EDUCATION.

Mr. C. E. COLLIER

HAS removed to the Mansion-House, situated one mile on the Beauport road adjoining the residence of the late Judge De BONNE, for the purpose of keeping a Classical, French. and English, Boarding School, for young Gentlemen.

The terms will be moderate, and no pains spared to render it an economical institution, and essentially serviceable to youth, by the permanent engagement of qualified instructors in each department, and as respects its domestic arrangement, for which the extent of the premises afford considerable advantages.

The public may rely that moral and religious duties will be inculcated and enforced; that in education, government, meals and recreation of the young gentlemen, a methodical system will be introduced, and persevered in; while the advantages of a regular modern living, and of an airy a residence; the small number of pupils, compared with a Day school, and the superior opportunity such an institution affords, to exclude exceptionable boys, are the prominent objects which it is hoped will entitle the "Quebec Boarding-school" to public patronage.

INSTRUCTION.—The great influx of talent into the Province, this year from Europe, has enabled Mr. Collier to enter into permanent engagements with qualified Instructors, and the following branches will be taught: The Greek, Latin, French, and English languages, Mathematics, Geography, with the use of the Globes, Writing, Arithmetic, Book-keeping, &c. &c. Dancing and Music Masters, will also be engaged.

RELIGION, &c.—The youth belonging to the English, French, and Scotch Churches, will have strict attention paid to the performance of their several duties, under Tutors belonging to the respective Churches.—Family prayers will be read by them in seperate apartments, and the language, manner and conduct of the pupil sedulously attended to,

VACATIONS.—An annual vacation of one month will be given. Young Gentlemen whose friends reside at a great distance, may continue at school during the recess

TERMS—very moderate, and proportioned to the children's age. The stipulated sum to include Board, Education, Washing, and every other, incidental expence; clothes, books, music, dancing, and medical attendance, excepted.

DOMESTIC ARRANGEMENTS. A Sempstress will be retained in the house, to make and mend the clothes, so as to render the institution desirable for youth, even in an economical point of view. The board will be plain but liberal. The premises are extensive, with excellent pleasure grounds, and afford every opportunity to procure plentiful supplies of vegetables, fruit, milk, &c. &c.

MR. COLLIER, who is actuated by a deep sense of gratitude for the unprecedented encouragement he has received from his friends and the public in general, since the earliest establishment of his Day school in Quebec, cannot allow the present occasion to escape without observing to his patrons, that such zeal in the cause of Education, must eventually produce in its diffusion and effects, the happiest result to the society; and he assures them on the other hand, that it has indelibly impressed on the object of their patronage, a sincere desire to evince on every future occasion, the grateful and unaffected sentiment which he has now the honor publicly to avow.

HORATIO GATES.

Montreal, March 9, 1816.

NOTICE.

THE officers of the FEMALE BENEVOLENT SOCIETY, inform the public, that they have taken a small house in the Recollet Suburb, a few doors south Mr. McNab's Tavern, for the purpose of accomodating a certain description of their Pensioners at a cheaper rate than the Society could hire for their board and lodging. The establishment which is inspected by the Managers in rotation, is superintended by respectable and trusty women as housekeepers, and any supplies of clothing, wearing apparel, provisions, wood, &c. however trifling, which the liberal may be disposed to send, will be gratefully received and faithfully applied to the wants of the necessitous.

Montreal, 17th October, 1817.

BRIGHTON (Massachusetts) CATTLE SHOW.

A sketch of the Proceedings at the late Cattle Shew, exhibition of Manufactures, &c. with the premiums awarded. Published by the authority of the Trustees of the Massachusets Agricultural Society.

The trustees justly apprehensive, as the event has shewn, that errors would creep into the accounts of this exhibition, if hastily or unofficially given, determined to withhold any partial statement, and to refer the subject to a committee of their board. The chairman of the several committees for examination, viz. Thomas L. Winthrop, esq. the hon. Peter C. Brooks, the hon. Josiah Quincy, and Ezekiel H. Derby, esq. were chosen for the above purpose—to whom Mr Lowell was added.

It was the opinion of the board of trustees, as well as of their committee, that it would be expedient in the first instance, to prepare a correct but brief sketch of the late exhibition, to be published in the newspapers, to satisfy the immediate curiosity of the public: but that a more elaborate and full history should be prepared for the journals of the society, which are semi-annually published. The reasons for taking more time on this subject were, its great importance to the best interests of the state, a wish to do justice to all the applicants or competitors, whether successful or not, to justify the decisions of the board by explaining clearly the principles on which they were founded, to excite, by suitable remarks, a spirit of emulation, but especially to make known, not only to the citizens of this state (many of whom it is believed, are ignorant of the progress and improvement, in parts even of Massachusetts, with which they are unacquainted,) but to the world, the present state of agriculture and manufactures in this state, so far at least as they are to be inferred from such an exhibition. Men of good sense will readily perceive, that a correct view of this subject will require more time than the anxiety of the competitors, and the eagerness of the editors of public newspapers to satisfy the expectations of their subscribers would admit. Much discrimination would be requisite in such a report. That disposition to bestow inordinate praise on every thing of American production, which not only excites the sneers of intelligent Europeans, but induces them as men do in judging private characters, to withhold from us the praise we really merit, ought to find no place in the proceedings of public societies. On the other hand it is to be desired, that our own citizens and the world should know, that there exists no description of domestic animal of which Massachusets cannot produce a specimen equal, if not superior, to any in the most cultivated region of Europe: nor ought the consequence to be overlooked, that if the general state of the breeds of our animals be as it most undoubtedly is, inferior, nay, far inferior to those of some countries, it is not owing to either soil or climate, but to inattention, and to the want of suitable encouragement, (till recently) by the legislature and public societies.

What has been just said may be deemed strong language both by Europeans and Americans, but it has been well weighed, and can be fully supported. The milch cow which carried the premium of this society last year, (and which has been celebrated by the pencil of Mr Fisher, under the name of the Oakes or Danvers Cow) was in point of productiveness, probably superior to any animal of the kind in the world, at least we have no account of any equal.

The oxen offered this year by col. Chapin, and the heifer from Westbrook also exhibited this season at Brighton, it is believed are superior to any animals of the like description at this moment existing any where. When the facts are known in Europe, this publication will probably be deemed a challenge to the most celebrated agriculturists, to produce animals superior, all the circumstances of age and treatment, size and weight considered. Yet on the other hand it is believed that the state of Massachusets, adapted as it is, is thus proved to be to the productions of the best cattle in the world, cannot produce as many fine cattle as are exhibited in one week at Smithfield market on ordinary days. If this shew shall produce the effects, we believe it will, no man will be able to say, this five years hence.

We have made these few remarks as an apology for not saying more at present, and for deferring the full and ample discussion and display of this subject till the publication of our journals.

We cannot forbear however, even in this short sketch, expressing the pride and pleasure we derived from this first exhibition of skill in ploughing. There were some persons who did not seem to think much of this trial.—The more happy shall we be if it was but an ordinary and medium specimen of our skill in this branch of agricultural labor, for in that case it will shew that we are far superior to the best farmers in Europe in the art of ploughing.

We have before us accounts of five celebrated ploughing matches in England, and the result is, that the labor was performed by every one, even the slowest of our ploughs, in nearly one-half the time taken to perform the same quantity of work in England.

It ought to be added, that in most instances the work was performed in England by horses, and in this country by oxen. Very full accounts will be given of this match in our journals, in which ample justice will be done to the merits of those who did not, as well as those who did, obtain the premiums. We thought it might be some satisfaction to them to know, that if any of them failed to gain a prize where all could labor so well, there were probably no other workmen in the world whom they would not have beaten.

There was another circumstance in the ploughing match which gave us pleasure, as evincing a strong desire of improvement. There were not two ploughs out of the twelve alike. They were all of them uncommon, and had some peculiarity of modern invention.

As we have before said, we reserve our apology to unsuccessful candidates, chiefly for our journal.

Premiums awarded as follows:—

IN THE DEPARTMENT OF CATTLE FOR SHOW.

To col. Chapin for his brown ox, as fattest, 1st premium D30.

To the same for his largest ox as next best, 2d premium D40.

To John Parkman, esq. for a fat ox, 3d premium D20.

The society only require that the animals should exceed the weight mentioned in their list of premiums, which was 1800lbs. for the first, and 1500lbs for the 2d premium; but it is understood that col. Chapin's oxen [illegible] exceeded 2000 lbs. each. When they are slaughtered their weight will be officially published.

To the hon. Samuel Dana, for his bull, 1st premium, D[illegible].

Capt. Benj. Harrington, for do. 2d. premium D25.

The unsuccessful competitors were Mr Rice of Ashby; Thos. Williams, esq. Roxbury; hon. John Welles, for a bull of the Bakewell breed; Dr Shurtliff for two bulls without horns; Mr Bond of Watertown, and Mr [illegible] of Quincey, the latter also of the Bakewell breed.

These bulls in general were very fine. Public opinion was much divided. Many were preferred by the spectators to those to whom the premiums were adjudged, but the opinion of the judges can be and will be defended in our journals. As there were no limitation of age in bulls, promise was regarded as much as present appearance. Few people will be disposed to deny, that the bulls to which the premiums were awarded were the most remarkable considering their age, as well as very fine and beautiful in their forms.

The first premium was not awarded for the best milch cow, because the best cow offered was not entered in season, according to the rules of the society; and it would have been improper to have given a first premium for any cow, while a better one was on the field. Dr Stearnes of Medford was the owner of the best cow.

The second premium for a milch cow was awarded to the hon. John Welles of Boston, for a cow of the Bakewell breed, raised on his farm at Dorchester. The premium D20.

The third premium of D20 for a milch cow was awarded to Capt. Benjamin Harrington, of Princetown, county of Worcester. She was the parent of the fine young bull which took the second premium. They are known by the name of the American Princetown breed—Mr Rice's bull was of the same stock. It would be better to drop the term American, which is too general and wants precision, and to call them hereafter by the name of the Princetown breed. They are certainly deserving of notice, and will acquire reputation.

The first premium of D10 for the best boar was awarded to Nathaniel Ingersoll, esq. of Brooklyn.

The 2d premium of D5 for the next best boar, to Mr Stephen Robbins.

There was also a fine boar of Francis Babcock, esq. which divided the attention of the judges.

The store-pigs offered by Mr Parks and Mr Pomeroy, were very excellent, but not so superior to some in the vicinity, in the opinion of the judges, as to be entitled to a premium.

The premium of D10 for the best sow, was given to Nathaniel Ingersoll, esq.

To Dr Benjamin Shurtliff, was awarded the first premium of D20 for the best Merino ram.

And to Nathaniel Ingersoll, esq. the 2d premium of D10 for the 2d best Merino ram.

Mr Prince's young ram was considered very superior though he failed to carry the prize.

Major Samuel Jacquith of Charlestown, gained the first premium of D30 for the best merino ewes.

And John Prince esq. of Roxbury, the 2d premium of D15 for the next best merino ewes.

The other specimens in this article were very fine; but as the value of the merino is so much affected by the quality of the fleece, the committee, (obliged to decide between claims where all were good) felt themselves bound to give the preference as above stated.—They did justice however to the flocks of Mr Parsons, Mr Lee of Cambridge, Mr Bussey, and Mr Thaxter.

Gorham Parsons, esq. of Brighton, took the premium of D20 for the best Merino weathers.

Dr Ephraim Wilson carried the premium of fifteen dollars for the best native wethers.

FOREIGN ANIMALS.

Some few remarks must be made on this topic. It may be asked by some persons, why the trustees encouraged the introduction of foreign animals? This question will more naturally to those who visited the exhibition, and saw the feeble and exhausted state of all those which had been imported and were there offered. To this supposed enquiry,

We reply: If better cattle could be obtained from any quarter than are now to be found in the state, it is peculiarly the duty of Agricultural Societies to encourage their introduction. It is one of the most important ends of the institution. If the cattle so introduced should be of the best European breeds, and should not prove superior to our native animals, it would be highly gratifying and encourage us to preserve and render perfect our own stock. Besides, there is a prevailing notion, not yet exploded, nor perhaps perfectly established, that there is a benefit derived from crossing the breeds of animals of different countries, even where there is no marked superiority. Societies alone can see that such experiments are fairly made. One circumstance ought not to be overlooked, tending to prove either the benefit of such crosses, or the superiority of foreign breeds. It is said that the two famous oxen, raised by col. Chapin, were desendents of the bull imported some years since by the Hon. Mr. Gore; the unequalled Westbrook heifer, the progeny of an imported Bakewell animal, and the Hon. Mr. Wells' cow were certainly of that breed. These facts would almost prove too much. They would show that our finest animals are of recent introduction. They are, however, sufficient to satisfy the society. The premiums for the above reasons were offered.

To the public spirit and disposition to promote every thing which can contribute to the welfare of the country, for which the hon. I. Thorndike is distinguished, are the society and the public indebted for the earliest efforts made to comply with their wishes. If the season at which the show was holden did not admit of preparing their animals, which had that moment arrived for exhibition, still the gratitude of the society is not less due to him for his desire to promote their views; and we feel persuaded that in another year, when all the exertions made by that gentleman, and his son, Mr. Charles Thorndike, on this subject, shall be known there will be but one sentiment throughout the state, at least with those who believe in the importance and value of the arts of peace.

To Gorham Parsons, Esqr. was awarded the first premium for the finest imported cow—75 dollars.

She was of the Holderness breed, purchased by Charles Williams, Esqr. of London, and sent out as a present to his friend, Mr Parsons. She was low in flesh, but her form was thought to be fine; and it is believed she will be an acquisition to the country, that breed being esteemed, and not being, as far as we know, here before.

The society have agreed, also, to present to Capt. Charles Tracy, of the ship Galen, a piece of plate or medal, of the value of thirty dollars, for his care in introducing a cow and calf, also purchased by Mr. Chas. Williams, for his brother, Stephen Williams, Esqr. of Northborough.

A piece of plate or medal, of thirty dollars value, are also awarded to Capt. Samuel Nichols, of the Liverpool Packet, for his care in introducing the cow owned by Mr. Parsons, which obtained the society's first premium.

As the foreign animals cannot, like the domestic ones, be brought and prepared against a certain fixed day, it is probable the trustees will take further order and notice thereon at some of their monthly meetings.

Premiums for Working Cattle.

The first premium for working cattle being forty dollars, was awarded to Luke Fisk, of Waltham.

The second ditto to Asa Andrews, Esqr. of Ipswich—D30.

The third ditto to Col. Wyman—D20.

These were not awarded on the principle of strength only, in which some were unsuccessful, perhaps exceeded those which gained the prizes, but the decision was formed from the several considerations of age, size, equality of match, and perfection of discipline.

The committee wish that honourable notice should be made, even in this slight sketch, of Amos Meriam's four years old stears, and of Aaron Davis Williams' six years old oxen, though they failed to carry the prizes.

Ploughing Match.

The committee reported that great merit, though very various, was due to every ploughman, but deemed it their duty to award the premiums as follow;

First premium.—Messrs. Leavitt and Howard, of Hingham, plough, 20 dollars. Ezra Cushing, ploughman, 10 dollars. John D. Ramsay, driver, 5 dollars.

Second premium.—J. Warren, of Brooklyn, plough, 12 dollars. Ploughman, 6 dollars. Driver 3 dollars.

The plough of Leavitt and Howard was uncommonly fine, and the work executed in a handsome manner; furrows of an equal width, and well turned; and the cattle were less fatigued than any pair of oxen on the ground.

Mr. John Warren's plough the committee did not think equal to many others, but awarded him the premium in consideration of his having no driver, and the manner in which his work was performed under such circumstances.

The plough of Mr. Jose Warren, of Dedham, was excellent and distinguished; but he seemed more intent on exhibiting his plough than on gaining the premium. His work was, however, well done.

This whole match was interesting; and due notice shall be taken in the detailed report, of the merits of each, though where many contend, all cannot gain the prize.

Premiums for manufactures, being the government's premiums.—For the best specimen of broadcloth, to James Shepard, of Northampton, 50 dollars. For the second best ditto, 30 dollars, to the Walpole manufacturing company.

The cloth from the Millbury factory was good, and well sheared, but not in every view equal to the above.

To Stephen Thacher, of Kennebunk, for woollen cloth made in his own family, 20 dollars. To the Dorchester cotton and iron factory, for the best cotton cloth, 20 dollars. To Asa Richardson, for cotton woollen coverlid, manufactured in his family, 10 dollars. To Mrs. Mary Farley, widow, of Ipswich, for a fine knit woollen shawl, partly of native and partly merino wool, 5 dollars. To Miss Ann Somes Trask, for a pair of woollen stockings of great fineness and beauty, 5 dollars.

In this department the trustees have to notice and to regret that too common error delay, but they mean to convince the public that they will inflexibly adhere to their rules as to admission, which are so necessary to order.

The following were excluded from premiums, solely by being entered too late.

Fine specimins of raw silk, and a silk indispensible, all of native growth and manufacture, by Capt. Childs, of Cambridge.

Specimens of cotton cloth from the factory at Waltham, under the care of P. T. Jackson, Esq. The committee in their detailed report, will notice this flourishing institution, in which their are now 60 looms in operation, all moved by water, and in which 151,947 yards of cloth were wove in 20 weeks, from the 14th of April to the 30th of August.

The most extraordinary example of the perfection of mechanic art, and which we think will equal any thing to be met with in any other country, was the exhibition of a perfect pair of women's shoes, made from the skin of a goat who was killed between 12 & 1 o'clock at night, between the 13th and 14th inst. and whose hide was perfectly manufactured and converted into the shoes exhibited at half past 2 o'clock, P. M. of the same day. This exhibition was made by Major Furnald, of Charlestown, who had caused the experiment to be made at the request at Major Jaquith, of the same place, a member of this society. Of these facts perfect evidence on oath, is now before us, and will be published.

Premiums for Agricultural Experiments.

To Erastus Ware, of Salem, 40 dollars for a crop of carrots, equal to 752 bushels an acre, there being a full acre of them raised.

To Thomas Melville, Esqr. of Boston, 40 dollars for a crop of turnips, raised on his farm, in Pittsfield, under the management of his son, T. Melville, jun. being 780 bushels on an acre.

To the hon. James Richardson, for the greatest crop of potatoes, 40 dollars, being 402 bushels on an acre. The committee express increased pleasure in awarding this, as the land on which it grew was, in 1815, a mere swamp, and had been reclaimed. They speak also in great praise of the experiments of E. H. Derby, and Nathaniel Ingersoll, Esquires, on the same production.

To Mr. Jacob Rice, of Shewsbury, 40 dollars for the best crop of spring wheat, being all threshed out, and amounting to 36 1-16 bushels per acre.

Mr. Jonathan Allen, of Pittsfield, was the next competitor, and trod close upon the heels of the successfull candidate. Justice will be done to this interesting part of Agriculture, and all the letters and communications will be published in our next Journal. It will excite general surprize in other parts of the United States, that the people of a state, which has so long neglected the culture of wheat, and in which it has been considered as an established maxim, that it could not be raised to advantage, have discovered, that it is capable of producing as great crops and with as much ease as the most favoured countries. Such at least would seem to be the result of very numerous experiments within a few years past.

Improved Implements of Husbandry.

Several interesting Machines were offered under this head for our premiums, and we regret to say, that no premiums were awarded.

Some of the impediments arose from the arrangement, and some from the want of sufficient reflection in the applicants.

There was great ingenuity discovered in most of them, and some promise great utility if existing defects can be overcome.

The threshing machines of Mr. Hotchkiss, & Messrs. Gay & Bulfard of Dedham, certainly merit exertions to overcome existing imperfections.

The Ploughs exhibited no new principle, nor any important alteration in form, excepting that of Jonathan Allen, of New-Bedford, to which no premium was awarded, because it is secured by a patent; but the Trustees recommend it to the public favour.

The Cutting machine, by Alpheus Bigelow, Esqr. of Weston, was thought very ingenious, and deserves to be recommended to general use.

The limits the Committee prescribed to themselves have been already surpassed, so interesting has the topic proved, and so much has the subject extended itself beyond our expectations. It has served to convince us of the propriety of our determination to reserve the more extended and deliberate history of this second Exhibition for our Journals, and we doubt not such an account will serve to impress the Government and People of this state with the utility and importance of this exhibition, and all others with the enterprize, industry, and energy of the people of Massachusetts.

By Order of the General Committee.

JOHN LOWELL,
Cor. Sec. Mas. Agri. Society.

Roxbury, Oct. 18, 1817.

DISTRICT of MONTREAL.

At a Meeting of the Members of the Agricultural Society, held at the Court-House, on Monday, the 20th ult. the following Rules and Regulations, for the future government of the Society, were unanimously adopted:—

1st. It is the object of the society to contribute, by its efforts, to the advancement of the science of Agriculture, and to the instruction of the husbandman in this district. To encourage, by the publication of all communications, addressed to the society, which may be deemed useful, or by the publication of extracts from approved books on the subject, the employment of the most useful Implements of Husbandry; the species of cultivation the most productive, and too little disseminated throughout the district; to indicate the vices and disadvantages of some of those that are practised; to excite emulation, & to recompence or reward industry, by the distribution of prizes in money, or in agricultural instruments, or by honorable distinctions, granted under certain conditions, to persons who shall have excelled in the cultivation of the produce of the earth, or in the rearing of animals, or in the manner of executing some of the multiplied and various labours of their profession.

2nd. The Agricultural Society of the District of Montreal comprises two classes of members, the one ordinary, and the other honorary and corresponding members.

3d. Those who have already subscribed, or may subscribe previous to the first of January next to the association proposed at the general meeting of the nineteenth of September last, and those who may hereafter be admitted, in manner hereinafter provided, are the ordinary members of the society.

4th. The direction of the concerns and interests of the society is placed under the superintendance of one president and two vice-presidents, a treasurer, and of twelve directors; all ordinary members of the society, forming a permanent committee of sixteen, six of whom, the president, or one of the vice-presidents included, are competent to proceed to business.

5th. The president, and in his absence either of the vice-presidents, shall preside at the sittings of the permanent committees, and at general meetings; there to put to the vote, after discussion, all written proposals offered by any of the members present. All questions shall be decided by the majority of the members present, and in case of an equal division, the person who presides shall have a casting vote.

6th. The officers and members of the permanent committee elected this year shall remain in office until the third Monday in January 1819. There shall be four annual general meetings of the society, viz. on the third Mondays of January, April, July, and October, or on the following day, if it should be a holy-day. The election of members to compose the permanent committee shall be by a plurality of votes at the general meeting of January, and four at least of the members of the committee who have served during the last year shall be re-elected.

7th. The general meetings admit or reject such persons as are presented, to become either ordinary, honorary, or corresponding members of the society; receive the reports of the permanent committee, and deliberate and decide as well on those reports, as on all other written propositions made by any of the members present.

8th. The permanent committee is to meet on the first Monday of every month, or on the next day, if it should be a holy-day, or oftener, by adjournment, if necessary. It shall be its duty to propose and publish a Monthly Agricultural Report of the state of this district. It shall examine, and give its opinion to the society, of the merits of such written communications as may or shall be addressed to it; revise and order the impression of all writings on Agricultural subjects which it shall deem necessary to publish; regulates in what shall consist the annual prizes which the society shall distribute; for what object and on what conditions they are granted; decides on the pretensions of the candidates who claim them, and generally regulates all matters relative to the institution.

9th In order the more effectually to promote the views of the society each of its ordinary members shall on his admission pay to the Treasurer, five dollars; and the like sum annually, previous to the general meeting of April., at which the Treasurer shall report the names of such members as may have neglected to pay their subscriptions, and in all such cases, their right of deliberating in the committee, if they should be members of it, or at general meetings, shall be suspended until they shall have paid; and in case of a failure of making the second payment, the following year, the Treasurer shall report the same at the general meeting, which may expel him.

10th. After the first of January next, whenever any person wishes to become a member of the society, the following rule is to be observed. A proposal signed by two members recommending the candidate as a fit person stating his name, profession and place of residence is read at a general meeting. The proposition is put to the vote at the ensuing general meeting, and the candidate is admitted, if two-thirds of the members present vote in his favor.

11th. Persons residing out of the district who shall have made communications to the society, which the Committee shall have judged important and useful, and of which it shall have made a favorable report, may be proposed at a general meeting as honorary and corresponding members, and may be elected as such at the ensuing general meeting, if two thirds of the members present at such meeting vote for them, and may assist at all general meetings, without paying the annual subscription, but without voting there, or having admission to its library.

12th. Every member of the society is bound to purchase a copy of such tracts as it may publish, and a copy thereof shall be addressed to him by the treasurer, to whom he will pay the cost thereof, under the penalty imposed by the ninth article.

13th. One of the first duties incumbent on the officers and directors elect, shall be to publish the Rules and Regulations of the society, to address circular letters to the Curates, to the Seigneurs and principal landholders, and merchants of the different parishes of this district, to induce them to second the efforts and promote the views of the society.

The following persons were at the said general meeting elected to serve as Officers and Directors, in conformity to the foregoing Rules and Regulations.

Business of every description was still encreasing throughout the seaport and manufacturing towns. It is said, that there is not a person connected with any of the manufacturing establishments, who is not steadily employed, and at increased wages. It is also stated, that a twelve month ago, more than half the shipwrights in Liverpool, and other ports in the kingdom, were out of work but at present there is scarcely one unemployed. The same remark is applied to other classes of mechanics and artificers, connected with shipping.

Liverpool Corn Exchange, Sept. 30.—We had a small supply of all descriptions of grain at to day's market, as well as American flour. Prime samples of foreign wheat were in great request at full 1s per bushel advance; good barley was likewise in demand and is 3d per bushel dearer. Sweet American flour is become scarce, and was bought with avidity at 6s, per bbl. more than on last Tuesday. Old and new oats caught the attention of some of the country dealers, and being below the average of either wheat or flour, extensive sales might have been made at our last quotations.

Corn.—There is much interest excited as to the quality of the new crop; the samples of Wheat that have yet appeared at market are certainly in general cold and damp; the few fine dry samples were eagerly taken. If yesterday at a further advance of 5s. a 7s. Fine Dantzic Wheat in consequence was more in request, and the best samples sold freely at 6s advance; there was a similar improvement in good red wheat; the kiln dried Russia sold 3s. higher. American flour attracted much attention, and sold readily at the advance of 5 a 6s per barrel.—Dried rye was enquired after, but there was none offered for sale; if any good parcels were to be brought forward, our quotations could be realized. The new Barleys were very coarse, a few picked samples sold at our quoted currency, but the greater proportion sold at all prices down to 3s.—The new Oats in the market were light and ordinary; good old samples in consequence realized prices 1s. higher: the ordinary new was offered at very low rates without facilitating sales.—Beans were without variation.—Grey Peas were 2s. lower. There was nothing doing in Linseed, and no Rape seed at market.—Tares and new Mustard Seed were each 1s lower.

Public Sale of Beaver Skins, &c.—1670 Martin 6s 6d a 7s 1d per skin, a few lots 4s 7d; 1410 Parchment and Cub Beaver, one lot 32s remainder 19s 5d a 20s 9d; 330 Musquash 21½d; 200 Fox, silver 78s a 130s cross 40s 6d, red 12s 6d a 16s 7d; 140 Otter 40s a 50s, one lot 20s 3d.

The Montreal Herald.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1817.

By the mails of yesterday, accounts are received from London to the 1st ult. inclusive, and Liverpool to the evening of the 3d, copious extracts from which are inserted in our columns relating chiefly to the revival of manufactures and commerce. In the short space of two weeks, the price of American flour had started about 6 or 8s. per barrel; wheat had also risen, though not in so high a proportion. It is observed at Liverpool that a year ago half the shipwrights were out of employment in that extensive town; at present they are all taken up at liberal wages, which evinces the renovation of commerce beyond a doubt. "When shipping is wanted by the merchants, it is proof that British commodities are also required by foreign nations." For we repeat that the preeminence of our artisans, aided by superior machinery, and the cheapness of fuel, will the ages put down competition in any other country. It is true the Germans excel in raising Flax and in manufacturing low priced linens; but in cotton manufactures they have to import all their Yarn from Britain which they frequently exchange for the fine wool of Saxony, which they cannot manufacture at all, the whole goes to England and Holland.

In the United States, manufactures never can flourish while wages are so high, and land so cheap; the best proof of this is the wonderful emigration every year from New England to the western States. These hardy people despise the operations of spinning and weaving, and still more the idea of having a master or employer. Their glory is freedom and independence, which the nature of a vast country points out to them. As to the people of the southern States they are totally indifferent about every thing, but a good market for their Rice, Tobacco, Cotton and Indigo. England buys more of these commodities than all the rest of Europe, and in those States scarcely any others goods are imported but English, and some from France, chiefly Silks.

The contagious fever in Ireland, still continues to rage with unabated malignity; in some towns it has been more fatal than in the American cities while visited by that dreadful malady, the yellow fever.

This week, presents no intelligence which can be depended upon from South America. The accounts from Fernandina are contradictory.

AGRICULTURE.

In this sheet, our readers are presented with the Rules and Regulations of the Agricultural Society of this district, which appear to embrace every material point within the scope of the institution. It now becomes the bounden duty of every man of property and influence over the district, to support this infant institution most cordially; and in the end, they cannot fail of being liberally rewarded for their truly laudable exertions. It should ever be kept in mind, that Agriculture is the main pillar of every state; without it, there could be no commerce,—because, there could be no interchange of commodities; nations would retrograde to poverty or barbarism, if the culture of the soil were neglected. To her improved system of Agriculture, Great Britain is chiefly indebted for all her triumphs on the Ocean, as well as on the Land. The landed interest pay more than three-fourths of all the revenue, or near 50 millions sterling annually; with out such astonishing means, she never could have waved her banners triumphantly over the four quarters of the globe, nor have conquered the French in Spain and in the Netherlands. Fortunately, we are not in this country subjected to any land-tax, nor to any impost on the produce of the soil; it, therefore, is certain, that any surplus which can be raised by an improved system of husbandry, will be clear gain, for the labour will be very little more than under the old system, which has hitherto served to rear thistles and other noxious weeds.

We take leave for the present of the foregoing subject, to advert to the proceedings of the Agricultural Society of Massachusetts, which are inserted at full length from the American papers in this sheet; they will be found highly deserving the attention of the reader who has a disposition for such studies. At the head of this institution we see the names of the most respectable men in the state, who rank high in the list of legislators, and are alike reputed for their probity and patriotism. Moreover, they are chiefly possessed of considerable real property over the state, which entitles them to the honorable appellation of "country gentry." Such persons, when actuated by a love of their country, seconded by perseverance, are certainly the best safeguards of the state. In the transactions of this society, it may be observed, that they literally adopt the rules of the English at their annual shews of cattle, &c. It rather excites surprise, when the Report asserts, that some of the fat oxen surpass in weight any ever produced in England, or even in the world. We shall not deny that the judges think so, but we have strong doubts of the facts asserted. The specimens of ploughing are still more wonderful: we are informed that as much work was done, and as well executed, in half the time, by oxen, as is taken in England with horses. We suspect that the ploughing oxen of New England are not of the American breed, they must have been imported from Hindostan; for in those extensive regions oxen run with the mails, at the rate of six miles an hour. Hence, we do not question the speed of the Massachusett's plough, nor shall we doubt the superiority of their ploughmen, for it was wise to flatter them, because a little exaggeration is very proper in a new country: a small portion of vanity may fairly be excused. Upon the whole, we consider the Report very interesting, and it may be useful to the Montreal Society, as the climates of New England and Canada do not differ essentially—for this reason we prefer it to British reports of the same nature.

SNOW STORM.

On last Sunday morning, about 1 o'clock, a snow storm set in from the N. E. which lasted with considerable violence till 7 on Monday morning, at which time the streets exhibited all the features of the depth of winter. The farmers in the neighborhood state, that the snow was 7 or 8 inches deep in the woods on Monday; but since, the weather has been rather mild, which renders the streets and roads excessively bad. It is now many years since such a severe storm has been experi-haced so early in the season. Almost every kind of crop in this district had been secured by the end of the last month; but the fall pasture will be greatly injured from the fields being flooded with the melted snow.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

It is with pain we lay before our readers a short narrative of the following melancholy and distressing accident On Saturday last, about five o'clock afternoon, as James Fraser Esq with his wife and two infant children, together with Mr Peter Harkness, in all nine in number, were crossing over from this Island to Isle-Jesus at Pluff's Ferry, in a scow, in which were also three horses and two carriages; the scow being overloaded, first filled, then sunk to the water's edge and afterwards broke in two. The Canadian who held Mr Fraser's daughter a child of about three years of age, stretched out his arm to curb a horse who had become unruly, at same time an overwhelming wave dashed over him and snatched the little innocent into a watery and untimely grave. They remained in this perilous situation about one hour, when they received assistance from the shore and were rescued from imminent danger. The body of the child has not yet been found and the mother, it may well be imagined, after undergoing so much fatigue both of body and mind, is at present, in a very infirm condition.

The persons who came to their assistance were Mr. Morrison and his wife, who deserve to be publicly known.—Gazette.

About four o'clock this afternoon, intelligence arrived of His Excellency the Governor in Chief having been graciously pleased to respite, during pleasure, the execution of Francois Gendron, under sentence of death, who was to have been hanged on Friday morning next. upon a conviction of sacrilege. FOR THE MONTREAL HERALD.

Mr. Gray,

Knowing your readiness to communicate any circumstance that can tend to the public advantage, I have sent you the following observations, which are certainly of sufficient importance to merit a place in your widely circulating paper.

"CANADENSIS."

I have read with no common satisfaction in the Quebec Mercury, a lengthy letter by Dr. Hacket; who, from the manner he has discussed the subject of contagion, and the idea of a contagious fever being prevalent at this moment, evinces in a striking degree, how well he is qualified to fill the important situation to which he has been raised. The latest and best writers on contagions, rather epidemical fevers, with but a solitary exception, concur in reprobating the idea of a Specific contagion.* I candidly acknowledge, that my experience does not entitle me to speak positively on the nature of Contagion; for, happily, the climate of Canada is such, as seldom to furnish that state of the atmosphere, which is favourable to the production of what are strictly called, Epidemical Diseases.—Pretty extensive reading, however, has in some measure, rendered me familiar with the subject—nor can I conceive, how any man can have the assurance to offer an opinion on a subject of this nature, who has not taken the least trouble to instruct himself in it. If he has attempted to investigate it, he has shown a lamentable want of natural capacity: I can form but a narrow idea of that man's "head and heart," who can accuse some unfortunate emigrants as the propagators of a pestilence, because, forsooth, two or three among them are affected with a low nervous complaint; brought on, solely by anxiety, penury, and other causes too obvious to mention. Thus depriving these suffering people of that assistance which a generous public is wont, on all such occasions, to give; from a spirit of self-preservation, they must forbid all intercourse with the supposed infected. Had he, who so lately with an officiousness commensurate only with his ignorance of the subject, taken the smallest pains to search out the source and nature of the complaint among these suffering people, he would not have compromised his professional character (if it was susceptible of injury) so far, as to have alleged before a body of the most respectable men in the district, convened for the most important purpose, that a contagious disease was afloat! Thus spreading a report of an highly alarming nature. Much might be said on such conduct: but I will merely follow my first intention,—that of calling the public attention to the important document of Dr. Hacket, before terminating, I will advise a certain Æsculapian, that to mount the ladder of fame, requires more information than is to be acquired from the perusal of a Medical Vade-Mecum (a pocket companion.)—and that to become acquainted with the diseases peculiar to a country, requires a longer residence in it, than a year or two—and that previous to offering an opinion, he must learn the art of analysing disease.

MELANCHOLY.

SHE dwells by a stream, where the cypress and willow,
Are gem'd with the stars that fall from her eye;
The earth is her bed and the flint stone her pillow,
Midnight her mantle, her curtain the sky.

Her cell is a cave, where the bright beam of morning,
Never pierc'd the chill gloom of its wildering maze,
Where the sun beam of joy youth's visage adorning,
Ne'er warm'd with its fire, or cheer'd with its rays.

The moon is her lamp, when the mist mantled mountain,
She clambers at midnight, and walks o'er its steep,
Or leaps on the rock of a chrystaline fountain,
And sighs to the tempest that howls o'er the deep.

Her tresses are dark as the wing of the raven,
Her robes are all wet, and her bosom is bare;
Like a barque on the waves, 'mid the whirlwinds of Heav'n,
She wanders distracted or sinks in despair.

DEAF AND DUMB INSTITUTION.

On Monday the 25th ult Mr. Kinniburgh held his first public examination in the public school of Marischal College Aberdeen in presence of the university, the magistrates clergy, and a very numerous assemblage of the respectable inhabitants for the purpose of establishing and [illegible] the plan of the Edinburgh deaf and dumb institution. Mr Kinniburgh prefaced the illustration of his plan by an address to the auditory, in which he depicted, in strong and impressive colours, the helpless and deplorable condition of the objects of the society's care, &c. Mr K then proceeded to exhibit the progress he had made in removing from his pupils these calamitous and afflicting imperfections of their nature, one of the younger boys repeated the Lord's Prayer in a manner that drew tears from the eyes of many in the room, with a voice divinely sweet he seemed to send on his artless prayer to the throne of God in humble gratitude to his maker for the restoration of this distinguishing faculty of his mind. At the conclusion of the meeting it was determined that an auxiliary society for the education of the deaf and dumb children be instituted in Aberdeen.

London, Sept. 14.

A cabinet council was held yesterday at the Foreign Office, at which Lord Castlereagh, Lord Sidmouth and the Chancellor of the Exchange were present.

The Emperor of Russia, pursuant to a plan which he embraced in 1817, for making Helsingfors the capital of Finland instead of Abo, has issued an order for the State, and other persons connected with government, to remove to Helsingfors after the 1st of October. This town, hitherto the capital of the province of Nylands, has a commodious harbor in the Gulf of Finland commanded by a powerful fortress.

Price of American flour, 55 to 56s per bbl.; American potashes, 50s; tobacco, leaf, 6d to 8d.

The late Mr. Blatchford one of the Lords of the Admiralty had in his possession a diamond that formerly belonged to the unfortunate Mary Queen of the Scots, upon which was engraved the Arms of England quartered with those of Scotland and Ireland and which was produced during her trial as an evidence that she aspired to the English Crown. There is something curious in the history of this diamond. It passed from Mary to her grandson, Charles 1st who at the scaffold, gave it to the Archbishop Juxon, to be transmitted to Charles 2d. That Prince, during the troubles of the times, pledged it in Holland for the sum of 300 sterling. It was purchased by Governor Yale, and when sold was purchased for 320 pounds sterling, for the Pretender as was supposed. Afterwards it was owned by Count Ria, Duke Argyle, from whom it is probable it descended to the family of Admiral Blatchford. This diamond is said to have been lately purchased for the Prince Regent.

Frankfort, Sept. 20.

Capt. O. Ocken, commander of the Hamburg whale ship Eleonord, who has made 60 voyages to Greenland, has just published a very interesting account of his last voyage, undertaken during the present year; and particular, that during the night of the 5th of June last, in lat. 70, he discovered land, 12 miles to the N., on which there is two high mountains. A thick fog coming on, prevented his making further discoveries. He gave the name of Hamburgh Country to this new discovered tract.
