ALFRED SAVAGE & CO.'S
Concentrated Fluid Magnesia.

Montreal, 12th April, 1841.

Gentlemen,—I have examined a sample of the Solution of Magnesia, prepared by yourselves, and have found it to be identical in composition with "Murray's Fluid Magnesia". When it is necessary to employ Magnesia often, either for acidity of the stomach or as a laxative for children, or in any other case, it is both safer, more efficacious and more palatable to employ the solution than the concrete form. I remain, your obdt. servt.

S. C. Sewell, M. D.

Messrs. Alfred Savage & Co. Chemists, Montreal.

Montreal, April 16, 1841.

Dear Sir,—The specimen of your Liquid Magnesia which you requested me to examine and compare with the preparation of Sir James Murray, I find to be nearly in all respects similar.— The quantity of carbonate obtained by evaporation from the two specimens examined, was the same, though that in both will be liable to variation from the degree of exposure to the atmosphere. Your preparation I consider equally entitled to confidence, and equally adapted to the case in which Sir J. Murray's Solution is now so advantageously employed. I am, &c.

CRANE'S PATENT PREMIUM LABOUR-SAVING SOAP, MANUFACTURED BY JOHN MATHEWSON & SON.

TO this popular and celebrated SOAP was awarded the First Premium and a Diploma over all other competitors at the NEW YORK STATE FAIR, held at Albany in September last,—but the best testimonial in its favor is the personal experience of those who use it. All say it is the most effectual, safe, time and labour-saving preparation, ever introduced. There are none of the deleterious articles in this Soap which are used in the miserable fluids, powders, and imitation labour-saving Soap, so forced upon this community, and which are calculated to destroy the texture of the clothes washed with them, but the chemical preparation of this Soap is perfectly healthy, and is warranted not to injure the finest fabric.

Owing to the increased demand, the price has been reduced. Each bar is stamped with the Manufacturers' name.

HOE'S
Cast Steel Circular & Long Saws.

THE Subscribers manufacture from the best cast steel, CIRCULAR SAWS, from two inches to five feet diameter. These Saws are carefully hardened and tempered, and are ground and finished by machinery designed expressly for the purpose, and are therefore much superior in truth and uniformity of surface to those ground in the usual manner. They require less set, less power to drive them, and are not so liable to become heated, and produce a saving in timber.

They also manufacture Cast Steel MILL, PIT and CROSS-CUT SAWS and BILLET WEBS, of superior quality, all of which they have for sale at their Warerooms, Nos. 29 and 31, Gold Street, New York, or they may be obtained of the principal Hardware Merchants in the United States and Canada.

The following extract is from a report made by a committee of scientific and practical gentlemen, appointed by the American Institute:

"Your committee are of unanimous opinion, that in the apparatus invented by Mr. R. M. Hoe, for grinding saws, he has displayed great ingenuity and tact in the adaptation of machinery to the production of results in the manufacture of saws, which may with propriety be denominated the ne plus ultra of the art".

Provincial Parliament.

(Reported for the Montreal Herald.)

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Toronto, August 26.

The following Bills were read a third time:—

To empower Trustees of Quebec Turnpike Roads to purchase Montmorency Bridge.—Mr. Cauchon.

To render executory certain judgments in Lower Canada—Mr. Sanborn.

To prevent bonds given to the Crown from being alien on the real estate of persons executing the same—Hon. Mr. Boulton.

To amend Act relative to Agriculture in L. C. as respects the conveyance of timber down rivers and rivulets—Mr. Christie.

To amend Upper Canada Municipal Corporations Act—Hon. Mr. Baldwin. A Rider was added to this Bill, on motion of Mr. Richards.

To amend Civil List Act—Hon. Mr. Hincks.

To reduce Judicial Salaries—Hon. Mr. Hincks.

To amend Act incorporating Niagara Dock Company—Hon. Mr. Cayley.

To increase number of sittings of Circuit Court of Richmond and Stanstead—Mr. Sanborn.

Mr. H. Sherwood gave notice of an address to the Governor, to the effect that the Upper Canada Branch of the Crown Land Department be left in this city, when the Seat of Government removes to Quebec.

Mr. Hincks moved the third reading of the Main Trunk Railway Bill.

Mr. Cayley said that he intended to move a Rider to the Bill, as he and his friends desired to put their opinions on record. He went over some arguments, to the same effect as had been used in earlier stages of the Bill. He contended that seven millions would fall short of the sum required to construct the two lines, namely the line in New Brunswick to the frontier of Maine, and the Halifax and Quebec Line; and he read from Major Robinson's report in support of this view. He also dwelt particularly on the unfairness and anomaly of New Brunswick receiving a portion of the Imperial guarantee for an opposition road, while Canada was to be deprived of the guarantee for continuing the Trunk Road, and did not even ask for it. He moved the Rider, to the same effect, that Canada do not become a party to the proposed undertaking, unless the Imperial guarantee should be obtained for the continuation of the road westward, in the same proportion that New Brunswick received it for the road to Maine.

Mr. H. J. Boulton seconded the motion, contending, in the same terms as he had before used, that the construction of the proposed road would be sheer madness, and would for years prostrate the resources of this Province.

Mr. Stevenson said that it was a mistake to suppose that Railways always paid, and he went over a number of roads in the United States, which he showed had not paid. The Berksire and Hudson railroad, for instance, which was 31 miles long, had been running more than 10 years, but had made no dividend. The Long Island railroad, which was 98 miles long, had never made a dividend, and the stock was now quoted at 14 cts on the dollar. The receipts of this road in 1849 were $161,300, while the expenses came to $176,438; it had been running for many years. Take the Saratoga and Washington railroad, it was 39 miles in length, and its expenses exceeded its income. It had never made a dividend. There was the Schenectady and Troy railroad, 20 miles long, that had never made a dividend; its income for 1849 was $47,500, whilst its expenses were $53,663. He did not believe £7,000,000 stg. would do more than construct the road as far as Quebec. No information had been laid before the House as to what would be the cost of the road per mile. They had a vague guess that it would be £7,000 per mile. They had no Engineers' reports for their guidance, and in their absence he could place no reliance on any guesses of members. He preferred in these circumstances to be guided by what he saw was the cost of other railroads. Take the cost of road from Boston to Syracuse, at rates taken from the returns made to the State Governments. They found the Great Western from Boston to Albany cost £15,908 per mile. The line from Albany to Schenectady cost £24,900 per mile. That from Schenectady to Utica cost £12,800 per mile. That from Utica to Syracuse £11,250 per mile,—making an average on the whole of £13,250 per mile. Yet these roads went through the centre of a highly civilized country. The road now proposed to be built was 636 miles long from Halifax to Quebec. One third of 636 miles, viz, 212 will cost £2,117,000, while the total for the whole road would come to £8,457,000, currency. The interest on our share at 4 per cent will be £112,760; add the interest now paid on present debt £210,000, and we have a total of £322,760 for interest alone. And the road when it was built would do no good neither to Upper nor Lower Canada. We had already a better means of communication between the Provinces. There was no comparison between navigation and a railroad—navigation was immensely superior. It would cost more to send a barrel of flour from Quebec to Halifax by the railroad, than it would take to send it by water to England. What travel was there that would be likely to go over the road? or, what trade was there between the Provinces that required the road? It seemed to him that the subject had been brought up for the sake of controversy, and not with any serious intention of carrying out the work. He could not believe that people could sit down seriously and contemplate the building of a railroad through, he might say, a rocky wilderness, with no precise information as to what it would cost, nor any prospect of any business for it to do. Had they made any calculations as to what would be the cost of running the road? He found the average cost of running the New York Roads per mile per year was £850. Take, for instance, one half of this sum for running the Halifax road per mile per year, and they had £270,100: at the very least the cost of the Halifax road would be £250,000 per annum, for running expenses. What business could the road do to pay that sum? Travellers would always go by the nearer way to Boston; and it was out of the question to suppose that merchandise would be sent over the road. To do so would cost 4s 9d for a barrel of flour, as the railroad price for this was 9d per 100 miles—over 636 miles it would be 4s 9d as he had stated.—And merchandise would be 50s a ton over this road. Besides, we had, as has been stated, a better road at our doors, and which cost us nothing. Freight would never go by railroad when it could go by water, and this road they proposed to run partly along the St. Lawrence, and partly along side the gulf. As a commercial speculation it was sheer madness to think of making it. Then they had no idea of what would be the cost of managing the road by the Government. They saw a railroad that had been built in Michigan, which connected the two great Lakes, and opened up an immense fertile country, that had been a failure so long as it remained in the hands of the Government. Then what might they expect would be the case with this road? Why, in making it, how would they carry provisions to the Workmen? Had they any idea of what would be the expense of that? If the Province commenced the undertaking, it would be a burden to it for years. It would with difficulty raise money to pay off the interest, and would not possess the power to assist in the making of railroads that were wanted. The hon member made some further remarks, but he spoke in a low tone of voice, which, owing to noise in the house, did not reach the Reporters' box.

Mr. Merritt went into the argument which he had presented on former occasions against the railway; and contended that the debt which would be incurred by its construction would prove the ruin of the country. In contrast with this he mentioned the case of the State of New York, which, by what he considered its wise laws, had placed a constitutional check upon the disposition of the legislature to plunge into debt. By this course she had placed her finances in such a position that hereafter she would be continually reducing her debt, till she would at last be able to reduce her tolls very considerably, and so deprive Canada of all the carrying trade.

Mr. Cartier followed this argument by the case of Pennsylvania, which was deeper in debt than Canada would be after the new debt was incurred. New York, he said, was prosperous just because she had not feared to get into debt till after she had completed her internal improvements. Canada must, to be prosperous, follow a like policy.

Mr. Robinson followed, speaking against the scheme. He regretted that the discussion had reference to the whole scheme instead of to the rider, which it was proposed to introduce, and which merely sought the grant of a sum of money to that part of Canada west of Montreal equal to that to be given to New Brunswick to construct its second line to Portland. He was reluctant to oppose this Bill, and hoped that all parties would consent to the introduction of the proposed rider which would obviate most of the objections urged. He had always been desirous of promoting the internal improvement of the Province and trusted that the vote to be given would not be a party one.

Mr. Notman said he had voted for the bill in its earliest stages, but that he would now vote against both bill and rider; for he thought the bill the wildest scheme which he had ever heard of.

Mr. Mackenzie also spoke against the bill, which he thought perfectly absurd. He went over several of the early enterprises of the country, such as the Rideau Canal and the Welland Canal, to show that the present estimates for this railway would be exceedingly in default of the real cost. He believed that Pennsylvania, which had been cited by Mr. Cartier, had resources ten times or a hundred times as great as those of Canada, inasmuch as she had a large rich capital of 400,000 people, a place like Birmingham at the back on the Ohio river, and many public works, all paying a profit. The debt of the country would, after this vote, amount to $52,000,000—or 72 tons of solid silver—72 waggons all with one ton of silver in them. He concluded by saying that, upon the whole, he would vote against both rider and bill, though he was very much in favor of a railroad to Quebec or Louisbourg, which would be still better.

Mr. H. Sherwood twitted the hon member for Haldimand for his change of vote, though he (Mr. S.) thought the hon member was now right. He was himself opposed to the rider, and would, of course, also vote against the bill. He would vote for a road through the whole of Canada; but would not go for a road through only a portion of Canada. There was not a single constituency in Upper Canada, except Glengarry, where there would not be a majority against this scheme. There was no guarantee whatever to be found in any document, public or private, of any sum of money. All that was said was, that assistance would be given to build the line between Halifax and Montreal. Even this was only known upon the word of Mr. Howe, a gentleman who was not so much honored in his own country, since he found that he had been burnt in effigy at a place called Pugwash. This word produced much laughter throughout the House.

Mr Hincks had never said in the House that Great Britain would guarantee a line further West than Montreal; nor did he think that the Imperial Government would think of giving an indefinite guarantee. All that he knew was, that Mr. Howe said the British Government would go to the extent of £7,000,000, which sum, according to the statement, he (Mr. Hincks) had laid before the House, would build the entire line from Halifax to Hamilton.

Mr Sherwood—Will the hon member state distinctly whether there is any assurance whatever, that if the road from Halifax to Montreal costs less than £7,000,000, the balance will be given to construct the line westward of that place?

Mr Hincks—Of course he was not; there was no such assurance at all, and gentlemen had, in the printed papers, all the information which he possessed himself. The hon member, however, went on to contend that it was no reason because the whole sum of money could not be procured, that a part should be refused; and that the Parliament of Canada had already pledged itself to the construction of a road between Halifax and Quebec, on infinitely worse terms than the present proposal. He afterwards endeavoured to show, from a pamphlet by Mr. Morrison, M.P., that railroads managed by the State were infinitely more valuable than those undertaken by private companies.

Mr J A Macdonand had voted cheerfully for the railway bill of 1840; but the Government had now changed their ground, and had sacrificed all chance of a railroad being made through Upper Canada, in favour of the Lower Provinces. The people of Upper Canada, were against the scheme from the first, but members had been led to believe that if the money were accepted for the line from Halifax to Montreal, a further sum would be given to go westward to Hamilton. But did any one believe, without that that the scheme could have met with any favour at all? Certainly it would not, if it had been then understood that no money was to be obtained for the line westward of Montreal.

Mr Hincks said he believed the money would be obtained.

Mr J A Macdonald—But upon what was that belief founded? There was no ground for it; but on the contrary, the British Government were determined to send Inspectors to see that the money was spent no where else than in the place they desired. He denied that the Province, as Mr. Hincks stated, had voted £25,000 per annum. What they had done was to say this,—that if the Imperial Government would build the road at its own expense, if it did not pay, the Province would give £25,000 per annum, to make up their share of the deficit. He went on to contend that the road could not pay, and that its construction would therefore be an immense loss.

Mr Cayley said the late Ministry had been charged by a member opposite with having nearly rendered the Province bankrupt; and he supposed the Conservative government would also get credit for the same thing in the prsent instance as they might, with equal reason. He continued to argue at considerable length that the road could not be built at the rate per mile estimated; and in support of this view read over a number of figures to show that roads in the United States had cost nearly double the rates estimated for the present road. He showed that some estimates made by Major Robinson had been under half of the real cost.

Mr. Badgley thought that during the discussion the object that had induced Great Britain to afford her guarantee at all, had been too much lost sight of. It had been shown by gentlemen who had preceded him, that as a commercial speculation, the road could not pay. What then remained? England might desire the road for the promotion of emigration, and the settling of her territories, but then it was known that emigration could never be forced. There was another reason kept back like the portscript of a letter, which contained the most important reason. That was that England wanted the road for a military road, and that it was that induced her to afford her guarantee. England was powerful at sea, but weak on land, and she wanted this road to enable her to pour supplies into Canada, in case of war with the United State. He read from Major Robinson's report in favor of this view, stating that the annexation and conquest of Canada had been recently discussed on the floor of Congress. When such was the case, he did not think that the burthen of building should be thrown on Canada. Earl Grey himself, in one of his despatches, had admitted that the road could not be viewed as a good commercial speculation; but stated that as a work of a national character, it could be favourably looked upon.

Mr. Cayley's rider was put and lost, by the following division:—

Yeas.—Messieurs Badgley, Boulton of Norfolk, Boulton of Toronto, Cayley, Dickson, Lyon, Macdonald of Kingston, Malloch, McConnell, Merritt, Meyers, Robinson, Seymour, Sherwood of Brockville, Smith of Frontenac, and Stevenson—16.

Nays.—Messieurs Armstrong, Baldwin, Bell, Boutillier, Cartier, Cauchon, Chabot, Chauveau, Christie, Solicitor General Drummond, Duchesnay, Fergusson, Fortier, Fournier, Fourquin, Gugy, Hall, Hincks, Hopkins, Lacoste, Attorney General LaFontaine, LaTerrière, Laurin, Lemieux, Letellier, Solicitor General Macdonald, Mackenzie, McFarland, Méthot, Mongenais, Morrison, Notman, Pollette, Price, Prince, Richards, Ross, Sanborn, Sauvageau, Scott of Two Mountains, Sherwood of Toronto, Smith, of Durham, Taché, Viger, and Wilson—45.

Mr. H. J. Boulton moved another rider to the effect that no part of the money to be raised for the road should be borrowed at a greater amount of interest than four per cent.

Mr. Hopkins did not think the cost of the undertaking had been sufficiently calculated.

After some farther remarks from other members,

The Rider was lost.

The main motion was then carried, by the following division:—

Yeas—Messieurs Armstrong, Baldwin, Bell, Boutillier, Cartier, Cauchon, Chabot, Chauveau, Christie, Solicitor General Drummond, Duchesnay, Fergusson, Fortier, Fournier, Fourquin, Gugy, Hincks, Lacoste, Atty. Gen. LaFontaine, LaTerrière, Laurin, Lemieux, Letellier, Solicitor General Macdonald, Méthot, Mongenais, Morrison, Pollette, Price, Prince, Richards, Ross, Sauvageau, Scott of Two Mountains, Smith of Durham, Taché, Viger, and Wilson—38.

Nays.—Messieurs Badgley, Boulton of Norfolk, Boulton of Toronto, Cayley, Dickson, Hall, Hopkins, Lyon, Macdonald of Kingston, Mackenzie, Malloch, McConnell, McFarland, Merritt, Meyers, Notman, Robinson, Sanborn, Seymour, Sherwood of Brockville, Sherwood of Toronto, Smith of Frontenac, and Stevenson—23.

Mr. Baldwin rose and stated that news had arrived of the death of one of the members of the House, Mr. Peter Perry. When he had last heard of him, he was in New York; and, when the word first came of his death, he (Mr. B.) had hoped that it might not be correct; but further enquiry proved that it was but two true. Mr. Perry had been for eleven years a member of the parliament in Upper Canada; and all who had known him during the short time he was in the present parliament, must have marked his uprightness of character and strength of mind.—He proposed to move that the House do now adjourn out of respect for the memory of the deceased member. He put a motion to this effect.

Mr. Seymour seconded the motion, saying at the same time that Mr. Perry resided in his county, and had been a member of the Upper Canada Parliament for 12 years. He was a man much esteemed.

Motion carried without a division, and the House adjourned.

A Wedding Guest.—A merchant of Paris, Mr D———, had for several years maintained intimate relations with a lady named Lucia B———, originally from Milan. For about a month past the lady observed a degree of coldness and embarrassment in her lover that caused her great anxiety. Pressing him with her questions, he finally acknowledged that, yielding to the incessant solicitations of his family, he was on the point of marrying a rich heiress. This annunciation aroused the Italian blood flowing in the lady's veins, and threw her into violent convulsions. Sending back, without deigning to look on them, the rich presents sent by her lover to appease her anger, she declared her intention to destroy herself in the presence of the bridal pair on the day of their marriage. Mr. D——— took every possible precaution to prevent the threatened catastrophe, but, knowing the audacious character of his former mistress, was not without anxiety as to the result.

Two days ago, at the church where the wedding ceremony was performed, he appeared dreamy and preoccupied; and yesterday, during the wedding feast, he scarcely smiled. It was not until dessert, and when the guests were preparing to depart, that he began to recover his gaiety, in the hope that he should escape the effects of the fair Italian's despair. All at once the noise of an altercation was heard upon the stairs. A mortal pallor overspread the face of the bridegroom, who recognised the lady's voice alternating with that of one of his clerks who had been placed there to prevent her entrance. But the enraged woman burst through all obstacles. With disordered vestments, streaming hair, and a stiletto in her hand, she rushed to the table. "You did not expect me," said she to the new husband; "but your marriage lacked a consecration—I come to seal it with my blood." Thus saying, she aimed a deadly thrust of the stiletto at her breast. Happily one of the guests caught her arm in such a manner as slightly to change the direction of the blade, so that it but slightly entered her left breast. The waistcoat and shirt bosom of Mr. D——— were sprinkled with the spurting blood.

It would be difficult to imagine the confusion caused by this melo-dramatic scene among the wedding party. The bride fainted, one of the bridemaids went into hysterics, and most of the guests escaped from the room. Mr. D——— was so much overcome that he was for some time unable to speak. The unfortunate lady was conveyed to her domicile, and precautions were taken against any renewal of the attempt at suicide. She is now understood to be out of danger and to have become somewhat calm.—Our Paris Correspondence, July 30, 1851.

THE MONTREAL HERALD

SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 30, 1851.

The Weekly Herald for Europe,

Will be ready this morning, at 8 o'clock. May be had at the book-store of R. Chalmers & Co., or at our office.

Parliamentary.—It would be seen by our telegraphic report, (published yesterday,) of the proceedings in the House of Assembly on Thursday last, that both the Bills for the settlement of the Seigniorial tenure in Lower Canada have been withdrawn, there not being time to carry them through the legislature this session. What an example this affords of the disgraceful manner in which the interests of the country are neglected by its representatives and government. The settlement of this Seigniorial question has for years agitated the country, and is, in itself, of paramount importance to its prosperity—admitted by all parties, Seigniors as well as censitaires—and yet, during a session of upwards of three months, it is only at the eleventh hour it is taken up—too late for any effectual action—, while, days, and nights, and weeks, have been wasted upon all manner of unintelligible party and personal wranglings and disputings, in which the country at large neither has nor can have the slightest interest, beyond the evidence such conduct affords of the manner in which its confidence is abused and betrayed, by its paid representatives. We trust, the experience of the past session will not be lost upon the constituencies at the approaching general election.

The debate upon Mr. Hincks's Grand Trunk Railroad measure, on Tuesday night, is worthy of attention. The Hon. Francis Hincks is, assuredly, a surprisingly off-hand financier; and what magnificent ideas on matters pecuniary, our French Canadian friends have acquired under his tuition. It will be seen there were only eight Upper Canadian members who, on the division, ventured to vote away £4,000,000 of the people's money, to build a road from Halifax to Quebec, without even the shadow of a guarantee that it will be extended one mile beyond that romantic and venerable city. Nay, it is quite possible it may never even be completed between these points; for what says Mr. Hincks?—"All that he (Mr. H.) knew, was, that Mr. Howe said the British Government would go to the extent of £7,000,000." Now, suppose—which is by no means improbable—the line between Halifax and Quebec should cost £9,000,000, or £10,000,000 who is to provide the balance, beyond "the extent," to which Mr. Howe SAYS, the British Government will go? Supposing our £4,000,000 lands us somewhere in the Ristigouche woods—how "on airth," are we to get to the Bend of the Petticodiac, and join the Halifax and Portland line? "Mr. Howe SAID"! What a security for £4,000,000!—Why, Mr. Howe SAID, he had seen three men and a boy, in three minutes, draw five hundred pounds worth of fish out of the "deep, deep sea," which washed the shore of a "barren granite rock," somewhere on the coast of Nova Scotia. Do you believe him, gentle reader? You are not so simple. We thoroughly agree with you; and we shall believe what "Mr. Howe SAID," anent that £7,000,000, when we hear of its, having been voted by our old friends in Westminster—and not till then.

Enterprize of the Messrs. Gilmour.—A new vessel of 400 tons burden, owned by the Messrs. Gilmour of Quebec, recently passed through the Welland Canal, laden with iron for a railway in the Western States. She is about, after discharging her cargo, to load a cargo of staves at Bear Creek, on Lake St. Clair; and from thence she will proceed direct, without transhipment of cargo, to Liverpool. It is quite possible that, on her outward voyage, she may again bring a cargo of iron direct from the north of England forges, to some lonely bay in Lake Michigan, where the game has not yet been driven out by the unaccustomed sounds of human labour; but where industry is in full process of subjugating nature. This vessel is a regular sea-going ship, copper-fastened, and in every other respect like an ordinary ocean vessel, except that she has a slip keel or centre board, instead of the ordinary keel. We wish our enterprizing fellow-countrymen every success.

We have to thank Mr. D. Tilton for Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Newfoundland papers in advance of the mail. In Nova Scotia, electioneering is, apparently, in full force, and Mr. Howe and his Railroad are pretty roughly handled by the opposition press. We shall give some extracts to-morrow. The news from New Brunswick and Newfoundland is of no particular moment. The following is from a Boston paper of Thursday last:—

British Provinces.—We have papers via Favor's express. The Potato rot in Nova Scotia will probably be less disastrous than it was last year. As the election approaches the conservatives and liberals have attempted a compromise at Halifax; the nomination day passed off tamely. Mr. Howe, provincial secretary, and Mr. Fulton, are elected for Cumberland, and Howe has gone west to electioneer for himself and the railroad. The house meets Sept. 20. There was a rumor in St. John that the British government had finally decided upon voting the required seven millions for the construction of railroads in British North America.

Sudden Death.—On Thursday afternoon a young man well known in this city, named Twamley, while speaking to another person through the window of a Cab, burst a blood vessel and died in a short time afterwards. A Coroner's inquest was held on Thursday night on the body, and a verdict of "died by the visitation of God" rendered.

The Moniteur Canadien has issued a neat Calender—it may be procured at that office.

Quick Travelling.—The journey between Quebec and Philadelphia can, we learn, now be effected in 41 hours. A passenger left Quebec on Tuesday evening last at 8 P. M., arriving at Montreal on Wednesday morning at half-past 4 A.M., in the "John Munn"—left by the Laprairie boat at 5, and would arrive (by the new arrangement) at Philadelphia, by 10 o'clock A. M., on Thursday—41 hours!

The Steamer Fashion Burnt.—We learn that the Steamer "Fashion" caught fire near St. Sulpice, yesterday morning, and was burnt to the waters' edge. We have not yet received any further particulars.

Scotch Ballad Concert.—Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre, who are highly spoken of as possessing musical talent of a high order, by our American exchanges, arrived here last evening, and will give a concert in a day or two, of which due notice will be given.

We have great pleasure in noticing an advertisement of a Trade Sale of American Shawls, to take place under the directions and at the stores of Messrs. Scott & Glassford, on the 25th proximo. These shawls are the manufacture of the celebrated "Bay State" Mills, for which Mr. George M. Millar is agent in Canada. From the known character of the goods and the number to be offered, this will probably be the best opportunity during the season, for buyers to secure stocks.

A Volcanic Island.—It will be remembered that an island, about 120 feet high and 2,000 feet in circumference, suddenly sprang up in 1831 between Sicily and La Pantellaria. It disappeared about a month after, and at a later period even the sounding lead could give no indication of its existence; but vessels passing over the place it had formerly occupied would sometimes feel a sort of shock, which showed that it was of volcanic origin. In March last, however, the French vessel Eole, which was taking soundings in the vicinity, discovered some traces of its existence: and we now learn from Naples that in the course of last month Her Majesty's ship Scourge, Captain Kerr, verified the truth of the preceding observation, and further discovered that the island, which has been christened "isola Guilia," was only nine feet under water. Captain Kerr had a pole with a steamer and an inscription set up on the spot.—Journal des Debates.

LOWER CANADA.

We have received a copy of the Report of the Joint Committee appointed by the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly for the management and direction of the Parliamentary Library, which we intend publishing. From this report we take the following paragraph, which is as honorable to the Joint Committee as it is complimentary to Mr. Faribault:—

"The person selected by the Committee as, in their opinion, best qualified to undertake this duty, is G. B. Faribault, Esq., Clerk Assistant to the Legislative Assembly, whose literary zeal and indefatigable exertion, for many years past in collecting works to enrich the American Department of the Assembly Library, is well known, and merits the thanks of all concerned in diffusing a taste for investigations into the history of this Continent, and of Canada especially. Their choice of this gentleman will, they are assured, meet the approval of both Houses; and as Mr. Faribault has consented to undertake the mission, and to proceed thereon very shortly after the termination of the present Session, it is to be hoped that, ere another meeting of Parliament, many of the benefits which are anticipated from his exertions will have been derived.—Quebec Chronicle.

Fatal Affray.—Catherine Gillen, and Saletta McLaughlin, two women residing at No. 25 Batavia Street, had an altercation last evening, in which Gillen was knocked on the head with a coffee pot by McLaughlin. About four o'clock this morning the wounded woman died. Mrs. McLaughlin is under arrest.—Ib.

We are glad to lean that a wire, encased in two tubes, the inside one of gutta percha and the outer one of lead, has been successfully carried across the river at Carouge for the British North American Electric Telegraph Company. The laying of the wire was accomplished after much difficulty by Captain Boxer. We may now expect to be soon in direct telegraphic communication with New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.—Ib.

Health of the City.—Some little stir was created in town a couple of days ago, arising from the sudden death of two strangers at the new Hotel in St. Lewis Street. The alarm, however, subsided as quickly as it arose. The Health Committee of the City Council have met several times, and satisfied themselves from the most minute enquiry, through their agents, (B. Symes, Esq., Health Officer, and his assistant, Sergjt. Baker, of the Police,) that not the slightest cause for apprehension exists. For the information of our fellow-citizens, as well as for that of strangers, we are enabled to state upon the authority of the leading and other physicians of the city, that Quebec was never more healthy than at present, and that the season has been unusually unprolific of sickness. We trust these remarks will have the greater weight from the fact, that when sickness has been present, we have unflinchingly noticed its existence, progress, and decline.—Quebec Mercury.

LOWER PROVINCES.

Scene in the Circuit Court in St. John, (N.B.)—The St. John papers notice a rather extraordinary scene which took place in the Court of St. John on Friday last, occasioned by the Grand Jury making a presentment which the Court deemed unfit to go on its records. The learned Judge (Wilmot) sent the obnoxious document back to the Jury through the Clerk of the Court. The presiding Judge was mainly instrumental in bestowing on Grand Jurors the enlarged powers they now possess, no one therefore could be better qualified to rebuke Grand Jurors when they exceed even the great powers which the law now places in their hands. It is said that the presiding Judge, the High Sheriff, and a Barrister of the Court, all repelled the allegations contained in the strange presentment. We forbear further remark until the presentment itself and a report of the proceedings are before the public.—Fredericton Head Quarters.

UPPER CANADA.

We observe by the Mirror that a new political combination has been formed in Toronto, under the title of "the Catholic Institute," and in one of the resolutions it is stated,

That it shall also be one of the objects of the Catholic Institute, through its Committee, to watch the political movements of the day and promote by every means in its power such a perfection of organization and such unity of action on the part of Catholics throughout this Western section of the Province as will insure to them their proper weight at the hustings in elections of every description, and thereby procure a fair representation of their views and wishes in all the elective bodies of the country.

This clearly indicates an antagonism to the clear grit organs and exhibits another break in the already disunited reform ranks. At the meeting a Mr. M. P. Hayes remarked, "that though it was confidently asserted by the Examiner and other journals that a union of Reformers had been effected, no Catholic had been consulted as to the terms of agreement, though the Catholics had always proved staunch supporters of Reform principles."

The Mirror in an article on the lately attempted confederacy of "clear grits" and "reformers" very correctly observes that "the whole aim of the "new combination" is to get rid of the cognomen "clear grits," and usurp the title of Reformers, without any corresponding modification of sentiment. It is about the biggest humbug we have yet heard of, and when thoroughly exposed cannot fail of drawing down upon the heads of its authors the well-merited contempt of the Reform party."

The reformers, ministerialists, and clear grits, are daily getting deeper into the political puddle of perplexity, notwithstanding the secret conclaves of sage advisers "from the country"—The Globe and the oracles of the North American and Examiner, with all their united talents and efforts cannot form a Union amongst such discordant materials, so they must only wait patiently the issue of the election.—Hamilton Gazette.

A Murderer at Large.—Alexander McTagart, who murdered William Egdar on the 7th inst., in the township of Thora, under the following circumstances, is now at large. Egdar was a young man, son of a respectable farmer; some quarrel had taken place between him and McTagart, which led to a fight in which Egdar proved victor. They were working in adjoining fields, and when the fight was over each returned to his work. McTagart, however, having got possession of his sickle went to his antagonist and cut him dreadfully in various parts of the body, with this weapon. The result was that Egdar expired of the wound he had received in nine days from the time of their infliction. A Coroner's inquest was held on the body, and a verdict of wilful murder against McTagart returned. McTagart was committed to the Jail of this County for the offence, but escaped from the constable at Beaverton. He is described as about twenty-two years of age, five feet five inches high, sun-burnt complexion, blue eyes, dark and curly hair; has an old scar about the bridge of his nose, and a slight recent bruise under his left eye; is stout built for his size; had on a light grey home made coat and straw hat.—Toronto Examiner.

UNITED STATES.

Mr. Hobbs, the American locksmith, who has created a great sensation in London, by his feats in picking locks, has undertaken a task of no little difficulty. A correspondent of the Scientific American, writing under date of July 39th, says:

"Hobbs, our American locksmith, has dumbfounded all the great London locksmiths, by picking his way into the best patented locks made by the English manufacturers. This feat was done by Mr. Hobbs, who operated upon a lock placed upon the vault door of the State Paper's Office, and considered proof against picklocks. In twenty-five minutes he was in among the State records, and in ten minutes after he relocked the door, a feat, the lock being a detector, that was thought impossible. He is to experiment on another patent lock, which is to be enclosed between two boards, sealed by the committee, and nothing but the hole for the key is to be exposed to view, and thirty days is to be the period allowed for opening it. The experiment is looked forward to with considerable interest by all persons connected with the trade. Mr. H. is to get £200 for opening it, and he says he will do it. Mr. Hobbs exhibits a lock, and offers a reward of £200 to any person who can pick it or form a false key which will open it, after examining the lock and key for any period they may please. The lock is Day & Newell's American Parapeutic."

Mr. Hobbs formerly resided in this city.—Boston Journal.

Rotary Experiment.—Yesterday, the first experimental trip was made with the little rotary steamboat called the "Rotary Experiment," which proved quite successful and entirely satisfactory to the proprietor and projector of the boat, Mr. Ebenezer Barrows. Toward the latter part of her cruisings in the East and North Rivers, however, a slight difficulty occurred, from one of the pumps failing to work properly, which caused her the waste of a considerable quantity of steam from her larboard side, but not so much as to exhaust the supply, or even disable her perceptibly. She is but 35 feet long, 7 wide, 4 feet draught of water, and can carry twenty or thirty persons. The engine is very small and compact, occupying a space of but 14 by 10 inches. The steam chest or chamber is but 5 inches over, and 7/8ths of an inch deep, equal to about 5 cubic inches. The wheels are 4½ feet in diameter, with 16 floats or buckets, and are driven at the rate of 50 or more revolutions per minute. The power is applied simultaneously to two sides, and from its constant and steady force, a perfectly uniform motion is produced, the vessel's momentum is not lost, and consequently a more effective result is caused by the same amount of power. The capacity of the engine is 150 lb pressure to the square inch; but at no time during the trip was there over 60 lb. With this she ran against an easy tide way at the rate of over 7 miles per hour. Patents for the invention have been procured in the United States, Great Britain, France and Belgium.—N. Y. Jour. of Commerce.

A New Prophetess.—There is a woman residing in Hancock Co., in this State, who claims to be inspired. She is a native of Vermont, and has lived thirty years near Cincinnati. It is said that she had no education whatever, but was taught to read and write by the Spirit of God, and received at the same time a command to prophecy and write a book for the instruction of mankind. Obedient to these heavenly teachings, she addressed herself to the task thus miraculously assigned her. Four weeks she wrote incessantly, day and night, without food or sleep, at the end of which time the holy influence was withdrawn, with the promise, however, that it would again be communicated to her at some future time. Three years afterward the promise was fulfilled, and Mrs. Celia Spaulding (such is her name) has recently gone to Cincinnati to superintend the publication of her work, written under such auspices. It is to be of quarto size, and will contain five hundred pages. She styles it "A Memoir and Prophecy, written by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit of God, under the character of Shiloh, or the weary sufferer who is to bring the true light of the hidden gospel to fallen man." She also "comes under the light of the woman, clothed with the sun, and appointing out the Seven Churches of John, &c., 1st, 2nd, and 3d chapters." Mrs. Spaulding is now fifty years of age, is well informed on general topics, converses fluently and connectedly on every other subject but that of prophecy. But when that is mentioned, she at once becomes wild and incoherent.—Quincy (Ill.) Journal.

PROPOSED REPEAL OF THE NEWSPAPER STAMP TAX IN ENGLAND.

A recommendation fraught with momentous consequences to the progress of this country has just been issued by a parliamentary committee, appointed to inquire into the law relative to newspaper stamps. At present every publication in England containing even the slightest paragraph that can be construed into what is called "news" is liable to a stamp of one penny sterling, if issued at intervals of less than 26 days. By this stamp, however, the privilege is conveyed of its being transmitted to any part of the country by post as often as may be desired, provided it be sent within one week of its date of publication.—The effect of the law has been of course to encourage high priced papers, and altogether to preclude the publication of cheap ones, since on a twopenny paper the tax would be equal to 50 per cent, while on a fivepenny one it is only 20 per cent. The securities required by the Stamp Office and the outlay itself, likewise tends to render capital necessaey to such undertakings, and thus still further to limit their numbers.

The recommendation of the committee now is that the stamp law in such cases shall be entirely abolished, and that the transmission by post shall be charged one penny on each occasion.—The proposal, however, is accompanied by a suggestion that a limited copyright of a certain number of hours should be granted, and by this means the property of the higher classes of publications will be preserved. In any other case, owing to the rapidity to which printing has now been brought, the moment a paper full of information and of articles procured at a high cost, and published at five pence, might appear, it would be copied in all its essential points and issued at a half penny or a penny by parties to whom it would involve no expense but paper and type.—Under the contemplated regulation every one will be free to make the best journal he can by his own fair exertions, and those who have embarked a large capital to suit the taste of the more wealthy orders of society will still have the inducement to do so if the public are disposed to encourage them.

The matter being at present simply in the shape of a report from a committee, no alteration is immediately to be looked for. It is of too much importance to be hastily adopted, and both houses are now solely occupied in huddling up all that remains to be got through, so as to enable the prorogation to take place in about ten days or a fortnight. Next session it may form one of the items in the annual financial budget. Whenever it may be adopted, it will do more for the education of the masses than anything that has yet occurred. The first result will be the publication of an overwhelming amount of trash and the loss of much money, but a few good specimens of the new literature will take root and become universal.—London Correspondent of the New York Com. Adv.

The fact is, that had it not been for the introduction of railway travelling, the penny stamp on newspapers would have been repealed years ago, because the old mail coaches would have broken down under a tithe of the millions of newspapers which are now sent through the post. As it is, the newspapers now going through the Post Office are a positive nuisance, and interfere materially with the due forwarding of the letters; while the increased expense abstracts considerably from the amount which the newspaper stamp duty brings into the national exchequer. If the proposition of the Special Committee of the House of Commons, to whom the whole system of taxing the press has been referred, were adopted, the relief as regards the Post Office would be immediate, as regards the public more equitable. The committee proposes to abolish the penny stamp entirely, and in lieu to impose a penny charge on all newspapers which pass though the Post Office. By this arrangement, person who live at a distance would not pay more for their newspapers than they do at present, while those on the spot would pay a penny less.

No doubt, even this relief, slight as it is, would materially benefit the press, provincial and metropolitan. But worse than the penny stamp is the advertisement duty, which is a positive incubus on newspapers of all shades of opinion. In London the leading morning journal is fed to repletion, at the expense of papers quite as able and infinitely more consistent. The popularity of the Times is undoubted and acknowledged, but the [illegible] effects of its popularity are often visible [illegible] our powerful contemporary playing fast and loose with great principles in a manner which no other paper dare attempt. A spoiled favorite of the public is like a spoiled child of a family—a victim to whims and caprice; and, although we are far from wishing to see the wings of the Times clipped, little doubt can exist that less prosperity would insure greater steadiness of character.

Government evidently dread a cheap press in this country, without, as we think, any adequate cause. The respectable and ably-conducted papers would retain possession of the field, if there were penny and twopenny papers in every town. Of course, care would be taken by Parliament that the publishers gave sufficient legal guarantees for the protection of private character, and there the responsibility might be safely left. It is quite out of the nature of things to suppose that an impure press would be self-supporting. All the previous experiments of that kind, in London and the Provinces, have been failures. But, short of the positive repeal of the advertisement duty, its reduction to sixpence would be a godsend to the overburdened press of the empire.—European Times.

We insert below the certificate of Dr. Henry Howard, Oculist and Aurist,—a gentleman well known in his profession—respecting the efficacious operation of the Plantagenet Water:—

Montreal, August 28, 1851.

To Mr. Larocque: Sir,—As you have requested my opinion as to the effects of your well known Plantagenet Water, in the treatment of diseases of the eye, I beg to state, that whenever I have found it necessary to recommend saline aperients, which is very frequently, I have found none of the mineral waters that answered my expectations so well as the Plantagenet Water, which I have been in the constant habit of recommending to my patients for the last two years. It may be well to state, that the cases in which I have found it most useful, were what is generally termed a feebleness of sight; and this beneficial effect I consider is attributable to the quantity of Iodine which the Plantagenet Water contains.
