signed for the Dubois presentation.

Being cross-examined, witness was asked by Ald. Ames: "Did you know before the subscription was taken up that it was contemplated?"

"I only knew when Naud told me he wanted to take up a subscription for me."

A tiresome argument now ensued as to whether or not witnesses would be called upon to give evidence, should be asked to leave the room, and it was decided they would have to leave. Sub-Chief Dubois protested, saying that as head of the fire department he should be allowed to remain. It was finally decided that an exception should be made in the case of the chief.

Ald. Ames took the occasion to protest against the enormous amount of time that was wasted at every meeting fighting over quibbles.

Continuing his cross-examination, witness said the subscription list was exactly the same as had been handed to him; there had been no changes made in it. Naud had seemed to be aggrived with witness after he had taken up the subscription for him. The fact was that Naud had not been on friendly terms with witness for some years.

NOT ANGRY WITH NAUD.

Ald. Chausse—"Were you angry at Naud when you reported him to the chief?"

"No, I was not angry. I had my duty to perform, and I did it."

Ald. Lavalee—"When Naud and Decary brought out a patent each, did you not think Decary's was the best?"

"I did; I thought the patent of Decary was the best, and I expressed such opinion verbally. I never spoke against a patent which Naud sent to Valleyfield."

"On a certain date did you express an opinion about the patents of Naud at Ste. Cunegonde?"

"I said something about a valve, but I do not remember giving an opinion about anything else."

"Was this before the Decary invention?"

"No, it was after."

Continuing, witness said he had had a quarrel with a man in Maisonneuve as to whether a patent of Naud or Decary was the best. He had expressed no opinion about the Naud patent at a certain exhibition in Maisonneuve. Did not remember going to Maisonneuve with Decary to inspect a valve that had been bought by that municipality.

In reply to Mr. Boudin (counsel for witness) witness said he had been promoted to a captaincy some eight or nine years after he had joined the force.

Ald. Hart (interrupting)—"Oh, I do not see the use of this kind of evidence."

CONTINUES HIS STORY.

Witness was allowed to continue, and said he had never asked for promotion, and had never paid for promotion.

There was another squabble now between the lawyers as to just how questions should be put, and more protests from the committee against these fruitless bickerings.

Having another chance to continue, witness said he had had no agreement with Mr. Charlebois, or any one else, for them to act as "go betweens," between himself and Naud as to the purchasing of promotions. Had never said that other members of the department had paid for promotions. Was sure that from the way the cupboards were placed the men, who had been placed in them by Naud, could not see him, witness.

Taking up the horse question, witness said that he had asked Chief Benoit if he could feed a horse at the expense of the city, and the Chief had said he could. The horse had been doing work for the corporation. The animal originally had been bought by witness. Witness had also purchased other horses.

Ald. Lavallee now asked witness to give the names and locations of certain stations in the city that he had been compelled to visit, and which had necessitated him having two horses instead of one. Witness had been answering for some time when Ald. Ames hotly protested against such evidence, saying it was too bad the city had to pay stenographers' fees for it. He concluded by saying: "I do not thing the city should have to pay for the ignorance of Ald. Lavallee."

ALD. LAVALLEE GETS ANGRY.

This made Ald. Lavallee say that he would expect Ald. Ames to withdraw such statement, and finally, it was withdrawn. "I meant no offence," said Ald. Ames.

Witness was now put to a long cross-examination by Mr. Leblanc, but practically no new evidence was adduced. The cross-examination was largely about patents, and was meant to show that the ill-feeling between Naud and Dubois had been the outcome of dickering with patents for fire department.

SOME POINTED QUESTIONS.

It was long after eleven and the meeting was about to adjourn when Ald. Hart put some pointed questions to witness as to his horse transactions with the city. After witness had stated that he had only loaned horses belonging to the corporation to military men, Chairman Hart said: "Now, was that all? Examine yourself well, and see if you cannot recollect something else?"

The witness shook his head.

Chairman Hart—Did you not take two horses with a load of lumber out to the Back River once?"

The witness—"Yes, I remember that."

"Who gave you that lumber?"

"Captain Doolan."

"How many men did you keep out of the station for that purpose?"

"Only one man went with the load."

"Did any men go out there to Cartierville to do any work for you?"

"Yes, two firemen went out to build a sidewalk on my property. They were on their holidays."

"Did that lumber belong to Captain Doolan?"

"He got it from a contractor. It was old stuff."

"Did you not sell a corporation horse once and make $50 on it?"

"No."

"Was there not a chestnut horse bought in 1897 for $150 by the corporation?"

"Yes, I know there was such a horse. It was swapped, I think, by Chief Benoit with Ald. Kinsella for a mare. I then swapped the mare for another horse, which was killed."

"Did you not make $50 by that transaction?"

"No."

Ald. Ames—Did you ever buy harness not needed by the corporation?"

The witness—"I did, at my own expense."

"Did you ever buy a saddle for your horses with corporation money?"

"No; Chief Benoit gave me a saddle."

The subject was then allowed to drop, and the committee adjourned.

If the Liver Is Deranged

There is Sallow Complexion, Fullness About the Stomach and Pains in the Shoulders and Back--Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Act Promptly and Directly on the Liver.

By a careful consideration of the following symptoms you can decide for yourself if your liver is torpid and inactive. The liver is the largest organ connected with the digestive system, and as a filterer of bile from the blood is to a very large extent responsible for the health of the whole body.

A sense of fulness and oppression about the stomach, a pale, sallow complexion and pain in the shoulders and back are among the first indications of a disordered liver.

Then there comes indigestion, wind on the stomach, headache, coated tongue, a bitter taste in the mouth, depression of spirits and despondency.

The bowels become irregular and constipation and looseness alternate. The bile left in the blood by an inactive liver poisons the blood and causes liver spots, blotches and pimples.

So great is the influence of the liver over the health of other organs that physicians have called the liver the governor or controller of the body.

The prescription from which Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are prepared was perfected by the doctor in his immense practice and has proven the greatest liver regulator ever discovered. It acts directly and promptly on the liver, making it active and vigourous as a filtering organ. At the same time it regulates and tones up the kidneys and bowels and sets the whole filtering and excretory system in healthy working order.

Notwithstanding the fame of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills throughout this continent you will never fully realize and appreciate their value until you have actually used them and only then can you fully understand why they have such an enormous sale.

In these days of experimenting with all sorts of new, untried remedies, appliances and treatments, it is a comfort and pleasure to know that you can turn to this prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase and find in it a safe and certain cure for the many dangerous and complicated disorders of the liver, kidneys and bowels. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Piles cured in 3 to 6 nights— One application gives relief. Dr. Agnew's Ointment is a boon for Itching Piles, or Blind, Bleeding Piles. It relieves quickly and permanently. In skin eruptions it stands without a rival. Thousands of testimonials if you want evidence. 35 cents.—23.

McGILL TERM OPENS.

The First Lectures In Arts and Science Took Place Yesterday.

DR. LE ROSSIGNOL'S DISCOURSE

Science of Economics as Applied to the Practical Business of Life.

The lectures of the 1900-01 term in arts and applied science at McGill University began yesterday, and the various class rooms took on once more an air of animation to which they had been strangers during the long summer months. The number of students in both faculties showed a considerable increase over last year's attendance, affording indisputable proof of McGill's continued growth.

A feature of the new term will be the recently adopted regulations for the third year course in arts, and the special course of lectures of economics by Dr. J. 4. Le Rossignol, professor of economics at the University of Denver, Col. Dr. Le Rossignol is himself a former graduate of McGill.

The first of these lectures was delivered in the arts building yesterday afternoon, Dr. Le Rossignol being introduced by Dr. Peterson, the Principal of the University.

DR. PETERSON'S ADDRESS.

In his introductory remarks Principal Peterson explained that the new course would give students of all ranks, whether as a course for a degree or not, a valuable opportunity of acquainting themselves with questions of good government and legislation, the history of early institutions, comparative politics, and the requirements of a modern state. Dr. Peterson added a word of explanation, in view of the fact that some misunderstanding had arisen in previous references to this matter in McGill University, from which the impression had gone abroad that McGill was making an unfounded claim to be the pioneer in this subject, as though a fully equipped department had not been for a number of years in the University of Toronto, and also at Queen's, Kingston. In meeting this need, said Dr. Peterson, McGill is only taking an inevitable step by way of bringing itself up to the level, so far as regards economics, of these sister institutions.

PROF. LE ROSSIGNOL'S LECTURE.

Le Rossignol's lecture was an exceedingly interesting one. In part, it was as follows:

"Economics is a science, and one that is capable of many and various applications. Wealth is so important a factor in human life that it is involved in the consideration of questions of all sorts, domestic, industrial, political, ethical and even religious. Economic principles are continually applied in the solution of the problems of daily life in a wise or unwise manner. There is a science of life, and an art of living, and the science and the art are, or ought to be, based upon the principles of the science. This is true in every sphere of life. The art of preserving health is based upon the scientific principles of anatomy and physiology. The art of teaching is founded upon the science of psychology.

"Thus it is with those arts which deal especially with the production and distribution of wealth, the art of business and the art of politics. To a large extent they are based upon the principles of economic science, to a large extent they are not based upon scientific principles, but are carried on in the dim and uncertain light of empirical principles and rules of thumb. The business man has for its immediate end to aim the production or the acquisition of wealth. It is an art with a purpose—a very material and practical one. Farmers, manufacturers, merchants, capitalists, professional people and all those who have any share to perform in the industrial world, do so either producing wealth themselves or assisting in acquiring what others have produced. In this wide sense they may be called people of business. Practically, all of them desire wealth, whether it be to obtain a living, to provide themselves with luxuries, to accumulate a fortune, or to give to the poor. Each has his place in the industrial world and receives his share, of common product of industry.

THE PROBLEM OF LIFE.

"The economic problem for each to solve is this: How can I find my proper place in the business world and how can I make the most of my opportunities, so as to produce and secure the greatest possible amount of wealth for myself or for those in whom I am interested? This is an economic problem of great difficulty and is, strictly speaking, insoluble. The most successful business man has probably worked out no more than an approximate solution, and the unsuccessful has obtained no solution at all. Between these extremes we find more or less adequate solutions of what is often a heart-breaking problem. The question which concerns the present subject is whether the problem is to be solved practically and experimentally, or theoretically and scientifically, or whether the practice and the theory of business are to go hand in hand.

"Practical men are no more infallible than theorists. The percentage of business men who fail at some time in their career is very great. There are many qualifications necessary to success in business. A man must have health of body, alertness of mind, diligence, patience, opportunity, capital. In addition to these he must have a thorough business training. With these qualifications, without much general education and without any training in economic science, thousands of business men have attained a considerable degree of success and some have reached the highest positions in the business world. From such facts as these it has been argued that men of business require no education at all, beyond what is given in the elementary schools, and that the intellectual discipline of commercial life is equal to that of high schools and colleges and many times more practical.

ECONOMICS AND BUSINESS.

"There is some truth in this contention, but it is only half a truth. Success in business is, after all, all comparative and relative. It implies an elevation above the common crowd, not the attainment of an absolute standard. In an unprogressive community the most successful man of business may have small ability and little enterprise. Among a hundred Chinese physicians the most popular of all may have less knowledge and training than the most ignorant freshman in a modern medical college. In past time it has not been common for men of business to receive more than a common school education. A few have enjoyed the benefits of high school training, and very few have pursued a college course. The results have shown that high school and college men have attained a remarkable degree of success in business, when we consider how few their numbers and how inadequate their classical and mathematical training as a preparation for the activities of business life.

"But a change is taking place in the world of business, and it is now less common to hear business men disparage the value of a liberal education or underestimate the need of special training in preparation for business life. The art of business is coming to be more and more based upon scientific principles. There is a demand for trained scientists in all the departments of production; and in the buying and selling of goods, in railway office, stock exchange, and the editor's chair, men are needed who have broad views, keen insight, and an enterprising spirit.

A LESSON FROM GERMANY.

"Perhaps the chief reason why Germany has of late years made such inroads upon British trade is that the manufacturers and merchants of that country have understood the value of general and special training in preparation for business life. The German Realschulen and technical schools have justified their existence from this standpoint alone.

"A business man is a specialist, and ought to have the training of a specialist—a good general education, a special knowledge of the business world, and the laws of trade, and an expert's knowledge in his own particular line of work. A practical business training is indispensable, but is not of itself sufficient. Such a training is necessarily conservative, based upon the experience of generations. Business habits are invaluable, but they often hamper, restrict and confine, preventing the adoption of new methods and expansion along new lines.

"Business principles are too often mere rules of thumb, based upon a limited experience, automatically adapted to a narrow environment, involving no insight into the laws of the industrial world, and no capacity for change with the changing times. The business man is often admirably suited to his environment, and were the environment not subject to sudden and radical changes it is conceivable that a race of business men might be developed as much in harmony with the economic world and as happy in their native element as a fish in the sea or a bird in the air. But the business world is subject to constant change, and the business man who cannot in some way anticipate the changes and adapt himself to them is sure to be selected for destruction and thrown out of the way as one unfit to survive."

JUDGMENT.—In the case of Octave Vien, against the estate of the late Rev. Abbe Pierre Leduc, for $1,332, for board and attendance on the late gentleman during his illness, Mr. Justice Langelier this morning granted judgment for the plaintiff for $366.62.

GRAND TRUNK TRAIN-MASTER.

X. H. Cornell, trainmaster of the Indiana, Illinois & Iowa Railway, has been appointed to a similar position in the 25th district of the Grand Trunk Railway System, in place of C. S. Cunningham, who has been appointed superintendent of terminals at Port Huron and Sarnia. Mr. Cornell is well known in Montreal, having been stationed here as trainmaster on the eastern division some years ago.

James M. Herbert, who has been superintendent of the eastern division of the Grand Trunk for some time, left yesterday for Ossawatomie, Kas., where he will act as superintendent of the Missouri Pacific Railway at that point, having charge of the line between Kansas City and Pueblo.

Mr. D. McNicoll, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, left Montreal yesterday for Toronto, and will make a tour of inspection over the lines in Ontario, returning to Montreal the last of the week.

WILL GIVE ORGAN RECITAL.

To give visitors to the Diocesan Jubilee Festival an opportunity of hearing the organ in St. Georges' Church, Mr. P. J. INTERNAL CANCER.

A Severe Case Where the Neighbors Thought Our Remedy had Worked a Miracle.

It is one of the rules in our business not to publish in the newspapers for the gratification of the curious, the names of those who have been cured of cancer by our Constitutional Remedy. Yet, we will give the following synopsis of the case of a widely known gentleman and we will gladly give his name and address to those interested. This man suffered from an internal cancer; the doctors, after consultation, said so, and told him he could not live. The pain he endured was terrible; he could keep nothing on his stomach and lost control of his bowels. Our cancer remedy alleviated the pain, cured the cancer and so restored his strength that when spring came he was able to do his farm work. The neighbours all thought his cure miraculous, but it is just such miracles as this that our simple and truly wonderful treatment is working, with Ald. Kinsella for a mare. I then swapped the mare for another horse, which was killed."

"Did you not make $50 by that transaction?"

"No."

Ald. Ames—Did you ever buy harness not needed by the corporation?"

The witness—"I did, at my own expense."

"Did you ever buy a saddle for your horses with corporation money?"

"No; Chief Benoit gave me a saddle."

The subject was then allowed to drop, and the committee adjourned.

CEMENT PLANT DESTROYED.

Canadian Portland Company's Works at Tweed Burned Yesterday.

LOSS $60,000, COVERED BY INSURANCE — WILL BE REBUILT AT ONCE.

(Special to the Star.)

TWEED, Ont., September 26.—The works of the Canadian Portland Cement Co., located at Marlbank, about sixteen miles from here, were almost completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The only portion of the plant left standing is the kiln house, which was built of stone, the rest of the property being of frame. The fire started at about eight o'clock, caused by the spontaneous explosion of coal gas, and spread quickly, and within an hour the mammoth works were in ashes. The loss on buildings and machinery is estimated at $60,000, but it is fully covered by insurance. The machinery, which was destroyed, was of a very expensive nature, and included two very powerful Goldie & McCullough engines, one of which was a 300 h.p., valued at $5,000. The machinery in the kiln house was practically unhurt.

The plant was formerly the property of the Beaver Portland Cement Co., of Montreal, but in May last was taken over by the Canadian Portland Cement Co., who have been very materially adding to and improving the plant, so that it was getting in first class working order, having a capacity of 500 barrels per day and employing about 150 men.

The fire appliances were of a very inadequate nature, but the company had just completed plans for a very perfect system, and had the same partially under way.

Mr. F. C. B. Allan, of Deseronto, managing director of the company, states that the rebuilding of the works would proceed at once. They will be built of brick and stone, and will be larger and better than before. It is expected that they will be in operation again in the course of about three months.

DEAD BODY OF A NUN FOUND IN ST. MARY'S BAY

DIGBY, N.S., September 26.—The dead body of Sister Millicent, of the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Meteghan, was found near the shore in St. Mary's Bay on Sunday night. During the day she complained of feeling ill, and when she was missed from the convent in the evening a search was instituted, with the result given above. She is believed to have committed suicide.

CAMPAIGN GROWS WARM.

British Politicians of All Shades Take the Stump.

CHAMBERLAIN WILL SPEAK ELEVEN TIMES WITHIN THE NEXT FIFTEEN DAYS.

LONDON, September 26.—Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, has arranged to deliver eleven speeches in fifteen days in the parliamentary election campaign. All the leaders on both sides are under similar heavy engagements. At present there is a slight slackening of confidence on the Government side, and a revival of hope on the Liberal and Radical side that the result at any rate will not be quite a walk-over for the Conservatives.

Lord Salisbury's manifesto is considered rather weak; and Mr. Chamberlain's characterization of the opponents of the war as "Traitors," is considered tactless. Moreover, many Conservatives fear that there will be an inclination to retain in the cabinet the Marquis of Lansdowne, secretary of state for war, and other ministers in whom the public has lost confidence. These are among the chief reasons that have produced a change of feeling.

MR. GOSCHEN'S RETIREMENT.

Mr. Goschen is said to be fully resolved to relinquish his post at the Admiralty; but he announces this morning through the Daily Mail, that his retirement is in no way due to any differences with his colleagues, with whom he says he has not ceased to be in entire accord.

Mr. Herbert Gladstone, speaking last evening at Leeds, hinted that Lord Salisbury would retire after the elections and that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach would relinquish the chancellorship of the exchequer. Other speeches yesterday were made by Mr. Chamberlain at Oldham; Mr. A. J. Balfour, at Manchester; Sir Wm. Vernon Harcourt at Ebbervale, and Mr. George Wyndham, parliamentary under-secretary of state for war at Dover.

Mr. Chamberlain attacking the so-called Liberal imperialists said that not a single one of them, from Lord Rosebery downward, had ever uttered a word to help the Government or to show Mr. Kruger that the country was united in its demands. He said he supposed they had now come out to protect the baggage and he asserted solemnly that there were people in England upon whom the guilt of the war fell as heavily as upon Mr. Kruger.

TWITTED MR. CHAMBERLAIN.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt twitted Mr. Chamberlain with being for the first time without a programme, declaring that the colonial secretary "had gone out of the secret promise business, and taken up the the pursuit of war."

Mr. Wyndham referred to the fact that the Government was spending £7,000,000 on coast defences, which it would take two years to complete. He said it would be dangerous to return the Liberals to power, as they had always neglected such works.

The Northampton Liberals have invited Mr. Henry Labouchere to stand for re-election.

BUGLER HUSTON IS DEAD.

He Sounded Call for Charge of Light Brigade Upon Russian Guns in 1854.

NEW YORK, September 26.—Alexander Huston, bugler of the First section of the Light Brigade, which made the famous charge upon the Russian guns at the Crimean battle of Balaklava, on October 25, 1854, was buried yesterday at Maspeth, L.I.

Huston was 89 years old. He sounded the call for the charge of the Light Brigade at Lord Cardigan's command, sabred a Russian gunner at the foot of the hill and managed to get back to safety with the 195 survivors of the gallant 673.

He saw Captain Nolan killed by a shell while leading his command, and heard his wild shriek, since immortalized in English military history. Huston's horse fell dead near Nolan's body, on the recall. He was wounded in both legs but soon recovered.

When he came to this country he would, according to the English law, have forfeited his pension, but Parliament continued it by a special act.

ROOSEVELT AND DEPEW TO TALK FROM TRAINS.

NEW YORK, September 26.—Arrangements were completed at Republican headquarters yesterday to send out through the state two campaign trains from this city on October 23. Governor Roosevelt and party will be on one train and Senator Depew and another party on the other. One train will go to the northern and the other to the southern counties, and the two will meet in Erie county and make a sweep along the New York Central Railroad together on their way back to New York. They will finish their trip at the Grand Central station a few days before the election. It has not yet been decided whether or not B. B. Odell will make the trip.

COLD STORAGE INSPECTORS.

(Special to the Star.)

OTTAWA, September 26.—The Minister of Agriculture has appointed inspectors both in Canada and Great Britain, whose duties it will be to examine and to report not only the state of agricultural, animal and fruit shipments from this side, but also every detail of the state in which especially products sent by cold storage, arrive at their destination. These officers will report also the state of the markets in Britain for our produce, with the idea of shipping at most favourable times. Homer Goff will be at Bristol; J. B. Oke, of Peterborough, at Glasgow, and J. W. Welton, of Auburn, N.S., at London.

A HUNTER'S EXPERIENCE.

(Special to the Star.)

QUEBEC, September 26.—A man named Martial St. Pierre, of St. Anaclet, near Rimouski, was found unconscious the other day in the woods where he had gone hunting some days before. When found he was suffering from a severe wound caused by the explosion of his gun nearly half his face having been blown away and his jaw bone broken. He is in a very low condition, but the doctors have hopes of his recovery.

GENERAL DIAZ RE-ELECTED.

CHICAGO, September 26.—A despatch to the Record from the City of Mexico says: Mexico's Congress last night declared the result of the Presidential election. General Porfirio Diaz was unanimously elected, and will be inaugurated next December. The President has entirely recovered from his recent indisposition.

AGED MINISTER'S SUICIDE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., September 26.—Rev. Lucien L. Gage, aged 80, a retired Baptist minister, who some time yesterday morning or Sunday night took chloroform with a suicidal intent, died at the homeopathic hospital shortly after midnight Monday night.

Hearing Restored After Physicians in Toronto and Winnipeg Failed.

JAPANESE CATARRH CURE CURED

Neglected catarrh is the cause of deafness in nine out of every ten cases. When you hear a little buzzing, roaring sound occasionally in your ears you can be sure partial deafness will follow sooner or later, unless Japanese Catarrh Cure is used.

Mr. D. N. Spencer, 11 Coolmine ave., Toronto, writes: "I have been troubled with catarrh and deafness for a number of years, finally I could not converse with any person at a distance. I spent much money on advertised remedies, and doctored with specialists in Toronto and Winnipeg (while there three years ago), but my hearing became no better. About a year ago I procured a sample of Japanese Catarrh Cure. I at once followed up this treatment as directed, and shortly I found my hearing completely returned and my catarrh dogs no trouble me now in the least. I can conscientiously recommend it to any person troubled with catarrh or catarrhal deafness."

Japanese Catarrh Cure is a volatile, healing pomade, pleasant to use, and permanently cures catarrh wherever located. Sold by all druggists; or mailed, price 50 cents, by The Griffiths and Macpherson Co., Limited, 123 Church st., Toronto.

UNITED STATES REGULAR ARMY

Will be Increased From Approximately 25,000 to 100,000 Men.

NEW YORK, September 26.—A Washington special to the World says:

Orders have been issued at the War Department to the chiefs of the different bureaus to prepare statements showing the cost of recruiting and maintaining a volunteer force as against the cost of maintenance of the same number of regulars and based upon the item of extra expense attached to the recruiting and organization of the volunteer forces.

The time is fast approaching when the present volunteer force in the Philippines must be withdrawn. To maintain the necessary force in the Philippines another volunteer army must be authorized or else an increase in the regular army. The War Department will point out to Congress that the latter plan is the only feasible one, and ask for authority to raise the strength of the army to 100,000 men with permanent enlisting [illegible]

ARTS AND HANDICRAFTS.

The W. A. A. to Hold an Exhibition Next Month.

An Exhibition of Arts and Handicrafts is announced to take place in the art gallery of the new wing of the Colonial House (the new Morgan & Co.), from October 20 to November 3, under the auspices of the Womans' Art Association of this city. For several years this association has been doing quiet but effective work, in stimulating the cultivation of art, and gradually improving the Standard of Canadian handicrafts. The names of the ladies who have undertaken this patriotic but difficult task, are a guarantee of the excellence of the results. The very large department of lace work, embroideries, weaving, etc., is under the charge of Madame Thibaudeau and Miss Watt, who have especial facilities for unearthing beautiful and artistic specimens. The fragile and graceful ceramics are presided over by Mrs. MacTier. Wood and metal work, stained glass, old jewellery, silver, etc., form another section, confided to Mrs. Jas. H. Peck. The quaint effects of leather work and artistic bookbinding are in charge of Mrs. Anson McKim. The historic value of delicate fans and old-fashioned as well as modern miniatures, as collected by Lady Hingston, will be an attraction to the student, while the practical, and, at the same time rarely beautiful department of design and illustration, under Mrs. G. B. Burland, and the varied resources of the basket-makers' craft, as gathered together by Mrs. H. Markland Molson, will round off a unique exhibition.

A special feature will be the competitive exhibition of a number of designs and sketches, prizes for which have been offered by several public-spirited citizens, notably, Mr. G. B. Burland, whose munificent gift to the association for this purpose will, it is hoped, stimulate the efforts of Canadian workers.

So far as arranged, the ladies in charge are: Miss Mary M. Phillips, president; Mrs. F. Minden Cole, secretary; Miss Irwin, assistant secretary; Miss W. Eglauch, treasurer; Madame Thibaudeau, Miss Watt, Madame Tessier, of Quebec, Mrs. Jas. H. Peck, Mrs. W. R. Miller, Miss Skelton, Mrs. Frank Redpath, Mrs. F. H. Gilbert, Mrs. MacTier, Mrs. F. C. A. TUPPER'S ONTARIO TOUR REVIEWED.

From the Standpoint of Enthusiasm and an Attentive Hearing It Leaves Nothing to Be Desired.

Evidences That the Liberals Are in a Panicky Condition; the People's Attitude Justifies This.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

"The swing of victory is in the air" was one of the catch phrases of a leading Liberal newspaper in Ontario during the last campaign, and at the great Liberal-Conservative mass meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, Mr. Foster neatly adopted it to the present struggle.

The swing of victory is certainly in the air if public meetings are any criterion of the trend of public sentiment.

Sir Charles Tupper's political stamping tour in Ontario was a brilliant success, judged from every standpoint, the numbers which attended, the enthusiasm and receptiveness of the audiences, the spirit displayed, and what is, perhaps, most important, the willingness, even eagerness, of Liberal-Conservatives everywhere to do what the occasion requires of them. The rank and file of the party require no spurring of their zeal, they are ready and anxious for the fray everywhere. Mr. Foster made no more striking and significant remark in any of his wonderfully impressive and telling speeches than when he pointed out that the leaders did not have to "see" the Conservatives at the various centres. In other words, there were no tangles to be straightened out, there were no obstreperous ones to be whipped into line, no family jars to be adjusted and personal griefs to be assuaged, and personal, as opposed to party ambition to be placated. The party is united, and the humblest member is ready to do what he can for the cause. The task of the leaders is therefore, an easy one.

LIBERAL HEART-BURNINGS.

It is an open secret that it was not ever thus, and that it is not so now among the Liberals. A notorious instance is that of West Elgin. Even with the aid of the machine, which polled 162 ballots, when only 152 delegates were present, the Liberal convention was unable to decide upon a candidate, and it had to be adjourned for a week. One heard it freely stated that Mr. George Casey, M.P., would not get the nomination, and, even if he does, that it will be impossible to reconcile the varying elements. West Elgin, therefore, will be all the easier for the Conservatives to redeem. In North York also there is great dissatisfaction because Mr. Rowell and not Mr. Peter Ryan got the party nomination. I. William Mulock, is given the credit for this result, but it has had for effect the estrangement of Mr. Ryan's friends and the Irish Catholics, who feel that they are not properly represented in the Cabinet and the party councils. Mr. Rowell, too, calls himself a "Mackenzie Liberal," whatever that may signify in these days of "new Liberalism."

One cannot go through Ontario without being impressed with the fact that there are a large number of more or less staunch Liberals who are dissatisfied with their party and their "new Liberal" Government. Besides these are many men whose party affiliations are not of such a binding nature that they can be safely counted on by either party, except they believe that party to be in the right. I have not heard during five weeks' travelling about Canada of one of these unattached men who has come out in favour of the present Government. There are many Conservatives, too, who voted for the Liberals in 1896, and they will never do so again, at least not in 1900.

An Ottawa paper tells of a commercial traveller who commented on the apathy of the rank and file of the Liberals as the most striking feature of the present contest. I was sitting at dinner in a Toronto hotel, when five commercial travellers were discussing every topic under heaven, as is their wont when the day's business is over.

"Well, Jack," said one, "you have done nearly all Canada now, what do you think of the prospect of the elections?"

"There are only two parties," replied Jack, with a most judicial air, "and one of them must win. If the Conservatives do not, the Liberals will." Jack is certainly a diplomat, and that his purpose was to avoid a political discussion was shown by his branching off at once into a racy account of certain of his experiences. He had expressed his opinion as to the winner, however. On another occasion, two men were discussing a certain Liberal member and the excuses he made for the course of the Government. I told him, said the one who was speaking, I did not blame them so much for doing what they did, but I did blame them both for being blankety blank liars.

THE LIBERALS' BROKEN PROMISES.

I have before remarked that it was one of the most noticeable features of the campaign that the moment a speaker came to the question of the violated pledges of the Liberals he struck a responsive cord. In the way Hugh John Macdonald put it before the electors
