MENTAL HEALTH

QUALITY HEALTH RELATED INFORMATION CAREFULLY SELECTED BY YOUR LIBRARIES

Better informed to live better.

ABOUT

Biblio-Santé is a program of the Quebec Public Library Association. The ABPQ is made up of more than 179 member municipalities and corporations, for a total of over 317 autonomous libraries. Biblio-Aidants is available in more than 780 participating public libraries as well as associated health libraries throughout Quebec. Visit our website to see if your library participates in the program.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Biblio-Santé is an initiative of the Charlemagne, L'Assomption and Repentigny libraries that was started under the name Biblio-Aidants. The Quebec Public Library Association would like to thank these three cities for allowing it to extend the program to the rest of Quebec by transferring the copyright.

HOW DO WE SELECT THE INFORMATION?

Each document for inclusion in the Biblio-Santé thematic booklets is evaluated with impartiality, based on Librarianship practices in place in public libraries, using various general selection criteria.

First, the booklets are carefully designed to primarily meet the needs and interests of health system users and caregivers. Every title is evaluated according to relevance and quality of its content for the general public, in the Quebec context. If of equal value, Quebec materials are always preferred. The credibility and reputation of the author, creator, illustrator, publisher or producer are also of great importance. Furthermore, special attention is given to the timeliness and long-term relevance of the subject as well as the accuracy of the information.

With regard to documentaries, works by health professionals (doctors, nurses, occupational therapists, psychologists, etc.) are given preference. However, titles based on lay or experiential knowledge are not rejected outright, especially those involving support by a caregiver.

Finally, each thematic booklet is considered as a whole in order to respect the diversity of the topics covered and allow for a balanced presentation of viewpoints. For more information on the selection criteria for Biblio-Santé, please visit bibliosante.ca/criteria

INTERNET RESOURCES

A few tips for critically assessing information found on the Internet

THE SOURCE OF THE INFORMATION (AUTHOR OR AUTHORS)

- Who created the site?
- Is it possible to obtain information about the author or the owner of the site?
- Is it a government or university site or one belonging to a recognized organization?

THE QUALITY OF THE INFORMATION SOURCE

- What is the objective (to inform or sell)?
- Are the sources referenced?
- Are there links to similar sources (to verify the accuracy and objectivity of the information)?
- How frequently is the information updated?

Keep an eye open! Information is shared very quickly, and false news travel just as fast. We should not always rely on content shared online, especially on social networks. You may find articles in which the information is false or exaggerated. It is therefore important to check the quality of information before you believe it and share it.

YOUR BRAIN NEEDS A HUG: LIFE, LOVE, MENTAL HEALTH, AND SANDWICHES

Rae Earl. New York: Imprint, 2019, 288 p.

Imbued with a sense of humor, understanding, and hope, Your Brain Needs a Hug is a judgment-free guide for living well with your mind. My Mad Fat Diary author Rae Earl offers her personalized advice on the A to Zs of mental health, social media, family and friendship. When she was a teenager, Rae dealt with OCD, anxiety, and an eating disorder, but she survived, and she thrived. Your Brain Needs a Hug is filled with her friendly advice, coping strategies and laugh-out-loud moments to get you through the difficult days. Witty, honest, and enlightening, this is the perfect read for feeling happier and healthier and learning to navigate life without feeling overwhelmed or isolated.

THE STRESSED YEARS OF THEIR LIVES: HELPING YOUR KID SURVIVE AND THRIVE DURING THEIR COLLEGE YEARS

B. Janet Hibbs and Anthony Rostain. New York: St. Martin's Press, 2019, 352 p.

From two leading child and adolescent mental health experts comes a guide for the parents of every college and college-bound student who want to know what's normal mental health and behavior, what's not, and how to intervene before it's too late.

BENEATH THE SURFACE: A TEEN'S GUIDE TO REACHING OUT WHEN YOU OR YOUR FRIEND IS IN CRISIS

Kristi Hugstad. Novato: New World Library, 2019, 167 p.

Depression and mental illness don't discriminate. Even in the most picture-perfect life, confusion and turmoil are often lurking beneath the surface. For a teenager in a world where anxiety, depression, and other mental illnesses are commonplace, life can sometimes feel impossible. Whether or not you or someone you love is suffering from any of these issues, it's important to be able to recognize the warning signs of mental illness and know where to turn for help.

MIND KIND: YOUR CHILD'S MENTAL HEALTH

Joanna North. Wollombi: Exisle, 2019, 256 p.

Your Child's Mental Health gives vital insight into the world of mental health and provides a value based system to help parents and caregivers to connect with their children and support them towards positive mental health and wellbeing. As a practising psychotherapist, Dr Joanna North is an expert in the field and has helped many parents to grow strong and healthy minds. Chapters are devoted to behaviour management; helping children through difficult times; and developing a "Mind Kind approach" to mental health conditions such as stress, anxiety and depression. Family break-ups, divorce and step-parenting receive special attention, while there is also a chapter dedicated to eating disorders and their link to mental health. In addition, Dr North addresses common parental misunderstandings about mental health and provides effective tools and strategies for every age and stage of childhood to create an environment that promotes positive mental wellbeing.

PROACTIVE PARENTING: HELP YOUR CHILD CONQUER SELF-DESTRUCTIVE BEHAVIOURS AND BUILD SELF-ESTEEM

Mandy Saligari. London: Orion Spring, 2019, 256 p.

The pressures faced by children and adolescents today are unprecedented, and the corresponding statistics around poor mental health deeply alarming. Behind every mental health issue, from addiction to ADHD, lies a host of underlying problems that need addressing but as a worried parent it's hard to know where to focus. What do you do if your child struggles with anxiety? Is self-harming? Has developed an unhealthy relationship with eating, exercise, technology or alcohol? Proactive in approach, top addiction therapist Mandy Saligari provides the tools to help you identify and address the self-destructive patterns of behaviour, to stop them in their tracks. Her practical framework reveals how you can adapt your own behaviour and equip your child to develop emotional intelligence, resilience and self-esteem.

MIND EASING: THE THREE-LAYERED HEALING PLAN FOR ANXIETY AND DEPRESSION

Bick Wanck. Deerfield Beach: Health Communications, 2019, 280 p.

Today more than ever, everyone must be her or his own healer, and this is especially true in the management of anxiety and depression. In the first major conceptual leap in mental health care in forty years, Mind Easing's Three-Layered Healing Plan harmonizes wellness approaches, therapy, and, when needed, medicine into a safe and effective plan tailored to the needs and wishes of the individual.

A CONCISE INTRODUCTION TO MENTAL HEALTH IN CANADA

Elliot M. Goldner, Daniel Bilsker and Emily K. Jenkins. Toronto:

Canadian Scholars' Press, 2016, 371 p.

This book covers the full spectrum of mental health issues in Canada, incorporating insights from both the physical and social sciences to expand the way readers think about mental health. Interdisciplinary and reader-friendly, this book introduces readers to a wide range of topics, including substance use, children and youth, discrimination, workplace mental health, culture, gender and sexuality, diagnosis, treatment, and mental health professions.

THE BURNOUT SOCIETY

Byung-Chul Han. Stanford: Stanford Briefs, 2015, 60 p.

Byung-Chul Han interprets the spreading malaise as inability to manage negative experiences in an age characterized by excessive positivity and the universal availability of people and goods. Stress and exhaustion are not just personal experiences, but social and historical phenomena as well. Denouncing a world in which every against-the-grain response can lead to further disempowerment, he draws on literature, philosophy, and the social and natural sciences to explore the stakes of sacrificing intermittent intellectual reflection for constant neural connection.

MENTAL HEALTH DISORDERS SOURCEBOOK

Edited by Karen Bellenir. Detroit: Omnigraphics, 2012, 700 p.

Depression

THE NEGATIVE THOUGHTS WORKBOOK: CBT SKILLS TO OVERCOME THE REPETITIVE WORRY, SHAME, AND RUMINATION THAT DRIVE ANXIETY AND DEPRESSION

David A. Clark. Oakland, CA: New Harbinger Publications, Inc., 2020, 186 p.

Emotional distress takes many forms—such as excessive worry, rumination, regret, shame, humiliation, or resentment. Managing these negative thoughts is essential for emotional healing and wholeness. In this workbook, renowned psychologist David A. Clark offers a transdiagnostic, cognitive behavioral approach to effectively target these unwanted thoughts. Using practical, step-by-step instructions and activities, readers will learn to free themselves from the addictive thought patterns that trap them in an endless cycle of negativity.

LIVE MORE THINK LESS: OVERCOMING DEPRESSION AND SADNESS

Pia Callesen and Anne Futtrup. London: Icon Books, 2020 173 p.

Live More Think Less presents strategies for regaining control over your thoughts – learning not only how to overcome depression, but how to avoid developing it altogether. Many of us believe that the best way to treat crises and challenges is to process them: to mull over and analyse the stresses, anxieties and traumas we face. But this perception is misguided. Instead, we should think of our mind as a sieve, through which everything slips unless we choose to hold onto it. But how do we let go of those negative thoughts we've held onto which are weighing us down?

AYURVEDA FOR DEPRESSION: AN INTEGRATIVE APPROACH TO RESTORING BALANCE AND RECLAIMING YOUR HEALTH

L. Eduardo Cardona-Saclemente. Berkeley, California: North Atlantic Books, 2020, 432 p.

BEAT DEPRESSION TO STAY HEALTHIER AND LIVE LONGER: A GUIDE FOR OLDER ADULTS AND THEIR FAMILIES

Gary S. Moak. Lanham: Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, 2017, 318 p.

Clinical depression is a serious medical illness that not only can turn a happy retirement into a time of misery, but also leads to a wide range of health problems. Depression increases the rate of disease such as stroke, heart disease, and Alzheimer's disease and worsens the course of others such as diabetes, chronic lung disease, and cancer. It also contributes to avoidable disability and premature death. This book challenges beliefs that depression is normal in old age because old age is depressing, instead helping readers see that depression is a serious brain disease, often related to changes in the brain associated with the aging process.

WHY PERINATAL DEPRESSION MATTERS

Mia Scotland. London: Pinter & Martin, 2015, 159 p.

Why is the seemingly joyful event of new parenthood causing so much suffering? Depression seems to be related to the stresses that a modern couple undertake when they have a baby. The lack of support, lack of celebration, overload of expectations, overwhelming responsibility, isolation, judgment, blaming by the media, tiredness, mixed messages, confusion, high expectations and lack of tender loving care serve to eventually break parents and their relationships. And when we break parents, we break a baby. Babies are our future, and if we break a baby, in the long run, we break society. Postnatal depression takes a high toll on society. Dealing effectively with perinatal depression is about valuing love, connection, calm and stillness, over and above productivity, achievement and acquisition.

UNDER PRESSURE: CONFRONTING THE EPIDEMIC OF STRESS AND ANXIETY IN GIRLS

Lisa Damour. New York: Ballantine Books, 2019, 261 p.

In the same engaging, anecdotal style and reassuring tone that won over thousands of readers of her first book, Untangled, Damour starts by addressing the facts about psychological pressure. Surprisingly, she explains the underappreciated value of stress and anxiety – that stress can helpfully stretch us beyond our comfort zones and anxiety can play a key role in keeping girls safe. When we emphasize the benefits of stress and anxiety we can help our daughters take them in stride. But no one wants their girl to suffer from emotional overload, so Damour then turns to the many facets of their lives where tension takes hold: their interactions at home, pressures at school, social anxiety among other girls and among boys, and on social media. As readers move through the layers of girls' lives, they'll learn about the critical steps that adults can take to shield their daughters from the toxic pressures to which our culture – including we, as parents.

Backed up by research and clinical expertise the book clarifies the facts about suicide and debunks the many unfounded myths surrounding the subject. It covers the classifications and manifestations of suicide, as well as the major risk factors, at-risk groups and warning signs. Advice on effective communication and a repertoire of strategies for distress management are offered, not only for supporting at-risk individuals and those who have survived a suicide attempt, but also families coping with bereavement. A final chapter explores the impact of the internet and the digital age on both the propagation and prevention of suicide.

Dissociative complex disorders

PERSONALITY DISORDERS: ELEMENTS, HISTORY, EXAMPLES, AND RESEARCH

Vera Sonja Maass. Santa Barbara: Praeger, 2019, 236 p.

Personality Disorders systematically explores 10 personality disorders. Each chapter presents a comprehensive and in-depth picture of a particular disorder and its effects, not only on those who suffer from it but also on family, friends, and colleagues as well as the community at large. Chapters focus on important parameters such as symptoms, diagnosis, incidence, history, development, causes, effects, and costs. Relevant case histories and Up Close sections illustrate how the disorder may manifest in different environments and reveal how the disorder can affect a person's interactions within society, at work, and in personal relationships. Research and theories about each particular disorder are also included. Every chapter closes with a discussion of various treatment approaches and a brief list of references, providing for a meaningful presentation for readers at the undergraduate student level and beyond.

(DON'T) CALL ME CRAZY: 33 VOICES START THE CONVERSATION ABOUT MENTAL HEALTH

Kelly Jensen (ed.). Chapel Hill: Algonquin, 2018, 225 p.

Thirty-three writers, athletes, and artists offer essays, lists, comics, and illustrations that explore their personal experiences with mental illness, how we do and do not talk about mental health, help for better understanding how every person's brain is wired differently, and what, exactly, might make someone crazy.

MUCH MADNESS, DIVINEST SENSE: WOMEN'S STORIES OF MENTAL HEALTH AND HEALTH CARE

Lori Hanson and Nili Kaplan-Myrth. Lawrencetown Beach: Pottersfield Press, 2017, 224 p.

This book is a collection of women's writing about mental health and health care. The contributors are varied: not only physicians and other health care professionals but also indigenous women, transgender women, daughters, sisters, mothers, and grandmothers. They are the recipients, providers, and critics of mental health care. In this volume, they break the silence and speak about the messy subject of mental illness today.

ANOTHER KIND OF MADNESS: A JOURNEY THROUGH THE STIGMA AND HOPE OF MENTAL ILLNESS

Stephen P. Hinshaw. New York: St. Martin's Press, 2017, 288 p.

In this book, Hinshaw explores the burden of living in a family «loaded» with mental illness and debunks the «stigma» behind it, explaining that in today's society, mental health problems can result in a loss of a driver's license, inability to vote or run for office, ineligibility for jury service, or automatic relinquishment of child custody.

MY LOVELY WIFE IN THE PSYCH WARD: A MEMOIR

Mark Lukach. London: Pan Macmillan, 2017, 320 p.

Mark and Giulia's life together began as a storybook romance. They fell in love at eighteen, married at twenty-four, and were living their dream life in San Francisco. When Giulia was twenty-seven, she suffered a terrifying and unexpected psychotic break that landed her in the psych ward for nearly a month. A memoir of a young marriage that is redefined by mental illness and affirms the power of love.

RESILIENCE: TWO SISTERS AND A STORY OF MENTAL ILLNESS

At a young age, Jessie Close struggled with symptoms that would transform into severe bipolar disorder in her early twenties, but she was not properly diagnosed until the age of fifty. Jessie's emerging mental illness led her into a life of addictions, five failed marriages, and to the brink of suicide. She fought to raise her children despite her ever-worsening mental conditions and under the strain of damaged romantic relationships. Her sister Glenn and certain members of their family tried to be supportive throughout the ups and downs, and Glenn's vignettes provide an alternate perspective on Jessie's life as it began to spiral out of control. Jessie was devastated to discover that mental illness was passed on to her son Calen, but getting him help at long last helped Jessie to heal as well. Eleven years later, Jessie is a productive member of society and a supportive daughter, mother, sister, and grandmother.

A LETHAL INHERITANCE: A MOTHER UNCOVERS THE SCIENCE BEHIND THREE GENERATIONS OF MENTAL ILLNESS

Victoria Costello. Amherst: Prometheus Books, 2012, 267 p.

Emmy Award-winning science writer Victoria Costello investigates her family lineage for clues to the mental unraveling of her seventeen-year-old son Alex. Eventually she ties Alex's descent into hallucinations and months of shoeless wandering on the streets of L.A. to a dark family secret: the apparent suicide of his great-grandfather on a New York City railroad track in 1913.

Depression

LEAN OUT: A MEDITATION ON THE MADNESS OF MODERN LIFE

Tara Henley. New York: Appetite by Random House, 2020, 336 p.

A deeply personal and informed reflection on the modern world – and why so many feel disillusioned by it. In 2016, journalist Tara Henley was at the top of her game working in Canadian media. She had traveled the world, from Soweto to Bangkok and Borneo to Brooklyn, interviewing authors and community leaders, politicians and Hollywood celebrities. But when she started getting chest pains at her desk in the newsroom, none of that seemed to matter. The health crisis – not cardiac, it turned out, but anxiety – forced her to step off the media treadmill and examine her life and the stressful twenty-first century world around her.

HELLO! I WANT TO DIE, PLEASE FIX ME: DEPRESSION IN THE FIRST PERSON

Anna Mehler Paperny. Toronto: Random House Canada, 2019, 352 p.

Award-winning journalist Anna Mehler Paperny's stunning memoir chronicles with courageous honesty and uncommon eloquence her experience of depression and her quest to explore what we know and don't know about this disease that afflicts almost a fifth of the population – providing an invaluable guide to a system struggling to find solutions. As fascinating as it is heartrending, as outrageously funny as it is serious, it is a must-read for anyone impacted by depression – and that's pretty much everybody.

OUT OF THE WOODS

Luke Turner. London: Weidenfeld & Nicolson, 2019, 271 p.

After the disintegration of the most significant relationship of his life, the demons Luke Turner has been battling since childhood are quick to return – depression and guilt surrounding his identity as a bisexual man, experiences of sexual abuse, and the religious upbringing that was the cause of so much confusion. It is among the trees of London's Epping Forest where he seeks refuge. But once a place of comfort, it now seems full of unexpected, elusive threats that trigger twisted reactions.

DEPRESSION: THE COMEDY

Jessica Holmes. Vancouver: Page Two Books, 2018, 200 p.

Comedians live by the mantra tragedy + time = comedy – hence Jessica Holmes's new memoir about depression, “the cold sore of the mind.” She takes us on her journey – sometimes laugh-out-loud, sometimes cringe-worthy – from successful performer to someone who was basically living the life of a house cat.

THE RECOVERY LETTERS: ADDRESSED TO PEOPLE EXPERIENCING DEPRESSION

James Withey and Olivia Sagan. London; Philadelphia: Jessica Kingsley Publishers, 2017, 231 p.

In 2012, The Recovery Letters was launched to host a series of letters online written by people recovering from depression, addressed to those currently affected by a mental health condition. Addressed to 'Dear You', the inspirational and heartfelt letters provided hope and support to those experiencing depression and were testament that recovery was possible. Now for the first time, these letters have been compiled into an anthology for people living with depression and are interspersed with motivating quotes and additional resources as well as new material written specifically for the book.

BOY MEETS DEPRESSION: OR LIFE SUCKS AND THEN YOU LIVE

Kevin Breel. New York: Harmony Books, 2015, 224 p.

Kevin Breel burst into the public's awareness when at 19 his TED talk became a worldwide phenomenon. Star athlete, ace student, and life of the party: in short, he was every parent's dream. From the outside his life looked perfect. On the inside, though, the pain and shame of depression were killing him. Now, in his first book, he smashes the silence surrounding what it's like to be young, male, and depressed in a culture that has no place for that. Through the lens of his own near suicide, he shows other sufferers that the real miracle of life isn't found in perfection, it's in our ability to heal and accept the dark parts of ourselves.

SHADES OF BLUE: WRITERS ON DEPRESSION, SUICIDE, AND FEELING BLUE

Amy Schor Ferris. Berkeley: Seal Press, 2015, 247 p.

The silent epidemic of depression affects millions of people and takes dozens of lives everyday, while our culture grapples with a stigma against open discussion of mental health issues. Editor Amy Ferris has collected these stories to illuminate the truth behind that stigma and offer compassion, solidarity, and hope for all those who have struggled with depression. Shades of Blue brings the conversation around depression and sadness into the open with real, first-hand accounts of depression and mental health issues, offering empathy to all those who have been affected by these issues.

THE OTHER SIDE OF SILENCE: A PSYCHIATRIST'S MEMOIR OF DEPRESSION

Linda Gask. Chichester: Summersdale, 2015, 272 p.

Having spent her life trying to patch up the souls of others, psychiatrist Linda Gask came to realize that being an expert in depression didn't confer any immunity from it – she had to learn take care of herself, too. Artfully crafted and told with warmth and honesty, this is the story of Linda's journey, interwoven with insights into her patients' diverse experiences of depression -inextricably linked with problems in the past and the present such as vulnerability, fear, loss, loneliness, dependence and grief. She sets out to convey, in a new and original way, how it truly feels to experience this devastating illness, what psychotherapy is about, and the role of medication – and provides hope for those who suffer from depression and their loved ones while busting the stigma of mental illness.

BLACK RAINBOW: HOW WORDS HEALED ME: MY JOURNEY THROUGH DEPRESSION

Rachel Kelly. London: Hodder & Stoughton, 2015, 304 p.

In 1997, Oxford graduate, working mother and Times journalist Rachel Kelly went from feeling mildly anxious to being completely unable to function within the space of just three days. Prescribed antidepressants by her doctor, and supported by her husband and her family, Rachel slowly began to get better, but her anxiety levels remained high, and six years later, as a stay-at-home mother, she suffered a second collapse even worse than the first.

SHADOWS IN THE SUN: HEALING FROM DEPRESSION AND FINDING THE LIGHT WITHIN

Gayathri Ramprasad. Center City: Hazeldon, 2014, 269 p.

A first-of-its-kind, cross-cultural lens to mental illness through the inspiring story of Gayathri's thirty-year battle with depression. This literary memoir takes readers from her childhood in India where depression is thought to be a curse to live in America where she eventually finds the light within by drawing on both her rich Hindu heritage and Western medicine to find healing.

VOLUNTARY MADNESS: MY YEAR LOST AND FOUND IN THE LOONY BIN

Norah Vincent. New York: Viking, 2008, 287 p.

Norah Vincent's last book left her emotionally drained. Suffering from severe depression, Vincent felt she was a danger to herself. On the advice of her psychologist she committed herself to a mental institution. Out of this raw and overwhelming experience came the idea for her next book. She decided to get healthy and to study the effect of treatment on the depressed and insane "in the bin," as she calls it. Vincent's journey takes her from a big city hospital to a facility in the Midwest and finally to an upscale retreat down south, as she analyzes the impact of institutionalization on the unwell, the tyranny of drugs-as-treatment, and the dysfunctional dynamic between caregivers and patients.

Postnatal depression

BODY FULL OF STARS: FEMALE RAGE AND MY PASSAGE INTO MOTHERHOOD

Molly Caro May. Berkeley: Counterpoint, 2018, 260 p.

As she undergoes several unexpected health issues after the birth of her first child and while she and her husband navigate the ups and downs of new parenthood, Molly Caro May moves between shock, sadness, and anger over her body's betrayal. She finally identifies the root of her struggle as premenstrual dysphoric disorder and so begins her exploration of what she calls female rage. The process leads May to an overdue conversation with her body in an attempt to balance the physical changes she experiences with the emotional landscape opening up before her.

THINGS THAT HELPED: ON POSTPARTUM DEPRESSION

Jessica Friedmann. New York: Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 2018, 272 p.

This book is a memoir in essays, detailing the Australian writer Jessica Friedmann's recovery from postpartum depression. In each essay she focuses on a separate totemic object – from pho red lips to the musician Anohni – to tell a story that is both deeply personal and culturally resonant.

FINE (NOT FINE): PERSPECTIVES AND EXPERIENCES OF POSTNATAL DEPRESSION

Bridget Hargreave. London: Free Association Books, 2015, 244 p.

A combination of memoir, case studies, and a diverse range of perspectives from medical professionals, this book presents a comprehensive study of the realities of post-natal depression.

MOTHERING THROUGH THE DARKNESS: WOMEN OPEN UP ABOUT POST-PARTUM DEPRESSION

Jessica Smock and Stephanie Sprenger. Berkeley: She Writes Press, 2015, 295 p.

DOWN CAME THE RAIN: MY JOURNEY THROUGH POSTPARTUM DEPRESSION

Brooke Shields. New York: Hachette Books, 2005, 226 p.

When Shields welcomed her newborn daughter into the world, something unexpected followed – a crippling depression. Now, for the first time ever, she talks about the trials, tribulations, and finally the triumphs that occurred before, during, and after the birth of her daughter. Shields shares how she, too, battled this debilitating condition that is widely misunderstood, despite the fact that it affects many new mothers. She discusses the illness in the context of her life, including her struggle to get pregnant, the high expectations she had for herself and that others placed on her as a new mom, and the role of her husband, friends, and family as she struggled to attain her maternal footing. Ultimately, she shares how she found a way out through talk therapy, medication, and time.

Bipolar disorder (manic depression)

GORILLA AND THE BIRD: A MEMOIR OF MADNESS AND A MOTHER'S LOVE

Zack McDermott. Little, Brown Book Group, 2017, 278 p.

The story of a young man fighting to recover from a devastating psychotic break and the mother who refuses to give up on him.

TRISTIMANIA: A DIARY OF MANIC DEPRESSION

Jay Griffiths. Berkeley: Counterpoint, 2016, 219 p.

The author describes her extreme, year-long bout of manic depression that led to psychotic hallucinations, left her vulnerable to a sexual assault, and set her adrift in a fog of medications and doctor's visits.

HE WANTED THE MOON: THE MADNESS AND MEDICAL GENIUS OF DR. PERRY BAIRD, AND HIS DAUGHTER'S QUEST TO KNOW HIM

Mimi Baird and Eve Claxton. New York: Crown Publishers, 2015, 250 p.

The author pieces together the story of her absent father's life, beginning with his advancements in isolating the biochemical root of manic depression, just as he began to suffer from it himself, leading to years of institutionalization and confinement.

FAST GIRL: A LIFE SPENT RUNNING FROM MADNESS

Suzy Favor Hamilton. New York: Dey Street Books, 2015, 294 p.

During the 1990s, three-time Olympian Suzy Favor Hamilton was the darling of American track and field. An outstanding runner, a major sports apparel spokesperson, and a happily married wife, she was the model for an active, healthy, and wholesome life. But her perfect facade masked a dark truth: manic depression and bipolar disorder that drove her obsession to perform and win.

HALDOL AND HYACINTHS: A BIPOLAR LIFE

Melody Moezzi. New York: Avery, 2013, 288 p.

A manic-depressive Iranian-American Muslim woman chronicles her experiences with both clinical and cultural bipolarity.

THIS FRAGILE LIFE: A MOTHER'S STORY OF A BIPOLAR SON

Charlotte Pierce-Baker. Chicago: Chicago Review Press, 2012, 256 p.

This moving story of an African American family facing the challenge of bipolar disorder provides insight into mental disorders as well as family dynamics. Pierce-Baker traces the evolution of her son's illness and, in looking back, realizes she mistook warning signs for typical child and teen behavior. Hospitalizations, calls in the night, alcohol and drug relapses, pleas for money, and continuous disputes, her son's journey was long, arduous, and almost fatal.

SWING LOW: A LIFE

Miriam Toews. New York: Harper Perennial, 2011, 228p.

One morning, Mel Toews put on his coat and hat, walked out of town, and took his own life. A loving husband and father, a faithful member of the Mennonite Church, and an immensely popular schoolteacher, Mel was a pillar of his close-knit community. Yet after a lifetime of struggling with bipolar disorder, he could no longer face the darkness that clouded his world. In this moving meditation on illness, family, faith, and love, Mel's daughter, critically acclaimed novelist and reporter Miriam Toews, recounts her father's life as he would have told it, in his own voice, right up to the day of his final walk.

MANIC: A MEMOIR

Terri Cheney. New York: William Morrow, 2008, 245 p.

On the outside, Terri Cheney was a successful, attractive Beverly Hills entertainment lawyer. But behind her seemingly flawless facade lay a dangerous secret – for most of her life Cheney had been battling bipolar disorder and concealing a pharmacy's worth of prescriptions meant to make her “normal.” Cheney describes her roller-coaster life with shocking honesty. The events unfold episodically, from mood to mood, the way she lived and remembers life. In this way the reader is able to viscerally experience the incredible speeding highs of mania and the crushing blows of depression.

MADNESS: A BIPOLAR LIFE

Marya Hornbacher. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, 2008, 299 p.

At age 24, Hornbacher was diagnosed with Type 1 rapid-cycle bipolar, the most severe form of bipolar disease there is. Here, in her trademark wry, self-revealing voice, Hornbacher tells her new story. She takes us inside her own desperate attempts to control violently careening mood swings by self-starvation, substance abuse, numbing sex, and self-mutilation. How Hornbacher fights her way up from a madness that all but destroys her, and what it is like to live in a difficult and sometimes beautiful life and marriage, is at the heart of this brave memoir.

Addiction (alcohol, drugs, gambling, new technologies)

AS NEEDED FOR PAIN: A MEMOIR OF ADDICTION

Daniel Peres. New York: Harper, an imprint of HarperCollinsPublishers, 2020, 236 p.

In the vein of Mary Karr's Lit, Augusten Burroughs' Dry and Sarah Hepola's Blackout, As Needed for Pain is a raw and riveting – and often wryly funny – addiction memoir from one of New York media's most accomplished editors which explores his never-before-told story of opioid addiction and the drastic impact it had on his life and career.

SMACKED: A STORY OF WHITE-COLLAR AMBITION, ADDICTION, AND TRAGEDY

Eilene Zimmerman. New York: Random House, 2020, 246 p.

Eilene Zimmerman's ex-husband, Peter, had it all: He was a partner at a prestigious law firm, lived in a $2 million house by the beach, and had two great kids. Maintaining a friendly relationship, Eilene and Peter talked and saw each other frequently. But a few years after their divorce she started noticing erratic behavior: absenteeism, weight loss, constant exhaustion and sickness. Peter explained it away as stress from the pressures of his job, but Eilene couldn't shake the feeling that something else was wrong. Months later, when she finds him dead, she goes on a journey to investigate how a man she thought she knew had become a drug addict.

A HOUSE ON STILTS: MOTHERING IN THE AGE OF OPIOID ADDICTION

Paula Becker. Iowa City: University of Iowa Press, 2019, 218 p.

Paula Becker's son Hunter was raised in a safe nurturing home by his writer/historian mom and his physician father. He was a bright curious child. And yet, addiction found him. More than 2.5 million Americans are addicted to opioids, some half-million of these to heroin. For many of them – for Hunter – their drug addiction leads to lives of demoralization, homelessness, and constant peril. For parents – for Paula – a child's addiction upends family life, catapulting them onto a path no longer prescribed by Dr. Spock, but by Dante's Inferno. A House on Stilts recounts Hunter's headlong rush into drug addiction, its shattering impact on his family, and Paula's determination to shield Hunter's younger siblings from the maelstrom into which his addiction thrusts them all. Paula and her husband desperately fight to help their son, fearing for his life, grieving the loss of the boy they thought they knew. Within this ten-year crucible, Paula is transformed by an excruciating, inescapable truth: the difference between what she can do (love her son) and what she cannot do (save him).

MY LIFE ON THE LINE: HOW THE NFL DAMN NEAR KILLED ME, AND ENDED UP SAVING MY LIFE

Ryan O'Callaghan and Cyd Zeigler. New York: Edge of Sports, 2019, 231 p.

Ryan O'Callaghan's plan was always to play football and then, when his career was over, kill himself. Growing up in a politically conservative corner of California, the not-so-subtle messages he heard as a young man from his family and from TV and film routinely equated being gay with disease and death. Letting people in on the darkest secret he kept buried inside was not an option: better death with a secret than life as a gay man. As a kid, Ryan never envisioned just how far his football career would take him. He was recruited by the University of California, Berkeley, where he spent five seasons, playing alongside his friend Aaron Rodgers. Then it was on to the NFL for stints with the almost-undefeated New England Patriots and the often-defeated Kansas City Chiefs. Bubbling under the surface of Ryan's entire NFL career was a collision course between his secret sexuality and his hidden drug use. When the league caught him smoking pot, he turned to NFL-sanctioned prescription painkillers that quickly sent his life into a tailspin. As injuries mounted and his daily intake of opioids reached a near-lethal level, he wrote his suicide note to his parents and plotted his death. Yet someone had been watching. A member of the Chiefs organization stepped in, recognizing the signs of drug addiction. Ryan reluctantly sought psychological help, and it was there that he revealed his lifelong secret for the very first time.

HOPEFUL HEALING: ESSAYS ON MANAGING RECOVERY AND SURVIVING ADDICTION

Mackenzie Phillips. New York: Atria Paperback, 2017, 169 p.

Mackenzie Phillips grew up in a dysfunctional environment and subsequently battled a near-fatal drug addiction. Now, delivered with warmth and candor, she presents the wisdom she gained from her own personal journey through addictions and her understanding of practical treatment from her work as a rehabilitation counselor. Using her own life experiences as examples of proven recovery methods, she shares the tools and holistic approaches that are available to help you on your journey to recovery.

WASTED: AN ALCOHOLIC THERAPIST'S FIGHT FOR RECOVERY IN A FLAWED TREATMENT SYSTEM

Michael Pond. Vancouver: Greystone Books, 2016, 320 p.

Psychotherapist Michael Pond is no stranger to the devastating consequences of alcoholism. He has helped hundreds of people conquer their addictions, but this knowledge did not prevent his own near-demise. In this riveting memoir, he recounts how he lost his practice, his home, and his family – all because of his drinking. After scores of visits to the ER, a tour of hellish recovery homes, a stint in intensive care for end-stage alcoholism, and jail, Pond devised his own personal plan for recovery. He met Maureen Palmer and together they investigated scientific alternatives to the rigid abstinence doctrine pushed by 12-Step programs.

BOTTLED: HOW TO SURVIVE EARLY RECOVERY WITH KIDS

Dana Bowman. Las Vegas: Central Recovery Press, 2015, 264 p.

A memoir about recovery as a mother of young kids, Bottled explains the perils moms face with drinking and chronicles the author's path to recovery, from hitting bottom to the months of early sobriety – a blur of pain and chaos – to her now (in)frequent moments of peace.

DANGEROUS WHEN WET

Jamie Brickhouse. New York: St. Martin's Press, 2015, 271 p.

Brickhouse's journey takes him from Texas to a high-profile career in book publishing amid New York's glamorous drinking life to his near-fatal descent into alcoholism. After Mama Jean ushers him into rehab and he ultimately begins to dig out of the hole he'd find himself in, he almost misses his chance to prove that he loves her as much as she loves him.

THE AUTUMN BALLOON: A MEMOIR

Kenny Porpora. New York: Grand Central Publishing, 2015, 295 p.

Every autumn, Kenny Porpora would watch his heartbroken mother scribble messages on balloons and release them into the sky above Long Island, one for each family member they'd lost to addiction. As the number of balloons grew, his mother fell deeper into alcoholism, drinking away her sorrows every night in front of the television, where her love of Regis Philbin provided a respite from the sadness around her. When their house was foreclosed upon, Kenny's mother absconded with him and his beloved dog and fled for the Arizona desert, joining her heroin-addicted brother on a quixotic search for a better life. What followed was an outlaw adolescence spent in constant upheaval surrounded by bizarre characters and drug-addicted souls.

ALL THE WAY

Jordin Tootoo. Toronto: Viking Canada, 2014, 240 p.

In 2010, NHL hockey player Tootoo checked himself into rehab for alcohol addiction. All the Way tells the story of someone who has travelled far from home to realize a dream, someone who has known glory and cheering crowds, but also the demons of despair.

ALL BETS ARE OFF: LOSERS, LIARS, AND RECOVERY FROM GAMBLING ADDICTION

Arnie Wexler. Las Vegas: Central Recovery Press, 2014, 167 p.

Arnie Wexler's life as a gambler began on the streets of Brooklyn, New York, flipping cards, shooting marbles, and playing pinball machines. At age fourteen he found the racetrack, a bookie, and started playing the stock market. His obsession with gambling accelerated until a fateful day in 1968 when it all came crashing down. Wexler's gripping narrative leads us through the dungeon of a compulsive gambler's world – chasing the big win and coming up with empty pockets – and how his addiction drove him and his wife, Sheila, to the edge of life. With help, they managed to escape, and together they have devoted themselves to helping others with the problem they know so well.

DRUNK MOM

Jowita Bydlowska. Toronto: Doubleday, 2013, 304 p.

Three years after giving up drink, Jowita Bydlowska found herself throwing back a glass of champagne like it was ginger ale. “It’s a special occasion,” she said to her boyfriend. And indeed it was. It was a party celebrating the birth of their first child. It also marked Jowita’s immediate, full-blown return to alcoholism and all that entails for a new mother who is at first determined to keep her problem a secret.

Anxiety disorders

BECAUSE WE ARE BAD: OCD AND A GIRL LOST IN THOUGHT

Lily Bailey. New York: HarperCollins Publishers, 2018, 257 p.

As a child, Lily knew she was bad. By the age of 13, she had killed someone with a thought, spread untold disease, and spied on her friends. Only by performing a series of secret routines could she correct her wrongdoing. But it was never enough. She had a severe case of Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder, and it ruled her life.

Susan Burton is ready to come clean. Happily married with two children, working at her dream job, she has lived a secret life of compulsive eating and starving for twenty-five years. This is a relentlessly honest, fiercely intelligent narrative of living with binge-eating disorder.

BRAVE GIRL EATING: A FAMILY'S STRUGGLE WITH ANOREXIA

Harriet Brown. New York: William Morrow, 2010, 268 p.

Millions of families are affected by eating disorders, which usually strike young women between the ages of fourteen and twenty. But current medical practice ties these families' hands when it comes to helping their children recover. Conventional medical wisdom dictates separating the patient from the family and insists that "it's not about the food," even as a family watches a child waste away before their eyes. Harriet Brown shows how counterproductive – and heartbreaking – this approach is by telling her daughter's story of anorexia. She describes how her family, with the support of an open-minded pediatrician and a therapist, helped her daughter recover using family-based treatment, also known as the Maudsley approach.

THIN

Lauren Greenfield. San Francisco: Chronicle Books, 2006, 191 p.

This work chronicles an emotional journey that follows four patients through the Renfrew Center, a residential facility in Florida dedicated to the treatment of eating disorders, and includes portraits of fifteen other residents of diverse ages and backgrounds. These intimate photographs, frank voices, and thoughtful discussions combine to make the book a portrait of profound understanding.

Borderline personality disorder

BORDERLINE SHINE: A MEMOIR

Connie Greshner. Toronto: Dundurn, 2020, 243 p.

The true story of complex trauma that began with a mother's murder, and the painful and joyous journey to recovery. When Connie Greshner was eight years old, her father walked into a bar in Ponoka, Alberta, and shot her mother. So begins a young life defined by trauma. From Catholic boarding school in Kansas, to the streets of the lower East Side in Vancouver, Connie travelled in pursuit of acceptance and belonging. Grief, confusion and shame manifested into depression, addiction and promiscuity, and Connie became as borderline as her father. Her forays into the mental health system were unhelpful, but, after several suicide attempts, unlikely heroes supported her determination to overcome.

LOUD IN THE HOUSE OF MYSELF: MEMOIR OF A STRANGE GIRL

Stacy Pershall. New York: W. W. Norton, 2011, 232 p.

Stacy Pershall grew up depressed and too smart for her own good, a deeply strange girl in Prairie Grove, Arkansas (population 1,000), where the prevailing wisdom was that Jesus healed all. From her days as a thirteen-year-old Jesus freak, through a battle with anorexia and bulimia, her first manic episode at eighteen, and the eventual diagnosis of bipolar disorder and borderline personality disorder, this spirited and at times mordantly funny memoir chronicles Pershall's journey through hell-several breakdowns and suicide attempts and her struggle with the mental health care system.

GIRL, INTERRUPTED

Susanna Kaysen. New York: Vintage Books, 1993, 168 p.

In 1967, after a session with a psychiatrist she'd never seen before, eighteen-year-old Susanna Kaysen was put in a taxi and sent to McLean Hospital. She spent most of the next two years on the ward for teenage girls in a psychiatric hospital as renowned for its famous clientele – Sylvia Plath, Robert Lowell, James Taylor, and Ray Charles – as for its progressive methods of treating those who could afford its sanctuary. Kaysen's memoir encompasses horror and razor-edged perception while providing vivid portraits of her fellow patients and their keepers.

STILL CRYING FOR HELP: THE FAILURE OF OUR MENTAL HEALTHCARE SERVICES

Sadia Messaili. Montreal: Baraka Books, 2020, 223 p.

For Sadia Messaili, the suicide of her son, who immigrated to Canada with his family at the age of 12, is the starting point in this moving and challenging quest for truth about our failing mental-health system, justice, and above all better ways to rekindle hope for people suffering mental illness and for their families. Ferid's death was not the end, says Sadia Messaili. He has fought through me, and the fight is not over!

DRAWBRIDGE: DRAWING ALONGSIDE MY BROTHER'S SCHIZOPHRENIA

Joan Boxall and Stephen A. Corcoran (ill.). Halfmoon Bay: Harbour Publishing, 2019, 192 p.

How do you establish trust and meaningful connection with a sibling who suffers from schizophrenia? In a desperate attempt to rekindle her relationship with her estranged brother Steve, Joan takes him to art therapy classes at the Art Studios, part of the Vancouver Recovery Through Art program. This marks the beginning of a remarkable journey into the healing power of art.

THE EDGE OF EVERY DAY: SKETCHES OF SCHIZOPHRENIA

Marin Sardy. New York: Pantheon Books, 2019, 304 p.

Against the starkly beautiful backdrop of Anchorage, Alaska, where the author grew up, Marin Sardy weaves a fearless account of the shapeless thief – the schizophrenia – that kept her mother immersed in a world of private delusion and later manifested in her brother, ultimately claiming his life.

THE COLLECTED SCHIZOPHRENIAS: ESSAYS

Esmé Weijun Wang. Minneapolis: Graywolf Press, 2019, 202 p.

Opening with the journey toward her diagnosis of schizoaffective disorder, Wang discusses the medical community's own disagreement about labels and procedures for diagnosing those with mental illness, and then follows an arc that examines the manifestations of schizophrenia in her life. In essays that range from using fashion to present as high-functioning to the depths of a rare form of psychosis, and from the failures of the higher education system and the dangers of institutionalization to the complexity of compounding factors such as PTSD and Lyme disease, Wang's analytical eye, honed as a former lab researcher at Stanford, allows her to balance research with personal narrative.

A ROAD BACK FROM SCHIZOPHRENIA: A MEMOIR

Arnhild Lauveng. New York: Skyhorse Pub., 2012, 170 p.

For ten years, Arnhild Lauveng suffered as a schizophrenic, going in and out of the hospital for months or even a year at a time. A Road Back from Schizophrenia gives insight into the logic (and life) of a schizophrenic. Lauveng illuminates her loss of identity, her sense of being controlled from the outside, and her relationship to the voices she heard and her sometimes terrifying hallucinations.

Suicide prevention

NOBODY EVER TALKS ABOUT ANYTHING BUT THE END

Liz Levine. New York: Simon & Schuster, 2019, 289 p.

In November of 2016, Liz Levine's younger sister, Tamara, reached a breaking point after years of living with mental illness. In the dark hours before dawn, she sent a final message to her family and committed suicide. In Nobody Ever Talks About Anything But the End, Liz weaves the story of what happened to Tamara with another significant death – that of Liz's childhood love, Judson, to cancer. This account of life and loss – inventively told in the form of the alphabet – is haunting and bittersweet, heartbreaking yet often hilarious. With appealing honesty, Liz writes about her relationship with Judson, Tamara's increasingly bizarre outbursts, the conflicts that arise in a family of challenging personalities and multiple religions, and how death casts a long shadow. In doing so, she exposes the raw and uncomfortable truths about grief and mourning that we often shy away from – and almost never share with others. And she reveals how, in the midst of death, life – with all its messy complications – must also be celebrated.

THE ART OF MISDIAGNOSIS: SURVIVING MY MOTHER'S SUICIDE

Gayle Brandeis. Boston: Beacon Press, 2017, 264 p.

Gayle Brandeis's mother disappeared just after Gayle gave birth to her youngest child. Several days later, her body was found: she had hanged herself in the utility closet of a Pasadena parking garage. In this searing, formally inventive memoir, Gayle describes the dissonance between being a new mother, a sweet-smelling infant at her chest, and a grieving daughter trying to piece together what happened, who her mother was, and all she had and hadn't understood about her.

TEN WAYS NOT TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Darrell Dawsey. New York: Amistad, 2016, 240 p.

In this memoir, the legendary rap star and cofounder of Run D.M.C. keeps it a hundred percent, speaking out about his battle with depression and overcoming suicidal thoughts – one of the most devastating yet little known health issues plaguing the black community today.

REASONS TO STAY ALIVE

Matt Haig. Toronto: HarperCollins, 2016, 266 p.

This book is about making the most of your time on earth. In the western world the suicide rate is highest amongst men under the age of 35. Matt Haig could have added to that statistic when, aged 24, he found himself staring at a cliff-edge about to jump off. This is the story of why he didn't, how he recovered and learned to live with anxiety and depression. It's also an upbeat, joyous and very funny exploration of how to live better, love better, read better and feel more.

NOVELS

Depression

IMAGINE ME GONE

Adam Haslett. New York: Little, Brown and Company, 2016, 356 p.

When Margaret's fiancé, John, is hospitalized for depression, she faces a choice: carry on with their plans, or back away from the suffering it may bring her. She decides to marry him. What follows is the unforgettable story of what unfolds from this act of love and faith. At the heart of it is their eldest son, Michael, a brilliant, anxious music fanatic, and the story of how, over the span of decades, his younger siblings – the responsible Celia and the tightly controlled Alec – struggle along with their mother to care for Michael's increasingly troubled existence.

ALL MY PUNY SORROWS

Miriam Toews. San Francisco: McSweeney's, 2015, 321 p.

Yolanda is conflicted. Her sister Elf has battled depression for her whole adult life, and is in a psychiatric ward under permanent observation after attempting suicide – again. Yolanda has always looked up to Elf as her talented and beautiful older sister. She loves her with a fierce passion and wants to believe in the possibility of a future together, one in which Elf gets better. But it's looking unlikely and Yolanda has to decide; if the person you love is tired of living, is it kinder just to let them go?

MR. CHARTWELL

Rebecca Hunt. New York: HarperCollins, 2011, 216 p.

Rebecca Hunt has created an interesting novel set in 1964 featuring Winston Churchill, in the days before his final retirement, Esther Hammerhans, a librarian at the House of Commons, and a Black Dog. Of course this isn't just any dog but Churchill's "black dog" of depression that has been with him for much of his life.

EVERY LAST ONE

Anna Quindlen. New York: Random House, 2010, 299 p.

Mary Beth Latham is first and foremost a mother, whose three teenaged children come first, before her career as a landscape gardener, or even her life as the wife of a doctor. Caring for her family and preserving their everyday life is paramount. And so, when one of her sons, Max, becomes depressed, Mary Beth becomes focused on him, and is blindsided by a shocking act of violence.

Postnatal depression

TRUTHS I NEVER TOLD YOU

Kelly Rimmer. Toronto, ON: Graydon House, 2020, 352 p.

With her father recently moved to a care facility, Beth Walsh volunteers to clear out the family home and is surprised to discover the door to her childhood playroom padlocked. She's even more shocked at what's behind it – a hoarder's mess of her father's paintings, mounds of discarded papers and miscellaneous junk in the otherwise fastidiously tidy house. As she picks through the clutter, she finds a loose journal entry in what appears to be her late mother's handwriting. Beth and her siblings grew up believing their mother died in a car accident when they were little more than toddlers, but this note suggests something much darker. Beth soon pieces together a disturbing portrait of a woman suffering from postpartum depression and a husband who bears little resemblance to the loving father Beth and her siblings know.

THE MEMORY CHILD

Steena Holmes. Seattle: Lake Union Publishing, 2014,

When Brian finds out that his wife, Diane, is pregnant, he is elated. He's been patiently waiting for twelve years to become a father. But Diane has always been nervous about having children because of her family's dark past. The timing of the pregnancy also isn't ideal – Diane has just been promoted, and Brian is being called away to open a new London office for his company. Fast-forward one year: being a mother has brought Diane a sense of joy that she'd never imagined and she's head over heels for her new baby, Grace. But things are far from perfect: Brian has still not returned from London, and Diane fears leaving the baby for even a moment. As unsettling changes in those around Diane began to emerge, it becomes clear that all is not as it seems. A woman's dark past collides head-on with her mysterious present in this surreal and gripping family drama.

GO TO SLEEP

Helen Walsh. Edinburgh, UK: Canongate books, 2011, 309 p.

As she drinks in the view in front of her, Rachel Massey stands on the cusp of the biggest journey of her life. For Rachel is about to become a mother. Mere hours from now, her first baby will be here and she can't wait to meet it. Terrified and excited, there is nothing she wants more, yet she senses things will never be the same again. This is the story of Rachel's voyage into motherhood. Full of the same hopes and dreams as any parent-to-be, she soon realizes that nothing about this new world is as she imagined. As the raw shock of sleep deprivation takes its toll on her and the truth begins to blur with the unreal, Rachel becomes consumed by one sole desire – to sleep. But how far will she go to get her baby to sleep?

Anxiety disorders

WHAT IF?

Anna Russell. New York: West 44 Books, 2019, 191 p.

Josh Baker isn't sure why his brain tells him to do things that other people don't need to do: checking his locker again and again, counting cracks in ceilings, and always needing to finish a song, for starters. He is a talented drummer, a math genius, and he knows everything about rock and roll. Yet, he knows his problems have the power to hurt his family and make him fail at school. When Josh is diagnosed with OCD, it's a blessing and a curse. Can he overcome his thoughts, or will they break him?

THE GOOD HOUSE

Ann Leary. New York: St. Martin's Press, 2013, 292 p.

The Good House tells the story of Hildy Good, who lives in a small town on Boston's North Shore. Hildy is a successful real-estate broker, good neighbor, mother, and grandmother. She's also a raging alcoholic. Hildy's family held an intervention for her about a year before this story takes place – “if they invite you over for dinner, and it's not a major holiday,” she advises “run for your life” – And now she feels lonely and unjustly persecuted. She has also fooled herself into thinking that moderation is the key to her drinking problem. As if battling her demons wasn't enough to keep her busy, Hildy soon finds herself embroiled in the underbelly of her New England town, a craggy little place that harbors secrets. There's a scandal, some mysticism, babies, old houses, drinking, and desire – and a love story between two craggy sixty somethings that's as real and sexy as you get.

Now the truth is unveiling secrets that have the possibility of ruining everything.

THE TEACHER

Michal Ben-Naftali. Rochester: Open Letter, 2019, 184 p.

No one knew the story of Elsa Weiss. She was a respected English teacher at a Tel Aviv high school, but she remained aloof and never tried to befriend her students. No one ever encountered her outside of school hours. She was a riddle, and yet the students sensed that they were all she had. When Elsa killed herself by jumping off the roof of her apartment building, she remained as unknown as she had been during her life. Thirty years later, the narrator of the novel, one of her students, decides to solve the riddle of Elsa Weiss. Expertly dovetailing explosive historical material with flights of imagination, the novel explores the impact of survivor's guilt and traces the footprints of a Holocaust survivor who did her utmost to leave no trace. Ben-Naftali's The Teacher takes us through a keenly crafted, fictional biography for Elsa – from childhood through adolescence, from the Holocaust to her personal aftermath – and brings us face to face with one woman's struggle in light of one of history's great atrocities.

Anxiety disorders

HARDCORE ANXIETY: A GRAPHIC GUIDE TO PUNK ROCK AND MENTAL HEALTH

Reid Chancellor. Portland: Microcosm Publishing, 2019, 192 p.

Punk rock and mental health have been intertwined since the very beginning. Nervous breakdowns, anxiety, seeking acceptance, attempting to overcome internalized demons, and reacting to harmful and oppressive systems-punk rock embodies and emboldens all our feelings and experiences, positive and negative. Hardcore Anxiety charts and tracks punk movements from the 70s till today, from small towns to stadiums, from the struggles in our heads to the people actively harming us in our communities. Told from the point of view of a young man discovering punk and working through mental illness in Evansville, Indiana, this stunning nonfiction graphic novel gives punks the most important advice of all: “You aren’t alone. You’re going to make it through alive.”

THIS SLICES OF ANXIETY: OBSERVATIONS AND ADVICE TO EASE A WORRIED MIND

Catherine Lepage. San Francisco: Chronicle Books, 2016, 104 p.

This illustrated book captures universal truths and comforting revelations about being human.

Eating disorders

LIGHTER THAN MY SHADOW

Katie Green. London: Jonathan Cape, 2013, 508 p.

Like most kids, Katie was a picky eater. She'd sit at the table in silent protest, hide uneaten toast in her bedroom, and listen to parental threats that she'd have to eat it for breakfast. But in any life a set of circumstances can collide, and normal behavior might soon shade into something sinister, something deadly. This hand-drawn story of struggle and recovery takes a trip into the black heart of a taboo illness, an exposure of those who are so weak as to prey on the vulnerable, and an inspiration to anybody who believes in the human power to endure towards happiness.

TYRANNY

Lesley Fairfield. Toronto: Tundra Books, 2009, 113 p.

In Tyranny, brisk, spare text and illustrations that deal head-on with anorexia propel the reader along on Anna's journey as she falls prey to the eating disorder, personified as her tormentor, Tyranny.

BIPOLAR DISORDER

Hilary W. Poole. Broomall: Mason Crest, 2016, 48 p.

We all have 'down' days as well as happier days. For people with a bipolar disorder, feelings of sadness and happiness can be more extreme. There is an alternation between feeling very 'up' and very 'down.' It can feel like their moods are in control of them. Fortunately, there are ways to treat this disorder and feel more balanced. The lives of millions of kids are affected by mental illness. And yet it's all too common for kids to feel like they are alone with their problems. Whether you're seeking information for family, friends, or yourself, these books help explain the challenges faced by people with mental disorders.

HOOKED: WHEN ADDICTION HITS HOME

Chloe Shantz-Hilkes. Toronto: Annick Press, 2013, 120 p.

Jenny dealt with the stress by forgiving her mom – over and over and over again. This collection of ten true stories is based on interviews with people who, in their youth, lived with an addicted parent or sibling. The subjects speak honestly about what it was like to grow up with a family member addicted to alcohol, drugs, food, pills, or gambling. While describing how they managed to cope, interviewees explore the full range of situations and emotions they experienced – from denial, anger, and confusion to acceptance and forgiveness. Their maturity, sensitivity, and even their sense of humor will give teens going through similar situations the important realization that there are many ways to break free from the chains of others' addictions.

LONELINESS: THE NEW SILENT KILLER

News In Review, CBC. 2019, 19 min 05 s.

Online: <https://curio.ca/en/video/loneliness-the-new-silent-killer-20811/>

More people are lonely than ever before. Studies show that one in five Canadians identify as being lonely. Loneliness is more than a feeling of occasional solitude – it’s a prolonged feeling of perceived isolation. While long seen as being bad for mental health, loneliness is now recognized as being physically harmful too. It’s being called the silent killer – considered by some experts as being more harmful than smoking 15 cigarettes a day. In fact, loneliness is now linked to heart disease, depression, obesity and other life-threatening conditions. So why in our highly connected world are we so lonely? And what can we do about it?

Depression

REGINA BOY MAKES MOVIE ABOUT FIGHTING DEPRESSION

CBC Kids News. 2019, 3 min 20 s.

Online: <https://curio.ca/en/video/regina-boy-makes-movie-about-fighting-depression-24445>

Roman Fehr thought the short film he made about depression would be a school project that he submitted and quickly forgot about. Instead, it seems to have struck a chord. The 90-second animated video, called Overcoming the Darkness, is about a person who gets the help he needs to fight off depression. In the two weeks since the 13-year-old from Regina first posted his movie on YouTube, it has been viewed almost 3,000 times and racked up a string of positive comments. According to the Public Health Agency of Canada, depression is a serious type of mental illness called a mood disorder. People with depression often feel down and hopeless. The good news is depression can be treated with therapy, emotional support and medication. After doing some research, Fehr learned it's possible to overcome depression, but "you can't do it alone." In his video, the main character is seen getting help from family and friends, speaking with a therapist and getting medication.

MOTHERS ON THE EDGE

BBC Channel. 2019, 59 min 9 s.

Louis Theroux returns to the UK to spend time in specialist psychiatric units which treat mothers experiencing serious mental illness while allowing them to live alongside their babies. Immersing himself on the wards, he meets women who have been admitted with a range of serious conditions – including depression, anxiety and psychosis – often triggered by birth or the strains of motherhood. As he follows the patients and their families both in hospital and recovering back at home, Louis explores what lies behind their recent crisis and discovers the immense challenge in caring for two people in the most vulnerable state of their lives.

WHEN THE BOUGH BREAKS

Brooke Shield. 2017, 93 min.

When The Bough Breaks is a feature length documentary about postpartum depression and postpartum psychosis. Narrated and Executive Produced by Brooke Shields, this shocking film uncovers this very public health issue which affects one in five new mothers after childbirth. The film follows Lindsay Gerszt, a mother who has been suffering from PPD for six years. Lindsay agrees to let the cameras document her and give us an in depth look at her path to recovery. We meet women who have committed infanticide and families who have lost loved ones to suicide. Babies are dying, women aren't speaking out and the signs are being missed. When The Bough Breaks takes us on a journey to find answers and break the silence.

STRESS: PORTRAIT OF A KILLER

John Heminway, National Geographic. 2008, 50 min.

Over the last three decades, science has been advancing our understanding of stress – how it impacts our bodies and how our social standing can make us more or less susceptible. From baboon troops on the plains of Africa, to neuroscience labs at Stanford University, scientists are revealing just how lethal stress can be. Research tells us that the impact of stress can be found deep within us, shrinking our brains, adding fat to our bellies, even unraveling our chromosomes. Understanding how stress works can help us figure out ways to combat it and how to live a life free of the tyranny of this contemporary plague. In Stress: Portrait of a Killer, scientific discoveries in the field and in the lab prove that stress is not just a state of mind, but something measurable and dangerous.

OCD: THE WAR INSIDE

David Hoffert and Mark Pancer, National Film Board of Canada. 2001, 70 min.
Online: www.onf.ca/film/ocd_war_inside/

This feature documentary explores the daily lives of individuals living with Obsessive Compulsive Disorder (OCD), a misunderstood anxiety disorder characterized by intrusive thoughts, nagging fears and ritualistic behaviour. From the outside, its sufferers have no physical disabilities and have every appearance of being as functional as the next person. But inside, a daily war is waged for survival.

Eating disorders

TALKING TO ANOREXIA

Louis Theroux, BBC Channel. 2017, 59 min 34 s.

Anorexia, the pathological fear of eating and gaining weight, is now the most deadly mental illness in the UK, affecting around one in every 250 women at some point in their lives. In recent years, the number of people being admitted to hospital because of their condition has risen dramatically, but with many struggling to make a full recovery, being diagnosed with the eating disorder can sometimes mean a life-long battle. In this film, Louis Theroux embeds himself in two of London's biggest adult eating-disorder treatment facilities: St Ann's Hospital and Vincent Square Clinic. He meets women of all ages and at various stages of their illness, accompanying them through an enforced daily routine of scheduled eating, weigh-ins and group therapy sessions. As he spends more time with patients both on and off the wards, he witnesses the dangerous power that anorexia holds over them, leaving some unsure about whether recovery is achievable or even wanted. And as Louis seeks to understand what lies behind this mysterious illness, he finds himself drawn into a complex relationship between the disorder and the person it inhabits.

Schizophrenia

THE DOWNSIDE OF HIGH

The nature of things, CBC. 2010. 44 min.

Teenagers who start smoking marijuana before the age of 16 are four times more likely to become schizophrenic. That's the startling conclusion of some of the world's top schizophrenia experts, whose research is featured in this documentary. Groundbreaking work on the connection between marijuana and mental illness also reveals that, for all young adults, smoking marijuana nearly doubles the risk of developing recurring psychosis, paranoia and hallucinations – the hallmarks of schizophrenia. The Downside of High tells the stories of three young people who believe – along with their doctors – that their mental illness was triggered by marijuana use. All three spent months in hospital psychiatric wards and still wage a battle with their illness.

THE BOY WHO SHOULD HAVE LIVED

The fifth estate, CBC. 2015, 46 min.

Online: www.cbc.ca/player/play/2661054986

Chazz Petrella had an idyllic childhood in Cobourg, Ontario – 4 older siblings, loving parents, a hobby farm. But that all changed when his rages became too much for his family to handle. He was diagnosed with mental illness at age ten and was eventually on the files of nine agencies and services – including residential placements. Despite all of this care, he committed suicide just after he turned 12. His parents are now calling for an inquest into his death. And they're not alone.

Online: www.cbc.ca/player/play/2290480818

15-year-old Amanda Todd killed herself on Wednesday after years of bullying. Now her stories and others like it are forcing people to talk about a topic that is still largely taboo.

TAKING PART IN ONE'S HEALTH CARE

This section can be found in every Biblio-Santé thematic booklet. The resources have been selected with a patient-as-partner approach that aims to help the health system users to actively participate in their health care and to make informed decisions.

WHAT DOES PATIENT-AS-PARTNER MEAN?

A patient-as-partner is a person who progressively becomes able as they receive treatment to make informed and independent health choices. Their experience related knowledge is recognized and their care related competences are developed with help from the team. Respected in all aspects of their humanity, they are a full member of this team when it comes to the care and services offered to them. While fully recognizing the expertise of the team members, the patient-as-partner can direct the team's concern towards their particular needs and long term well being.

HAVE YOU HEARD OF DEPRESCRIBING?

Deprescribing means reducing or stopping medication. Its goal is to maintain or improve quality of life.

WHY RESORT TO DEPRESCRIBING?

Medication controls symptoms, cures illness and can even extend lifetime. However, it can cause side effects or interactions that can be harmful. The more medication we take, the higher the risks of negative effects. It's also important to know that as we get older, changes in the body make us more sensitive to medications, which increases the risk of suffering from negative side effects.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

For all these reasons, it's recommended to regularly review your medication with your health care provider. They will be able to determine whether the risk of taking a specific medication is higher than its benefits and if deprescribing is an option. Deprescribing is a planned process that must always be done with the help of your doctor, nurse or pharmacist.
