Pontiac joins Regional Development Council

County Council met at a special session on Monday to make a number of important decisions. All mayors were present except from Rapides des Joachims and Danford Lake.

Victor Grostern of the CRD addressed Council after which they took a vote and decided to join that organization and send Mayor Léo Piché of Bryson to the meetings to represent Pontiac.

Mayor Young of Shawville, chairman of the Industrial Committee, reported on a meeting they held with the Forest Products Marketing Board of Pontiac and members of parliament and officials from Hull to consider an enquiry from an industrialist. This latter wishes to set up a sawmill and finishing plant for furniture components in this County and needs a guarantee of three million feet of pine per year and also three million more of mixed wood, pine and hardwood.

The proposed mill would cost three hundred thousand dollars to build and would employ 25 unskilled workers as well as providing work for bushworkers. The finishing plant would cost $400,000 and the company would be seeking help from the department of regional economic expansion, DREE, for this construction. This plant would employ 50 people.

Warden Basil Quaile, who is also president of the Marketing Board, is instituting a survey through the secretary treasurers of fourteen Pontiac municipalities to find out approximately how much bushland there is in the area.

Patrick Fitzpatrick, chairman of the valuation committee, reported that his committee had decided to recommend the hiring of the Galarneau firm for the year of 1976 but this recommendation was turned down by a vote of 11 to 8 for rehiring the Estimateurs.

The problems of translating everything into French for Mayor Boileau was solved by a decision to hire a bilingual person to sit beside him during all County Council meetings and tell him what was going on.

During the discussion of translation services it was stated that it cost $70 to have the County Council minutes translated into French after the last meeting.

Tom Lefebvre, M.P., addressed Council giving credit for the extension of the designated area in Pontiac largely to the work of the Industrial Committee. He was also able to answer a few questions raised by various mayors. He stated that the Provincial Government is the key to the availability of raw material and hoped and fully expected they would co-operate in the establishment of new [illegible]ries here.

The final decision of the day was to rent a Xerox machine for the County office. After the official part of the meeting was completed but before adjournment, a request was made to the Secretary to send letters to Consolidated-Bathurst, to the Canadian Paperworkers Union and to the Government of Quebec Department of Labor urging them all to do everything in their power to end the strike at the Pontiac Mill. Individual mayors also decided to send letters from their various municipalities to the same offices with the same message.

County mayors express hope that Mill and Union will re-open negotiations

At the special meeting of Pontiac County Council Monday, the mayors who remained for the afternoon session decided to try to encourage the Consolidated-Bathurst Mill and the Canadian Paperworkers Union to reopen negotiations towards an early settlement of the strike which has been crippling the area for several months.

An official resolution could not be made because it was a special meeting called for other purposes. If a full board had been present they could have moved a resolution but two mayors did not attend and two others were unable to remain for the afternoon session. However the remaining eighteen mayors spent considerable time discussing the serious situation and their concern for what it was doing to Pontiac.

DID IT DO ANY GOOD?

That's the question we've been asked by a number of people who either took part in or saw the television program PLATFORM on CBOT. Our first reaction was that it wasn't intended to "do good". After all, television is really just entertainment.

But on further consideration we have to think that this particular program must have done some good.

The people who ask that question mean "good" in terms of whether or not the program will help in the cause of getting Bill 22 cancelled. In that sense we're afraid they'll be disappointed.

But in other ways it has served a useful purpose.

It has brought to the attention of a lot of people the current feelings of those French speaking people who have recently come to Pontiac County to work for various government agencies. It gave them an opportunity to demonstrate their unilingual rights. It also provided the English speaking people a place to voice their fear for the loss of their minority culture and describe their concern for the disintegration of good feelings between the two language groups in this County.

Everybody doesn't watch CBOT, especially at midnight on Sunday, so we still have to counteract the fact that very few people know anything about Pontiac County. But the show will be repeated next Saturday at one in the afternoon, and people tell other people. Of course, the most educational part of the evening was the shouting before and after the program, which only those who were there could witness, but this included a number of people from outside the area who surely must have learned something about our problems thereby.

Yes, the program did do some good.

"Platform" will be replayed Saturday at 1 o'clock

CBC brings PLATFORM to Pontiac

The Platform program taped in Shawville will be shown again this Saturday at 1 p.m.

It was announced that someone here approached the CBC about this program. Actually the CBC approached us, and it was with some misgivings that we consented to set up a panel and proceed with the program because this County's experience with CBC television has not in the past been very positive. However, this time the CBC came through with flying colors.

The topic was supposed to be Bill 22 and some of those who came to the microphones kept to the topic. Some, however, used the opportunity to air their feelings on various other matters.

Several people tried to get across the message that relations between the English speaking and the French speaking people of Pontiac had always been good until the recent polarization brought about by such measures as Bill 22. Others took the microphones to demonstrate the present linguistic climate, climaxed by the young Quebec Welfare officer who stated that he would not lower himself to speak English!

This last remark did not come over the air on the program because it was shouted out after the show was over but before anyone had left the auditorium, so viewers across Canada did not get the message but everyone here did.

Other discordent outbursts, also missed by the actual program, came at the outset while the television crew was trying hard to get things started. These were led by the recently arrived Quebec health inspector who stood up and shouted at the moderator, Brian Smyth, in an effort to make him translate everything that was being said into French. This was impossible because the program was part of a national network in the English language. Mr. Coté finally sat down although he was far from satisfied in his attempt to disrupt the program.

Speaking on the platform were Mrs Henry McCord, Mr Wyman MacKechnie and Mr Richard Bowie.

Addressing remarks from the audience were:

Jean-Guy Lariviere who valiantly upheld his government's work on the Language Bill and stated that it was always under review and could be amended and even thrown out altogether.

Clay Horner, who asked further details about progress toward improving the Bill and also about the government's reaction to the anti-Bill 22 petitions.

Karlo Guliani, who addressed himself to the effects of Bill 22 on education.

Glenn Brown who heaped glowing praise on Jean-Guy Lariviere.

Theo Dufault who said that until recently a French speaking person could not rent a house in Shawville and that he had lived in Fort Coulonge all his life and there had always been anger between the French and English people. "We grew up with that mentality" he stated, and furthermore if you spoke French at the Pontiac Community Hospital you couldn't be understood, he said.

Mrs Marion Marks, who replied that about half the staff at the hospital could speak French and that although the signs there were still English they had a lot of literature in French only.

Dwight Thompson who said he was very fond of the French speaking people of Quebec and hated to see them destroy themselves with Bill 22.

Jacques Mousseau, who said it would be hard to get married in Shawville because there was no Catholic Church and that he felt his children who attended Pontiac Protestant High School were discriminated against by panelist Phoebe McCord.

Revel Robinson, who prayed that the people of this area would not be torn apart by the divisiveness of the Bill.

Frank Andai, who also spoke to the cause of co-operation among the two language groups.

After Brian Smyth had ably wound up the discussion there were still a few people with something to say so they took to the microphones although the show was over.

Earl Potvin stated that three of the five doctors at the hospital were French speaking. Heather Smiley stated that she could not understand French although she had studied it throughout high school.

A group of people near the front did not identify themselves but continued to demand that everything should be translated into French and to dispute loudly between themselves. Mr. Guliani stood up to urge them to express their opinions in English so everyone could benefit. It was at this point that mr. Leblanc, who later told us he is a "Social Aide" working in Campbell's Bay, shouted out above the others "je ne vais pas m'abaisser pour parler en anglais."

The meeting was intended to provide a platform for sharing of opinions. It succeeded. Unfortunately the long-established French speaking communities of Pontiac County did not send anyone to participate although they were invited. Their opinions about any good or bad consequences of the Bill to this County would have been a valuable addition to the debate. However it was clear from what did happen that things have not been the same here since the advent of Bill 22.

The panel showed courage and intelligence under pressure, each one provoking constructive thought on the subject of Bill 22. As people across Canada see this TV show they will realize that Quebec is not 100% French; not yet anyway. They will also get the message that the English speaking people here are trying to survive culturally against tremendous odds and the full weight of the law.

Wheels on ice

At Campbell's Bay the bike races on ice caused a lot of excitement and brought forth a whole new aspect of winter sports. The Hub Club sponsored the event, with a lot of help from O'Keefes. Grist and miscellaneous items

We have received a number of requests for copies of Phoebe McCord's poem which she read on the "New Faces" show. We are delighted to announce that a book of Mrs McCord's poetry, including "What has become of the Family Farm", will be published at Pontiac Printshop shortly.

Mayor Lornie Bechamp of Chapeau was upset when his town didn't appear on the sketch map in last week's paper. But Chapeau will be definitely on the map in March when it is to be the subject of a "New Faces" program on CJOH. Taping will be done on February 29th.

Bryson Inn won 14 and tied two games in the Pontiac Broomball League for 30 points, followed by Shawville with 23, Clarendon 10 and Bryson RA with one point. This is the revision of information received last week.

Douglas Foley of Campbell's Bay has been appointed to the position of Social Animator for Pontiac County by the board of directors of the Pontiac Social Planning Council. His duties began on January 15.

Last weekend Montreal Black Hawks came to Shawville for two Exhibition games against Shawville Atom All Stars. The All Stars won both games.

TO THE EDITOR

Luskville, January 16, 1976

Dear Editor:

I know that some praise has already been extended to Wyman but I would like to add a few words to compliment the remarks of others.

"What men They Were" is facinating, factual, historical, and essential to everyone in Canada or United States whose ancestors came from Pontiac.

The book is packed with historical fact and descriptions of early 1800's tools, buildings, and modes of life and a copy of this book should be on the shelves of all Ottawa Valley School libraries for reference material on river, stagecoach and railway transportation systems in Pontiac. It also gives good background history on the reasons why early explorers, enterprenears, lumbermen & farmers liked th is country.

Local historians and residents will probably debate some aspects of "What Men They Were" but no one from our community can afford to miss this story of our early heritage with its afflictions and satisfactions.

I'm waiting for another- Wyman!

Pontiac Snowmobile Drivers

Well it is winter time again and the snowmobiling season is upon us. In spite of all the problems which faced us it looks like our association has made it. So far this year we have gotten about 300 miles of trail ready for use by our membership. This task was not an easy one since all the old bridges (18 in all) had to be replaced with wider and stronger ones. In addition to this the trails had to be marked with pickets, warning and direction signs (over 1000 pickets in all). Over a hundred hours of bulldozing work was done in order to prepare the trails for the larger groomer and make some of the more difficult hills easy enough for even novice snowmobilers.

You have probably seen our big blue skidozzer around various towns in the area or out on the trails. This machine will be seen more and more on the trails as we get more snow. A rotating schedule for dragging has been set up such that it will remain in one sector for one day at a time and then will move on to an adjacent sector. The schedule has been set up on a Monday to Friday basis with Saturday and Sunday set aside for maintenance of the machine and or dragging of rough sections of the trail. This type of schedule is only tentative and will be modified to suit our needs.

A security patrol has been set up to patrol the Pontiac Snowmobile Drivers Association trail. Some of the duties and responsibilties of patrolers are as follows:
1. Reporting of any hazardous conditions on the trails which could cause an accident or bodily harm to people using the trails.
2. He will check to ensure that no damage is being done to any properties or buildings along the trail.
3. He will report if anyone is disturbing the wild life.
4. He will have some mechanical knowledge and will carry extra gas and tools, first aid kit etc. so that he may be able to assist anyone in trouble.
5. He will carry out snowmobile safety checks that will be organized during the season.
6. He will have the authority to ask for a drivers license; ownership and trail pass or membership card from people using the P.S.D.A. trails.
7. After consulting with the Security and Patrol Director the Security Patrol may request the co-operation of the Quebec Police Force in helping him perform his duties.

You have probably noticed various business's around wit the blue "Sponsor" decal on their doors or cash registers. All business's who display this sign are helping to support us financially and because of this members are asked to patronize these business's where ever possible.

A Poker Run is a fun, easy and non-competitive way to explore the different areas open to snowmobilers. It is open to any person who has a valid snowmobile drivers license and who is interested in "Touring the Pontiac". Basically it works like this. A person enters any one of the 17 establishments on the list and picks up a playing card which he retains. He must obtain 1 card from an establishment in 5 of the seven areas. These five cards form a poker hand, the best poker had obtained wins. A person may obtain more than one card from each area from different establishments but only one card from each area is permitted in the hand.

RULES :1. Only one card per person is allowed at any one establishment.
2. Upon receiving the card you must sign a register indicating you have received it plus you must sign the card as well.
3. You must take the next numbered card in the sequence (No substitution).
4. Your 5 card poker hand must consist of cards from 5 of the seven different areas.
5. You may get as many cards from an area as there are distributers in the area but only one card may be used in your hand.
6. This run will be on from January 23, 1976 to February 15, 1976. All entries must be received by February 20, 1976.

Clarendon W.I.

The Christmas meeting of the Clarendon W.I. was held December 10, 1975 at 7 pm in the United Church Hall. Each member brought her husband or a friend.

At 7:30 everyone sat down to a delicious buffet supper provided by the members. The tables were decorated with a Christmas candle. A Christmas tree was nicely decorated and each member brought gifts for senior citizens and placed them under the tree, to be distributed later by the members.

After the meal everyone went down to the Ladies Parlor where the program began by singing carols. Mrs Beattie the president presented Mrs Edgar Hodgins, who needed no introduction. Mrs Hodgins delighted everyone by showing her slides on the Scandinavian Countries. They were very much enjoyed by all as most of us will never see these places any other way. Everyone left feeling they had enjoyed a delicious meal plus good entertainment.

OTTAWA and Small Business

The Canadian Federation of Independent Business ©

The folly of intervention

By KENNETH McDONALD

Prime Minister Trudeau's warning of permanent price and income controls is a political reaction to the past failures of government intervention in the economy. The twin evils of high inflation and high unemployment are products of state intervention.

The sequence was well documented at the International Symposium of Small Business in Tokyo last November, attended by representatives of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

As advanced countries grow in affluence, attention is diverted to social issues which increase government spending and the size of bureaucracy. The tax burden falls heaviest on the smallest firms which makes it difficult for them to grow.

Big businesses, for the most part, are created by mergers and acquisitions and not by technology or economies of large plant size. Big labour is a product of big government and big business with monopoly power granted by the state.

A British economist contrasted Japan's dynamic economy, subject to minimal government interference, with Britain's stagnation under highly interventionist governments. In Japan, 73 per cent of the work force is employed by small and medium enterprises -- the truly competitive market sector -- in Britain only 20 per cent. Canada, with 55 per cent, is at the crossroads between these two extremes.

The more an economy is dominated by large power groups, the less it is influenced by market forces. Government spending, union demands and prices go up even when demand in the economy is dropping.

Ottawa dumps make work projects in depressed areas where government pay scales drain workers from established businesses. When the projects fold, the workers become eligible for unemployment insurance benefits at top rates and businesses then find it harder still to get new workers.

Ottawa encourages public spending by lending Canada Pension Fund money to provincial governments at low rates so that they don't have to borrow in the capital markets. Meanwhile small and medium enterprises whose taxes go to support these activities are forced to borrow from the Federal Business Development Bank at rates between 12 and 13 per cent.

Ottawa isolates Canadians from the realities of the marketplace by subsidizing fuel costs. Japan, on the other hand, is preparing for sharply reduced automobile use and slower manufacturing growth by encouraging the development of small firms capable of adjusting to changing events.

The threat of permanent government intevention by the Prime Minister is a negative response to Canada's economic difficulties.

A Local Community Service Centre

- C.L... How's that again?

- C.L.S.C., that is L.C.S.C.

- Well, what is it?

- It stands for Local Community Services Centre.

- Never hear of it.

- Local Community Service Centres are agencies set up by the Ministry for Social Affairs.

-And what does it do?

-Initially, the centres were created by Bill 65. The intent of this bill is to improve all services provided to a community, as they relate to social and health welfare.

- Isn't that the same thing as a Social Service Centre?

- Not quite. The Social Service Centres are made up of social worker teams, while many different professionals work within the Local Community Service Centre. The Centre must track down the problems of a given area, it evaluates what is missing or is insufficient in terms of local resources and it attempts, with the concurrence of the population, to resolve these problems. So you see, the Local Community Service Centre works on problems that other agencies are not responsible for.

- What kind of problems?

- Generally speaking, the Local Community Service Centres work at three kinds of problems: health problems, social problems and community problems.

If a home needs physical and moral assistance, after a trying episode, for example, a "homemaker" can spend some time there to help out.

Also, services can be organized for elderly persons-meetings, recreation and medical attention.

Then there are social workers to attend to the problems of families or individuals, when other help is not available in the community.

- Now, if I understand correctly, these services are provided by a staff working with and within the population.

- That's it! We try to make it possible for people to explain their situation and suggest to us what they need to resolve their problems. This enables the Local Community Service Centre to work towards improving social, health and community conditions.

- Great! A Local Community Service Centre is a place where people can meet to express their needs and to discover ways to resolve their problems.

- There, you've got it. That's a Local Community Service Centre.

GREAT SCOT!

By Jack House, The Director
Teacher's Scotch Information Centre

THE TARTAN FOR YOU

Many people are confused about the Scottish Clan tartans because some Clans have as many as three different patterns. But Teacher's Scotch Information Centre can explain this quite simply.

Each Clan has its own tartan. In some cases the ordinary tartan was so brightly coloured that it would be too conspicuous when the Clansmen were out hunting. So a more sombre-coloured tartan was designed, to tone with the moors, the hills and the forests. This is known as the Hunting Tartan.

There were other Clans whose tartans were naturally dark and who wanted to cut a dash on special occasions. So for these Highlanders tailors made a tartan using the normal pattern on a white ground. This is known today as the Clan's Dress Tartan.

If you have a Clan name, or are married to a person with a Clan name, you are entitled to wear that Clan's tartan. The same applies if you are descended from people with Clan names. But, if you have no Clansmen in your ancestry, you can wear either Shepherd's Plaid tartan or Royal Stewart tartan.

Shepherd's Plaid is a small black and white check and was worn by Sir Walter Scott. And, since the Queen is the head of all Scots, anyone with even the slightest trace of Scottish blood is entitled to wear the Royal tartan.

HELPFUL TIPS

To Delight Your Family And Friends

You can avoid wasting money by not wasting food. Even the smallest scraps of leftovers can be combined with others to make a marvelous meal, if you add some eggs.

You can rustle up a great western omelet from meat and vegetable odds and ends and eggs, and your family will be getting a meal full of vitamins, minerals and proteins.

Aside from the nutrients in whatever leftovers you put in the omelet, each egg can provide you with 10 to 15 percent of the minimum daily adult requirements for vitamins, needed fat and protein. And, the protein eggs provide, contains all 10 essential amino acids, the kind your body needs most, more than the incomplete protein found in cereals. The amino acids in eggs are in such a well-balanced proportion, they approach the theoretical ideal protein that is indispensable for humans. For this reason, eggs are used experimentally as the reference standard in evaluating the protein of other foods.

Inflation-Fighting Food Ideas

TIPS ON KEEPING BREAD FRESH

Families who don't use a great deal of bread but who want it fresh when they do, often store the staple in their freezers. Individual slices take only a short time to unfreeze or a brief stint in the oven will restore the bread to usable condition quickly. Frozen bread slices popped directly into a toaster provide a mealtime treat, too.

However, a soft loaf of bread consigned to a freezer needs some protection from the brick hard neighbors it will encounter, and a protective container is in order. It should be sealed to further insure freshness. Assign the freezer "bread box" a permanent shelf position, says the Tupperware Family Food Council. This helps cut down on energy wasting "fumbling" time while the freezer door stands ajar.

Newly made sandwiches can be stored in such a container for future use. When their time has come they can be removed from the freezer after breakfast; they'll be just right by lunchtime.

A good tip for storing bread is to remember that while freezing protects its freshness, refrigerated bread gets stale as quickly as if it was stored at room temperature.

As for sandwich production made easy, try this one:

MOCK HAM SALAD SANDWICH SPREAD

1 12-oz. fully cooked chopped ham
5-6 medium size sweet pickles
2 hard-cooked eggs
1 4-oz. jar pimentos, well drained
1/4 cup mayonnaise

Put ham, pickles, eggs, and pimentos through food chopper. Add mayonnaise and mix thoroughly. Makes three cups, 12 sandwiches.

FRENCH COOKING MADE EASY

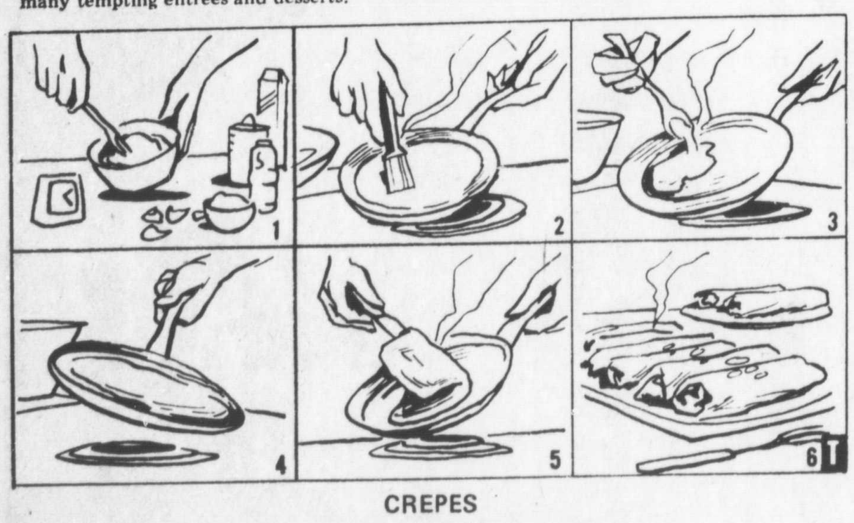
CREPES

Crepes are a versatile French classic. Once you've mastered the basic recipe you'll be able to create many imaginative main dishes and elegant desserts. Crepes are thin delicate pancakes which can be stuffed with an infinite variety of fillings either savory or sweet. The pancakes themselves are easy to prepare, but time consuming, since they are cooked one at a time. However, crepes freeze well and thus can be made days or even weeks ahead.

Economical Blue Bonnet Margarine is perfect for frying your crepes. Tests conducted in a French cooking school comparing Blue Bonnet and butter found no difference in performance or flavor.

Crepes could be filled with sour cream and topped with preserves for an elegant dessert or filled with creamed chicken and mushroom for a delicious luncheon.

Once you discover the ease and versatility of crepes, you will use them often in creating many tempting entrees and desserts.



CREPES

3 eggs
1 cup milk
3/4 cup unsifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons Blue Bonnet Margarine, melted

In a small mixing bowl beat eggs and milk together. Beat in flour, sugar and salt. (1) Let stand for 15 minutes.

(2) For each crepe lightly grease a hot 6-inch or 8-inch skillet with melted margarine. (3) Pour 2 tablespoons batter into skillet. (4) Tilt quickly so that mixture covers bottom of pan. Cook over medium heat until set and bottom is lightly browned. (5) Turn and brown other side. (6) Makes 16 crepes.

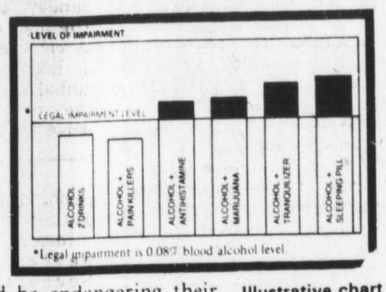
ALCOHOL & OTHER DRUGS



Illustrative chart prepared for the Insurance Bureau of Canada.

Drivers could be endangering their own lives and the lives of others even if their blood alcohol level is below .08 according to Insurance Bureau of Canada.

The Criminal Code of Canada allows for convictions if a driver is impaired by alcohol or drugs and studies conducted for the Bureau show that a combination of alcohol and common drugs can lead to impairment even when blood alcohol content is below the .08 mark.

The studies, which involved 16 student volunteers in laboratory and road tests, proved that mixing alcohol with common drugs used in tranquilizers, sleeping pills and cold remedies is deadly dangerous. Drivers don't realize that the combination of moderate or "safe" amounts of alcohol and such drugs often results in impairment — severe at times. They become a menace to themselves, their passengers, and other users of the highway.

The Insurance Bureau of Canada study was the subject of a special CTV program titled "The High Way to Die." This program — which is available as a 28-minute public service film — dramatically spotlights the effects of alcohol and drugs, including marijuana, on the young student volunteers.

The results of the study are also set out clearly in a four-colour folder "Drinking, Drugs & Driving" published by Insurance Bureau of Canada.

For a free copy, write to Insurance Bureau of Canada, 170 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, M5H 3B3, or the Bureau office in your area.

SNOW TRAILS

by Bob Brewster
MERCURY OUTDOOR CONSULTANT

SNOWMOBILE TRAILER SAFETY

Transportation of snowmobiles is frequently underestimated by snow-going enthusiasts. Hauling sleds can involve more time than an actual trail ride, so proper attention to basic details ensures safety and an enjoyable time.

It is best to use a trailer specifically designed for transporting snowmobiles, according to the Mercury Marine snowmobile people. A tilt bed is recommended for ease in loading and unloading, and an optional winch adds even more convenience. The trailer must meet highway safety requirements pertaining to lights, hitch, coupling and safety chains. Towing vehicle should have a heavy-duty flasher.

Never "drive" a snowmobile onto the trailer because of the danger of going "up and over." Use plenty of help if no winch is available. Keep your back straight and lift with your legs.

Securely fasten the sled to prevent forward, side or rearward movement. Use chain or a metal clamp to secure the front end. For the rear, a chain used with a load tightener is ideal. Avoid the use of a rope or rubber tie-down since either can be easily frayed by sharp metal edges.

After loading, make certain that the trailer tilt bed is securely latched. Then check periodically during lengthy trips. Snowmobiles should be positioned to place the proper weight on the tongue. The amount of tongue weight is usually provided by the manufacturer.

Never overload your trailer. Check the weight capacity rating. Also make sure that the load does not extend beyond the sides or over the back of the trailer bed.

When unloading, release all tie-downs and place in a safe place. Tilt the bed and pull the sled off backwards or tilt the bed to a safe angle and pull off forward. A final safety note from the Mercury people: Never start the machine with the track in contact with the bed since forward motion can "throw" the trailer.

In Memory

SPARLING — In loving memory of a dear father, Crona Sparling, who passed away January 14, 1972.
Oh happy times
We once enjoyed
How good their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
That no one can ever fill.
Sadly missed. Daughter Hazel and Son-in-law Eddy. 9785xj21

SPARLING In loving memory of a dear dad and grandpa, Samual Sparling, who passed away on January 11, 1974.
The dearest dad
This world could hold
With wonderful smile
And a heart of gold.
To those who knew him
All will know
How much we lost
One year ago.
What would I give
If I could say
"Hello Dad"
In that same old way;
To hear you laugh
And see you smile;
To sit with you
And talk awhile.
So you who have a father,
Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know
The heartache
Till you see his empty chair.
Always remembered by His son Carl and wife Cora and grandchildren, and His son Ray. 9808XJ21

Miracle worker coming to Shawville

A Gospel preacher who is ever popular with Pontiac audiences, Rev. William Prankard is returning to Shawville soon. The ministry which originated in the upper Ottawa Valley at Beachburg, Ontario, is now known all over Canada. A feature of his meetings is the manifestation of the Holy Spirit resulting in salvation, healings, and spiritual renewal. Many hundreds can testify to physical healing at the rallies held in various parts of the country. Prayer for the sick often result in miracles taking place among those who attend.

Besides his special services Bill Prankard is seen regularly on the Global TV network and locally on CHOV-TV Channel 5, Pembroke. This program is known as "The Master's Touch". A Gospel newsmagazine known as the "Miracle Digest" enjoys a wide circulation and is mailed free to those requesting copies.

The forthcoming visit of Rev Prankard with his staff of singers and musicians is being looked forward to by local residents with great expectations. He will be here for one night only at the Dr. S. E. McDowell School on Wednesday, January 28th at 7:30 p.m. All are invited to come and hear this man of God and to experience spiritual blessings as the power of the Holy Spirit is made known.

Quick Quiz!

Distances are sometimes deceiving. To be able to see just the tip of a 200 foot oil rig that is 54 miles out at sea, how high above sea level would you have to be (a) 62 feet (b) 262 feet (c) 1,662 feet?

ANSWER

"C" is correct. You would have to be standing 1,662 feet above sea level. That means that if you stood on top of the Empire State Building, you would still need a 412 foot ladder to see even the tip of that oil rig.
