VOL. XXX. NO. 10. WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1959 TWENTY-FOUR PAGES

Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

March 7 to 15

Bright and relatively warm with cold nights, morning frosts or mists then light snow or showers. Temperature range 15-45°F. with only 25 to 30 hours of sunshine this week.

Sunny intervals and cold rains or a little soft snow in the middle of the week, then improving, but cooler.

Pleasant for the weekend with bright periods and a little light snow or showers, and improving rapidly.

Much-travelled skater teaches difficult art

A 'Want Ad' in a Montreal newspaper landed 14-year-old Hungarian-born Joseph Szathmary the job of figure-skating instructor at the artificial ice rink.

The job was confirmed in a matter of weeks but it took 13 years of border-hopping and ocean-crossing before he made it to Westmount.

Through it all, though, Szathmary kept his interest in figure-skating which he began at the age of 10 and developed to the extent that he became Junior champion of Hungary in 1931 at 17.

"Skating is as popular in Hungary as it is here" he says, "but many more boys take up figure skating. It's the influence of hockey here, of course, but I think boys could improve their hockey play by learning figure skating."

Competition in Hungary is that much harder because there's a greater challenge to overcome.

SINGING

Singing—not skating — proved to be Szathmary's choice of a career and he trained at the Hungarian Academy of Music for seven years before joining the Hungarian Royal Opera House company as a lyric tenor.

His singing kept him out of the war. He was sent back to the opera company because he had 'had no military training'. He lost two brothers during the war.

When the Communists took over the Balkan countries in 1946 Szathmary decided to get out.

"I couldn't understand the beautiful democracy of the Russians" he says.

He made his way through Austria, Germany and France, got on a boat and landed in Brazil. He went down to Buenos Aires and after a while joined up with a U. S. ice show that was touring South America.

SKATING

The show took him all over the Caribbean area—Cuba, the West Indies and Venezuela. It was a tent show accommodating 3,000 people and he recalls that many of the spectators seemed more interested in the ice—which they had never seen before—than the show.

In Venezuela for a while, working wherever he could find something interesting to do, he met with the New York Metropolitan Opera Company, touring in South America, and sang with them.

The contact sparked the idea of coming to Canada which he did in September 1951, though he also admits that an attraction was the similarity of climate between this country and Hungary.

He soon found his skating experience rewarding when he joined the Toronto Recreation Board as an instructor, a job he left three years later. After a year of free-lance skating in an acrobatic act he came to Montreal.

That his classes are proving popular is evident from the fact that enrolment stands at 149 and is expected to reach a final total of 175.

And Szathmary seems pleased with the enthusiasm of his pupils.

"All the classes are doing well" he says "everyone seems to be a good skater and they understand there's a need for a certain discipline to learn figure skating properly."

There aren't too many figure skaters in Montreal, he admits, but as far as Westmount is concerned he is doing his best to remedy the situation.

Judging by the enthusiasm — at least of the youngsters — the attempt is going well.

Health plan predicted at QHA conference here

"I feel that the time is coming when there will be some sort of health plan in this province," said C. E. Dalziel, administrator of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital, who is attending the current first convention of the Quebec Hospital Association.

He stated that he could not see people in Quebec paying taxes without receiving any benefit, and that eventually "pressure would be brought to bear" on the provincial government. Whether such pressure would be brought by the Association, he did not say.

However, at a recent press conference in connection with the QHA convention, A. H. Westbury, association treasurer, said unified representation of hospitals in this province might result in greater government subsidization of indigent in and out-patients.

At present, it was noted, a large general hospital may spend an average of $17.50 a day per patient, receiving reimbursement of only $10.50 from the Quebec Public Charities Act. Originally, the act provided that costs of indigent patients should be shared: one-third each by province, city and hospital. As it now stands, Mr. Westbury said, hospitals carry almost half the cost.

When asked whether private patients' rates were raised to help cover this large expenditure, officials of the QHA admitted that this was a necessary measure.

Ice rinks improved

The maintenance of the hockey and skating rinks was continued in January, with snow cleaning, snow blowing or flooding carried out on 22 days. All the rinks were open between 18 and 24 days with some open an additional half day.

New hockey rink panels were erected at Staynor Playground hockey rink. New penalty and officials boxes were erected at the Artificial Ice Rink and at Staynor Playground rink.

Westmounters in Loyola production

Shannon Grover, 448 Mount Stephen, a veteran performer on the Loyola College stage, is again this year featured in the Loyola dramatic production to be staged from March 11 through 14. He plays an aide to the English King in Shakespeare's Henry V, a tale of war between France and England resolved on the fields of battle and of love.

With this production, Loyola returns to the Shakespearean tradition, broken during the past two years by ventures into more contemporary drama (High Tor, 1957 and Teahouse of the August Moon, 1958). Conspicuous success has been enjoyed with presentations such as Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet and Coriolanus.

Henry V reintroduces Pistol, a favorite follower of Falstaff in both the Merry Wives of Windsor and Henry IV, Part II, and introduces Fluellen, a Welsh king and a character of power as well as humor.

Other Westmount residents in the cast include: Robert Amyot, 346 Redfern avenue; Donald Hushion, 646 Roslyn avenue; and Terry Davis, 3460 Simpson street.

Directing the production is Rudolph Stoeckel, a veteran of both CBC and the Mountain Playhouse stages. Sets were designed by Hans Berends.

Club hears discussion

The ninth meeting of the Westmount High Current Events Club was held on Wednesday. Ivan Chorney spoke about the recent club trip to Ottawa and the Parliament Buildings.

Then the meeting was turned over to the discussion of Canada's three political parties, led by the presidents of the McGill clubs.

The one hundred twenty members present heard speeches by Brahm Campbell of the Liberal club, Danny Trevok of the C.C.F. club, and Bob Amaron of the Conservative Club.

These enthusiastic speeches stimulated the members into heated discussion not seen in the club for a long time.

Hassle brings fall from cab

A Philadelphia - lawyer - type got into a slight hassle with a cab driver in Westmount the other night —and came off second-best.

The cabby picked up his fare on Sherbrooke street Saturday morning and all went well until the knowledgeable character complained that the cabby's picture wasn't on view on the pillar between the doors.

The argument waxed strong as the cabby tried to explain it wasn't necessary in a Westmount-registered cab.

Further words proving useless, the exasperated driver turned his car at Sherbrooke and Clarke — with the object of making for Westmount Police station, despite the passenger's insistence that he go to Station 10 in Montreal, and the fact that a Westmount police sergeant in a passing patrol car had assured the cabby all was in order.

Just as the taxi made the turn — the passenger opened the door and fell to the road. The cab unknown to the driver, apparently hit him, causing slight injuries to his leg, foot and back, but the cabby later told police he saw the man walking away and didn't think any more about it.

The talkative one was later taken to the Montreal General by a passing motorist where he received treatment for his injuries.

As a footnote, Westmount by-laws do not require a cab driver with a Westmount licence, to have his picture displayed in the interior of the vehicle. Montreal does.

Fire visits planned

According to Fire Chief E. Harper, plans are under way to resume an 'in-service' inspection of Westmount homes when the summer weather begins.

Still in the preliminary stage, it is expected that the service will begin as soon as the scheme is approved by city hall.

GORDON R. BALL

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Gordon R. Ball, president of the Bank of Montreal, of 1 Braeside Place, who died Saturday in his 62nd year.

Born in Toronto, Mr. Ball started his banking career in 1914 at the age of 16, when he joined the Merchants' Bank of Perth, Ontario. He left a year later to become a gunner in the Canadian Field Artillery. He served in France with the Canadian Expeditionary Force, was twice wounded, and awarded the Military Medal for bravery in action.

At the close of the war, Mr. Ball returned to the Merchants' Bank, and in 1922 was transferred to the Bank of Montreal when the two banks amalgamated.

Two years later he took up a post at the bank's New York agency. During his 23 year stay there, he rose from third agent to first agent, and became the only Canadian member of the Association of Reserve City Bankers.

He was appointed general manager of the Bank of Montreal in this city in 1947, later becoming vice-president and a director, and finally in 1952, was elected president and chief executive officer.

In the financial field, Mr. Ball had served as chairman of the advisory committee on Overseas Investment, 1956, and was a member of the Dollar Sterling Trade Council, chairman of the Canadian Council of the National Industrial Conference Board, and a trustee of its parent association in the U.S.

He was in addition chairman of the board of Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Ltd. and the Royal-Liverpool Insurance Group, and vice-president of the Royal Trust Co. He was a director of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, the Steel Co. of Canada, the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., and the Bowater Power Co. Ltd.

THOMAS ROBERT ANGLE

A funeral service was held today for Thomas Robert Angle, 4345 Royal avenue, well known amateur athlete in Montreal, who died Sunday in his 49th year.

Born in Montreal October 6, 1910, Mr. Angle attended Belmont and St. Thomas Aquinas schools. At the time of his death, he was chief time-keeper for the Canada Car Co., with a period of service of over 30 years.

As a young boy, Mr. Angle started playing baseball with the Spalding League, often playing in the old Haymarket Square in Griffintown. Later he joined Tommy Baker's Owls in the Atwater Ball Park, and was with the team when it won the city championship.

He was an enthusiastic softball and football player, belonging to the Westward Junior football team who played at the old Westward Grounds on Royal avenue. He was also an active hockey player for St. Thomas Aquinas in the Parochial League.

Mr. Angle was known as an outstanding player of lacrosse, a game he took up during the depression under the tutelage of "Harold" Mullins of St. Henri, who taught and organized members of the Shamrock team, one-time intermediate champions of Montreal.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mildred Leather; four sons, Tommy, Leonard, Brian and Bruce; and two brothers, Fred and Milder, both of Montreal.

A. H. ALLAN

Andrew H. Allan, 46 Academy road, former general manager of the Canadian National Steamships, died Sunday at the Royal Victoria Hospital in his 77th year. A private funeral was held Wednesday.

Mr. Allan was a native of Montreal, and the son of John Smith Allan and Adelaide Gault. He was educated in England and on his return to Montreal joined the old Molson's Bank.

A member of the famous Allan shipping family, Mr. Allan joined the Allan shipping line in 1899. With the advent of World War I, he joined the Canadian Grenadier Guards, and in 1915 went overseas.

After hostilities had ceased, Mr. Allan joined the Canadian Pacific Service in England. The Allan and C.P. lines had amalgamated shortly before the war. He subsequently opened up an office in New York for the Donaldson Line, which had obtained the River Plate service from the Allan Line in 1913.

He returned to Canada in 1929 as assistant general manager of the Canadian National Steamships, after having worked in England for the Donaldson Line. In 1931 he was appointed general manager of CNS, retiring in 1935.

He continued to be active in the city after his retirement, and at the time of his death was president of the Hall Engineering Company.

He is survived by his wife, the former Eileen Hudson Walsh; two stepsons, Hudson and John Walsh; and three sisters, Lady Marler of Montreal, Mrs. G. Reid of London, Eng., and Mrs. Jean Nicholson of Toronto, Ont.

MRS. R. O. G. MORTON

Funeral service were held Saturday for Mrs. R. O. G. Morton, 506 Victoria avenue, wife of Maj.-General Morton, former General Officer Commanding, Quebec Command. She died February 25 at the age of 59.

Mrs. Morton was born Elise May Bonner at Epping, England. During World War I, she was active in defence units on the east coast.

She had a wide circle of acquaintance in Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa, and was a member of the Canadian Women's Club, the Soldiers' Wives League, and the Ladies' Morning Musical Club.

Mrs. Morton is survived by her husband, and two sons, Anthony and Lionel.

FRANCIS WAYNE SHORE

Francis Wayne Shore, 35 Windsor avenue, died February 26 at the age of 59. A funeral service was held Saturday.

Mr. Shore was born in Port Rowan, Ontario, and for the past 32 years had worked as an auditor with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in Montreal.

He was a member of the Summerlea Golf Club, the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association and the Fellowship of the West. He attended the Church of St. James the Apostle.

He was unmarried, and is survived by several cousins.

Record entry submitted to Fine Arts Spring Show

Seven hundred and fifty-six artists from Canada, the United States and Europe submitted entries for a total of 1,739 works — an all-time record — for the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts' 76th Annual Spring Exhibition, it was announced today.

Deadline for receipt of the works was Feb. 28 and they are now being classified. They include paintings in oil, pastel and water colors; drawings and prints in all media, and sculpture.

Museum officials said an exact total of the works received will be announced shortly. Some artists send entries for more works than they actually forward. The difference in the final total is not expected to be large.

Largest number of entries came from Greater Montreal, a total of 1,073 works from 456 artists.

Entries were received from every province throughout Canada.

Museum officials gave this breakdown by province for the number of works submitted and the number of artists submitting:

Quebec (excluding Greater Montreal) 268 and 113; Ontario, 252 and 112; Manitoba, 28 and 13; Saskatchewan, 6 and 3; Alberta, 13 and 6; British Columbia, 45 and 24; New Brunswick, 11 and 7; Nova Scotia, 23 and 11; Prince Edward Island, 5 and 3; Newfoundland, 5 and 3.

Last year, only nine of the provinces were represented.

From the U.S., there were a total of six entries this year — two from Massachusetts, one from Maine and three from New York.

There were also three entries from Italy and one from England.

In 1958 — also a record year — 744 artists submitted a total of 1,721 entries.

For the first time this year, two juries will judge the works received — one the paintings, the other sculpture.

The painting jury is composed of Andre Bieler, RCA, of Kingston, Ont.; T. R. MacDonald, RCA, of Hamilton, Ont.; Ghitta Caiserman, Jean McEwen and Mme C. Marcoux-Caillé, all of Montreal.

The sculpture juhy is composed of Sybil Kennedy, of Montreal and New York, and Hazen Sise, of Montreal.

The two juries will select the works to be shown at the Spring Exhibition from April 3 to May 3. Three prizes of $150 each will be awarded.

The first two prizes, known as the Jessie Dow Awards, are donated by Mrs. M. E. Allan and R. N. Hickson for the best oil painting and the best watercolor. The third prize — for sculpture — is awarded by the Museum's Ladies' Committee.

FLOWER SHOW

Westmount's annual Spring Flower Show will be held in the municipal greenhouses as usual this year — and will be officially opened to the public March 25th.

Athletics Hobby Show attraction

It looks as if indoor athletics will be one of the prime attractions at the 23rd Annual Westmount Boys' and Girls' Hobby Show, an official reported yesterday, with many entries already received from throughout the island of Montreal and surrounding communities.

The show, which runs from April 1 to April 4, is sponsored and run by the boys' and girls' Hi-Y Clubs of Westmount, and is held at the Westmount YMCA.

Among the largest pre-show jobs that members of the Hobby Show committee tackled was the booklet listing program, categories, rules, and deadlines.

Kenny Wolfe, publicity chairman for the 1959 show who was in charge of a recent distribution program for the booklets in Westmount schools, grades four to six, reported that all officials received an enthusiastic reception.

Highlights of the booklet include many changes in the entry classification, but officials have once again decided to accept entries under the 10 departments of art, collections, crafts, games, household science, indoor athletics, music, penmanship and literature, pets, and photography.

One major change is the method of accepting entries. Prospective competitors this year are required to mail or bring in their entry form to the Westmount YMCA by March 20.

Anyone desiring further information concerning the Hobby Show was asked to contact the Westmount YMCA at WE. 7-3916.

Dinner to honor PM and wife

On March 18 Prime Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker will be guests of honor at a dinner to be held in Montreal's Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

This dinner's being organized by the Progressive Conservative Associations of the district of Montreal under the patronage of Members of Parliament from this region.

Delegations from the entire province will join with Conservative MP's from the Montreal region to pay homage to the Prime Minister and his charming wife.

Police, fire quiet

Police and Fire departments both reported quiet weeks though there was the usual crop of minor traffic accidents to keep the notebooks busy.

The early thaw began to help in the task of keeping the city's streets clean of ice and snow though work continued in chipping ice from gutters.

Flowers make fine show at conservatory

Twenty-five spring jasmines (jasminum primulinum) in full bloom, with canary-yellow flowers, are adding beauty and their own delicate perfume to the current display in the Botanical Garden conservatory, parks officials report.

These shrubs, cultivated in the form of small trees, had their origin in Yunnan Province, China. They are non-rustic (cannot endure outside) north of the latitude of Washington, D.C., and winter at a temperature no lower than 35 to 40 degrees F.

The current display in the conservatory also includes some 200 summer stocks of the cucifer family with double flowers of various colors and shades.

Also to be found are a group of tricolor lachenalia of the nelsonii variety. In the vestibule of the central conservatory is a group of orchids including: dendrobium, cymbidium, coelogyne, cattleya, brassocattleya, laeliacattleya, brassolaeliacattleya and paphiopedilum.

Don't run bus on school street

RESIDENTS in the Greene avenue and St. Catherine street sector of the city are unhappy about the transportation commission bus that turns from St. Catherine onto Greene.

Two persons have been killed there in six months.

Some suggest turning the bus at Clarke avenue.

Let's not do it. There are many children crossing there, with two schools in the vicinity.

Children step out on the road without thinking — much more frequently than do grown-ups.

Westmount library high on the list

WITH Canadian Library Week in the offing, citizens of Westmount may look with pride at their municipal library in Westmount Park. It is an example that can be held up before any city. It is well run and offers a careful selection of reading material. The printed word means much to free men in a free society. It stimulates men's minds. In the local library Westmounters find a wealth of treasures — for the asking.

Local Metro view now under study

WESTMOUNT'S mayor and council are studying the Metro government developments and in a few days expect to come up with a statement which will be sent to all residents.

So far, the local city fathers aren't too unhappy about developments. Mayor Cushing has reported to council on his views following the passage of the Bill in Quebec and is particularly happy about the fact that Premier Duplessis protected the autonomy of the suburban municipalities.

At the moment, Westmount feels, nothing is being pushed down anyone's throat — and the taking over by Metro of certain essential services is not necessarily a final move.

Corrections to school stories

Sir:

The recent article on Queen's School was very interesting, but there are some omissions.

The first principal was Miss Agnes S. James. It was mostly a girls' school, and she was there for many years.

When boys were taken in, Miss James went to teach in Westmount High School. She was followed as principal by Mr. Guy Morey, then Mr. Howard Honey and Mr. Chas. J. Davis.

Miss N. Shanks has not taught 30 years in Queen's School. She taught for several years in both Argyle School and Roslyn School.

In King's School, among the first principals were Mr. Pollock (afterwards in Roslyn School) and Mr. Parker, who later became principal of Westmount High School.

Metro 'menace' is worrying him

I live in Westmount. I own property in Westmount. I like the way they do things in Westmount—and now Metro has me worried.

Frankly I don't want any part of it.

When I step out of my door these winter mornings, I find the streets in Westmount are well cleared of snow. What, I ask myself, can Metro teach the Westmount city corporation, about snow-removal?

When I first moved to Westmount and bought the house I live in now, I was a bit worried about high taxes. I had been told that Westmount was a 'high class' municipality, where everything cost more. I haven't found it that way. I pay what I consider a fair rate for the services I get. The water tax isn't too high. In the summer the shade trees make my street a delight to behold. By contrast I see great stretches of Montreal, where progress has slaughtered the trees right and left, and I don't like it.

What, I ask myself again, can Metro teach Westmount about taxation, about tree-culture — about many things municipal for that matter?

Will the taxes go up with Metro, I ask. The answer, even from the most pro-Metro enthusiast, is yes, they will.

Where will the difference go I ask. To do more things for more people, I'm told.

I don't want to do more things for more people. I want to live in Westmount, and like it.

Reader.

Spring in Westmount

IT is unfortunate indeed that many people who use the City of Westmount only as an avenue to and from their daily tasks in the City of Montreal do not slow down at the beginning of spring to afford themselves an opportunity to enjoy the annual phenomenon.

INSTEAD, they hurry on at the greatest speed the law will allow, and sometimes even over that speed — splashing unwary pedestrians as they pass.

Spring in Westmount is something special.

The vernal equinox, it is true, happens elsewhere, but for a variety of reasons, for those who take the time to enjoy it — the advent of spring here is much clearer to the naked eye.

For one thing, Westmount's municipal corporation does a superb job of snow-clearing, and there are fewer piles of snow on the lawns, and less snow in each pile.

As a result the lawns here begin to peek out earlier—and the first shoots of green catch the eye on almost every street.

In Westmount Park, for the one who will venture off the beaten paths—in overshoes of course, there is the early budding of myriad bushes and trees and the first signs of a few song-birds who have caught the first flight from the south.

ONE day this week on the stretch of Western avenue that runs through the park a few grains of oats were scattered on the roadside, where an early-morning milkman had paused to throw a nosebag on his horse. The horse and wagon had since departed—but several sparrows had found the feast, and were hopping about excitedly.

by

On several side-streets, residents were already at work with scrubbing-brush and paint-pot, touching up the exterior paint-work on their porches.

One really early bird was actually taking down his double windows, and replacing them with aluminum screens. He may be a bit early, even by Westmount standards, but Westmounters like to get these things under way as soon as possible.

And the Westmount municipal corporation appears to do an excellent job with its street-paving, too, for there are few potholes in the roads.

IN Murray Park, three young matrons were wheeling their offspring. They were enjoying the first warm rays of the March sun—and waiting eagerly for the moment they might set the toddlers down in the park. Then, of course, they will be able to enjoy the relaxation of a park bench and keep an eye on the children.

At the north-east corner of Westmount Park a small boy was sailing a home-made boat in a puddle by the sidewalk. It was the sort of craft that small boys have made for ages —a board with a hand-hewn bow and a couple of spools nailed near the centre to simulate funnels.

It won't be long until he is able to step over to the irregularly-shaped pool in the park, maintained for the purpose — and there, too, he may do a bit of wading.

In the centre of the park, where the bridge crosses the simulated creek, there were signs of spring too. A small hole in the side of the bank appeared to be the home of some small animal like an otter or a muskrat, and in the trees overhead, the squirrels were chasing each other up and down the branches.

SPRING in Westmount somehow seems different. Though it comes in the centre of an island that holds many factories and office-buildings, and houses a million and a half people, when you cross the Westmount border you drive into an area with the air of a neat and tidy town.

And when you drive out — you seem to leave spring—for the moment—behind you.

Constant checks are answer to glaucoma cure

Glaucoma one of the most dreadful eye diseases to befall humanity is considered by responsible authorities to be the cause of approximately 12 per cent of blindness in the world today.

Glaucoma is most insidious in onset and when the obvious symptoms of diminished vision and excruciating pain make themselves apparent it is most often too late to repair the damage done to the patient's vision. This is why the professional optometrist is constantly seeking to assure regular eye examination which will allow for the early detection of the presence of glaucoma.

The College of Optometry second annual Glaucoma Seminar which will be held in The Queen Elizabeth Hotel Sunday, under the co-chairmanship of Lorne Grinstein and Dean Armand Messier from the University of Montreal, are stressing to the public the importance of regular eye examination of people over 40 in order to assume the early detection of this dread disease.

Chairman Mr. Lorne Grinstein says: "The optometrists are fully aware of their responsability in the early detection of glaucoma, and the use of those special diagnostic techniques designed to detect glaucoma. When glaucoma is suspected by the optometrist the patient is then referred to the medical authorities for proper treatment."

Hamilton sees Arrow obsolescense normal development in modern age

Any new weapon may be obsolete by the time it reaches the production stage, if Canada's experience with the Arrow is any criterion, Postmaster General William Hamilton told the Dorval Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

Today, the major defence decision, he said, is whether a weapon is worthwhile when it comes off the drawing board or into the development stages.

The Arrow contract, he added, is only one example of such a decision.

In both Britain and the U.S., the Postmaster General said, similar decisions have been taken in the aircraft field within the past year.

The specialized nature of today's weapons, he said, make necessary a permanent defence economy, but this must remain subordinate to the needs and objectives of national policy.

The situation also, he indicated, gives a definite shape to the manner of Canada and U.S. relations on defence production in the future. "Cooperation", he said, "will enable us to increase the diversification of our defence industry so it will not be as heavily dependent as at present on a limited number of projects."

Circus returns to Forum May 2

With the first sign of springtime, will come back the circus. Yes, for the 20th year the "Hamid-Morton Shrine Circus" with an array on extraordinary talent from all over the world, is coming back to Montreal under the auspices of the Montreal Shriners Karnak Temple to perform in aid of the Shriners Hospital for crippled children.

This year the circus will have one of the largest shows ever brought to Montreal with over 30 acts in 22 displays. Currently on the road in the Western States they have been widely acclaimed by press and public alike with enthusiasm.

As in previous years there will be plenty of animals including lions, tigers, horses, ponies, chimps, bears and elephants. Along with the animals, there will be aerialists, acrobats, clowns, jugglers, wire artists and to top all this the sensational "Cosmos" in an unusual presentation of acrobatic routines from the trapeze bar suspended from a motorcycle while in mid-air, on the high wire.

This will be the fitting climax feature for the 1959 edition of the "Hamid-Morton Shrine Circus" for young and old which will be at the Forum starting Saturday, May 2. to Saturday May 9.

by Valentina Rahr

An apology is due for a slight mix-up in this column last week. Mr. C. H. SAVAGE was quoted as having gone to Europe on a recruiting drive for the Protestant School Board. This should, of course, have read Mr. R. STEEVES, who is Superintendent of Westmount Schools.

MR. D. MACKEY, organist of the Church of the Messiah, and choir director of the Glee Club of Westmount High will present The Mikado early in April. The cast has been practising Japanese songs and mannerisms since last fall, and many of the girls in it can now be spotted by their long tresses, which Mr. Mackey requested they let grow in order to be able to shape those elaborate Japanese hair-dos. Some of the students taking part are: David Dinsmore, David Roth, David Francis, and Annette Hazan, and Aneleen de Brentanni. Mr. Peter Haley, teacher of physics and graduate of Westmount High is also in the cast.

Studies in the field of interpersonal relations carried on by DR. ALASTAIR MACLEOD (consultant psychiatrist for Westmount Schools) and DR. BARUCH SILVERMAN, both of the Mental Hygiene Institute, have shown that compared with children raised in average healthy families, those who have been deprived of parental care because of placement in institutions or multiple foster homes, are handicapped in their intellectual and social developments. These children subsequently experience difficulties in adjusting to school requirements and become behavioural problems in the community.

More teachers, smaller classes cure for educational ailments

More teachers and smaller classes were said this week by J. W. Perks, Curriculum Director of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal, to be the twin solutions to present educational problems — particularly in high schools.

"Administrators can plan a curriculum but nothing can replace the professional skill of a good teacher" he added.

The more immediate facts of educational life had to be faced, however. The days were gone when only an infinitesimal proportion of the population stayed in school after Grade VII.

"The purpose and function of the high school has changed. It is not to educate a small, select group. It has become cosmopolitan, extending education well beyond elementary grades," said Perks, who was speaking to the Westmount Rotary Club in connection with 'Education Week'.

Cosmopolitanism raises problems which — like the predominant orientation to university entrance — are a 'hang-over' from the academies which enrolled students capable of, and interested in, that goal.

Highly restrictive university reuirements result in some pupils taking courses on a level beyond their capacities.

There are solutions to this, said Perks. One is adaptation of basic courses to suit varied abilities. Another, a wider choice of courses — again according to abilities. There must be a core of basic subjects but the restrictive quality of present courses geared to university entrance causes many pupils to lose interest or drop out altogether.

"By-products of this are sheer memorization replacing understanding, rampant educational cynicism and common courses for all pulling standards down to a level of mediocrity", said Perks.

There are bright spots, he said. Experiments are going on with different and adapted courses for bright and dull pupils.

Basic courses, — English for example — are divided into three levels, with pupils guided to the level that suits them best.

Provision is made for any pupil to change from one course to another if his record indicates he has been misplaced — or as sometimes happens his interests are aroused, his work habits improve and his results become better.

These remedies are coming about because parents want to keep their children in school longer — a trend, said Perks, emphasized twenty years ago, which has gained momentum ever since.

"To get — and hold — a job today requires more education: the complexity of modern society demands a high degree of maturity and the community with the highest level of education surpasses its lesser neighbors", aid Perks.

"These factors create the problems I've mentioned" he continued. "We live in a democratic society and they can't be ignored. The schools must meet them.

A fire extinguisher is a very valuable asset in the home, and it may prevent a fire from spreading. Another handy fire fighter that is cheap and handy is common baking soda. A good handful sprinkled on a small blaze will be effective. In case of a chimney fire at the cottage, the contents of the package should be poured into the fire and the fumes will spread up the chimney and smother the fire.

Red Cross ups target to 100,000

The Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service depot at Victoria and Isabella avenues should be busier in the next twelve months than it has in the past twelve.

Processing 95,795 pints in the 1958-59 season, it is being asked to get ready to handle 100,000 pints in the current year.

The blood, which goes out to 110 hospitals in the province, is collected at the permanent clinic at Dorchester street, at special clinics in the city and throughout the province but all of it comes to the local depot for testing and processing, and from this depot goes out to the hospitals — by the familiar blue trucks, as well as by bus, train and plane.

Donors must supply this blood. There is no other place to get it. And when there isn't enough blood, operations must sometimes be postponed, until the supply is available.

At the recent annual meeting of the Quebec provincial branch of the Red Cross, Col. R. J. Fisher, commissioner of the Quebec Division, commenting on this phase of the situation said: "The volume received (in the '58-'59 season) still fell far short of the need and led to the postponement of many operations."

And he added: "Today, with the improved techniques, permitting operations on heart, lungs and brain, large amounts of blood are essential to ensure their success."

He estimated the minimum for the next year at 100,000 pints.

In order to maintain the supply of blood at a level as near the mark required as possible, the transfusion centre teams — drivers, nurses, technicians — trek to all corners of the province.

Arranging clinics and assuring the supply of donors is the task of the Blood Donor Panel, of which Major Robert Haineault, a commissioner of the Montreal Transportation Commission has recently been named chairman.

All eyes in the organization are being turned to Major Haineault, and the hope is that he will be able to spur the Donor Panel to greater efforts so that the magic number of 100,000 pints will be available.

'Guard Your Family' new cancer slogan

"Guard your Family" is the new rallying cry of the Canadian Cancer Society Crusade which opens here April 6, plans for which were announced yesterday by Col. J. P. Gauthier.

The family theme has been added to the phrase, "Fight cancer with a checkup and a cheque", which was used successfully last year in a joint fund-raising and educational drive.

Col. Gauthier said the new theme was based on the fact that two out of every three families in this community as well as every other town in the country will eventually experinence cancer's heavy burden. The slogan also effectively expresses the Society's determined effort to save more lives from cancer,

As in previous years, the Society's April "Cancer Crusade" seeks to raise funds to continue its three-pronged program of research, education and service to cancer patients. "While research offers the best hope for victory over cancer, the nation's No. 2 disease killer," Col. Gauthier said, "the Crusade is not limited to raising funds. It is a top priority educational effort, on a national scale, to stimulate regular health checkeups among all adults for early detection of cancer. Cancer in its early stages can be cured."

Free literature about the disease will be distributed by Canadian Cancer Society volunteers

Delinquency world-wide says report

Juvenile delinquency is not merely a local problem, according to a recent report from the ninth International Conference of Social Work held in Tokyo.

Montreal delegates reported yesterday to a dinner meeting of the Montreal English Branch of the Canadian Association of Social Workers that considerable attention was focused on a world-wide wave of juvenile delinquency caused partly by the enormous movement of youth from farms to cities in almost all countries.

Dr. George Davidson, Deputy Minister of Welfare, was president of the conference, the next of which will be held in Rome, January 1961.

Service Clubs helped negro Center's work

At the annual meeting of the Negro Community Center, Dr. J. A. Phills, president of the Board of Directors, reporting on the work of the Center gave credit for the substantial support received from Service Clubs to various projects completed or undertaken in 1958. The Northmount Lion's Club, the Rotary Club of Montreal and the Dalse Welfare Club receive special mention.

In reporting on the improvements in the service to the members of the Center, Stanley Clyke, executive director, said that donations received from service clubs and other groups supplemented to a significant degree the funds allocated the center by the Welfare Federation of Montreal. He said that this support was most welcome in as much as the unemployment situation was serious and the demand for services from the multi-problem families represented in the membership was growing. The need for extended service for "hard to reach" individuals in the community was also felt.

Mrs. Murial McCrae, executive director of the Children's Service Center, the guest speaker, outlined the problems faced in finding foster and adoption homes for Negro children. In 1958 the Center served approximately 1000 members ranging from the pre-school to the older adult age level. Total attendance for the year was 63,390.

New members elected to the Board of Directors were, Mrs. Arthur Bailey, Mrs. Cullen Hodge, Messers Tim Crawford, Fred Phillips, Victor Thompson, and Gerald N. F. Charness while Dr. J. A. Phills and Mr. A. Foderingham were re-elected.

Racial, Intellectual Segregation harmful says Dr. Robin Pedley

"Segregation, either racial or intellectual is unnecessary, restrictive, and harmful," said Dr. Robin Pedley, British education authority at a public lecture sponsored by the Protestant School Board at West Hill auditorium Thursday night.

He stated that the comprehensive schools of England are showing that intellectual segregation can be avoided. The comprehensive school is one which screens children according to their ability, providing technical, academic and specialized courses for eight years. Dr. Pedley feels this system utilizes brain power which is otherwise wasted under the alternate British system of testing the children at age 11 to decide what type of school they will attend — grammar (academic), technical, or "inferior" modern secondary school.

In the comprehensive school, Dr. Pedley continued, there is diversified opportunity for advanced work. He gave as an example the Island of Anglesay, which is the only section of England and Wales with a completely comprehensive system. Twice as many pupils complete the seven year course there as in Britain as a whole, he said, and results are slightly above the average.

Regarding preparation for university in this country, Dr. Pedley suggested that Canadian high schools add an extra compulsory year in which students would learn how to study for themselves.

"The number of students who fail to get beyond the first year course at university is a tragic waste of human ability," he stated. He said that the English "sixth form" provides the training in study that is so necessary.

"The good sixth form master is a scholar and a teacher," he commented. "If you keep your pupils a year longer at school, perhaps offering a somewhat wider range of optional courses, I believe you (Canada) would be making a notable advance."

Dr. Pedley was in Montreal to examine high schools of the Protestant School Board of Montreal, among them West Hill High School. On Friday he met with heads of departments and high school teachers at Northmount High School, where he reviewed his tour with a commentary on British and Montreal schools in detail.

Education Week – III

By

The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

The third item of information which started this series was, of course, the notice from the Province of Quebec Education Committee asking for the co-operation of the Churches in the promotion of Education Week, March 1-7. The title of the Committee gives me the right to state why I think that education in the Province of Quebec is soundly based. It has its defects like everything else that is human, but many of its defects spring from the fact that we do not carry out its basic principles; in fact, that we are drawn away from our system of education by the lure of American education.

Perhaps I can arrive where I would be if I state my own theory of education. In case any one may think me over-weening in putting forward a theory of my own let me say that everyone who thinks of education at all has a theory of his own. There is no theory that carries any great volume of opinion behind it. To one authority education is simply intended to carry on the cultural tradition; to another it is intended to make the child at home in his universe. So I need not apologize for my theory. It is only one in a thousand, and perhaps has as much validity as the other nine hundred and ninety-nine.

Education then is the process of handing on to the next generation the things that we value most in our culture. There is our language, that curious blend of French and Greek and Latin, German and Celtic on an Anglo-Saxon base. There is our history, quite as mixed as the language, affected at every moment by two influences, closely twined together and yet growing from very different roots. They are Christianity and the English Common Law. The twining of them is the bequest of Alfred, one of the greatest of English Kings. It is those three things which make the basis of our culture. We can change them but we do so at our peril. If we change them we cut ourselves off from our roots. We may add to those things; in fact, we must. The Renaissance added Classical Humanism to our culture to its very great advantage; the twentieth century has added Scientific Humanism, and our horizon broadens vastly. But if we exalt science to the dominant place in our education we shall lose our balance. Perhaps we cannot avoid that loss. We may be like a tree that is constantly blown upon by a prevailing wind, and lean away from the wind. But if the tree were a conscious thing planning its own fate it would absorb that prevailing wind and strengthen itself and cast forth its roots more securely.

The first part of our education is the passing on of the things we value but the matter does not end there. We must at the same time criticize that tradition, for it has certainly some elements which are no longer of value. To revert to the figure of the tree: there are dead branches which are a danger to the tree, for they add weight without strength. The Classical Humanism that was added to our education four centuries ago no longer has the same value; there needs to be a trimming; but we do not trim by cutting away the roots.

There is a third feature in any educational system; in fact, it is inferred in the last paragraph. Knowing our tradition, and cutting away the elements that are no longer of value, we proceed to build a more modern structure; or to revert again to the figure of the tree, we graft into its healthy branches new twigs which presently will also grow into healthy branches, bearing fruit. But the foundation or root remains the same. We can take in new conception of history, new ideas of science, but if we cut ourselves off from the threefold root of our education system we shall do so at a very great cost.

Joe Meconi, Bobsledding and Lake Placid

The recent win of Stan Benham and his Lake Placid Sno Bird crew of Jim Lamy, Neil Rogers and Chuck Pandolph in the North American four-man bobsled championship at the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run near Lake Placid, reminds us that Joe Meconi, of Ausable Forks, N.Y. not in the too distant past, was a pretty fair performer as a driver and rider of sleds, too.

Joe, who now conducts a restaurant and tavern in Ausable, started riding in 1935 and driving in 1940. The driver steers, of course, and the other three swing and sway hopefully behind.

JOE MECONI

Meconi, along with Bill Fitzgerald of the American House in the same town, is particularly acquainted with Montrealers, especially as the local host to another Snow Bird Club, unrelated to the Lake Placid group, that makes it a happy habit to be the last to play the Ausable Golf club course in the Fall, and the first to open it in the Spring.

Son of William Meconi a former fruit and vegetable dealer, Joe was born in New Bedford, Mass., and moved with his family to the present location in 1911.

Today, the elder Meconi is active with Joe and his brother, Anthony, in the eating and tippling establishment, while Louis, the youngest member of the family and a Notre Dame graduate practices law locally. A sister, Marion, leads a nice normal life being a housewife.

Joe has twice journeyed to Europe for international bobsled competition. In 1948, to St. Moritz, Switzerland, and again in 1952 for the Olympics at Oslo, Norway.

Bobsledding as a participating sport, and we mention this not by experience, is a thrilling and rare one (Rare to the extent that the Lake Placid run is the only top flight one in America.)

Four-man teams reach speeds exceeding 90 miles an hour, while two-man sleds lag at a more 75 or so. As Joe Meconi says, "If your goggles happen to fall off, eyeballs are a dark shade of red after the run."

From a spectators viewpoint handled like a rodeo, with a competent announcer describing the events and happenings, names like "Tuffy" Latour and "Dew Drop" Morgan, two of the better known current bobsled stars, some flying out of the loudspeaker at a pulse quickening pace as the sleds whiz down the icy and steeply banked curves of the run.

There is some doubt as to whether bobsledding will be on the agenda in the 1960 Winter Olympics program at Squaw Valley in California. If the sport is excluded, Joe Meconi, Maurice Gerry, Bucky Snow and other leading Adirondack enthusiasts will be upset no little.

Although Joe admits he can always go along polishing glasses, while waiting for biannual visits of the Montreal Snow Bird Club.

STAMPS GALORE

Wayne L. Bungay

It was in December of 1957 that Postmaster General William Hamilton announced that plate inscriptions would cease. The reason given was that it would facilitate speed at post office wickets. The most obvious way was to discontinue the inscription. However, this proved easier said than done because the general disagreement virtually forced its continuation. In January of 1958 William Hamilton made notice that plate inscriptions would be available through the Philatelic Section in Ottawa only. This was done by placing the inscription closer to the edge of the panes. Then, the stamps to be sold in post offices had the inscription sliced off. However, it seems that post office corners are still in demand, even though there is no inscription, for the Plate Block Catalogue, of Canada by F. E. Eaton makes mention of this. The catalogue values the blank positions of the 'Freedom of the Press' issue at 75 cents each and the IGY issue at 50 cents for each position. (No plate inscriptions were made available as it was too close to the change of decision.) The other six stamps of 1958 are catalogued at 35 or 50 cents per position. Although the inscribed positions hold a higher value, it seems evident that the post office situation has not been relieved entirely. I suppose the clerks are still being asked to thumb through their stock for certain blank positions.

The Westmount 'Y' will again stage its annual hobby show from Wednesday April 1 to Saturday April 4. Stamps and Coins are among the many hobbies which will be exhibited by Westmount boys and girls ranging in age from? (as long as he or she made or did it) to 19 years. Additional details can be obtained by calling the 'Y' at WE. 7-3916 or the Chairman — Sue Mackenzie at WE. 7-1920.

Number of federal prisoners in the United States reached a peak of 26,000 in 1932, but declined by 10,000 immediately after the repeal of prohibition.

Boden-Hardy-Stavert wedding

The marriage of Xandra Margaret Stuart, daughter of Mrs. Doris E. R. Stavert of Notre Dame de Grace and Mr. W. S. Stavert of Toronto, to Mr. Frederick Wm. Boden-Hardy, son of Mrs. T. W. Boden Hardy of Westmount and the late Mr. Hardy, took place on Saturday morning, February 7, in St. Matthew's Anglican Church, Hampstead. Canon Gilbert Oliver and Rev. Stanley Andrew officiated at the double-ring ceremony and choral communion. The choir and wedding music was under the direction of Mr. Clifford Johnston, organist and choir master. Standards and vases of white gladioli and mums were used to decorate. White satin bows marked the pews reserved for the guests.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her godfather, Mr. Hugh S. Campbell, was in a gown of white chiffon and Chantilly lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice having a bateau neckline, short sleeves and lace mitts, and a very full skirt extending into a slight train. Her fingertip length veil of tulle illusion was held by a sunburst headdress of pearls and sequins, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white hyacinth bells.

Miss Phyllis Marshall, as maid of honor, wore a full-skirted peau de soie frock in romance blue and Miss Patricia Outram and Miss Maureen Conroy as attendants wore similar frocks in powder blue. They wore coronets of Royal blue velvet with matching veils and gloves and carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations. Heather Gifford, as flowergirl, wore a full-skirted white nylon frock appliqued with blue flowers and carried a basket of pink and white feathered carnations.

Mr. Ian MacGregor acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Douglas Green, cousin of the bridegroom; Mr. Patrick Campbell, Mr. Hector Bieper-Prieto and Mr. Michael Whitehead.

Mrs. Stavert, the bride's mother, was gowned in light grey silk crepe and wore a feather hat and gloves of cerise with a mink stole, and a corsage bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Mrs. Hardy, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of ashes of roses lace with hat of matching petals, brown accessories and a Kolinsky stole and corsage of Pinnochio roses.

Mrs. Brenan, grandmother of the bride, was gowned in dark green silk crepe, and wore a satin and feather hat to match, a mink stole and a corsage of Orange Delight roses.

The reception and luncheon was held in the La Salle Canadienne, where pink snapdragons and white mums were used to decorate.

On the wedding trip the bride wore a navy blue winter cotton frock, black fur-lined coat with rose accessories and a corsage bouquet of Pinnochio roses. On their return they will reside in Montreal.

Out-of-town guests included: Mrs. A. D. W. Leach of Bathurst, N.B.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kearney and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charters of Ottawa; Mrs. James D. Gilliatt, godmother of the bride, from East Greenwich, R.I.; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Brenan, Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Brenan, Mrs. R .M. Rowe and Mrs. W. B. Gregory, all of Saint John, N.B.

The Lady and The Inn

If the first thing one is able to remember doing — for self gain or to aid the family economy — happened to be hoeing potatoes, it would be tough to our way of thinking, looking the good old edible tuber in the eye or eyes with any degree of kindness in later life.

However, according to Ruth Pitts who now operates the Wilmington Inn so familiar to Montrealers in the heart of the Adirondacks at Wilmington, N.Y., that particular chore has poignant recall. Not adversely, though, because today she is able to face up to any sized spud without flinching an eyebrow.

RUTH PITTS

On the contrary, in fact, Ruth Pitts now envisions Solanum tuberosum (if our educated sister or Uncle Beauregard, who talk Latin to each other like natives, didn't read this column out of sheer family despair we'd have taken a chance on the plural form) served up in all sorts of fancy and delectable ways.

Ruth, born not too long ago in East Schoback a place that sounds like an old vaudeville gag near Albany, stepped blithely into the restaurant business and kindred activities in 1949 at Lake Placid.

Actually she is a farmer's daugher with a conditioned reflex regarding jokes on the subject.

Tired of being the chief statistician for a large shirt manufacturer in Troy, N.Y. and longing for a breath of sweet mountain air, Ruth apprenticed herself in the science of preparing and serving food and innkeeping to positions as chambermaid, housekeeper, waitress, kitchen duty, bartender, etc., in various Saranac and Lake Placid resorts to gain the proper grounding and correct perspective for her newly chosen career.

Her first independent venture in 1951 was as the liquor and dining concessionaire at the Craig Wood Golf and Country Club near Lake Placid.

When your reporter asked Ruth how the initial project made out, she replied ruefully: "It rained a lot that summer."

The next step, during the summers of 1955-56-57 at the same resort town in charge of Bill Rascoe's popular St. Moritz Hotel Mirror Lake beach snack bar proved somewhat more successful.

Later in 1957, the new Whiteface Ski Development in Wilmington captured Ruth's imagination and after a brief sojourn running a restaurant in the vicinity, she made a deal with Addie and Joe Kendrick, long time standard bearers of the Wilmington Inn, to lease their establishment.

All in all, our lady boniface knows what she's doing. For example, when she instructs the help on the fine points of making a bed, or suggests to a chef that he add something to a sauce, experience speaks.

A pixie type, standing all of 5 feet, 2 inches, Ruth Pitts is an indefatigable worker. Up at the crack of dawn supervising the kitchen and her Whiteface Dining Room and ending the day (or night at 1 a.m.) shooing straggling guests out of the Little Adirondacks Bar attached to the Inn, she's a very busy girl.

A local tonsorial expert and good friend of ours named Figaro, viewing Ruth's spectacular and efficient performance made a very apt observation.

Said he: "All Ruth Pitts needs is roller skates."

People and Places

Ruth and Val Traversy of Wetsmount marking up tables in the Hotel LaSalle's Pavillon Room again . . . planning a trip? . . . (We're beginning to sound like a cross between Dorothy Kilgallen and the Police Gazette) . . . girls all say that Andy Cobetto, Casa Loma owner, looks cuter than all get-out in a beret . . . we remember him when he was a real "square". . . . Sidney Tapley informs us — and naturally, you dear readers — that Carmen Cavallero, the guy with the piano, will be at the Faisan Bleu sometime in April . . . The recently formed Choral, Marching, Walking and Onion Soup Mutual Benefit Society of North Drummond street promises to aid cultural activities in Montreal more than just a little, according to its executives . . . they have a very fetching theme song, by the way . . . we'll publish the words later . . . the Guy Perodeaus and Don Taylors munching away happily at Quidi Vidi in Ste. Adele . . . the Henri Poulins with Jeanne Desjardins (Madame Poulin, known to radio listeners as Simone, and Mlle. Desjardins loaded with singing talent) listening to Toni Carrol at the Ritz Cafe . . . nice little girl that she is, Toni thanked them for being there . . . some sort of a switch! As Uncle Beauregard always says, let the applause fall where it may! Maury Kaye at the Bellevue Casino is not only a musical asset to the place, but can "ham" it up with the best (Let's see now! What's best?) Had enough? Okay, see you next week.

Delinquency in music

Part II

By Frances Goltman

THE PARENTS ROLE in a musical education is almost as important as that of the teacher because co-operation is a MUST. Since most music teachers have the pupil for a half hour lesson once a week (is this sufficient?) the parents should do their duty and make sure the child practises every day. If he does not do this he is a delinquent.

TODAY THERE ARE TOO many delinquent parents (On nationwide television hook-ups Sam Levenson has said this many times). Last week in the first I quoted Mr. Levenson and again I repeat that a man of his status can throw a bomb of truth (which is naturally resented by those it hits) and perhaps cure a few of those delinquent parents. For such they are!

"THE PARENTS HAVEN'T the guts to say NO to their children" said the teacher turned comedian - orator - humanitarian. In music some haven't the guts to insist that their children practise regularly. Can anyone become proficient in anything if he does not do it consistently? Parents have to keep at their job with regularity to expect results in school work, cleanliness, manners, music (or any other specialized extra curricular subject).

WHO SHOULD HAVE the authority? The parents or the offspring? In music the assignment is given by the teacher and the parents should choose an instructor that they have full confidence in (just as they do their doctor and dentist) and see to it that the instructions are fully and correctly carried out. If a child will not take some medicine prescribed by the physician, does the parent say, "All right, dear, you don't have to take it if you don't want to"?

MANY TIMES ADULTS have said to me, "When I wanted to quit music, my parents let me. I wish they had made me stick at it." Last year I met a prominent man who told me that his son, now married, berated him for being so lax and overindulging him. He also added that he (the father) should "never have allowed him to stop music lessons".

HOW OFTEN HAVE you heard someone say "I took lessons for several years but can't play a note" or "I took music for six years and can't play anything". Six years may sound a reasonable length of time to study anything but stop and think — how far can you get practising a few times a week (yes, often days are skipped) and doing about forty minutes or less—having a 30 minute lesson once a week, beginning late in the season and stopping after about seven months. Just how far would you expect to get?

WHO IS TO BLAME for this? The delinquent parent for not doing his duty. Hats off to the brave parent who sees that his child follows out the instructions of the teacher. He gets pleasure and results and his money is well spent— the honorable teacher who is doing his best gets results for his efforts. Any livelihood is discouraging when one does not progress and PROGRESS is what every proper parent and proper teacher expects and strives for.

NEXT WEEK: "Delinquency In Music" Part III THE STUDENT. Thanks to the many people who phoned their comments about the first article.

F. G.

SAYING OF THE WEEK: Our own heart, and not other men's opinion, forms our true honour. SAMUEL TAYLOR COLERIDGE. 1772-1834.

BOTH CAUSE AND EFFECT

Because paper is a vehicle of culture, its use in itself generates its own further use. Similarly, the printed word on paper sacks and paperboard containers stimulates a demand for more paper and paperboard.

Leaders support Northmount H-S, Levenson dinner

Prominent leaders in the educational field have extended whole-hearted support to the Scholarship Fund Dinner of the Northmount Home and School Association, which takes place at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel next Sunday at 8 p.m.

The Dinner will mark the inauguration of the $15,000 "Do-it-yourself" Scholarship Fund campaign being carried out by the Association to aid meritorious students to further their studies.

Television comedian, Sam Levenson, will be guest of honor at the Dinner.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, who has extended his patronage to the event, sent a message to the Association in which he declared he was "pleased . . . to endorse the objective in helping deserving students through the Scholarship Fund."

Among other messages received by the Association was one from Mr. E. S. Giles, Director of Protestant Education for the Province of Quebec. He described the Scholarship Fund campaign as "a forward step that will be of great benefit and encouraging to the students."

Two university heads have endorsed the campaign. Dr. F. Cyril James, Vice Chancellor and Principal of McGill University, has extended his good wishes to the fund "for its enterprise and the success of the Scholarship Fund." Msgr. Irenee Lussier, Rector of the University of Montreal, sent a message wishing the Association "all possible success."

Some 2,000 persons are expected to attend the Dinner. Speakers at the event will include Sam Maltin, President of the Northmount Home and School Association; and Charles Toeman, Chairman of the Association's Scholarship Fund Committee. The Master of Ceremonies will be Julius Levitt.

Sportsman's Show March 13-22

Alphonse Leclaire, a veteran of the Quebec outdoors and president of the Montreal Sportsman's Show, gives some useful hints on nature study to two young nature-lovers Jean and Monique Daigneault.

Publication of the manual was made possible by the proceeds of last year's Montreal Sportsman's Show.

The 1959 Montreal Sportsman's Show will be staged at the Show Mart, Montreal, March 13 to 22.

Other projects supported by the annual exhibition include bird game sanctuaries, a campaign against pollution of lakes and streams, and restocking of lakes with gamefish.

The manual is being distributed by the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations, Montreal Anglers and Hunters, the 4-H Clubs of Quebec and the Quebec Forestry Association.

Don Campbell and Dick McLernon played well for the winners and Harvey Alter was a standout for the losers.

The second game saw the Bisons eliminate the Rangers 2-0. Stephen Kerrigan and Brian Hoffman registered a goal and assist each. Philip Thom was outstanding along the blueline for the winners as was Don McCowan in the nets.

Marcel Lefebvre and Bruce Norris were best for the losers. The Bisons now stand by to meet the winner of the other series for the title.

Wider local calling - without long distance charges - for Montreal area effective now

Your "telephone family" became larger on March 1st. Telephone users in Montreal and those in several additional suburban communities can now dial many more places, without paying a Long Distance charge. This also means that, in your calling area, calls to and from more of your friends can be dialed without Operator assistance.

This is the plan which we announced in October 1957 and which, after consideration of all representations submitted, was approved by the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada by its Judgment dated July 11, 1958.

Since then the construction work required to bring you this convenient new service has been completed. We had to lay miles and miles of cable, enlarge our buildings and install a wide range of equipment. We know you will like the convenience and that you will appreciate the dollar savings of toll-free calling within your new Local Calling Area.

Use the map and table on this page. They will show your new wider Local Calling Area. Full information can also be found in the front pages of your Telephone Directory!
Please don't dial your Long Distance Operator for calls to communities within your new Local Calling Area!
If the number of the party you wish to call is not listed in your directory, Dial "113", GIVE THE CALLED PLACE, and the Information Operator will be pleased to help you.

Wider local calling gives you more value for your telephone dollar!
