Ryan: Grits on verge of steamrolling PQ

CLAUDE RYAN... Grits will steamroll PQ

ST. GEORGES-DE-BEAUCE, Que. (CP) — Claude Ryan predicted confidently Sunday night that his Liberal party is about to run over the Parti Quebecois government of Rene Levesque like a steamroller.

He described the PQ as "a gang of jokers and impostors" who don't mean what they say about sovereignty-association. What they really want is independence for Quebec.

Speaking at a nomination meeting in Beauce-Sud riding, where a byelection is expected this fall, Ryan said it is mathematically impossible that the PQ will win its referendum next spring.

Hermann Mathieu, 43, beat Robert Dutil, 29, for the nomination, taking 2,775 votes compared with Dutil's 1,970 in one of the best-attended nomination meetings in recent Quebec history.

PQ candidate Robert Boisvert, 37, who has been acclaimed, will be presented at a meeting tonight in the same high school where the Liberals met Sunday. Premier Rene Levesque is to speak at that meeting.

Ryan described Mathieu as a populist and noted that in his campaign literature he called himself "the people's candidate, the candidate of the little guy."

The Liberal leader said that after April byelection wins by his party in Jean Talon and Argenteuil ridings, Levesque said the PQ lost because it had not sufficiently explained sovereignty-association.

PQ hopeful Boisvert has said he will campaign on issues other than sovereignty-association, a concept he admits he has more to learn about.

Ryan said that instead of "collectivizing and socializing" as the PQ is doing, a Liberal government would "rekindle economic activity in Quebec."

The Liberal leader announced that his party's constitutional position paper on renewed federalism is complete and will be made public in the fall.

Liberal party members, and officials of other provinces and levels of government, will be given a chance to discuss and debate it before a policy convention next February at which the party will iron out its official stance going into the referendum campaign.

Beauce-sud byelection

Ex-coroner nominated

ST. GEORGES-DE-BEAUCE, Que. (CP) — Quebec Liberals have begun fanning the political fires in the bucolic Beauce region of Quebec, even though a date for the Beauce-Sud byelection hasn't been set yet.

Nearly 5,000 Liberals, the largest gathering of Grits in the riding in recent memory, turned out Sunday to select Hermann Mathieu, a former coroner for the region south of Quebec City, as their candidate for the byelection.

Premier Rene Levesque's troops have rented the same local school hall which overflowed with Liberals Sunday for their own meeting tonight. Raymond Boisvert, a local businessman, has no opponent for the PQ nomination, but the nominating convention is being held anyway to acclaim him as candidate. The meeting should give Levesque and other party notables a chance to get in their licks at the Liberals.

Beaucorons have a reputation for voting for the individual rather than the party, but the byelection, which Levesque has promised will be held before the end of September, is shaping up as a battle between party big guns.

Liberal Leader Claude Ryan criticized the PQ government Sunday, describing it as "a gang of jokers and impostors" whom the Liberals would roll over "like a steamroller."

DESTINED FOR DEFEAT
 "I can't see how this government can remain in power," he said. "They are destined for opposition, and sooner than they think."

Mathieu, 43, beat out local industrialist Robert Dutil, 29, taking 2,775

Local bus runs change

By NELSON WYATT

SHERBROOKE — Riding on a bus may get a little challenging in the next little while as area residents get used to the new Transport Commission schedules. The decision to revamp the schedule was taken by Sherbrooke City Council last month and approved by the Quebec Ministry of Transport.

Transport Committee Chairman Jean Guy Archambault told The Record that the reason for the switchover was to provide total service to the city, thereby providing bus routes to areas not previously covered, and to improve the regularity of the bus arrival times.

The bus service revamp will entail the complete changeover of all bus numbers and a difference in some routes. No buses will run on Sundays or holidays, because of a limited demand for service on those days, said Archambault.

Bus number One (former 10), which will run in the Laurentien and Des Jonquilles area, in the North, will operate between 6:40 a.m. and 5:40 p.m. during the morning and afternoon and 6:10 p.m. and 9:10 p.m. in the evening. This changes on Thursday and Friday nights with the run extended to 9:40 p.m.

It will stop at the intersections of King-Wellington; Prospect-London; Prospect-Bouchette; Farwell-Portland; Prospect-Victoria; Frontenac-Dufferin and King and Wellington.

Shipwrecked

A brief but violent squall which swept the southern Townships yesterday evening caught this sailing family unaware and left their 24-foot Shark stranded high and dry in two feet of water. According to the skipper, the thunder-squall which swept down from the head of Sargent's Bay was so violent all he could do was lower his sails and let the boat blow onto shore. Fortunately for the shipwrecked family and their guests, they missed the cliffs on the western side of Lake Memphremagog and blew onto a gravel beach. But it left sleeping bags, clothing and personal effects soaked and clammy, and the first thing the stranded sailors did was build a fire on the beach and hang their things out to drip. The group turned their attention to refloating their Shark for the trip back to Magog, but it took the efforts of six stalwarts and another boat to drag the auxiliary into the three feet of water it needed to float once more.

MYSTERIOUS DISEASE KILLS TWO

TORONTO (CP) — Eleven persons are in hospital and two others are dead following an outbreak of a disease medical officials say could be legionnaires' disease, the mysterious illness that killed 29 persons who attended an American Legion convention in Philadelphia in 1976.

Robert Ferguson, administrative director for Humber Memorial Hospital, where six victims are being treated, said doctors at the hospital have agreed to treat the patients as if they had the disease although it was not confirmed.

Ferguson said Oran Kerr, 27, of Toronto died Saturday, 45 minutes after arriving at the hospital complaining of chest pains and difficulty breathing. A post mortem revealed he died of acute viral pneumonia.

Last Monday, Stephen Lowe, 68, died of pneumonia at the hospital. All of the victims of the disease are from North York, a city in Metropolitan Toronto, and have been admitted to hospital in the last 10 days.

Ferguson said Sunday there is no common denominator between the victims. "They don't work in the same place and they didn't attend a common social event. These people don't know each other."

He said the ministry of health conducted tests earlier last week but results will not be available for 10 days. He said three of the patients at Humber

UAW plans protest against 'big oil'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two days of protest, involving millions of union members and activists, are being organized in the United States to kick off a campaign against the political influence of "big oil."

On Aug. 22, 1.5 million members of the United Auto Workers will "put down their tools and pick up their pens for the minutes necessary to write President Carter and the Congress on energy," UAW President Douglas Fraser said Sunday.

The UAW protest will be the first U.S.-wide work stoppage aimed at urging action on a political issue, said Fraser.

And on Oct. 17, a huge coalition of labor unions and citizen groups will hold local Big Oil Day events to rally public support for a drive to lower oil prices and creation of a public energy corporation to explore and drill for oil and natural gas on federal lands.

These protests signal an ambitious new strategy by leaders of labor and citizen groups who say they feel frustrated with attempts to "outlobby" the oil industry on Capitol Hill.

Zimbabwe Rhodesia plan meets radical opposition

LUSAKA, Zambia (CP) — Commonwealth leaders agreed Sunday on a plan designed to bring peace and black majority rule to Zimbabwe Rhodesia after years of argument and conflict. But the plan ran into opposition today with Joshua Nkomo's wing of the Patriotic Front guerrillas describing it as unacceptable and unrealistic because it calls for Britain to supervise new elections in the war-battered country.

"The assumption that the present British government is impartial and is therefore the fitting authority to conduct elections in the country is not acceptable to us," Willie Musarurwa, spokesman for Nkomo's Zimbabwe

African Peoples Union (ZAPU), told a reporter.

But he stressed that his reaction was based on limited information because ZAPU has not yet been given full details of the plan.

"When we have seen all the details it may be different," he said.

Musarurwa said there are "two elements of unrealism" in the plan, agreed to during the weekend at the Commonwealth conference.

The elements are that the plan ignores the fact that there is a war going on in Zimbabwe Rhodesia and plays down the role of the Patriotic Front in effecting change, he said.

The new peace plan provides for Britain to draw up a new constitution for Zimbabwe Rhodesia, call an all-party conference and supervise new elections there. It calls for an end to the war but does not make specific proposals on this point.

"Any plan inspired by the conscious or unconscious pretext that there is no war raging in Rhodesia is inevitably bound to fail," Musarurwa said.

"This also applies to any effort to play down the indispensable role of the freedom fighters and their leaders."

The agreement was reached after Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain retreated from support of the Zimbabwe Rhodesian government of Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa.

Woman forced to abandon marathon

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Diana Nyad, thwarted by a paralyzing Portuguese man-of-war sting in her bid to swim from the Bahamas to Florida, says she'll try the marathon swim again this month.

"I swam 12 hours and 42 minutes and today I'm barely sore," she said Sunday. "Swimming that long wasn't a big deal. I'd like to try it again in late August."

No one ever has completed the 100-kilometre swim. But Ms. Nyad said she was performing a "textbook swim" before the man-of-war put a painful halt to her try for the record books.

"I've had some painful moments in my career, including sea sickness and hallucinations," the veteran distance swimmer said. "But I've never had a pain like that. I was paralysed in my back for two hours."

"Imagine someone shocking you with an electrical current and not letting go. I felt I was being shocked all across the front of my body. I could barely talk."

Early Sunday, Ms. Nyad was treated at Broward General Medical Centre for stings over 20 per cent of her body. The 29-year-old swimmer was pulled from the water just before 9 p.m. Saturday, more than 12 hours after she splashed into the clear surf near Alice Town, Bahamas. She was about 45 kilometres from her starting point — almost halfway to Florida's Gold Coast — when the man-of-war struck.

"She looked like she was frozen," said her manager Robert Walker. "If there was no one else around, I'm sure she would have drowned."

The Portuguese man-of-war, a large bladder-like creature, is abundant in the Gulf Stream.

After spending the night at her mother's Fort Lauderdale home, Ms. Nyad said she still plans to try to swim to the Florida Keys from Cuba in late September or early October. She failed in a previous Cuba-to-Florida swim last year, when her trainers stopped her 130 kms from the Florida coast after 40 hours in the water.

"Cuba is the thing," she said. "It's the great Olympic gold medal for me. Bimini is just the logical precursor to that."

News Briefs

Hiroshima remembers

HIROSHIMA (AP) — Relatives of victims of the first nuclear bomb attack paused in silence in Hiroshima today — the 34th anniversary of the Japanese city's destruction during the Second World War.

Delegates from 22 countries marked the anniversary with a call to outlaw all nuclear arms.

More than 30,000 persons attended ceremonies in Hiroshima, where the atomic bomb was first used in wartime on Aug. 6, 1945. In drizzling rain, they observed a minute of silence at 8:15 a.m., the time the bomb was dropped.

Afghan uprising quelled

ISLAMABAD (Reuter) — Tanks and armored vehicles patrolled Kabul today and helicopter gunships hovered over the city following an unsuccessful uprising by soldiers in the Afghanistan capital, reports reaching Pakistan said.

Diplomats in Islamabad said tight security was enforced after the first dusk-to-dawn curfew in Kabul since President Noor Mohammad Tarakki came to power in a Soviet-backed coup in April last year.

Heavy fighting broke out Sunday around the Bala Hissar fort beside Kabul's old town, where 1,200 regular soldiers are stationed.

The fighting lasted four hours, but sporadic shooting was heard throughout the night, reports reaching the diplomats said.

Five killed in copter crash

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP) — High winds Sunday prevented the recovery of the bodies of five men killed in a helicopter crash near this west-central Alberta community, Capt. Gerry Kelly, a Canadian Forces spokesman at CFB Edmonton, said.

Kelly said the high winds, combined with the terrain near the summit of a mountain in the Ram River recreation area about 100 kilometres west of here, made it impossible to get in and recover the bodies.

Foreign Legionnaires seek asylum

LISBON (AP) — Three mercenaries in the Spanish Foreign Legion held 24 hostages aboard a hijacked Spanish airliner at the Lisbon airport today, demanding asylum in France. The French government said it won't take them.

"We are not terrorists," one of the trio said by radio. "We are deserters from the Spanish Foreign Legion. We are ready to hand over our weapons, and we want to land in France."

Two Belgian reactors shut down

ANTWERP, Belgium (Reuter) — Two Belgian nuclear power stations were closed down Sunday night after water leaked from a cooling system but officials said there was no danger. The twin reactors at Doel, near Antwerp, were shut off after a pipe carrying cooling water burst, flooding a basement room, one official said. A local fire department and civil defence units were called in.

Air Canada DC-9 in forced landing.

MONTREAL (CP) — An Air Canada DC-9, en route from Charlottetown to Toronto with 99 passengers and six crew members, made an emergency landing here Sunday after mechanical problems forced the shutdown of one of its two engines.

Nobody was hurt or even shaken up as the plane touched down at Dorval International Airport. An Air Canada spokesman described the plane as landing "like a little bird," despite the fact the pilot was reduced to manoeuvring on a single engine after he noticed high oil pressure in the second one.

Fire starts in train

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — About 90 persons were taken from an Ontario Northland Railway train after a fire started in the train's engine near the city. The passengers were taken to a replacement train after an hour's delay. No one was injured in the Friday incident.

Five year old drowns

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP) — A five-year-old Port Alberni boy was missing and presumed drowned after a sailboat and a tug collided Sunday in Alberni Inlet near this Vancouver Island city.

A search for the boy was scheduled to resume today. RCMP said all eight people aboard the six-metre sailboat were thrown into the water when it capsized after being hit by the tug. Seven people were rescued uninjured by the tug.

Police said they did not know if any of the eight aboard the sailboat were wearing lifejackets. No names were released.

$40 barrel of OPEC oil predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former energy secretary James Schlesinger predicted Sunday that oil prices set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will increase to $40 U.S. a barrel during the next 10 years.

And in the same vein, former transportation secretary Brock Adams urged the U.S. auto industry to develop an 80-kilometre-a-gallon car by the late 1980s.

The two outgoing officials, both victims of President Carter's cabinet shake-up last month, made the comments during television interviews.

UAW backs Chrysler

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The United Auto Workers, assuming an active role in efforts to help the financially troubled Chrysler Corp., is backing the automaker's request for $1 billion in U.S. government aid while indicating the company may get a break in contract negotiations.

"We are afraid for Chrysler; specifically we are afraid for the 135,000 families that depend on a Chrysler pay cheque to buy groceries and pay the rent," says a top UAW official. "It is too callous to kiss off one-third of the Big Three."

Four found safe on BC beach

VICTORIA (CP) — Three Campbell River, B.C., residents were safe Sunday after being stranded for four days on a wilderness beach on northern Vancouver Island. John Downs, 33, Brenda O'Brien, 22, and Laurie Wilson, 19 were stranded Wednesday after their small boat ran out of gas on a trip from Port Hardy to Allison Sound at the north end of Vancouver Island.

Loto Canada winners drawn

OTTAWA (CP) — The six winning numbers in Loto Canada's Sunday night draw are: 4446013; 4065579; 3342678; 6864451; 5820655; 1604034.

Tickets with these numbers are each worth $1 million and those bought for the June 30 draw are also eligible for this draw.

Boeing to construct windmill

SEATTLE (AP) — The Boeing Co. says it is constructing the world's biggest and most advanced windmill to generate electricity. Under a three-year, $20-million federal government contract awarded to Boeing two years ago, the company has designed and sub-contracted fabrication of a 2.5-megawatt windmill. It is scheduled to begin tests as early as next spring. The windmill will use a two-bladed rotor. The rotor will have a diameter of 90 metres and will be mounted on a 60-metre steel tower with a generator system behind the hub.

"Elephant theory" presented

LONDON (AP) — Two U.S. scientists, presenting one of the wackiest theories yet about the legendary Loch Ness monster, claim the seldom-seen denizen of that murky Scottish lake might be an elephant. The two have been intrigued by the similarity between some reports of sightings of Nessie and descriptions of the way an elephant swims. Despite their bulk, the scientists say, elephants are good swimmers and with their trunks out of water look uncannily like the monster as described by some of those who claim to have seen it.

Guinean president overthrown

PARIS (AP) — The national radio of Equatorial Guinea reported Sunday that the military has overthrown President Francisco Macias Nguema, ending one of Africa's bloodiest dictatorial governments.

A broadcast from the west African country monitored in Paris said Macias Nguema was toppled Friday in a bloodless coup and replaced by a military junta calling itself the Revolutionary Military Council.

The identities of the country's new leaders were not known. An earlier radio broadcast — and reports circulating among thousands of exiles — said Macias Nguema was arrested Friday night in his home village, Momgomo, by the viceminister of defence, Col. Theodore Nguema Menzogo.

Vintage plane buffs begin trip

DELTA, B.C. (CP) — A group of vintage aircraft buffs have begun a week-long effort to revive the skills and thrills of old-time flying aces.

The 25 single-engine planes, none less than 25 years old, left the air park Sunday in this municipality south of Vancouver, starting an antique air race that will end Saturday at Toronto's Island Airport — weather and technical performance permitting.

Fewer refugees leave Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The steady stream of boat people fleeing Vietnam appears to have slowed to a trickle, says the commander of a U.S. Navy force cruising the South China Sea in search of disabled refugee boats.

Rear-Admiral Ernest Tissot told reporters aboard his command ship, the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, on Saturday that the number of refugees fleeing Vietnam by boat appeared to have dropped drastically.

He said only one boat of the more than 130 the task force made contact with Saturday proved to be carrying refugees, despite contentions by Hanoi that the presence of the five-ship force in the South China Sea was encouraging people to leave.

Peaches bring record price

PORTER, Okla. (AP) — While many Oklahoma farmers are promoting the idea of a bushel of wheat for a barrel of oil, a bushel of peaches sold in Porter this weekend went for the equivalent of 175 barrels of oil.

A bushel of peaches auctioned off Saturday at the 13th Porter Peach Festival brought $3,500.

But it wasn't just any old bushel. It was the Grand Champion bushel of the festival. A Tulsa television station, KTUL, and the Razor Clam Restaurant of Tulsa bought the prize peaches.

Balloon championships held

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — Calgaryians dominated the first Canadian national hot air balloon championship which ended Saturday in this northwestern Alberta city, taking five of the top 10 spots.

Dale Lang of Calgary won the championship with a total of 5,136 points from seven lifts during a week of competition. The field of 31 included participants from Sweden, England and the United States.

There were also 12 non-competing balloons.

Lang, who took to the air in the balloon Alta Sky, was awarded a trophy and a ribbon. Del Michaud of Calgary placed second with 4,968 points, followed by Mac Millar of Edmonton with 4,591.

Bolivia elects interim head

LAPAZ (Reuter) — Bolivia's two main political parties agreed Sunday night to elect Senate President Walter Guevara Arze as interim head of state to break a deadlock which would have delayed the country's switch from military to civilian rule.

The left-wing Democratic Popular Unity party and the Nationalist Revolutionary Movement agreed on Guevara after parliament failed in seven ballots to choose between the two front-runners in last month's presidential election.

The two, Victor Paz Estenssoro of the Revolutionary Movement and Hernan Siles Zuazo of the Unity party, did not receive the 73 votes required to be elected by the 144-member parliament.

Plane gives false alarm

TOKYO (Reuter) — A Pakistan International Airlines Boeing 707 accidentally sent an electronic message that it was being hijacked over southern Japan today, the Japanese transport ministry said.

It said that the captain of the plane, carrying 142 passengers and crew from Tokyo to Peking, informed ground controllers at Okinawa of the false alarm.

The plane sent out a message that it was being hijacked as it passed over the southern Japanese island of Khusu, prompting a full hijack alert in Japan.

Mauritania renounces rights

ALGIERS (Reuter) — Mauritania signed a peace agreement Sunday night with the Polisario guerrilla movement under which it renounces all claim to the southern half of the Western Sahara.

The agreement was signed in front of reporters after three days of negotiations between the Nouakchott government and the guerrillas, who have been fighting Mauritania and Morocco for the territory's independence since 1976.

King Hassan of Morocco said last week that Mauritania has no right to withdraw from its part of the former Spanish colony, which is rich in phosphate mineral deposits.

votes to Dutil's 1,970, in one of the best-attended nomination meetings in recent Quebec history.

Beauce-Sud was the fiefdom of Fabien Roy, who resigned from the national assembly to run successfully in last May's federal election as leader of the Social Credit party.

Levesque, fresh from a vacation on Cape Cod, will have an opportunity to bolster the PQ party workers in the Beauce today when he addresses the Boisvert nomination meeting. He's expected to be flanked by other cabinet ministers, including Marcel Leger, chief organizer and environment minister.

Ryan, who before becoming party leader earned a reputation as a sober intellectual as publisher of the respected daily newspaper, Le Devoir, told his audience Sunday the PQ's Boisvert is going to get a "good kick in the ass."

ATTACKED POLICIES

Local issues, better roads, grants for small businessmen and farm programs were overshadowed by Ryan's attack on the PQ candidate and government policies.

He charged the government has granted "unacceptable power to bureaucrats, particularly those dealing with minorities."

He also rapped the Levesque government for "collectivizing and socializing," and said the Liberals would rekindle economic activity in Quebec.

Ryan added the government had subjected Asbestos Corp., the object of a takeover bid, to 1½ years of "Chinese torture because it is a multinational."

The Liberal leader opposed a bill, passed in June, giving the government power to expropriate Asbestos Corp. if negotiations for a private purchase fall through.

But he has since said he would not necessarily reverse a PQ decision to nationalize the asbestos producer. If the Liberals came to power, they would "study" the situation, he told reporters last month.

From Little House by Katharine Snow

Orderly's refusal a sad sign

At first I was absolutely aghast, then infuriated, but finally, blessedly, able to see as sadly ridiculous the situation wherein a hospital orderly refused to carry a stretcher.

Is it possible that an able-bodied man would refuse to perform so trivial a task in an institution dedicated to the care of the sick? He could have moved the stretcher in the time it took to go on strike! One is at a loss whether to laugh or cry at the depths of absurdity we have reached!

I wish that this oversensitive and reluctant fellow could have seen the orderlies of my nursing days. These "boys" arrived at the hospital completely untrained and were never dignified with the title of orderly. It was simply, "Hey Frankie, come here!" or "Jimmie, help us right away!"

These men usually came to us from The Gibbs Home and were championed by Mr. Tom Keeley. I never knew one of them that did not have a blithe sense of humor and an ability to find the amusing part of a situation.

They certainly worked hard and I doubt if they received more than a barely adequate salary. Their living quarters were in the hospital basement and probably left much to be desired. They worked under the watchful and stern eye of Mr. Richard Burroughs who was a serious man, totally dedicated to his work.

These overnight orderlies always managed to look immaculately clean in their short white jackets and although they constantly fumed, raged, even threatened us as students, I never remember them being anything but kind and gentle towards the patients.

Jimmie was the all-time favorite of my day although no one ever grumbled as much or berated us as continually as he did. In turn, we teased and tormented him endlessly. We would bully, even bribe him to go up to the diet kitchen on a hot afternoon to wheedle some iced tea from Lucy and to steal anything he could get his hands on for us to eat.

I remember particularly the days when we worked as students in the Operating Room. If, at any time, he resisted our capricious whims, we would hide behind the "scrub room" door and wait for the moment that he would come to gather up the trash cans. As he entered, one of us would swoop joyfully down on him, throwing a giant laundry bag over his head, thus imprisoning him until he agreed to our demands!

How delighted he was when an overzealous member of our company once made the fatal error of jumping out and vigorously flinging the bag over the elegantly coiffed head of our O.R. supervisor! This lady had reacted furiously and told us that our hours off for that day would be cancelled. That, of course was a joke. In our two month training period in the Operating Room we never saw an hour off! We prided ourselves on a full twelve hour day every day plus overtime and night calls.

The only handsome orderly that I recall was called Johnnie. Unfortunately, he left shortly after we went in training — but not because of that! He was on the elevator that took us to breakfast in the grey, early morning hours and we adored him.

It was my luck, however, to be always stuck on night duty with Frankie, the temperamental and terrible one. He could be quite jolly at times and he worked very hard in sporadic bursts but in a time of emergency or dire need, I could never locate Frankie!

These men all performed a myriad of diverse duties. Apart from lifting and carrying patients, stretchers and all manner of equipment, they delivered the ice, brought the mail to the wards twice a day, emptied the garbage cans, carried supplies from department to department and ran the elevators. With a minimum of training they also quite skillfully managed to give enemas, assist with plaster casts and do the male catheterizations. What a gold mine hospitals had in these unsung heroes.

I often wonder what became of the ones that I knew. Patty told me once that on one of her last sojourns in the Royal Victoria Hospital as she was being wheeled down a long corridor, an orderly had passed by. She said that there was something vaguely familiar about him but before she could give it much thought, she heard a shout and the orderly had turned and was running toward her at full tilt.

"Miss Wiggitt, Miss Wiggitt! Is that you?" Patty had been Mrs. Davidson for many years at that time but it made no difference to Jimmie Stockton as he came running to her, grabbing both her hands in his, "almost getting in the chair with me," Patty reminisced.

She told me too, that in those few moments, holding on to Jimmie, her eyes flooded with tears, the years of illness fell away and she was again just the old Miss Wiggitt, fastest laundry bagger of us all!

Radio Shack joins campaign

SHERBROOKE (NW) — Local Radio Shack stores will be conducting a two-week-long campaign to raise $100,000 to fight muscular dystrophy, between August 6 to 18.

Authorized by the Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada (MDAC), every dollar raised by Radio Shack store sales of "New Formula" batteries during the campaign will be turned over to the MDAC for its work with those afflicted with muscular dystrophy, said local store manager Luc Lareau.

"By stocking up on these batteries from Radio Shack, you can do your part for the muscular dystrophy campaign," he said. "And you can rest assured that the full retail value of every "New Formula" battery sold will go directly towards this cause."

Muscular Dystrophy is a permanently paralyzing, muscle-wasting disease which attacks male and female, young and old.

All the money raised during this two-week campaign at Radio Shack will be turned over to the MDAC during a nationwide telethon on Labour Day weekend.

Two die in weekend accidents

DRUMMONDVILLE (FJM) — Jean-Yves Germain, 27, of Pointe-Bleue was killed and Jacques Yvan Girard, 31, of Quebec was seriously injured when the car driven by Germain skidded and went out of control along the Trans-Canada Highway near Drummondville at 6:30 a.m. on Saturday morning, landing in the ditch.

The circumstances leading up to the accident are unclear but it seems possible that Germain fell asleep at the wheel. Girard was taken to a hospital in Quebec. Meanwhile, Marinus Elst, 38, of Magog was killed through what seems to have been accidental contact with an electric wire carrying a charge of 220 volts.

It appears that Elst was in the process of changing the wiring in his house. He went up to the attic in order to check something without having shut off the power. Elst's wife, who is several months pregnant, became concerned when he did not respond to her calls. She shut off the power before calling her neighbour for help.

The Magog Police, in the persons of Julien Boily, Gaston Vachon and Bertrand Crevier, were called in to investigate. Elst's body was found with one hand still gripping an exposed wire.

Old-fashioned activist just wants to raise energy queries

CALGARY (CP) — The man with the wild hair, the brown suit and the hand-repaired $8 shoes was conspicuous among high-priced lawyers and company presidents at hearings of the National Energy Board.

Francois Bregha is, in a way, the last of the old-time activists, but also the first of a new breed trying to change the world by meeting the people who matter on their own ground.

Bregha's group, the Canadian Arctic Resources Committee, doesn't picket or hand out leaflets. It was a $500,000 budget for studies, carefully-researched books and attendance at interminable government hearings.

The current NEB hearings are considering applications for the export of large amounts of natural gas to the United States.

"We are not an extremist group," Bregha said in a recent interview. "We are not fighting anybody and we're not trying to stop all gas exports. We are trying to raise questions."

The hearing is the third he has been involved with in five years. He spent months listening to debates that led to Foothills Pipe Lines (Yukon) Ltd. getting permission to build the Canadian section of the Alaska Highway natural gas pipeline.

ATTENDS HEARINGS

Since then, he has been to hearings that studied the financing of the line and the environmental and social effects.

The association was founded in 1971 by a group of academics concerned that the federal government might approve an oil pipeline down the Mackenzie River valley.

Native land claims and water management in the North have since been added to their list of concerns.

They have also taken an intense interest in the decision-making process that governs development north of the 60th parallel.

Bregha said his association has had great success in this area. They were partially responsible for the Berger inquiry that studied the impact of the line on the northern people. They had argued the study was necessary because the NEB didn't have the expertise to assess all the effects.

Their current studies are looking at regulations that control shipping through the Arctic. Bregha says there is no regulatory body controlling the movement of liquefied natural gas or oil from the shipping docks in the High Arctic Islands.

This self-imposed mission is being carried out by Bregha and the 11 others who work fulltime for the association in Ottawa.

DONATE FUNDS

Most of their money comes from private foundations, but large amounts are given by industry and governments to conduct specific studies. Some comes from individuals.

Finances are a major handicap when fighting billion-dollar corporations, said Bregha. Company lawyers have large backup staffs that produce the information and legal arguments needed for the hearings, but he can rely only on part-time lawyers and information he gleans himself.

But that doesn't stop him from taking an active role. At the current hearings, he is raising a number of questions.

Even though he says he isn't fighting any one company, Bregha says he is seriously concerned with the joint application of Pan-Alberta Gas Ltd., TransCanada PipeLines Ltd. and Consolidated Natural Gas Ltd.

The group wants to export 5.8 trillion cubic feet over 15 years, by far the largest bid at the hearing and two trillion cubic feet more than the NEB-set domestic surplus.

"The Pan-Alberta bid is too big," said Bregha. "They admit they don't have enough gas under contract for the pipeline to the Maritimes. Are they playing the Maritimes against the U.S.? They should put Canada first."

The sponsors want to export the gas through the prebuilt, southern portion of the Alaska Highway line, but Bregha said Canada is getting the wrong end of the deal because Canadians will end up paying for the prebuilt section.

"The prebuilt section is really just part of the Alaska Highway pipeline which will carry Alaskan gas through Canada to the U.S. We will be paying so they can ship their gas."

A need for housing breaks

The Conservative government appear to be ambivalent in certain policies. Prime Minister Joe Clark made great headway with his campaign promise of tax assistance for persons buying homes and some pundits have stated it was that promise which gave him his majority.

Now the same government is suggesting they will subsidize certain rentals — certainly a reversal in thinking.

Tax credits for mortgage holders, or persons considering the purchase of homes, would certainly stimulate our sagging economy. Construction is at an all-time low and a stimulus in that area would increase overall prosperity through the purchase of materials and equipment, as well as workers pay cheques getting more cash in circulation.

We agree there is a need for subsidized rentals, especially in the area of senior citizens who are living on fixed incomes and who are the hardest hit when a landlord is forced to raise his rentals due to changes in mortgage rates.

Central Mortgage and Housing had a program a few years ago with fixed rates to landlords who agreed to accommodate special groups such as the elderly when the rate was fixed and allowed investors a reasonable return. The program was abandoned without explanation.

Possibly the government can come up with a joint program which would both stimulate the economy and give senior citizens a break.

We concur with the thought of tax credits for present mortgage holders. We also feel the construction industry could be stimulated with higher tax credits for individuals building their first homes. A return to the past CMHC program might encourage developers to invest in projects aimed at the elderly with the assurance of a reasonable return.

We all face almost daily increases in the cost of living but a break in purchasing a home or in being able to live on a fixed income without fear of eviction due to rising costs would certainly make life a bit more bearable.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

U.S. winks as foreign agents hound Yanks

by Jack Anderson and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A startling, top-secret Senate report charges that foreign intelligence agents have been badgering, threatening and spying on U.S. residents with virtual impunity, their criminal activities deliberately winked at by the federal government.

The report is a preliminary study of "the operations conducted in the United States by six foreign countries' intelligence services directed at the harassment, intimidation and monitoring of United States residents."

Countries involved were Chile, the Philippines, the Republic of China (Taiwan), Yugoslavia, the Soviet Union and pre-revolutionary Iran. The activities of their agents included a wide range of covert crimes, from simple spying to assassinations.

At least three federal statutes were violated, constitutional rights were trampled on and treaties and "customary international law" were blithely ignored by the foreign agents and their hirelings, the report concluded.

The explosive, 150-page report was completed last January for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by its legal counsel, Michael Glennon. Despite elaborate security measures, our associate Dale Van Atta was able to obtain an unauthorized copy from a State Department source.

Four federal agencies should have been cracking down on this wholesale flouting of our laws but did little to stop it. The reasons ranged from self-protection to bureaucratic laziness and jurisdictional pettifoggery, the report concludes.

The Central Intelligence Agency was reluctant to take any action for fear of retaliation against its own agents overseas. The Glennon Report notes, for example, that "the government of Iran has, several times, threatened to retaliate against the CIA if actions were taken against its intelligence operatives in the United States."

The FBI has gathered very little information on the foreign agents' criminal activities and "makes no affirmative effort" to do so, the report states.

The National Security Council simply "does not collect significant amounts of intelligence" on the subject, the report says.

The State Department has adopted a "let-George-do-it" attitude, relying on the CIA, the FBI and the NSC to give it what little information is obtained.

"Because the pieces are not put together," the report concludes, "assessment of the problem and the development of a solution have fallen through the cracks."

Noting that "available evidence indicates that certain residents of the United States have valid reason to fear abridgement of (their) rights and protections by members of foreign intelligence services," the report questions the wisdom of maintaining friendly relations with countries which ignore those rights.

Footnote: Sources told us that because the contents of the report are highly classified, any version eventually made public probably will be "heavily sanitized."

TESTY TESTERS: Educational Testing Service (ETS) the private, non-profit institution which administers the enormously influential entrance examinations for colleges and graduate schools, has mounted an expensive and questionable lobbying campaign on Capitol Hill to protect the secrecy of its operations.

Hearings are scheduled by the House Education Committee on a bill that would force ETS to make public the questions and answers in past exams, as well as internal studies assessing the validity of the tests. New York State just enacted a similar "truth-in-testing" law despite an intense, well-financed lobbying campaign against it by ETS and its sister organization, the College Board.

Our investigation of that lobbying effort showed that ETS was not above misleading the educators and state legislators who were the targets of its propaganda. One "memo" circulated to state legislators, for example, indicated that the New York disclosure bill would make confidential information about students available to public scrutiny. This is simply not true.

Another lobbying memo claimed that many respected colleges and law schools opposed the disclosure bill. But in at least some cases this institutional support for ETS' position was no more than a letter from a friendly faculty member. ETS has also argued that the law would increase their expenses; a Ralph Nader study showed that the extra costs would be minimal.

At one point, ETS made a special pitch for support from black legislators — a nervy attempt, considering the longstanding charge by critics that the standardized ETS exams discriminate against blacks, other minorities and working-class students. Moreover, we have obtained a confidential memo signed by 112 black employees and sent to ETS President William Turnbull, complaining that blacks on the 400-acre ETS "campus" are discriminated against in company hiring and promotion policies.

An ETS spokesman denied that its lobbying effort had been improper and said its cost had been greatly exaggerated by opponents. "Everything we did was very professional," he said.

Footnote: Ironically, much of the "secret" information ETS is so determined to protect is already available to outsiders — for a price. Various "cram course" instructors use questions that are virtually identical to those on the ETS tests, so that a student who can afford such cram courses has an edge over those who can't.

Sandinistas deny execution charges

Representative John Murphy (Dem. N.Y.), a longtime friend and supporter of exiled Nicaraguan dictator Anastasio Somoza, said Wednesday that the Sandinista rebels who ousted Somoza last month were executing thousands of his national guard troops and their families.

On Thursday, Associated Press reporter Gordon Motz was given a guided tour of a prison near Managua where about 3,200 national guards are held.

TIPITAPA, Nicaragua (AP) — National guards and civilians held at the Modelo prison here say they are being well treated by their Sandinista jailers, but they complain of overcrowding, inadequate food and failing sanitation.

Reporters were given a guided tour of the jail on Thursday, one day after Representative John Murphy (Dem. N.Y.), a longtime friend of exiled Nicaraguan strongman Anastasio Somoza, said at a Washington news conference that the Sandinistas were executing thousands of guards and their families here.

None of the prisoners interviewed by reporters said he knew of the alleged executions.

Built to hold 800 prisoners, Modelo is crammed with about 3,200 men. Most are guards who surrendered to the Sandinistas after Somoza fled into exile July 18.

"We are like dogs here," said one captive guard. "They are not torturing us physically, but they are torturing us spiritually and morally by keeping us hungry. They are killing our spirit."

But most prisoners had few complaints about their jailers.

"We are being well-treated," said one man. "Some of the guards threaten us verbally, but for the most part they are good people."

CONDITIONS BAD

Ulrich Bedert, chief of the International Red Cross relief effort in Nicaragua, acknowledged that conditions are bad at this jail and the others around the country where a total of 4,500 national guards are held.

"It is a matter of the Sandinistas being disorganized and not a case of bad intentions," he said. "We understand the situation and are trying to help even though it really isn't our function to feed prisoners in this kind of situation."

The Red Cross is supplying all the food to the prison. Prisoners get one meal a day of rice, beans, one egg, sugar and milk. They complain of constant hunger, say the portions are too small and say they sometimes have to wait up to 30 hours between meals.

The prison commander, a former guerrilla officer who identified himself only as Roland, rejected the prisoners' complaints about the food and said his men are eating the same rations, in the same quantity, as the prisoners.

The Sandinistas say they will review the case of each guardsman. If they are cleared of crimes under the Somoza regime they will be freed, one official said. If not they will remain behind bars, he added. Officials say the review process has begun, but they admit it may be several months before all the cases can be checked.

On August 11, the lefties of Toronto are going to have a chance to be seen and heard. They are going to celebrate their left-handedness and protest the difficulties and disadvantages of being left-handed in a right-handed world. At 1 p.m., there will be a parade from Queen's Park down University Avenue to the new location of The Sinister Shoppe, Canada's only store for left-handed people.

If you're right-handed, you probably know how clumsy you feel when you're writing with your left hand, or arm-wrestling with it. Can you imagine how much trouble you'd have if you had to use your other hand ALL the time because nothing was made the RIGHT way around?

Left-handed people face that feeling every day, adapting by using their WRONG hand, or by crossing their arms to use their left.

The physical fact of being left-handed in a world designed for the right-handed is enough to make you run widdershins (circling to the left). For example, lefties have problems using adding machines, token turnstiles, gum wrapper tabs, screws, electric irons, power tools, playing cards, can openers, drinking fountains, scissors, musical instruments, school desks, cameras and car ignitions — all designed for use by the 90 per cent of the population that is right-handed.

There's also the problem of the bad image associated with left-handedness — in language, for example. The Latin word for "left" is "sinistra" — "sinister" in English — which has come to mean "underhanded or evil". In French there's "gauche" — "ignorant or unstylish"; Germans say "linkisch", which means "unhandy". In Spanish, it's "a zurdas" — the wrong way; the Italian "mancino" means "dishonest" and in Old English, "lyft" meant "worthless". It doesn't end there. Religion and superstition have helped reinforce the negative image of the left hand. Witches summon the Devil and perform spells "backwards" and counterclockwise — in other words, to the left. The Bible contains some twenty negative references to the left hand, including Ecclesiastes 10: 2 "A wise man's heart is at his right hand, but a fool's heart is at his left."

NASCAR NIGHT IN KNOWLTON

KNOWLTON (JM) — It will be racing night at the Knowlton Pub on Wednesday, Aug. 8, at 7 p.m. when the public are invited to learn the ins and outs of NASCAR racing, one of North America's fastest growing spectator sports. Pub owner Jerry Wood and Keith Cavanagh, one of Canada's top drivers who happens to hang his hat in the community, are promoting the event.

They aren't only interested in generating more spectator interest, but are also interested in seeing if there are others who want to participate in this exciting sport, either as drivers or car sponsors.

Coming from a small community doesn't diminish one's chances of recognition — Keith was chosen sportsman of the year last autumn over all the competitors in all the circuits including the Grand National!

The night, which will feature films and a guest speaker, is designed to give people a look behind the scenes to enable them to fully understand what NASCAR is all about. Tom Curley, who is the head of NASCAR

North and who operates the circuit at Milton, Vt., will be on hand as will his assistant David Paris, Beaver Dragon, the top northern NASCAR driver, Dan Peery of the Florida circuit, and a representative from Molson's Brewery which sponsors the Canadian events.

There are five NASCAR sanctioned tracks in Quebec: St. Eustache - Two Mountains; Sanair at St. Pie; Val Belair, Quebec City; Mt. Laurier Autodrome; and Riverside Speedway at Laval.

Major upcoming events will include a 100 lap race at Val Belair on Aug. 11, another 100 lap event at Catamount on Aug. 25, and a special feature at Mt. Laurier on Sept. 1.

Jerry Wood and the other sponsors are providing door prizes and there will be an abundance of passes available for free entry to Catamount. It shapes up to be a fun evening, as well as a highly informative one. If you enjoy the whine of well-tuned engines and the odd whiff of Castrol we suggest you drop in and participate.

Little League Championships

It's an all-Sherbrooke final

By BOB HALSALL,
For the fourth consecutive year Sherbrooke will represent Quebec in the Canadian Little League Baseball Championships. Both Sherbrooke-Lennoxville and Sherbrooke-Fleurimont won their weekend encounters to advance to the finals which get underway tonight at the Parade Grounds.

Sher-Lenn defeated Rosemount by a 6-4 score and Sher-Mont outslugged Verdun 19-14 Saturday. In the only game Sunday, Sher-Mont eliminated Rosemount by handing the visitors a 15-1 drubbing.

Sher-Lenn was led by the steady pitching of Alain Tremblay. Over the six innings he gave up only two hits, two walks and struck out four opponents. Sher-Lenn built up a 6-0 lead before allowing Rosemount to score four unearned runs in the bottom half of the fifth frame.

Sylvain Cloutier and Peter MacDonald, with two hits apiece, helped their team offensively. Solos were recorded by Jean Bois, Serge Gagne, Stephane Simard and Guy Ainslie. Sher-Lenn was in control of the game right from the start, scoring a run in the top half of the first inning and never looked back as Tremblay's confidence on the mound spread through the rest of his teammates like a disease. Even at the end of the fifth, when they committed their only three errors of the game, no one let up as all were looking forward to a day off before challenging Sher-Mont for the provincial crown.

Shermont 19, Verdun 14
In the second half of the playoff doubleheader Sherbrooke-Fleurimont built up 10-0 and 14-8 leads before Verdun tied the game in the bottom half of the fourth inning and Manager Andy Boisvert went to his bullpen for the fifth and final time in the encounter as his team rallied for three runs in the top half of the fifth to take a 17-14 lead. Stephane Brochu pitched up the victory in the three hour marathon. Brochu pitched the final 2 and one-third innings giving up two hits and walking only one batter. The other four pitchers for the locals — Stephane Boule, Denis Brousseau, Marc Jutras and Martin Carriere — combined for eight hits and walked a total of ten Verdun batters. Verdun left 14 runners on the base paths.

Offensively Boisvert's squad pounded out 19 hits off Verdun hurlers Michel Meloche and Bruce Clahane. Michel Provost led the team with five hits including a homer. Catcher Guy Belisle had four hits and scored five runs. James Byrns picked up three hits while Marc Jutras recorded two, one a towering homerun which scored three points. Other Sher-Mont hitters were Stephane Brochu with a single and a homer — single hits were recorded by Denis Brousseau, Martin Carriere and Daniel Dion.

The game did not resemble any provincial playoff game that officials could recall from all past tournament involvement. Sher-Mont committed a total of eight errors throughout while their counterparts committed six. Verdun just wouldn't roll over and die as what most Sher-Mont supporters thought would happen after taking a quick 10-0 lead. The Verdun Assistant coach Clahane said after the game, "Our boys don't know how to call it quits. Even when we were down 19-14 in the sixth we thought we could pull it off." He referred to a game played during the district playoffs when they had their backs to the wall against Dollard des Ormeaux.

Dollard took a 13-3 lead into the fourth, but we beat them 15-14," he added.

Sher-Mont 15, Rosemount 1.
Guy Belisle pitched a one hitter yesterday as Sher-Mont easily eliminated a tired Rosemount team, 15-1.

Belisle gave up his only hit with one out in the sixth inning.

Sher-Mont got out front early scoring three runs in the first and holding on all the way. Six men picked up two hits each in the win. Denis Brousseau, Michel Provost, James Byrns, Stephane Brochu, Marc Jutras and Claude Jean Belisle, Peter Lindley and Christiane Bussiere each picked up singles in the win. In a game that was played during a steady drizzle the spectators (close to 500) didn't leave until the final out as many had done the day before after the locals took the 10-run lead.

The game everyone has been hoping for since Sherbrooke was awarded the provincial championships will become reality tonight when Sher-Lenn will play host to Sher-Mont. Roy Vosbourg, Quebec administrator for Little League Baseball said, "Sherbrooke has to be the capital for Little League Baseball in Quebec. The organization of this tournament is fantastic. Sherbrooke has been doing so well the past few years and it's great to see all the fans at the game." He was referring to Saturday's crowd of way over 1800.

Sher-Lenn holds the upper hand going in tonight's game, having beaten Sher-Mont 4-2 last Wednesday in the tournament opener. A Sher-Lenn win would send the Sher-Lenners off to the Canadian Championships next week in Lethbridge, Alberta. Since the tourney is a double elimination — which means before a team is eliminated, they must lose two games should Sher-Mont win — the final sudden-death game would be played on Tuesday evening at the Parade Grounds.

Pitchers for tonight's game will be Jean Bois for Sher-Lenn and Stephane Brochu for Sher-Mont. Both pitchers have identical 1-0 records in the Provincials. So if you want to see little league baseball at its best, show up tonight at the Parade Grounds on Queen Boulevard. Try to be early, because it's estimated that there could be close to 3,000 spectators cheering for their favorite Sherbrooke team.

Oakville crew wins sailing event

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Skipper Ted Hains and crew Bill Davey of Oakville, Ont., won the opening race of the Canadian snipe sailing championships Sunday.

An astute observation of a sudden but slight change of wind enabled Hains and Davey to come from behind and take a comfortable lead, finishing almost four minutes ahead of the second-place boat sailed by skipper Tim Woodford and crew Shawn Dunlop.

The early leader, sailed by skipper John Astephen and crew Pat Buia, finished third.

Austin upsets Navratilova

The victory at the San Diego Sports Arena was worth $14,000 to the 16-year-old Austin, who broke the powerful 22-year-old left-hander's service twice in each set. Navratilova earned $7,000.

Austin raised her earnings for the year to $256,444 while Navratilova now has earned $437,628.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — John McEnroe of Douglaston, N.Y., won the $75,000 Grand Prix Open title as expected, but the 20-year-old star met some unexpected strong opposition Sunday from Englishman John Lloyd.

McEnroe, mixing an assortment of short shots and lobs with great effect in hot weather, rallied to defeat Lloyd, 6-7 (7-1), 6-4, 6-0. It was a far closer match than their only other meeting when McEnroe crushed Lloyd, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, last December in the Davis Cup final.

Porsche wins six-hour auto event

BRANDS HATCH, England (Reuter) — The turbo-charged Porsche 908 of West Germans Reinhold Joest and Volkert Merl dominated the world championship sports car six-hour race Sunday. Except for the first two laps, Joest and Merl led all the way, finishing more than two laps in front of the Grand Prix circuit after completing 231 laps, at an average speed of 161.90 kph. Compatriots Klaus Ludwig and Axel Pankenhorn in a Porsche 935 were second, while British drivers Tony Curnell and Martin Raymond, in a Chevron B-36 BDX, were a distant third.

Victoria pair triumphs in rowing

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Bruce Ford and Pat Walter of the Victoria Rowing Club, Victoria, repeated as double sculls winners in the 1979 Canadian Amateur Rowing Association championships which concluded Sunday.

For Ford, 24, and Walter, 20, it was their second major championship in less than a month. In July, they won a gold medal at the Pan-Am Games.

Ford and Walter, who have been rowing together since September, 1977, are looking forward to more success at the Royal Canadian Henley regatta, which starts Wednesday in nearby St. Catharines.

Rain causes Sanair delay

ST. PIE DE BAGOT (TB) — Rain and upsets highlighted the final day of drag racing action yesterday at Sanair International Drag Strip in the $200,000-added Molson Grandnational. Only the opening round completed before rain postponed the finals until today, 12 noon.

The leading drivers in qualifications were upset in the first round as the No. 1 qualifier and defending champion in top fuel, Kelly Brown of Calabasas, Calif., suffered engine trouble and lost to Bob Noice of Van Nuys, Calif.

Also upset yesterday was No. 2 qualifier and two-time Molson Grandnational winner Gary Beck, formerly of Edmonton, and now living in El Toro, Calif., as Beck's top fuel machine made a wheelstand off the starting line. Veteran Dwight Salisbury of Van Nuys went on to defeat the former world champion.

Rounding out the upsets yesterday was the No. 1 qualifier in the funny car category, as Tripp Shumake of Phoenix, Ariz., who qualified with a 6.11 second clocking, suffered a first round defeat at the hands of last year's runner-up at Sanair, Gary Burgin of Stanton, Calif. Burgin, the recent springnationals winner, recorded a quarter-mile time of 6.20 seconds to Shumake's 6.29.

INVERNESS

C.W. McVetty
453-2266

Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Kelso, Shirley, Kenneth, Brian, Patricia and Beverley, were recent guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Kenneth Kelso.

Mrs. Thelma Moore, South Durham, Mrs. Harriet Learmonth and Miss Mildred Learmonth, of Lennoxville, were guests of relatives in town while here to attend the Orange picnic on July 14.

We were all pleased to see Mr. Kenneth MacKenzie in his home here having accompanied his daughter, Mrs. Art Verhoof and Mr. Verhoof, from their home in Hamilton. We are glad, indeed, to see him looking so well, and that they all plan to return to Inverness during the Labor Day weekend. On their return trip to Hamilton, they will spend a night with a nephew of Kenneth's, Ralph MacKenzie and Mrs. MacKenzie at Finch, Ont. Don't forget Inverness on Aug. 31st - we are all looking forward to a repeat visit from you folks! We regret to report that the health of Mrs. MacKenzie and that of Miss Elsie MacKenzie in the Wales Home, Richmond, does not improve as their friends are wishing for them.

Mr. Romeo Leblond is busy taking down his large barn which he will replace with two silos, which will be used as storage room for his grain when harvested this fall, as Mr. Leblond has some ninety acres of wheat, and forty-eight acres of barley doing very nicely in spite of the dry season. A story, supported by pictures of this splendid farm, and the activities of this progressive farmer, will soon appear in the Record as we feel that the history of this farm is worthy of recognition.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Welch, James Lennon, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Welch, and Mrs. Couture, all of Charlesbourg, paid a welcome but hurried visit to numerous friends in Inverness, calling at the homes of Mrs. Evelyn Desrochers, Mrs. Cora Minnaugh, Miss Adaline Gingras, Mr. and Mrs. Weston Graham and Mrs. Alice Muir. However, others who would have enjoyed a visit from them, were invited to meet them at the home of Miss Gingras, where we were assured that another visit would soon become a fact. The Welchs, and Mr. Lennon, who were former residents of this area, are prime favourites of those who remain here.

Guests and callers at Reedsdale recently were Winston Moore, Woodbury, Vt., Mrs. George Hoy, Miss Linda Annesley, Mrs. Martha McVetty, Lennoxville, Miss Wendy Williams, Danville, Mrs. Rose Christie, Theftford Mines, Miss Annie Johnston, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Gilles Labelle, and son, Michel of Ville La Salle, Mrs. Lindsay Nutbrown, Bulwer, Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly, Ste. Agathe de Lotbiniere.

Mrs. Margaret Dempsey, of Inverness, provided invaluable assistance to her son during the absence of Mrs. Dempsey, Jr.

Miss Adaline Gingras entertained Mrs. Cora Minnaugh, and the McVettys, at the tea hour, on Wednesday last.

Mrs. C. Smith, and son, Clifford, of Blaispoin, N.H., spent a few days as guests of their cousin, Mrs. A. Minnaugh. Mrs. Smith is a granddaughter of the late Donald McKillop and his wife Anne Hamilton, who migrated here in 1829 from the Isle of Arran, Scotland. Other guests at the same home were Mrs. Ethel Longmore, Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall, Copetown, Ont., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood, Aubrey, Que., the latter with Mrs. Minnaugh, were afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cox, and family, of the Keough Range.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher, Goffstown, N.H., are visiting relatives in Lake Megantic following a visit with the latter's brother, and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Little. Mrs. Edythe Leacock, Goffstown, N.H. is spending some time in the same home.

Mrs. Arthur Minnaugh, with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harper, spent a very pleasant afternoon at the Dining home at Maple Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Little, accompanied by their guests Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher, enjoyed a very pleasant trip to Chicoutimi, Lake St. John, and La Tuque.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Cook, Shelley, and Bobbie, visited Mrs. Cook's mother, Mrs. Curtis Bennett, in room 503, Jeffrey Hale Hospital, in Quebec City. In spite of her advanced years, Mrs. Bennett is in full possession of her mental faculties, and takes a strong interest in all worthwhile problems of local and national importance. She also appreciates mail, and the news in the Record from all sections of the Eastern Townships. So, why not send in a card, or letter, to this wonderful lady, and help brighten her days — they would be appreciated very much.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to all members of the Octave Bergeron family in the death of their mother, Mrs. Bergeron, who passed away in Plessisville on Saturday, July 28. Mrs. Bergeron was a highly respected resident of this locality for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Weston Graham, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Little were among those who paid their last respects to her memory by visiting the Funeral Home of Jacques Couture in Plessisville, where her remains rested until Monday, when she was laid to rest beside her husband in the Roman Catholic Cemetery in Inverness.

ASIAN ELEPHANT

ELEPHAS MAXIMUS III 1

Sometimes called the Indian elephant, this animal is also found in the dense forests of grassy plains of Sri Lanka, Burma, Thailand, Malaya & Sumatra. The trunk is actually an extension of the nose and has nostrils on the tip. At the very extremity of the trunk is a finger-like projection which is sensitive enough to pick up objects as small as a peanut.

These huge elephants are dangerous by nature, roaming in herds of 15 to 20, led by an old female. Besides trampling, they can communicate by other sounds for example, while feeding, they burr when an individual detects danger or stops pulling its sudden silence alerting the others who also fall silent. For many years this intelligent and docile animal has been used by man as a beast of burden, circus performer and even as a weapon of war.

Partners will play prominent roles in your affairs this coming year. One alliance that you will form will have far-reaching beneficial effects. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to be overly insistent upon having everything done your way today. Being dictatorial will awaken the ire of persons whose cooperation you may need. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of doing things the easy way today, you may add unnecessary steps that could cause you problems. Don't make your work tougher than it really is. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You can't be all things to all people today, so your best course is to be just to be yourself. Any pretense will backfire. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions may not be as harmonious at home today as you'd like them to be. You may see the culprit when you look in the mirror. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Before you act impulsively on your bright ideas today, study them a bit further to be sure they are feasible or you could go off on a tangent. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be a bit more protective than usual of your own resources today, as well as of those which you manage for others. Carelessness could prove costly. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a chance you may find yourself in a position today where you'll be pitted against strong opposition. A compromise avoid a conflict. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is only so much that you can do or that others can expect from you. Think carefully before volunteering to take on more than you can handle. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Friends could cause you complications today if you permit yourself to be drawn into petty situations. Playing politics with pals is a no-no. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's essential that your goals be very clear-cut today and that you don't try to do more than you can sensibly accomplish. Too many targets make too a confused marksman. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Should you start challenging others' views today, be prepared to have your own concepts attacked. Avoid exchanges which could lead to pointless debates. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take no outlandish risks financially or businesswise today, if you're dubious about any deals, stall for time to study them further.

Golden Agers tour Canadiana Village

MANSONVILLE (OJ) — Forty-five Mansonville Golden Agers toured the Canadiana Village outside Rawdon on July 24, the tour being organized by the president, Rita Mossa. Reservations were needed, as the Village is privately owned. The club shared the cost of the nine-dollar entrance fee and dinner with its members, thus paying four dollars and fifty cents for each member.

The group began the tour of the main farm house, where they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moore who explained that the house was built in 1867 and was the original Copping farm house - its contents are many and this is a small museum. Outside was an old-fashioned bake oven from which everyone got a biscuit and they were each handed a glass of wine.

Over the past few years the Moores have generously shared their interesting hobby with thousands of visitors. Each year new buildings are authentically rebuilt and furnished with furniture of that time. Mr. Moore is president of Moore Bros. Machinery Company and both he and his wife have been interested in many community endeavours and have long been concerned with the preservation of our Canadian heritage.

The grist mill, with its water wheel and mill pond, is one of the latest buildings to be added to the village, which adds charm to the little community. Inside the grist mill are two dining-rooms where a three-course meal is served. The group from Mansonville was seated in the upstairs dining-room and were served home-made soup, then dinner was served buffet style, assorted salads, baked beans, pickles, ham, roast beef, a marvellous home-made meal! At every table there was a loaf of home-baked bread, then the ladies served home-baked apple pie with ice cream, tea and coffee. After dinner, for those who found the hill a bit steep, cars were available to take them up the hill to higher ground where the main part of the village is located. Here is the general store, a school house, blacksmith shop, shoe-makers' shop, settler's log cabin, dressmaker's home, and grandma's house at Christmas time, all dating back to the early 1800s. There was a butter maker, rughooking, quilting and spinning and numerous other buildings. The highlight for some was a ride in a 1923 Model T Ford, driven by Mr. Moore, who bought it in Nova Scotia.

The view of the surrounding countryside from the top of the hill is magnificent. As it was a very hot day, the ice cream parlor was doing a terrific business. Also at the gift shop, fans were the best selling item of the day.

There was a pond with ducks, there were donkeys, horses, pigs in the pasture and a goat tied on the front lawn.

They saw the covered bridge which had been brought from Coatocook, built in 1888 and re-erected crossing the Red River which flows through the village.

Due to the heat, they passed up a visit to St. John's Church - built in 1849, and restored on the Moore's property in Mansonville, as this was a three-mile drive to and from the site.

On the way home they noted the farming of tobacco plants and the many farms in this area.

They stopped at the Ville d'Anjou Shopping Centre for a bit of shopping and arrived home around 7:30, after an enjoyable day.

Mays inducted into baseball Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — It has been nearly six years since Willie Mays stopped thrilling baseball fans with wondrous displays on the field. Now he's captivating them off the field.

Mays was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame on Sunday, along with Hack Wilson and Warren Giles. For the Say Hey Kid, it was a special occasion, as memorable to him as his spectacular catches, great throws and clutch home runs were to the people who watched him play.

Legions of those fans turned out Sunday under a scorching sun to cheer for Mays. Every time his name was mentioned, they yelled "Willie!" When he was introduced by commissioner Bowie Kuhn, they rose as one and saluted the newest member of the sport's most elite society.

"I love baseball, it's a great game," said Mays. "Now I know the 22 years I played weren't in vain. You gave those years back to me."

He meant the Hall of Fame, but it could just as easily have been the fans Willie was thanking. They came to expect greatness from him — and he delivered.

Willie's statistics seem to jump out of the record book. He played just short of 20 seasons with the Giants, first in New York, then in San Francisco. He finished his career with New York Mets after a trade in May, 1972.

ALL-STAR 20 TIMES

In those 22 major league seasons, Mays accomplished marvelous things with his bat. A 20-time all-star, he belted more than 40 home runs six times, knocked in at least 100 runs six times and had a lifetime batting average of .302.

For his career, Mays wound up third to Henry Aaron and Babe Ruth in home runs (660); third in total bases (6,066); fourth in at-bats (10,881); runs scored (2,962) and games played (2,992); seventh in hits (3,283) and RBIs (1,903); eighth in slugging percentage (.557), and 10th in walks (1,464).

Even with all those hitting achievements, Mays may best be remembered for his fielding. He holds the major league record for putouts by an outfielder — 7,095. He made the basket catch a part of his routine, and the fans loved it. He also made the phenomenal catch an every-day part of his repertoire, climbing fences, diving, jumping and, in one case, outrunning a Vic Wertz drive to dead centre field in the Polo Grounds in the 1954 World Series. That catch, his back to home plate, the ball falling from directly overhead into Mays' glove, is his most famous.

CALLED CATCH SIMPLE

"It was simple," he said. "When the ball went up, I felt I should catch it. When I made catches that looked great, that's what I was supposed to do."

Willie said he was disappointed the Giants hadn't sent along his uniform for him to donate to the hall, as the Mets had.

"I played more than 18 years with one club," he said, rambling through his days of baseball, beginning at age 10. "You would think you deserve a uniform to present to the Hall of Fame."

Wilson, who set the National League marks for home runs (57) and RBIs (190) in 1930, was represented by his son, Robert.

Kuhn called Wilson "a perfect character for the Chicago of the 'Roaring Twenties'."

The hard-drinking outfielder, who had a lifetime .307 batting average, died in 1948.

Giles, who like Wilson was elected to the Hall by the veterans' committee of which he was a member until his death at 82 last February, served as NL president from 1951 to 1969. He was vice-president and general manager of Cincinnati Reds for 15 years and put in half a century as a baseball executive.

HONOR YOUNG, MURNANE

Also honored at the induction ceremonies, attended by 28 of the 46 living Hall of Famers — there are 169 members in all — were Dick Young and the late Tim Murnane, who received the J. G. Taylor Spink Award for distinguished services as a baseball writer. Bob Elison, who broadcast baseball from 1929-70, mostly in Chicago, received the Ford Frick Award for broadcasting excellence.

But the day belonged to Mays, as Kuhn sensed in his introduction.

"How do you embellish the unique?" the commissioner asked. "You don't. He never gave fans a penny of short change."

Willie was afraid that he couldn't make it in the majors when he joined the Giants in 1951, the year of their miracle pennant.

"I came to New York with three bats and a glove, and I was scared to death," he told the spellbound crowd. "Leo (Durocher) told me, 'There's the field, go get it.'"

"I took batting practice and everybody stopped to watch. I hit everything over the fence and said, 'What kind of game is this?' Then I found out what kind of game it is. Robin Roberts pitched and I went 0-for-5."

"I was 0-for-4 the next day, and the next. The press had built me up to the mountain and I got no hits. I told Leo the league was too tough, send me back. He said I was his centre fielder. His words gave me courage."

Mays then got his first hit in the majors, a homer off Warren Spahn. Now he has joined Spahn, Roberts and baseball's other immortals in the Hall of Fame.

Pirates take lead Mets drop Expos to second

ROSS GRIMSLEY
...now 8-7

MONTREAL (CP) — They're known as the spoilers in the East Division of baseball's National League, and true to form, New York Mets made things most unpleasant for Montreal Expos on Sunday.

"We don't have the talent other ball clubs have but we're working real hard," said second baseman Doug Flynn, after the Mets bounced Montreal from first place with a 4-2 victory in the opening game of a doubleheader.

The Expos managed to remain within a half-game of the front-running Pittsburgh Pirates by grabbing the nightcap 7-3.

The victory enabled Montreal to gain a split of the four-game series, since a two-run home run by John Stearns and the combined seven-hit pitching of Craig Swan and reliever Neil Allen stopped the Expos 3-2 Saturday night.

"The way the Expos have been playing, it's satisfying to come away with two wins," said Flynn. "It's frustrating when you have guys playing so hard and you know that you're not going anywhere."

Flynn had a major hand in the first game victory as his two-run triple off Ross Grimsley, 8-7, sent the Mets into a 2-0 lead in the second inning.

But Montreal rallied on Gary Carter's RBI single and a fielder's choice by Larry Parrish to tie the score in the sixth, setting the stage for Jose Cardenal's solo homer and Willie Montanez's run-scoring double in the seventh inning.

"Grimsley threw me a high screwball," said Cardenal, who unloaded his first homer of the season. "It must have been a mistake. I was just going up there trying to make contact."

Dock Ellis, 2-4, worked the first six innings for the Mets before reliever Ed Glynn came on to stifle Montreal on just one hit over the final three frames.

"I really feel good about that one," said Glynn, of his seventh save. "We've been playing competitive baseball and we feel we can win a lot more games so we aren't really surprised with the victory."

The Expos salvaged the second game by shelling Wayne Twitchell, 5-3, for three runs in the second inning, including a solo homer by Rusty Staub, his first since rejoining Montreal two weeks ago.

After Staub's blast and a pair of walks, Twitchell yielded to reliever Andy Hassler, who promptly surrendered a two-run double to Duffy Dyer, allowing the Expos to take a lead they never relinquished.

Ellis Valentine drove in two runs with a single and a double, while Parrish and Dave Cash also brought in runs during the second game barrage.

Sharing the heroics, however, was reliever Rudy May, 7-0, who scattered four hits after entering the game in the fourth inning for starter David Palmer.

Combined with a victory at the end of last season, the eight consecutive triumphs by May established a new club record, but the Expos' southpaw was more concerned about the victory's effect on the pennant race.

"This was an important win for us," he said. "I don't believe we've even got into the heat of things yet because we still have to play Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. We didn't look for those clubs to lie down. They're going to be tough but we'll be in the race, too."

Ball roundup: Brewers are slugfest for Bosox

Boston Red Sox, led by Fred Lynn and Carlton Fisk, collected 37 hits — including an American League high of 27 in the second game — for a 7-2, 19-5 doubleheader sweep over Milwaukee Brewers on Sunday.

Lynn's three-run homer capped a five-run fifth inning as the Red Sox won the first game and they took the second with Lynn belting a two-run homer and Fisk getting four hits and driving in four runs.

In addition to recording the single-game high in hits, the Red Sox tied a record held by many AL baseball teams by scoring in eight of the nine innings.

The double victory gave the Red Sox five triumphs in the last six games, while the slumping Brewers dropped their sixth game in seven.

Elsewhere in the AL, Graig Nettles' two-run homer in the fourth inning enabled New York Yankees to defeat Baltimore Orioles 3-2 as Tommy John won his 15th game of the season.

Jorge Orta and Chet Lemon each hit two-run homers in the first inning, backing the combined nine-hit pitching of Ken Kravec and three relievers to pace Chicago White Sox to a 5-4 decision over Toronto Blue Jays.

Dennis Leonard and two relievers combined on a six-hitter and Darrell Porter hit his 13th homer of the year as Kansas City Royals beat Detroit Tigers 3-2.

ANGELS-TWINS SPLIT

Dan Ford drove in four runs as California Angels rallied from a five-run deficit to defeat Minnesota Twins 11-7 in the first game of a doubleheader. Right-hander Pete Redfern struck out a career-high 10 batters and Mike Marshall earned his 22nd save as the Twins defeated the Angels 7-1 in the second game.

Cliff Johnson hit a three-run homer and Len Barker and Sid Monge combined to scatter nine hits as Cleveland Indians beat Texas Rangers 6-2 in the first game of a doubleheader. Danny Darwin fired a four-hitter and Richie Zisk drove in four runs with a homer and a double to lead the Rangers to a 14-3 victory in the second game.

MILNER CONNECTS

In the National League, pinch-hitter John Milner hit a grand slam home run on the first pitch from Philadelphia reliever Tug McGraw with two out in the ninth inning, offsetting an earlier slam by Greg Luzinski and powering Pittsburgh Pirates to a 12-8 triumph over the Phillies in the opener of a doubleheader.

Omar Moreno's two-run double sparked a four-run fifth inning as the Pirates beat Philadelphia 5-2 in the second game.

Steve Garvey and Dave Lopes drove in three runs each while Don Sutton took over the Dodgers' all-time lead in strikeouts as Los Angeles crushed San Francisco Giants 8-1.

Ray Knight, Cincinnati's hottest hitter with 18 runs batted in for his last seven games, blasted a two-run homer to lead a four-homer attack that powered the Reds to a 9-1 rout of San Diego Padres.

Bill Buckner, who earlier hit his 10th homer, drilled a two-run double in the eighth inning to give Chicago Cubs a 3-2 victory over St. Louis Cardinals in the first game of a doubleheader. Tony Scott hit a two-run homer and Jerry Mumphrey had three singles and a sacrifice fly, leading the Cardinals to a 5-4 victory in the second game.

Jose Cardenal hit his first home run of the season and Willie Montanez added a runcoring double in the seventh inning, lifting New York Mets to a 4-2 victory over Montreal Expos in the opener of a doubleheader. Duffy Dyer and Ellis Valentine knocked in two runs each and Rusty Staub added his first home run since returning to Montreal as the Expos defeated the Mets 7-3 in the second game.

In the National League on Saturday, New York shaded Montreal 3-2, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 4-0, Chicago downed St. Louis 8-6, Cincinnati whipped San Diego 6-1, Los Angeles nipped San Francisco 4-3 in 11 innings and Houston took two from Atlanta, 4-3 and 6-2. Toronto beat Chicago 5-2 in American League play

Saturday, while Cleveland defeated Texas 12-8, Detroit downed Kansas City 5-2, California topped Minnesota 7-1, Boston beat Milwaukee 8-6, Baltimore shaded New York 5-4 and Oakland defeated Seattle 5-3.

Graham double-bogeys 18th but wins PGA playoff

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — David Graham was leading by two and confident going to the 18th tee of the 61st PGA championship Sunday. Ben Crenshaw, on the other hand, was depressed again, having finished second in three of his last five tournaments and facing yet another runner-up placing.

Graham, who started the final round four strokes behind third-day leader Rex Caldwell, had fired seven birdies in the first 17 to go 10-under par and take a two-stroke lead over Crenshaw, who was waiting by the 18th.

Graham said afterward that he had never lost a tournament with a two-stroke lead and one hole to play.

"I was really in control of what I was doing," said the 33-year-old Australian, who had never won a major tournament. "I was in control of my game, my emotions. I felt very comfortable out there. I knew the situation I was in. I thought I had control of it."

But he quickly lost control, hitting what he called his worst shot of the week from the 18th tee.

"When I started my backswing, I really woke up to what was happening," said Graham. "I hit a dreadful shot. I had no idea where the ball finished up."

His second shot went through the green. He needed two chips to get on the putting surface, then he missed a four-footer for a double bogey that sent the championship into a sudden-death playoff with Crenshaw.

Lopez has won seven of the 15 tournaments she has entered this season, finishing second in four others.

"It will all come to an end sooner or later," she said. "I don't want to make golf my job for the whole of my life. When the right time comes I will just stay at home and have a family. But don't ask me when that will be, I have no idea."

In four days of alternating rain and sunshine on Sunningdale's 6,174-yard, par-74 course, she outdrove all her rivals from the tee for rounds of 68, 69, 70 and 75 — a 14-under-par total of 282.

The last day was not an easy one for Lopez. She started the final round seven strokes ahead of Joyce Kazmierski, but had her lead cut to two at one point before finally finishing four strokes in front.

NANCY LOPEZ... seventh victory of year.
