Televised debate could be turning point for Turner

OTTAWA (CP) — With election day just four weeks away, Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, Liberal Leader John Turner and the NDP's Ed Broadbent go head to head tonight in the first of two debates on issues from free trade to abortion and government morality.

Turner appears to have the most riding on the nationally televised encounters, which analysts say may be more about which party forms the official Opposition than who wins on Nov. 21.

Trailing badly in the polls, Liberal insiders say Turner must go for broke in the showdowns, tonight in French and Tuesday night in English from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. EDT before a panel of three journalists.

"I think he should open with a line, just open up and say, you know, 'Mr. Mulroney, you've been lying to Canadians for 4½ years, it's time you stopped.' That's a good opening salvo," one Liberal strategist said last week.

Another Liberal says Turner must do exceptionally well if he is to reverse the party's slide.

MAJOR TEST

"If he's just so-so he'll slow the process up but not stop it, and if he's bad it's game over."

Whether Turner was helped Saturday by Jean Chretien, his former leadership rival, remains to be seen.

Chretien said it is time for all Liberals "to rally behind the party, all it's candidates and behind the leader."

It is time to forget personalities and start talking about issues such as free trade, he said.

"We have an election in which we are going to decide the future of the country."

The New Democrats appear to be trying to forget Turner altogether.

"What is happening in Canadian politics right now is that more Canadians than ever before are saying that the choices are between Brian Mulroney and his view and Ed Broadbent and his view of Canada," NDP campaign director Bill Knight said in a CTV interview broadcast Sunday.

"So that debate begins on Monday and Tuesday."

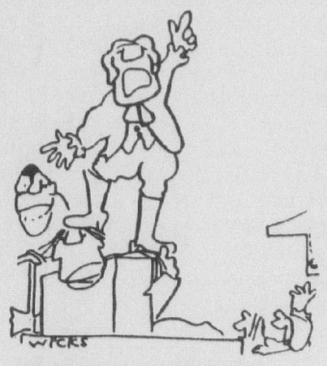
TRADE THE ISSUE

Both opposition leaders expect the government's free-trade deal with the United States — which they oppose — to dominate the debates. But other issues can be expected to be raised, including abortion, defence, pensions, and the Constitution.

The middle hour of each encounter is for issues of special interest to women.

During an interview on CTV's Sunday Edition, Broadbent said he will confront Mulroney on free trade.

He told reporters later he will bore in on how the deal will affect the environment, energy, regional development and farming, issues he said Mulroney has been ducking.



"Vote for me and I'll be tough on crime."

Signs decision leading to new fight?

Quebecers may have long wait for ruling

By Penny MacRae

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebecers, weary of the long and sometimes nasty debate over the province's French-only sign rule, thought a Supreme Court of Canada judgment expected this fall would settle it once and for all.

But it now appears the ruling on the legality of the sign provisions in the language law, commonly referred to as Bill 101, could only be a warm-up for another bitter legal fight.

CP News Analysis

Premier Robert Bourassa, who once condemned the French-only rule as a "black mark on a civilized society," pledged bilingual signs in the 1985 provincial election campaign.

But fearful of a francophone backlash that could endanger his popularity, he appears ready to ignore anglophone threats to go back to the courts if he delivers anything less than what he promised.

Bourassa has been hinting that there won't be across-the-board bilingual signs even if the high court rules the law violates constitutional guarantees of freedom of expression.

'I think any responsible leader has to take into account social peace," Bourassa says of the language law, which is supported by the majority of Quebecers.

The Opposition Parti Quebecois, which introduced the law in 1977, has charged that under the Liberals, French is losing ground to English in Quebec and that the province's "French face" will be destroyed if commercial signs are allowed in languages other than French. The PQ sees the issue as a chance to narrow the yawning gap in public opinion polls between itself and the Liberals.

KEEPS OPTION

Bourassa's favorite option seems to be a proposal to keep the French-only rule for outside signs but permit other languages on signs inside commercial establishments.

Other solutions, such as allowing bilingual signs with French in larger characters are unworkable, the premier says.

The "inside-outside" plan does not please Alliance Quebec, the largest English-rights lobby, which wants Bourassa to keep his election promise to allow bilingual signs everywhere.

But, as a Montreal newspaper columnist commented: "What counts to him are votes" and he knows he can get elected without a single ballot from Quebec's 800,000 anglophones.

The 40,000-member Alliance Quebec has said that if another court challenge is required, there will be one. The group would go back to the courts to argue that the inside-outside formula restricted freedom of expression as much as the cutright ban on other languages.

Says Alliance chairman Peter Blaikie: "When I am told my language is to be hidden away, I'm insulted. If what we are trying to protect is the French face of Quebec, it seems beauty is skin deep."

Nor does Bourassa's plan satisfy the nationalist St-Jean-Baptiste Society, which says it would mean Quebec "no longer is committed to being a fundamentally French society."

ACCEPT PLAN

Not everyone in the anglophone community backs the Alliance Quebec view. David Culver, the chairman of Alcan Aluminium Ltd., and a pillar of the anglophone business establishment, considers the inside-outside formula acceptable.

Liberal strategists reportedly believe it will be a welcome compromise for the "silent majority" of anglophone and francophones who are anxious to avoid renewed tensions. They also hope it can prevent any embarassing resignations by anglophone cabinet ministers.

Justice Minister Gil Remillard is aware the province could end up in the courts again. But he would rather argue again that Quebec is justified in limiting freedom of expression to protect the French language than use the notwithstanding clause in the Constitution to override the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

It is vital to Bourassa to avoid invoking the notwithstanding clause, a move that could cause an uproar in English Canada and jeopardize ratification of the Meech Lake constitutional accord by Manitoba and New Brunswick — the only two provinces' not to have approved it.

The accord, among other things, recognizes Quebec as a "distinct society."

There may be a longer wait than expected for the Supreme Court ruling.

Court officials said last week the ruling may be delayed until next year because of the illness of two judges.

Early snow brings PCB warehouse roof down

ST-BASILE-LE-GRAND, Que. (CP) — An unexpected snowfall Saturday caused a temporary roof on a destroyed PCB warehouse to cave in.

The canvas and metal-framed roof gave way under the pressure of melting snow just moments before a meeting of those responsible for cleaning up the site was to be held. The temporary roof was installed to keep the area dry during the cleanup.

Environment Quebec officials said they knew the roof would not hold up under winter conditions but did not expect a snowfall this early in the year.

Last Aug. 23, a fire at the warehouse east of Montreal where barrels of waste oil containing the toxic PCBs were stored, forced 3,300 residents from their homes for several weeks.

Environment Quebec official Pierre Sourdif said the roof's collapse poses no danger. Experts will meet today to decide how to proceed with the cleanup.

Since early September, work teams have been putting debris, soil and other wastes in containers which are eventually to be removed from the site.

The work is scheduled to be completed by mid-December.

Peace vigil marches on the Hill

OTTAWA (CP) — It looked liked Christmas.

Candles flickered as 35 people sang peace songs in front of the snow-covered lawns of Parliament Hill on Sunday to mark the fourth annual Vigil for Peace.

"The vigil is to mark the beginning of United Nations' disarmament week," said Heather Wheat, a vigil organizer.

Although most politicians have abandoned the Hill to campaign in the federal election, she said the vigil's spirit must be kept alive.

"We have to continue to make people aware that there is a way to resolve disputes in a peaceful way," she said, moments after an RCMP car raced by the gathering.

The group of all ages, but mostly students, broke from its candlelight circle for a few minutes to walk around the Hill singing to a guitar and the beat of a drum.

Nien Pham, who fought in the Vietnam War, said "because I suffered the war I don't want to see others suffer war. That's why I'm here."

On Friday, Mounties stopped an attempt to revive the peace camp on the Hill when they arrested camp founder Eibie Weizfeld, of Montreal, and hauled him to jail.

'Rally behind party'

Chrétien denies leadership offer

GRAND-MERE, Que. (CP) — Former cabinet minister Jean Chrétien pleaded with Liberals at a weekend meeting to bury their differences over John Turner's leadership and save the party from annihilation.

"It is important to recognize this country was founded by the Liberal party," Chrétien told 300 supporters at a fundraiser Saturday for the candidate in St-Maurice, the riding he represented for 23 years.

In his first campaign appearance, Chrétien called on Liberals to "rally behind the party, all its candidates and the leader."

He warned that the country could face the same right-left polarization that has emerged in some western European countries if the Conservatives and the NDP emerge as the two top parties after the Nov. 21 election. There "will be no place for a party of the centre," he said.

Chrétien invoked the glory days of the Liberals under Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Louis St. Laurent and Pierre Trudeau. He left Turner's name off his list of party greats, although he expressed sympathy for the embattled leader's plight later to reporters.

"I feel sorry for Mr. Turner," said Chrétien, runner-up to Turner in the 1984 leadership race, adding he hopes the party can make up lost ground in this week's TV leaders' debates.

DENIED KNOWLEDGE

Chrétien denied knowledge of any plot to oust Turner, saying he is mystified about the origin of last week's news reports that top organizers had discussed ousting Turner.

Another report Saturday in the Montreal News said Chrétien had turned down an offer to lead the party. "I don't know anything about it and I don't want to lend it any credibility," said Chrétien, fending off speculation he has leadership ambitions.

His call to unity came against a backdrop of polls suggesting the Liberals are running third behind the Tories and the NDP.

Some Liberal strategists fear the party may win only five seats in the province that was once its fortress and that such key figures as Raymond Garneau, Turner's Quebec lieutenant, could be defeated. During the last election, the Liberals won 17 of Quebec's 75 seats while the Tories took the rest.

Chrétien called on Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa to abandon his official position of neutrality to help the party in its hour of need. Bourassa, perceived as pro-Tory because of his friendship with Prime Minister Brian Mulroney and his support of free trade, has said he will not take sides.

"He helped (Secretary of State) Lucien Bouchard get elected in the June byeletion, he could help the Liberals now," said Chrétien, whose relations with Bourassa have often been testy.

Anderson kidnappers make demands public

BEIRUT (AP) — Kidnappers holding American hostages in Lebanon announced five demands Sunday and threatened to make the United States pay a price that "would reflect adversely" on the captives' fate if the demands are not met.

The threat came in a three-page typewritten statement in Arabic signed by Islamic Jihad, or holy war, which holds U.S. journalist Terry Anderson and teacher Thomas Sutherland.

It was delivered in a sealed envelop to the independent newspaper An-Nahar. A picture of Anderson was later delivered to a western news agency in Beirut — the kidnappers' normal method of authenticating statements.

The statement demanded:

"Release of all our mujahedeen (holy warriors) from all Arab and foreign jails.

"Release of all Lebanese and Palestinian Mujahedeen from Israeli jails in the occupied lands and its surrogates in South Lebanon's border enclave and (Christian) East Beirut.

"Withdrawal of all Israeli forces and their surrogates from South Lebanon without any conditions.

"Non-intervention in Lebanese domestic affairs and the discontinuation of support for partitionist, isolationist and sectarian forces in Lebanon.

"Reconstruction of South Lebanon and Beirut...And payment of war reparations to all our oppressed people in Lebanon.

Thieves miss gold rush

DESTOR, Que. (CP) — In Wild-West style, thieves dynamited telephone lines and a vault in an aborted attempt to rob a gold mine in this remote northwestern Quebec town.

A police spokesman said an unknown number of thieves used dynamite to bring down power lines around 3 a.m. Sunday, leaving 2,000 people in the area — 40 kilometres north of Rouyn-Noranda — without telephone service or electricity.

They then proceeded to the Vezina gold mine, owned by the Quebec government through Cambior Inc., where they handcuffed two company employees and tried to blast their way into the vault.

Unsuccessful, they opened fire on the ceiling and escaped.

"It's a vast area," said Michel Martin, a Quebec provincial police spokesman in Montreal.

Martin said no one was hurt in the attempted theft but as of late afternoon Sunday, power lines were still out in the area.

Paul Vachon serenades supporters: Country music from the country boy

By Rita Legault

KNOWLTON — New Democrat candidate Paul Vachon serenaded electors Saturday night, joining the band to belt out a few country and western songs at a fundraising dinner, getting cheers from the crowd and demands for encores.

Also on hand to drum up support for the Brome-Missisquoi NDP candidate was Maurice 'Mad Dog' Vachon, who came to help his brother and former tag-team wrestling partner Paul 'the Butcher' fight his campaign.

Mad Dog attended the fundraising at Knowlton Legion Hall Saturday, where about 50 NDP supporters applauded his arrival.

Maurice Vachon praised his brother, describing him as a "gentle giant". He said he hopes Paul will win because "he's a good man for the job".

"The first quality that is important is you have to like what you are doing," Mad Dog pointed out. "Paul is a born PR man. He likes people and he's up front."

JOINED THE NDP

Paul Vachon said brother Maurice and family are among his biggest supporters. He said he has convinced many to become card carrying members of the NDP.

"When I joined the party one of the first membership cards I sold was to my brother," Paul Vachon said. "The first one I sold to my mother. The second one, I sold to Maurice."

Their mother, who lives in the family home in Dunkin, and Maurice, who recently bought a home in Glen Sutton — both in the riding of Brome Missisquoi — will also be able to show their support for Paul where it counts, on voting day at the polls.

'Mad Dog' said that Paul followed him into the wrestling arena, but it is unlikely that he will follow the older Vachon into the political arena.

Paul Vachon said his size and reputation as a wrestler will help in battles in the House of Commons.

"When you're six-foot-one and 280 pounds, people don't argue long," he joked.

Vachon said that during an interview with an Ottawa paper last week a parliamentary reporter said MPs wanted him to ask whether opponents can expect a hammer-lock if they are against Vachon's stands in the House.

"I told him to go back and tell them yes," joked Vachon, erupting in laughter.

SUPPORT THE MAN

Many on hand for the fundraiser said they don't necessarily support NDP policies but support Vachon.

"He's a man with a heart of gold," said Jocelyn Meunier, a parish animator at Nôtre Dame de Grace chapel in Sutton, where she met while Vachon doing parish work.

"He's a man you can count on," she said. "If he works as well in politics as he does with us, things will go very well."

And if things don't turn put in politics Vachon can always turn to singing. He has been asked to perform as a special guest at a concert by the Bluebirds of Happiness show band. He will sing with them at two concerts November 5 at Massey Vanier High School in Cowansville.

Waste disposal, pediatrics ward

NDP candidate opposed to hospital reactor

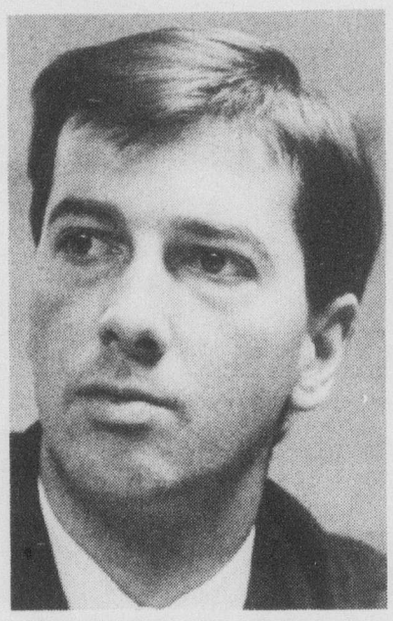
SHERBROOKE (RL) — A nuclear reactor at the Centre Hospitalier Universitaire de Sherbrooke would be a danger to the public health and ecological safety of Sherbrooke and therefore building one is out of the question, says New Democratic candidate Alain Poirier.

Sherbrooke riding hopeful Poirier held a press conference Friday to say he supports the CHUS Coalition, a group of local environmental groups opposed to the hospital's Slowpoke generator project.

"We have to listen to the opposition of the CHUS Coalition and their argument on the danger of this kind of technology," Poirier said. "Its proximity to a hospital is illogical since for the last few years pediatrics for the Sherbrooke region has been centralized at the CHUS."

He said nuclear dangers are growing and the possibility of a nuclear incident close to a hospital is unacceptable.

Poirier said Atomic Energy of Canada Limited (AECL), which hopes to give the experimental Slowpoke thermal reactor to the CHUS, does not allow pregnant women and schoolchildren to visit its Slowpoke research facility in Manitoba.



Alain Poirier... Hospital no place for a nuke.

DISPOSAL PROBLEMS

The NDP candidate said Sherbrookers should think about the disposal problems of the one tonne of radioactive waste the CHUS Slowpoke reactor will create every five years.

"When we produce it we need to eliminate it, and the technology to destroy radioactive waste does not yet exist," he said. "This waste will be toxic for thousands and thousands of years."

Poirier said there are cheaper alternative forms of energy — including electricity and natural gas — the CHUS can use for heating. And he said scientific literature confirms that a less-dangerous and cheaper cyclotron could produce radio-isotopes the hospital needs for nuclear medicine.

"I think the people will understand the action we take this morning," said Poirier. "We invite them to support the coalition and inform themselves about the issue.

"I'm sure a closer look at the facts will bring one conclusion," he said: "No reactor at the CHUS."

Three hours after jurors convene, rapist acquitted

GRANBY (JM) — The six-man, six-woman jury hearing the case of Gino Jubert deliberated for slightly more than three hours Friday before returning with a not-gulty verdict.

Jubert, 26, from Cowansville, was charged with raping a 26-year-old secretary in her house in Cowansville on Oct. 3 1987. The Superior Court trial began Oct. 17.

Mr. Justice Louis-Philippe Galipeau spent an hour and a half giving his instructions to the jury.

Justice Galipeau told the jurors there was evidence that the victim had been raped but that the essence of the case was the identification of her assailant. The judge stressed time and again it was up to the Crown to make its proof beyond all reasonable doubt. Galipeau said the accused must benefit from even a shadow of doubt in the jurors' minds.

Justice Galipeau freed Jubert, thanked the jury, the attorneys and the court staff for the roles they had played in the administration of justice.

Jubert showed as little emotion when the verdict was read as he had throughout the trial, save during his testimony and cross-examination when he adamantly denied raping the victim.

Crown attorney Henry Keyserlingk and defence lawyer Thomas Walsh agreed Justice Galipeau's directives to the jury were well balanced. Walsh was obviously pleased with the outcome. Keyserlingk only said there is one winner and one loser in the adversarial system. He did not indicate that he was planning to appeal.

Two killed in high-speed Route 143 head-on crash

HATLEY TOWNSHIP — Two people were killed instantly on Route 143 Friday afternoon in a head-on auto crash apparently caused by the excessive speed at which one of them was driving.

Dead are Sherilyn Roger Lunnie, of Ayer's Cliff, a 28-year-old mother of two, and Carl Phaneuf, 29, an unemployed laborer from Waterville. Both were alone in their vehicles at the time of the collision.

Police said Phaneuf was driving far too fast and lost control of his car, which crossed the roadway and slammed into Lunnie's truck in her lane.

Phaneuf's 1978 car skidded more than 75 feet before impact. Both vehicles were seized for mechanical inspection. Tires were removed from Phaneuf's car for tests which may help determine how fast he was going.

The Sherbrooke fire department rescue squad was called in the cut the vehicles open so the bodies could be removed. Because there were no witnesses both were sent for autopsies.

Leave your leaves by roadside

SHERBROOKE — Any Sherbrookers wondering what to do with the fallen leaves that blanket lawns this time of the year need worry no longer.

As long as the leaves are stuffed into tied garbage bags and left by the sidewalk, trucks from the city's special fall leaf-patrol service will be by to pick them up.

News-in-brief

Eggs switching to paper

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's largest manufacturer of egg cartons plans to switch to paper from Styrofoam at its Brantford plant because of consumer complaints that plastic foam is hazardous to the environment.

Cascade Dominion was told by Ontario food store managers that consumers were wary of buying eggs packaged in Styrofoam, said Bob Hamilton, the company's sales manager.

Disposing of Styrofoam is a problem because it doesn't disintegrate when buried and creates toxic gases if burned. Scientists have linked those gases to deterioration of the earth's ozone layer.

Cascade Dominion, which has its main plant in Quebec, produces about half of Canada's Styrofoam egg cartons and supplies virtually every Ontario store chain with egg cartons.

Dead dog kills three

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter) — A dog which fell from a 13th-floor balcony triggered three human deaths in central Buenos Aires, police and witnesses said.

The dog, a poodle named Cachi, hit 75-year-old Marta Espina on the head when it fell and both the woman and the dog died instantly Friday night, a police officer who requested anonymity said.

Edith Sola, 46, died when she was knocked down by a bus while standing in the middle of the street at the edge of a crowd that had gathered to watch the scene, police said.

An unidentified man who saw both incidents then had a heart attack and died in an ambulance on his way to hospital.

It was not immediately clear why the poodle fell.

Joan continues to kill

MANAGUA (AP) — Hurricane Joan killed at least 50 people and left 300,000 homeless as it crossed Nicaragua, officials said Sunday.

Rain drenched the country while the government tried to organize rescue efforts and restore communications.

The storm killed 21 people in Costa Rica and four in Panama, bringing the death toll for its six-day trip across the Caribbean to at least 111.

More than 150 people were missing.

Joan slowly weakened into a tropical storm over land but strengthened again when it reached the Pacific. No longer an Atlantic hurricane, it was given a new name in the sequence of this year's Pacific storms — Tropical Storm Miriam.

Parizeau: Independence option is up but PQ still down in opinion polls

By Rita Legault

WINDSOR — The independence option is more popular in polls than the Parti Québécois itself, says Jacques Parizeau, so it would be "crazy" not to base a PQ electoral campaign on a sovereign Quebec.

"When a party is lower in the polls that the option it presents, can you see the risk in saying we are sovereignists?" Parizeau asked about a hundred Eastern Township PQ delegates in Windsor Saturday.

He said with a federal election campaign underway it is time for the three party leaders to clear up their stands on the 'distict society' clause in the Meech Lake Accord and whether it takes precedence over the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

GETTING READY

Parizeau was at a meeting of local party workers preparing for the party's annual convention in St-Hyacinthe this week, when the PQ will finalize its latest party program.

Parizeau talked of the importance of regional meetings like the one in Windsor and an similar Quebec City meeting he attended earlier in the day.

"This is what has made our strength in the past," he said. "These regional conventions supply us with a real government program, one that comes from the people."

Parizeau said polls show Quebecers favor sovereignty but are not yet willing to support the PQ.

He said the polls showing Quebecers want sovereignty ask three fundamental questions:

- Do you believe that laws which apply to Quebec should be decided in the National Assembly?
- Do you think Quebec should levy its own taxes and decide on how the money is spent?
- Do you think that treaties which link Quebec to other countries should be signed by Quebec?

Parizeau said answers to all three questions run between 50 and 65 per cent in favor. But he said other polls show the Parti Québécois has support of only 40 per cent.

"This shows that people are ready to buy sovereignty retail but not wholesale," said the portly economist.

Praizeau said the PQ must keep its traditional sovereignty stand and work on popularity.

"It's clear where we should be heading," he said. "It's very clear."

HOW DISTINCT?

Parizeau also told delegates the distinct society clause must have precedence over the Charter of Rights or it will be meaningless.

He said federal politicians have two unacceptable reactions to the 'distinct society' clause. One group thinks it is of no importance, while others think it will "balkanize" the country, he said, so it's time to clear up the confusion.

Parizeau said Liberal leader John Turner's promise to repeal of the Constitution's 'notwithstanding' clause means he thinks the distinct society clause is meaningless. Notwithstanding allows provinces to avoid following parts of the rights charter.

"He said he will get rid of the notwithstanding clause," Parizeau said. "This is our last line of protection and he wants to blow it up."

Ed Broadbent saying the Charter of Rights should have precendence over 'distict society' renders it meaningless as well.

'HE DOESN'T KNOW'

"Mulroney agrees that the Meech Lake Accord has primacy over the Charter but he says the Supreme Court will have the last say," said Parizeau, adding that although Mulroney signed the deal, it will mean nothing if the courts give it another interpretation.

"Mulroney signed the deal and he doesn't know what it means," said Parizeau. "Broadbent and Turner voted for it but they think it is meaningless."

As for Robert Bourassa, Parizeau also had harsh words for the premier.

"He says that if the if the distict society clause were to be defeated it would be worse than the status quo," Parizeau said, adding that while two provinces haven't yet signed the new constitutional deal, Bourassa should seek a Supreme Court interpretation.

"They are leaving the responsibility to non-elected authorities, and we are supposed to be contented with that?" he asked. "They have a contempt of Quebecers that makes no sense. It is unacceptable for them to mock us this way."

MORE MEMBERS

Parizeau said péquiste numbers have doubled in recent months and the party has now surpassed its financial campaign goals. "We are no longer in the red, which is very important for the PQ," Parizeau joked, refering to the traditional color of the Liberal party.

He said the PQ is headed for a "new serenity" and that despite varying opinions in the party a "cement" holds members together.

The party "has always been a grouping of very different people," Parizeau said. "There are some people rather left and some rather right and many who practice the most popular politics in Quebec, that of the extreme centre."

"We were created in the image of everyone," he said. "But the cement that holds us together is the sovereignty of Quebec."

RECORD/RITA LEGAULT

PQ membership is up but the party's popularity continues to lag in polls, says leader Jacques Parizeau.

'That's what economists do'

Federal work no conflict — independantiste

WINDSOR (RL) — Parti Québécois leader Jacques Parizeau said Saturday he sees no conflict of interest in accepting a federal consulting contract in 1987.

Parizeau, an economist, was reacting to a La Presse story which said he worked for the federal government less than a year before coming back to politics with the objective of independence for Quebec.

The article said many of his PQ colleagues were unaware of the contact and some became upset by it.

He said economics is his profession and it is natural for him to do this kind of work. He said he did not understand what the issue is about.

"As a professional economist my first contract with the federal government was 32 years ago and I have done several more since then," he said. "What do you want. That's what economists do."

"I have even done some for the government of Quebec in the past," he said. "I have even done some for municipalities and they even asked me to preside on their commission of inquiry."

"Worse than that, yet, as a social democrat I have worked as a consulting economist for some of the largest financial institutions in Quebec," he added sarcastically. "Do you realize, as a social democrat how awful that is?"

Parizeau said he has no more time for contracts, but added that if he did he would continue to practice his profession.

OK, English universities can stay but visitors should send children to French schools

Taking the hardline approach to language: local PQs dump on English schooling

WINDSOR — The local Parti Québécois association voted Saturday night that workers coming into the province on temporary work assignments should be forced to send their children to French schools.

Another resolution, which was defeated, said the province should make all Quebec universities French.

The local party workers' meeting was one of several being held across the province to prepare for the party's annual convention at which the PQ will finalize its party program. That meeting will be held later this week in St-Hyacinthe.

Presently workers on temporary assignment in the province are exempt from Bill 101 provisions forcing immigrants to attend French schools.

Local pequistes, however, will propose at this week's provincial convention that temporary residents either send their children to French schools or have individuals or companies bringing them here pay for English schooling.

As for Quebec English universities, since other provinces do not offer French universities for francophones, Quebec shouldn't offer English universities for anglophones, said regional PQ president Henri Bourassa.

Even the University of Moncton in New Brunswick is bilingual, he said.

The local association also voted on a resolution to demand that the Bourassa government penalize those who are breaking Bill 101 French-only provisions by posting bilingual signs.

The resolution demands that the government enforce Bill 101 and apply penalties provided for in the law.

The local PQ association also passed two urgent resolutions blaming the Liberal government for industries leaving the province and youth protection waiting lists.

A motion of blame was passed criticizing Liberal MNAs and ministers in the Eastern Townships for their inaction in the closing of local industries like Lowney's in Sherbrooke and the subsequent loss of jobs in the region," Bourassa said.

"The Liberals blamed the Parti Québécois for the exodus of industries to Ontario in 1976," Bourassa said. "Now in much better economic times industries are still leaving the province."

"How do they explain that?" he asked.

A second urgent resolution demands immediate action by Health Minister Thérese Lavoie-Roux on the backlog of children waiting for essential youth protection services.

The resolution says there are 200 children on waiting lists in the Townships (50 of whom were sexually abused in their own home).

The resolution says the government must immediately get the Treasury Board to release the necessary funds to deal with the backlog.

The resolutions passed at the local meeting will be brought to the national convention in St-Hyacinthe where they will be voted on by delegates from across Quebec.

Resolutions passed at the convention will become part of the Parti Québécois program.

Boaters may have to pay for police — Nicolet

Lake people disappointed: New enforcement powers not what they wanted

By Rita Legault

MAGOG — Starting next summer Quebec municipalities will be able to control things like speed and size of boats and motors on waterways in their territories but they won't be able to control noise levels or stop people from dumping sewage overboard.

Following a transfer of power from Ottawa, the municipalities will be able to create lake patrols to control the activities of pleasure boats.

But according to Memphremagog regional municipality (MRC) warden Roger Nicolet, the restrictions won't really meet their requirements.

On Friday, mayors from municipalities around lakes Memphremagog and Massawippi, MRC warden Nicolet, MP Gabrielle Bertrand and representatives of Memphremagog Conservation Inc. (MCI) met with federal and provincial government officials to find out more about the changes.

SAFETY ONLY

According to Jacques Clavelle of the Canadian Coast Guard, municipalities will be able to use controls in the federal merchant marine law. But federal regulations only permit certain restrictions affecting safety.

Municipalities will be able to apply nine types of restriction: banning all boats, banning motorboats, banning all motorboats except those powered by electric motors, limiting size of motors, limiting speed, banning waterskiing or other forms of towing, limiting the size of wake, banning regattas or boat races, and banning commercial rafting by organizations which do not have permits.

The MRCs wonder who will cover policing bills. Quebec has made it clear the province will not pay for inspectors.

Nicolet said the MRC has sought legal advice on whether it can make users pay by requiring boating permits.

"The question is whether we can charge (boat) users," he said. "If it's not the users then lakeside residents will have to be charged — or else a general tax, which would be difficult to pass" will have to be imposed.

OTHER PROBLEMS

In the meantime municipalities and conservationists are wondering how they can control other problems such as boaters dumping sewage overboard.

MCI, an association of 2800 lakeside dwellers, has been fighting for a regulation requiring sealed onboard toilet tanks for years. The state of Vermont has such a regulation at the American end of Lake Memphremagog.

MCI president Penny Baudinet distributed a letter from the Vermont state police which says holding tanks are a very high priority and that Vermont marine police will be enforcing regulations strictly during the 1989 boating season.

MCI vice-president Jean Paul Clermont said such rules already exist in five provinces, and merchant ships cannot dump anything overboard. "Why not give the same restriction to pleasure craft?" he asked.

MCI also said regulations on noise levels and anchoring are needed as well.

Clermont asked Clavelle what could be done about the "illegal parking problem" of pleasure boats anchoring just offshore for the summer to avoid renting marina space, and about noise caused by motorboats — like one observed on Memphremagog with two 450 horsepower outboard motors.

Clermont said a Vermont regulation limits noise to 90 decibels. He said the boat on Memphremagog was measured at 165 decibels until a muffler was installed and the noise was reduced to 110 decibels.

Clavelle said limiting speeds and reducing power of boats will have some effect on noise but there is no other regulation to keep noise levels down.

As for stopping people from anchoring offshore there is no law he knows that municipalities can use to forbid it.

GET SOME LAWS

Baudinet said MCI has been working without success for 12 years to get regulations. This year the group means business, she said.

"I got a mandate from my members: get some bloody laws on the lake," she told Clavelle. "They've had enough. We're serious."

But in an interview after the meeting Baudinet said she was encouraged by Friday's discussion.

"I think it's early enough in the year. We've got six months," she said. "It's going to take some extensive needling and we have backup ready if the government doesn't come up with some rules."

POLITICAL DECISION

Clavelle admitted new regulations are needed. But he said this will take time. And he said bureaucrats in the Coast Guard won't be the ones who bring forward new rules. He said that's a job for the House of Commons so it will take a certain amount of political will.

Nicolet said municipalities must first deal with the nine points it can manage jurisdiction of. But he said changes won't occur overnight.

"You've only heard one side of the story," he said. "Boaters are not going to take kindly to new regulations."

As for regulations on sealed tanks, Nicolet said Memphremagog MRC and MCI will attend a Coast Guard meeting next month when regulations will be analyzed and changes proposed so they reflect what municipalities want.

"We will be breathing down their necks at the meeting in Montreal in November," he said.

Resolution against Charter of Rights

University students and future university students can breathe a sigh of relief. A spectacularly bigotted proposal by the local Parti Québécois was not adopted this weekend.

The proposal, if adopted, would have seen all Quebec universities become French, if the PQ were elected to power.

But with such proposals, who would vote them to power?

If the proposal had been adopted and the party had been elected, long-standing English institutions like Bishop's, McGill and Concordia would have been history. Those seeking a post-secondary education in English would have been forced to pay more money to go outside the province to be educated.

Imagine that. All those students who wanted a university education in English would be enrolling at Queen's, Carleton, the University of British Columbia and elsewhere. Students would be shelling out more money for tuition fees and quite possibly spending more for living expenses if they chose a university in a city with a higher cost of living.

But even more surprising than the idea of the resolution is the reasoning behind it. Delegates at a local PQ meeting Saturday said they wanted the adoption of the resolution because other provinces don't offer French language universities for francophones so why should Quebec offer English universities for anglophones. That's the same kind of logic that sees Quebec's economic survival as a sovereign state.

Education should be available to everyone, regardless of language. There are several English students who were born and raised in this province and who can't afford to go elsewhere for an education. It is these students who need to live at home while they fork out big bucks for a university education. Many of these students, like many other anglo students who chose to leave the province to seek an education are not capable of pursuing a degree in French. Certainly the same is true of many French-speaking students: they don't have the linguistic capability of getting a degree at an English university.

But the operative word in all of this is choice — the choice of an education, regardless of subject matter or language. That's a choice everyone has the freedom to make. No government, PQ or Green Party, should tell people how to be educated.

It's a blessing the PQ's silly resolution was not adopted. That kind of logic goes against the very essence of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

Blue hole like a bathroom drain

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (CP) — There's a strange hole in the bottom of Bluefish Lake and it's sucking out frigid water, says an American scientist.

"It's just like a drain in the bathtub," Neal Brown, an assistant professor of physics at the University of Alaska, said in an interview from Fairbanks.

"From the air, it looks a little bit like a target you would shoot at."

Brown, who presented a short paper on the subject at a recent Arctic science conference in Fairbanks, said the oddity might be a blue hole, a phenomenon found in ocean areas with limestone.

Similar holes exist in a few other Yukon lakes and in many coastal areas. They are believed to be caused by water cutting through limestone and flowing into underwater caverns or channels.

The hole in Bluefish Lake, 900 kilometres northwest of Whitehorse, is about 20 metres deep and 120 metres wide, Brown estimates. Some trappers and tourists have spotted whirlpool-like action in the shallow lake during the summer.

"It's a real funny thing, you know," said 55-year-old Stephen Frost, a resident of the nearby Indian community of Old Crow, whose trapline runs past the lake.

"It's a big hole in the middle of the bloody lake . . . It's really something."

The discovery came as a surprise to Jim McFarland, a supervisor with the Water Survey of Canada, who said survey staff often fly over the lake.

GOING DOWN

Similar holes, which form tiny craters when surface ice is sucked downward by the whirlpool action, can also be seen from late fall to early spring on half a dozen lakes near Watson Lake in the Yukon's southeast corner, he said.

Every fall, as Bluefish Lake freezes, a crater-like depression becomes visible. Inside that crater lies the apparent escape route for the water.

Brown hopes a Canadian expedition will be set up next year to examine the hole.

But Jack Nickel, water resource manager for the Department of Northern Affairs, was underwhelmed by the discovery.

"We'd need to know a little more about it before we got excited," he said. "Many lakes have groundwater drainage."

Perhaps the world's most spectacular blue hole is the one near the ancient Mayan city of Chichen Itza, on the Yucatan peninsula in Mexico, where human sacrifices were carried out.

Blue holes are often invisible at high tide and have been known to cause swimmers to drown when they get caught in the downward rush of water.

Brown, who directs the Poker Flats Rocket Range in Fairbanks to study the Northern Lights, said he first heard about the hole from a friend. He said he initially thought a sounding rocket from his range might have caused the hole.

Letters

An almost inhumane act

The Editor
An open letter to
Madame Thérèse Lavoie-Roux
Minister of Health for Province of Quebec
Dear Madame Minister,

I wish to bring to your attention the inhuman situation regarding the decree issued by Maurice Rancourt of the CLSC Magog, namely, there will be no further extra medical supplies issued for the inmates of private nursing homes in the Magog and Cowansville area.

May I inform you that my wife is in a nursing home suffering from lukemia, senile dementia, anorism, and a growth in her lung.

She has been in and out of hospital and nursing home since last November, and was finally discharged from hospital on June 24th to the nursing home where she will remain for the rest of her life.

The cost of the home is $750 per month which is $100 more than her old age pension plus $20 plus a further $30 for medical supplies which were formerly supplied through the CLSC.

My wife recently received an increase on her OAP (Old Age Pension) in the amount of $6. I received the amount of $3. This does not make sense when you can give $3,000 for a woman to have another child.

"Did you rob the old and helpless to do this?"

As far as we and many others in the same situation it is almost inhumane act against people unable to fight for themselves.

Madame, I trust you will rectify this situation and restore the cost for these extras such as, catheters, bandages, powders, ointments, etc. through the CLSC.

Sincerely,
FRANK JEFFERSON,
South Bolton

Would they sit back and say nothing?

Dear Editor,

A word for the town and mayor of Abercorn. Would the mayor of Abercorn or the neighbor Louis-Paul have their home bulldozed, would they sit back and say nothing the way René Desnoyer has?

Why can't the rich people leave René Desnoyer alone? René Desnoyer's things were his, NO man or woman has the right to take it away. Is this the way the mayor of Abercorn helps people of Abercorn? With a neighbor like that who needs enemies?

Time to slip in free trade

Dear Editor:

Recent polls seem to indicate that our votes are very much connected to our wallets. Fate has put Brian Mulroney into office at a time of an economic recovery in the U.S. As the elephant goes, so go we. A perfect time to slip in free trade.

Perhaps we should join the U.S. I actually already possess an American flag, full sized. I'm rather fond of it; there is something sure about it. It's 100 per cent cotton.

Army only honorable solution

Dear Editor:

When the white man took over Canada, he, in his great arrogance, forgot that the civilized way to take over a country is to confront the inhabitants with a force so as to produce a conquest or an official surrender. In our oversight, many tribes were never officially conquered.

We should now either admit that many tribes still have a right to their lands or else send in the army and solve the problem in a proper and civilized manner.

Since we have no intention of recognizing these tribes as nations, nor honoring the real treaties, nor dismissing the fraudulent ones, the army is the fraudulent ones, the army is the only honorable solution.

The government could sell the TV rights. A mini-series, "History, Live!"

Yours truly,
J. KRPAN,

Baby boomer, blush and Inuit all new since 1963

Take my word

By BOB TAYLOR

George was in the kitchen baking scones when the Redway twins came bursting through the back door.

"Uncle George," Nora panted, "you've got to help us."

George slid the rack of scones out of the oven and placed it on top of the stove. "Which do you want? Raisin or cheese?"

He fetched the butter and a carton of milk from the fridge while the twins, with much blowing on fingers, split their scones open.

"OK," he said, "why do I have to help you?"

They gave him the story as they champed. It was their school's 25th anniversary. As a class project, they each had to find 10 words that had come into common use since 1963.

FIND NEW TERMS

Alec had thought of three: acid rain, yuppie and skateboard. Nora had five: aerobics, latchkey child, Frisbee, ghetto blaster and blush.

"Blush!" said George. "Blush is an old, old word."

"Not that blush," Nora said scornfully. "I mean the kind that Mom brushes on her cheeks."

George rummaged in the desk for pens and paper. "Are you sure compound words are all right? Women's lib, for example."

The twins were sure, and the three of them settled down to find 12 more words. Fifteen minutes later, they had come up with baby boomer, cellular phone, punk rocker, passive smoking, anabolic steroids, ayatollah, Inuit, Trivial Pursuit, gender gap, a 10-speed, compact disc and women's lib.

"Those are probably all new since 1963," said George, "but you'll have to check the big Oxford dictionary and its supplements at the library."

MAKES NOTES

After the twins left, he remained seated at the kitchen table, staring into space and making the occasional note.

The back door opened in a flurry of dry leaves and his wife came in. "Hello, dear," she said, unknotting her Paisley head scarf and shaking her blond hair loose. "I met the Redway kids. Their breath smelled of scones."

George laughed. "They went through the kitchen like a plague of locusts." He told her about the school project.

"Did you think of the protest words from the '60s and '70s?" she asked, picking up a crumb from the plate and chewing it. "Sit-in, for instance."

He added sit-in to his list. "That gives me about 30 possibles. Let's see. I have anorexic, the pill, born again, AIDS, Alzheimer's disease, Anik satellite, dune buggy, video, diskette, francophone, Charter of Rights, gentrify, miniskirt, windsurf, headhunter, idiot card, sexism, ageism, gasohol, surrogate mother, flextime, pig out, meltdown, macho, jock talk, to kneecap, workaholic, crack, breathalyser, palimony, day care and gridlock."

STIR MEMORY

"Hey, pretty impressive, dear. I was thinking, while you were running through your list, that it's marvellous how a simple little word can jog your memory about something that happened donkey's years ago."

George grinned. "Funny, I was thinking the same thing. Until the twins mentioned ghetto blaster, I'd forgotten about the time you and I were in Eaton's and that awful kid walked through the store with his set going at full throttle. If looks could have killed ..."

"The same with miniskirt," said his wife. "It took me back. Women had to learn a new way to sit. Then there were those atrocious hot pants. You remember them — very short, very tight shorts. I was at an art show when the artist's girlfriend made a grand entrance in a sleeveless, ankle-length grey mink coat over pink hot pants. You should have heard the gasps of envy."

RECALLS STREAKER

George made a note. "I just remembered streaker. The word always conjures up that marvellous press photo. You know, the one of the British policemen leading this streaker off the soccer field or wherever. One of the bobbies is holding his helmet in front of the guy like a codpiece. It's hilarious."

"Speaking of which," said George's wife, taking off her earrings, "do you remember the hullabaloo when that town council on Rhode Island decided that manhole was sexist and voted to change it to personhole?"

They were still reminiscing about words when they turned in for the night.

Some 230 appointments with 25 trade commissioners

Local businesses flock to federal trade show to check export possibilities

By Craig Pearson

CHERRY RIVER — Who needs free trade with the United States when you've got Hong Kong? Or West Germany. Or — for that matter — Malaysia, Costa Rica, Jamaica or Jordan, to name a few.

Selling to countries you never seriously figured you would; that's the idea behind Export Marketplace '88, an External Affairs Canada production hitting cities throughout the country.

And Canadians are already benefitting from the four-year old campaign as a result, said Ronald Poirier who organized the Sherbrooke-area conference in Cherry River on Thursday.

"At least 50 per cent" of businesses who turned out to the first conference four years ago are selling to new markets, he said.

"Last year we had 48 enterprises (represented at the Export Marketplace in the Townships). This year we had 57," said Poirier.

"It's very appreciated by the industries — they don't have to go to West Germany to find out how to go about selling there. It's face to face."

The Thursday how-to conference in Cherry River, the fourth and last stop in Quebec, gave Eastern Townships entrepreneurs a chance to meet with 25 trade commissioners who work in Canadian embassies around the world.

Poirier said he counted 230 appointments between embassy workers — equipped with statistics, laws and market information from their respective countries — and representatives from export-minded Townships companies.

Firms don't necessarily start bringing in foreign dollars just because they visit a booth at an Export Marketplace convention, Poirier admitted. After all, he said, "It's just a first contact. They find out if there is a possibility to export there and if so, what to do. They get a list of prices and possible contacts in other countries."

WORTHWHILE AFTERALL

But many do end up selling their wares elsewhere, and that makes it worthwhile, he said.

Poirier wouldn't say if any of the companies at the Eastern Townships Marketplace '88 conference are likely to be selling abroad soon but he did say "many had good success with interviews."

Some of the industries which seem to do well through the conferences are makers of auto parts, plastics, furniture, sports equipment, and rubber and granite products, he said.

Poirer, a federal Regional Industrial Expansion agent working in Sherbrooke, said the Townships should be particularly proud of its turnout: 10 people dropped in at an Export Marketplace conference in Moncton, 20 at one in St-Jean, and 40 at one in Quebec, while 57 toured the Cherry River setup. The three-day version in Montreal, however, attracted 250 business people.

Bombardier family gives $1 million to Sherbrooke University campaign

SHERBROOKE (RL) — The Bombardier family and J. Armand Bombardier Foundation yesterday handed the University of Sherbrooke financial campaign a check for $1 million.

The handover took place at an official ceremony in the university's J.A. Bombardier pavillion, named after the company's founder, inventor of the snowmobile.

André Bombardier, who presented the cheque to members of the U de S foundation and faculty, said the contribution showed their great affection to the university that was — for most members of the family — their alma mater.

The gift "is a measure of our affection for this institution, which has contributed to the intellectual, scientific and economic advancement of not only the Eastern Townships but all of Quebec," he said.

The donation is in three parts. The first $600,000 is earmarked to start a young researchers fund for the administration, sciences and applied sciences faculties.

ENCOURAGE EXCELLENCE

Another $250,000 will be used to establish a bursary fund for undergraduates to encourage excellence in the sciences and to recruit students with exceptional results in CEGEP

The final $150,000 will be used to establish new teaching activities decided on by the university foundation.

Foundation president Marcel Dutil joked that it was too bad the foundation had already made its bank deposit for the day.

Dutil said the donation should be used as an example to encourage other corporations to make larger contributions. He said the Bombardier family has been involved with the university through its alumni association and board of directors not to mentn their financial donations which have added up to $6.7 million over the years.

Marcel Dutil puts a gold book on the University's financial poster after receiving a $1 million contribution from the Bombardier family and foundation as Rector Aldée Cabana and André Bombardier look on.

Organized records save time and money

By Karen Lewis
The Canadian Press

When Betty Jane Wylie's husband died, a fluke saved her from a scavenger hunt for the will.

A few weeks earlier, Wylie, then 42, had been intrigued by a brief item in a women's magazine.

"It said: 'In the event of your husband's death would you know where these things are?'" Wylie, a writer and playwright, recalled 15 years later in a recent telephone interview from MacTier, Ont.

"I handed it to my husband and he sort of ticked things off and scribbled a few things down.

"I would never have known where the will was without his directions."

Wylie says she started warning women about the importance of understanding money matters because she had been "such a perfect example of a klutz."

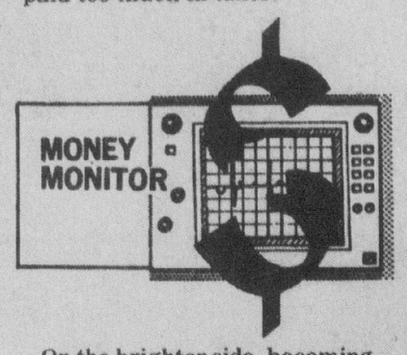
And so are many Canadians when it comes to keeping records, financial experts say.

TOSS PAPERS

If, like most people, you toss your bills, receipts and bank statements into various drawers, shoeboxes and cupboards, you may be causing eventual problems for yourself or, worse, for your spouse or family.

"Part of the business of living is making sure life can function smoothly for your family if either one of you should die," writes Wylie in Where Is Everything?, a pamphlet prepared for the Toronto-based Canadian Life and Health Insurance Association.

Sloppy records could also hurt your case if Revenue Canada decides to reassess an income-tax return, which it can do up to three years after the original assessment date. Likewise, you can ask for a reassessment within the same period if you realize you paid too much in taxes.



On the brighter side, becoming a careful record-keeper can save you money, financial planners say.

PAY LESS

You're likely to budget better, pay less to financial experts like lawyers, accountants and planners, and forget less. For example, one of your bank accounts would be less likely to be among the thousands of inactive accounts totalling millions of dollars that are listed in the Canada Gazette each year.

Canadians "like to squirrel things in shoeboxes which they then dump out at income-tax time," writes Wylie and Lynne MacFarlane, a Winnipeg financial adviser, in Everywoman's Money Book. "Some even lug the shoeboxes down to the accountant and pay ... accounting fees of up to $100 an hour just to sort out the mess."

Start by trading the shoebox for a cardboard file, Wylie recommends. These simple A-Z or monthly files are available at stationery stores.

Wylie and MacFarlane suggest keeping current papers together, such as credit card and cash receipts, salary statements, bank statements, as well as a budget, if you have one.

GROUP RECEIPTS

Keep receipts for income tax purposes together, such as charitable or political donations and moving expenses.

A permanent section would include such items as income tax returns, lists of bank accounts, RRSP accounts, safety deposit boxes (including where to find the key), copies of insurance policies with names of beneficiaries, certificates of birth, marriage, divorce and adoption, a copy of your will (the original should be with your lawyer or executor), deeds, outstanding loans and mortgages, or a mortgage discharge document if the house is paid up.

Important dates such as the renewal of your mortgage or maturation dates for investments like bonds should be noted. And don't forget to keep records of loans you make to family members or others.

Wylie and MacFarlane recommend you slip in a list of names, addresses and telephone numbers of the professionals you deal with, such as your doctor, dentist, accountant, lawyer, investment dealer and insurance agent.

Business briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — A takeover by the National Bank of Canada has simplified life for brokerage firm Levesque, Beaubien Inc.

The firm's annual meeting in Montreal on Thursday ran a brief 15 minutes.

And the annual report was a bare-bones financial statement with a one-page note on the company's state of affairs written by president Pierre Brunet, as opposed to the glossy multipaged reports in previous years.

Longtime Levesque chairman Andre Charron resigned his position, having sold his stock and wanting to pursue other business interests.

However Brunet, who refused to say how much Levesque stock he still owns, said he plans to stay with the brokerage firm.

Charron is to be replaced as chairman by Andre Berard, president of the National Bank, which in September completed its purchase of 73 per cent of Levesque, Beaubien.

MONTREAL (CP) — Repap Enterprises Corp. Inc. has announced third-quarter earnings of $23.3 million, up 36 per cent over the same period last year.

Net income for the nine months ending Sept. 30 was $62.7 million, or $1.21 per share, compared to $43.5 million, or 91 cents per share for the same period last year.

Cash flow for the first nine months of the year reached $158.5 million, a 55-per-cent increase over last year.

George Petty, Repap chairman, said in a statement that the company's record performance was due to the favorable pulp and coated paper markets combined with productivity gains from the company's capital projects in both Eastern and Western Canada.

MONTREAL (CP) — Lafarge Corp. reported record third-quarter earnings of $57 million Thursday, an increase of $8 million, or 16 per cent, over the figure for the same period last year.

Cindy Statton and Tommy Bennett united in marriage

A beautiful wedding took place in Montreal at the Congregation Shomrin Laboker on June 30, 1988 at 6:30 p.m., when Cindy Statton, daughter of Walter and Bernadette Statton of Sawyerville was joined in marriage to Tommy Bennett, son of Donald and Ginger Bennett of Montreal. Rabbi Chaim Denberg officiated at the ceremony.

The bride looked radiant in a floor-length gown of nylon and lace as she was escorted down the aisle by her mother and father. Joann Deblois, sister of the bride, acted as Cindy's matron of honor.

The groom wore a black formal tuxedo accented by white accessories. Tommy's parents escorted him down the aisle. Leslie Fagen, cousin of the groom, was chosen as the best man.

Following the ceremony, a delicious dinner was served and the evening was spent dancing and visiting.

At the close of the evening, Tommy and Cindy cut their three-tier wedding cake and dessert was served with hot tea and coffee.

Best wishes to the happy couple who spent their honeymoon in Niagara Falls and are now residing in Montreal.

Top-class singers come to Sherbrooke on October 30

The St. Lambert Choral Society, an established and very well respected choir, will perform in the series Sunday Afternoons at St. Andrew's, on Sunday October 30 at 3 p.m.

Under the acclaimed director David Christiani, this excellent group brings a varied program of sacred music — gospel songs, classic hymns, a Messiah selection, etc. St. Andrew's was fortunate to be able to book this very busy choir. "I was lucky enough to hear The St. Lambert Choral Society when I was living there. Now that I am back, I wanted to bring them to the Townships. They are in demand in the city for good reason. I think they are an excellent choir, and I was very pleased to have the opportunity to bring them here," says committee chairman Richard Goodhue.

There will be one performance only, at 3 p.m. October 30 at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, (280 Frontenac corner Peel) in Sherbrooke. Advance tickets are advised. Tickets ($5) are available at the Christian Reader Bookstore in Lennoxville, following church services at St. Andrew's, or by calling 569-9224, 567-5840. Group rates and pre-school nursery.

Iris Quilters' Guild holds 9th annual successful show

The Iris Quilters' Guild 9th annual show in September attracted over 500 people. The guests were invited to choose their favorite amongst the numerous quilts on display and Number One was "Primrose Applique" by Iris Brown. Number Two, "Summer Garden" by Margaret Littler and Iris Brown. Number Three, "Cherokee Rose" by the Iris Quilters' Guild members.

The Guild quilts were displayed on the main floor of the St. George's Church Hall. Tea tables decorated with fresh fall flowers for the convenience of guests as they viewed quilts and other quilted articles while enjoying refreshments served by the ladies of St. George's and St. Monica's Guild.

We wish to thank the Guild for their cooperation and everyone who helped make our show a success.

Now that our show is over for 1988 we are hard at work preparing for another season under the leadership of the following new executive:

President: Mrs. Heather Stewart

Past-President: Mrs. Iris Brown

Vice-President: Mrs. Roseanne Toohey

Secretary: Mrs. Lorna Johns

Treasurer: Mrs. Margaret Littler

Good luck to all!

Christenings

EAST FARNHAM — The infant daughter of Gayle Bauer and Norman Laviolette was christened in the East Farnham United Church on September 18 at the church service conducted by Rev. Stewart Clarke. The baby received the names Amanda Marion. Godparents were friends of the couple, Robert Levoy and Christian Seamen. After the service, the guests numbering 40 went back to Bondville where dainty refreshments were served by Gayle and Norman.

ULVERTON — The infant daughter of Robert Smith and Vicky Jones was christened at Ulverton United Church on October 9 by the Rev. Watson Glover of Danville. The baby received the names Kristen Elizabeth.

Marriage announced

Mr. and Mrs. James McKellar Jr., of Knowlton wish to announce the marriage of their daughter Gabriella to Lorne Fuller, son of Leila C. Fuller of Alexandria, Ont., on November 19 in Cowansville.

60th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Aulden Clark, formerly of Bishopton, will be celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary on October 27. Mr. Clark is now a patient in the prolonged care unit at the Sherbrooke Hospital, room 204. Best wishes from family and friends.

Driving: Keep your eyes on the road

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter warning your readers to drive as if every person on the road was drunk, on drugs or crazy. You said, "There are an awful lot of goofy drivers out there." The very next day I read about an accident in Midland, Tex., that upset me terribly.

A 23-year-old guy was driving a van that plowed into an oncoming truck. Five beautiful young men, all members of the Midland Boys Club, died in that crash. Thirteen people were injured.

At first it was reported that the 23-year-old kid who was driving the van had fallen asleep at the wheel. Later the facts came out. He was trying to dislodge a soft drink can from beneath the accelerator.

Ann, tell your readers that driving requires total concentration and to take one's eyes off the road for just a few seconds can be disastrous. — A.J. in Dallas

Dear Dallas: You did, and in a most effective way. Bless you.

Dear Ann Landers: I love your column and you usually make sense, but the advice you gave to the couple in Atlanta who complained about the neighbors who had knock-down drag-out fights wouldn't work too well in Memphis.

If we were to go over and try to talk with that couple, as you suggested, and explain that their arguments can be heard all over the neighborhood, chances are that we would get shot.

If we called the police they would take my life history on the phone, and 30 minutes later, a squad car would come roaring up our driveway, blue lights flashing and sirens going full blast. A 90-pound policewoman would bounce out to take my life history again.

Meanwhile, the squabbling couple, having heard the sirens, would have turned out the lights and become quiet. The policewoman would come back to my place and say, "Your imagination must be working overtime. There's nuthin' goin' on over there."

After the squad car drives away, the couple who were battling would come over and set our house on fire.

I wouldn't even sign my initials to this. Just say I'm — Wised-Up in Tenn.

Dear Tenn: You're being awfully hard on your police department, because you are accusing them of unprofessional conduct. But the police in every city dislike checking out domestic violence, and who can blame them? More often than not, alcohol and/or drugs are involved and the warring couple turns their wrath against the police.

There are no easy answers to this one. The police have my sympathy and so do the neighbors.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother is in a difficult spot. Please advise.

Her brother is suffering from cancer. She wants to visit "Uncle Burt" but his wife keeps saying "Not now."

"Uncle Burt" lives far away, so they haven't seen much of each other in recent years. He is in a great deal of pain and tires easily.

Mom has respected his wife's wishes for several months, but now she is concerned that if she doesn't go soon she won't be able to see her brother alive.

Mom is tempted to go anyway, call from the airport and let the chips fall where they may.

Do you think she would be doing the right thing? — Befuddled in Kitchener, Ontario

Dear Fudd: I believe that your mother should speak to her brother on the phone and ask him if he would like her to come. It is possible that he would rather that she not see him so desperately ill. His wishes should be respected.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on your reply to "Texas," who jumped into the discussin about education. You mentioned how serious the Russians and the Japanese are about educating their children and added, "We dare not risk putting our country in the hands of a bunch of dummies 20 years from now."

Wake up, Ann. We do not have to wait 20 years. The dummies are already voting (or not voting) and they are ruining our country.

Our schols teach everything from sandbox to waterskiing, but many students graduate without nowing one cotton-pickin' thing about world history or economics.

When only 35 percent of the eligible voters bother to register and only 40 percent of those 35 percent take the trouble to vote it's a pretty sad comentary on this nation's priorities. I am worried about America's future. — Puyallup, Wash.

Dear Puyallup: You have focused on an issue that is a national disgrace. A few years ago someone suggested a tax credit for citizens who voted. It's too bad when we have to bribe people to do something that should be a privlege, but it just might work.

THE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE AUCTION SALE

The business meeting now was over
When the auction soon began
The Ladies sat so silent
With their money in their hand.

The auctioneer was very pleasant
And auctioned in her jovial way
She held the attention of the ladies
And all they did was bid and pay.

She auctioned off the books and food
And the ladies bid so high
The proceeds went towards a bursary
So this is why the articles went so high.

Now, if you want to have some fun
Come to a W.I. auction sale
We'll guarantee you lots of laughs
Just listening to our sale!

THE THANKSGIVING TURKEY

Gobble, gobble went the turkey
As he strutted round and round
He looked oh so innocent
As he stood and looked around.

He paced the yard among the others
He looked this way and that
And he saw the farmer coming
He knew just by his hat.

The farmer had the axe
Dangling from his hand you see
And gobble, gobble went the turkey
As he flew into the farmer's knee.

It wasn't long and it was over
And the turkey now lay dead
As the farmer had lurched forward
Cutting off the turkey's head!

And so we all enjoy our Thanksgiving Day
But please do tell me why
While we enjoy ourselves at dinner
The turkey had to die!

Obituary

VICTOR URBAN COLE
of Sherbrooke, Quebec

Family and friends of Victor Cole were saddened by his sudden death on Thursday, September 29, 1988.

Victor was born in Ely, England on March 21, 1914, oldest son of the late Robert Cole and his wife Sarah May Clark. He came to Canada as a "home boy" at the age of fourteen and made his home for several years on a farm in Albert Mines.

On July 21, 1945 he was united in marriage to Verna Lasamba and after a few years of working as a farm hand he found employment at the Carnation Milk Company in Sherbrooke and they bought their home on Elm Street where he enjoyed his remaining years.

He retired from the Carnation Milk after 29 years of service and spent his retirement years tending his garden and flowers. He enjoyed reading and he brightened the days of many a hospital patient with his faithful visits.

Although Victor was not in good health for the past couple of years he faced his illness with extreme courage and inner strength.

The funeral service was held at the Coopérative de l'Estrie Funeral Home on Prospect Street, Sherbrooke, where comforting words were spoken by Mr. Phil Semenak. Cremation followed at Victor's request.

Victor leaves to mourn his loving wife Vern, three brothers, Raymond and Morris of Ely, England and Robert of Iron Hill, Que., and their wives and families. Also two brothers-in-law, many nieces and nephews.

Resting with Jesus, labour is o'er
Stilled are the rough waves of strife;
Angels sing welcome to the blessed shore,
Death does but lead us to life.

Ascot Women Institute holds regular meeting

On October 6 Mrs. R. Hutchison, Mrs. L. Lamy and Mrs. B. Custeau entertained 16 members and one guest at the Ascot Women's regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Hutchison in Huntingville.

Mrs. A. Hatcher, president, opened the meeting with the singing of O Canada and repeating the Collect.

Mrs. C. Kingsley read the roll call and each member responded by handing in an old school text book. Reminiscences followed — two ladies even brought two old school teacher bells!

Mrs. Kingsley read the minutes of the September meeting, and other correpsondence including cards of thanks, the President's letter and greetings from Hazel Clark, editor of Macdonald Journal and guest of Ascot W.I. in September.

Mrs. H. Little gave her Treasurer's report with an excellent balance to begin the winter activities.

Mrs. Hatcher then called on her convenors.

Agriculture: Mrs. D. Annesley reported on the successful School Fair with 200 exhibits on display and prizes given out. She also discussed the feelings of the Quebec Farmers group on Acid Rain, Farm Labour and Free Trade.

Canadian Industries: Mrs. Hatcher gave an interesting account of Shermag Co.'s planned 30% extension and Scott Paper Co. expansion in Crabtree, Que.

Citizenship and Legislation: Mrs. Custeau reported on the upcoming election. Prince Philip's tentative plans to visit Lennoxville in May 1989 and the new Provigo Store opening on October 19.

Home Economics and Health: Mrs. Rothney gave some interesting facts on turkey and the advantages over chicken, less fat and contains vitamin B, phosphorus and iron. Always defrost in cold water or the fridge and do not partially cook one day and finish the next day.

Education and Cultural Affairs: Mrs. L. Hoy handed out the Handicraft Competition material and read an amusing article on a student's recollections of 70 years ago at School. She announced the "Wool Gathering" project is to be run again this fall.

Following these reports, some of the ladies who attended Brompton W.I. meeting and luncheon reported on a delicious dinner and interesting meeting and fun time playing Bingo with prizes for the winners.

Mrs. Little had a list of questions on funds to be answered by the meeting and a discussion on the quilt project followed.

The County meeting will be hosted by Ascot and held on November 9 at the Lennoxville C.L.S.C.

Next regular meeting on November 3 at Mrs. Lyon's home on Belvidere St.

Christmas dinner plans were discussed, after which Mrs. Hatcher adjourned the meeting with a closing thought — titled "Take Time".

Mrs. Hoy then introduced Louise Caron as our guest speaker. Mrs. Caron is the Adult Education Representative and gave a very informative talk on Adult Ed. activities, aims and goals. The new home is at 2365 Galt St. West in Sherbrooke.

The real focus is to provide adults with secondary education. At the present time there are 75 people completing High School. In the second language courses there are 200 enrolled. There is also a literacy program, basic reading and writing courses to 25 pupils in the school program and 27 others being instructed privately by volunteer tutors. Adult Ed. also provide a 36 week course in office training at Alexander Galt School with 10 in attendance, added to experience in the work place.

The Quebec government Ministry of Education has done a lot in this area. There are of course other community programs and leisure courses as well.

It was an informative time and discussion followed. The group was pleased to have Louise Caron with them.

A social hour was enjoyed by all and tea was served by the hostesses.

Women's Institute meeting

BURY (NR) — The regular monthly meeting of the Bury W.I. was held in the lounge of the Bury Town Hall on Thursday evening, September 29, a week earlier than usual because of so many activities planned for the week preceding Thanksgiving.

The meeting was opened by the president who welcomed the members and guests as this was Visitors' meeting.

The Motto: "If you can't see the bright side of life, polish the dull side with Thanksgiving and Praise". Roll Call: "Name something we are thankful for."

Final details were arranged for the County card party in the Bury Town Hall, on Thursday afternoon, October 13.

A letter was read from the president of the Q.W.I., and the leaflet for the J. and P. Coats and Q.W.I. Handicraft competitions.

It was agreed to subscribe for Zip Magazine for Pope Memorial School. The annual Hallowe'en dinner at the School was discussed and a committee consisting of Sandra Morrison, Sue Schmidt, Serena Wintle and Muriel Fitzsimmons to make the final arrangements.

The usual wreath will be purchased and placed at the Cenotaph.

The president Grace Rider presented gifts to the County executive, President Peggy Batley, Secretary Faye Coleman and Treasurer Nina Rowell.

Sue Schmidt then introduced our guest speakers, Robert and Norma Harrison (who actually didn't need a formal introduction), and an enjoyable time was spent watching video tapes of the Bury High School Reunion and some dancing at the 150th anniversary held in 1986.

A delicious lunch was served by all members under the convenorship of Audrey Dougherty and a social time enjoyed. Several guests and members received little gifts designated by marked cups and napkins.

District No. 5 Rebekah Lodges hold 82nd meet

DANVILLE (EB) — The 82nd annual district meeting of District No. 5 was held in the Asbestos-Danville-Shipton Elementary School Saturday October 1. On the same date the Odd Fellows of District No. 6 held their annual district meeting in the Masonic Hall, Richmond.

Receiving the guests were Sister Margaret Horan P.P., Sister Dorothy Lockwood P.N.G., and Sister Joyce Beliveau P.D.D.P. Sister Irene Monahan P.N.G. was in charge of registration. Sister Edith Stevens P.D.D.P. sold banquet tickets. The guest book was in the care of Sister Eileen Carson P.N.G. Those working at the exchange table were Sister Mavis Mosher P.D.D.P., Sister Florence McIver, Warden, Sister Dorothy Lockwood and Sister Joyce Beliveau also worked at this table as time permitted.

The decorations depicting the president's emblems, watchwords and flowers were done by Sister Helen Morril, District Deputy President.

Sister Margaret Horan, Past President of the Rebekah Assembly and Noble Grand of Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge No. 3 presided for the opening and closing ceremonies. The meeting opened at 2:15 p.m.

The District Deputy President, Sister Helen Morrill was introduced by the Deputy Marshal, Sister Joyce Beliveau, given the honours and escorted to the front of the hall from where she presided over the meeting.

The past elective officers were welcomed with an appropriate verse by the District Deputy President.

Sister Joyce Beliveau introduced the following Appointed Officers: Sister Janice Soutiere-Assembly Marshal; Sister Jean MacKeage Assembly Right Herald; Sister June Royea, Assembly Conductor; Sister Eleanor Bath, Assembly Colour Bearer; Sister Mabel Mackay, Assembly Musician; Sister Grayce Betts, District Deputy President of District No. 3; and Sister Margaret Pariseau, District Deputy President of District No. 6.

The following Elective Officers were introduced and accorded the honours: Brother John Morril, Grand Scribe of the Grand Encampment; Sister Marion Provis, second Vice-President of Ladies Auxiliary, Patriarchs Militant, Vermont-Quebec; and Sister Shirley Vaughan, Vice-President of the Rebekah Assembly of Quebec.

Sister Dorothy Smith, President of the Rebekah Asembly of Quebec was introduced by her Marshal, Sister Janice Soutiere. She was accorded the Honours and escorted to a chair at the right of the District Deputy President who presented her with a monetary gift as well as a personal gift.

The address of Welcome was given by Sister Irene Monahan P.D.D.P., of Maple Leaf R.L. No. 3 and responded to by Sister Marjorie Lancaster, Noble Grand of Olive Branch R.L. No. 9.

A minute's silence was held for deceased Brothers and Sisters followed by a poem read by Sister Helen Morrill D.D.P.

Roll call revealed an attendance of 60 Sisters and two Brothers. Sister Stella St. Louis of Evergreen Rebekah Lodge No. 48, La Tugue, accepted the office of District Deputy President for the term 1989-1990, for which she was given a round of applause.

Items were put on by three Sisters from Evergreen Rebekah Lodge No. 48 of La Tuque, 13 Sisters of Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge No. 9 of Richmond and a reading by Sister Irene Monahan, Vice Grand of Maple Leaf Rebekah Lodge No. 3 Danville. Excellent reports were given by all three Lodges revealing a busy year in the District.

Brother John Morrill, Grand Scribe of the Grand Encampment spoke briefly bringing greetings from the Grand Encampment and congratulating his wife, Sister Helen Morrill on her meeting. The Vice-President, Sister Shirley Vaughan brought greetings from the Assembly of Quebec and Sister Marion Provis representing Lady E. Howe, President of the L.A.P.M. brought greetings from this branch of the Order.

In her excellent address the President, Sister Dorothy Smith mentioned several aspects of the Order including our youth program and the unwritten laws of the Order.

At 6 p.m. 81 Brothers and Sisters sat down to a delicious chicken pie supper served in the School's lunch room by the caterers Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Livingstone and staff. Brother Rodney Duffy P.G.M. acted as Master of Ceremonies. At the end of the meal a drawing was held with Sister Nellie Hills of Olive Branch R.L. No 9 winning a cushion and H.D. Bliss, the young grandson of Brother and Sister Duffy winning the shawl. This brought the ceremonies to a close and everyone was wished a safe journey home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Horan have returned from a trip to Calgary, Alberta where they visited their daughter Lana and also their other daughter Cheryl and son-in-law Danny Neimeic and family. While in the west, the Horans spent one and a half weeks camping in the Okanogan Valley with the Neimeic family and friends. Margaret and George also spent three days in Vernon, B.C., visiting the Pharo family, former residents of Thetford Mines.

Thanksgiving guests of Janet and Albert Gillim were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Turner and boys, Belleville, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Keith Taber, Wellington, Ont., Delbert Findlay, Limehouse, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carson, Brossard, Que., Josee Hemond, Drummondville, Erica Brock, Ottawa, Stephanie Woods, Phelpston, Ont., Troy Lane, Milton, Ont., and Darrell Gillim, Lennoxville.

Mrs. Gay Lodge, Brockville, Ont., spent an afternoon with Muriel Ames while in town for the Findlay anniversary party. Other callers were Evelyn and Roy Johnston, the Wales Home, and Klea and Howard Mastine, Richmond. Vera Miller, Richmond, spent a few days with Muriel after the latter's return from the Asbestos Hospital.

A surprise anniversary party was held at the Danville Curling Club for Beverly and Lloyd Findlay's 25th anniversary. Here for the party were their three children and families — Kevin, Fran and James Findlay, Brampton, Ont., Susan and Earl Whittall, Gloucester, Ont., and Craig Findlay and friend Darlene Bowen, Norval, Ont. Other visitors for the Saturday evening party were Earl's mother and stepfather, Marion Hawkins and Eric Champion. Among other relatives attending the happy occasion were Joyce and Keith Taber, Wellington, Ont., Delbert and Helen Findlay, Limehouse, Ont., Larry and Karen Turner and boys, Belleville, Ont., Stephanie Woods, Phelpston, Ont., Iris and Germain Cote, Brampton, Ont. On the Lodge side there were Jeannie and Ron Mastine and girls, Stittsville, Ont., and Gordon and Gay Lodge, Brockville, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Horan, Montreal, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Horan while here to attend the baptism of their niece Samantha Lee, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard (Mickey) Webster of Ottawa.

ASTRO•GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Oct. 24, 1988

In the year ahead you might enter into an alliance that will develop from unique circumstances. You will be introduced to new friends and fresh ideas.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will have to set the example today if you hope to receive cooperation from others. They will only do what you do and no more. Major changes are ahead for Scorpio in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you maintain a feasible schedule today, things are likely to start piling up by late afternoon. Don't let life paint you in a corner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not do anything today that opposes your better judgment. Peer pressure could be severe, but do not yield to it no matter how strong.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Thinking you'll be backed up in an area where you lack authority, you may attempt to do a favor for a friend today. Good intentions might prove to be futile.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) An associate will be peeved today if you use his or her ideas without giving proper acknowledgment. Give credit where credit is due.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) One with whom you're closely associated may expect more from you than this person gives in return. Try to keep the account in balance today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others may pay more attention to your companions than they do to you today. You could find this annoying, but do not be obvious about it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something that affects you personally will be handled competently today. However, in situations where you're looking out for others, it will be another matter.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to take your social involvements too seriously today. There are indications you may introduce turbulent elements into something that should be fun.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Conditions could be testy today in business and at home. Everything depends upon your attitude in dealing with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be on guard this evening if you are not among friends, because someone with opposing political or philosophical views might try to draw you into an argument.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's best not to get involved in a joint venture at this time if it puts too much strain on your resources. The payoff might not come as rapidly as you think.

The ultimate sacrifice

Fred Hamilton is that rare expert who knows when an unusual play is needed. Sitting East and defending three diamonds doubled, he made a highly dramatic but effective play when he eventually got on lead.

The auction was normal. North sensed that the opponents were about to stop at a heart partial, so he stuck in a two-no-trump bid to ask his partner to bid a minor suit at the three-level. This works fine if partner has four cards in one of the minors and a few high cards. Otherwise it may be lights out for North-South. When South settled in three diamonds, Hamilton, sitting East, was happy to double.

West led the spade king and received a discouraging seven from East. So West led a low club, covered by the jack and queen. Declarer won his ace and played back a spade. West took the ace and now led a heart. Declarer won dummy's ace, ruffed a club and shed dummy's small heart on the jack of spades. Fred Hamilton ruffed and found the one card in his hand that could set the contract. He played the king of diamonds right into the A-Q in dummy. Declarer ruffed another club and ruffed a heart in dummy. But now Fred threw away his last heart as South ruffed still another club. Fred was left with 9-8-6 of trumps and dummy with Q-7, but declarer could not score a trick with the diamond seven. Had Fred played a low diamond back rather than the king, South would have won in hand and would have been able to ruff hearts in dummy before East could discard a heart, eventually making the doubled contract.

Don't be late!
Buy your Canada Savings Bonds today.

9½% First Year

New Canada Savings Bonds earn 9½% for the first year. For each of the next nine years to maturity, the annual interest rate will be announced at the time the new series is released.

Earlier sales period.
Canada Savings Bonds are on sale now to Tuesday, November 1. Buy your bonds today, wherever you bank or invest. You may date your payment November 1, the day the new bonds start earning interest. So don't be late for this very important date.

Outstanding series now earn 9½%.
The last six series of Canada Savings Bonds, issued from 1982 to 1987 (Series 37 to 42 inclusive), will now earn 9½% for the year beginning November 1, 1988.

$75,000 purchase limit.
You can purchase up to $75,000 of the new series. Holders of maturing 1981 bonds (Series 36) have the privilege of re-investing the face value of their maturing bonds in the new series, in addition to the $75,000 regular purchase limit.

Safe and secure.
Canada Savings Bonds are fully guaranteed by the Government of Canada. They're a safe, secure investment that never falls in value.

Cashable anytime.
Canada Savings Bonds can be cashed at any time. If you cash the new bonds before February 1, 1989, you will receive the full face value. If cashed after that, you will receive the full face value plus all the interest earned since November 1, 1988.

Beat the rush!
Act now to avoid last minute line-ups. Remember, November 1 is the last day you can buy the new bonds at face value. But the bonds may be withdrawn from sale at any time.

Canada Savings Bonds. A very timely investment.

Bishop's Gaiters' defence too much for the McGill Redmen

By Scott David Harrison

LENNOXVILLE — When you lose a football game you look for someone to blame. McGill Redmen quarterback Brian Fuller looked no further than himself as the defending Vanier Cup champions suffered their third straight loss — twice to Bishop's — this time 27-21 to the Bishop's Gaiters.

"I'm definitely going to take the brunt of this one," said Fuller. "You can't throw five interceptions and expect to win. They (Bishop's) are a good team, but I'm convinced we're better."

Bishop's relied on its high-power defence and two fourth quater field goals by Simon Restall to break a 21-21 for the Gaiters sixth win of the season.

Leroy Blugh, who played his best game of the year, led the Gaiters with 17 tackles. Derek Schumann chipped in 13 tackles of his own, including an interception, and Chris Bailey added another 12 for Bishop's.

"We played fairly well," Blugh said after the chilly, windy contest. "But we let-up a few times. We wanted to get ready for the playoffs, so the win was important because we didn't want to back into first place."

HOW IMPORTANT

How important was the win? Very, according to Blugh.

"It's just a lot of people didn't think we would be where we are, (6-1 record, tops in the conference)," said Blugh. "They were talking McGill, McGill and we had something to prove."

Prove it the Gaiters did, claiming the Ontario-Quebec Interuniversity Football Conference title for the third straight year.

The Gaiters jump to an early 10-0 lead by one-of-three Restall field goals and an 11-yard touchdown strike from quarterback Silvio Martel to Mike Swan.

Restall added a single before the Redmen finally showed signs they were defending champions. After moving the ball 70-yards down field, Fuller threw crossfield connecting with a wide-open Paul Roman for a five-yard tally.

The Gaiters closed out the scoring in the first half when punter Chuck Petitpas conceeded a two-point safety.

In contrast to the weather, the Gaiters defence was as hot as that biblical place. Al Matheson, (TSN's player of the game), ignited Bishop's with a 75-yard touchdown return off one of Fuller's misthrows to give Bishop's a 20-7 lead.

PICKED OFF

"He didn't even see me," Matheson, who picked off two passes on the day, said about the Redmen's Fuller. "He threw (the ball) to me and after that it was free sailing."

Martin Haines and Vic Gilmour also collected interceptions for the Gaiters.

The Redmen fought back using their number one man — Mike Soles. Soles (26 carries for 100 yards) scored two touchdowns in four minutes to put McGill ahead 21-20 for the first time in the game. What was supposed to be the Redmens' rallying cry was soundly answered by the Gaiters' defence, and Restall's foot rather than the McGill offence.

The Gaiters defence played like an iron curtain in the final quarter stopping three fourth-quarter, third-down attempts. Five third-down attempts were stopped in total. A poker-faced Blugh, whose bone-crushing tackles didn't go unnoticed by team mate Matheson, was what held the aces, stopping three of McGill's third-down gambles.

Restall, who tied the score after missing a 23-yard attempt, finished off the Redmen in an anxious fourth quarter with two thunderlike boots.

Restall's first — second of the game — came on a 30-yard blast, while the other seemingly-wide attempt curled through from 36-yards away.

CURLED FOR ME

"I just aimed at the right post and it curled in for me," said Restall, who in a rare display of emotion raised his arms in victory after the kick.

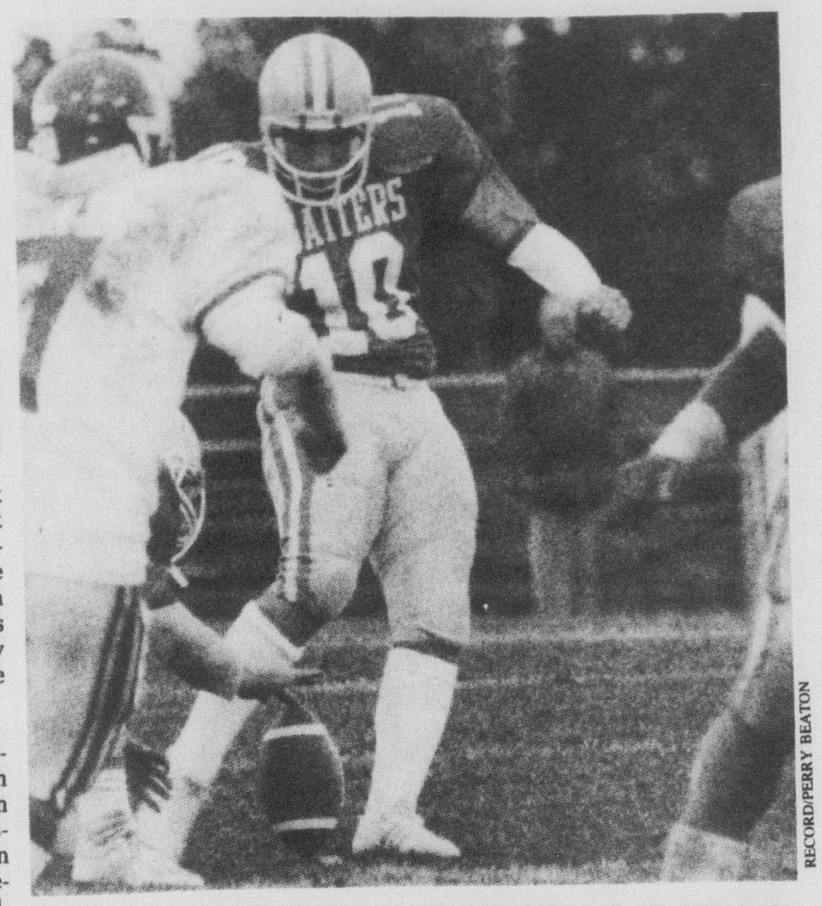
Safety Schumann, who this week made no ill-fated predictions, said the Gaiters rose to the occasion.

"That's exactly what we needed to finish off the season and go into next week," he said. "We put a good beating on them and they know next week they're going to have to come here again. They're coming on our turf and they're going to try to do it (win), but there's no way."

Gaiters head coach Ian Breck said battling the Redmen next week in the first round of the O-QIFC playoffs doesn't guarantee the team a win. He said the team will have to fight just as hard as they did the week before if they hope to make it to the conference title.

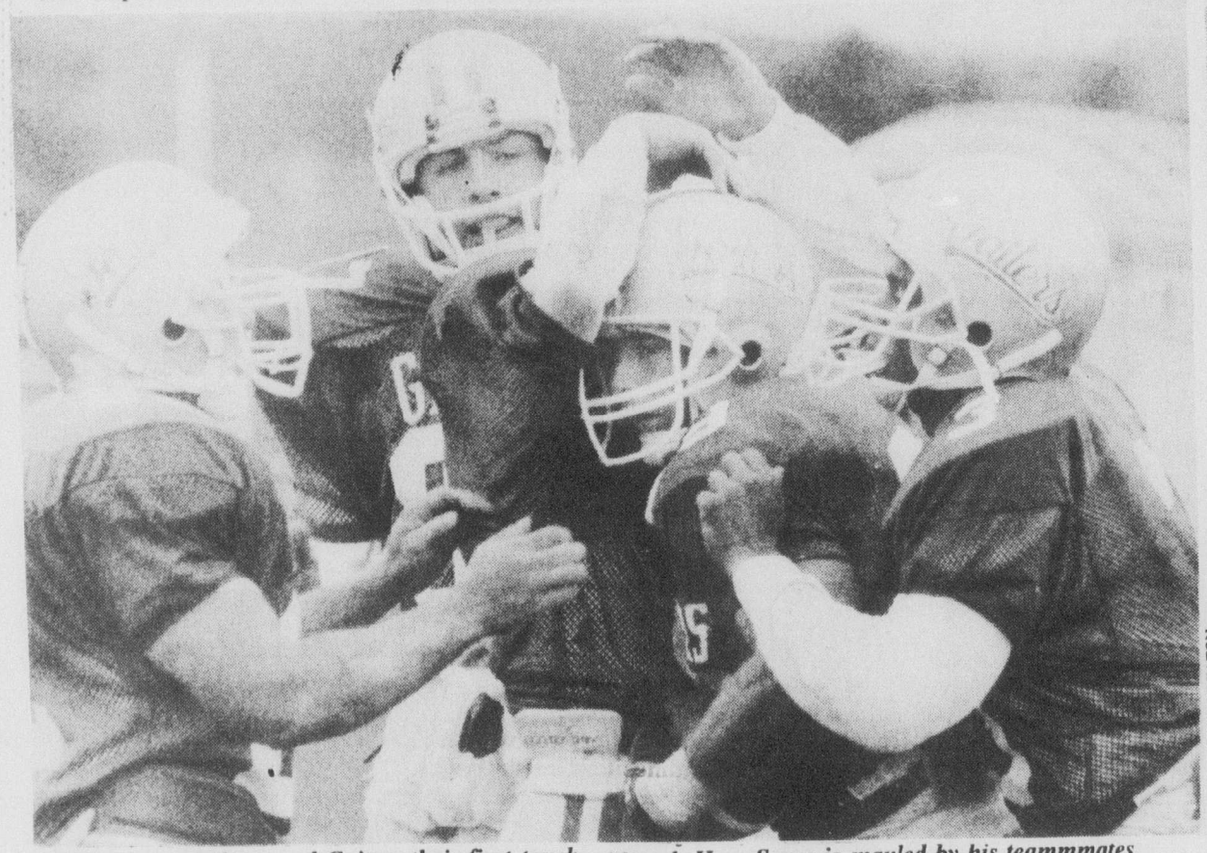
PLAYOFF PICTURE

Because Concordia lost to Ottawa 23-15 Friday night, the Redmen advanced to the playoffs even with a 3-4 record. McGill will face Bishop's this Saturday at 1 p.m. in Lennoxville. The 4-3 Ottawa Gee-Gees will face the 5-2 Queen's Golden Gaels in Kingston that same afternoon.



RECORD/PERRY BEATON

Simon Restall lead the Gaiters in scoring Saturday with 13 points including two fourth-quater kicks to preserve the win.



Mike Swan got the netted Gaiters their first touchdown of the afternoon off an 11-yard pass from Silvio Martel. Here Swan is mauled by his teammmates.

RECORD/PERRY BEATON

Gerry Ifill could only get 37 yards on the day under the surveillance of Bishops' defenders. Here Vic Gilmour is able to put a grasp on Ifill.

Are Mustangs and Gryphons kissing cousins?

By The Canadian Press

If a tie is like kissing your sister, then this game must have been comparable to smooching a really fat sibling.

After 3½ hours of wild football, which featured 106 points and 1,269 yards in total offence, the No. 2-ranked Western Ontario Mustangs and No. 9 Guelph Gryphons came away with one point each Saturday.

The 53-53 tie left both teams just five points short of the Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union record for points in a game by two teams. In 1974, the Ottawa Gee-Gees defeated the McGill Redmen 83-28.

In other regular season-ending Ontario Universities Athletic Association games Saturday, it was: McMaster Marauders 14, York Yeomen 10; Windsor Lancers 23, Waterloo Warriors 11; and No. 4 Wilfrid Laurier Golden Hawks 38, Toronto Blues 5.

Western finished in first place with a 6-0-1 record while Wilfrid Laurier was second at 6-1-0, Guelph third at 4-1-2 and Toronto fourth at 3-3-1.

In the association semifinal playoffs next Saturday, Toronto faces Western in London, Ont., while Guelph meets Wilfrid Laurier in St. Catharines, Ont.

The Ontario-Quebec Intercollegiate Football Conference also wrapped up its regular season Saturday as No. 5 Bishop's Gaiters Chuck Sims scored three of the Guelph majors. Western quarterback Jon Jurus was 22 of 38 for 409 yards and three touchdowns and fullback John Wright scored three of the majors on short runs.

Marauders 14 Yeomen 10

In Toronto, McMaster fullback John Sutton scored on a two-yard run at 6:36 of the final quarter as the Marauders left York with a 1-6 record. The Yeomen were leading 10-0 on a seven-yard touchdown by running back Hovig Keshisian and a 13-yard field goal by George Velentzas. The Marauders closed to 10-7 at halftime on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Mike Luyks to tight end John Monaco.

Lancers 23 Warriors 11

At Windsor, Ont., Lancer running back Chris Porter carried 18 times for 159 yards and scored three touchdowns as Waterloo suffered its 30th consecutive loss, dating back to 1984. The Warriors' lone touchdown came on a short run by fullback Dave Ropret. Windsor finished with a 3-4 record.

Golden Hawks 38 Blues 5

In Waterloo, Ont., Wilfrid Laurier quarterback Rod Philp completed 10 of 22 passes for 173 yards and two touchdowns while halfback Andy Cecchini carried 15 times for 88 yards and two touchdowns. Toronto's points came on a 35-yard field goal by kicker Andrew Astrom and a safety touch.

Golden Gaels 32 Ravens 0

At Ottawa, Queen's receiver beat the defending Vanier Cup champion McGill Redmen 27-21 and No. 10 Queen's Golden Gaels blanked Carleton Ravens 32-0.

In the semifinals next Saturday, league champion Bishop's, 6-1-0, has a playoff rematch with fourth-place McGill, 3-4-0, at Lennoxville, Que., while the third-placed Ottawa Gee Gees, 4-3-0, travels to Kingston, Ont., to face second-place Queen's, 5-2-0.

COMPLETE SEASONS

The Atlantic Universities Athletic Association and the Western Intercollegiate Football League both complete their regular seasons next Saturday.

In AUAA action Saturday, it was: No. 1 Saint Mary's Huskies 29, Mount Allison Mounties 27; and Acadia Axemen 25, St. Francis X-Men 15.

In London, the Mustangs trailed 31-10 late in the second quarter but rallied to tie the game at 31 midway through the third quarter. Then the Gryphons took a 45-31 lead heading into the final quarter.

Western took a 53-45 lead with less than minute remaining, but an 18-yard touchdown pass from Guelph quarterback Mike Shoemaker to wide receiver Dan Tocher and a two-point conversion on a pass from Shoemaker to running back Ian McInstray in the final 15 seconds gave the Gryphons the tie.

Shoemaker completed 21 of 29 passes for 383 yards and three touchdowns while runningback Jock Climie caught seven passes, including one for a touchdown, and set a CIAU record for reception yards in a season as Carleton ended up winless in seven games. Climie finished the season with 1,091 yards to eclipse the previous mark of 1,068 set by Bryan Fryer of the Alberta Golden Bears in 1974.

Gaiters 27 Redmen 21

In Lennoxville, Bishop's intercepted five passes and recovered four fumbles against McGill which had clinched a playoff spot when the Concordia Stingers lost 23-15 to Ottawa on Friday night. The Redmen never got untracked, particularly on the ground as they managed only 149 yards rushing.

Huskies 29 Mounties 27

At Sackville, N.B., Chris Flynn connected on three touchdown passes to Ian MacDonald and one to Brian Smith as St. Mary's edged Mount Allison. Mounties' quarterback Andrew Allison completed a 66-yard touchdown pass to Richard Thomson, who ran for another touchdown, in the second quarter while Grant Keany notched six points with a 36-yard rush.

Axemen 25 X-Men 15

In Wolfville, N.S., Dan Murphy's touchdown on a 49-yard punt return helped Acadia to its second straight win over St. Francis Xavier. A one-yard rush by Steve Rockburn accounted for Acadia's other touchdown.An 89-yard interception return by Dave Serwatuk and a 95-yard kickoff return provided the touchdowns for the X-Men.

It's two years in a row for Galt Pipers' football

LENNOXVILLE — For the second straight year the Alexander Galt Pipers will be taking the Headmasters cup to the school down the road.

The Pipers won the annual clash against Bishop's College School 9-0 under weather conditions that were less than desirable. At game time close to three inches of snow covered the BSC turf and players were scrambling to find a grip on the slick surface.

Chris Gear came up with Galt's only TD

After a scoreless opening quarter Galt took a 1-0 lead at half time after Steve Slater punted a 55-yard single in the defensive struggle.

Chris Gear scored the only major of the day off a 4-yard quaterback sneak. Gear then threw to Darryl Tompson for a two-point conversion giving Galt the winning margin.

"Both team's played an excellent game," said Galt's assistant coach Stuart Gear. "They (BCS) played an excellent first half. They're a very well-coached team."

The win clinches the Eastern Townships football title for the Pipers who finished the season with a 7-1 record. The only lose they suffer was at the hands of Sorel, who Gear said had players bigger than the Champlain Cougars have.

The Pipers are waitng to see who they'll be playing against for the playoff championship. For now, the Pipers will be tuning up with an exhibition game this Saturday against Montreal's St. Thomas High School. The game will kick off at 10:30 a.m. at Galt.

Vert et Or bounce Moncton

SHERBROOKE — Thanks to the smashes of Stanstead's Melanie Watson, the University of Sherbrooke women's volleyball team defeated the Moncton Blue Angels three games to two Saturday night.

Watson's whacks were 24 per cent effective which was "just great," said Vert et Or coach Gaetan Morin.

Veteran Catherine Dallaire was a surprise plus for the team because she played with the flew — an ailment which didn't end up slowing her down.

"She played very well considering her condition," Morin said.

Sherbrooke defeated Moncton at the Pavilion Univestrie 15-10, 15-17, 15-8, 13-15, and 15-10.

The Vert et Or women volleyballers are now looking towards a lot of travel in the near future: tournament destinations include Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver and Hawaii (where they'll play the defending NCAA champs).

"We're going to put an emphasis on defence and passing," Morin said. "We're not attacking or blocking as well as we should."

SHERBROOKE — It felt like Friday Night at the Fights, only it was Sunday.

In between 273 penalty minutes the Sherbrooke Canadiens won a hockey game 7-2 over the Rochester Americans. As for the fights it was a draw.

Rochester's losing streak continued to grow. After eight games, the lowly Americans are looking for their first American Hockey League win.

In the brawl-filled night, 11 game misconducts and 11 separate scuffles as the two teams exchanged blows without the slightest of hesitation.

Sherbrooke took a 4-0 with first period goals from Mark Pederson and Stephane Lebeau, and two second period tallies from Brent Gilchrist.

But that's as far as hockey went this ugly night.

The second period was highlighted by an on-ice brawl where three players from each team where thrown out of the game by referee Paul Devorski. Five-foot, nine-inch Luc Gauthier started the brawl by jumping on American's left winger Rob Ray after he bowled over Canadiens goaltender Randy Exelby. A total of 108 minutes in penalties were handed out during the mêlée, including six game misconducts. The most interesting fight was between little Exelby and Rochester's goalie Kenton Rein.

Rein raced down the ice after the fighting started and jumped Exebly. The two exchanged blows while fans tried to decide which of the three fights to watch.

When the two teams put the fisticuffs aside for awhile, Sherbrooke lunged to a 5-0 lead on Slyvain Lefebvre's first goal of the season on the powerplay.

Veteran Jody Gage scored Rochester's only goal, wracking up his first two markers of the season.

Lebeau, with his second of the night and fifth of the year, and Jocelyn Lemieux rounded out the scoring for Sherbrooke.

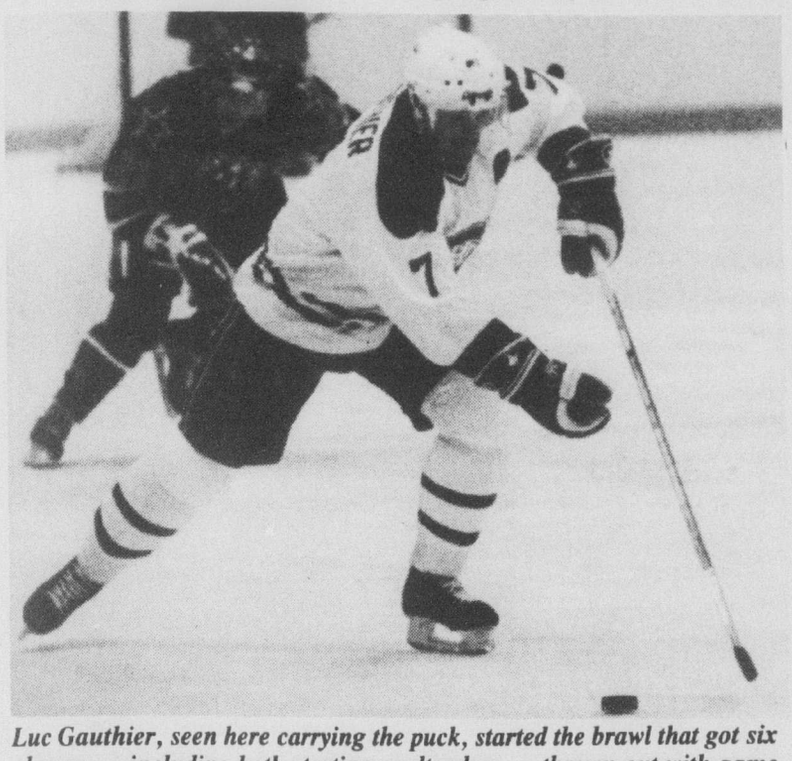
It was the Canadiens' fifth straight win after an opening season loss to Binghamton 3-2.

With Rochester playing its third game in four nights, Canadiens coach Jean hamel said he expected a more tame evening of hockey. That aside, he said he was pleased that his team answered the bruising Americans with fists.

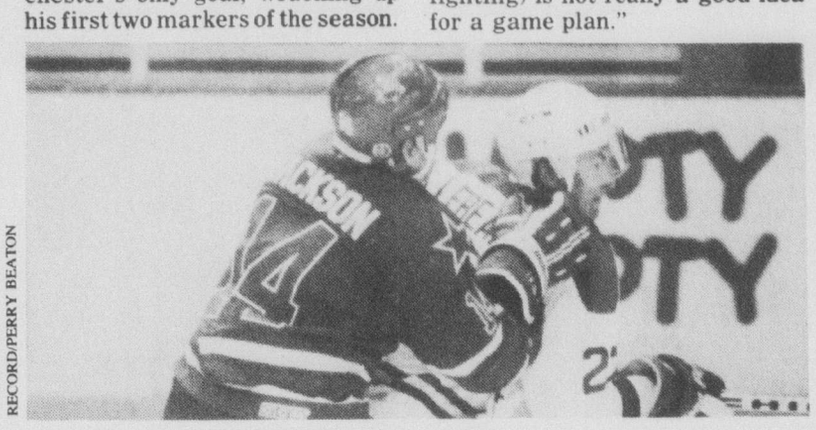
"When they attack our goalie," said Hamel, "our guys came out for the call. I was pleased that everyone reacted the way they did."

Excluding the fighting — which seemed to take place everytime the puck was dropped — Hamel said his team played a good game.

"Nobody got beat up too bad and we got some very nice goals from the players," he said. "But (all the fighting) is not really a good idea for a game plan."



Luc Gauthier, seen here carrying the puck, started the brawl that got six players — including both starting goaltenders — thrown out with game misconducts.



RECORD/PERRY BEATON

Stéphane Lebeau avoided the fisticuffs, opting to notch his fourth and fifth goals of the season as the Canadiens skated to a bruising 7-2 win.

Champlain loses zip after players ousted

By Bruce Macfarlane

LENNOXVILLE — Two early game misconducts and poor goaltending helped St-Laurent defeat the Champlain Cougars 8-3 Friday night in Montreal.

The Cougars travelled to the island metropolis to take on the CEGEP AA No. 2 team. The Champlain squad got off on the wrong foot early in the first period.

At the seven minute mark, Henry Leggett was called for spearing. The right winger received a five minute major and an early trip to the showers.

The Cougars' second game misconduct came at early in the second period. Quyon native Danny Desabrais committed his third sticking penalty of the game.

The penalty gave Desabrais a seat beside Leggett in the stands.

Corey Smythe netted two goals, and Steve Godbout notched one for Champlain. Both teams exited the ice after two periods with St-Laurent leading 4-3.

The third period belonged to the Montreal squad as they netted four unanswered goals past the second Champlain netminder of the game.

"St-Laurent has a good hockey team," said Cougars coach Rod McKell. "It hurt us when we lost Henry and Danny. The boys have to play better."

The Cougars ended up changing buses halfway to Montreal after the first broke down on the autoroute.

Rod McKell... Player-loss stung.

The team arrived at the St-Laurent arena only 20 minutes before gametime.

The Champlain Cougars' next home game is an exhibition match against Clinton Community College Wednesday night at 7 p.m. The Lennoxville CEGEP plays host to the undefeated squad from Montmorency Friday night. The opening face-off is at 8:30 p.m.

Quebec's Mason overcome by Ranger rifles

NEW YORK (AP) — Jan Erixon scored two goals to highlight a four-goal first period, leading the New York Rangers to an 8-2 NHL victory over the Quebec Nordiques on Sunday night.

Ulf Dahlen had two goals and Tomas Sandstrom had a goal and three assists for the Rangers, who won their fourth straight game. The Nordiques lost their third in a row.

For the second night in a row, Nordiques goaltender Bob Mason was blitzed by shots as the Rangers outshot the Nordiques 48-28. Mason was taken out of Saturday night's 7-3 loss to the New York Islanders after two periods.

Erixon scored his first goal of the season when he redirected Lucien DeBlois' shot from the slot past Mason at 2:08. Sandstrom made it 2-0 on a power play goal at 14:40, deflecting James Patrick's shot from the point.

Erixon scored his second of the game at 15:41 when he shot a bouncing puck from the left circle that jumped over Mason's stick and into the net.

Guy Lafleur then scored his third of the season at 17:47. Normand Rochefort fired a shot which bounced off a defenceman and to Lafleur, who just shot it into an open net.

The four goals were the most scored by the Rangers in one period this season.

In the second period, the Rangers made it 5-0 on a goal by Tony Granato, his first in the NHL. The former U.S. Olympian scored at 11:25 with a shot from the left circle.

The Rangers completed the rout by outscoring the Nordiques 3-2 in the final period.

Ulf Dahlen scored at 36 seconds and at 3:58 for the Rangers to give him seven goals for the season.

The Nordiques responded with a goal by Alain Cote 9:17, which came off Robert Picard's 300th career assist. Then Iiro Jarvi scored at 10:51 with the help of rookie Joe Sakic, who has a point in every Quebec game so far and 14 for the season.

The Rangers completed the scoring when James Patrick connected on the power play at 13:41.

Bishop's wins respect in OUAA conference

SHERBROOKE (SDH) — As rock singer Meatloaf said, "Two out of three ain't bad." As Eddie Pomykala would say, three out of three's better.

The Bishop's University basketball program took a bold step forward this weekend, playing three games in the newly revised Ontario University Athletic Association. Rather than playing like the league rookies they are, the Gaiters won two out of three games to start the season. The difference between a 2-1 record and 3-0 record was one call, Pomykala said.

After beating York University 88-62 Friday night and Ryerson 69-54 Saturday night, the Gaiters lost to the University of Toronto by two foul shots with a second left to play.

Pomykala said the debatable call allowed Toronto to sink the winning margin.

Pierre Tibblin and David King led the Gaiters in all three games, sinking basket after basket and looking like they were in mid-season form. Against York the pair's combined score accounted for more than half the Bishop's total — Tibblin lead the way with 23 points, while King had 22.

The next night against Ryerson, King chipped in a team-leading 21 points and Tibblin came up with 17 of his own. In Toronto the two scored 38 points, 24 by the lanky Tibblin.

"The team played very well for this point in the season," said Pomykala in a telephone interview from Toronto.

"Without a doubt we played well enough to win all three games," he said, adding that the early-season jitters hurt the team on several occasions.

MacLeans supply the goal scoring

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's Paul MacLean scored two power-play goals Sunday night as the Red Wings and New Jersey Devils skated to a 3-3 NHL tie.

The Devils led 3-2 in the second period but Detroit's Adam Oates beat Sean Burke with a wrist shot from the slot at 17:34 and neither team scored again.

The Devils had a power play for two minutes of the overtime while MacLean was off for roughing, but New Jersey only got one shot on Detroit goalie Glen Hanlon during that time.

Burke faced 19 of his 20 shots in regulation. Hanlon faced 23 shots in the first 60 minutes and just one in overtime.

It was the fourth overtime game for Detroit, the first for the Devils.

The Devils took an early 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Jack O'Callahan and Aaron Broten. O'Callahan's power-play goal, his first, came at 2:52, 25 seconds after Dave Barr was sent off for hooking Pat Verbeek. Broten notched his third goal at 8:43, when the puck glanced off John Chabot's skate and between Hanlon's legs.

A Detroit power play made it 2-1 on MacLean's fifth goal at 15:49 of the first period with Ken Daneyko in the penalty box.

Detroit tied it at 2-2 just 55 seconds into the second period on another power-play goal by MacLean.

New Jersey's John MacLean beat Hanlon on the glove side with a slap shot from just inside the blue line for his fifth goal at 9:07 of the second period.

But the Red Wings tied it on Oates' third goal at 17:34 of the second period, a shot into the upper right corner of the net.

'Rock' Raines inks deal

MONTREAL (CP) — Tim Raines, the left fielder whose future with the Montreal Expos has been the subject of much speculation, has agreed to a three-ear contract, plus an option year, the National League baseball team said Sunday.

The new contract calls for the eight-year veteran to receive $6.3 million over the next three years. Raines earned $1.6 million in 1988, the second year of a three-year deal.

The uncertainty surrounding Raines's return to the Expos came when arbitrator George Nicolau ruled several weeks ago that the baseball owners were guilty of collusion in dealing with players who were free agents in 1986. Raines, who eventually re-signed with the Expos but was forced to miss the first month of the 1987 season, was among the group.

Nicolau is expected to grant free agency again to the 1986 group in a decision sometime this week.

Raines was said to be close to signing with Montreal in the closing weeks of the season. Then it was reported that he might wait for Nicolau's remedy in the collusion case.

In signing with the Expos, Raines, 29, waived any rights to free agency that could arise from Nicolau's decision.

The Expos and Raines also have apparently resolved a thorny issue during their negotiations, which started a few months ago. Raines will not be paid if there is a players' strike when the basic agreement expires following the 1990 season. But, in a statement, the Expos noted that he may receive a full salary in the event of a lockout, "depending on the nature of the lockout." Raines is coming off his most ineffective season since joining the Expos in 1981. Bothered by a sore shoulder, on which he had surgery in the final month of the season, Raines had a .270 average, with 12 home runs and 48 runs batted in.

But a healthy Raines is a large plank for Expos manager Buck Rodgers, who will likely bat him third in the order next year.

Raines will comment on the signing in a conference call Monday.

CANBERRA, Australia (CP) — Canada had Portugal tied up for most of the game Sunday, but let the Portuguese off the hook with five late goals in a 7-2 loss in the second day of action at the world indoor soccer championships.

The score was knotted at 2-2 — on goals by Danny Has of Vancouver and Alex Johnie of Duncan, B.C. — when the Canadian defence came apart under the relentless attack by the European champions. The Canadians were blanked 11-0 by Paraguay on Saturday.

In other scores Sunday: the United States 2, Japan 0; Australia 16, Hungary 0; Paraguay 8, England 3; Uraguay 15, Italy 2; Costa Rica 9, New Zealand 2; Argentina 3 Spain 3.

TOKYO (AP) — Second-seeded Boris Becker of West Germany overcame a slow start to defeat Australian John Fitzgerald, 7-6 (7-4), 6-4, in the final of the $675,000 US Seiko Super men's tennis tournament Sunday.

"He (Fitzgerald) had a better start than I did," Becker said. "I came back and when it was 3-3 in the first set, I was in control of the game."

Unity 50 Plus Club news and activities

By Mrs. Wm. Cutler

Fifty seven members of the Ayer's Cliff and area Unity Fifty Plus Club met at the Legion Hall on Tuesday, October 4 for the regular monthly gathering. All came to the hall around noon bringing either a casserole or dessert for lunch with salads, pickles and french bread. Alice Mayhew said grace and all enjoyed the delicious buffet style meal. Birthday cake and ice cream were served by Alice Mayhew and Irene Ride. Celebrating birthdays for the month of October were Don and Zelda Bowen, Irene Ride and Ruth McFarlane. All stood by the birthday cake table and were serenaded with the birthday song with several taking pictures of the celebrants.

Following the meal and clean-up, tickets were sold on the raffle with winners being Jessie Cass, Dyanne Saanum, Bill Cutler, Winnie Rodney, Jane Pierce and Stan Gage. President Phyl Davidson reported that Kay Pyle was absent due to the death of her mother, Mrs. Munday whose funeral was this afternoon in Sherbrooke.

Our entertainment for the afternoon was furnished by Pat Hurley and Dave Donnachie of Lennoxville who entertained us with music and songs with everyone enjoying the trip down memory lane. At the close of the entertainment they were thanked by Stan Gage and presented with a small token of our appreciation.

Our November meeting will be a bring and buy affair with the money raised from the sale of articles brought in to go towards the cost of our annual Christmas dinner in December to be held in the United Church Hall.

Fifty Plus Club annual fall foliage trip

On Tuesday, September 27, forty seven members of the Fifty Plus Club left the Legion hall at 8:30 a.m. by bus for the annual fall foliage tour. This year we went to Magog and Austin, on through to Knowlton where we stopped for coffee and doughnuts or muffins at the Chinese restaurant where we were all presented with a brochure from the Chamber of Commerce of the town of Brome Lake. After coffee we boarded the bus and went back into the town where we shopped at the numerous boutiques and stores before going on to Bromont Country Club where we had a most delicious luncheon served buffet style and enjoyed the foliage on the mountain from the large windows in the dining room. From there our driver Guy took us all around the foot of the mountain to see the beautiful new homes that have been constructed in the area the last few years which are truly luxurious.

Then it was on to Granby with our first stop at the information center where our guide for the afternoon came aboard the bus with us and we had a tour of part of the city and to the marsh where we climbed the tower to see the ducks and also to view the film and explore the nature walk around the area. From there we went by another scenic route to city hall where we were met by ex-mayor Horace Boivin. Mayor Boivin delighted us with his wit and humour and gave us the history of Granby. I'm sure many of us were surprised to learn there are a hundred and ninety shops manufacturing many different products. That Granby is the city of fountains, having thirty seven so far in the many parks and have a population of thirty nine thousand people with about twelve thousand more in Granby Township. He told us about the formation of the zoo while he was mayor, a position he held for twenty six years. At the end of his talk he showed a film which we all enjoyed. A light lunch was served and as Mr. Boivin had celebrated his 83rd birthday just a few days prior to our visit we all sang the birthday song to him. Several door prizes were drawn, the winners all receiving prizes that are manufactured in Granby.

From city hall we went to the huge shopping center with over a hundred stores and enjoyed an hour of shopping before leaving for home. En route we stopped at Eastman for a lunch, then back on the bus for home. Thanks were expressed to Stan and Viola Gage and the Jobels who had organized the day by Phyl Davidson who also presented the bus driver with a small token of our appreciation.

United Church Women meet

BRIGHAM — On Wednesday, October 12 the Brigham UCW met at the home of Mrs. Ada Goodhue and Miss Doris Dougall with six members present. Mrs. Norma Sherrer, President, opened the meeting by asking Mrs. Mabel Ingalls to lead in the worship period. This was in keeping with Thanksgiving, Mrs. Ingalls reading from Psalm 107, followed by singing "Sing to the Lord of Harvest". She read a meditation entitled "Let Us Give Thanks", and closed by repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, Mrs. Cedric Dougall and approved as read. A letter of appreciation was read from Rev. Stewart Clarke for sympathy expressed at the time of his mother's death. Copies of the paper "Happenings" were given out. Mrs. Evelyn Clarke read the Treasurer's report. It was moved to give Mrs. Goodhue money to buy cards and stamps. Two cards were signed by all present to be sent to two of our faithful but absent members, Miss Grace Hawthorne and Mrs. George Patterson.

After some discussion it was decided not to hold the Birthday Tea previously suggested, but to have an "Imaginative Christmas Tea and Bazaar", supposedly held on November 15.

Mrs. Clarke read an interesting article, "One Minute for Missions". She also had a contest which proved to be quite a brain-teaser and caused many laughs.

The next meeting at the home of Mrs. Norma Sherrer on December 12 instead of the regular date, with a pot-luck lunch at noon, followed by the meeting. Mrs. Sherrer closed the meeting with a Benediction.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and all enjoyed a social hour.
